Seminole Attempt To Pull Out Of Slump Against Red Hats Here

Nixon Nicked For 10 Base Hits, But Double By Smith With Bases Loaded Spells Defeat

A sizable crowd of 600 spectators witnessed the Sanford Seminoles' 4-3 decision to lose to the Orlando Red Hats last night at Municipal Park. The Seminoles were unable to pull out of their losing streak, as they were defeated by the Red Hats in a game that was a double-edged sword for both teams.

The Seminoles, who have been struggling in the league, managed to score three runs in the first inning. The Red Hats, who are looking to improve their record, responded with a three-run second inning. The game was tied 3-3 in the fourth inning.

In the fifth inning, the Seminoles took the lead with a run. However, the Red Hats tied the game in the sixth. In the seventh, the Seminoles took a 4-3 lead. But in the eighth, the Red Hats scored three runs to win the game.

Nixon, who is the Seminoles' star player, was hit for 10 base hits. Smith, who is the Red Hats' star player, hit a double with bases loaded to seal the victory for the Red Hats.

NOTES FROM THE PRESS BOX

by BILL BINGHAM

It looks as if Sid Hudson, having pitched a no-hitter in the first game of the season, will be up in Washington during the summer months for quite a long period of time. Sanford fans who have been wondering how Sid would fare in making the big jump from Class D baseball to the majors in a single year can draw more than an inkling of an answer from an article written in last week's Sporting News by a Washington scribe who interviewed Clark Griffith, owner of the Senators.

According to Griffith, the reason for Washington's cellar position in the American league standings is the pitching staff. But Griffith asserts that he has no immediate way of remedying the situation. He says he has only one man on any of his farm clubs that is even remotely ready for major league ball and that is first baseman Jack Sanford of Charlotte, N. C. in the Piedmont league.

Eliminating the American league's three ace pitchers, namely, Hugh Bennett of Detroit and Al Milner and Bob Keller of Cleveland, we find that Hudson is within striking distance of the rest of the pitchers. Only seven pitchers in the league have been on the hill for as many innings as Hudson who has hurled 116 innings and allowed 125 hits.

Hudson's record in the second half of the Washington batting corps and he has won six games in a row after a poor start. Only Emil Leonard, knuckle ball artist of the American league, takes a longer lead off first than any other player. Mayo Langston is batting only .256 for Spartanburg in the Sally league. Ellis Gray, another former Sanford player, is holding down shortstop, and leading off for Greenville in the same league. .300 or over in the State league as of Saturday's averages. Hal Toennes of Deland has pitched in 201 innings in compiling a record of 15 wins against 5 losses. He can hardly miss being the league's first game winner.

Britain Forced To Yield To Japanese

Churchill Offers Empire's Services As Peacemaker To End Three-Year-Old War

Air Raids On Isles Renewed

Air Attack On Gibraltar Follows Close-Fly Franco's Speech

With German bombs falling only 30 miles away, Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons in London that Great Britain's own "life and death struggle" compelled the yielding to Japanese demands for the closing of the Burma road, life-line of supplies to China.

The Prime Minister simultaneously offered the empire's services as peacemaker to end the 3-year-old Chinese-Japanese war.

Churchill also said that the projected mass exodus of British children to the United States and Dominions was "most undesirable."

Critical as Great Britain's days are, he said he did not believe that the military situation required "a movement of such dimensions."

Nazi warplanes explosively shattered a one-day lull in the bombing assaults on the British Isles, subjecting the kingdom to machine-gun attacks on the villages and dive-bombing blasts at sea.

At least five persons were reported killed, including a woman slain by a bomb splinter and four elderly persons in a southeast town.

Corley Is Suspended Because Of Sickness

Pierre Corley, Sanford hurler, has been placed on the suspended list because of sickness, according to an official announcement by Frank Lawson, secretary of the Sanford baseball management.

Corley had jumped the ship Sunday to leave Tuesday without informing the club of his departure, but players have revealed that he intends to return tomorrow. Corley's absence enabled Manager Whitely Campbell, a close mate, to become active again.

Should Corley not return, he will automatically become barred from playing any baseball in organized professional ranks.

Corley, who in the 1938 season had won 10 games and lost 10, in his last year was knocked out of the game by a broken leg.

Danger To State's Growers Seen In Lettuce Proposal

West Would Overrule If Application Limit Is Thrown Out

There is a possibility that the proposed amendment to the Agriculture Adjustment Act of 1933 providing for production quotas for lettuce and melons in the state of Arizona, California and Idaho, might be made applicable to the nation as a whole if the bill is passed by Congress in its present form, according to a letter received today from E. S. O'Keefe, general agricultural agent for the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad.

The bill in question is H. R. 4007 and H. R. 9799 and 4911 which extends the production quota provisions of the AAA to the lettuce and melon industries in the three western states. Local farmers are divided whether the act in the present form would apply to the growing lettuce industry in Florida, but they generally agree that if such an act were made to apply to this state that it would strangle an industry which expanded tremendously during last season.

Pointing out that this is the first instance where a bill of this kind applied to only two states, Mr. O'Keefe said that many have expressed the opinion that such a bill should be made applicable to the entire nation. He stated that the provisions of the act would be applied to the entire nation if the bill is passed in its present form.

Co-ordinated Market Plan Aired At Meet

Over 100 Delegates Attend Monthly Session Of Florida Citrus Growers, Inc.

Expressing a fear that the organization of the citrus industry is becoming too centralized, Secretary W. L. Burton of Orlando, secretary of the Florida Citrus Growers, Inc., made a plea to growers in behalf of the co-ordinated marketing plan at the monthly meeting of the directors of the grower organization which opened at the Mayfair Hotel here this morning.

Termining the plan the "democratic way" for growers to settle their problems, he asserted that the time has come when growers must work together constructively for the benefit of the industry. "Let's quit talking and do something about it," urged Walton Rex, Orlando citrus leader in a plea to the citrus growers of the state to "do some real and constructive thinking." He revealed that a small group of growers in Orange county is about ready to do something about it and wants to work with any group that is interested in the possibilities of the plan which has been under discussion for several months.

