Fatality reported in Sanford

SANFORD — One man was killed, another received minor injuries in a automobile accident early this morning at the intersection of Highway 17-92 and Lake Mary Boulevard. According to Sanford Police Chief Ralph Russell, a 1993 Toyota pickup truck was traveling south on 17-92 and crashed into the side of a 1991 Freightliner semi tractor trailer heading east on Lake Mary Boulevard.

The pickup truck apparently failed to stop for the red light and struck the semi in the left side, Russell said.

The driver of the pickup was killed in the collision. As of this morning, his name was not revealed, pending notification of next of kin.

The driver of the semi received only minor injuries.

The accident occurred at 2:38 this morning in what officers considered very light traffic.

Deputy involved in accident

SANFORD — A Seminole County sheriff's deputy was involved in an auto accident Wednesday evening at the intersection of Bank Avenue and 20th Street.

According to Sheriff's spokesman George Proeschel, Deputy Carlos Joseph was responding to a 911 hang up call when he sped through the intersection as an unidentified woman was driving her red Camaro through the intersection in the opposite direction.

Florida Highway Patrol officials responded to the scene, but a report has not yet been filed with its DeLand office. According to an FHP spokesman, officers have 72 hours in which to file the report.

According to Proeschel, the woman was injured in the accident. She was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital for treatment, he said.

Her condition was not known.

Clarifications

• SANFORD — The denial of homestead form prepared to be sent to City Commissioner Tom Howell referred to in Wednesday's Sanford Herald was not mailed with other forms Tuesday pending further investigation into his residency.

Seminole County Property Appraiser Bill Suber said Wednesday afternoon that while the form has been prepared from the list of homestead denials on which Howell's name appears, it will not be mailed to Howell until an investigation into the matter has been completed. Suber discussed the matter with Howell Wednesday morning and is awaiting additional facts from the county's investigation and information Howell is expected to supply.

The form would deny Howell's homestead application based on what Suber referred to as "no residency." Suber said the investigation could be complete by next week. If Howell is found to be a resident of the property at 1109 Park Ave., his name will be removed from the denial list.

• Nicole Lemon, who was quoted in yesterday's story about sexual harassment in the schools, wished to clarify her quote regarding "kissing and hugging" by her friend Johnny Golden. She said that there has only been one incident in which Golden kissed her or hugged her. She added that there have been no other incidents in which she was personally treated in that way by male students.

Murder charged

Cops say drifter brutally stabbed Longwood man, 84

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — A 28-year-old Altamonte Springs drifter has been charged in the brutal stabbing death of an 84-year-old longtime resident of Lake Irene near Longwood.

"Doggone it, a man like George should've died in his sleep," said an acquaintance of the murdered man, Norman Wynn.

Seminole County investigators say Bill Bojan has confessed to stabbing George Holder, 84, of 8899 Lake Irene Drive, in a robbery attempt gone awry. Bojan is scheduled to appear before a judge at the Seminole County jail at 1:30 p.m. today on a first-degree murder charge.

Bojan was a tenant of Holder's several months ago, said Seminole County Sheriff's spokesman George Proeschel. She also visited another tenant of the rental home regularly, said Proeschel.

Residents of the lakefront cabin neighborhood of Lake Irene Drive declined to talk Wednesday. The owners of two auto repair garages near the murder scene describe it as a quiet place, but one where suspicious cars and people have recently come.

Lack Lee, owner of Lee's Automotive, said he has seen a car which has been driving slowly along the sandy drive during the past week or so, but described the car as quiet and peaceful.

Wynn, owner of Winter Springs Impact bar and located a few blocks from Holder's home, said the 40-year resident of the Lake Irene home told him several weeks ago he was growing concerned about undesirable people in the neighborhood.

He said in April, Holder, a white man, in the area, said Wynn. The neighborhood is one thing.

Prosecutor says two more women were victims of pro football player

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Two more women have alleged a former professional football player used extortion against one, and a drug to incapacitate the other, according to court papers filed recently.

Assistant State Attorney Stewart Stone filed a notice to other evidence of other crimes in the case against Lewis Billups, 29, and his roommate Gregory Calloway, 35. A June 8 trial is scheduled but is expected to be postponed. Billups is in a Kentucky jail on an unrelated charge of threatening to end the career of professional basketball player Rex Chapman. Billups dated Chapman's sister, Jenny.

The prosecutor in Kentucky told Stone they are attempting to resolve the case. "Maybe by a plea agreement," Stone explained, "but I can't be certain of that. No definite decision has been made in that case."

In court papers filed late last week, Stone said he plans to present evidence against Billups and Calloway, based on the testimony of two additional women who had contact with the pair.

One of the women claims Billups threatened he would use photographs to disgrace her if she did not maintain a relationship with him and obey his directions and wishes. That incident allegedly happened between March 1 and April 30, 1987.

The second woman claims on October 31, 1992, Billups committed sexual battery on her after she was given a narcotic, anesthetic or other intoxicating substance, which mentally or physically incapacitated her.

Stone plans to introduce the evidence from the two women at the trial.

They are not planning to file additional criminal charges, Stone said.

Billups, who once played for the Cincinnati Bengals and Green Bay Packers, and Calloway, who is a library worker, are charged with sexual battery on an impaired female, extortion, conspiracy to commit extortion and burglary of a conveyance. The two men were charged after a

LAKE MARY — A proposed stormwater utility fee will be back before the Lake Mary City Commission tonight. The concept has been under consideration for over two years, and had already failed passage twice before.

The ordinance would place a fee on each home and business based on the EDI system (Equivalent Drainage Unit). A feasibility study by Dyer, Riddle, Mills and Proctor has estimated the ordinance could generate approximately $2.32 million per year.

An EDI is based on the number of square feet of surface on the average size home, where rainwater runs off to flow to the ground in a lake. Lake Mary, one EDI is 4,570 square feet. Each single family residence would be classed as having one EDI, for which the charge will be $ per month.

The $3 will consist of a base fee of $1.45 per EDI, plus a contribution fee of $1.55.

Non-residential property, with site mitigation facilities will not pay the contribution fee.

Union files suit to stop prayer

JACKSONVILLE — The American Civil Liberties Union filed suit to stop a Jacksonville high school from permitting "student initiated" prayer at its graduation ceremony.

At its June 7 commencement, Mandarin High School was expected to take advantage of a Duval County School Board decision Tuesday to allow students to pray when receiving their diplomas.

The ACLU is filing on behalf of three graduating seniors and one parent who object to any officially sanctioned prayers at graduation.

"The Constitution forbids the State to exact religious conformity from as student as the price of attending her own graduation," the high court ruled.

The action came just a day after the school board voted 4-3 against a proposal by board member Cheryl Donelan for a moment of silence, instead of allowing graduating students to give their own messages at commencement.

7 cases of spinal meningitis reported

PENSACOLA — Seven cases of spinal meningitis, including one death, have been reported this year in the two-county Pensacola area, but the outbreak cannot be considered an epidemic, a health official says.

Jennifer Tenille Godwin, 16, of Pace died Sunday at Sacred Heart Hospital in Pensacola. Hers was the only case reported this year in neighboring Santa Rosa County. The other six victims, all from Escambia County, have recovered.

Five cases for every 100,000 residents would be considered an epidemic according to standards set by the Centers for Disease Control, but Escambia's rate so far is a little more than 1 per 100,000.

The disease acts quickly and tends to attack children. Symptoms include sudden fever, headache, nausea, vomiting, muscle aches and a rash.

Brochures discourage media contact

HOLLYWOOD — Police officers in Hollywood are handing out brochures at crime scenes discouraging victims from talking to the media.

"Don't fall for the news persons plea for a story. We are giving you an opportunity to tell your side of the story," the pamphlet warns.

The only time victims can tell a complete version of their story is in court, the folded five-page publication states.

About 500 of the pamphlets — entitled "Victim Media Rights" — were printed in response to problems with reporters, Hollywood Police Chief Richard Witt said Wednesday.

"The department received complaints from victims who felt vulnerable, and in their vulnerability, felt they were taken advantage of by certain members of the news media," the chief said.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

State versus church

Chiles and Cabinet faced with 16-year-old land dispute

By JACKIE HALIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — A 16-year-old land deal that involved the state, a cattle ranch owned by the Mormon church and a $28,850 escrow account may be coming to a close soon.

Maybe.

The case is scheduled to come before Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet next week, 11 years after then-Gov. Bob Graham and the Cabinet directed staff to go to court to settle the dispute.

The case resurfaced last September when Judson Garvin of Homosassa Springs wrote Chiles, demanding that the $28,850 plus interest be paid.

