First Street Gallery to reopen

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - The cultural elimate in downtown historic Sanford will be energized with the reopening of the First Street Gallery this spring

Renovations have already begun on the Evans building next to the Ritz Theater on Magnolia Avenue, according to Kay Bartholomews co-founder and director of the First Street Gallery, who recently purchased

Don't expect the gallery to be an 'off Broadway' type of operation just because we moved about a block off First Street, exclaumed Bartholomew, "We have founded a partnership with the Ritz and together we plan to be the strong anchor for the culture cluster envisioned by Main Street's marketing plan for Sanford's redevelopment

The Ritz already has plans to stage live productions in the laedity's open air main gallery with the art group planning an exhibit to complement the theater-inthe round type of presentation:

Signs of battle

Lake Mary to fight county's sign variance

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - The city of Lake Mary has been battling Seminole County recently over ground signs. The specific signs are located at Lake Mary Center, but are not within the city limits.

Although it would appear that all of western Lake Mary Boulevard is within the city, such is not the case. Portions of the boulevard have never been annexed and remain under county control. As such, signage is governed by county sign

Along the boulevard, both the city and the county codes call for ground signs of 15 feet in height. The two signs at Lake Mary Center are 37 and 40 feet in height. They were already in place when Lake Mary established Galeway Corridor restrictions, and the county supported the plans. Thus, they have been grandfathered in and are allowed to remain-

On January 22 however, the Semimole County Board of Adjustiment (BOA) approved a variance request for the signs. While they would remain at the same beight. signs for two tenants at the center were to be added, which would increase the sign area.

The city objected. Lake Mary Planner Matt West was See Signs, Page 5A

Captain finds his sister

RIVERSIDE, Calif. - Salvation Army Capt. Arnie Hassier, who has spent much of his 14-year career helping reunite other families, never got his Christmas wish for a family reunion of

But what's a few months' delay after 45 years?

Hassler was separated from his brother and two sisters when they were put up for adoption as children. He barely knew they existed until October, when a cousin found him after a nationwide search.

Since then, he has lived for a reunion with his other siblings. It's planned in May, Hassler said Wednesday, Last week, he finally spoke by phone with the last of his missing relatives, a sister he knew as Dixie Lee.

"I'm floating on air, I tell you. After 45 years, it's hard to imagine." said the 50-year-old Hassler, who commands the Salvation Army post in this Southern California city, 60 miles Authorities in Illinois took the children from their mother in 1949. Their father, Roy Lester Keeling, was in prison for forgery. A relative apparently complained to child welfare workers that they were being neglected in their farm home near Decatur.

Hassler was adopted from an orphanage at age 5. His brother and sisters went to other homes. Hassler's foster parents encouraged him to forget his birth family, and until last October, he did.

That's when a strange woman called asking about his birthday and his parents. She turned out to be a cousin, Mary Klingelschmit of Decatur. She told him his 78-year-old mother wanted to see him. So did a brother and lots of cousins.

"It was one of the most exciting things in my life, next to finding my wife and having two great kids," Hassler said. He went back to Illinois for a tearful reunion last fall. The search continued for the missing sisters. One turned up just before Christmas, the former Phyllis Jean Larsen, now Jean Wojcik of Titusville, Fla. The remaining sister was last known by her adopted name. Dixie Lee Campbell.

"All of us, especially my sister Jeannie in Titusville; kept saying. 'Arnie, be patient,' because I'm not a patient person,' he said. "Mom got a little hysterical, because every time we'd get a lead, it would fall through."

Last week, cousin Mary heard from a friend of a friend of a former Dixic Lee Campbell in Delafield, Wis., outside Milwaukee, said Hassler.

She called. The birth data matched. Kathy Wilkie of Delafield turned out to be Dixie Lec.

'She called me a couple hours later from Wisconsin and we talked for a good hour on the phone," Hansler said.

Little did he know the 17year-old was also in New York. at Beth Israel Medical Center suffering from amnesia.

"I never imagined her being there, nor was I looking for her while we were riding around." Barnes said.

Cheryl Ann Barnes was identifled Wednesday after a nurse naw her picture on television. The girl had been admitted to the hospital as Jane Doe on Jan. 18, the same day her car was towed from near the Empire State Building. She had been found sitting in a city snowdrift.

"Maybe her mental state now was part of her mental state before she disappeared." Brannen said. "The discovery does weaken the abduction possibility."

Cheryl Ann vanished from Bushnell after withdrawing $100 from her bank account en route to school.

Officials got their first break in the case Tuesday, when her car was found in a city impound lot.

Also found in the car was a church bulletin from West Milton, Pa., dated Jan. 7, Revival Tabernacle Pastor James R. Bond told sheriff's officials he remembered seeing Cheryl Ann at the Jan. 14 service, where she picked up the outdated bulletin.

