Quake hits East German town

BERLIN — An earthquake believed triggered by a blast in a salt mine damaged 80 percent of an East German town and shook populated areas from West Germany to the Soviet Union, officials said.

The official East German news agency said the five-second quake Monday afternoon measured 5.5 on the open-ended Richter scale and was centered near the East-West German border. An earthquake with a magnitude of 5 or higher is capable of causing considerable damage.

Waste tracking plan unveiled

WASHINGTON — The Environmental Protection Agency has launched a two-year trial program to track the disposal of medical waste in 10 states, but the agency warns the effort may not do much to clean up litter-strewn beaches.

The new EPA program announced Monday applies to hospitals, doctors, dentists, veterinarians, medical laboratories and related facilities in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut and the Great Lakes states of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin. Funeral homes, nursing homes and hospices also could be affected.

Tanker explodes, 23 missing

TOKYO — A Liberian tanker carrying more than 25,000 tons of chemicals exploded and caught fire in the Pacific while en route to central Japan early Tuesday, leaving four British and 19 Filipino crewmen missing, maritime officials said.

The officials of the Maritime Safety Agency said occasional small explosions prevented rescuers from reaching the vessel as of midday Tuesday.

Four empty life boats have been found near the ship but there were no signs of survivors.

Four murder suspects arrested

CRAWFORDVILLE, Fla. — Four suspects, including two females, were arrested in Savannah, Ga., in the slaying of three teenagers found shot to death in a Florida Panhandle sinkhole, police in Savannah said Tuesday.

Chatham County, Ga., authorities said officers from four law enforcement agencies arrested two males and two females, one of whom is a juvenile, at an undisclosed Savannah location Monday afternoon.

"These four subjects were taken into custody in connection with the triple killing in the Florida Panhandle," said John Bankhead, a spokesman for the Atlanta office of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation.

Local standout gets big chance

Seminole High School senior Michelle Pearson, who has the state's fastest time in the 110 low hurdles at this point in the track season, will have a chance to show her talents in Europe this summer with the select Track Florida team.

In order for Pearson to reach Europe, she must raise $1,800.00 for the trip. Pearson was invited to the trip after participating on the Track Florida team last year and doing well.

"I did well last year but not as well as I wanted to," Pearson said. "I want to win this year. If not, I want to place well and have a good performance."

Pearson has concentrated on the 110's for her entire four years at Seminole and proved this past Friday night in the Lyman Invitational that she is a contender for the state title as she cruised with a winning time of 14.5.

SHA may be restructured

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN

SANFORD — The executive director of the housing authority has recommended a staff reorganization in the event the commission does not adopt professional management of the agency.

"It is not reasonable to expect to adopt an organizational change without good cause. There is (good cause). There remain deficiencies in operations," Interim Executive Director Linda Williams wrote in a recommendation to the authority commissioners last week.

Williams said the reorganization is warranted because of a shortage of staff to handle rapid growth of the agency and the failure of the authority to use some staff to full potential.

Williams delivered the recommendation to commissioners with a proposed budget for fiscal year 1989-90 based on her reorganization plan. A budget must be submitted to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development by the end of this month, she said.

Williams' reorganization plan would add one employee to the 18-member staff. Williams has proposed hiring a human services aide to collect rent and maintain paperwork for Redding Gardens, process applications for Section 8 vouchers, and coordinate programs and services for residents.

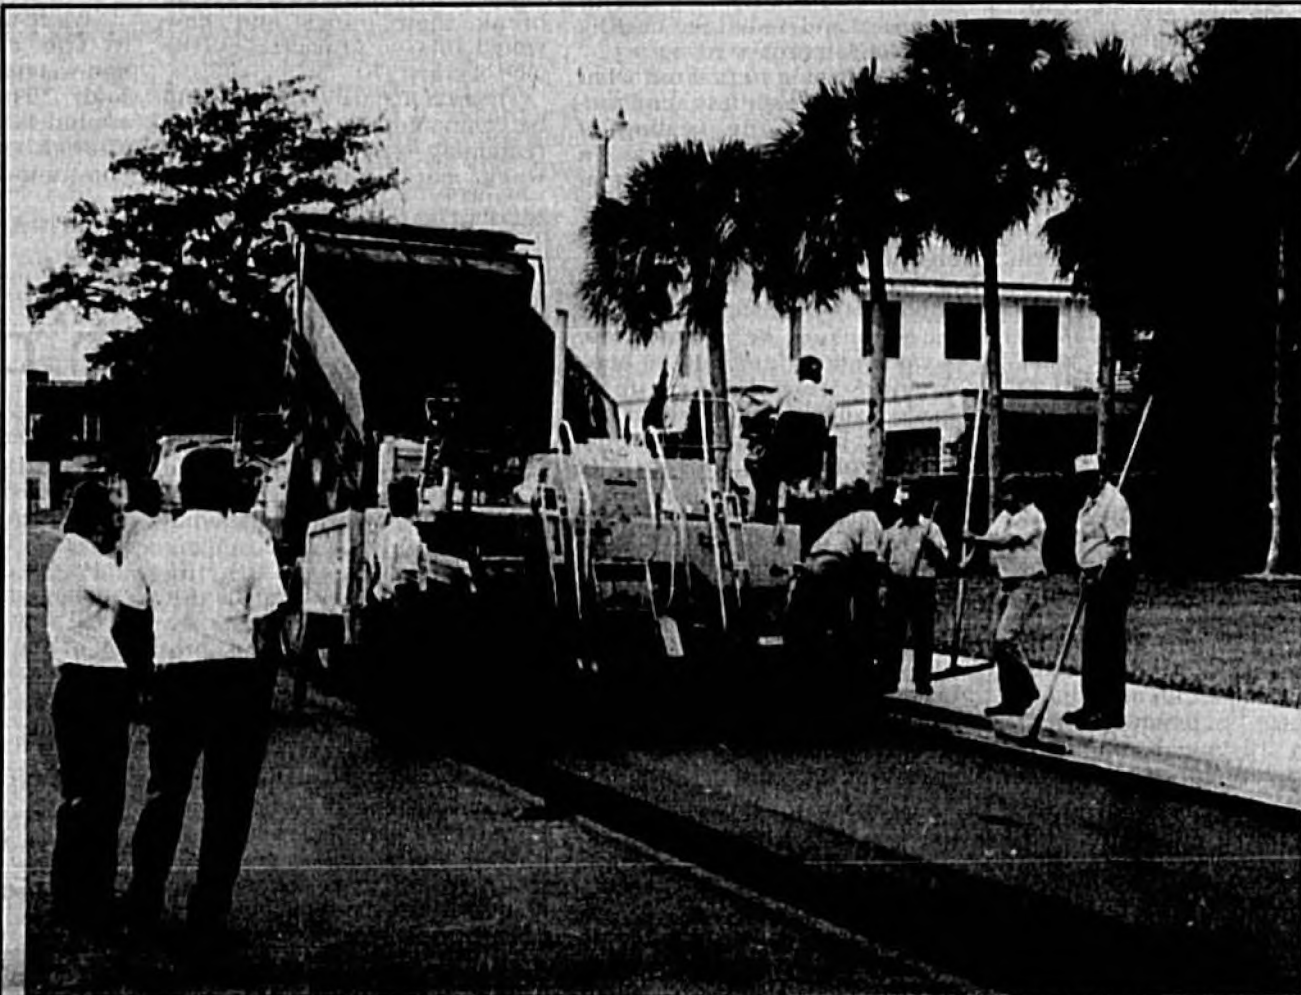

The staff addition would improve and expand services, Williams said. "One day we'll see youth patrol and resident councils working with the Housing Authority to fight crime, drug abuse and vandalism. Residents will have constructive activities to participate in.

"...Since I've been acting in the executive director's position, I have had an opportunity to closely examine the Authority's staffing to determine the most efficient and productive approach to getting the job done. I strongly feel that at this time, I am the most qualified person to make such an examination and formulate timely recommendations to the Board of Commissioners."

The authority commission will vote Thursday on whether to adopt the concept of professional management for the housing authority administration. Also on the meeting agenda is the

Cardinal confirms layoffs

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Cardinal Industries, Inc. has confirmed that more layoffs began in late February due to a slowdown in sales and difficulty in obtaining mortgage loans.

A letter from Cardinal to Seminole County and state officials stated a total of 96 employees will be laid off at Cardinal's Sanford Manufacturing Plant, 3701 S. Sanford Avenue. The work categories affected are laborers, clerical, technical, supervisory and professional.

The layoffs began Feb. 24, according to the letter that was sent last week.

A copy of which was obtained Monday.

Other Seminole County Cardinal locations affected by layoffs include five employees from the Sanford regional offices, one person from the Sanford parts service, four people from the Sanford precast division at the Port of Sanford and one worker from the single family housing division in Casselberry.

About 130 local Cardinal employees were laid off in 1988 as part of a consolidation and production slowdown.

The letter states that the Tax Reform Act of 1986, climbing interest rates, and refusal by banks to provide mortgage loans to the corporation during the last six months have caused the layoffs and production slowdown.

"Regrettably, this difficult period has made it impossible for Cardinal to continue to sustain its past level of production at its Sanford plant and location facilities, although ef-

County auditors find minor flaws

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County's auditors have given the county a clean bill of financial health in an audit released Monday by the county.

