Mayor Moore Pulls Rabbit Out Of Hat To Begin Compromise

By Donna Estes Herald Staff Writer

Looking toward a compromise, the majority of the Sanford City Commission opted to change the zoning on a large core area of the city Monday night.

But exactly what the zoning will be - other than the multi-family it has been for nearly 40 years - won't be known until after a 4:30 p.m. workshop Wednesday.

After his colleagues each spoke for a change to single family residential. Mayor Lee P. Moore revealed a compromise plan that creates a new zoning designation: multiple residential owner-occupied.

The commission then voted 4-1 for the compromise. with Mayor Lee P. Moore casting the only negative vote. Moore said he wants the zoning to stay as it has been.

The board acknowledged that one problem is that the clinic is closed from noon Friday to Monday morning and many patients cannot afford to leave work to come and spend many hours in the waiting room there.

The board unanimously voted to change its listing in the phone book from the Central Florida Migrant and Community Health Center to Seminole Community Health Clinic, dropping the reference to migrants so potential patients do not get the impression the service is exclusively for migrant workers.

Ambitious Plan To Upgrade N. County Schools

By Micheal Beha

Herald Staff Writer As many as eight schools could be affected by an ambitious plan designed to upgrade schools in northern Seminole County, according to School Superintendent Robert Hughes.

Hughes said he will ask school board members at their 7:30 p.m. Wednesday meeting at the school board office at 1211 Mellonville Ave. in Sanford to appoint a committee to draw up an attendance zone for Hamilton Elementary

Hamilton, named after William and Aleatha Hamilton, black educators who had a combined 85 years of experience in Seminols County schools, is scheduled to open at the beginning of the 1984.85 school year. The school, is designed to have enrollment of 700 and is supposed to replace Southside. Sanford Grammar and Hopper elementary schools in Sanford which have a combined enrollment of about 800. At least two other schools in Sanford will be rezoned as well, according to Hughes. The board will develop plans to make Pine Crest and Goldsboro kindergarten through fifth grade schools with enrollment of about 700 each. Currently Goldsboro has kindergarten, fourth and fifth grades with an enrollment of 397 while Pine Crest has first. second and third grades with enrollment of 652.

The rezoning is also expected to ensure that enrollment at Idyllwilde (638). Lake Mary Elementary (759) and Wilson Elementary (250) can be accomodated without extensive use of portable classrooms, he said. Hughes has proposed that

School Board member Jean Bryant, County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff and Willie King. of the Seminole County NAACP, serve on the committee along with representatives of the eight schools which will be affected. "I have a strong conviction that we need to upgrade the schools in the north end of the county, 'said Hughes."Bringing a new school like Hamilton is a positive step."

Pine Crest and Goldsboro are the only elementary schools in the county which do not have six grades. Southside, Hopper and Sanford Grammar are considered outmoded by school officials. Hughes also wants to close Goldsboro and relocate the school to the now-vacant Crooms High School.

Hughes sald the rezoning will have to comply with a federal desegregation order in effect since 1970. That order set up Pine Crest and Goldaboro schools as they are presently composed and set up Crooms High School as a ninth grade center. The school board was given approval earlier this year to merge Crooms and Seminole high schools.

"Racial balance is another dynamic we have to maintain," said Hughes. "Any rezoning will have to have minority consideration."

Ex-EPA Official Denies Delaying Pesticide Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Former Environmental Protection Agency official John Todhunter denied under oath that he delayed banning the deadly pesticide EDB because of a meeting with a citrus industry representative. Todhunter, who resigned under fire last spring as an assistant administrator of the EPA was asked Monday at a House subcomittee hearing about events leading to the delay of a ban on ethylene dibromide.

The chemical, widely used by the citrus industry, was reviewed for five years before members of the EPA's pesticide division brought Todhunter a proposal in the spring of 1982 to withdraw approval of agricultural uses. The proposed ban was prompted in part by the discovery that EDB had filtered through soil into wells in Florida, California and Georgia.

A 42-year-old man who was arrested Monday and charged with second-degree murder in the death of a Sanford motorcyclist has been released from the Seminole County jail after posting $8,000 bond.

Lloyd Edgar Albritton of Chicfland, Fla. pleaded innocent to a misdemeanor charge of driving with a suspended driver's license at the Seminole County courthouse Monday morning but was then taken to the jail where he was served with a warrant on the more serious charge and booked.

Albritton was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol-manslaughter and as a habitual offender for driving with a revoked or suspended license. Assistant State Attorney Steve Brady said chemical of the accident was . 19, nearly twice the legal limit. Brady said Albritton's license has been revoked seven times since 1965 for driving under the influence. The most recent suspension was in Levy County in October 1981. At that time, Albritton was declared a habitual traffic offender and his driving privileges were revoked for 60 months. Albritton, a heavy equipment operator, faces a maximum sentence of life in prison if convicted of the second-degree murder charge. The DUI manslaughter charge carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

Dr. Paul Bevitz of Orange County has been providing a fee-for-services prenatal clinic two evenings per week, the report said. He has been paid $25 an hour for a four-hour session, although in reality the clinic lasts only one and a half to two hours nightly.

"Because this is an on-going bone of contention, four of the private

But an effort is being made to remedy the situation.

Ms. Moore said in a recent meeting with the hospital administrator and the four OB physicians, it was agreed that the best situation would be for the center to have its own obstetrician. In the interim, the physicians agreed to recruit two OB residents who they feel are highly competent to hold the center's prenatal sessions.

Then they, the obstetricians, would work closely with the residents providing them with written protocols to follow. High risk patients would then be seen by the OB doctors in their private offices in the last trimester of their pregnancies.

