Kroll Asks State To Rule On Mailing Labels Fee

By Paul C. Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County School Board member Bill Kroll has asked the State Department of Education to investigate the board's data processing department's fee for computer-printed mailing labels. Kroll has not paid a fee for the labels. The request follows a fee hike for the labels after Kroll, who is running for re-election, and school board attorney Ned Julian Jr., who is running for circuit court judge, paid initial bills for the labels. The candidates used the labels, printed with names and address of school employees, for political mailings. Julian paid his second bill of $240, which followed his initial bill of $120, but Kroll has yet to pay his second bill of $244 which followed an initial bill of $122.

Both were billed 3-cents-per-label for about 4,000 labels by the data processing department in August. The set fee per label at the time of the billing was 9-cents-per-label. Recently, the fee was reduced to 3-cents, but the 9-cent policy which was in effect at the time they were billed stands, according to county schools assistant superintendent for business and finance Carey Ferrell.

State statutes prohibit public agencies such as school boards from charging more than the actual cost for the reproduction of public records. Kroll contends that the fee for the labels should be similar to that of Seminole County government, which charges one-cent per label. Kroll has sent a letter to the state Department of

Code Board Halts Fine

Homes Get Crackdown Reprieve

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford Code Enforcement board has halted the $250-a-day fine leveled against a property owner whose tenant houses the elderly in violation of city zoning codes.

The board also voted 4-2 Thursday to grant 30-day stays on pending actions against recently cited elder-care facilities while the P&Z review is under way. Code board members Joyce Malone and Glenn Domeno voted against the motion. Voting for the motion were Bob McKee, Ron Dycus, Ernest Horrell and Ned Yancey.

Code board actions were taken upon requests the city's commissioners made earlier this week. Mayor Bettye Smith requested the 30 day halt on pending actions while the P&Z review is being conducted. Commissioner Dave Farr said if the board agreed to the mayor's proposal it should also freeze the $250-a-day fine.

P&Z chairman John Morris said today he expects zoning changes to result from the review. The board's review will begin next week in work session and probably be finished within a month, Morris said.

The $250-a-day fine, leveled Oct. 14 against Charles Cameron, owner of 2005 S. Oak Ave., would be reactivated if the review determines no zoning changes are warranted, board members said.

The 30-day stays involve property owners cited Oct. 18 for illegal elder-care operations. The three owners had until Wednesday to close the operations or their cases were to come before the code board. One operation closed Saturday, before city commissioners proposed the code board stays, while the two others remained open. Fifteen elderly live in the two homes, and the properties' owners applauded code board and commissioners actions today.

Cameron was cited Sept. 9 and received the fine when he asked the board on Oct. 14 for time, not to relocate three elderly tenants, but to mount a lawsuit against the city, according to code board chairman Yancey.

Cameron attended Thursday's session with his attorney, Gary Manney, who secured board approval for freezing of the fine to be accompanied with a hold on the 30 days a property owner has for court appeal of code board actions.

Expert Testimony Opens Murder Trial Of Sanford Woman

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Sobbing by the defendant briefly interrupted a prosecutor's opening remarks Thursday in the first-degree murder trial of a Sanford woman.

Linda Freney, 31, of 103 Seminole Gardens, is charged with the April 20 shooting death of her boyfriend of 10 years Lester Cooper, 48, of the same address. Cooper was shot once in the face by a .25-caliber pistol while he was in the home's bathroom. He was dead at the scene. The case is before Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler and may go to the jury late today.

Testimony began with expert witnesses knowledgeable about bullets and blood and testimony by a detective on the scene.

As Assistant State Attorney Steven Plotnick told the jury Thursday afternoon what he believes the evidence will show and described the crime scene. Ms. Freney began to weep then sobbed and moaned as she held her head in her hands.

Plotnick, standing at a rostrum, stopped briefly as defense attorney Thomas Greene of Sanford comforted Ms. Freney.

"You will find," Plotnick concluded, "that the defendant took the gun, with malice and premeditation, and shot him in the face."

Greene, in opening arguments, did not deny his tall, slim client shot Cooper, who was more than twice legally drunk at the time. But, he said, the evidence will show that the shooting was either done in self-defense or was a justifiable homicide.

Ms. Freney rejected an offer earlier this month by the state to enter a plea of second-degree murder which would have got her 12 to 17 years. Instead, she has opted to take her case to the 12-member jury. The jury of eight men and four women could find her not guilty, guilty of lesser charges such as manslaughter or second-degree murder, or find her guilty as charged which would net her at least 25 years in prison.

Ms. Freney, silent otherwise and dressed conservatively in a black pinstripe jacket and gray dress, black-striped dress, is free on bond.

One expert testified the bullet retrieved from Coopers brain was fired by a small handgun found at the scene and another expert testified that blood on what was said to be Ms. Freney's clothes were stained with blood that could have been Cooper's.

According to investigators, the couple had been arguing earlier in the evening at a bar in Sanford and Cooper had been carrying a gun because he was seeing another woman who might have had some jealous companions. Investigators believe Ms. Freney shot Cooper while he was about to use the bathroom. The bullet, not from a distance of less than a foot, struck Cooper in the left cheek, ricocheted off his cheekbone and tumbled into the right side of his brain. Ms. Freney's black purse was found at his feet and a box of bullets that fit the gun in her purse.

When police arrived just after midnight, they found a gun on a nearby table, the telephone off the hook, and Ms. Freney near-hysteria apparently after trying to help Cooper.

3 Injured In Collision

Three people were injured in a head-on collision on U.S. Highway 17-92 near Lake Monroe this morning.

Initial reports indicate a 1986 Ford Tempo carrying two people apparently headed the wrong way up 17-92 and ran into a northbound 1988 Ford pickup driven by a Lake Monroe man, Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriott said this morning. Charges are pending completion of the investigation, he said.

Driver of the Tempo, Elizabeth Fried, 26, 529 N. Interlachen Drive, Winter Park, was reported in stable condition at Florida Hospital South, Orlando, this morning. She received possible head, pelvis and shoulder injuries. Sanford rescue workers said.

Her passenger had yet to be identified this morning, Harriott said. He was transported to Orlando Regional Medical Center for treatment multiple cuts and possible head and neck injuries, according to Sanford rescue workers.

Driver of the pickup, Mike Cernava, 29, P.O. Box 279, Lake Monroe was reported in good condition at Central Florida Regional Hospital this morning. Cernava received cuts on his hip and right knee, and possible chest injuries. Sanford rescue workers said.

American Witches Brew Predictions Of Scandal, Mirth

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hoping for a clean sweep, American witches made their 13th annual Halloween predictions, forecasting a Washington scandal involving a English barmaid and a tap-dancing contest to be won by Caspar Weinberger.

Witches also predicted their ranks would increase in 1987 to include the female "host of a late-night television talk show."

Thursday's predictions were brewed by 280 American witches for the New York Center for the Strange.

Louisa Scott, one of three men who run the center, declined to name the witches who made the predictions because "the attitude toward witches is appalling in this society."

He said that among America's witches are "a prominent member of the Reagan administration, a broadcasting mogul, a Navy captain, an Academy Award-winning actress and the manager of a highly successful major league baseball team."

Witches are no different than other citizens, apart from their keen sense of impending changes on the nation's political, business and social fronts, he said.

"Politics is on everybody's mind because it's an election year. Witches tend to have their finger on the pulse of politics," Scott said.

On the political front, the witches predict that in 1987 New York Mayor Edward Koch will resign office to join an "obscure cult" that will require him to take a vow of silence.

"There will be a modest improvement in relations between the superpowers in 1987 and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev will visit the U.S. in March," read one prediction.

"Washington and London will be rocked by a bizarre scandal involving a member of the Royal Family, Attorney General Edwin Meese, a Liverpool barmaid and a Denver entrepreneur," said another.

Lake Mary Picks 8 Finalists For City Manager

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

A woman is one of the top vote-getters in the Lake Mary City Commission's search for a new city manager. And the first to nominate her was Commissioner Charlie Webster.

She is Nancy Cortes, an Orlando lawyer. Ms. Cortes worked since 1983 as executive director for Sunset Bay Community Services of Brooklyn, N.Y. Before that she was a placement assistant at Antioch University in Washington D.C. from 1979 to 1982.

Ms. Cortes received four of the six commissioners' votes and will be offered a personal interview. Two male applicants got five votes each. There were eight finalists for the job.

She was graduated from Antioch University with a law degree in 1982 and received an undergraduate degree from Brooklyn College in 1974. She said she was hired by a major hospital after graduation from law school to turn around and manage a human service program. "The management and human relations strategies I implemented saved the program and a major government contract," she said.

"I am a take-charge, well organized individual who possesses strong administrative and interpersonal skills," she told the commission.

Other finalists for the job are: Arthur B. Preston, former city manager of Kissimmee; Gary Eugene Parker, assistant town manager of Newington, Conn.; Robert Lewis Norris, former city manager of Richmond, Ky.; Stephen P. Lawson, budget analyst for the city of Clearwater; John L. Klaiber, budget analyst for the city of Plano, Tex.; Jay Badgett, former administrator for Guardsmark Inc. of Riviera Beach, Fla.; and Joseph E. Cate, former city administrator for the town of Lake City, Tenn.

Each of the candidates got three or so votes and will also be interviewed following a check on their credentials.

IN BRIEF

NASA Whistleblower Requests New Shuttle Accident Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former NASA whistleblower Richard Cook has asked Attorney General Edwin Meese to open a new investigation into the shuttle Challenger accident and appoint a special prosecutor to run it.

Cook said he believes the probe conducted by the Rogers Commission failed to adequately study the possibility that NASA felt pressure to launch Challenger Jan. 28 because President Reagan was planning to deliver his State of the Union address that night.

Cook, who was a budget analyst for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration before joining the Treasury Department, said at a news conference Thursday he did not have direct evidence of any White House pressure but believed NASA officials might have perceived such pressure.

When presidential spokesman Larry Speakes was asked Feb. 28 if the White House was involved in the launching, he angrily denied it and called the idea "most vicious and distorted rumor I have ever heard."

Fewer Fires This Devil's Night

DETROIT (UPI) — Police fighting to quell Detroit's annual Devil's Night arson spree on Halloween eve arrested five suspected arsonists and at least 250 youths caught violating a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

As of late Thursday, 115 fires had been reported in the city — nearly double the 65 reported on an average day but fewer than the 206 fires for the 24-hour Devil's Night period in 1983.

It was not known how many of the fires were deliberately set, and a final tally of the blazes for Thursday night was not available. But police Sgt. Mel Williams said, "It looks better than last night."

The mayor's office said 80 fires were reported Wednesday.

Group Predicts Low Voter Turnout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Televised political advertising using negative messages could contribute to making Tuesday's voter turnout one of the lowest in the last half-century, a research group says.

"While there are no studies which prove the demagogic television advertising hurts voter turnout, it is true that the public dislikes this type of campaign," said Herbert Gans of the Committee for the Study of the American Electorate.

Gans said negative campaigning "tends not to involve citizens as participants in the political process and the surf of negatives on television cannot help but give a negative perception of the political enterprise as a whole."

His research group predicted Thursday that voter turnout in this year's election could be less than 73 million of America's 178,335,000 eligible voters — the lowest turnout in nearly 50 years. It said the decline would likely happen despite a slight national increase in voter registration.

Catholics Close Shelter

SAN BENITO, Texas (UPI) — Catholic relief workers, blaming immigration laws for overcrowded conditions at two refugee shelters in the Rio Grande Valley, closed the facilities and left the government to care for more than 500 refugees.

The Roman Catholic Diocese of Brownsville on Thursday shut down its overcrowded Casa Oscar Romero, which has provided food and shelter for more than 16,000 Central Americans since December 1982, and also vacated a temporary facility for men it had run for six weeks at the stock show grounds.

Buses chartered by the diocese delivered 523 men, women and children from the shelters to the district office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service in neighboring Harlingen, 7 miles away.

Drugs Suspected In Slayings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police said they have no leads in the execution-style slaying of four men in the notorious Fort Apache section of the Bronx but neighbors described the apartment where the bodies were found as a drug den.

The four bodies, three of them nude, were discovered Thursday sprawled in a bedroom of the sparsely furnished, padlocked apartment. Police were led to the murder scene by a foul odor coming from the unit, authorities said.

Deputy police chief Emil Ciccotelli, commander of the Bronx detective unit, said each victim was killed by a single gunshot fired "execution style" into the back of the head. He said as many as 13 shots were fired in the apartment altogether.

The clothes of the three naked victims were found dumped in a bathtub and in the kitchen, he said.

Congress Gets Report Card On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Leadership Conference on Civil Rights awarded perfect voting records to 14 senators and 107 House members on civil rights issues, including two Democratic Senate candidates locked in tight races.

The biannual report card released Thursday ranked members of Congress on their voting records on a host of civil rights legislation as well as other bills such as South Africa sanctions, pay equity, job training programs and public housing.

A number of tight races pitting members of Congress against each other showed marked differences in how the candidates voted on civil rights legislation.

In California, where Democratic Sen. Alan Cranston is facing a tough challenge from GOP Rep. Ed Zschau, the organization graded Cranston 100 percent on his voting record on civil rights issues and gave Zschau a zero.

In the Colorado Senate race, Democratic Rep. Tim Wirth scored 100 percent and his challenger, GOP Rep. Ken Kramer, got a zero.

In South Dakota, another key race, GOP Sen. James Abdnor got 25 percent and Democratic Rep. Tom Daschle scored 90 percent.

In Ohio, Democratic Sen. John Glenn scored 94 percent, and his challenger, GOP Rep. Thomas Kindness scored 10 percent.

In Georgia, Republican Sen. Mack Mattingly scored 12 percent, and his Democratic challenger, Rep. Wynche Fowler, scored 80 percent.

In Louisiana, Republican Henson Moore scored 10 percent and his Democratic challenger, Rep. John Breaux scored 80 percent.

The report by the civil rights organization said 11 senators and 57 House members voted against the conference positions on every key vote tabulated.

Meese: Drug Woes Justify Job Spying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Edwin Meese is urging the nation's employers to keep a close watch on employee drug use by monitoring company parking lots, locker rooms and even spying on nearby bars if necessary.

In a speech Thursday before the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, Meese said that "the workplace can be the chokepoint" for halting drug abuse.

Calling on-the-job drug use "a massive problem in our country," Meese also said drug testing of employees and penalties for drug use will put some teeth into the anti-drug program by hitting the worker "in the wallet."

Itemizing areas where employers should take the lead, Meese said, "Management also has to take its responsibility for surveillance of problem areas, such as locker rooms, parking lots, shipping and mail room areas, and even the nearby taverns if necessary as a part of controlling this problem."

Justice Department spokesman Terry Eastland said later that the attorney general's recommendations were based on those previously outlined by Peter Bensinger, head of the Drug Enforcement Administration.

Eastland also cautioned, "The attorney general would not be recommending anything that would be regarded as imprudent or that would trespass on civil liberties."

Meese told the business group that each drug-using worker costs an employer more than $7,000 a year. "This adds up to problem employees, from blue-collar workers up to top executives," he said.

On testing workers for drugs, Meese said, "We know that it's controversial, yet I feel, as the president does, that drug testing and the use of sanctions against drug users are an essential part of our message that illegal drug abuse will not be tolerated."

"This is the sort of thing — testing and sanctions — that give the program some teeth," he said, adding, "It is these sanctions that hit the worker in the one place that will make an impact on him or her, and that's in the wallet."

He conceded, however, that such testing "may not be appropriate in a number of situations" and that it is "rarely productive to use a drug test and fire the person on the basis of one test."

Forest Grown Pot Wipe Out Begins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A shotgun shell set to discharge by a rat trap connected to a trip wire is an example of the kind of booby traps used to protect $1 billion worth of marijuana grown in national forests.

Some of the booby traps have trip wires tied to guns, pipe bombs, grenades, alarms or fish hooks strung at eye level.

The Forest Service says booby traps, killer dogs and people toting machine guns or sawed-off shotguns have made 1 million acres out of 191 million acres of national forests unsafe for government employees and the public.