"I think that it is high time for the state to give us our money," Garvin wrote.

Garvin was part owner of Toxohatchee Game Preserve, a non-profit corporation that sold 28,000 acres of Orange County land to the state for $16 million in 1977, when Reubin Askew was governor.

But there was a dispute over ownership of a 48-acre corner of the property.

Deseret Ranches of Florida had built a canal, dikes and fences on the land and claimed it as its own. Deseret, owned by the Mormon church, runs one of the largest cattle operations in the state.

So $28,850 of the purchase price was put in an escrow account pending settlement of the title dispute.

The money was supposed to revert to the state and the land to the game preserve if the title was not cleared in nine months. For some reason, that never happened.

In the spring of 1978, the governor — still Askew — and Cabinet directed the state Department of Natural Resources to settle the title problem with a tradeoff of a state-owned tract for the disputed land.

"Although an exchange agreement was executed on Nov. 7, 1978, the transaction was never consummated," the staff summary reads.

Two years later, in early 1981, the governor — by then it was Graham — and Cabinet determined that conditions required for the swap had not been met and directed the staff to go to court to get Deseret off the land.

Two and a half years later, DNR filed the suit asking that Deseret be ejected. A month later Graham and the Cabinet authorized staff to negotiate a settlement that would leave Deseret with 9 acres in exchange for dropping its claims to the rest of the land.

"The lawsuit was dismissed for lack of prosecution in November 1984 but no settlement with Deseret was reached," the staff summary reads. "The title to the disputed acreage remains clouded by Deseret's occupation and the funds remain in escrow."

Because ownership of the land is still in dispute, DNR is recommending that the state drop its claims to the land and reclaim the money, leaving it to Garvin and Deseret to settle ownership.

But whatever Chiles and the Cabinet do, they should act quickly, a DNR attorney warned in a memo last December.

"Based on the history of this case, the board may have some exposure to liability for the matter in which this matter has been handled," Eugene McClellan Jr. wrote. "In order to minimize this exposure, a decision needs to be made immediately as to whether or not the board desires to retain title to the 48-acre parcel in its encumbered condition."

Biggest gambling boat set to sail

By The Associated Press

PENSACOLA — The nation is getting a new queen of riverboat gambling.

The Casino Queen was scheduled today to depart its shipyard in this Florida Panhandle city bound for East St. Louis, Ill., where it is to begin gambling cruises June 21.

Capable of carrying more than 3,000 gamblers, the 447-foot-long Casino Queen will be the largest passenger vessel anywhere on the inland waters of the United States.

"This is a city on the water," said the boat's shipbuilder, Frank Patti, owner of Patti Shipyards.

The $18.5 million vessel has seven bars, 40 blackjack tables, 850 slot machines and enough electrical generating capacity to power 70 homes.

Patti also built the Dubuque Casino Belle two years ago. At that time it had been the largest vessel of its kind but now will be superseded by the Casino Queen. The Casino Belle originally operated out of its namesake city in Iowa but has since been sold and moved to the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Capable of carrying more than 3,000 gamblers, the 447-foot-long Casino Queen will be the largest passenger vessel anywhere on the inland waters of the United States.

The Casino Queen is 60 feet longer, has 40 percent more power from its three 1,250-horsepower diesel engines and is equipped with stern and bow thrusters to help it maneuver.

"This is more tuned into gambling than the Casino Belle was," Patti said. "That's where the money is."

More space is devoted to gambling rather than entertainment and dining, although the Queen will offer those amenities as well.

Like the Belle, the Queen is actually two ships. The rear section is a power module containing the engines, generators and other mechanical equipment. It is connected to the front part of the ship by cables and rubber bumpers that reduce noise and vibration in the passenger-carrying section.

Other features of the vessel include a central liquor distribution room that will pipe beverages to all bars, a brig with room for two and handcuffs for one and two surveillance rooms, one for the casino manager and the other for state officials. They will be able to watch workers in jumpsuits without pockets count money in an adjoining room.

Detective: Murder he drew

By BRIGHTY GREENBERG
Associated Press Writer

SAN DIEGO — Detective Rick Carlson crosses a yellow police line nearly every day to investigate blood, bullets and stab wounds — the makings of murder. Through his art, he also takes the public to the scene of the crime.

The 24-year Police Department veteran records the macabre sights of his job in brilliant oil pastels and India ink on watercolor paper. The bright red of blood, penetrating purples and blues are the hues of death.

His one-man art show, "Murders He Drew," opened last month at Sinbad's Coffee Co. and Gallery and runs through the end of June. Each of his 20 scenes is identified by case number.

"I try hard in my paintings to depict the way the eye sees. When we think of somebody dying, we think of a person lying on the ground with their eyes closed," the 46-year-old homicide detective said last week. "People don't die like that. They die with their eyelids half open, or their eyes partially rolled back in their head, or with one eye open and one eye closed."

Carlson began painting what he knows best during the past year. The artworks have no law enforcement purpose; Carlson paints in his free time, working mostly from memory.

On the job, "you never get to express yourself. You put down all these facts, but you never get to really tell anybody about the terror in the victim's face," he said. "It's definitely therapy for me. It let's me express myself and lets other people know what I see."

The ghastly scenes include that of a man who got caught in the middle of a gunfight and was shot in the head twice; a woman who was raped, strangled and then discarded in the trunk of her own car; and a murder-suicide of a husband and wife inside the family car.

"She was leaving him. He tricked her into coming home, then shot her multiple times. The kids found them in the car in the front driveway of the house," Carlson said. "It's real sad. They were a nice family."

Carlson said none of the victims' families have commented on his artwork. He has rearranged the wounds on some victims to avoid offending family members.

"I would much rather have these be a tribute to the victims, to tell their story," he said. "I hope that people will look at these and say, 'This just can't go on,' or we'll look back in history and say, 'This was a time that was very violent in our history.'"

Carlson's wife, Paula, said some of his artworks are "exceptional, even nice to look at."

"But to have it hanging in my house," she added, "I wouldn't want that."

"The interesting thing is that it shows the way people work through the various things they see every day," Police Chief Jerry Sanders said. "I think it shows a more human side of our homicide detectives, who have a tough job."

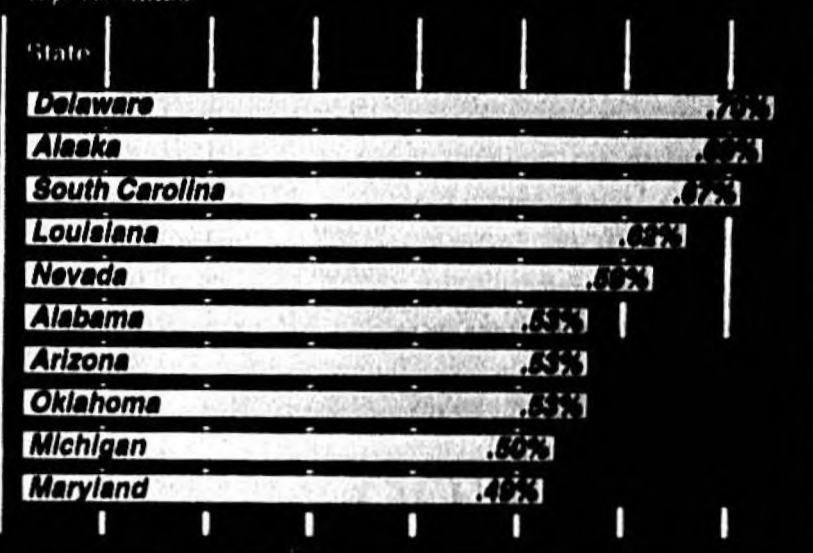

Carlson's work can evoke extreme reactions from patrons of the combination cafe and gallery where the art is displayed.

One man stormed out after angrily telling the cafe owner that he would lose business if he didn't "get this negative art out of here." Another man sat sipping coffee and eating a muffin just below a drive-by shooting.

Cafe owner Larry Diggs said Carlson's art has helped business, luring the darkly curious.

Percent of adult population in state prisons in 1990, top 10 states

Delaware has the highest percentage of its adult population in state prisons of any state — 70 percent. Alaska runs a close second.

"It's twisted," Diggs said. "Everyone has some kind of inner turmoil. This is a reflection of somebody that we have out there protecting us, who's dealing with violent crimes, the most vicious killers. I don't think art is confined to any one particular thing."

Los Angeles seeking the picture of the man shot twice in the head.

One thing about his art: There's no end to the material. And the paintings serve as a constant reminder that he still has murders to solve, killers to catch.

Apparently some people agree. Carlson has received offers for several paintings, including $750 from a woman matrimonial-law attorney from

"I always want to see these people brought to justice," he said. "With my paintings, the victim is still around, saying, 'We're going to get you. We'll solve this.'"

