Veteran Teachers Get Pay Boost Under State Plan

By Jim Searls
Herald Staff Writer

The Public Employee Relations Commission has released its recommendations for resolving the two month-old contract impasse between teachers and the Seminole County School Board.

Initial reactions from both sides make it appear the Seminole Education Association, representing the county's 2,216 teachers, has won a victory in that teachers with more than 15 years experience, 527 of them, are recommended for an additional $150,000 more than the school board had previously approved.

Low pay hikes for veteran teachers compared to those for beginning teachers was cited as the main reason for teachers rejecting the first contract proposed in August.

The commission's recommendations must next be approved by the SEA and the school board. If the two parties fail to finalize an agreement by Dec. 2 the recommendations automatically take effect unless the school board, at a public meeting, votes to reject the plan. Marshall Ogletree, executive director of the SEA, said he is pleased with the results of the report by "special master" Robert Helsby of Jacksonville, but said he fears an error in the report may jeopardize ratification. He said Helsby, though in principle sided with the teachers, misunderstood some figures on an SEA exhibit and that was the basis for the report's suggestions.

"I am encouraged by the report but I would have been ecstatic had it not been for an error in calculation Mr. Helsby made," Ogletree said. "The error amounts to a difference of some $90,000 against the school board and I think they will seize on it in negotiations and they could possibly throw it (contract) out because of it."

"I am pleased that Helsby made a reference to the teachers deserving more pay and that he said the school board had the ability to pay the increases. I am pleased with the proposal," Ogletree said.

More Arrests Expected

4 Youths Charged In Wekiva Area Vandalism

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Four Wekiva area youths charged in connection with dozens of recent acts of vandalism in their neighborhood near Longwood, including setting four cars afire, gave investigators no motive for their alleged actions.

Seminole County sheriff's spokesman John Spolski said he believes "they need psychological help," and more parental control.

The parents, Spolski said will now be forced to become involved. "They will be expected to make restitution," he said. But so far Seminole County sheriff's investigators have not put a dollar value on the damage.

At least two other arrests in the Wekiva cases are expected and Spolski said the State Attorney will also be asked to issue warrants to charge three Rock Lake Middle School students in connection with 25 acts of vandalism in the Sabal Point subdivision.

Although the Sabal Point incidents occurred near the Wekiva area and are part of a "parallel investigation," they involve a separate set of suspects and are not related, Spolski said.

About half of the 45 acts of vandalism reported in the Wekiva Cove area occurred Oct. 30. Twenty-two cars and homes were hit on that date, Spolski said.

On Nov. 7 the vandals struck again and a 1985 Pontiac and a 1984 Ford were burned and two other cars torched, but not destroyed, Spolski said.

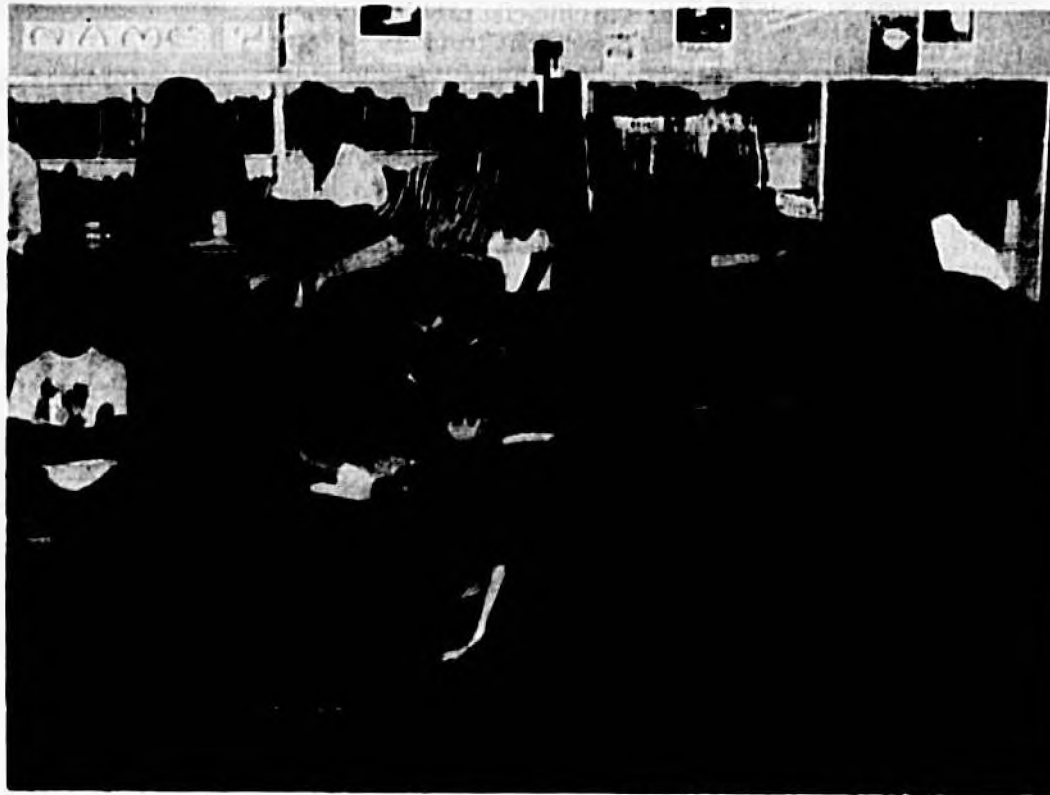

Spolski said sheriff's deputies Dale Wagner and Allen Hatzel, stationed at Lake Brantley High School and Rock Lake Middle School, were instrumental in providing information that reportedly linked both sets of vandals to the cases. Residents of the neighborhoods and students provided leads in the cases, he said.

In some cases "W's" were painted on vehicles and homes. Investigator Eric Bryant said the "W's" apparently stood for "Wasted Youth" a song by the rock group the Sex Pistols.

The four suspects charged were arrested at about 3 p.m. Wednesday, two at Lake Brantley High School and two at Teague Middle School, investigator Barry Brady said.

The 15 to 16 year olds have each been charged with four counts of arson, two counts of burglary to a vehicle and 10 counts of criminal mischief.

Woman Charged With Attempted Murder

A 40-year-old Orlando woman hospitalized for psychiatric evaluation after she allegedly shot at a Seminole County sheriff's deputy after threatening her therapist and his wife Oct. 18, has been charged with attempted murder.

The woman, who has been released from the hospital, heard a warrant had been issued for her arrest in connection with her having allegedly fired a single shot at deputy Robert Cox outside the office of William Piper at 2828 Casa Aloha Way, near Winter Park, according to a sheriff's report.

She surrendered at the Seminole County jail Tuesday and has been released on $8,000 bond.

According to the report, deputy Cox had been called to the scene of the alleged shooting by Piper's wife, Virginia, who said she had received a call at his office from a woman who warned them to leave because someone was on their way there to kill them.

The suspect arrived after Cox and when he confronted her in the parking lot after ordering the Pipers inside the building the woman shot at Cox, the report said.

He took cover behind his patrol car and drew his gun. The woman tried to reload her gun but after several commands from Cox dropped the weapon, the report said.

Lake Mary OKs Comprehensive Land Use Plan

Lake Mary has a Comprehensive Land Use plan. City commissioners approved the plan by unanimous vote after meeting in long special sessions Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

A land development code was preliminarily approved. The commission will meet again Friday at 3 p.m. to discuss the Lake Mary Boulevard transportation plan being prepared by city planners.

City Manager Kathy Rice said she was pleased with the passage of the plan.

The planning and zoning board also met for the first time since September Tuesday evening, as the local planning agency, to discuss the land development code and to make sure it is "compatible" with the comprehensive land use plan.

Wednesday the commission gave preliminary approval to the land development code by a unanimous vote. The land code is a document that deals with allowed land uses and is a part of the overall comprehensive plan.

The Comprehensive Land Use plan, prepared by independent planning consultant Diane Kramer, contains several key items. Among these are an urban development area, sewer service, a controversial development district (to protect the semi-rural character of the downtown area), the Lake Mary Boulevard corridor and sections dealing with zoning, density of development and setbacks and variances for building.

Much debate was generated Tuesday by the comprehensive plan with most of it centered on the downtown development district, the urban development area and the proposed intentions of Commissioner Charlie Webster to extend the downtown development district eastward along Lake Mary Boulevard.

Citizens at the meeting expressed concern over the anticipated widening of the boulevard to four lanes and some, including Norma Fertakis, had problems accepting any change in zoning for the community's main transportation artery.

Mrs. Fertakis wants the area to retain its residential zoning while another group of boulevard residents wants the strip to have a professional-office zoning so the city can regulate the type of businesses likely to invade once the road is widened and new developments come into the area. Commissioners vowed to investigate the situation but nothing official was done about it.

Mayor Dick Fess attempted to calm resident's fears by reminding them the comprehensive plan can be amended twice a year but Mrs. Fertakis, recently appointed to the board of adjustment, repeated her concerns.

"Citizens have the right to question how land is being used in their city," she said and she also said the commission was moving too fast in its rush to meet the Nov. 21 moratorium deadline.

Commissioner Ken King called the comprehensive plan "a loose document because of the density wording" but voted for the plan anyway.

Archbishop's Envoy Makes Contact With Kidnappers

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The archbishop of Canterbury's special envoy said today he has made contact with Moslem fundamentalist kidnappers of up to six Americans but warned that "people could lose their lives" if he is not left alone.

Terry Waite, who said "progress is being made," convened a hurried news conference at a west Beirut hotel after being found by cameramen and photographers near a hideout where he was awaiting further contact with the captors.

"I'd like to make a particular plea that I'm not to be followed by anybody because if that happens then that will jeopardize my own safety and the safety of other people," he said.

"It's extremely important because of the great, great sensitivity of the situation that I am left totally alone because anything I have to do beyond this point will have to be entirely by myself," the bearded Anglican envoy said.

The Briton was accompanied from his hotel by four militiamen earlier today but was alone when he suddenly arrived to talk to newsmen.

Waite, 46, secretary to Archbishop Robert Runcie, flew into Beirut Wednesday in a bid to make contact with the kidnappers of the six Americans, see the hostages and arrange their release.

"I really do have to just drop out of the picture. I'm prepared to go anywhere, having got this far, within reason," Waite said. "We're in touch (with the kidnappers) in several different ways."

"Progress is being made and we're moving forward."

He indicated he had not yet met the kidnappers but had made that a condition of his visit to Lebanon. Waite said he also wanted to meet the four American hostages who called on the archbishop last week for help.

The Reagan administration rejected a written appeal by the four Americans to negotiate with their captors, who are demanding that Kuwait free 17 of their comrades imprisoned for a series of bombings in December 1983.

"We have reached a very critical point and a very dangerous and difficult point. We have procedures being worked out now and I think we shall have those worked out in the course of the day," said the Anglican troubleshooter.

"If I'm going to protect the lives of the hostages and protect my own life, I also want to protect the lives of the captors," he said. "That's something I just have to do. I have to be concerned about their safety."

"They're taking a risk, obviously, in meeting me, just as much as I'm taking a risk meeting them. That's why I say, please, everyone, give me a chance to do that," Waite told reporters.

"A wrong move and people could lose their lives — including myself," he said.

Officials at the Iranian Embassy in Beirut said they were "in no way involved" in Waite's efforts. Waite has previously succeeded in mediating the release of an American Presbyterian minister in Lebanon and hostages in Iran and Libya.

The pro-Iranian Islamic Jihad movement has said it is holding the Americans.

Town 'Disappears' After Volcano Erupts

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — A volcano erupted after five centuries of inactivity, melting snow on nearby mountain peaks that sent flood waters crashing through four towns, the Red Cross said today. Radio reports said 100 people were missing.

A pilot who flew over the area near Volcano Arenas today said Armero, a city of 50,000, had "disappeared."

The volcano, inactive for some 500 years, erupted late Wednesday, spewing rock and ash over five nearby towns.

The number of people killed by the eruption was not immediately known but Red Cross officials said four towns were flooded when rivers swollen by with melting snow spilled their banks.

Red Cross officials said the towns of Armero, Chinchina, Honda and Libano were flooded and were left isolated when highways were overrun with water.

Bogota's El Espectador newspaper said three bodies were taken to a hospital and Bogota radio stations said about 100 people were missing from the flooding.

The volcano, about 100 miles west of Bogota in the Nevado del Ruiz Mountains in the state of Caldas, erupted at 10:50 p.m. Wednesday.