In response, the government, armed with potent provisions in the new anti-drug law, vowed Thursday to wipe out marijuana production and the criminal element ruling part of the forests.

"I want to emphasize that our objective is very simple: We hope to make national forests free of marijuana," said Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng, who has authority over the Forest Service.

Rain And Snow Hit Northwest

Rain and light snow fell on the Northwest early today, and a blast of cold air sweeping down from Canada into the northern Plains brought a chilly Halloween to Montana, dropping temperatures to the 20s and 30s.

Rain was scattered early today over Washington and Oregon, and light snow dusted the northern Rockies and parts of Montana, the National Weather Service said.

In the mountains of northwest Montana, wind-whipped snow and cold temperatures reduced visibility and made roads slippery. Winds gusted to 88 mph near Fort Collins, Colo., Thursday night, and winds earlier in the day gusted to 91 mph at Hidden Peak, Utah.

Cold Canadian air dropped temperatures to the 30s across much of Montana, with a few readings in the 20s in the northern part of the state. Cold air also blanketed the Northeast, where freezing temperatures were recorded in New York state and northern New England.

Rain and snow fell from northeast Utah across southern Wyoming and northwest Colorado.

"Travelers and hunters planning activities in the Colorado mountains this weekend should be prepared for winter conditions," the weather service advised in a special statement. Up to 4 inches of snow was forecast for today across the northern mountains of Colorado.

Forecasters said up to a foot of snow was likely in the mountains of Utah above 8,000 feet by tonight.

Scientists comparing the lungs of children in Los Angeles and Houston said they found that kids who live in smoggy Southern California are more likely to suffer decreased lung function. "That's the only difference that we can come up with that can stand the test of examination," Dr. Kaye Kilbourn, a professor of medicine at the University of Southern California, said Thursday.

Kilbourn and a team of researchers tested the lung function of 1,000 Los Angeles elementary school children who attend classes in the city's sprawling school district by having them blow into a device called an spirometer.

The instrument measures the amount of air flowing out of the lungs in normal breathing as well as how much is expired when the child is instructed to blow as hard as possible. The readings on the device give researchers an idea of how efficiently the respiratory system is functioning.

Kilbourn compared the results with tests of Houston children by a research group in 1979.

"Los Angeles school children are about 8 percent below Houston children on forced expiratory volume and on the flow rates they're down 15 percent below the Houston average," Kilbourn said.

"We also found changes across the city of Los Angeles," Kilbourn said of differences in pulmonary function in different parts of the city.

The study shows that children in the suburbs of Wilmington and Chatsworth perform more efficiently on spirometer tests than children who live in the Boyle Heights neighborhood closer to downtown and those whose homes and schools are near freeways, the researcher said.

"There were no differences in lung function among the children who live in different parts of Houston," Kilbourn said.

Gang Charged In Libyan Plot

CHICAGO (UPI) — Four members of the El Rukna, a drug-dealing street gang with an avowed allegiance to Islam and an arsenal that included anti-tank weaponry, were charged with offering to attack U.S. targets in exchange for money from Libya.

"They made contact with the representatives of Libya and offered their services," U.S. Attorney Anton R. Valukas said Thursday in announcing a 46-count indictment charging the men with conspiracy and weapons violations.

Charged were Jeff Fort, 39, the imprisoned El Rukna leader known as "Chief Malik" who began the group as the Blackstone Rangers in the 1960s; Melvin "Maumee" Mayes; Alan "General Gangster" Knox, and Tramel "Tacu" Davis.

The indictment said "it was part of the plan and purpose of the conspiracy that the conspirators proposed to perform a violent act or violent acts in the United States on behalf of or at the direction of the government of Libya."

The gang contacted Libyan officials in March, a month before the U.S. air raid against the country, and offered to destroy buildings, vehicles or property used by the United States in return for payment, the indictment said.

Some 42 trips or telephone calls were made as part of the scheme, the indictment said. Investigators told the Chicago Sun-Times that El Rukna met with Libyan officials in Libya, New York and Panama.

Valukas would not say whether Libyan officials cooperated with the El Rukna or whether targets were selected, adding, "The investigation is continuing."

The indictment followed an investigation by the FBI, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and Chicago police.

Aussies Dwarf-Throwing Contest Fails To Amuse 'Little People'

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Australia's "little people" are not amused by a proposed "dwarf-throwing and bowling contest" and want it stopped. But officials say there's no law against it.

In Melbourne, Jennifer Johnson, the secretary of the Little People's Association of Australia in Victoria state, attacked the event as humiliating and degrading to the dwarf community and called on the government to stop it.

"I think it's disgusting — it's an appalling idea," Johnson said. "And I talk for the hundreds of people within my association and we are totally against it."

David Naylor, editor of the Australian People magazine — the event's sponsor — defended the contest, to be held in November in Brisbane, Sydney and Melbourne.

"The two dwarfs we are using are not representing other dwarfs," he said. "They are professional stuntmen who like being thrown. They are professional projectiles."

Competing will be Australian and English teams, each made up of one muscular thrower and one dwarf, a professional stuntman wearing a crash helmet who will be hurled for a distance onto a padded mat.

The contest, first staged in Brisbane last year, will feature "dwarf-bowling" as an added event, Naylor said.

"We're going to strap a skateboard to their stomachs, and roller skates to their arms, and roll them down an expansive floor toward the skittles," Naylor said. Skittles are bowling pins.

He said proceeds from the series would go to charity.

Papandreou Attacked On Syria

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — Prime Minister Andreas Papandreou's Socialist government has come under fire from its conservative opponents for backing Syria and snubbing Britain and the United States.

But the Socialist government, which maintains close ties with Syrian President Hafez Assad, said Thursday its relations with Damascus "are a matter of principle."

Britain cut diplomatic ties with Damascus a week ago after accusing Syria of supporting terrorism. The United States backed Britain by recalling its ambassador. British Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe asked a meeting of European Community foreign ministers for joint action against Damascus.

Eleven of the 12 EC ministers at the meeting, while refusing to take substantive action, adopted a statement expressing sympathy for Britain's position but Greece refused to endorse it.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Foreign Minister Roelof "Pik" Botha denied allegations that Mozambican President Samora Machel was found alive in the wreckage of his plane but that police left him to die.

The Zulu-language South African newspaper Ilanga quoted residents of a village near the crash site as saying that Machel breathed for four hours after the Oct. 19 crash. The villagers said police ignored him while they collected documents from the wreckage.

But Botha, in a statement Thursday, said Machel "died instantaneously from multiple fractures of the skull and injuries of the chest and abdomen."

The cause of death was established by South African pathologist J.P. Nel, who conducted a post-mortem examination in Maputo.

"These injuries were of such a nature that it is impossible for President Machel to have been alive for any period of time following the crash," Botha said.

Salvador Evicts Quake Victims

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Soldiers forced homeless earthquake victims to remove their makeshift shelters from a posh private cemetery and threatened to remove other "eyesores" nearby, witnesses said.

The action came as Jardines de Recuerdo cemetery, with its golf course-like manicured lawns, was being spruced up for Sunday's traditional "All Souls Day," when relatives pray for the dead and lay wreaths on their graves.

Many of those evicted later returned to camp outside the cemetery. They and other families already camping there said soldiers threatened to return Thursday and evict them. But by evening the shelters had not been disturbed.

"They told us we were an eyesore," Ana Cecilia Tejada, one of those removed, said Thursday. "They said we were a bother to those who came to visit the cemetery but we don't hurt anyone."

The military and owners of the private cemetery would not comment on the incident.

A series of earthquakes Oct. 10 killed 1,500 people and left up to 200,000 homeless in the capital city of 1 million.

Syrian Ambassador Leaves U.K.

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — British Ambassador Roger Tomkeys left Damascus today and his Syrian counterpart flew out of London as a result of the nations' break in diplomatic relations over London's charge that Syria sponsors international terrorism.

Tomkeys, accompanied by his wife and several members of his staff, was seen off by a ranking official from the Syrian Foreign Ministry, government sources said.

Defense Attorney Protests

Hasenfus To Testify Today

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — A People's Tribunal summoned captured American Eugene Hasenfus to testify today on charges of ferrying guns and supplies to U.S.-backed rebels trying to overthrow Nicaragua's Sandinista regime.

Defense attorney Enrique Sotelo Borgen protested the summons Thursday night, saying Hasenfus, a 45-year-old ex-Marine from Marinette, Wis., should not testify until the prosecution finishes presenting its case.

"I will advise him not to testify tomorrow," Sotelo said.

Hasenfus faces up to 30 years in prison if convicted of terrorism, criminal association and violation of public security laws.

He was captured Oct. 6, a day after he parachuted from a plane shot down by Nicaraguan soldiers. The C-123 cargo plane was carrying weapons and supplies for Contra rebels.

The Sandinista People's Tribunal, which acts as judge and jury, is made up of a Justice Ministry lawyer and two government employees. Its conviction rate is nearly 100 percent.

The tribunal Thursday granted a prosecution request that Hasenfus testify "as soon as possible."

Sotelo filed a written response challenging the validity of much of the material presented by the prosecution Wednesday and accepted by the tribunal as evidence.

The evidence included more than 100 business and identification cards, lists of phone numbers, credit cards, flight logs and other papers and documents.

"How do all these documents make evident the guilt of my defendant?" Sotelo said. "In no way."

Sturm Contributions Top $80,000; Challenger French Raises $4,000

By Paul C. Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

Incumbent Republican Seminole County commission chairman Bob Sturm's re-election campaign fund cracked the $80,000 mark in contributions, according to most recent campaign financing disclosure forms, filed with the county elections supervisor. Meanwhile, his Democratic opponent, Bob French, saw his contribution exceed $4,000.

Sturm, 61, Lake Mary, is seeking his third four year term on the commission. French, a county commissioner from 1976-1980 is trying to reclaim a commission seat.

In addition to other smaller contributions during the reporting period, the Seminole County Republican Executive Committee donated $1,000 to Sturm's re-election effort.

Sturm is not complaining about the huge amount of dollars donated to his campaign, although French says the amount is "unheard of."

Developers have made a dozen large contributions to Sturm's campaign, but the commissioner says the money raised also reflects hundreds of smaller donations from individuals. He also says he has held only two fundraising events.

Sturm has spent $53,000 of the funds raised so far, and most recently paid In House Data Solutions of Winter Park $5,000 for a campaign mailing.

French, 52, Casselberry, has raised $4,070 and spent $2,889. His largest expenditure during the most recent period was to Sports Graphics of Casselberry for a $410 printing job.

In the county school board races, District 5 challenger Ann Nelswender has raised the most money, with contributions totaling $9,492. She has spent $7,195 so far, mostly on signs, T-shirts, and advertising.

Incumbent District 5 school board member Jean Bryant has raised $3,839 in her re-election effort against Mrs. Nelswender. Mrs. Bryant has spent $3,782 so far, including $2,042 for printing.

In the District 1 race, the dollar amounts are not as lopsided. Incumbent Bill Kroll has raised $5,165 and spent $3,932, while his challenger, Larry Betsinger has raised $4,640, and spent $3,516.

Ballot Tabulator Testing Today

Seminole County's computerized ballot tabulating equipment was expected to get its final public test before Tuesday's election today at 3:30 p.m., according to elections supervisor Sandra Goard.

The testing is done publicly prior to each election, to verify the equipment is functioning properly.

The test was scheduled to be held in the County Services Building, 1101 East First Street, Sanford, room N249.

Scientists Ask Billion-Dollar AIDS Information Blitz

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A committee of scientists has called on President Reagan to launch a billion-dollar information blitz to show people how to stop the spread of AIDS because an effective treatment and vaccine appear to be years away.

More publicity on the street, advertising in the media and education in schools will be the only way to keep the AIDS epidemic from spreading to catastrophic proportions, the scientists said.

"Our committee was disappointed in past federal education efforts against AIDS. Our report terms these efforts 'woefully inadequate,'" Sheldon Wolff, the chairman of medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine and committee co-chairman, said at a news conference.

In contrast, the government-sponsored research effort to identify the AIDS virus and seek drugs and vaccines has been tremendous, said Dr. Paul Volberding, chief of the AIDS unit at San Francisco General Hospital — but more is needed.

"We are at a critical point in the progress of the epidemic. An intensive national effort is essential if we are to stem the spread of AIDS and develop the vaccines and drugs that are so sorely needed," said biologist David Baltimore of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a co-chairman of the committee and 1975 Nobel laureate in medicine.

An anti-AIDS vaccine is at least five years away. Although a drug called AZT has shown promise as an AIDS treatment, researchers say truly effective drugs are also years away.

The scientists said the disease so far has been largely confined to high-risk groups, the main ones of which are homosexual and bisexual men and intravenous drug abusers, but could spread through the general population.

The report comes after the disease has done much damage among homosexuals, but the scientists said it has taken this long to understand the danger posed by the AIDS virus.

The panel, convened by the National Academy of Sciences and Institute of Medicine, made its recommendations in the most comprehensive report to date on AIDS in the United States.

The report urged establishment of a new federal office to head a nationwide education campaign, as well as an advisory commission to steer research and education.

The scientists said the White House should lead the entire effort the way it has the new crackdown on illegal drugs and crack, a potent form of cocaine whose use had become more widespread.

The panel recommended spending $1 billion each on education and research by the end of the decade. Although no directions were given on how to raise the money, members said it should come from other health or research budgets.

"Present expenditures are inadequate," the report declared.

Baltimore said the government spent about $250 million on research in fiscal 1986 and allotted about $400 million for 1987. Wolff said about $125 million has been spent on education in the current fiscal year.

The scientists concurred with Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, who last week urged sex education programs in schools that would include information about AIDS aimed especially at teenagers before they experiment with sex and drugs.

The scientists lightly chastised the government for mincing words and said future messages to the public must be stated as explicitly as possible, despite inhibitions about their sexual content, in terms people understand.

Smoke, Mirrors Just Won't Do

How to describe the 99th session of Congress? Was it a noisy and fractious melodrama with everything wrapped up nicely at final curtain? Was it a huffing, puffing little engine that could — once it struggled to the top of its daunting legislative agenda and glimpsed mid-term elections just down the track? Was it "Rawhide," with drovers Dole and O'Neill overcoming storm and stampede, infighting and impasse, to get the heard to Dodge on time?

However we decide the complicated, messy and often frustrating exercise in democracy that came to an end last weekend, we have to admit that much was accomplished.

On the domestic front, for example, Congress gave final approval to a massive tax-reform package, which the president has signed. It passed a landmark immigration bill, the product of a decade's work. It sent to the president legislation expanding a national effort to clean up toxic wastes at a cost of $9 billion, as well as a bill to extend the Clean Water Act for eight years and to provide $18 billion for sewage treatment. Lawmakers also tried to confront the nation's drug problem with a bill authorizing $1.7 billion worth of anti-drug enforcement and education programs.

In foreign affairs and national security, Congress took upon itself the task of dealing with South Africa, when the Reagan administration was reluctant to impose sanctions. It also pushed the administration to disassociate itself from the Marcos government in the Philippines. And it began to take an interest in arms-control issues when the administration seemed less than enthusiastic about reaching an agreement with the Soviets.

Much remains to be done. The budget deficit, of course, is the most pressing problem that's not going away. Congress used "smoke and mirrors" to pretend to meet Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction targets, but we're further from a balanced budget than ever. Economists predict a deficit hovering around $172 billion next year.

Next year, says Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., "we won't be able to avoid being serious about the deficit." That has a certain ring of "Gone With the Wind" procrastination to it, though we hope Dole is right. If he is, we'll see a new 100th Congress — and the Reagan administration — giving serious consideration to a realistic combination of budget cuts and tax increases. Smoke and mirrors just won't do.

A Machine Gun?

Do you want to buy a machine gun? If the National Rifle Association has its way, a lot of machine guns will be available to the public, including kooks and private armies.

Last spring, Congress passed the McClure-Volkmer gun decontrol law. It made it easier to buy handguns, but banned the private purchase or sale of new machine guns.

The NRA was not happy with the law, however, and it is lobbying to eliminate the ban.

