LONGWOOD — Three persons were injured in an automobile collision early this morning in Longwood. The accident occurred on Highway 17-92, at the Orange Avenue intersection.

According to the Longwood Fire Department, one person, believed to have extensive injuries, was transported to the Orlando Regional Medical Center.

Two other persons believed to have lesser injuries, were taken to Florida Hospital in Altamonte Springs, and South Seminole Hospital in Longwood.

The accident reportedly occurred at approximately 1:20 this morning.

The identity of the three persons in the two vehicles was not immediately released. No charges have been made pending further investigation by Longwood police.

Holiday activities for today

SANFORD — Clear skies and summer-like temperatures brought many persons to Sanford's Memorial Park this morning, for the annual Memorial Day ceremonies.

The event started with a parade by area veterans and other organizations down First Street, then to the lakefront. At 11 a.m., as is the custom with the day of remembrance, the gathering payed homage to those who had fallen in battle or as a result of their wounds, and listened as words of praise were uttered for those who remain.

This afternoon, another parade and gathering. A citizen originated Unity March will take place beginning at 1 p.m., at the intersection of First Street and Locust Avenue. It will circle along 5th Street and Sanford Avenue, then to Fort Meleon Park where a host of speakers have been scheduled, along with food and beverages for the marchers as well as people in attendance.

School program would not be implemented until 1993

By VICKI BOGEMAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board indicated by a unanimous vote last month that they wanted to study the concept of magnet schools which they believe might be the salvation of Seminole High School, which has very low enrollment figures.

Those opposed to spending more than $200,000 to implement such a program spoke out against it during a meeting on April 7, saying that the solution to the school's enrollment woes could be done more cheaply and more efficiently through expanding the school's attendance zones.

"We are not opposed to the magnet school program, to the right magnet school program, but we don't think that it is the most immediate and best solution to Seminole's lack of students," said Billy Higgins, chairman of the Sanford Committee, a volunteer organization of citizens concerned with supporting the city of Sanford, recently.

The magnet school program, even if it were approved for use at Seminole High before the next school year, could not be im-

Sound system proposal

By MICK PFENFAMF
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Although the Lake Mary City Commission has been conducting meetings in the new City Hall for only two years, the sound system is already being considered in need of improvement.

During last week's City Commission meeting, City Manager John Litton presented two proposals for improving the sound system, obtained from a company called Sound Stage.

The company had given the City two separate estimates for various levels of work: The lowest estimate was $3,350, with the upper level at $7,990. According to Litton, "The proposal calls for lapel microphones to be added, with the off/on switches and a switch to use existing mikes or the lapel mikes."

Sound Stage also proposed a mixing board be installed to control the volume of each mike in the output to the speaker system. The board would also have separate audio outlets to Storer Cable TV, which telecasts the video and audio from each regular City Commission meeting.

"We've definitely got some problems," Mayor Randy Morris commented. "There are times when the people in the audience say they can't hear us, yet up here on the podium, we often feel as though we are shouting."

Other problems have been determined in the sound system during recent months. A special video taped presentation called

Developer to replace 500 trees

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Developers of Lake Forest west of Sanford will replace 500 trees around the community's central lake that have died as the result of a chemical that can cause a "rotten egg" smell in wellwater.

Although the replacement will cost $10,000 and is required by the St. Johns River Water Management District, the development manager of the exclusive community says he's glad to do it.

"We prefer to have the trees," said Pat Gassaway, vice president of Orlando-Lake Forest Joint Venture. "They are an amenity. I am not upset about having to replace them."

Next month, the district governing board will consider issuing Orlando-Lake Forest a consent order demanding the work be done. Gassaway said the trees will be replaced within 45 days.

Gassaway is director of residential development for NTS Corp., a Louisville, Ky. developer and Lake Forest partner with Heathrow developer Jeno Paulucci. Gassaway said Florida has the most "complex" environmental protection laws east of the Mississippi River, but doesn't dislike the requirements.

"It leads to a lot of delays and frustration and we can't always respond to the market as quickly as we would like," said Gassaway. "But I kind of like it for two reasons. It creates a great place to live and it kind of thins out the field. The more credible developers tend to survive and the others don't. At least it's an even playing field."

Gassaway said when site crews first began development of the 529-acre site west of Interstate 4, they dug a 50-acre pit dug in the center of the property to allow water drain from the low-lying areas. As part of their district permit agreement to compensate for wetlands destruction for the homesites, Orlando-Lake Forest agreed to create 14 acres of marshes around the lake.

The developers also agreed to plant cypress and other naturally-occurring trees around the banks. Within a year, most of the trees were dead.

Gassaway said soils studies were performed and contractors found that when the lake was excavated, they exposed a layer of rotting muck several feet below the surface of the ground. The muck emitted hydrogen sulfide, a gas familiar to many residents in rural areas with wells as having a rotten egg smell

Furlong wants a partnership with sister county in Ireland

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioner Larry Furlong thinks a touch of blarney will do the county good.

In June, Furlong will urge fellow commissioners to adopt a resolution naming County Wicklow, Ireland, sister county to Seminole County, United States.

Furlong, who admits to an Irish ancestry, said his three visits to County Wicklow have shown him many similarities between the two areas on either side of the Atlantic.

Furlong said both counties are suburban and are strongly influenced by metropolitan areas, although County Wicklow has about 150,000 people, about half the 287,500 residents here. Both counties depend largely on tourism, said Furlong.

Both have (or will have) a beltway linking them to the metropolitan areas. County Wicklow, which is adjacent to Dublin, has an efficient and inexpensive commuter rail system. The Central Florida Commuter Rail Authority is targeting a similar rail system to link Seminole County with Orlando.

As the similarities grew, Furlong said he became interested in a formal exchange of information between the two counties.

"I thought, 'Gee, maybe we can learn something from them,'" said Furlong. "I'm not interested in the typical pottery displays and marching bands kind of stuff."