L. E. Barnett of Tangerine, chairman of the quality standards committee, urged further study of the proposal to grade fruit by the interior and eating quality rather than exterior appearance. He pointed out that "the two main objects in marketing our fruit is first to be sure that the consumer gets palatable, nutritious fruit."

RFC Gets Deed To Eckerson's Canning Plant

A deed transferring the entire holdings of the Eckerson Fruit Canners, Inc., to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has been recorded by William H. Tunnicliffe, trustee in bankruptcy for the company, after the RFC bought the property at a recent bankruptcy sale for a consideration of $18,000.

The RFC was the only bidder on the property when it was offered for sale, although efforts to interest outside companies in the plant and its equipment were made for several months prior to the sale.

The Eckerson plant, which operated for a number of years, when working employed more than 150 men and women. It specialized in canning grapefruit juice.

According to papers filed in the case, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation held a $25,000 mortgage against the company on a loan. There were a number of creditors, but whether or not there will recover anything remains to be determined after the Reconstruction Corporation sells the property to the highest bidder.

The real estate is assessed at $10,000 and the personal property at $10,000. Machinery under lease by the company is assessed at $4,000.

Wallace Is Selected By Roosevelt For Running Mate After Nomination

North Carolina leads the parade in a noisy 25-minute demonstration which erupted when Democratic National Convention Chairman Alben Barkley praised President Roosevelt in his convention address at Chicago. A "Draft Roosevelt" demonstration came off in rousing fashion when Barkley, his address concluded, announced President Roosevelt's lack of desire for a third term in the White House. While releasing his delegates, the President's announcement through Spokesman Barkley did not reject a third term. When the President's nomination was presented last night the demonstration was even greater than the parade pictured above.

Vegetable Auction Is Included In Next Season's Market Regulations

Regulations governing the operation of the State Farmers' Wholesale Market here, next season are being taken into consideration by the Advisory Board of the local market, Manager H. J. Lehman revealed today.

Many changes in the operation would become effective if a tentative list of regulations compiled by the management is given the approval of the Advisory Board. One of the changes inaugurated would be a daily auction market at which the grower might sell his own produce direct to the purchaser for an amount that must be acceptable to him, thereby supplementing the commission sales plan which has been prevalent since the opening of the market.

The tentative regulations are as follows:

1. All City, State and Federal Laws must be observed.
2. The Advisory Committee acts in the capacity of agent for the Florida State Agricultural Marketing Board, and as such a member of the Committee is liable individually or collectively for any loss or damage of any kind caused or incurred to any person, firm or corporation by any of their official acts in governing, regulating, operating, or in the enforcement of rules and regulations of the Market; nor are members responsible in any way, whatsoever, for the transactions or acts of operators, buyers, brokers, or any others operating within the Market property.
3. The Advisory Committee establishes the farming seasonal dates for the operation of the Market. The dates and hours will be left to the discretion of the Manager who will make his suggestions to the Advisory Committee for their approval or rejection.
4. Applicants for stalls on the Market must sign an agreement to abide by all rules and regulations of the Market before the Advisory Committee can approve the application for lease.
5. The season, firm or corporation shall be allowed to operate only one stall on the Market.

any activity, whatsoever, within the Market property without first having received a permit from the Manager. A charge of one and a half dollars ($1.50) a day will be made for permit for any operator, excepting stall operators, buying direct from the farmer. A permit or lease will not be issued until satisfactory evidence of the responsibility of the applicant has been established and approved by the Market Advisory Committee. The Market Manager shall require such information as he deems necessary before issuing a permit or lease, and no space or concession can be used for any purpose other than as specified in the lease.

6. Starting with stall No. 20 and running to the West End of the platform, farmers will be permitted to bring their products, back up their trucks to the platform, display a sample of their products, and have the privilege of selling at private sales. After 4:00 P. M. whatever products are left will be sold at auction, farmers reserving the right to refuse all bids. It is the intention of the Market Management to sell all products in order that a fresh supply will be on the Market each day. Sellers of the above products will be charged a commission of five cents for each package, five cents a dozen for bunch goods, and fifty cents a ton for cabbages in bulk.

7. Persons, firms or corporations desiring to lease stalls on the platform or other property of the Market must first file an application for lease (which form will be given to them by the Manager), accompanied by a true statement of their financial standing. Platform space shall be leased or rented in sections (stalls) 22 ft. in width, starting with No. 2 at the East End of the platform and running in consecutive order to the West End. The rental fee for each stall shall be forty dollars ($40.00) a month in advance, and when rented for the season (October 15th-May 15th) shall be two hundred dollars ($200.00) for the season. All stalls are to be paid for in advance, and when rented for the season (October 15th-May 15th) shall be two hundred dollars ($200.00) for the season. All stalls are to be paid for in advance, and when rented for the season (October 15th-May 15th) shall be two hundred dollars ($200.00) for the season.

Demo Convention Shouts Approval Of 1940 Platform

Promise Is Made That United States Will Not Fight Abroad

CHICAGO STADIUM, July 18.—(AP)—The Democratic national convention shouted quick approval last night of a 1940 platform promising not to send United States armed forces to fight in foreign lands, outside the Americas, "except in case of attack."

Action came after Senator Wagner of New York, platform committee chairman, read the document amid frequent interruptions of cheering and applause. Just before the vote, Representative Ryan of Minnesota, offered an amendment to the platform declaring that no man shall be eligible for a third term for president.

Being drowned out the clerk's voice as he read the anti-third term proposal and then the delegates shouted it down vociferously by a voice vote.

The 4,000-word document, completed after hours of bickering in the resolutions committee had thrown the convention off schedule, also promised that "all the material aid to our command, consistent with law and not inconsistent with the interests of our own national defense" would be extended to "the peace-loving and liberty-loving peoples wretchedly attacked by ruthless aggressors."

Some of its authors said the foreign policy plank would assure a "middle of the road" course in foreign affairs and Senator Wheeler of Montana declared that if adhered to, it would be "no intervention" in foreign wars.

Before it was finally adopted, however, Senator Pepper of Florida had led an unsuccessful fight for a plank pledging "full aid and comfort" for the de-

Pepper Reveals Vice Presidency Choice After Hopkins Talk

CHICAGO, July 18.—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace, secretary of Agriculture and one-time Republican, today emerged as President Roosevelt's choice for the vice-presidential nomination.

