

Complex Actions Include 5 Percent Tax Hike

Knowles Finds Funds For Sanford Facelift

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford City Manager Warren E. Knowles has found a way for the city to provide much of the funding needed for its share of the rehabilitation of portions of Sanford and has conveyed that message to the city commission. The alternatives include a five percent tax increase.

In a memo written before he went out to town to a conference, Knowles said the city can come up with $64,036.63 of the $68,000 needed in materials for the city to participate in the project. The city's share of the project would include constructing brick sidewalks and some paving.

The way, he outlines in the memo, would require a complex number of actions by the city commission, including raising taxes by five per cent. And, Knowles points out in the memo, that taking the alternatives would require "stretching and cracking of accounts to their limits" and this "can easily result in deficits for the 1979-80 fiscal year—something we have not seen for the past 26 years."

The suppositions used by Knowles to find the $64,000 are as follows:

- Increasing revenue estimates by $39,731.
- Increasing estimates of surplus funds remaining at end of the current year from $27,000 to $55,025, a net gain of $28,025.
- Slow down or freeze spending by all city departments of budgeted funds to save $129,547.

These methods would give the city an additional $59,869 in revenues above estimates used in the preliminary budgets, the difference between the out-of-balance 1979-80 proposed budget from $108,650.78—the point the city commission got to after its first two budget-purging sessions—to $48,781.70. Thus, $48,781.70 would be the new amount the commission would have to find to balance the budget for the new year.

In addition, Knowles points out, the county property appraiser has "certified" a property tax for the city in the new fiscal year of $6.88 per $1,000 assessed valuation of property.

At the city's rate of property tax collections of 96.5 percent, the city would receive $1,067,109.68, which represents $79,674.68 over the estimate used in the budget of anticipated revenues. The revenue was projected before the figures were available from the county property appraiser's office.

Knowles also notes that the city's public projects funds has a balance of $90,036.73 including $64,000 in the general city use fund and $26,036.73 in the recreational use fund. "From this can come the cost of some materials for the downtown improvements," Knowles said.

An increase in the property taxes of the five percent allowed by law to $7.08 per $1,000 property valuation would bring in another $31,282.83, Knowles memo says.

"Inflationary costs are continuing to hit us and these cannot continue to carry the load. There is no magic that suddenly produces city services at no cost," Knowles said in the memo. "It will be catching up with us in the coming year. The city commission must consider what their plans are to meet these demands for services from the public while the costs increase and the public does not want to pay. To compound this, next year will also be an election year when traditionally the commission has been reluctant to confront increases in millages or rates."

Knowles ended the memo with the question, "What path do you plan to select?"

The commission has slated budget workshops for Monday and Tuesday at 4 p.m. each day.

In earlier sessions, the commissioners cut from the proposed budget.

School Pact OKs 6% Hike For Clerks

By SHARON CARRASCO

The Seminole Education Clerical Association (SECA) reached a contractual agreement Wednesday with the school management team that features a 6.04 percent increase in base salaries.

Ernest Cowley, chief negotiator of the school team, announced the accord at Wednesday night's school board meeting, adding SECA is the first of four unions to agree to terms for the third-year contract.

"They were a pleasant group to work with," Cowley said. "We came to agreement in four bargaining sessions, which is unusual."

Sally Harvey, SECA president and the union's negotiator, could not be reached for comment.

The school management team still is negotiating contracts with the Seminole Education Association (SEA), the Seminole County School Bus Drivers Association, Inc. and the Non-Instructional Personnel of Seminole County (NIPSCO).

Earlier the school board voted an identical pay increase of 6.04 percent for administrators, principals and other county level employees not affiliated with a union. The base pay for these employees rose from $39,778 to $42,246.

During their negotiating sessions, SECA and the school management team discussed four amendments to the clerical contract: salaries, grievance, other fringe benefits and the number of leave days.

With a 6.04 percent pay increase, the base pay for clerical workers rose from $4,974 to $5,275, Cowley said.

"The base pay for positions from aides to executive secretaries got a 6.04 percent increase plus another two to three percent increase in increments," Cowley said. "Also, the pay ceiling for the number of years of experience was increased from 10 to 15 years."

For example, an executive secretary this year with 10 years' experience made $9,708, but with 15 years of experience she would make $11,462, Cowley said.

Before, a clerical worker with 15 years' experience received the same pay as someone with 10 years' experience but now that has changed, Cowley said.

Consequently, some employees could receive a 17.4 percent pay hike to adjust their present salary to the new salary ceiling of 15 years' experience, he explained.

In other changes, clerical workers were granted three personal leave days with pay instead of the previous two days, Cowley said.

Also, life insurance coverage for each clerical employee was increased from $3,000 to $5,000 at no cost to the employees, Cowley said. Employees have the option of purchasing an additional $3,000 to $20,000 in insurance coverage at their own expense.

Lastly, clerical workers who use their own car for job-related activities will receive 17 cents a mile instead of the previous 14 cents per mile allotted, he said.

Energy Leads Housing And Inflation Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Inflation jumped another 1 percent in June as soaring energy and housing costs more than offset encouraging moderation in retail food prices, the government reported today.

That increase in prices paid by consumers was almost identical to advances in the past five months.

The dismal June performance meant that inflation during the first half of 1979 increased at a 13.2 percent annual rate — the largest half-year inflationary jolt since 1974. During the same six-month period last year, prices rose at a 9.8 percent annual rate.

The Labor Department said the June price picture was a sharp drop in meat prices. Pork, poultry and egg prices also fell.

The June Consumer Price Index stood at 216.6. That means that goods and services which cost $100 in 1967 were priced at $216.60 last month.

The housing index rose 1.3 percent, the fifth straight month of large increases. Besides heating oil, home prices rose 1.5 percent, home financing costs were up 2.1 percent and repairs costs jumped 0.9 percent.

In another dose of gloomy news, the Labor Department said the buying power of the typical family of four decreased by 0.8 percent last month and was down by 3.5 percent the past year.

The Labor Department reports that inflation would moderate during the second half of the year.

"My prediction is that inflation will decrease in the months ahead," he told his nationally televised news conference.

Carter said his administration still considers inflation to be "the biggest single threat to the American people, both rich and poor, and to the future of the nation's economy in the months ahead."

Carter said he would stick to his current economic game plan, despite the onset of the recession, because to do otherwise would risk further inflationary pressures.

The June price statistics also showed:

- that all consumer prices rose at a 12.7 percent annual rate last month, the fifth straight month that increases have been 1 percent or higher.
- Prices rose at a 13.4 percent annual rate during the second quarter following a 13.0 percent rise during the first three months of the year.
- the 0.2 percent rise in food prices was the best performance since the 0.1 percent increase of July, 1978. Meats, poultry, fish and eggs dropped 1.8 percent. Beef prices alone fell by 1.3 percent. However, prices for fresh fruits and vegetables increased 3.7 percent, following two monthly declines. Coffee prices also rose after declining steadily since mid-1977.
- transportation costs advanced sharply for the eighth straight month, rising 1.7 percent. More than 80 percent of the gain was attributed to sharply higher gasoline prices. New car prices rose 0.5 percent last month, less than one-half of May's increase. Used car prices dropped 0.2 percent.