Machine guns are designed to kill many people in a short time. They are the weapons of terrorists and psychopaths. And it is hard to understand why any law-abiding citizen needs an automatic weapon.

Most leading law enforcement officials oppose the NRA effort to change the law. They know that it would lead to more mass murders and the killing of innocent citizens.

Certainly, there is enough violence in the world without making these guns more easily available. The idea of allowing machine guns to be sold to the public is horrifyingly absurd. But the NRA is one of the most powerful lobbies in Washington, and it rarely is shot down in Congress.

President Now Back To Carter Bashing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — On Oct. 1, President Reagan flew to Atlanta to salute his predecessor, Jimmy Carter, and to help dedicate the Carter Presidential Library. Reagan spoke generously of Carter's contributions as an "American."

On Friday, Oct. 24, Reagan flew to Tampa, Fla., and attacked Carter by name for the "mess" he found in Washington when he became president.

For some six years, Carter has been Reagan's target and has been blamed for most of the country's past ills. The president declared a temporary truce for the library ceremony, but not for long.

Even though gracious words were said, they were soon buried once more in the pit of politics. Assigning blame to his predecessor is a particular pastime with the president.

And apparently Reagan did not care to heed the words of former Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, a key diplomat in negotiations in the Iranian hostage crisis, who spoke on the history of the presidency at the same Atlanta ceremony. He said:

"One comes away from even a cursory review of the lives of ex-presidents with a chilling sense of a wasted resource. On the whole, their experience was undervalued and their advice too little sought."

"An important reason for this omission is partisan zeal. New administrations of both parties have sought to distinguish themselves from their predecessors on each and every front."

"This ensures a discontinuity which baffles our allies and produces galloping inefficiencies in our system. The irony is that like a son about his father, a new administration often decides in its waning years that the old man was not so dumb after all."

Well, Reagan has not drawn that conclusion about Carter. Nor has he availed himself of the knowledge that his predecessor accumulated, although he does consult secretly with former President Richard Nixon when approaching a thorny problem with the Russians.

There have been a couple of times in foreign policy situations when Reagan has sought the support of former presidents. But like most of his predecessors he jealously guards his turf. Most presidents who survive the White House would like the status of "elder statesmen," but few are accorded that honor. Dwight D. Eisenhower, having been a five-star general and above the fray, did receive the homage of John F. Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson and Nixon.

But mostly former presidents are shunted aside. The fate of the most recent ones has been much better than some of their predecessors, financially speaking. Several ex-presidents, Christopher recalls, from Jefferson to Coolidge, "fell on hard times and became the subject of private and sometimes public charity."

He notes that ex-presidents going back to John Adams "have given themselves to writing, not only to share their thoughts on public affairs but to pay their bills."

That is not true of ex-presidents today, who are handsomely provided for in pensions, offices with large staffs, and round-the-clock Secret Service protection. Most of them have become millionaires on leaving office, taking government papers with them for their memoirs.

'Ette's' Holiday Parties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Now that Halloween has arrived, perhaps we can devote more time to such serious trivial pursuits as getting married and Christmas shopping.

The day when stag parties for bridegrooms about to take the plunge were about the only pre-nuptial entertainment may be gone forever. According to a new national poll, "bachelorette" parties for brides-to-be are becoming increasingly popular.

You can figure out for yourself why feminists insist on adding "ette" to male terms. I never did understand feminine endings.

Anyway, of the 500 recently married women surveyed by Smirnoff vodka, 87 percent reported bidding farewell to single life with a pre-wedding celebration.

Nightclubs and bars that featured dancing and live music were favored sites. As to what happened to the bride's "showers" in the privacy of the hostess's own home, I am not prepared to say.

About all I can suggest is that if females really want to start a new tradition, maybe they should try playing Santa Claus for a change.

They will find that it is more rigorous than playing Mrs. Santa. After a whirl at the real thing, playing Mrs. Santa must be almost as insipid as a bachelorette party without strong drink.

I'm talking about renting a long white beard, entering through the chimney and filling stockings on Christmas Eve with a hearty "ho, ho, ho."

In other words, the whole bit. This year, according to some of the catalogs I have seen, we are going to have a very bed-oriented Christmas.

Old Santa might find herself stuffing stockings on Xmas Eve with "Pillow People" and "Hide 'n' Sleep" gifts.

Both are products of the aptly named Spring Industries. The former are supposed to take the place of, or at least perform the same function as, security blankets. The latter is a sheet that fits over a mattress like a tent.

One caption says, "Many child psychologists have stressed the importance of 'transitional objects' — items that children carry about during their stages of early development, when a child's world seems to be in constant change."

Sounds like a great place in which to have a "bachelorette" party.

Turkey Wants French Photos Of Terrorist

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta
WASHINGTON — France's appeasement of terrorists has taken another ugly turn. The French refuse to let Turkish counterterrorist investigators see secret French photographs of the man who has directed the slaughter of Turkish diplomats and their families.

For more than three years, Turkish intelligence officials have been pleading with the French to give them just one picture of the No. 1 Armenian terrorist, who uses the nom de guerre "Hagop Hagopian."

Since 1975, Armenian terrorists have assassinated 70 Turkish diplomats, members of their families and others who got in the line of fire; more than 300 were wounded in these attacks. Of all the world's terror groups, the Armenians are "probably the most impressive in terms of effectiveness," according to a former chief of the CIA's counterterrorism unit.

The deadliest of the Armenian organizations is ASALA, the Armenian Secret Army for the Liberation of Armenia. Its goal is to force the Turkish government to acknowl-

JEFFREY HART

Weapons: How Good?

It appears that the U.S. military forces possess some excellent weapons, but if so it is by accident. Our weapons procurement is in administrative and political chaos. We often buy weapons on an ad hoc basis unrelated to any overall military design. If we get some good stuff, we also get the billion-dollar failure of the Sgt. York radar-driven anti-aircraft gun and the disastrous Bradley fighting troop-carrier.

First, reflect upon a sordid disgrace, where Tammany-era politics is damaging national security. With Senators Moynihan and D'Amato leading the way, New York's congressional delegation played pork-barrel politics and even resorted to filibuster in order to foist on the Air Force a weapon it didn't even want.

The only thing that recommends that T-46A trainer plane is that it's built in Farmingdale, L.I., by Fairchild.

The Air Force thinks a Cessna trainer built in Wichita, Kan., is better, and, modified, would save us all $2 billion, but even Rep. Thomas Downey, who always votes against military spending, rose above his unilateralist sentiments and backed the T-46A.

The stench is overpowering and congress went along with the shameless ripoff.

That's just for starters. There's worse in store. Worse, because the fate of the United States does not depend, after all, on the T-46A. And worse, because we now depend upon a flawed weapons system for our survival during the remainder of this century.

In the new and devastating book, "Run Critical: The Silent War, Rickover and General Dynamics," the young Washington Post Journalist Patrick Tyler tells a gripping, depressing story, a story full of human tragedy and potential national tragedy.

In 1968, the Pentagon suddenly became aware that Soviet nuclear-powered submarines could operate at much greater speeds than our own. Spurred by the indefatigable Admiral Hyman Rickover and his allies in Congress, our own modernized nuclear submarine program went into high gear.

We wanted the subs and we wanted them quickly, and the huge contract went to General Dynamics. The trouble was that under its chairman, David Lewis, General Dynamics contracted to produce nuclear submarines at a pace it could not possibly meet. Lewis wanted the huge contract and probably hoped that something would turn up. The United States lacked then, and still lacks, the ship-building industrial base required to produce the subs the program demanded.

The tasks demanded of our nuclear subs are vital and highly sophisticated, and unknown-to the average American.

Patrick Tyler is not anti-military. He is a hard-working journalist who speaks with a soft Southern accent and gets his facts right. He thinks that the men who go to sea in those ships — and all the rest of us — deserve better, including long-range planning and clear lines of personal responsibility, with careers at stake. This is a worthy and frightening book.

Help For Alcoholic Addiction

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The same sensory deprivation tanks used in brainwashing experiments in the 1950s may soon be used to convince alcoholics to overcome their addictions.

After a decade of research, Dr. Henry Adams of the National Institute of Mental Health has released results showing alcoholics who are periodically deprived of the sensations of light, sound and touch reduce their consumption of alcohol over an extended period of time.

Two researchers at the Medical College of Ohio in Toledo have conducted related studies that indicate a certain hormone associated with addictions is reduced considerably in people who use flotation tanks, the most common form of sensory deprivation.

"Alcoholics want relief from excessive, stressful stimulation and turn to alcohol as a depressant," said Adams at a recent conference on medical uses of flotation tanks. "This form of rest reduced environmental stimulation, creates changes in the nervous system that produce a feeling of well being."

A flotation tank is a large enclosed tub that contains a dense solution of salt water, allowing people inside to float in a form of suspended animation. Ideally they are unaware of temperature, gravity, light or sound.

First developed at the NIMH in 1954, the tanks were used in brainwashing experiments that showed some people slowly lost their sense of reality after spending hours and hours without physical sensations.

In the past few years the tanks have been revived as a recreational tool for relaxation, much like a hot tub. Proponents say the tanks induce a feeling of relaxation more complete than the deepest sleep.

In his experiments, Adams asked hundreds of college students who described themselves as heavy social drinkers to spend two and a half hours a day in a small room designed — like the flotation tanks — to deprive them of sensory stimulation.

These students, who experienced conditions similar to those used in the 1950s brainwashing experiments, cut their consumption of alcohol by an average 55 percent.

edge what they claim was the 1915 genocide of 1.5 million Armenians by the Ottoman Turks, and to establish an independent Armenian state in eastern Turkey.

Another terrorism expert calls ASALA "the most dangerous terrorist organization in the world" because of its kill ratio. Someone has died in 87 percent of ASALA's attacks, compared to a 14 percent fatality rate for all other terrorist groups.

ASALA was founded in Beirut in 1975 by the shadowy Hagopian, a Syrian-Armenian with Marxist inclinations. His shooting and bombing targets were Turkish diplomats in Western Europe, Canada and the United States. But his policy of indiscriminate butchery, in which innocent bystanders were also victims, led at least one group to break away from ASALA.

Following the Israeli invasion of Lebanon in 1982, Hagopian fled and set up new bases in Damascus and Athens. He also broke with the Palestine Liberation Organization, which had given ASALA training and support. Hagopian linked up with Abu Nidal, the anti-PLO leader responsible for much of the anti-

American terrorism in the past year or so.

Hagopian has never given a face-to-face interview, and descriptions of him vary. A photo of him would be of enormous value to the Turks, who have been trying to track him down.

The French secret services have obtained photographs of Hagopian. Intelligence sources tell us that a top PLO leader, Salah Khalaf, slipped the French some pictures of Hagopian and other Armenian terrorists in December 1982, following the ASALA-PLO break.

Using these pictures, the French were able to identify Hagopian when he visited Paris in April 1983. They didn't arrest him, but followed him to all his secret meetings and compiled an extensive file on ASALA.

As we reported, the French cut a deal with ASALA in January 1982, releasing an Armenian leader in return for an end to a series of deadly bombings. The truce was broken in July 1983, by the premature detonation at Orly Airport of a bomb terrorists say was intended to go off aboard a Turkish airliner.

Using the information from their surveillance of Hagopian, the French quickly rounded up 51 people linked to ASALA. One of them, Varadjan Garbidjian, was sentenced to life for murder; he is one of three terrorists whose release has been demanded by those responsible for the recent wave of bombings in Paris.

One astonishing theory for the French refusal to give Hagopian's picture to the Turks is that Garbidjian, the Armenian terrorist now in a French prison, may be the elusive Hagopian. A photo of Hagopian would enable the Turks to prove this by comparing it to pictures taken of Garbidjian at his public trial.

The Hagopian/Garbidjian theory would explain the wave of Paris bombings. ASALA (with a little help from Abu Nidal) wants its founder released; with the previous deal as precedent, the Armenian terrorists figure they can win Hagopian/Garbidjian's freedom with a series of bombings.

They could be right. The French may selfishly decide to free Hagopian/Garbidjian and leave France from Armenian terrorism — at incalculable cost to Turkey.

Mayfair Offers Reward For Tip Leading To Vandal

The off-road antics of an unknown driver caused between $2,000 and $3,000 in damage along two greens and fairways at the Mayfair golf course late Wednesday night, said Mayfair Country Club Superintendent Ted Daum. The incident is the third in less than a week, reportedly by the same driver, and has prompted the club to offer a $500 reward for information leading to his arrest, he said.

"He did a hell of a number" on the 13th and 14th holes Wednesday night," Daum said.

Damage was less extensive when the same areas of the course were hit Saturday and Monday nights, he said.

The driver, in a pick-up truck, reportedly enters and exits the course from Rantoul Lane, which runs parallel to both fairways.

Club general manager Rudy Seller offered the $500 reward this morning.

"It's all torn up; he did all kinds of wheelies and doughnuts," Seller said this morning. "It's going to run us about $2,000 or $3,000 to repair."

Daum said the damage will not necessitate the green's or fairway's closings.

Seller said Sanford police are looking into the incidents.

WIRE WHEEL TAKEN

A Longwood woman told a deputy that she discovered someone took a wheel off her car.

The incident occurred between 9 p.m. Monday and 7 a.m. Tuesday.

Pamela Sue Fielder, 33, of 949 Birdbay Court, said she left her 1982 Lincoln Town Car in a public parking lot at New Castle Circle, near Longwood. When she returned, the right rear wire-spoke wheel was missing.

The wheel was valued at $135.

THEFT FROM CHURCH

Sanford police investigated a grand theft at First Presbyterian Church, 301 Oak Ave. Sunday night. Witnesses said the church was serving a supper when an unknown male entered the southeast door and stood around for a while, then grabbed the cash box containing $400. He reportedly knocked over a table and ran out. Police were not able to find a suspect.

ROOMS RANSACKED

A Sanford man reported that someone ransacked his bedroom and living room but apparently did not steal anything.

Thomas Ferguson, 25, of 2651 West 18th St., said the incident occurred between 3:30 p.m. Tuesday and 12:30 a.m. Wednesday.

According to the report, the burglar entered the home through jalousie windows.

PAWN BROKER ARRESTED

A pawn broker who apparently refused to cooperate with officers who came to his business to recover stolen property was charged with grand theft and resisting arrest without violence.

According to Seminole sheriff's deputies, an investigator for the Orlando Police Department went to the Fern Park Pawn Shop, Fern Park, around 12:35 Wednesday.

The investigator told the shop proprietor that a video cassette recorder in his store was stolen property and they were there to recover it. The recorder is valued at $750.

The man, however, refused to let them take the recorder. After he was told that he could be arrested for not cooperating, he still refused to give up the machine, the report said.

Arrested and charged was Louis J. Montesi, 54, of Orlando. Bond was set at $1,000.

STOLEN CREDIT CARD

A Sanford man was arrested after an officer determined a credit card he had in his possession was stolen.

A deputy reported he was investigating two suspicious men at the Holiday Inn, State Road 46 and Interstate 4. The incident occurred Wednesday at 10 a.m.

The officer reported that one of the men said he did not have any identification even though the officer noticed the man had a credit card. The officer ran a check on the credit card and it was reported stolen.

Arrested and charged was Pierre Jean, 31, of 48 Ridgewood Arms Apartments. Bond was set at $500.

THIRD SUSPECT ARRESTED

A man wanted in connection with the theft of county materials and service surrendered to authorities Wednesday.

Joseph Priest, 44, of McLain Lane, Oviedo, entered the jail at 12:30 p.m. He, and two other Seminole County men, were accused of taking construction material from various county construction sites and using county employees to do work for their private business. The other men were arrested Monday.

Priest was arrested and charged with four counts of grand theft. His bond was set at $1,000.

WARRANT ARRESTS

Three Seminole County men were arrested in separate cases on warrants issued by the State Attorney's office.

In the first case, a Casselberry man was arrested after he allegedly bounced a check at the county's tax collector's office. The $26.50 check, written in March, was for vehicle registration.

Bond was set at $50 for Seth Fisher of 2411 Virginia Ave.

In the second case, a Sanford man who reportedly failed to appear for trial on a charge of indecent exposure was arrested and taken to the county jail.

