

Before Aachen fell to American forces, more than 300,000 105-mm shells in addition to other ammunition were poured into the city.

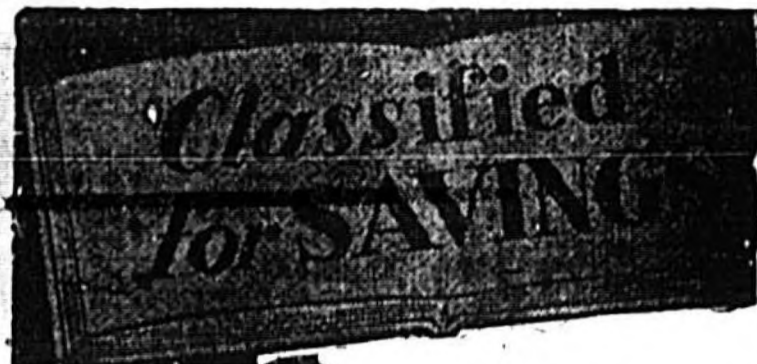

A year before Gen. Douglas MacArthur invaded the Philippines, his forces were fighting in New Guinea, almost 1,600 miles from those islands.

People's Army At Frankfurt Called a 'Farce'

All At Defense Rally 4 Days Before City's Fall Were Drunk

FRANKFURT AM MAIN, Apr. 6. (AP)—All the trumpeting of Adolf Hitler's propagandists that the German people must fight gloriously and to the last found no converts among the civilians here.

As the full story of Frankfurt's fall is pieced together, it seems clear, if this city is any evidence, that the "twilight of the gods," ending which Hitler envisaged as essential to the honor of Germany, is as remote as the Volkstrau (Home Army)

In this town, according to the admission of at least twenty Germans this reporter has talked to, was a farce. One German, Eric Mueller, a former propagandist for "The Frankfurter Zeitung," told how on the Saturday four days before the American-led Allied meeting of the Volksstrafe Everybody Was Drunk. "When I got there," he said, "everybody was drunk. I couldn't get any sense out of anybody. So I just gave up trying and took my wife and child out of town and returned as soon as I learned the Americans were here. That was late Thursday."

It is unquestionable that the docility and almost embarrassing eagerness to co-operate that has been found here must not be taken as indicative of the mood of all Germans. For the people who stayed here—there are more than 150,000 left—defied orders by remaining behind, and obviously were not closely bound by Nazi discipline.

A week ago, when the final Nazi orders to evacuate the town were proclaimed, there were some 285,000 people here. Thus less than half obeyed the orders to leave.

The Germans here are co-operative to the point where they do not need to be asked to do things, but volunteer instead. For instance, a policeman says he was not a Nazi—showed up at military government headquarters, yesterday and reported that five explosive charges had been laid in the city.

He offered to take some Germans down and see that the charges were rendered harmless. If the military would grant permission, permission was granted and the job was done.

Burgmeister Is Named
Within a day after its arrival in Frankfurt the military government staff, under Lieutenant Colonel Howard D. Crisswell, of Washington, was able to appoint an acting burgmeister and an advisory council of eight people to inform American Army officials about key factors in the administration of the town.

Crisswell emphasized, the German group, a solely advisory in capacity, will be set up to facilitate the work of the military government. The burgmeister, it is felt, must be of age and a former member of the town council.

The council includes the town and district judges of the town, a mayor, a clerk, a treasurer, a secretary of public and social Democratic parties and several business men including one connected with the I. G. Farben chemical industry. These men have been working some fourteen hours a day to help the Americans.

The average Germans in this town have been bewildered by the tactics of the Allies, are wondering about the general turn of events that they wonder about dazed and helpless. They are in a state of suspended animation, waiting. But for what they do not know.

Satirists seem completely absent from their thoughts, and as "can be determined, little or no organized sabotage by civilians was attempted before the Americans came.

When this reporter asked an elderly man now serving as an interpreter for the military government why the Germans had not followed the example of Russia,

George E. Whitten, of Miami, newly-elected president of the Orange Bowl Committee, is the second native-Floridian to head the group. Whitten is president of Burdine's Department Stores.