The center will also make an effort to locate money for prenatal tests which are necessary but for which the patients cannot afford to pay, such as sonograms or ul-

Aquino Murder Witnesses Afraid Of Reprisals

MANILA. Philippines (UPI) - Witnesses said to dispute the government's account of the murder of political opposition leader Benigno Aquino are afraid to come forward despite presidential assurances of their safety, an opposition spokesman said today.

The purported witnesses to the Aug. 21 murder, some of whom are said to claim that a uniformed guard and not an intruding gunman shot Aquino, have not been reassured by President Ferdinand E. Marcos, said the spokesman, Antonio Alano.

"They say they have 11 witnesses but they have never come around," Marcos said, challenging the opposition to produce its Aquino was gunned down as he stepped off a plane into military custody at Manila International Airport, ending three years of selfimposed exile in the United States.

Government investigators say they have six witnesses who claim to have seen a civilian, Rolando Galman, shoot Aquino.

State-run Beirul radio reported no major violations of the cease-fire accord, which took effect Monday.

Snipers shot at army positions in the southern Shilte Moslem suburb of Mreijeh and in the Druze Moslem area of Amroussiyeh in the foothills of the Shouf mountains. The radio also said Druze militiamen were reinforcing their front lines in the Shouf with more fighters and

However, the proposed conference was threatened when the nation's two senior Christian leaders - former president Camille Shamoun and Pierre Gemayel, father of the Lebanese president and chairman of the Phalange Party -- accused Syria of strong-arm tactics and hinted they might skip the talks.

Gemayel's senior adviser, Ghassan Tueini, said the tion of his Cabinet was intended to "facilitate the future talks would begin "very soon" although he could not

State-run Beirut radio said a first group of about 50 U.N. soldiers already stationed in Lebanon would be brought in to monitor the cease-fire.

Christians and Moslems in the capital and on the Shouf mountain warfront overlooking Beirut expressed skepticism the calm would last, as did U.S. Marine peace-keeping troops who remained in a state of alert.

"They didn't like the cease-fire. They want to finish with the problem ... our way," said Hisham Nasser ed Din, a Druze militia official in the Shouf town of Aley where anti-government forces mounted a drive against the Lebanese army.

"When the fighting was at its peak and the Syrians indiscriminately shelled our homes, we prayed for a cease-fire at any cost," said a Christian housewife. "But not this. It's humiliating. The terms were dictated by Syria and our president played the losing card."

Col. Timothy Geraghty, commander of the Marine peace-keeping unit in Beirut, said he was "optimistic" the cease-fire would hold but other Marines admitted they were "prepared for the worst."

Going To Jail In A Cart And A Crate

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Stealing a grocery's shopping cart, plastic dairy case or egg crate could lead to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine beginning Saturday.

At a news conference Monday, Attorney General Jim Smith warned would-be thieves that the state is cracking down on such stealing under a new law approved by the Legislature this summer.

He said the tougher penalties are "an indication of the seriousness with which these thefts are viewed."

Thefts of the carts, dairy cases and egg crates accounted for 7.5 percent of all the larcencies committed in Florida last year for a loss of $13 million, Smith said, adding that the losses are passed along to consumers.

'Shopping cart and crate thefts are genuine consumer ripoffs." Smith said. "In the end, consumers pay for something they don't get."

Robert Hitchcock of Alachua. board chairman of the 7,500-member Retail Grocers Association of Florida, said the statute is being watched by retailers across the nation.

He said the average Florida supermarket loses 22 of its 180 earts each year with replacements costing about $75 apiece.

"The dollar loss is about $1,500 a store. This wipes out the profit on about $100,000 in grocery sales," he said.

The new law, introduced by Sen. Toni Jennings and Rep. Richard Crotty, both Republicans from Orlando, allows retailers to register their carts by number with the secretary of state's office.

Mere possession of a registered cart is deemed sufficient to prove theft under the statute.

Until now, the industry has had to rely on the standard theft statutes to prosecute offenders. Smith said the burden of proof is tougher for prosecutors under these laws.

Gunter Blasts 'Sloppy' Report

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter has taken the offensive against a soon-to-be-released report critical of his department, claiming its research is inaccurate and sloppy.

Gunter also claimed Monday that Dominic Calabro, executive director of the Citizens Council on Budget Research, threatened to release more damaging information if the department questioned the credibility of the report.

Calabro, who showed up at a press conference Gunter called to criticize the report, denied the allegation.

Gunter said the threat was made during a meeting at which department officials made a "good faith" effort to point out what they said were errors in a

He said Calabro told Assistant Insurance Commissioner Bill Rubin that if the report were questioned he would make public old information about Gunter staffers taking annual leave to work on his political campaigns. He also said Calabro threatened to charge publicly that Gunter had approved inadequate rates for insurance companies, which resulted in them later becoming financially insolvent.

"My staff and I wondered why (Calabro) thought a threat was necessary," Gunter sald, "We concluded that the CCBR staff had reservations about its research techniques and the validity of the comparisons on which its report was

"They had good reason to worry. The report is sloppy and based on a reckless manipulation of data, and obviously its conclusion was determined even before the numbers were plugged in."

Gunter also released copies of the draft report, which said the department's field offices should be closed or curtailed and department activities should be further centralized. The report also showed Florida with one of the most expensive regulatory programs in the nation.

Gunter said, however, the CCBR's eport falled to lacknowledge that its statistical data, provided by the Insurance Industry Committee of Ohio, was actually put together by a lobbyist for Nationwide Insurance Co.

Gunter flatly denied the charge that Florida's insurance regulatory effort was expensive, saying it did not cost significantly more or less — per unit of service to the consumer — than any other department in the country.

Calabro said the goal had been to prepare a "constructive, fair, pro-

A Jury Of Your Peers?

New techniques increasingly used by attorneys in the selection of jurors may be severely compromising the integrity of the jury system. Ideally and legally, a jury should represent an impartial cross section of the community. But the methods of social science now in vogue for jury selection seek exactly the opposite result. In the hands of a skillful lawyer, they often are used to limit jury srvice to those most likely to sympathize with one side during a trial.

