CRISIS GROWS MORE ACUTE IN CHINESE FRAY

Reports Of Increased Mobilization And New Casualties Add To Apprehension

LONDON, Aug. 19.—(INS)—The Sino-Russian crisis entered an even more serious stage today, as reports from the Far East arrived here to tell of heavy mobilization of Chinese troops and of sporadic clashes between Soviet troops and Chinese forces near the Manchurian frontier.

According to an apparently authentic dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from its correspondent at Peking, General Chang-Hua-shan-Liang, war lord of Manchuria, has ordered four additional brigades of Chinese troops to the Manchurian frontier, bringing the total of Chinese troops centered here to 100,000.

Other dispatches told of additional mobilization, indicating a force of no less than 150,000 men will shortly be massed on the Manchurian side of the frontier.

This heavy concentration of troops, the first genuine warlike mobilization since the outbreak of the crisis first developed, is reported to be due to alleged Soviet invasion of Chinese territory at several points along the border.

Several clashes have occurred the most serious being reported from Daling, the coal mine station of the Chinese Eastern Railway, where more than 50 casualties are attributed to the Far East.

MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE CHARGED AGAINST JOYNER

Alleged slayer of Ora Heishman held for grand jury action.

Henry Joyner, Ocala fisherman today was bound over to the grand jury on a technical charge of first degree murder in connection with the fatal stabbing of Ora Heishman his friend, last Wednesday afternoon.

Heishman was stabbed one time in the neck, his leg vein being severed. He died a short time after the alleged attack by Joyner according to Joyner's wife Mrs. Mary Frentzen who was released upon a $100 bond as a material witness.

Mrs. Frentzen was the only witness at a preliminary hearing held this morning before Judge James G. Shatton. She told a story of two drunken men, who after over-eating at day, engaged in a death struggle in which Joyner emerged victor after he severed Mrs. Frentzen's testicles.

Official statement sent out by Chinese nationalist government from Mukden declares that 120 Soviet troops, armed with field guns and supported by squad of military planes, included heavy casualties upon the Chinese forces in a raid near Anshu.

TROOPS REACH MILL SECTION TO CURB RIOTS

Ordering Out Of Militia Follows Disorders In Which One Man Severely Hurt

MARION, N. C., Aug. 19.—(INS)—Troops arrived here today to maintain order in the strike of 1,500 textile workers at the Clinchfield mills, which were closed down six weeks ago.

The disorder occurred when the strikers prevented 400 non-union men from returning to work in the mill. It was the first serious outbreak since the start of the strike.

Troop "K", which included 100 of Asheville was the first of the contingents of militia to arrive here. A company from Morganton, N. C., had been ordered to arrive by Governor W. Max Baughman.

The most seriously injured in the riot, morning was severely beaten with clubs and clubs in the hands of the strikers.

Police are blocked again in their probe.

PLAN IS DEVISED TO SPEED RURAL MAIL DELIVERIES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(INS)—A plan to speed up the laboriously slow rural free delivery mail service and give the farmer a better market outlet by securing congressional appropriations for secondary roads, has been worked out by the American road builders' association, that today announced today.

Officials of the association will lay the plan before the national rural letter carriers' association for consideration this week at the latter organization's convention in Savannah, Ga.

Charles E. Grubb, president of the presentational county officials, will start support to the road carriers in their effort to speed delivery.

Long Flight From Germany Is Accomplished Without Difficulty In 102 Hours Time

By James R. Young, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

KASUMIGAUARA AIRFIELD, Tokio, Aug. 19.—Completing the second leg of her round-the-world journey in a blaze of glory, the giant dirigible Graf Zeppelin landed here at 6:40 P. M. today (6:40 A. M. New York Daylight Saving Time), following her successful flight across half of Europe, Russia and Siberia from Friedrichshafen, Germany.

When the Graf returned to the airport, the crowd had grown to mammoth proportions and the 21 passengers and crew of 11 in the dirigible again had the thrill of floating above a cheering, vaulting area of humanity.

Joe McCarthy And Cornie Mack Tacitly Admit They Have Series In Their Grip

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—It doesn't seem possible that a couple of Major League pennant races can be won by the middle of August but when Cornie Mack and Joe McCarthy tacitly admit they are gone, then the book is closed and all further bets must run rapidly for Sweeney, the junk man. The admission was made when the rival managers of the Philadelphia and Chicago Cubs signed this week with a syndicate to "cover" the World Series from the players' bench, the incident being notable for the fact that no baseball man is willing to invite disaster by the dropping of something he has happened before it officially can.