7 Vice Presidents Are Re-elected To Push Orange Bowl

MIAMI, Apr. 6. (Special)—Re-election of seven regional vice-presidents of Florida's Orange Bowl committee, and the addition of T. T. Scott of Live Oak as a state director, has been announced here by George E. Whitten, president of the organization, which puts on the big post-season football show here every New Year's.

Malcolm McCrory of Jacksonville, Thomas W. Bryant of Lakeland, Jack T. Branham of Orlando, W. A. Shands of Gainesville, George E. Edmondson of Tampa, Major Philip D. O'Connell of Fort Myers and Edward I. Holland of Bartow, were all re-elected regional vice-presidents and state directors for one-year terms.

A list of acceptance from Whitten's office to become a member of the committee.

Whitten was recently chosen president of the Committee to succeed Van C. Kinstrow, R. D. Freeman, John G. Thompson, and James E. Fussell were chosen as vice-presidents. S. Grover Marston, secretary, and H. Blake Oliver as treasurer.

President of Burdine's department stores, Whitten is the second native Floridian to serve as Orange Bowl chairman. F. H. (Doc) Hartman, present chairman of the Florida State Racing Commission, was the first. Whitten was born in Palatka and was brought to Miami by his parents in 1902 at the age of seven. He began work for Burdine's while still a student at Miami High.

Following a business course at John B. Stetson University, he returned to Burdine's.

He was working in the men's department on April 6, 1917, when war was declared, and enlisted in the Navy the next day. He was in the service 22 months, much of the time being spent as supply officer with the rank of lieutenant, junior grade, on ships carrying Army cargoes to France.

Whitten returned to Burdine's March 1, 1919, as a buyer for the shoe departments. Three years later he became merchandise manager, and then vice president and general manager for more than 15 years.

Active in civic work, he served the last two years as chairman of the important Orange Bowl entertainment committee.

His wife, Mrs. Whitten, is a widow, where even old men and children fought successfully, he said: "But the Russians had their home and something to fight for. We have nothing."

RURAL COMMON SENSE By Spuds Johnson

FARMERS WILL DO WELL TO THINK OF POST-WAR HOPES AND OBJECTIVES

Their one great job is to produce as much food and other war-crops as they can to hasten the day of victory. But it is needless as well as fitting that Florida farmers give some thought to their hopes and possibilities after the war.

Thoughts about a more comfortable home, about greater efficiency in production, higher quality crops, and about more of the good things of life tend to inspire one to greater achievement now and to later efforts to make life and work brighter and more satisfying.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard recently brought out some pertinent ideas on post-war agriculture. "The time has arrived," he said, "when we must be thinking of the years which will come after the end of this terrible conflict."

Millions of farm people want better homes and equipment, better chances for their children, greater security, better health and an opportunity to have a little fun more regularly than they have been accustomed to in the past. Better incomes, Mr. Wickard explained, are necessary for realizing these things.

Better income depends on efficient production of high quality crops, on conservation of the soil, and in good markets, domestic and foreign, from which the farmer will receive an equitable and profitable return for his products.

The farmer must concern himself with all of these things so he can operate his farm accordingly and so he can take his own right and dutiful part in shaping the scheme of things.

The Secretary also emphasized the relationship of agricultural progress and welfare to the condition of industry and the city, pointing out that full employment at good wages is necessary for a good market for the farmer's crops.

American consumers have shown ever since the war began and employment and wages began rising that they can consume much more of the farmer's produce if they have money than in times of unemployment and financial stress. This, Mr. Wickard explained, offers the farmer an opportunity for continued high production and good returns—if such a situation is maintained.

There will be many problems after the war, as there always have been, but the farmer can do something about them, can help himself, and the Nation to greater security and more satisfying life if he will think about them and strive to proceed in a way which will benefit himself and others.

Yanks Suffer Reverses On Okinawa Hill

Greatest Artillery Battle Of Pacific War Indicated As Japs Show Fight

(By Associated Press) The greatest artillery battle of the Pacific war is indicated as American infantrymen on southern Okinawa Island bucked suddenly powerful Japanese defenses backed by an unprecedented concentration of Nipponese field guns.