Fifty-three cents a gallon for gas — a real bargain! That is until you notice the zinger on a hand-lettered sign taped to the pump at the Fina Station at 25th Street and French Avenue in Sanford. The price is only for a half gallon with the true cost per gallon at $1.06.

Gas Prices Continue Up, County Helpless To Act

The price of gasoline charged by at least one Sanford service station hit $1.06 per gallon today and energy officer Jo Ann Blackman was sympathetic, but said there is nothing she can do about it.

"I'm a victim, too," she said. "I'm already paying over a dollar a gallon for unleaded."

"My office is in charge of fuel allocation for the county, but I have nothing to do with controlling the price structure. The price went up by three cents a gallon last week down state so we can anticipate paying more here this week."

"Price gouging regulations are very difficult to enforce as they are based on the dealer's profit margin and his prices are determined by his contract with the distributor.

"The distributors usually get the prices on Friday for the next week, but one dealer said he had to change prices three times in one weekend," Ms. Blackman said.

"We can continue to expect this sort of thing until the congress passes the President's windfall profits tax, then it will probably settle down to around $1 a gallon," she added.— JANE CASSELL-BERRY

Equalize Share Of Gas Tax Funds, Seminole Aides Ask

By GEOFFREY POUNDS

Seminole County representatives to the Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) today face the difficult task of convincing Orange County officials they should relinquish some of the $160 million in gas tax revenues they are scheduled to receive over the next 20 years.

Members of the three-county MPO were to meet in regular session at 3:30 p.m. to review and vote on a highway-funding plan that delivers eight dollars in state and federal tax money to Orange County for every one dollar sent to Seminole County. The plan was prepared for the Florida Department of Transportation (DOT) by the consulting firm of Tipton and Associates.

"We're hoping that the Orange County members will listen to our concerns and grant a 30-day delay on the plan so that a fair distribution plan can be worked out," said

Bob French, chairman of the Seminole Board of County Commissioners.

But the Seminole County members, to gain a delay, must obtain the support of at least three Orange County members, plus the one Osceola County member, to secure a majority of the 16 votes. Seminole County has four voting members on the 18-member panel. They are commissioners Bill Kirchhoff, Sandra Glenn and Dick Williams plus Altonville Springs Mayor Norman Floyd.

All five members of the Orange County Commission are voting members. There are two Orlando City commissioners on the board, plus a representative from the Orange County-Orlando Expressway Authority, and the mayors of Orlando, Winter Park and Apopka. The remaining member comes from the Osceola County Commission.

In the past, the representatives from Orange County have worked as a coalition, thus controlling the activities of the MPO, French said.

If the panel votes down the request for a delay, French said he will call for a special work session of the county commission Monday to map further strategy. That might include appeals to state officials in Tallahassee or proposals for amendments to the DOT plan, he indicated.

The DOT plan spells out the allocations of the first four cents of state gas tax and federal gas tax. Revenues from these sources are distributed throughout the state. The department then distributes the funds according to each region's own scheme. The problem, French said, is that the scheme used for the Orange-Seminole-Osceola region is based on historical trends which are no longer applicable.

If up-to-date figures for population or the number of highway miles were used to calculate allocations, French said, Seminole County would receive one quarter to one-third of the available funds instead of one-eighth of the funds.

Additional revenues from gas tax and license tags are distributed to the county, but those funds are given on a set formula and not affected by the DOT plan.

"What bothers us," said French, "is that the MPO is supposed to deal on an area-wide basis. But when the allocations were announced, we find the funding is on a county by county basis."

"We're hoping that the Orlando and Orange County people will realize that area-wide transportation needs don't start and stop at county lines, that they are continuous."

One particular project likely to generate controversy is the proposed Buena Vista interchange planned near Disney World. According to the DOT plan, the interchange has a top priority, at an estimated cost of $12 million. French said it is time to take a look at whether taxpayers should foot the entire cost of that project, which essentially benefits one industry. He said he feels Disney World should participate in the cost of the project.

SEMINOLE MEMORIAL HOSPITAL JULY 25 ADMISSIONS

After Woman Sees Herald Photo Stabbing Victim Becomes Rape Suspect

A 24-year-old stabbing victim became a rape suspect after a woman saw his picture in the Evening Herald.

Evening Herald photo which led to issuing of warrant

The man identified himself as Willie Lee Rice of 1313 W. 13th St., Sanford. Police were called to investigate the condition of Rice after a passerby noticed Rice lying motionless by the side of the tracks.

Rice said he had been walking along the tracks July 8 when he was struck and stabbed from behind, according to police. Police said Rice told them he had been unconscious for more than a day and that he had been robbed.

But when she saw the picture of Rice, the rape victim identified him as the man who assaulted her, police said, adding that the woman believed she had stabbed her attacker during the scuffle. The location of Rice's stab wound corresponded to where she thought she had struck the rapist, police reported.

After being treated at Seminole Memorial Hospital for stab wounds, Rice could not be found for questioning. On Wednesday, police said they have obtained a warrant for his arrest on charges of sexual battery and burglary.

Seminole To Consolidate 46 Accounts

Flagship Bank of Seminole-Longwood Branch is expected to receive a $200,000 deposit, courtesy of the Seminole Board of County Commissioners, sometime before Oct. 1.

County finance manager Ginny Huff this week recommended to the board that the bank account for the 46 operating street light districts be consolidated at one bank. The bank was selected on the basis of the number of free services provided to depositors, commissioners said.

Lawsuit Dismissal Denied By Judge

A former Sanford police officer who claims he was fired without cause will have his day in court again as the Sanford police chief and city manager in about six months.

Circuit Judge Robert McGregor ruled Monday he would not dismiss Sanford City Manager Warren Knowles and Police Chief Ben Butler from the suit filed by Timothy Sands.

Sands, who was fired in August 1978, claims he was never given a reason for his termination nor granted a hearing as specified in the Policemen's Bill of Rights under the Florida Statutes, said Harvey Alper, Sands' attorney.

"Since he (Sands) was a probationary police officer, they are saying these rights did not apply to him," Alper said. "They say he was not entitled to a hearing. I am contending these rights apply to all law enforcement officers."

In the suit, Sands is seeking reinstatement to the Sanford police department with back pay.

Damages in excess of $2,500 for both compensatory and punitive costs are also being sought by Sands.

Alper said his case will include an investigation of some Someone pried open the apartment door of a Longwood man and stole about $700 worth of goods, according to Seminole County deputies.

CLUBHOUSE BURGLARIZED
Someone broke into the Seminole Golf clubhouse in Longwood and made off with more than $150, according to Seminole County deputies.