K-9 helps in drug arrest

Longwood police arrested Bobby G. Stokes, 38, of Altamonte Springs early Wednesday. An officer reported seeing a suspicious vehicle near Wildmere, and pursued it, at a speed of up to 80 miles per hour. The vehicle was finally stopped near Highway 17-92 and Dogtrack Road. A K-9 dog and his trainer arrived and checked the vehicle. Police report the dog located approximately 28 grams of what later tested positive to be cocaine, in the drivers door pocket. Stokes was charged with possession of cocaine with intent to distribute.

Wrong tire changed

Sanford police arrested Michael Todd Williams, 20, of 500 W. Airport Blvd. early Wednesday. An officer reported seeing two men in a parking lot at 2734 Ridgewood, apparently changing a tire. When the officer stopped, he said one man ran but Williams remained at the scene. Police said the tire the men were putting on their vehicle, had been taken from another vehicle in a parking lot at County Lake Apartments. Williams was charged with petit theft. The other man is being sought.

Loud radio

Sanford police arrested Dexter Robinson, 35, of 1601 W. 13th Place on Tuesday. A patrolman reported hearing a loud radio being played in a car parked near a store in the 300 block of Poplar Street. When he investigated, he found the car had been reported stolen from Alamo Rent-A-Car in Miami. Robinson was arrested on a charge of grand theft auto.

Burglary arrest made

Seminole County sheriff's deputies arrested Ike Virgil Walters, 25, of Pierson on Tuesday. Deputies said he is believed to have been involved in the burglary of a Sanford home on Nov. 21, 1992, in which $2,600 in kitchen appliances were reported stolen. The items, reportedly sold for $750, were recovered by deputies on Jan. 8, during the investigation of the case. Walters has been charged with two counts of burglary.

Injunction violation

Sanford police arrested Henry John Fernandes, 32, of 2408 Park Avenue early Wednesday. Police said he had apparently entered a home in the 700 block of Santa Barbara Ave., and the woman occupant told her children to call the police. When officers arrived, they arrested Fernandes on a charge of burglary to an occupied dwelling. A computer check revealed an injunction had been issued against him for one year on June 22, 1992, prohibiting him from being near the occupant. Fernandes was subsequently charged with violation of an injunction.

DUI arrest

Rebecca Sue Chapple, 29, 875 Holbrook Circle, Lake Mary, was arrested in the parking lot of Seminole Plaza early Wednesday by sheriff's deputies. She was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, and failure to maintain a lane.

Traffic stop brings arrest

Patricia Lynn Bean, 20, 111 Clear Lake Circle, Sanford, was arrested Tuesday by Sanford police at Airport Blvd. and Country Club Road, following a traffic stop. She was charged with driving with a restricted/revoked license, and resisting arrest without violence.

Domestic violence arrests

● Scott A. Vogel, 22, and Deborah A. Vogel, 33, of 730 Land Avenue, Longwood, were both arrested at their residence by Longwood police Tuesday, following an altercation. Each was charged with battery, domestic violence.
● Robert L. White, 38, 314 Bonnie Trail, Longwood, was arrested by Longwood police at his residence early Wednesday. Police said he had been in a fight with his wife. He was charged with battery, domestic violence.

A fine zoo for everyone

Sanford has reason to be proud. It has one of the finest zoos for a city of its size in Florida, as well as most of the nation.

It has a colorful history which dates back to 1923 when the fire department took control of a monkey named Jack, from a bankrupt carnival. By 1925, more animals had been donated, and the city's first zoo was constructed on property presently occupied by the Sanford City Hall.

In 1975, the zoo moved to land west of the city, formerly Woodland Park, and began operations in the present location.

The facility has become more than a park where children can visit various animals. It has become a tourist attraction, cultural gathering area, animal preserve, and educational center.

For the children, each holiday brings a special event such as the annual Easter egg hunt, adopt-an-animal for Christmas, birthdays, fathers and mothers days, and other functions.

For adults, the scope of animal life education has expanded during the past two years, with tours now being conducted to Africa and various animal preserves around the world. Docent education classes are offered to inform volunteers of not only animal care but preservation.

Financing of the zoo is from members of the Zoological Society, through admission charges, gift and concession stand profits, and various grants from such organizations as the Tourist Development Council.

Money and often food is also supplied by major companies including General Mills.

The entire operation thus operates without city or county tax dollars. Through generous assistance, it is not only surviving, but continuously improving and expanding. Just recently the Clouded leopard exhibit was opened.

Sanford can indeed be proud of its zoo. For 67 years, a trip to the zoo by residents and visitors alike, has been a pleasant experience.

Those who haven't had the opportunity to visit the Central Florida Zoological Park recently, should make it a family outing soon. When talking about Sanford to others, let them know of its zoo. It's worth bragging about.

Tax hospitals, churches?

Read somewhere the other day a taxpayer thought it was time for federal, state and local governments to start making churches, hospitals and various fraternal organizations be put on tax rolls. As a passing thought it might seem like a good idea. But once you look into the ramifications you quickly find that if taxpayers had to foot the bill for the millions of dollars of benevolent services rendered by tax-free hospitals, you would change your mind.

Think of all the "free services" rendered by the Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist, Adventist and other religious denominational hospitals plus those operated by the Shriners, Elks and other fraternal groups. Until we can come up with a national health insurance program, we had better be thankful for what we have. Maybe one day we'll have as good a national health insurance program as Sweden. They say it is one of the best. Of course, to pay for it the government takes 50 cents from every dollar in your paycheck.

Is American world leadership over?

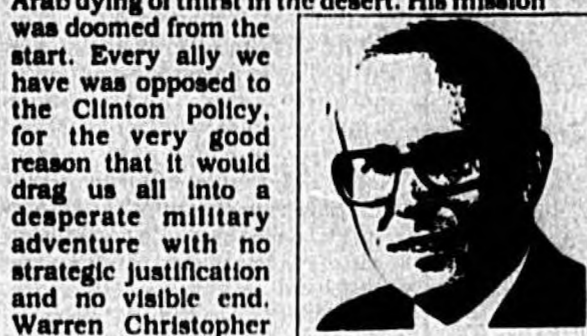

President Clinton didn't quite manage to throw away American leadership of the post-Cold War world in his first hundred days, but he didn't miss the deadline by much. Until further notice, important international policies will be formulated by a committee of the major European powers.

As I predicted in this space over a month ago, Mr. Clinton simply didn't have the guts to resist our opinion-making elite when it decided that a few American lives would be a small price to pay to end the civil war in Bosnia. Passionate liberals like the columnists on The New York Times' Op Ed page, shocked beyond endurance by Serbian atrocities, demanded the use of force to end the carnage. When their demand was endorsed by various Republicans and Thatcherites (inspired by quite different motives), what was an Arkansas boy to do? No vital American interest was involved, but a vital Clinton interest certainly seemed to be.

So Mr. Clinton decided to lift the embargo on arms to the Bosnian Muslims and use American planes to bomb the Serb artillery. Secretary of State Warren Christopher was dispatched to Europe to notify our allies and obtain their acquiescence in the new policy.

It probably didn't matter that Mr. Christopher is a colorless Carter administration retread who would have trouble selling a glass of water to an Arab dying of thirst in the desert. His mission was doomed from the start. Every ally we have was opposed to the Clinton policy, for the very good reason that it would drag us all into a desperate military adventure with no strategic justification and no visible end. Warren Christopher returned to Washington empty-handed.

Mr. Christopher is a colorless retread who would have trouble selling a glass of water to an Arab dying of thirst in the desert.

Whereupon Mr. Clinton put American policy "on hold," whatever that means. From his perch on the Times Op Ed page Anthony Lewis, deprived of his highminded little war, wept that it was "the end of an era" -- the 50-year era of American world leadership.

