Where Have You Gone, Joe DiMaggio?

Simon and Garfunkel sang, "Where Have You Gone, Joe DiMaggio?" in The Graduate. We now have the answer: Joe D. is in Seminole County...he's the new county manager, Gary Kaiser. A tip of the cap to today's look-a-likes, Joe D. and Gary K.

Morris: All For Mica

Chairman Randy Morris of the Seminole County Board of Commissioners said he envisions a commuter rail system operating in the county in the next 5 to 10 years. Morris praised Congressman John L. Mica for his efforts to keep residents of the area informed about what is available.

"John Mica is leading this important charge," Morris said. "If you think we have problems along I-4 now, imagine them in three or four more years. A rail system is the key to future transportation. Congressman Mica showed us an example last year and this weekend we've had an opportunity to see the RegioPrinter."

A 70-foot self-contained, lightweight vehicle, the RegioPrinter is open to the public Sunday, April 6, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Adventure Train Station near Rts. 434 and 436 in Altamonte Springs.

Seminole Hoopla

At its Tuesday 1:30 p.m. public hearing, the Board of County Commissioners will honor three of the county's most successful basketball teams - the Seminole Community College women's team, the Oviedo High School Boys team and the Lake Mary High School Girls team.

"Our attendance ought to soar," said BCC Chairman Randy Morris.

The sound of music in Sanford

By DAVID FRAZIER
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford may not yet be the cultural mecca that its neighbor Orlando touts, but it remains on the cusp of culture with the surge of music, art and theater. In addition to those areas, the film and television industry has dabbled among our pastures.

Seminole Community College and the Fine Arts Department are constantly working toward cultural enrichment in the community. In residence at SCC is the Orlando Theater Project bringing the best in theater. The Ritz Theater provides a venue for stage productions in historic downtown. And now the music scene has exploded with The Barn's reopening and Tsunami Beach Club's stature as a major concert destination. Concentrating on the budding music scene, Tsunami is a good starting point.

Listen. Do you hear that? It's the sound of music and, dear citizens, Tsunami Beach Club is the place to hear it at but do not let the word "club" deter you. Behind that "club" title people who say they are dedicated to bringing the best entertainment to the Central Florida area.

See Music, Page 3A

Tsunami Beach Club, the largest in Central Florida, according to managers, is ready for an outdoor concert that will seat up to 5,000 music fans. Sunday, a festival of stars including Lone Star, Blackhawk and John Anderson will shine. The Charlie Daniels Band is coming soon. Sanford has become a destination for the film industry and now welcomes concert-goers.

Next week: The Barn rocks on

SANFORD - Dennis Joyner did something he knows he shouldn't have done two weeks ago at National Airport in Washington, D.C.

He went on an escalator in his wheelchair.

Unable to break clear at the top, he had to roll over and out of the chair.

Doing so, Joyner dislocated his right shoulder.

Instead of going to his home when he arrived two hours later in Orlando, Joyner went to Florida South Hospital.

On the next working day, Dennis A. Joyner, the county's administrative manager in the Office of Management and Budget, poured himself into his duties at the Seminole County

Mandatory marriage counseling

By STEVE BARNES
Herald Staff Writer

In an effort to stem the rising tide of divorce in Florida, the state legislature is considering a bill that would require couples to attend counseling sessions before obtaining a marriage license. It would also force couples who are seeking a divorce to attend counseling together before a divorce could be finalized.

The bill (Marriage Preparation and Preservation Act of 1987), which is sponsored by Rep. Elaine Bloom-D, Dist. 106, would require couples to attend a four hour course on marital rights, responsibilities and requirements. The class would focus on both the legal and moral responsibilities of marriage, including financial matters and domestic abuse.

Mark Merrill of the Florida Family Council, an organization that aims to strengthen families by informing Floridians on public policy issues that impact families, supports the measure.

According to Merrill, Florida has the eighth highest divorce rate in the country, with 78,416 divorces in 1985 alone. That number represents 54 percent of all marriages performed that year. Merrill claims many of these marriages could be saved by forcing couples to attend marriage preservation courses.

Officials prioritize goals for city to meet

By NICK PFEIFAUER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The Sanford City Commission continues to establish goals for this year, with some expected to carry on into subsequent years.

During a recent work session, members of the commission fine-tuned a list of suggested goals submitted by City Manager Bill Simmons, as a result of individual input by the mayor and commissioners.

The input was obtained following a special work session on Feb. 17, during which time possible projects and goals were considered.

Items brought up for discussion ranged from a projected swimming beach along the shore of Lake Monroe, to midge elimination.

One item put forth by commissioner for the list, included a review of the city's political sign ordinance. The matter however, was dropped from consideration at the present time.

Another item, a suggestion for bike patrols, was found to be included under a separate title, and was removed from the list as a singular item for consideration.

Mayor Larry Dale suggested some of the items which may involve expenditures, may involve partnerships such as economic developments and the courthouse expansion.

"In this listing of 32 items," Simmons said, "I have divided them into two categories, list 'P' which should be policy decisions, and list 'B' which will be potential budgetary items. Some may not need to be budgeted for the 1987/88 fiscal year, but most probably would require some consideration."

Several of the items, deemed important but already under way by

April salute: 10 people making a difference

By Bill White
Herald Staff Writer

If April Showers may come your way, we hope you help us shower these fine neighbors with kind appreciation and a big hello.

We've been saluting good citizens each month, and here are our selections for the month of April. We believe it is a diverse and exciting group of people.

Sharon Sheaffer

Cpl. Sharon Sheaffer, 41, of the Sanford Police Department has the courage of her convictions.

Sheaffer has consistently stood her ground and done what she knows is right in the face of adversity and the pressure not to do so. One of only three female officers, Sheaffer has earned respect for her professionalism and overcome stereotypes. More than a few bad guys call her ma'am.

She is a fighter, a friend and a beloved wife.

Today, she lies in the Intensive Care Unit at Columbia Medical Center-Sanford fighting the hardest battle yet: the fight for her life. Sheaffer suffered a massive heart attack on Wednesday morning and remains in a coma.

Friends, family and even mere acquaintances have kept a constant vigil with her husband Rick in the ICU waiting room.

Their dedication to this woman who has done so much for the fight for justice stands as a testament to the human belief in doing the right thing.

Sheaffer is in the prayers of all who have known her and those whose lives she has touched. We pray she will win her most important battle so she can continue to fight crime in Sanford.

The Sanford Lodge of the Fraternal Order of Police will be setting up a vigil fund to help defray the costs of Sheaffer's hospitalization and recovery.

In the meantime, those who wish to help can send contributions to the FOP, Sanford Lodge 140, P.O. Box 1749, Sanford, Fla. 32772. Indicate the money is for Sheaffer.

Tony Tizio

Tony Tizio is a community champion, working the past 21 years to create a better life for the mentally and physically disabled and the elderly.

He is the founder and a previous president of the

Cpl. Sharon Sheaffer

Casselberry Special People Jaycee. He is currently vice chairman of the A + Lynx Citizen Advisory Committee and serves on the Seminole County Code Enforcement Board.

Tizio, 40, has given countless hours to non-profit groups such as the Leukemia Society, Cerebral Palsy, Multiple Sclerosis, Muscular Dystrophy, Special Olympics, Lake Mary Lions Club, and the Casselberry Kiwanis.

A native of New York City, Tizio came to Florida in 1974. He graduated from Seminole Community College and studied communications at the University of Central Florida. He's had a couple of television shows - one called Special People on cable TV and a spot called Special Segments on Fifth Sunday on TV 18.

Tony Tizio is special, indeed. We invite you to read Tony's new column in today's Herald.

Doris Stein

Meet Doris Stein, All-American treasure. Stein is the Patriotism chairperson for the Pilot Club of Sanford, an organization of business and professional leaders dedicated to the principals of good citizenship. Through her diligent efforts, Sanford has been the host Florida city for Naturalization Ceremonies in four of the last five years.

Stein fled her country in the dawn of Adolph Hitler's reign of terror. She came to Sanford in 1946 and became a citizen the next year. She and her husband, Fred Stein, had a jewelry and luggage store in Sanford. After Fred died in 1967, Mrs. Stein ran the business 13 more years.

"No one loves her country more, no one has seized the opportunity to be a good citizen as Doris Stein," says Judge John Antoon II of the Fifth District Court of Appeals.

John Curry

John Curry has been fighting the drug dealers in his neighborhood of Lockhart for many years.

He has worked with Neighborhood Watch programs, with the churches in the area, with community associations and with the law enforcement community.

Curry has seen the drug problem decline, but agonizes that the dealers and buyers are always back on the street the day after they are arrested.

Realizing the sheriff's department could do little besides arrest the dealers, there was no way to make sure they stayed behind bars.

So, Curry went to Rep. Tom Feeney and convinced him to draft a bill that would make drug dealing an offense covered by the "three strikes you're out" law.

That bill, tentatively to be named for Curry, is gaining support with other legislators.

Peggy Hardin

Peggy Hardin is a woman who has given her life to helping young people. She taught and with a group of 10 Sanford students for 10 years. She served as President of the club and became its first woman president. She currently serves as the club's secretary-treasurer.

"We're a small but active and productive club," says Hardin. "Most of all we're very optimistic about our young people and we do all we can to reward and encourage young people who are trying to do their best." Good going, Peggy Hardin.

Sarah Westbrook and Cory Warren

Sarah Westbrook and Cory Warren and all the young people in the Lake Mary Drama Club made us feel young again with their spirited performances in the Music Man that played last month at Lake Mary High School.

Sarah played Marion and Cory was Professor Harold Hill in Merridith Willson's grand musical. They worked hard to bring their characters to life, singing, dancing as if they dropped it from Broadway itself.

Credit goes to the teachers who supervised these young people. Makes us feel a lot better about tomorrow knowing that we have dedicated instructors who are communicating well with our children. We trust that the same wondrous things are happening in the government and history classes, the biology and chemistry labs and on the ballfields at Lake Mary.

Listen...Seventy-six trombones are leading the big parade.

Loretta and Vic Arnett

Loretta and Vic Arnett are volunteers at the Sanford Christian Sharing Center. She stocks, sorts and hangs clothes and helps the needy find what they need. He works in the pantry, preparing food packages and stocking.

Vic Arnett is also the treasurer at Upsala Community Church, a former Chamber of Commerce president and a founder of the Golden Age Games. He's been a Kiwanis member and served on the executive board of the Boy Scouts.

The Arnetts responded to a call from Sharing Center Director Irene Brown when she asked for volunteers.

Peggy Hardin

Willie Reed

Willie Reed, 38, is the owner and chef at Mama Willie's Cafe on Sanford Ave. He's determined to cook something special for his patrons and for the city itself.

A former Marine paratrooper and cook, Reed was a chef in Atlantic City before settling in Central Florida.

Mama Willie's is named for an old family friend, Mama Willie Williams who ran a restaurant in New Jersey, where Willie Reed grew up. It has been his dream to have his own place and Mama Willie's is that place.