The burglars entered the clubhouse by prying open the north door sometime Tuesday night, deputies say. They first targeted the coin boxes of the two pool tables stealing $80 in quarters.

About $40 was taken out of the cash register and another $121 from a cigar box sitting on the counter, deputies say. The keys to 10 golf carts were also stolen.

...Knowles Finds Some Facelift Funds

Eliminating the fogging operation saves $4,932 in salaries, chemicals and fuel and the planned replacement of a vehicle for a total of $9,000.

$3,221 in the assistant city manager's budget; $9,294 in the public health department; $8,313 in the building department and zoning department; $23,110 in the police department, primarily by replacing four vehicles rather than the eight planned and through eliminating purchases of furniture, office supplies, clothing and police machinery; $23,480 from public works department by delaying purchase of a dump truck and extending sidewalk construction programs from five to 10 years.

$2,000 from city commission expenses; $202 from city attorney salary, FICA and pension.

Sanford City Manager Warren E. Knowles will return to Sanford Sunday after attending a conference of the International City Managers' Association in Quebec, Canada for five days. Knowles is regional vice president of the organization.

Pair Object To Story, Editor Beaten

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (UPI) — Two men objecting to newspaper reports of the police record belonging to a plane crash victim beat up and forced the hospitalization of the Fort Pierce News Tribune city editor, police said.

Howard Sharp suffered a broken nose and cheekbone and was reported in fair condition Wednesday night at Lawwood Medical Center.

Arrested after the incident Tuesday afternoon were Richard Rampy, the brother of man killed in the plane crash Sunday, and Johnny Davis, both 32.

"They walked into the news room through a side door for employees and went straight for Sharp," reporter Mark Weinberg (former Evening Herald reporter) told police. "He was knocked from his chair and beaten to the ground."

Robert Enns, executive editor of the News Tribune, was slugged in the forehead when he and other newspaper employees — including Christina Mayers — rushed in to help Sharp.

Davis had complained to News Tribune editors earlier in the day about a story in the newspaper run about a Sunday plane crash in which Rampy's brother, Charles Rampy, was killed and the victim's brother-in-law, Ronnie Blas, critically injured.

The story reported that Charles Rampy was on probation and had a criminal record that included arrests on narcotics charges and transportation of firearms by a convicted felon.

Before police arrived, Rampy told the news room staff that "I begged him not to run that story. I know I'm going to be arrested, but I don't care."

Both Rampy and Davis were charged with burglary with intent to commit assault and Rampy also faced charges of aggravated battery and disorderly intoxication.

Charles Rampy was killed when the light plane he was flying crashed and burned west of Fort Pierce Sunday. Witnesses said the plane crashed when its wing hit a palm tree while making a turn.

Blas was reported in critical condition Wednesday in Tampa General Hospital's burn ward.

Swindled, Starving, She's Just Waiting For Death

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (UPI) — Spreading a night in jail on a charge of shoplifting food to keep from starving is the last indignity 91-year-old Mattie Schultz wants to suffer on this Earth.

"I pray and pray every night for the Lord to take me out," the white-haired widow said after her release from the Bexar County Jail Wednesday. "You would lose, if you were in the same condition."

Mrs. Schultz, who lost her husband to cancer, said she had "nothing left to live for" and "wasn't having problems with my heart," aging 24 hours in jail on a charge she shoplifted $15.94 in ham, sausage and butter from a supermarket.

Night Magistrate Mary Elizabeth Ladd had ordered her jailed in lieu of $400 cash bond.

The elderly woman was billed out of her life savings — $4,900 — in 1973 in a "pigeon drop" scheme in which a band of criminals left her with only $10. Townspeople gave donations that year as she could have Thanksgiving dinner.

As she walked out of jail Wednesday with the assistance of deputies, she said she took the food because "I was desperate."

IN BRIEF

Carter Signs Trade Pact, Could Create 100,000 Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter today signed the law the largest trade agreement in U.S. history, a measure the administration claims will create 100,000 American jobs and help narrow the nation's trade deficit.

The bill, which gained overwhelming approval from Congress, will bring U.S. law into conformity with the international trade agreement that was signed by the United States and 99 other nations last April in Geneva.

Carter's signature in a White House Rose Garden ceremony culminated six years of tough bargaining with other countries.

Basically, the trade accord would cut tariffs by about one third on hundreds of kinds of merchandise over the next eight years and contains agreements on settling disputes involving non-tariff barriers to trade.

Volcker Nomination Lauded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's nomination of New York banker Paul Volcker to head the Federal Reserve System has been greeted with a chorus of praise from both banking and congressional leaders.

Volcker is a widely respected economist likely to stress firm anti-inflation policies as chairman of the Fed.

The nomination was announced Wednesday along with the naming of retired Time Inc. editor Hedley Donovan to be a senior White House advisor.

Volcker will fill the unexpired portion of departing Chairman G. William Miller's 14-year Federal Reserve term, which runs until Jan. 31, 1992.

Label Rules Are Revised

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumers would receive more accurate and complete how-to-label information on the labels of slacks, blouses and other articles of clothing under rules approved by the Federal Trade Commission.

In addition, the use of care labels would be required for the first time on leather and suede goods and on rugs and upholstered furniture.

The four commissioners Wednesday approved in substance a revision of the FTC's decade-old set of rules governing what labels should tell consumer about washing, drying and other aspects of care.

KKK To March In Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Police and Ku Klux Klan leaders expect Saturday's march by Klansmen to be peaceful, but a police tactical squad will be on hand to defuse violence in a city experiencing its first serious racial unrest since the turbulent 1960s.

The racial unrest subsided in the '70s, but the police killing of an unarmed black woman last month brought renewed outrage by civil rights leaders and confrontations in the predominantly black neighborhood.

The rioting occurred Sunday, July 22, when a patrolman who mistook her for a robbery suspect. The march was possibly the biggest black demonstration since the 1960s.

The Klan announced afterwards it would march this Saturday.

78-Degree Rule Working?

Modest reductions in electrical consumption have been noted by some utilities since President Carter's order to raise thermostat settings to 78 degrees last July 16, but officials are reluctant to credit that solely to conservation.

"Our loads are somewhat lower, but there are so many different variables that make it impossible to put your finger on one and say this is what's causing it," said Bill Harrah, spokesman for Chicago's Commonwealth & Edison.

Most utility officials surveyed by United Press International Wednesday said it is too early to tell if the Carter-mandated 78-degree thermostat minimums will result in reduced demand for electricity — and ultimately for oil.

Missile System OK Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — To rally support among doubting senators, the White House plans to ask Congress to authorize funds for the $30 billion MX missile system before the Senate votes on the SALT II treaty.

But it seems unlikely this move will calm the fears of such hard-nosed senators as Henry Jackson, D-Wash., or Sam Nunn, D-Ga., who believe the White House may not be determined enough to spend heavily to upgrade the nation's strategic forces.

MacDonald is apparently being much of its case on one of its deaths.

