Shippers of fruit and vegetable products in Florida are opposing the construction of a canal across the state. Shippers of possible loss to the fresh fruit and vegetable industry of that state, which is an important factor in supplying food to the nation. Vegetable Shippers Association, with the following request: "We wish to urge your very careful consideration of this matter and that you will not complete any legislation which would divert business from the state to other states. The canal will divert business from the state to other states and will increase competition from other states. Brinkley's federal court decision was a landmark in the history of the newspaper industry. It established the principle that a newspaper is a public utility and is subject to public control.

INTERVIEW WITH CHEF ANDRE

By NINA OLIVER DEAN

"You take them and put oranges around them—and put them in an oven so"—Andre Calatayud, chef of the Roosevelt Hotel, twinkled his black eyes, tossed his white cap, slammed an imaginary oven door on a make believe duck that he created in thin air by pantomime so realistically that my mouth began to water.

"There! You have Duck Bigarade, your famous duck known in every country of the civilized world."

I knew when I started on my assignment to interview Andre about the citrus dishes that he is to prepare for the Florida Exhibit at Rockefeller Center on Feb. 4 that it was going to be an exciting one for it is always an adventure to talk with a Frenchman about food. To many Americans food is just food—but to every Frenchman food is the essence of romance.

As Andre put it, "Everyone in France knows what he eats. In France they go to the restaurant to eat. In America they go to talk to business—and that is why they have so much of a stomach trouble."

It means something when Andre says, "Without so citrus in so kitchen, you cannot make so good dishes. It is as necessary as," and he lifted his shoulders in a superb shrug that showed just how necessary oranges are—"as wine or shallots," because Andre was awarded five first prizes at the opening Chef's Day of the 67th Salon of Culinary Art held at The Grand Central Palace, Born in Puygignan, France, Andre took his apprenticeship at the Hotel Continental. For three years after that he served the Governor of Lyon as chef of his military staff.

"Citrus fruit gives so perfume to the meat," Andre said as he stirred our make believe duck from the invisible oven almost tenderly. "It has piquancy and subtlety."

I interrupted, "Oh, tell me about the Orange Blossom Petit Fours that you're going to make at that Exhibit."

"They are my own invention," Andre said proudly, unconsciously glibly.