Roosevelt probably will accept the Democratic convention's presidential nomination for a third term in a radio address tonight but the White House in Washington said he still was reserving his decision until he receives the official notification.

The convention early this morning broke all precedent and tradition to give Roosevelt 948 of a fraction vote to 148 and a fraction for the other candidates combined.

The convention then made the nomination unanimous by acclamation.

Others who received votes were James A. Farley, Vice President Garner, Senator Millard Tydings of Maryland, Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Speculation over the vice-presidential nominee appeared answered when Senator Pepper of Florida left the hotel room of Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins at noon, shouting "Hi, Wallace." Hopkins had been in touch with Roosevelt by telephone.

It all reached its first climax last night when, after the President's message that he was not a candidate had been relayed to the delegates by Senator Barkley, the convention saw a roaring 50 minute demonstration whose dominant theme was the repeated outcry "We want Roosevelt."

Alabama, first in the roll call of the states, and its Senator, Lister Hill, led the parade.

Wallace Urged As Running Mate For Roosevelt

ter Hill, were chosen to present the President's name so that it might go before the convention at first crack out of the box, and possibly forestall further nominations.

Nevertheless, although Senator Wheeler, Montana, had withdrawn, the backers of Vice President Garner and Postmaster General Farley were determined to fight it out, no matter how loud the beating they obviously were doomed to take.

The platform, approved after a rousing vote within the resolution committee to treat Britain, was whopped through on a roaring vote vote, after its praising references to President Roosevelt had aroused repeated "Amen" demonstrations from the delegates and galleries.

Of the Roosevelt record, it said: "We are proud of our record. Therefore the party in convention assembled, endorse, wholeheartedly, the brilliant and courageous leadership of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his statesmanship and that of the congress for the past seven years, and to our great President and great leader we send our cordial greetings."

Hill took the speaker's platform to say in nominating Mr. Roosevelt that "this is no time for an election, it is time to elect a man for a third term."

Hill was about to put the question on adoption of the platform when Elmer J. Ryan of Minnesota demanded that the convention consider an amendment putting the party on record as opposing a third term.

A great roar of boos and "Amen's" drowned out the voice of the reading clerk as he read the proposed amendment. A voice vote showed a minority far back in the hall backing the Ryan effort, but the "Amen" vote was a great and resounding cheer.

The platform was adopted with another roar and then Barkley ordered that roll call of the states begin for nominating speeches.

"Alabama," the reading clerk sang out.

"Alabama desires to make a nomination," came the prompt response.

Hill took the platform while the delegates, knowing his purpose, gave him a resounding cheer.

"The Alabama delegation places its duty to our country above and beyond all selfish aims," he said. "Our delegation at first desired to place in nomination that illustrious son of Alabama, the temporary chairman of the convention, the speaker of the house."

But, Hill said, this desire was "overwhelmed by the desire shared by the speaker himself to put service to our country above all else."

"Fortunately for us and for our country," Hill shouted, "we have in our party a man with courage beyond all question who came back from a living death to serve his country."

"With such a man in our party there is no choice for us," Hill said. "He alone is strong enough to match the strength of America against the avalanche of hate."

"He can preserve it for us and he will. If war is inevitable he can win it for us and he will."

"If America is to survive we must now give the best that there is in us and in the cause of freedom and law and justice and peace in nomination that valiant American, Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Hill had not spoken all the syllables of Roosevelt's name before the crowd was shouting its approval. The parade was on State standards swung into the lead, with California in the lead. The organ pealed above the din.

All were on their feet, many waving fans and hats in the air. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, and Wallace, among them, swung into line waving huge sheaves of corn. Virginia placards remained in their places but one or the other of all the rest joined in the demonstration.

Arkansas, second on the roll, yielded to Virginia, and Senator

There is no material consideration and no spiritual reason that can draw me from a sick room and halfway across the continent to speak a brief word in this national convention of the great Democratic party," Glass said.

But among these spiritual considerations first of all is the desire to present to the convention the name of an incomparable Democrat who had conducted the affairs of the Democratic party for seven years in a way that no other man within my recollection of 40 years of public service has ever done.

An intense partisan always ready to have his party win battles, he has been the chief of such a type of victory as never before in the history of party considerations.

Glass said he had a feeling of such a type of victory as never before in the history of party considerations.

Hope Given
Somed Babies
By Vitamin K

Infants May
Save Annually
New Discovery

MORGAN M. BEATTY
BALTIMORE, Md., July 18.—(AP)—A mysterious food (vitamin K) and blood booster, Vitamin K, emerging from a vigorous search in Johns Hopkins hospital, may save 50,000 to 60,000 American babies annually.

Now, these infants were born, or died in the first few weeks of life before their circulatory systems began to absorb the anti-bleeding vitamin.

One in 15,000th of an ounce of Vitamin K is required to save a mere speck given to a mother a few days before her child is born, as expressed in Dr. Nicholas Holman, Johns Hopkins obstetrician, who reported the discovery.

Dr. Holman, who is a member of the American Society of Obstetrics, reported that he had discovered that Vitamin K cures for rare hemorrhagic disease of the newborn.

The disease is a blood coagulation defect in which the blood does not clot normally, and without proper clotting, spontaneous bleeding occurs.

Up to May 1, 1945, two big groups, 234 with Vitamin K, 202 without, had been studied, the results tabulated. The ratio of deaths at the time was almost three to one, three non-K babies to every one K baby.

Reporting to the gynecological society, Dr. Eastman says:

"The stillbirth and neonatal (first week of life) mortality figures are as follows: Control (non-K group) 15 deaths, or 4.1 percent mortality; Vitamin K series, 6 deaths, or 1.5 percent mortality. . . . Hemorrhage was demonstrable in autopsy in but one of the six fatal cases in the Vitamin K group. . . . In the control group (non-K), hemorrhage into one or another organ was demonstrable in nine of the 15 autopsies, or in 60 percent. . . ."

Dr. Holman cautions against expecting results in severe hemorrhages.

"I don't think the tentative results ought to be overestimated," he says. "When applied to the census bureau figures, the results in these 776 cases would indicate that five-eighths of the 127,000 neonatal deaths annually—about 80,000—might be saved in the future.