Willie's quest is to bring whites and blacks closer in the community. "We've gone our separate ways far too long," he said. "It's time we worshipped together and broke bread together."

Willie and his family did a superb job sprucing up the building he rents on Sanford Ave., and Mama Willie's Cafe has been winning many new friends. More businesses are expected to follow on what has become Sanford's new street of dreams.

Sue Reiner

If you have moved into the Lake Mary area in the past seven years, you probably know Sue Reiner, the Welcome Wagon lady.

Reiner and her partner, Debra Mark, greet 50 or more families each month, arriving at their homes with a basket of goodies and a friendly hello.

"The neatest thing is the excitement and joy people have about coming here, and in trying to assure them that everything they have heard and may be experiencing will get better and better," Reiner said. "We really do think this is a great place to live."

Rick and Sue Reiner lived in Hawaii for 10 years before arriving in Lake Mary.

Both paradise, she says.

Seminole High School Baseball Team

The Seminole Soccer Club said, "Let there be light!"

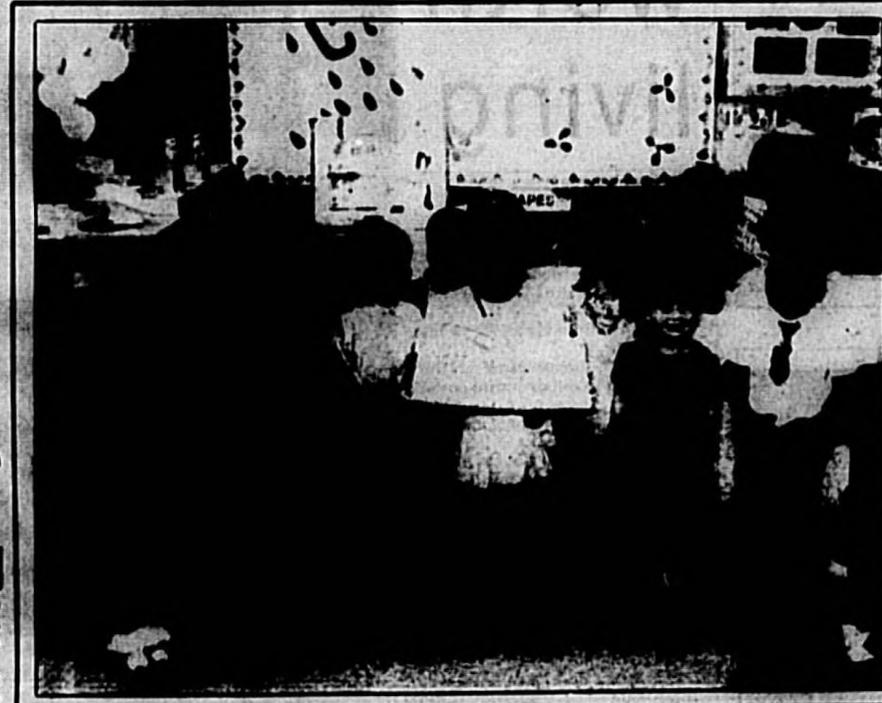

It will become a reality Monday when the Tribe plays host to its first ever night game against St. Cloud High School.

The project has been years in the making as the other five schools in Seminole County were able to flip a switch and host night baseball, but the Seminole baseball team took it upon themselves to shed some light onto the problem.

They dug the holes, junior variety coach Ernie McPherson had his classes construct the lights, and by next week, the Seminoles will no longer wilt under the blistering Florida sun with afternoon games in the middle of May.

It couldn't have been done without the hard work of the players who sacrificed their time and energy.

Herald staffers Vicki DeSorner and Jeff Burdette contributed to this report.

Spring is in the air

This is kind of a sticky weekend

This is kind of a sticky weekend.

On Saturday, at least, we have two syrup festivals to celebrate. In Canada, there's the Elmira Maple Syrup Festival in Elmira, Ontario. And in Palestine, Pa., there's the Maple Syrup Festival.

Both of these festivals celebrate the sweet stickiness of the 18th century craft of syrup-making along with various other arts and crafts and music from that era.

Closer to home this weekend, we have the DeBary Hall Spring Festival in (where do you think?) DeBary.

The event is a fund-raiser for the restoration of DeBary Hall, the plantation-style home of one of the first industrialists in this area. The festival will include plenty of activities from the Nimble Fingers Quilter's Guild to music to historic presentations.

There will be plenty of food and refreshments at the event which takes place at the plantation, which is located on Highway 170, just off of DeBary Road in

HOOK PFEIFER

Today is 1800

DeBary. The festival will be both Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. There is no charge for the event, though a $1 donation is suggested.

A little further from home, there will be a Dulcimer Festival in Lumberton, Ga.

Or, for the sheer pleasure of it, you could attend the Sheep to Shew! Festival at Jarrell Plantation in Juliette, Ga. or the Sheep Shearing Day in Petaluma, Calif.

Sunday is the anniversary of the first sheep shearing in the South in 1828. The event is observed only in Utah.

Oh, and remember Frank Sanitate (the guy who encouraged you not to go to work unless it's fun earlier this week?) Well, on Sunday, he doesn't think you should go to church unless you think that is fun.

"Spirituality and fun," he says, "are partners."

Sunday is also the start of National Birthparents Week, of National Boys and Girls Club Week and of National Garden Week.

For those of you who like to plan ahead, Sunday is Plan Your Epiphany Day. The event is dedicated to the proposition that a forgettable gravestone is a site worse than death.

Of course, you'll be confused about the time all day if you forget to make the switch to daylight savings time at 2 a.m. Sunday. Move the clock an hour ahead. Remember "Spring ahead, Fall back."

The Children Little Awards will be presented on Monday. These awards honor the best of children's literature.

have frightened the daylight out of large numbers of people" with scientifically dubious theories, statements or predictions.

Don't forget to leave your house just the way it is on Monday, because it's No Housework Day. You don't have to do the dishes, the laundry or anything else around the house. Best of all, of course, is that you don't have to feel guilty about it because you have an official day to celebrate it.

As for birthdays this weekend: Saturday is Roger Carman's 71st birthday, Arthur Masley is 77, Michael Moriarty is 68, Gregory Peck is 61 and Colin Powell is 60.

On Sunday Bert Ryleven is 68, Marie Haggard is 60, Andre Previn is 68, John Rattenberger is 50 and Billy Dee Williams is 60.

And on Monday Francis Ford Coppola turns 60, Tony Danza is 41, David Frost is 58, James Earl Ray is 58, and John F. Kennedy is 60.

Goals

Commissioner Whitey Eckstein said the city must be cautious in its debt service and bond purchases.

As a result of preliminary discussions, the items have been temporarily listed in the following order:

●P-1 - Schedule an economic development work session.

●P-1.5 - Review privatization potentials. (Commissioner Kerry Lyons presented this suggestion saying he believes if more city operations could be privatized, the city might be able to reduce expenditures and have more money to increase salaries).

●P-2 - Establish more communications/cooperative partnerships with other agencies.

●P-3 - Enhanced development review such as early/late office hours, pre-construction conferences, prepare development-related manuals/procedures.

●P-4 - Schedule a work session to discuss street lighting.

●P-5 - Encourage citizen volunteerism and involvement in policy making decisions.

●P-5.5 - Create incentives for employee residency in Sanford. (Commissioner Brady Lessard commented, "We shouldn't pay them more, but we should require new employees to live in the city of Sanford.")

●P-6 - Meet with the Greater Sanford and Orlando Chambers of Commerce Boards of Directors.

●P-7 - Establish/develop a recession-proof city action plan.

(Commissioner Whitey Eckstein said the city must be cautious in its debt service and bond purchases).

●B-1 - Schedule a work session to discuss the organization of the police department and discuss ways to have a more efficient running operation, develop and implement an aggressive crime prevention plan and a bicycle patrol.

●B-2 - Review employee evaluation and compensation process, benefits plan, and improve employee morale.

●B-3 - Airport business and aviation.

●B-4 - Midge control.

●B-5 - Lakefront development.

●B-6 - Downtown revitalization.

●B-7 - Courthouse expansion (Note: Mayor Larry Dale said that unless the midge problem is resolved, it would be difficult to handle lakefront development, downtown revitalization or the courthouse expansion).

●B-8 - Establish 13th Street enterprise zones; provide incentives to target areas (13th Street).

●B-9 - Develop aggressive, consistent, realistic code enforcement plan with sensitivity. (Commissioner Velma Williams said she added the word "sensitivity" because she believed the city should be concerned with the feelings of the general public in these matters).

●B-10 - Identify, develop and implement replacement, maintenance and repair schedules for city hall.

●B-11 - Revitalize 13th Street, Sanford Avenue, and U.S. Highway 17-92 (possibly to be in concert with Item B-6 above).

●B-12 - Improve recreation by pursuing a community center and swimming pool.

Mayor Dale suggested consideration should also be given to improvements at the stadium, and possibly an artificial swimming beach on the Marina Island, or off the shore from Fort Mellon park.

Commissioner Lessard said he was opposed to a swimming pool. Mayor Dale responded that the pool would improve the image of Sanford. Commissioner Eckstein commented that it would be a facility in which to teach youngsters how to swim, and should be a cooperative effort on the part of the city, Lake Mary, Seminole County and School Board. Commissioner Williams said she was in favor of the pool concept.

●B-12.5 - Finalize street paving plan, including consideration of a road around Goldsboro Elementary School.

●B-13 - Utility expansion at the airport and on SR-46.

●B-14 - Enhance city gateways on city property and encourage private property owners to enhance their properties. (Commissioner Lessard cited the entrance area to the city near Autotrain as being in poor condition).

Music

Managers Barry Cunningham and Barry Johnson with Marketing Director Kristi Hunter busy coordinate concerts which is what they want to be known for. They have magically transformed an old movie theater into a hip concert venue and they did it within a month. Between December 1 and January 28, "we ripped the guts out of this place," said Cunningham. Cunningham told the club's backers what needed to be done and his design came to pass.

Since its opening, Tsunami has brought out some big names for their concert events. Among the bands that have played the venue are Great White, Warrant and Kansas just to name a few. But as Cunningham and Hunter will attest to, Tsunami is also trying to be diverse not just concentrating on rock and alternative bands. Sunday, for example, there will be a country festival of sorts with country acts like Lone Star, Blackhawk and John Anderson. In fact, there is a planned country section going next to Tsunami Beach.

Tsunami Beach is capable of handling concerts for 3,000 to 5,000 people. It is a mid-size venue that handles the acts regular clubs can not get but is smaller than the arenas. Cunningham said that, by capacity, Tsunami is the largest club in Central Florida. "We have the capacity to do these large outdoor events," said Cunningham. But it is funny what some people have suggested for naming acts. Cunningham said that there has been a request for Aerosmith. "We're not that big yet," said Turner. Although there is an itinerary prepared in advance for acts, Cunningham and Turner said that they listen to all requests for bands to play.