She identified herself as Terrell Christiphine Phillips and said her parents were dead and she was on her way to New York to live with an aunt, he said.

"She made an impression." Bond said. "She seemed like a happy young person with a lot of energy. Still, I suspected something was out of place."

Cheryl Ann lives with her father and his parents in Florida foul play. A gym bag in the car and her mother lives in Arizona.

A nurse at Beth Israel saw the newscast about the car Wednesday, recognized her patient, and told the girl she thought she knew who she was.

"(Cheryl Ann) started to cry," said her grandfather, Bill Barnes Hospital officials called the television station, which contacted its Florida affiliate. They arranged for a phone call.

"I said, 'Cheryl Ann, it's dad,' and she started to cry," said her father. "Even my mother knows that cry. She has a very distinctive cry.'

New York City police also confirmed the identity. The girl still does not remember who she is, said her grandfather, Bill

Lawmakers want a $25 fine for students who light up near public school property

By JACKIE HALLIFAX Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Studenis who smoke within 1,000 feet of a school could be fined $25 under a bill approved in a Senate panel. A companion measure in the House sets the fine at $250.

Teen-agers and children can legally smoke in Florida although the state outlaws the sale of cigarettes to anyone under age 18.

However, just like adults. children and teen-agers are covered by the state law that bans smoking in schools and other public buildings. Viotations can result in a $100 fine for a first offense and $500 for repeat offenses.

School districts also have a variety of discipline policies to deal with smoking in schools, including suspension.

But Sen. Robert Wexler, D-Boca Raton, said school officials in his district have told him there's little or nothing they can do to stop students smoking next to school prop-

"A much too large number of students simply step 5 feet or 10 feet off school grounds during recess or in between classes." Wexler said as he introduced his bill Wednesday to the Senate Education Committee.

An estimated 6 million teen-agers in the United States smoke, according to the American Lung Association.

In Florida, two-thirds of the teens questioned in a 1993 survey said they had tried smoking and a quarter said they had first experimented with cigarettes before they turned 13. Twenty-eight percent said they had smoked within the last month.

The statewide survey sample wasn't large enough to extrapolate the results to the entire population, but the coults did parallel national findings, according to Skip Forsyth, director of the state's Program.

Last year, the University of Michigan reported that smoking by young teen-agers was on the rise after more than a decade of stability.

The Senate bill (SB 322) originally called for a $250 fine like the House bill (HB 79), but Wexler said he thought that was excessive.

The committee adopted an amendment dropping the fine to $25 and then voted 5-1 for the bill. Sen. George Kirkpatrick, D-Gainesville, cast the dissenting vote.

The legislation goes next to the Criminal Justice Committee. The House bill, approved in subcommittee recently, is scheduled to be considered by the full Education Committee later.

Gloria Estefan and others push for more boating safety

By BILL BERGSTROM Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Singer Gloria Estefan brought some entertainment-world glitter to stuffy legislative halls to push for tougher boating rules following a fatal accident she was involved in last year.

She urged Chiles and lawmakers to agree on training requirements for boat operators to try to curb Florida's nationleading 1,337 boat accidents and 78 deaths last year.

In one of those accidents, a 29-year-old tourist from Washington, Howard Clark, died Sept. 24 after his personal watercraft collided with the Estefans' 33-and fatalities.

In 1994, the latest comparison 696 accidents and 55 deaths.

With that disturbing trend.

House Natural Resources Chairman Everett Kelly. D. Tavares, said his panel will boil several training and certification proposals down into one bill by the time the 1996 Legislature meets March 5.

Before the testimony, King joked Estefan wouldn't change his vote. "Wait till she serenades you." said Rep. Lars Hafner, D-St.

But Florida is far outrunning adding that regulation should "cut both ways."

Cheryl Ann's ordeal

The TV show is called NYPD-Blue. The way we see it. New York police are more than just blue these days. We hope their faces are

They found Cheryl Ann Barnes 1988 Mazda on January 18, but didn't bother to check the license tag to determine the identity of the owner until February 5.

After determining that it was indeed her vehicle, police suspecting she may be somewhere in New York City, then had her picture displayed on TV newscasts. It was through such a picture that a nurse was able to identify a patient, and thus Cheryl Ann Barnes, the 17-year-old missing from Bushnell since January 3, was found.

Officials say Cheryl had been in a hospital for three weeks. Had New York police bothered to check the license plate immediately, she may have been located sooner. Cheryl's family may have had over two weeks less of grief and sorrow.

A check with the Seminole County sheriff's office indicated that such a thing would not happen here. "One of the first things we do when we find an abandoned vehicle." said Undersheriff Steve Harriett, "is to run a license plate check to determine who the owner might be.