Bond was set at $500 for Rooney White, 20, of 24 Castle Brewer Court.

In the last case, a man surrendered to authorities at the jail on a charge of obtaining property by worthless check. No details were included in the arrest report.

Bond was set at $1,000 for Howard Wampole Minner, 65, of 141 Cortez Court, Winter Springs.

NEARLY RUN DOWN

A Sanford man told police he was nearly run down by a man who also ran his truck into his car.

Rodney Lynn Facemeyer, 28, of 147 Hidden Lake Drive, said he was southbound on County Road 15, near Lake Monroe, when at some railroad tracks a man ran his truck into the back of him. The incident occurred around 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Facemeyer said he tried to stay in front of the vehicle until they reached an area where they could both stop. During that time, the truck weaved back and forth then pulled in front of Facemeyer damaging his car.

Facemeyer said that when he got out of the vehicle, the man put the truck in reverse and tried to run him over. Failing that, the man drove off, crossed State Road 46, and disappeared.

An officer located the reported offending vehicle in a little while but reported it was not driveable because of parts missing from the motor. He also said there was no indication the vehicle had been moved.

Facemeyer, however, went to the vehicle's location and identified it as the one that ran into his car.

CACTUS PURLOINED

A Sanford woman told a deputy that someone stole a 6-foot cactus from her front porch.

Lisa Rose, 21, of 1199 Washington St., said the theft of the $100 cactus occurred between 6:30 a.m. Tuesday and 9 a.m. Wednesday.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence. Bond was set at $500 in each case:

—Mark A. Lester, 23, of New Smyrna Beach, arrested Wednesday on Interstate 4 after his car was involved in an accident. The Florida Highway Patrol report did not say where the accident happened or what time Lester was arrested.

—Harold Allen Nodale, 39, of 1765 Owasco St., Winter Springs, arrested Thursday at 1:44 a.m. near Tuskawilla Road and Winter Springs, Blvd., after his speeding car failed to make a turn.

—Donna Lorraine Spearman, 28, of 1202 Waverly Way, Longwood, arrested Tuesday at 3:48 a.m. on Interstate 4 just south of state Road 436. Ac-ording to an arrest report, an officer saw Mrs. Spearman's car exceed the speed limit on SR 436 and then run a red light. The vehicle, a green, 4-door Ford, was stopped on I-4. Mrs. Spearman's bond was set at $500.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

Tina H. Girardi, 17, of 1505 W. 25th St. in Sanford, told police she was parked at Geneva Gardens this week and found in the morning that someone had broken into her car and taken the radio, causing $1,000 worth of damage.

Leah R. Starnes, 19, of Sanford told police she was parked at 2580 Ridgewood Ave. and discovered someone had broken a window in her car and taken her purse from beneath the seat. There was $150 worth of damage and loss.

Jimmie Miles, 64, of 1009 W. 10th St. in Sanford, told police someone pried open the back door of his house and took a $200 VCR.

Norman Koger, owner of a truck repair shop, 200 Persimmon Ave. in Sanford, told police someone broke in the shop and took four batteries, worth $240, from a dump truck.

Mildred B. Bryant, 52, of 202 S. Jasmine, told police someone entered her garage apartment by taking out the dead-bolt lock over the weekend and removed a $500 microwave oven.

Stocks Open Mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 26.57 Thursday, was down 4.56 to 1873.59 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 423-416 among the 1,306 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 9,106,000 shares.

The stock market advanced sharply in heavy trading Thursday, aided by a very strong oil sector, frenzied take-over activity and investors' expectations that interest rates will fall.

The government's report that the U.S. trade deficit narrowed to $12.56 billion in September — its lowest level in five months — helped bond prices, traders said.

The implications of the ousting of Saudi Arabia Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani confused the market at first, traders said. While the initial assumption was that the power shift could lead to a further destabilization of oil prices, several oil analysts have said Yamani's successor may be in a stronger position to effect OPEC unity. Crude oil futures prices rose dramatically in New York, as did the prices of oil company stocks.

Dollar Opens Higher While Gold is Mixed

By United Press International

The dollar opened mostly higher on major financial markets today. Gold was mixed.

The dollar rallied against the Japanese yen in active trading in Tokyo Friday, closing at 161.45 yen, up 1.55 over Thursday's closing rate of 159.90.

Dealers at major foreign exchange banks said the dollar held firm following reports the Bank of Japan is lowering the official discount rate and that the U.S. trade deficit in September was smaller than expected.

In Frankfurt the dollar began the day higher at 2.0585 German marks, against Thursday's 2.0185; in Zurich it started at 1.7075 Swiss francs, against 1.6980; and in Paris it opened at 6.7100 francs, against 6.6800.

In Amsterdam the dollar rose to 2.3290 Dutch guilders, against the previous 2.3140; and in Milan to 1,421.50 lire, against the previous 1,395.30.

The only exception to the U.S. currency's upward trend was in London where it fell to $1.4030 per pound, against Thursday's $1.3995.

Gold rose in Zurich at the opening to $406.50 per ounce, against the previous $405.50, but fell slightly in London to $408.25 per ounce against $406.50.

The London morning gold fixing was $401.50, down $5.

In Hong Kong, gold closed out the week at $406 an ounce, compared with Thursday's closing price of $402.30.

Silver opened in London at $5.87 per ounce, against $5.84.

In early trading on New York's Comex, the price of gold was $401.80 an ounce, down $6.20 from Thursday's closing rate of $408. Silver was trading for $5.852 an ounce, down 4.1 cents from Thursday's close.

Money Funds Assets Fall

NEW YORK (UPI) — Assets of money market mutual funds fell $934.5 million to $237.61 billion in the latest week, the Washington-based Investment Company Institute reported Thursday.

All three categories reflected the decline: assets of institutional funds fell $393.5 million to $67.51 billion, assets of general purpose funds declined $336.9 million to $98.93 billion, and assets of broker-dealer funds fell $205.2 million to $104.77 billion.

The Donoghue Organization, Holliston, Mass., said the average seven-day yields on money market funds rose this week to 5.20 percent from 5.19; while 30-day yields fell to 5.22 percent from 5.24 percent.

The average maturity of fund portfolios rose to 52 days from 49 days.

The Bank Rate Monitor, North Palm Beach, Fla., reported a slight decline in rates at competing banks and savings and loan institutions.

The Monitor's index of average rates: money market deposit accounts 5.40 percent, down from 5.42; Super-Now accounts 5.26 percent, down from 5.27.

...chemistry, mathematics, engineering and the like. There were 451 responses to the survey.

"I hope the president reads the results of this survey very carefully," said Praxmire. "What the best scientific minds in this country are telling him loud and clear is that Star Wars won't work and it's a waste of money. The people who really believe in Star Wars are now just a small but vocal minority within the administration. An overwhelming majority of the nation's top scientists — our most knowledgeable experts — say Star Wars is just an illusion."

Eighty-seven percent of those responding to the survey said they consider it improbable or highly improbable that an integrated SDI system can be tested sufficiently to provide confidence it would work as intended the first time it had to defend against a full-scale attack.

Just over 80 percent said the prospects are poor to extremely poor that an SDI system could be able in 25 years to meet the administration criteria that it be permanently in place and "cost effective at the margin."

The cost effectiveness requirement refers to ensuring that any deployed system would create an incentive not to respond with additional, and more expensive, offensive arms, and that those added offenses would cost more to build than the defenses to block them.

Almost 75 percent of those surveyed said an SDI system would have to knock out more than 99 percent of the current Soviet warhead force of about 9,000 nuclear bombs to provide an effective population defense, but just shy of 11 percent said they thought an SDI system in 25 years could knock out 90 percent to 99 percent of Moscow's warheads, if Soviet forces remained frozen at current levels.

Some 51 percent projected a system could screen out between 10 percent and 90 percent of the Soviet warheads without any changes in Soviet offensive forces. But if Moscow increased and modernized its forces, the survey showed, 53 percent believed the percentage of warheads destroyed would drop to between 1 percent and 50 percent.

Just 2.5 percent of those responding said they strongly support SDI, nearly 11 percent were neutral, 25 percent were opposed and almost 55 percent were strongly opposed. Sixty percent of those responding said they agreed that scientific review has not played a sufficient role in structuring the current SDI program.

Just under 45 percent said they felt the program budget, about $3.5 billion for the current fiscal year, should be between $500 million and $1.5 billion.

Without the stay, Massey said the legal clock will run out while the P&Z review was under way, leaving Cameron without opportunity to file an appeal if the P&Z decides no zoning revisions are necessary.

Board attorney Donna McInosh recommended approval of Massey's request.

After the meeting, Mrs. Malone said she voted against the 30-day freeze because she preferred to act on violation charges "on a case by case basis, rather than through a collective motion."

Mrs. Malone said she went along with the second motion, involving Cameron, "because the fine and violation still stand, they're only on hold."

Domen said he opposed 30-day suspension of pending actions "because the city's codes are adequate the way they are; they allow enough legal areas for these operations." Domen said he voted in favor of the second motion, "in view of the fact that the first motion carried."

Sanford has five zoning classifications that legally allow elder care operations with conditional permitting. The classifications do not include single family residential zones, where all the cited homes are located.

Dycus and McKee returned to the code board Thursday at the request of city commissioners after resigning last week in dispute of the $250-a-day fine against Cameron. Dycus, McKee and Charlie Lytle, who also quit, said the fine capped off recent differences of opinion they've had with fellow board members over the severity of enforcement penalties.

Lytle was not asked to rejoin the board due to a poor attendance record. City Commissioner Dave Parr said, Commissioners indicated at their Tuesday meeting they will appoint a replacement for Lytle at their next regular session.

The vote to freeze the $250-a-day fine, $4,000 of which has accumulated thus far, was passed 5-0. Yancey declined to vote. He said he "didn't like" the proposal, "so I didn't vote." As chairman he is not required to vote unless there is a tie.

Korea Rounds Up 1,500 Students

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — Police today questioned nearly 1,500 students rounded up in a military-type air-and-ground operation that ended four days of anti-government and anti-American demonstration at Kunkook University.

A police spokesman said one student was in stable condition after emergency surgery for a brain injury sustained during the 90-minute storming of Kunkook University.

Police Chief Lee Young-Chang said 82 people, including 42 students, were injured during the police operation that began shortly before 9 a.m.

Lee dismissed "false rumors that many students jumped to their deaths" during the police raid and said student groups were the source of the rumors.

Lee said 1,219 students were arrested Friday, bringing to 1,476 the total number of students in police custody following the four days of rioting at the private school.

As police stormed Kunkook, students at two other universities in the capital started a demonstration in support of their comrades but police quickly broke them up, an official said.

Friday's arrests amount to the largest crackdown on anti-government activists since May 1980, when 1,740 people were rounded up in the southern provincial city of Kwangu following an armed uprising against the Seoul administration.

Of the 1,740 people arrested in Kwangu, 1,010 were released shortly after investigation but 730 were prosecuted later.

Government prosecutors handling the Kunkook demonstration said they will take a firm stand against the students.

"No students would go unpunished," a spokesman for the prosecutors said. "There will be few students who will be allowed to go free with only warnings or admonition."

A police investigation, the spokesman said, would try to identify student leaders who chanted "pro-North Korean" slogans, made statements to that effect or displayed posters supporting Pyongyang's views before and during the four-day Kunkook riot.

After an ultimatum to surrender was ignored Friday morning, hundreds of riot police in full combat gear charged the students entrenched in five campus buildings. Two helicopters dropping tear gas canisters and several fire trucks with water cannons were involved in the police operation.

The students burned furniture and threw rocks and Molotov cocktails as police regained control of the five buildings, including the school's main library.

Some students suffered burns in a fire that spread to one building. A student was prevented from jumping to his death from the rooftop of a seven-story building.

During the operation, 3,000 helmeted riot police blocked off the traffic in the capital, virtually sealing off access to the sprawling campus in a northeastern section of Seoul.

The Kunkook demonstration began Tuesday when 2,000 students from 22 universities in Seoul and provincial cities gathered in the capital to form the National Patriotic Students Alliance for Struggle Against Foreign Influences and Dictatorship.

Police, firing tear gas, forced the students into the Kunkook campus where they retook themselves inside five buildings.

The students released statements denouncing Washington's support to President Chun Doo-hwan's government and demanded the withdrawal of 40,000 American troops and the removal of nuclear weapons from South Korea.

The students also supported Pyongyang's request for co-hosting the 1988 Seoul Olympic Games.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's broadest gauge of near-term future economic activity advanced 0.4 percent in September after a revised 0.1 percent decline the previous month, the Commerce Department said today.

The composite index of leading indicators increased from a revised 179.3 to 180.1 last month, representing a 0.4 percent rise on a scale that began at 100 in 1967.

The index, which seeks to forecast economic growth three to 12 months in advance, has risen 3.7 percent in the first nine months of this year and 5.6 percent since September 1985.

In contrast, the index advanced just 3 percent between September 1984 and September 1985.

Seven of the 11 indicators advanced. New orders for manufactured consumer goods — including autos — led the advances with a 0.18 percent gain. Net business formation also showed a healthy rise, adding 0.14 percent to the index.

Other positive contributors included contracts and orders for plant and equipment, the money supply, a change in outstanding credit patterns, average weekly initial claims for state unemployment insurance and vendor performance, in that order.

Three of the eleven made negative contributions. A fall in stock prices took 0.19 percent off the total, a drop in sensitive materials prices subtracted 0.15 percent and a fall in building permits knocked off 0.14 percent.

The length of the average work week remained unchanged.

Analysts said the report was encouraging because the advance was centered in manufacturing indicators, which have shown little strength in recent months.

Gains in the early part of the year had been centered in financial indicators, led by a surge in stock prices.

Sensitive materials prices declined for the second consecutive month. Analysts with the Bureau of Economic Analysis, which prepared the report, said a drop in subsidy payments for cotton accounted for the decline in both August and September.

Education's Auditing Services Department, "to verify ... if the nine-cent cost per label is within what the Florida statutes legally allow us (the school board) to charge."

A DOE official refused to comment on Kroll's letter Thursday because the letter has not yet been received. Another DOE spokesman said that fees districts charge for similar materials "varies from district to district."

Ferrell said Kroll's opinion about the fees may be right.

"I will admit that I'm inclined to believe that the one-cent per label sounds like a reasonable price," Ferrell said, adding that his role in the mix-up is only to collect the fees assessed by the data processing department which set the fee.

Ferrell said that if the candidates had requested the labels through the personnel department, they would have been billed at the nine-cent rate which was in effect at the time their requests were filed.

According to a letter from data processing director Randall Johns to Kroll, the nine-cent fee was set in September 1983. At that time, the computer printed one label at a time. This month, the price was reduced to three-cents per label to reflect new lower costs from the labels being produced three at a time. Kroll and Julian were billed in August, however, at the nine cent rate.

Attorneys Appeal Ruling On Hawkins' Medical Records

ORLANDO (UPI) — Attorneys for three newspapers went immediately to Florida's 5th District Court of Appeal when a circuit judge ruled Thursday against making public the medical records of Sen. Paula Hawkins, R-Fla.

Hawkins is in a tight race with Democratic Gov. Bob Graham, and the outcome of Tuesday's vote is considered one of the keys to President Reagan maintaining Republican control of the Senate.

"We're going to ask the (appeal) court to schedule a hearing for Friday or before noon Monday," said David Evans, a newspaper attorney. "Whether they grant the hearing depends on whether they view the issues in this case as important as we do."

The Miami Herald and The Florida Times-Union of Jacksonville joined the Orlando Sentinel in seeking access to documents exchanged by attorneys in Hawkins' personal injury lawsuit against television station WESH-Channel 2.

To relieve storage problems, the Florida Supreme Court in 1982 said all records in a lawsuit need not be kept in a courthouse. Litigants in the suit say the material is their personal property.

But the newspapers say the documents, which include doctors' testimony and Hawkins' medical treatment records, are part of the legal action and should be open to the public.