However, if there is any disaster possible in connection with couple of clubs that are 14 and 8 1-2 games respectively ahead of the parade today, then this pair will have earned their grief without assistance from anybody, Mack and McCarthy included.

The incident also is noteworthy for the fact that Mr. Mack has had to fight his way home every night for two weeks, the sleeping being cluttered with syndicate maps, accompanied by contracts, or maybe loan contracts. The latter undoubtedly is proper because the game law clearly states that when a syndicate map is accompanied by contracts, he is judged to be no good and must bet down back in again. Anyhow, the only thing that cluttered Mr. Mack's doorstep between 1918 and 1929 was a lot of hot bottles.

Yes, Mr. Mack had no trouble in resisting the literary urge during the years in question, being somewhat assisted by the fact that the urge came neither from within nor without. Authorities may differ but most of them hold that the latter kind of an urge is the more important. In any case, I don't think Mr. Mack was greatly in favor of the tendency of the modern ball player toward self-expression in the news-papers. Possibly he felt they had enough to do on the ball field during the day without going around all night spitting invective possibly he recalled the painful experience of Christy Mathewson, one of the pioneers of the diamond-theory movement, in the 1911 world series between the Athletics and the Giants.

Under his signature, Mr. Mathewson had criticized Babe Ruth's judgment in pitching to Frank Baker. It seems he threw Frank a home run ball, losing the ball game. The next day, Mr. Mathewson went out to give a practical demonstration of the idea but, unfortunately, he still was largely theoretical about it. Anyhow, he threw a home run ball to Frank Baker, losing the ball game.

The incident, however, had considerable value in that it made the ball players much more careful what they said or what they allowed to be said for them. Today they confine themselves to discussions of strategy, to the break that was and lost the ball game and to an expert view of the situation generally. Also they approve of the winners, a considerable number in brief, they have mastered rather thoroughly section 1, rule A, of the sport writing racket.

CAREY APPEARS ANXIOUS TO QUIT PUGILIST RACKET

Will Probably Get Out From Under Soon After Coming Battle

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service

NEW YORK, August 17.—There doesn't seem to be much doubt today that Mr. William F. Carey, of Wall Street, has had more than enough of trying to "fix" Richard's boxing situation around Madison Square Garden and would be glad to throw up the sponge, except for one thing. Before doing any throwing, he would like to know just how high it is up; this is only one of the many questions that have troubled Mr. Carey since he began to "Richard" things seven months ago. He probably will get out from under as soon as possible after the Sharkey-Loughran fight late next month.

This may just be in time. With the garden crowd all tied up doing nothing, Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia and other cities have been knocking off the matches and, even at home, the man Fuzay is being sent in by somebody for a break or two. It isn't likely that the garden will be able to publish a financial statement of its summer season.

Frank M. Bruen, the race track man, will take over Carey's job when the time comes but that is about all that can be said over Carey will keep his name on the door as president and general manager but is prepared to be big about it. He will let Mr. Carey keep all of the money and trouble of the latter already had a lot of practice worry in handling the Loughran-Bradock and Singer-Chocolate matches. So, the big leader of empire, the man who owned the garden with steel rails and spanned howling torrents with his bridges, seems unable to check up his specifications on a lot of two by four light ginger. This, by the way, will not be the reason quoted. In the event that any "real" announcement of the step is made, it will be said that Mr. Carey is unable to keep abreast of the garden's situation because of his multifarious interests. Mr. Carey is that he still would be unable to keep abreast, whether his interests were multifarious or strictly ginger. He has no flair for boxing promotion.

Boxing was Richard's racket. He was an instinctive promoter from the moment he made the first Fitz-Nelson fight at Garden. Mr. Carey isn't even a recognized promoter and neither is anybody else in the garden directorate. He and they—have managed men and made fortunes; they have annihilated success and made their vision clear; they sometimes have made the impossible possible. But not in boxing.