Tsunami Beach hopes it is giving a lot back to the community as well. Cunningham said the club continuously receives calls of thanks and praise from other business owners who feel the prosperity from the acts that Tsunami brings in. "This feeds revenue back into the rest of the community," said Cunningham. And even though Tsunami is privately owned, which means that they do not have to adhere to certain regulations, they choose to. For example, they end their outdoor shows at 11 p.m.

Tsunami usually hires about 100 people per show and that includes off duty police officers.

Upcoming concerts include .38 Special, Blue Oyster Cult, Foghat, Eddie Money and that wily Charlie Daniels Band. These are only the acts coming through July. Also coming up is the rock station 101.1 WJRR's "Earthday Birthday" featuring several local acts. WJRR has been a huge supporter of Tsunami since its opening.

"We have people that come from Daytona, Orlando and other clubs," Hunter said.

But that only makes sense as people catch on to the music, art and theater in Sanford, including the shows that are only a few minutes away.

We are all different

We live in a diverse community. People of all races, religions and physical abilities combine efforts to make what we have something special. Sometimes we tend to look over the physically challenged when we look at those around us. We tend to not see them in their wheelchairs which put them below our eye level. We look the other way when they move slowly past us with a cane or walker. Still, the physically challenged are a vital part of our community, serving as activists, leaders and organizers for a variety of causes, including that of advocates for their own. The Sanford Herald wants to turn some of our attention to those who are doing so much for the Seminole County community despite their physical limitations.

With the introduction of a new column by activist Tony Tizzio, and a new focus on those who are physically challenged we hope we can bring recognition to those who so richly deserve it. We hope everyone will take a little more time to notice and thank those who have been overlooked for so long.

Job well done

Thank you. I was called by a patient from a local pay phone in a public area. She was distraught, depressed and was contemplating suicide. She had given a great deal of thought to her self-destruction. I was able to decipher from our conversation her immediate location. I contacted the Seminole County Sheriff's department and worked with the dispatcher to get help. Within 7 minutes this patient had been located and a horrible tragedy was prevented.

There are many unsung heroes occurring daily in our society. All too often they are overlooked until they are needed. We should all take time to appreciate those dedicated individuals who protect and serve.

This is my opportunity to say THANK YOU for a job well done.

Sanford needs a pool

Our Sanford children have been denied the opportunity to learn to love and enjoy the water safely. There has been no public swimming facility in Sanford for 33 years. Imagine graduating from high school not knowing how to swim and save your own life.

When my family first arrived in Sanford in 1956 it was a lovely wholesome place to raise children. Shortly thereafter there were public swimming facilities in every corner; Goldboro, Crystal Lake, the Sanford Naval Air Station, Ft. Mellon Park and the Naval Academy.

Every summer thousands of children (and many adults) learned about water safety and all levels of swimming. Dozens of volunteers and American Red Cross water safety instructors devoted hours and years of their time to develop programs that were proclaimed the best in the entire Southeast. Our A.R.C. chapter at N.A.S. Sanford was very proud. Jack Horner was chairman.

Classes were taught until 1965 when we woke up one day and our pool in Ft. Mellon Park was demolished. Concrete for a basketball court and petunias replaced our public pool. Goldboro pool was demolished later, the N.A.S. pool was filled with dirt as was the Naval Academy pool. The beautiful new junior Olympic pool at N.A.S. Sanford, was leased by the city to a group for a minimal fee and turned into a private bath and tennis club. The Navy was no longer in Sanford. I do not know how many years the bath and tennis club operated. I never participated.

People say, "especially in Florida people need to know how to swim." I say "there is water all over the world." There are flash floods, cloud bursts, plane, train, boat and auto accidents. If you end up in the water and you cannot swim you are going to drown. It happens somewhere everyday.

You ask "How will financing be arranged?" I say "Whatever it takes!" It is that important! The message "We care about you" is a message children need to hear from our town. I believe the crime rate would go down if kids had a program during long hot summers.

Blame, who is to blame? You and I are. This is our town. These are our children. We have stood by for 33 years and allowed this disgraceful situation to exist. I, for one, am truly sorry.

But now, thank God, we are getting another chance. Many people care and are meeting and writing letters to Editors and Legislators trying to learn how to succeed this time in getting a public swimming facility.

Thanks for your help in keeping articles in your paper. I know others appreciate it too. Does Sanford need a public swimming facility? YOU BET! It's a matter of life and death.

Politics: A pox on both their houses!

A pox on both their houses! Corrupt, plain and simple is the only way one can describe our present state of campaign financing. Revelations have been pouring out of Washington, in regard to the depths which President Clinton stooped to finance his recent presidential campaign. The Republicans in Congress are in little position to make political hay over the torrent of Democratic excesses having spent so much time with their hands in the fund-raising cookie jar, that their arms are stained green to the elbow with the "soft money" stink of influence peddling, that we call modern day campaigning.

It should come as no surprise to anyone on the democratic side of the aisle that Clinton sold the Lincoln bedroom and access to the most powerful office in the world, for a pittance; after all he and his friends on the Democratic Leadership Council, sold the principals upon which the party stood for 50 years down the river of political expediency, without so much as nod to the party's grand traditions. The result is an unprincipled and undisciplined party that defines itself more by what it is in opposition to as opposed to what it is for. I find it most difficult to articulate the principals upon which the Bill Clinton democratic party is founded upon other than that of beating the Republicans, an endeavor which no matter how meritorious can justify the means that have been employed by the Clintonites, to obtain reelection and the damage caused thereby to our political system.

I understand now why the Republicans loath Clinton with such fervor, he is their creation. He is much more a Rockefeller Republican or a Dixiecrat, than a true democrat. He is the Regan revolution's Frankenstein Monster. They began this style over substance morning in America phenomena with Ronald Reagan, only to be trumped by Clinton. Reagan as the mad scientist Frankenstein, and Bill Clinton as the monster - it is epochal struggle, worthy of the Hollywood from whence Reagan came.

Taking his cue from the Reagan and Bush administrations, President Clinton hustled contributions here and abroad, and set an example that all in Congress, and both the Republican and Democratic National Committees were eager to follow. Now in lock step we are subjected to politicians wringing their hands over the present state of affairs, and attempting to look earnest about reform while being particularly ineffectual in accomplishing it.

The fourth estate, the media, particular local media play an important role in how we have reached the present state of affairs. Far from being in institution which promotes democracy, the media has successfully exploited the present state of affairs. Most of the money raised ends in the pockets of media moguls in exchange for the air time. The modern campaign tactics of sound bites, photo ops, and staged appearances, causes a proportional increase in the need for air time; the preciousness of which increases directly in relationship to the shallowness of the message. These entities have no interest in finance reform or campaign reform, as they are getting paid under the present system. Every national election is like Christmas for them.

We cannot ignore, the impact that donated money has on our political system. At best politicians are only human, and it is simply human nature to favor the interest of those who butter your bread. That being given it is stupid for us to believe that our politicians are better than us. When the chairman of the House subcommittee on telecommunications is invited to participate in A. T. & T. Pebble Beach Pro-Am Golf Tournament, by all accounts a fabulous event, it is no wonder, and only human that he would get the warm and fuzzies when called upon to judge, evaluate or legislate on issues pertaining to A. T. & T. Politicians see their financial supporters as fellow travelers, believers in the cause of their own self preservation.

The danger is that we lose the emphasis of representative democracy, when one man one vote is subtly being replaced by the principal of donational representation. We then have an oligarchy of the monied and powerful, to whom and only to whom our elected representatives respond. Where the larger your donation, the larger your participation in American Government. To the extent that this is allowed to continue, there is a general disservice to the American body politic, for which both political parties shall have a lot to account for.

A look at local rail transportation

First, I must confess I have a conflict of interest. First, because having been on the M.P.O. (Metropolitan Planning Organization) many years ago, I felt we were not doing justice to the taxpayers by, at least trying, to present a transportation system that will pay its way. Second, because we are using old technology. Finally, we are not even looking at new systems.

Lately, I have been advised of such a system and have personally been asked to present it to the public. After, careful consideration, thought, and investigation, I agreed.

We have to accept the fact that there is going to be a light rail system put in place in Central Florida. It is going to happen! We, the taxpayers, have got to become involved. If we do not participate we are going to have a huge, on-going burden in future years subsidizing this system...it is going to be very expensive and out dated.

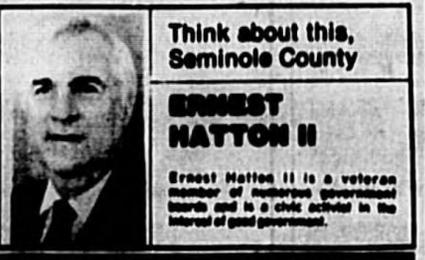

Let me tell you about the system being considered and then...what we could have.

First, the system being considered will not pay for itself. Second, it consists of cars that will hold up to 300 people. At present the thought is 66 sitting and 66 standing. The system will first be installed in Orlando and end up at Sea World approximately 13 miles long. The 25 miles that you have heard so much about will be built later and based on tax revenues. A one penny tax is being considered...as I understand it. That means that the light rail system, which is very much like the trolley cars of yester-year, will not be servicing north of Orlando, or south of Sea World. Fare costs? They don't have the slightest idea of what these will be.

So, what we have...is old technology, large cars stopping at every station unable to support the system by fares, only 13 miles of track, unable to move the amount of people needed, according to my calculations. It is a "White Elephant" that will cost us from the day it goes into service...and forever more.

On the other hand, we have Tri-Point Transit which is high technology, built to pay for itself, built at far less cost, built for low operational cost, built for express rides, built to seat every passenger and built to carry unlimited numbers of passengers. The whole system of twenty five miles can be built immediately from Sanford to Disney...and beyond. It can be expanded easily. It is not limited in speed and can be extended throughout Central Florida, and farther, with speeds up to 200 miles an hour. It is an inter-city, intra-city system for the 21st Century. So, "Why are we not looking at this system, which was developed by one of the pioneers of the Mag-Lev system?"

The mind behind Tri-Point Transit is W. Kenneth Crowder who was awarded a Gold Medal from the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia for his implementation of the linear induction motor for transportation rail systems. Does it stand to reason that we should be considering, at the very least, a fair presentation of this system? Mr. Crowder wants to present, to this area, a new concept in transportation that requires a waiting period of between 36 seconds up to two minutes. Not 10 to 15 minutes...if you are lucky. Not cars that are designed to carry 175 to 300 people sitting and standing. Not with cables.

He wants to present an express system that is comfortable, fast, accident free, with minimum waiting, at low cost installation, low operational costs, high technology, pay it's way...with a 21st Century construction and design, and he says that all 25 miles can be constructed at once. Cars that he calls futuristic limousine cars. A system that is designed to get the most avid automobile driver out of their cars, because he has taken all of their concerns, desires, reasons for not riding a transit system into consideration.

Like everything else there's a great deal more to this story that can't be told in this column, but we should have the opportunity to hear Mr. Crowder's plan. We should have the opportunity to listen to full explanation of the Tri-Point System and how it works.