"But all babies are not born under hospital conditions, and there is an infinitesimal chance of a sampling error. It would be wiser to assume a Vitamin K life-saving potential of a little less than half, say 30,000 lives, at least until we have several thousand cases in our series and other institutions have concurred."

For himself, Dr. Holman makes no claim. The pioneer in Vitamin K investigation all over the world got the credit, he says. He wouldn't have been able to proceed without the work of his associate, Dr. L. B. Shetler, who mastered the delicate Smith prothrombin test to measure the clotting power of blood.

Vitamin K was discovered by Dr. Henrik Dam in the University of Copenhagen in 1939. In 1935-36, Dr. H. J. Almquist of the University of California and Dr. Dem. Dietz extracted small quantities of what seemed to be Vitamin K from rotting fish meal and alfalfa which stopped hemorrhages in diet-deficient animals.

Dr. E. A. Doley and L. F. Fieser of St. Louis University and Harvard first announced the chemical formula for pure Vitamin K almost simultaneously last summer, working independently of each other. But it was costly to make.

Later, last year, Dr. Stefan Ansbacher experimented with the little known but cheap chemical discovered and shined as useless in 1921—2-methyl-1,4-naphthoquinone.

That's the material being released by the pure food and drug administration for the general use of physicians.

Nationally known scientists remind you K is not a cure-all for bleeding and won't stop massive hemorrhages. It does not cure hemophilia. Neither will it prevent hemorrhages of a mother in child birth, for such hemorrhages are not due to a deficiency of K.

British Delivered Only Successful Counter Attack In Flanders Battle

LONDON, July 15.—(AP)—The British Expeditionary Force delivered the only successful counter attack of the Flanders campaign and never once failed the French, a senior staff officer of the British Army declared.

The British withdrew from "Plan 17A"—Gen. Maxime Weygand's bold and simple scheme to smash across the German Channel coast salient—only when the German Army overtook the Belgian Army and captured the British port of Dunkirk.

The officer, answering a charge by French Foreign Minister Paul Reynaud that the B. E. F. had done nothing to close the "Ariston" gap in the campaign, meticulously outlined the British part in the fighting.

In an interview he disclosed for the first time the fierce drama played out on the coast of Flanders between the British and German armored divisions and the British divisions except for the Meuse River to the English Channel coast, separating the Belgian and the French 1st Army, of about nine divisions, from the French Army in the south.

He disclosed for the first time Weygand's plan which, had it been successful, might have isolated half of the German Army in the west, or might have held the Germans for "a week or more," but this plan never had a chance, the officer explained.

A series of sinister twists and unexpected disasters turned the Allied armies, commanded by Weygand, from a counter attack and a chance of victory to results leading only to death or to surrender, the escape port of the Allies from the Flanders trap, the officer said.

Two divisions and mechanized cavalry units of the British Army were the only counter-attack force, in the fifteen days between the first large German breakthrough on the Meuse River (May 12) and King Leopold's Belgian capitulation on May 27, declared the British.

He explained that the attack was made at Arras on May 21, without French support, and that the Weygand plan, which had been defeated by the British, had been unfolded the following story:

The attack was to be delivered by five divisions. Two were to be British divisions, the 5th and 50th, which had counter-attacked at Arras. Vicecom. Gen. Gort, commander in chief of the British field forces, despite French protests, declared the divisions would not be "treated and ready" until May 26. Gen. George Maurice Blanchard, who succeeded Gen. Gaston Billotte as Allied co-ordinator, and Gen. Weygand, wanted the attack to take place on the twenty-fifth but gave in to the B. E. F.'s commander. Three French divisions were drawn from the French 1st Army on the night of the B. E. F. which had been defeated by the Germans at Namur and had fallen back toward the coast. Badly mauled, it had been reforming on the British right since May 19. On May 21 and 24 units of this army had made isolated local attacks southward toward Cambrai along the edges of the gap but with little success.

Munitions Nearly Exhausted

The B. E. F. had at this point "about 100 rounds" of ammunition for each field gun. This and a scarcity of small arms bullets made the situation grave.

As Hope soared in the British and French staffs on May 25, the day before the attack, the situation was "gravely complicated" by the gradual disintegration of the Belgian Army, which was guarding the left flank of the B. E. F.

This force had fallen back to the River Lys. Under German pressure it was shoved, not backward to the expected line stretching northwest to the coast, but northeast onto the Dutch frontier.

On May 25 Vicecom. Gort sent his only reserve, one brigade to reinforce the Belgians. All nine British divisions were in line. The situation grew worse the next day. The Germans hit the Belgians, who lacked both ammunition and food, hard.

Vicecom. Gort, for a day in the night, had been holding the line, which he had to do because of the withdrawal of the Belgian Army to the coast.

Weygand planned on a possible collapse of the Belgians and the subsequent German encirclement of his own army, made his decision to attack on May 26, as the general contemplated the abandonment of the plan "that might have saved the army, a move which would have brought news of the British Expeditionary Force to the front."

Blanchard of his decision, and his staff were ordered to the coast.

Weygand's plan, which was made known to the British, was that at 11 o'clock on May 26, as the general contemplated the abandonment of the plan "that might have saved the army, a move which would have brought news of the British Expeditionary Force to the front."

Howington Throws Four Hitter Against DeLand To Win, 2-0

Victory Breaks Five Game Losing Streak Run Up By Seminole Team

Sanford Continues To Hold Lead Of Six And One Half Games As Daytona Wins; Hudson Pitches At DeLand Tonight

Although they collected only one hit and had ten men left on base, the Sanford Seminoles snapped back into the win column with a 2-0 decision over DeLand at Municipal Ball Park last night. Jodie Howington turned in an excellent pitching performance, limiting the Red Hots to four hits.

Sanford's first victory after five straight losses.

Tonight Sanford goes to DeLand with Frank Hudson scheduled to hurl for Manager White Campbell's charges.

Second place Daytona Beach set this year's record for consecutive wins by turning back St. Augustine, 2-1, last night for their ninth win in a row, which leaves Sanford's first place margin at six and one-half games.

Jodie Howington was in trouble only twice as he held command of the situation all the way. In the second inning, he walked Eddie and Herring, and in the eighth he was forced to second by Campbell. Campbell stole second on a passed ball, third by Eddie, and then romped home on Red Roberts' single to enter.