Used Car Dealer Runs Sex Ad

FORT WALTON BEACH (UPI) — Things were getting mighty slow at Bill Born's used car lot until he and his partner decided to run a newspaper ad that had the word "SEX" scrawled across the top for no apparent reason.

"The reason for it is just to get somebody to call and see if I can get a prospect, to sell an automobile," said Bill Born, owner of Regency Auto Sales Inc. "The phone was ringing when I came in this morning."

The advertisement appeared for the first time in Thursday's Fort Walton Beach Playground Daily News. It's a five-inch by three-column display ad surrounded by arrows and "SEX" in bold letters scrawled at the top. Below the word is a list of cars, but not one word of explanation.

Cult Member Charged In Murder

OPA-LOCKA (UPI) — Police have charged a member of the Yahweh black religious sect with murder following a pre-dawn attack that gunned down two men who had protested the cult's takeover of a drug-plagued apartment complex.

A Metro-Dade County police spokeswoman said Neariah Israel, 33, also known as Robert Rosler, was charged late Thursday with one count of first-degree murder. Police refused to say which of the two men he is charged with killing.

Israel was found hiding in bushes near the apartment buildings by police dogs shortly after four men stormed the complex about 1 a.m. Thursday and shot to death Anthony Brown, 28, and Rudolph Broussard, 37. Israel was held initially on loitering charges.

Drug Centers Subject of Suit

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Drug rehabilitation centers may become dumping grounds for unwanted children under a court ruling allowing parents to commit their children for treatment involuntarily and without a court order, an HRS lawyer warned.

"You have the parent who wants to send them away, you have the treatment program that wants to further its own interests — it wants to make money," said Ted Mack, a lawyer for the Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

"They both want them locked up and nobody is representing their interests," Mack said.

The 1st District Court of Appeal rejected the HRS' claim Thursday that under Florida law, children can only be committed voluntarily or if a judge has found the treatment program to be necessary.

Tamperer Gets 27 Years In Prison

ORLANDO (UPI) — The first person ever to face federal product tampering charges cried and begged for leniency, but a judge sentenced him to 27 years in prison for putting rat poison in drug capsules.

"This crime has had an impact on the entire consumer confidence in the drug industry," U.S. District Judge Patricia Fawcett said. "It was an act of internal terrorism that can't be condoned."

Edward Arlen Marks, 25, stared in disbelief as Fawcett ordered the sentence that was half of the maximum allowed under the law. He and his public defender, H. Jay Stevens, asked for no more than eight years. "I know what I did was serious, and I am very, very sorry for what I did. I apologize to you, to the company and to everybody," Marks sobbed in a rambling statement to the court moments before his sentencing Thursday.

Fawcett said Marks's long criminal record, the seriousness of his crime and the need to deter future tampering warranted the long jail term.

No one was injured in the tampering plot that the FBI said Marks used in hopes of manipulating the stock market for profit in the wake of public hysteria.

But capsules poisoned with Warfarin were found in March at stores in Houston and Orlando after Marks made telephone calls to news agencies warning the drugs had been laced with cyanide.

The unemployed stock broker, last living in Temple City, Calif., pleaded guilty in August to nine counts of tampering with products made by SmithKline Beckman Corp. of Philadelphia and giving false information about the crime.

The judge said SmithKline was just as much a victim as the public. She said the company lost $41 million recalling the products.

Hearing Test-By-Phone Offered

A telephone system recently installed at the Central Florida Ear and Hearing Clinic in Deltona allows callers to take a simple test which will screen out those with hearing problems. The system, called "Dial A Hearing Screening Test," was developed by Occupational Hearing Services, which has enlisted the help of the Central Florida Ear and Hearing Clinic in Deltona to implement it.

According to the Better Hearing Institute, over 18 million people in the United States, or about 8.3 percent of the population, are affected by hearing difficulties. Although 4 million of these people have overcome their handicap through the use of new medical technology, there remain 14 million who need assistance. And of this 14 million, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimates that 10 million have never been examined for their hearing difficulties.

The phone test consists of a recorded message which tests the listener's ability to hear several different musical tones. If the caller has trouble hearing any one of these tones, he or she is instructed to call another number for more information and to schedule further testing.

The number to call in West Volusia is 574-7371. To find out the numbers in other states, call 1-800-222-EARS.

Surplus Food Distribution Set

The Salvation Army of Seminole County will distribute U.S. surplus foods beginning Nov. 1. This food is made available to low income households by the Federal Government through the State of Florida.

Low income families are defined as those who earn less than $581.00 per month for the first member of the household, plus $205.00 per month for each additional family member.

The dates for November distribution are:

Nov. 5 at The Salvation Army, 700 West 24th St. in Sanford from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Nov. 6 at Altamonte Chapel, 825 State Road 436 in Altamonte Springs from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Nov. 7 at Chuluota Community Hall, East & 7th St. in Chuluota from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m.

Fastest women water skier was Sally Younger who, at age 17, sped 108.14 mph in 1970.

"KEEP PROVEN LEADERSHIP"

A recent editorial in the Orlando Sentinel states that one of the problems with public education today is that it is controlled by bureaucrats and union rather than by parents and teachers. The time has come to stand up to the educational bureaucracy. As your representative on the School Board, I will continue to be outspoken and if need be controversial. Lady Lions Devour Mary For SAC Title

By Chris Pister
Herald Sports Writer

OVIEDO — Second best is something Oviedo's Lady Lions don't plan on settling for this year.

Thursday night, before one of the largest crowds to ever watch a Seminole County volleyball match — a throng of 601 — the Lady Lions played impressive team volleyball and crushed Lake Mary's slumping Lady Rams, 15-8, 15-6 for the Seminole Athletic Conference championship.

Oviedo, runnerup to Lyman in the SAC a year ago, concluded the regular season with a 21-2 overall record and 9-1 in the conference. The Lady Lions ride a 12-match winning streak into next week's 3A-6 District Tournament. Oviedo will be the top seeded team and will host the tournament.

"We were psyched all week for this match," Oviedo junior Jill Knutson said. "There was no way we were settling for second place."

Lake Mary, 13-7 overall and 7-2 in the conference, can clinch second place in the SAC with a win over Seminole in Monday's season finale at Seminole. But coach Cindy Henry isn't worried about finishing second, she just wants her team to pull back together in time for the district tournament.

"Both matches this week we didn't have the togetherness we had last week," Henry said. "I'm really concerned with our lack of teamwork. It's really a bad time for it to happen."

On the other hand, it was teamwork that pulled the Lady Lions through Thursday night. Coach Anita Carlson used all 11 players on the team and they all contributed to the victory.

"They played real good team volleyball tonight," Carlson said of the Lady Lions. "We had a hard time getting going the second game, but I took a breath once we hit 13. That's when I knew we had it."

Early in the first game, Lake Mary showed some offensive power with Sharon Bonaventure and Angela Capps putting down spikes as the Lady Rams took a 2-1 lead.

Jodie Switzer's tip gave Oviedo a side out and Switzer then served five straight for a 6-2 Oviedo advantage. Kelly Price's spike got through the Lake Mary block for the first point in the rally and Knutson's spike provided the sixth point for the Lady Lions.

After Lake Mary made it 6-3, another Price spike returned the serve to Oviedo and the Lady Lions reeled off six points on Trudy Ferguson's serve to take control, 12-3. Suzanne Hughes and Kim Marr turned in some excellent front row play on the rally as a pair of Hughes dinks were good for two points and Marr hammered a spike through Lake Mary's block for another.

Lake Mary battled back to within 14-8 and had the serve three more times, but a pair of missed serves and a Hughes spike kept the Lady Rams from pulling any closer. Cindy Wood then served the final point of the opening game for Oviedo.

Lake Mary took the early lead again in game two as Bonaventure's ace gave the Lady Rams a 3-1 lead. Oviedo, though, refused to let Lake Mary keep any momentum going as the Lady Lions built a 7-3 lead on six sizzling serves by Kelly Davidson. One of Davidson's serves was an ace while two more were not returned.

Oviedo went on to take a 10-4 lead with Barbara Malone serving two points and Wood one. Lake Mary pulled within 10-6 on Lora Splatt's serve but a Price spike gave Oviedo a side out and Ferguson came on to serve out the match. Lake Mary returned

Lake Mary's 3 Of A Kind

Hartsfield, Richards
Miller Draw OT Work

By Chris Pister
Herald Sports Writer

The numbers 1, 20 and 23 are pretty recognizable ones for Lake Mary's Rams. The players who wear those jerseys hardly ever leave the field and they're almost always around the ball.

Carlos Hartsfield (1), Terry "The Cat" Miller (20) and Sheldon Richards (23) are three key components on both the offense and defense as well as the special teams for coach Harry Nelson's team. While Nelson likes the versatility of the Sanford trio, another redeeming quality is that he will have them all back next year.

Hartsfield, Miller and Richards hope their numbers will be called as many times as possible again tonight as Lake Mary hosts Daytona Beach Mainland in a 5A-4 District game. Lake Mary, 3-3 overall, is 1-1 in the district while Mainland, 3-4 overall, stands 1-2 in district play.

Hartsfield, a sophomore brother of former Ram star Ray, is an outstanding young defensive back and is also a key member of the special teams. And, two weeks ago, he became the Rams' starting quarterback after Shane Letterio suffered a broken collarbone. In last week's 7-0 win over Oviedo, Hartsfield was on the field for every play of the game.

Miller, a junior, is another standout in the secondary and on special teams and he too has become an important player on the offense since running backs Anthony Hartsfield and Dennis Barnes are no longer with the team.

Miller will start at halfback tonight alongside leading rusher John Curry, also a junior.

Richards, a junior, is one of the top defensive backs in the area and is also an excellent punt returner and receiver. Richards is tied for the Seminole County lead in interceptions with four and leads in pass receptions with 15 for 136 yards.

Defensively, Hartsfield, Miller and Richards figure to get their biggest test since the opening game tonight when aerial attack-minded Mainland invades Lake Mary. In the opener, Apopka threw 25 times against the Rams but completed only seven with the Sanford secondary trio breaking up a number of those passes.

"Mainland can move the ball up and down the field when they get hot," Nelson said. "If you don't stop their passing game, they can drive you crazy with it."

The Mainland offensive attack is led by senior quarterback Brian Morris with his main target being wide out Victor Wallace. The Mainland passing game is good, but not as devastating as a year ago when Morris had a pair of top-notch receivers in Terry Anthony (Florida State) and Clarence Siler.

"He (Morris) is probably the best quarterback we'll play against," Nelson said.

If the Rams can stop Mainland's passing attack, a third consecutive shutout for the defense is a possibility. Lake Mary held a good running team in Oviedo to just 68 yards on the ground last week.

"I have to admit we played a masterpiece defensively last Friday," Nelson said. "Oviedo has a few things that they do well that we took away from them."

Linebacker Mike Smith, the team's leading tackler, and ends Steve Arthur and Scott Keller had big games for the Rams against the Lions. Richards and Hartsfield made big plays late in the game to stop Oviedo's comeback threat.

Offensively, the Rams have yet to really get it going this season. Last week, Curry set a school record for carries in a game with 33, but only picked up 85 yards for the game. Last year, Curry averaged significantly fewer carries but over 100 yards rushing per game. Miller adds more quickness to the backfield while Richard Burkett will get his first start at fullback.

Oviedo's Jack Blanton ponders his next move. The Lions lost a tough 7-0 decision to Lake Mary last week. Blanton said he expects another low-scoring battle tonight against Seminole.

Oviedo-Seminole Encounter Previews Future Showdown

(Tonight's Oviedo-Seminole football game will be broadcast live by Sanford's WUEZ-AM (1400). Steve Luba will handle the play by play with Stan Lee will serve as color analyst. Air time is 7:50 p.m. from Seminole High.)

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Tonight's prep football clash between Oviedo and Seminole isn't for the district championship. It won't affect the Seminole Athletic Conference standings either.

But both coaches still consider the District 4A-5 encounter an important battle. Tonight's 8 p.m. kickoff at Seminole High may be a look into the not-to-distant future. A future 365 days away.

Next year at this time, the Lions and the 'Noles may be playing for the District 4A-7 championship and a spot in the state playoffs. Next year, the SAC title may be on the line, too.

Both Oviedo and Seminole field young clubs.

Coach Jack Blanton's Lions lose just four starters on offense and four more on defense. Four of the departures — talkback Willie Gainey, center/kicker Gordon King along with linebackers Jeff Joyce and Jene Hartman — are sizable, but returning 14 of 22 starters is a good place to begin.

"We've done a pretty good job this year for a young team," Blanton said about his 3-3 ball club. "Our younger players have gotten better each week. We should be a pretty good team next year."

Coach Dave Mosure's Seminoles lose four starters on offense and just three on defense. The return of quarterback Jeff Blake, who will miss all of this season with an injury, will be a big plus. Five departures — Rick Kelley, Dwayne Willie, Sonny Osborn, Ed Banks and Keith Denton — will be missed but 15 returnees and Blake is a nice way to restart.

"We've lost some tough games but we haven't taken any backward steps," Mosure said about his 2-5 team. "It's a real hard-working group that will continue to get better. They've learned a lot this year."

Loosing Titusville and Seabreeze from the district and picking up Orlando Edgewater and Leesburg won't hurt either. Edgewater is having its problems this fall while Leesburg isn't considered a football power.

Next year, nonetheless, is still 365 days away. This year, Oviedo and Seminole have both struggled offensively while receiving strong defensive play.

The Lions have scored just 63 points in six games and allowed only 53. Fourteen of those 63 were scored by the defense. Seminole has scored 50 points and allowed 62. Six of those 50 were courtesy of the defense and eight of those 62 were given up on a punt return and a safety.

Football

Mosure said the key area for Seminole is the defensive line. Linebacker Kelley, who is sixth in the county with 12.1 tackles, probably won't play. Mosure said he injured an ankle after jumping from a truck. Sophomore Ron Cox will replace him.

"We're going to need the best game of the year out of our defensive line," Mosure said.

Three of those linemen — tackle Keith Denton along with ends Ardine Daniels and Ed Banks — said they are up to the task.

"We're thinking shutout," Daniels, a junior, said. "I'm going to use a two-point stance more. I'll get a better pass rush that way. I'll try to use my speed to get around them."

Them is King, a 250-pound center, Andy Palmer, a 270-pound tackle, and Sam Hughes, a 210-pound sophomore guard, who have paved the way for Gainey's 504 yards.

"I'll be over King in our 35 defense," Denton said. "I try to handle everybody the same way. I'll just hit up and read."

Banks said the 'Noles may have trouble at first with Oviedo's Run 'N Shoot offense, but he expects them to adjust. "They run a lot of reverses," he said. "The ends have to stay home and don't just fly out of the picture on every fake."

Blanton, meanwhile, couldn't say enough good things about the Seminoles.

"I know coaches say this a lot, but Seminole is the best team I've seen so far," the fifth-year Oviedo coach said. "It's fun to watch their defense as long as you're not on the sideline against them."

"They just don't let you do anything. They don't even let you have a little gain now and then."

Blanton did allow, though, that Seminole has been hurt due to its aggressiveness on occasion and he hoped to spring Gainey if that circumstance arises.

"They apply a lot of pressure and if one of those linebackers blitzes the wrong way you might be able to get one through," Blanton said. "That's what we hope Gainey can do."

Mosure said stopping Gainey will be the No. 1 priority. "Gainey is up there with all the good backs we have faced," Mosure said. "He does a real good job of slipping outside and then turning back up north. That's his strong suit. He doesn't allow the pursuit to catch up with him."

Dye Applies Same Quotes For Another Star Halfback

United Press International

Auburn Coach Pat Dye has the quotes memorized from last year. This year, he just inserts a new name.

Dye and the Downtown Athletic Club proclaimed Bo Jackson the best running back in the country last season. This season, Dye has decided Brent Fullwood is the best in America.

Although Fullwood doesn't have much of a shot at the Heisman Trophy, Dye won't get much of an argument, with the exception of Temple's Paul Palmer. Fullwood, who backed up Jackson for three years, has averaged 9.7 yards per carry and amassed 179 yards last week in a rout of Mississippi State.

"Brent's the best running back in America, bar none," says Dye. "He's as good a running back as I've seen."

