McClanahan Rebukes P&Z For 'Opinion' Rulings

Sanford Commissioner A. A. McClanahan says some Planning and Zoning Board members use "too damn much personal opinion" instead of relying on city code to judge site plans. McClanahan's charge came during Monday's city commission meeting and was rebutted by P&Z chairman John Morris.

Morris said the nine member board "has the city's best interests at heart," and that the group finds its efforts to improve Sanford hampered at times by outdated or inappropriate city codes. The P&Z is reviewing the codes to develop applicable updates and remove inconsistencies, Morris said. The review is part of board programs Morris came to the meeting to describe.

McClanahan's charges came at the tail end of the meeting, when a developer asked commissioners to approve a site plan the P&Z denied on a 5-4 vote Thursday.

Although commissioners declined to address the appeal until next week, during discussion of the project on Monday staff concurred that the developer had worked since late last week to eradicate their concerns about dumpster locations and buffer landscaping.

The 140-unit project is slated for 10 acres bordered by Hartwell and Georgia avenues and 24th and 25th streets.

P&Z member Brent Carli added several reservations to city staffs concerns during a sharp criticism that preceded his motion for site plan denial Thursday.

Carli had accused the developer, Joseph Kantor, of "just throwing 140 apartments at us without giving anything back to benefit the community."

McClanahan said city code, not "personal opinion," should guide board reviews. "The

Contract To Start Center Restoration

After considerable debate, Sanford commissioners voted 3-2 Monday to approve a $16,578 contract for restoration of the city's cultural arts center.

Commissioners A. A. McClanahan and Whitey Eckstein voted in opposition to the contract that will use up about one-fifth of the $100,000 budgeted for a restoration that is estimated to cost at least $185,000.

As approved by commissioners John Mercer, Bob Thomas and Mayor Bettye Smith, the architect will design a full rehabilitation for the aged structure, but repairs will be done based on available funds. In addition to roughly $80,000 left in budget funds, now that the architect contract has been awarded, the city will apply for a $50,000 project grant this spring to aid the restoration.

Additional support, through fundraisers and labor, will probably be provided by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce cultural arts committee and the Sanford-Seminole Art Society, according to comments the groups' representatives made Monday.

Bettye Reagan, local artist and head of the chamber cultural committee, urged commissioners Monday to "look forward, not backward." In approving the architects award, "The city of Sanford has an opportunity to acquire a cultural center, don't lose it," she said.

Mercer, Thomas and Mrs. Smith concurred with Mrs. Reagan's sentiment in voting for the award. McClanahan, instead, proposed the city save the $100,000 by giving the center to the cultural groups to fix up. The sale could be for a dollar, with a reverter clause if the center was not maintained for cultural purposes, McClanahan said.

When that proposal went without commission support McClanahan made a formal motion commissioners table the architects' award to allow more consideration of cost factors. His motion was supported by Eckstein, but opposed by the three other commissioners.

The motion to approve the architects contract came from Mercer. It includes a requirement for incremental steps towards repairing the project, rather than immediately providing funding for the estimated $185,000 total effort.

The architect, Jerry Mills, said he does not yet know how much repair can be made with the roughly $80,000 that remains from the $100,000 budget amount.

Farewell To The Chief

Sanford firefighters give final salute to former Fire Chief George Manning Harriett Monday as pallbearers carry the casket from Sanford Alliance Church where the funeral was held. Four hundred persons, including city and county officials, friends, relatives and police and firefighters from several communities, filled the church and overflowed on to the churchyard. Sanford City Commissioners observed a moment of silence in his memory at Monday night's meeting.

Turnout Exceeding Capacity

Teen Center's Success Spurs Drive To Expand

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Capacity crowds are leading a move to nearly triple the size of Sanford City Lights, the teen dance club local parents opened two months ago in a 4,500-square-foot shop at Fairway Plaza, off 27th Street and French Avenue.

Weekend turnouts are so large sometimes individuals must be turned away because they exceed the club's 300 person capacity, said club founder Rene Rowan. "They're coming from as far away as Apopka and Altamonte Springs" to take to City Light's 2,200-square-foot dance floor.

"We're thinking of putting a sign up on the roof: 'Watch out Rosie O'Grady's,'" Mrs. Rowan said.

Plans call for City Lights to receive a roughly 9,500-square-foot addition by knocking down a wall and transforming an adjacent breezeway and vacant shop into a second dance floor, possibly multi-leveled, with a sitting area, she said.

Response to City Lights 'shows that our teens were just waiting for something like this.'

—Rene Rowan
Founder

Mrs. Rowan founded City Lights with Sanford residents Carol Conway and Kelvin Wilson in December. The club offers local youth an alternative to "nothing," Mrs. Rowan said.

Discussions are underway with Fairway's owners for the expansion, according to Mrs. Rowan, who said much of City Lights' $3 admission charge is being put aside to help fund the additions. "It's all going to go back in, because the demand is so great."

The club was opened with private funding, bolstered by some fundraisers, like garage sales, she said. It is not operating at a profit, especially in light of expansion plans, and if the enterprise does begin making money, its founders will incorporate as a small business, she said.

Response to City Lights "shows that our teens were just waiting for something like this," according to Mrs. Rowan, who said her daughter, a Seminole High school student, is among the club's regulars.

Expansion plans call for the new dance floor "to be huge," possibly 6,000-square-feet, Mrs. Rowan said. It would be for teens aged 16 to 19, while the existing floor would be for those age 12 to 15, she said. The dance areas would be separated by tables set up in the breezeway and the City Lights motif of painted stars and a city skyline would be continued into the new areas, she said.

City Lights regularly features a DJ and also has live bands about once a month, Mrs. Rowan said. The club is open Friday and Saturday nights, from 7:30 to midnight. Supervision is by nine adults, including two off-duty Sanford police officers the operators pay, Mrs. Rowan said.

Sanford Set To Block County Fees

Winter Springs Clamps 3-Month Ban

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford commissioners took the first step Monday to block Seminole County from collecting transportation impact fees in the city for six months. The move came on a 4-1 vote, with Mayor Bettye Smith opposed. Winter Springs, meanwhile, voted-in a three month moratorium on the fee collections.

A vote that could finalize Sanford's action is scheduled for March 9, before the county's March 18 meeting designed to explain the fees to representatives of its seven cities.

And, county officials say, the cities' actions has not slowed the county efforts to get the fees in place.

"We are still going to go ahead with the ordinance because we need to get the formalized impact fees in place," said Montye Beamer, assistant county administrator. The county commission was set to discuss the issue at a work session today.

Ms. Beamer said the county's fee policy is temporary and by state law the county has to formalize the policy by ordinance. She said county officials believe the county does have the legal right to formalize the fees.

"We have been working with the cities to resolve the issues," Ms. Beamer added.

Mayor Smith, though voting against the moratorium, said she does not support the fee system the county plans to adopt March 24. But she said she wished there was an alternative to formal action against it.

"I have real problems with this (the ordinance), but it might be the right way to go. It's just that we're trying desperately to get along with the county and I would prefer there be some other way to do this."

Sanford staff and the commission majority said the ordinance will tell the county Sanford feels more time is needed before the fees are adopted. The moratorium will give the governments time to work out their differences regarding the fees, Sanford staff said.

All seven cities have expressed concerns over the fees, according to county officials. As proposed, they will be charged against new development throughout the county to pay for growth-necessitated road improvements.

'I feel much work needs to be done before the adoption and implementation of a county-wide impact fee which is fair, equitable, defensible, and based on the best available data and projections.'

—Bill Simmons
Planning Director

Correspondence submitted to the county this winter shows city representatives take issue with an alleged lack of input for the fee systems' preparation, the roads the fees will be used to service and population and demographic data used to develop growth projections.

The Sanford moratorium will give the county "incentive" to work with the city towards a mutually agreeable fee collection system and a list of roads the charge will be applied to, according to Sanford Engineering and Planning Director Bill Simmons.

Simmons said growth throughout the county does warrant an impact fee system, but not the one as presently proposed.

"I feel much work needs to be done before the adoption and implementation of a county-wide impact fee which is fair, equitable, defensible, and based on best available data and projections," he said.

Sanford commissioners and staff cited numerous concerns about the fees during a work session last week with county representatives. The charges would run $45.45 for every single family home built in Sanford and be commensurately higher for larger developments.

City Attorney William Colbert said while the city's move to block the fees collection by ordinance is felt to be legal, the county's ordinance to establish the fee system may not be. Colbert said he and city attorneys in Winter Springs and Casselberry are questioning aspects of the fee system, including the county's legal right to levy the charge in municipal areas.

'So Big ... Deal,' Driver Says

$10,000 Damage Done As Car Crashes Bedroom

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

An apparently intoxicated man who drove his car into a bedroom of a Fern Park neighbor's home at about 1:30 p.m. Monday remained jailed early Tuesday after having been charged with driving under the influence, driving with a suspended license and resisting arrest without violence.

Gary Russell Ott, 30, of Sandlewood Court, Fern Park, has been charged in the case. Ott was arrested by Florida Highway Patrol trooper Ron Davis after Ott lost control of his car and drove into a bedroom of the home of David Phillips of 2204 Sandlewood Court. There were no injuries reported.

The girl whose room was damaged was at school at the time of the accident. Phillips was asleep in another bedroom, an arrest report said.

Davis reported that Ott's green, 1976 Oldsmobile struck a parked car on Sandlewood Court. The vehicle veered across a couple of yards and stopped in the bedroom of Phillips' home. Davis said there was $10,000 damage to the home and car.

Davis reported when he arrived at the scene Ott was outside his car staggering around. Phillips and Seminole County sheriff's deputy Kipton Younger were trying to hold Ott up.

Ott tried to walk past Davis and refused to cooperate, saying he wanted to go home, Davis reported. Ott was reportedly loud and unruly and had to be restrained and handcuffed.

Ott was transported to the Seminole County jail by Younger and at the jail refused to take a blood alcohol level test or any other tests, Davis reported.

A computer check showed Ott's driver's license has been suspended twice. He had been check at the scene of the accident by fire department rescue workers and Davis said Ott, who is a construction worker, was not injured.

When told of the amount of damage done to the home Ott allegedly said, "So, big ... deal."

Gunman Lurks At I-4 Rest Stop

Two men reported that they were faced by a gun-wielding robber in the men's restroom of the west-bound rest area of Interstate 4 in Longwood shortly before 5:30 a.m. today.

The victims were not together and each separately reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies their confrontation with the gunman.

Jerald Roe McCoy, 49, of Ponte Vedra, told deputies that at about 5:20 a.m. when he was in the urinal area of the restroom he was approached from behind by a man who put a gun to the back of his head. The man said, "Don't turn around man or I'll blow your head off."

McCoy turned around and the suspect shoved him against a wall

POLICE IN BRIEF

Police Chase Ends With Driver, Other Car Occupants, Arrested

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy who pursued a speeding, fleeing car from Summerlin Avenue to Wynnewood Street, Sanford, arrested a Tampa man, believed to have been the driver, on warrants for burglary, grand theft, dealing in stolen property and violation of probation. Jonathan Carl William, 21, was arrested at about 3:40 p.m. Sunday and was being held without bond.

Three other occupants of the car were arrested on a charge of obstruction of justice after a witness told the deputy that he had seen the male passenger change seats with driver when the car stopped during the pursuit.

That passenger and two women in the car all allegedly told police that the passenger had been driving the car. The deputy believed the witness' account and arrested Wilbert Williams, 26, of Route 2, Box 200B, Lincoln St., Sanford, along with Betty Joann Brown, 19, of the same address, and Shirley Anne Williams, 18, of Tampa. Those three have been released on $500 bond each to appear in court March 4.

Sleeping Man Awakes To Arrest

A man found sleeping in his car behind a 7-Eleven in Lake Mary was arrested early Monday morning, according to a police report.

John Harold Scaggs, 55, was arrested after it was determined by a police check that there was a warrant for his arrest from the Washington County Sheriff's Office, in Chipley, Florida. Lake Mary police officer Kreig Raffety made the arrest at 3:33 a.m. Scaggs was taken to the Seminole County Jail, according to the police report.

Boxer Bites Fence Climber

A boxer dog known as "Tank" bit Ronald Covington, 23, 615 S. Park Ave., Sanford, as he attempted to climb over the fence at 907 S. Park Ave. the dog's owner, Joan King, 29, reported to police. She said a section of the chain link fence was crushed where the bite incident occurred and that animal control was notified. Mrs. King agreed to quarantine the dog at her veterinarian's clinic, a police report said.

Man Jailed For Threat With Gun

Casselberry police report the arrest of a 43-year-old man at his home at 1196 Helen St., Casselberry, at 11:12 p.m. Sunday, after he allegedly threatened his wife with a shotgun.

Police said they met Elizabeth Mary Pruitt, 32, of the above address, at 1201 Helen St., at about 11 p.m. She told them, "He threatened to kill me and my baby is inside (the home)."

Police went to the home and checked on the child and reported finding a shotgun in a bedroom. Walter Edward Pruitt has been charged in the case and was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond on a charge of aggravated assault and spouse abuse.

Driving Under Influence Arrest

The following person has been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Frederick A. Dakin Jr., 32, of 205 W. Woodmere Ave., Sanford, at 8:55 p.m. Saturday after his car was in an accident on Florida Avenue at U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford. He was also charged with driving without a license and running a red light.

Street Fighter Subdued, Arrested

Seminole County sheriff's Lt. Donald Eslinger reported rescinding along with deputy Steve Shapero to a reported fight in progress on Fairmont Drive, Sanford, at about 8:20 p.m. Saturday.

Eslinger reported seeing a man hitting Gabe Devories, 30, of 314 Fairmont Drive, in the face. Eslinger separated the pair and physically subdued the suspect in the street, with traffic being stopped during the fight.

Duane Timothy Immick, 21, of 302 Fairmont Drive, Sanford, has been charged with battery and disorderly conduct. He was being held in lieu of $500 bond. A reason for the initial fight was not given in the arrest report.

Boy's Eye Injured By Playmate

A 10-year-old playmate of Jimmy Lamar Boston, 8, of 2009 James Drive, Oviedo, reportedly hit Jimmy in the left eye with a piece of plastic pipe when they were playing in Jimmy's yard at about 6 p.m. Thursday.

Jimmy was transported to Winter Park Memorial Hospital in Winter Park, where his mother, Louise Graham, 29, of the same address, said he remained Saturday morning. Ms. Graham said Jimmy was "doing pretty good," after having been in serious condition Friday. She said she didn't know if his vision will be impaired.

Ms. Graham told Seminole County sheriff's deputies Friday that she had tried to talk to the mother of the Oviedo boy who allegedly hit her son.

Forgery Found In Stolen Check Case

A 36-year-old Winter Springs man who allegedly tried to deposit a forged check and get cash back has been arrested.

A Barnett Bank employee called Winter Springs police to the bank, 110 E. State Road 434, at about noon Saturday when the man tried to deposit $2,000 and get $600 cash back with a $2,600 check drawn on Sun Bank.

But he apparently tried to deposit the money with a stolen deposit slip.

And a check with Sun Bank showed the account the check was drawn on was closed Feb. 5 and the check presented was dated Feb. 17, a police report said.

Police were told by bank officials there were several irregularities with the check, including that, although the back of the check had been stamped with two rubber stamps in the names of two people, the check had not been endorsed.

The man with the check could not tell police where the other persons named on the check might be. Police traced the woman who owned the deposit slip and her business partner told police the deposit slip had been stolen and the suspect was a former employee of their business, the report said.

Stephan Gray, of 115 Hayes Road, Winter Springs had been charged with forgery and uttering a forgery. He has been released on $500 bond to appear in court March 9.

3 Nabbed In Burglary To Model Home

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

An Orlando woman who leased a U-Haul truck that Winter Springs police found Saturday filled with about $10,000 in furniture and appliances stolen from a model home has been charged with burglary and grand theft.

Patricia J. Muir, 30, was arrested at 1403 Lake Shore Drive, Casselberry, at 12:47 a.m. Sunday while her boyfriend and another man were being sought, nabbed and charged with burglary and grand theft in the case.