Auditors' comments for the county and five constitutional officers were few and largely related to management procedures. The audit was performed by the county's auditing contractors, Arthur Young & Co. and Charlie Lansing, CPA, and covered the year ending Sept. 30, 1988.

"It certainly wasn't the number and size of comments we've received in the past," County Manager Ken Hooper said. He said the county has been criticized in past audits for cash handling from the building and other fee departments, but the current audit found no problems in those areas.

The most consistent recommendation made by the auditors was to increase computer security and

Local stores pulling fruit from Chile

From staff and wire reports

SANFORD — Area food markets have begun to take fruit imported from Chile off their shelves because of a federal government warning that traces of cyanide have been found on at least one shipment destined for Philadelphia.

A representative of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration in Orlando said this morning that the federal government is warning consumers to check the source of any fruit and not to eat fruit imported from Chile.

Spokesmen for Winn-Dixie and Publix stores in the Sanford-Lake Mary area said this morning that they have taken fruit off their shelves.

A Publix spokesman said grapes, peaches, plums, nectarines and pears had been pulled.

A Winn-Dixie spokesman said only that some fruit had been pulled but he was unsure of exactly what.

In Washington, D.C., the government said it was holding imported Chilean fruit for inspection Tuesday after traces of cyanide were found in a small sample of seedless grapes grown in the South American country.

The discovery came two weeks after a man phoned the U.S. embassy in Santiago.

Shuttle mission may be shortened

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — The Discovery crew buckled down to an experiment-packed second day in space Tuesday and powered down electrical gear because of a potential problem that could result in shortening the flight by one day.

The major goal of the 28th shuttle mission, the deployment of a $100 million NASA communications satellite, was accomplished Monday, six hours and 13 minutes after blastoff from the Kennedy Space Center, giving the space agency a major success in the first of seven flights planned for 1989.

City commission tables decision on revocation of marina launch fees

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A decision whether to eliminate launching fees at the Lake Monroe marina was postponed last night by the city commission and no action was taken on a request from Paulucci International, Ltd. to purchase 20 acres of city-owned land near Geneva.

Commissioners Lon Howell and A.A. McClanahan expressed opposition to selling city property at State Road 46 and Cochran Road. "The potential is there for a lot more value down the road than is there today," McClanahan said.

The tract Paulucci owner Jeno Paulucci requested to buy is located just east of 2,200 acres of city-owned land the city has offered as sites for a federal prison and Veterans Administration medical center.

The commission authorized the director of planning and engineering to begin designing plans for the 2,200 acres in Geneva. The commission approved plans to post a sign on the tract indicating planned use of that land.

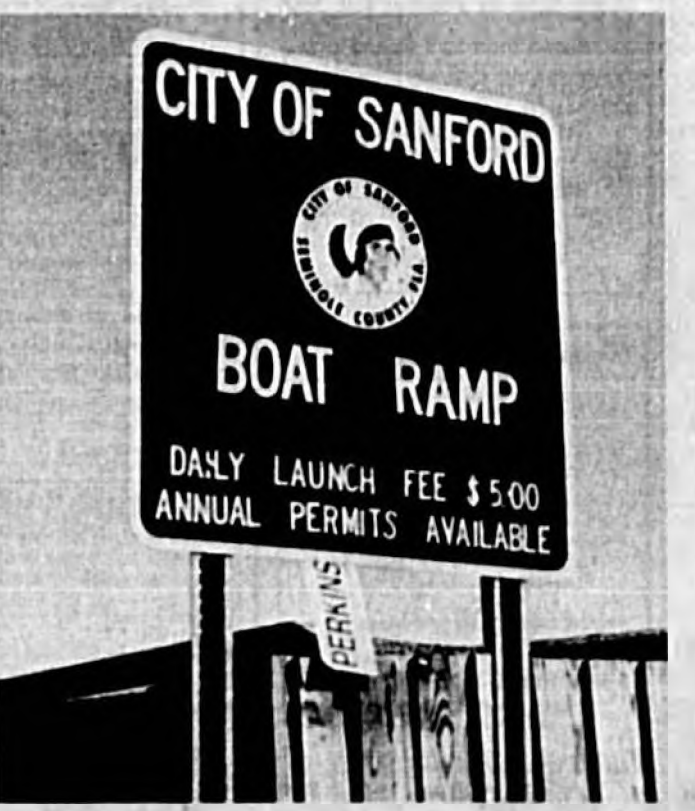

The site will be developed as an agricultural facility

With the deployment behind them, the shuttle's crew — commander Michael Coats, 43, co-pilot John Blaha, 46, James Baglan, 37, Robert Springer, 46, and James Buchli, 43 — was busy Tuesday with an array of medical, biological and engineering experiments along with Earth observation photography.

Engineers on the ground asked the astronauts to conserve electricity by turning off computer gear and other items until they can figure out what caused a pressure surge, or "spike," in one of four hydrogen tanks on board the orbiter that feed the ship's electricity-producing fuel cells.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Microscope may help Alzheimer's

GAINESVILLE — Researchers at the University of Florida are designing a proton microscope that may provide insights into Alzheimer's disease and other nervous system disorders. UF physicians are in the early stages of building a more powerful version of the microscope that was used in 1987 to demonstrate the connection between certain metals in the brain and Alzheimer's disease, said James Walker, the physicist who is leading the research. The proton microscope has been used to detect trace amounts of aluminum and silicon in the brain tissue of Alzheimer's victims. The instrument also may provide clues to the origin of Parkinson's disease, Down's syndrome and motor neuron disease — each of which has been associated with the presence of trace metals in the brain — as well as other metal-related disorders, Walker said.

The UF researchers have formed Nanoptics Inc., a private company, to develop and market the microscope. With a $50,000 grant from the National Institutes of Health, preliminary research will be conducted during the next six months. The instrument could be built and operating in two years, said James Walker, the company's president.

The proton microscope also can be used in semi-conductor research to determine the three dimensional distribution of atoms of various metals in a computer chip, he said.

"The proton microscope is basically a means of finding out whether or not you're making what you think you're making," he said. "As the size of new computer chips gets smaller and smaller, the value of the microscope's high resolution qualities will become increasingly apparent."

Lawyer: Cruse thought he was victim

BARTOW — A former librarian accused of killing six people and wounding 10 in a 1987 shooting rampage was described in court Monday as a mentally ill, permanently brain-damaged man totally out of touch with reality.

William Bryan Cruse Jr., 81, barely moved during nearly two hours of opening statements in which the prosecution and defense presented overviews of what evidence jurors will hear.

Both agreed Cruse shot up two shopping plazas in the Brevard County city of Palm Bay, but they disputed what caused the frail defendant with long gray hair and beard to go on the shooting spree.

Assistant State Attorney Wayne Holmes said the state expects to prove Cruse planned the massacre more than a month in advance when he purchased a Ruger Mini-14 .223-caliber high velocity rifle and later bought six 30-round clips and a supply of ammunition for the weapon.

Cruse believed people questioned his sexuality and were spreading rumors that he was homosexual. The shooting "was to strike out at the people of Palm Bay," Holmes said.

Defense attorney Paul Arit said psychiatrists will testify Cruse became mentally ill up to 40 years ago and thought the whole world was in a conspiracy to find out about his sex life.

In 1975, Arit said, "William Cruse suffered his first substantial break with reality. He had a prostate operation and believed the doctors had programmed him to look at other men's crotch area.

"He also believed the doctors made a videotape of him looking at men's crotches and played it in the community."

On the day of the shooting, Arit said, a city crew began working in front of Cruse's house. Cruse believed he was being tested and that afternoon drank heavily, consuming a six-pack and a quart of beer.

Lawyer's appearance rescheduled

JACKSONVILLE — A hearing for a lawyer accused in last summer's kidnapping of the wife of Mississippi multimillionaire Robert Hearin has been rescheduled for Wednesday.

Newton A. Winn, 64, of St. Petersburg, charged with extortion and perjury, was to make an initial appearance Monday before a federal magistrate. But his lawyer could not be present so the hearing was rescheduled, said Stu Murphy, a spokesman for the FBI in Jackson, Miss.

Winn, a former associate in one of Hearin's ventures, was arrested by federal agents in a Deland parking lot Saturday.

During a news conference this weekend, Federal Bureau of Investigation special agent Wayne Taylor said investigators still had no clues as to the whereabouts of Annie Laura Hearin, 72, who was taken from her Jackson home last July 26.

Mrs. Hearin suffers from an intestinal condition that requires medication.

Winn was arrested and charged with extortion after a woman he knew told the FBI that she had mailed a ransom letter to Winn's request. The woman's account was revealed in an FBI affidavit.

The unidentified woman told authorities Winn told her to mail a letter to Hearin, which he received Aug. 15. In the letter Mrs. Hearin urged her husband to do what her abductors wanted. It was in Mrs. Hearin's handwriting.

Four arrested in sinkhole killings

United Press International

CRAWFORDVILLE, Fla. — Four suspects, including two females, were arrested in Savannah, Ga., in the slaying of three teenagers found shot to death in a Florida Panhandle sinkhole, police in Savannah said Tuesday.

Chatham County, Ga., authorities said officers from four law enforcement agencies arrested two males and two females, one of whom is a juvenile, at an undisclosed Savannah location Monday afternoon.

"These four subjects were taken into custody in connection with the triple killing in the Florida Panhandle," said John Bankhead, a spokesman for the Atlanta office of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation.

