Deadly tornadoes: Cleaning up, remembering

Week of horror ends, rebuilding has begun

By RUSS WHITE Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Most of ti - folks who lived in or near what is known as Eureka Hammock were in bed. They would be going to work or to school in the morning at the start of a new week.

Clocks chimed gently at the last sweet midnight sound before the horror began.

A tornado mightier than anyone thought possible ambushed this rural area southeast of Sanford. Those living in trailers had no chance at all against a crude killer which blew at more than 200 mph.

Not able to withstand such a ferocious assault, these homes were reduced to instant rubble. vehicles were found in trees and bodies were hurled 80 and 90 yards into the night. Twelve people died, 42 homes were destroyed and more than 300 damaged.

What happened here was unprecedented," said Seminole County Fire Chief and meteorologist Terry Schenk. This was a midwestern-type tornado . and more intense than the majority of tornadoes there."

When the first units from Seminole County Station #35 at Five Points arrived five minutes after the first call, rescue workers were stunned at what they found - the devastation, the cries from out in the dark. Miraculously, lives spared. Ollie Hastings, 92, was rescued quickly Seminole County Operations Chief Chris Johnson. The roof of her home on Sipes Ave. had been blown

At least two people are still missing in other counties. Damage estimates exceed $1 billion. FOX 35 news goes live this weekend

By MARY ROWELL Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY - Customer service journalism. What does it mean? Central Florida will find out Sunday, March 1. Lake Mary's first television station, FOX 35 WOFL, will begin daily news broadcasts produced by their own news department. Customer service journalism, a phrase coined by news director Bill Avery, will be the goal. Fair, unbiased reporting will be their mantra.

Why news? In the last two years, there has been a real growth in Fox newscasts around the nation. Over 80 Fox affiliates now have their own news departments. FOX 35 has been talking about doing a newscast for several years.

They began planning in earnest 2 years ago. Bill Avery came to work for the station and set up the news department in the summer of 1997. This won't be your average newscast. FOX 35 will be targeting Fox prime time viewers with a 30-minute newscast seven nights a week at 10 p.m. We will do more in depth, better comprehensive coverage to give viewers a good total view of the day. The news will be very fast paced with a high story count and lots of graphics. FOX 35 News will have a different feel. We would like to produce a show that's compelling, distinctly fair and unbiased." Avery said. "I have faith that if we do that, and I'm sure we will, that the viewers will be there."

WB18 WKCF to move to new home

By SHARI BRODIE Herald Staff Writer

We dominate when it comes to signal we dominate when it comes to ratings and we'll soon have a building that reflects that," said Joe Addalia, corporate director of engineering for WB18 WKCF

According to Addalia, the television station that will soon move its offices to Lake Mary is "number 2 in town when it comes to (UHF) signal

The station claims the highest ratings for the Kids WB, shown weekday afternoons, in the country and also holds the number one spot for ratings on the popular Jerry Springer talk show Actually, WB18 airs Springer twice datly, once at 9 a.m. and once at 1 p.m. Addalia said the afternoon shows rivals ratings

The station will makes its big hop (the station's logo contains a frog!) to Lake Mary, antoa new 17,500 square foot building on April 10 Addalia said he hoped to move sooner but rain and wind delayed construction on the building on Skyline Drive, right next door to FOX

The building will house the current staff of 56, with a larger studio for commercial and promotional production.

"It's a good location," said Addalia of the Lake Mary site. The television station had originally looked to the south for property but found it too expensive. Currently located on the second floor of the American Pioneer building on Courtland, off Lee Road, Addalia said that Channel 2 and Fields BMW got the last pieces of prime real estate in that part of Orlando, so the company started looking northward. We essentially worked our way up 1-4." The company wanted 1-4 visibility and the property was convenient to many of the employees

What about being next door to FOX 35? Addalta said he welcomes friendly rivalry.

"We always welcome competition because it makes for a livelier market," said Addalfa.

He said the two stations have been neck and neck during the February sweeps. "We're beating them Monday through Friday, they're beating us weekends.

FOX 35 will begin live news broadcasts from their Lake Mary studios on March 1, WB 18 bill their 10 p.m. news program as the "original." The station has been using the resource of Channel 6 for more than six years to broadcast the news program. "It does quite well." said Addalia and went on to say, "Bud Hedinger works for us and the news is written specifically for us."

While the new building will have a larger studio and the station could bring the news program in-house, Addalia said the company prefers to focus on being technically superior to other stations in the area. "We are far ahead of a lot of people when it comes to technology," said Addalia. Currently, 90 percent of the station's programming is on analog tape. He hopes to change that soon to 80 percent digital disc with analog back-up. The new building will rely heavily on a state-ofthe art fiber optic system, that sends an uninterrupted signal to the station's tower in Bithlo. "No one else does this," said Addalia, Everyone else is microwave. WB 18 WKCF is owned by Press Communications LLC, a partner ship of four people. Mark lass is the owner manager of the station. Press is the company that started Real Radio, imaged after a larger station the company owned in New Jersey. The station's city of license is Clermont.

Saying one thing, doing-another with preservation on May & M97, the blaterical preservation board approved a collect cart and wrought tron tables and chairs to be placed outside a restaurant located in the Odd Fellows Building. Mr. Rami Yosefian presented pictures and stated that they would be exactly as what is at Church Street Station.

As of this time nothing Mr. Rami Yoseflan said he would do has been done. He now has a hotdog stand instead of a coffee cart. The hotdog stand is closer to First Street than it is to where his restaurant is supposed to be. Mr. Rami Yoseflan has indicated that he would appeal to the City Commission to allow him to keep what he has there now. Everything he has done with the historical board has been disingenuous.

One of the biggest problems we have had in this city is people talking out of both sides of their mouths about what they are going to do. The concern of many people is that Mr. Yoseflan is affiliated with the company that wants to build the hotel on the lake front. The more he plays games with the city and the historical board the more people are going to think this hotel is some kind of scam.

Mr. Yosafian, don't try and come into our city and break the rules to suit your benefit. We don't want that happening and we will not have it happening. We now have a mayor and city commission that will take a stand against such practices.