Few details are too minute to escape the attention of defense attorney Bernard Segal during cross-examination of investigators. He spent two days questioning one investigator earlier this week, turning up several mistakes by authorities, and plans similar questioning for a second investigator who testified Wednesday.

MacDonald is accused of killing his wife Victoria, 26, and daughters, Kimberly, 6, and Kristen, 2, more than nine years ago in their Fort Bragg apartment.

Priests' Maternity Benefits

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — The comptroller of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Spokane thinks it's "stupid" that he and other priests have to pay for maternity coverage.

Because of a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling, the 66 priests of the sprawling eastern Washington diocese are now required to pay 30 cents a month for maternity coverage as part of their group health plan.

School Drug Crackdown Rule Nearer

By SHARON CARRASCO Herald Staff Writer

Before issuing parking permits, high school students in Seminole County may have to sign a form consenting to a search of their car for contraband such as stolen goods, drugs or alcohol.

A second part of the proposed policy includes middle school students who would be required to sign a form consenting to a locker search by their principal for contraband materials.

"The purpose of this policy is to deter students from bringing contraband to school, with the hope that it will decrease the use of drugs and alcohol on the school grounds," Ray said.

The board instructed Ned Julian Jr., school board attorney, to ensure both the policy and student permit is written in their best legal form by the Aug. 8 board meeting.

Board members will discuss the merits of the proposed policy Aug. 8 and either accept or vote it down on Aug. 22.

Following the meeting, Ray said the school code of conduct already passed a bill that will finance a sound energy program for our country and leave plenty of new funds and incentive for increased exploration and production of oil and gas in our own country."

"Now it is the Senate's turn, and there will be a massive struggle to get the windfall profits tax bill," Carter said.

"If this happens, then we cannot reach our energy goals."

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he wants the legislation, which would tax the profits oil companies will derive from the sale of newly decontaminated domestic oil, on Carter's desk by Oct. 1.

Senate Debates Windfall Profits

Carter Seeks Voters' Support On Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter has appealed to his power to get such a "massive struggle" by the oil industry to get the windfall profits tax passed earlier by the House.

Carter said Wednesday night the United States will not reach its energy goals if the 50 percent windfall tax is weakened in the Senate.

"I want to serve notice tonight that I will do everything in my power to get such a massive struggle" by the oil industry to get the windfall profits tax passed earlier by the House.

He said Americans "overwhelmingly support" such a tax, adding the House "has already passed a bill that will finance a sound energy program for our country and leave plenty of new funds and incentive for increased exploration and production of oil and gas in our own country."

Bundy Defense Aide: 'We Never Believed That He Was Innocent'

MIAMI (UPI) — "Nobody on the defense team really believed he was innocent," said a defense aide after Theodore Bundy was convicted of strangling two Florida State University students and attacking three other students.

"Just because we're lawyers doesn't mean we're stupid," said the member of the legal staff who did not want to be identified.

That belief did not seem to hamper the defense, however. Circuit Judge Edward Cowart repeatedly praised the team as the best advocates he has seen in his courtroom in 27 years on the bench.

The fatal flaw in the defense case of the Utah law school dropout could have been his lawyers, Haggard said. It would not be an appeals point.

"There's not going to be any reversible error on competency of counsel," Haggard said.

"There's widespread speculation that Bundy will get the death penalty."

Bundy, himself, predicted in the closing days of the trial he would be sentenced to die if the jury brought back a first degree murder conviction.

Defense attorney Lynn Thompson admitted before the verdict there was not much hope of saving Bundy if he was convicted. "If you don't give the death penalty for a crime like this, what do you give for it?"

Cowart has sent three men to Florida's Death Row — once overruling a jury's recommenation for mercy.

The seven-man, five-woman jury found Bundy guilty after 5 1/2 hours and 30 minutes of deliberation. The jurors had reviewed only two pieces of evidence — the pen-and-ink sketches drawn from Nita Neary's description of the fleeing killer and a panty hose mask found in a duplex four blocks from the sorority house.

"They didn't look at the dental stuff at all," said Thompson.

The same jurors, who remain sequestered at the Sonesta Beach luxury resort on Key Biscayne, will hear testimony beginning Saturday before recommending either death or life in prison for Bundy.

Bundy will be sentenced at the conclusion of the second phase of the trial then will be taken to Lake City to stand trial for the murder of 12-year-old Kimberly Diane Leach. The runner-up junior high school Valentine queen disappeared Feb. 9, 1978, just 25 days after the Chi Omega killings.

State prosecutors say Bundy will stay in Florida and will not be released to stand trial in other states where he is suspected in 36 sex-slayings.

Education 'Victory'

Remains Uncertain

House approval of a controversial bill to create a federal Department of Education has been hailed by the White House as a victory. The Senate already had voted to create the Cabinet-level office supported by President Carter.

But the House version and the Senate version are far apart. The gap may be too wide to be bridged in a House-Senate conference committee.

Basically, the legislation authorizes consolidation within a single department of educational programs now administered by four departments and an independent foundation.

And even the basics have drawn opposition from an unlikely coalition made up of conservatives who fear a massive educational bureaucracy and further federal "meddling" in local affairs and liberals concerned over the potential split of social concern now concentrated in HEW. The House measure adds fuel to the continuing debate.

To win conservative support, the representatives adopted amendments providing for voluntary prayer in schools, prohibiting withholding of federal funds to enforce busing as an integration tool, banning use of racial or sexual quotas for college admissions and prohibiting abortions in medical facilities for department employees.

It is doubtful that the House will accept deletion of the amendments in conference, after adopting them by margins of 2 to 1. And it is unlikely that liberal members will continue to support the concept if the amendments, which they hope will be scuttled in conference, remain intact.

Furthermore, neither the Senate nor the president finds the amendments acceptable. The Carter "victory," if it is a victory, is anything but secure.

The effort to reconcile differences by the conferees will be tinged with bitterness. And, no matter what the conference outcome, the controversy will not be resolved. The fight over a 12th Cabinet seat has not been won or lost, but merely moved to another arena.

The Big Shakeup

It is evident that President Carter takes his low status in the polls seriously. And well he may. The polls show his public standing at a level so low as to be unprecedented in the short but significant history of polling and the modern presidency.

Perhaps the president's discussions with leading citizens during his Camp David retreat deepened and confirmed his concern.

David Broder, the Washington Post columnist, suggests that Rosalynn Carter's advice to her husband may be a factor in the president's reaction.

Was it overkill to request the resignations of all his Cabinet secretaries and White House staff executives? Is it a public relations spectacular that was perhaps a bit too dramatic? If Cabinet and staff changes were desired, could they not have been accomplished in a more orderly and effective way on an individual, less publicized basis?

Will the result be that the reins of power are clutched more tightly in the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Carter and the Georgia Mafia? Will this affect the image of an open presidency which was promised by Mr. Carter in 1976?