Mr. Crowder has said that the Tri-Point system will cost at least one third less than any other system with far greater versatility. It is my opinion that we need to look forward to new technology. To new ideas, systems that pay their way, systems PEOPLE will ride!

Are we going to continue to build transportation systems that nobody uses? Can we afford it? Are we going to, at least, listen to new concepts? We must build a system that will attract many more riders. A system that will not have empty cars. We cannot afford to spend tax dollars on something that the public will not use.

Why shouldn't we build the entire system of twenty five miles and more? Central Florida needs to be able to move people to jobs, business, and entertainment areas now. In the VERY NEAR FUTURE employers are going to be struggling to fill jobs. We need to be able to put in place a system that can move people through out the area quickly with reasonable fares, in comfort, and present a system that is far better than driving their personal automobile. If we cannot do that, we are wasting taxpayers dollars!

Special People

TONY TIZZIO

Editor's note: Tony Tizzio's column is printed in larger type to accommodate our sight-impaired readers.

Welcome to the first of what will be many columns devoted to the area's "Special Population" Community. The title "Special People", has some history behind it. From 1981-1987 I hosted and produced a community service TV show with the same name. It was the first regular media attention given to disability issues (in central Florida and probably the country).

Then from 1984-1986 there was a Jaycee (a civic group) chapter which helped many non-profit (disabilities-oriented) organizations.

As the TV program was about local people and organizations in the disability community, so too is this column. First and foremost this column is a public service effort by myself, so my time on it is given freely. This enables me to be objective and honest to all our readers.

Being a disabilities advocate for so many years has given me certain insights to Central Florida's growing disabled community. There are many, many issues concerning us as disabled citizens. For clarity sake we will mainly focus on the positive aspect of the disabled community, items such as Disabled Citizens, their concerns and the services they need to live productive lives.

What may you ask are some of the concerns of the disabled? This as with any person can vary, but generally these concerns include housing; be it group homes or living independently. Transportation: Central Florida's growing paratransit (transportation disadvantaged) needs is one of the biggest concerns of the disabled. Health: what services are available to aid the various health concerns of the disabled. Accessibility: As with any

Should students about to fail be 'recovered'?

There are many who would not give credence to an unsigned letter. Some feel that if the author did not have the conviction of belief to sign their name, that the topic does not deserve to be considered. Personally, I am more concerned about the content of the letter than anything else.

Dear Mr. Goff:

I am a teacher in Seminole County and have been for the past 20 years. I consider myself to be an excellent teacher, strong disciplinarian, and have been named teacher of the year for my school. I mention this only to try to establish my sincere concern for education and its future in Seminole County. I have seen good school fail, holistic language fail, year round education fail, block scheduling in the process of failing, and now we have really topped it off with grade recovery.

The Seminole County Board of Education started out demanding a higher standard of education requiring students in 6th grade and 9th grade to attain a 2.0 to go onto the next grade. I applauded them for taking a stand! Now that we have experienced a large number of students that are not making that standard, the powers that be are charging the individual schools with the job of recovering the D's and F's for these students. Doesn't anyone see the ramifications of such actions? It would have been better to make a stand in raising the standards, have a large number of failures for the year who are repeating the grade, and show that Seminole County is a cut above the rest. Yes, we would have to bite the bullet, so to speak, for one or two years but the message would be sent to students and parents alike that we are in the business of educating students and we will not sit idly by and let them squeak by as they have done in the past. How can a new hired, unqualified "teacher" expect to recover 6 subjects in three grade levels for three quarters, and have the expertise to recover all these students in one 9 weeks' time when the classroom teacher was not able to do it in his/her classroom for three nine week quarters?

The People's Voice

BOB GOFF

I had this discussion with my advanced students and they think it is wrong and unfair to them in that their parents' tax dollars is being thrown into such programs that are meaningless and wasteful. Their comments were very logical. Perhaps our School Board and our county need to hear from the students and teachers before making any future decision that affects all of us so profoundly!

I am writing to you out of a sincere concern as to the ramifications of what we are undertaking in grade recovery. The message is clear! You do not need to measure up to any standard because we'll continue to "recover" you for the rest of your educational years. How long will it be before students have learned how the system works? When are we going to stop excusing their from their responsibilities? What will they do when they go into the work force? They will not know what the word "responsibility" means nor will they have the quality education to substantiate their future careers.

I charge each board member to visit the schools unannounced just to observe the grade recovery process in action and see for yourself if this is quality education. You will be undeniably shocked!

Sincerely, A Concerned Teacher

There is genuine concern here. I have talked to other 6th grade and 9th grade teachers. The numbers of students who would not graduate ARE staggering. Can they be "recovered"? What will be the damage to students who struggle throughout the year, only to see their classmates who loafed through the year get "recovered" and passed on to the next grade with them?

As a courtesy to Board Members, and Drs. Tom Marcy and Ron Pinnell, directors of Secondary Education, I sent them a pre-publication copy of this column. It evoked an immediate reply. Apparently, I had stumbled into an ongoing discussion between the Teacher's Union and the Administration. In a letter dated Feb. 25, SEA raised five issues with Drs. Marcy and Pinnell outlining many of the same concerns as in the unsigned letter. On Feb. 26, Drs. Marcy and Pinnell discussed the topic at the Planning Team Meeting. On Feb. 27 the issue was discussed with middle school principals. On Feb. 28 a reply was sent to Dr. Gay Parker, president of the SEA outlining the administration's response. On March 3, Dr. Pinnell responded to Dr. Parker's phone call with the following:

"...Hopefully, together, we can communicate (to teachers) how our recent initiative to provide during-the-school-day remediation is not considered the final answer, but rather a transitional effort to help us respond to the fact that we adopted higher academic standards out in front of any changes in the system) to support such an effort. Our current state of affairs is not the fault of local teachers or administrators, but rather a gaping hole in the foundation of middle school education that is vexing school districts through the country."

As a society, we are the softest touch in the world. We spend billions on foreign aid, some to countries whose education system and standards of living are superior to our own. Finding an excuse, a justification, is a way of life for us. We agonize over tough decisions. It sometimes seems as if we KNOW what is right, but we can't find the inner strength to DO what is right until there are extreme circumstances.

The only problem with being that way as a society is that we hurt so many people while we gather the courage to do the right thing. Is this an area--helping children who are on the borderline of passing a class--in which we will hurt more children than we help? Is it right to keep a student who can show mastery of a subject, but failed a test, for example, because they were sick that day, in the same grade for another year? Or is the administration's grade recovery a case of "it would be quite heartless, in the year of transition, not to extend ourselves on behalf of those students who recognize the need to work harder, who are willing to do so, and who, with the extra effort, can succeed in demonstrating the mastery required for legitimate promotion" as stated by Dr. Marcy in a letter to the Board this week?

What do you think? Call me at 330-0437 and let me know.

Merrill feels that the children of broken marriages suffer most and says divorce laws need to be strengthened to protect those children. "We need to make sure that these marriages really are irretrievably broken before we allow a divorce. Parents need to think about the welfare of the kids. Right now, it's easier to get out of a 20 year marriage than to break a car lease."

Opponents of the bill say the government is already too involved in peoples personal lives, and don't want to be burdened by additional governmental regulations.

Volunteers wanted

SANFORD — The Children's Home Society's Perinatal Program is looking for caring, committed women to offer support and education to pregnant teens and first-time mothers living in Seminole County.

They are also in need of bassinets, infant cribs, strollers and other infant and toddler furnishings and clothing in good condition.

The program was founded as a child abuse prevention and support program. It offers group support, parenting education and practical help for young mothers.

Teens are encouraged to receive good pre-natal care, to complete their education and to become self-supporting members of the community.

Community donations help us to meet the practical needs of our clients and newborns.

Women interested in volunteering for this program should call 324-3200 for the date of the next orientation.

All donations to the Children's Home are tax deductible.

For the kids

The BellSouth Telephone Pioneers recently built a swingset at the playground of the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford. The facility will be used by young children from United Cerebral Palsy who meet five days a week at the church. On hand for the recent event were, left to right, Lynn Greene, Dave Brigham, Patty Pippin and Carl Lee.

Sniffles, Ouches and Sneezes ready to serve sick youngsters in two new Orlando locations

ORLANDO — Orlando Regional Healthcare System (ORHS) is expanding its sick child care center, which is called "Sniffles, Ouches and Sneezes" (SOS).

Later this month, the current Downtown Orlando location will move to larger quarters and a new location will open in Southwest Orlando.

SOS provides child care to children ages six weeks to 12 years old who are mildly ill. Staffed by nurses, SOS was established in 1988 in Downtown Orlando for the children of the ORHS staff.

In 1990, the program was expanded to include children of parents in the surrounding community.

An increased demand for services has necessitated the move from the current SOS location at 33 Sturtevant to a nearby, newly-renovated facility at 74 Bonnie Loch Court. The new Southwest Orlando location is at 9430 Turkey Lake Rd.,

Suite 114 and is adjacent to Sand Lake Hospital.

The Downtown Orlando location has already hosted an open house. The Southwest Orlando location will be held on Friday, April 11 from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. A light lunch will be served at the event. Reservations are not required.

The SOS locations will be open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. until 7:30 p.m.

The charge is $3 per hour per child.

Admission to SOS is based on the child's stage of illness and availability of space at the center.

Children with colds, the flu and post-surgical fractures are accepted as well as those with illnesses such as conjunctivitis and strep throat, provided effective medication has been administered for the preceding 24 hours.

For more information, call the ORHS HealthLine at (407) 648-7899.

Surviving family in the family business

Most small businesses are run and operated for the benefit of the family unit. It is not unusual for the husband to be the technical person, the wife to do the books and one or two of the kids to be also working in the business. This means that the line between business and personal issues frequently becomes blurred.

I am writing this article and addressing the issue from the view point of the CEO. We all have made mistakes in both the manner and method in which we recruited family members. Typically we are struggling and we need the security of being able to trust our employees, so who could we trust more than family.

If family membership is the sole qualification for employment what does that say about our judgment? Many family businesses have evolved to a policy that family members must have previous experience elsewhere before they are welcome.

Consider your children. I know you want to school them in the right (your) way business should be done. But what have you done to them, do they know if they have real talent or just the right last name. All businesses need fresh blood and would you not benefit if your children brought in real world experience from other firms?

In other family businesses, ownership is shared by various family members. This scenario could include employees and nonemployees. What frequently happens is that the two groups have different agendas. For example employees might want to enhance company growth and benefits and the other group would likely seek larger distributions of the profits. If they chose to go along with growth at the expense of dividends it would be with the thought of an eventual sale. How does this compare with an employee who wants to remain at the company for his career? Most of us assume all the horror stories we have heard will not happen to us. This very dangerous assumption is the basis for many of the generation long fights that erupt from family business. How do you fire your sister and then break bread with her and her family at Thanksgiving.

Families that survive and prosper in business seem to have certain characteristics. First and foremost they rule by consensus. They develop policies that take into account the pressures of the business and they separate family and work. They retain outside advisors who can give unbiased advice. Last but certainly not least they PLAN TOGETHER.