Capt. H.J. Lowery of the Chatham County Police Department said the suspects were questioned late Monday in the deaths by agents with the GBI, the Florida Department of Law Enforcement and the Wakulla County Sheriff's Department.

But Lowery refused to identify the group or to give any details of the arrest.

Lowery said only that Savannah police acted on information from Florida authorities and the GBI. He said the suspects had NOT been charged late Monday but were to be arraigned Tuesday morning.

Two of the victims found Friday in the sinkhole in northern Wakulla County, about 15 miles south of Tallahassee, were identified as Christian Scott Blahop, 18, and Charles Howard Watkins, 17, both of Marietta, Ga. Deputies said the parents of the youths identified the bodies.

Officials said the two youths recently had moved to Florida from Georgia.

A third body found in the sinkhole, also that of a male teenager, had not been identified.

Wakulla County deputies described the unidentified victim as a white male, 5-foot-7, 130 pounds with gray eyes and brown hair. He had an earring in his left ear and was wearing a red sweatshirt, blue jeans and boots.

Ailing rats get shuttle ride

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — Four rats with broken legs are aboard the shuttle Discovery for an experiment that could help future astronauts cope with fractures and maintain healthy bones on long space voyages.

"We're trying to find out what effect the weightless environment has on the healing of bone," said Andrew Fras, a second-year medical student at Brown University who came up with the idea in 1982 while in high school in Binghamton, N.Y.

"We think this is a very important experiment because the astronauts, we've found, lose a tremendous amount of bone structure when they go up in space and we want to find out basically how this process would affect healing if a bone were to be broken.

"Astronauts have been shown to have a marked loss of calcium," he said. "Soviet astronauts (on long space-station missions) have not been able to walk in some cases" on their return home.

Fras called the bone loss a "serious problem and virtually a serious impediment to future space travel.

"We're trying to learn as much as we can about the basic science involved," he said. "And of course, we're looking down the road at possible treatment of injuries that are likely to occur at some point in the future as people begin to move in a more vigorous way into space with the space station, a Mars project or whatever."

Fras, who designed another student experiment that flew aboard Discovery in April 1985, said he got the idea for the bone study from a television show that discussed bone loss in weightlessness.

"I thought, 'Wow, what would happen if people were ever to break their bones and how would this be impacted by the lack of gravity?'"

The rats aboard Discovery will be compared to a control group remaining on the ground. Last week, each animal in both groups underwent an osteotomy, an operation conducted with anesthesia in which a 0.8 millimeter-wide hole was drilled in a bone in one of each rat's hind legs.

"We're talking about the fibula in the rats, which is the non-weight-bearing bone," Fras said. "The animal can walk around (as soon as three hours after it's done so it's very non-traumatic for the animal."

Shuttle crew notes craft launch debris

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — The crew of the shuttle Discovery noticed signs of debris falling away from the 4.5 million-pound spaceship during blastoff Monday but NASA officials said such reports are common and that no problems were anticipated.

The shuttle Atlantis suffered major damage to its heat-shield tile system during launch Dec. 2 on the second post-Challenger mission, apparently because of loose insulation pulling away from the nose cone of the shuttle's right-side solid-fuel booster.

For Discovery's flight, commander Michael Coats and co-pilot John Blaha rolled the orbiter over shortly after external tank separation so the empty fuel tank could be photographed as it fell away from the shuttle to look for signs of damage.

Coats then gave a report to mission control in Houston.

"OK. A quick observation here," Coats radioed to mission control in Houston shortly after tank separation. "We saw a few things come off... at about 50 seconds and it made some smears on the windows.

"As soon as the SRBs (boosters) came off (they) left a haze over all the windows and the sun angle was such that I couldn't see out at all. Now that we're pointing down toward the Earth, it's just beautiful. We can see a few smudges on the windows. It looks almost like bug smudges."

He said the booster "haze" remained on the windows but "it's not too bad."

Eastern adds flights

UPI report

MIAMI — Eastern Airlines struggled to rebuild its business Monday, adding flights to the Northeast, Canada, the Caribbean and Latin America after operating 75 flights Sunday — the most since the strikebound carrier suspended the bulk of its operation a week ago.

Meanwhile, the executive board of the Air Line Pilots Association met in McLean, Va., to consider strike benefits for Eastern pilots as well as a resolution that may make it more difficult for Eastern to sell its assets.

All but a handful of Eastern's 3,600 pilots have refused to cross picket lines set up by striking machinists in a show of solidarity that virtually shut the airline down and triggered a bankruptcy filing last week.

The International Association of Machinists struck Eastern March 4 after negotiators failed to resolve a 17-month-old contract dispute.

The pilots union Monday sought a "commitment" from members at 45 other airlines not to fly Eastern's planes or routes if the sale of those assets does not include the transfer of Eastern's pilots.

Study: Florida ranks low in social service spending

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Florida has one of the wealthier populations in the nation, but a low tax rate and lack of federal aid leaves little money for social services and higher education, a university study released Monday shows.

The survey found Florida ranks 32nd in state and local taxes per capita, said Thomas R. Dye, director of the Florida State University Policy Sciences Program. It is one of only six states without a state income tax.

Total state revenues per capita ranked 46th in the nation and the state ranked 50th in expenditures per capita.

"We remain a low-tax state, and we have had to make some choices in terms of support for public services," Dye said.

"It's an advantage to taxpayers, but there's a price to pay and that price is in terms of lower spending for welfare, highways, police, higher education, relative to the other states."

The state ranked 16th in per capita personal income, with average annual earnings of $15,584 per person in 1987. That was just above the national average of $15,481.

But Florida was also 12th in the proportion of the population living below the poverty line. Due largely to the little money available for social services, the state ranked near the bottom in welfare spending.

"Florida ranks 46th, despite the fact that we do have a sizable poor population," Dye said.

Dye said despite its position as the fourth-largest state, Florida is badly shortchanged on federal funds returned to the state. Florida ranks 50th in federal government revenues.

Nationally, revenue from federal, state and local governments averages $472 per person. The Florida figure is $305.

"That situation has worsened and we are now last in the country in per capita federal aid," he said.

The report also found that Florida has both the highest crime rate and violent crime rate in the nation, and ranks seventh in law enforcement spending.

Dye said the state's crime rate is 50 percent higher than the national average.

Dye said his study confirms Florida is a rapidly growing, urban, yet non-manufacturing state.

Florida grew in population by 23.4 percent from 1980 to 1987. In 1980, just over 9.7 million people lived in Florida. That figure stood at just over 12 million in 1987.

Florida ranked 43rd out of 50 in highway spending, but was 15th in the number of highway miles. The state was ranked ninth in highway deaths.

Man accused of stealing mom's china

SANFORD — A rural Sanford man accused of stealing his mother's china valued at $500 and selling it for $15 has been charged with grand theft and dealing in stolen property. George Henry Stephen, 25, of 3027 Truman St., Sanford, was arrested at home at 10:58 p.m. Monday. Seminole County sheriff's deputies report Stephen's mother Mary, of the same address, reported the theft of the china. Stephen's sister recovered the china from a house on 20th Street, Sanford, from the person who bought it, deputies said.

Man accused in attack

SANFORD — Sanford police report charging Ozle Carl Davis, 20, of 1413 W. 13th St., Sanford, with battery. He is accused in a 9:30 p.m. Sunday attack on his live-in girlfriend, LaWanna Williams, 24. Williams, who didn't report the attack until after she was treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford Monday, said Davis bruised her thigh and kneed her in the left eye. She accused Davis of hitting her with his fists. Davis was arrested at home at 4:45 p.m. Monday. Bond is $500.

Boy reportedly steals beer

SANFORD — William L. Weekley, 46, of Sanford, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that a 16-year-old boy, accompanied by two other boys, entered his van and put a gun to his head outside Greenway Family Grocery, 3300 State Road 46, rural Sanford, at about 4:08 p.m. Monday. The gunman stole two six packs of beer from Weekley before pushing Weekley from his van and running away with the two other boys. The armed boy had a 38-caliber pistol, a sheriff's report said.

Several arrested on DUI charges

SANFORD — The following persons face a charge of driving under the influence in Seminole County: ● Elizar G. Garza, 27, of Orlando, was arrested at 3:09 a.m. Monday after his slow moving car ran off U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry several times. ● Coleman Wilson Ensley, 31, of Oldtown, at 8:30 p.m. Monday after his car was in an accident on State Road 46, west of Sanford.

Deputy under investigation after firing shots at suspect

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — It will be up to Seminole County Sheriff John Polk to determine if a deputy was justified in shooting at a fleeing suspect last Friday in Midway after Polk reviews the findings of an investigation. Deputy Thomas Johnson pursued a 24-year-old suspect's car from where the deputy had made a traffic stop on another vehicle on Celery Avenue. The suspect tried several times to sidestep the deputy's patrol car, Capt. Roy Hughey said. The chase was at a speed of about 70 mph.

When the fleeing man abandoned his car at 2421 Jitway Ave., Midway, Johnson chased him around the house on foot. About 50 yards away from Johnson, the suspect stopped, turned and reached into his jacket, according to authorities.

Johnson reported he thought the man was reaching for a gun and so the deputy fired several shots from his .357-magnum service revolver. None of the shots hit the suspect and the suspect fled, Hughey said.