Strong pillboxes and block-houses limited the southward push to yards of the Japanese counter-attack drove the Americans from one dominating hill on southern Okinawa. However elsewhere, the Marines pushed two to three miles northward toward Kadena Harbor.

In the Philippines, 6,495 more Nipponese dead were counted, increasing the Japanese losses in that campaign to 311,951. Thirty-two more Nipponese ships were sunk in a bomber blockade off the China coast. Tokyo claimed more than 250 American warships sunk or damaged since the Okinawa invasion on May 1. Superfortresses struck Kanoya near the southern tip of Japan.

The appointments of Hironobu Hirayama as assistant director of the Navy Council and Shigenori Togo as foreign minister and minister for East Asia affairs, was announced by the Tokyo radio. Both appointments are part of a campaign by the new premier Suzuki to strengthen the Japanese administration in the face of a "momentous crisis."

Important Issues Seen This Week In Legislature

TALLAHASSEE, Apr. 9, (AP)—The Florida legislature enters its second week of session today as it winds up legislation affecting schools and then tackle administration-sponsored oil control and water conservation measures.

Scheduled for action by the house is a bill to add an extra penny to the three-cent a pack cigarette tax, with the senate expected to mull over a proposal to set up a state liquor stores system to provide an annual take of an estimated $9,000,000.

Two controversial issues, one to make the University of Florida co-educational, the other to lower state voting age to 18, also may be in the week's spotlight.

Legislation to increase state aid to schools by some $4,000,000 needs only senate approval before it goes to the governor for his signature. The house passed it unanimously last week.

A senate committee amendment, limiting the school bill's life to two years, may deter its progress in the upper chamber, but its passage is predicted by Tuesday by senate leaders.

On the other hand, Gov. Millard Caldwell's bill to regulate Florida's infant petroleum industry, including a five-cent a barrel production tax, may run into a snag unless adequate provisions are outlined to prevent damage to coastal protection.

Caldwell said, however, that he had given this question particular attention in his proposed law as a result of a flood of protests along Florida beaches would destroy the state's $100,000,000 tourist industry.

A bill that would create a department of water resources to protect an already dwindling fresh water supply is expected to be introduced and passed without much opposition in both houses.

Two completely different bills proposing to create a state public agency to advertise Florida to the nation are also ready for a thorough airing over the next few days.

The house, which will reconvene at 9:00 P. M. two hours earlier than the senate, is expected to resume debate on the bill to put in final form in the same legislative session as the truck license measure. It will merely assure frontiers 90-day seasons, but opponents say it would set up a dead-end monopoly for one set of operators.

Rotary Club Buys Half Inch Rain $9,921.25 Worth Of Falls In Sanford 7th War Bonds During Weekend

Forty-four of the 7th War Loan bonds totaling $9,921.25 in value were sold to members of the Rotary Club today in a 100% subscription to the 7th War Loan Drive, made at the regular weekly luncheon of the club at the Mayfair Hotel.

Mr. Speer called attention to the importance of the 7th War Loan drive and urged every member in the club to subscribe to at least one bond. Following his remarks, H. J. Lehman, who was presiding in the absence of President Roy Holler, asked for the support of individual members and the Rotary Club became the first organization in Sanford to subscribe 100 percent.

The program today was under the direction of George Touby who showed a motion picture "Thru" the courtesy of General Motors showing a molecule of trucks, trailers, and automobiles following the "Great Silk Route" for 20,000 miles from Paris to centers of Oriental trade in China and India.

"They were all tough," he declared. "And it wasn't always enemy action that we had to sweat out. Engine trouble forced us to turn back from our second mission and we crash-landed with a full bomb load. We had a bad time for a while, not knowing what moment the bombs might explode. But they didn't. Talk about a narrow escape! That was it."