Half of them couldn't name you 10 fighters. I doubt if Carey himself could name more than a dozen and he has been trying to compete with several, convincing men who have made boxing their life. This speaks well for his ego, if not for his judgment. He declared at the time that he took the job with reluctance, admitting that he knew nothing at all. What this million-dollar investment needs is a good, practical boxing man in some position of real authority and sooner or later it will have to go out and get him.

The Perfect Baby

By Claire Morton

The Perfect Baby's bedding is kept clean. It seems almost superfluous to say that a baby's bedding should be kept clean, because it is so obvious that it would be taken for granted. But if you step into a room where there is a young baby the odor is so revolting that you are inclined to back out without a glimpse of the darling cherub within. The baby should have a clean sheet and pad every morning. The best arrangement, of course, would be to change both the sheet and the pad every time they get wet. But that runs into elbow grease and money. But if the sheet is changed at least once a day, the room can be kept clean, if—and this is even more important—all the rubber sheet is changed, and washed regularly. It is the odor of unwashed or poorly washed rubber pads that is likely to ruin a baby's room more than any other thing. So when you invest in rubber sheets for the baby, choose one which will stand the greatest amount of washing. There are two kinds of rubber sheeting on the market. One is of woven stockinette, best and most useful when the baby is very young. The other is of solid rubber such as is used in hospitals. This can be washed off with a wet cloth. Also it can be plunged into soapy water and rinsed and dried very quickly once a week. While you are on the subject of odors in a baby's room, it is well to repeat that, if the bedding is kept sweet and clean, a room will not be pleasant to walk into if sheets and diapers which have been wet are hung about the room and on radiators to dry before having been thoroughly washed. To protect the baby from the heat of the rubber—or in winter from its chilling cold—it is best to use a quilted pad over the baby's sheet. This not only affords a soft place upon which the baby can lie most comfortably, but it acts as an insulator. These pads can be bought in small round squares at most stores where children's necessities are sold. In case you have any difficulty in finding them, buy a couple of yards of the quilting padding sold for use as table protectors. You can cut out and find pads in any size you wish. These quilted pads often project, but an unnecessary change to it so often. On the other hand, the pad must be washed every time it is soiled through.

NOVEL FLIGHT PLANNED

HANDS ESCAPE WITH LOOT

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 17.—(INS)—Four armed bandits today held up two women employees of the National City Bank at the Herod's Savings and Loan Company here and escaped with more than $2,000 in currency. The holdup men fled in an automobile which was later found wrecked about two miles from the scene of the daring robbery.

DYNAMITE PILOT BOMBED

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 17.—(INS)—United States deputy marshals today failed to locate a huge cache of dynamite on a prominent thoroughfare here which Albert Benitz, a striking cartoonist, yesterday said was concealed for use in the street car strike. Benitz confessed to transporting explosives in small amounts to the cache, and said a large amount was stored in a locker, the position of which he furnished the court.

For Athletes and Invalids

At Northwestern University, a whole football team made such an excellent record last year, Coach Dick Hanley made his players drink malted milk after football practice. This was, doubtless, for its energy giving qualities, but it imparts this energy imperially to both invalids and athletes. Hot or Cold. Malted milk is milk combined with the extract of malted grain—generally of malted barley or wheat—reduced to a powder by the vacuum process. It is used chiefly to make beverages, but also gives a novel and delicious flavor to desserts of various kinds. Here are some recipes for its use which may not make you a football star, but which will undoubtedly taste good and do you good. Plain Malted Milk—Hot: Stir two heaping teaspoons of malted milk to a paste with a little hot water. Fill the cup with hot milk and beat until frothy. Malted Milk—Cold: Mix two heaping teaspoons of malted milk to a smooth paste with a little cold water or milk. Add cold milk to fill glass. Mix well in a shaker or with an egg beater. Malted Milk—Hot: Mix two heaping teaspoons of malted milk to a smooth paste with a little hot water. Stir in a beaten egg and add hot water or milk. Add one-half teaspoon vanilla and shake or beat until frothy. Malted Milk—Cold: Mix to a smooth paste two heaping teaspoons of malted milk with a little cold water. Add milk to fill glass, an egg, and crushed ice. Mix in shaker or with an egg beater.

ABLE VERSE FOR TODAY

THE PROMISED MESSENGER—Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord.

JUST FOLKS

A Detective Story. Somewhere along the Bidford Down Or Bidford moor or glen A traveler on his way to town

Sir Henry owned the village bank. A miser through and through; Although he hoarded gold and rank, His past nobody knew.