The suspect's name has not been released and he is still at large, Johnson said he was ticketing another driver when the suspect drove up and began talking to the man getting the ticket. His car was blocking traffic and he twice refused a request by Johnson to move on. The suspect drove away when Johnson ordered him to pull over, and the chase was on.

Hughey said investigators are probing the incident and will give their finding to Polk for review. They will determine if Johnson was justified in firing at the suspect. Johnson, who has been a deputy for about three years, has not been suspended.

forts have been made to keep them in place as long as possible.

Local businessmen have complained in recent months that Cardinal has been slow in paying their debts. Sanford engineers Conklin, Porter & Holmes Engineers, Inc., filed three liens against Cardinal Jan. 19 seeking nearly $37,000 for services dating back to June 3, 1988.

Austin Guiringer, Cardinal founder and president, did not disclose the current round of layoffs during an interview on Feb. 24. He could not be reached for comment Monday.

In February, Guiringer said Cardinal was in the process of selling 90 of its 300 apartment developments to pay debts. Guiringer said 80 of those sales were already contracted.

Despite rumors Cardinal may be facing bankruptcy, Guiringer said the company had no plans to file Chapter 11 bankruptcy and planned to continue operations through 1989.

Longwood looks at parks

By BANDRA BOUGHANINE
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — City commissioners and members of the Longwood Parks and Recreation Advisory Board met last night to discuss plans for Candyland Park on Grant Street.

Parks and Recreation Director Bill Goebel told the commissioners that a second survey of the land shows there is an additional 3/4 acre on the north side in the cemetery that is technically part of the park. Commissioner Gene Farach, who is assisting with the project, requested a second survey when he discovered the city property line was not accurately indicated on the original survey.

Acting City Administrator Don Terry questioned whether the additional piece of property should be used as parkland.

"The cemetery has a limited amount of space. Who's to say which has a more pressing need, parks or cemetery?" Terry said.

Commissioner Ted A. Poelking said he did not think the city had the right to develop that area as a park because the land was donated to be used for a sewer plant. The sewer treatment facility at Skylark has been dismantled.

"We're going to have to look and find someplace else. Where, I don't know," Poelking said.

However, plans for recreational development of the site are already underway. Goebel said that an area is earmarked for tennis courts and bids are out for leveling of the ground and for removal of lights on the existing ballfield.

The park will be tiered and each of the fields will have its own irrigation system. There will be an injector system for fertilizer.

"We're going to a state-of-the-art thing," Goebel said.

The three ball fields will be planted with Bermuda grass from Georgia at a cost of between $6,500 to $7,500, according to Goebel. Forty lighting fixtures now on wooden poles will be switched to concrete poles.

Goebel estimated the total cost for the development of the park to be about $500,000. It will be expanded to include a playground, little league field, recreation building, two softball fields, one baseball field, a community center, racquetball, volleyball and tennis courts and a multi-purpose athletic field for soccer, football and kite flying. The city has applied for a grant from the state Department of Natural Resources in the amount of $120,000 to be matched by local funds of $100,000 for the first phase of improvements. Completion of the project will take about 16 months.

"We'll shoot for September for the ballfields," Goebel said.

Mayor Hank Hardy told Goebel to get pricing for "everything you need to complete the park." Hardy also said the commission needs to consider additional help for the parks department.

The recreation board will present the park plan again at 5:30 p.m. Monday, April 3 before the regular commission meeting.

In a related matter, Hardy requested that three acres of the proposed Candyland Park targeted for use as a nature park, be designated as Longwood Arbor Park on April 8 in conjunction with Arbor Month. "We can spruce it up," Hardy said.

It will be dedicated at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 8 in a ribbon-cutting ceremony.

"That way we can begin to use it," Hardy said.

Picnic tables and mulch will be added to the area at an estimated cost of under $2,000.

Fruit

Chile, and said export fruit would be poisoned. That telephone call, and a subsequent call, were viewed as probable hoaxes. But the Food and Drug Administration intensified its inspection of fruit imported from Chile.

The grapes that tested positive for cyanide, which turned up in Philadelphia, left Chile on the Almeria Star on Feb. 27 — three days before the first telephone call.

As a result of Sunday's discovery, the entire shipment on the Almeria Star was intercepted. Beginning Monday, all Chilean fruit was being held under detention so the Food and Drug Administration, the Agriculture Department and the Chilean fruit industry can inspect the fruit "at least until the situation can be clarified," the FDA said.

The FDA said cyanide is fast-acting, so consumers need not worry about fruit eaten in the past.

"Consumers are being advised to check the source of any fresh, non-citrus fruit and not to eat any Chilean fruit they have on hand," the FDA announcement stated.

Virtually all fresh grapes now on sale in the United States comes from Chile, the FDA said. Officials said consumers should check the source of any fresh, non-citrus fruit.

The agency said it was intercepting all grape shipments and other fruit from Chile and was urging that they be withdrawn from the U.S. market.

Other Chilean fruit sold in America at this time of the year are peaches, blueberries, blackberries, seedless watermelon, cantaloupes, Juan Canary melons, honey dew melons, raspberries, nectarines, quince, Granny Smith green apples, cactus pears, pears and plums.

Aside from the grapes, no cyanide has been found in fruit, the FDA said, but "as a precaution, consumers are advised to avoid any fruit from Chile at this time."

The U.S. warning was a serious enough threat to Chile's export-oriented economy that it led to a national radio and television address early Tuesday by Chilean Interior Minister Carlos Carreras, who blamed the crisis on the Communist Party.

discussion and approval of staff reorganization.

At the last regular meeting of the authority, Commissioner Bob Ball Sr. made a motion to adopt the professional management concept, but it died without a second. The commission voted to table the issue until HUD issued an opinion on professional directorship of the authority.

Williams told the commissioners in her letter that she had contacted, but not heard from, HUD about the concept.

Ball said in an interview that professional management was needed in the authority administration to increase employee productivity. "If an individual is going to come in here and do a good job (as executive director), they're going to have to shake it up," he said.

"I would be willing to go either way (for individual or professional directorship)," Ball said. "I just think professional management won't be concerned with featherbedding, with how many benefits it can get."

"A lot of people in town are unhappy about it and they want to see changes made — changes for the better," Ball said.

Ball said his analysis of the past four directors has prompted him to lobby for professional management.

Power goes on trial

By BRAD CHURCH
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The trial for Robert Power of Kissimmee, accused of raping a Longwood woman in 1987, got underway in Seminole Circuit Court Tuesday after jury selection all day Monday.

Power is also charged with four counts of rape in Osceola County and was recently charged with murder in Orange County in connection with the rape and murder of 12-year-old Angela Bare.

Because of the extensive publicity about Power and the Angela Bare case, each juror was questioned by defense and prosecution attorneys about whether they had heard or read anything about Power or the Longwood rape case. Jurors who said they had read or heard about Power were further questioned Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. about whether they had formed any opinions about Power's guilt.

The prosecution intends to use DNA as part of its evidence against Power in the Longwood case. DNA is a genetic material found in every cell of an individual and prosecutors say it is as individual as a fingerprint and can be used to identify crime suspects. DNA evidence, pioneered in Florida, has only been used in a few rape cases.

Power is accused of raping a 28-year-old Longwood woman on Sept. 27, 1987, while she was alone at the home of a friend.

Not by bread alone...

Don't eat too much salt. Don't eat too much fat or cholesterol. Don't drink much alcohol, and better none. These are the basic recommendations of a 1,300-page report on diet and disease released recently by the National Research Council.

Perhaps the most important advice to emerge from the council's report is the recommendation against the use of dietary supplements such as fiber, fish oil, vitamins, and calcium. Everything a human being needs, and more, is present in a balanced diet of moderate proportions. Large additional doses of vitamins may, in fact, be poisonous. But even that ought to be self-evident.

A major disappointment with the council's report is that it raises more questions than it answers. Its dietary advice is solidly sensible, but in no way enlightening. The recommendations, in fact, are surprisingly similar to those made in 1977 in a report from the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs chaired by Sen. George McGovern. One would have expected more substantial and innovative results from the labor of 19 national Research Council scientists for three years.

Only in Chicago

The late Richard J. Daley served as mayor of Chicago for more than 20 years before his death in 1976, and in the process became the epitome of the big-city machine boss. His son, Richard M. Daley, won the Democratic nomination for mayor in the Feb. 28 primary election. Mr. Daley must run in the April 4 general election, but no Democrat has lost in a general election for mayor since 1931. The victory string included six straight wins for Mr. Daley's legendary father.

Chicago has changed since Mayor Daley's death, including the 1983 election of Harold Washington as the city's first black mayor. Mayor Washington's death in 1987 set the stage for a struggle between two black city aldermen, Timothy Evans, who is supported by former presidential candidate Jesse Jackson, and Eugene Sawyer, who was elected interim mayor following Mr. Washington's death, partially because of support from white aldermen.

If Mr. Daley is to become the new mayor, he will have to defeat Mr. Evans, who will run in the general election as an independent, and Edward Brodsky, a white former Democratic alderman who ran as a Republican against Mayor Washington in 1987 and launched a GOP write-in campaign a few days ago. In Chicago's rough-and-tumble politics, that may be no easy task.

In campaigns, justice is for sale

BLUE CREEK, W.Va. — There was a time when judicial elections were dignified proceedings befitting the supposed integrity of the office. Now, however, campaigns for state and local judgeships often are extravagant, expensive political operations.