The items were taken from the Ryland Homes Vineyard development in Winter Springs.

Police Lt. B. Taylor reported spotting the truck leaving the burglarized home at about 8:37 p.m. Saturday. He followed it to Inglenook Road where the two occupants jumped out of the truck and left the vehicle with its engine running. The two ran into woods and Taylor chased the passenger, who got away. That man was nabbed by another officer who found him at 148 Hayes Road. David Milton Reavis, 38, of 1309 Sterling Oak Drive, Casselberry, was arrested. He was also charged with loitering and prowling.

In the meantime other officers had arrived at the burglarized home and the abandoned truck. Inside the truck they reported finding about $10,000 worth of home furnishings stolen from that home.

Police issued a bulletin for the driver of the truck. Webb Hobson, of 84 B Marlin Road, Winter Springs, reported to police that he had heard the description on his police radio scanner. Hobson said he had just taken a man matching the suspect's description to Cumberland Farms, State Road 434, Winter Springs, where at about 12:19 a.m. Sunday that man had been picked up by another man driving a white Dodge. Hobson said the suspect had come to his home and asked to use his phone to call someone to pick him up. Hobson agreed to give the suspect a ride to Cumberland Farms.

After he reported the incident, Hobson helped a police artist draw a picture of the suspect.

Police had determined that Ms. Muir had leased the truck and she was located and questioned. She reportedly said she didn't know the whereabouts of the truck, but her boyfriend was supposed to be using it to move her furniture. She was arrested.

Tony Diamond, 26, of 3394 Cedar Springs Place, Winter Park, who is reportedly Ms. Muir's boyfriend, was located on Dolphin Road in Winter Springs and arrested at 1:06 a.m. Sunday. Police said he had apparently returned to the area with the man who picked him up at the convenience store. Police said he had apparently come back to get the U-Haul truck.

The three have been released from the Seminole County jail on $1,000 bond each and are scheduled to appear in court March 9.

Burglaries And Thefts Reported

Among the burglaries and thefts reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies during the weekend was the theft of four fire extinguishers with a combined value of $300 from the Seventh Day Adventist Community Service Center, 3801 Semoran Blvd., Apopka.

The burglar who struck Saturday or Sunday also unsuccessfully tried to remove several sewing machines from their cabinets. Rooms in the building were ransacked, a sheriff's report said.

Gloria J. Christopher, 34, of 1442 Northern Way, Winter Springs, reported Sunday to sheriff's deputies that a $1,600 diamond ring was stolen from her car at Largo Bay Bar, State Road 436, Altamonte Springs on Wednesday.

A circular saw, a saw, six fluorescent lights and 250 feet of electrical wire with a total value of about $285 were stolen Friday or Saturday from a construction site at 9430 W. Paulinda Ave., Apopka, according to a report owner Jay Carlton Webb, 31, of 9440 W. Paulinda Ave., filed with sheriff's deputies.

Whiting Webb, 59, reported to sheriff's deputies a $350 chapsaw belonging to Keystone Mechanical, Inc., of Orlando, was stolen from his company truck while parked at his home at 3510 Shirley Drive, Apopka, between Feb. 18 and Sunday.

An aircompressor and accessories with a combined value of about $800 were stolen from the porch of the home of William Harold Roland, 35, of 6550 Linneal Beach, Apopka, between Thursday and Saturday, deputies reported.

2 Want New Names

In two separate cases, two natives of Philadelphia living in Seminole County have filed petitions to change their names.

Gordon MacDonald Muncie, 48, of Casselberry, has asked to have his name changed to G.M. Muncie. He was born April 21, 1940, to James Gay Gordon and Ruth Hill, records show.

No hearing date has been set. In another case, Christy Jane Speveltz, 18, of Altamonte Springs, has requested that her name be changed to Christy Jane Roderick. She was born June 18, 1968, to Louis Speveltz and Bernadine Motte, according to court record. No hearing dates have been set.

Eastern Storm Buries Cities

United Press International — A huge storm swept into the Rockies today with heavy snow and high winds while the nation's capital struggled with widespread power outages from a soggy snowstorm that buried the mid-Atlantic region under nearly 2 feet of snow.

Although the Eastern snowstorm had moved off the Atlantic Coast by Monday afternoon, tens of thousands of residents of Washington, D.C., and its Maryland and Virginia suburbs were waiting for power to be restored to their homes early today.

Shelters were opened to accommodate many of the estimated 36,600 customers who spent a second night without power. However, authorities reported few people took advantage of the offer.

"We just wanted to offer some type of option to people," said Roger Langley, a spokesman for the Montgomery County (Md.) Office of Information. "We know it's rough being without heat or electricity."

At its peak, the storm knocked out power to nearly 400,000 customers in the Northeast, forced scores of schools and universities to cancel classes and grounded flights at airports in Washington, Philadelphia and New Jersey.

To the west, a massive storm moved into the Rockies today after dumping 18 inches of snow near Lake Tahoe, Nev., and dropping hailstones in the San Francisco Bay area on Monday.

The blustery storm created near blizzard conditions in south-central Montana, where up to a foot of snow fell Monday, the National Weather Service said.

Winter storm warnings were issued today in the mountains of southern Idaho, south-central Montana, the eastern slopes of the Wyoming Wind River Range, and portions of Nevada, Utah, Arizona, and the Sierra Nevada and Owens Valley of California. Up to 15 inches of snow was expected in some areas, the weather service said.

Lander, Wyo., was hit with 13 inches of snow Monday — 4 in one hour — and 6 inches fell at Cedar City, Utah. Other snowfall totals included 5 inches at Reno, Nev., and 4 inches at Pine Valley, Utah.

Travelers advisories extended from the Sierra Nevada of California to Idaho and from southwest Colorado to northwest New Mexico. Forecasters said up to 8 inches of snow was possible in the southwest mountains of Colorado.

Gale warnings were posted along the California coast, while travelers advisories for winds were issued in southern California and southern Nevada. Winds up to 50 mph howled through coastal and mountain areas in southern California Monday night.

The storm was blamed for a small plane crash in Anza, Calif., Monday that killed four people. The plane took off from Lake Riverside Airport in "miserable" weather and crashed into an apple orchard 8 miles away, said Sue O'Donnell, a Department of Forestry dispatcher. Snow mixed with rain was falling at the time of the crash, she said.

Snowfall amounts from the Eastern storm included 23 inches in Coatesville, Pa.; 22 inches in Exton, Pa.; 21 inches in Downingtown, Pa.; 20 inches in Valley Forge, Pa.; 19 inches in Millers, Md.; and 16 inches at Owings Mills, Md., and Alloway, N.J.

Power outages affected nearly 150,000 customers in the Washington area.

Local Report

Monday's high temperature in Sanford was 62 degrees and the low during the past twenty-four hours was 51 degrees as reported by the University of Florida Agricultural and Education Center. No rainfall recorded.

SCHOOLS IN BRIEF

UCF Nursing Students To Host Career Day For Health Workers

Representatives from more than 50 hospitals and health agencies in the Southeast will be at the University of Central Florida March 3 for a career day sponsored by UCF's nursing students, according to Lisa Robertson, president of the Nursing Student Association chapter at UCF.

The program is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. and activities are expected to last until 8 p.m. in the Student Center auditorium and is open to all area health professionals who may be looking to relocate or to advance their careers, Robertson said. "This is an opportunity to develop career potential or to find the job you dream about," he said.

Oviedo Cheerleaders Plan Trip

The Oviedo High School Varsity, Junior Varsity and Freshman cheerleaders have been invited by the Eastern Cheerleading Association office to attend the Grand Finals to be held in Williamsburg, Virginia, on March 20, 21 and 22. The cheerleaders are attempting to raise the $5,500 necessary to make the trip, Oviedo High officials said. The cheerleaders competed in the regional championships on Feb. 7 and finished in third place.

School To Spotlight Reading

Jackson Heights Middle School will hold its third annual literacy day Feb. 23 during which students will display posters based on the theme, "Read to be right, and write to be read." Guest speakers will talk about the importance of reading and students will read silently for 30 minutes, according to principal Bobby Rainey.

Exceptional Education Is Topic

Dr. David Meador, winner of the University of Central Florida Foundation's Researcher of the Year Award, will speak on the subject of "The Effectiveness of Pull-Out Programs in Exceptional Education" at the meeting of the Seminole Council for Exceptional Children in the Media Center of the Winter Springs Elementary School at 7 p.m. on Feb. 26, UCF spokeswoman Marge Stewart said.

Archaeologist To Visit School

Deane Smith, archaeologist, is scheduled to visit the fifth grade classes at Pine Crest Elementary School on March 4. Smith will show the students his collection of fossils and American Indian artifacts, most of which he found along shell-coated rural roads, said Principal Clay C. Carroll said. His visit will begin at 11:40 a.m.

LMHS 'Fleece' To Pick Members

Lake Mary High School's Order of the Golden Fleece held its second initiation Feb. 23 at the school. According to Fred Tombros, the organization has 320 members comprised of parents and students. Golden Fleece is an honorary organization in which potential members are nominated by members based on attendance and scholastic qualities, Tombros said.

Lake Mary High School's Varsity Cheerleading squad took first place at the Eastern Cheerleading Association Invitational recently, the squad's second first-place victory this year, according to principal Don Reynolds. The squad beat nine other varsity squads, including Key West, Oviedo, Apopka and Osecola.

Home-Based Business Is Topic

Valencia Community College is presenting Weekend Workshops on Self-Employment titled "How to Make Money at Home With Computers" on Feb. 28 and March 1; "Homework: Profitable Excellence in a Home-Based Business on March 14 and 15; and For Women: Run Your Own Business on March 7 and 8. The workshops are located at Valencia's West Campus, 1800 S. Kirkman Road, Orlando. For more information: 299-5000, ext. 3401.

Effective Parenting Seminar Set

Idyllwild Elementary School will hold four sessions on "Effective Parenting of School Age Children" on Thursdays from 6:45 p.m.-9:45 p.m. on March 5-26. Scheduled instructors are Betty Bourne, school guidance counselor and Linda Rebis, social worker.

Midway PTA To Meet

Midway Elementary School has scheduled a PTA business meeting for tonight at 7 p.m. with a program including a Patriotic and Black History Revue and the school's Curriculum Fair featuring student's math, social studies and science projects. Second-grade students and the Alternative Education classes at Midway attended the story theatre production "When the Cookie Crumbles, Pick Up the Pieces" at Bob Carr Performing Arts Center last week, according to school counselor Marilyn Meridith.

Lambert Still At Large

Prison officials still baffled as to how a Valentine's Day rapist managed to cut his way through two chain link fences at the Lake Correctional Institute and escape Feb. 16.

At large today is Keith Lambert, 34, convicted in Seminole County and sentenced to 40 years after being found guilty of raping a 67-year-old grandmother, attempting to murder her, burglarizing her home and setting it afire. The assault occurred Valentine's Day, 1984. A possible sighting of Lambert in Orlando this week was unconfirmed.

Lake Correctional Institute Assistant Superintendent Ronald Holmes said it has not been determined where Lambert got a tool to cut through the two fences that surround the 560-prisoner facility. Holmes said an inventory at the prison shows no tools missing. Lambert, who slipped out a window of his dormlike quarters, was discovered missing at an 8 a.m. headcount.

After hot-footing from the prison, investigators believe Lambert stole a brown 1983 Cadillac Fleetwood after burglarizing a home and taking the car keys, $100 and credit cards.

The stolen car has not been located, Holmes said.

Lambert, who had a mother, half-brother and daughter in Orlando at the time of his conviction is 5-foot, 6-inches tall, 130 pounds, white with a ruddy complexion and has a black rose and skull tattooed on his right arm.

'Dial-A-Sailor' Hotline Set

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — A woman asking for a mature, non-smoking sailor was one of several callers to the Navy's "Dial-A-Sailor" hotline officials hope will keep about 1,000 sailors docked for six days at Port Everglades out of trouble.

Master Chief Petty Officer Buddy Murray at the Naval Surface Weapons Center in Fort Lauderdale said a phone line was installed Monday where sailors at the center record the names, phone numbers and details on the activities offered by callers.

A list will then be posted on the quarterdecks when the ships dock Wednesday, Murray said. The arriving sailors may then contact the callers and make their own arrangements.

Sanford Backdrop

A film crew prepares to shoot a scene from the movie "Before God" off Lake Boulevard in Sanford Monday. It was the second time the Orlando-based crew was in Sanford in a week to film the movie, starring Sam Bottoms and slated for national release. Monday's shooting was of priests' summons to the home of a cardinal. A crew of 40 worked all day at the site, according to the producer, Hugh Parks.

Thefts Reported In Sanford

A clerk at the Cumberland Farms convenience store at 217 Park Ave., Sanford, told police that at approximately 10 p.m. Friday a man with his hand in his pocket entered the store and took an unknown amount of money from the cash register and then ran east on 3rd St.

In other Sanford incidents:

● Kevin Anderson, 16, of 4504 Nolan Road, reported to police that on Friday a man struck him in the small of the back, knocking him down, and then kicked him in the ribs on the roadway at the intersection of Eighth Street and Cypress Ave.

● A superintendent for Florida Gas Co., Edward Stull, 44, of Deltona, told police that between 6 p.m. Thursday and 10 a.m. Friday someone had cut through the fence at the Florida Public Utilities Co. and, once inside, cut the padlock latch to a storage shed and took articles valued at $52, then apparently left through the hole cut in the fence. —Genie Lindberg

Group To Present Program On 'The Black Experience'

By Genie Lindberg
Herald Staff Writer

"The Black Experience," a program in observation of Black History Month, is being readied for presentation at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce February 28.

Consisting of narratives, dramatic readings, skits and a slide presentation, the program is designed to focus attention on black American's roots. It will be presented by Sanford members of Kappa Sigma Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Inc., the nation's oldest black sorority, founded in 1907.

In charge of the 1:30 p.m. program are Sandra Petty and Brenda Ford, sorority members and teachers at Seminole County's Crooms School of Choice. The program is to be presented in two parts.

"Part A will be about our roots and will trace our beginnings," Mrs. Petty said. It will consist of a series of narratives by members of the sorority and a slide presentation. The Sanford chapter began eleven years ago and has 35 members, she said.

Part B will deal with black expression and will consist of dramatic readings, movements and skits. There will also be displays of black artifacts and children's books and pictures. The youth of the community and area churches and organizations will be involved, Mrs. Petty said.

"The Christians, a semi-professional Sanford dramatic group, will do a skit through song and dance concerning the experiences through the years of black women such as Harriet Tubman, Rosa Parks, Sojourner Truth and Mary McCloud Bethune."

Sorority members' children are to perform dances and give drama presentations, Mrs. Petty said.

She said the program is targeted for the youth of the community, but she encourages participation from adults.

"At this point, we feel it's very important for them (youth) to know as much as possible about their history. We're hoping to be able to stimulate them so they will want to go out and find out more about why we are at the point we are today. It promises to be a very interesting and educational afternoon."

Films about black history and heritage and about Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. will be shown after the program, Mrs. Petty said, and there will be booklets and other souvenir items such as black history novels, pencils and calendars.

Guilty Plea Entered In Lewd Assault On Child

A Casselberry man accused of molesting a 2-year-old girl has pleaded guilty to lewd assault on a child and aggravated child abuse.

Wilson Roy Hoffpaur, 27, of 601 Soldier's Square, entered the plea before Circuit Judge O.H. Eaton Jr. Eaton set March 27 for sentencing and agreed to sentence Hoffpaur to 5 years in prison and 20 years probation.

Hoffpaur was arrested after the girl's mother learned that she, too, could be arrested if she did not report the alleged incidents to authorities, according to an arrest report.

The child was turned over to the custody of HRS officials.

Formal Elections Are Formalities

The formal election of Mexico's next president will take place in 1988. But the actual selection will be made in September or October, when President Miguel de la Madrid handpicks the man who will almost certainly succeed him 23 months from now.

Such is the political reality in Mexico that has not varied since the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI) assumed power in 1929. Indeed, the PRI has never lost a presidential election or governor's election. During the last national balloting, Mr. de la Madrid won 71 percent of the vote, and party candidates captured 299 of 400 seats in the Chamber of Deputies.