Furlong wrote County Wickham officials in early March to see if they were interested in the partnership. As fate would have it, County Wicklow Manager Blaise Treacy and County Council Chairman John Fox had planned a visit later that month to learn how to build

Lake Mary donates motorcycle to county

By MICK PFENFAMF
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary Public Safety Department has ended its motorcycle patrol capabilities. The city commission has given approval to give away the police department's last motorcycle.

The Lake Mary Police Department has only operated two motorcycles for patrol use.

One however, was demolished on Jan. 9, when reserve police officer Tim Ryan was involved in a collision with another vehicle on Broadmoor Road. The accident caused serious injuries to Ryan, and totally demolished the motorcycle.

The matter of motorcycle patrols for law enforcement was discussed during several Lake Mary City Commission meetings following the accident. At the May 7 meeting, the commission declared the single remaining motorcycle to be surplus property, and ended the city's use of motorcycles in law enforcement.

City Manager John Litton had proposed the matter, explaining, "I just don't believe the use of motorcycles for law enforcement is effective."

During Thursday night's commission meeting,

Litton submitted a memorandum suggesting the city consider giving the remaining motorcycle to the Seminole County Sheriff's Department to help supplement their fleet.

Records indicate the sheriff's department has four motorcycles assigned to patrol units. The use of the unit donated by Lake Mary will not be determined until the transaction is completed.

Litton explained, "Our surplus property ordinance permits us to give property declared as surplus, to another governmental entity." He added, "Therefore, if the commission has no

Summit

Leaders of more than 100 countries will assemble in Rio de Janeiro in June to decide how to combat the potential threat of global warming. Although the United Nations-sponsored Earth Summit will attract an abundance of politicians eager to show their concern for the environment, very few scientists are expected to attend.

A key reason for this is that there simply is no consensus within the international scientific community about what steps can or should be taken to avert the possibility of adverse climate changes in the decades ahead. The mainstream view among scientists is that the current state of knowledge about global warming is too limited to make accurate predictions about its potential impact on the world's climate in the next century.

In light of this limited knowledge, President Bush was wise to stand firm against efforts by the European Community and many environmental groups to establish rigid ceilings and timetables for reducing emissions of carbon dioxide and other gases.

Such a policy would be based more on environmental politics than scientific facts. And the economic hardship imposed by mandatory cutbacks in greenhouse gases would be felt most keenly in the United States, which generates nearly one-quarter of the world's emissions from vehicles and industry.

There is widespread agreement among scientists that a steady buildup of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere is occurring. In fact, research conducted at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography in La Jolla, Calif., during the last three decades has been instrumental in establishing this fact.

But the precise relationship between the carbon dioxide buildup and potential long-term climate change is very murky. For that reason, "there simply isn't a scientific consensus on what to do" about the so-called greenhouse effect, says Richard Somerville, director of the climate research division at Scripps.

Some scientists speculate the increasing emission of greenhouse gases could trap warm air in the atmosphere and raise global temperatures by three to eight degrees over the next century. That in turn, could melt the polar ice caps and raise ocean levels enough to flood heavily populated low-lying regions such as Bangladesh. In addition, some scientists believe the changes in temperature could, over time, disrupt agriculture around the world.

But this speculation is based on unproven computer models and other projected variables that may or may not be correct.

That is why President Bush insisted on a measured approach in the global warming treaty that will be signed by world leaders at the Rio conference. Instead of imposing binding limits on greenhouse pollutants, the agreement simply commits industrial countries to the goal of stabilizing emissions at 1990 levels. Perhaps more important, it sets up procedures to assess scientifically, on a continuous basis, the risk of climate change, with an eye toward adopting more stringent measures in the future if necessary.

This cautious, prudent approach is the best way to ensure that international environmental policy does not get out ahead of science and trigger a completely unnecessary reduction in world living standards.

Church answer shocks burglar

The Rev. Dustin Cooper opened the door of Asbury Methodist Church in Springfield, Mo., one day in May 1990 and discovered his church had been broken into. Some sound equipment and an electronic keyboard had been stolen, and Cooper was good and steamed.

The burglar wasn't feeling too hot about what he'd done either, he says now. He couldn't even glance out the car window toward Asbury when he passed.

Yet he was also defiant. He was 18 years old, had lost his job and wanted the equipment for his own use. "I figured I'd get it from someone else," he said, "and the insurance would write it off."

A detective came to his house a year later and arrested him. It was his first arrest. In the months before the pre-sentencing hearing last February, he and his wife prepared for his imprisonment. The judge could have sentenced him to seven years, but an extraordinary thing happened.

"We talked about packing my stuff up and that she'd probably have to go back on food stamps and AFDC to support my stepson," he remembered. "When we got married, I got her off that."

When he arrived at the courthouse and heard

Cooper introduce himself, he expected Cooper's testimony to cinch his trip to jail. "I thought he was gonna say, 'We want to send this guy to jail.'"

What he didn't count on was that since hearing of his arrest, Cooper and his congregants had taken a trip into their own souls to examine the core of what they professed. It began as Cooper prayed and worked through his anger, and jelled when he learned the burglar had been apprehended and that under the county victim-advocate program, the Asbury members would be allowed to respond to the plea agreement.

Cooper and his congregants had taken a trip into their own souls.

"Once he was arrested, my hope and prayer was that this was an opportunity for the church to make an impact on his life," Cooper remembers. "That he and the church would meet and reconcile."

A sermon asking the congregation to consider the fate of the burglar began to form in his mind, and he prepared hand-out cards listing four choices of punishment. Each parishioner would be allowed to choose one.

When the cards came back, 6 percent wanted jail time, 6 percent wanted the judge to decide and 82 percent wanted probation with community service. This was the recommendation Cooper gave the judge, and the judge concurred. It was Good Friday, a day known for the forgiving of another thief.

