INTERNATIONAL BIBLE STUDENTS

Let all the world hear! For the indignation of Jehovah is upon all nations for it is the day of His vindication.—Isa. 34. The most astute statesmen of the world see that some great calamity is about to befall civilization, but they have no remedy therefor. World-wide business depression, unemployment, revolutions, oppression, distress, hunger. These things now cover the whole earth, and stand as a miserable monument to man's utter failure to help himself. There is only one remedy for human ills! Hear Judge Rutherford explain the great Creator's purpose to bring complete relief to the peoples of earth; in his lecture on "The Hope of the World!" Sunday July 26, WDBO Orlando, 12 to 4:00 P. M. G. Bassett Smith, elder.

Gladys Hawkins has been a guest for some time at the home of her sister, Mrs. Roy Coleman on Grapeville Ave. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Swanson and daughter, are now living at Pinehurst in one of the Mrs. John Bolt's cottages. Mr. and Mrs. Magnuson motored over last Friday to Daytona with Miss Eleanor Tyner who will spend a couple of months there with her father, T. O. Tyner. Mr. Whitfield Thurmond returned after the Fourth to his home in Georgia after a visit with his son, Paul and wife. Mrs. Hilmer Lundquist is helping care for the new baby at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gardar Lundquist. Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stevens are sorry to hear she is ill. Their daughter, Mrs. R. West of Moultrie, Ga., is expected to visit them this Friday. Mrs. Jim Mansfield and daughter, Inez, of Canal Point spent the week-end here with Mrs. Mary Vaughn. Mrs. Mansfield had a wonderful trip to France, being one of the Gold Star mothers. Mr. and Mrs. Whitcomb and children moved to near the pump plant. Her son Norman Lowry, has returned from the National Guard camp near Jacksonville. Mrs. Ellis Campbell of Miami, who has been here visiting a couple of weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Johnson, was taken ill again Sunday. The Dorcas Circle will meet Thursday, the 30th with Mrs. E. Hunt. Rev. J. S. Mrs. Wildman and son, Frank and daughters, Josephine and Mary, of North Carolina, after a pleasant visit at the home of her brother, Alfred Ericson and family left Friday for home going enroute to Holly Hill where they visited with Mr. and Mrs. E. Peterson.

PARTY HINTS

A suitable menu for the work week and luncheon follows: melon and cantaloupe cocktail or jellied tomato consommé, baked ham, creamed potatoes, hearts of artichokes or asparagus tips, pineapple cucumber salad, pastry or iced tea, salted nuts and bonbons.

Carve the nuts and bonbons little blue and pink baby shoes lined of crepe paper.

Put tiny corsage of pink sweet peas and baby's breath for each set makes a delightful favor placecard. Wrap the stems the flowers in damp cotton, wrap in silver foil to keep fresh and attractive. Stick the headed pin in each corsage station it in place later.

A bridge furnishes the entertainment for the afternoon. Get the score pads and talies in stork seals or baby-heads. The women may wish to cut pieces of baby clothing that have already been cut out, and play a few games and have the pencil and paper contests keep the party lively.

Give prizes for the highest score. A dainty favor for each set would be a tiny lacquered artie box, decorated with rick in a Japanese design of its, black and gold.

A big sponge sale will be held at Keston Beach within a short time. It being expected that the sale will be held on or about the 15th of this month. Usual time has little to do with it, but a period of bad weather will drive the sponge boats and then the sale will be held. New boats have already come and the catch has been fine. The prices at present are low. Like they may come into their own this summer, especially for the buyers at Keston. It is true that the law in regard to the sponge will be enforced. Their fishing chance is small. —Perry News.

Palm Beach, and proceeded to immediate passage under waiver of Senate rules. There was no discussion. Revenue of $2,225,000 annually was estimated.

A provision in the bill required the governor to reduce the state ad valorem tax on real estate in an amount equal to the revenue produced by the additional gasoline tax, which would raise Florida's levy on this commodity to seven cents a gallon.

Another section provided that the additional tax was an emergency measure and would not continue in effect after July 1, 1931. It would become effective Aug. 1, 1931.

The compromise proposals originated early in the day in administration legislative circles when it became apparent that the two-cent gas levy passed by the Senate probably would be defeated in the House and force the Legislature into a third extra session.

Rumors of the attempt to compromise spread through the corridors this morning with the administration bloc in the House holding unofficial conferences with representatives whose opposition to any increase in the gas tax was weakening under the pressure of business interests at home.

The first break came during the noon recess. A committee of senators and representatives assembled, talked things over and worked out the plan that later was laid before the Senate in an executive session that began shortly after 4 o'clock and lasted more than hour. Senator Wagner, Palm Beach, chairman of the finance and taxation committee; Senator Butler, Jacksonville; Representative Tommasillo Okerehoer, Wood, Liberty, and Keen, Sarasota, together with other administration members, realized the passage of a two-cent gas tax bill by the House was out of the question. They had taken test polls of both branches, however, and believed a one-cent tax might be approved, if it carried the assurance that a third extra session would be avoided.

The House yesterday withdrew a previously adopted resolution calling for sine die adjournment at noon Saturday, and indicated it would work through Sunday if necessary to complete the labors of the session. A Sunday session, if held, is said to be without precedent in the state.

The House and Senate, it was indicated by the polls, was in general agreement as to the tangible and documentary stamp tax bills and whatever differences existed could be ironed out during the waning hours of the session.

Meanwhile the House, voting 47 to 29, approved a recommendation from its rules committee during the morning session that it consider Senate Messages. This cleared the way for the batch of bills sent across the hall in the last two days which included the Senate's gas tax measure. The rules committee did not make further recommendations regarding any particular bill in the measure, and the House, proceeding under a previous point of order, took up the majority and minority reports from the committee investigating the road department, after only one Senate bill—a relief measure affecting Baker county cattle owners—had been taken up.

Because 11 o'clock had been set as the hour for final settlement of the road department investigation, other Senate measures were left untouched as the House adjourned for lunch. But the legislators participating in the first joint conference ordered sandwiches in the committee room as they took up the compromise discussion. The first obstacle to be overcome was the apparent determination by a majority of the House to defeat any increase in the gas tax. They also considered the opposition of the motorbus companies to a two-cent boost and were advised by officials of the bus lines that an increase of one cent would be acceptable, providing the tax would be operative only for the next two years.