Speculation on the 1988 presidential race began in earnest in January with several candidates being mentioned as possible successors to President de la Madrid. The president is expected to choose his heir apparent. That choice is never challenged because it reflects the consensus of the party hierarchy. Custom dictates that the PRI standard-bearer be a cabinet official whose administrative philosophy and experience place him squarely within the party mainstream. Custom also demands that the candidate never openly acknowledge that they want the job.

The main contenders at this point are Energy Minister Alfredo del Mazo Gonzales, Interior Minister Manuel Bartlett Diaz, and Budget and Planning Minister Carlos Salinas de Gortari.

Mr. del Mazo appears to have the inside track because he is a close personal friend of President de la Madrid. He also is a favorite of the party professionals and labor, an accomplished orator, and the only leading candidate who has ever stood for election. As a recent cabinet appointee, moreover, he has escaped blame for the nation's economic problems.

Mr. Bartlett Diaz is a formidable candidate because so many of his nation's elected officials are beholden to him. As the chief architect of the PRI's fraudulent electoral victories in the northern states last year, he is admired by party hard-liners for neutralizing the opposition. The interior minister also has cultivated the business community, which is nervously eyeing the peso's plunge.

Mr. Salinas de Gortari is an intelligent, energetic Harvard-trained technocrat who is regarded as being highly qualified to manage the nation's economy and to deal effectively with foreign bankers. Yet, his budget experience could be a liability because he is associated with President de la Madrid's economic platform that has been undermined by falling oil prices and rampant inflation.

Jesus Silva Herzog also was considered a frontrunner until last year when he suggested that Mexico not only stop payment on its foreign debts to improve its economic situation, but he publicly said he wanted to be president. Fired from his job as treasury minister, the would-be president now spends most of his time traveling abroad. And so, the three candidates can be expected to maintain a low profile during the next few months.

The wild card in the 1988 presidential election could be the student strikes that began in January at Mexico's largest university, which is essentially run by the PRI. Mr. Salinas de Gortari controls university funds and thus is closely identified with the school's administration. If the strike is prolonged and gets out of hand, it also could cause severe problems for Interior Minister Bartlett Diaz.

Such problems notwithstanding, no one seriously anticipates an opposition victory in Mexico's presidential election. Rather, the PRI's biggest challenge is to revive the nation's ailing economy. And the achievement of that elusive objective is unlikely until Mexican voters are able to hold their political system accountable for its policies.

Resolved: To Omit Immoderate Drug-Taking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Resolutions to go to a diet usually are among the first New Year's vows to fall by the wayside.

Perhaps it was in recognition of that fact, or the fact that National Nutrition Month is coming up in March, that prompted the Agriculture Department to prepare a set of dietary guidelines.

Anyway, it's a fact that, according to the department, "more than one-fourth of American adults are overweight."

However, you may not be in the mood for lectures you should have been giving yourself last month when everyone was passing "high-calorie, low-nutrient" food.

Such as fruitcake and bonbons left over from Christmas.

Probably you should know that among the foods classed as "high-calorie, low-nutrient" in the guidelines are fats, oils and sweets. I'm telling you anyway. It may be a fact that too much sugar will make you plump.

Whatever the case, the department says that "cream and sugar on your cereal, fat-laden toppings in your baked potato and rich sauces on your vegetables" are tough on your diet.

Also avoid food high in cholesterol, the level of which "many Americans is undesirably high," it adds.

If you must get high, you're supposed to do it on illegal drugs, I guess. For the guidelines warn that "if you drink alcoholic beverages, do so in moderation."

What I like are blurbs for cookbooks and exercise parlors suggesting we can all somehow be healthy if we watch our weight and what we eat.

I've been watching my weight closely for a number of years and it keeps going up and up. Keeping an eye on a bulging waistline certainly is no guarantee that you will lose weight.

The same probably is true of diets. Watching what you eat is not enough, by itself. Indeed, just the opposite may be a fact.

Missing your mouth is a sure sign of not paying attention to what you eat, and missing your mouth often enough is one way to take off the pounds you may have put on by hitting it.

The department also tells us that "alcoholic beverages, taken in moderation, appear to cause no harm in normal, healthy non-pregnant adults."

I take that to mean we need to watch what we drink as well as what we eat. And maybe what we smoke, as well.

Clearly, missing your mouth with an alcoholic beverage is a sign you have a drinking problem.

Moreover, the department says "heavy drinkers, and especially those who also smoke cigarettes, may develop nutritional deficiencies and more serious diseases, such as cirrhosis of the liver and certain types of cancer."

That piece of advice may be a trifle redundant. Cancer strikes many bodily organs but it is difficult to imagine a case of cirrhosis that doesn't involve the liver. It may help prevent unwanted pregnancies, however.

The next time you light up, watch the cigarette burn all the way to the filter tip. Watching what you smoke likewise may keep you from lighting up a cigar by mistake.

Romancing The Old South

By Arnold Sawiak
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Politicians wear other peoples' hats for the same reasons political parties select cities for their national conventions. They are trying to send signals.

So just as a candidate who puts on a miner's helmet or construction hard hat hopes that working folks will see him as a kindred spirit, the Democrats and Republicans both hoped to impart a symbolic message when they chose, respectively, Atlanta and New Orleans for their 1988 nominating conventions.

Decoded, the message was: The South is vital in the next presidential election and we aren't taking its vote for granted.

The reason this message was in the form of a signal rather than a public declaration that the South is getting special treatment this time is that political parties can't afford to offend two or three other regions of the country while trying to romance one.

There are very good reasons for both parties to woo the South. First, its population and electoral vote has been increasing for several generations. Second, neither party really has established firm, top to bottom political control of the region.

As has been clear at least since Dwight Eisenhower's 1952 election, the South is as likely to support Republican as Democratic presidential candidates.

And with the election of a Republican governor in Alabama last year and of GOP governors in most of the other Southern states earlier, it also is clear the Republicans are making significant inroads into what has been Democratic domination of the region's state-level politics.

So the Democrats are going to make a fight for what used to be their unchallenged political base and the Republicans are going to try to hold or enlarge their Southern gains of the last few decades.

This effort also could affect the selection of the 1988 candidates, which will send a far stronger signal than where the parties decide to hold their conventions.

The Republicans figure they can appeal to the South with a conservative from almost any region, although New England-born Vice President George Bush will be cast as a Texan through-and-through in his Southern campaigning and Sen. Robert Dole's Kansas twang may broaden toward a drawl.

Coast Guard Boats May Not Be Up To Par

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — Congress may have foisted off an inferior smuggler-chasing patrol boat on the Coast Guard. Officials deny there was any political hanky-panky and insist the boat is a good one, but there seems to be a fishy smell to the whole thing. Here's what we've dug up:

Congress authorized emergency funding several years ago to build 16 new Coast Guard patrol boats for use in its drug-interdiction program. But the boat preferred by the Coast Guard was disqualified by the courts on a technicality.

So the contract for the construction of 16 patrol boats was granted to Bollinger Shipyards of Louisiana, which manufactures 110-foot craft known as Island Class. The company owner, Don Bollinger, is state chairman of the Republican Party, and his Washington lobbyist, Steven Silver, used to be an assistant to Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska. A later decision to buy up to 37 more Island Class boats came out of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee that Stevens then headed.

Silver insists that politics had no part in the Bollinger contract, and Stevens told us he didn't recall even discussing the matter with the lobbyist. "I don't care where they buy the boat," he said.

But Bollinger Shipyards has a lock on Island Class boats, which are a 20-year-old British design. Bollinger has the U.S. license on them; in addition, the boats' blueprints are based on the metric system, which many other U.S. shipyards don't use.

Politics or not, documents obtained by our associate Corky Johnson indicate that the patrol boats are not ideal craft for catching drug smugglers. Several boats recently delivered have already undergone extensive hull repairs. "The bows on the boats are collapsing. It is sad we are stuck with this thing," a Coast Guard source told us.

Adm. Paul Yost, the Coast Guard commandant, and Mark Stanley, Bollinger's vice president, said the hull problems are easy to repair. Yost said the cracks in the hull may have been caused by running the boats in heavy seas with too much fuel aboard. Stanley said he suspected misuse by Coast Guard crews as the cause of the hull cracks, but said the shipyard will repair them at no cost whenever they occur.

"It is a heck of a good boat," the admiral said. "We are using it now beyond specifications. Congress did not force this boat on us. They said get a boat quickly, and we wanted to get involved in the drug (enforcement) business."

The procurement appears to have been highly unusual, to say the least. Our sources insist that the Island Class boat was forced on the Coast Guard. After the congressional report, the Coast Guard tried to award Bollinger a sole-source contract. An ad — later revised — appeared in the government's Commerce Business Daily announcing the sole-source contract. The Navy, which handles actual procurement for the Coast Guard, insisted on bids.

SCIENCE WORLD

Tracking The Cause Of Ulcers

By Rob Stein
UPI Science Writer

BOSTON (UPI) — Many people who suffer from the most common type of ulcer appear to produce low levels of a natural antacid, perhaps helping explain why some ulcers occur and suggesting possible ways to treat them, researchers say.

Scientists at the University of California in San Diego compared 16 normal people with 12 patients suffering from duodenal ulcers and found 11 of the ulcer patients produced significantly less bicarbonate.

"We conclude that most patients with duodenal ulcers disease have decreased ... bicarbonate production," the researchers wrote in a recent issue of The New England Journal of Medicine.

"Impaired ... bicarbonate secretion may be an important factor in the development and natural history of duodenal ulcer," they said.

There are about 300,000 new cases of duodenal ulcer in the United States each year and about 3.2 million recurrences of such ulcers, causing 3,000 deaths and adding about $3 billion to the nation's year medical bill.

An duodenal ulcer occurs when acid used to digest food erodes the lining of the duodenum, the area a cause of ulcers or are the result of ulcers. More study will be needed to be sure.

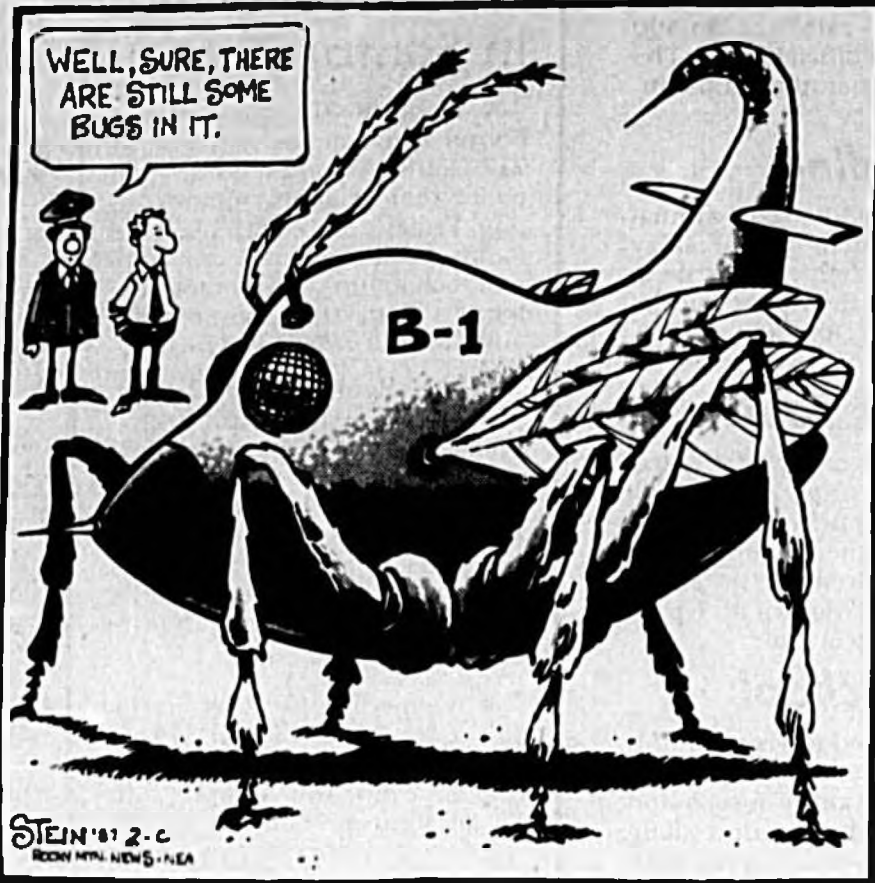

If low bicarbonate levels are found to be an important cause, it could mean that drugs that cause the body to produce more bicarbonate may be useful in treating ulcers and preventing them in those most prone to the condition, the researchers believe. The ulcer blocks the digestive tract.

Bicarbonate is produced naturally by the body to protect the digestive system from the acids.

Although some ulcer victims produce too much digestive acid, most have only average or even low amounts. The new study suggests that their natural defenses against acid may be at least partly to blame, the researchers said.

The study found that the ulcer patients produced about half the bicarbonate of the healthy subjects normally and secreted only about a third the amount when stimulated.

But the researchers noted that they are not yet sure whether the low bicarbonate levels are a cause of ulcers or are the result of ulcers. More study will be needed to be sure.

Wall St. And Amerika

My wife was almost an inside trader once.

It was some years back (how many, she insists I keep strictly between ourselves) when she was employed at a Midwest research facility then under contract to develop an interesting new product. Technical people around the shop were saying it had the look of a real money maker, that the then-unknown company's stock might turn out to be a once-in-a-lifetime investment opportunity.

She didn't take the advice, being heavily into U.S. savings bonds or something at the time. So she missed out on the chance to get in at the very beginning of a business success story that has added a new word to the language. You know — the one meaning copying machine.

Anyway, her mistake (for which I have not yet fully forgiven her, although we didn't meet until several years after) comes to mind in connection with the insider trading scandal now shaking Wall St.

The merger mania and corporate takeovers of the past few years have seemed to me mostly a shell game that adds nothing to the nation's real wealth or the economy's productivity. Even most shareholders remain on the outside of the deals.

The action is all for the benefit of the few big dealers and their parasitic platoons of brokers and attorneys. But such immensely profitable benefit that it attracts the best and brightest from the most prestigious law and business schools with the promise that, with any luck at all, they will be rolling in money after a few years.

Martin A. Siegel, the center of the insider scandal at the moment, was a leader of this pack. Emerging from Harvard Business School with its highest honors, he rose rapidly through the high-priced ranks of Wall Street's top firms. At 38, he was taking in a couple million a year — legally.

"Up until today," an acquaintance observed, according to a New York Times account, "he was considered by just about everyone as the all-American kid."

What changed minds was the revelation that Siegel was the source of illegal information that enabled arbitrageur Ivan Boesky to make illegal fortunes. Siegel took his payoffs in suitcases stuffed with cash. This all-American kid, who, as it turned out, also cheated on his income tax, has ended up sinking on confederates. Several have been arrested and the certainty on the Street is that there will be more.

I haven't been watching "Amerika," the hallucinatory TV account of the takeover of a demoralized United States by the Soviet Union. But it comes to mind that television's imagining has something to say about the very real happenings on Wall St.

Anyway, the idea is that the survival of a free American founded on free enterprise is in much greater peril internally from the operators on Wall St. than it is ever likely to be from the type of external threat imaged in "Amerika."

NATION IN BRIEF

Regan Hanging On In White House Cross Fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hanging tough, White House chief of staff Donald Regan is resisting overwhelming pressure to resign at this point unless he is asked directly by President Reagan, aides say.

"That is between Mr. Regan and the president," an aide to the chief of staff said Monday, noting there had been no such request from Regan, who has waved off all questions regarding his staff and operations with an admonishment to wait for the Tower Commission report.

That report, from the presidential panel led by former Republican Sen. John Tower of Texas, is due Thursday — and the pressure on Regan is expected to escalate. The chief of staff is likely to draw sharp criticism in the panel's review of National Security Council operations in the Iran-Contra scandal.

Indeed, leaks and hints indicate that none of the president's aides nor the president himself will escape criticism in the report. Herbert Hetu, the Tower board's spokesman, told reporters Monday the document will "name names."