In Healthcare Matters... It Pays To Get A Second Opinion

The unions are pressuring the Seminole County Commission to "give" the ambulance service contract away, without the benefit of fair and open competition.

Doesn't it make good sense to consider all the qualified proposals that control costs and ensure quality service?

We commend those commissioners who support a well-designed, competitive bid process. It can only mean that the citizens of Seminole County will benefit from a proposal that will ensure them the highest quality EMS system provided in the most cost effective manner.

It's regrettable that unions have resorted to a campaign of misinformation in their attempt to stop the Commission from designing a state-of-the-art EMS system for Seminole County.

I've got the game, but where can we play?

SANFORD — I want to dunk on you. I want to take you to school, ring the bell, then send you back on the bus with extra homework. I want to put your ugly face on the bottom of my highlight poster as I slam over your sorry self. Just try to stop me from driving on you. First of all, when it comes to driving, I'm a human Porsche. Get tough on me and I'll pull up and tickle the twine and hit nothing but nylon from three-point land. Don't bring your girlfriend. She'll just end up asking me out after I get through with you and your sorry game. I'd do all of that except there's really no place to play ball in Sanford. Sure, there are some public hoops in town. Fort Mellon Park has some baskets but the gamblers are out of control and the place is too crowded. What if I end with some teammates that suck and I have to leave the court after one game? I want to show off on defense. Try getting past me and the only thing you'll have left is your jock. I'll be in your pocket like the money I leave with if you have the guts to wage with me. Let me see you try to take me to the rack. What kind of sauce would you like with your leather sandwich, baby? Hey, I'll be happy to give you a Spalding facial. If there was any place in Sanford to show off for NBA scouts, I'd declare myself eligible for the 1997 draft tomorrow. The lack of sufficient basketball courts are costing me millions of dollars, a Nike deal and some 'Lal-Jell commercials with my alter ego who is a bit of a trash talker. If there were enough courts, I'd be a P.P.P., a dunking dandy. I could be the Supreme Court Dunkist for the City of Sanford. Get a good look at my picture at the top of this column. If I get you on the court, all you'll see are the bottom of my shoes. You could see me walk so cooooooly to the courts with my $150 pair of Air Jells, my cool shorts that hang below my knees and my 1998 University of Maryland national champions T-shirt. But there's nowhere to play. This town needs a lighted court, one that has a playing surface not littered with rocks and one that always has nets hanging from the baskets. I need to hear the swish when my J goes through the hoop while your face cringes for giving me an open shot. Don't do that, baby; don't give me an open shot. I don't want you chasing after me with your sweaty arms in the air as you come after me in a feeble attempt at defense. Beside, you'd have to be foolish to try to guard me one-on-one. You better bring your mama and then your sorriest can run in the family. Sanford needs hoops like you'll need Kleenex to dry your eyes after I make you cry like a little baby. I can drive to Lake Mary High or Seminole High but there are no lights. Some of us work, you know. Some local politicians are promising basketball courts but I haven't seen a change in my one year of toying with this town. Don't tell me about special programs offered at the YMCA. Sure, they're great but I want a place I can go at anytime. A place where I can hang from the rim if it doesn't just come down altogether. I want to talk after I make you look bad, without some ref trying to tech me up. So where can I go? To some of you reading this, I'm sure you have a pretty creative response to that, but, as far as basketball is concerned, the pickings are pretty slim. I got game. Show me where I can take it. Got that? I want nets, a clean court that's not packed but has lights and I want it soon. The City of Sanford is costing me too much money.

A game of inches?

Lake Brantley wins on Harney's home run

By TONY DeBORMIER
Herald Correspondent

ALFAMONTE SPRINGS — You know the cliché about how baseball is a game of inches? On Friday night, Oviedo High School pitcher Ben Knapp got a pitch an inch or so too high to Lake Brantley first baseman Chris Harney, who promptly launched the ball about 4200 inches (approximately 350 feet) over the left field wall. That came in the bottom of the seventh inning and sent the Patriots (18-2-1) and tanked No. 3 in the Florida Sports Writers Association's Class 6A state poll home with a 3-2 come from behind win.

Oviedo, which jumped into the poll at No. 9 this week after beating Lake Brantley 3-1 for the Big Blue Bonanza championship a week ago Friday, drops to 15-6. In the three games that Lake Brantley and Oviedo have played, all three have been won in the final at bat. The Patriots scored three runs in the seventh inning on March 7 to knock off the Lions 4-2 at Mikler Field. "You're looking at two teams that are going to do a lot of traveling this spring," said Lake Brantley coach Mike Smith, suggesting that his Patriots and the Lions are the favorites to represent 6A-District 4 in the state tournament. "I heard that there were about 600 people in the stands tonight. Well, I think they got their money's worth. All three games we've played with them so far have been great games. And I expect that every game we play them will be a great game."

Seminole will play its first ever night game on Alumni Field on Monday night as St. Cloud comes to Seminole for a Class 5A District 1 game under the new lights at the Seminole High School Baseball Complex starting at 6 p.m.

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary High School has built a stable tradition of superior student athletes. Most recent in the long line of outstanding students and talented athletes to be awarded scholarships is Sarah McWeeney. A member of this year's final four volleyball team, and the Lady Rams softball team, McWeeney has just signed her letter of intent with Georgia Southwestern University where she will play volleyball. "It's like the icing on the cake for a high school athlete," volleyball head coach Cindy Henry said, "to be able to continue to play the sport they have put so much effort and time into. I'm very happy for her." In addition to her tremendous abilities on the volleyball court, McWeeney also excels as a student, maintaining a 3.0 grade point average while juggling academics, sports, and social activities.

Bria named women's basketball head coach at UCF

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — University of Central Florida Athletics Director Steve Sloan has announced the hiring of Lynn Bria as the head coach of the women's basketball team. Bria, who was originally hired as an assistant coach, was the interim head coach this past season after the tragic death of head coach Jerry Richardson.

"I thought Lynn did an outstanding job during the transition year," Sloan said. "She brings a lot of character and commitment to the program as well as coaching expertise. We're delighted to have her as our next head women's basketball coach." In her first season at UCF the Golden Knights finished with an overall record of 13-15 and a 9-7 Trans America Athletic Conference record. UCF went into the TAAC tournament as the fourth seed and lost to eventual champion Florida International University in the semi-final round. The 29-year-old native of Charleston, West Virginia served as an assistant coach at Radford University in Virginia and Marshall University in West Virginia before landing her first head coaching position.

"I believe this is a great opportunity for me and I am grateful for the opportunity," said Bria. "I wanted to stay at UCF. The people here are good solid people and that is the main reason I wanted to stay. I am relieved because it puts closure to the situation and we can now move forward on recruiting." Prior to coming to UCF Bria was the head coach as Texas

Women's University, an NCAA Division II school located in Denton, Texas. In her three years there she quickly revitalized a slumping program as the Pioneers won 13 games in the 1995-96 season, the most for TWU in a season since joining the Lone Star Conference in 1989. Her final season at TWU ended with a 13-14 overall record and a first-round conference tour-namment berth. "I was pleased with the number of qualified candidates who applied for the position," said Mary Kaufman, UCF's assistant athletics director for administration and women's sports. "We are all very pleased with the performance of Coach Bria during the past season and look forward to working with her in the future."

Lake Brantley starter Rob Sitz and Ovidio Ben Knapp, a pair of juniors, hooked up in a pitching duel that took less than two hours to complete. Each gave up two earned runs. Sitz allowed seven hits while striking out three. Knapp gave up five hits, walked one, and struck out three.

"Ben pitched a terrific game," said Smith, who boasts one of the state's top pitching staffs. "There's no doubt that he's an outstanding pitcher."

Lake Brantley scored first Friday, Justin Harris reaching first base in the bottom of the third inning on a two-out fielder's choice, stealing second, and scoring on Matt Krot's hit-and-run single.

Dave Devito tied the score for the Lions with a run in the top of the fourth. He hit a two-out single, stole second, advanced to third on a ground out, and scored on a wild pitch.

Ovidio took the lead in the fifth inning when Scott Ferrell singled, Andy Neufeld walked, Justin Holmes put down a sacrifice bunt to advance the runners, and Guy Erwin singled home Ferrell.

After Krot's RBI single, Knapp retired eight of the next nine batters. Chad Hall broke the string with a two-out single to left. Justin Smith then hit a line drive that was dropped for an error at the right field wall. Hall, running on the pitch, scored from first to tie the score after six innings.

There were two out in the bottom of the seventh when Harney went deep. Harney also had a single to go with his game-winning homer. Krot, Hall, and Justin Smith each had a single. Harris and Hall each scored a run while Krot had an RBI.

For the Lions, Neufeld, Erwin, Justin Holmes, Devito, Lawrence Pultz, Knapp, and Ferrell each hit a single. Neufeld's safety, which led off the game, extended his hitting streak to 11 games. Devito and Ferrell each scored a run while Erwin had the only RBI.

Friday's win all but assures the Patriots one of the top three berths in the 6A-District 4 tournament, meaning they'd only have to play two games. Since the runner-up also advances to the state playoffs, Lake Brantley (now 6-0 against 6A-4 teams) would only have to win its first game to move on.

The loss drops Ovidio (2-3 in the district into a scramble with Lake Mary, Lake Howell, and Lyman for the other two top spots. The teams that finish fourth and fifth will have to play an extra game in the district tournament.

McWeeney

"Sarah does very well in her classes," her mother, Carmine McWeeney explained. "I think the discipline that she learns with her sports carries over into her academics."

This is a very exciting time for the McWeeney family, but it's also a little melancholy. McWeeney's older sister lives in South Florida and her older brother is in the Air Force. Even though it is a relief for her parents to know that their youngest daughter is going to a top notch school and that her education is completely paid for, they are still sad to see her leave home.

"She has had a good career at Lake Mary High School," McWeeney's father, Mike said. "And this is an opportunity that many kids never get. But we're a little saddened by the fact that she is going out of state. We'll just have to spend a lot of time visiting."
 McWeeney feels sort of the same way.

"I'm nervous and excited at the same time," McWeeney explained. "I'll miss the people here at Lake Mary, but it'll be fun to make new friends. I made the decision to go out of state to college because I wanted to play volleyball and I wouldn't have had the opportunity if I had stayed in Florida."

Lake Mary principal, Raymond Gaines, who attended the signing, spoke very highly of McWeeney and wished her the best of luck in her days at Georgia Southwestern.

"It has been a joy to have you here at Lake Mary," Gaines said. "We have utilized your talents, and you brought a lot of them with you. We are indebted to you for allowing us to do that. You are a quality student and athlete and I know you will be successful as you further your education and compliment the volleyball team."

Even though it is never easy for a student to leave the school that they are comfortable and familiar with, McWeeney is ready to move on and up.

Raiders can't handle Patriots

Special to the Herald

SANFORD - The Seminole Community College baseball team found out how the other half lives Thursday afternoon as the Raiders were thumped 12-3 in seven innings by Central Florida Community College in a Mid-Florida Conference game at Raider Field.