Three months ago the volcano began to spew smoke and ash, causing officials to reroute airlines around the area. Geologists from several nations — including the United States — were monitoring the volcano.

The Red Cross and the Civil Defense Department tried to evacuate the area, but the local residents, many of whom grow coffee, refused to abandon their crops.

Colombian Red Cross Director

Carlos Martinez said rescue workers had been unable to reach the area because highway bridges were washed away. Cloudy weather in Bogota halted air travel into the region.

"You can't get closer than 25 miles to Armero, which is the area most affected," Martinez said. "I can't tell you how many deaths there are. There have to be many people missing."

One boy told a Bogota radio station that nine members of his family were missing.

President Will Ask Nation To Reduce Summit Expectations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's nationally broadcast speech tonight marks the finale of an administration effort to scale down the once-lofty expectations for his summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

A senior administration official said Reagan's speech at 8 p.m. EST tonight would be "a comprehensive review of how the United States should conduct its affairs with the Soviet Union," with particular attention to defensive weapons and pointing out the Soviets' record on human rights.

The official also said Reagan would repeat the call from his speech last Saturday to the Soviet people for wider cultural and "human exchanges" between the two countries.

But the senior aide, who asked not to be identified, said it was "a very superficial notion" to expect that the meetings next Tuesday and Wednesday in Geneva, Switzerland, would "fundamentally alter the situation" between the two superpowers.

Second Seaman Seeks Asylum

HOUSTON (UPI) — A Romanian seaman fled from a freighter loading cargo in the Port of Houston and sought asylum in the United States, saying he wanted to live in a country where "freedom is respected."

The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service scheduled a hearing today for Paul Firica, 44, who told agents he wants to be a U.S. citizen. Firica is the second Romanian sailor to try to defect to the United States within one week.

INS officials in Houston said Firica, a diesel mechanic, was an assistant engineer on the freighter Zalau, which departed from Houston Tuesday night.

School Voucher Plan Offered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration has proposed establishing a controversial federal voucher program that would allow the poor to "buy" education services for their children at public or private schools.

Under the proposal outlined Wednesday by Education Secretary William Bennett, parents of about 4.8 million disadvantaged children grades one through 12 could be eligible for the vouchers, worth an average of $600 a year.

The proposal, which would shift about $3 billion already spent on such aid into the new program, must be approved by Congress.

Miranda Law In Court Challenge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 1966 Miranda rule requiring police to read suspects their rights should not be used to deter confessions, an administration lawyer told the Supreme Court during arguments in a murder case.

Rhode Island Deputy Solicitor General Andrew Frey urged the court Wednesday to reinstate the conviction of Brian Burbine, of Providence, R.I., in the 1977 bludgeoning death of Mary Joe Hickey.

Peres-Sharon Fight Threatens Israel's Coalition Government

JERUSALEM (UPI) — A political showdown between Prime Minister Shimon Peres and Trade Minister Ariel Sharon today threatened Israel's fragile coalition government.

Peres was determined to fire Sharon today if the controversial war hero failed to issue an "explicit and unambiguous" apology for bitter personal attacks on the prime minister's Middle East peace efforts, Israel radio said.

During a three-hour emergency Cabinet meeting Wednesday night, Sharon apologized for his harsh criticisms and said he supported the government's basic guidelines. But he failed to express confidence in Peres' leadership.

Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, leader of the right-wing Likud bloc to which Sharon belongs, warned Peres at the outset of the Cabinet meeting the "unilateral" dismissal was "destroying the possibility of the existence" of the coalition.

Botha To Reveal New Reforms

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — U.S. economic sanctions imposed to protest South Africa's racial policies began taking their toll as President Pieter Botha prepared for a speech today that could include new reforms of apartheid.

Botha was to address his advisory President's Council in Cape Town today. The topic of his address was not disclosed. Political analysts said it could include new steps to ease apartheid — South Africa's strict policy of racial separation.

The speech came one day after the Chamber of Mines confirmed that production of Krugerrand gold coins had been halted.

Irish Treaty May End Violence

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher today sought Cabinet approval of a historic treaty with Ireland to end 16 years of violence in Northern Ireland while assuring that the province remains British.

Cabinet approval today — and similar confirmation in Dublin — would pave the way for a summit with Irish Prime Minister Garret FitzGerald on the agreement.

Gunter Will Seek Broad, New Powers

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter Thursday said he will seek broad, new powers next year to fight skyrocketing insurance premiums that business owners complain have reached the crisis stage.

But business leaders Gunter gathered at a Tallahassee news briefing were divided on his plan's merits. And Rep. Art Simon, D-Miami, who is sponsoring the measure, said the plan might not prove a final solution.

"This may not be all that's on the table," Simon said. "There may be additional things we could be doing and we're going to look at all of them."

Businessmen and women — from architects to boatbuilders to independent truckers — have seen their premiums for commercial liability coverage jump from 20 percent to more than 400 percent over the past six months.

Businesses like child care centers, which are required by law to carry the coverage, are especially worried. So are professionals such as architects, who fear the coverage will be required of firms competing for government contracts.

"I'm convinced this crisis is shutting down business," Gunter said. "This is an issue that touches all our lives and it will take all of us together to fight it."

Gunter said he will ask the 1986 Legislature to:

- Give him power to disapprove commercial rates and surcharges not justified by an insurer's losses.

- Require 60 day notice of rate increases or policy cancellations.

- Force the industry to create a commercial joint underwriting pool to insure businesses and professionals required by law to carry coverage, but cannot buy it on the open market.

- Allow professional associations and groups of small businesses to establish self insurance pools.

- Allow financial institutions to own or control reinsurance companies, which back up insurance companies, as a way to sink more capital into the insurance industry.

- Require insurers to sink "excess profits" into a fund to reward businesses for acting to reduce risk of accidents.

- Allow businesses to buy group policies to spread their risk.

Gunter failed to win passage of similar proposals in 1982. He predicted the lawmakers will look more favorably upon his request next year because so many businesses have their backs to the wall.

Children For Children

Glenn Rinker, Orlando television news anchorman, told students at the Hamilton Elementary School of his experiences in Showak, Sudan covering the story of those starving Africans. The program was the kick-off for the "Children for Children" fund drive to raise money for food for the hungry people. The fund drive is county-wide.

Radioactive Waste Bill Passes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate committee Wednesday approved legislation designed to avert a crisis next year in the disposal of low-level radioactive nuclear waste, making important changes to win the support of three key governors.

The Energy Committee's 15-to-1 vote to approve the bill came after changes were made to accommodate four concerns expressed by the governors of South Carolina, Washington and Nevada — states that now have disposal sites.

The governors in a Nov. 11 letter told committee Chairman Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, they could not support a version of the legislation the panel's staff completed late last week.

"We simply laid down the gauntlet and said, 'If these things aren't done, the legislation is going to die,'" said Wright Andrews Jr., a lawyer representing the states and author of the Nov. 11 letter.

"People obviously didn't want the legislation to die," he said. "I think it's totally back on track. We can now refine the legislation."

Andrews said the turnaround was accomplished thanks to lobbying Tuesday by the governors and senators representing the three states.

"Lots of people got involved to correct the deficiencies in the staff draft," he said.

Congress is under pressure to pass a bill by the end of the year for the disposal of low-level radioactive waste — which consists of contaminated mopheads, rags and materials from power plants, hospitals and such facilities.

Under a 1980 law, other states — either alone or in regional compact — were to develop alternatives to the sites in South Carolina, Washington and Nevada by next year. None are ready, however, so the deadline is being extended.

Governors of the three states have indicated they may try to restrict access to their sites if Congress does not create a satisfactory transition period by January — and that's the purpose of the legislation.

Versions approved by two House committees — bills that have the three governors' support and are being consolidated before consideration on the floor — allow states access to the three existing sites until the end of 1992.

Those bills include caps on the amount of waste each site will take, surcharges on waste sent to the sites, milestones for each state or region to meet in establishing their own sites, and the potential for loss of access to existing sites if those milestones are missed.

A version of the legislation, drafted by Senate Energy Committee staff last Friday, would have removed the potential for loss of access and simply used surcharges to prod slow-moving states to develop their waste sites.

That change angered the three governors, and the bill passed by the committee today allows a state with a disposal site to take one of two actions if a state misses a milestone: cut off access or impose an unlimited surcharge on waste.

Andrews said the Energy Committee not only put the potential to cut off access back in its bill but actually made it tougher than the provision in the House legislation supported by the governors.

The committee's bill, Andrews said, also would make it tougher for states facing a cutoff to gain emergency access to existing sites than does the House legislation.

The Energy Committee also took care of three other relatively minor concerns the governors had raised in their Nov. 11 letter by either deleting the provisions or changing the wording.

Otherwise, the Senate panel's bill is similar to the House legislation.

Sen. Chic Hecht, R-Nev., and a member of the Energy Committee, called the bill "a good compromise" and "something everyone can live with." He stressed the importance of finishing the bill this year.

"If not, we're going to have to face some consequences," Hecht said.

The Senate Environment Committee, which also has jurisdiction over the matter, is expected to act on the measure in early December.

NATIONAL REPORT

Thunderstorms roared "like a train" through the Plains today, hurling heavy rain and large hail in advance of weakening snowstorms that left the mountains of the West covered with crumbling piles of snow several feet deep. Two cross-country skiers were in critical condition late Wednesday after they were buried by an avalanche near Salt Lake City, and the U.S. Forest Service Avalanche Center issued an avalanche warning for Utah above 9,000 feet. A total of 25 deaths have been blamed on snow, sleet, rain and fog produced by the massive storm system that has hovered over the West since Saturday — eight in Kansas; five in California; two each in Washington, Wisconsin, Iowa and Texas; and one each in Nevada, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana. Helicopters and tracking dogs joined cross-country skiers in the search for a 36-year-old elk hunter missing since Saturday in the Oregon Cascades. Three missing duck hunters in Utah were found alive and well Wednesday. Up to 5 inches of rain flooded roads and pushed small streams out of their banks today in southwestern Missouri. Winds and hail damaged roofs and windows in the area around Tulsa, Okla., which was drenched by 2 inches of rain. "Hail stones covered the ground, and there were very strong winds," said the Rev. Steve Breed from his church in Broken Arrow, a suburb of Tulsa. "I heard what sounded like a train going by. ... It looked like a typical tornado situation, but I did not see a funnel cloud." Seventy-mph winds and hail as big as tennis balls strafed Oklahoma City.

Commissioner To Decide Citrus Sales Ban

LAKE ALFRED (UPI) — The fate of a ban on the sale of trees by licensed citrus nurseries now rests in the hands of state Commissioner Doyle Conner, who ordered the ban Sept. 6.

The Citrus Canker Technical Advisory Committee recommended Tuesday the ban be lifted, with some stipulations, after a day-long hearing.

The recommendation was forwarded to Conner and Harvey Ford, chief of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal & Plant Health Inspection Service, and Conner will have the final say.

Conner imposed the ban as part of the joint state-federal effort to eradicate the citrus canker epidemic which has plagued the citrus industry since August 1984.

Canker is a highly contagious bacteria that kills trees but is harmless to people. The only known means of eradication is to burn infested and exposed trees.

Canker has been found in 17 nurseries and two non-commercial groves and more than 16 million young trees and seedlings have been destroyed.

The recommendation to Conner provides that nurseries must be free of trifoliata and citrumelo rootstock when they begin shipping young trees. Those two strains are regarded by some plant pathologists as being especially susceptible to canker.

The committee recommended the ban continue on movement of those two strains of citrus and called for new research programs and more liberal com-ensation for trees destroyed in the eradication program.

It also called for elimination of a current regulation requiring destruction of replacement trees in groves if they came from infected nurseries. Instead, the trees would be spared from destruction if they have been in the grove for two full summer seasons without showing signs of the disease.

Austin Thompson, an Auburndale nursery operator, said the nursery owners were talking about survival.

"It's a question of whether canker or you are going to break us," he told the committee. "It's a fact we are all going to die financially if you don't do something and do it quickly."

Joe Race of Dundee said trees left in the nursery would be exposed to a freeze and Vincent Sapp of Avon Park said there are good horticultural reasons for wanting to get the trees out of the nurseries and into the ground by Dec. 1. He also said tax considerations also favor planting by that date.

Stolen Car Suspect Eludes Capture After Chase

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy's curiosity about a car driving side-by-side with another vehicle on U.S. Highway 17-92 at Five Points turned into a high-speed chase, joined by five Sanford police cars, which ended in Brevard County.