We must strengthen our building codes

What a web we weave

Maybe some of you can accept the remorse shown by our political leaders during this latest disaster in Central Florida, but I can not.

There is no doubt that they were sincere in their concern for the victims of this tragedy, at least 39 lives lost in this past week's tornadoes, but what have they done in a constructive matter to help to protect these people prior to this disaster? The answer is...not much

It is true that many of these storms would destroy many of the homes and other buildings within their direct path no matter how well these buildings may have been constructed. But, it is also true that those not directly in the path of these storms, and even some directly within the pathway, could have held up much better had the construction been of higher quality.

The old argument that the cost is prohibitive does not hold up. The truth is that our political figures are failing to provide the proper leadership in creating much more stringent building codes. Proper construction may not prevent the destruction of every building or home, but it would decrease the damage enough to save many buildings, and more importantly; lives.

Political leaders know that my statements are correct. It is they that do not have the fortitude to create a Florida-wide set of standards designed to reduce the damage of these storms. To visit these sites, after the fact and to do nothing afterwards, is mind boggling to me. Today, when you purchase a home you can't even expect it to last 30 years, the length of the typical mortgage.

Poor construction is evident in new homes

Think about this, Seminole County

ERNEST HATTON II

Ernest Hatten II is a veteran member of numerous government boards and is a civic activist in the interest of good government.

throughout the area, i.e. siding falling apart, water pipes bursting, homes being built in known flood areas, poor termite protection and laws, and most importantly the widespread building of non-concrete one story homes. And there's more! The point is that homes today are falling apart within a few years without the help of a severe storm. What kind of protection is being provided to the consumer? The answer is none. Who is to blame? The very same people who appear on the scene to give us their condolences. Are they sorry? Of course they are. But what are they going to do about it!

This is not a new issue. It has been brought up time and again. It will be interesting to see if there is a local, state or federal politician who will seriously address these issues now. I must make it clear that this is not just about improving construction in the event of hurricanes, tornadoes and other storms. This is much broader than that. It is a question of good construction in every sense. The issue before our governmental bodies, code departments and all concerned is that of providing families with homes that they can feel secure in, not only from storms, but from failing water pipes, termite protection and construction materials that do not have to be replaced by the owner shortly after purchase.

We must prevent that one family whose home has been flooded because we bent the rules in order to accommodate a builder or developer. One family that has had their possessions lost because of leaking water pipes, IN A NEW HOME! This should be our goal because it will not just be one family. There will be a multitude of homeowners who will benefit. That is how widespread and disgraceful the problem is. Locally, this is a very good campaign issue. Here it is...

I will strongly endorse the overhauling of our building codes beyond that of any other county in order to give as much protection as possible to the citizens of this county.

At the same time we will study the issue of how existing homes may be improved by the owners to provide further protection for them and their families. It is clear that building codes once set and adhered to by all parties do not affect the building industry, or those connected with it. Instead, proper standards will benefit our county both financially and most importantly will set an example for the nation and provide as much protection as possible for our citizens. With the knowledge provided to us from intense studies of these issues, we know that we have made very effort and surely lives will be spared. That in itself is payment enough for our efforts. There is no better way of serving our citizens then by saving their

Suspended attorneys and their clients

In a recent visit to Seminole County Courthouse, I found it to be impossible to see a judge just to ask a few questions about a ruling in his court. Of course, if I paid an attorney several hundred dollars, we maybe could com-

However, my story today started when some defendants being represented by an attorney, and this attorney being their counsel on record, got himself suspended after his clients paid the retainer in full. I find it to be unjust to issue arrest warrants for these defendants if the attorney on record failed to notify the court and his clients that he had been suspended by the Florida Bar for unprofessional reasons and therefore, caused further hardship to the defendants.

After further searching records, there were no notices sent to the defendants and therefore hardships and embarrassment were caused when the warrants were issued and honored because of this attorney's negligence.

Despite trying to see the judge I finally contacted a state senator, a member of the Florida Bar and the Supreme Court who mainly is responsible for lawyers' conduct and regulations. The complaint is being looked into and should be/will be addressed as stated to me.

be/will be addressed as stated to me.

The attorney should be the one getting a warrant issued, not the defendant and the judges should make the attorneys liable if they fail to report to his or her court that he or she has been disciplined by the Florida Bar and therefore causes him or her to withdraw. The Florida Bar stated that there is something to that effect in affect now, but may be overlooked.

Of course, judges are lawyers too, plus, it make the defendants spend more money on the system and much more time on probation. Probation and parole are two of the biggest jokes. These are supposed to be officers assisting the court and encouraging good behavior by convicted criminals, but actually are just money collectors and baby-sitters for adults.

The probation and parole can be thankful to the State Attorney's Office for their clients. More wheeling and dealing is going on with the State Attorney's Office then the Florida Lottery. Where I'm from you get treated like sons of God, but for Seminole County residents you have got to be careful of this system. You can easily be trapped. Protect yourselves, the truth will prevail.

ill prevail. God bless you all.

Special People TONY TIZZIO

Tizzio is an advocate for the disabled.

Meet Steve Luptak

In our Dec. 21, 1997 column on Eddie Rose, we said there are "special people" everywhere. They may not be what you would call disabled, but they have overcome health and life difficulties and gone on to make their world a better place.

world a better place.

Today we will talk about another such person. Steve Luptak is a 66- year- old retired military service veteran, born in Detroit, Mich. and is now an Oviedo resident. He is the father of two adult daughters, Christine and Katherine whom he mostly raised alone and he leads a very busy life.

Though all of his public service activities are too numerous to mention, we will review some. He is president of the Winter Park FOPA (Fraternal Order of Police Associates), a lifetime member of the Reserve Officers Association and still manages to help many others. Community service is not new to Steve.

While working for the government, Steve was asked to take part in the Loaned Executive Program. This program started in the Nixon administration where executives were loaned out for charity drives such as the Heart Association, American Cancer Society, etc. This was part of the Combined Federal Campaign and these executives included two cabinet level people.

Having been both a retired federal employee and U.S. Army colonel, he spent almost 35 years in the federal government both as a civilian and in the military. He was drafted into the service as he was about to finish pre-med studies and was ready to enter medical school. He was released from active duty to the Army Reserve. He was recalled several times to be placed back on active duty.