What has evolved into an elaborate and often long process of examining prospective Jurors began a decade ago when lawyers started to seek jury selection advice from psychiatrists. The lawyers wanted to know what type of person would favor their clients.

Now, the psychiatrists have been joined by demographers, public opinion analysts, and marketing experts in offering their talents to lawyers. A number of the social scientists even have formed jury-selection consulting firms.

Some of the methods utilized by these firms come dangerously close to jury tampering. There have been cases, for example, of consulting firms telephoning members of a jury pool in an effort to determine their views about various factors that a might affect the outcome of a trial.

Such practices should be prohibited. When anyone representing a party to a trial contacts a potential juror, the possibility of improper influence cannot be ruled out.

One proposal to shorten the time needed to select a jury would prohibit attorneys from directly questioning prospective members of a jury panel during the voir dire process. The questioning would become the responsibility of the trial judge. Although a similar procedure already has been instituted in the federal courts, it does not address the propriety of the new jury selection techniques. Lawyers still would be permitted to utilize social science tools in determining who to accept or reject for a jury and in suggesting what questions a judge ought to ask during voir dire.

The jury system is a unique aspect of our democratic system and should not be tampered

Junket Bashina

It is a rare editorial writer, or citizen, who has never succumbed to temptation on the subject of congressional globe trotting. How richly satisfying. after all, to note Sen. Smith's weekend in Paris or Rep. Jones' three days in Ball and then give them the back of our hand for wasting the taxpayers' hardearned dollars.

Satisfying, yes. But are the critics always right? Real junketing, defined by Webster's as "an excursion for pleasure paid for by public funds," descrives to be condemned of course. But congressional travel, most especially to certain unglamorous parts of the world, needs to be encouraged.

Last year, only 13 members of Congress visited El Salvador. Our own Congressman Bill McCollum made at least three such trips this year, one of them to see firsthand what problems exist, the other two as missions of mercy when food and medical supplies were delivered. Many of the rest, we presume, were too busy proclaiming it to be another Vietnam to actually go there and see for themselves. By contrst, 20 members of Congress showed up in sun-splashed Barbados.

Out of sight of most of the world, the Soviet Union is fighting a brutal war of conquest in Afghanistan. How many members of Congress have bothered to obtain firsthand accounts of this aggression by visiting Afghan refugees huddled across the border in Pakistan? Not many, you can be sure. The whole of Southern Africa is seething with conflict. No matter. More congressmen go to

We don't mean to suggest that there is anything wrong with visiting non-hardship spots, or that members of Congress cannot learn something useful by visiting established allies in Europe. Asia, and Latin America. They can, and should. They should also be spending much less time in places like Barbados and much more time in places like El Salvador.

As for the incidence of congressional travel, we think it should be judged by its quality rather than quantity. From 1981 to 1983, members of Congress took 991 trips to 114 countries. If even two-thirds of these journeys resulted in members of Congress casting more informed votes on foreign affairs, the taxpayer would have been well served at twice the expense.

James Watt is at it again. The Reagan administration's Secretary of the interior, who seems bent on equaling former Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz' record for insensitivity in office, has made another faux pas.

The latest Wattism is a statement that a federal commission will study coal leasing practices on federal land is made up of "a black, a woman, two jews and a cripple."

Over the past three years we've learned much about Watt's character, or lack of it. He banned the Beach Boys from performing at a July 4 concert in Washington D.C. because their music and lifestyle is "anti-family." Then he invited Wayne Newton to perform at the same concert. Newton's biggest family tie is with a New Jersey family with alleged links to organized crime.

Watt is an embarassment to the Reagan administation and yet he remains in control of millions of acres of federal land.

Basically, because his outrageous statements keep the public attention from the more serious work of the Interior Department. While Watt makes a fool of himself policies are being developed on coal leasing, timber cutting and offshore oil leases, areas which may have long-term impact on the environment.

The Reagan administration does not have a good record in siding with environmental concerns. And as long as Watt is out front to take our minds off the real issues, that record won't get any

Last week's college football polls have brought good news. That is if you're a West Virginia University football fan. The Mountaineers are riding a four-game winning streak and are nationally ranked.

The Associated press coaches' poll pegs West Virginia as eighth best in the country while United Press International rates the Mountaineers 12th. Last week, they knocked off Maryland 31-21, dropping the Terrapins out of the Top 20, and Saturday they defeated Boston College, 27-17.

The Mountaineers received some exposure in this area Saturday in their game against Boston, another Top 20 team. Both those teams would appear to have a good chance to be back in Florida later this season for a bowl game.

By the way, the University of Florida is nationally ranked too. The Gators are 13th in the polls. Florida State, with former West Virginia coach Bobby Bowden, dropped out of the Top 20 following its loss to Tulane.

Industry's Problems

The plight of America's textile industry, which is faced with competition from Asian countries where wage scales are as low as 16 cents an hour, is beginning to be understood by the U.S. public. The equally grave problems facing America's footwear industry remain almost unknown, however. As Congress considers reciprocity legislation such as U.S. Rep. James J. Florio's Competitiveness In International Trading Act bill (HR-2203), it should take a close look at what is happening to the footwear industry. Since 1968, four hundred shoe plants in the United States have been forced to close because of foreign imports. Employment in that industry has been cut in half.

A footwear industry coalition recently noted that import penetration now is close to 65 percent of the U.S. market. In the first quarter of 1983, shoe imports shot up to 160 million pairs, an increase of 24 percent over the first three months of last year. The United States absorbs 35 percent of total world shoe exports, though its population is only five percent of the world's total. By contrst, the coalition said, Japan, which is a natural geographic market for exports from Taiwan and Korea, permitted import penetration of only four percent. In a petition filed under the Trade Act, the coalition said that "Japan offers perhaps the closest example of a restricted market causing long-term diversion of world trade in footwear." Japan has an claborate system of import quotas which effectively bars leather footwear ports, thereby deliciting them to the United States.