Deputy Darren Tjomstol said he started at about 2 a.m. Wednesday following the suspect car north toward Sanford and when the driver realized he was being followed the man "took off" on 27th Street and turned east on State Road 46.

Tjomstol was joined by police to pursue the vehicle into Geneva, where Tjomstol later learned the 19-year-old woman who was a passenger in the car lives. The suspect took a "side tour" into Geneva, with lawmen pursuing his car and then continued east on State Road 46, through Volusia County and into Brevard County, where a Brevard sheriff's deputy picked up the chase, and Seminole and Sanford officers dropped out after about a one-half hour pursuit, Tjomstol said.

In Brevard the car traveled at speeds in excess of 100 mph south on Interstate 95, until the driver attempted to make a U-turn in Titusville. There the car hit a curb and a tire blew out, according to Brevard sheriff's inspector Rick Shimer.

The driver fled into a wooded area and had not been captured early Wednesday, Shimer said. During the chase Tjomstol had confirmed via radio that the car he was pursuing had been reported stolen in Jacksonville, where the 20-year-old driver is reportedly from.

Shimer said the woman was not charged because she apparently was just a passenger in the vehicle and had no knowledge that the car was stolen, or of items Shimer said deputies found in the car which they believe may be stolen.

Serial numbers on some of the items including a firearm and stereo gear had been defaced, he said.

Tjomstol said the suspect and the woman had reportedly been to a Casselberry bar before he noticed the car and started the chase.

SANFORD POLICE

Responding to an anonymous phone call, police on Saturday night discovered an undetermined amount of prescription drugs and cash had been taken from Tru-Value Drugs of Sanford, a police report said.

Thieves used lockjaw pliers to open the store's rear door and de-activated an alarm system before entering the report states. Once inside "they knew what they were doing," and took only brand name drugs, leaving generic items behind, the report said. Tru-Value owner Donald Reed, 33, is conducting an inventory to ascertain the items and amounts taken, police said.

Two adjacent apartments at 111 Cedar Avenue were burglarized and ransacked on Thursday, Sanford police reported. Between 6:30 a.m. and 3:45 p.m., thieves gained entry to apartments #2 and #3 by breaking the small glass windows on the front doors and then reaching in to unlock them, the report said.

A Zenith color TV was taken from apartment #2, according to tenant Jacqueline Bush, 23, and assorted items, including an air conditioner, were removed from apartment #3, according to tenant Susan Covington, 23. Both women also reported their clothing and furnishings had been tossed around the apartments during the burglaries.

Unknown persons broke into Expert Roofing at 2620 Iroquois Ave. on Friday between 12 and 1 p.m., and made off with $1,600 that was stored in an office desk, Sanford police reported.

Owner Thomas Todd, 37, said the money was in an envelope in a cash box. The report did not state whether the box was locked. According to police, entry was gained through a window in the rear of the store.

A motor home in the south parking lot of Bowl America at 180 West Airport Blvd. was broken into and a color television taken from it on Friday, according to a police report. The vehicle's owner, Charles Plant, 52, of 320 Chapman Ave., said the incident occurred between 6 and 9:30 p.m.

A $450 VCR was taken from a Sanford home between Friday and Sunday by thieves who broke out a front door window to gain entry, a police report said. Charles Farnsworth, 25, of 702 East 29th Street, said he discovered the theft at 1 a.m. Sunday morning.

CHILD ASSAULT

A 47-year-old Oviedo man has been charged with sexual battery and committing a lewd and lascivious act upon a child.

The mother of an eight-year-old girl has alleged to Seminole County sheriff's deputies the man molested her daughter when she was at his home between Sept. 19 and 27, a sheriff's report said.

The girl told her mother of the alleged assaults and after both were questioned by sheriff's investigators Milton Eugene Quattlebaum of 2477 Howard Ave., Oviedo, was arrested at the sheriff's department at 11:15 a.m. Tuesday. He was being held without bond.

SEARCH FOR COKE, SEX CHARGE

A 21-year-old Sanford man who allegedly pushed a woman to the ground in an alley and searched her body cavities for cocaine and cash has been charged with sexual battery, strong arm robbery and aggravated battery, Sanford police reported.

The attack reportedly occurred at about 2:40 a.m. Wednesday in the 1000 block of West 13th Street. The man found no drugs or cash in his search of the 27-year-old woman who lives near Sanford. He allegedly slashed her with a knife and she was treated by Sanford Fire Department rescue workers, according to police Capt. Herb Shea.

James Edward Durham of 1015 Persimmon Ave., Sanford, was arrested on 13th Street at about 2:40 a.m. and charged with aggravated battery. The other charges were added at the Seminole County jail. He was being held in lieu of $15,000 bond.

MAKING DRUG

Seminole County drug task force agents have charged three Altamonte Springs residents with trafficking in methamphetamine after a juvenile girl who was charged reportedly tipped them to their drug making operation which was reportedly set up in their apartment at 717 #1, South Wymore Road.

Agents reported being told of the lab by the girl after they met with her several times last week. At about 4:50 p.m. Tuesday agents went to the home and the girl invited them in and reportedly showed them the operation and implicated two other suspects, her sister and her sister's boyfriend, in the case, a sheriff's report said.

After being shown a liquid they were reportedly told was methamphetamine, the agents identified themselves as lawmen and the girl and her sister were arrested. The man was arrested when he arrived home shortly after the first arrests, the report said.

He was also charged with driving across the median strip and driving on the wrong side of the road.

Past Duplicity Earns Suspicious

President Reagan appears to be somewhat optimistic that the United States and the Soviet Union can move toward meaningful nuclear arms control. Somewhat is an important word here.

The president knows his adversaries well enough not to take them at their word, but he also is not so cynical as to slam the door on even a remote possibility for lessening world tension.

Knowing that the president has a good grasp on reality quiets concern that he would accept a deal or treaty with the Soviets out of naivete.

In any case, Mr. Reagan seized the initiative in the walk-up toward the Nov. 19-20 superpower summit between himself and Mikhail Gorbachev by announcing a new nuclear weapons limitation proposal. In televised comments, the president said that the most recent Soviet arms limitation offer "unfortunately fell considerably short" in certain areas, but contained positive "seeds" that could lead to an agreement. Mr. Reagan is attempting in his new proposal to nurture those seeds.

"I believe progress is, indeed, possible if the Soviet leadership is willing to match our own commitment to a better relationship," Mr. Reagan said.

Before making his announcement, Mr. Reagan told four Soviet journalists in an interview he would accept some of the figures proposed by Mr. Gorbachev, who last month called for a reduction of approximately 50 percent in missiles and bombers carrying nuclear warheads.

President Reagan said the U.S. offer calls for "deep cuts."

Significantly, the president also said his offer insists upon "no cheating."

It is well documented that the Soviets historically cheat on international agreements. It need only be recalled that the Kremlin has promised in the past to guarantee human rights at home. And if the Soviets had kept their pledges after World War II, free elections would have been held in Eastern Europe.

Those currently occupying the White House have emphasized that arms control is not the only issue that must be addressed in East-West talks. A preoccupation with the arms balance must not, for example, detract attention from the fact that the Soviets are attempting to force Marxism on the people of Central America and other parts of the world.

"Arms control is a result," Mr. Reagan said. "First you've got to eliminate the suspicions and paranoia between us."

Western leaders have good reason to be suspicious of the Kremlin's chess moves. Too many people and nations have lost their freedom through Soviet duplicity, and Soviet aggression has shown no sign of abating under Mr. Gorbachev, despite his stylish dress and mastery of the media.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz said that the United States is not engaged in a public relations rivalry with Mr. Gorbachev.

"It is not a propaganda game," the secretary told reporters.

But, as often has been said, it never hurts to talk. At least not so long as you don't too readily believe everything the other person says and don't forsake your own interests in a sudden fit of false camaraderie.

Summit Should Ensure Survival Of Planet

The most important question in the world is whether the two nuclear superpowers, the United States and the Soviet Union, can continue to manage the escalating arms race to ensure the survival of the planet. This is the central issue President Reagan and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev will be discussing at Geneva.

Obviously there are other differences between Moscow and Washington. Mr. Reagan chose to concentrate on these secondary issues in his recent address at the United Nations. What the president seemed to be saying was that he could not negotiate in a meaningful way with Mr. Gorbachev unless the Soviets ended their involvement in various regional disputes around the world. We can only hope that the president's U.N. speech was intended more as a political statement to please his hard-line domestic supporters than as a negotiating formula for Geneva.

It is unlikely that the Soviets will cease their aggressive competition with us for influence and power in the Third World. They will continue to back their clients in such hot spots as Central America, Cuba, Africa and the Middle East, just as we will continue to back our clients and interests.

These local or regional disputes make it difficult — but not impossible — for Moscow and Washington to proceed with the larger issue of nuclear arms control. Both sides must surely understand that arms control is a mutual necessity — not a reward for good behavior in the Third World.

Former President Richard Nixon understood this when he negotiated and secured the ratification of the SALT I treaty at the height of the Vietnam War. At that time the Soviets were arming the North Vietnamese to kill American soldiers in the south. For its part, the United States mined and bombed Haiphong harbor while it was being used as a port of call by Soviet ships. Recognizing their sharp differences over Vietnam and other concerns, Washington and Moscow understood, nonetheless, that controlling the nuclear arms race was of such compelling importance that they had to proceed with it despite their other quarrels.

All of these considerations are even more relevant in 1985. What happens in Afghanistan is important, but it is dwarfed by the possibility that nuclear arms might take over outer space. Nicaragua is important, too, but its significance pales alongside the real possibility that nuclear arms arsenals are now so large that a nuclear war, whether by accident or design, could end all forms of life on the entire planet.

Beyond this, new weapons coming on the line, including the cruise missile, will be more difficult to verify. Without a dependable verification system, there can be no meaningful arms control.

All of this adds an increasing urgency to an arms control breakthrough at Geneva before the race for nuclear supremacy passes the point

$7 Billion Treasury TAP-ing

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Some of the nation's largest oil companies are on the verge of striking a deal with the federal government that could cost the public more than $7 billion.

That's the estimated value of the tax revenues that would be irrevocably lost under terms of a new rate schedule recently approved by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission for the transportation of crude oil through the 798-mile Trans Alaska Pipeline System.

TAPS carries the oil (currently more than 1.6 million barrels per day) from the Sadlerochit and Kuparuk fields south of Alaska's Prudhoe Bay to Valdez on the state's southern coast, where it is loaded onto ships.

TAPS is owned by the same companies that hold exploration and production rights to the crude oil fields on Alaska's North Slope. British Petroleum and Sohio jointly control 50 percent, Atlantic Richfield and Exxon each have a 20 percent share, Mobil holds 4 percent and the remaining 6 percent is owned by Phillips, Unocal and Amerada Hess.

As a result, the oil companies are not especially concerned if TAPS overcharges for carrying the oil because the revenues from that operation end up in the same corporate treasuries that profit from producing the petroleum.

In fact, those companies have an incentive for imposing outrageously high pipeline rates upon themselves: The TAPS costs are deducted from the wellhead value of the crude oil before the federal and state government calculate the amount of taxes and royalties owed on the petroleum.

Thus, higher transportation costs are directly linked to lower taxes — and increased profits — for the oil companies. According to one estimate, those firms save $240 million per year for every dollar the TAPS rates are raised.

The TAPS tariff has been fiercely disputed ever since the pipeline was completed in 1977 at an estimated cost of $8 billion to $9 billion. State officials in Alaska contend that almost $1.6 billion of that total was imprudently spent, while the FERC staff says that $2.6 billion was wasted on avoidable construction costs.

In addition, TAPS has been overcharging for every barrel of oil it carries. FERC Administrative Law Judge Max L. Kane concluded in 1980 that the pipeline should charge about $3 per barrel in 1985 — but the current rate is almost $6.

Rights Of Many Vs. Demands Of Few

Jack Anderson And Joseph Spears
WASHINGTON — The No. 1 concern of the American people, according to a confidential survey by President Reagan's pollster, is the way the federal government squanders its money.

Pollster Richard Wirthlin found that Americans are fed up with federal splurging. They are angry about multi-billion-dollar overcharges for weaponry; they are tired of footing the bill for $640 toilet seats and $659 ashtrays; they want an end to wasteful procurement practices.

The drive against government waste is spearheaded by J. Peter Grace, a crusty industrialist who knows how to track a dollar through the federal maze. He has found 2,478 ways to reduce government waste, inefficiency and overspending.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Don't Forget To Verify

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Ronald Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev may discuss a wide range of subjects in their two-day summit meeting, but much of the world's focus is on a single issue: arms control.