Two days before a dreadful row By chance was overheard, Which seems to be important now. So strangely it occurred.

The town policemen bungled things. As town policemen do; They lacked the wit, the novice brings

But others were quite misled. Because they searched for persons who Became likeliest such crimes to do.

Who scoffed at Scotland Yard. To solve the problem had a plan, Nor did he find it hard.

By what process of logic—man, we wonder, does a Michigan graduate get an inferiority complex about Yale.

An unpardonable exchange puts this one, "My brother," it says, "is sick from eating chicken." "Croquette?" someone asks. "Not yet, but he's pretty sick," says the Fort Myers Press.

A Tennessee woman and her dog recently killed a copperhead rattlesnake and forty-five of its offspring, which is about all that could be expected from one woman and one dog at any time under such circumstances.

With regard to this new pajama fad for sweetening business men, our plan is to follow the advice of Pope, we believe it was, who said, "He not the first by whom the new is tried nor yet the last to cast the old aside."

Isn't it funny that so many fine racing devices such as the telephone, automobile, speedboats and airplanes should have been invented during comparatively recent years and yet folks don't seem to have nearly as much time as they did one hundred years ago.

They are organizing "Believers-in" clubs in various cities of the state, patterned after the "Believers in Jacksonville." There are plenty of believers in Ocala and if they could be gotten together in a club it would be some club—Ocala Star—The Believers-in Sanford is some club too.

We sincerely regret that our old friend, the Palm Beach Independent, has suspended publication for the time being. We don't know what the reasons for this move are, but we hope that the suspension will not last for long. In the meantime that newspaper will be greeted by a batch from our exchange table.

The Automobile Menace

Completing the second leg of her round-the-world flight, the silver skinned air leviathan, Graf Zeppelin, arrived today in Tokio, amid the frenzied cheers of squint-eyed orientals and the admiration of a mixed throng of Europeans and Americans.

Many sections of the world, rich in natural resources, healthful in climate and highly desirable as habitats are deprived of development by the impossibility of transportation, due to the empassment of mountains or to the barriers of jungle and forest.

South America, our neighbor on the south, offers the greatest field for air transportation. Railroads and highways are scarce there, and the people realize that it is unwise to spend great sums upon obsolescent carriers and are therefore looking to the airplane to serve them in their expansion.

Interesting Statistics

Some interesting facts in regard to Florida's financial condition have been brought out by Gladstone Williams, the Washington correspondent for the Miami Herald, who has prepared some statistics showing the increase in postal savings accounts during the past two months.

Table with 2 columns: City, Amount. Includes Miami ($1,579,162), Tampa ($1,292,933), Jacksonville ($1,251,261), West Palm Beach ($1,231,767), Orlando ($519,672), Lakeland ($390,656), Fort Lauderdale ($382,804), Lake Worth ($325,012), Pensacola ($270,607), Daytona Beach ($171,962), Sanford ($144,046), Deland ($136,107), Vero Beach ($128,066), St. Cloud ($125,331), Plant City ($123,782), St. Petersburg ($125,107), Bartow ($120,764), Key West ($117,296), Gainesville ($117,518), Sarasota ($115,372), St. Augustine ($108,316), Palatka ($104,676).

In Sanford, our readers will note, there was an increase of some $52,000. As postal savings accounts are usually in small amounts, that sum undoubtedly represents a large number of individual accounts, indicating that the lack of confidence exists largely among those who have the least to lose.

Southern Critics of Southern Industry

It is not a little significant that the sweeping denunciations of labor conditions in the South, recently heard at the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia were made by Southern men. The speakers had ample material to support their case. The trouble in the cotton mills at Gastonia and along the street railway workers in New Orleans are still fresh in the public memory, and in each case they have revealed an attitude on the part of the employers entirely out of harmony with the new spirit which has come to govern industrial relations in other parts of the country since the war.

CONNIE'S BIG YEAR

Connie Mack's Athletics are headed for their first pennant since 1914, when the manager broke up what was regarded as the greatest ball club ever assembled in America, as the result of their memorable defeat by the Boston Braves in the world series of that year.

COL. LINDBERGH GIVES AN INTERVIEW

BALTIMORE EVENING SUN

Col. Charles E. Lindbergh is about to be interviewed; he will be here in a few minutes now and a great twosome of newspaper men, photographers, movie men and movie men are making their preparations.