"I was in shock," the burglar remembers. "I couldn't understand why they were doing this. I'd grown up in a fundamentalist church, and I'd seen bad stuff happen between church members. I'd never seen anything like these guys. I asked Dustin, 'Why are you doing this?' He said, 'We just wanted you to know we forgave you.'"

Since the verdict, the Asbury burglar has a new job, and he and his family have attended several Asbury services.

HODDING CARTER

Quayle's riot critique hollow

The vice president was sent out to slay a paper dragon the other day, coming down hard against immorality and the deterioration of family values. He also opposed rioters, wanton destruction and anarchy. So, in the spirit of Dan Quayle, let us stipulate that most Americans are in favor of family, flag and law and order. Having done that, let us stipulate another bipartisan truth: The system has not been working well enough for most Americans for well over a decade.

That isn't an excuse for looting and gangs. It's a statement of bipartisan failure and an opportunity/responsibility for the three white men who will apparently be the major presidential contenders this year. They owe it to the nation they want to lead to have a serious debate on the causes of failure and on potential solutions.

The bedrock fact is that this country has been governed by a coalition-in-fact for over 20 years. Since 1968, there have been four Republican presidents and one Democratic president. Since 1968, Democrats have controlled the House of Representatives for the entire time and the Senate for about 80 percent of the time.

This divided government has held office during a period of obvious social disintegration. It is therefore feeble as the vice president, (though consistent, since he is a feeble man), to try to pretend that the "poverty of values" in urban centers is a partisan disease. This from the spokesman of a party that gave us Richard Nixon's lies and Ronald Reagan's careless memory?

The tragedy is that our coalition government, which is not Democratic or Republican but simply incumbent, would be happy to debate current issues in just such recklessly demagogic terms. That way the office-holders might be able to con the voters into ignoring the basic question, a variation on the former president's mantra from the 1980 campaign: "Are I and my country better off than we were before?"

If the blunt question is asked, the blunt answer is, "No." The 1990 Census data is now in and the verdict is unmistakable. Many Americans have lost ground relative to other Americans over the past 15 years or so. Far more have managed to stay even only by sending two or more family members out into the marketplace to work. About 20 percent of the population, those at the top of the heap, have had a wonderfully lucrative time. Those at the bottom have had good reason to lose hope.

Forget the punks and gang members Dan Quayle rhetorically slew on our behalf. They are a tiny fraction of the overall population, and a very small slice of urban America. Take that 18 percent of all full-time workers -- people working steadily, 40 hours a week, 50 weeks a year -- who make less than poverty-level wages. They work hard, in other words, and live below the poverty line, all 14.4 million of them. Just 10 years ago, they represented 12 percent of all full-time workers.

That's not the result of a "poverty of values." That's the result of an economic system riddled with unfairness. It is also a system proportionately more unfair to blacks, 25 percent of whom work full time only to be paid at less than poverty rates, and to Hispanics, 31 percent of whom do so, than it is to whites.

These are the working poor, by far the largest group of able-bodied people in the poverty class, and they are the people targeted for moral preaching by a politician like Dan Quayle, who was born with a silver spoon in his mouth.

But the Census data have something to say about the Quayles of this nation. Most of the benefits of an expanding economy between 1977 and 1989 went to the top 1 percent of the population. That 1 percent began the period making 7 percent of the nation's total income. By 1989, it was making 12 percent.

Income is what you make. Wealth is what you own. That 1 percent owns 90 percent of the nation's wealth, and that figure has also gone up in the past 15 years.

As one economist put it, the further down the economic ladder you were, the more you lost. The further up the ladder you were, the more you gained.

But even that minority of American households that live quite comfortably these days did not all achieve their affluence the old-fashioned way, with one wage earner bringing home the bacon. Of the 26 million households whose average income before taxes was $56,000, about 60 percent depended on two or more wage earners. In other words, the stress among the well-to-do as well as among the poor was not on mothers at home and "traditional family values," but on the need for their paychecks to underwrite the family survival or affluence.

The system has not been working well enough for most Americans.

Chief's perks hurt Customs' needs

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Customs Service has paid more than $70,000 over the last year for the care and feeding of its commissioner, Carol Hallett. It includes a new executive kitchen and dining room, two cooks, "daily menu planning," and "nutrition and sanitation standards."

While Hallett defends these and other benefits as "a thousand percent legitimate," some officials question the expenditures at a time when the agency's aviation office in Houston was cited by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration for raw sewage pools, hazardous chemical leaks and rodent sightings.

Internal agency documents we have reviewed detail the tale of two offices through 1991. Ten months of service provided by two cooks for Hallett's Washington office ran more than $38,000, and the final tally for Hallett's remodeled kitchen and 30-seat executive dining room totaled $35,848.

Then there is the Customs Houston aviation branch. Conditions that employees there had been forced to undergo for seven months were spelled out in an April 1991 Customs memo seen by our associate Dean Boyd. The memo reads:

"... Rainy conditions (have) intensified the problem by causing the septic tanks to back up, causing raw sewage to surface ... as these tanks are located next to the air conditioning and heating equipment, every time the sewage backs up, the smell is sent throughout the hangar. ... On Feb. 21, 1991, the sewage smell was so bad that all Branch employees had to sit in the conference room while all doors and windows were opened in an attempt to air out the facility."

On April 1, 1991, OSHA cited numerous violations at the Houston air branch, including sewage backup in shower stalls and exposure to "vermin such as, but not limited to, mice."

Hallett's kitchen remodeling isn't the first time she has rankled the rank-and-file in Customs. During her tenure as ambassador to the Bahamas from 1986-89, internal documents show that the Customs office in Miami loaned Hallett a 27-foot boat, a Cessna 208 aircraft and a 1988 Chrysler Fifth Avenue, each for use at her own discretion.