Last year's contest in West Virginia for two seats on the State Supreme Court typifies the troubling trend. The fact that both seats were occupied by Democrats seeking re-election to new 12-year terms did not deter three other Democrats and two Republicans from entering the race.

Because West Virginia's electorate is overwhelmingly Democratic, the pivotal election was the primary in which the five Democrats competed for the party's two nominations. They collectively raised and spent more than $780,000 in a campaign that unseated one incumbent.

Contributions poured in from coal mine operators, building contractors, corporate attorneys, labor unions, business executives and others likely to have an interest in legal cases the court will consider in the future.

When Charleston Gazette reporter Norman Oder examined the process, he found knowledgeable observers aghast at the tawdry spectacle. "My judgment is this is a race that's never won on merit."

Franklin Cleckley, a professor at West Virginia University's College of Law told Oder.

Some interest groups insisted that their financial support of various candidates was motivated primarily by a desire to install judges who would limit their efforts on the bench to interpreting existing statutes rather than attempting to make new law.

But Robert Bastrea, a faculty member at the same law school, dismissed those claims as fatuous: "Every judge makes law and if someone contends otherwise, that person is either lying or a fool," he told Oder.

What transpired here has been matched — and sometimes surpassed — in other states in recent years. "After years of aiming their larger donations at Congress ... special interests have discovered the courts," says the Washington, D.C.-based public interest group Common Cause.

"More and more judges preside over cases in which at least one side has contributed substantially to putting them on the bench, raising serious questions over conflicts of interest," adds that analysis. "In the newly launched effort toward dominating the courts with cash, justice may be going to the highest bidder."

One especially tawdry example of that phenomenon surfaced in the Pennzoll Co. civil suit against Texaco Inc. that resulted in the Texas state courts awarding a record-setting $10.5 billion to Pennzoll in 1987.

Texaco objected strenuously when it discovered that a Pennzoll lawyer had given $10,000 in campaign contributions to the judge assigned to hear the case.

GEORGE F. WILL

The bill for our gluttony

WASHINGTON — While Washington has recently had its mind, such as it is, on other matters, events, and Alan Greenspan, have been pulling attention back to basics. The government is again falling at the fundamental task of maintaining the currency as a stable store of value.

"If inflation reemerges," says Greenspan, "I think a recession will move up on us much more quickly than we can imagine, and when it occurs it will be a prolonged one." So the Federal Reserve Board, chaired by Greenspan, is causing interest rates to rise.

Using the blunt instrument to control the money supply is like steering a huge ship with a small rudder through a narrow Bosphorus with strong, unpredictable crosscurrents and jagged reefs. As Fred Astaire once said to a new dance partner, "Don't be nervous — just don't make any mistakes."

Actually, the Fed began tightening last March. But history indicates that fighting inflation with small increments in interest rates is like fighting North Vietnam with minutely calibrated "graduated responses" in bombing. It is a recipe for protracted failure. But abrupt action would be too dangerous.

Long gone is the early 1960s confidence that the economy can easily be kept on an even keel by twiddling monetary policy or tweaking fiscal policy. Greenspan has no novice, but also no choice. The twin deficits, budget and trade, and the appearance already of more government gridlock and budgetary bad faith at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue, cause the Fed to worry about the fragile confidence of wary foreign lenders.

We cannot afford a recession or even a slowdown, given the dreamy optimism of the assumptions and projections the Bush administration pretends to believe and in fact is acting on. But neither can we afford inflation now that mismanagement has made the economy hostage to foreign creditors.

A nation that piles up a mountain of debt has a huge temptation to tolerate inflation as a silent, slow-motion repudiation of part of the debt. The enormous borrowing from abroad to finance the U.S. deficit has given inflation a new dangerous. "Note," says Pat Moynihan, "that in the years immediately ahead, inflation, or the threat of inflation, will take on a wholly different aspect than at any time in the past." It would be repudiation of U.S. foreign debt.

So foreigners holding, or contemplating holding, dollar-denominated assets are watching nervously and are ready to bolt. Foreigners hold $1.5 trillion in liquid U.S. assets. That is nearly double the sum just five years ago (American consumption has exceeded American production by $700 billion in five years) and the sum is increasing by $10 billion a month.

Greenspan calls today's inflation rate of between 4 and 4.5 percent "unacceptable." Michael Boskin, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, seemed less exacting when he told Congress that, "We certainly do not want inflation to drift up into the seven, nine and finally double-digit rates we saw in the late 1970s." But elsewhere Boskin has stressed the danger that 4.5 percent could come to be considered the floor.

Certainly perception of acceptability change. Inflation was about 4 percent when President Nixon and his conservative advisers considered the crisis grave enough to justify the radical act of wage and price controls. Today Republicans are content to boast that for five years inflation has not exceeded 5 percent annually. One definition of tolerable inflation is a rate low enough that it does not shape people's economic decisions. For example, fear of inflation can cause what the economy needs least: increased consumption at the expense of saving and investment by people afraid that inflation will devalue investments and make more costly any consumption that is deferred.

For most of the era in which the United States has had a national economy — since the Civil War — interest rates have been 1 or 2 percent. In the current expansion, real rates (the prime interest rate minus the inflation rate) have averaged 6.5 percent. This is partly because of the strong demand for credit, partly because of the need to build an inflation-expectation premium into rates.

Today's higher interest rates deliberately caused by a government agency, the Fed, can be considered a tax increase on credit. As one analyst says, "It's like a tax increase to the household sector, where more and more consumers have adjustable-rate mortgages" (56 percent of all mortgages now) "and personal loans pegged to the prime rate."

The Fed is saying: Read our lips. There really is no free lunch and the bill for the gluttony of the 1980s is coming due.

The Fed began tightening last March.

Medicare pays for patients' chairs

WASHINGTON — When it comes to slashing the federal budget, maybe the government should stop buying thousands of overstuffed recliner chairs for Medicare patients.

Medical supply companies bombard Medicare recipients with hard-sell pitches for $900 motorized seat-lift chairs — recliners that lift and tip forward to make it easier for a person to get out of the chair. Aggressive salespeople suggest that the owner of the chair can watch television in more comfort and "at no charge!"

There is a charge, but the taxpayers are paying it. A recent investigation by Richard Kusserow, inspector general of the Health and Human Services Department, reveals that Medicare often buys the mechanized lounge chairs for people who don't need them. Our associate Jim Lynch obtained an unreleased copy of the draft investigative report. Several firms make and distribute the chairs, but the probe focused on the sales practices of Queen City Home Health Care of Cincinnati.

The company uses television, newspapers and toll-free telephone numbers to market its lift chairs. The chairs are so popular that Queen City needs more than 60 telephone operators to field incoming calls from its huge target audience — the nation's 33 million Medicare recipients.

In one year alone, 1985, the government paid for about 700,000 chairs — a cost of $63 million.

Seat-lift chairs have been covered by Medicare as "durable medical equipment" since 1978, and there is no doubt that some people need them. But the federal government and even some doctors have carelessly abdicated responsibility for deciding who those people are.

The furniture distributors make their pitch directly to the consumer. He or she decides the chair would be a nice item to own, especially if someone else pays the bill. The doctor is often the last one to know. Doctors merely sign on the dotted line of a form sent to them by the distributor after the consumer is hooked.

In most sales, Medicare recipients get the chair at little or no cost. Medicare then pays the seller directly, and the current rate is $891.95 a chair. One investigator suggested that $636 would make more sense, based on the value of the chair. But Queen City argues that its top-dollar advertising costs warrant a reimbursement rate of more than $1,200 per chair.

Investigators were disturbed by what they see as a trend toward Medicare "consumerism" where the patients, not the doctors, are deciding what they need based on a high-pressure advertising pitch.

Investigators discovered that physicians often authorize chairs for patients they have not seen in years, or have never seen. When asked if a chair was part of the prescribed treatment for his patient, one doctor told investigators, "The patient wanted the chair and her daughter felt it would help when mom is in the living room watching TV."

In Texas, one contracted Medicare carrier trimmed its chair purchases from $7.3 million to $10,700 a year. How? Simply by reminding doctors that misrepresentation of the facts on a Medicare claim is fraud and could result in civil penalties. Suddenly their patients didn't need as many chairs.

The inspector general's report says it's time for the Health Care Finance Administration to reconsider whether the chairs qualify as "durable medical equipment." The HCFA defines that as equipment "primarily and customarily used to serve a medical purpose and ... is not useful to a person in the absence of illness or injury."

The doctor is often the last one to know.

Stocks open higher

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened higher Tuesday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues following the release of an unexpectedly weak report on February retail sales.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 24.11 Monday, was up 8.75 to 2315.00 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 543-273 among the 1,324 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Early turnover amounted to about 12,311,000 shares.

Before the market opened, the government said that retail sales slid 0.4 percent in February from a revised increase of 0.7 percent in January.

Analysts said that most forecasts had called for an increase in February sales, not a decrease, therefore the report was viewed as a sign that the Federal Reserve Board's recent efforts to curb inflationary pressures by raising interest rates may be working.

Stock prices closed sharply higher Monday in moderate trading after an early wave of futures-related buying helped to set the stage for a rally.

Retail news drops dollar

United Press International

The dollar moved lower Tuesday in early New York trading against key foreign currencies following a government report showing lower U.S. retail sales in February. Gold was higher.

The Commerce Department reported February retail sales fell 0.4 percent to a seasonally adjusted $138.2 billion.