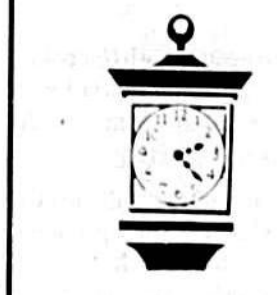

Is the president failing or is he actually going to make his presidency more effective? We don't know but we are vaguely disturbed by all this melodrama at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

ANGLE-WALTERS

Detroit Errs, Still Thinks Big

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There is no more pitiful example of the inability of the domestic auto industry to learn new tricks than the domestic auto industry's continued resistance to the production and sale of compact, economical passenger cars.

In the midst of the recent increase in gasoline prices to the dollar-a-gallon level, for instance, General Motors Corp. mounted a major advertising campaign to sell its Oldsmobile Delta 88 to "those who don't want to settle for less than full-size comfort."

With motorists increasingly worried about miles-per-gallon efficiency, GM is touting a new member called miles-per-tankful. By that standard, the Oldsmobile is a champion because it has a huge 26-gallon gas tank.

Because the country's largest automakers remain oblivious to the concept of fuel economy, the inventory of unsold domestic cars now stands at 2 million vehicles — the highest level in the industry's history.

Yet the automakers continue to deceive themselves, proclaiming that big car sales will pick up as soon as the current gasoline crisis is forgotten.

Recent history suggests otherwise. When Germany's Volkswagen began exporting the now-famous Beetle to the United States in 1950, America's automakers confidently predicted that imports would never account for even 5 percent of the country's total passenger-car sales.

When that unwarranted optimism proved totally unfounded, industry officials coped with the problem by merely adjusting their projections — first to 10 percent, then 15 percent, then 20 percent. Today, surging imports account for 25 percent of all sales.

Even that number is deceptively low because the more than 130,000 Volkswagen Rabbits produced at VW's New Stanton, Pa., plant since it opened in April 1978 have been counted as domestically produced rather than imported cars.

Following the introduction of the Beetle to this country, American Motors Corp. in the early 1950s produced a highly successful domestic subcompact, the Rambler.

But the Big Three of the industry — GM, Ford and Chrysler — ignored both the Beetle and the Rambler. In fact, Ford's response was the 1956 introduction of the Edsel, a behemoth that was a financial disaster.

By 1960, the Big Three reluctantly began to market compact (but not subcompact) cars. GM introduced Corvair, Ford produced the Falcon and Chrysler's entry was the Valiant.

But those manufacturers reverted to form in the succeeding years, making their "compact" bigger and heavier, plating them with chrome trim and tacking on high-priced but barely necessary accessories.

Air Force's 'Flying Turkey' Is Costly

WASHINGTON — In what some Pentagon insiders are calling "The Great Plane Robbery," the Air Force has been costing millions of dollars a year from Congress to keep its controversial C-5A transport planes from falling apart in mid-air.

The C-5A, of course, is the flying turkey that gobbled up $2 billion of taxpayers' money in cost overruns a decade ago. Exposure of this scandal cost A. Ernest Fitzgerald his Pentagon job. The taxpayers were later called upon to extend a $250 million loan guarantee to the plane's manufacturer, Lockheed-Georgia.

What has not been noticed, however, is the equally scandalous fact that for at least two years the Air Force has been requesting funds to pay Lockheed for the correction of design errors that were known to exist almost from the start. The ongoing bailout effort is needed to keep the C-5A's cracking wings from falling off in flight.

The total cost of the wing correction program eventually could reach the same figure as the original cost overrun — $2 billion. What most glibly congressmen don't know, but the Air Force has admitted in secret internal documents we have obtained, is that even when the wing problem is solved, still more money will be needed to correct other weaknesses in crucial parts of the Air Force's most expensive lemon.

The price tag for the C-5A already was staggering before the wing-correction drain began. The original cost estimate was $1.8 billion per plane, but the delivery price actually proved to be $65 million. Add on the $20 million bill for each plane's wing fix and the total cost comes to $85 million apiece — more than three times the original estimate. And this astronomical figure will fly still higher as other already identified defects are corrected.

The most shocking thing about the wing problem is that the Air Force knew about it even before it took delivery on the first C-5A. Now it is asking Congress for money to redesign the entire wing.

The trouble with the C-5A wing is stunningly simple: Stress tests show that it will wear out at a point somewhere between 6,000 and 8,500 flying hours. It was supposed to weather at least 30,000 in the air.

Even after correction, the wings will last only 20,000 hours. But by that time, other parts of the aircraft will have begun to disintegrate, according to the Air Force documents.

"The rest of the aircraft has had problems that cannot be passed over lightly," an internal report states. "Test results dating from 1972 showed that the C-5A's fuselage is 'highly sensitive to stress corrosion,'" the report notes, adding: "The C-5A is perhaps the most corrosion-sensitive large aircraft ever built. Additionally, it is a victim of an Air Force-wide lack of understanding of corrosion in general."

Other problems with the Air Force's multimillion-dollar flying mistake: —The C-5A's nose landing gear and landing-gear yoke will require replacement. —Aluminum power-distribution cables are already beginning to deteriorate. —The navigation systems "are not expected to be economically supportable for the proposed life" of the plane.

—Fire hazards exist despite an intensive — and expensive — fire-prevention system. "We must clearly recognize that the (system) must not go to the root of the problem," Air Force brass has been told at a 1975 briefing.

The same briefing noted that the original contract with Lockheed failed to provide adequate oversight by the Air Force on safety features. The contract didn't even call for safety studies as part of the "owner's manual" purchased from Lockheed, the briefing document noted, "that they are not available today in the Air Force files."

Footnote: A Lockheed spokesman said he's never heard of the internal Air Force documents we have obtained, and said the 30,000-hour life expectancy was a "goal," not a firm contractual requirement. An Air Force spokesman claimed the cost of the wing corrections would not exceed $13 million.

SOUND OFF: Q. A recent article you contain a reference to Mobil in connection with petroleum prices. We wish to end emphatically that Mobil has at any time encouraged the Saudis to increase petroleum prices. —Rawleigh Warner Jr., chairman, Mobil Oil Corp.

A. The executive officers of the four Arabco partners, including Mobil, met with Saudi oil minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani in San Francisco in September 1973. They agreed together upon a price increase, which became the forerunner of the disastrous 1974 price explosion. Sources inside Arabco told me the oil companies encouraged the September 1973 price rise. They never felt it would lead to higher domestic oil prices, which would make it economically feasible to recover more crude from their U.S. oil properties. The documents available to me do not make clear whether Mobil, during its part in the negotiations, "encouraged" the price increase or merely accepted it.

Carter Repackages Old Ideas

By DON GRAFT

Maybe he will be able to pull it off. After all, there were those who laughed — and even more who paid no attention whatsoever — when he set out four years ago to become president.

Jimmy Carter has demonstrated that he is capable of accomplishing the unlikely. Maybe he will be able to do it again on a much vaster scale, rallying Americans to his crusade against the energy crisis and in the process leading the nation to a moral and spiritual regeneration.