Both sides have made proposals. But this does not mean they will reach an agreement, as "Star Wars" and the problems of verifying any treaty loom as massive stumbling blocks.

The Soviets have proposed a 50 percent cut in their nuclear missiles and warheads. In return for similar cuts by the United States.

The Soviet proposal would limit each side to no more than 6,000 nuclear "charges" apiece. This would cover all warheads, regardless of how they were delivered. Both sides currently have thousands more carried by land- and submarine-based missiles and bombers.

At first, U.S. officials responded negatively to the Soviets. They pointed out that the plan would allow the Soviets to eliminate old, unreliable missiles, while requiring the United States to eliminate some of its newest and best systems. And they noted that the Soviet proposal equates old-fashioned bombs carried in aging and slow U.S. B-52 bombers with the modern multi-megaton warheads carried by Moscow's newest land-based missiles which can reach their targets in less than a half-hour.

National security adviser Robert McFarlane said, "Mr. Gorbachev is telling us, 'if you will get rid of your defense, I will get rid of your offense.'"

McFarlane said that the Soviet plan would leave six Soviet warheads aimed at each of the hardened north containing U.S. land-based retaliatory missiles. The plan, McFarlane concluded, "would increase Moscow's ability to launch a 'first strike.'"

But after seeing the public relations bonanza the Soviets reaped from their proposal, and under pressure from a number of allies, U.S. officials became more cautious about the Soviet proposal and made a counterproposal.

It agrees to the 6,000 "nuclear charge" limit with 1,500 cruise missiles and 4,500 on land- and sea-based ballistic missiles. There would be a maximum of 3,000 land-based ICBMs. (The Soviet plan would allow 3,600 on land-based ICBMs.) The U.S. 6,000 maximum would not include bombs or short-range attack missiles carried by aircraft.

The United States offered to put a ceiling on long-range bombers at 350 and to ban new heavy ICBMs and limit development on new mobile ICBMs.

The U.S. proposal would increase the limit on intercontinental delivery vehicles above the 1,250 now being discussed so that neither side's could be completely wiped out in a first strike.

But the United States continues to reject Soviet insistence that limits on the research and testing of Star Wars must be negotiated before there can be any agreement limiting offensive nuclear missiles.

A new CIA report is said to warn that we do not have the technical means to absolutely verify the number of warheads deployed on Soviet missiles capable of accepting multiple warheads. The only way to do this is personal, on-site inspection.

Strokes Dampen Holiday

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — William Schroeder, the world's longest surviving artificial heart patient, is nearing the first anniversary of his implant but a third stroke has dampened enthusiasm to mark the anniversary.

"If he was capable of doing interviews, he'd be doing them," said Schroeder's son, Mel Schroeder, who added that the family will be focusing more on its Thanksgiving holiday together than the Nov. 25 anniversary three days earlier.

"We basically know it's probably a milestone as far as medical history goes. As far as Dad's concerned, I don't think it (the anniversary) matters one way or the other."

Mel Schroeder, who has emerged as the chief spokesman for a family that has largely avoided media contact since Schroeder's debilitating strokes, said the family plans to share its Thanksgiving dinner but isn't sure where.

Last year's belated turkey dinner was served by Humana Hospital Audubon one day before Schroeder became the world's second permanent artificial heart recipient.

"We weren't really planning anything you'd call special for the one-year anniversary," Mel Schroeder said. "Basically, we're anticipating Thanksgiving."

The discussion of where the family will have dinner reflects many of the same ups and downs of Schroeder's year with his plastic and metal Jarvik-7 heart. Dr. William DeVries said last month Schroeder might move home to Jasper, Ind., in time for the holiday but the hospital admitted two weeks later that he was too weak to move.

Then on Nov. 11, doctors reported that a computerized X-ray of the brain revealed a hemorrhage in the right side of the brain previously unaffected by two earlier disabling strokes.

The latest stroke forced doctors to move Schroeder back to the hospital. The 53-year-old patient had lived in a medically-equipped apartment across the street from Audubon since August and received 24-hour nursing care.

Schroeder, who retired from his munitions inspector job with a heart condition, first moved into the Audubon apartment in April but a second stroke one month later forced him back to the hospital.

Before the latest stroke, Schroeder required help getting out of bed but, on a recent occasion, was able to lift himself out of his wheelchair into his van, which has a siren and special radio equipment.

appealing to the public interest; he will call upon the American people to bring their own pressure on Congress.

"We want to build a broad coalition of concerned citizens," he says. "dedicated to the overall well-being of our nation, representing the rights of the many rather than the demands of the few."

Thus, members of Congress will be confronted with an uncomfortable choice: whether to succumb to the pressure of the organized lobbies or to face an aroused citizenry. Many members are rushing to join the Grace Caucus, which is pushing legislation to implement Peter Grace's proposals.

Even some lobbying groups have put the general interest ahead of their special interests. For example, 38 trade associations, under the leadership of public advocate Wayne Smith, are actively lobbying on Capitol Hill for action on Grace's recommendations.

The U.S. Jaycees has received a grant from the J.M. Foundation to educate the public on government waste. The Jaycees, according to spokesman Mike Fernandez, hope to "wake up the nation to what's going on in Washington."

Also, most of the watchdog agencies — the General Accounting Office, Congressional Budget Office and the federal government's own inspectors general — endorse Grace's objectives, though they disagree on some of the specifics.

Meanwhile, the voters now have a way to determine whether their congressmen support the war on waste. They need merely to inquire whether the congressmen belong to the Grace Caucus.

Footnote: Jack Anderson is co-chairman with Peter Grace of the campaign to reduce government waste.

Change In Season Dictates Different Fishing Strategy

(Editor's note: Jim Shupe, 41, is an assistant principal at Lakeview Middle School. He has fished the Central Florida area for 25 years and is considered one of top anglers in the area. Going Fishing? will appear every Thursday in the Evening Herald.)

Jim Shupe

GOING FISHING?

Fishing is a year-round recreational activity, and the change of the season dictates a change in our fishing strategy. We have all noticed the coolness in the air with the approach of winter. Although water cools slower than land, both freshwater and saltwater fish have noticed the seasonal change and will begin to alter their habits with cooler weather.

Freshwater fishing will gradually improve with dropping water temperatures. Bass, speckled perch, bream, and other freshwater fish will become more active after a long, hot summer and high water temperatures. Inland saltwater species such as redfish and trout will react to each cold front by retreating to deeper water. After a warming trend, they will once again spread out to shallower water.

Some of the year's best fresh water fishing is available to us during the winter months. Traditionally, many of the largest bass and speckled perch are caught during the cooler months. These fish begin to ripen with roc and become more vulnerable to fishermen due to increased feeding and spawning activities.

It is important, however, to keep in mind that poor fresh water fishing conditions occur immediately following the passage of a strong cold front. The sudden drop in temperature forces bass and other fresh water fish into heavy cover or deep holes where they become inactive. Their strike zone becomes very small and they will only respond to baits presented in their immediate vicinity. Also, the high winds which accompany a strong cold front make fishing conditions very difficult and uncomfortable.

Strangely enough, a small, hardcore group of saltwater anglers eagerly awaits the coldest days of the year. They realize that several days of extremely cold weather will force trout and redfish to seek the warmth of deeper water. These fish huddle together in "holes" and provide hot action for the fishermen who are fortunate enough to locate concentrations in relatively small areas.

The key word to successful fishing during the winter months is "slow." Although bass, speckled perch, bream, and other fresh water species have increased their activity from the hot summer months, they still do not like to expend much energy in the pursuit of food.

This is especially true during periods of low water temperatures. For this reason, live shiners, plastic worms, jig and pig, and other slow-moving baits are effective for bass. Missouri minnows and slowly trolled artificials such as bee tie spins are productive for speckled perch. Live shrimp, trout touts, saasay shad, and plugs worked slowly are best for trout and redfish. It should be noted that live bait is hard to beat during extremely cold weather.

County Teams Sit On Bubble

At the Indianapolis 500 qualifying, the driver with the lowest time with more qualifiers yet to run is considered "sitting on the bubble." That is one of the most uncomfortable positions in any sport. You never know when you're going to be knocked off or if you might just make it.

In a way, two Seminole County cross country teams are sitting on the bubble going into Saturday's 4A-3 Region Meet at Lake Mary High. The meet starts with the girls 2-mile race at 9:30 a.m., followed by the boys 3-mile at 10.

The top four teams and top five individuals qualify for the 4A State Meet.

In Saturday's boys meet, the top four teams going in are Winter Park, Melbourne Palm Bay, Orlando Colonial and Lake Howell. Colonial and Lake Howell are actually both sitting on the bubble as neither is a shoo-in for the state meet with Lake Mary and Lyman also in the running.

In the girls meet, Winter Park and Lake Howell are the frontrunners followed by Lyman and Lantana Santaluces. Since Lyman and Santaluces seem pretty close, both are sitting on the bubble with Lake Brantley and Seminole trying to knock them off.

The Winter Park boys are the meet favorite coming off their impressive victory at the District 5 meet while Palm Bay is a close second after winning District 6 going away. Colonial defeated Winter Park in the Metro Conference meet and can't be counted out.

Lake Howell is looking to strengthen its position by passing Colonial while either Lake Mary or Lyman will also try to slip in by drafting Colonial or Lake Howell.

The battle for the second two state meet berths is as close as it is confusing. For Colonial, the key is moving its pack closer to the front. The Grenadiers had its top five in the top 24 at district but its number one runner didn't come in until 14th. Each of the other three teams, Lake Howell, Lake Mary and Lyman had their number one runner finish in the top 10.

On the other hand, Lake Howell, Lake Mary and Lyman are looking for their fourth and fifth men to move up.

Other teams from District 6 who will be running Saturday include Palm Beach Gardens, West Palm Beach Twin Lakes, Santaluces, Merritt Island and Spanish River.

On the girls side, top-ranked Winter Park is favored after running away with the district title with a team score of 29 compared to 60 for Lake Howell. Lake Howell has since fallen to fifth in the rankings but the Lady Hawks are still capable of winning the region if they are healthy and in top form.

Lyman is currently ranked eighth in the state but right behind is Lantana Santaluces in ninth. Santaluces easily won its district with a team score of 35 compared to 76 for Spanish River.

"The way it sits after districts is Santaluces is ahead of us, but not by much," Lyman coach Joe Laughlin said. "Our top five and their top five are real close based

Homecoming Brings Out Pride

Parade, Rallies Among Activities For Seminole, Lake Mary

By Tim Horn
Special to the Herald

Whether you are a member of the football team, a student, an administrator or alumnus of Seminole or Lake Mary high schools, this week's annual homecoming football game and festivities that surround it are an important time for all.

Homecoming is a special occasion where all can come together and put forth the spirit and show off the pride that is felt for one's school. It is a time for celebration with parades, pep rallies, dances and especially — football.

Administrators from Seminole, which will play host to New Smyrna Beach in its homecoming game Friday, and Lake Mary, which plays host to Boone in its homecoming, can easily reflect the atmosphere of the event.

"It is the highlight of the football season," said Bobby Lundquist, an assistant principal at Seminole who is in charge of homecoming activities and also a graduate of Seminole. "It is special for everybody — the football team, the students, alumni and administration. It is just a very spirited time of the year."

Lake Mary Principal Don Reynolds feels the same way.

"It is a week to create school spirit," he said. "Students get a chance to show their spirit by participating in the activities. Alumni get a chance to show off their school.

It is a lot of work for the administration but I think everybody involved (in the administration) enjoys it just as much. I think it means the same things to us as it does to the students."

Seminole football coach Dave Mosure said it is a special time for a school and its football team. "If you have good involvement from everybody it can be a special time," he said. "It's real good for the student body."

Mosure also said the spirit is catching for his players but a coach has to keep things in perspective or it might be too catching. "It is an emotional time for the players too, but you don't want them to get too wound up. You don't want them to get distracted."

However, Mosure said he has not had a problem with keeping his players from getting too caught up in the festivities and not being ready for the game.

"No, it hasn't been a problem," he said. "We've talked to them all week long and the players are keeping things in perspective."

"You have to stay consistently intense. We are just working real hard on completing the goals that we set for the second half of the season."

After a rocky start (0-4), the Seminole have won three of their last four games. A victory over the Barracudas Friday and another one over DeLand next Friday would give the Noles a 5-5 finish, quite a turnaround from the first four games.