AIDS Testing Testimony Opens

ATLANTA (UPI) — Federal health officials invited medical experts and the public to air their opinions today on proposals for widespread AIDS testing, including programs to screen hospital patients and couples seeking marriage licenses.

The two-day public hearing, which opens today, was called by the national Centers for Disease Control in what may be a preliminary step toward routine blood tests to screen much of the nation's population for exposure to AIDS.

About 1,000 people are expected to attend the hearing, including state and local health officers and representatives of hospitals, gay rights groups, hemophiliacs and medical associations. The public has been invited to speak at workshop sessions.

The conference is to focus on the merits and drawbacks of expanding the use of blood tests, which determine exposure to the AIDS virus by detecting antibodies to it.

Grammy Awards Show Tonight

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Tonight's 29th annual Grammy Awards will be a televised extravaganza running the musical gamut from "Ave Maria" to "Money's Too Tight (To Mention)" — and most of everything in between.

Only 14 major awards will be presented during the three-hour telecast beginning at 8 p.m. EST from the Shrine Auditorium.

Meese Stands By Iran-Contra Testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Edwin Meese is standing by his testimony in the Iran-Contra scandal in response to word that the special prosecutor in the case is examining whether he misled Congress or helped doctor a chronology to protect President Reagan.

Meese asserted Monday that his testimony to the Senate Intelligence Committee in December about when Reagan approved the covert shipment of U.S. weapons to Iran merely reiterated what other officials had told him.

"What I was reporting to the committee was what had been told to me during the course of my preliminary inquiry in November," Meese said in an interview while attending a conference of federal prosecutors in Tucson, Ariz.

"I myself was testifying as to information received rather than as to any conclusions I had made," he explained.

A spokesman also told reporters the attorney general had no part in compiling an inaccurate White House chronology of the operation prepared before Reagan's Nov. 19 news conference to obscure the president's role in the affair.

"The attorney general was aware that there was a chronology being prepared but that it was inadequate," said spokesman Terry Eastland. "That's why he went to Reagan and urged that the fact-finding review be instigated."

Meese began a preliminary inquiry into the Iran arms deals Nov. 20, emerging five days later with a public revelation of the scheme to divert millions of dollars in profits from the sales to Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

The Wall Street Journal reported Monday that Lawrence Walsh, the independent federal prosecutor in the case, is examining whether Meese helped prepare the chronology and if he misled Congress on when the arms sales were approved.

Neither the attorney general's role nor his sworn testimony was questioned in the report released last month by the Senate Intelligence Committee on its preliminary hearings into the scandal.

But Walsh, said to be pursuing obstruction of justice charges against some administration officials, has taken over a probe by the Justice Department's internal inspector, who was reviewing why Meese did not conduct a criminal investigation sooner that might have kept some evidence from being destroyed.

Accounts of such destruction have mounted in recent days, with the former secretary to Lt. Col. Oliver North telling Walsh's investigators she helped the fired National Security Council aide shred documents in his White House basement office just hours before Meese's inquiry went into his files Nov. 21.

Meese and FBI Director William Webster said they found no evidence that any crucial documents were destroyed, and investigators the next day found in the files an undated memo by North detailing the Iran-Contra diversion scheme.

But the testimony of the secretary, Fawn Hall, raises new questions about possible cover-up attempts in the scandal.

At least two news reports Monday said Hall told investigators that in addition to shredding records, she altered four documents regarding the Iran arms sales with her word processor and replaced them in the NSC files.

The Washington Post added

today that Hall was unable to recall exact changes she made but that FBI agents found carbon copies of the four original memos and comparisons indicated the changes primarily erased references to North's superiors.

North was blamed by Meese as the chief architect of the possibly criminal Contra diversion scheme when the attorney general announced it Nov. 25. Meese said North had acted without the president's knowledge or authority.

Meese's veracity is being examined by Walsh not on that count, the Journal said, but in regard to a sworn statement to the Senate Intelligence Committee in which he corroborated testimony of White House chief of staff Donald Regan.

States Boycott Mock War

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon joined Washington state in boycotting a mock nuclear war scheduled next month, saying the federal exercise "defies common sense" by implying society could survive an atomic weapon attack.

The two states refused to take part in the drill despite the government's threat to cut off $2.5 million in federal funds.

Oregon Gov. Neil Goldschmidt charged the exercise "defies common sense" and ordered the state Emergency Planning Division Monday to pull out of the drill in which 48 imaginary nuclear warheads will strike the Northwest March 5-8.

"Our citizens do not want the state to participate in an exercise that may actually threaten world peace by advancing the notion that a nuclear war is survivable," Goldschmidt said in a statement released by his staff.

On Feb. 5, Washington Gov. Booth Gardner announced his state would not participate in a similar drill planned for Washington on March 31, which could cost the state $1.4 million in emergency funds.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency, which is planning the exercise as a test of the state's ability to respond to a nuclear attack, has threatened to cut off federal emergency planning funds to state or local governments that refuse to join the exercise.

"We believe FEMA is not authorized to cut off Oregon's $1.1 million in funds," said Cory Streisinger, Goldschmidt's legal assistant. The federal money pays for about 90 percent of the state's emergency planning program.

William Mayer, regional director of the federal agency in Bothell, Wash., said he does not know if the federal money will be cut off. Mayer said he will write Goldschmidt shortly and try to "negotiate" with the state.

Congressmen Les AuCoin and Peter DeFazio, both D-Ore., praised Goldschmidt's decision and said they would work to make sure the state does not lose the funding.

"It is clear FEMA intends to pursue its misguided plans, so I intend to carry on my fight to assure that Oregon does not lose any funds simply because the state chooses to acknowledge the futility of attempting to survive an all-out nuclear attack," AuCoin said.

Streisinger said the state offered alternative scenarios, such as exercises involving natural disasters and a nuclear attack by terrorists, but they were rejected.

Dr. Thomas Y. Yandell of Lake Mary Boulevard Chiropractic Clinic and his assistant, Carol McLeod

Dr. Thomas Yandell Explains Cause Of 'Whiplash' Injury

In his practice, Dr. Thomas Y. Yandell Jr., DC, of the Lake Mary Boulevard Chiropractic Clinic in Sanford, treats many accident victims suffering from the injury commonly known as "whiplash." What is causes "whiplash"? Dr. Yandell explains: When there is an impact from the rear, the head remains stationary, appearing to move backward, and the body is thrown forward and side neck muscles tighten snapping the head forward and tearing muscles. The head returns to a normal position leaving cervical spine and muscle damage and the result is distortion of the natural cervical curve.

In a "whiplash" there is a hyperflexion (increased backward motion), hyper-extension (increased forward motion) injury to the cervical (neck) spine. Its name comes from the fact that the spine is held in place in the mid-back by the attachment of the rib cage. Any movement, therefore, to which the spine may be subjected, as is the case of an auto accident, or severe fall, commonly results in the neck being (whipped) injured.

The neck region described earlier demonstrates some of the weaknesses of the spine. A typical example of a common injury to the neck region is illustrated in the rear-end auto collision. The driver, not suspecting such an incident, is relaxed. The force from behind causes the head to quickly flip backwards and then thrust forward by the deceleration (quick stopping) motion.

This type of rapid movement and the manner in which the head is thrust about has been termed "whiplash." Many injuries of this nature are not immediately felt by the injured person. Authorities estimate that the injuries may not be felt for several hours or even years following the incident.

Examples of reaction from an injury of this nature could be headaches, visual disturbances, stiffness of the neck, restriction of movement, shoulder, neck and arm pain and neuralgia, to name but a few.

The science of chiropractic is particularly concerned with the structural balance of the spine and nervous system. Should you become involved in any accident or fall in which you suspect that your spine may have received a strain or sprain, consult Dr. Yandell for an examination.

Prompt attention to this type of trauma can help to avoid many of the symptoms which could develop at a later date.

Lake Mary Boulevard Chiropractic Clinic, a chiropractic family health center, is located at 902 E. Lake Mary Blvd. in Suite 107 of the Bayhead Center. Dr. Yandell specializes in acupuncture, personal injury, pain control and Worker's Compensation cases.

The clinic is open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to noon and 3-7 p.m. and Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon.

Feel good again, call 322-9300 for an appointment.

January Disposable Income Rises, While Spending Drops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Like a ship in heavy seas, the U.S. economy is rising and falling on waves of special factors while hardly going forward at all, experts say.

Two such waves rolled through the economy in December and January, causing record changes in two parts of the government's personal income and outlays report issued Friday.

They showed basically that a surge in car sales during December ended just as abruptly in January, causing a record 2 percent drop in consumer spending last month.

The personal savings rate — which dipped in December to a record-low 1.3 percent of disposable personal income, largely because people were buying motor vehicles — rose in January to 3.9 percent.

December's spending flurry stemmed from a rush to deduct the sales tax on car purchases from income taxes before that provision ended Dec. 31.

The auto buying preceded another economic wave — the 0.8 percent rise in take-home pay in January, the biggest increase since last April's 1.3 percent gain.

The take-home pay increase came despite zero growth in overall personal income and was due almost entirely to the fact that people have not changed their tax withholding statements to conform to the new tax law.

Some economists predict that change will pump about $30 billion into the economy early this year. Then there will be another shock wave, they said, as Americans discover how much extra money they owe on their 1987 income taxes.

The special factors in economic indicators over recent weeks have tended to overshadow the fact that the economy has been nearly stagnant. The gross national product grew by just 1.3 percent after inflation during the last three months of 1986, the second-worst performance since the fourth quarter of 1982.

Most economists predict 2.5 percent to 3 percent real GNP gains this year.

"This economy simply cannot seem to generate substantial momentum," said John Albertine, head of economic forecasting and strategic planning for Farley Industries, a holding company in Washington for several textile and other manufacturing firms. "We are probably in for a couple more quarters of an economy which is basically in neutral."

Personal outlays in January fell $56.2 billion to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $2,908 trillion. Seasonally adjusted annual rates indicate what a year's performance would be like if every month was the same as January and seasonal factors were removed.

Personal income grew a negligible $1.2 billion in January, totaling a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $3,548 trillion, the Commerce Department said. That was the weakest showing since June.

African Commodity Slump Bodes Dark Economic Future

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Debt-ridden Africa, slowly recovering from the devastation of the killer drought of 1984-85, now faces new economic ruin brought on by the biggest slump in export earnings since the Great Depression.

The sharp drop in oil prices and the slide in commodity values made 1986 the worst year ever for prices of the troubled continent's raw materials — the only source of export income for many of Africa's 52 nations.

Black Africa's export earnings, already at a depressed $60.6 billion in 1985, crashed to a disastrous $44.3 billion the following year — a 27 percent drop.

When oil prices plummeted to less than $10 a barrel last year, even Nigeria — Black Africa's largest economy — sank deeper into financial chaos.

The crisis hit all nine African oil-producing countries. Their export earnings fell by a record 36 per cent in 1986 to only $14.8 billion.

Non-oil-exporting nations benefited from cheap oil, but that was largely offset by depressed demand for key African exports, including copper, cobalt, iron, cocoa, cotton and sugar.

Exceptions were coffee and peanuts, with prices rising by 17 percent and 87 percent, respectively, during 1986.

Copper prices fell by about a third since 1980, putting a heavy strain on Zambia, which depends on the metal for economic survival.

Unable to meet deadlines for the repayment of a foreign debt in excess of $3.3 billion, Zambia was persuaded to agree to donor demands for harsh, austerity measures, including devaluation of its currency, the kwacha, and abolition of food subsidies.

The move met with World Bank approval but not with that of workers in the country's copperbelt. Thousands rioted in December to protest the rising cost of living.

As a result, the government was forced to reintroduce subsidies on corn, Zambia's staple food, increasing the 1987 budget deficit by $42 million.

Economists said they see little chance of an improvement in the near future and predicted copper prices will remain stagnant at around 64 cents a pound for the next two years.

More than 20 African cotton producers fared as badly as the oil exporters. Prices dropped to a 12-year August low of just over 30 cents a pound from between 60 cents and 70 cents the previous season.

The Ivory Coast, struggling to climb out of recession, was hard hit by falling commodity prices. Often described as a model of political and economic stability, the West African state saw economic growth fall from 5 percent in 1985 to 3 percent the following year, largely because of the low prices its exports attracted. It lost $61.3 million on cotton and $21.5 million on palm oil.

With a population of 8.5 million and a foreign debt estimated at $6 billion, the Ivory Coast is one of the world's most indebted countries in per capita terms. Observers said they fear it will continue to struggle with debt-servicing problems, to the end of the decade, despite recent loan rescheduling.

Nigeria-born economist Adebayo Adedeji recently said the fall in Africa's earnings as a result of low commodity prices created pressure to reduce imports, particularly since many countries are already hard pressed by falling foreign aid and investment.

Adedeji, who heads the United Nations Economic Commission for Africa, said imports into Black Africa fell by nearly 21 percent to $52.2 billion in 1986.

Despite this drop, the continent's current account deficit is "expected to worsen by some $20 to $25 billion 1986," almost double the 1985 total of $12.9 billion, he said.

Economists said they fear there will be little change before 1990 and raw materials prices will continue to languish. Several international organizations said they believe part of Africa's problem derives from measures by industrialized countries to protect their own producers.

In a recent report, the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization claimed such measures "exacerbate the difficulties which Third World countries encounter in finding export markets by denying them market access."

In its 1986 report, the World Bank said protectionist sugar policies applied by the United States and the European Economic Community "placed a great burden of adjustment on their trading partners, mainly developing countries."

The report quoted recent estimates that show protectionism in the sugar trade "cost developing countries about $7.4 billion in lost export revenue during 1983."

The worsening terms of trade since the late 1970s, and particularly last year, are strangling the continent's attempts to move out of the recession.

The lower Africa's export earnings, the higher its debt — currently a crippling $200 billion and rising. More debt means less cash for food imports, fuel and vehicles to transport food internally.

The granaries of central and eastern Sudan are full following record crops last season. But the hapless nation — Africa's largest country and its most hopelessly indebted — has no money, no fuel and no vehicles to bring the food to the famine-wracked south.

Sudan, still supporting 1 million refugees from the 1985 drought, has little hope of climbing from the quagmire.

Almost exclusively reliant on cotton for its foreign earnings, it faces the bleak prospect of rock-bottom prices for this key commodity.

WORLD IN BRIEF

New Contra Leader Preaches Unity To Defeat Sandinistas

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) — Pedro Joaquín Chamorro Barrios, the Nicaraguan opposition journalist catapulted into the leadership of the U.S.-backed Contra rebels by a power dispute, is preaching unity as the means of toppling the Sandinistas.

"My main goal will be to try to shape a real unity among all Nicaraguans any form of the resistance in a single organization so that we can have the opportunity to present a strong democratic look that leads us to Nicaragua's freedom," Chamorro said in an interview Monday.

Late Sunday, the United Nicaraguan Opposition, or UNO, elected Chamorro to replace rebel leader Realdo Calero, who resigned from the rebels' political umbrella group last Monday in Miami.

Calero maintained political leadership of the Nicaraguan Democratic Force, the largest rebel army, which has about 10,000 troops that operate from base camps along the Honduran border.

Cruise Missile Gets Green Light

BRUSSELS, British Columbia (UPI) — U.S. and Canadian military officials hope to overcome past failures and Greenpeace protesters today by successfully launching an unarmed cruise missile on a 1,500-mile test flight across Canada's frozen northwest.

A U.S. Air Force B-52 bomber was scheduled to launch the 20-foot-long missile projectile over the Beaufort Sea, north of the Arctic Circle, at about 9:30 a.m. EST.

"We were a little concerned about visibility over the target area, but we've gone ahead and given the green light," U.S. Strategic Air Command spokesman Maj. Fred Harrop said from Canadian Forces Base Cold Lake, about 150 miles northeast of Edmonton.

If all goes according to plan, it will fly south at 500 mph for 4 1/2 hours, then parachute to a soft landing on a test range at Cold Lake, near the Alberta-Saskatchewan border.

Brazil Seeks No Special Deal

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI) — Brazil will not seek special interest rates nor foreign subsidies to pay off its $108 billion debt despite last week's suspension of part of its interest payments, a senior presidential adviser said.