Maybe. But success in the long haul is going to require more than a Sunday School lesson, an admission of past failing and a vow to do better. Americans are going to have to do more than join hands and speak well of their country. What is being asked of them, and at what cost, is going to have to be explained clearly, in detail and very convincingly if their support for an energy program that may lead to independence only after great sacrifice is to be won and, more important, sustained.

Maybe Jimmy Carter, who promises leadership, will be able to do this. But promises are one thing, delivery something else entirely. It is he who is initially raising more questions than he is answering in the serial unfolding of details of his $142 billion master plan.

The expense of the undertaking is of an order greater than anything the nation hitherto has been asked knowingly to commit itself to. He says that the required billions will be redirected from foreign suppliers into American pockets. But they also must first come out of American pockets in the form of higher fuel prices before being rechanneled into energy developments.

Eye Glasses Obsolete?

By DANIEL F. GILMORE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A visiting Soviet eye surgeon predicts eye glasses one day will follow horses and bugles and end up as museum oddities.

Syatoslav N. Fyodorov, 52-year-old director of the Moscow Research Laboratory of Experimental and Clinical Problems of Eye Surgery, says "man has been held in bondage to spectacles for the last 500 years — they help overcome but do not correct the underlying handicap."

A husky, barrel-chested man in a yellow leather jacket over a bright orange shirt, Fyodorov said at a news conference at the Soviet Embassy that a simple five to ten minute operation can eliminate the need for eyeglasses or contact lenses for many people suffering from myopia, or nearsightedness.

He also was optimistic about the use of plastic lens implants for people who have cataracts removed.

Dr. Carl Kufner, director of the National Eye Institute which is part of America's National Institutes of Health, said it was his opinion that studies are necessary to see if the myopia surgery produces any long-term adverse effects. He also questioned the need for such surgery when eye glasses correct nearsightedness so easily.

"This bulging outwards pull on the center portion of the cornea causing its curvature to flatten or to become less. Since it is this high curvature that causes the myopia in the first place, the myopia is therefore removed by this flattening."

"The whole procedure takes only five minutes and takes effect immediately," Fyodorov said. "The patient may experience some mild discomfort the first day and most patients return to work within four to five days."

Fyodorov said that he and other Soviet doctors since 1972 have performed some 1,300 operations and were able to correct myopia in 97 percent of the cases.

"Not one single case got worse and every case got better," he said.

Longwood Utilities Commitment To Be Honored

By JANE CASSBERRY Herald Staff Writer

The attorney for Sanlando Utilities, John Lowndes, has informed the Longwood City Commission by letter that his firm will honor a previous commitment to turn over water and sewer lines in three Longwood subdivisions to the city.

When the Winsor Manor, Devonshire and the Moorings developments were built, water and sewer service were provided by Sanlando with the understanding that when the city developed the capability of serving the areas, the lines would be turned over to Longwood.

Since the city's new well went into service last January, the commission has wanted to connect the subdivisions to the city line. There has been some question on the wording of the agreement and Sanlando has not been willing to turn over just the water lines, with the city not having the capability to provide sewer service.

Longwood City Attorney Ned Julian Jr. said Lowndes also agreed to turn over to the city lift stations when the city has the capability of providing sewer service to the area.

The city is now capable of providing water service, but is currently negotiating with Longwood Utilities, Inc. for the purchase of its package sewage treatment plant. The plant is owned by the Longwood Utilities plant area in the process of increasing its capacity through a refurbishing and expansion program.

"They said they might even treat the sewage for us temporarily until the Longwood Utilities plant is ready," Julian said.

Asked why Sanlando Utilities suddenly is so agreeable, Julian said, "They need the capacity because they have been cited by DER (Department of Environmental Regulation)." Commissioner Ray Leibensperger called the Longwood Utilities plant a "bank of junk."

Commissioner Lacy Goldberg later in the meeting again moved the ordinance being placed on the agenda for first reading.

This time it was seconded by Commissioner J.R. Grant. A public hearing was set for Aug. 27.

In other business, the commission: —Voted approval of a plan in which property owners in the Longwood Industrial Park will participate in a paving and drainage program at no cost to the city through a special tax district.

—Gave final approval to the annexation of Longwood Industrial Center property at the request of its owner, Bernard Bennett.

—Passed an ordinance amending the PUD (Planned Unit Development) ordinance to provide for final review by the Land Planning Agency prior to final site plan approval by the commission.

—Assessor Terry Goemelt that in order to generate the same amount of tax money the city received last year, the certified millage would come to $2.83 per $1,000 assessment. Last year's tax was at $2.56 per $1,000 assessment. The certified rate will generate $278,376.31 in property taxes for the city. The maximum that could be set without a referendum would be $2.91 per $1,000.

REV. RALPH ABERNATHY

The widow King's views are no secret. She hasn't been close to Abernathy since he became president of the Southern Christian Leadership Council.

Mrs. King's husband had founded the organization, and she split with Abernathy when she felt he was not making decisions in the best interest of SCLC.

Mrs. King is now known to believe that Abernathy's decisions have ruined SCLC. He resigned as president earlier this year, and left the council in financial and structural shreds.

SCLC membership is down significantly, contributions are way off, reportedly, the group is $10,000 in debt.

Abernathy too is in debt. When Jimmy Carter selected former Rep. Andrew Young to be United Nations ambassador two years ago, Abernathy took out a second mortgage on his home to run for the vacant seat. He lost, badly, and friends say he's now making "fairly substantial" payments on a $50,000 note.

The debt and the political setback may have contributed to Rev. Abernathy's present acrimony. He entered the race in the belief that his national reputation would dazzle the voters. But Mrs. King did not support him, nor did Andrew Young; he drew less than 5 percent of the primary vote.

Observers say Abernathy was not prepared for the loss.

WASHINGTON — "Hearing loss is our nation's most widespread handicapping disability, affecting more than one out of every 13 Americans," said Joseph J. Rizzo, executive director of the Better Hearing Institute (BHI), announcing national "Quiet Year."

"Hearing impairment affects more people than heart disease, cancer, blindness, tuberculosis, multiple sclerosis, venereal disease and kidney disease combined. And according to EPA studies, U.S. cities are growing louder every year, causing our nation's hearing problems to reach catastrophic proportions."

In order to call attention to the urban noise crisis and the role it plays in hearing loss, BHI has teamed up with Midas-International Corporation — the muffler people — to sponsor the "Quiet Year."

Richard P. de Camara, president of Midas, explained that the company is cosponsoring "Quiet Year" because it feels an obligation to warn people about the growing noise danger.

Abernathy In Seclusion

'His Ideas No Longer Relevant'

By TOM TIEDE

ATLANTA (NEA) — When Martin Luther King Jr. was killed in 1968 there was an inglorious struggle among his associates to determine who would replace him as leader and chief spokesman of the civil rights movement.

But though Abernathy inherited some of King's titles, and followers, he was never widely accepted as a satisfactory replacement. Friends say Abernathy dreamed of being as venerated as King has been. But in the respect that did not come, the friends add, he grew frustrated, then embittered.

