Officer Witnesses Drug Deal

An Altamonte Springs man was arrested on drug charges after a Sanford police officer witnessed what he said looked like a drug transaction Friday night.

Loyd Marvin Dixon, 31, of 1501 Douglas Ave., was charged with possession of a controlled substance after the officer found a small plastic bag containing crack cocaine underneath the passenger seat of a car Douglas had been sitting in.

Reports indicate the officer witnessed what he said appeared to be a drug deal at the 1400 block of W. 13th Street. He claimed Dixon was sitting in the passenger seat of a 1979 Chevrolet Chevette when the deal allegedly occurred.

The officer said he then approached the car, identified himself as a policeman, and asked if the owner minded if he looked inside the car. After receiving permission for the search, the officer said he found a ziplock bag containing crack cocaine under the seat Dixon had occupied. The owner of the car said the drugs were not in the vehicle when he got into it.

Dixon was arrested and taken to the Seminole County jail. His bond was set at $2,000.

When police got to the scene they say they found the two brothers rolling around on the living room floor. The arrest report claims that when the men were told to stop the fight, Longwell hit his brother William several times in the back of the head. William was trying to get up from the floor as Longwell attacked him, according to police.

Longwell was arrested and transported to the Seminole County jail. His bond was placed at $500.

You say you don't like the fog? You don't like the idea of more fog tomorrow? Well friend, you can park your bags, hop a flight leaving this afternoon, and hit up to Williston, North Dakota. There was no fog at Williston. Snow? Yes. Cold? Yes. 25 degrees below zero. Fog? Nay, not even a bit of haze. At least it couldn't be detected whilst viewing through the snow flakes.

If you gotta travel, stick along the Atlantic seaboard. It's not exactly warm as you get up in yankeeland, but it sure beats the midwest and the plains states.

Seminole County? Lest you miss the inference in the opening paragraph, we're gonna get it again. And, the fog should set in tonight. Now it may not be as bad tomorrow morning as it was this morning, but it will be close, so please be prepared and drive extra carefully. Make certain your lights are on - low beams. It won't help you see but helps you be seen, which can be even more important.

Friday and Saturday will still be warm but the chances of rain will increase each day. Mostly afternoon showers. You'll note the humidity today is right at 100 percent. It's not going to drop too much during the next few days but increasing winds will eliminate the fog.

We were real close to the nation's low temperature yesterday with 84 degrees in South Seminole and 80 degrees in the northern sectors. Fort Myers and Naples garnered the trophies for the highest highs. Tallahassee and Apalachicola recorded traces of rain during the past 24 hours, the only spots in the state to enjoy the respite. The lowest low temperature in the state, if you're interested, was at Gainesville - and they deserve it.

A look around the nation reveals a very diverse weather distribution.

A Southwestern storm that dumped up to 16 inches of snow in Arizona spread into Colorado today, threatening to blanket parts of the state with up to 2 feet of snow, and forecasters said it was heading east on a path aimed at New England.

The storm blew into Colorado late yesterday from Arizona, where it left behind 16 inches of snow at Williams and 13 at Flagstaff. A winter storm warning was up this morning over Colorado's southwestern mountains where 8 to 24 inches were forecast. National Weather Service forecaster Hugh Crowther said.

Snow advisories were up early today for parts of Utah and New Mexico. The storm was expected to pass through Kansas, leaving behind 3 to 6 inches before moving into central and northern Illinois later today with snowfall ranging from 4 to 8 inches.

A mixture of snow and freezing rain was forecast along the storm's southern edge, from Oklahoma to Missouri, Crowther said.

From Illinois, the storm was expected to travel east, hitting New England sometime Thursday.

An arctic cold front that roared south across the Canadian border earlier this week, ending spring-like conditions across much of the northern U.S., and sending wind chills to 57 below zero in the northern Plains, lost much of its punch as it moved east today, but not before leaving its mark as far south as Texas.

Lottery Millionaire To Be Selected By Bouncing Ping-Pong Ball

MIAMI (UPI) — Florida's first lottery millionaire could be determined by a bouncing ping-pong ball.

Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul said Tuesday game officials are still working out details for the drawing, but are considering a multi-step process leading to the $1 million jackpot. Part of the process will involve ping-pong balls.

The drawing, expected to last about 30 minutes, will be held Feb. 13 in Clearwater.

Vogt, Martinez Heading For Clash

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Senate President John Vogt may be headed for a confrontation with Gov. Bob Martinez over Department of Administration Secretary Adis Vila.

Vogt strungarmed his bill creating a Department of Veterans Affairs and abolishing DOA through the Senate Governmental Operations Committee late Tuesday.

The bill was approved 5-1, with Governmental Operations Chairman Curt Kiser, R-Dunedin, charging the vote should have been delayed and Vogt should have met with Martinez first.

Vogt insisted, however, it was time for the proposal to move to its next step, the Senate Appropriations Committee, and that it will get a thorough review before going to the full Senate during the 1988 regular session next spring.