Ricupepo, chief foreign affairs adviser to President Collor, said in a televised interview that Brazil would honor all of its $108 billion foreign debt and U.S. and European banks face no long-term losses because of the suspension.

Ricupepo said Brazil's negotiating position would be revealed when officials meet with representatives of roughly 600 private creditor banks, probably next month, to discuss its decision to stop paying interest in dollars. Sargent announced the suspension Friday.

Ricupepo said Brazil will not ask its creditor banks for loans at below-market interest rates and does not expect subsidies from governments in creditor countries or from international lenders such as the World Bank.

Koreans Arrest Communists

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — Authorities announced today the arrest of 16 members of a group whose homegrown Marxist ideology advocates the overthrow of the government and a union with North Korea under communist rule.

A spokesman for the Seoul district prosecutor's office said three of those arrested were charged in the case and released under their own recognizance and another 24 people were being sought.

Those arrested and charged face up to seven years in prison if convicted of aiding North Korea.

The arrests began in December and ended last month, the spokesman said.

He described most of the 13 people being detained as student members of a group espousing its own brand of a Marxist ideology drawn from lectures broadcast by North Korean radio.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Archeological Find May Mean Humans Were In Florida Early

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — A University of Florida archeologist says a dating method that is currently unproven suggests humans lived in Florida 15,000 years earlier than is generally believed.

Archeologist Barbara Purdy said Monday stone tools unearthed in Marion County, including hand axes, hide scrapers, hammers and wood-working implements, suggest humans lived in Florida 27,000 years ago — more than 15,000 years earlier than is generally believed.

As stone tools age, iron slowly leaches out from the interior and forms a white coating on the outside. By using a dating method that is based on the amount of weathering — Purdy and her colleagues estimated when the tools were buried.

The most widely accepted date for the earliest appearance of humans in Florida is 12,000 years ago, Purdy said.

The stone tools, uncovered in a three-meter square site, were found nearly a meter deeper in the earth than a stone spearhead and other artifacts known to be 5,000 years old, Purdy said. Ordinarily, that would indicate the deeper artifacts were about 1,000 years older than the spearhead.

Lehder Restrictions Eased

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Prtrial restrictions are to be relaxed on drug lord Carlos Lehder as he is held without bond with extremely tight security under charges of racketeering and cocaine smuggling.

U.S. District Judge John Howard Melton denied a motion Monday by Lehder's court-appointed lawyer, Michael Weatherly, seeking better treatment for Lehder, but the judge did so after government prosecutors said the cocaine czar's conditions had been improved.

The judge made rulings "without prejudice," meaning Lehder's lawyer may revive his complaints if conditions claimed in the motion are not eased.

The motion said Lehder has been held in solitary confinement, denied visitors, is not allowed adequate access to telephones and has been denied mail privileges.

Weatherly sought redress of those conditions and asked Lehder be moved closer to Jacksonville.

NASA Troubleshoots Rocket Leak

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A Delta rocket carrying a key hurricane-hunting weather satellite stood grounded today while space agency engineers working to fix a fuel leak that delayed blastoff at least until Wednesday.

The $40 million rocket and its $55 million "GOES" satellite payload had been scheduled for launch at 6:05 p.m. EST today but late Monday, the fuel leak was discovered, prompting NASA to postpone the launch.

Engineers suspect the leak was caused by a fuel valve in the first-stage engine and tests today were expected to determine the extent of the problem. If the leak can be stopped and if the valve does not have to be replaced, the rocket could be launched at 6:05 p.m. Wednesday.

The $55 million Geostationary Operational Environmental Satellite, or "GOES-7," is identical to one destroyed last May in a launch failure. Ironically, the Delta that blew up in May suffered a similar problem that prompted a two-day launch postponement.

Syrian intervention in fighting between the Shiite Amal militia and leftist forces led by the Druze Progressive Socialist Party, Hezbollah leaders have condemned the Syrian moves, saying they cleared the way for a U.S.-backed Israeli attack on Lebanon.

Police sources here have speculated that some of the 28 Westerners taken hostages in Lebanon at some point had been held at a Hezbollah barracks. Those captives include eight Americans, Hezbollah, or the Party of God, has repeatedly denied holding any Western hostages. The main bases for Amal and Hezbollah are in the city's southern suburbs and Syrians have not yet ventured into them.

Reporters who toured the city said Syrian soldiers, backed by two T-54 tanks, replaced 300 Druze Progressive Socialist Party militiamen outside the Soviet Embassy. Other units prepared to deploy around the abandoned U.S. Embassy annex on the Beirut waterfront.

The Druze militiamen headed to camps east of the capital in the Shouf mountains, firing small arms and rocket-propelled grenades. In the evening, as they passed a Syrian army checkpoint at Khaldeh, 9 miles south of Beirut, the reporters said.

The Syrians earlier took over key militia strongholds, including the 40-story Murr Tower — a Shiite Amal fortress — and Jal El Bahr, an unfinished high-rise building which Druze militiamen used as their main base in west Beirut.

Druze Gunmen Withdraw From Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Hundreds of Druze Muslim gunmen withdrew from west Beirut today and pro-Iranian militiamen burned their barracks rather than hand them over to Syrian troops who entered the capital to halt bloody fighting in the Moslem sector.

Members of the fundamentalist Shiite Moslem Hezbollah group set fire to their Fathallah barracks in the Baasat neighborhood and local commander Hajj Mustafa said his men were reacting against the Syrian deployment.

An estimated 7,000 Syrian troops have closed at least 54 militia strongholds across west Beirut since their deployment Monday.

Hezbollah was excluded from negotiations that led to the Brig. Gen. Ghazi Kenaan, head of Syrian army intelligence in Lebanon, said late Monday that the Syrian force will shut down militia offices after the militiamen are evacuated and their weapons confiscated.

The Syrians began advancing toward Beirut from their bases in the Shouf mountains Sunday at the request of Moslem leaders to end nearly a week of fighting between militias nominally allied with Syria that left 200 people dead.

The deployment ended three years of Moslem militia control that started with a militia revolt Feb. 8, 1984, and cast west Beirut into a cycle of lawlessness, wrecked its economy and drove off its foreigners with a wave of kidnappings.

Defense Continues Cross-Examination

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The defense in the trial of a captured Nazi war criminal today continued its cross-examination at a Holocaust victim's testimony today in a bid to cast doubt on his contention that the retired American soldier was a death camp guard called "Ivan the Terrible."

An American lawyer Mark O'Connor's cross-examination at one point drew a sharp reprimand from Judge Dov Levin, the head of a three-judge panel overseeing Demjanjuk's war crimes trial.

"The question was already answered," Levin admonished O'Connor when he repeated his line. "We are getting nowhere."

O'Connor, in his questioning of death camp survivor Pinhas Epstein, appeared to be trying to cast doubt on his account of what happened more than 40 years ago by pointing out discrepancies in his testimony in this trial and in two Nazi war crimes cases in the 1960s in West Germany.

Epstein, 61, the second witness in the trial, was the first survivor of the Treblinka death camp in Nazi-occupied Poland to identify Demjanjuk, 66, as the guard known to inmates as "Ivan the Terrible."

"There he is. There he is," Epstein cried out in the packed courtroom Monday. "That is Ivan of Treblinka." Now a resident of Israel, Epstein was one of about 50 Treblinka survivors who fled during an inmate uprising in 1943.

Demjanjuk, a native of the Ukraine, says he is a victim of

Challenger Debris Entombed In Silos

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Wreckage from the shuttle Challenger, recovered in the most extensive ocean salvage operation in history, finally lies entombed in a pair of abandoned missile silos for what amounts to permanent burial.

Space agency workers Monday lowered huge concrete covers onto the old Minuteman missile complexes, sealing up the shuttle debris and bringing to a close the somber job of the camp where the remains of the just three weeks shy of the first anniversary of the shuttle disaster. Officials said the storage project cost about $300,000.

Each silo is 78 feet deep and 12 feet wide and both feature underground equipment rooms nearby.

In one silo, NASA buried the remnants of Challenger's big booster rockets. In the other, remains of the fuel tank were buried. The crew cabin, payload debris, and other wreckage were housed in the equipment rooms.

To seal the silos, concrete caps weighing 10 tons each were lowered into place Monday and other slabs were used to close up the equipment rooms.

The coverings can be removed by crane if engineers ever need access to the wreckage. The start of the storage project was delayed to Monday, sure all potential evidence would be preserved.

mistaken identity. He says he was never in Treblinka but was captured by the Germans in 1942 while serving in the Soviet army and imprisoned for most of the war.

Demjanjuk, whose name Ivan has been anglicized to John, is accused of being the Ukrainian guard "Ivan the Terrible," who whipped, beat and stabbed thousands of naked Jews as he herded them into Treblinka's gas chambers in 1942-43.

If convicted of war crimes in the camp where he crumpled in 1990, 65 Jews died, he could be hanged. Adolf Eichmann, architect of German dictator Adolf Hitler's plan to exterminate the Jews, was the only other person to be executed under Israel's 1950 war crimes law. He was hanged in 1962.

Epstein was repeatedly asked to identify buildings in the death this trial and to describe the guards, especially "Ivan the Terrible."

"You have indicated that he had a certain way of walking," O'Connor said, referring to Epstein's testimony Monday that he immediately recognized Demjanjuk when he saw a television report on the defendant's extradition to Israel last year.

"I said that he had a certain way of walking that was known to me," Epstein replied.

Asked to recall the names of fellow Treblinka survivors and what they spoke about while confined to huts in the death camp, the witness said:

Seminoles Like 4A-9 Chances

Seminole High School will have the pleasure of the number one seed and the homecourt advantage while only having to face one of the powers from the Volusia County schools (Spruce Creek and Mainland) in the Class A-9 District Tournament beginning Wednesday.

Seminole will open up Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. against Lake Howell in the "Noles" look-alike of handily, 90-50, this past Friday. The Tribe finished atop the district with a 16-2 record. Lake Howell finished at 2-12. Lake Brantley, 2-10, the seventh seed will play number two seed Port Orange Spruce Creek, 9-3 Wednesday night at 7.

Lyman 9-5, is the tournament's fourth seed and will take on fifth seed Lake Mary, 8-7, Thursday night at Seminole beginning at 8:30. Daytona Beach Mainland, 7-3, the third seed will take on sixth seed DeLand, 8-3, Thursday night at 7.

Seminole has beaten every team in the tournament including both of the Volusia powers. Seminole finished the regular season with a 24-5 record and is the tournament favorite.

The Tribe has won eight straight games and 18 of its last 19 with a one point loss on the road against Seabreeze.

Saturday night, the Spruce Creek junior varsity team will play the Lyman varsity team at 6:45 p.m., which will be the preliminary game to the varsity championship game.

Howser cited the Florida heat and a need for a lot of rest as reasons for his

Joyce's Slam Boosts Seminole

Unless he comes down with amnesia, James Joyce will not soon forget his first varsity home run.

The first round tripper off the bat of the Seminole High sophomore was a game-winner. In the 360-foot grand slam that lifted the Tribe to a 6-2 victory over Lyman's Greyhounds Monday night in the championship game of the Lyman Invitational Tournament.

Joyce also came in on relief of James Lyon and shut down Lyman over the last two innings to pick up the save. Seminole improved to 3-0 with the win and returns to action tonight at 7 at Umatilla. Lyman now stands at 3-3 and returns to the diamond Thursday at DeLand.

Both teams picked up a run in the first inning Monday as Ron Blake's RBI double drove in Jeff Blake for Seminole and Lyman scored on Kenny Jackson's RBI single.

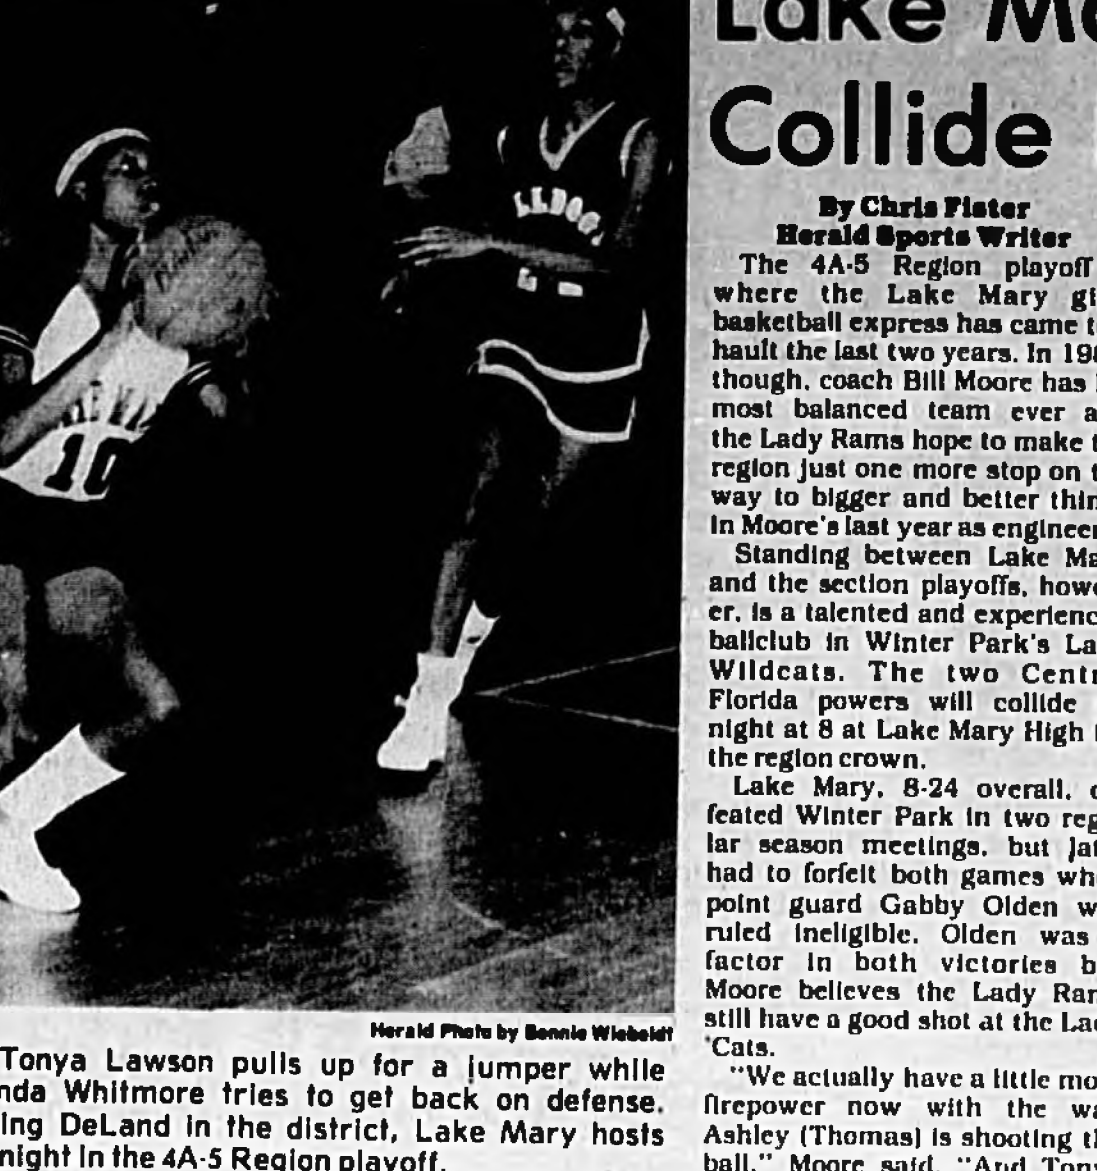

The score remained 1-1 going into the top of the third. Alonzo Gayley led off the inning with a single for the "Noles" and Joey Cork followed with a base hit. With one out, Ron Blake drew a walk off Lyman starter Ross Urshan and Joyce then stepped up and clouted Urshan's first pitch over the fence in left center for a 5-1 Seminole lead.

The Tribe picked up another run in the fourth when Gainey walked, went to third on an errant pick off attempt and scored on Jeff Blake's round single through a drawn in infield.