Nazi Weser River Line Is Shattered As Allies Near Bremen, Hanover

Director Wilson Asks Pepper For Drought Relief

Removal Of Ceiling On Vegetable Prices Seen As Necessary

JACKSONVILLE, Apr. 8, (Special)—"Long continuing drought throughout Florida has become a major disaster to our growers and I have appealed to Senator Clayton Coker and Congressman J. H. W. Peterson to do their best to have all price ceilings removed from our vegetables. Otherwise, our farmers will not be able to pay production costs," William I. Wilson, Director of State Farmer Markets, said in his weekly crop and market review yesterday.

"Reports from our markets indicate that the season is so far advanced that rain now would only lessen to some degree the damage suffered," he continued.

Florida City, our southern most market, indicates that if rain comes, our farmers will have only two or three weeks of growing time. A good season is gone. A few farmers are going over their heads gathering a poor quality product which is selling at about 200 per cent higher. A few spots are bringing $4.00 for top quality. Tomato prices range from $1.00 to $1.50.

Relieved volume of rains could come to increase, with 60 cent being shipped last Wednesday. Labor is scarce and growers are paying as high as 80 cents per bushel for harvesting and are still having difficulty in getting the crop picked in time for good quality. Fair to good quality are selling at the rate of $2.25. Considerable movement is going on inanners at $1.50 to $1.60 per bushel. Celery shipments are being made, but very shabby. Top quality is selling at $1.75, depending on size. Peak of the season will be reached this week. Quality will have been reduced by lack of rain.

"At Pompano the market continues good for quality produce. The water table has dropped so low that field pumps had to be tapped. Indications are that the season will be very short. Top quality and excellent are still selling fairly good but all other produce is practically gone. Quite a large volume of tomatoes, size is small due to dry weather, but quality and price remain high. Eggplant, peppers and cucumbers are still coming in. The season will be shortened also by dry weather.

"Our Palmetto market opened last Monday. Size and quality of initial tomatoes excellent. Average prices for first shipments were tomatoes $4.34, beans $2.00, pepper $1.74, squash $1.90, and corn $1.30. These averages include 1, 2, and 3 grade tomatoes.

"Wanchula reports that export volume is not increasing, with shipments continuing at about 1,000 packages per day. Shipments are largely cucumbers. First tomatoes moved in volume is not increasing, quality, and shipments of this commodity should be large from now to the end of the season. Drought has gotten beyond the serious stage and has the appearance of a long haul.