Serving concurrent civilian and Army careers, his activities included: Senate liaison officer, working with the Senate Armed Services Committee; the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs; training, setting up the program for individual training; and working with the media releasing materials like prepared speeches, etc.

These matters include some health difficulties, including back problems, but the biggest of these is a heart condition, arterial fibrillation, which causes the heart to beat irregular. This was discovered in 1982 and he was sent to Walter Reed Army Medical Hospital in Washington

Washington.

"The hardest thing," he says, "about having this condition is the quality of life." For example, Steve's heart problem occasionally causes him extreme exhaustion. He originally

The way we were: All about Mardi Gras, 1954

Poop Sheet given to each Seminole High Band member for our Mardi Gras trip in 1954. Bandmaster Emie Cowley had everything well organized and we were expected to follow instructions.

The first page gives the schedule for our four- day trip. On Sunday, February 28, the loading crew was to report at 4 a.m.; buses left at 6. Sunday School and a roadside picnic were scheduled at 11 a.m. and at 7 p.m. we were to arrive at the Winter Gardens Motel in Mobile.

Monday morning we were to leave at 8 a.m. and would arrive in New Orleans at approximately 3 p.m. The bus would then return to town from Jackson Barracks where we stayed for free time until 7:30 p.m. at which time we would watch the night parade together.

On Mardi Gras Day, Tuesday, we were to report for roll call in uniform at 7:30 a.m. The buses would then take us to breakfast after which we lined up for the Rex Parade at 9:30.

The parade was to end at 1:30 p.m.; we could either stay in town in uniform for free time or return to barracks by bus to change. At 6:30 p.m. we were to meet at the Greyhound station, having had supper, to return to barracks. And at 8:30 p.m. we were to leave for the Rex Ball.

Wednesday morning we were to leave New Orleans and drive straight through, arriving in Sanford at approximately 6 a.m. on Thursday, I can think of a few things we did that weren't scheduled: we had our Sunday picnic in the Tallahassee bus station because of rainy weather; we stopped on Monday to tour Jefferson Davis' home, Beauvoir, near Biloxi; and on Wednesday we were given a short period of free time in the French Quarter before leaving for home.

The second sheet gives a check list for packing. The only acceptable dress for traveling was good school clothes. There is a list of suggested items to pack; we were only allowed one suitrase. We also had to take a bedroll, uniform, instrument and formal. Everything, had to be marked with our trip number and brought to the band hall by 6:00 p.m. Saturday or It would not be taken.

The third page told about meals, money and rules. Each person was to receive $10 for meals. (My dad was treasurer for the trip and gave out $3 each day; he carried $1 and $2 bille.)

Some rules from the constitution were given, one stated that cuddling or disorderly conduct were offenses that would cause immediate expulsion from the band.

The following additional rules were listed: Travel in groups of four when on free time. No gambling or drinking: smoking was permitted only by parents' written consent and that of the band director. No smoking in public. Observe high moral standards at all times. Observe the Off Limits areas. Do not ride in taxi cabs except in case of emergency. Remember that you represent your family, the band's reputation, the school, Sanford and Florida. Any misdemeanors may result in your early return to Sanford - alone.

I'm glad to report that everyone behaved properly and no one had to be sent home. I wrote about our experience in one of my first columns; it was a marvelous trip which will be remembered fondly by all who took part, 44 years ago!

Tidbits from Peter School

While I was looking through Peter Schaal's Sanford and the World War II Years for my January 18 column, I came across some other tidbits that are perhaps of interest.

Remember M.B. (T-Bone) Smith who was a farmer here and state representative in the Now we know!

On November 14, 1936, Postmaster RJ. Holly announced that the first Social Security application forms had arrived.

Also on that day, Merton Aycock was named to head a WPA survey of the county for a book to be known as "Historical Records Survey". Only documents of historic value were being sought. In December, My Aycock announced that four 1998 Sanford newspapers had been added to this project: Sanford Daily Journal (March 17 and July 5), Christian Advocate (June 30) and South Argus (June 30).

On December 7, 1936, a National Airlines plane, fog bound over Orlando, became the first passenger-mail plane to ever land in Sanford.

The city commission approved, over residents' protests, a filling station at 13th and Park. This occurred January 8, 1937.

And on July 4, 1937, the new All Souls Catholic Church was dedicated. The building had cost $20,000 and the event occurred on the 50th anniversary of the dedication of their former building which was burned to the ground on January 23,

The Ladies Guild of Holy Cross Episcopal Church published a 46 page booklet entitled "Dainty Dishes" probably about 1920. Currently, a lot of stories aren't being covered because they don't fit in a prescribed format. FOX 35 will not have a prescribed format. They plan to do community based news. They will cover Orlando, but they will also cover Lake Mary and other communities. They plan to do focus stories on bigger issues. And unlike other stations, they will also cover high school and college sports on a regular basis.

FOX 35's reporters have already been out in the communities meeting with law enforcement officials, visiting schools, etc... getting into the communities to find out what they think is important and getting to know the communities. FOX 35 has also done a substantial survey of viewers asking what issues they care about, what affects them, what affects their family. The news department will be using that information as a guide into making their newscast.

FOX 35 has already been covering news stories for a month. They've been running the news department as if they are already on the air, even sending feeds to the Fox News Channel.

Unlike other stations, there are no plans at FOX 35 to do things differently during the ratings sweeps. "We hope," Avery said, "to be able to deliver, night in, night out, compelling stories that viewers will buy into."

WOFL has put together a community oriented news team that understands the issues and looks for ways to cover a story that illustrates a person's life," Avery said. "Lots of news stories are done because they're easy and in your face, not necessarily because they're newsworthy or relate to the viewers."

With the advent of technology, a lot of stations do live shots for the sake of doing live shots. A recent broadcast on another station had a reporter at a site in the dark talking about what went on earlier in the day. Then the station cut to video showing what had gone on. There was absolutely no reason for the reporter to be live at the site. FOX 35 will be doing live shots for breaking news, but reporters will not be doing live shots just to be doing live shots. Avery also promises that they will not beat a story to death. There will not be team coverage of a story, there will be one reporter who covers the story in depth because people want to get the details and move on.