The Office of the U.S. Trade Representative has declined to do anything substantial about the import barriers erected by virtually every country except the United States. After nine months of studying a petition from the industry, the federal agency said it would limit its talks to Japan, Korea and Talwan. Other countries are part of the problem, however. Brazil shipped 43 million pairs of shoes to the United States in 1981. At the same time, it bars Imports from abroad by means of a 170 percent tariff, extra border taxes, suspension of permits for importing shoewear, and subsidization of its own shoe industry.

What the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative is doing is grossly inadequate. Congress should look into the situation and act. It is intolerable that employers and employees in this industry should be asked to sit and wait until their industry disappears because of unequal international trade arrangements.

Ambassador William E. Brock, the U.S. Trade Representative, repeatedly says he is for free trade. If so, he should heed the urgings of 150 senators and representatives who sent a letter to him calling for action to institute a "free and open world market" in footwear.

'Some of us wish you wouldn't run, Jesse. It's not Prejudice — actually, some of our best friends are candidates."

On Reagan's Reaction

NEW YORK (NEA) - My fellow conservatives who are complaining that President Reagan "hasn't done enough" in response to Russia's shooting down of Flight 007 are guilty, it seems to me, of not thinking the matter through. They also fail to realize what an enormous price Mr. Reagan is forcing the Russians to pay for their monumental blunder.

Mr. Reagan clearly decided very early that the only sanctions worth inflicting on the Soviet Union were those that he could persuade our friends to join in imposing. Otherwise, he would merely be lending credence to the argument (which we heard from various Third World sources at the UN last week) that the whole episode is essentially a squabble between the two superpowers, and would also be giving the Soviet Union an opportunity to drive a new wedge between the United States and its allies.

There is no good reason, as I said in my first column on this tragic episode, why the chief nations of the free world should not suspend all commercial flights to and from the Soviet Union, in its planes as well as ours, until and unless it apologizes for shooting down the Korean airliner, pays compensation to relatives of the victims and pledges in writing never to do such a thing again. Such a punishment would neatly fit the crime, and (unlike a grain embargo) would result in no appreciable economic damage to the West. The boycott would, of course, be incomplete, since various Third World nations, and perhaps others, would ignore it; but its symbolic value would be enormous. Meanwhile, essential air traffic between the Soviet Union and the free world - transportation of diplomats, etc. - could be carried on in military aircraft.

But it became apparent early on that most NATO countries, while prepared to suspend commercial air links with Russia for two weeks or some other limited period, were unwilling to participate in an indefinite and perhaps prolonged boycott. So Mr. Reagan settled for the lesser sanction, and for the rest has had to content himself largely with rhetorical denunciations of the Soviet Union's conduct in the matter. The trouble with most of the proposals for tougher sanctions of some sort is that they would hurt third parties or the West itself worse than they would damage the Soviet Union. This is spectacularly true of a grain embargo. which would selectively penalize American farmers, and also of the proposal to bankrupt Poland, which would distress some Western banks and discomfit the Polish people but leave their government even more dependent on the Soviets than it is already.

But Americans in search of psychic satisfaction on this subject should not overlook certain major compensations Mr. Reagan is contriving to extract from this tragic episode. They may not be as flashy as embargoing grain sales or bankrupting Poland, but in the long run they will distress the Soviet rulers far worse than either.

Every report by recent visitors to the Soviet Union confirms the Impression that the one thing the Kremlin despots fear most is the forthcoming deployment of the Pershing II IRBMs by the NATO powers. This is now scheduled for December, and recent elections in the major NATO nations of Western Europe make it virtually certain that the deployment will go through on schedule. The Soviets' last hope of blocking it lay in the large protest demonstrations being planned for this fall by various anti-nuclear organizations in the West.

Almost as obnoxious, from the Soviet standpoint, is Mr. Reagan's proposed production and deployment of the new MX intercontinental missiles in hardened existing silos, as recommended by the Scowcroft Commission. The funds for this were authorized by the current Congress, but by only a narrow margin in the House, and congressional doves were hoping to scotch the whole project by defeating the appropriation when it came up for a vote in the House this month or next.

Now, foes of both the Pershing IIs and the MXs have despaired of blocking either, thanks to the worldwide wave of revulsion against the Soviet Union that was triggered by the downing of Flight

Mr. Reagan undoubtedly feels that these two forthcoming victories will be infinitely more valuable to the cause of freedom than any number of spectacular sanctions against the Soviet Union. And the men in the Kremlin must ruefully agree with him.

ROBERT WALTERS Cash In The Pipeline

CLAM GULCH, Alaska (NEA) -Beneath the surface of this state lies a vast amount of natural gas, but to date the only ones benefitting from the abundance of that premium fuel have been politicians, lawyers and lobbyists in the nation's capital.

Proven reserves of natural gas in Alaska total almost 33 trillion cubic feet. including 26 trillion cubic feet adjacent to Prudhoe Bay on the North Slope. Estimates of additional, still undiscovered reserves range from 30 trillion to 440 trillion cubic feet.

Although virtually all of that gas remains in the ground and may not be recovered for many years, a select group of Washingtonians already has reaped millions of dollars from the firms seeking to build a 4,794-mile-long pipeline to transport the fuel from Alaska to the "Lower 48." Those payments were made several years ago, but details of the transactions have become available only recently, in an extraordinarily detailed research report prepared by Orlando B. Potter, a former staff director of the Federal Election Commission, and published by the Fund for Constitutional Government, a Washington-based public interest group.