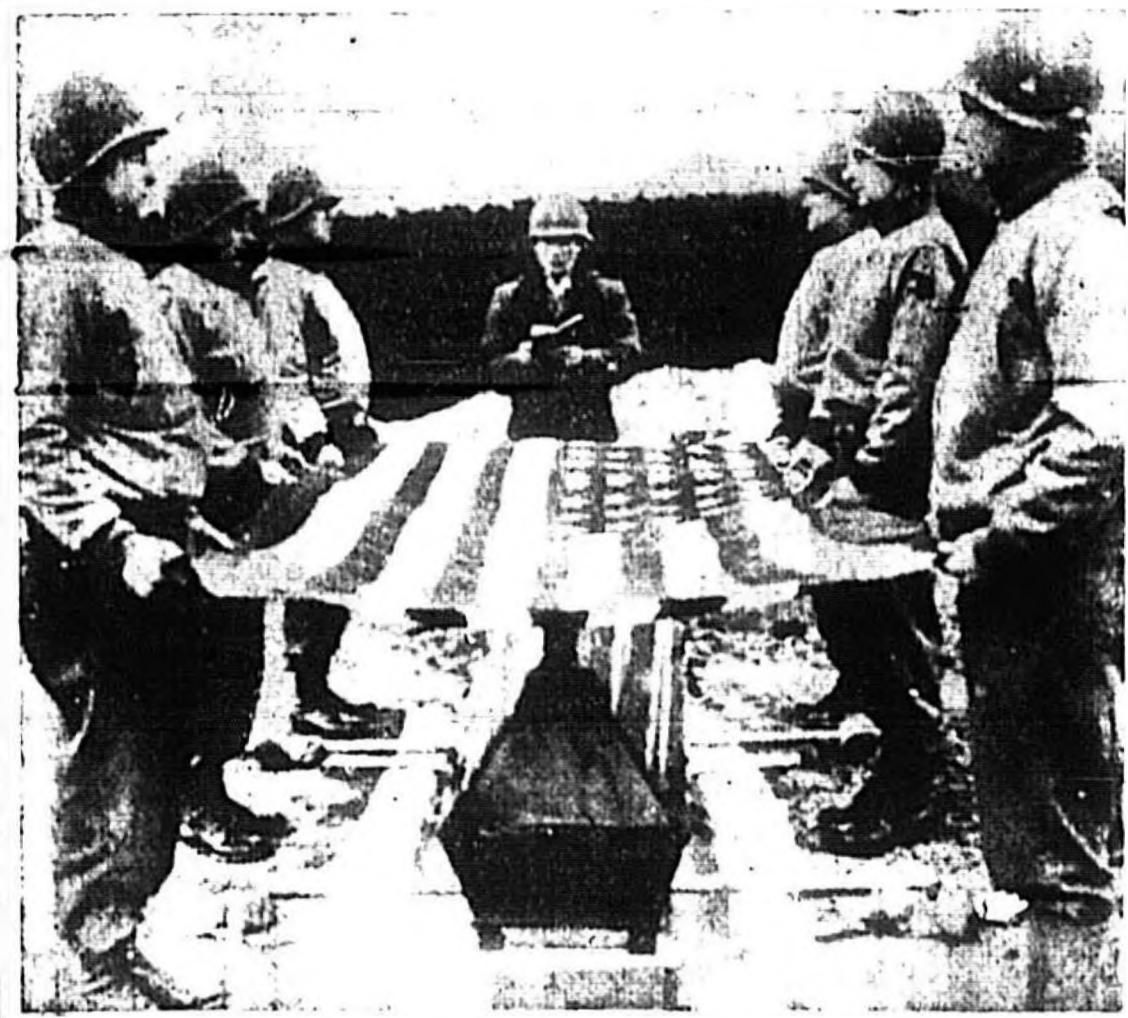

R. E. Kipp, chairman of the Station Army Home service budget drive, today appealed to prospective donors to make their gifts as once to speed up the drive which has a goal of $3,500. He has received $1,027.50, leaving $2,472.50 yet to be raised to put the drive over the top.

Pfc. L. E. Bauman Jr. is reported missing. An announcement from the War Department that Pfc. L. E. Bauman Jr. has been missing in action in Germany since March 26, was received Friday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bauman, French Avenue and Twentieth Street.

Pfc. Bauman served with the 101st Airborne Division and was in the heavy fighting in the battle between Belgium and Luxembourg, and also participated in the initial push across the Rhine. He was sent overseas 14 months ago and received his training in Italy.

Previously he had served a year and a half as an aviation mechanic in the Navy, and was given a medical discharge. He recovered in health and joined the Army, and was sent to Miami as an instructor, but desired to go overseas as an aviation mechanic. Not satisfied with this, he put in application for and was admitted to the paratroopers, a volunteer group.

Smith Appointed Head Of Group To Aid Veterans

Plans Are Made To Secure Paid Advisor On Problems

Near 200 members of the American Legion of Veterans of World War I met Friday at the city hall in order to formulate plans to secure a paid advisor to take care of problems of returning veterans. Joe S. Field was named as vice chairman and Mr. J. H. Ivan, secretary.

William E. Pomeroy, commander of the Legion Post, called attention to the fact that certain of World War I and II veterans are being advised and counseled at the rate of six to eight a week, and that the number of veterans has been increasing steadily.

Mr. Pomeroy said that while they gave assistance to veterans, including financial aid in emergencies, they were not equipped to solve all veterans' problems. He added that a service man would prefer to go for counsel to an ex-service man for advice on personal problems.

Present at the meeting were W.P. Thorpe of the American Legion; Mrs. C.L. Irwin, Legion Auxiliary; J. H. Ivan, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Mrs. Dyson and Mrs. Schultz, Red Cross; Mayor Edward Higgins and Ned Smith, Seminole County Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Jules Cole, State Welfare Board; Jos. S. Field of the Elks; Mrs. W. L. Morgan of the Pilot Club; Mrs. Ruth M. Allen, of the U.S. Employment agency.