Market watchers in New York said the report was far below market expectations of an 0.4 percent increase and could be the first signal that consumer buying interest is slackening.

Analysts said currency trading is expected to remain light until the U.S. merchandise trade report for January is issued on Wednesday.

In Tokyo, the dollar rallied against the Japanese yen, closing at 129.92 yen, up 0.35 from 129.57 yen Monday.

Dealers said Japanese banks were buying dollars following its strong showing Monday in New York.

The dollar closed in Singapore at 1.94 Singapore dollars, up slightly from 1.9385, and closed slightly lower in Hong Kong at 7.80 Hong Kong dollars, down from 7.8005 Monday.

In Europe, the dollar began the day in Frankfurt at 1.8655 West German marks, down slightly from 1.866 marks on Monday.

The dollar began the day in Zurich at 1.5973 Swiss francs, up from 1.595. In Paris, the dollar opened at 6.321 French francs, up slightly from 6.320.

The dollar opened unchanged in Brussels at 39.235 Belgian francs, and began the day in Italy at 1,368.50 Italian lire, up from 1,367.25 lire.

In London, the British pound began the day at $1.711 compared with $1.712 on Monday.

Fees

irrigated by reclaimed water. Last month the county granted the city permission to spray treated effluents on the land.

Commissioners tabled the proposed ordinance to eliminate marina launching fees on second reading. While a consensus of commissioners agreed that fees should be eliminated, no decision was made on prohibiting boat trailer parking on the marina during weekends and holidays.

The ordinance would restrict trailer parking to the municipal lot across the street from the marina on weekends. Boater Sylvia Smith said the restriction poses problems for individuals who launch their boats single-handedly. Better direction of traffic, not parking restrictions, is needed on the marina, she said.

McClanahan told Smith, "I predict it's going to be very haphazard out there." The purpose of imposing the fees was to maintain order on the marina, he said.

Discussion of the parking situation at the marina was tabled until the March 20 workshop of the commission.

The city commission also approved on first reading rezoning of 157 acres between Upsala Road and County Road 46A from agricultural to planned development and single family residential use. Hollywood developer Russell Seppiell has proposed a $40-million development for about 600 single family homes and detached townhomes.

In other action, the commission:

- Approved on second reading an ordinance establishing "one-stop permitting" for motion photography production on city streets and property.
- Approved an interlocal agreement with Seminole County transferring functional responsibility of Kennel Road to the city.

• Approved an agreement to share with Seminole County the costs of installing and maintaining traffic signals at Sanford and Celery Avenues.

• Approved on second reading an ordinance requiring city commission review of game room and arcade occupational licenses.

• Approved on second reading rezoning of property between 25th Street and Brisson Avenue from agricultural to planned unit development.

• Approved an agreement with Northstar Business Park, Ltd. donating to the city a 60-foot road right-of-way from State Road 46 to Smith Canal.

• Authorized selection of an architect for a third fire station to be built on Upsala Road near Sanford Central Park.

Shuttle

The tank was isolated from the fuel cell system overnight and NASA spokesman Brian Welch said by conserving electricity, the crew will be assured of at least a four-day mission with two additional days for contingency, a standard shuttle precaution in case bad weather delays a landing.

The crew was not in any danger.

"It should be stressed that absolutely no decision has been made at this point to shorten the mission by one day or not," he said. "It simply is a step that's prudent at this point as the analysis continues to understand everything that needs to be known before we figure out what the next steps will be."

NASA spokesman Ed Campion said if the tank cannot be brought back "on line," one option would be to shorten the five-day mission to four days, bringing Discovery back to Earth Friday instead of Saturday. Blaha was scheduled to use a large format IMAX camera Tuesday to shoot scenes of the planet below for a documentary titled "The Fragile Earth" and later in the day, Discovery was to serve as a target for optical sensors in Hawaii that may be useful to the "Star Wars" missile defense program.

The crew also planned to activate an experimental 51-foot space station heat radiator in the payload bay and to document the growth of plant seeds in an experiment to understand how weightlessness affects plant growth.

Flight director Ron Dittmore said the crew was asked to be on the lookout for increased auroral activity because of recent solar flares.

"We've near-constant communications between shuttle crews and mission control and two such satellites already were in orbit: one launched in 1983 from Challenger and one launched from Discovery Sept. 29.

Audit

safety measures. The Board of County Commissioners, Clerk of Circuit Courts and Sheriff each received recommendations that computer security measures should be taken to assure there is no unauthorized access to computer accounting records or programs.

The main security recommendation by the auditors was to change computer access passwords regularly. The auditors recommended the county give each employee a different password instead of the current practice of giving the same password to several employees in each department.

Hooper responded that the changes will be made and the passwords regularly changed every three months. Hooper said the system is secure, although there was one example of a computer services employee who changed the amount of his weekly credit union deduction without permission several years ago. Hooper said the employee was "severely reprimanded."

Sheriff John Polk responded to the auditors by saying the Sheriff's Department computer security measures were adequate.

The auditors also recommended disaster plans be put in place for the three county offices in the event an emergency or system malfunction renders the main computer systems inoperable. Although each office has backup copies of data, the auditors recommended seeking methods for an alternative computer system in case the main system is damaged.

Hooper said the auditors also recommended the county prepare an emergency manual to use to get the system started again.

The audit did find some errors had been made by the county and the Sheriff's Office. It found the county was not making interest deposits correctly into the county's 1987 Water and Sewer Bond account. Hooper said a small amount of interest may have been lost, but the problem has been corrected.

The auditors also found $99,751 from 1982 Sanlando Utilities franchise fees had not been budgeted. Acting county attorney Bob McMillan said the Public Service Commission had declared the fees illegal in 1984 but never declared the ordinance invalid. It was later repealed by commissioners, he said. McMillan said the money should be deposited in the county's general funds and used.

IN BRIEF

BASKETBALL

Celtics back above .500

The Boston Celtics' return above the .500 mark can't be traced to the usual core of players. Instead, a revamped backcourt and bench have triggered the surge.

Reggie Lewis scored 23 points and reserve guards Jim Paxson and Kelvin Upshaw triggered a 17-4 run in the opening six minutes of the second quarter Monday night, leading the Celtics to a 114-91 rout over the New Jersey Nets.

The victory gave the Celtics a record of 31-30, the first time they surpassed the .500 mark since Dec. 18.

In other NBA action Monday night, Washington defeated Seattle 106-101, Phoenix topped Miami 112-104, Chicago bombed Indiana 122-90, Milwaukee ripped Dallas 111-95, the Los Angeles Clippers upended San Antonio 115-103, Utah thumped Cleveland 98-83 and Los Angeles Lakers nipped Houston 97-96.

IDITAROD

Butcher aiming at fourth win

SHAKTOOLIK, Alaska — Intent on a fourth straight victory in the sled dog race across Alaska, Susan Butcher regained the lead Tuesday after leaving the frozen wasteland of Shaktoolik and heading across the sea ice under bright northern lights.

The 58-mile run across the ice of Norton Bay is one of the most treacherous stretches of the entire 1,168-mile Anchorage-to-Name Iditarod Sled Dog Race, but the ice appeared solid and the weather was clear and cold — perfect for racing sled dogs.

Joe Runyan led Susan Butcher into Shaktoolik by four minutes, but she slipped out ahead of him Monday night, deciding to be the first onto the frozen bay of the Bering Sea as the race entered the final two days.

Runyan decided to rest longer in Shaktoolik, four hours. Butcher rested two hours. Time spent resting could figure in determining the winner.

BASEBALL

Fame game tickets sold out

Officials of the Baseball Hall of Fame announced Monday the annual game that accompanies induction ceremonies has sold out.

Hall of Fame Director Howard Talbot said over-the-counter tickets went quickly for the Hall of Fame Game, which this year sends the Boston Red Sox against the Cincinnati Reds on Monday, July 24.

The remainder of the tickets for 9,800-seat Doubleday Field were sold through mail order.

Hall of Fame induction ceremonies will be held Sunday, July 23. Former Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench, former Red Sox star Carl Yastrzemski, former Cardinals infielder Red Schoendienst and former umpire Al Barlick will be enshrined at that time.

HOCKEY

New Yorkers grab big wins

The two best teams in the NHL lost Monday night to a pair of struggling teams from New York.

The New York Rangers snapped their five-game losing streak with a 4-3 decision over the Calgary Flames, while the New York Islanders posted a 5-3 victory over Montreal that snapped the Canadiens' five-game winning streak.

The Rangers moved into a first-place tie with Washington in the Patrick Division, each team with 78 points. Pittsburgh is third with 77 points. The Islanders, once a perennial power, are last in the division.

At New York, Tomas Sandstrom's second goal of the game broke a 3-3 tie with 4:59 remaining to lift the Rangers and snap Calgary's three-game unbeaten streak.

At Montreal, Bryan Trottler broke a 3-3 tie with 2:31 remaining as part of a three-goal outburst in the third period. The Islanders trailed 3-2 after two periods, but tied the score at 14:19 on an unassisted goal by David Volek.

From Sanford to Europe

Pearson hopes to represent area across the sea with Track Florida

While her specialty is the 110 hurdles, Seminole's Michelle Pearson also runs other events, like the 220-yard dash in last Friday's Lyman Invationals.

By MARK BLYTHE
 Herald sports writer

Seminole High School senior Michelle Pearson, who has the state's fastest time in the 110 low hurdles at this point in the track season, will have a chance to show her talents in Europe this summer with the select Track Florida team.