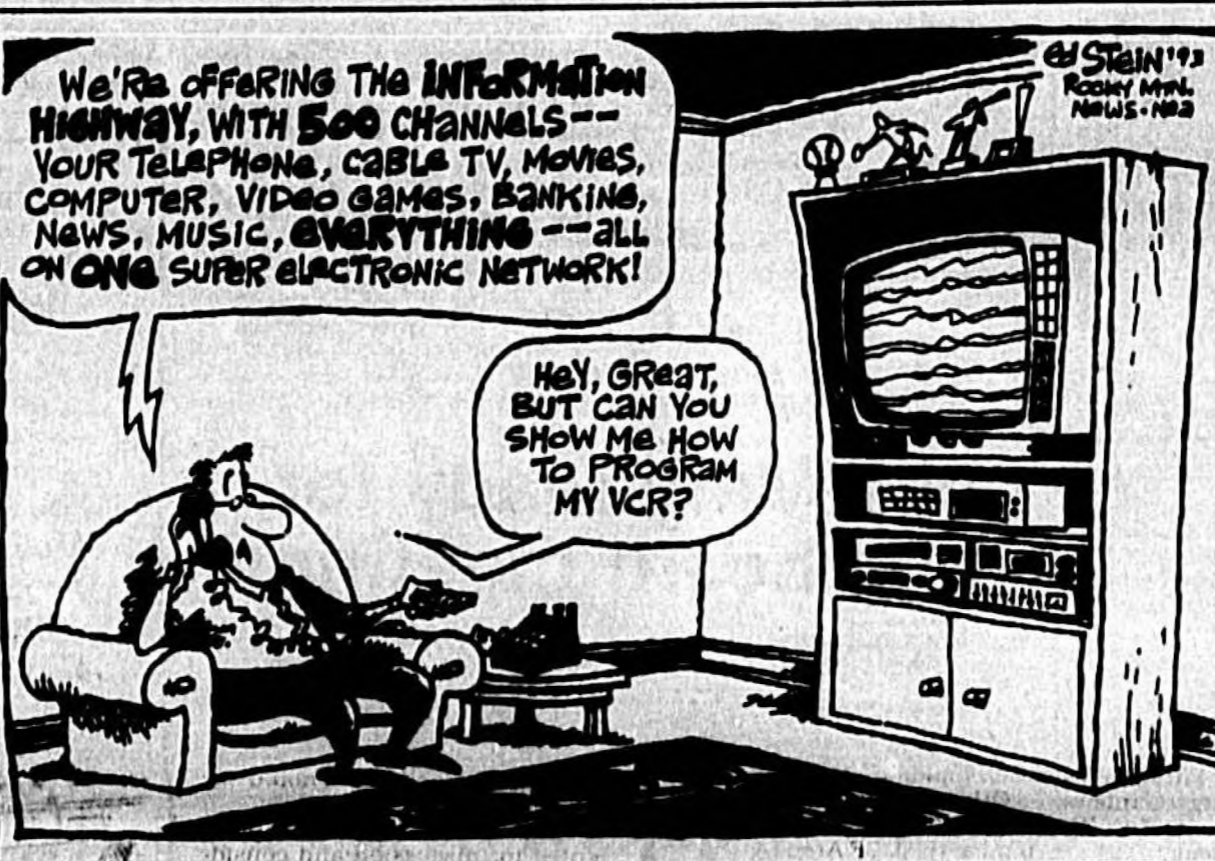

And so, for the moment at least, it is. The chancelleries of Europe have correctly perceived that Mr. Clinton is a Grade A disaster, but one who can, if necessary, be overruled. For the time being, therefore, they will ignore him. The only trouble is that policies stitched together by a coalition are likely to be almost as inept as those conceived by Messrs. Clinton and Christopher.

Meanwhile Mr. Clinton will be trying to reassert American leadership by seizing on any foreign crisis that comes to hand. Unfortunately there will be no shortage of them, though few if any will involve a vital American interest.

If reports are true, Saddam Hussein is already preparing to do to Iraq's Kurds what Milosevic did to Bosnia's Muslims. Further afield, still other crises inevitably involving human tragedies -- in the Sudan, Cambodia and elsewhere -- will give rise to loud demands from the Pity Lobby for armed American intervention. Mr. Clinton will be tempted to intervene in them all, in a desperate effort to re-establish his leadership role.

If he does so, however, he will walk right into a buzz-saw. The American people will favor humanitarian help and economic embargoes wherever these are needed and might prove useful. But they have no intention of squandering American lives on sentimental expeditions to purify ill-behaved corners of the globe.

Ignoring unnamed sources

Washington's luminaries keep official secrets the way connoisseurs keep fine wines. They keep them from the masses, but share them gleefully with friends.

That's the way the insiders play in the White House, the Cabinet, the Congress, the court -- and, yes, the press.

Right now, in the nation's capital, secrecy has got everybody talking. The pooh-bahs have worked themselves into high palaver over the unauthorized savoring of their favored secrets. The White House is awitwitter about revelations that its neo-populists have been caught practicing cronyism-as-usual. Supreme Court justices moan that they have been done an injustice: The Library of Congress, following the late Justice Thurgood Marshall's instructions, made public his revelations of how the justices do the people's business in private.

Now this: The undersecretary of state for policy, Peter Tarnoff, has been outed -- identified as the unidentified official who, for a brief two hours, seemed to have enunciated a new Clinton Doctrine of Diminished Global Policy.

And many of our most prestigious news organizations have been outed too -- caught in the act of collaboration, as they withheld Tarnoff's identity, even as his words uttered in anonymity were being recanted, on-the-record, by his obviously irked boss, Secretary of State Warren Christopher.

Policy, policy-makers and press were all victims when yet another cozy background briefing blew up in their faces. Once again, a roomful of journalists became so eager to get the insights of a policy-maker that they agreed to withhold his identity from the public, if only he would talk to them over lunch.

The result: The Washington Post and other newspapers that made the promise of anonymity ran a Page 1 story that quoted an anonymous official declaring that because "our economic interests are paramount" the United States must define its global commitments "commensurate with realities. ... We simply don't have the leverage, we don't have the influence, the inclination to use military force. We don't have the money to bring positive results any time soon." Then the Post noted that the secretary of state made himself available in a telephone interview to say it wasn't so.

But the Post, by attending the luncheon soiree, put itself in the bizarre position of having to cover a fight while naming only one of the pugilists. Everyone in Washington knew it was Tarnoff; so did every ambassador and consul. Only you didn't. A day later, the Post was still calling the official "Brand X" -- picking up the phrase suggested by the ever-helpful Clinton White House. And, in an especially ludicrous turn, the Post went on to talk on background to yet another official, whom they referred to in a triumph of journalistic contortion as "a senior State Department official (not Brand X)." (News organizations that didn't attend and promise anonymity from the start were, of course, free to publish Tarnoff's name when the controversy unfolded.)

This is the sort of mess journalists get themselves into periodically -- when we confuse access to a policy-maker with our larger responsibility to tell the public the whole story.

Unfortunately, there are some lessons that we in the media never seem to learn. Reporters should always be open to talk to sources on a confidential basis -- but journalists should always be leery of officials who crave anonymity in forums that amount to full-blown press conferences that are used for spinning or remaking policy.

There are just three basic rules for keeping the makers of public policy accountable to the public.

Rule 1: Officials will only speak to reporters when they think it is in their own best interest.

Rule 2: To assure that officials will remain accountable for what they say, the journalists should refuse, en masse, to meet with officials who insist upon background cover of anonymity.

Rule 3: If the officials' declarations are indeed worthy of public coverage, the officials will speak on the record, because ... (See Rule 1).

Right now, in the nation's capital, secrecy has got everybody talking.

It's rough going on haircut trail

Don't stop, thinkin' about tomorrow.
Don't stop, it'll soon be here.

"What a great song, what a great song. Welcome, ladies and gentlemen of the heartland! Welcome to the latest edition of the Bill and Al buscapade!"

"Stop trying to boogie and say hello, Al."

"I've hit the road again to hear what real people have to say."

First thing I discovered when I got to Washington is, the people inside that Beltway have no idea what's important to real people. All they want to do is play political games. All they want to do is dwell on the trivial.

"Like right now, for instance. All they want to talk about is this damn haircut I got when I went to Los Angeles."

"You'd think my haircut was the biggest problem in America. The White House press corps can't stop talking about it. You know what my old campaign aide and friend Paul Begala told The Washington Post? He told them they were pathetic. He told them to get a life. I agree. Get a life, Posties!"

"OK, so I made a mistake when I used a hairdresser named Christophe. Never again will I use a hairdresser with one name. From now on, it's going to be a barber named Billy Bob Somebody. OK, so I should not have got my hair cut aboard Air Force One. I didn't know they were closing down the damn airport while I got trimmed. OK, so I paid Christophe a little too much. But you gotta remember, $200 isn't all that much in Hollywood. And it was a housecall, after all. Or a plane call."

"Here's what the smart alecks don't know because they didn't ask: Christophe gave George Stephanopoulos a free year's supply of mouse. And here's something else the smart alecks didn't know: We conducted a poll about presidential hair styles and found out you voted for change. You were tired of that Reagan-Bush, slicked-back Wall Street look. You wanted your president to look nice when he met with world leaders."

"Don't you see? I didn't get that haircut for me. I got it for you! This is your haircut! I did it for you!"

It'll be here, better than before. Yesterday's gone, yesterday's gone.