Three-Quarters Of Vienna Engulfed In Battle As Soviets Take Rail Station

(By Associated Press) The Germans have lost 500,000 casualties in 10 days, an Allied official estimated, as the Allies cut the last railway from Western Holland, trapping the bulk of 80,000 more. Nazis fled within 20 miles of the Elbe River.

American and British spearheads fought through within sight of Bremen and Hannover as three Allied armies, rolling unhecked across the north German plain, shattered the Nazi Weser River line on a 100-mile front.

The Allies are now 70 miles from the Elbe River, the last big barrier before Berlin. The Allies virtually completed seal-off Hannover momentarily. The British Second Army was reported at five miles from Bremen and moved Hamburg in the west. The North American Third Army within 15 miles of Berlin, within 10 miles of the Elbe River.

The American First Army, led by the 1st Army Group, is now pushing into East Prussia. The Canadian First and Allied First Airborne Armies virtually completed sealing the trap on the German army in Holland.

Yanks' New Short, Jersey Joe Buzas, Is Natural Player

BY FRANK ECK

Jersey Joe Buzas, the new Yankee shortstop, is a natural player. He is wearing the No. 1 uniform formerly worn by Frankie Crosetti and it may be some time before you'll see it on anyone else.

Shortstop is a comparatively new position for Jersey Joe. He's had only about 75 games at that spot, all with Newark and Birmingham.

"I would rather play third," says Buzas, "but I'm glad to get the opportunity at short and will make the most of it."

New York Yankee scout Paul Krichell thinks the world of Buzas, who is 25, weighs 180 pounds and stands six feet.

"Buzas is a comf," says Krichell. "I think he's a natural player and will make the grade. He may be another George Strinewels."

Krichell has Manager Joe McCarthy thinking along the same vein. Signed in College.

"I'm not a spring ballplayer," says Buzas. "It usually takes me a month to get started. However, it's good to know that others have confidence in me. That, alone, means much to me."

Buzas was obtained in the usual Krichell manner—scouted, signed, sealed and delivered right off a college campus, with a fat bonus to boot. Other Yankees who recall coming under this category are Lou Gehrig, Red Rolfe, Maris Russo, Charley Keller, Hank Rotary and Strinewels.

Jersey Joe went to Bucknell where he played baseball, basketball and football and was a member of the boxing team. He was recommended by a Negro club, the Newark Eagles, who saw him play semi-pro ball at Trenton, Pa.

Drilled With Tigers

Scout Krichell took to the road and watched Buzas play several games at third base. The result was a future contract. Joe worked out with the regular Yankee infield for one week in 1940 and for two weeks with the Detroit Tigers. The Detroiters thought they had him hooked but he went to the Motor City only for the rig.

He wanted to be a Yankee all the time.

Looks like it's in the cards for Buzas to deliver, for soon after he signed in the fall of 1940 he sustained a shoulder separation in a Bucknell football scrimmage. He tackled 210-pound Fullback Jim Reichert, now in the service. It affected his throwing arm, but he is up despite it.

Almost Quit Baseball

In 1911 he quit college to play with Newark (International League).

He got $150 a month. Whenever his shoulder bothered him he would play left field. He went 47 times without getting a hit.

his average dropped to 245 and when a ball was hit to left, the shortstop always ran out to make the throw-in.

"I was pathetic," says Buzas. "I couldn't eat or sleep and I almost quit baseball."

That fall he returned for Bucknell's fall-winter semester and was graduated in January 1942 with a bachelor of arts degree.

Three months later he went to Binghamton, N. Y. (Eastern League). He still had arm trouble so the Yanks sent him to Trenton (Interstate League). His hitting flipper came around and he hit .238, finishing the season with Binghamton. The latter was in fifth place when Buzas arrived. When the campaign ended the Triplets were only two games out of first place.

Buzas went with Newark (International League) in 1943 and played short, hit only .221, but led the team in runs batted in. Last season he was in 125 games, mostly at third, for Newark, hit .297, led the team in stolen bases for the second time (24 and 28), set a new league playoff record with five steals and was voted the most popular player on the team.