The ever expanding entertainment industry in Central Florida will be covered by entertainment reporter Steve Oldfield. He will also be covering local theater and high school and college theater.

We are genuinely concerned about what viewers think," Avery said. And Avery knows news, as a veteran of the bustness for 34 years. He came to Lake Mary from a Meredith station in Flint, Michigan where he had worked for 17 years in the news department. His news team comes from all over. Anchor Jo Ann Bauer is from Sarasota, sports anchor Scott Burridge is from Orand Junetion, Colorado, weatherman Ken Daily is from Birmingham, Alabama. Other reporters come from Salt Lake, Savannah, Los Angeles, Iowa and Illinois.

This great diversity of talent," Bill said, "has a common thread, an innate interest in people."

FOX 35 will be encouraging viewer feedback. Call them, write them or visit their web site at www.wofl.com. They want to know what you think.

Looking for a good night's sleep? Try Melatonin

By ALYCE KLEIN RN Special to the Herald

Daily stresses can cause enough anxiety to impede a good night of sleep. A sleep deficit accrued from fitful nights of tossing and turning makes difficult to remain mentally astute during the day. Insomnia is a common problem, effecting approximately one-third of adults in the United

Melatonin, a hormone secreted by the pineal gland in the brain, is believed to influence sleep, bolster the immune system, ward off heart disease, and slow the growth of tumors. Although it is being sold in health food stores and pharmacies across the nation, it has not been scientifically proven to be completely safe and effective. Melatonin is available without a prescription and is unregulated by the FDA (Food and Drug Administration).

Some scientists believe that if the body does not produce enough melatonin at the right time, restful sleep will not ensue. According to American Medical Association Encyclopedia of Medicine, our bio-rhythms are based on a circadian (24 hour) cycle. The release of melatonin is stimulated by darkness, and abates as the sun comes up and light receptors in the eye cause the pineal gland to slow secre-tion of the hormone. Air travel into another time zone causes a distortion of night and day for the traveler and the circadian cycle is disrupted resulting in jet lag. Research suggests that oral administration of melatonin may not only influence sleep, but provide relief from jet lag by assisting the traveler to reset his or her internal clock.

"Melatonin has been found to inhibit LDL flow density lipids or "bad cholesterol") and the synthesis of cholesterol", stated Dr. Muller in Biochemical and Biophysical Research, 1994. This reduces the risk of arteriosclerosis and heart disease.

Melatonin production slows as we age. Some research points to the possibility that melatonin supplementation slows the aging process by fighting free radical damage and bolstering the immune system. Due to these potential effects, it is thought that melatonin can help prevent cancer or be of benefit to persons who have been diagnosed with cancer.

Dr. R. L. Wurtman, a researcher at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. states that there is a good indication that melatonin does help people sleep, but the safe and correct dose is still not known. More research needs to be conducted in order to determine the safety of melatonin administration. Melatonin levels in the blood are around 0.3 milligrams during sleep. Stores are selling melatonin pills that can raise blood levels to more than 10 times the normal amount. It is still uncertain what serious side effects can result from this overdose.

Dr. Cathy Pagan of Integrated Health Partners is a physician who practices holistic health care in Orlando. Her specific areas of focus are diabetes, nutrition and obesity. Dr. Pagan believes that people should exercise caution when taking melatonin. The melatonin sold in health food stores is manufactured from plants and can contain impurities. If the bottle states that the hormone has been extracted from an animal you need to ask which animal and where the melatonin has been extracted from said Dr. Pagan. "Melatonin is not FDA approved. The way these hormones are manufactured is not standardized or controlled and the actual concentration of melatonin may differ from one bottle to another."

A dose of two milligrams to five milligrams of melatonin should be taken at a time based on circadian rhythms. The best times for most people to take melatonin and achieve optimal results, according to Dr. Pagan, is between five and ten o'clock in the evening.

"People need to be aware that high doses of melatonin have significant side effects. High doses cause sedation, problems with the reproductive system, and a decreased sex drive", said Dr. Pagan. "Anyone who is pregnant, trying to get pregnant, has diabetes, an immunologic or psychiatric disorder, suffers from allergies, or is taking prednisone, cortisone, birth control pills, or thyroid hormone should abstain from taking melatonin".

Since there is no scientific evidence that supplementation of the hormone melatonin will not have adverse effects, it is recommended that persons who decide to procure this sleep aid use it with caution. There are some safe strategies that can possibly provide relief from insomnia without the use of drugs. To enhance night time rest, drink a glass of milk before bed, do not eat before bed time, curb caffeine consumption and eliminate it at least seven hours before bed time, exercise during the morning or afternoon, and take a warm bath before going to sleep. Establishing a regular time and routine for going to bed and a regular time for waking is also an excellent way to combat insomnia. Some physical and psychiatric disorders cause sleeplesaness, therefore if trouble alceping persists, seek the advice

Getting Fit: A Moderate Approach

Americans need to commit themselves to doing exercise less vigorously. For example, it is typical for people to make overly ambitious exercise and fitness resolutions for the new year. Soon they get tired and sore, or worse, injured which leads them to discontinue exercising all together. Embracing a more moderate approach to working out is the answer for those wanting to become fit and enhance their health.

Tuscawilla is kicking off a peer mediation program in which students get together to mediate personal problems of their fellow students. There are 27 kids selected to participate after a long interview process' and assistant principal Tom Robair said he is excited to see it get off the ground.

"It's our attempt to give the children an avenue before a situation develops that causes a problem," Robair said. "We need something in place to give them assistance.

The mediation consists of a round-table discussion in the presence of an administrator. Anyone with a problem concerning another students simply filis out a peer mediation form and they get together to work out the problem. Some of the mediators said the problems usually consist of stopping rumors and boyfriend-girlfriend problems.

The kid were taught by nationally-trained specialists in the sield who are stationed over at neighboring Lake Howell High. Seminole County paid the cost for the specialists. After the specialists came over to Tuscawilla, the selected kids went through a four-and-a-half hour training program. The kids range everywhere from sixth- to eighthgrade and there is a mix during the actual sessions.