The Ocala-based Patriots are one of the top teams in the M-FC and they showed why on Thursday.

The game was scoreless through three innings, but the CFCC offense woke up in a big way in the top of the fourth inning as the Patriots exploded for five runs.

CFCC extended the lead to 7-0 with two runs in the top of the sixth inning before

SCC finally broke through with two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Lake Mary's Mike Buky led off with a single to left field and Jay Grevers walked. Buky then moved over to third on a fly to center field by Jesse DeBrowner and then scored on a single to right field by Will Toale. After a strike out, pinch hitter Scott Taylor singled to left field to plate Grevers.

But the momentary life for SCC was snuffed out in the top of the seventh inning as the Patriots came up with another five runs to end the game by the 10-run rule.
 Providing the offense for SCC were Toale (2-for-3, RBI), Grevers (1-for-2 with a double, run), Taylor (1-for-1, RBI), Buky (1-for-3, run) and Josh Hogan and Eric Kindell (both 1-for-3).
 The Raiders fell to 9-29 overall and 3-12 in the M-FC, while CFCC improved to 27-18 overall and 10-4-1 in the conference.
 SCC was scheduled to play a Mid-Florida Conference doubleheader at Florida Community College at Jacksonville at noon today (Saturday) and then stay on the road to play an M-FC contest at Palatka on Tuesday at 3 p.m. against the Vikings of St. Johns River Community College.

New license system will get smoother

SANFORD - Florida's new hunting and fishing license system has drawn its share of complaints from some license vendors, but officials are working to iron out the problems.
 "And the new system does have its advantages for vendors and license buyers," said Pete Joiner, head of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission's (GFC's) Division of Administrative Services. "For one thing, vendors won't have to stock a variety of licenses and stamps anymore. The new system makes all licenses available at all subagents (vendors)."
 Joiner said that was a serious problem under the old system--subagents would run out of certain types of licenses. Now all the licenses come out of a single machine.
 "With the new system, subagents won't have to keep up with different stacks of forms, and buyers won't be hearing 'Sorry, but we're out of that particular license,'" Joiner said.
 He said another advantage of the new system is it will enable the GFC to create a database of license holders, and that will make it possible for the Commission to open communication channels with the people it serves.

"What better way is there to get input from Floridians about seasons, bag limits and shooting hours?" Joiner said.
 Traditionally, clubs and associations have had the major input into the rule-making process, because the GFC hasn't had the ability to contact individual license holders.
 "We realize that has caused some inconvenience to some vendors," Joiner said, "but beginning May 1, vendors will have the option of referring customers to a toll-free number."

License buyers will be able to dial the number, answer a few questions, read off a credit card number and, within three or four minutes, have a verifiable license number--which will serve as proof having a license until his license arrives in the mail within a few days. Meanwhile, the vendor can continue to serve other customers without having to deal directly with licenses or reporting requirements.
 Customers who still want to fill out the application and purchase their licenses over-the-counter currently have to fill out a new application each time they purchase a different privilege unless they buy all their licenses at once. Joiner said his staff is working to streamline the process as much as possible.

SHUPE'S SCOOP
 I ALWAYS KEEP MY FISHING LICENSE IN MY BOAT SO I'M NEVER WITHOUT IT.

FISHING FORECAST
 Bass action is still good in the river, but will be tapering off by the middle of June as air and water temperatures rise. In the meantime, concentrate on the stretch of river south of Puzzle Lake to Lake Winder for fish over five pounds. Shiner's are still hard to beat for the larger fish. Bream and catfish action is also good in the river.

 Snook, small snapper, bluefish, redfish and a few flounder round out the action at Sebastian Inlet. Live shrimp or finger mullet are best in the daytime, and one-ounce jigs work well at night. Most anglers prefer the outgoing tide.
 Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports good offshore action when seas permit. King mackerel are on S-A and Pelican Flats, and dolphin and wahoo can be found in 180-240 feet of water. Inside the Port, expect flounder and sheepshead to keep anglers busy. Trout and redfish are rated as good on the flats of the Banana and Indian Rivers.
 Sheepshead and drum are the big news at Force Inlet. Live or dead shrimp are the top baits. Some redfish, bluefish and flounder are also mixed in. Trout and redfish are rated as good in Mosquito Lagoon.

Making cents and scents of collectibles

For $4.99, you can purchase Tuff Stuff, a magazine that refers to itself as the #1 Guide to Sports Cards & Collectibles. The Tuff Stuff home office is in Glen Allen, Va.

The April issue - with Seattle shortstop Alex Rodriguez on the cover - features price information for sports cards, autographs, statues, figurines and everything imaginable in sports collectibles.

Tuff Stuff also contains auction advertisements that border on insanity.

A company from Thornwood, N.Y., calling itself The Best of Baseball, has a "very rare" baseball jersey for auction with a minimum bid of $1,495. Item # 13 the ad says is "Louis" Aparicio's 1956 Athletics rookie, game-worn home uniform. The rookie jersey of the great Aparicio. Pictured in the ad is a Kansas City Athletics jersey.

Luis Aparicio was a rookie in 1956, but played for the Chicago White Sox and not the Kansas City Athletics. The game-worn Athletics jersey was not worn by Aparicio unless he accidentally got dressed in the wrong clubhouse, which we seriously doubt happened to this fine Hall of Fame shortstop. Little Luis had a good sense of where he should and should not put on his pants.

We've got to think a lot of folks are getting ripped off by hucksters selling game-worn jerseys. The Aparicio jersey could be nothing but a big goof, but there are hundreds of other offers in this one magazine that will make you either laugh or

How about an "authenticated" Michael Jordan/Chicago Bulls road jersey, signed by Jordan? Only $795.00. "Guaranteed Real." In the same ad another Jordan road jersey is on sale for $695. It has no "Guaranteed Real" note but is "authenticated."

There's a Joe DiMaggio autographed bat at $1,995.00. There are only 1,941 of these bats. And you can have one for less than $2,000.00 - well, $5 less.

For $2,795.00 you can purchase a bat signed by 11 members of baseball's 500-home run club including a signature of the late Mickey Mantle. Sorry, but Joe D. didn't sign this bat. He hit 369 home runs.

Another company has a sale that includes a $1,395.00 bat signed by Ted Williams. The Splendid Splinter's son, John Henry Williams, was on the Sixty Minutes TV show saying that 75 percent of the things his dad supposedly signed are fakes. Irate sports dealers say John Henry is exaggerating. Probably less than half the things Teddy Ballgame supposedly signed are fakes.

There's an article in Tuff Stuff about how swell hockey players are when asked to autograph items for fans. Hockey players are famous for obliging their fans - especially guys like Jeremy Roenick of the Phoenix Coyotes.

Seems a fan who bought a pair of hockey gloves that bore Roenick's name asked not only if he would sign the gloves but to vouch if the gloves were authentic.

Roenick took a look at the gloves, picked them up and smelled inside each one. "Yeah, they're mine all right," he told the man. Talk about making good scents.

Magazines like this one are chocked full of sale and auction items that cost and arm and a leg. Warning: watch out for the fakes.

PGA Florida swing sheds light on tour

Now that the PGA Tour has rolled out of Florida until its return to Orlando next October, what have we learned?

Tiger Woods is a very good player. Not great. Yet.

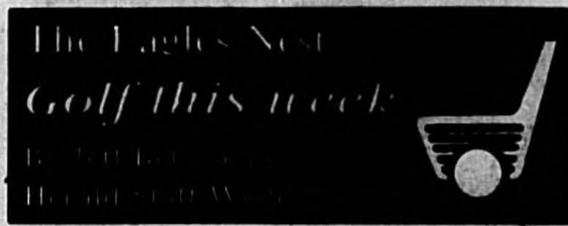

Greg Norman still hasn't recovered from his Master's collapse last April. He was uncharacteristically stand-offish in Ponte Vedra Beach for the Players Championship last week and played without his usual flair, or for that matter, talent.

If Stuart Appleby continues to play the way he did at Bay Hill, Heron Bay, Doral and Sawgrass, he could be the next Tiger Woods but, do we have to go through that again?

Orlando's Robert Damron, if we forget about his poor finish at Sawgrass last week, will be a leader board fixture for a long time.

Players' runner-up Scott Hoch needs a new attitude and the press has to stop reminding him of his Master's choke nearly 10 years ago.

Steve Elkington is the best Aussie on the tour, followed by Appleby. That makes Norman number three and falling faster than President Clinton down a certain Aussie's steps two weeks ago.

Chip Shots
Timacuan Golf and Country Club recently opened a brand new chipping practice facility to go along with its driving range. Both facilities are open from 7 a.m. - 9 p.m. daily.

The TWGA held its weekly tournament last week and the foursome of Barbara Sikora, Jessie Gouchenour, Bonnie Huber and Doris Zintner came out on top. They bested Carol Wright, Maurcen Blas and Terry Cuyler.

Sweetwater Country Club held its Member-Member Championship last month and Herman and Tom Dixon survived the final shootout over Skip Morris and Jim McKenna for the title.

The Sweetwater Ladies' Golf Association held its own Member-Member Tournament with Cis Smith and Babe Reams taking the title, followed by Kay Monaker and Agnes Beverungen.

Heathrow Country Club is gearing up to offer its junior golf camp in the months of June and July. Call the pro shop at 333-1449 for information.

Heathrow members Artie Wilson and Randy Christopher recently earned their Class A memberships in the PGA of America.

Mayfair Golf Club will begin hosting its weekly Thursday scrambles again this week. Call the pro shop at 322-2531 for details.

The Saturday Skins went off last week and the foursome of Dave Pietropoli, Dave Demetree, Mike Leavy and Keith Sagan took first place.

Sabal Point Tennis Club has big plans on summer slate

SANFORD Sabal Point Tennis Club, located in Longwood, is kicking off their summer events calendar with a bang.

Head tennis pro, Tony Fernandez, is attempting to make the now semi-private tennis facility a place where players of all ages can not only play tennis, but enjoy it as well.

"The members of the club thought that they wanted it to be private," Fernandez said. "So we tried it their way. It didn't take long for them to realize that when the general public is welcome at the club, there is better competition, more socializing, and more fun for everyone."

Starting the festivities will be a national Tennis Day at the club in May. The day will feature open tennis clinics for juniors and adults in addition to fun events and tournaments.

After the kick off event, the summer will be filled with league play, junior tennis camps, and adult lessons in addition to the daily matches and weekly tournaments.

Sabal Point is now home to three men's league teams and hopes to add the open gold division by the start of the next season. In addition, women's leagues in the A, B, and C classes are starting up.

Ladies Day will continue to be on Fridays and Saturday will still be the day for Men's round robins. Anyone interested is welcome to join in the fun.

For more information, contact Tony Fernandez at Sabal Point 788-0590.

50-year chorister honored

Fifty years is a long time. Not too many of our earthlings live long enough nor have the discipline to endure any one thing for half a century. But 50 years is something to celebrate.