On the other hand, Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson said there is not that much you can do from keeping the players from getting caught up in the activities.

"They (the players) are a real pain during homecoming week," he said. "Homecoming is like acne, you have to just live with it and wait for it to go over."

Both Lundquist and Reynolds said that the activities at their particular schools have been going well and they expect things to get even better as the week goes on. Each school has had "dress-up" and "dress-down" days all week. As festivities continue today, both schools have exciting events planned. For Seminole High, a parade will take place downtown on First Street beginning at 5 p.m. The parade will end at Magnolia Mall, where a pep rally will immediately follow.

"We are going to show the Sanford area what a pep rally really is," Lundquist said.

Lake Mary High has a "Mr. Lake Mary or Miss Ewe Contest" planned for tonight, beginning at 7:30 in the school auditorium. This is where all the guys will dress up as girls and will be judged in a beauty contest.

The second most-popular activity of homecoming will be the crowning of the king and queen. Seminole will crown its royalty at halftime. Lake Mary will hold a ceremony before the game at 7 p.m. to honor its royalty.

Cy Young? Gooden, Of Course

NEW YORK (UPI) — Someday, there may have to be a Dwight Gooden Award.

Gooden, the New York Mets right-hander, yesterday added the inevitable to his amazing string of accomplishments by unanimously winning the National League Cy Young Award.

"Things have been moving pretty rapidly," said Gooden Wednesday at Shea Stadium, where the award was announced. "Last year I won the Rookie of the Year Award, and you only get one chance in your career to win that. To win the Cy Young Award the next year is a great honor."

Just three years out of Hillsboro H.S. at Tampa, Fla., Gooden has set a pace that could make him one of the greatest pitchers in baseball history. Gooden, who turns 21 Saturday, completed his second season by becoming the youngest pitcher in modern baseball history to win 20 games in a season, and the youngest to win the Cy Young Award. It seemed every time he took the mound, he set another record.

"Entering the season, I was shooting to win 20 games, and it happened, but I didn't think I'd lose as few as four games," he said.

Gooden recorded a 24-4 record while leading the major leagues in strikeouts (268), victories and ERA (1.53). Only six pitchers have led the majors in all three categories, and five are in the Hall of Fame. The last to do it was the Los Angeles Dodgers' Sandy Koufax, who accomplished it three times between 1963 and 1966. Others to do it were Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Dazzy Vance, Lefty Grove and Hal Newhouser, who is not in the Hall.

Gooden amassed the perfect total of 120 points in balloting conducted of 24 members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America — two writers from each NL city — to beat left-hander John Tudor of the St. Louis Cardinals, who was runner-up with 65 points. Tudor, who posted a 21-8 record with a 1.93 ERA, received 21 second-place votes and two third-place votes.

Orel Hershiser of the Los Angeles Dodgers was third with 17 points, followed by Joaquin Andujar of St. Louis (6 points), Fernando Valenzuela of Los Angeles (4), rookie Tom Browning of the Cincinnati Reds (3) and Jeff Reardon of the Montreal Expos (1).

Gooden hurled 276 2-3 innings and walked 69 batters while striking out more than 260 for the second straight year.

Dunkel Misfiles On 3 — 5A-4 Draws Well For Region

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Dick Dunkel, who makes a living picking college football games, fell down a bit on the preps last week. After hitting 18 consecutive winners the two previous weeks, however, any prognosticator is bound to slip a little.

Dunkel, alias the Dunkel Index, missed on 3 of 9 games. The DI had Lyman a 1/2-point favorite over Lake Howell.

Lyman lost by 8. The DI had Oviedo a 10 1/2-point underdog against Cocoa Beach. Oviedo won by 17. The DI had New Smyrna Beach a 28-point favorite over Lake Weir. NSB lost by 10.

Regardless, most forecasters would take 67 percent each week. There's two young men who work for the Evening Herald who would pawn their crystal balls for that kind of percentage.

Getting back to the winners, Lake Howell's win over Lyman was noteworthy. The victory pushed Lake Howell to 48.6 in the DI and a tie with Lake Mary for the top-ranked team in the county. Seminole (48.3), which has New Smyrna Beach as a Friday homecoming foe, is a close second while Oviedo (47.3) is next, followed by Lyman (43.4) and Lake Brantley (41.7).

Lyman's loss to Howell also put the Greyhounds in a tough position for the post-season.

Football

Lyman, 4-4, needs a homecoming victory over powerful Satellite Friday to insure a post-season appearance, which must be accompanied by a .500 record, according to the Florida High School Activities Association guidelines.

A loss to Satellite would knock coach Bill Scott's team from the Rotary Bowl. The Greyhounds could still finish .500 with a winover Lake Mary Nov. 22. But a win over the Rams would qualify Lyman for the state playoffs as the District 5A-4 champion.

"We've lost to the best team in the state (Apopka) and we've lost to the worst team in the state (Spruce Creek). There is no inbetween for us."

— Harry Nelson

If the Greyhounds lose both, they're out of post-season play. That would open the door for Lake Mary or Titusville Astronaut or possibly Kissimmee Osceola. Lake Mary, 6-2, plays Boone for homecoming Friday. If Lyman loses Friday and beats Lake Mary Nov. 22, the Rams would be the choice to oppose Winter Park in the Rotary Bowl Wednesday, Nov. 27 at Lyman.

The worst Lake Mary could finish is 6-4. The best, of course, is 8-2 and a spot in the state playoffs, which is all coach Harry Nelson has on his mind right now. He said he'll think about bowl games later.

"We're got two big ones left," Nelson said. "First, Boone is

IN BRIEF

Early Choice: Forsyth Signs Cage Intent With N.C. State

Lyman High's Kim Forsyth became the first Seminole County prep player to sign a collegiate letter of intent as she took advantage of the early signing period to commit to North Carolina State University Wednesday. Lyman basketball coach Dick Copeland announced Wednesday.

Forsyth, a 5-9 forward, has been a starter for Lyman's Lady Greyhounds since her sophomore season. She averaged 18 points and 8 rebounds per game last year.

"Kim visited N.C. State in October and really was impressed with it," Copeland said. "She attended camps at Florida State, Tennessee and Valdosta State, which helped her exposure."

Copeland also sent out various letters to schools who contacted him concerning Forsyth's prowess.

Two other prep players signed letters-of-intent Wednesday to play at state schools next year.

Jon Fedor, a 6-8 power forward from Port Orange Spruce Creek High School, signed to play at Florida State. Dwayne Davis, a 6-6 forward at St. Petersburg Dixie Hollins High School, signed to play at Florida.

Elsewhere, Stan Haightcock, a 6-foot-6, 190-pound forward, signed a letter of intent to play basketball at the University of Central Florida. Knight basketball coach Phil Carter said Wednesday.

Tribe Draws Bartow In Classic

Chris Marlette, coordinator of the Central Florida Basketball Classic (formerly the Oviedo Outlook Tournament), announced the pairings for the Dec. 19-23 cage tournament Thursday morning.

The 16-team classic, a first in Seminole County, will be played at Seminole Community College and Lake Mary High School on Thursday, Dec. 19 and Friday, Dec. 20. The semifinal, consolation and championship rounds will wrap up at the SCC Health Center on Saturday, Dec. 21 and Monday, Dec. 23.

In the first round at SCC, the matchups are: 4:30 p.m. — Cocoa vs. Wynore Tech; 6 p.m. — Lyman vs. Clearwater Countryside; 7:30 p.m. — Lake Howell vs. Auburndale; 9 p.m. — Oviedo vs. Luther.

In the first round at Lake Mary, the matchups are: 4:30 p.m. — Lake Wales vs. Lake Brantley; 6 p.m. — Merritt Island vs. Hempstead, N.Y.; 7:30 p.m. — Seminole vs. Bartow; 9 p.m. — Lake Mary vs. Dunedin.

Courtney Scores 21, VCC Falls

ORLANDO — Greg Courtney poured in 21 points but the Valencia Community College Matadors dropped their third consecutive game, 94-88, to Lake-Suinter Community College in junior college basketball at VCC.

Courtney, a 6-4 center who played at Lake Brantley High last year, pumped in eight field goals and 5 of 6 free throws. Tim Garcia added 18 points.

Valencia, 0-3, will play Seminole Community College Friday night at 8 in the Raider Tournament. Brevard and Indian River meet in the 6 p.m. game. The winners play for the title Saturday at 8 p.m. The losers play a consolation game at 6 p.m. There is no charge for admission to any SCC home games.

Tigers Acquire Speedy Collins

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers, after failing to repeat as World Series Champions in 1985, completed their second offseason trade Wednesday when they acquired Dave Collins, a speedy switch-hitting outfielder, from Oakland.

Collins, 33, was obtained from the A's in exchange for 29-year-old utility man Barbaro Garbey in a move to get some speed at the top of the Tigers' batting order.

"We were looking for a player who can steal some bases and generate some offense," Tigers vice president and general manager Bill Lajoie said.

Benton Gets 10 In FJC Debut

Sanford's Mona Benton, a 1985 Seminole High graduate, came off the bench to pump in 10 points in her college debut Monday night as Florida Junior College's Stars rolled past Brunswick Junior College, 72-53.

Benton, a 5-6 guard, was named to the Evening Herald All-County First Team three years in a row and was Player of the Year as a sophomore and senior.

Florida JC, considered one of the top teams in the state this season, returns to action Friday at home (Jacksonville) against Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College.

District Teams Fight For Second Behind Unbeatable Winter Park

By Chuck Burgess
Special to the Herald

LONGWOOD — While the Winter Park Wildcats try to continue their long-lasting dynasty this weekend in District 5 competition at the Sharidan Aquatic Club, Lyman, Lake Mary, Lake Brantley, Lake Howell and Seminole will look for impressive showings.

Winter Park, coached by Don Prokes, has won the district title the past four years. The Wildcats' strength doesn't lie with a handful of swimmers, like the other county teams in Seminole, Volusia and Orange, it lies in every swimmer, no matter what stroke, event or race.

Lyman, which won't be a threat to the powerful Wildcats, will battle heavily to capture the second-place spot in the boys' meet.

"Our boys are definitely in there for second," Lyman coach Don Clark said. "Winter Park will dominate the meet and everyone else will be scrambling for the next places."

The Greyhounds, who are coming off a conference championship meet and a sweep of the West Orange squad, will need help individually from state class swimmer Charlie "Chazz" Rose.

Rose will swim his specialties, the 200 individual medley and the 100 backstroke. "Charlie (Rose) should do well," Clark said. "He's seeded third in the 200 I.M. and second behind Winter Park's William Campbell in the 100 back."

Rose, who led the Greyhounds to their seventh conference title in the past eight years by winning the 200 I.M. and the 100 free, will lead the pack of hungry 'Hounds into competition this Friday and Saturday.

Following the victory scent of Rose will be senior sensation Ken Barnett. Barnett will claw and scrape his way into the finals of the 100 fly and 50 free, according to Clark.

"The strongest event in the districts this year has got to be the 100 fly," Clark said. "There are 12 guys under 58 (seconds) and Ken (Barnett) is seeded third."

Barnett looks to be sitting pretty in his other event, the 50 free. Not only is Barnett in with the state's top sprinters, but he is seeded third and could move up, Clark said.

Swimming

"Ken Barnett could beat a couple of Winter Park's guys and if he's on, he has a good chance at the district title."

Other Greyhounds to look for in the boys' meet will include junior Tom Mooney (200 free and 100 back) and Nick Radkewich (200 and 500 freestyle).

"Winter Park's got the tradition and will swim well," Clark said. "But we're not going to roll over like a dog. We're going to try to beat them. We're not intimidated by anyone."

Another team that doesn't plan on playing dead against the Wildcats is Walt Morgan's Lake Mary Rams.

"I've got four good guys that will place in finals or consolations," Morgan said. "It's all going to be tough. We could place in the top five out of 16 teams."

Leading the herd of Ramphibians will be senior Todd Stebbins.

Stebbins, who was upset in both of his races in the conference meet two weeks ago, has been working all week with plans of not letting it happen again. "Todd (Stebbins) has really got the right attitude," co-coach Clyde Hayes said. "He's starting to put it all together. He'll be the Ram to watch at the district meet."

Stebbins, who will swim the 200 I.M. and the 100 fly, will lead a host of freshman lambs into the championship meet which will determine who will attend the state championships at the Justus Aquatic Center in Orlando next weekend.