Now, a decade after his rise as the black vanguard, Rev. Abernathy's disappointment has said to be total. He has alienated former colleagues, resigned his principal office in the movement and withdrawn into the seclusion of his family.

Observers say he's all but finished as a civil rights warrior.

Abernathy denies he's dropping out of the cause. He insists he's still engineering the drive for social and economic democracy. But Atlanta acquaintances say he's already given up his day has past; Hosea Williams, an old comrade, puts it this way: "His ideas and activities are no longer relevant to the lives of black citizens."

There are some who believe that Abernathy's activities have seldom been relevant to the lot of his people. Gerardo Scott King, the widow of Abernathy's mentor, says privately that Abernathy has a "disagreeable tendency to be more interested in his own position than that of the black community."

The widow has told confidants that Rev. Abernathy's optimism is offensive. She says most of his speeches are filled with references to his own accomplishments. She says he gives the impression that he and Martin Luther King arm, virtually invented civil rights in America.

Mrs. King was pleased last year when Abernathy was only given a passing roll in a television drama regarding her husband's life. Abernathy felt he'd been slighted in the presentation, and accused the King family of manipulating history. Mrs. King said he did not deserve a bigger part in the picture.

Suspect?

At approximately 7:30 in the morning of Wednesday, May 2, 1979, a young woman on her way to work driving her 1978 black Grand Prix was stopped at the traffic light on Summerlin and Anderson Streets in Orlando.

Having both front windows of her car rolled down because of the early morning dew, she was approached by a white male, approximately 25 years old, who asked her for a ride up onto the Interstate. When she refused, he forced his way into her car and ordered her to take him to Altamonte Springs. He stated that he was on his way to Cincinnati, Ohio.

Once eastbound on I-4 as they approached Princeton, the suspect started to fondle the victim. She pulled onto the median strip on I-4 just south of Princeton, demanded that the suspect get out, and when he refused, she attempted to exit the vehicle. He grabbed her, forced her back into the car and raped her as the morning rush hour traffic sped by.

The suspect is described as being 5'7", medium build, light brown hair cut in a long shag, short beard, and wearing gray suspenders with faded blue jeans and a silver choker chain around his neck. According to the victim, the subject also had a very bad odor.

Miss Garrett, S. J. Schwalm Repeat Vows

Laura Jo Garrett and S. Jerry Schwalm were married July 7, at 7:30 p.m., in the gazebo of Centennial Park, Sanford. Rev. Michael A. Andrews of the Merritt Island Presbyterian Church performed the sunset double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Garrett of Jewett Lane, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Johnson of West Palm Beach.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose for her vows a floor-length cotton blend in gowns fashioned along the Empire silhouette. The long lace-trimmed sleeves formed handkerchief points at the wrists. Wide lace bands reembodyered with sandalwood colored flowers outlined the V-shaped neckline and the ruffled tiers of the full skirt.

She wore an spray of baby's breath in her hair and carried a cascading bouquet of carnations and spider mums showered with baby's breath and long streamers.

Mary J. Faust of Orlando, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a blue A-line polyester crepe gown with the ruffled neckline graduating to a point at the center front. She carried a single blue carnation with matching ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Sherry Wilson and Juanita Golden. Their pink gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendants. The Otto Garrett, brother of the bride, was best man. Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held in the banquet room of the Trophy Lounge. Following a wedding trip tour of Central Florida, the newlyweds are making their home in Deltona. The bride is a customer service representative for Southern Premium Budget, Orlando. The bridegroom is employed by Liquid Foods, Inc., Sanford.

60th Wedding Anniversary Today

Today is special for Mr. and Mrs. William A. Leffler. The lifelong residents of Sanford are quietly celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary at their home, 1925 Hibiscus Court.

Mr. Leffler (Uncle Billy as he is affectionately called) is a former mayor of Sanford and former president of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce. He was also active in the Rotary Club and Chairman of the Board of Chase and Company.

Mrs. Leffler, the former Renee Elizabeth Murrell, taught school in Sanford before her marriage. They have lived in their present home for 44 years.

The couple has three children, Mrs. William (Beth) Bush of Sanford; Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffler of Longwood; and Mrs. Lila Walling of Leesburg. They have 11 grandchildren.

Injured In Second Seminole Accident

Lake Wales Man, 23, Killed In Collision

One man was killed and at least eight other persons injured in two separate auto accidents within minutes of each other at Sanford's outskirts Thursday.

The Thursday fatality brought to 25 the number of traffic deaths in Seminole County since Jan. 1, according to the driver of the New Jersey car, Nicholas Van Buiten, 75, of Hawthorne, N.J., who was listed today in satisfactory condition at SMH where he was admitted for his injuries.

Although investigating officers have not yet completed their reports, preliminary information gathered at the scene indicates Van Buiten may have just left the Auto Train area and turned left onto Route 46 heading west in the eastbound lanes, instead of crossing over to the eastbound lanes before turning.

At the scene of the accident, several police officers attempted to put together the series of events leading up to the head-on crash, and one officer indicated it may have been bad luck that caused the crash because a minute or two before, passing motorists spotted the New Jersey car traveling in the wrong direction.

According to one Sanford patrolman, an off-duty law officer who himself had just finished lunch and was driving his vehicle eastbound on 46 heading toward Sanford, spotted the oncoming New Jersey car in the wrong lane.

Use Funds For Seminole Roads, Not Disney: Hattaway

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

There's money to help those on their way to ice cream and fun at Disney World, but not for those people trying to operate a business along Center Street in Altamonte Springs, state representative Bobby Hattaway told Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) members Thursday.

"I'm tired of seeing Seminole County and Orange County taxpayers' money used to finance highway improvements that benefit other people. We have a severe need for road improvements that would make conditions safer along Center Street."

"It is time that those who receive the benefits of our tax money start paying their fair share. I'd rather see state money spent in Seminole County than for the people at Disney World," Hattaway said.

Hattaway's remarks came prior to a vote by MPO members to approve a 20-year, $400 million highway plan prepared by the Florida Department of Transportation (DOT) for Orange, Seminole and Osceola counties.

Seminole representatives, upset at the manner in which $180 million of the highway funds are scheduled to be distributed were successful in gaining a compromise on the plan. While the plan as presented was approved, members agreed to amend and revise priorities if necessary. According to the plan, Orange County will receive $30 million in road improvements by the year 2000 and Seminole will receive about $50 million. Of that total, about $29 million comes from state license tag revenues, gas taxes allocated by the state and other revenues on a fixed formula basis.

The remaining $180 million comes from the first four cents on state gas tax and federal gas taxes. That money is given to regional DOT planners for use according to their priorities. A breakdown of the plan presented shows Orange County will receive $160 million and Seminole County $20 million if no amendments are made.

The motion to approve the plan with the right to amend it was made by Seminole representative Sandra Glenn. It passed on a vote of 8-1, with fellow Seminole representative and county commissioner Bill Kirchhoff voting in opposition. Seven panel members were absent.