Fullwood will be counted on heavily when the No. 5 Tigers visit Florida Saturday. Auburn, 7-0, has not won at Gainesville since 1972.

"Miami is the best team we have played this season and Auburn is right there with them," said Florida Coach Galen Hall. "Fullwood is an aggressive, physical back who gives it 100 percent on every down. They are much better offensively with more formations, a better passing attack and several dangerous weapons."

Auburn's Jeff Burger leads an offense that averages 39 points per game. Burger has touched for 1,063 yards and eight touchdowns. The Tigers' defense hasn't allowed more than 14 points in any game. The Oators, 3-4, have been unable to compensate for the loss of scholarships to NCAA probation and the departure of running backs John L. Williams and Neal Anderson to the NFL. Quarterback Kerwin Bell has missed the last two games because of a knee injury. Rodney Brewer will start Saturday.

Fullwood Pressed, See 9A

Auburn plays Alabama Nov. 29 in a game that will probably decide the Southeastern Conference title.

Across the state, co-No. 19 Florida State plays No. 1 Miami at the Orange Bowl. After losing to two top teams, the Seminoles turned to Danny McManus at quarterback and have won three straight.

But Hurricane quarterback Vinny Testaverde, who may be slowed by a sore foot, will be under pressure, too. Florida State sacked Testaverde seven times last year in Miami's 35-27 victory.

"I remember being on the ground a lot," said Testaverde, the highest-rated passer in the country and the leader in the Heisman race. "They outplayed us physically last year and I don't see that happening this year."

Miami, 7-0, has played Florida State, 4-2-1, 29 times since 1951 and leads the series 18-13.

In the Big Ten, No. 12 Iowa is home against co-No. 17 Ohio State.

Raines To Sign, Pose Saturday

It's not every day the National League batting champion is around for autographs and a photo session.

That day comes to Sanford Saturday, nevertheless, when Tim Raines will be available for autographs and pictures at noon prior to playing the first Alumni-Faculty Baseball Challenge at Seminole High School's field.

Admission is just $1 to Saturday's game, which will raise funds for Seminole coach Mike Ferrell's baseball team. First pitch is 1 p.m.

The Faculty will bank on lefty Bobby Lundquist and righthander Mike Powers to try and keep the Alumni in check.

The Alumni has an imposing lineup. Raines, along with brothers Ned, Tim and Sam, all swing big sticks. Dave Wiggins, who reached AAA with the San Francisco Giants organization, will also play.

Speedworld Opens First Leg Of Triple Crown Tonight

Orlando Speedworld will be a part of the prestigious Eighth Annual Gatorade Triple Crown of the NASCAR All-American Challenge Series as it will host the first event of a three-race series tonight.

The gates open at Speedworld at 4 p.m. with time trials at 7:30 p.m. and races beginning at 8:30 p.m. General admission ticket prices are $12 for adults, $5 for children 6-12 and children under six free. Speedworld is located 15 miles east of Orlando on State Road 50, one mile west of State Road 520.

With over $60,000 being offered in purse money to drivers entered in the Triple Crown this year, the top drivers from NASCAR, ASA and the ALL PRO circuit will be on hand. The defending ASA and Triple Crown Champion, Dick Trickle of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., returns as well as the rest of the tour. Trickle has won over 1,500 feature races in a 25-year career, and is known as the nation's winningest stock car racer.

Butch Miller of Lawton, Mi., and former ASA Champion Mike Eddy of Kawkawlin, Mi., will join fellow northern ace Trickle in this year's Southern shoot-out.

Dave Mader III of Homewood, Ala., will be going for his second straight NASCAR AACS title. Mader is involved in a close point battle with Bruce Battle of Midfield, Ala. Another top NASCAR entry will be Tampa's Daniel Keene who has won three AACS races in this year's series.

the ALL PRO contingent into Speedworld. Also representing ALL PRO will be a former titleist, Darrell Brown of Birmingham, Ala., Dick Anderson of Wildwood, Bill Bigley Jr. of Naples, Tim Noonan of Live Oak and Jackie Brown of Hollywood. Top Florida drivers scheduled to run the Triple Crown include Orlando drivers David Rogers and Lee Faulk along with Jimmy Cope of Pinellas Park and Dennis Langston of Tampa.

The second race of the Gatorade Florida Triple Crown will be at Sunshine Speedway in St. Petersburg for a 125-lap event on Saturday. The final race in the Triple Crown will be the Coca Cola 200 at Desoto Speedway in Bradenton on Sunday.

The 1986 Winston Cup season still has two races to go, but teams are already looking ahead to the 1987 season. All the test dates for December and January at Daytona International Speedway are booked up already.

Among the teams signed up for December testing are DiGard Racing, Pontiac Motorsports, Richard Childress Racing, Junior Johnson, Hagen Racing, Hendrick Motorsports and Melling Racing.

With 37 teams testing at better than 200 mph a year ago, the slogan for 1987 might be "who'll be the first to come alive and go 203?" Cars driven by Tommy Ellis, Geoff Bodine and Joe Ruttman passed that mark last year.

Dayton, Ohio driver Larry Moore put his Camaro on the pole for the Florida State Championships and then went on to win the 50-lap feature event. Jack Pennington managed to edge out last year's winner, Dennis Bennett, to take the runner-up spot.

Volusia County ended its season with Tuck Trentham being crowned the track champion.

Lyman Faces Spruce Creek

Scott Seeks Momentum Going To Howell Game

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

LONGWOOD — The Lyman Greyhounds are 4-2, but coach Bill Scott isn't exactly jumping for joy.

"We still haven't played up to our potential," Scott said. "We are playing well enough to barely get by."

The Greyhounds have won their four games by a grand total of nine points. Scott, a veteran mentor, said although the margin of victory may not be great, the 'Hounds are learning to play when the game is on the line.

"The kids are responding well to the pressure," Scott said. "We have gotten the big play when we've needed it."

Lyman will try to win more comfortably and continue to come up with the big play Friday night when the Greyhounds travel to Memorial Stadium in Daytona Beach to take on Port Orange Spruce Creek in District 5A-4 action. Kickoff is 8 p.m.

Lyman is 0-2 in the district and out of the playoff picture. Spruce Creek is 3-4 and has a faint district hope with a 1-1 record. Lyman lost to Daytona Beach Mainland and 3-0 DeLand in 5A-4 play.

Scott insisted that it is still a very important game for the Greyhounds. "This game is more important than the past few that we have played," Scott said. "If we win this game we will have momentum coming into some of our tougher games that are coming up."

Next Friday the 'Hounds, 3-0 in the Seminole Athletic Conference, will play host to Lake Howell (2-0 in SAC) in a game that will probably decide the SAC winner. The game is also Lyman's homecoming.

"If we improve this week, it could be a very close game," Scott said of the Lake Howell contest. "I don't know if we'll be able to stop their running attack. We'll just try to slow it down. But right now I'm more worried about Spruce Creek."

The Hawks depend on the ground game for their offense. "They run the 'I' and show you a lot of motion," Scott said. "Their quarterback also likes to run the bootleg."

Scott said that it will be tough for the Lyman defense to contain the Hawks. "Our defense will be challenged more this week than it has been all year," Scott said. "They are not as quick as Seminole, but they are a lot stronger."

Linebacker Benny Glenn leads the SAC with an average of 16.7 tackles a game. Teammate Scott King (12.5 tpg) and safety Scott Radcliff (11.0 tpg) rank in the top 10. Radcliff and DB Johnny Luce are tied for the county lead in interceptions with four each.

"This is a real important game for us," Glenn said. "If we win this one we'll be in good shape for the rest of the season."

One problem that Lyman has been having has been the quarterbacking. Scott has given both Darren Boyeson and John Burton opportunities, but neither has played very well. "We will start Darren in this one," Scott said. "If he doesn't do the job I won't hesitate to bring John in. If that doesn't work, I'll bring sophomore Steven Jerry in."

The Creek defense is solid, according to Scott. "They have a very good defensive line," he said. "They also have one of the best linebackers that I've seen this year (Eric Williams 6-2, 215). They really are a physical group."

Better Than Bo? Fullwood Tires Of Comparisons

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — About the only way Auburn University tailback Brent Fullwood will compare himself to Heisman Trophy winner Bo Jackson is in his relationship with sportswriters.

Eight weeks into the season, Fullwood's patience is running very thin with the media.

For example, take what happened Tuesday night in the office of Auburn assistant sports information director Mike Hubbard.

While on the phone with a Florida writer, pain was written all over Fullwood's face. He winced once, then twice and looked like he would die if he didn't get relief soon.

Finally Fullwood put an end to his suffering by hanging up the phone.

"That's the stupidest (bleep) I've ever talked to," Fullwood said as he turned on the afterburners and stormed out of

Football

Hubbard's office. The outstanding running back doesn't like dealing with the press and he's growing tired of the Bo Jackson-Brent Fullwood comparisons.

However, it's not just the press discussing the pair. Everywhere people can argue, people are asking, "Is Fullwood just as good or better than Bo Jackson?"

The comparison is inevitable because Fullwood, who sat in Jackson's shadow the last three years, is having a phenomenal year. He has 866 yards on 89 carries, a 9.7-yard average, and seven touchdowns.

"We're two different people," Fullwood said. "I don't compare myself to anybody. Bo was a great player but we're two different players. I get tired of being compared to someone else."

Wait Is Over For Bisceglia

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Howell football coach Mike Bisceglia has waited six years for a team that has the potential to make the playoffs.

The wait is over. Bisceglia and his Hawks square off with Orlando Evans tonight at EE Stadium in a game which could determine the representative for the District 5A-5 playoffs.

There is a four-way deadlock for the district. Two district games remain, but the winner of tonight's clash could be in excellent position for a regional berth. The loser bids the district chase goodbye.

District 5A-5 is all knotted up as Lake Howell, Evans, Winter Park, and Apopka have 2-1 district records. "Every game is a big one," the cool-mannered Bisceglia said. "This game will be a big obstacle for us."

An obstacle is a mild way to put it. Evans is a very talented offensive team. The Trojans (6-1) are ranked seventh in the state (5A), average over 330 offensive yards a game, and are putting up an average of 23 points a game on the scoreboard. They were ranked first until Apopka upset them two weeks ago.

"They are a very balanced football team," Bisceglia said. "They can run the ball and throw the ball effectively. They throw the ball about 40 percent of the time and will air it out on any down. They run a pro-type offense."

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Celtics Open NBA Title Defense Against Revamped Washington

United Press International

The Boston Celtics open the NBA season Friday night against the Washington Bullets, a team that took the most drastic offseason measures to challenge the 1986 champions.

Washington acquired three-time-MVP center Moses Malone and Terry Catledge from the Philadelphia 76ers. Coach Kevin Loughery's former team, The Bullets also acquired forward Jay Vincent and playmaker Darwin Cook, and drafted swingman John Williams as a sophomore out of Louisiana State.

"I'm looking forward to the year," said Loughery, who took over for Gene Shue with 13 games remaining last season. "I think we've improved dramatically."

Gone are two of last year's starters: center Jeff Ruland and forward Cliff Robinson, both sent to Philadelphia in the draft-day trade. Also gone is former starting playmaker Gus Williams, a veteran free agent the Bullets have no intention of signing.

Returning are 7-foot-6 center Manute Bol and guards Frank Johnson and Jeff Malone. Jeff Malone is coming off an All-Star season and is back after a brief, training-camp walkout over contract figures. The streak-shooting, three-year veteran was the second-highest scorer among NBA guards last season (22.4 points), behind only World B. Free.

In other opening-night games, it is New York at New Jersey, Indiana at Philadelphia, Milwaukee at Detroit, Utah at Dallas, San Antonio at Denver, Golden State at Phoenix, L.A. Clippers at Sacramento, and Seattle at Portland.

Becker Removes All Drama

PARIS (UPI) — Boris Becker removed all the drama from his rematch with 1985 Wimbledon finalist Kevin Curren, posting a 6-2, 6-4 Thursday to advance to the quarterfinals of the $625,000 Paris Open indoor tennis tournament.

The No. 1 seed from West Germany, apparently recovered from his long flight from Japan Sunday, needed only 1 hour, 16 minutes to win. Becker won the first of his two Wimbledon titles against Curren.

No. 2 Yannick Noah of France struggled to a 4-6, 6-4, 6-3 victory over Karel Novacek of Czechoslovakia and No. 3 Henri Leconte of France downed Paolo Canale of Italy 7-5, 6-4.

No. 5 John McEnroe was well off his best form in defeating Haitian qualifier Ronald Agenor 7-6 (7-0), 6-3. McEnroe started the match only 15 hours after beating qualifier Todd Nelson in the first round Wednesday.

No. 6 Mikael Pernfors of Sweden, the 1986 French Open finalist, enjoyed his second consecutive strong match in defeating Australia's Paul McNamee 6-3, 7-6 (7-4) and another Swede, Jonas Svensson, beat Frenchman Guy Forget 6-2, 6-1.

Dunbar's Wade Replaces 'Lefty'

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Bob Wade, who directed Baltimore's Dunbar High School to two national titles, signed a five-year contract to lead the embattled University of Maryland basketball program.

Wade replaces the controversial and colorful Charles "Lefty" Driesell, who was forced to resign under pressure four months after star forward Len Bias died of cocaine intoxication and reports surfaced of poor academic performance by Driesell's players.

He said Thursday he hoped for a "tremendous marriage" with Maryland.

Wade, 41, coached several top Division I players at Dunbar, including Georgetown's Reggie Williams, Wake Forest's Tyrone "Mugzy" Bogues, Herman Harried of Syracuse and Reggie Lewis of Northeastern.

Wade, who had a 341-26 record in 11 years at Dunbar, also sent forward Ernie Graham and center Larry Gibson to Maryland.

O's Puddle Davis For Kennedy

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Orioles traded pitcher Storm Davis to the San Diego Padres Thursday for three-time All-Star catcher Terry Kennedy and a minor league pitcher, team officials said.

Kennedy will fill the void left by veteran catcher Rick Dempsey, who was made a free agent when the Orioles did not pick up his 1987 contract. Kennedy, 30, is a seven-year National League veteran, who batted .284 with 12 homers, and had 57 RBI in 141 games for the Padres last season.

"We have been looking for a catcher among other things to improve the club in 1987," Orioles General Manager Hank Peters said. "We think he'll come over here and do a great job for us."

Kennedy had his best year in 1982 when he hit .295 with 21 homers and 97 RBI.

Fenton Climbs Into Bass Lead

CLEWISTON (UPI) — David Fenton of Conroe, Texas climbed into the lead Thursday in the second round of the $137,500 Bassmaster Florida Invitational on Lake Oklawaha.

Fenton is trying to win his second consecutive tournament on the Bass Anglers Sportman Society (BASS) professional fishing circuit.

Fenton, who caught his seven-bass limit in less than two hours, weighed in 11 pounds, 13 ounces for a two-day total of 30 pounds, 8 ounces.

Lake Mary only attempted four passes in Hartfield's quarterbacking debut a week ago. All four of Hartfield's passes were well thrown but he had one dropped and Oviedo's secondary made outstanding plays on the others.

Another area of concern for Nelson is the nine-week exams that ended Thursday. "I'll tell you how I'm breathing on Monday," Nelson said. "There's really not any tension, but it's another obstacle we have to get over. It's been a real quest this year. Not an impossible dream, but a quest."

Lake Mary's quest for the district championship is still alive, but DeLand is in the driver's seat with a 3-0 district mark. The only way Lake Mary can win the district is if Spruce Creek defeats Lyman and DeLand and Lake Mary defeats Mainland and Lyman. If that happens, there will be a three-way tie and the three teams will go to the tiebreaker system.

If Spruce Creek loses one of its last two district games, no matter how Lake Mary fares, DeLand wins the district.

RAM RAP — The report that quarterback Lettorio's playing days are over was a bit premature. The spunky Lake Mary senior has recovered rapidly from a broken collarbone he suffered on Oct. 17 and may be able to return this year.

Apparently, Nelson and Lettorio will decide when the team is right.