Contributing to the Ram roster will be junior Joe Rosser (100 breast and 100 free), and freshmen Karl Kuchma (200 I.M. and 100 breast) and Steve Kostowicz (200 free and 100 fly).

Although Morgan is looking for outstanding individual performances, his main goal is to qualify the boys' 400 free relay. "Hopefully we'll go under 3:30," Morgan said. "We'll have to if we want to go to state."

Swimming on the relay will be Stebbins, Rosser, Kuchma and Kostowicz.

The only other county team who will have any chance of qualifying a swimmer into the state meet will be Donalyn Knight's Swminoles.

Sophomore Jaime Bojanowski will participate in the 200 I.M. and the 500 free and may have a shot at qualifying. The top three in each event qualify automatically and the fourth-sixth place swimmers' times will be put into an at large category and will find out later next week whether they have qualified for the state meet or not.

In the girls' division, it looks to be all Winter Park. However Clay Parnell's quartet of Lake Brantley Patriot freshmen may have something else in mind.

The feared foursome of Kristin Pauley, Manda Davis, Karen Spiller and Lisa Moore will stir up some bubbles in the plans of the Lady Wildcats.

As for Lyman, Karen Long will put some points on the scoreboard as she will stroke and splash in the 50 free and 100 fly. "Karen should do well in the events she's in," Clark said. "She's been tough all year and looks good this week in practice."

Following the wake of Long will be Greyhound teammates Jane Hall (200 I.M. and 100 breast), Shannon Parker (50 and 100 free) and Millette Webber (200 and 500 free).

"All of my girls are in the top six in both of their events," Clark said. "Our girls' depth is kind of negated because there are 16 teams, but we should place second or third any way."

The only other county team with any prayers of placing in the top eight is Lake Mary.

The Rams, which boast the likes of freshman standout Kelly Wise, will have to overcome the power of Winter Park, the strength of Lake Brantley and the depth of Lyman to place in the top five — something Morgan hopes his team can accomplish.

"We have a shot at a fifth place finish," Morgan said. "The girls' meet is almost as hard to predict as the boys'."

Possible state qualifiers include Wise (200 I.M. and 500 free) and Jamie Brosnan (50 free and 100 breast).

on last weekends results. But I hear Santaluces is a little inconsistent. If that's the case, maybe Lake Brantley can come up and take them."

Lake Brantley and Seminole High are the two teams looking to knock one of the top four off the bubble. Brantley is probably the more likely of the two to do it. The Lady Patriots have been hit with injuries after a promising start but those injuries are healing and the Lady Patriots should be at full force Saturday.

With a solid top two in Showada Martin and Dorchelle Webster, and a consistent number three in Debbie Coleman, Seminole's chances of returning to state depend on improvement from the fourth and fifth runners.

Other girls teams from District 6 include Palm Bay, Lake Worth John I. Leonard, Vero Beach and Twin Lakes.

While the team battles for the four state meet spots will be interesting, there will also be a few runners trying to qualify as individuals.

In the boys meet, Seminole High's Billy Penick is running as an individual and looking for a top five finish. Penick blazed to the district title with a time of 15:02.5 last week at Trinity Prep. With the top time from District 6 being 16:07 by Palm Bay's Angelo Bonarrigo, Penick's top competition will again come from within the district.

Penick, the state miler champion last year, was given his pre-meet meal by the Sanford Optimist Club Wednesday, which honored the senior stand-out at its noon luncheon at Western Sizzlin in Sanford.

Optimist Club President Greg Harrell presented Penick with a copy of the Optimist Creed and asked him to say a few words. "The region field will probably be about the same as the district," Penick said. "But the competition should be tougher at state. Ken Rohr (Lake Mary) and Larry Rau (Edgewater) will be two of the toughest competitors."

Edgewater's Rau and Lake Mary's Rohr, if the Rams don't qualify as a team, are also looking for top five individual finishes. Boone's Peter Bergstesser is a long shot but will have to qualify as an individual since the Braves don't figure to make it as a team.

Bonarrigo ran his time at the John Prince Park course in Lake Worth which Laughlin said is a little slower than Trinity Prep.

In the girls race, Palm Bay's Mia Dentice will look for an individual berth since her team is not considered in the running. Dentice won the District 6 individual crown with a time of 11:47.

With Seminole High a longshot for a team berth, Shownda Martin will look for a top five finish and an individual berth. Martin will have to pass Lake Howell's Martha Fonseca to do it.

Lake Mary girls coach Mike Gibson, who will run the meet along with boys coach Mark McGee, said the course could be in better shape if people would stop driving on it. Driving as in cars, not golf balls.

"SYSA has football practice on the hill (near the start) and parents drive right through the course to get their kids to the field," Gibson said. "It's disgusting. Instead of having them walk a short distance to the field, they have to drive them right up to it. And all the people driving on the course is tearing it up."

Some of the teams who will be in the region meet won't have to wait until Saturday to see the course. "Everybody and his uncle is coming to run the course tomorrow (Thursday)," Gibson said. "They want to get a look at it before they run on it Saturday."

Gibson, whose team did not qualify this year, feels the top four teams from District 5 should get the four state berths in the girls meet.

Shownda Martin, middle, and the Lady Seminole cross country team is looking forward to the region run Saturday at Lake Mary. Girls run at 9:30 a.m. and boys at 10 a.m.

Sessions Avoids Burn, Pulls Even With TRC

For the past two games, Sessions Well Drilling has played with fire. Fortunately, Sessions has managed to avoid getting burned and thus has remained in the running for the Sanford Men's Fall Softball League title.

Monday, Sessions pulled out a 7-6 victory over Sunniland to stay within a half game of the Tim Raines Connection. Wednesday night at Pinehurst Field, Sessions came from behind to edge McKee Development, 8-7.

Softball

With TRC idle, Sessions Well Drilling moved into a first-place tie as both teams have 15-2 records. The two Sanford powerhouses will meet Monday in the third game, approximately 8:30 p.m., to decide first place.

Geyser Systems, with an 11-1 rout of Cardinal, moved within two and a half games with a 13-5 record. In Wednesday's first game, Brown Boveri trimmed Thorne Land Clearing, 6-5.

After Sessions took a 1-0 lead in the first, McKee Development rallied for four runs on five hits in the top of the second. Randy Forrest's RBI double, run-scoring singles by Terry Russel and Mark Smith and Dave DeRusso's sacrifice fly accounted for the four runs.

Going into the bottom of the fifth, McKee Development held a 6-5 lead but Sessions rallied for two runs to take a 7-6 lead on sacrifice flies by Doug Dowdy and Don Causseaux.

McKee Development tied it at 7-7 in the top of the sixth and it stayed that way into the bottom of the seventh. With one out, Albert Key laced a single to drive in Joe Ervin with the winning run.

In Geyser's win over Cardinal, Rico Peterson drove in three runs with a double and single while Jeff Brake and Marvin White drove in two each. Tom Hise added three hits and scored three runs. Cardinal Industries managed just four hits, two by Denis Barrier.

Russell Holloman's sacrifice fly in the top of the seventh provided the winning margin for Brown Boveri over Thorne Land Clearing. David Shaller contributed a pair of RBI singles for Brown Boveri while Bob Kunker rapped three singles.

Sanford Men's Softball play resumes Monday when McKee takes on Thorne Land at 6:30 p.m. The second game pits Sunniland against Brown Boveri.

JIM'S TIP — Almost every bass fisherman will eventually be lucky enough to hook the bass of his dreams. To help turn that dream into a reality, keep the following tip in mind. Many trophy bass are lost during a head-shaking or jumping motion. When a large bass is hooked, it is important to keep the rod tip in or near the water. This downward leverage prevents the bass from jumping.

Television fishing personalities who want their bass to jump for camera action keep their rod tips high and maintain heavy pressure on bass. Tournament anglers who fish for money and prizes keep their rod tips down because they realize the less a fish jumps, the greater chance they have to land the fish. It would be wise to practice this tactic on smaller fish, so that you will be ready when "Mr. Big" strikes.

WEEKEND FORECAST — Dell Abernethy, from Osteen Bridge Fish Camp, reports that bass fishing is slow in the St. Johns River. Lake Monroe is where most of the action is taking place. Al Bolin and a friend caught their limit of 20 sunshine bass, plus some speckled perch, while drifting Missouri minnows in the middle of the lake.

Dell reports that almost everyone who fishes in Lake Monroe brings in a least some fish. Drifting with Missouri minnows or slow trolling with Beetle Spins have been the most effective methods of catching speckled perch and sunshine bass. Bass fishing has been good in many of the small lakes in the Deltona area. Lake Bethel is a good bet for anglers who like to catch bass and also have a chance for a real lunner.

Ricky Rollins from Highland Park Fish Camp reports that Lake Dexter and Lake Woodruff are rated "good" for speckled perch. Many are being caught jigging areas of lily pads with a No Alibi 10 tipped with a live Missouri minnow. A 10 pound, 2 ounce bass was also weighed in at Highland Park last weekend. It was caught on a live shiner.

Redfish and snook are still active at Sebastian Inlet. Fishing will decline as the water temperature drops, but fall is always a good time to fish due to the abundance of migrating schools of finger mullet. For artificials, use one ounce red and white jigs, large Rebels and Rapats, and Mirrortures. Finger mullet and large live shrimp are effective live baits.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral said that offshore fishing is good when it is not too rough. Sailfish are being caught in 115 feet of water, and wahoo are being caught from 160 to 200 feet of water. Tripletail and Cobia are in the buoy line. Cobia to 48 1/2 pounds were caught last weekend. Flounder, bluefish, and a few redfish are being caught around the jetties.

Trout and redfish are becoming more active in the Indian and Banana rivers due to dropping water temperatures. For good trout action, try plugging the west bank of the Banana River between State Road 520 and State Road 528. At New Smyrna, redfish, bluefish, drum, and sheepshead are being caught around the jetties. Live shrimp is the preferred bait.

important because it's homecoming. Second, Lyman is very important because it decides who goes to the playoffs." Nelson's Rams are a hard ballclub to figure this fall. At times, it seems the Rammies play just well enough to win. They have come from behind several times to pull out games, a sign of a championship club. They clinched the Seminole Athletic Conference title last week with a spine tingler over Lake Brantley (14-13).

"We've lost to the best in the state (Apopka) and we've lost to the worst in the state (Spruce Creek)," Nelson proclaimed. "There's no inbetween with us." Lake Mary is 4-0 in the SAC with Lyman to play. Lake Howell, 2-1 with Lake Brantley and Oviedo to play, could finish 4-1 and tie the Rams if Lake Mary loses to Lyman. Since Lake Mary beat Lake Howell, the Rams are the champions, though, according to the Florida High School Activities Association tiebreaker system. The SAC principals voted that there would not be co-champions for football and the FHSAA system would be used to determine the champ.

Whether it's Lake Mary or Lyman which represents District 5A-4, it appears for once that a Seminole County team may get a break. Usually, the district winners of the past had to bump heads with Vero Beach or Merritt Island in the regional showdown. This year, however, Lyman or Lake Mary will meet the District 5A-3 champion in the Region II title game in Jacksonville. Bob Dunkel, Dick's son who writes a weekly prep newsletter in conjunction with the DI, calls the Jacksonville area "the weakest 5A district in the state."

Jacksonville Terry Parker currently leads 5A-3 with a 3-0 mark. Jacksonville Beach Fletcher and Lake City Columbia are 2-1 while Jacksonville Jackson and Jacksonville Sandalwood are 1-2. Jacksonville Wolfson is 0-3. Each has two district games to play. Sandalwood, incidentally, is the only team with a winning record (5-3).

The favorite, record-wise anyway, appears to be Terry Parker, which is 4-4 overall. Parker is rated a 50.5 by the DI. Fletcher (51.4) and Sandalwood (50.8) are slightly ahead. Columbia (49.6) a tad behind.

Apopka may have been voted No. 1 by the Florida Sports Writers Association but it remains No. 6 in the Dunkel Index. Pensacola Woodham is No. 1 in the DI's 5A poll. Pensacola Escambia, a 4A power, is still the top-ranked team (83.5) in Dunkel's state poll. Escambia heads the FSWA's 4A rating, too.

Here's a look at the DI this week concerning local districts: Seminole 7 over New Smyrna Beach, Lake Mary 15 over Boone, Satellite 15 over Lyman, Lake Howell 7 over Lake Brantley, Oviedo 2 over Titusville, Gainesville Eastside 6 over Seabreeze, DeLand 25 over Spruce Creek, Apopka 17 over West Orange and Winter Park 1½ over Evans.