Hallett maintains that such an arrangement was warranted by her prominent role in assisting Customs officials in cracking down on Bahamian drug trafficking. The plane, boat and car were all removed from the Bahamas upon her departure. A subsequent investigation by the State Department confirmed the situation but made no determination as to whether there was any misuse of government property. The results were passed on to the Treasury Department, which, according to Hallett, found the arrangement to be perfectly legitimate.

An October 1990, State Department investigation found that the operational and maintenance cost of the boat and the plane had been picked up by Customs and that the State Department footed the bill for the car. Although no records exist for Hallett's use of the car, the few flight records we were provided indicate that Hallett, a certified pilot, flew the plane at least 17 hours at a cost of some $150 per hour. Hallett says it was for official business.

Hallett says she was asked to maintain the boat at a private yacht club in the Bahamas for Customs while it was not in use on drug missions. "On the few occasions that (my husband and I) used it, it was right in the immediate vicinity of where it was based. ... I could probably count on two hands the number of times it actually went out of the dock by us," Hallett said.

She says the it is warranted by her prominent role in assisting Customs officials.

Magnet school program provides unified curriculum

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County school district has proposed putting a magnet school program into Seminole High School in order to increase enrollment in the school which has nearly 100 fewer students than it can accommodate. The magnet school program could provide an additional 100 to 150 students for the school depending on the particular program offered.

According to Dr. Marion Dailey, assistant superintendent for instruction with the district, the purpose of the magnet schools is to "provide a distinctive, effective and energized curriculum that is not available to students in other Seminole County schools."

Students who were interested in being a part of the specialized curriculum could apply with the school board to attend classes at Seminole High School regardless of where they live in the district.

The magnet program provides students with a unified curriculum that is based on a special theme or method of instruction.

While the district has expressed an interest in introducing the International Baccalaureate program to Seminole High School, those at the school who have said they would support the magnet school concept believe that a technological program would better prepare the students for employment and would, thus, be better for the school.

The International Baccalaureate program is an intensive academic study program, more rigorous than Advanced Placement courses at other schools.

Other examples of magnet school curricula are an academy of tourism, advanced science and math studies, law enforcement and criminal justice career preparation, performing arts studies, journalism studies and high technology studies.

The programs offer intensive training and, often, hands-on experience, in the area of study.

The district believes that by opening the enrollment to those outside the attendance area the school will be able to fill its classrooms, thus providing the school with more state financing across the board. Much of the funding received from the state is based on the number of students enrolled in a school and the numbers of students enrolled in special programs.

"It will help the whole school," Dailey said. "There will be money for other programs because the magnet school will bring in many more students to the school."

Dailey added that one of the strongest benefits of the magnet school program is that it enhances school spirit.

"The students and their parents who come to the school are there because they choose to be," she said. "They are not there simply because they live within particular borders."

plemented until at least 1993.

"We need a solution now," Higgins added.

As Seminole High continues with fewer students than other high schools in the district and fewer students in advanced placement programs, the financial assistance they receive from the state continues to lag behind other schools.

With a division between the board and, at least, certain segments of the community, the district staff wants to find out what students and parents think about the concept of magnet schools.

A survey has been prepared that will be sent to eighth grade and high school students selected randomly from around the district to attempt to determine how they feel about the concept.

"We need to see how the people who might take advantage of magnet school classes feel about such a program," said board member Sandy Robinson, who first proposed the concept of magnet schools to the district a few months ago. She said that she had seen magnet schools implemented successfully in Alachua County where she used to live. "If the people don't want to try this, we shouldn't spend the money getting it started."

The survey has been prepared and will be sent out to a random are all about.

"We want to be sure that they know exactly what the magnet school concept is all about," Dr. Marion Dailey, assistant superintendent for instruction, said. "We can't find out what sort of support there is for magnet schools if people don't even know what magnet schools are."

The district has scheduled an informational session for those who would like to find out more about the possibilities offered by magnet schools. That meeting will be Tuesday evening, May 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the Seminole High School media center.

Seminole High School is located at 2701 Georgia Ave., Sanford.

"We will try to have as many people as possible on hand to answer questions as we can," Dailey said.

The meeting is, however, at the same time as the regularly scheduled school board meeting which will be in the district board room, 1211 Mellonville Ave., Sanford.

Sound

"Permit Man" has never been seen by the audience. It was taped by Storer utilizing city staff members to place importance on the need to obtain tree-removal permits. Although it was filmed in late February and early March, it has never been able to be shown.

A producer for Storer Cable commented, "The 10 minute segment was produced properly, but the equipment in the City Hall is just unable to play it back." He added, "It's just a case of the City needing better sound equipment."

The City Commission voted unanimously to ask Litton to obtain at least two additional estimates on the sound system, before it was brought back for further consideration.

and a foul taste. The gas killed the trees, said Kym Demora, water district biologist.

"No one knew this would happen," said Demora. "The layer was deep enough that the naturally-occurring trees were not affected. The trees they planted couldn't tolerate it."

To replace the trees, Gassaway said the 500 trees will be clustered on the man-made Lake Forest island on the eastern side of the lake. Demora said tests have found a 500-foot-long strip of land that does not have muck under it.

Gassaway declined to disclose the cost of the replacement, but said it would cost "several $10,000."

Language at its best

Elementary students show creativity and talent at spring fest

On May 14 the Lake Mary Elementary School held its "Language Arts Spring Fest" in the auditorium.

Around the perimeter of the room by grades, kindergarten through third grade art work and poems were displayed. Students made adorable books in their publishing lab.

Parents in the audience awaited the program and in the background, fourth and fifth grade art and "Young Author's" entries hung on the walls.

Prior to the program, Ken Bovio, director of elementary education presented Lake Mary Elementary principal, Sherrill A. Casey with two awards — Certificates of Recognition for Lake Mary Elementary's publishing lab and for "Patchwork" writers. Then the program began — each grade, kindergarten through fifth, had selected several children from each of the classes representing the various grade levels to perform.