"God, I love those lyrics. Don't you, Al? Al? Wake up, Al."

"And that other thing the Beltway insiders have been talking about for weeks -- that travel thing, 'Travelgate,' Bob Dole calls it. He ought to know his gates. He was there for the first one and stuck with Richard Nixon through most of it."

"Now I admit it looks funny that my cousin who handled my campaign travel wrote a memo months ago suggesting the White House travel office be purged and the job be given to her. And I admit it doesn't look just right when we summarily fire seven people and ask the FBI to investigate them after the fact. And it does sound strange to coach an FBI spokesman on what to say."

"I guess it doesn't look good, either, that my Hollywood friend Harry Thomason suggested we take a hard look at the travel office and it then turns out he has a company that wants to do business with it. And I guess it seems odd that the first thing we do after the firings is bring in a Little Rock company to handle the travel office, and it just so happens that the same company did my campaign travel, and it just so happens that the person who owns the company once had a business relationship with the same top White House official who fired the seven travel office people."

Welcome to the latest edition of the Bill and Al buscapade!

Guinier wages battle to save nomination; White House cool

By CAROLYN SKORNECK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Lani Guinier says fairness requires that she be allowed a Senate hearing on her troubled nomination as the nation's chief civil rights enforcer. But the White House, acknowledging strong opposition, said today "you have to be realistic about the situation."

"My own mother does not recognize me in terms of the press and the media that I've been receiving," Guinier said on ABC-TV's "Nightline" program late Wednesday. "If there's a senator who only knows me through the media, I wouldn't blame him for criticizing her."

She vowed to continue to fight for her nomination.

Guinier's TV appearance came shortly after a senior administration official said Clinton had told top aides he believed growing Senate opposition had doomed the nomination.

"The president said this nomination had no future," the official said, speaking on condition of anonymity. The aide added that Clinton did not say outright that he would withdraw the nomination, even though that was the implication.

Roy Neel, deputy chief of staff at the White House, defended Guinier this morning, saying on CBS that "her writings have been misunderstood and taken out of context."

But Neel, in a later appearance on Fox Morning News, said "you have to be realistic about the situation. If there is severe opposition, you have to step back and figure out what's going on with that, figure out how much of it is real and how much is just air."

The statements followed days of news reports that Clinton would drop Guinier. Those reports continued today, with The New York Times quoted unidentified White House officials as saying Clinton decided Wednesday evening to withdraw the nomination. Only the timing and manner of her withdrawal needed to be worked out, the Times said.

Guinier, a 43-year-old University of Pennsylvania law professor who led the NAACP Legal Defense Fund's voting rights project for 7½ years in the 1980s, has been attacked as a "quota queen" and "far out of the mainstream" on issues such as affirmative action. Critics say she has espoused extreme race-based positions in her writings on the Voting Rights Act.

The media blitz also meant a final decision by Clinton was "fluid, at least for a day or so," the White House official said, adding however, that the nomination was likely to be withdrawn before the end of the week.

Sentence

Miller, who was handcuffed, shackled and under heavy guard, asked the judge for mercy. He said if he was sentenced to 27 years in prison, he would probably serve at least 10, 11 or 12 years.

"I will be 40 years old by the time I get out," Miller said. "Maybe things will change. I don't know, I can't say for sure, but maybe." He added he has never received any type of rehabilitation during his encounters with the law.

Since Friday, Miller was under special management at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility, Seminole County Sheriff's spokesman George Prochel said Miller was placed in an isolation wing at the jail after a rumor surfaced that Miller and another prisoner were plotting an escape. Whenever Miller went he was handcuffed, shackled and accompanied by two guards and one supervisor.

At the sentencing, Heller argued that Miller should be sentenced to life in prison.

"We constantly hear about people in prison who shouldn't be there," Heller said. "This is a perfect example of the kind of individual who should be put away for the rest of his life."

In recommending the sentence, Heller noted Miller's past conviction record as well as a psychological report stating the prisoner would not be helped by psychotherapy. Miller served three years of an eight year prison sentence for robbery and was on lifetime probation. About seven months after he left prison, he was charged with two other major crimes, she said.

Miller's attorney, assistant public defender Janell Howard asked that Miller be given the minimum 27 year sentence on the sexual battery conviction, not life in prison.

She noted Miller had consumed 20 to 24 rum and coke drinks the night of the attack. At one time, Howard told the judge, Miller had a cocaine problem for which he had never been treated. The result was, according to Howard, that Miller substituted one drug for another, alcohol for cocaine. Although Miller had several jobs as a cook and baker, he never held a job for more than three or four months at a time, Howard said

Miller had been incarcerated most of his life.

Further, Howard labeled a pre-sentence psychological report on Miller, "crap."

In pronouncing the sentence, Eaton took into account the report which said Miller would have difficulty functioning in an environment that is not secured adding, "I don't know that ordering him to die in prison (under a life sentence) makes much sense either."

Eaton also said he did not think it would be cost effective to keep Miller in prison after he was 65.

Longwood woman claimed she was drugged and raped after accepting an invitation to lunch at Billups' Alaquia home in November. A few days later, the men allegedly demanded money from her and claimed if they were not paid, they would show the video to the woman's husband. Both Billups and Calloway have plead not guilty to the charges.

about it."

Wynne said he had seen a red-headed woman walking along Lake Irene Drive in recent weeks. Prochel said Bojan has reddish hair, although she apparently often changed the color. Prochel said investigators did not know Bojan as a prostitute, although she frequented Altamonte Springs area neighborhoods where prostitution and drug sales occurred.

Wynne said he struck up a chatting relationship with Holder some time ago.

"If I didn't see him for a day or two, I'd always check on him," said Wynne. "I would help him with his car if he needed it."

Holder's tenant, who refused to identify himself, said Holder was a "pretty good ol' guy. He had very few visitors." Prochel said the tenant was not involved in the crime.

It was Holder's light yellow 1987 Buick Century that led to Bojan's arrest, said Prochel. A person identified the car and placed Bojan with it following a television news report Tuesday night. The car was located on County Road 427 less than three miles from Holder's home. Bojan was arrested by Altamonte Springs police on a outstanding arrest warrant for failure to appear in court.

Prochel said under questioning, Bojan confessed to going to Holder's home intending to rob him to get money to buy drugs and subsequently stabbed him in the chest and neck up to 10 times. Prochel said Bojan said she took items from Holder's home and left in his car, abandoning it where it was discovered a day later.

the number of EDU's will be considered on an individual basis, determined by the amount of surface area on the building, as well as paved parking areas."

The money obtained by the stormwater utility fee would be used to finance building a massive stormwater drainage system, maintain its upkeep and operation, and also maintain present drainage lines.

"As I recall," West said, "the last two times this was brought up for discussion, the vote against it was split three to two, but several commission seats have changed since the last vote, so there isn't an indication of how it may go this time."

Commissioner A.R. "Doc" Jore is in favor of the fee. As he will be unable to attend tonight's meeting, he has submitted a written statement. "I would like to go on record as thoroughly supporting the Stormwater Utility Fee," he wrote. "I feel that the collection should be on the monthly utility bill and that all occupied properties should be billed."

Although it has been presented for discussion and consideration a number of times in the past, the ordinance is being presented for its first reading and public hearing at tonight's meeting.

The ordinance has been fine-tuned, studied by the city attorney and various city officials, and is being recommended for approval.

The Stormwater Utility Fee ordinance is listed on the agenda for tonight's meeting of the commission, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., in the commission chambers of Lake Mary City Hall, 100 W. Lake Mary Blvd.

Graduation

at the Sanford Civic Center and aboard the Rivership Romance.

As has been done for many years, there will be no valedictorian speaker. Instead, the top ten seniors have selected three of their own to represent them during the ceremony.

David Eckstein, Cherise Scott and Trung Vong will address the graduating seniors.

Class president Richard Peterson will present the class gift and will address the graduates as well.

There will be approximately 292 seniors who receive their diplomas on Wednesday.

Lake Mary High School's graduation ceremonies will take place on Tuesday, June 8 at 8 p.m. at the Orlando Arena.

The school decided last year to begin having their graduations in Orlando because the facility was the only place large enough to accommodate all 487 graduates and their family and friends.

Honor graduates Mark Neri and Nicole Ludsen will address the class. Some other members of the class and some faculty members will also speak.

On Wednesday morning, June 9 at 8:30 the Lyman High class of 1993 will take place at the stadium of the school.

Though Lyman traditionally has held their graduations in the evening, they chose to move this year's ceremony to the morning in an effort to get the event in ahead of the rains which usually begin in the early evening hours.