DeLand, by the way, has moved steadily up the DI with its four consecutive wins. The Bulldogs, who last lost to Lyman on Oct. 4, host Seminole in the season finale Nov. 22. If the 'Noles pull off a homecoming win Friday, a 500 season (5-5) would be on the line.

Polk County Murder Suspect Questioned In Armstrong Case

BARTOW, Fla. (UPI) — Homer Manns, a 39-year-old hitchhiker accused of raping and killing a 4-year-old girl Saturday, is being investigated as a possible suspect in other murders, Polk County authorities said.

Orlando police investigators were Polk County Wednesday questioning Manns on the possibility that he might be a suspect in the kidnapping of Regina Mae Armstrong in June.

Lt. Steve Harrelson, Orlando police spokesman, said there was no reason to think Mann had anything to do with the Orlando crime, but they were checking due to the charges against Mann.

Manns is charged in Polk County with first-degree murder, sexual battery and false imprisonment of a child under 13 for the abduction and slaying early Saturday of Karen Mabelle Radford in the small community of Alturas, midway between Bartow and Lake Wales.

He is also being investigated in connection with seven to 10 crimes in other states.

Atlantis Rehearsal Ended Today

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The crew of the shuttle Atlantis worked through a dress-rehearsal countdown today to set the stage for blastoff Nov. 26 on a weeklong mission to practice space station construction techniques.

The mock countdown ended about 8:03 a.m. EST with the computer-simulated ignition of Atlantis's three main engines and their make-believe shutdown seconds later to mimic a launch pad abort.

If all goes well, Atlantis, making its second flight, will take off at 7:29 p.m. Nov. 26 on the ninth shuttle mission this year.

Lake Mary High Festivities Prelude To Homecoming Game

Lake Mary High School Homecoming week festivities will culminate Friday with the game between the Lake Mary Rams and the Boone Braves of Orlando, according to guidance counselor Sandy Davis. The theme of this year's Homecoming celebration is "Cherish the Moment."

Before the start of the game, at 7:15 p.m., the king and queen of Lake Mary High will be crowned. The game will start at 8 p.m. and a homecoming dance and alumni reunion will take place Saturday from 8-12 p.m. in the cafeteria. The dance is semi-formal and the admission is $5 per couple and $3 per person and an additional $1 charge will be added to tickets purchased at the door.

Mrs. Davis said that during the week, every school day had a theme aimed at arousing student interest in the football game and dance.

Today, sports day allowed students to arrive dressed in the attire of their favorite sport. At 7 p.m. in the auditorium the Miss Ewe contest will be held. Mrs. Davis said this contest will feature outstanding male athletes and student leaders dressed "in drag" and they will be judged on the basis of poise, beauty and personality.

Friday—the final day of Homecoming is Ram pride day and students will be dressed in school colors of scarlet, gray and black. A final pep rally will be held and the homecoming court and football team will be presented.

The SEA will vote on ratification of the proposal at their regularly scheduled meeting on Nov. 21 at 4 p.m. at the Lake Mary Media Center, he said.

The error, according to Ogletree, appears on page 13 of the report and states, "According to union exhibit 'T', the cost of the additional supplements, if the salary schedule is made retroactive to Aug. 19 (as proposed in SEA proposal #5), would be $100,676. While this would not completely offset the $150,000 cost of the proposed longevity increase, it would go a long way toward doing so."

Ogletree said the supplements are additional duties teachers have, such as supervising after school clubs and activities and that an increase of six supplemental positions per high school, (Seminole County has six high schools), had been tentatively approved in the Aug. 12 agreement that the SEA voted down in late August. During subsequent negotiations the school board threw out these six supplements, Ogletree said. He said the difference in money for these supplemental positions totaled no more than $10,000. He theorized Helsby's copy of the exhibit contained the amount of the total supplements for all extra curricular programs in the county, including sports programs, and that figure was taken out of context by Helsby.

Reached at his office in Jacksonville, Helsby stated that he took only figures from the hearing in October and both sides saw copies of each other's exhibits before he left the hearing. "I took three sets of figures, one from the original contract, one from the board's last proposal and the last one I took from the SEA's last proposal," he said. "I used the last set of figures to offset the increase I felt the 16 year teachers should get. I am through with the process now and feel satisfied that both sides were fairly represented."

Ernest Cowley, chief negotiator for the school board, said he was aware the report contains a serious error and said he would bring the problem to the board's attention when they meet in executive session on Nov. 19 at 2 p.m. in school board chambers.

Cowley said that Helsby made every effort to be fair to both parties. He said not granting the veteran teachers pay increases until after Jan. 1, 1986 means that the teachers will receive increases for only half the school year instead of being paid retroactively, thus saving approximately $150,000 for the board.

But he said the board will have to consider the error before they can accept the recommendations.

"The mistake the special master made must be taken into consideration before the board can consider accepting this. We didn't want to give the teachers more of an increase than the other bargaining units, including non-instructional personnel and clerical workers. We have more than 4,200 workers to deal with, we can't operate in a vacuum, we have to represent all our workers."

59 Violate City Codes

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Fifty-nine of Sanford's multiple dwelling owners have been found by city building inspectors to be in violation of the city's more stringent parking and technical codes. The ordinances became effective Oct. 24, the compliance deadline set by the city commission two years ago when the measures were adopted.

At Monday's City Commission meeting Planning and Engineering Director Bill Simmons said notices have been mailed to the owners and follow-up inspections will be conducted later this month. Technical code violations involve the installation of additional fire safety measures and if not corrected can result in $250 a day fines.

Those not in compliance with parking requirements will have an opportunity to request waivers or extensions on a case by case basis. This was recommended by City Attorney William Colbert, who said some properties don't have enough area to accommodate the city's increased parking requirement.

They were booked into the Seminole County jail and turned over to juvenile authorities. Spolski said. Their names are being withheld because of their age.

Some of the damage done by the vandals in addition to the fires, Spolski said, included spray painting homes and vehicles. Windows were broken, tires slashed and mailboxes damaged. A golf cart was also stolen in the Sabal Point area.

Expert Reviews Energy Conservation For Club

Is your power bill too high? If the answer is "yes", then the tips on conserving electricity given by Rachel May at the regular monthly luncheon meeting of the Woman's Club of Sanford will be useful.

Mrs. May, introduced by Marty Colegrove, chairman of the Conservation Department, was guest speaker for the meeting. She has been a Customer Service Representative with the Florida Power and Light Company for 16 years, currently deals with customer inquiries and is an active participant in FPL's Community Information Program (CIP).

According to Mrs. May, the greatest share of the average light bill during the summer months (60%) comes from air-conditioning. Nineteen percent is for heating water and the rest of 21% takes care of everything else — stove, washer and dryer, refrigerator, lights, etc.

Some of May's tips for cutting down on air conditioning costs are:

1. Keep the thermostat on 78°. Each degree below that adds 6% to your light bill.
2. If possible, set the thermostat on 80° at night and use ceiling fans. Fans cost 13½¢ for 10 hours.

3. Have your home insulated. The R-value in insulation is the most important factor, not thickness. A minimum R-19 is recommended for attics. R-5 for walls. You will get your money back within 5 years.
4. Keep filters clean — a monthly cleaning is advised.

5. Tinted glass windows can block 30% of the heat; reflective glass blocks about 75%. Heavy drapes are also a help. When possible, shrubs should shade the east, south and west sides of the house, but don't let shrubbery block the flow of air around the air conditioner.
6. Wash and dry clothes and use the oven during the cool part of the day — early mornings and evenings.

If you are gone during the day time or for several days at a time, turn the air conditioner off when you leave the house, and back on again when you return.

Tips for reducing water heater costs:

1. Set the thermometer at 140° if you use a dishwasher. If not, set it on 120°.
2. Don't let hot water faucets continue to leak. Get them fixed. It will save you money.
3. Quick showers use less water than a bath

tub. A flow restrictor is recommended.

4. Make sure you have a full load of dishes and clothing before you start the dishwasher or washing machine.
5. If you are going to be gone more than two days, turn off the water heater.
6. The water heater should be insulated.

Tips for reducing refrigerator and freezer costs:

1. Check the gasket around the doors. If a dollar bill comes out easily when the door is closed on it, the door doesn't fit tightly enough.
2. Keep the refrigerator at 38° to 40°, the freezer at 0°.
3. Don't stand with the door open looking for things. Know what you want and keep foods organized and labeled so they are easy to find.
4. Periodically remove the grill at bottom of refrigerator and clean it and the condenser coil.
5. Your freezer is less expensive to operate if it is kept full. If you don't have enough food to fill it, fill up water bottles and freeze them.

Mrs. May told club members that lights are not the biggest users of electricity — they average less than 95¢ per month. A 50-watt bulb can operate 20 hours for 9¢. Microwave ovens are a big saving. They average 10 kilowatts per month or about 90¢. This is about one fourth the cost of a conventional oven. FPL is currently buying electricity made with things other than oil in an attempt to lower costs, Ms. May said.

The regular business meeting was conducted by president Ann Brisson. Nine new members and one reinstated member were welcomed into the club. These members were later initiated by president Ann Brisson and membership chairman Martha Yancey.

Five club members attending the District 7 Fall Tour in Mt. Dora are: Beth Welebob, Vida Smith, Florence Korgan, Charlotte Smith and Ann Brisson, president. Beverly Huffman, president of the Sanford Junior Woman's Club, was elected Junior Director of District 7.

Kate Nash, chairman of the Education department, stressed the need for volunteers to work with the Adult Literacy program.

Mabel Piety reminded members about the Nov. 20 ESO meeting at the clubhouse. Mayor Bettye Smith will review "Mountbatten."

Hazel Cash, chairman of Public Affairs, told members the cancer society is badly in need of blood and drivers. She asked those who were able to do so to consider volunteering.

Floren Fantastic SCCA Opens Concert Season With A Little Bit Of Heaven

By Doris Dietrich
PEOPLE Editor

And a-one and a-two... "I was in heaven, just in heaven." Annette Wing, president of Seminole Community Concert Association said following the appearance of Myron Floren, accordionist, and his orchestra Tuesday evening at Lake Mary High School.

The personable musician drew nearly a full house of ecstatic, foot-stomping, hand-clapping patrons to open the association's 1985-86 concert season.

"He (Floren) has so much charisma — such a charming showman," Mrs. Wing added. Floren is described by critics as the best known accordion player in America and at Tuesday's concert, he played a lively mix of polkas as well as other dance favorites.

Perhaps a sing-along was not on the program, but perennial fans of the fantastic, fast-fingered, mild-mannered Floren couldn't seem to sit still with their mouths closed. They cheerfully and enthusiastically joined in singing "My Blue Heaven," "Bicycle Built for Two," and the finale, "God Bless America, among other tunes." "It was so rousing," Mrs. Wing said.

Now celebrating his 25th year with the Champagne Music maestro, Lawrence Welk, as assistant band director, Floren's personal appearances and special engagements are in high demand. He travels between 150,000 and 200,000 miles annually playing in communities throughout the nation and returns each week to assume his job as Welk's right arm in the band administration department.

A native of Webster, S.D., Floren took up the accordion at age 7, beginning, like Welk, with a Sears-Roebuck instrument costing $19.95. Admitting that his favorite music is the polka, he is fond of, and hooked on all types, from classical to pop rhythm.

"About the large turnout, "You name them and they were there," Frieda Gielow, a longtime fan of the Welk vintage dance music said, "They (concert association) had the biggest crowd they ever had. Myron Floren and orchestra outdid themselves. You could not sit in your seat," she added. "They should have had a place to dance."

Craig Orseno, membership chairman of the SCCA, said the season's opener was "nice — very nice. It was gratifying to see so many people turn out. Let's hope they show up for the second and third concerts."

Orseno mentioned that the association has 674 members.

Before the entourage of talented musicians began their magical sounds of music, Mrs. Wing introduced the 1985-86 SCCA board members and named the 60 patrons who have helped to keep the association active and provide high caliber concerts for the enjoyment and cultural enrichment of the community.

Sanford-Seminole Art Association provided a colorful display of 26 paintings along with a lovely seascape painted by Sanford artist Ashby Jones which will be awarded in a drawing when the concert season closes in the spring of Myron Floren featured with Lawrence Welk 25 years.

1986. During intermission, refreshments were served by Ruby King and her committee. Three punch tables featured a variety of party fare. "It was a real gorgeous affair," Miss Gielow summed up the somewhat some enchanted evening.