"In training, told us to have the kids come to us, tell their problems and try to see each other's point," eighth-grader Jennifer Santana said. "We try to teach them how to solve it. then they sign a contract and come back in a couple of weeks to talk about it again."

Eighth-grader Zachary Sale added. There are always at least two mediators and the people with the problems face each other. Everyone gets their own turn to talk and they can't interrupt."

"After they sort it all out, there's no problems," seventhgrader Clarence Philpott added.

Zachary said the mediators never say who's at fault and that it's up to the kids with the gripe to come up with their own solution.

Eighth-grader Emily Stefurak said everything the kids say stays in the room and there's to be no discussion outside of the session.

Zachary said the students take the program seriously.

The program seems to work, especially in a situation involving boyfriends and girlfriends.

Emily added, "It's almost always a problem started because of rumors."

Robair said the program has been highly successful and he's looking forward to seeing it in place.

Sometimes it doesn't pay to be a nice guy

SANFORD An incident in Connecticut brought about some thoughts on the Seminole County sports scene as well as women's sports nationwide.

As everybody knows by now, the University of Connecticut women's basketball coach Oeno Auriemma arranged for his injured scoring leader Nykesha Sales, with the cooperation of his opponent and the commissioner of the Big East Conference, Mike Tranghese, to allow Sales to score an uncontested layup at the start of their game against Villanova Wednesday.

The reason was that Sales was one point from the school's all-time scoring record when her career ended with a torn Achilles tendon last weekend.

Wednesday, she hobbled out at the start of the game, set the record, then walked off to a loud ovation.

UConn allowed Villanova to score an uncontested basket so that both teams could start out even.

Now Auriemma is being vilified by fans, mostly men, from all over the country.

He doesn't deserve it. In fact, he should be praised for the attention he has brought to the women's game over the last several of the media, the same ones who so selfrighteously rave about women's basketball in their politically correct manner.

Auriemma has been labeled a pig by much

But all Auriemma was doing was making a cert. Source to someone who gave her cert said. Ultimately har readon to the conn program.

Tranghese is the one who made the biggest mistake, saying he wouldn't have allowed the ploy if it had been a man's game. Now he's being abused for saying that men's and women's basketball shouldn't be treated exactly the same.

If you dig beneath the perceived sexism behind the remark, it makes some sense. Right now, in 1998, they aren't the same.

For women's basketball to be on completely equal footing with the men's game - and that will never happen - little stunts like these that bring attention to the game are necessary.

Take a look at women's sports a little closer to home. Name one high school sport in Seminole County where the girls outdraw the boys (let's forget the Lake Mary - Pensacola game two weeks ago, it was an aberra-

Lyman scores, Oviedo doesn't, Greyhound boys advance on to district soccer finals

LONGWOOD _ When you get right down to it, the only thing you have to do to win games is score more often than the other team. If you can keep the other team from scoring, it makes your task that much simpler.

Senior goalie Shane LaPlaca and his defensive sidekicks made things elementary for their Lyman teammates Friday night when they blanked the Oviedo Lions in their 6A-District 3 boys' soccer semifinal at the Carlton Henley Athletic Complex.

Jason Detbler and Mark Lewis provided the offense, each scoring a goal to give the Greyhounds a 2-0

Lyman (15-5 and ranked No. 4 in the last Florida Sports Writers' Association/Florida Athletic Coaches' Association Class 6A state poll) advances to Tuesday night's championship game at Lake Brantley. Oviedo (ranked No. 8 in the most recent state poll) finishes its season 19-6-2. Given the circumstances facing the Greyhounds, they probably had to rely on their defense more than usual Friday night. Not only were the facing one of the county's strongest offensive sides, but Lyman hadn't played a game in two

"We haven't played since Feb. 14," said Lyman coach Ray Sandidge before the game. "And I think we've only played one game in the last 20 or so days. But we're as healthy as we've been all year."

Maybe it was the layoff or maybe the Lion defense had something to do with it, but the Greyhounds weren't quite as sharp on osfense, which requires timing and touch.

"I was very concerned Monday night," said Sandidge. Wednesday, when I saw Oviedo play at Lake Brantley, I was concerned. But we had a good week of practice. Then, on Thursday, we had a great practice. I knew we had a big game in us."

Mark Lewis scored the goal that put the game out of reach Friday night as the No. 4 state-ranked Lyman Greyhounds ousted the Oviedo Lions, 2-0, in the semifinals of the Class 6A-District 3 Boys Soccer Tournament at Lyman High School.

From Staff Reports

SANFORD _ The Seminole Community College softball team continued its season of give and take Thursday afternoon as the Raiders split a Mid-Florida Conference doubleheader with Central Florida Community College from Ocala.

As has been their pattern of late, the Raiders played outstanding in winning the opening game, 5-2, but could not maintain the momentum and dropped the nightcap, 4-3, to the Patriots.

"It was a great first game," said SCC head coach Courtney Miller. We didn't get many hits, but the ones we did manage always produced runs for us. Brittany Scott hit a bomb in the sixth inning over the Elland (one run scored each).

We gave CFCC the second game. Two errors in one inning produced four runs for them. The kids gave it all they had and scrapped back in the sixth and pushed across the dying run in the seventh, but we ran out of outs."

The Raiders (8-7 overall, 3-3 in the conference) took a 3-0 lead inthe bottom of the third inning of the opening game. Deltona's Erin Maijub reached on an error and advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt by Oviedo's Desirae Schwartz. Maijub then moved to third on a wild pitch as Christy Neudeck walked. Neudeck then stole second as Diane Macaluso also walked to load the bases.

Talent and ability is something Robinson is familiar with playing sports all throughout her life. She played for Stetson University and went on to coach at her alma mater, Eustis High School, for a wide range of sports. While coaching at Eustis, Robinson received the job at Greenwood. Along with her other duties Robinson took on the Lake Mary High girls basketball team.

Mitchell's play book reads somewhat the same. Being an athletic child and basketball being his first love, Mitchell was a starting forward for Seminole High School in the mid-70's. He also coached for several years at Lake Howell High School and then came to Greenwood where he has been for 12 years.