Top students David Fritz, Cynthia Wongsuwan and Matthew Hicks will address the class.

There will be 440 students crossing the stage to receive their diplomas.

Other graduations will be:

- Oviedo High School, June 8, 2 p.m. at the UCF Arena
- Lake Howell High School, June 8, 8 p.m. at UCF Arena
- Lake Brantley High School, June 8, 3 p.m. at Orlando Arena

None of the schools will have baccalaureate services.

Over-the-counter smoking deterrents banned by FDA

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The government is banning over-the-counter pills, gums and other potions intended to help people quit smoking.

None is effective in helping smokers quit or even reduce their smoking, the Food and Drug Administration said Wednesday.

The products include pills, tablets, lozenges and chewing gums sold under such brand names as Cigarrest, Bantron, Tabum and Nikoban in what one industry executive estimated as a $60 million market.

The FDA said it will ban new shipments of the non-prescription products Dec. 1, but allow sales to continue until the supplies are exhausted.

The ban does not affect smoking-cessation products sold by prescription only, including Nicorette gum and nicotine patches.

Scott Ballin, American Heart Association vice president for public affairs, welcomed the government move, saying, "Gimmicky products that have not been proven safe and effective should not be allowed on the market."

But Ballin said, "They need to go after the product that's causing all the disease and death — tobacco. ... The tobacco industry continues to get away with marketing and promotion of products that cause 430,000 deaths a year."

The FDA, by law, has no jurisdiction over cigarettes and other tobacco products.

FDA Commissioner David A. Kessler said, "Smoking is one of the nation's leading public health risks, and we favor any safe and effective method for helping people kick the habit. However, to reduce smoking-related illnesses and deaths, smoking deterrents have to work."

The FDA ban has been 11 years in the making. The agency said studies had failed to demonstrate that two of the main ingredients in the over-the-counter products — lobeline sulfate and silver acetate — actually worked.

The industry reaction was mixed.

Jim Stapleton, executive vice president of Advantage Life Products, the maker of Cigarrest, the leading seller, said Cigarrest was "a self-help, stop-smoking product of which lobeline sulfate is a small component. ... We agree with the FDA that lobeline sulfate itself will not make any one stop smoking."

The Laguna Hills, Calif., company packages Cigarrest tablets with a behavioral modification audio cassette, manual and vitamins that retail for $19.95. It also sells Cigarrest gum in separate packages.

Stapleton said his company actually sold the license to Cigarrest to Regal Communications of Fort Washington, Pa., four months ago, but was working on alternative ingredients. "We need to include some consumable to help the persons stop smoking while they use our products," he said.

An executive with DEP Corp. in Rancho Dominguez, Calif., maker of Bantron, said it was

School system angers Miss America

By RON WORD
Associated Press Writer

JACKSONVILLE — Using her one-year reign as Miss America as a national platform to teach about AIDS, Leanza Cornett ran into censorship problems on a speaking swing near her Florida hometown.

In appearances before elementary school students in rural Bradford County, she was forbidden to talk about the disease. So in her 10-minute motivational speeches, she carefully warned them about "peer pressure to use drugs or have other kinds of behavior" that could be dangerous.

In Jacksonville last month, school officials told her not to use the word "condom" so she talked about how doctors wear latex gloves to protect themselves from infection.

"My platform issue is AIDS awareness," she told a Rotary-Kiwanis luncheon meeting. "The corporate sponsors and the Miss America organization have supported me throughout my year as I spoke about these issues."

"Some places have said I can't use the word condom, but today was the only day I've ever been told I'm not allowed to use the word AIDS."

Her comments came after she was told to not mention AIDS on her visits this week to three elementary schools in Bradford County, southwest of Jacksonville.

"She said we should work hard, stay in school, don't do drugs and make the right decisions," said Kasey Dowling, a fifth-grade student at Southside Elementary. "I'll listen because she's pretty and has been on TV."

Bradford Schools Superintendent Jo Ann Rowe said Wednesday that School Board policy requires parents to be notified in advance if an outside speaker is going to deal with sexual issues and AIDS.

The school district's curriculum introduces AIDS in the fifth-grade and sex education in the sixth.

Miss Cornett, 21, a Jacksonville resident, was told last week that she couldn't use the word "AIDS" in her talk, although her visit was set up four months ago.

"When the notice said I couldn't talk about AIDS or sex, I was floored," she said. "And if the school board had problems with me talking about AIDS or sex, why didn't they say it four months ago? Why'd they wait until last week?"

In a recent talk to Wolfson High School students in Jacksonville, Miss Cornett was asked not to mention condoms.

"It is important to put on a glove. Make sure it is a latex glove," she said, speaking slowly and precisely.

"I hope you understand what I said," she said, winking at students.

IN BRIEF

LOCALLY

Safe boating class offered

SANFORD — The Seminole County flotilla of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will offer safe boating classes at the Seminole County Port Authority building, 1510 Kasteria Place, beginning tonight, June 3.

Classes will be conducted on Monday and Thursday nights at 7 p.m. through June 28.

Instruction covers boating skills and safety and includes skills practices on the water, practical and safety demonstration and a question and answer program by a representative of a Florida law enforcement agency.

Class size is limited and is offered at no charge. Books and materials cost $25.

For registration or information, call Bill Bunkley at (904) 289-6973 or Charles Hoeck at (407) 831-2109.

SCC to host basketball league

SANFORD — Seminole Community College head men's basketball coach Bernard Merithe III announced the formation of a men's summer basketball league to be held at SCC's Health and Physical Education Center.

Merithe hopes to attract 16 teams for the league that will begin play June 16th and run until the end of July.

Registration has been reduced to $275 per team with a cutoff date of June 9 for entries.

For details, contact Merithe at (407) 321-1450 ext. 1000 during the day or (407) 321-1994 in the evening.

Ebright hits slam for O-Cubs

ORLANDO — Chris Ebright highlighted a 10-0 Orlando seventh inning with a pinball hit and a home run to lead the Cubs over the Yankees, 11-4.

Orlando's 11-run barrage was led by Phil Dugan, who had triple and single.

AROUND THE STATE

Giants escape Marlins

MIAMI — Will Clark hit a two-run homer and John Burkett became the major league's first eight-game winner this season as the San Francisco Giants beat the Florida Marlins, 3-2 Wednesday night.

Burkett (18-1) gave up nine hits, walked one and hit a batter in six innings.

Panthers name Neilson

FORT LAUDERDALE — The new coach of the Florida Panthers says his team will try to win with low scoring, hard hitting hockey.

Roger Neilson was named Wednesday as coach of the expansion Panthers — his sixth season in the NHL.

Hope for the league's expansion draft made it likely that Florida will be able to acquire at least one undrafted goalie. That should give the team a good foundation, Neilson said.

Dolphins' Turner retires

MIAMI — Nose tackle L.J. Turner became the second Miami Dolphin to retire in as many days when he turned in his uniform Wednesday.

Turner, who had been a Dolphin since 1980, would have faced a battle to win a roster spot with the Dolphins in training camp.

On Tuesday, starting fullback Tony Poggi called coach Don Shula and said he was retiring because he was burned out on football.

Soggy but successful

Rain couldn't ruin SSC's Memorial Day tourney

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

SEMINOLE COUNTY — When someone says they're going ahead come hell or high water, that's usually just a figure of speech. Then you have instances like the Seminole Softball Club's Memorial Weekend Tournament.

Despite having to play through conditions of high heat and humidity or sitting around waiting for the rain to stop, the tournament, which served as a qualifier for the National Softball Association's Youth World Series, was described as a success by SSC president Nancy Dowling.

"It was an excellent weekend," said Dowling. "You can't control the weather. The teams that came to compete were flexible and understanding. They came to play ball and everyone had to work around the weather."

"We had excellent support from the Winter Springs folks at Central Winds Park and the Seminole Softball Club fields at Five Points were maintained by a large number of volunteers to keep them in playing condition. And we had good support from Owee, considering there was only one person on duty out there."

The end result was that all but one of the five age brackets were able to complete their tournaments in one form or another. The 16 and Under division had to ditch its tournament seeding bracket and went to a double-elimination draw, but still came up about nine games short of deciding a champion.

Despite the change on the fly scheduling to which tournament organizers ultimately had to resort, Dowling said no one went away disappointed and that she expects most of the teams to return next year.

"We received a lot of nice comments from coaches as they were leaving," Dowling said. "This is the third year we've hosted this tournament and it's gotten larger every year. People keep coming back."

For next year's tournament, we're going to try to reserve some backup facilities. And we may schedule fewer official games in case we have to work around the rain again."

By the time the tournament wrapped up for more appreciably, wronged out on Monday night, four more teams had earned a berth in their respective NSA World Series.