The other run came in the fifth when Walter Kasper walked, went to second on a passed ball, third by Roberts' long fly, and then scored when Andy Johnson pushed a hard drive out of the batter's box into center field.

Louis Bertracis tightened while catching but nine runners. Pierce saw Ed Baker stolen out of first, while Jackson, now recovering from an operation, caught two of the nine runners stealing off him.

Of course, not all of the relief was on the catcher. Much of it was on the pitcher. Howington, in his first start since the second sack or shortstop. But the man behind the plate, with the aid of his catcher, was fully aware that plenty of responsibility rests on him, can share most of the load.

How did the league's leading catchers, "Red" Ryder of Sanford, fare against the catcher? Well, one third of the bases he nabbed during the first half were off the Leeburg receiver.

Ryder stole six out of seven from Walker, five out of six from Pierce, and sniped two sacks off Jackson who has yet to catch him. Ryder also copped five sacks from Oria, who nabbed him once, three out of five from Wolff, three out of four from Goff of St. Augustine, two out of two from Mobley of St. Augustine, three from Ralstonberg of DeLand, one off Garlis, five off Armstrong of Daytona, and one off Priest of Gainesville.

Ryder sniped but once against Schiro and was thrown out a foul tip by him, while the other catcher, Alabama Smith of Ocala, nabbed neither Schiro nor Smith save in the speedy Georgian.

Here's how the catchers fared during the first half, with the first figure showing number of bases stolen and the second figure the number of men caught:

Catcher	Stolen	Caught
Schiro, Ocala	21	21
Garlis, DeLand	22	21
Kimberl, Sanford	27	23
Oria, Ocala	35	29
Ralstonberg, DeLand	22	19

What has happened in our Sanford Seminoles' five straight losses is a feat that has been setting a blistering pace in the Florida State league as Sanford has, come under the heading of a "major upset." Upsetting it is at least by comparison Sanford has been riding on the crest of a ten game lead or more for the greater part of the season. Now the lead has narrowed to a scant six and one-half games.

Before we become too alarmed let us remember that the Boston Red Sox blasted the New York Yankees, then the invincible Yankees, in five straight games last year. This columnist will not forget that series in a hurry as he was without pocket money for a week's infatuation. But the "slump" is one of those unfathomable things like Florida weather, Algebra, and women, that cannot be figured out. The general cause for a team slump is when all the players fall off in their hitting or pitching at once. In Sanford's case, it seems to be the hitting that is causing Manager Whitey Campbell's crew to fall faster than Paycheck against Louis.

Another factor that must be considered is that Jack Russell, a catcher by trade and choice, has been dumped in at third base which is equivalent to moving a big tackle into the half back slot. Jack has been in there hustling and crapping as much as any player on the club, but he just doesn't feel natural down on the hot corner and it is not fair to him to judge his ball playing ability until he gets behind the bat.

There is no denying that the absence of Manager Whitey Campbell, as noted here, hurt the club. Whitey is a smooth fielder, an accomplished pivot man on double plays, and makes good ball playing by his master. Whitey recovered himself from the slump to make room for another pitcher which was thought necessary.

Armstrong Halts Jenkins Victory March In Sixth

NEW YORK, July 18.—(AP)—Henry Armstrong, the perpetual motion battler from Los Angeles, halted the victory march of Lew Jenkins, the Texas knockout artist, last night by beating Lew into such bloody helplessness that Referee Arthur Donovan stopped the bout at the end of the sixth round.

Lightweight Champion Jenkins almost fell off his stool in his corner as Donovan intervened. Lew Jenkins, the welterweight champion, had floored blood-annealed Jenkins six times during the scheduled 12 round bout.

Although no title was at stake last night at the Polo Grounds because of a weight agreement, Armstrong, at 27 1/2 years old, smashed his way to greater glory by registering the technical knockout, which was announced from the ring officially as coming in the sixth round, since the bell had not rung for the seventh.

Jenkins, after being floored three times in the sixth session, staggered to his corner, lurched down upon his stool and turned his bloody face up to his seconds for sponging.

Manager Hymie Caplin threw a sponge of cold water into his face and Jenkins began to slump sideways from the stool.

The Texas youngster of 23, who wrestled the lightweight title from Lou Ambers in May and who was working on a string of eight straight knockouts, was through for the evening.

In registering this kavo before a crowd estimated at 25,000, Armstrong weathered a terrific barrage of stunning hooks in the first and second rounds, which were won by the rangy Texan. Again in the electrifying fifth Jenkins rallied from groggyland to smash away at the next's head until he was bleeding from gashes above both brows.

Pete Schiro, Ocala, and Garlis Of DeLand Have Deadly Throwing Arms

Pete Schiro, hunky Ocala catcher, had the heaviest throwing arm in the league. His 40 mph. ball, which he threw the first half of 1939 season, or through games of June 25, is revealed in official figures released by Peter Schiro's statistician.

Schiro, who carries one half of the 65 men who are all in search of another base were caught lodging by the big Tampa ace in his second year of service in the league.

Fifty-four bases were stolen off Schiro and his hurlers, but he caught more men stealing than did any other receiver in the league.

Leo Garlis, DeLand catcher who just moved up to Chattanooga, was second to Schiro in effectiveness he having caught 31 men while nabbing 21 stolen bases.

As a matter of fact, however, the catching department records reveal that outside of Schiro and Garlis the league's more daring base-stealers had little trouble getting across in the first half.

Take the veteran Mamie Oria of Ocala, for instance. Runner-catcher for second or third position last year, he had 110 stolen bases and one-half chance to get across in the second half.

The odds were there to one that he would reach base safely if he had a catcher as good as Schiro.

And who else comes out of Eddie Walker of Leesburg, who had a chance to get across in the second half. He had three chances to get across in the second half. He had three chances to get across in the second half.