Harriett said this is not done immediately on every situation, but only if the vehicle doesn't appear suspicious. Even so, he said it is done within a day or two.

Officials don't know what caused Cheryl Ann Barnes to disappear in Florida and show up wandering the streets of downtown Manhatten. It may be some time before all the details are known. We are just thankful that she has been found alive and safe.

We believe however, that this two and a half week delay by New York City police in determining the ownership of her car, found parked near the Empire State Building, is a sad commentary on the way the NYPD conducted itself.

They owe the Barnes family an apology for extending their length of their grief in not knowing if she was alive or dead.

Our police officers, supported by information from the Florida media, did a good job in spreading the word. We are proud of them. We cannot say the same for the NYPD.

Billboards and signs

Various city commissions have been involved in a drive to reduce what some consider billboard blight. They are seeking to reduce the number of billboards in some areas which they say are simply not attractive, or are detracting from scenery.

Other complaints are that Seminole County has less stringent restrictions about billboard sizes and locations. They object to advertisers placing their billboards near a city limit apparently to override city codes.

Yet we have other billboard and sign situations over which apparently few have any concern. These are advertising signs for businesses which no longer exist. Just a simple drive around the streets of Sanford, for example, will show large signs advertising companies and retail stores which have not existed for months, even years.

It's fine that our cities are trying to bring about more uniform sign ordinances throughout the county. But let them also look in their backyards for out-dated signs which are also beginning to deteriorate and causing just as serious an eyesore as others which they are trying to eliminate.

Score one for the United States

Once in every three or four blue moons a story comes along that makes you want to stand up, throw your hat into the air and cheer. A book being published this month tells one such story. and I predict that it is going to be a national hombshell.

Here, in essence and in chronological order, is the story. Morris Childs was born near Kiev in 1902, emigrated to Chicago with his parents. and joined the Communist Party in 1919. He caught the eye of Communist leader Earl Browder, and in 1929 was sent to the Lenin School in Moscow, where he struck up friendships with two of his instructors: Yuri Andropov. later the longtime head of the KGB, and Mikhail Suslov, who was to become the chief ideologist of the Politburo.

These connections served Childs well when he returned to Chicago: Moscow soon ordered the CPUSA to make him its Chicago head and a member of the party's governing central committee. By 1945 he was editor of the Daily Worker, but he was ousted from that job two years later when Browder lost control of the party. Disillusioned and seriously ill with heart trouble. Childs was sidelined for several years. though he did not resign.

It was in those years that he was recruited by the FBI, to remain in the party as one of its apparent in 1957 when its new general secretary, Eugene Dennis, mindful of Childs' friends in Moscow, appointed him as his deputy, in charge of all dealings with foreign Communist parties, in-cluding the Russian and Chinese. In 1958 Childs' old friends invited him to Moscow.

That was the first of 52 trips that Mor-ris Childs made to the Soviet Union and other Communist countries (including China and Cuba) in the next 23 years, on behalf of what the FBI dubbed "Operation Solo."

Just for one thing. Childs smuggled over $28 million in U.S. currency from Moscow to its States. And let's hear three cheers for the FBI. waiting stooges in the United States - after the which has taken a lot of knocks in recent years.

Four years later, when domestic attacks on the FBI were causing dangerous leaks, Operation Solo was finally closed down. MORTON KONDRACKE

Has Forbes 'peaked too soon'?

NASHUA, N.H. -- Republican Gov. Steve Merrill, who hails from New Hampshire's stormy coast, may prove to be Kansas Sen. Bob Dole's floodwall in the Republican presidential race, giving him a chance to survive the surging tide of "outsider" Steve Forbes.

Merrill, who was re-elected in 1994 with 70 percent of the vote and who now enjoys an approval rating of 75 percent, has taped two ads designed to undercut Forbes, especially on what Merrill deems the be-all and end-all issue for New Hampshirites: taxes.

One of the ads, which went up recently, features Merrill saying. "New Hampshire primaries are always exciting, but what's not exciting is a plan that raises your taxes."

He is referring, of course, to Forbes signature flat tax proposal, which Merrill asserts will cost New Hampshire homeowners up to $2,000 in lost mortgage interest and property tax deductions and depress home values by 20 percent.

In an interview here prior to yet another joint appearance with Dole, Merrill said, "I'll tell you two secrets about what's wrong with Forbes: He's peaked too soon and he's gone negative too soon."

Merrill thinks that even if Forbes were to embarrass Dole in the lowa caucuses Feb. 12, there's still time to depress his surge here before the Feb. 20 primary by hitting Forbes on the tax issue and his political inexperience. Iln Iowa incidentally, the Christian Coalition may help deflate Forbes with 250,000 voter guides identifying him as "pro-choice" and opposed to a family tax credit.)