Very few of the twosome are happy about having to interview or photograph the colonel. The Lindbergh sedan suddenly appears in the distance after rounding the entrance into the flying field the colonel is at the wheel and his pretty young wife is beside him, but, even when he hears the hangers the waiting assembly of pressmen do not move forward with a jovial rush as they would say for the Prince of Wales or others of the more brilliant figures in the public eye.

As they do so the colonel eyes Ann unweary. It is clear that Mr. Guggenheim is trying to get him to consent to an interview and to have his photo taken.

Finally it turns out that the colonel consents; he has been overawed either by superior logic or superior force. Slowly he drags his six feet from the wheel and then turns to his wife and says: "Well come on, Babe," and the pair of them walk arm in arm to a nearby airplane, where a line of cameramen have drawn themselves up in readiness.

Now they demand a title policy with every loan. Recently several banks in a mid-west city made earnest inquiries regarding one title service.

Not wonder the banks were suddenly interested in title insurance. To have required a title policy with every loan would have saved their clients substantial loss.

who looks as though he were a young farmer from the open spaces of the Middle West. His large and capable hands hang down a good two inches below the edge of his blue serge suit, something that might distress a conscientious tailor, but in the matter of clothing the colonel always had more in common with Abraham Lincoln than the board-walk models which have been vaunted by Professor Rogers of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The ordeal of the photographs completed, Lindbergh returns his wife to the sedan and then strides into the Guggenheim administration building for questioning. No one will be foolish enough to bring up the subject of his marriage. To do so would be to see the end of Lindbergh as far as interviews are concerned, perhaps for ever. No, the issue today is the "foolproof" contest for airplanes being conducted by the Guggenheim interests and Lindbergh has some official connection with them. Exactly what no one seems to know, and the colonel himself is not very explicit.

For his talk he is half seated on the edge of a desk and one leg is hanging down. This leg he examines from time to time, but in the main he keeps his eyes on the floor; he is ill at ease and the atmosphere is charged with tenseness.

Lindbergh essentially is a man who walks alone and he has neither the ability nor the inclination for public or semipublic functions. And yet, although Mr. Guggenheim dominated the interview without even wishing to do so, most of those present carried away a more lasting impression of Lindbergh. Here was a man who seemed to be the very symbol of "the scientist," the man who goes to the heart of things and treats the trifles with contempt.

It is a matter for speculation who the show thus should have been taken away from Lindbergh, for the colonel has had every possible advantage. Newspaper men have come from all over the country to speak with him; a world is waiting to hear what he says, and it is his first appearance in public since his honeymoon. Yet in ten minutes he has lost his audience. The truth seems to be, he never wanted it.

PUT YOURSELF IN THE OTHER FELLOW'S PLACE

Suppose the tables were turned and instead of receiving, you were extending credit . . . and suppose those who were in debt to you neglected to pay their bills when due. You wouldn't feel like extending them more credit, would you?

And it is the same way with the doctor, the grocer, the furniture, hardware and other lines of business who deal in credit for their patron's convenience. Their service and merchandise cost money, and if you are permitted to use them on a credit basis, it means that they have advanced you that much cash, and if you fail to pay when due, it means that they must replace from some other source that which you have secured and used but haven't paid for.

Be fair in credit dealings—credit is necessary, it is helpful, it is a life-saver in time of urgent need and want—but you cannot expect to get it unless you pay bills promptly. Check up your past due bills—find out where you stand and pay something, if only a dollar, to show your creditors that your heart is in the right place.

Separate Blouse and Skirt of Contrasting Color, One of Day's Vogue

By HELEN WOODEN

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1936

The vogue for separate blouse and skirt of contrasting color is emphasized in the accompanying picture of Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Jr.

Interesting fashion points of the blouse are stressed by pleated collar, narrow belt and long, close fitting sleeves. The trim skirt is made of finely pleated tulle.

Smart accessories include a lightly swathed tullelet cap, small strand of pearls, circle brooch of diamonds and numerous diamond ruby bracelets.

Mrs. Laughlin's bag is of the ultra chic pouch variety finished off by an amber top. Her stockings are black satin pumps complete the attractive costume.