Lyman pulled within 6-2 in the bottom of the fifth when, with one out, Gib Lounsbury walk and Darren Boyens's fly ball to right was misjudged and fell in for a double and Chris Brack walked to lead the bases. Lundquist scored on Jackson's single.

The defensive play of the game then came for Seminole as the bases still loaded, Joyce got John Burton to bounce back to the mound for a 1-2-3 double play.

"That was a really big defensive play," Seminole coach Mike Ferrell said. "The double play got us out of an inning that could have been trouble."

Howser Steps Down As Royals' Skipper

FORT MYERS (UPI) — Dick Howser, who had steadfastly refused to quit baseball despite a malignant brain tumor, was forced off the field by fatigue and resigned as the Kansas City Royals' manager.

Howser, 50, was told last summer he had a malignant brain tumor, but said throughout his recovery that he planned to return to the field in 1987.

But Monday, one hour into practice on the third day of spring training, Howser left the field at the Royals' spring training complex and announced his decision. Third-base coach Billy Gardner, hired in October to step in if Howser could not manage, immediately was named the team's eighth full-time manager.

Howser cited the Florida heat and a need for a lot of rest as reasons for his resignation.

"As you know I have been pushing and pushing since the first operation in Kansas City and the second operation in L.A.," he said. "I have probably worked a little too hard, but that is all right, to get in uniform and be able to do it."

"Well, I found out yesterday I couldn't do it. It's just that I need some time to rest. I need more time to rest."

Howser said the intense demands of managing prevented him from receiving sufficient rest.

"The doctors feel very strongly he needs a lot of rest, including naps during the day, to maintain his health," said Jeff Coy, a Royals spokesman. "Was Howser, who must undergo a brain

Lake Mary, Winter Park Collide For Region 5 Title

By Chris Fister

The 4A-5 Region playoff is where the Lake Mary girls basketball express has come to a halt the last two years. In 1987, though, coach Bill Moore has his most balanced team ever and the Lady Rams hope to make the region just one more stop on the way to bigger and better things in Moore's last year as an engineer.

Standing between Lake Mary and the section playoffs, however, is a talented and experienced ballclub in Winter Park's Lady Wildcats. The two Central Florida powers will collide tonight at 8 at Lake Mary High for the region crown.

Lake Mary, 8-24 overall, defeated Winter Park in two regular season meetings, but later had to forfeit both games when ruled ineligible. Olden was a factor in both victories but Moore believes the Lady Rams still have a good shot at the Lady Cats.

"We actually have a little more firepower now with the way Ashley (Thomas) is shooting the ball," Moore said. "And Tonya guard for Olden and has done an excellent job running the offense. Lawson averages 12 points and three assists per game.

The forwards are senior Cynthia Patterson (18 points, 7 rebounds) and junior Sharon Bonavulture (8 points, 7 rebounds) and at center is 6-5 junior Teri Whyte (10 points, 10 rebounds, 3.6 blocks).

Lake Mary's top performers off the bench include junior forward Gina Dawson, senior center Dina Mulholland, senior guard Tonya Davis, senior forward Patti Holden and junior guard Marlene Frey, 5-5 junior.

"I think our first five is comparable to Winter Park's," Dawson said. "But I think we can go deeper on the bench. I felt both games we won during the regular season we did it on defense and conditioning. We were a little stronger both games at the end of the game."

Winter Park, ranked fifth in the state, comes in with a 27-1 record and will try to be the fourth Orange County team in a row to knock Lake Mary out of second place.

Intense Raiders Ready For State

Stennis Community College earned its first ever state berth under coach Bill Payne and though the Raiders are extremely pleased with that effort the pressure has anything but subsided.

The Raiders, 29-4, will open play with Indian River Community College (19-12) Thursday night at the University of Central Florida gym at 9 p.m.

"I'm real nervous about Thursday's game," Payne said. "My team is not pumped up."

At the Vanke Hall, the Mid-Florida Conference play of the year, said after the win over VCC. "We'll celebrate this weekend but our season isn't over yet."

Darris Gallagher, floor leader for the Raiders, has the same attitude, and he more than anyone else can convey that attitude throughout the entire team.

"We're going to keep playing like we have been," Gallagher said. "We've got our intensity back."

A big plus Payne feels is the schedule Payne feels has played this season. "We played a tough schedule. I think the schedule we played will be on our side in the tournament."

Payne is the happiest about making the state playoff for more than personal reasons. It's the sophomores that he is happy for. "These kids have won 55 games (losing only 11) in two years," Payne said. "It will be nice that they get to showcase their talents. It's the best people in the best tournament in the state."

Stephens' 3-Pointer Lifts Purdue

It helps to entertain the fans, but it is not a benefit to coaches. The people who made the rule are sitting, not coaching.

Everette Stephens hit his only 3-point field goal of the game in overtime Monday night to key No. 6 Purdue's 76-75 triumph over No. 13 Illinois.

Purdue was 5 of 10 from 3-point range while Illinois was 7 of 18 in the Big Ten game at Champaign, Ill.

"Their game was made on it," Reedy said of the 3-pointer. "It kept them in the game."

Brothers Broennle: Rams' Dynamic Duo

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer
Lake Mary's Rams have put 79 goals on the board this season and almost half of them have been scored by a pair of players who reside under the same roof.

The Brothers Broennle, senior Rick and junior Ernie, have combined for 38 goals and 15 assists this season and coach Larry McCorkle is hoping the talented duo will split the pipes a few more times in Friday's Class 4A State Tournament at Lake Mary High.

Rick Broennle, a midfielder, has been a varsity player ever since he suited up for the Rams as a freshman. He has 12 goals and seven assists this season after finishing with eight goals and four assists a year ago. "Rick is one of those players who does so many things that don't show up in the scorebook," McCorkle said. "He may not be MVP on Offense, but he's real close and he may not be MVP on defense, but he's real close. He's valuable from both aspects and pitches in a little bit of everything."

In the Rams' storybook post season, Rick has scored two goals, including the tying goal that sent the regional game against Winter Park into overtime and a second-half goal that sealed a 2-0 win over

Lyman in the district final. "He's scored some big goals for us and then will turn around and, cover up defensively for someone else. Against Lyman, there were five or six situations where he was in the right spot at key time where maybe an average midfielder would not have got to the ball."

Ernie Broennle leads the team in scoring with 26 goals and also has eight assists. The younger of the brothers has been a varsity member since being moved up from JV late in his freshman year where he had an immediate impact by scoring the winning goals in the Rams' first two district games.

"The 26 goals this season were above my expectations for Ernie," McCorkle said. "It will be tough for him to improve on that but I think he will." Broennle, a natural left-footed player, started out playing on the left wing but has since moved to the center and McCorkle said it is a move that has paid off.

"He's gotten better and better every game at that position," McCorkle said. "A lot of times a player who hasn't grown up at that position can't deal with it but Ernie has done a good job and I think he's got a real future there."

Lake Mary's Rick Broennle goes high in the air to head a ball up field while Winter Park's John Duguid arrives too late. Ernie Broennle, lower left, and older brother Rick,

"Both Rick and Ernie are very important players to us," Mc-

Corkle added. "Ernie scores a lot of goals and Rick creates opportunities and keeps the opponents from creating opportunities."

Both Rick and Ernie excel in the classroom as well as on the soccer field. Rick carries a 3.4 grade point average and scored a 1010 on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) while Ernie has a 3.7 GPA and 1070 SAT score.

4 In A Row: Abernethy All-State

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer
Five players who helped make the 1986-87 girls soccer season one of the most exciting ever, were named to the All-State Team Monday night at a meeting in which the All-Seminole Athletic Conference Team was also chosen.

Lyman High senior Karen Abernethy was named All-State for the fourth year in a row while senior teammate Maye Belle Bryant was also selected along with juniors Julie DelRusso and Renee Deaver of Lake Brantley, and senior Kelley Broen of Lake Mary.

Although playing a new position, midfield, Abernethy had another super season as she contributed in a big way both offensively and defensively. The good-looking senior scored 13 goals and added six assists as Lyman compiled a 19-2-5 record.

DelRusso had an impressive season as she led the SAC in both scoring with 28 goals and assists with 30.

Broen concluded a brilliant career at Lake Mary with 24 goals and 24 assists, both figures second in the county. Broen finished her career with a school record 91 goals.

Orange Park Eager To Join State's Elite

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer
Of the four teams in the 4A State Soccer Tournament, Orange Park is the one that has still not carved its niche among the state's elite.

Tampa Leto, the tournament favorite, has built a solid reputation by winning the state title in 1985 and the Pizza Hut Tournament the past two years. Miami Killian is as close a thing as there is to a soccer dynasty as the South Florida power has won three state titles, including consecutive crowns in 1983 and '84.

Lake Mary is in its first state tournament but has gained state recognition over the past two years by knocking off then top-ranked Hialeah-Miami Lakes last season and playing in rugged Seminole County.

Orange Park has made one previous trip to state and lost in the first round in 1982. Friday afternoon, Orange Park will try to prove that it belongs right

State Soccer

4A State Soccer Champions

alongside the state's elite as it takes on top-ranked and unbeaten Leto.

The Orange Park-Leto matchup gets under way at 2 p.m. at Lake Mary High, while the second semifinal game will pit host Lake Mary against Killian at 8. The final is Saturday night at 8.

"No too many people know of teams in North Florida (no North Florida team has ever won the state title) playing a top-notch caliber of soccer," Orange Park coach Bob Cozart said. "But, if they (Leto) take us lightly we have a shot at them. If we play like we have the last half of the season we have a very good chance."

Orange Park takes a 26-1 record and 25-game winning streak into the State Tournament. The Warriors have scored 108 goals this season and given up just nine.

Orange Park's only loss came in the second game of the season against Tallahassee Leon, the state's top ranked Class 3A team. The Warriors later defeated Leon and also own a victory over Seminole County power Lake Howell.

"This is definitely the best team Orange Park has ever had," Cozart said. "Defensively, we are just as strong if not stronger than on offense and that's saying a lot since we scored over 100 goals this season."

The Warriors' offensive leaders include Benny O'Connor (24 goals), Scott Day (18), Matt Haldak (17), David Willoughby (12) and Brian Azmerek (11). Defensively, Richard Kemp and goalkeeper Jay Millson lead the way. Millson has 19 shutouts this season.

"Of the nine goals scored against us, two came when Jay (Millson) was not in the goal," Cozart said. "And two more were penalty kicks so actually he only allowed five goals."

After hearing Orange Park's accomplishments this season, Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle said the Warriors could be capable of giving Leto a good challenge.

"Sometimes it's tough to beat a team like that once they get on a roll," McCorkle said. "They may think they are invincible right now and that will probably make it an interesting game

Improvement Is Lyman's Main Goal

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

Lyman High's boys and girls track teams will go through the 1987 season with one major goal, to end the season on a much higher level than it started.

Both squads have good mixes of veterans and rookies and it is the combined effort and improvement by all performers that the coaches will be looking for.

"Once we work all the bugs out we'll be alright," boys coach Fred Finke said. "We just have to come together at the end of the season."

Junior Robin Rogers leads a strong distance crew. Rogers, who was not defeated by a Seminole County runner throughout the 1986 cross country season, looks to maintain his dominance. Rogers won the mile with a time of 4:28.5 in the Wildcat Open early this season, he also placed second in the two-mile at the indoor meet in Gainesville, running 9:48.

Freshman Teddy Mitchell is also showing promise with a 9:54 in the two-mile and an equivalent of 4:36 in the mile already this season. Mike Mohler will be used in the middle distances, having run a 2:01 in the half mile.

A pair of hurdlers also look to play a big part in the Lyman attack. Victor Farrier, a junior, has run 15.6 in the 110 high hurdles and 40.2 in the 330 intermediate hurdles. Sophomore Darren Marshall owns a time of 15.3 in the 110 highs and will look to contribute later in the season in the intermediates.

Ricky Sheets will be the Greyhounds' top pole vaulter and he cleared 12-6 at the Wildcat Open while Howard Marshall looks to be the top long jumper with a leap of 20-3 in an earlier meet this season.

In the weights Finke will be looking for a tandem of sophomores to gain experience and be competitive later in the year. John Sherp, 46 feet in the shot put and 121 in the discus, leads the tandem. Close behind is Dave Garret, owner of a 43 foot heave in the shot and 120 foot throw in the discus.

"We will always look bad in dual meets," Finke said. "We run freshmen and sophomores and get killed."

Finke is hoping for at least nine more athletes to join the squad following the basketball season and hopes sophomores Steve Jerry and James Flint can add power in the jumping events.

Girls coach Larry Baker also feels his team will be much improved by the season's end.

"We just need to work hard and be dedicated to improving," Baker said. "If we do that, we should be happy with our improvement at the end of the season."

Seniors Julie Greenberg and Eileen Costello will be the leaders for the Lady Greyhounds for the upcoming season.

Lyman distance ace Robin Rogers will be one of the leaders for the Greyhounds' track squad this season. Rogers, a state-caliber cross country runner, will look to have the same success in track in the mile and two mile.

Greenberg will be running in the distance events, she hasn't run the mile yet this season but ran 12:24 in the two-mile at the Lake Howell Open.

Costello, a transfer from Mt. Dora, will be performing in the weight events for Lyman. Costello has a pair of outstanding marks in both the shot and discus for this early in the season with a toss of 38-7 in the shot and a throw of 125-0 in the discus.

Junior Tracy Fisher will also run in the distance events for Lyman. Fisher has been running the mile for the Lady Greyhounds and has produced a time of 5:42.

Top Seeds Advance In Lipton 1st Round

KEY BISCAJNE, (UPI) — Playing on the first day of a two-week tournament, Brad Gilbert found it difficult to get excited about playing tennis.

Gilbert, the 16th seed, had little trouble with qualifier Joey Rive Monday night at the $1.8 million Lipton International Players Championships, winning 6-3, 6-2, 6-4. But the Piedmont, Calif., resident said it took a while for him to get his game in gear.

"The first few games always seem like it's a little tight out there," Gilbert, 25, said. "You've got a long tournament ahead, but once I got the first set out of the way, I was OK. I haven't got really hectic yet, like I do before the U.S. Open. Maybe by the second week I'll get nervous."

In other first-round play Monday, ninth-seeded Miloslav Meir of Czechoslovakia defeated Cassio Motta of Brazil 6-1, 6-3, 6-0; No. 8 women's seed Kathy Rinaldi defeated Elna Reinach of South Africa 7-6 (8-6), 6-3; No. 10 seed Gabriela Sabatini beat Jo Durie of Great Britain 6-4, 6-1; Silke Meier of West Germany upset No. 11 seed Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria 3-6, 7-6 (9-7), 6-4; and No. 12 seed Tim Mayotte, who won the Lipton in 1985, defeated Richard Schmidt 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.

Other players posting wins were Kevin Curren, who defeated Brad Pearce 6-4, 6-1, 4-6, 7-5; 12th seed Bettina Bunge, a 6-1, 6-1 winner over Adriana Villagran; Johan Kriek, who defeated Mel Purcell 7-6 (8-6), 4-6, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3; and Kathrin Keil, who upset Carling Bassett, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Most of the top-seeded players play first-round matches today, including top seeds Martina Navratilova and Ivan Lendl, and No. 3 women's seed Steffi Graf. Sabatini and Rinaldi also struggled at the beginning of their matches Monday before posting straight-set victories. "Maybe I was a little nervous," said Sabatini, 16, a native of Argentina who lives on Key Biscayne. "In the first set it was 3-1 (Sabatini leading), then she started playing better and came to the net, and I wasn't playing too well. But after the first set, I started playing better and faster."

Rinaldi, 19, battled back from a 1-5 first-set deficit to defeat Reinach, who had beaten Rinaldi last year in Mahwah, N.J.

"I was nervous at the start because I lost to her last year," Rinaldi said. "I got down 5-1 and then I started making my shots, changing the pace a little, and I got back in the match. I think she's an underrated player. She's very good, very deceptive."

Gilbert got off to a slow start this year, losing in the third round of the Australian Open, and then losing his first match in an indoor event in Philadelphia. His best showing was two weeks ago in Memphis, where he advanced to the semifinals before losing to Stefan Edberg, whom Gilbert defeated a year ago to win the tournament.