The second Merrill ad for Dole, which has yet to appear, shows the sunny governor observing, more in sorrow than anger, "We've had one untested president raise our taxes. Let's not make that mistake again.

The Dole campaign does not believe that Forbes has pulled ahead in New Hampshire, as reported recently by a Boston Globe/WBZ-TV poll, but it does acknowledge that the two are nearly neck-and-neck, with Dole's nightly tracking surveys showing him at just over 20 percent and Forbes just under.

Dole campaign officials say that recent movement in the polls wasn't so much toward Forbes as away from Dole, causing them to plan a positive ad campaign in which Dole explains what his values are and what he'd do as president -- balance the budget, get tough on crime, etc.

Both the Dole and Forbes campaigns are a combination of positives and negatives. Forbes lashes Dole and his other rivals as Washington insiders and tax-raisers, while his stump speech is an ode to growth, possibility and optimism.

And Dole on the stump -- for example, in his recent speech to the Merrimack Chamber of Commerce here - presents himself as the representative of bedrock American values like "love of God and family, decency and honesty" that he says have been lost in a society where, even in small towns, people now have to lock their houses and their cars.

The basis of Dole's appeal is that "I think we can get our country back on track for our children." He doesn't say exactly what he will do as president to make that happen. instead offering a negative case against President Clinton for raising taxes, failing to follow through on welfare reform and vetoing the Republican budget.

To his credit, Dole does not try to deny what he is ... a seasoned leader of Congress -- or that he is a product of the generation that fought World War II. He makes a virtue of his experience: "I keep my word. My honesty and integrity are never questioned. Bob Dole is never going to take the country over the cliff. I'm willing to listen. You don't want someone in the presidency who is so rigid, he never had a second thought in his life." Whereas audiences get steamed up and cheer as Forbes mechanically denounces the tax code. Dole's audiences listen to him respectfully. Mentions of Merrill and his wife, Elizabeth, elicit more applause than any of his ideas, though he can always raise a laugh with a self-deprecatory ad-lib. The big question in the Republican primaries this year, of course, is whether GOP voters will do what they habitually have done in the past - choose the natural heir to their party's nomination -- or act like Democrats and go for something novel.

In 1976, Gerald Ford survived a challenge from Ronald Reagan because Ford was president. In 1980, Reagan beat George Bush, who was running for president for the first time. In 1988. Vice President Bush beat Dole, the Iowa caucus winner, partly because then-Goy. John Sununu saved Bush in New Hampshire.

Merrill, a cheerier personality than either Sununu or Dole, is trying to play that role this year, banking on the fact that New Hampshire

"At the end of the campaign," he says, voters here always do the numbers and study the plans. When they do, it'll turn - it'll go 10 points just like that." For Dole's sake, it had

Bungle benefits loan defaulters

WASHINGTON -- Thanks to a bureaucratic blunder by the Education Department and the private guarantee agencies it works with, more than 24,000 defaulted borrowers got an eight-month reprieve from their loan payments last year.

The episode is indicative of the growing tension between the federal government and the multibillion-dollar student-loan industry. Student loan guarantee agencies have been living on borrowed time since the advent of direct lending -- a Clinton administration initiative that lets students borrow directly from the government at lower interest rates.

Our story begins last May, when USA Group - a studentloan guarantee agency - sent an electronic tape with information about 24.000 | defaulted student loans to the Department of Education. USA Group was turning the loans over under a process called 'subrogation,' which gives the government responsibility for loans on which a private agency was unable to collect. Normally, it takes 10 days to one month between the time a tape is sent from a guarantee agency to the time its information is transferred into the government's computers. But somehow it look nearly eight months before this particular tape's data was finally transferred on Jan. 12. In the meantime, all 24,000 defaulted borrowers got an unexpected vacation from their federal gov-ernment and the Now each side is blaming the other for the snafu. USA Group says it's the department's fault for not processing the tape on time. Education Department officials contend that USA Group is responsible for servicing its subrogated loans until the government verifles that the tape has been received.

According to the records, however, there is plenty of blame to go around. The original tape was found to be creased, which rendered it unusable. So USA Group sent out a second tape in July, but that one was never found. Finally, a third tape was sent to the Education Department in November, and that is the one that was eventually processed last month.

The problem eventually caught the attention of the district office of Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, when a constituent complained about her loan not being serviced. A Gramm staffer asked USA Group for an explanation.

"It took the Department over seven months to recognize the problem they created." a USA Group official wrote back, "seven months during which there was no collection on this defaulted loan and where the guarantor was prevented from assisting a borrower who wanted to resolve her problems.

The letter continues with a not-so-velled shot at direct lending - even though the missing loans had nothing to do with the program. "Can an expanded federal program do a better job? It does not appear that an expanded federal presence will help the borrowers and the taxpayers."