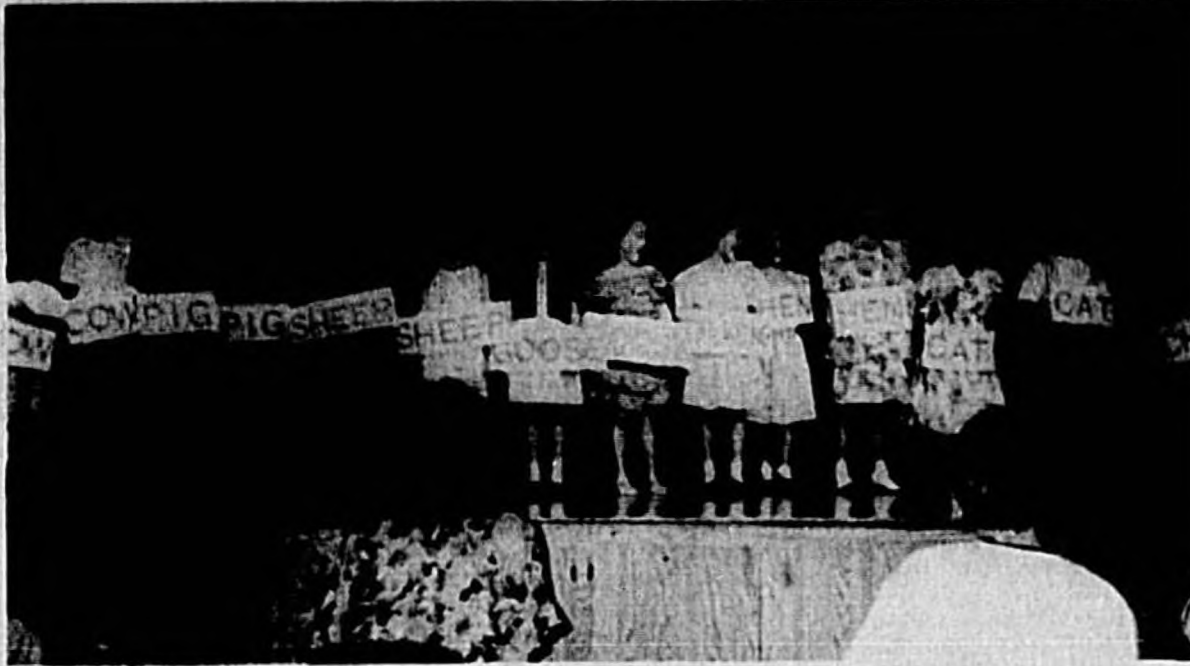

The kindergarten classes did a choral reading of "Brown Bear."

First graders did an adorable choral reading of "Cat Goes Fiddle-Dee."

Second graders did an action poem of "Hi, my name is Joe."

Mrs. McNeal's class did a class poem, "A Walk on the Beach."

Third grade did an unusual audience participation game — Palindrome. They asked the audience riddles about 3, 4, 5 and 6 letter words that are spelled exactly the same both backwards and forwards. For example — Mom, Dad, deed, peep, level, redder. The riddle was on the front of the "sandwich signs" and the answer was on the back.

Fourth graders did a very positive and encouraging action poem and skit "Try, Try Again." The skit was wonderful. It showed the year 1990 held up by a student, then another student held up a "Start" sign and at the other end of the stage a student held a "Finish" sign and two students put on bicycle helmets and pretended to have a bicycle race. They each held numbers "2" and "5" and they lost the 1990 race. They repeated it for "1991" and lost that race too. They tried again for "1992" and WON! Proving, if at first you don't succeed, "Try, Try Again."

Fifth graders did a meaningful variety of poems, recitations and stories. Some of the students read, some memorized, and one young lady did a very original media presentation that was both memorized and very well done. Other students did poignant, funny or serious message readings such as related to the real world with the real problems of drugs and alcohol. An excellent selection.

Following the program, students and parents were invited to peruse the art work and visit the Media Center where the Book Fair was set up.

Students given gift of history

On May 15, 1992, Lake Mary Elementary School was the proud recipient of two copies of the book, "Lake Mary's Beginnings and the Roaring Twenties in Lake Mary and Sanford, Florida." In the absence of the Principal Sherrill Casey, Michael Morton, guidance counselor, received the book presentation from Mary Dunn Wolff, chairman, and Lillian Humphrey Griffin, vice chairman of Lake Mary Historical Commission along with Lake Mary's librarian and media specialist, Kaye Warner. The books were photographed by the author, also present, Margaret Green Wesley.

The presentation took place in the Media Center and some of the children who were present are as follows: William Dureya, whose great-great-grandfather and mother, Dr. and Mrs. William Harrison Evans, were among the earliest settlers in the Lake Mary area. Dr. Evans planted an orange tree on the south shore of Lake Mary. Later he served several terms as mayor of Sanford.

Steven Johnston is the great-great-grandson of Axel Ewald and Charlotte Matilda Sjoblom, who also were among the early settlers. They laid out the original settlement called Crystal Lake Winter Homes around Crystal Lake. Mr. Sjoblom was Lake Mary postmaster for many years.

Melissa and Michael DeLawder live with their family in the oldest existing house in Lake Mary. Their house is pictured in the book.

Lillian Humphrey Griffin, vice chairman of the Lake Mary Historical Commission, is the great-granddaughter of William M. Humphrey, early Florida cattleman.

Commission was appointed in 1983 by the City Commission with Robert Petree, attorney, as chairman. Original members besides Petree were Virginia Anderson, Colin Keogh, Margaret Wesley and Lillian Mcgonigal.

The historical Commission published the book "Lake Mary Beginnings" in 1988. It was financed by and is the property of the City of Lake Mary.