The world in general has displayed much interest in the recent engagement of Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Jr. to Thomas Hitchcock Jr., because of the charm and beauty of Mrs. Laughlin and the fame of Mr. Hitchcock as a polo player.

Mrs. Laughlin will be remembered as the former Peggy Mellon of Pittsburgh, daughter of the W. L. Mellon and niece of Andrew Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury.

Telling The World

By Neal O'Hara

Christmas in Russia is an altogether different proposition from the United States. The celebration there starts around Dec. 1. Then all the street cars, newspapers and billboards in town come out with the legend, "KRYLLEN RNL," only the P's and L's are upside down. This means "Do your Christmas shopping early."

Nothing is done about it till two days before Christmas, when the Russians get busy and buy Christmas presents. This makes the shopping very tired from standing on their feet for the last days of the year before Christmas, the Tsas which is the official Communist paper, and the Red-Tax, which is the tabloid, both come out with editorials, urging the people to put off their Christmas shopping till the last thing Nothing is done about it, however, as the Russians do not read editorials.

Now in far-off China it is entirely different. The Chinese, who invented gun powder and washing powder, have been celebrating Christmas for years. About Thanksgiving Day, which is in late November, the accounts can be seen in before Dec. 1, the Chinese children get out rolls of wall paper, brush and ink and begin listing the things they

But there's a romance as thrilling as the beauty of Kilrarny. And scenes in a big Broadway stage extravaganza, too. It's one of the finest all-talking pictures we have ever shown.

SWEET SCENTED AND COOLED AIR FEATURE HOUSES

Refrigerated Apartments Are Becoming Fad With Parisians

By Alice Langeller International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Aug. 18.—Cool sweet scented air in summer when the mercury mounts high and a slightly warmer variety for sudden chilly days in spring and autumn is being offered by French architects who have observed the want Santa Claus to bring them. Santa Claus is a great favorite in China, although he never appears there with whiskers. The Chinese Santa Claus has a great white pigtail, about five feet long which is braided like a New England rug. He also wears rubber sandals with O-Sally-Van heels and instead of coming down the chimney, which they lack in China, he comes up from the laundry with a big baz on his back.

Then he is confronted with a problem, because "Chinese boys and girls do not wear stockings. Well, it is quite a Chinese puzzle what Santa is going to put the toys and candy in, but finally he solves it by leaving them in the Chinese kid's coats. This is known as a kimono, although it rhymes with "Ramona" when you say it.

American system in the Paramount Cinema Palace on the Grande Boulevards. They are now building refrigerated apartments and more than this, Madame and Monsieur may have their favorite perfume with it, a fresh pine forest scent, really sea air or any one of the thousand and one brands put up by the famous French perfumers.

Poor Richard's famous sword which has lain forgotten for many years, has recently been brought to light in Paris and put on exhibition at the Galerie Jean Charpentier, together with a number of other Revolutionary and Pre-Revolutionary relics loaned by the national museums of France.

The blade bears the inscription: "Sword which was carried by Benjamin Franklin in the battles fought in America for the cause of Liberty. He gave it later in his friend, P. J. G. Cabanis."

It is of full military length with a triangular blade of the finest Sheffield steel and, aside from the engraved motto and the elaborately chiseled hilt and guard which were the gift of Louis XVI it might have been the sword of any officer of the continental army.

Monsieur Girode, Curator of the Museum of Herculaneum, believes that Franklin rarely wore this sword at the court of Louis XVI where he was obliged to pose as "Poor Richard" but at the Court of St. James he wore it constantly, as well as after he returned to America.

Actors of the French national theatre, the celebrated Comedie Francaise, which so many artists have left in fury, including the famous Sarah Bernhardt, can now appear in talkies, but only under the following conditions:

1. They must not appear in a film of any of the plays in the repertoire of the theatre itself.
2. No more than one of them may appear in any one talkie.
3. They must not sign any long term contracts with the talkie companies.
4. They will consider only high terms for their services.

A movie artist moreover, is by no means a content himself with effecting a certain piece of work but brings to it an effort at creation. But substituting one artist for another the interpretation of a certain role may be entirely modified. This is not true in the case of an electrician, machinist or even figurant.

The EVERGLADES More Fertile than The NILE

FOR CENTURIES the expression: "fertile as the Nile Valley", has been used to denote the ultimate in productiveness of soil, yet Florida's "backyard," the Everglades, is said by modern agriculturalists to have a fecundity and fruitfulness found nowhere else in all the world.