In order for Pearson to reach Europe, she must raise $1,800.00 for the trip. Pearson was invited to the trip after participating on the Track Florida team last year and doing well.

"I did well last year but not as well as I wanted to," Pearson said. "I want to win this year. If not, I want to place well and have a good performance."

Pearson has concentrated on the 110's for her entire four years at Seminole and proved this past Friday night in the Lyman Invitational that she is a contender for the state title as she cruised with a winning time of 14.5.

"The state meet was won with a time of 14.2 last year," Seminole girls track coach Emory Blake said. "I have to feel she's on pace to reach that time, if not go under it. She ran 14.5 tonight in terrible conditions and on a track that doesn't produce great times."

Pearson won the event by over three seconds. With a little competition, both she and Blake feel she can drop her time into the low 14's.

Pearson's first goal is the state meet title then she'll begin to concentrate on the Track Florida competition. The Track Florida trip will give Pearson a chance to participate against some of Europe's top athletes and give her the opportunity to see some of the world.

"This is a chance for me to see someplace I doubted I would ever go," Pearson said. "I'll train hard over the summer and go do the very best I can."

Blake is pleased to see that Pearson will be given the chance to go on past the state level of competition and show others what she can do in her event. Blake has been Pearson's mentor for her entire career at Seminole and is well aware of her capabilities.

"Michelle can compete on the national level," Blake said. "I'm glad she was selected to Track Florida so she can show what she can really do. She's competed on every other level and competed well and I feel she'll have no problem doing the same on the national level."

Blake is also pleased with the way Pearson has dedicated herself to the event and to track and field. Pearson is in training year round and has been in top shape since her freshman season.

"She dedicated herself to the sport and to our team after her first year," Blake said. "She stays in great shape and does a lot of running during the off season."

Pearson will now take everything day by day to reach her ultimate goal of reaching Europe over the summer. The first step is obtaining the funds for the trip and the second is getting their and running well.

During her stay she, which will last 12 days, she will compete in several meets, she will see two Grand Prix Championships which include Olympic Champions and will tour Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Germany.

Anyone wishing to help in Pearson's cause should forward their support to Michelle Pearson, 1327 Elliott Street, Sanford 32771.

Lady Raiders sweep past Valencia CC

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald correspondent

ORLANDO — The Lady Raiders softball team of Seminole Community College rolled to its seventh straight win (all on the road) with a doubleheader sweep of arch rival Valencia Community College by the scores of 8-3 and 6-1 in Mid-Florida Conference action Friday at Matador Field in Orlando.

The wins pushed the Lady Raiders, under Coach Heana Gallagher, to 17-7 overall and 6-2 in conference play. The Lady Raiders have two conference dates this week playing double headers at Florida Community College at Jacksonville Tuesday and returning home to play Santa Fe Community College Thursday. Game times are 3:00 p.m.

SCC plays in the Lady Matador tournament back at Valencia in Orlando Friday and Saturday.

The Lady Raiders continued their hot hitting, pounding out 28 hits, including 18 in the opening game. Julie Clark and Kim King led the way with four hits each and Theresa Lisk, Jaudon Jonas, Sue Migliori, Kim Fralix, and Jaqueline Story had three hits each. Tracie Smith added two hits and scored four runs, and Jessica Bradley and Stephanie Woodard contributed one hit to the Lady Raider attack.

Meanwhile the Seminole defense, led by pitcher Lisk, held Valencia to only 14 hits in the two contests, including only five harmless singles in the nightcap.

SCC got off to a fast start in the opener as Clark led off with a triple and scored on a single by Smith. Smith moved to second on a single by King and scored on a single by Migliori to take a 2-0 lead.

The Lady Raiders added to the lead with a home run in the third from Smith, going up 3-0, then put the game away with four runs in the fourth to make the score 7-0.

Consecutive singles by Jonas, Woodard, Story, and Clark opened the scoring in the fourth. A sacrifice

Junior pitcher Steve Friesner (No. 14) was the victim of a lack of defensive support by his teammates in Lake Howell's 8-6 loss to Seabreeze on Monday. The Silver

Lake Howell can't get out of early hole against Seabreeze

From Staff Reports

Lake Howell committed five errors in the first two innings allowing Seabreeze to jump to an eight-run lead and hang on to take an 8-6 win in prep baseball action Monday afternoon at Lake Howell.

The Sandcrabs improved to 7-6 for the season. The Silver Hawks dropped to 4-10 overall and will return to action Friday night at Oviedo at 7.

"We gave one away today," Lake Howell coach Birto Benjamin said. "We gave up too many runs in the early innings, then had a chance to get back in it but couldn't come up with the big base hit."

Seabreeze opened the game with four runs in the top of the first inning with Danny Biggers leading off by reaching on an error. Elliot Byers then singled before Jerry Hinge reached on an error that loaded the bases.

Scott Roscoe then stroked a two run single followed by a ground out that plated another run. Roscoe then stole third and scored on a Kevin Spicer flyout to give the Sandcrabs a 4-0 lead.

Seabreeze took command of the game in the top of the second inning when it came up with four more runs thanks to three errors, two walks and three base hits.

Littrell Hull led the inning off with a single and advanced to second on a wild pitch. Jeremy Perez then hit a deep fly to right that sent Hull to third. Biggers then reached on an error that scored Hull and upped the lead to 5-0.

Byers then walked and Hinge reached on a single. Hinge's single was misplayed by the Silver Hawk left fielder and allowed two runs to score with Hinge moving to third. After the first out of the inning Jason

Specializing doesn't always help athletes

What I have here is a quandry. I was all set to discuss the relative evils of young men and women, even those you would consider children, specializing in a single sport. I had all the arguments ready, but then someone came along and gently disarmed them.

SPORTS
TONY DeSORMIER

While she may not know it, Seminole's Michelle Pearson (see related story, Page 1B), is the exception to this particular rule. All the negatives that you could forecast for someone who specializes in a sport in high school have been turned around.

A top track athlete at Seminole High School, Pearson has been invited to participate with Track Florida, a select group of track and field athletes. Part of her involvement will include a trip to Europe this summer, a venture for which she is now trying to raise funds.

Here's a young woman who has concentrated solely on her sport year 'round and to the exclusion of others and it will pay off for her with an opportunity to compete on a superior level and see a part of the world she might not have otherwise had the opportunity to visit.

Obviously, Pearson is a special young woman. Rather than let the sport be her master, she seems to have mastered it into serving her well. That's quite an accomplishment.

But that's not always the case. To often do you hear of athletes who do nothing but play one sport all year and end up seeing their abilities fall off. Burnout, a term coined for the stress suffered in the work place, is becoming an all-too-frequent buzzword around sports and, alarmingly, being used in reference to boys and girls.

If you follow the local sports scene, you don't see the transition of an athlete from one sport to another like you used to. Now, a prep football player is more likely to spend the winter in the weight room and the spring at spring football practice rather than wrestle, then run track.

Dean Smith, a correspondent for the Sanford Herald and a Seminole High School graduate, remembers when the Tribe basketball team would always get a lift as soon as football season ended, then the baseball team would get a charge from more athletes once the hoop season was over.

You still see some of that, especially at Seminole. Early in this track season (while basketball season was finishing), the Lady Seminoles — who are the defending 3A state champs the last two years — were finishing in the middle of the pack at meets. The first meet after the basketball season ended, Seminole won going away.

But you don't see enough of it. And except for special people like Michelle Pearson, it's hurting the athletes.

Hawks

Hirsch singled in Hinge to give the Sandcrabs an 8-0 advantage. Lake Howell managed to get on the scoreboard in the bottom of the fourth inning when Chris Trier and Craig Smith led off with back to back doubles. Bobby Moose then walked, a passed ball then moved Smith up and he scored on a flyout by Mike Lowe. Bobby Lieflander then singled in a run to cut the lead to 8-3.

The Silver Hawks had a chance to narrow the lead in the inning as after Lieflander's single Ethan Bower singled and Jerry Reayme walked to load the bases. Lake Howell couldn't get the timely hit, though, and ended the inning down five runs.

fifth inning with Trier leading off with a single. Smith then walked and both runners advanced on a sacrifice by Moose. Lowe then grounded out to third to score one before Lieflander connected on a run scoring single to trim the lead to 8-5.

The Silver Hawks completed their scoring in the bottom of the seventh as, after one out, Smith singled and moved to third when Moose reached on a walk. Two consecutive ground outs, the first scoring Smith, completed the game.

Glad for the shad

David Chacey, president of the Sanford Lions Club, stands with the proud overall winner of the Lions' Shad Fishing Tournament for the Blind, Jackie Gideons. Gideons caught the largest fish in the Feb. 24 tournament at Mullet Lake, southeast of Sanford. Her mother, Laurene, caught the most fish—about 15 pounds. Weight management classes set at CFRH

SANFORD — For the convenience of women who have children in school during the morning hours, a "Weight Management" class has been scheduled by HCA Central Florida Regional Hospital starting April 6.

A free introductory session is planned for 10-11 a.m., with the skills development classes to be held from 10-11:30 a.m. on Mondays and Thursdays, April 10, 13, 17 and 20.

"It's your chance to see a sampling of our proven weight loss techniques without cost or obligation," said Nicole Reeves-Baulch, R.D., in speaking of the free introductory course. Reeves-Baulch, a CFRH dietitian, is the instructor.