It's golden.
It's special.
On Easter Sunday, Frieda Tyre hung up her choir robe for the last time. This was her 50th anniversary as a member of the First United Methodist Church Choir in Sanford.

Frieda, a beautiful and lively 87-year-old soprano, said way back in 1947 she and her sister would listen outside the church while the choir rehearsed heavenly music. One day, she said they were invited to join the choir. Shortly afterward, Frieda did join the choir with Roger Harris the director and in 1948, she joined the church. She has had a song in her heart ever since.

"I think I have been there long enough," she laughed. "The choir has meant so much to me. It's been such a good group."

Frieda continued, "I have spent three-quarters of my life singing." She explained that she sang in her high school glee club and later in a trio before signing up with the choir.

She has been very faithful in attending rehearsals and being on time. Dan Sellers, minister of music at the church, said that Frieda never failed to call ahead of time to let him know her schedule when she was out-of-town so that he could better plan his program.

Easter Sunday at the 11 a.m. church service, Sellers, assisted by the Rev. Cliff Melvin, led a glowing tribute to the retiring Frieda. He described her as "an individual of great spiritual character...a stellar example of one who upholds her faith..."

Sellers read excerpts from messages about Frieda from choir members. Among the lovely attributes that one member mentioned was that "Frieda would give you the shirt off her back."

I can personally attest to this. Several years back, Frieda and Mabel Chapman Thomas were on the same tour with us in Europe when I was injured in a fall and had to be hospitalized on this strange continent. Circumstances were terrifying, Frieda did not ask, "What can I do?" She sent a message offering money.

After she received a plaque and roses for her services Easter Sunday, Frieda also received a standing ovation from the congregation.

She has worked in many areas of the church, including teaching the Judge Ware Bible Class and serving as president of the United Methodist Women. Today, she delivers meals-on-wheels and drives cancer patients for treatment.

A world traveler, Frieda said she has been on seven or eight trips out of the country including several tours led by her good friends, Rubye and the late Rev. Leo King.

The choir will miss their loving mentor, it's true.

A close friend said, "Frieda will be deeply missed - not only for her singing but for her fellowship. She has always gone out of her way to help people."

Frieda will miss the choir, too. "My church comes first," she said. "It has been my pleasure to be associated with that group. I love them all. I'll miss them."

BEGINNING ART CLASS
So you would like to paint, but feel you can't draw a straight line. Then here's an art class that was designed just for you.

The Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. will host a one-day water-color class for beginners, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., on Wednesday, April 16 at the clubhouse, 309 S. Oak Ave.

At a recent SWC meeting, Bonnie Jones, instructor from Winter Park, showed members the beautiful floral scene she will teach the beginning artists to paint.

Cost of the class is $35. For information and reservations, call Faye Siler, 323-6684.

FASHIONS Show heralds spring

SANFORD — The Sanford Garden Club was a beehive of activity on Thursday, March 27 at its annual card party, luncheon and fashion show. About 60 patrons showed up to enjoy the exciting day from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"It was a real nice affair," Fran Morton said. "And a real nice deal. For $5 we had a nice fashion show, lunch and card games."

Those attending were served a luncheon including chef's salad, fruit salad, deviled eggs, and sliced tomatoes. "It was delicious," Morton said.

Racks of Florida fashions line the walls of the clubhouse. Club members modeled beautiful, carefree fashions from the club's Clothes Closet in Sanford. The fashions ran the gamut from very casual to the glitz of after-five. The lightweight, easy-care fabrics are suitable year-round for the sunshine state and are so attractive, Morton said. There was lots of nice wash and wear and silk items, too, she added. And they can be worn around the clock.

Each table had a bunny centerpiece as a prize for that table. Other door prizes included two Easter baskets, gift certificates from Denise's as well as belts, earrings and other fashion accessories.

Several tables of card games followed the fashion show and luncheon.

Woman's club reviews UF's women's program

By DORIS DIETRICH
Herald Senior Editor

Dr. Sue V. Rosser, Director, Center for Women's Studies and Gender Research and professor of Anthropology at the University of Florida, held members of the GFWC Sanford Woman's members Club captive at the April meeting. The eloquent and articulate speaker opened the eyes of the members as she traced women's studies through research, teaching and service — a perfect subject in keeping with the General Federation of Women's Clubs' two-year program, "Celebrate Women."

Back in 1833, Overland College admitted the first woman and blacks, the speaker noted, and added that the University of Florida did not become co-educational until 50 years ago. The women's studies program at the university was founded just 20 years ago and about 75 faculty members are in the program including different colleges on campus, she said.

Rosser focused on several areas in the past where women did not appear including literature, history, art history, biology and health. In reviewing situations where the absence of women were not noted, Rosser said that women were not in combat until the Desert Storm conflict. She mentioned that women were neglected in literature, art and the field of psychology. She added that the absence of women was noted in health and science experiments. Pharmaceutical companies are reluctant to experiment on women, she said, because of the menstrual cycle. No female rats are used in laboratory experiments for the same reason, she explained.

Research has focused on man, Rosser said, and 40-45 year-old males are targeted for heart experiments which causes problems to women since their bodies are different. Rosser told the women that she was approached by a chief executive officer of a large corporation to develop a women's program for the men employed there so that the men would know as much about women as women know about men.

Women are looking for a more complete picture of reality, she said.

In closing Rosser said, "We need to know as much as we can about each other so we can interact better and have a better society."

The guest speaker was arranged by Dorothy Anthony and was introduced by Faye Siler.

Rosser was accompanied by L. Carter Boydston, Director of Development, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, University of Florida.

President Ruth Gaines heard routine reports. She presented the President's "Celebrate Women" award to Faye Siler for her participation in the recent Florida Federation of Women's Clubs District VII Arts and Crafts Show and acting as the club's arts department chairman pro tem due to the resignation of Dorothy Anthony.

Gaines asked the members to support the 1997 President's Project, the 1997 MS Walk for Multiple Sclerosis, scheduled April 5 in Winter Park in which she will walk. She has a daughter who is a 12-year MS patient.

The club plans a fund-raiser for education on April 23, at the clubhouse. Viola Frank and DeLores Lash are in charge and Vivian Buck will prepare something extra special for the event, a fashion show and luncheon. Tickets are $12 each. More on this later.

The club is participating in the 17th Annual Hog Roast and Auction for Camp Challenge on April 26 at Camp Challenge. Kathy Krasnoff, sponsor of the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford, is the club's chairman for this event which begins at 10 a.m. Meal tickets are available for a $5 donation and can be

'Model A' sparks charity efforts

BY GUYAN WOODS
Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Altamonte Springs resident Larry Gilbreath has a smile on his face as the wind blows through his hair while driving his memory maker, a 1930 Model A Ford. This beautiful piece of machinery has visited many a nursing home and has been a big part of his volunteer efforts.

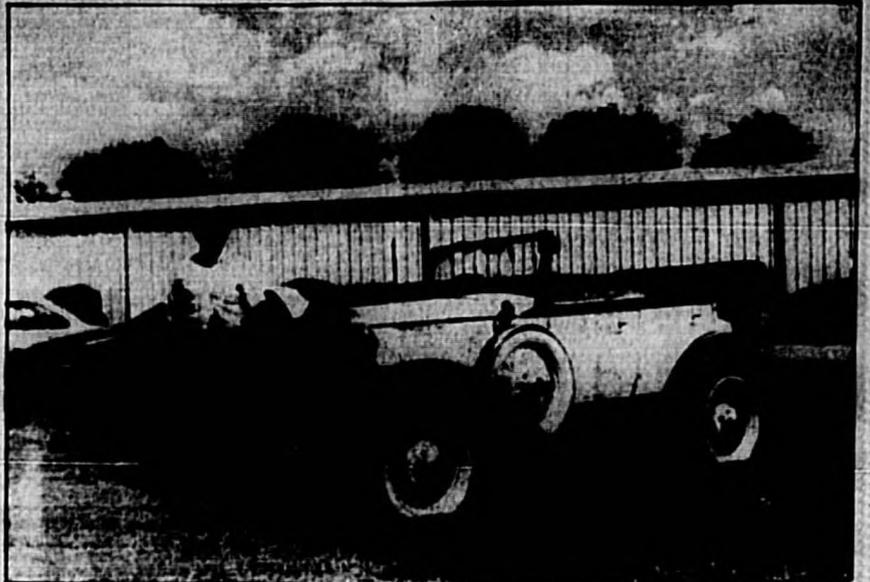

Gilbreath told of a Model A club of which he is one of the founders. "We (club members) took 10 Model A's recently to Herndon Airport for the Children's Wish Foundation," he said. "Our group is called the Model A's of Greater Orlando. We gave the children a ride and showed them our cars."

He added that over the past few years he had noticed that old trucks have been much more popular but his baby is still his Model A. He loves his own antique vehicle so much that he began an antique club with the Shriners, which has been a member of since 1982.

"I do a lot of volunteer work with the Shriners" he said. "I drive the Shriners children's van to the hospital once a month. The Shriners have 21 hospitals all together. They have 18 orthopedic and three burn hospitals. One of the hospitals I drive to is in Tampa."

Gilbreath's little yellow Model T with brown fenders and American flags attached to each side brings joy to many. He mentioned that he gets "a big kick out of the stories" that some of the older generation tell about their own experiences.

"I got started with going to nursing homes some time ago," he said. "We go to about three or four nursing homes a year. We got the club going after a time when we used to meet at Denny's to eat. A lady from a nursing home was admiring our cars. We give some of the nursing home residents rides as long as it's on the property."

Larry Gilbreath takes nursing home residents for a ride in his shiny Model A Ford.

He shared a touching story about a former nursing home resident. "I went to one Wester Garden nursing home," he said. "There was a woman there, that the people told me, hadn't talked in two years. She came to the door and threw up her hands and said, 'Look at the Model A.' That really made me feel good."

Continuing he laughed as he said, "I hear all kinds of stories from people about their experiences in the back seat of a Model A. I ask them if they have ever reached in the back of a Model A. I hear stories from men and women. One lady said she was conceived in the backseat of one. Then she said her son was conceived in the backseat of a 1957 Ford. That shut me up fast." He added that all in all, "I enjoy seeing people enjoy the things around them and I enjoy helping people. It gives me a lot of pleasure to hear the tales and see that it brings back old times to them."

Gilbreath and his wife, Nancy, have been married for 30 years. They share five children: Marie, Doug, Sharon, Debbie and Linda, and eight grandchildren and one great grandson. The couple are members of Congregation Beth Am in Longwood.

Pilot Club inducts new members

The rites included a presentation of the scope of the organization, the mission statement and the Pilot code of ethics. New and current members repeated the membership pledge. New members received Pilot pins, yearbooks and letters of welcome from Pilot International president, Joanne Horton, containing the special 70th anniversary logo, code of Ethics and membership certificates. Newly-inducted members are Desiree Tucker (from left), Eliza Pringle and Marge Jamigan Cornell.