Williams' Fumble Return Keys JV Rams

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Mary's Rams cashed in on the mistakes by Lyman's Greyhounds and came away with a 30-14 win Thursday night in junior varsity football at Lake Mary. It was the 30th consecutive win for the program over the last four years under coaches Bill McDaniel and Charlie Reynolds.

The Rams upped their record to 7-0 and will conclude the season next week at home against DeLand. Lyman ended its season with a 1-4 record.

In other JV action Thursday, Oviedo pounded rival Bishop Moore, 34-8, improving its record to 2-1 to end the season.

Lake Mary opened its scoring in the first quarter with 11:08 left on a Ray Williams 1-yard touchdown run.

Tarrance Carr scored for the Rams with 3:13 left in the first quarter on a 14-yard run and Williams ran in the two-point conversion for a 14-0 lead.

The 'Hounds came back in the second quarter with 14 points to tie up the score. Anthony Bailey scored from 12 yards out and Greg Fulving kicked the PAT to cut the score to 14-7.

Quarterback Mike McNamee then connected with Delmon Simpson for a 10-yard

TD and Fulving tied the score with the PAT. Lyman then kicked off and Williams returned the ball 85 yards for a touchdown to put Lake Mary back out in front. Alex Birle's PAT made it, 21-14.

The Rams put the game out of reach with 5:14 remaining in the third quarter. Lyman threatened to tie the game as it drove to the Lake Mary four, but it fumbled and Lake Mary's Darcy Williams scooped the ball up and raced 98 yards for a touchdown that gave the Rams a 27-14 lead. Birle made it 28-14 with the PAT.

The Lake Mary defense recorded the last points of the night when Pete Herzog tackled McNamee in the end zone for a safety.

"The fumble that Williams (Darcy) scored on was the backbreaker," McDaniel said. "They're a tough team and came back on us all night. But it seemed to have hurt them when they lost the ball when they could of tied the score."

Herzog led the defensive attack for the Rams with 10 tackles, an interception and the safety. Art Bradford, usually a running back, was converted to the defense for the game and came away with 14 tackles.

OVIEDO THRASHES BISHOP MOORE
Oviedo, meanwhile, racked up 426 yards rushing in its thrashing of Bishop Moore. Leading the rushing attack was Bo Lommes with 168 yards and Preston Bames with 158.

Frankie Harrington opened the scoring in the first quarter for Oviedo with a 1-yard TD following a 55-yard pass play from quarterback Micah Kinnaird to Charles Warner. Eric Dullmeyer kicked the PAT and the Lions took a 7-0 advantage.

Bames also scored in the first on a 72-yard run followed by Dullmeyer's kick as the Lions took a 14-0 lead.

Lommes then scored on a 7-yard run in the third to up the Oviedo lead to 21 points following Dullmeyer's kick. Bames then added his second TD of the night with a 12-yard run and the Lions held a commanding 27-0 lead over winless Bishop Moore.

The Lions closed the scoring on another Lommes' TD, this one from eight yards out and Dullmeyer put the PAT through for a 34-0 lead.

James Porter led the way for the Oviedo defense with 14 tackles and Stan Merrell collected 12.

only one of Ferguson's five serves.

"We had a tough time with serve receive tonight," Henry said. "We gave Oviedo a lot of free balls and that kept us on defense too long. Oviedo has so many good hitters that they wore us down."

Oviedo's hitters, Price, Knutson, Marr, Malone and Hughes all turned in solid performances while Wood, Ferguson and Mikki Eby led the defensive charges. The Lady Lions also received a superb all-around match from Davidson.

"Kelly (Davidson) had an outstanding night on defense and setting," Carlson said. "I'm really glad to have her back this year."

Davidson, a senior, played for Oviedo as a sophomore but moved to Pennsylvania last year. She moved back to Oviedo for the 1986 season and having her in as a setter enabled Knutson, also a setter, to unleash her offensive abilities.

"It's nice to come back to a championship team," Davidson said. "We were psyched all week for this match. It really meant a lot to us."

Oviedo's junior varsity also came through with a big win Thursday as it downed Lake Mary, 15-0, 16-14. Lake Mary had previously been unbeaten in SAC junior varsity play.

Oviedo's JV concluded the season at 14-4.

Co-captains Anna Hollis and Adrienne Wood and promising power player Kristen Harrel had strong performances for the Lady Lions Thursday night.

Annual Ryegrass Best For Dense Winter Lawn In This Area

How would you like a green lawn the year-round? Here in Florida it's possible. But to do this, we overseed with a special winter grass. Our permanent tropical grasses, such as Bahia and St. Augustine, lose their color in the fall with the first touch of frost. Thus, to keep the lawn green, we "overseed" it.

There are several kinds of cool-season grasses that can be used for overseeding. The best one for our area is annual ryegrass. Annual ryegrass is the most popular because the seeds germinate rapidly, it grows fast, is fairly inexpensive, and is adaptable to a variety of growing conditions. It does well in sun and shade, and tolerates frequent mowing. If seeded heavily, annual ryegrass can provide you with a dense, beautiful winter lawn.

The best time to establish a winter ryegrass lawn is after the permanent lawn has turned brown by frost. You'll have a lot less problems with diseases at this time. Start by mowing a little closer and raking up all the debris. Next, spread the ryegrass seed. You'll need between five and 15 pounds per 1,000 square feet of lawn area. If possible, buy seed that has been treated with a fungicide. And, be sure they're fresh and weed-free. You can sow the seed by hand or use a fertilizer spreader for a more even distribution.

To get the most uniform stand of ryegrass, divide the seed into two equal parts. Make two applications. Sow half in one direction over the lawn. Then, go back and sow the rest at right angles to your original path. After you spread the seeds, rake the lawn lightly to help get the seed down to the soil.

Now is the time for watering. And, this is one of the most important steps. The newly seeded lawn should receive light waterings once or twice a day until the seeds germinate. Keep the seeds moist, but be careful not to overwater and drown the young seedlings, wash them out, or create a disease situation. Once the grass is established, water is needed.

The main disadvantage of a winter ryegrass lawn is that you'll have to fertilize about once a month to keep the plants growing. The first time, use a complete fertilizer, such as a 6-6-6 or 8-8-8. For other applications you can use a straight nitrogen fertilizer. Always follow the manufacturer's recommended rates for application.

When you fertilize properly, the ryegrass will grow quickly and you'll need to mow about twice a week. Begin mowing when the grass is tall enough to be cut — about two to two-and-one-half inches high.

Watch for disease problems. Disease can cause the most trouble on overwatered and overfertilized ryegrass, especially during warm spells. Check with your favorite garden supply shop for an appropriate fungicide.

If you haven't already set out some flowering annuals. This is a good time to plant cool-season types such as pansies, petunias and snapdragons. It's difficult to try to start these plants from seed, so you're better off purchasing started plants from your favorite garden shop. Before buying your plants, you should decide how you're going to use them in the landscape. Annuals should be an accent to the landscape rather than a dominant feature. When selecting annuals, it is best to limit the choice to as few kinds as possible. Combinations of many flower colors and plant forms can distract from the overall appearance of the display.

Prepare your beds before you purchase the plants. Leaving the plants in their containers too long is detrimental and may have a negative effect on their performance after planting.

Now that you have prepared your beds and decided on what to plant, you can make your trek to the garden center for plants. Look for young, healthy, disease and insect-free plants with dark green foliage. It's not necessary for the plants to be in bloom when you get them. Avoid plants that show evidence of water stress, and tall and spindly, or have nutrient deficiencies. They are certainly not a bargain.

Annuals purchased in compartmentalized plastic flats usually have pot-bound root systems; if planted intact, the root system will be slow to establish in the surrounding soil and the plants will suffer moisture stress. It's a good idea to loosen and untangle the root system without breaking the soil ball at the time of planting. The plants will usually recover rapidly and become established fast.

Tall and spindly plants can be pruned to half of their original size to produce more attractive plants with more flowers. Be sure you water the plants daily until they become established, then as needed.

If your soil is very poor, or you have a tree root problem, you could grow your annuals in pots. It's easier to set the young plants into inexpensive plastic pots filled with good soil and set into the beds level with the surrounding soil. Growing them in pots eliminates nematode problems, reduces water and fertilizer use, and allows for easy replacement in the beds when the season is over.

Why not pretty up your landscape now. It will make you feel good, too. Happy Gardening!

Rosenwald staff and students get ready for Halloween.

Rosenwald Honors Students During Special Observance

An air of excitement was all around the campus of Rosenwald Exceptional Student Center during Exceptional Student Education Week, Oct. 13-17. This was an enlightening experience for the students and staff. The activities opened with a special guest Donald Ricci, director of Exceptional Student Education, Seminole County. The day included a balloon release and a banner contest between the classes. The winning banners were placed in the county office to be admired by everyone.

A student of the day was selected everyday of the week by each class. The student of the day received a certificate to take home and the students' pictures were posted in the office of the school. Special activities for the staff and student body were continued throughout the week. Many activities from the new PMH Adaptive Physical Education Curriculum were implemented at various levels to provide fun and educational experiences for all participants.

Dr. Hortense Evans, administrative assistant to the superintendent, and Mrs. Shirley Allen, coordinator of the Mentally Handicapped Program participated in the weeks festivities, that focused on the innovative learning experiences provided as a part of the Exceptional Student Education Programs offered at Rosenwald. Crystal Steward, TMH Teacher is to be commended for her chairmanship of this special week's activities.

Mr. and Mrs. William Daniels of Sanford recently received the good news and congratulations to their son Ronald Keith Daniels, who has been selected as one of the Outstanding Young Men of America for 1986. Ronald, in receiving this distinctive honor, joins a group of young men in the United States who have demonstrated their excellence in professional endeavors and civic activities. Ronald has worked diligently to make his community and country a better place in which to live and he deserves recognition for his outstanding achievements.

Ronald is a 1975 graduate of Seminole High School and he is presently a junior majoring in business administration at Methodist College, Fayetteville, N.C. where he lives with his wife Jeanette and son Ronald Jr.

A belated and happy birthday to William Bill Vincent, Kaylia Givens, Rufus McClain, Cynthia Dixon, Willie James White and Oliver Harold.

Neighbor Who Reaches Out Gets Touched Where It Hurts

DEAR ABBY: I felt sorry for my neighbor, so I let her use my telephone when hers was "out of order." She would come over here as early as 7 a.m. and as late as 11:30 p.m. and talk sometimes for an hour or more.

She had no consideration for my rest and privacy. I have a 3-year-old child and am expecting again in two months.

I finally got fed up with her coming over here at all hours to talk on my phone, so I made excuses, lied and finally refused to let her in my house. I thought my troubles were over. I was wrong.

I just got my phone bill and found out that the telephone calls she made on my phone were all long distance. Her phone wasn't out of order; the telephone company disconnected it because she failed to pay her bill.

Now I am stuck for over $200 — an expensive lesson for a woman in my circumstances. Although I could take legal action against her, she's living on welfare and has nothing.

Please warn your readers, Abby, I wish somebody had warned me.

SOFT TOUCH

DEAR TOUCH: Thanks for the message. Readers, if your neighbor wants to reach out and touch someone, make sure it isn't you.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I have a suggestion for people who loan money to others and never get it back. Send them this poem:

I think that I shall never see
The dollar that I loaned to thee;

A dollar that I could have spent
On many forms of merriment

The one I loaned to you so gladly
Is now the one I need so badly.

For whose return I had great hope
Just like an optimistic dope.

For dollars loaned to folks like thee
Are not returned to fools like me.

HAROLD MCKNIGHT, NOVA SCOTIA, CANADA

DEAR HAROLD: Thanks for the witty ditty. I'll bet a lot of folks who have been clipped will be clipping this one.

DEAR ABBY: A number of years ago Life magazine had a story about a decapitated rooster (chicken) that lived a number of days after being decapitated, delaying a Sunday dinner that had been planned by the person who decapitated it. To everyone's amazement, the rooster lived for two days with its head chopped off.

I read this in a doctor's waiting room in the early '50s. I have repeated this story to several people, and the way they looked at each other, I am sure they thought I was nuts or the world's biggest storyteller.

How can I get a copy of this magazine, or some information in support of this story, which I am absolutely sure I read in Life magazine? Please help. My reputation is riding on this. Maybe one of your readers remembers it, and can back me up.

NEEDS PROOF IN JACKSON, MICH.

DEAR NEEDS: Life magazine ceased publication in 1972, but if anyone out there can provide me with any information on the decapitated rooster, it will be something to crow about.

CONFIDENTIAL TO D.G.K.

When a man says he doesn't want to get married, believe him; if you should finally "win" him in the end, what will you have? A man who didn't want to get married in the first place. So don't be surprised if he's slightly selfish, headstrong, and not as committed to marriage as you are.

Beautiful Homes Tour Set

The 10th Annual Tour of Beautiful Homes will take place on Wednesday, Nov. 5, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. It will be sponsored by the Rishona-Masada Hadassah, one of the Orlando chapters of the world's largest charitable women's organization.

As in the past, four of Greater Orlando's outstanding homes have been selected for the tour. All the homes volunteered for this major fund-raising event have been professionally designed. Their interiors will be an inspiration to other home owners and a reflection of both their well-known interior designers' skills as well as their owners' tastes.

Two homes on the 1986 Hadassah Beautiful Homes Tour are located in the Springs — Mr. and Mrs. Hy Lake's home, 210 Riverbend Court, and the Dr. Roland Foraste home at 278 Springdale Drive, both in Longwood. Also in Longwood will be the home of Mr. and Mrs.

Jerome Demaree at 2102 Royal Fern Court and that of Gerry Seiber, 429 Barclay Ave., Altamonte Springs.

The tour will be preceded by a kick-off cocktail party at the home of Victor J. Harrigan, 120 Howell Branch Road, Winter Park, on Saturday, Nov. 1 at 8:30 p.m. Tickets for the advance party and home tour are available from the hadassah ticket chairmen, Gloria Titani, 647-8848, Sylvia Semel at Gallery 1792, 647-1792, or at Kensington Park Apartments on State Road 434 across from the Springs. Donation: House Tour, $10; Cocktail party and tour, $35.

Get Plastic Surgeon's Opinion On Scarring

DEAR DR. GOTT — At 39, my wife had shingles, which left her with dark keloid scars on her thighs. Cortisone injections have made no difference. One plastic surgeon even went so far as to suggest that they are the result of Agent Orange exposure in her native Vietnam. This seems unlikely, since she was a Saigon resident who left in 1966. The doctors warn her that surgery might cause further disfigurement. Aren't there plastic surgeons who can help?

DEAR READER — Shingles frequently leave permanent skin discolorations. Surgery can remove the unwanted pigmentation, but no honest surgeon is going to guarantee a perfect result. Perhaps you and your wife would feel more comfortable seeking an opinion from plastic surgeons at a teaching hospital. The doctors in large medical centers are often more geared to solving difficult problems.

DEAR DR. GOTT — This summer we lost our very healthy son, at age 34, to Legionnaires' Disease. What can you tell us about this disease?

DEAR READER — Legionnaires' Disease is a form of pneumonia that begins as an influenza-like illness and progresses to lung infection. It sometimes causes sharp chest pains (pleurisy) and diarrhea. The causative bacteria, legionella pneumophila, are usually killed by antibiotics; nonetheless, the death rate is surprisingly high and may reach 20 percent in some epidemics. When Legionnaires' Disease was first discovered several years ago, epidemiological experts blamed contaminated air-conditioning towers for the infection. No person-to-person contact has been reported; that is, Legionnaires' Disease appears not to be spread from one person to another.

DEAR DR. GOTT — After one of my routine swims in the ocean, I noticed a tiny black, fuzzy spot in my eye. My doctor said everything was normal, but noted "vitreous degeneration" on my chart. What does this mean? The spot is still with me a

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

It's no surprise that the right contracts are often not arrived at when enterprising opponents deprive you of your bidding room. Today's deal was played in a team-of-four match, and East opened with a two-club bid that was strong and presumably artificial. Even though South was vulnerable, the freakish distribution of his hand warranted coming in with two hearts, and North was delighted to give him a boost to four. East now took a conservative view and bid five clubs. South and West both passed, and North carried on to five hearts.