Maintenance classes are scheduled for Thursdays from 10-11 a.m. on April 27 and May 4, 11, 18 and 25.

Root causes of overeating and being overweight, rather than symptoms only, will be addressed. Behavior modifications are shown to replace pills, fad diets and other short-term solutions with a step-by-step weight management method based on sound medical and behavioral research.

During the maintenance phase, fats, cholesterol, sugar, salt, fiber and eating out will be discussed. How to read a food label and grocery shopping also will be explored.

The $100 fee for the seven-week course includes the nine classes, program materials and one-year membership, which allows an attendee to participate free in future classes during that year.

For more information and registration, call CFRH at 321-4500 or 688-4441, ext. 607, and ask for Nicole Reeves-Baulch.

Friend should keep quiet

DEAR READERS: While "Feeling Rotten" was the houseguest of her best friend, who had a live-in lover, "F.R." was awakened in the middle of the night by the lover, who wanted sex. He got it, and that's why "Feeling Rotten" is feeling rotten. She asked, "Should I tell my best friend?" In yesterday's column were letters saying, "Yes, tell." Today, we have the "don't-tells." Read on:

DEAR ABBY: "Feeling Rotten" should keep her mouth shut. When I was young, I found out that my best friend's fiancé was cheating on her (not with me). I did what I thought was right—I told her. She confronted him, and he denied everything. She chose to believe him. That ended our friendship. By the way, she married him, and they are now happily married grandparents. Maybe I should have minded my own business.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

NOBY IN NEWARK

DEAR ABBY: When my husband was in Vietnam, the husbands of two of my best friends propositioned me. I turned them down and never said a word to their wives or anybody else. We are still good friends. What would have been gained by telling? I didn't lie—I just kept my mouth shut.

CINCINNATI LADY

DEAR ABBY: I have been on both sides of this situation, and I know from experience it's best to keep quiet. A few years ago, I visited my best friend and her husband in Hawaii. I was not married at the time. One night after a party cruise, unusual circumstances brought her husband and me alone together on a beautiful beach under a full moon. It was indescribably romantic. It happened.

The guilt didn't set in until the next morning, but I would have died before I confessed this sin to my best friend.

Today, they are happily married and so am I. It would have been selfish and cruel of me to tell her.

I was also cheated on. I married a wonderful man whom I loved with all my heart. You cannot imagine the hurt I felt when a good friend of mine came to me and confessed that she had had a short affair with my husband. I forgave him. But I never forgave her.

TORONTO SUN READER

DEAR ABBY: Regarding

"Feeling Rotten," who slept with her best friend's live-in boyfriend and is now wondering if she should confess to her friend and risk losing her friendship: Give me a break! If she had really been a friend, she would have kicked that two-timing loser out of her bedroom. To have "let him"—regardless of how hard up and lonely she was—was inexcusable. If she has an ounce of decency in her, she will stay out of this friend's life, and keep her mouth shut.

MAZOOK IN NOE VALLEY

DEAR ABBY: I had a problem similar to "Feeling Rotten's": My best friend, who also had a live-in boyfriend, had a party at their house. I got a little intoxicated, and they let me sleep in their spare room so I wouldn't have to drive home. Well, at 3 a.m., I was awakened by the boyfriend as he started to climb into my bed. I told him to get out or I would scream! He left and I quietly dressed and drove home.

I never said a word to anyone about this, and now I'm glad I didn't because they've been happily married for 15 years and have three wonderful kids. He thanked me several times for keeping quiet.

MUM'S THE WORD IN MINNEAPOLIS

DEAR ABBY: "Feeling Rotten" has no right to cleanse her conscience in the tears of her best friend. My advice: Don't compound the mess by confessing. You will only make your friend feel angry, bitter and depressed, which will give you even more to feel guilty about. There's a good chance that she knows him for what he is but loves him anyway. If you tell her what happened, she might think you came on to him, or he might even tell her that you did in order to protect himself. You've done enough harm already. Keep your lip zipped.

Rick Elliott specializes in discount waterbeds. Low prices always found at Waterbed Clearance Center. Before opening Waterbed Clearance Center at 1140 E. State Street in Sanford, owner Rick Elliott was selling his merchandise at Flea World. Finding a great deal of success as a discount dealer, Elliott expanded his business to include waterbed manufacturing as well, but he soon returned to retail business where he felt he could better serve the public. In August 1987 he opened Waterbed Clearance Center in its current location in the J.C. Penney Plaza where he sells a full line of waterbeds, accessory furniture, sheets, linens, comforters and chemicals. Waterbed Clearance Center also does repairs on waterbed equipment. "We use everyday low prices," said Elliott, who can always be found at the store. Elliott challenges you to shop at any waterbed store in the area. He GUARANTEES you won't find a less expensive price than he can offer. You have his word on it.

Thyroid tests pose no health hazards

DEAR DR. GOTT: My daughter is 40. She had a physical, and the doctor felt two lumps on her thyroid. Now she has to have some tests. She has to drive a long distance. Are there any side effects to these tests?

DEAR READER: Thyroid nodules are made up of either solid tissue or fluid-filled cysts. Also, nodules may "function" (produce thyroid hormone) or be "non-functioning" (inert).

Therefore, the investigation of thyroid "lumps" serves to define their location and size, and their functional status.

I don't know which tests your daughter's physician has chosen, but I suspect he will order a thyroid scan and an ultrasound examination.

During the scan, a small amount of radioactive material (isotope) is administered to the patient; this material is concentrated in the thyroid gland. Sometime later, the patient is scanned and the isotope distribution is measured. In a normal thyroid gland, this distribution is uniform.

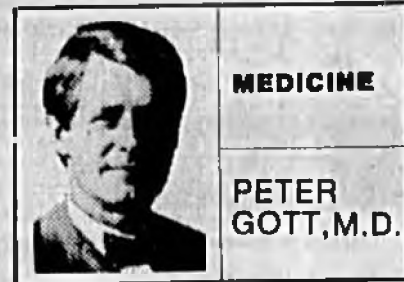

Functioning nodules absorb more isotope than does the surrounding healthy tissue; a scan will show "hot spots," smallish areas of increased uptake. This is a favorable result because, being functioning structures, these nodules are normal, as opposed to tumors and cysts.

On the other hand, non-functioning nodules appear as "cold spots," areas devoid of isotope activity. This can be worrisome because non-functioning tissue raises the possibility of tumors.

In such cases, the ultrasound exam will furnish important information to resolve the issue. By beaming high-frequency sound waves at the thyroid gland and measuring the bounce-back signal, specialists can determine the consistency of the tissue being examined. Firm structures show an ultrasound pattern that is different from the picture of fluid-filled cysts. Cysts can usually be ignored. Non-functioning, solid nodules often must be biopsied.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

After East's diamond overcall, North downgraded his diamond king but still raised to three hearts. Since South had stretched to bid two hearts, he was happy to settle for a part-score. This deal demonstrates how the level of the contract affects the proper play in the trump suit. The normal percentage play is to have the queen. That is right because West might hold A-Q-2, in which case playing the king will lose a trick. Today's South went set because he played the jack of hearts and let it ride. The defenders made two diamond tricks, two heart tricks and eventually the king of spades. Was there a reason declarer should do better?

Needing only nine tricks, declarer will always succeed when the spade king is with West. He should therefore assume East holds that card and then try to locate the key trump cards on that basis. The question declarer should ask is: if East holds the spade king, the diamond A-Q, and either the heart ace or a void in the heart suit, would he not bid four diamonds rather than allow South to play in three hearts? Very likely. And so declarer should play West for the ace of hearts by going up with dummy's king, dropping East's queen. But what if South's contract were four hearts? Now he needs the king of spades to be onside, so he should play for East to hold the heart ace rather than the spade king. That's why on this deal the level of the contract guides the declarer's play.

HOROSCOPE

YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 15, 1989

Advancement in your chosen field of endeavor is a strong possibility in the year ahead. You may be given greater responsibility, but you'll also receive greater remuneration.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You should be reasonably safe today in taking chances on things that you have carefully thought through, but if you exceed a calculated risk, you may be asking for trouble. Pisces, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Strides can be made where your career is concerned today, but be realistic regarding your expectations. Don't let your desires extend beyond your reach.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You might have second thoughts regarding an arrangement upon which you hastily agreed. If you feel there are inequities, try to correct them today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In any commercial transaction today be careful the price isn't raised or the terms altered after the deal is set.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Partnership arrangements must be handled with intelligence and tact today. If there is not harmony of purpose, the measures taken could turn out to be counterproductive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Not much of value will be accomplished today if your ego impels you to defend your mistakes instead of owning up to them and correcting them. Play it smart.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is not a good day to play favorites, because friends might be a trifle more sensitive than usual. Pals you neglect aren't apt to readily forget slights.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your present objectives and goals can be gratified today without resorting to tactics that you wouldn't be proud to tell associates you used.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If a smart friend gives you a good idea today try to utilize it in the manner outlined. If you make alterations, it could lessen its effectiveness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be careful of financial involvements today where you are required to make a greater investment than the other participants. If it starts off wrong, chances are it'll end up wrong.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There's a possibility you might misinterpret the motives of someone today who may try too hard to be cooperative. Be sure there is a sound basis for your suspicions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's not a wise policy for you to gossip with co-workers today about something a superior told you in confidence. Keep confidential company matters secret.