Med Sanctions Invited Italy To Hitler's Chariot

Opposition Over Ethio- pian Wielded Rift In Axis Powers

By Associated Press
Italy's entrance into the war fulfilled several years of belated promises from Premier Benito Mussolini to support with prompt aid partner in the German-Berlin axis—Chancellor Adolf Hitler.
This axis, in which many have seen Mussolini as playing a service role to the larger and stronger Germany, had its roots in the German-Italian friendship based in similar aims starting in 1934.
After a strong start this friendship broke over German intransigence in Austria in 1934 and was not mended until near the end of 1935, when Italy came to Germany again, because England and France opposed Mussolini's ambitions in Ethiopia.
Since then, the axis—which was named by Mussolini in 1936—has grown steadily stronger, progressing from a working agreement into a full military and political alliance.
Following is the year-by-year program of the evolution of the Rome-Berlin axis:
1933
Mussolini, a dictator of eleven years standing, saw Hitler, another dictator, come into power. Both were ambitious leaders of poor nations. Both were enemies of the status quo in Europe. Both wanted revision of the Treaty of Versailles—Hitler, because it forbade German rearmament; Mussolini, because he felt Italy had not been given enough spoils as an ally of the World War victors.

Both thought that democracy was a cumbersome and inefficient form of government, but the aims of both were opposed by the strong democracies—England and France. Here were elements breeding sympathy between the two countries and at this early time, France saw danger of an Anglo-German alliance. But, while Italy and Germany courted each other, they had differences, too. Italians complained that Germany discriminated against Italian trade, and Mussolini did not like German ambitions in Austria, just to his north.
In the first half of this year, the nascent Rome-Berlin axis—not yet called by that term—began to shape itself. On June 14, Hitler visited Mussolini in Venice and two days later Rome announced their agreement; Hitler promised a free and independent Austria, and Mussolini agreed to use influence with the League of Nations in the interests of German rearmament. Germany had withdrawn from the League the previous year.
But in July this good feeling was blighted and the two nations became almost enemies. Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, of Austria, was assassinated and Italy felt that Hitler's interference there had been to blame. Mussolini canceled a scheduled return visit to Hitler in Germany and told France he had given up his wish to see the Treaty of Versailles revised.
Near-invisible disturbances continued in Austria and the Italian press became so bitter against Germany that Italian newspaper men were nearly expelled from Germany.
1936
Italian-German relations continued drifting apart and France took advantage of this. An Italian-French pact of friendship was concluded in January. In March Hitler announced compulsory military training in Germany. Alarmed by this, Mussolini promoted the Brown front of Italian-French-Berlin opposition to the German rearmament. Then Mussolini began his conquest of Ethiopia which angered Britain and France, caused the application of economic sanctions against Italy and threw Mussolini back into the arms of Hitler, where he has been ever since.

1936
Hitler endeavored himself to Mussolini by approving the Ethiopian conquest and as a material contribution to it. In March he marched German troops into the demilitarized Rhineland on March 7, just when Britain was seeking to add oil to the list of sanctions. Hitler's act caused France to waver on supporting oil sanctions or any further opposition to the Ethiopian conquest which Italy successfully terminated early in 1937.
1937
Germany recognized the Ethiopian victory and Mussolini's new Italian empire. In July, Hitler assured Mussolini again that he had no designs on Austria and in October Rome announced that Italy and Germany had agreed to work together to promote peace and the reconstruction of Europe. The anti-Communist pact of the agreement was stressed. That summer the Spanish revolution started and before the year was out, Italy and Germany were acting in concert to aid the so-called Fascist side, under Generalissimo Franco.
1937
The Spanish situation continued. Hitler and Mussolini defying the demarcation by aiding France. On Sept. 25, Mussolini visited Hitler in Munich. The dinner reviewed the dinner described this axis as a bloc for large nations of "good will" to solve Europe's problems. They implied that the chief problem was the hunger of Italy and Germany for more land.
1938
Mussolini predicted that Europe of tomorrow would be Fascist and after he got back to Italy he demanded publicly that Germany give the colonies lost in the World War.
1938
In February Hitler dictated to Austria a cabinet reorganization with Nazis in key posts. Mussolini, who once had threatened to send troops into Austria if Hitler tried to invade, then looked the other way in March when Hitler annexed Austria. Hitler wired Hitler in Duce's office and said "I shall never forget this" and awarded him the Bruneri name in Italy's northern regions and far as Germany wanted to go in that direction, Mussolini accepted this while England and France tried to woo him back to their orbit by playing on his silent fear that he soon would be the very junior partner under the thumb of a growing Germany.

Through that summer Hitler prepared to bring the Czech question to a head. Mussolini was his master of ceremonies on Sept. 22 at the memorable Munich conference at which the democracies appeared Hitler with the fateful areas for his promise that he was through extending. A few hours earlier Mussolini was credited with persuading Hitler to delay general mobilization to settle the Czech question by force.
Previously, Hitler visited Munich again in Rome in May at which mutual pledges in support of aims were exchanged. After Munich, Mussolini tore up the Franco-Italian pact of 1935 and began to agitate for Italian possession of the French territories of Tunisia, Morocco and Corsica. Hitler supported these Italian demands.
Mussolini's speech that Germany would fight with Italy in any war, in March, German troops marched into the rest of Czechoslovakia and Mussolini publicly approved the move. In April, Mussolini annexed Albania and received Hitler's congratulations.
A series of conferences opened between German and Italian military chiefs and on May 23 Italy and Germany announced that their axis had been converted into a full military and political alliance. With their anti-Communist friends, including Japan, Spain and Hungary, they warned the democracies they had 300,000,000 people supporting the axis. They scorned any possibility of English meddling in the Polish question, which now was reaching the crisis that started the present war.
As soon as Germany and the Allies actually started war, Italy vowed to stay out and Mussolini issued a message saying that Germany could handle the job alone.
Periodically, Fascist spokesmen directed by Mussolini affirmed Italy's loyalty to the axis government but there was some question that Mussolini—the arch realist—was preparing an alibi. On Dec. 16, his son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, the Foreign Minister, said in a speech that Italy had warned Germany not to start a war because it could not be localized and that Italy had no intention of entering a general war.
Until May 10, there were few military stirrings from Italy and observers saw Mussolini still straddling his fence of realism and waiting to see how the wind blew, despite a personal meeting with Hitler at the Brenne Pass on March 18 and despite war invitations and visits from Nazi missions. However, since May 10 when the Nazi drive on the western front began, Italy prepared for war at a rapid pace and found occasion to issue early statements justifying Germany and deprecating the democracies.