Buzas, whose parents were born in Hungary and operate a grocery and butcher shop at Alpha, N. J., won't be the first Bucknell alumna to make good in New York—providing he sticks. Christy Mathewson and Moose McCormick, ex-Bucknellians, made history with the Giants.

Who helped Buzas the most?

Pension Plan Seen For State Employees

JACKSONVILLE, Apr. 8 (AP)—The outline of a retirement Pension Plan worked out and approved by representatives of the 11,000 State employees was announced this week by a member of the executive committee, and director of the State Board of Health's Narcotic Bureau, M.H. Doss.

A group of nine men chosen by their various State Agencies have been working on the plan for several months Doss said. He stressed that the Bill which is now ready for presentation to the Legislature most nearly meets with the approval of the entire State employee body.

The executive committee is composed of: R.J. Chance, chairman, assistant comptroller; M.H. Doss, vice chairman; W.H. Cates, secretary treasurer, Auditor's office; Fred A. Safay, State Board of Health; Elgin Bayless, State Board Department; Lewis Tribble, Comptroller's office; Joe Conroy, State Parole Commission; K.A. Gray, Secretary of State; Bryan Willis, State Auditor.

All State employees are included in the compensation with the exception of Justices of the Supreme Court, Judges of the Circuit Court of Public School Teachers.

The Bill requires the employee to have reached the age of 55 years before becoming eligible for voluntary retirement and compensation. And a term of 10 years service is required in any case. However, when you have given 25 years of service you are entitled to 50 percent of your average salary for the past ten years.

The retirement pay is based upon two percent of the average salary for the immediate 10 years prior to severing connections with the State. For instance: if you have worked for the State 15 years and wish to voluntarily retire, your income will be figured at two percent of your salary for each of the past ten years. Supposed you averaged $3000 per year during the past 10 years you would draw two percent of each year's salary—20 percent of the 10 year total, or $600 a month for life.

A deduction of five percent from each employee who indicates his desire to share in the plan will be made by the Comptroller's office each month.

Should an employee leave the State employ before serving 10 years, he may withdraw his deposit, but will receive an interest on the money.

Also, should one leave the State employ with the hope of returning at some future date, he may leave his money in the fund and when he returns say, five years later, he will automatically begin his term of service and his regular monthly deposits in the compensation pool. In this case, the money has been drawing interest right along.

"That's good advice. I'd sure hate to take a chance on anything but the finest lubrication. I don't hanker to walk everywhere I go."

The average American family gets about twice as much electricity for its money today as it did 15 years ago

YES, the first is a trick, but the second is a fact—a fortunate fact for you.

By using more and more electricity over the years, you've helped us reduce the price to a point where the average family now gets about twice as much electricity as it did 15 years ago for the same money.

Keeping the price of electricity pinned down to the floor in wartime is a much tougher job than keeping a pin-up girl floating in mid-air!

It takes much more than magic. It takes careful planning, hard work and good business management.

"My neighbor on the next street had a telephone installed

Why did he get one before me?"

This may happen for any one of several reasons

First: Your neighbor's telephone service may be essential to the war effort or to public health, welfare and security. Such service has first call on the few facilities available in your community.

Second: There may be spare cable conductors to the central office. But in your street, all facilities may be in use.

Third: He may be moving service from his former home. Where lines are available, these orders take precedence over applications for new service.

Fourth: His request for service may have been placed with us before yours.

We regret we cannot tell you when your service will be installed. In many cases, it will be considerable time after final Victory. But we can assure you that your request will be filled in its proper turn.

Zoya Andreyeva Is One Of Leading Russian Women

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Newsfeatures

Zoya Andreyeva was born in a Chuvashian village of 350 huts in one of the most backward regions of pre-revolution Russia.

Twenty-five years later she was working over time, teaching a people that were 82 per cent illiterate, to read and write.

Today she is chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of Chuvashia, a job which really means President of the Chuvash Autonomous Soviet Socialist Republic in the Russian SFSR. Andreyeva is probably the only woman president of a Republic. And she is certainly one of the most interesting women in the world.