"I lost a couple close matches, that I feel like it could have a big year already" if he had won those matches, Gilbert said. "One good thing about tennis is that you can pop one good week and say you're on your way."

"Basically, my goal (in the Lipton) is to get through the first week then re-assess my goals in the second week. It's easy to say before the tournament I want to be in the semis," but if you do that, you run the risk of overlooking your first couple opponents."

Law Will Not Arrest Rowdy Athletes

BOSTON (UPI) — Athletes who fight during a game in Boston will be safe from the law, a city councillor says.

Government Operations Committee Chairman Christopher Iannella said Monday his panel will recommend the 13-member council place on file a proposed ordinance that would have allowed police to arrest athletes who fight during games. The proposal came in response to several on-ice fights involving the NHL's Boston Bruins.

Pro Sports

"That's a nice way of saying rejection," Iannella told United Press International in describing the action scheduled for Wednesday.

Late last week, Mayor Raymond L. Flynn, who first raised the spectre of slapping athletes in handcuffs, backed away from the proposal following a meeting with NHL President John Ziegler.

"We reviewed the NHL's disciplinary process and mutually agreed that it is normally best if each of the professional sports organizations try to deal with such problems on an internal basis," Flynn said. "I also advised Mr. Ziegler that if professional leagues did not live up to their responsibilities, then the league should expect community intervention."

The Boston ordinance, authored by Council President Bruce Bolling, would have allowed police to arrest any athlete involved in a fight during a game. Only boxing would have been exempt from the Bolling proposal, which was widely denounced at a public hearing earlier this month.

IN BRIEF

Rising North Stars Dump Slumping Montreal, 4-3

MONTREAL (UPI) — Montreal defenseman Larry Robinson insists the Canadiens are struggling because of a breakdown in fundamentals.

Robinson made his observation following the Minnesota North Stars' 4-3 victory over Montreal Monday night. The Canadiens, the defending Stanley Cup champions, are 1-2-1 in their last four games.

"We are doing things we didn't even do in training camp," Robinson said. "We are giving 3-on-2s, we are passing the puck to guys who are covered and forgetting about guys who aren't. We are making too many mistakes."

The way in which Minnesota scored its four goals backs up Robinson's theory. Brian Bellows and Brian Lawton scored second-period goals following Montreal giveaways. Keith Acton scored in the third period off a 2-on-1 and Brian MacLellan scored a power-play goal off his own rebound in the first period.

"We only played one period tonight, the third," said Claude Lemieux, who scored two goals for Montreal. "We were flat in the first two periods and if we keep playing down like that we won't win too many more games."

The Canadiens made a game of it in the third period, outshooting the North Stars 16-3, and getting a breakthrough goal from Lemieux and a power-play score by Robinson. But Minnesota goaltender Karl Takko was able to withstand the barrage and send Montreal to its first home loss since Jan. 19.

Coaches Discus Drug Testing

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — If the coaches at the NCAA College Football '87 Preview did not know better, they might have thought they were attending a medical convention.

Most of Monday's morning presentation focused on the testimony of John Toner, chairman of the NCAA Committee for PostSeason Drug Testing, and Dr. Don Catlin, who heads the Los Angeles laboratory the NCAA uses to analyze tests.

In addition to discussions of the testing procedure, possible trends in steroid usage by athletes and recommendations for more sanctions of athletes who test positive, the 10 coaches also talked about football, including how Proposition 48's eligibility rules are affecting their programs.

Toner and his committee will make recommendations to the Executive Committee in April, including a request that marijuana be added to the list of banned substances. Under current rules, an athlete who tests positive for using marijuana is given a first-time warning.

In addition, Toner proposed that if an athlete who tests positive for any of the NCAA banned substances is considered to have contributed "significantly" to a team championship, the team should be disqualified and vacate any honors.

Orlando Gets USA-USSR Boxing

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — World champion Vasily Shyshov tops a 12-man Soviet National team which will compete in a USA-USSR dual boxing match next month in Florida, the U.S. Amateur Boxing Federation announced Monday.

The Soviet team also includes five Goodwill Games titlists and two bronze medalists from the 1986 World Championships. The bouts will be held March 5 at Sea World in Orlando.

Shyshov, who won his title at 139 pounds, has moved up to 147 pounds. Yuri Alexandrov (119 pounds), a former world champion, and Orzubek Nazarov (132) both took third at the World Championships. The Goodwill Games champs on the Soviet team are Nshan Munchian (106), Mikhail Kazarian (125), Igor Ruzhnikov (139), Ramzan Sebiev (201), and Nazarov.

Alexander Yagubkin, the 1985 World Cup and European title holder, has moved up to the super heavyweight class.

Utah Sweeps NCAA West Skiing

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — Utah swept the first three places in the men's 15-kilometer Nordic race to grab the team lead after the first day of the NCAA West Regional Ski Championships.

The Utes' Erik Baumann finished the 15-K course in 44:28.7 to edge teammate Asmund Driveness by 20 seconds. Hans Martin Sjulstad finished third.

The Utes amassed 165 team points to lead Wyoming by three. Defending regional champion Colorado was in third with 141 points, and New Mexico was in fourth with 137.

Kim Czizmazia of Utah also captured the women's 10-kilometer nordic race, cruising to a 48-second margin of victory over Wyoming's Grethe Hagensen.

Colorado's John Walsh won the giant slalom, run on Vail's North Peak. Walsh's two runs totalled 2:09.82, beating Leif-Mag Engeseth of Wyoming by less than half a second.

Mansell Registers Best Time

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — Nigel Mansell of the Williams team registered the best Formula One test time at the Jacarepagua track Monday, finishing the 3.13-mile course in 1 minute, 30.83 seconds.

The Williams, McLaren and Lotus teams all tested their cars Monday, joined late in the day by Teo Fabi of Benetton, who completed only one lap without recording a time.

Reigning Formula One champion Alain Prost of France tested the McLaren team's new TAG-Porsche engine in two of last year's cars.

"Without a doubt this year's engine is much better," Prost said. "This isn't the definitive version yet, but it's possible to note the difference in potency — the potency is greater and the consumption is less."

post season play. The Lady Rams fell to Orlando Evans in 1985 and Orlando Edgewater in '86.

Winter Park's starting five is as good and as experienced as any in the area. The guards include one of the top juniors in the state in Mimi Jones and senior point guard Astrid Soulette, a transfer from California. The forwards include seniors Jennifer Scherer and Lynn Parks and senior Heidi Wutscher is at center. Senior Swedish exchange student Helle Ljungstrom and senior guard Shawna Lowrey are the top players off the Lady Wildcats' bench.

"Soulette is one of the better point guards around," Moore said. "She does a good job of penetrating and protecting the ball. Jones is very quick and a good shooter and Heidi (Wutscher) is very good inside. We want to try to keep the ball out of Heidi's hands."

"We're both experienced senior teams," added Moore. "And it may come down to which team shoots better."

TONIGHT'S SCHEDULE

Tonight's Prep/JoCo Schedule</

Stocks Continue Rise

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher today in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues as the market continued its recovery from steep early losses in the previous session.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 18.70 Monday, was up 8.29 to 2224.83 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 562-398 among the 1,411 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 14,317,000 shares.

Stock prices retreated Monday as investors cashed in on recent gains, but losses were trimmed in the afternoon as buyers came in looking for bargains.

The market came under pressure early Monday from across-the-board profit taking that hit banking and technology groups especially hard. Some technology stocks later recovered.

Futures-related selling exacerbated losses mid-morning. Buy and sell programs contributed to volatility throughout the session.

"The market was dealing with a lot of crosscurrents," said Jon Groveman, head of equity trading at Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co.

Groveman called the weekend meeting of central bankers and finance officials in Paris a "non-event," but he said if it helps stabilize the dollar, investors might lose some interest in U.S. companies with overseas markets.

Dollar On Rise In Quiet Trading

By United Press International

The U.S. dollar opened higher on major world currency markets in quiet trading today. The price of gold slipped back towards the $400 an ounce level.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar edged higher against the Japanese yen in light trading on the Tokyo foreign exchange market, closing at 153.79, up 0.24 from Monday's close of 153.55.

Dealers said the absence of incentives and concern over market intervention by the Bank of Japan discouraged major market players from taking large positions.

Satoshi Sumita, the Governor of the Central Bank, upon returning from the Paris meeting of six major industrial nations, said the participants agreed on concerted intervention in exchange markets.

Sumita, however, refused to disclose details of the agreement.

In Europe, few operators were anxious to open new positions before the U.S. markets opened, London traders said.

The financiers were awaiting the weekly statement by Federal Reserve chairman Paul Volcker, hoping for further comment on the Paris meeting of six major nations on currency stability last weekend.

Worries about Brazilian debt repayments also were an inhibiting influence on the market, one London analyst said.

In Frankfurt, the dollar opened at 1.8405 German marks, up from 1.8279, and in Zurich, the dollar opened at 1.5555 Swiss francs, up from 1.5470.

The dollar rate in Paris strengthened to 6.1265 French francs and in Brussels the dollar opened at 38.52 Belgian francs, up from 38.28 on Monday.

Job Markets Expected To Grow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The job markets of 39 major American metropolitan areas will each grow by between 250,000 and 1 million by the year 2010, due mainly to a surge in service industry employment, researchers report.

The Los Angeles-Long Beach and Washington regions will each account for more than 1 million new jobs, according to a National Planning Association survey released Monday.

Washington is also projected to pass Boston and Philadelphia to become the fourth largest employment center, the association said.

"Looking across the country, the service jobs are definitely taking the largest percentage of the increases," researcher Carlton Strong said in an interview. "This is a net growth across the country — a net increase in jobs."

"Relatively rapid growth rates are projected for the newer and smaller MSAs, especially those in the South and West. Also, the suburban counties are projected to grow faster than established central city counties."

Growth In Housing To Slow As 21st Century Approaches

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The pace of new home building across the country will slow by the turn of the century as the number of American households shrinks, the chief researcher for the Harvard-MIT Housing Futures Project said today.

William Apgar, in remarks prepared for delivery to the U.S. League of Savings Institutions, predicted about 1.4 million to 1.5 million new homes will be built each year in the 1990s — down from the 1.8 million started last year.

Apgar's forecast came one day after an analyst from Wharton Econometrics told the group that represents the nation's savings and loan institutions that the country is likely to slip into a recession by 1990.

Apgar, whose Housing Futures Project is part of the Joint Center for Urban Studies operated by Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said a key factor in tomorrow's housing markets will be the end of the "baby boom" generation — those born between 1945 and 1960 — and arrival of the much smaller "baby bust" generation as adults.

The nation now adds about 1.5 million households a year, he said, but between 1990 and 1995 that rate will drop to 1.26 million new households a year. The rate will drop again to 1.13 million each year between 1995 and 2000, he said.

The recent increase in the number of married couples with children will stay on the upswing for a few more years, Apgar told the group, but after 1990 that rate will level off to about 28 million households and those couples will trade constantly for bigger and bigger houses through the rest of the century.

Eventually the number of households with children will taper off by the turn of the century.

Man Sought To Have Ex-Wife Maimed, Jury Told

An Altamonte Springs man is on trial for attempting to have his former wife blinded, paralyzed and made mute and deaf.

Paul E. Butler, 35, is charged with soliciting to commit murder, aggravated battery and burglary. He has been held without bond since his arrest Oct. 15.

Prosecutors from the Orange-Osceola State Attorney's office told an Orange Circuit Court jury charge that Butler wanted his ex-wife Carol Morris, 42, of Casselberry, maimed so she would get the "peace and quiet" he said she was always saying she wanted. The couple divorced a month prior to the alleged incident. They had been married two years, according to reports.

A detective for the Ft. Lauderdale Police Department who posed as a hired killer told jurors Monday that Butler offered him $2,500 to break into Ms. Morris' apartment and wait for her return. He was then supposed to maim her. He said Butler told him there were worse things than death. He said Butler also talked about the possible maiming of Ms. Morris' 14-year-old daughter and killing her 20-year-old son. The detective was brought into the case after Butler reportedly called another man in Ft. Lauderdale and tried to arrange the incident. That man called the police.

The detective said he flew, at Butler's expense to Orlando, first met with police who wired him to record conversations, and met with Butler.

If convicted, Butler faces up to 12 years. The trial is before Circuit Judge Ted Coleman.

and frisked him.

The robber took McCoy's wallet containing $144, his $40 wedding band and a $6 knife. The robber told McCoy not to leave the restroom or he would kill him, a sheriff's report said.

When McCoy did leave the restroom he saw witness David W. Presley, 47, of Newport News, Virginia, who said the robber had asked him for a cigarette before going into the restroom. Presley said he had seen the robber leave with another man in a dark blue, foreign car.

In the other case, Jerry Lee Warren, 18, of Wauchula, told deputies that he had been in the same restroom at about the same time when he was approached by apparently the same gunman who demanded money.

When Warren told the robber he didn't have any cash the robber frisked him and found nothing. As the bandit left he told Warren, "If you tell anybody about this I'll kill you."

...P&Z

people put on the P&Z aren't experts to begin with. We have very highly paid staff who are. I appreciate the time and effort P&Z members put in, but it's out of hand folks," he said to his fellow commissioners Monday. "This man (Kantor) needs some relief."

Carl's concerns included possible fire hazards from construction materials, traffic's impacts on nearby homes and the project's relatively high density. Planning and Engineering Director Bill Simmons said before Thursday's P&Z meeting the fire department had passed the site plan during its review. It was agreed Hartwell Avenue would be paved from 25th to 24th streets and that the density, 140 units on a 10 acre parcel, was "tight," but within city requirements. Carl also said he was concerned about parking, which Simmons said met minimum city requirements.

City commissioners usually address site plan appeals when a written request has been received, and rather than be inconsistent with this policy, said they would hold a special session March 2, allowing P&Z, staff and local residents' input.

Kantor told commissioners Monday he was pressed for time to close on the project and therefore didn't want to wait until the P&Z meets March 5 for another review. —Karen Talley of Winter Park, said he will be meeting with the dance, art, music and drama groups the city says can use the center and also city fire and building staff to determine what will be done in terms of redesign. Mills, who also chairs the city's Historic Preservation Board, said he'll have cost estimates for the rehabilitation ready for commission review sometime this spring. Mills' historic board chairmanship has been discussed by he and city staff, who say it will not pose a conflict of interest regarding the cultural arts center project.

...Contract

The center, at the corner of Fifth Street and Oak Avenue, has a leaky roof, and possible termite infestation in addition to lack of required facilities to provide access for the handicapped, according to city staff. It was used as a library before opening as Sanford's cultural arts center in 1984. The building has been closed for two years due to general deterioration and the lack of handicap facilities. All commissioners said Monday they had received phone calls, pro and con about its restoration since they began discussion of the architects award in work session last week.

Proponents see the center as representing the city's progressive posture, a move "towards class," according to Mrs. Reagan.

Opponents, said McClanahan, cite too much funding for a project benefiting too few. McClanahan said he would prefer seeing the $100,000 used as seed money for a senior citizen's/cultural arts center on city-owned land near the civic center.

Eckstein said the economic climate may indicate hard-times headed for the country and Sanford, and that the city might want to save the $100,000 "for something that may become more important to us."

Commissioners Mercer and Thomas urged a go on the award, saying the one and a half story, 60-year-old building is historically significant and its restoration signifies another "progressive move" the city has taken towards improvement since they took office two years ago. Thomas further offered work on the rehab effort.

Commissioners were split last week when staff said the project would run about $185,000 in total, for redesign fees and the full rehabilitation. The estimate was based on discussions with architects, staff said. McClanahan, a builder-contractor, on Monday reiterated his position the full cost would come closer to $250,000, not $185,000. —Karen Talley

Court Will Decide On Execution Of Children

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court said Monday it will decide whether children can be sentenced to death, a practice opposed by human rights organizations around the globe.

The justices will hear arguments next term in an appeal by William Wayne Thompson, 19, of Oklahoma, who was sent to death row for a murder he committed when he was 15.

In his appeal, Thompson's lawyers said imposition of the death penalty against minors violates the Eighth Amendment ban against cruel and unusual punishment.