It certainly won't help USA Group -- whose chief executive earns more than $650,000 per year, or more than three times that of the president of the United States. Although it's listed as a non-profit organization, at least 16 executives at USA Group and its affiliates earn salaries of more than $100,000 per year money that comes straight from the pockets of student-loan borrowers.

The Clinton administration, meanwhile, is eager to take credit for the success of direct lending. Last month, the Department of Education reported the lowest student loan default rate since the department started keeping records in 1988 -- 11.6 percent, down from a high of 22.4 percent three years earlier.

The date? "Depending on how quickly renovations are com-pleted," Rogers said. "We are excited as the gallery will provide the opportunity for the Ritz to launch our new spring series before the restoration of the actual theater."

An exhibit schedule is in preliminary planning at the mo-ment. Bartholomew said, "We are concentrating on the essentials like repairing the roof, the canopy out front, the electrical and plumbing systems and putting in windows. .

"I am doing this whole project on a shoestring. For at my age this couldn't be a financial investment; it is a dream I would like to see fulfilled," the new owner said.

The gallery, during its threeand-a-half year tenure on First Street met definite needs for non-profit organizations. It provided a backdrop far beyond an art center: it was a social setting. a meeting place. As the many volunteers who made the gallery come alive are fond of saying, the Etc. in our name gives us latitude to serve varied roles - allows us to attempt to meet needs of the community as well.

The larger building and its location - next to the Ritz - will allow the gallery to continue to be a leader in the cultural movement, not only in Sanford. but in the county as well.

Before the building even had been cleaned, partnerships-were being forged to launch all kinds of activities in addition to exhibits, both in the visual arts field and the historical arena.

The Sanford Historic Trust is planning to again have an office in addition to meeting there and utilizing the gallery for some of their fund-raising activities.

Receptions for the Ritz per-formances will be held in the gallery even after restoration of the theater. Plans are in the works to create a connecting corridor across the alley to afford gala events.

Proposals are in the hands of the Sanford Historical Society to join hands with the art gallery to put on one or two programs available from the Florida Humanities Council that would be of special interest to Sanford.

The ixora Garden Club has been asked to consider recreating a project they invented back in the late '60s when members interpreted with flower arrangements the program of classical music played by the Florida Symphony Orchestra.

Tough search: Finding the world's flattest tax

By DAVID BRISCOE Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - When it comes to taxes. the world isn't flat, but it's getting flatter.

Proponents of a single income tax rate for all Americans will have to search the globe before they find a truly flat system - one where you can file your return on a postcard.

In fact, they may not find one.

Tax analysts disagree on whether any country has a truly flat tax on all income. In the murky world of taxation, there are so-called flat taxes. and then there are flatter taxes. Nearly every system allows some deductions or exemptions. and most have different ways and rates for taxing various types of income.

The ultimate goal of the flat tax movement is to equalize the tax bite so as to increase savings rates, provide more business capital, stimulate employment, boost productivity and, ultimately, raise living standards.

Opponents say it's just a ploy to make the rich

Whatever the impact, analysis on both sides agree that taxes are getting flatter around the world, as countries look for ways to make their economies more competitive.

Even the U.S. system is much flatter than it used to be: There were as many as 18 tax levels in effect prior to 1986 and rates as high as 91 percent a few decades ago.

If the United States achieves further tax simplification and starts taxing all income at the same rate, analysts believe other countries would

"If America would actually adopt such a system, most of the rest of the world - at least the industrialized world - would have no choice," said Bryan T. Johnson, co-author of the conservative Heritage Foundation's annual Index of Economic Freedom.

He said Washington's diplomatic community has been lining up for briefings on the various flat tax proposals.

Heritage's index rates 142 countries on a variety of factors, including taxation. Those that score the best - 1 or 1.5 on a scale of 5 - tend to have the flattest taxes. Johnson said.

The United States, with its multi-rate system ranging from 17 percent to 39.6 percent, scores Republican presidential candidates Steve Forbes, Pat Buchanan and Sen. Phil Gramm all want to flatten that out to a rate of 16 percent or 17 percent for all earned income, with few or no deductions or exemptions.

Steve Entin of the Institute for Research on Economics and Taxation says no country has a flat tax such as the one envisioned by the politicians. He said Hong Kong comes the closest with "a fairly flat rate."

Price Waterhouse, the global accounting firm that charts taxes in 116 countries, lists four graduated rates for Hong Kong, ranging from 2 percent to 20 percent. There is, however, a flat rate of 15 percent for anyone earning over roughly $115,000.

So, for big earners, Hong Kong's system is about as flat - and as low - as anywhere.

"Gee, is it a coincidence that Hong Kong has the fastest-growing economy in the world?" Johnson says.

Looking further, Paraguay has no tax on personal income and charges a flat rate of 30 percent on corporate income, according to Price Waterhouse's "Individual Taxes: a Worldwide Summary."