Citrus and other fruits and vegetables and second fruit and vegetables are not constantly limited.
Presiding at the session was President George L. Fullerton, Jr. of New Smyrna who called a meeting of the executive committee last night to arrange the program for today's session which was attended by more than 100 growers from the citrus producing counties of the state.
The directors were welcomed to Sanford by Edward Higgins, secretary of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Walter S. Coleman who presented the key to the city to President Fullerton.
A motion to name Orlando or some other city centrally located to the citrus belt as a permanent meeting place for the growers was tabled, but not before Sanford, Hialeah City and Orlando had made strong bids for the designation.
It was argued that the selection of either in rotation sent the meeting out of the center of the belt at times and inflicted hardships on growers living in the so-called "fringe" areas. However, Hal Lewis, membership chairman from Magna Dora, told the meeting that it was necessary to rotate the meetings in order to keep interest alive in the smaller counties.
Robert Moore of Lake County talked about the citrus institute scheduled for Camp McQuarrie on the latter part of August, urging individuals to attend the sessions. It was suggested that each county president select representative growers to attend the school and pass along the advice and instruction that is handed out by the citrus experts.
Seminole, the host county, had the largest attendance at today's session, other counties represented included Brevard, Hendes, Hillsborough, Lake, Marion, Orange, Osceola, Polk, Pinellas, Polk, St. Lucie and Volusia.

sporadic German air attacks and announced the loss of an auxiliary naval vessel.
Great numbers of men from the United States are seeking to enlist in the U. S. F., an auxiliary native source reported. These volunteers "gradually may be formed into flights and eventually into squadrons of Americans," the source said.
At least one woman was killed and two persons were injured in a bombing by German planes on the southeast coast, interrupted by a large number of British fighters.
In another part of the southeast England a sixteen bomb of the kind intended to spread terror smashed three houses and killed a 1-year-old girl.
Last night's air ministry communique, however, minimized the casualties and damage in the southeast, saying four houses were wrecked and a very few persons killed. It said other bombs were dropped near a town in Scotland.

The naval auxiliary boat was the 13,341-ton Vandryck, formerly a 600-passenger liner of the Lanport and Holt company, which was sunk by bombs off the Norwegian coast June 10.

ADOLF HITLER APPEALS TO REASON?

Roosevelt Accepts 3rd Term Nomination

President Declares He Cannot Turn His Back On Call To Service In Radio Talk

Wallace Named Running Mate

Executive States He Will Be Able To Do Little Campaigning

CHICAGO, July 19. (AP)—President Roosevelt, deciding that in a time of "public danger," he could not turn his back upon a call to service, accepted the third term nomination from the Democratic convention which amid boos and cheers chose Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace for his running mate.

While fully 20,000 persons sat in the midnight hush in the Chicago stadium, the President told them by radio from the White House that "only the people themselves can draft a president." He added "if such a draft is made upon me, I may be the chosen candidate."

But he explained, as Mrs. Roosevelt had done to the convention an hour earlier, that times were so fraught with danger that he would be able to do little campaigning.

Wallace was Roosevelt's choice for vice president on the 1940 ticket in the world-wide election.

Speaker William Bankhead of Alabama got 329 and Paul McNutt of Indiana, despite a plea that Roosevelt's wishes be followed, received 66 and a fraction.

Ten others received the rest of the votes before Wallace's nomination was declared unanimous despite the many objections.

After the President's address, the convention adjourned.

He predicted the acceptance in the world-wide election from across the seas.

Roosevelt asserted that he had made plans for a private life of his own choice to begin next January, and the conclusion of his second term.

"These plans, like so many other plans," he said, "had been made in a world which now seems so distant and unobtainable."

Today, all private plans, all private lives have been replaced by an ever-rising public danger, in the face of which duty demands that he should be of service to the public have no choice but to offer themselves for service in these exceptional times which they may be faced.

"There are the reasons why I have had to submit to myself, and now to this to you, that my nomination will be for a third term."

At a dinner in the White House last night, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, who was named for the vice presidency in a unanimous vote, was introduced by President Roosevelt.

Wallace, 54, and Roosevelt, 61, were introduced by President Roosevelt.

Hull Leaves For Inter-American Talk At Havana

Countries Will Discuss Co-Operation And Fifth Column

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(AP)—Secretary Hull left for Havana yesterday with a prediction that the 21 republics at the emergency inter-American conference would delay realistically with hemisphere problems arising from the European war.

The secretary of state, accompanied by 15 aides, took with him guarded proposals for joint international action on a scale unprecedented in the new world.

A carefully-worded statement indicated that such problems as the status of American colonies of invaded France and the Netherlands, fifth column activity, and co-operation to assure the political and economic security of the hemisphere would be discussed.

"The American republics approach their task in a spirit of complete friendliness toward all nations concentrating their efforts on the status of American colonies of invaded France and the Netherlands, fifth column activity, and co-operation to assure the political and economic security of the hemisphere would be discussed."

By "complete exchange of information," Hull said, "the conference will be preliminary to the signing of a declaration of principles and a declaration of intent."

There was a hint that the speaker might be expected to announce only preliminary arrangements rather than positive commitments.

British, Nazi Airmen Clash Over Straits

Fast Italian Cruiser Sunk Off Crete In Fight With British, Admiralty Reports

By Associated Press

British planes clashed with Nazi raiders in a fiery battle over the Straits of Dover this afternoon when German bombers swooped down on a British destroyer on patrol.

The warship reportedly emerged unscathed, despite repeated salvos of bombs which spotted 40 feet of water on all sides. One German plane was shot down and eye-witnesses said that four others plunged into the sea in flames.

Other Nazi air raids struck at three sections of England and in north and south, and in southwest Scotland, inflicting "considerable damage."

In lightening the struggle for control of the Mediterranean—Britain's lifeline to the Far East—the 6,500-ton Australian cruiser "Sydney" and a small destroyer escort engaged two Italian cruisers in a battle off the Green Isle of Crete this morning, and sank one of the Italian warships.

The second Italian cruiser fled, the British Admiralty reported, with the Antae cruiser in hot pursuit.