The report examines a series of events which occurred in late 1981, when the promoters of the Alaska Natural Gas Transportation System sought special legislation from Congress which would have authorized them to bill future customers in the Lower 48 for the cost of constructing the pipeline long before they received any natural gas.

Securing approval of such a scheme required a high-powered political operation, but the ANGTS sponsors were willing to pay for what Potter describes as "a complex promotional effort that included extensive lobbying. legal services, public relations and political compaign contributions, all on a scale comparable to the grandeur of the pipeline itself."

At the center of those activities was the Dallas law firm of Akin, Gump. Strauss, Hauer & Feld, which during 1981 received almost $1.8 million in legal fees and an additional $82,700 in payments for lobbying services from the ANGTS sponsors, a consortium of 10 companies.

That firm's Washington office is headed by Robert S. Strauss, a former chairman of the Democratic National Committee and one of the capital's most successful lawyer-lobbyists. Another partner in the firm, T. Rush Moody Jr., is a former member of the Federal Power Commission.

Patton, Boggs and Blow, a Washington law firm whose senior partners include Thomas Hale Boggs Jr., another highly influential lawyerlobbyist, received almost $243,000 in legal fees and $20,785 in payment for lobbying services in 1981.

Controversial Drug Back On Market

WASHINGTON - A big drug company is quietly moving to put back on the market a controversial painkiller it pulled off pharmacy shelves in March after the government compiled reports that linked the medication to serious allergic reactions, including at least five

The drug is Zomax, a powerful anti-inflammation painkiller that had been prescribed for some 15 million Americans. Its maker is McNeil Pharmaceutical, a subsidiary of Johnson & Johnson. The drug is unchanged. It will simply have a new label, stressing the risks and advising its use only by persons suffering chronic, intractable pain.

Incredibly, a government advisory panel has approved the reintroduction of Zomax with its new label, on the understanding that further tests of the drug be made after it is back on the market.

McNeil voluntarily stopped selling the drug after studying reports that linked intermittent use of Zomax to hundreds of adverse reactions, including shock, swollen body parts, irregular heartbeat, labored breathing, unconsciousness and heart attack. A Food and Drug Administration computer printout of last June 21 listed 5,282 cases of adverse reaction to Zomax.

Although raw data suggested that Zomax might have been a factor in 40 deaths, the company and the FDA agree there were possible links in only five.

The drug has also caused cancerous tumors in laboratory animals, according to Dr. Arthur H. Hayes Jr., then FDA commissioner.

Under questioning last April by Rep. Ted Weiss, D.N.Y., Hayes said that before the FDA would allow Zomax back on the market "we would have to conclude that there is a population of patients in whom the risks of its use would be outweighed by its benefits."

Another FDA official, Dr. Robert Temple, echoed Hayes's point and added: "There would have to be substantial new information, information not now available, before one would reach a conclusion that making the drug available for chronic use is the right thing to do."

All McNeil has come up with is a new label; there is no new data that would satisfy the FDA's requirement.

Yet last month, an FDA advisory. committee approved the drug maker's plan to introduce a new Zomax label provided further tests are then conducted. Temple and other FDA officials were present but made no objection to the advisory panel's decision. They never brought up the conditions they had assured Welss would have to be spokesman told my associate Tony Capaccio that perhaps the adverse reactions to Zomax were the result of intermittent use, and suggested that it should be used only in cases of "intractable" chronic pain where other drugs don't work. The company admitted that there is no current clinical data that proves the effectiveness of Zomax for such use.

The company sticks by its product. A

Footnote: An FDA spokesman stressed that the committee's decision was purely advisory.

WATCH ON WASTE: Given the billions that are squandered by federal agencies, the expenditure of $58,883 on a questionable project may seem like small potatoes. But small extravagances can quickly add up to horrendous waste.

This is the story of one of these small expenditures, uncovered by my associate Lucette Lagnado. It is a proposed grant to the International Youth Year Commission from the U.S. Information Agency. But thanks to the vigilance of Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., the request has been redflagged. Here's what aroused his suspi-

- The amount of the proposed grant was shrewdly kept a few hundred dollars below the $60,000 limit that would have brought it under congressional scrutiny.

- The money was funneled through a subcontractor, the National Strategy Information Center, which had been chastised by the USIA's inspector general for giving federal funds to an organization that had refused to sign an agreement to hire women and minorities.

- A conflict of interest also appears to be involved. Roy Godson, the head of NSIC, is a consultant for USIA. Thus, he is on the payroll of the agency that granted his group the contract. Godson said that USIA's general counsel had advised him this was not a conflict of Interest.

- Zorinsky questioned per diem expenses (up to $100 a day) that were set aside for the young travelers. "Apparently, when the taxpayers foot the bill," he complained privately to USIA, "it is no longer appropriate for young people to stay in youth hostels. dormatories or inexpensive hotels."

-- He also demanded to know whether the trips were necessary. "If these functions are to be delegated to roving consultants and grantees." he objected. perhaps some savings could be made

Rejuvenated Raines Showers Hits On Critics

MONTREAL (UPI) - Montreal Expos left fielder Tim Raines says "what happened" last year is buried, but the National League base-stealing leader credits that experience to what's happening now.

Raines, who suffered an agonizing slump in 1982 brought on by his involvement with cocaine, has sprung to life again and leads the league with more than 80 steals.

He is also among the leaders in runs, walks, doubles and on-base percentage and is a big reason the Expos are still challenging for the NL East pennant with only a week to play in the season.

"It's a thing of the past I feel," said Raines, who spent 30 days last winter in a California clinic to begin treatment for "chemical dependency" on cocaine.

"I don't even worry about what happened a day ago now," the former Seminole High three-sport standout said. "This is a new season, but I attribute having a good year to what I went through last year.'