Estonia has two flat rates. It taxes employee income at 26 percent and interest income at 10

A top contender for the flattest income tax is in Bolivia. Price Waterhouse says it collects 13 percent on all personal income, with a uniform personal exemption.

But Bolivia scores only a less-than-perfect 2 on Heritage's scale, because it has a 25 percent corporate tax rate and imposes a variety of other levies. New Zealand, another candidate for ultimate flatness, has a two-liered rate that hits earnings below $20,000 at 24 percent and anything above Even Sweden, which Heritage gives a perfectly bad "5" as one of the highest taxing countries. has been moving towards lower. flatter rates.

The search for flat taxes has to end with four countries that score a perfect 1 on the Heritage scale: Bahrain, the Bahamas, United Arab

Magic run out of gas

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. - Allan Houston scored 31 points and the Detroit defense turned in a record fourth quarter, holding the Orlando Magic to a club-low one basket and seven points in a 97-83 Pistons victory Wednesday night.

It was the lowest quarter ever for Orlando, breaking the mark of 10 points. It also was the worst field goal quarter in club history; the previous low was three.

The previous best for Detroit's defense was a low of eight points, last accomplished in 1992.

The Magic went without a field goal after Shaquille O'Neal's basket with 11:14 remaining. They shot 1-for-16 for the quarter. O'Neal picked up his fifth foul with 8:18 left and sat out almost four minutes. Still, the Pistons needed a 9-0 run to tie the game 81-81 with 6:05 remaining, on a basket by Terry Mills.

Houston then scored Detroit's next eight points on a driving layup and two 3-pointers, the last one following Grant Hill's block of Penny Hardaway's shot. Hill finished with 19 points for Detroit. enabling the Pistons to go into the All-Star break 23-22.

Hardaway and Dennis Scott each had 16 points for Orlando, O'Neal and Horace Grant each had 15.

Bucs rebuff Rams

Mainland holds off Lake Mary rally

By GARY COATGAM Herald Staff Writer

DAYTONA BEACH — Back-to-back games and a slow start proved to be too much for the Lake Mary Rams to overcome as it fell to a tough Mainland squad 71-66 in a boys' backetball contest Wednesday night in Daytona Beach.

The Rams, who upset No. 1 Class 4A ranked Haines City at the buzzer on Tuesday night, fell behind 19-12 after one period and found themselves down 15 points, 40-25, at Intermission.

Lake Mary (20-5) made up one point in the third period, then outscored the Buccaneers (14-9) 26-15 in the final eight minutes, but the deficit was too big to

The Rams' Jason Junker tied for game-high scoring honors with 17 points, while point guard Chip Richardson chipped in with 14 points and forwards Wesley Jackson and Paul Beik added 12 and 11 points,

Junker was equalled for game-high scoring honors by Mainland's T.T. Toliver. Also scoring in double figures for the Class 5A defending state champion Buccaneers were Joe Giddens and Mims with 13 points each. Lake Mary, which is receiving votes in the Class 6A

Softball league a two team battle

By DEAN SOUTH Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD - With two hardfought wins and an extra inning upset, the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Wednesday Night Polar Bear Slowpitch Softball League has turned into a two-team race as it reached the halfway point of the neason at Chase Park.

Wella Contracting pulled off the upset, knocking off Monroe Harbour 7.5 in nine innings, but it almost in't to be. Wells overcame an early deficit to take a 4-3 lead. but missed several chances to extend the lead, and then committed a two-out, three-base error in the bottom of the seventh inning to allow Monroe Harbour to tie the game and force extra innings.

Wells finally took the lead for good by turning five straight singles into three runs. Monroe Harbour got a run back in the bottom of then ninth inning and had the tying runs on base when the game ended.

Fitzgeralds then put the pressure on undefeated Crazy Wings, scoring two runs in the fifth inning to break open a close 7.5 contest and defeated ASP incorporated 9-5 to remain a game off the leaders' pace.

in the nightcap, Crazy Wings jumped out to a 4-0 lead after two innings and was leading 6-2 after five innings when Sanford Tire started a comeback effort. But excellent defensive plays by Brantley Brumley in leftfield on a drive by Tony Blalle and a snag by first baseman Mark Janach on a shot by Steve James kept Sanford Tire at bay as Crazy Wings held on 6-4.

Crazy Wings is now 5-0 on the season, while Fitzgeralds is 4-1. Trailing the leaders are Wells Contracting, Monroe Harbour and Sanford Tire (all 2-3) and ASP Incorporated (0-5).