Dowling explained that the NSA qualifying season begins May 1 and runs through the state tournament, which will be played over the 3th of July weekend. Because teams can earn World Series berths yet continue to play in qualifiers to stay sharp, the berth rolls down to highest finishing team without a berth.

The second, third and fourth place teams without World Series berths earn a spot in the state tournament, which will be played in Coral Springs. Dowling said that all World Series qualifying teams must also compete in the state tournament before advancing to the national playoff.

Once again, the top finishing team at the state tournament, without a World Series berth, will qualify for the national tournament.

All of the Seminole Softball Club teams have won at least one tournament, so they will all attend the state tournaments before going on to World Series. Dowling said, "You must compete in the state tournament and, regardless of how you finish at the state tournament, then you go on to the World Series."

In the 10 and Under Division of the Seminole Softball Club Memorial Weekend Tournament, the Tampa Mustangs defeated the Jacksonville River City Skylights in the championship game.

Since the Mustangs and the Skylights, as well as the Seminole Warriors, Jupiter Seahawks Blue and Manatee Panthers, had already earned World Series berths, the tournament's World Series berth rolled down to the Ocala Warriors.

The 12 and Under Division's championship game saw the Tampa Mustangs beat the Jupiter Seahawks Blue. Again, since the Mustangs

Wednesday league tied at the top and bottom

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — If it weren't for Illusions, the Sanford Recreation Wednesday Men's Slowpitch Softball League would be all tied up.

After last night's round of rain and lightning delayed games at Chase Park Playtime Darts and Heilig Meyers are tied for first place at 3-1, while the quartet of Sportsman, Crazy Wings, Score At Touchdown, and Beer '90 are tied for last at 2-1.

Stuck in the middle in third place is Illusions (1-3).

Last night, Playtime Darts shut out Illusions 9-0. Sportsman picked up a lottin' win over Crazy Wings and Heilig Meyers rolled past Score At Touchdown 1-0.

Beer '90 had the bye this week.

Next week, Score At Touchdown challenges Sportsman at 6:30 p.m., Illusions takes on Heilig Meyers in the 7:30 p.m. game, and Beer '90 returns to action at 8:30 p.m. against Crazy Wings. Playtime Darts has the week off.

Leading 2-0 after one inning, Playtime Darts exploded for seven runs in the top of the second inning to go up 9-0. That would be more than enough runs as the Playtime Darts defense limited Illusions to just eight hits.

John Cantrell highlighted Playtime Darts' first effort by going 4 for 4 with four singles and two runs scored. Dan Sacco tripled in two runs and scored a third. Craig Spitt contributed two singles, a run and two RBIs. Jay Johnson added two singles, a run, and an RBI.

Rich Moreland singled and drove in two runs. John Dunn had a single run and RBI. Kevin Julian drove in a run with a single. Bill Marino, Stu Sebeck, and Dave Oakes each singled and scored a run.

For Illusions, George Potzge ripped a double and Bobby Wells hit two singles. John Stewart, Dean Dubose, Brian Jones, Bob Towns, and Frank Stage each hit one single.

The game between Crazy Wings and Sportsman had reached the bottom of the sixth inning with Crazy Wings holding a 12-1 lead when the game was stopped and Sportsman awarded a 2-0 forfeit. There was no information as to why the game was stopped or what caused the forfeit.

It took some last minute heroics, but Heilig Meyers held on to its share of first place in the Sanford Wednesday Men's Slowpitch Softball League by beating Score At Touchdown 13-9. Mike Edwards (standing, right) had a double, run, and RBI while his brother Sammie (with ball, left) added two singles, two runs, and an RBI.

Before the game was stopped, Craig Appel had collected a double, three singles, two runs, and two RBIs for Crazy Wings. Dave Goldstick added a triple, two singles, three runs, and an RBI. Wardell Frodenick had a double, two singles, and three RBIs.

Steve Woodley contributed two singles, two runs, and two RBIs. Ron Appel doubled, singled, and scored a run. Don Macner singled and run, and drove in two runs. Lee Erickson also had a single and two RBIs. Cary Keeler singled and scored a run. Jeff Bergman and Heath Shott each scored a run.

Sportsman was led by Greg Register, who had three singles, a run, and two RBIs. Billy Warnock hit two singles and scored a run. Dwayne Lowery also hit two singles. Tim Wilks and Arnie Vanzell each singled and scored a run. Jim Troxell had two RBIs.

Trailing Score At Touchdown 6-3 after two innings, Heilig Meyers closed to within a run by scoring solo runs in the fourth and fifth innings, only to see Score At Touchdown answer with a three-run sixth to go up 9-5 heading into the seventh inning.

In the top of the seventh, Heilig Meyers exploded for eight runs on eight hits and a Score At Touchdown error to pull out the 1-0 victory.

Leading the 18 hit attack for Heilig Meyers was 16-year-old Sammie, who hit a home run, two doubles, a single, scored three runs, and drove in three runs. David Jones added three singles and a run. Sammie Edwards and Mike Merithe each chipped in with two singles, two runs, and an RBI apiece.

Willie Walton singled twice and scored a run. Keith Arce also hit two singles. Mike Edwards had a double, run, and RBI while Kerry Wiggins had a single, run, and RBI. Arthur Barnes contributed a single and an RBI. Joel Lapsomb and Earl Williams each scored a run.

Facing Score At Touchdown was Beer '90. Mille with a double, two singles, one run, and three RBIs. Kent Brubaker added three singles, two runs, and two RBIs. Jerry DiBartolo had three singles, a run, and an RBI.

Softball tournament fund-raisers scheduled

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Looking for a way to kill a weekend? Two separate softball tournaments for American Softball Association-registered adult slowpitch teams have been scheduled for consecutive weekends later this month.

During the weekend of June 18-20, the Sanford Officials Association is holding an event during the weekend of June 18-20 to help raise funds for the Central Florida Soap Box Derby. The following weekend, June 25-27, the 15th annual Florida Easter Seals Softball Tournament will be played in Orlando.

ASA-registered men's Class C teams are invited to participate in the Sanford Officials Association event. Tournament teams are asked not to apply.

The tournament, which will follow ASA Class C rules, will be played the weekend of June 18-20 at Chase, Pinehurst, and Fort Mellon parks.

The entry fee is $125 per team. Entry deadline is Thursday, June 17, at 5:30 p.m. The tournament draw will be conducted at 6 p.m. Thursday, June 17.

There will be sponsors trophies for the first, second, and third-place teams. Members of the championship team will receive bat bags. Players on the second-place team will also receive an award.

A tournament Most Valuable Player also will be selected.

For more information, contact Rocky or Jim S. at 330-5697 during the day or Duane LaFollette at 332-9026 in the evening.

The City of Orlando, Mix 105.1 FM, and Century 21 are joining forces to sponsor the 15th annual Florida Easter Seals Softball Tournament, which will be played at the Lake Fairview Complex in Orlando over the weekend of June 25-27.

ASA-registered men's Class C, women's Class C, and men's Super C teams are invited to play in the tournament, which will follow ASA rules. No pickups are permitted.

Entry deadline is June 16 with the draw scheduled for that night.

The entry fee is a minimum team donation of $140. Teams donating $250 or more will receive T-shirts (15 per team) and team photos. Those donating $500 or more will get the shirts, photos, and Bokerz party passes. An entry fee donation of $1,000 will earn a team the shirts, photos, Watermania passes, and sports bottles.

The top fund-raising team in each category wins a $50 gift certificate from Sports Unlimited. The top three fund-raising managers win a weekend hotel package.

Trophies will be presented to the first, second, and third-place teams.

Drop off or mail registrations by June 16 to The Florida Easter Seal Society, 1010 Executive Center Drive, Suite 231, Orlando 32803.

For more information call the Easter Seals Hotline at (407) 896-7881.

Federated women install Club representatives receive funds for favorite charities

SANFORD — Sandy Goard, Seminole County Supervisor of Elections, installed the new officers of the Seminole County Federation of Women's Clubs at the May 24 meeting in the auditorium of the Seminole County Agricultural Center.

She compared each office to a different characteristic of a rose as she presented a red rose to Helen Griffith, incoming president; Emy Bill, first vice president; Mary Bachelor, standing in for second vice president Eunice Shomo; Olive Babbitt, third vice president; Ruth Johnson standing in for reporting secretary Terri Ritz; and Winifred Wickes, corresponding secretary.

Checks in the amount of $200 were presented from the federation to the representatives of each club to support the charity of their choice.