The 24-year-old Raines, a Sanford native, appeared ready to take the league by storm in his strikeabbreviated rookle season of 1981 when he stole bases at a rate of one per game to lead the league with 71 and batted an aggressive .304.

All that promise turned to disappointment in 1982

when his average dropped to .277, his fielding was suspect, the stolen bases were less frequent and rumors of drug use clouded his future.

Counselling by Expos president John McHale and a club psychologist, the stay at the clinic and, most importantly, new determination by Raines to regain his old form changed all that. The Raines of 1981 appears to have returned, with a difference.

"I feel I'm a better ballplayer now," he said. "I think it's important for a ballplayer to know himself. Now I have confidence in running, fielding and hitting. Last year, I just didn't know if I could do the job on the field.

'At the end of last season, I felt I really didn't have the desire. I wasn't really into the ballgames. But I don't even think about last year any more."

Raines has batted in the high .280s most of the season and maintained an on-base average in the .390s, an outgrowth of his sharper batting eye which has brought him more than 90 walks.

The 5-foot, 8-Inch, 178-pound leadoff man has also driven in more than 65 runs and dropped his strikeouts from 83 last year to the mid-60s.

For much of the troubled 1983 season for the Expos. Raines and outfield mate Andre Dawson seemed to carry the team on offense and, between them, have set three Jeam records

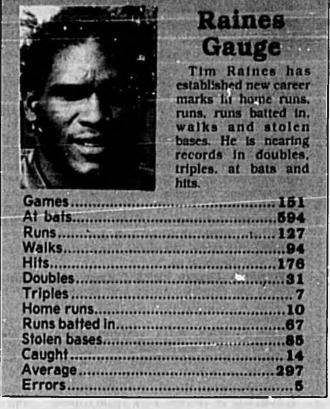

Dawson broke Gary Carter's 1977 club record of 31 home runs and Al Oliver's 1982 mark of 109 RBI, while Raines demolished Dawson's 1982 record of 107 runs by scoring more than 120 times.

Raines also overtook Dawson as the club's all-time stolen base leader in only his third big-league season.

Raines says his recovery has left him "more of a total ballplayer," which has helped him maintain productivity throughout the season.

I went to spring training this year with the idea of working on my weaknesses to become more of a team player and more of a total ballplayer," he said. "When you are a total ballplayer, you can become more consistent. You know that if you don't get a hit one day, you're going to be in the lineup the next day because you contribute in other ways too.'

Raines said the way to maintain his pace is "first of all, to take care of myself, my health, and be ready every game." After that, "it's just having that confidence that I can go out onto the field and have a good game every

Great Stats Can't Console Thompson After Giveaway

There he sat in his cubicle. A cubicle once occupied by the best quarterback in Tampa's short history. But he was gone. Now the spot belonged to a player who'd just had the best statistical day of his life as an NFL quarterback.

Thirty completions in 40 attempts for 316 yards and one TD. But Jack Thompson was closer to tears than

The Bucs had lost another one, and he figured it was his fault. "There's no way a guy could get any lower," said "The Throwin' Samoan." "The criticism is going my way and I deserve it. I threw enough interceptions to supply a team for a year." He threw three.

• No. 1 by cornerback Ken Riley was returned for a touchdown to give Cincinnati an early 7-0 lead in the first quarter. It was the 59th of Riley's career, tops on

• No. 2 came in the Bengal end zone with just 2:33 remaining and the Bues trailing, 23-17. Robert Jackson was the thief.

• No. 3 came with just 1:13 to play near the goal line and snuffed out the last Bucs' attempt to win their first game this year. Ray Griffin did the honors for the Bengals. To love the transfer to the

All three were poorly thrown on forced.

"You can't double pump on an outside route," said coach John McKay about the first mistake. "We continue to complicate ourselves by doing idiotic things. Mistakes are killing the Bucs."

Thompson concurred. "I double clutched it outside," he said. "On an outside route like that, there's no excuse. If it gets picked off, it goes for a touchdown."

Which it did to put the Bucs in their usual hole. Later in the quarter, it was 14-0, but through no fault of Thompson. Ken Anderson put together a 73-yard drive which he capped with a 4-yarder to Stanley Wilson.

Charles Alexander went over from the 2 for a 20-0 edge in the second quarter, but a fumbled snap prevented the PAT.

Thompson got Tampa rolling in the second, hitting fullback James Wilder with a 31-yard pass to the Bengal 27. Tailback James Owen eventually went over the top for a 20.7 game.

Thompson moved the ball inside the Bengal 10 in the third quarter, but the running game stalled and Tampa settled for a 20-yard field goal by Billy Capece to pull within, 20-10.

Cincinnati gained some breathing room with a 24-yard field goal in the fourth quarter.

Then Thompson started to click. James Holt picked off an Anderson pass to give Tampa the ball at its 43. Thompson to Melvin Carver for 14. Thompson incomplete. Thompson to Giles for 7. Thompson to Wilder for 13. Thompson to Carver for 7. Thompson to Owens for 3. Carver dive for 1. Thompson to Owens for 4.

Third down and goal at the 7. Thompson back, can't find a receiver, runs and picks up 1. Fourth and goal at the 6. Thompson fades, he hesitates, then unloads. Interception Jackson.

"Ray tipped it and I was there in the right spot for once." Jackson said of his key interception. "We needed to get some turnovers."

The Bengals ran two plays for seven yards. Anderson then fades and can't find a receiver. But he doesn't throw the ball, he eats it. Eight-yard loss to his own 13. A punt returns the ball to Tampa at the Bengal 43.

Still time. Thompson to Wilder for 8. Thompson to Wilder to for 3. First down at the Bengal 32. Eighty seconds to play. Thompson fades and throws. Griffin steps up and - its all over.