The historical group also has arranged for historical markers and plaques to be placed at appropriate locations in the town, telling of the specific historical significance of certain buildings or sites, including the Lake Mary cemetery, Sjoblom Memorial Park, the two-story brick Evans building and the former City Hall, which was originally built and used as the Chamber of Commerce meeting place and community center.

Recently, the Commission has produced a calendar with historical pictures of the area. Mary Dunn Wolff is chairman of the group. She donated a calendar to Lake Mary Elementary. Additional members have been appointed from time to time and the Commission now numbers 21.

IN BRIEF

SSC tournament continues

LAKE MARY — The annual Seminole Soccer Club Memorial Tournament will wrap up today at the SSC complex on Markham Road. The tournament, which began Saturday, is sponsored by the Seminole County Tourist Development Council, Pepsi and Club Soccer. There were some semifinal matches to be played this morning. All the championship matches are scheduled for this afternoon.

FSU advances the hard way

TALLAHASSEE — Florida State took its hardest route yet to winning a fifth trip in seven years to the College World Series. After opening the NCAA South II Regional with a 1-0 loss to Western Carolina, Florida State won five straight capped by a sweep of the Catamounts on Sunday. Chris Brock went 5-for-6 with 4 RBI in the 18-3 finale. In the first game, a 5-4 victory, Roger Bailey and Timmy Davis combined to scatter seven hits and strike out eight.

Miami in region title game

CORAL GABLES — Miami, to no one's surprise, has already made it into the Atlantic Regional championship game. Now, it's a question of whether Notre Dame or South Carolina will take on the Hurricanes. Top-seeded Miami (52-9) secured their berth in tonight's championship game Sunday by routing South Carolina 17-2. In Miami's earlier game Sunday, the Hurricanes pulled out a ninth-inning 5-4 victory over North Carolina State, winning the game — for the 11th time this season — in their final at bat.

Tampa wins in Div. II series

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Matt Hudson scattered six hits as he went the distance to lead Tampa (39-19) to a 6-2 win over Lewis in the first round of the NCAA Division II baseball championship Sunday. Eric Foster had three singles to lead Tampa's nine-hit attack. Tampa advances to face Missouri Southern, winner of the earlier first-round game Sunday, at 7 p.m. Tuesday. Lewis (43-21) plays Florida Tech Monday.

Indy traditions continue

INDIANAPOLIS — Al Unser Jr. claimed his inheritance in Victory Lane. Michael Andretti, heir to a seeming family curse, visited his father and brother in the hospital. Once again, an Unser was champion and an Andretti, so tantalizingly close, was frustrated after a heartbreaking exit in the final laps of the closest and coldest Indianapolis 500 in history. What started as a test of endurance finished as the world's richest drag race on Sunday as Little Al gave his family its eighth Indy triumph, a paper-thin margin over Canadian Scott Goodyear. The cold was blamed for poor tire traction that caused many of the 10 accidents. Out before the race even started was Roberto Guerrero, who qualified on the pole at a record 232.482 mph. He spun and crashed on the parade lap while weaving in an attempt to warm his tires. But it was a loss of fuel pressure 10 laps from the finish that knocked out Andretti, the leader for most of the race but as bitterly frustrated as his father, Mario, has been every year since his only victory in 1989.

Earnhardt, Chevy get a win

CONCORD, N.C. — Dale Earnhardt inherited the lead with 52 laps to go and held off Ernie Irvan in a battle of Chevrolets to win the Coca Cola 600 on Sunday and break Ford's domination of Winston Cup racing. Earnhardt, the 1991 points champion, was the last non-Ford driver to win, taking last fall's race at North Wilkesboro. His victory enabled General Motors to break Ford's string of winning 13 races going back to last fall. Kyle Petty finished third in a Pontiac, followed by Davey Allison in a Ford and Harry Gant in an Oldsmobile. Allison, the Daytona 500 and Winston 500 winner, missed a chance to collect a $1 million bonus going to any driver winning three of NASCAR's top four races. He remains alive for the bonus, but must win the Southern 500 at Darlington on Labor Day weekend to collect it.

Tribe goes out Golden

From Staff Reports

WINTER PARK — Just in case there was anyone who doubted the quality of Seminole High School's Class 3A state champion boys' track team, the Tribe's mainstays went out and gave an impressive exhibition at the Golden South meet Saturday night at Showalter Field. For starters, Carlo White and Andre Scott were both easy winners in their respective events. White took first place in the shot put with a heave of 60 feet, 5 3/4 inches (over six feet better than the runner-up) while Scott won the triple jump with a leap of 50 feet, 7 inches (nearly two feet better than the second-place finisher). Britt Henderson and Cory Peterson achieved personal bests during the meet, Henderson clearing 49 feet, 4 1/4 inches to finish third in the triple jump while Peterson came in fourth in the 100-meter dash with a time of 10.84. Of course, it wouldn't be a complete Seminole showing without a couple of outstanding relays. The 4 x 200-meter relay of Brent Dees, McClary, Jeff Ingram and Wilson placed third (1:28.7) while the 4 x 100-meter relay of Scott, Wilson,

Anthony Neal and Bruce McClary was fourth (41.88). "We didn't compete in all the events we did in the state meet, but we performed very well in the events we did participate in," said Seminole coach Ken Brauman. "It was a good way to end the season. "It was an excellent year. The kids are already looking forward to next year. We're losing six of 12 that went to the state meet, but we have some very good young kids that had some impressive performances but couldn't crack into the varsity relays." Brauman said that he felt that the group of athletes was capable of having a season like this as long as they could steer clear of the many pitfalls along the way. "Everything just kind of came together," said Brauman. "I knew they had the potential for being very good, but there a lot of things that can happen along the way. Fortunately, those bad things didn't happen to us." For White and Scott, the season still isn't over. White is going to the Keebler Invitational in Chicago on June 20 while Scott will compete in National Junior Championships in July with hopes of qualifying for U.S. Junior National team that will compete in Seoul, Korea later in the fall.