They include: Mary Bachelor, Altamonte Springs Woman's Club for South Seminole Christian Sharing Center; Ruth Johnson, Casselberry Woman's Club for Meals on Wheels; Mary McTavish, Garden Club of Sanford Inc. for Rescue Outreach Mission of Sanford; Helen Griffith, Family and Community

The Family Community Education Club won the prize for the greatest attendance. A delicious luncheon was hosted by the Family Community Education Club.

Search is on for outstanding dad

It's that time of year again when we, at the Sanford Herald, are searching for our annual outstanding dad. We are asking the help of our readers to help us find this special man.

Who is your outstanding dad? He doesn't have to be your father, but any father in north Seminole County is eligible in the competition.

Three winners will be selected and stories and photos will be published in the Herald on Father's Day.

Please follow the instructions carefully. Write us a letter, telling us why your candidate for dad is so outstanding. At the top of the page, write the dad's name, his address and his day and evening telephone numbers. At the end of the letter, write your name, age if under 18, your address and day and evening telephone numbers. Also, let us know the relation of this person to you (father, brother, neighbor, etc.).

Letters must be postmarked no later than June 7, or be at the Herald office by June 9. Address letters to the Sanford Herald, c/o People Editor, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, 32771.

Barbara Hughes Goad, interim director for Seminole County Cooperative Extension Service, was guest speaker at the federation of women's clubs meeting. Her topic was generic brands versus brand names of products.

Doctor has no heart for patient

DEAR ABBY: Recently I drove 40 miles to see a heart specialist. My appointment was for 2 p.m. I didn't see the doctor until after 4 p.m.

My consultation went like this: The doctor said, "Hello, how are you?" Then, without even waiting for my answer, he sat me down on a chair next to his desk and put a stethoscope on my chest and said, "Breathe Deeply." Then a nurse came in to converse with him about another patient.

After she left, I asked about the lab work I had done. He said, "I haven't had time to look at it, but I'm sure everything is all right." The intercom buzzed and he answered it. With another look at my file, he said my cholesterol was high and I should pick up a diet at the desk. The telephone rang again and the doctor spent about five minutes talking to another doctor.

ADVICE

After he hung up, I wanted to ask him about my night sweats, but his nurse came in again to talk to him. The doctor then told me to make another appointment, and said, "It was nice to see you. Goodbye."

Abby, the whole appointment was less than 10 minutes. I left the clinic upset, and I'm still angry. Am I being over-sensitive? I am 75 years old and seldom go to a doctor, but this specialist was highly recommended. What would you do if you were in my shoes?

DISQUETED IN NEW MEXICO
DEAR DISQUETED: First, I would tell the physician how I feel about the consultation. Next, I would tell the person who recommended this doctor exactly what you told me. After that, I would send a copy of the letter you wrote to me to your county medical association. And then I'd find another specialist.

DEAR ABBY: As a veterinarian, I appreciate the warning letter you printed on March 1 concerning the dangers of giving human pain relievers to pets. I treat several pets every year that were unintentionally poisoned by their well-meaning owners.

However, there were some points in the veterinarian's letter that should be clarified.

Many drugs intended for humans are given to animals, but the dose and frequency will vary according to the species. A good general rule is to never give any medication not prescribed by a veterinarian. The drug named in the article (Advil) is not aspirin - it's ibuprofen. It is occasionally prescribed for dogs, but never for cats.

Aspirin is prescribed for certain health problems in both dogs and cats, but may be fatal, especially in cats, if not given under a vet's supervision. Acetaminophen (Tylenol) is very toxic to cats and is never prescribed for either species.

Pet owners should never give any of their own prescription drugs to their pets without consulting their pet's veterinarian.

LEON M. MORRIS, D.V.M., SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for printing "A Parent's Prayer." It couldn't have come at a better time. It appeared in the Stars and Stripes here in Germany just before my 15th wedding anniversary, and just after my husband left for Somalia. We have two sons, 8 and 4 years old, and we've spent more anniversaries apart than together. My husband is an Army aviator. Being a "single parent" is something we military wives do often. I will save this prayer always, and read it often, as I have this past month. Thank you for your wonderful column. I look forward to it every day.

MARY L. SNOW, HEIDELBERG, GERMANY
DEAR MARY: Thanks, I needed that. I have printed "A Parent's Prayer" many times in the last 20 years because I think it's a timeless treasure. Of course I get a few complaints - "Stop! Enough of the reruns, already!" But letters like yours give me the courage to make a few exceptions. And "A Parent's Prayer" is one of them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. DAVID BRODKEY IN OMAHA: Happy birthday and much love to my sister Helen, the beauty of the family - also the oldest, but who's counting?

Caffeine restriction may not be needed

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have glaucoma. I enjoy coffee with caffeine, and two of my doctors have varying opinions. One says it brings the pressure up, the other says it doesn't. What do you think?

DEAR READER: Any prohibition against caffeine, which can aggravate glaucoma, depends on how high the pressure is within your eyes. Your ophthalmologist can examine and advise you. Glaucoma, an increase in the fluid pressure in the eye, is usually treated with drops or surgery; caffeine restriction is ordinarily not necessary, unless the standard therapy is not effective. Check with your eye doctor.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A recent blood test came back positive for ANA. Please explain what this is and what I can expect.

DEAR READER: Under certain circumstances, the body may become allergic to its own normal tissues, causing so-called auto-immune diseases, such as lupus. The ANA blood test, which measures the reaction to a person's normal tissue, is often a hallmark of lupus, a chronic disease causing arthritis and kidney disease.

Despite the accuracy of the test, some healthy patients (without lupus) exhibit a faint ANA reaction. Therefore, the diagnosis of lupus must be confirmed by other analyses, such as the anti-DNA antibody test or a biopsy. Remember that some drugs, notably the hypertensive drugs hydralazine and beta-blockers, may cause a false positive ANA test.

Before your doctor can offer a prognosis -- or even a diagnosis -- he'd need further lab data. He has his work cut out for him. Once the testing is completed, he can answer your specific questions.

To give you more information,

I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Lupus: The Great Imitator." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

What do we learn from experience? David Wolf says that idealism precedes experience and cynicism follows it.

Less sardonically, it has been suggested that the trouble with experience as a guide is that the final exam often comes first and the lesson afterward. Also, experience teaches us to recognize a mistake when we've made it again.

Experience is helpful at the bridge table, but often you can find the best play by thinking logically -- as in today's deal.

South's sequence, a strong, forcing and artificial two clubs followed by a jump to three no-trump, showed a balanced 25-27 points.

West led the spade queen, which South ducked. However, when West continued with the spade 10 and East discarded a low diamond, South won with the king.

Faced with only eight top tricks, where should South go for his ninth?

The only realistic play is the club suit. But after cashing the club ace and receiving only low cards, should declarer go into the dummy and take the finesse, or should he continue with the king and jack?

Maybe intuition or experience gives you the answer. But you can analyze the situation. Taking the finesse wins whenever East has the queen. Playing clubs from the top wins whenever the suit is breaking 3-3 or someone holds either the 10 doubleton or the queen doubleton. Clearly, this produces more combinations and makes it the better play.

When the club queen drops on the second round, declarer claims nine tricks.

MOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bada Onol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
June 4, 1993

There are indications you might become involved in the innovative projects of others in the year ahead. If you are wisely selective, it could be a very beneficial move on your part.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Usually your logic overrules or controls your emotions. Today, however, the opposite might be true and you could make two unwise decisions. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for Gemini's Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4485, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Left to your own devices today your chances for success look reasonably good. However, if you succumb to unproductive, outside influences you could defeat your own purpose.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't get involved today with any cliques or groups who do not appreciate you for what you are. If you feel compelled to prove yourself, it might not come off too well.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Do not discount your opposition today, especially in matters that pertain to your career. There's a chance you may feel the odds favor you where, in actuality, they favor another.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If someone makes you rather lavish promises today, it's best not to take what he/she says as gospel. There's a good chance it will merely be hollow rhetoric.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try not to assume any new, long range obligations at this time if you do not have your old ones well under control. You don't need to put extra pressure on yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) "Sharing" should be the operative word for you today. This includes your love, as well as your willingness, to help people who have previously helped you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Even though it will be eventually better that the truth comes out, you may learn of something today concerning friends that might not set well with you. Don't make too much of it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's important you be self-reliant today instead of wishing for things to come to you through others. They might not be operating on the same schedule as you are.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Success is likely today in situations where you carefully plan your moves. However, in matters where you try to bull your way through, the results could be undesirable.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) As long as you maintain the leadership role today, your sense of self-esteem will be enhanced. However, if you are challenged or opposed, you might withdraw more than you should.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In your commercial dealings today you might have only a slight edge rather than the grand one you imagine. Don't bank on strength you don't possess.