We try to give them a piece of what is going on at Lake Mary High so when they get over there they can build on that," Robinson said.

Candice Hays then ripped a two-run double to right center as Maijub and Neudeck scored. Lake Brantley's Marnie Bernstein then reached on an error that allowed Macaluso to score.

The Patriots (4-11 overall, 2-4 M-FC) got a run back in the top of the fourth inning, but SCC answered right back in the bottom of the fourth inning. With two out and no one on, Schwartz doubled to right center and Neudeck followed with an RBI double to center field.

CFCC got its final run in the top of the sixth inning and Lake Howell's Scott launched her home run leading off the bottom of the sixth inning for the Raiders. Rene Hooper raised her record to 4-3, scattering eight hits and two earned runs. The sophomore from Atco. New Jersey struck out two and walked none.

SCC only got four hits. Doing the damage were Scott (1-for-3 with the home run, one run scored, one RBI), Neudeck (1-for-2 with a double, one run scored, one RBI), Hays (1-for-2 with a double, one run scored, one RBI), Schwartz (1-for-2 with a double, one run scored) the fourth inning. Scott led off with a single to left and advanced to second on a passed ball. Lyman's Jamie Sharp then ripped a double to left field, scoring

The Raiders' third ran came in the bottom of the sixth inning as, with two out and no one on, Oviedo's Carrie McAulisse walked. Schwartz came on to run for McAuliffe and advanced to second when Neudeck reached on an error. Macaluso then reached on an infield single to short, with Schwartz scoring all the way from Hays then singled to load the bases, but the next batter popped up to end the threat.

Ramey opened the SCC seventh by reaching on an error and she was bunted to second by Scott. But that was as far as she got as the next two batters popped up and grounded out to end the game.

Lori Ashworth saw her record fall to 0-3 despite giving up just two carned runs on eight hits over 5-2/3 innings. The freshman from Boone struck out one and walked none. Traci Miller threw the final 1-1/3 innings, giving up higher draws, which translates into big bucks for the boosters. Football games are the biggest moneymakers of them all, yet, because of gender equity which requires girls to have as many opportunities to play sports as the boys, the boys lose out because a football team fields approximately 100 players for the three teams at each school. Look at the professional game and where it stands at 1998. The two women's leagues are drawing well for fledgling associations, but don't come anywhere near the NBA average for fan support. The ABL all-star game did well at Disney, but there were still seats available at a 9,000-plus arena. Teams still close off the top decks in their NBA arenas except for some of the biggest games.

Don't take this as criticism of the women's game which is just as exciting on the high school level as the guys game. And remember, the NBA resorted to some pretty wacky gimmicks back in the 40s when it was getting off the ground.

But, for the women to get the kind of exposure they need, they have to be in the news. And even though that may have been Tranghese's motivation, it seems all Auriemma wanted to do was something nice for a loyal player.

This year the Greenwood Lakes girls basketball team finished third in their league with a 9-3 record. The games were all close throughout the season which is an accomplishment considering all the girls are not year round play-

Although with lengthy practices the girls do receive a work out each day. Beginning practice the girls do a complete forty-five minutes of the fundamentals -- dribbling, shooting, passing.

in additional to the basics, the girls have a conditioning run, along with performing drills and plays.

"Last year, I would come to practice and some of the girls would be crying. They know that it takes a lot of hard work," said Robinson.

The victories would not be possible without the absolute dedication from every player. At that level it may seem difficult to imagine but these young ladies and the coaches have that devotion to the team and sport. The parents are even in-

Highs contests. You can have the best coach in the world but if you don't have the tools to work with then you can't accomplish anything," said Robinson. "These girls have that natural ability that we saw when they were in volved attending their chil-dren's games and Lake Mary sixth grade." The next couple of years look promising for the Greenwood Lakes team as the sixth and seventh graders move up. Coach Mitchell is continuously in the process of placing the girls in summer leagues and AAU.

This correspondingly means great things for Lake Mary High as the young athletes go on to play there.

As Lake Mary High brought home the state championship this year, Robinson and Mitchell shared in that moment of joy knowing they had a little something to do with the suc-CCSS.

"I feel proud knowing I've been associated with those kids," said Mitchell.

With Robinson and Mitchell's winning program they hope to increase their victories next year which should not be hard with two experienced coaches on staff.

Cinderella season renews belief in happy endings

By MARY LEAH SUTTON Special to the Herald

LAKE MARY _ After a season like the Lake Mary Girls Varsity Basketball Team had last year, losing the State Championship game in the closing seconds, it would have been exceptionally easy for us to stop believing in happy endings. The term itself implies a fairy tale story, one which in this case includes: a dashing leading man, coach Carl Brown; his trusting proteges, the Lady Ram players; the villains, every team which challenged us and pushed our expectations of ourselves to a higher level; and a worthy cause, a State Championship.

Like evry Cinderella story, there were many obstacles and impediments facing us on the long and winding road to Lakeland. Nevertheless, we stepped up to challenge after challenge and fought our way back to face Boone High School in the State Championship game last

Before the game, the locker room was filled with excitement and rampant nerves. I had a flashback to a year ago when we sat in that very same room, but the atmosphere was extremely different. We were too young to realize then the remarkable position we had been thrust into and at the time relied on our emotions and adolescence to carry us through the game. Now, a year later, I realized that across the hall was a youthful and talented team that reminded me of a certain Lake Mary squad which had possessed the same fearless qualities that would no doubt aid Boone in the championship bout that was soon to occur. But as we stepped onto the 'court of dreams' and felt the rush that comes from hearing fans screaming your name and grasping the fact that, win or lose, this was to be the last game of our season, we were given new courage and faith. Courage that arises from the illuminated and impassioned expression on your teammates faces, and faith that comes from the sudden realization that we had been here before and it was our turn to do it right

Much like last season, the Championship game featured two exceptional teams that refused to give up and in doing so caused it to be a close game. But that night would prove to be one of Lake Mary's finest hours. As the buzzer sounded to signal the capture of a dream unattainable by most, but now achieved by a team astounded at its new accomplishment, I looked around to view some of the same faces and scenes that had graced the Lakeland Center the year before. Although we were now the ones celebrating wildly, and with just cause, I noticed the tears were still prevalent. They were flowing from the eyes of my teammates, parents in the crowd, enthusiastic fans, reporters, and many more. But this time they were teams of contentment and you could see swelling up inside each person the fulfillment of a special place in their hearts that had been left barren ever since the loss last season to Pensacola.