"I was, to tell you the truth," Griffin said when asked if he was looking for the pass. "I needed to redeem myself somehow. It was the type of play you dream about. I saw him looking there all the way. I was just back in my zone waiting. When Jack threw it I felt like a receiver all the way."

Griffin had missed a tackle earlier which gave Tampa a TD. Thompson agreed with the assessment. "It looks like I gave the game away," he said. "I squeezed the ball in there. It was not the thing to do. It was a pass Ken Anderson never would have thrown."

The reference to Anderson was understandable. Thompson played caddy to Anderson for three years with the Bengals. It was a role he didn't relish - and he told people about it.

So Sunday was supposed to be Thompson's day. A chance to show the Bengals that they gave up on the wrong quarterback. Twice, he was a pass or two from doing it, but twice the pass was to the wrong receiver.

Bengal coach Forrest Gregg was sympathetic. "The wind was really treacherous." Gregg said. "The ball did funny things. That's the reason there were so many interceptions.

Funny, maybe, but no one was laughing in Thompson's locker room.

Surging Seminole Hosts Lyman, Bucs

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

The Seminole County sports spotlight turns to the volleyball courts today with three key Five Star Conference matchups on the Seminole High's Lady Tribe takes its unbeaten conference record, 3-0 and 3-1 overall, into a tri-match with Lyman's Lady Greyhounds and Daytona Beach Mainland's Lady Bucs. The match gets under way at 3:30 p.m. at Seminole High.

In other action. Lake Mary tries to bounce back after losing its last conference match to Seminole as the Lady Rams travel to Lake Brantley High for a tri-match with the Lady Patriots and Apopka with the opening match slated for 4:30 p.m. Lake Mary stands at 2.2 in the conference.

The third tri-match includes conference powers Lake Howell and DeLand with a rather weak Daytona Beach Seabreeze team at 4 p.m. in DeLand. The Lady Hawks and Deland are both undefeated in the conference.

The surging Lady Seminoles have won three straight since losing their opener to Oviedo. Seminole could come out in good position in the conference if it can beat both opponents (Lyman and Mainland) today. Lyman has had its ups and downs this season with a 1-3 conference mark while Mainland has yet to win a match.

"If we keep our play up and stay hungry, we could be 5-0 in the conference after tonight," Seminole coach Beth Corso said. "The biggest part of our schedule is still ahead of us, and it's giving us a chance to work on our game.'

Seniors Katy Barbour and Genene Stallworth and junior Janet Hauck have been consistent performers and even dominating at times. Hauck's booming serve was a key in the Tribe's last two victories, over Lake Mary and Seabreese in a tri-match last week. Barbour and Stallworth also have big serves and they are outstanding on the front line. The Lady Seminoles have also received consistent play from seniors Dee Gobelbecker and Jili Janak and Junior Beth Nelson.

The Lady Greyhounds dropped a 15-11, 15-9 decision to Lake Brantley in its last conference matchup. Lyman coach Annelle Griffin said her team is continuing to improve but still lacks consistency.

In the first two weeks of the '83 season, Lake Mary's Lady Rams played erratically, then consistently and, at times, superbly, The Rams came out blazing in its tri-match with Seabreeze and Seminole last week, beating Seabreeze 15-2 in the first game. Lake Mary cooled off in the second game and escaped with a slim 19-17 victory and the match. The Rams weren't able to thaw out in the first game against Seminole as the Tribe took a 15-1 victory. Lake Mary came back strong midway through the second game, but again went flat at the end as Seminole took the match with a 16-14 triumph.

Both of the Rams opponents (Lake Brantley and Apopka) have suffered through inconsistency in the early season. The Lady Patriots defeated Lyman last Tuesday for their first conference win while Apopka was hammered by Lake Howell on Thursday.

At 6-11/2, Laura and Peggy Glass play well above the net when they are on the front line and can often intimidate their opponents. When the Rams are playing well, the Glass Towers can be dominating, especially around the net where the senior sisters are adept at both spiking and blocking.

Probably the most consistent all-around performer has been Robyn Pinnock. Pinnock possesses all the tools of a outstanding prep volleyball player. She can serve with the best of them, is good on defense and has excellent leaping ability and timing for when

The toughest matchup of the day pits Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks against DeLand's Lady Bulldogs, both undefeated in conference play.

The Lady Hawks best server in the early going of the season has been Caryn Krumwiede who has started many a Lake Howell rally. Christy Scott has been outstanding on the front line while Kathy Barma and Cathy and Beth Saunders have also looked good for the Silver Hawks in '83. DeLand's top performer is 6-1 junior Bridgette

In Junior varsity action Monday at Seminole High, Trinity Prep's Lady Saints overcame a 11-1 third-game deficit and came back for a 15-13 victory to clinch the first ever volleyball victory for Trinity. 15-10, 10-15, 15-13 over the Seminole JV.

"I was very disappointed," said Seminole JV coach Nancy Van Wormer. "We had been playing well up until tonight (Monday), but we weren't moving well at all."

The Lady Seminoles came back after dropping the first game to tie the match at a game apiece and force a third and deciding game. In the final game, Seminole built a 11-1 lead as Wendy Lawrence served nine straight points. But, Trinity Prep held tight and came back to pull off the upset.

Australian Cup Runneth Over After Ending 132-Year Jinx

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) - Jubilant Australians smashed the 132-year American reign over the world's most prestigious sailing trophy and then challenged their beleaguered hosts to "come to Perth and try to win" the America's Cup back.

Australia II. the sleek white yacht with a technological marvel for a keel, beat the 25th U.S. defender Liberty Monday to break the longest winning streak in sports history.

"We have no excuses," said Liberty skipper Dennis Conner, going down in nautical archives as the first helmsman to lose the Victorian silver trophy monopolized by the United States since the schooner America won it from the British in 1851.

"We did the best we could," Conner said, his voice choking and his eyes welling with tears. "Australia II is a better boat, and they beat us."