Sibling Rivalry Issue Debated

DEAR READERS: First this appeared in my column:

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of four lovely daughters. The eldest is 11. I'll call her Agnes. When Agnes was 3, her father died. Two years later, I remarried. Every summer, the parents of my first husband take Agnes for a month. Their son was their only child, and Agnes is their only grandchild. So far, Agnes has been to Disneyland, Hawaii, Mexico and Europe. My husband and I cannot afford to take our other three children on trips like that, and they are understandably envious and resentful. I'm sure with all the divorces, deaths and remarriages, this is a common problem. If you or any of your readers have a solution, I'd appreciate knowing it.

Dear Abby

you be so insensitive to the feelings of the younger siblings? Look ahead: Agnes will grow up to be a snob, thinking she is better than her sisters, who will surely grow to hate her. It's just human nature.

"Torn" should not permit those grandparents to take Agnes anywhere unless the sisters are included. Admit you were wrong, Abby.

LOS ANGELES
DEAR ABBY: The solution to "Torn's" problem is so simple. I'm surprised you didn't see it. While Agnes is off with her grandparents, the parents should treat the other girls to picnics, visits to the children's museum, the amusement park, the zoo, an overnight camping trip or a fun weekend staying at a motel.

It would be as thrilling for them as a trip to Disneyland. And that way the sisters at home wouldn't feel so left out.

J.J., ROCHESTER, N.Y.

DEAR ABBY: You'd better tell "Corney Venhemann" that

Dizzy Dean must have been listening to radio when he "originated" that line. "Lot's of people who don't say ain't, ain't working."

Will Rogers said it first. But, on the other hand, it was a laid-back zany football player named Joe Don Looney who first said: "I never met a man I didn't like — except Will Rogers."

Testing Necessary For Memory Loss

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — During the past 18 months, I've become increasingly forgetful and have had great difficulty recalling simple everyday things. For example, in my mind, I see a refrigerator, but can't think of what it's called to tell someone else. Is this normal for my age?

clearly demonstrated. Nonetheless, I am keeping an open mind, as I gather you are. Aluminum is the most prevalent mineral on earth; we use it in hundreds of ways. We eat it and drink it. The experts say it won't harm us still...

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio 44101.

I'm a 37-year-old woman. I've heard of Alzheimer's disease and that these are some of the symptoms. How can I find out what the problem is?

DEAR READER — Although all of us may tend to become forgetful as we age, you describe a more accelerated form of forgetfulness. In my opinion, your difficulty is not normal.

Please make arrangements to see a neurologist. In addition to a complete examination of your nervous system, I suspect you will need extensive testing to identify the cause of your poor recall so that the process can, if possible, be halted.

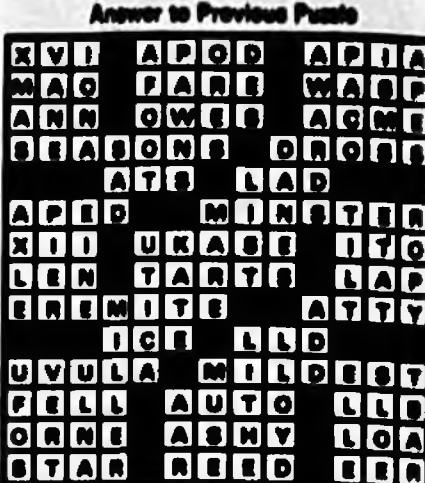

DEAR DR. GOTT — I was deeply interested in your column about aluminum pots. My husband's brother died at 80 with Alzheimer's disease. Our sister-in-law was a perfect wife and a cake-baker to a superlative degree. My oldest and dearest friend since first grade is now 73 and does not remember any conversation five to 10 minutes after it has taken place. She also was a prizewinning cake baker.

Nearly all baking powder contains aluminum sulphate; biscuit lovers ingest two teaspoons of baking powder to each cup of flour. Pickles are made crisp by adding alum to the pickling solution. Don't you think these things should be investigated?

DEAR READER — Although some investigators have suspected that aluminum may contribute to Alzheimer's disease, the relationship has not been

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby — An elementary rule states that you should respond to partner's opening bid when you have six high-card points. It's a good rule, but it has a disadvantage. When you don't respond, your opponents as well as your partner will know you don't have as much as an ace and a queen. Watch how this knowledge helped today's declarer to play his contract.

South jumped to two spades when West's opening heart bid was passed around to him. He meant that bid to show opening strength and a six-card suit, a reasonable way to bid in the passout position. North raised to four, also OK.

West led the heart king. East overtook with the ace and returned the suit. So the defenders quickly took the first three tricks. West then played the club king, which declarer won with the ace. Now a declarer just pushing cards around to pass the time would probably draw trump and after a while take the diamond finesse, hoping to find the queen with East. But our declarer knew better. East could not hold the diamond queen in addition to the heart ace or he would have responded to the one-heart opening bid. Accordingly South pulled trumps, ending in his hand, and led the jack of diamonds. West covered with the queen. Declarer won the king in dummy and led a diamond back, putting in the nine when East played low.

Remember this play. It's called a backward finesse. Please don't try it unless you're 90 percent sure that the queen is in the West hand.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY NOVEMBER 15, 1985

In the year ahead you will have more opportunities than usual to partake of the fun things that life has to offer. Lots of travel for pleasurable purposes is likely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You will impede your own progress today if you resurrect something that has previously angered you about someone pertinent to your immediate plans. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Financial conditions could be a mixed bag for you today. If you don't handle your resources prudently you're apt to spend more than you take in.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It behooves you to keep outsiders out of your business affairs today so that someone who isn't overly fond of you can't cause you complications.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Although your intentions will be good, it's best that you do not butt into situations today that don't concern you. Instead of helping, you could cause a problem.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is one of those days when business and pleasure might not make a good mix. Don't try to promote deals at a social gathering.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extremely fair and tactful today in handling people over whom you have authority. Don't single one out for reward while berating the others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be mindful of how you phrase things to co-workers today so you don't create a situation that pits one listener against another.

causing both to be disturbed with you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Subdue possessive tendencies today. If you behave poorly, the measures you take to correct matters aren't apt to soothe the hurt feelings of one who loves you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Before extending impromptu invitations to friends to come to your place today, it's best you consult with your mate. He or she may have other plans.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) To perform productively today, you must pace yourself sensibly. Rushing through tasks will greatly reduce your efficiency.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There could be a contest today between your prudent judgment and your extravagant impulses. Do yourself a favor and try to make it at least a draw.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A financial issue could generate a needless family dispute today. Try to make certain that you're not the one who provokes it.

Money Isn't Everything

NEW YORK (UPI) — The CBS miniseries "Kane & Abel" proves again that money doesn't buy happiness - and it doesn't buy great television, either.

The dramatization of the best-selling novel by Jeffrey Archer employs some fine talent, extravagant sets, lovely costumes and seven hours to tell the life stories of two rich men who make themselves and each other miserable. That's a lot of effort going into the televising of a mediocre book.

The story starts in Poland in 1901 with the illegitimate birth of a boy in a field. His mother dies in childbirth and he is adopted by a peasant family.

At the same time, in Boston, a boy is born into a wealthy, prominent family.

The two boys will grow up to be Abel Rosnovski, played by Peter Strauss, and William Lowell Kane, played by Sam Neill, who was more fun as "Reilly: Ace of Spies" on PBS.

The story shuttles back and forth between Boston and Poland as the boys grow up. Young Kane loses his father on the Titanic and disapproves of his mother's marriage to David Osborne, played by David Dukes. Kane is correct, of course, and Osborne diddles with his trust fund and dallies with bad women.

Kane's mother learns the awful truth about her husband, which brings on premature labor and death to mother and unborn child. Kane is an orphan.

Meanwhile, back in Poland, Abel goes to live with the local baron, is imprisoned during World War I by invading German troops, and finds out from the dying baron that he is really the baron's illegitimate son. Abel, too, is an orphan.

He also is captured by the Russians and sent to Siberia, but eventually escapes to Istanbul, where he almost has his hand chopped off for stealing an orange. That's the local penalty for pilfering.

While Kane works his way up from the top in the Boston-New York arena of big banking, and also proves his winning way in the stock market, Abel emigrates to the U.S. with other singing, dancing peasants in steerage.

He works his way up to waiter at New York's Hotel Plaza, resolutely insisting he is a baron. He also makes a killing in the market, thanks to the information he gleans from eavesdropping on his customers' conversations.

Abel waits on wheeler-dealer Davis LeRoy (Fred Gwynne), who hires him as assistant manager of his Chicago hotel. Abel now also is a contender for big bucks.

Along the way, Abel becomes convinced that Kane has done him great harm and he joins forces with Kane's erstwhile stepfather, who has become a Chicago insurance man and would-be politician. They are both out to make money and ruin Kane.

Kane has had the great good sense to marry Veronica Hamel, who as Kate Kane proves herself as alluring in costume as she is as contemporary Joyce Davenport on "Hill Street Blues."

The performances are professional, but not exceptional. Siraus frowns a lot, perhaps from the effort of keeping up a Polish accent. You'd think all those years in the U.S. would improve his diction. Neill smiles, even less, perhaps because the Irish-born Australian actor is trying to sound American.

"Kane & Abel," which airs on CBS Nov. 17, 8-11 p.m. Eastern time, and Nov. 18 and 19, 9-11 p.m., Eastern time, is a complicated story in which a lot happens - which gives the viewer less time to wonder whether it's all worthwhile.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —

"Manson," the ultimate horror film, is now on video tape.

"The Exorcist," "Friday The 13th" and other occult horror films pale into insignificance compared with the eerie madness of Charles Manson and the black arts practiced by his cult in the late 1960s.

It is the horror of reality. The central characters in the documentary film are murderously real, their crimes zealously committed. "Manson" needs no special effects or tricky plot twists.

On Aug. 9, 1969, Manson sent four of his followers out to butcher actress Sharon Tate and four other innocent victims in a bloodbath in the pregnant actress' posh Beverly Hills home. Her husband, Roman Polanski, was absent.

The following night Manson dispatched another kill squad to murder Leno and Rosemary La Blanca.

Bodies of the victims in both cases were carved with knives. Bloody messages were scrawled on doors and walls.

Manson and four of his "family" — Susan Atkins, Patricia Krenwinkel, Leslie Van Houten and Tex Watson — were convicted of murder and imprisoned.

Their trial, which cost $1 million, was the most publicized in the country's history. It was also the longest — 9 1/2 months — murder trial to that time.

The gory history of the messianic Manson and his devoted adherents is recorded in "Manson." The movie, released in 1976 and received critical acclaim. "Helter Skelter," a book about the Manson gang, written by prosecuting attorney Vincent Bugliosi, became a TV movie.

But both films were released at a time when the public had become inured to the atrocities committed by the cult's dedication to drugs, sex orgies and murder.

Some sociologists believe Manson contributed significantly to public outrage to end the hippie craze and extinguish the rebellious 60s movement.

Released this month, 16 years after the vicious killings, the video version of the original 88-minute film "Manson" puts more clearly into perspective who and what Manson and his ragtag group of social misfits were all about.

The shock value of the film is greater now than ever with footage of the killers in prison, interviews with other family members along with scenes of cult life on the infamous Spahn Ranch; Manson's satanic headquarters.

A final interview with Manson clearly exposes his madness.

Producer Robert Hendrickson said there was a seven-year moratorium on cassette rights, accounting in part for its delayed appearance on the market.

Hendrickson says he captured 10,000 feet of film of the family during those months in 1969 when Manson was a fugitive and then jailed and during the investigation of the murders.

"It was a difficult thing to do," said Hendrickson, who was only 25 at the time. "But I won their respect and trust by standing up to them from time to time. They let me film almost anything I wanted."

"But I backed off when they asked me to shoot their black art rituals. I didn't know what might happen."

"I wasn't sure I was involved with a murderous cult at first. Nobody had been convicted of anything. But as time went on I realized just what they were involved in."

Hendrickson gained the confidence of such other members of the clan as Sandra Goode, Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, Steve Grogan and Bruce Davis, all of whom have served time in prison. Fromme later attempted to assassinate President Gerald Ford.

"By the time I began filming the family their lifestyle had changed," Hendrickson said. "Manson worked his power over the women with drugs and sex. But he turned to his Helter Skelter plan, a race war between blacks and whites."

"Altogether there were between 50 and 100 family members at one time or another and they infiltrated communes all over the Southwest. They've almost all disappeared back into society."