They said Oklahoma is one of only three states that do not have a minimum age for imposing the sentence or do not specify age can be a mitigating factor in capital cases.

"Killing minors for crimes committed while still children offends fundamental standards of decency and humanity," the appeal said.

Lawyers for Oklahoma opposed the appeal, saying a judge should have discretion to decide if a juvenile is mature enough to be tried as an adult.

"In this particular case, it was a very savage beating, stabbing and shooting of the victim," said David Lee of the Oklahoma attorney general's office.

Of 37 states with capital punishment laws, 10 set a minimum age of 18 for imposition of the death penalty. The others either set no age limit or have minimums ranging from 10 to 17.

According to Amnesty International, the United States is one of very few countries where people are sentenced to death for crimes committed as juveniles.

Law professor Victor Streib of Cleveland State University, an expert on juvenile death sentences, hailed the court's decision to hear the case.

"It's almost fair to say nobody executes juveniles but us and certainly no other country comparable to the United States," Streib said. "It's been kind of an international embarrassment for us."

In other action Monday, the justices, returning from a month recess:

Cases Accepted

—Agreed to decide if it is constitutional to sentence minors to die in an appeal by an Oklahoma man sent to death row for a crime he committed at age 15 (86-6169 — Thompson vs. Oklahoma).

—Agreed to arbitrate a tangled legal dispute that involves an 1878 posse law, the 1973 Wounded Knee incident, the federal government and the Constitution. (86-978 — Alexander Haig vs. Gladys Bissonette).

—Agreed to decide if federal law bars school districts from immediately removing violent handicapped children from the classroom in a case from California (86-728 — Bill Honig, California Superintendent of Public Instruction vs. John Doe and Jack Smith).

—Agreed to decide the constitutionality of a Virginia law barring bookstores from displaying pornography, best sellers, health books and other material that could be considered harmful to children (86-1034 — Commonwealth of Virginia vs. American Booksellers Association).

—Agreed to decide the constitutionality of a Kansas utility commission ruling that based a rate increase on the cost of building a coal-fired plant instead of a more expensive nuclear facility (86-781 — Kansas Gas and Electric Co. vs. State Corporation Commission of the State of Kansas).

—Agreed to decide if a Michigan law regulating utility securities, including natural gas companies with major operations in the state, is pre-empted by the Natural Gas Act (86-986 — Michigan Public Service Commission vs. ANR Pipeline Co.).

—Agreed to decide, in an appeal by Phillips Petroleum Co., whether 2,400 acres of tidelands were conveyed by the United States to Mississippi at the time of her statehood as part of the state-owned public trust (86-870 — Phillips Petroleum Co. vs. State of Mississippi).

—Agreed to decide if an Illinois judge was immune from a damage suit filed by a probation officer who contends she was fired because of her sex (86-761 — Forrester vs. White).

—Agreed to decide the constitutionality of a 50-year-old law limiting protest at embassies in the nation's capital (86-803 — Michael Boos vs. Marion Barry).

Cases Rejected

—Upheld the Illinois mandatory seat belt law, overruling arguments that such laws violate the right to privacy (86-1095 — Kohrig vs. Illinois).

—Refused to become involved in a dispute over the constitutionality of a Minnesota law imposing a 48-hour waiting period on minors seeking abortions and requiring their parents be notified (86-882 — Hodgson vs. Minnesota).

—Let stand a ruling that a historically black Alabama university had no legal standing to challenge racially discriminatory policies of the Alabama State Board of Education (86-749 — Board of Trustees of Alabama State University vs. Alabama State Board of Education).

—Let stand a ruling that a Connecticut quota system for selecting potential jurors was racially discriminatory.

—Cleared the way for a new trial to determine whether Iowa Beef Processors libeled a former employee in a letter sent to a congressional subcommittee (86-921 — Bagley vs. Iowa Beef Processors).

—Let stand a ruling that the rights of convicted Mississippi murderer Larry Jones were violated when his trial attorney failed to present any evidence for the sentencing phase of his trial (86-899 — Thigpen vs. Jones).

—Let stand 30-day jail terms leveled against a defendant and six courtroom spectators who refused to stand for a judge when he entered the courtroom (86-589 — Krupps vs. Texas).

—Dismissed a challenge to federal law barring television station owners from acquiring cable systems in the same viewing area (86-775 — Marsh Media vs. FCC).

The teens must also adhere to certain rules, such as no drugs or alcoholic beverages, to continue being allowed in the club, she said.

Since City Lights' Dec. 19 opening, fast-food hamburger restaurant parking lots, a favorite hangout for local teens, are empty, according to Mrs. Rowan. "Now you can drive by and they're not there, they're at City Lights," she said.

"Positive feedback from parents" is another indicator of success, Mrs. Rowan said. "They tell us it's great the kids have a place to go."

Mrs. Rowan said she and Mrs. Conway routinely spend "six days a week, five hours a day" at City Lights in preparation for and during its open hours.

Wife Simply Closed Door On Repulsive, Smelly Husband

DEAR ABBY: I am in the same boat as "End of My Rope," the woman who said her husband never washed himself and was repulsive, smelly, etc.

I've been married for 49 years to a man who is kind, honest and decent. But he never bathes, showers or shampoos his hair, and he wears dirty, smelly clothes. As long as I've known him, he has never been to a dentist, so all his teeth have rotted out years ago, and he hasn't a tooth in his head.

So, between his body odor, bad breath, smelly clothes, I moved him into another bedroom after our child was born. I had to keep his door shut all the time to keep the terrible odor from spreading around the house. I never had my friends visit me because I was ashamed of him.

Maybe I should have left him years ago, but I knew I couldn't support myself. So, I guess one could say I married him for better or "worse."

TOO LATE NOW

DEAR TOO LATE: What a regrettable waste! For in leaving your husband alone for 47 years, you, too, have been left alone. It's useless for me to tell you that you should have nipped the problem in the bud and dealt with it — but since we cannot turn back the clock, perhaps your story will serve as a wonder what the safe and legal answer would be.

MINNESOTA READER

DEAR READER: The Los Angeles Police Department, whom I consulted, also requires that information be exchanged at the scene of the accident, but they acknowledged that if a person assesses himself to be in danger by leaving his automobile, the right to protect himself supersedes the law.

DEAR ABBY: May I air my pet gripe. It's when visitors come to my home and decide to take a quick tour through the place when I haven't offered one. Very often I will return from fixing refreshments to find someone wandering through my home — looking into each room (even those with the door shut). Isn't it bad manners to explore private areas of someone's home without having been invited to do so? Very often those doors are shut for a reason — to present a neater picture when visitors drop in on short notice. So, please remind your readers not to wander around someone's home unless invited to. Thanks.

OFF-LIMITS IN IOWA

DEAR OFF: I'll "remind" them, but I can't guarantee anything. Incurable snoops will not be deterred by a gentle reminder. Only a locked door will stop them.

Hi-Tech Upheaval Spurs U.K. Newspaper Boom

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's first "24-hour" newspaper — The London Daily News — has jumped into a crowded but booming market that is in the midst of technological upheaval.

Tycoon Robert Maxwell's new publication, with the "Big Ben" clock tower on its masthead, is London's 12th major daily. It is using computerized production that in the past year made a delayed arrival in the capital's 285-year-old newspaper industry.

Maxwell compared the move to hi-tech to "the British navy changing from wooden ships to iron-clad steam, a huge changeover."

The once-dominant print workers' unions tried to defend the old "hot metal" practices but are now in retreat. Only recently the unions gave up a 13-month, sometimes violent struggle to get into the new printing plant of another media baron, Rupert Murdoch.

With a smorgasbord of the dozen titles daily and nine others on Sunday, London is a paradise for newspaper connoisseurs. More than three out of four British adults read a daily. Murdoch's Sun, with its sexy photos of semi-nude women, alone sells more than 4 million copies a day.

Others, such as the pink-paged Financial Times, are among the world's most highly respected in terms of news content.

Besides the Daily News, two other newspapers started up in the last year, the Independent and color-printing Today. Another, a left-wing News on Sunday, is due out in March.

"It's amazing they are all able to survive," said James Poole, a commodities editor.

The newspapers are beginning to move out of their traditional home around Fleet Street, the cramped, romantic "street of ink" of medieval times. Many are going to former dock areas in east London along the Thames River.

By bypassing linotype operators and others, the computers cut the number of workers necessary for production and lower the financial break-even point for publishers. About half the London newspapers have quickly introduced some computer technology that was already in widespread use in the United States and other countries in the 1970s.

Murdoch's new plant requires only 1,200 production workers against 4,500 who previously put out his London titles, a spokesman said.

Maxwell, a Czech expatriate, introduced here the "24-hour" concept. The Daily News is to have an early morning version and then four editions throughout the day updating 40 percent of the content.

"It will provide Londoners with the best possible service from breakfast to the last train home," Maxwell said.

Preview issues rolled off the presses last week and the launch day was set for Tuesday (Feb. 24).

Its later editions will go head-to-head against the only other afternoon paper, the London Evening Standard. There was immediate talk of a "newspaper war."

Standard chief Bert Hardy said he thought Maxwell's aim was "to knock us off the streets." His newspaper responded in typical Fleet Street fashion by luring readers with an announcement it will give away five houses.

Charles Wintour, a veteran Fleet Street editor who is now a consultant to the Daily News, said "The 24-hour system puts a far greater strain on the editorial staff. The editor has virtually no time to think creatively."

The Daily News is remaining in the Fleet Street area. The Street's connections with printing goes back to 1500. In 1702 it became the site of London's first daily paper, The Daily Courant.

It is a narrow street that runs parallel to the Thames, leading toward St. Paul's Cathedral. Pub keepers are lamenting the departure of customers who ran the presses at the Sun or the News of the World. But they are being replaced at the bar by financial traders.

"For years the unions had a total stranglehold," Wintour said in an interview. "They had not been defeated in a major conflict this century. They were grossly overpaid and management had virtually abandoned management."

Some owners so badly wanted the social and political status their newspapers conferred that they would accept financial losses.

In the ongoing battle to win or hold readership, papers like the Mirror and Sun devise games, giveaways and gimmicks. The latest is personalized plastic cards the newspapers say will give their readers discounts on vacation packages, electronic gear and insurance.

"Those newspapers are really fun sheets," Wintour said. "In a one-newspaper monopoly situation, you have to be blander."

"But here popular newspapers have set out to entertain and they don't consider they have a mission to educate or be fail."

Hard Times Boost Library Use

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon's poor economy is credited with a big boost in the number of people using public libraries.

"Librarians have known since the Great Depression that when times are hard people flock to public libraries," said Jim Scheppke, who is in charge of library development programs at the Oregon State Library. "This is exactly what we've had in Oregon the past five years."

State Librarian Wes Doak said that more than 17 million books and other materials were checked out from Oregon's 205 public libraries during fiscal 1985-86, an increase of 475,000 over the previous year.

He noted the loss of federal revenue for the libraries was a particular burden for libraries in rural areas.

Mute Veteran Regains Speech After Dream

MOSCOW (UPI) — A World War II veteran who has been mute since he was shot in the head in 1944 spoke for the first time in 43 years after having a nightmare about the battle that left him silent, the Izvestia newspaper said.

Akhil Maximenko, 75, a farmer in the Ukraine, suddenly regained his speech after a bad dream about the battle with Nazi troops in Poland in December 1944 in which he was shot through the head and left mute, the newspaper said Monday.

"I was dreaming about the battle that night. I charged forward with my rifle and shouted loudly in my sleep. I awakened to hear the clock ticking off peacefully and my heart pounding like in a battle," Maximenko said.

"He now speaks a Ukrainian so perfect and melodious that his fellow villagers say it is a pleasure to listen to," Izvestia said.

Leukemia Takes Several Forms

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — My wife, now 71, was found to have early-stage leukemia nearly two years ago. Her blood count is now 21,500 and increasing by 1,000 every month. The doctors say nothing can be done until it reaches 50,000. Why can't she get treatment now? This waiting is anguish.

DEAR READER — Leukemia, cancer of the blood cells, can take many forms. Some are acute and extremely dangerous; others seem to be more indolent and less severe.

Your wife probably has chronic lymphocytic leukemia (CLL), an abnormality of the blood cells called lymphocytes, which help to fight infection. This type of leukemia often doesn't behave like leukemia at all: It appears to be an uncontrolled production of certain blood cells that doesn't affect health. As the lymphocytes grow in number, the blood becomes heavier and stickier. When the count reaches 50,000 to 100,000, the blood needs thinning. This usually is done easily with medicine that turns off the production of lymphocytes.

Patients with CLL can live long and productive lives as long as their blood counts are monitored and periodic treatment is given when necessary.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have to wear an athletic supporter because my testicles swell and get painful. This has been going on for six years, and my sex life is zero. Several doctors have been unable to find the cause of my problem. Can you give me a clue?

DEAR READER — You seem to have recurring inflammation of the testicles or the tissues in that very sensitive area. This should be a treatable infection. Ask for a referral to a urologist or the urology clinic at a large hospital.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm a female, 46, who had a massive heart attack. There is 80 percent blockage in a main artery. The doctors suggest balloon surgery. What is this?

DEAR READER — Balloon angioplasty is a new and revolutionary treatment for blocked arteries. A catheter, with a deflated balloon around it, is passed into a blocked artery.

Once it is in the appropriate position, the balloon is suddenly inflated. This pressure causes the balloon to be forced against the calcified arteriosclerotic material that is lining the blocked blood vessel; the material is cracked apart and fragmented by the expanding balloon.

This method of cleaning out arterial blockage is not suitable for every patient. Nonetheless, balloon angioplasty is an alternative to coronary bypass surgery for many people. It is safer, less expensive and does not require chest incisions or open-heart surgery.

DIVERTICULAR DISEASE is a common problem, and Dr. Gott's new Health Report tells how it can be treated and managed. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Declarer exercised a reasonable amount of skill with today's deal. But he overlooked one key tactic. Follow the play and see if you can detect his error.

South took dummy's A-K of clubs and came to his hand with the ace of hearts to ruff a club. Since it was likely that he would lose two trump tricks, he rightly decided to try for a trick with the king of diamonds. When he led the jack of diamonds, East won the ace and played another club. Although South ruffed in his hand, West did not take his queen of trumps. Instead, West jettisoned the queen of hearts.

Declarer now took his best shot by playing the king of spades, since either defender might have held the lone queen of trumps. East took the spade ace and led a heart, which West ruffed low, and West still had the queen of spades for the setting trick.

Declarer's thinking was good up to a point. But he lost the contract because he did not take his second heart trick earlier. Suppose he cashes both the ace and the king of hearts before ruffing his losing club. Now the defenders will not be able to take more than the ace of diamonds and two trump tricks (the ace and queen), and there will be no way for West to take a trick with a low trump by ruffing declarer's king of hearts.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY

FEBRUARY 25, 1987

In the year ahead you might become involved in an exciting new venture that could be quite profitable, provided you are associated with the right people.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You could be the source of your own undoing today if you do something that is opposed to your better judgment. Don't ignore your common sense. Major changes are ahead for Pisces in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph prediction today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be cautious regarding involvements today that stretch you to the limits financially. If you get in over your head, it may be difficult to bail out. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Associates can be led today, but they cannot be pushed. If others feel you are being too aggressive, they are likely to withdraw their cooperation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's important today that you have a definite sense of direction, or else you might scatter your efforts so thin that nothing worthwhile will be achieved.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Excessive curiosity could draw you into a complicated situation today that should be avoided. Don't poke your nose in where it doesn't belong.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Major decisions shouldn't be made impulsively today, especially if what you decide has a direct effect on someone who isn't present.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you have to deviate from your customary procedures at work today, it's best to consult your superiors before making any changes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You might not be up to par today at managing ticklish financial situations. Be careful with your resources as well as the resources of others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Associations with outsiders should run reasonably smoothly today, but this might not be true in your involvements with family members or in-laws.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't overpower people with your ideas today. If they seem unresponsive, putting on the pressure won't change their minds.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's not a smart move today to lend something you prize to a friend you know is quite careless with his or her own possessions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In gratifying demands placed on you by others, you're likely to change course too often for your own good today.