President Reagan called Conner and offered his commiscrations and planned to send a congratulatory message to the Australians.

The Aussies, with skipper John Bertrand at the helm, won the unprecedented best-of-seven series with a decisive 41-second triumph that gave them the right to wrest the cup from the table it is bolted to in the New York Yacht Club's Manhattan mansion and carry it off to

The biggest surprise came when the crowd started chanting, "Show us the keel." and the Australians obliged, hoisting the yacht from the water to reveal Newport's best-kept secret - two blue three foot wings extending downward at a 20-degagle from the bottom of the keel.

Whipped into a frenzy of delight, several spectators Jumped onto the keel. crawling around it into the boat. Police. fearing the press of the crowd would sink the dock, finally locked the gates to Australia berth.

The Australians have kept the keel secret since June, and even hired private guards to ward away the curious.

As Conner, the successful 1980 defender, made his way toward his berth, hundreds of disheartened rters stopped and shook his hand.

"You'll get it back the next time," shouted one man. "Thank you." Conner said, managing a smile, "We tried." "If we had to win it, you (Conner) put Conner, a San Diego drapery manufacturer, outsailed the bone white Australia II until he failed to protect his lead.

In his desperate attempt to regain his lost advantage. Conner tacked at least 25 times in the final leg - with the spectator flotilla hooting throughout the last stretch.

Conner trimmed nearly 1,000 pounds of ballast from Liberty's hull in anticipation of moderate 12- to 15-knot winds, not the gentle breezes that had been Australia II's stronghold all summer through the foreign trials.

The low-key skipper, with an ocean engineering degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. said he never doubted his yacht or his young crew - with only two of the 11 sailing in cup competition before.

In a scason he would just as soon' forget. Bob Forsch achieved something to remember.

The 33-year-old right-hander of the St. Louis Cardinals, whose poor season epitomized the year-long struggle of the defending world champions, became the first pitcher in the club's history to pitch two no-hitters Monday night by stopping the Montreal Expos. 3-0.

"I've had a pretty bad season all year," said Forsch, who even with the no hitter has a record of 9-12 and an ERA of 4.37. "But at least I salvaged something, To throw one is something, but two is a fantastic thing. This has been a frustrating year for all of us, but I never lost confidence. It's not that I tried that much harder tonight. It was just that I had better stuff."

Forsch previously pitched a no-hitter on April 16, 1978, against Philadelphia. His brother, Ken, also owns a no-hitter, having achieved that feat against the Atlanta Braves in 1979 when he was with the Houston Astros. Ken currently pitches for the California Angels.

The no-hitter was the second thrown in the major leagues this season. Dave Righetti of the New York Yankees pitched one against the Boston Red Sox

Generals Try To Lure Shula With $1 Million

MIAMI (UPI) - The USFL's New Jersey Generals are trying to lure Miami Dolphin Coach Don Shula with a salary of $1 million a year - less than they pay running back Herschel Walker, but more than twice what any NFL coach makes.

"We're going to spend whatever it takes to get the best people. We already have the best player. Generals owner Donald Trump sald when he bought the team last week. Trump hinted at the time there would be a coaching change.

Shula said Monday he received three telephone calls last week from representatives of the Generals who were trying to gauge his interest in taking a job in New Jersey for the 1984 season.

"The calls weren't from the principal owner, but from people who are close to the situation," said Shula, one of he most successful coaches in NFL history.

Shula's contract with the Dolphins expires Feb. 28, unless he and team owner Joe Robbie reach agreement on a new one before then.

Shula refused to say whether he was interested in the Generals' offer.

"I don't want to get into negotiations in the newspapers," he said. "I'm certainly going to give Joe (Robbie) every opportunity to work it out here." Robble could not be reached for comment.

Trump has not spoken personally to Shula, said Trump's representative Jim Gould.

Hawthorne Captures Street Stock Feature

NEW SMYRNA BEACH - After crashing in last week's 100-lap street stock state championship, young Casey Hawthorne of Sanford came back strong to dominate that division's feature event at New Smyrna Speedway Saturday night.

Hawthorne, driving the AA Auto Recycling/ Lee's 7-11

351 cubic inch Mustange, led every lap to cross the stripe in front of Rick Clouser. Daytona Beach Police officer Earl Sault, Doug Young and Mike Keith. Definitely the best race of the night, the four cylinder feature turned out to be a 15-lap thriller. Twenty year navy man Ike Roland, who is selling his Frank Wood built Pinto because he expects an overseas transfer soon, ended up in victory circle while most of the usual front runners spun or knocked each other out of David Rogers drove the Wayne Densch Budwelser 1983 Firebird to victory in the 50-lap End of the Month Championship. LeRoy Porter was second, followed by Joe Middleton, Jimmy Sills, and Bill Posey. The extra distance/ extra cash event for the thunder car division went to fastest qualifier Bruce Lawrence, who led ever lap, although a nearly flat tire almost cost him the event. Lawrence, whose uncle is Frankie Grill of Neil Bonnett Race Cars, gets most of his components from that Alabama firm and assembles the race cars at his own shop.

The familiar Burger Chel owned by John and Janice Davidson at 2506 S. French Avenue reopened as a Hardee's restaurant today after a two-day pause for refurbishing and to install equipment for additional menu Items.

Twenty additional employees, trained as part of Hardee's ongoing training program, have been hired to handle the expanded menu.

The merger of Burger Chef Systems, Inc., into Hardce's Food Systems, Inc. in March of 1982 represents the largest such merger in fast food history. The planned conversion of approximately 625 Burger Chef units to Hardee's will mean that the North Carolina-based orgranization will have a major presence in the Southeast, Midwest and Mid-Atlantic regions Estimated sales for the combined companies for fiscal year 1982 are projected at $1.4 billion.