Perhaps the most touching moment came when I turned to witness a man who has touched my life and the lives of the people around him, Coach Carl Brown, victoriously holding the State Championahip trophy while tears streamed down his face. This is a man who you would always think would have complete control over his emotions, but that night he became entirely vulnerable to the passions which he had hidden all season long. While we celebrated our win and viewed all the happenings of the night with giddy enthusiasm, I could see Coach Brown proudly gazing over his team and envisioned him realizing at that moment that he was living out his high school dreams through us and that would be an everlasting bond shared between him and the players on the 97-98' State Champion Lady Rams Basket-

And so it is written. A fairy tale ending to a magical story. Who knows, there may be a sequel. But for right now, I'm cherishing my renewed belief in "Happy Endines".

Mary Leah Sutton's hard work (above) led to an outstanding season for the junior forward and her play was a major factor in the Lake Mary Rams going undefeated this past season and getting to celebrate winning the Class 6A Girls' State Basketball Championship and receiving the appropriate accolades at The Lakeland Center last week-

The first half was played largely between the tops of the penalty areas, Lyman attempting just four shots while Oviedo managed two. Deibler was the only one who found net, taking a feed from Ryan Potts and cracking a one-time shot at 11:22.

At halftime, the score was still 1-0. It was still 1-0 well into the second half when all of a sudden. Oviedo started to dominate play in the Lyman end of the field.

Oviedo senior Mike Zigler had the first crack, stepping around a defender and blistering a shot at LaPlaca in the 57th minute. LaPLaca managed to parry it but couldn't control the rebound. Zigler got to the ball first, but knocked it wide

Then it was Justin Cook's turn. In the 60th minute, he had a header that beat LaPlaca but couldn't beat the cross bar. The ensuing shot on the rebound was cleared off the goal line by a Lyman defender.

In the next minute, Cook received a cross from Reilly Mitchell and ripped a shot. Again LaPlaca knocked the ball away. Ziger had another shot moments later, but was just

Just when it seemed like the Lions were on the verge of equalizing, Lewis scaled the deal, taking a short free kick from Potts and hammering a shot that pinballed its way into the net at 63:49.

Oviedo had a couple of other chances but was stonewalled by the Greyhounds. Cook lined up to take a penalty kick with 2:24 left to play, only to be denied by LaPlaca.

That's the difference having senior athletes makes, said Sandidge just after LaPlaca saved the penalty kick and after the game. You can't teach senior experience and leadership. The last couple of years, we didn't have that.

This was a great team effort. The seniors really came ready to play tonight. And Oviedo is an outstanding team, probably one of the best offensive teams we've faced all year. And we've only given up one goal to them in three games."

Oviedo coach Joe Avalone had nothing but praise for Sandidge and his side. "I've played for Ray, I've played against Ray, and I've coached against Ray," said Avalone. "I have nothing but the utmost respect for him and his team.

"I wish Ray and Lyman all the best. Everything I know about this game, I've learned from two people, my dad and Ray Sandidge.

Oviedo finished with an advantage in all the offensive categories except the most important one, outshooting Lyman 11-9 and taking 12 corner kicks to Lyman's 4. LaPlace finished with four saves while Oviedo 'keeper Nick Ascenzo had three.

Taste of Italy attracts 200 to woman's club annual benefit

A tantalizing taste of Italy was reflected at the Sanford Woman's Feb. 21 when members held their 12th Annual Italian Night in the spacious auditorium. Two large baskets of pastel blossoms arranged at the outside entrance indicated that something special was happening inside.

Club members serving as wattresses wore red-checked aprons to match the table cloth and served patrons dessert at the table a hefty slice of pound cake drizzled with zesty lemon sauce and a dollop of whipped cream.

The dinner rated rave reviews from the patrons who had nothing but plaudits for the annual event.

Among the special guests was Dr. Elizabeth (Beth) Klapstein and her son. Tom, who were visiting her parents, Jean and Adm. (USN, ret.) Richard Fowler. Beth was brought up in Sanford and is now a veterinarian in Belleview.

Vision 2000: Celebrate the Differences" was a powerful, motivational, humorous, and inspiring, to be remembered given by orator Mrs. Patricia McCloud-Russell. She presented a spell binding oration to the over 200 women and guests who were motivated by her message.

She invited the audience all to be a part of the group to be successful. She encouraged all to celebrate the difference, that miracles are by appointment only, let us all reason together because it is a matter of choice.

Women know that things can happen and can make things happen. Mrs. Russell-McCloud told us that we were ordinary people and we can do extra ordinary things. She stated that knowledge is power and a first rate mind is a happy mind, when it is thinking.

She told us to have visions, be a network, remember changes are coming so be a thinker. That we must work for what we get, but that we won't get everything we work for. For us to be different, not disadvantaged people or just people standing for something, not for anything.

We should focus on our attitudes, keep our eyes on the prize, be somebody, work hard at school and in our communities and never give upt

These words left this audience anxious for more of her motivating words. Her dynamic delivery provided her audience with data to feast on. Mrs. Russell McCloud serves a variety of national leadership roles. She is one of the 100 most influential persons in America. She serves as National President of Links, Inc.; past Supreme Parliamentarian of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc.; is a graduate of Howard University Law School and has practiced before the U.S. Supreme Court in the District of Columbia.

This joint partnership between Diverse Discussions and Valencia Community College because of this collaborative effort made a contribution to the VCC Minority Scholarship Program. These funds will be matched by dollars from the Florida Lottery. Minority college attendance rates still have not achieved parity with nonminority rates.

LAKE MARY

The easiest way to get kids to learn about almost any subject is to make it hands on. So, if you want kids to remember what they learn about history, what's more memorable than trying on a costume?

Last year, the Lake Mary Historical Commission had just a few costumes for kids to try on in the museum. They were adult size costumes. This year, the commission wanted costumes children could try on. RSVP (Retired Sentor Volunteer Program) Director Gloria Black told one commission member that she had a group of sewers who were looking for a project. The group was the Hacienda Craft Group in Winter Springs.