Ms. Glenn first asked for a 30-day delay so that members could study ways to distribute the funds more equitably. But she dropped that proposal when DOT spokesmen said a delay would be unwise because the funds for consultant's work on the project had expired and technical expertise could not be provided a month from now.

"Perhaps if the Seminole County representatives' attendance record were better, they wouldn't need more time to study the plan, they would have known what was going on," Orlando Mayor Carl Langford said. Langford is chairman of the MPO.

"The problem is there are just four of us; we can get out-voted. We're a minority," Ms. Glenn replied.

Kirchhoff said he was not satisfied with the panel's action. He said he does not feel Seminole County ultimately will get a fair shake in funding.

"If (the plan) was approved without our input, I don't think our request was unreasonable. When Orange County wanted its Iron Bridge sewer and needed our cooperation, we spent hours and hours of our time trying to help. I think we should have been extended the same courtesies," Kirchhoff said.

Kirchhoff said the attendance record at MPO meetings among Seminole representatives was as good as that of Orange County and Orlando representatives. He said he attends about 50 percent of the meetings.

The plan at present calls for the immediate construction of an $8 million interchange near Disney World at Buena Vista, while improvements to Center Street in Altamonte Springs would not be made until 1995.

Among the projects scheduled for completion in Seminole County before 1989 are the following:

STATE ROUTE 431 - four-laning from S.R. 436 to the Orange County line.

INTERSTATE 4 - six-laning from S.R. 434 to S.R. 436.

MATLAND BLVD. - four-laning from S.R. 431 to the Orange County line.

STATE ROUTE 436 - interchange improvements and six-lane widening.

What's Killing Ducks Here?

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

What has caused the deaths of 45 wild ducks on Lake Monroe in the past 60 days, a kill that has reduced to five or less the flock that has inhabited the lake for several years?

Some of the remaining ducks and at least one Great Blue Heron on the lake are sick. The heron has been perching on the sea wall near the Monroe Harbour Marina for the past two days, moving only when someone approaches.

Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission biologist Sam McKinney and his assistant, Steve Crawford, were at the marina Thursday investigating the kill. They took a young Mallard and a Muscovie, both sick and obviously dying to the state commission's office in Ocala for testing, to determine the cause of the kill.

McKinney said the ducks were to be sent today to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Laboratories in Gainesville for analysis.

Randy Torbett, a yacht maintenance man employed at Monroe Harbour Marina, said the kill this week is the second to have occurred in the past 60 days. The first took place six weeks to two months ago, within days after U.S. Army Corps of Engineers personnel were in the lake on air boats, he said.

The Army Corps of Engineers were in Lake Monroe again last Friday, spraying the lake with a defoliant called "Two-Four D" to control the water hyacinth growth in the body of water, Torbett noted.

"Within three days after the corps came through with its air-boat to spray the hyacinths, the ducks started

Budget Woes In Lake Mary

By HUGH THOMSON
Herald Staff Writer

Lake Mary's tax rate is insufficient to provide enough revenues for necessary city services according to the city manager.

This was suggested in a work session of the Lake Mary City Council Thursday night which lasted four hours. The session was one of several recently in which discussion centered on the city's budget and the need to generate revenues.

At Thursday's meeting one fact was evident, according to Councilman Cliff Nelson, either salary cuts or cuts in personnel must be made, or there must be an increase in the property tax rate.

Alternative taxing methods, such as taxes on utilities, telephones or gas consumption, also were discussed.

Last year's budget in Lake Mary was $291,856. No firm budgeted amount for Lake Mary's next fiscal year has been set yet, but Lake Mary City Manager Phil Kulbes projected anticipated revenues of $438,530 and anticipated expenses of $550,465. In the general fund alone, according to Kulbes, anticipated revenues in round figures, are $329,000, an anticipated expenses have been computed at $428,000.

A tax increase of some kind appears to be the most feasible way to meet the problem, council members agreed.

A projected balanced budget, must be submitted by Sept. 15. A meeting of council will be held Monday at 3 p.m. to discuss possible new sources of revenues from the federal sources.

Councilman Pat Southward said the projected budget was not realistic and suggested placing a four percent tax on utilities, a nine percent tax on telephones, and a tax on natural gas usage, saying the gas company did not contribute a "dime" of revenue. Mrs. Southward did not recommend any percentage figure for gas.

Councilman Nelson said he favored an increase in the property tax.

Lake Mary's tax base consists of property appraised at approximately $44 million, with a local property tax rate of $3 per thousand of appraised value. The city of Longwood, to compare, has approximately $95 million in property as a base, with a rate of $2.83 per thousand; Casselberry's base is roughly $129 million, with a per thousand rate of $1.95; Sanford has approximately $153 million in property assessments, with a rate of $2.05; Winter Springs, bigger than Lake Mary in area by about 20 percent, has properties valued at approximately $85 million, with a rate of $2.05; Altamonte Springs has a $3.34 tax rate, with taxable properties valued at approximately $31 million.

According to a recently passed state law, municipalities cannot raise their tax rate more than 3 percent without a public referendum.

County Gasohol Sales Sputter To A Stop

Gasohol failed to ignite the enthusiasm of state inspectors—or two cars using the product—during the first market test of the gas-alcohol mixture being distributed by Saxon Petroleum Co. of Sanford.

On Thursday, the Shamrock Service Station on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Fern Park loaded a tank with gasohol and announced plans to begin selling the mixture as unleaded fuel for 98.9 cents per gallon. The product was then sold to four drivers. A short time later, two of those cars were towed back to the station. Fuel had gotten into the water and the cars sputtered to a halt.

"When we get there and inspected the gasohol coming from the pump, we noticed it was separating. There was water in it, so we put a stop order on the pump and prevented further sale," said Ben Bowen, lab chief for the Florida Department of Agriculture's petroleum inspection division.

"You have to be real careful with gasohol, it's more susceptible to water than gas" he said.

Bowen said it has not yet been determined whether the problem was in the gasohol itself or in the service station's storage tank.

"All we know is that there was water in the mixture as it came out of the pump," Bowen said.

However, the lab chief said that in another test of the 10 percent alcohol-90 percent gasoline fuel held in northern Florida, a similar problem occurred and an investigation indicated the water was coming from the storage tank and not the service station and not the gasohol being sent to the station.

"The state inspectors went out to our plant and tested the gasohol before it left. It was all right then," the Saxon spokesman said. "Moisture collects in almost all gas tanks, but it will mix with gasohol instead of separating right away like regular gas."

Al Black, Saxon Vice President, said his firm will have a new supply of gasohol ready by next week.

Meanwhile, in Tallahassee another gasohol experiment worked successfully. Lt. Gov. Wayne Mison got a tankful of the fuel and threw away with no difficulty. Mison said he tried gasohol to see if it gives him better mileage and because it's a way to stretch current limited supplies of gas.