CLASS 4A STARS SHINE

Lake Howell's Kelly Kobia led an octet of representatives of Seminole County's five Class 4A high schools at Saturday's Golden South meet, placing in two different events. Kobia was second in the girls' discus (147 feet, 7 inches) and fourth in the javelin (93 feet, 10 inches). From Lake Mary High School, D.J. Lewis was third in the boys' 2,000-meter steeplechase (8:32.18). Todd Christopher took sixth in the boys' javelin (114 feet, 6 inches) and Shannon Cook came in sixth in the girls' discus (118 feet, 2 inches). For Lyman, Andy Wagner claimed fifth in the boys' hammer throw (102 feet, 10 inches), Kianah Brennick was fifth in the girls' two-mile run (11:51.2) and Melissa Lewis came in sixth in the girls' triple jump (34 feet, 7 inches). Lake Branley's Dan Hilley finished third in the boys' two-mile run (9:48.1).

Lake Mary booters moving on

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — All year long, Lake Mary High School boys' soccer coach Larry McCorkle described this year's team as one of the best he's ever had.

While the season is long since over, the Rams continue to prove their coach right.

On Friday, McCorkle announced that four of his graduating seniors will be continuing their soccer careers at the collegiate level, a fifth will attend the University of Miami on an academic scholarship and an assistant coach has accepted an offer to coach at Brevard (North Carolina) Junior College.

"Overall, I think was one of the strongest groups we've had," said McCorkle, who coached the Rams to a 26-3 record. "It shows in the number of them that will be playing soccer in college at good programs."

Two of the Rams, Justin Walker and Matt Buckmaster, will join Lake Mary graduate Eric Ravnal at the University of South Florida in Tampa next fall. Both Walker and Buckmaster were Florida Athletic Coaches Association All-State and National Soccer Coaches Association All-South selections.

David Yurick, an All-Seminole Athletic Conference choice, will attend the University of Massachusetts at Amherst while Bruce Lecum is headed to Anderson College in South Carolina, where another ex-Ram, Scott Betsinger is an assistant coach.

Eric Shuemake, a honor graduate, was honored with an academic scholarship from Miami.

Also, Lake Mary assistant coach Andy Schaefer was named the men's coach at Brevard, where Joe Barulinaki, another former McCorkle assistant, coaches the women.

"I'm really proud of their accomplishments," McCorkle said. "This is sort of a special group. These guys were with me for three years and the opportunity presented itself for me to get a little closer to this group than other teams."

"They're responsible for me being around coaching for a few more years."

Raines showing he's not finished yet

By JOE MOONSH, AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO — Sanford resident Tim Raines is trying to prove a point. "A lot of people were writing me off for a while and I just want to prove I'm not washed up," said Raines, who had two hits, drove in two runs and scored twice Sunday in leading Kirk McCaskill and the Chicago White Sox to an 8-1 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

The loss was Toronto's second straight and ninth in the last 15 games, knocking the Blue Jays out of first place in the American League East. Baltimore went on top by one-half game with a victory against California.

Raines singled and scored in a two-run first, drove in a run in a two-run second with a sacrifice fly, tripled to drive in a run in a two-run third and walked, stole second and scored on Joey Cora's single in the sixth.

"I'm swinging the bat better and the batting average is starting to rise," said Raines, whose perfect day also included a pair of walks and a stolen base as he hiked his average 10 points to .271. Jack Morris (4-3) was the loser and was chased in the third inning in his shortest outing of the season. He gave up eight hits and six runs in 2 2/3 innings.

"I never got loose and, for the first time in my career, I never broke a sweat," said Morris of the 45-degree weather. "I couldn't grip the ball, I had no feeling. It was just a bad day. There's no mystery. I stunk, write it."

McCaskill (3-4) allowed six hits, no walks and struck out two in eight innings before Terry Leach finished. The Blue Jays scored an unearned run in the third on a two-out single by Devon White, an error and a single by Joe Carter.

Raines beat out a bunt in the first and Cora was hit by a pitch. Robin Ventura singled in Raines and Cora scored when Frank Thomas grounded out.

Matt Merullo opened the second with his first major league triple and scored on Lance Johnson's double. Craig Grebeck sacrificed and Johnson scored on a sacrifice fly by Raines.

Johnson singled with two outs in the third and scored on a double by Grebeck. Raines followed with a triple to chase Morris.

After making bid to USSF, county sits, waits

Have you heard anything? Neither have I. For Seminole County soccer fans (no small minority), the next few weeks will be a study of walking on eggshells as we await the decision of the United States Soccer Federation as to where it will call home.

Currently working out in Colorado Springs, the USSF wants a site in a warmer climate so that the U.S. National team can practice uninterrupted for the next year and a half in preparation for the 1994 World Cup, which will be played for the first time in the United States.

Since the U.S. is the host team, it automatically gets a berth in the final field of 24 along with the defending World Cup champion. It'll be interesting to see what FIFA (the Federation Internationale de Football Association) decides to do with the defending champion berth. West Germany having won the World Cup in 1990.

Because the U.S. national squad will be the host team and since it will be in the final draw of 24, the

SPORTS
TONY DeBORMIER

USFF wants to take every step possible to insure that the American side will be well prepared and competitive in 1994.

Training in Colorado Springs, with a climate that allows outdoor soccer play only seven or eight months out of the year, won't help meet that goal. U.S. national team coach Bora Milutinovic recognized that and, also immediately after being hired, said he wanted to relocate the training site somewhere where they could practice year 'round.

Thanks to Barry Taylor and the Seminole Soccer Club — and its 14-field complex on Markham Road — Seminole County became interested in being that site. Quickly, it was realized that luring the USSF's training facility here permanently was a more viable possibility than many would have dared hope.