The republic she heads has about one million citizens, of Turic origin. Before the revolution, the information was that of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, the Chuvash were a backward, illiterate people who had neither state-organized national freedom, Chuvashian soil was fertile, but its farmers lacked the simplest tools for tilling it, the country had virtually no roads and the people suffered greatly from crachonia.

Andreyeva was the daughter of the village doctor. Throughout her childhood she heard him talk of the people's poverty and their need for education and enlightenment. She determined to be a teacher, received her diploma in the year of the Soviet Revolution and began to teach in Yanorchin village.

Teaching the children did not satisfy her. She determined to teach the grown-ups too. So she planned a careful campaign. Evenings she went to the bathhouse—the warmest place in the village—frequented by the villagers as a social center. Instead of joining in the plaintive songs of crachonia, she always sang in the voice of a teacher.

Curiosity was aroused by the asked questions. Soon Andreyeva was reading aloud to the girls and in time the circle widened to take in the whole village.

Before long Andreyeva's school was the center of the village communal life. Word about her up selfish devotion to the community's welfare spread to Chelobay, the capital. Andreyeva was invited there, then sent to Moscow to continue her education. Later she returned to Chuvashia and seven years ago was elected head of its government.

Look at her country now and you will see some impressive changes. To its agriculture and forestry, Chuvashia has now added industry—a synthetic soap plant, chemical plants, paper mills, and wood-working mills. In 1935 it boasted nearly 7,000 miles of roads. In commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Russian Revolution, the Commissariat of Education reported 1,343 schools, seven normal schools, a pedagogical institute and an agricultural institute.

In the face of that record Andreyeva has an interesting comment to make:

"The Chuvashia would never have risen to their feet, if they had not enjoyed the support of the Russian people, who sent us engineers and agronomists, machines for our factories, pedigree stock for our farms and school books for our children."

The first thing she did was to teach our people to read and write, for we know that culture follows literacy."

End Of German War Won't Mean End Of All The Fighting

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON, The Army News OPA, WPA, the White House and a dozen other government agencies have the war's biggest job of salesmanship to do. It is to sell the American home front on the fact that the end of the war in Europe won't mean the end of the home front struggle.

This very day, officials in these departments and agencies are searching around to find convincing arguments that V-E Day won't dissolve price controls, manpower regulations, shortages, Selective Service—all the host of wartime inconveniences.

Most of the plans for putting this argument over still are under the wraps of secrecy. I have heard of one official in any department or agency who will discuss them openly. I can only tell you that many of these officials are gripped by fear that when the news of Europe's war ends, home front energy will collapse.

There certainly is some basis for their fear. After the Normandy breakthrough, the pressure for reconversion to civilian production was terrific. War workers quit in droves. War bond sales dropped. Enlistments in the WAC and other voluntary services hit a new low.

Then not since Pearl Harbor had the home front had to do a greater thing. The Nazis had a counter-offensive that threatened the whole western front. Shortages of certain types of ammunition began to be felt.

Reconversion not only had to be brought to a stand-still, but abandoned war plants were re-equipped for production of war materials. It was to be the first time since the war's beginning that a legislative body intended to meet a congressional session. Measures to avert such a session were introduced.

In other words, our optimism was knocked into a cocked hat. What the government is aiming at now is to keep that optimism from getting out of bounds again.

From coast to coast, all V-E Day celebrations will emphasize the fact that World War II isn't over; that relaxation on the home front will mean only prolongation of the war against the Japanese, and consequently thousands of lives lost needlessly.

Newspapers (some already prepared), radio broadcasts (some already planned or written) and newspaper commentators will hammer away on this point.

Some of it will be claptrap, but there will be some agencies following the idea of OPA Director Chester Fowler, which is: Give the people the unvarnished facts and quit worrying—they won't let down the boys at the front.

Covering the chalk beds of Kansas 50,000,000 years ago was a shallow sea, somewhat like the Mediterranean, swarming with giant sea-lizards, great marine many types of fish.

It is usually most economical to select a lean piece of meat and have it ground into hamburger.