The sunken craft was the 5,000-ton light cruiser Bartolomeo Colonna, one of the fastest warships in the world, armed with eight 6-inch guns and carrying a normal crew of 600 men. It was Italy's first cruiser loss in the war.

The British destroyer rescued 250 survivors.

The German army, it was said, is preparing for a formal execution of the terms of the armistice on non-combatants shooting at Nazi soldiers.

Volie Williams Sworn In As U.S. Academy Cadet

Volie A. Williams, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Volie A. Williams, of Sanford, Fla., was sworn in as a cadet in the United States Military Academy here on July 1, has been assigned to 2nd Company, New Cadet Class, by Brigadier General Jay L. Benedict, superintendent. He is one of a group of 562 new cadets who have just been enrolled in the 1941 class, according to information received today.

For the next four weeks, Cadet Williams and his classmates will receive an intensive course of instruction in military subjects designed to fit them for formal entrance into the Corps of Cadets.

On July 30th, the class will be absorbed into the Corps and will participate with the upper classes in routine activities, including the impressive parades for which the Military Academy is so famous.

During the month of August, the entire Corps, less the second class, which is on furlough, will be encamped in the tent camp in Fort Clinton.

The last week in August will again be devoted to a dismounted practice march through the mountains southwest of West Point.

The New Cadets will be requested to live in shelter tents during this period, and will receive their initiation to meals served from the Army rolling kitchen.

September 1st will see the entire Corps commencing its academic work for the year, having moved into barracks upon the return from the practice march.

Classes will be held from 8:00 A. M. to 3:00 P. M., with an hour's intermission for lunch. Drills and compulsory intramural athletics will take up another hour in the afternoon.

The new class will be divided into sections of from ten to fourteen men for the academic work in conformity to the Military Academy system of instruction, and each section will be required to recite in each subject every day.

Amendment For National Citrus Proration Discussed By Growers

The pros and cons of national proration for citrus fruit shipments were discussed in detail at the afternoon session of the directors of the Florida Citrus Growers, Inc., and resulted in the group taking the matter under advisement for definite action in the near future.

The discussion was introduced by Henry Frings of Lake Wales, grower member of the citrus marketing agreement committee, who cited the amendment's provisions, while E. F. DeBusk of Gainesville, State agricultural, outlined in detail the advantages and disadvantages of such a program.

The proposal calls for an act of Congress amending the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, to provide for citrus fruit marketing quotas, in the same manner as cotton, rice and other commodities are now controlled, that quotas will be allotted by the Secretary of Agriculture, only with the approval of two-thirds of the growers, representing at least the same proportion of the national citrus acreage, who might cast ballots in referendum which are provided for.

The bill has not been introduced, but is now going the rounds of the citrus industry in the country to determine possible reaction.

President George I. Fullerton, Jr., of New Smyrna Beach, said that the responsibility of industry leadership "is on our shoulders" and urged that the organization recognize that responsibility.

To make it more or less unanimous, Art Lewis of Ocala, chairman of the State membership committee, charged that several of the county units, as well as the State directors were "lilly-livered" in carrying out their responsibility of building the organization.

There were several other matters discussed during the session, but the principal theme was the need for action—instead of "lip service"—in bringing about a spirit of cooperation in the industry.

W. L. Burton, of Orlando, executive secretary of the growers' organization, pleaded for a return to "the fundamental principles upon which this group was founded—democratic action, concerted action of all instead of delegation of power to a selected few."

The issues of the coming year will demand the full support of a coordinated organization to put "over" the war.

Walter H. of Orlando, in his talk to the growers said that a "small group of Orange County growers" is ready to "take talks" and do something about it to help farmers keep down their fixed charges and thus have more income for the retirement of debt principal, or to meet necessary operating and living expenses. Governor Black said.

The mitigate purpose of the reduced interest rate on land bank and Commissioner loans is to help farmers keep down their fixed charges and thus have more income for the retirement of debt principal, or to meet necessary operating and living expenses. Governor Black said.

Fuehrer Says World Empire To Be Ended If English Continue To Resist

BERLIN, July 19. (AP) Adolf Hitler, speaking before the Reichstag, tonight addressed "one more appeal to reason in England" and warned that "a world empire would be destroyed if England insists on continuing the war."

He declared he is not asking peace in the voice of a victor demanding capitulation of a vanquished but rather as a victor proposing a reasonable peace.

He said "British statesmen apparently have no conception of the destruction which would be visited on England if Prime Minister Churchill continues to demand a fight to the finish."

"But one thing is sure," he exclaimed. "No Churchill will be left to attempt the rehabilitation of Britain."

"People left behind in London" after the great attack, he said, would have ideas entirely different from those of Churchill and his colleagues.

Hitler said England had tried to stir up trouble between Russia and Germany but he declared that Russo-German relations have been "fixed once and for all by a clear delimitation of interests."

Conditions imposed at Versailles after the first World War, he asserted again tonight, were impossible since they prepared the annihilation of the German state.

"The program of the National Socialist movement, proclaimed to the world our determination to shake off the shackles of this treaty."

Germany was pleased, he said, that no war resulted from the early steps to revise the treaty conditions. He recalled "peaceful negotiations" were held and blamed them for causing the war which finally followed.

The conflict might have been averted when Mussolini made a proposal for peaceful negotiations. "It was only the British warmongers who wanted war," he declared.

Then he reviewed step by step the events which followed and held that Germany's invasion of the Scandinavian countries, Poland and France, he said, was "abused" as toward Russia, since these peace proposals. He shouted that "this capitalist clique of warmongers with a personal stake in war" caused the conflict to continue.

He paid high tribute to the German soldiers, airmen and seamen for their victories in all parts of the war area and the huge crowd cheered him repeatedly.

He said the strategy of the Allies in the low countries and France had made the German attack easier than expected. He said the fall of Paris had not been planned originally but he declared that the surrender of the French army was the only thing that could be done because its position was "untenable."

Then he praised those who stayed at home and made it possible for German armed forces to win such victories.

Churchill, he said, may think that Germany faces defeat and destruction in the battle ahead but "I know it will be England." He insisted that the terrible sorrow that has come to fallen France need not have taken place as he offered France peace before the battle but his offer was rejected. (Continued on Page Two)