As preposterous as it may have initially seemed, the fact is that Seminole County and the Central Florida region fit the profile the USSF had put together for its new hometown: ideal climate, an available facility near a metropolitan area, an international airport and a 1994 World Cup site, a cooperative local government and a reasonable cost of living.

What else could the USSF ask for? Seminole County made its pitch last Monday at the AAA National Headquarters near Heathrow, a presentation complete with a short film starring local youth soccer players and highlighting all that the area has to offer.

But largely, the film and presentation were window dressing, the sprinkle of garnish alongside the main course: the Seminole Soccer Club's facility and how it could be easily adapted to meet the full needs of the USSF, housing not only the U.S. World Cup team, but all its national teams, male and female.

By the time Milutinovic and Steve Sampson, the USSF's vice-president for site selection, reached the AAA building, they had probably already seen what they needed to see during a helicopter tour of the SSC facility and surrounding area.

Now the waiting commences. Sampson said that the USSF wants to make a decision quickly and get the U.S. team situated as soon as possible. He said the decision should be made within six weeks, which would seem to be somewhat hasty until you consider that the USSF knows exactly what they're looking for and will know it when they see it.

Hopefully, they saw last Monday. Five weeks and counting.

What are the symptoms of MS?

DEAR DR. GOTT: Would you please explain the course, diagnosis and prognosis of multiple sclerosis? Can the condition be controlled by medication?

DEAR READER: Multiple sclerosis is a serious, slowly progressive neurological disease, marked by a host of symptoms and signs. The disorder is characterized by remissions and exacerbations: periods of progression interspersed with cycles of normal or improved health. The cause is unknown. The disease is usually diagnosed using an MRI scan, which shows small scars in the central nervous system.

Initially, MS begins with numbness, clumsiness, visual difficulties, vertigo, gait disturbances and mild emotional instability. Over time, these symptoms worsen, leading to problems with speech, coordination and strength; emotional swings are common. MS patients are often thought to be demented or severely neurotic. If the emotional disorders are the most prominent signs. Eventually, severe disabilities develop: incontinence, inability to communicate and the need for around-the-clock help with the most basic activities of living.

Inasmuch as MS may stabilize for months to years (or may progress very slowly), doctors have difficulty predicting the future for these patients. The prognosis is, as they say, guarded: Patients may live out a full life span or die (from pneumonia or other complications) within a year.

DEAR DR. GOTT: About five years ago I underwent cataract surgery and have an implant in my right eye. I lost my forward vision. Fluid formed behind the eye, crystallized and poked a hole in the retina. I now have a cataract in the other eye that is getting worse and have been advised it could not be taken care of because this could happen again. My ophthalmologist suggests I see another specialist because he cannot see a hole in the right eye. What's your advice?

DEAR READER: Get another opinion and, if necessary, a third. The situation you describe is highly technical; therefore, you should be under the care of

WIN AT BRIDGE

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
Sometimes readers of bridge columns must think that a finesse is never going to win, that the odds of success are much nearer five percent than 50. But occasionally the hand dealer will be a nice guy and put in a winning finesse — though usually only when it is needed for the contract.

Cover the East-West cards and plan the play in three no-trump. West leads the club five, you play low from the dummy, and East wins with the king. At trick two, East switches to the heart two. How do you continue?

After the lead, you have seven top tricks. Even if the diamonds break 3-3, you will still need a third spade trick. It is better to assume that East holds the spade queen. But you might need to take two spade finesses, which will require two dummy entries. Those entries will have to be the ace and 10 of clubs.

West's lead and East's reticence to continue clubs make it virtually certain that West has the club jack.

Which club did you play from hand at trick one? If West is an expert, it should have been the queen. If so, you win trick two with the heart ace and cash the spade ace. Then you lead a low club and finesse dummy's 10. It wins. Next, you finesse the spade 10. Surprise, surprise: it wins too. You go back to dummy with another club, repeat the spade finesse, and claim.

Note what happens if you don't unblock the club queen at trick one. When you lead your remaining low club toward the dummy, West will put in the jack. He knows, from trick one, that you have the queen and will see the necessity for an entry-killing play.

Readers are invited to send card-play questions to Phillip Alder, in care of this newspaper.

They can be answered only through the column. (C)1992, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bode Coel
YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 26, 1992

You could be more fortunate in the year ahead in bringing things to successful fruition than you have been in the past. Your solid efforts will be the major factor, but Lady Luck will also lend a hand.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In order to be a true leader today, you must lead. Don't take charge of situations where you're not motivated to follow through to the end. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail: $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Two important objectives can be achieved today, provided you don't trip over your own feet. Self-inflicted obstacles could be your nemesis.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A well-intentioned friend might offer you some advice today that, if you treat it as gospel, could turn out to be costly. Use more than one source for counsel.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be extremely careful today that you don't achieve your objectives at the expense of another. If you do, it could severely tarnish your image.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Usually, you do rather well in a partnership, but this might not be the case today -- especially if you hook up with an associate whose aims vary from yours.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A potentially profitable endeavor which has been dormant for some time can be revived today, but not necessarily by the way you're presently doing it. Re-evaluate this matter.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be careful you don't get too involved today with an individual who has a dubious reputation. Take time to really get to know this person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you're performing work for another today, be sure your estimated costs are accurate. If not, you might end up working very hard and earning very little.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may be required to manage a serious situation for another today. Don't treat it indifferently, because if you make a mistake, it could badly hurt the one you represent.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you are more lax than you should be today, someone you're closely associated with might make a decision for you that could be detrimental.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Guard against the inclination today to hold onto ideas long after they've proven to be unproductive. Think on your feet and change your mind-set to suit the circumstances.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Strive to be logical today in assessments that directly affect your financial position. Don't bank on a fickle Lady Luck. (C)1992, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