HOPE lives up to its purpose

Seminole Hope Neighborhood Advisory Council lives up to its purpose and fulfills its community concerns.

The Advisory Council meets every third Saturday at 12 noon at the Westside Boys and Girls Club. The concerns of the community are discussed and issues are brought out from the various community citizens.

The Agriculture and Labor Program, Inc. Northern Region Community Involvement Liaison, Elizabeth Young, and Northern Region Council chairman Grace S. Miller recently attended the Seminole HOPE March meeting.

Young gave a brief update on the community of Sanford and Seminole County's involvement in the National Dialogue on Poverty. It is mandatory that our community becomes involved on the National political level.

Young reminded the residents to take time and become committed to the improvements. It was noted by Mrs. Young that according to the ALPI, concerns of the community of Sanford were indeed being addressed. These concerns are: 1. Recreation for young people. 2. Better relationships with youth from positive relationships with Law Enforcement programs. 3. Through the Job Fair to be held Saturday, April 19th at the Westside Sanford Boys and Girls Club, many jobs will be available. 4. Adult Education is available at the Boys and Girls Club daily. 5. Affordable housing for all residents interested in surrounding homes. 6. Seminole HOPE and Police Department and Sheriff's Department Citizen Council of the neighborhood have and are still addressing the issues of having a drug free community by giving more drug awareness and education through marches and Violence Free Community March Programs.

Sanford, Seminole County will witness the special Job Fair to be held Saturday, April 19, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. For information or a booth, contact Veron McGowan at 898-8302. Help make your neighborhood safe.

You're never too old for higher education

The Lake Mary Woman's Club was delighted on Wednesday, March 25 when Lt. Col. Ann Lepton, daughter of club member Skip Orfittski, stopped by for a visit. Ann told the members a couple of stories about when she was a pilot in the service. She flew for 17 years before retiring.

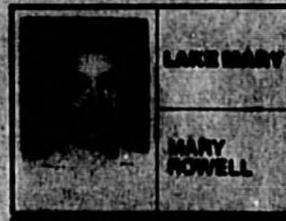

When are you too old to go to school? Never. Eda Blavin of Seminole Community College told the Lake Mary Woman's Club - unless you want to go to the police academy. Then you have to be 35 or under by Florida law. Eda was the speaker for the March meeting.

Eda's own mother went back to college at the age of 70. At SCC, the possibilities are almost unlimited. They offer A.S. degrees, vocational degrees, and classes geared for the community at large. In the first two, SCC offers everything from fire science and child development to cosmetology and welding. In the latter, they offer various classes in art, computer, languages and business. Through their community education, they even offer classes for elementary, middle and high school students.

Eda also told the members about New Directions. New Directions is a program for single parents, displaced homemakers and single pregnant teens. The goal of new directions is to help these people attain economic self-sufficiency. Each year, the Woman's Club provides an SCC scholarship for displaced homemakers. If you would like to know more about New Directions, call 328-2146. If you'd like to find out more about SCC and all the classes they offer, call 328-4732.

Pack 629 holds Blue, Gold Banquet

It's Boy Scout tradition at all packs. Once a year, they hold a Blue and Gold Banquet. It's an opportunity for the boys to receive the recognition they've earned and for volunteers to be acknowledged.

Pack 629 at the Holy Cross Lutheran Church in Lake Mary, held their Blue and Gold on Monday, March 31st. The theme for this year's dinner was the Wild West. There were cowboys and Indians all over the building.

In keeping with the theme, the food was barbecue chicken and grilled hot dogs. Saturn of Orlando brought their big grill and did all the cooking for the evening. There was also baked beans, cole slaw and rolls.

While the parents were eating, a representative from the Boy Scout Council took the opportunity to do a little fund raising. He told the parents about the benefits of Boy Scouts and what the money was used for. Right now, the council is in the process of updating Camp La No Chee. The camp dining hall is to be expanded and bathrooms are to be updated. (Mothers who have been to the camp with the many doorless stalls were very pleased to hear that one.)

The recognition's then started with the youngest. The 1st graders proudly received their tiger paws and beads. The 2nd graders received their Wolf badge. The 3rd graders received their Bear. Special recognition's were earned by two Webelos. Jason Plesha and Sean Leining received the Arrow of Light.

Calby Gurzel, the assistant cub master, then took the opportunity to thank the adults who had helped throughout the year. A special thank you was given to Al Letang, the pack's cub master, who will be going on to help the older boys next year.

Animals talk at PTA meeting

Cows don't say meow. Unless they're the cows from the Washadoc Zoo. The Washadoc Zoo visited the Lake Mary Elementary PTA meeting on Tuesday, April 1st (appropriately) courtesy of all the first grade classes. Besides the mooing cows, there were hens, monkeys, goats and pigs. A kindly professor stopped by for a chat with the zoo animals to persuade them to give up their weedy ways, but the animals happily continued.

In the business portion of the meeting, President Janis Lutz announced the results of recent fund raising. If things continue as scheduled, the PTA will be able to give the school $8000 to buy new playground equipment with at the end of the year. The PTA has already given the school $8000, which was used for the new sound system in the auditorium.

Janis also took the opportunity to remind parents that teacher appreciation week was coming up during the first week in May. The PTA counts on parents to send in things during the week for the teachers.

Terry Parsons from the County PTA was a guest at Tuesday's meeting. Her job for the evening was to install the new officers. The PTA Officers for the 1987-1988 school year are Janis Lutz, President; Lisa Aycock, First Vice President; Diane Wagner, Second Vice President; Jeanette Rowlings, Recording Secretary; Ellen Wallington, Corresponding Secretary and Sharon Grace, Treasurer.

New medical treatments help adults suffering incontinence

DEAR ABBY: On behalf of the National Association for Continence (NAPC), formerly Help for Incontinent People, I would like to thank you for your interest and willingness to help your readers find the information and referrals they need to cope with bladder or bowel control problems. Because you have previously printed letters from our founder, Dr. Katherine Jeter, and former Sen. Bob Dole, more than 100,000 people contacted NAPC for help and information — more than from any other single source.

We hope you will continue to encourage your readers to seek medical diagnosis and treatment for incontinence. We are still very concerned by how long people are waiting to seek help. Our 1986 membership survey showed that women wait an average of 3.4 years and men 1.8 years before seeing a health care professional. We still receive calls from people who have had this problem for 20 or more years, and their call to us is their first attempt to gain information or to seek help.

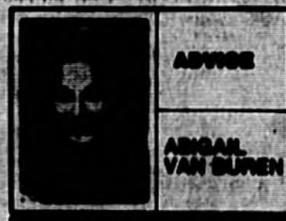

Incontinence is a medical condition with many causes. It affects more than 12 million Americans, of whom 85 percent are women. It robs many men and women of their independence and spoils the quality of life for countless others. Incontinence, whether partial or complete, temporary or continuing, is not normal. It is not a disease, it is not part of being a woman, and it is not "just what happens" as you get older!

More and more new treatments are being successfully used for all types of incontinence. Dietary changes, bladder retraining, medications, pelvic muscle exercises, biofeedback, electrical stimulation, surgery, collagen implants or pelvic support devices have all been effective in getting people completely dry or, at least, back in control of their bladder habits. When a cure is not possible, selection of the best absorbent product or device and proper skin care will lessen the risk of irritating rashes or embarrassing "accidents."

Miss Van Buron, it is important that your readers expect help from their doctors and persist until they find a physician who specializes in the diagnosis and treatment of bladder control problems. Please let them know that NAPC is ready to provide information and referrals to anyone who needs them.

LYNDA CHRISTISON, MPA, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

DEAR MS. CHRISTISON: I was surprised to learn that an estimated one in four women age 50 to 60 have experienced an episode of urinary incontinence, and that it occurs in children and young adults as well as the elderly. A broad range of conditions and disorders can cause the problem — including birth defects, pelvic surgery, injuries to the pelvic region or spinal cord, neurological disease, pregnancy, childbirth, and degenerative changes associated with aging.

Readers who have experienced incontinence or are concerned about someone who has can request a basic packet of information by sending a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $2 to NAPC, P.O. Box 6226, Spartanburg, S.C. 29585-6226.

Approximately 80 percent of those affected by urinary incontinence can be cured or improved.

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago you published a quotation from Lord Chesterfield. In it, he gave his appraisal of sex. As I recall, it was hilarious. Can you find it and print it again, please?

LONOTIME READER IN PHOENIX

Clear Birthday

Sunday, April 8, 1987

An old friend you were extremely close to might come back into your life in the year ahead. Your buddy, who has always been popular, might introduce you to a new circle of friends.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The edge you'll have over your competitors today will be a stronger will to win. This is the equalizer if the going should get tough. Aries, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10158. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Persons you've helped previously will be eager to reciprocate today. Call upon tried and true backups, not new friends who are untested.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Because of your enthusiasm for a new endeavor, an old project might be neglected today. Neither one has to be denied if you devote equal time to each.

CANCER (June 21-July 20) You are in a very good achievement cycle, so make an effort to focus on meaningful objectives today. Stick to goals that entice you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You might have to tell an associate something unpleasant for his or her own good, and you won't avoid your responsibility. What you say will be very helpful.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You may have to work closely with someone who is a bit touchy today. Take pains to treat this person appropriately. If you do, you'll be treated similarly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) The pace your mate establishes today might not be as rapid as yours. For the sake of harmony, get in step with his or her tempo.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You will probably not get any handouts today, yet you can reap impressive rewards if you're prepared to build a deal from the bottom up.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you're involved in a competitive, fun activity today, don't take the event too seriously. Win with grace or lose with class.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 19) A heavy-handed approach will only create greater problems in any domestic disruptions today. A light, tender touch, however, will help smooth things out.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It might be necessary for you to be a little stubborn in your commercial dealings today. However, don't ask for more than you deserve, nor accept less.

There are some funny misprints in the press. Last January in The New York Times, there was an article about the presenters of the BBC's "Today" radio program, Sue MacGregor and John Humphrys. In commenting on MacGregor, the writer observed: "Though her questioning can be persistent, her timber (sic) is soothing and her diction exacting."

Well, South felt as thick as two short planks after going down in this contract. How would you have played in three no-trump after West had led the heart four and East had put up the jack?

North had hoped his seven tricks would be sufficient. And a vulnerable game bonus isn't awfully sweet.

Thinking there were no slivers in his path, declarer won the first trick with his king and played a diamond. However, he ran into a mahogany-tough defense. Knowing the heart position, West started in with the ace and returned his second diamond, leading declarer in the dummy. Whatever South tried next, the defenders had a rigolet. If he ran the diamonds, both East and West would discard hearts. If he tried a black suit, West would win the trick and return that suit.

"Maybe I suggest we take a few moments to spruce up your play?" piped North. "First, aspen ebony - they will tell you that aspen players sitting West view-by lead an honest fourth-highest. So, you know the missing hearts must be splitting 5-4. This makes it safe to cash both your heart tricks immediately. Then play a diamond. You lose only four tricks: three hearts and one diamond."

"What an oak I am!" commented South.