Both the Nile Valley and the Everglades are in the same isothermal zone; both are highly adaptive to the growth of sugar cane and other semi-tropical plants. After two thousand years of civilization the Nile has progressed but little in its laborious methods of irrigation. Since 1903, when drainage operations began in the Everglades, vast tracts of waste land have been reclaimed and many prosperous farms established.

Not only the Everglades, but the entire state of Florida, looks forward to agricultural development as the greatest source of future wealth. Of Florida's 55,000,000 acres, less than 6,000,000 acres represent cultivated farm lands. Fully 22,000,000 acres of the remainder are susceptible of cultivation—a great agricultural empire worth many millions of dollars in annual income to the people of this state.

Among the crops now being grown on drained Everglades lands are tomatoes, potatoes, peppers, beans, egg-plant, onions, cucumbers, strawberries, peanuts, sugar cane and many others. In the older sections oranges, grapefruit, limes and avocados are being grown successfully.

In the Nile, the outlook is backward over the centuries, but in the Everglades of Florida, and throughout the state, are rising new hopes and new dreams—founded on FACTS and ACCOMPLISHMENTS, made possible by the energy and perseverance of its people.

AGRICULTURAL ASSETS of FLORIDA

Florida leads the nation in the production of winter-grown crops of egg-plant, snap beans, tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers, and Irish potatoes.

Florida ships ten per cent of all fresh fruit and vegetables of the United States from less than 300,000 acres. This equals more than ten per cent of the value of carload shipments.

Florida leads in the production of grapefruit, celery, Fuller's Earth and phosphate.

Florida produced more than seven million dollars worth of corn last year, and the crops of cotton, hay, white and sweet potatoes, tobacco, sugar cane syrup and peanuts totaled more than a million dollars each.

SNOOK ASKS NEW TRIAL

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 17—(INS)—Federal motion for a new trial for Dr. James Howard Snook, convicted murderer of his co-ed sweetheart, Thora Hix, was filed in criminal court here today.

Judge Henry L. Scarlett, presiding judge, set Monday morning for hearing of the motion. If the motion is overruled, Dr. Snook will then be sentenced to the electric chair and the date of execution will be fixed.

Tallahassee State Road department opened bids for construction of eight road and five bridge projects in the State.

"Jinx" Still Follows Williams In Effort To Make Speed Hop

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 17—(INS)—The "JINX" which has dogged Lieut. Al Williams' effort to test his Mercury Scaphin "Flying Bullet" entry for the Schenectady Cup races, prevented another effort today when crossed ignition wires set fire to the engine as he was about to take off.

The crossed wires caused a short circuit which made a small blaze. Williams was slightly burned as he got out the fire. The tiny plane was immediately hustled back to the dock for repairs. It was only slightly damaged and repairs are expected to take about three hours.

As weather conditions here are ideal for a test, Williams hopes to make another try to take the "jinx" test on the plane several days ago, but all attempt to make the flight test have been stopped by either propeller trouble or bad weather.

As the plane will be aboard the Aviation at New York by Wednesday in order to get to England in time for the races, it is thought the crack navy pilot must either complete the flying test here or take it to England and succeed. He hopes to make 400 miles an hour in the little craft and will not enter it if he cannot beat the record of 318 miles an hour.

Suicide And Murder Theories Advanced In Death Of Woman

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17—(INS)—Lower Merion police today were attempting to determine if pretty 19-year-old Mary Frances Morgan was murdered or committed suicide. The girl was found by her mother last night tightly strapped to a chair in their flat here, and with the gas jets of the kitchen stove open.

While all evidence pointed towards murder, the fact that Miss Morgan's left arm was free led some credence to the suicide theory. Both ankles and her right arm were fastened tightly to the chair in which she was sitting by small leather straps. Just beyond her reach on a table sat a bottle which smelled strongly of liquor. Police are awaiting a chemist's report on its contents.

The girl's mother and her aunt, Mrs. Edith Gutschlager, who was with her when she found the body were so hysterical for several hours, police were unable to question them.

The lack of any farrow note or any known cause for the girl taking her own life all tended to point towards the murder theory. Miss Morgan was highly educated having spent many months in a fashionable Paris school and only recently returning to her home.