That was good news for East. By passing, he was telling his partner, "It's all right to bid six clubs if you have any useful cards." But that was where the ball was fumbled. West might have realized that a useful king (diamonds) was enough for him to bid a slam in clubs, but he thought he needed something more, so he doubled. That was 850 to North-South, and certainly a result that left the East-West pair somewhat frazzled.

In the other room, the bidding was more spirited. There, East-West bid to seven clubs, and North was anxiously waiting to double for a diamond lead, but South saved at seven hearts. That was doubled and set 500, but the team still gained 350 total points, since their teammates had plus 850 from making five hearts doubled. That's running in good luck, when you are minus 500 instead of plus 100 and still gain on the result as a team.

The Republican and Democratic gubernatorial nominees have traded jobs over their differing political philosophies with increasing frequency as the campaign to succeed outgoing Democratic Gov. Bob Graham is ending its final week.

Republican nominee Bob Martinez, Tampa, defeated Republican runoff opponent Lou Frey, Winter Park, and claimed some support from Democrats who he said were disenchanted with their party's nominee, former State Rep. Steve Pajcic, Jacksonville. Pajcic narrowly defeated attorney general Jim Smith in the September runoff and has received the support of most environmental and law enforcement groups in the state.

Martinez painted Pajcic as a liberal, while Pajcic accused Martinez of wanting to cut funding for education and other human services.

While Martinez branded Pajcic as a liberal who is soft on the death penalty issue, Pajcic portrayed Martinez as being in favor of development without concern for environmentally sensitive areas.

But Martinez has not been able to capitalize on the fact that his running mate, State Rep. Bobby Brantley, Longwood, is from Seminole County. Frey of Winter Park defeated Martinez in both September's primary and runoff elections.

Pajcic, meanwhile, lifted county municipal leaders Monday, when he refused to debate Martinez at a Seminole County Council of Mayors sponsored candidate's forum. Martinez says Pajcic wanted to avoid dealing with municipal issues, while Pajcic said he would meet Martinez in Seminole County, if Martinez would appear at a scheduled state-wide television gubernatorial candidate's debate in Miami. Martinez refused the Miami debate.

Martinez has campaigned using his experience as the mayor of Tampa as a main reason he should be elected as the state's top administrator. Opponents point out that Martinez didn't become a Republican until 1983 and was a leader in Jimmy Carter's presidential campaign in 1980.

Pajcic is campaigning on his experience as a state representative.

In the Sept. 2 primary in Seminole County, the Martinez-Brantley ticket got 39.3 percent of the vote, placing second to former U.S. Congressman Lou Frey, Winter Park, who got 49 percent of the vote. In the Sept. 30 runoff against Frey, Frey was the winner by a 50.5 to 49.5 percent margin.

On the Democratic side, Pajcic and running-mate Frank Mann won the Sept. 2 primary in Seminole County with 37.2 percent of the vote. But in the Sept. 30 runoff, the Pajcic-Mann ticket was defeated by attorney general Jim Smith and running mate Marshall Harris. Pajcic got 42.3 of the Seminole County votes, while Smith took 57.7 percent.

Here are the candidate's responses to League of Women Voter's questions:

1. What are your three major objectives for your term as governor? How do you plan to accomplish them?

Martinez: The major objectives for my term as governor include better management and more efficiency in state government (particularly in the Department of Transportation and the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services). The second objective will be combatting Florida's growing drug problem. The drug culture extends far beyond the circle of drug users, and we must attack the values and the lifestyle that make drug use acceptable behavior for everyone. I will support a comprehensive drug education and prevention program in our public schools.

My third objective will be growth management. I will work to implement and improve the recent growth management legislation, including assisting local governments in meeting their responsibilities and preserving our remaining environmental assets, such as our fresh water sources and our coastlines; and to increase state leadership and involvement in solid waste disposal, sewage treatment, and toxic waste disposal and cleanup.

Pajcic: As Governor, my top three priorities will include: 1. Ensuring a proper balance between economic development and protection of Florida's fragile ecosystem; 2. Improving the quality of services available to our citizens, particularly in the areas of education and human services; and 3. Reducing Florida's crime problem by targeting our efforts and resources on juveniles and "superfelons" — those career criminals who comprise only five to ten percent of the criminal population but commit a majority of all crimes. I have discussed the details of my plans for accomplishing these goals throughout the campaign, but space limitations preclude my doing so here.

2. What cost effective means would you suggest to protect and serve the needs of dependent children, the mentally ill, the handicapped, the elderly, and victims of domestic violence?

Martinez: The Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services is obviously in need of extensive reform. A primary step would be to separate the functions of the department, with one area designated for health only and the other for welfare only. Streamlining the system in this manner would make it more efficient and responsive to people's needs. The morass of red tape must be cut through to make the department and its employees answerable to needs of the people rather than to the perpetuation of the system. Finally, the best management talent available to Florida's next governor should be assigned to HRS, which historically has not been a high priority concern.

Pajcic: In dealing with human services, I will focus greater attention on prevention efforts. With respect to dependent children entering foster care, increase payments to foster parents, provide better training to foster parents and HRS intake and protective services counselors. With regard to the mentally ill, we must ensure a full continuum of care and comprehensive case management to avoid the situation where the client falls through the cracks in the system and becomes another member of Florida's growing community of homeless people. Handicapped individuals must have better access to community based programs, but we must also do a better job of preventing handicapping conditions by funding prenatal and neonatal programs. We must expand our Community Care for the Elderly and Home Care for the Elderly programs to prevent the premature institutionalization of our elderly citizens. Current waiting lists for services for victims of spouse abuse must be eliminated.

3. It has been estimated that the cost of backlogged infrastructure (roads, bridges, sewers, etc.) necessary to meet Florida's expanding population exceeds $30 billion. As the person responsible for proposing the state budget priorities to the Legislature, how would you propose to obtain the capital necessary to improve, develop and support these public works?

Martinez: There is a distinction between the absolute quantity of money needed to solve Florida's problems and the quantity of money that can be spent effectively in any given fiscal year in an attempt to solve those problems. Moreover, there is a further distinction between the funding needs of state government and those local governments. At the state level, my experiences as Mayor of Tampa lead me to believe that as much as five percent of the state budget, or approximately $800 million, could be "saved."

Pajcic: I would divide our infrastructure needs into two major categories: 1. roads, bridges and water and sewer systems; and 2. schools and prisons. I believe that roads, bridges, and water and sewer systems should be financed through user fees, user taxes, and impact fees. The users of these facilities should directly pay the costs of these facilities. Schools and prisons should be financed over a number of years through the use of revenue bonds. At present the state uses revenue bonding to build state office buildings. We should also build prisons and schools in this manner. It does not make sense to continue the practice of building these capital facilities with current year's cash flow. Prisons and schools will benefit Floridians for years and the costs of these facilities should be spread over a number of years.

The 12th Annual Seminole County High School Band Festival

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

Strike up the band. The 1,000-piece Seminole County high school band, that is. For one evening - Saturday, Nov. 8 - all the marching musicians in the county and some from Winter Park will join for a mass performance and individual band showings with a special fireworks finale that organizers are keeping secret. Thousands will be watching the 12th Annual Seminole County High School Band Festival at Lake Brantley High School, 2150 Sand Lake Road, Altamonte Springs. For tickets, which are $2 for adults and $1 for students, contact any band member, and proceeds will go to help that band. Tickets can be purchased at the gate, but that money will go for other expenses rather than directly to the bands.

Co-sponsored by the Sanford Optimist Club and the Evening Herald, the colorful sound-off will begin at 8 p.m. with a national salute, the Star Spangled Banner, and a mass band march. Seven bands will then perform separately, and the culmination will be a patriotic finale accompanied by fireworks. Something special is in store at the close of the concert, according to organizer John Blair, consultant/coordinator of fine arts for Seminole County schools, but he would not reveal the surprise.

"This is one of the finest happenings of our band program in the fall," Blair said. "The public always enjoys it. And the bands enjoy doing it because they're not performing in any kind of competition so they can relax and really do a good job for the people."

There will be sights and sounds: brass, woodwinds, percussion, flag choruses and dance choruses.

Blair pointed out the strict discipline needed to make a concert of this magnitude a success. "It takes everybody doing his or her part," he said. "It's a discipline of the highest challenge to work with a marching band."

The bands this year will include host Lake Brantley High, Lake Mary, Lyman, Lake Howell, Oviedo and Seminole High — and Winter Park High School, the guest school this year.

Expected to be on hand for the event are schools Superintendent Robert Hughes, Seminole County Sheriff John Polk, Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith, Evening Herald publisher Wayne Doyle, the North Florida District Governor of Optimists Fred D'Amico, Optimists district secretary-treasurer Bill Chaitow, Optimists Lt. Governor for zone 11 Ernie Butler, and Ken Hicks, president of Sanford Optimists. Jack Horner, past president of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, will be master of ceremonies.

Cynthia Berry, band director at Lake Brantley, will lead the mass band numbers. Other directors and their schools are: Dough Stoun and Ken Williams of Winter Park;

Phil Jennings of Lake Howell; Steven Parker of Oviedo, Don Schmaus of Lyman; Terry Pattishall of Lake Mary; and Bob McGuire of Seminole High.

The event is expected to raise at least $8,000 for the bands with more than 3,000 people buying tickets. Blair urged parents and friends to buy their tickets in advance from band members or call the school.

Now, for something about each band:

—Lake Brantley High School Marching Patriot Band will host the festival this year with more than 180 members playing. Shannon Haddock and Jeff Pollinsky are the drum majors, and Michelle Johnson is band president. Last year, the band participated in all phases of FBA Festivals, receiving superior ratings. This includes marching, concert, solo and ensemble and jazz. The band traveled to Washington, D.C. for four days last April, toured the city and gave concerts at the Lincoln Memorial.

—Lake Mary Marching Rams are in their sixth year. They perform during halftime at football games, at the county marching festival and the district marching festival. The Marching Rams also have been a part of the Walt Disney World birthday celebration and performed at the Kathleen Marching Festival in Lakeland this year. Past performances include the Strawberry Festival Parade in Plant City, Citrus Festival Parade in Winter Haven, Christmas parades in Sanford and Longwood, halftime for the Miami Dolphins, Epcot Center, and the 1984 Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade.

Lake Mary drum majors are Sue Minnecl, David Sampson, and Lisa Melnecke. Flag Corps captains are Connie Baldwin and Lyne Kurtz. Marionette captains are Becky Edwards and Tracey Blakely. And band president is Matt Barron.

The Lyman Greyhounds Marching Band has as drum major for this year, Sheri VanSickle, a senior and four-year member of the band. Their festival music will include Firestorm; Samba de Rollins, featuring a trumpet trio and soloists; Hoedown, an original composition featuring the percussion section and a small wind ensemble; and the popular hit song, "The Greatest Love of All."

Lyman's band president is Dee Dee Solodky. Vice president is Millie Conception. Guard captain is Sandi Woods. Roxanne Brewer is in charge of flags and Mike Roylance is in charge of winds and marching.

Serving as guest band, the Winter Park "Sound of the Wildcats" is comprised of the combined Symphonic and Concert Bands and the Color Guard. Under the direction of Doug Stoun and Ken Williams, the Winter Park band has a history of more than 30 years of superior ratings from the Florida Bandmasters' State Festival.

The Oviedo High Marching Lions recently participated in the University of Miami's Band Day and have also been invited to participate in the Tampa Gasparilla Parade. The concert and symphonic bands will travel to Washington, D.C.

Shelly Hack Was Short-Lived 'Angel'

Dear Debra — I am hoping that you can settle an argument between me and my hairdresser. Isn't Shelley Hack of the new series "Jack and Mike" a former "Charlie's Angel" named Tiffany Welles? — E.W., Amarillo, Texas.

Shelley Hack played Tiffany Welles from 1979 to 1980 on the popular "Charlie's Angels." The character was supposed to be the daughter of a Connecticut police chief, but that didn't keep her on the show for long; she was gone the year after she arrived.

Dear Debra — Is Rob Reiner, director of the film "Stand By Me," the same man who played Gloria's husband in "All in the Family"? — M.L.R., Slaking Spring, Pa.

Mike Stivic (Meathead) is indeed the same Rob Reiner who went on to be a successful director. Rob, the son of Carl Reiner, also an actor and director, directed "This is Spinal Tap" and "The Sure Thing."

Dear Debra — My sister says that Charles Durning was in "Dune," but I just know she's mistaking him for Ken McMillan. Tell me I'm right so I'll win our $100 bet! — R.R., Knoxville, Tenn.

Celebrity Corner
Debra Katz

Kenneth McMillan is the man in "Dune."
Dear Debra — Could you please tell me if Fess Parker played the part of Daniel Boone when the show was on TV? If Fess Parker didn't play the part of Boone, then who did? — D.N., Auburn, Pa.

Fess Parker was the one and only Daniel Boone, on the series of the same name, which ran on NBC from 1964-70.

Dear Debra — In regard to a question about whether or not Tom Poston was a patient on "The Bob Newhart Show," you answered that he was not and that is correct. He did, however, appear on that show a couple of times as Bob's sassy college buddy. Perhaps this information will help settle P.M.'s bet. — E.H., Oak Harbor, Wa.

Thanks for the clarification. Several people wrote in to say that. Indeed, Tom Poston played Bob's old college friend.

Dear Debra — I would like to know where Patti Page was born and in what state? — G.L., Knoxville, Tenn.

The performer, named Clara Ann Fowler at birth, was born in Claremore, Oklahoma in 1927.

Dear Debra — My husband is a James Bond fan, regardless of who plays the part. We have the following movies on videotape: "On Her Majesty's Secret Service," "For Your Eyes Only," "Diamonds Are Forever," "From Russia with Love," "You Only Live Twice," "Never Say Never Again," "Moonraker," "Octopussy," "Thunderball," "Dr. No," "Goldfinger," "Live and Let Die," "A View to a Kill" and "The Spy Who Loved Me." I say we have them all. He thinks a couple are missing. — C.E.

The only one that I can find missing from that list is "The Man with the Golden Gun," which starred Roger Moore in 1974. There was a movie of "Casino Royale" but it was a spoof and not a true Bond movie.

In the spring for a series of concerts around the capitol city. Featured with the Marching Lions are the Lionettes and Color Guard. Senior Drum Major is Dan Carlson, and Junior Drum Major is Becky Hamilton. Jennifer Jacobs is Lionette captain, and Dana Woltz is Color Guard captain.

At Lake Howell, 1985 was a highlight year for the Silver Regiment. The band was the only high school from Florida and one of only 10 nationally to march in the 1985 Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York City. The band spent a full week touring the sights of the Big Apple. The Silver Regiment also performed at a televised event at Lincoln Center in Manhattan where famed conductor Leonard Bernstein stood and applauded for them.

The Lake Howell band has won more than 100 awards with several grand championships. Sections winning in 1985 were the Drum Line, Brass Line, Woodwinds, Best Guard and Best Drum Major. In addition, the 1985 Winter Guard went undefeated in the class.

In 1986, the Lake Howell band participated in the Annual Silver Regiment Invitational on Oct. 11. Further plans include festivals in Gainesville, Jacksonville and the Tournament of Bands in St. Petersburg, which the Silver Regiment won representing all of Florida in the Festival of States in 1985. One of their proudest accomplishments in 1985 was to have the '86 Class valedictorian as part of its family. Stacy DeZutter is now attending college with the help of a music scholarship.

Last but not least, Seminole High Marching

Seminoles will present for their halftime show the music of Duke Ellington. The music was arranged especially for the band by a professional arranger, and the drill was designed by two former members of the D.C.I. world champion Blue Devils. Some of Ellington's greatest hits will be remembered: Sophisticated Lady, It

Don't Mean a Thing, Caravan, Mood Indigo, Satin Doll, and "A" Train.

The band is under the field direction of Drum Major Richard Keen.

Band president is Jon Yowell. Quarter masters are Julie Hanson and Juanita Murray. Dance Captain is Sarah Loomis. And Flag Captain is Sherry French.