Next week, Sanford Tire takes on ASP Incorporated at 6:30 p.m.; Monroe Harbour challenges Crazy Wings at 7:30 p.m.; and Fitzgeralds battles Wells Contracting at 8:30

Powering Wells Conctracting were Mike McLohon (double, three singles, two runs), George Porzig (three singles, run, two RBI). Jim Dawson (double, single, RBI), Kenny Brown (two singles, run, RBI). Kiwanis welcomes district governor

Special to the Horald

John H. Williams III, Kiwanis district governor for Florida, met with Division 25 Kiwanis club leaders on Friday evening Feb. 2 at the Embassy Suites Hotel in Altamonte Springs. Prior to dinner, Gov. Williams joined with club officers to obtain feedback on their individual club service projects during this Kiwania year. Afterwards he spoke to Kiwanians and their spouses concerning Kiwania activities in Florida, nationally and world-wide, at the banquet honoring the governor and his wife, Linda.

Gov. Williams, past distinguished lieutenant governor, and 18-year member of Springtime City/Clearwater Kiwanie Club, has held state Kiwanie chairman positions for Children's Miracle Network Telethon, Public Relations and Florida Foundation. He has also served as chairman of board of trustees for his Methodist Church and board member of Clearwater Chamber of Commerce. Center Foundation. Florida Sheriff's Youth Ranch and involved with financial counseling for Morton Plant Hospital Foundation and Ruth Eckerd Hall Performing Arts Foundation. His occupation is vice president/financial consultant with Merrill Lynch stockbrokers.

Kiwanie Division 25 clubs consist of Casselberry, Central Florida Seminole, DeLand. Deltona, Oviedo, Oviedo Knights, Sanford, Seminole Sunrice, Winter Park and Winter Park Sunrice.

Kiwania Cluba are civic and community service organizations seeking to promote fellowship and meet community needs through voluntary action. Kiwania International has 325,000 members of 8,600 clubs in 78 nations. In 1995, Kiwanis Clubs raised and spent more than 965 million for community service activities and sponsored more than 150,000 individual service projects. The Florida Kiwanis District has 361 clubs with almost 15,000 members.

Kiwanie International's major emphasis has been Young Children, Priority One because our children are our future. They have focused particularly on special needs for young children from prenatal to age 5. In 1995, Kiwanis clubs raised and spent $17.5 million and contributed 1.7 million volunteer hours to these projects. Internationally, Kiwanis has joined with United Nations Children's Fund to eliminate lodine deficiency disorders in 114 billion people worldwide by year 2000.

According to Lt. Gov. Walt Smith, the Sanford Kiwania Club was host to the governor's visit at the Embassy Suites Hotel. Harry Reid, club president, opened the meeting with the Rev. David Liddell, president elect, giving the invocation and benediction and Past President Phil Gunster, the pledge of allegiance. Club recognition and awards were made at the meeting enjoyed by the Kiwa-

Baby shower for unwed teen irks readers

DEAR ABBY: I've read your column for years and you are usually "right on," but in a recent column you goofed royally.

end on the field.

A teen-aged girl was invited to a baby shower by the mother of one of her young mends. The girl's grandmother advised her not to attend the shower because the pregnant friend was unmarried. The girl asked for your advice, and you advised her to go to the shower because the baby needed gifts whether the mother was married or Abby, I think there's a bigger picture to consider here than whether or not the baby needed things. A baby shower is a party celebrating the future arrival of a baby. In attending such a party, the guests are honoring the mother and celebrating the coming event. In my opinion, an unwed teen-aged mother hasn't anything to celebrate.

How does one earn the privilege to be a parent?

1. Complete your education. 2. Work for several years to save some money. 3. Get married at a reasonable riage will last.

time — not in your teens. 4. Wait at least a year before getting pregnant to be sure the mar-

Our society has supported unwed mothers for two or three decades. Now look at the epidemic we have. I don't suggest shunning these girls, but my attitude is: This is a problem you created; now you and your family will have to handle it."

As a schoolteacher, I see babies born to girls who are neither emotionally nor financially able to handle motherhood.

Through the years, when I've been invited to baby showers for unwed mothers, I politely decline. I've never felt guilt and the people about whom I really care have respected me for declining.
If one of my grandchildren ever became an unwed parent, I would never put my friends on the spot by inviting them to a baby shower. And if their friends gave one, I would send a gift but would not

MICHIGAN MOM

DEAR MICHIGAN MOM: Judging from the feedback, more readers agreed with your point of view than with mine:

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to the girl about whether it's improper to hold a baby shower for an unwed mother is way off base. A baby shower is a celebration first and a financial event second. When someone they know is involved in a tragic car accident, friends typically give extensive contributions of food, services and other assistance to the family. But they don't do it in the form of a celebratory party.

A baby whose mother is an unwed high school girl, and whose father doesn't want to accept any responsibility, is a tragedy - not a cause for celebration.