The commission allocated $100 for supplies and the sewers got to work.

RSVP volunteer Eileen Nass made patterns for the women based on what she read in Margaret Wesley's book Lake Mary Beginnings" about the clothing worn in Olde Lake Mary. Besides making the patterns for the group, Eileen was

Pending bill gives seniors the chance to stay home

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter recently from a woman who didn't understand why people would not want to go to a nursing home when they get old. You responded that "many are hesitant to give up their independence and familiar surroundings" or to "surrender control of their lives," and noted that assisted-living facilities offer varying levels of care that are a more attractive alternative.

There can be a far better choice: A bill currently before Congress offers senior citizens and persons with disabilities the option to maintain their independence and control of their lives while remaining in their own homes — or the option to choose a congregate (group-care) facility if that is their preference.

This bill is the Medicaid Community Attendant Services Act (HB2020). The bill, known as MiCASA (Spanish for "my house"), introduced by Speaker of the House Newt Gingrich and co-sponsored by House Minority Leader Richard Gephardt, would amend Title XIX of the Social Security Act-Medicaid to create a new option called "Qualified Community-Based Attendant Services."

Anyone eligible for a nursing facility or intermediate-care facility services for the mentally retarded would be allowed to stay in their own home and receive attendant care to assist them in their home, workplace, recreation or religious activities. The money follows the individual. It can be used to move out of congregate-care settings or to avoid having to move in. The need for assistance in daily living and health-related tasks will no longer mean that people have to give up their familiar surroundings or their independence.

This bill will benefit everyone who is disabled or will ever have a disability or be old — and that's everyone. To secure the right to choose, call or write your representatives in Congress and urge them to co-sponsor and vote for this important bill.

DEAR GAIL: Thank you for alerting me to this pensions leginlation. The vast majority of the mail I received in remonse to the letter from "Living It Up to the End" centained horror stories about the conditions faced by seniors when they enter muring home. Of course there are exceptions, but the MiCASA bill appears to be the answer to countless prayers. I hope we'll hear more about it in the near future. Read on:

table. He always seems to find a way to paint the wrong picture of his hand for the opponents. On this deal, he was playing against Norway in last year's Bermuda Bowl.

His three-club response was invitational but nonforcing. And if he had passed three no-trump, there would have been no story. Despite only a combined 19 high-card points, that contract is laydown for an overtrick. However, nervous about his low pointcount, Meckstroth ran to the safety of his eight-card suit.

Five clubs seemed to have no play. Surely the defenders would get spades going in time. However, when West led the diamond four (low from an odd number, a method popular among experts), Meckstroth called for dummy's 10. This appeared to trade one loser for another, but it deceived East. After winning with the queen, he

The best defense is for East to go in with the ace, but declarer can still get home by ruffing down West's king. Yet East ducked. West switched to a spade, but it was too late. Meckstroth won with dummy's ace and called for the heart jack, covered and ruffed. Now came the club ace, a club to dummy's king, and the heart 10, on which South threw his spade loser.

Why is Meckstroth so skilled in putting up smokescreens? Perhaps because he is more accustomed than

After Hours

The effect of Zero Effect: funny, quirky, sad

Zero Effect (R): A few weeks ago, I saw a new film called Zero Effect. The delight of the screening was that no one knew what it was about including me.

Sure, I knew the actors, and that the writer/director, Jake Kasdan, is the son of prominent filmmaker Lawrence Kasdan. But I knew virtually nothing else about the film.

Those are the best types of films to sec. You walk in blind and powerless, not knowing where the film might take you in a two-hour time period. Luckily, Zero Effect proved refreshing and a definite sur-prise. It is an early 1998

Bill Pullman stars as Daryl Zero, a neurotic, reclusive private eye that stays locked in his fortified penthouse apartment. He is absolutely drawn away from any human contact other than the working reiationship he has with his assistant, Steve Arlo (Ben Stiller), a lawyer who gave up practicing to work for Zero.

Arlo continually hypes his boss' amazing investigative abilities to potential clients while disparaging Zero over a beer with a friend. Arlo verbally berates Zero referring to him as "inept" "tactless" and "rude"; yet, you know there is a genuine respect Arlo has for the odd sleuth.

Zero and Arlo take on a case of a timber tycoon with misplaced keys. The tycoon (Ryan O'Neall thinks some one has stolen his keys to a safety deposit box and is now ransoming them. It is a perfect mystery for Zero.

As Zero digs deeper into the case, he meets a spunky paramedic (Kim Dickens). At first, you don't think much of the woman's pertinence-aside from being a possible love interest for Zero-until you realize that she holds the key, so to speak, to the case.

New, if you think I have told you a lot about the plot of Zero Effect, I haven't. The film is much more complex than the synopsis above may indicate. What starts out as a comedy turns into an honest human drama. At the beginning of the movie. I could not have been further from the character of Daryl Zero, and, at the end, I could not have been closer to him. His transformation is what the film is all about ending that clates rather than cheats. And because the film does not let you down at the end, you can sit back in your seat and feel satisfied because Yet, the most disappointing thing is the way Kasdan attributes Zero's eccentric behavior to his past. Instead of creating something unique, we learn that Daryl has been defined by a rough childhood with an alcoholic father. That, I'm afraid, is cliche at best. Aside from the flaw, Kasdan proves himself a credible writer.

Kasdan is also an exciting director not afraid to experiment. This becomes evident in his camera work with cinematographer Bill Pope (Bound). In one scene, the camera maneuvers around a conversation between Arlo and the tycoon in a restaurant as if it were cavesdropping or spying. And there is one sequence where talks the audience through an undercover stakeout in a health club. The camera follows the details of the operation without loosing us.

Zero Effect is a film that demention because, chances are, this will probably be the first time you hear about it, but certainly not the Zero Effect is watching the re- last. The Guard is full of hometown heroes who are there when called upon. Their presence is essential to the safety and peace of mind of their neighbors. They may sandbag to protect homes and lives from flood waters or help pick up the pieces after an earthquake.