If friends of the girl want to help out financially, fine. But don't do so in the "isn't it wonderful" atmosphere that accompanies a baby

CAROL SANDERS, SAN DIEGO

DEAR CAROL: Perhaps an unwed mother doesn't "deserve" a baby shower in the form of a celebration — but she needs it more than the married mother who has everything going for her.

DEAR ABBY: I was wondering what to say to solicitors when they come to the door. My mom is usually busy doing something and my father works upstairs at home.

I'm 11 years old, so I don't want to seem disrespectful by saying, 'We're not interested" and slamming the door in their faces. What should I do?

WONDERING GIRL IN PASADENA

DEAR WONDERING: Never open the door to a stranger. It is permissible to ask the solicitor, through a closed door, to identify him or herself. If your parents have no interest in the product, say, "No thank you." The solicitor will get the mes-

Children should be told that under no circumstances should they tell a stranger, "My mother in I home."

Are reader's diagnoses related?

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was recently diagnosed with a polyp in my gallbladder. At the same time, it was discovered that I have no right kidney. Are the two conditions related?

DEAR READER: The two conditions are unrelated.

Polyps, benign growths, can arise in my organ, including the intestine and the gallbladder. By and large, they are harmless. No one knows what causes them and they don't need treatment unless they cause symptoms, such as pain or blockage.

On the other hand, an absent kidney is something you were born with - and is often discovered by accident during routine testing. No one knows the cause of this abnormality. Because a person can live comfortably and for a long time on one normal kidney, your birth defect should cause you no alarm or ill health.

Nonetheless, you'll have to be careful to protect your remaining kidney from harm: avoid dehydration, don't take medicine that may adversely effect kidney function, and do not parlicipate in any contact sports.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was given a Kombucha tea mushroom and literature on making the tea. It sounds too good to be true, so it probably is. Do you know anything about this tea?

DEAR READER: Kombucha tea, which is actually made from a type of fungus, has not been shown to improve health or eliminate disease, despite proponents' claims that the brew can cure AIDS, insomnia and other ills. Until recently, it was believed to be a harmless herbal remedy. However, on Dec. 10, 1993, the New York Times reported two deaths allegedly related to the tea. Therefore, I'd be cautious in its use.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have taken Premarin since 1965, after a hysterectomy. I recently saw an advertisement for Estrace and would like to know if it is a better and safer estrogen than Premarin.

DEAR READER: Estrace and Premarin are two different types of female hormone, with identical effects: relief of menopausal symptoms and rejuvenation of the reproductive tract.

Estrace has two advantages. It is synthetic and is not made from pregnant mares' urine, as is Premarin. And it is less likely to be metabolized by the liver as quickly as Premarin: therefore, it is more potent. Ask your gynecologist if Estrace would be a more appropriate prescription for you. To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Menopause.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Has an in-depth atudy ever been done on benign prostatic hyperplasia patients comparing the elderly who are still sexually active with those who are just using their plumbing to urinate? Is there any serious reason to believe that BPH will be either lessened, eliminated or delayed by remaining sexually active?

DEAR READER: It's always tempting to blame patients' diseases on their behavior. For example, is the normal, age-related enlargement of the prostate gland caused by too little (or too much) sex?

Doctors have been fairly evenly divided on this issue: either the "use it or lose it" wing or the "give it a rest" camp. BPH will affect every man sooner or later; therefore, I think it's fair to assume that sexual activity does not play an important role. However, no one knows the cause of this condition. which leads to frequent urination and other symptoms that can now be relieved by the prostate-shrinking drug called Prosess

My advice to elderly gentlemen is: Remain active in whatever manner is possible, and don't become obsessed about whether your sex life will lead

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "The Prostate Gland." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017. Murray Hill Station, New York, NY

Defense is clearly the hardest part of the game. But the main reason most players find it so tough is that they don't think. They don't try to build up pictures of the hidden hands. Sometimes just asking yourself what id. declarer has in his hand will point you in the right direction.

Defending against four hearts, West cashed three club tricks. What should he have done next?

South's opening one no-trump promised 16-18 high-card points. North's two diamonds was a transfer bid showing at least five hearts. His subsequent jump to three no-trump offered South a choice of games, suit tricks you can take it is usually Having four hearts, he naturally selected the suit contract.

After winning three club tricks, West paused to construct South's hand. He was known to have three clubs including the jack Could he be missing an ace? No, because then he would have at most 15 points. And if South held both the spade ace and diamond ace, the defense couldn't take a trick in either of those suits. (Even if South had ace-doubleton of spades, his diamond suit would have to be sol-

Judging the position correctly, West continued with the club eight.

If declarer had discarded from the dummy, East would have ruffed with the heart nine, forcing out South's ace and promoting his king to the setting trick. But when South ruffed with dummy's 10, East calmly discarded and was assured of a trump trick.

Whenever you have won all the sideright to concede a ruff and discard.