Gephardt Widens Lead In Iowa Caucuses

Bush, Dole Concentrate On New Hampshire Republican Primary

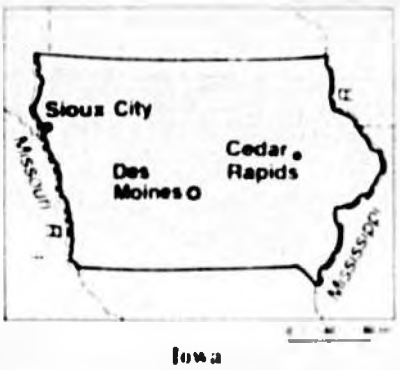

By Matthew C. Guinn
UPI Political Writer

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Rep. Richard Gephardt was harshly criticized by two Democratic presidential rivals Monday as a new poll showed him widening his lead in the Iowa caucuses one week away.

Republicans George Bush and Bob Dole concentrated on New Hampshire, where another poll showed the vice president leading the Senate GOP leader by better than a 2-to-1 margin in the primary held there eight days after the Iowa caucuses.

Michael Dukakis, governor of neighboring Massachusetts, led his closest rival, former Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado, by a margin of nearly 3-to-1 in the Granite State, according to the poll of New Hampshire voters by the Manchester Union-Leader.

A CBS News-New York Times presidential poll also released Monday showed Bush leading the GOP field in New Hampshire, with 42 percent support compared to 20 percent for Dole. Rep. Jack Kemp of New York had 16 percent support from GOP voters.

Among New Hampshire Democrats, Dukakis is leading with 40 percent support compared to 16 percent for his closest challenger, Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois, the poll said.

Gephardt, leading Dukakis in Iowa 28 percent to 18 percent in the poll of Iowa Democrats by the Boston Herald and Boston television station WBZ, was the target of attacks by former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt and Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois. Both criticized Gephardt for supporting the 1981 Reagan tax cut.

"One of the things you have to think of to make a decision on whose judgment in these tough situations is sound: On whom can you depend?" Simon told a Rotary Club luncheon in Waterloo. "He voted for the 1981 tax bill that created most of the trade deficit and the budget deficit we have today. It was a popular vote at the time."

Babbitt, staging "candidate-a-day" attacks against front-running Dukakis, Simon and Gephardt, said the Missouri congressman's anti-establishment claim does not jibe with his congressional record. He also challenged Gephardt's opposition to aid to the Nicaraguan rebels.

"Where I come from, Dick Gephardt is the establishment," Babbitt told students at Des Moines area Community College in Ankeny. "Those who criticize what they epitomize run the very real risk of losing their bearings."

Gephardt cancelled most of his Iowa campaign appearances because snow prevented his chartered plane from landing at rural stops.

Grounded in Cedar Rapids, he telephoned House members to seek their support for blocking President Reagan's request for $36 million in new aid. Gephardt plans to break off campaigning to return to Washington to "lead the fight" against more aid on the House floor Wednesday.

As for Babbitt's attack, Gephardt spokeswoman Laura Nichols said "We do not think that voters in Iowa are going to respond to this random slash routine in the closing days of the campaign." She declined immediate comment on Simon's latest broadside. Babbitt said Gephardt had "missed five straight votes" on Contra aid "and allowed tens of millions of dollars to be sent to the Contras without his objection."

According to the poll of 401 Democrats likely to attend the Feb. 8 caucuses, Gephardt had 28 percent with 18 percent for Dukakis, 14 percent for Simon, 9 percent for Babbitt, 8 percent for Hart and 6 percent for Jackson. The authoritative Iowa poll published by the Des Moines Register eight days ago showed a dead-heat among Gephardt, Dukakis and Simon.

Bush vs. Rather; Heat, No Light

When George Bush and Dan Rather climbed into the ring together, both were determined to score a knockout. The CBS anchorman believed he could extract an admission that the vice president had concealed his true role in the Iran-Contra affair. Mr. Bush, on the other hand, wanted to demonstrate that the news media have been unfair in their coverage of him.

Neither of these seasoned heavyweights flattened his opponent, but Mr. Rather endured a bloodier beating, much of it self-inflicted by his own bellicose demeanor.

Journalists have not only a right but an obligation to ask tough questions and to follow up aggressively when a public official dodges. Given the vice president's evasiveness on the Iran-Contra debacle, Mr. Rather's questions were entirely appropriate.

Trouble arose only after Mr. Rather went beyond the neutral bounds of questioning, discarding the reporter's mantle of objectivity and assuming the role of prosecutor intent on convicting Mr. Bush before a jury of nationwide television viewers.

When the vice president testily turned the tables on his inquisitor and began to filibuster the allotted minutes, Mr. Rather seemed intent on not letting him squeeze a word in edgewise. Then the broadcaster rudely ended the exchange with the vice president still in mid-sentence.

Considering the low esteem in which voters already hold the news media, particularly the network titans, Mr. Bush's aggressive performance will doubtless boost his candidacy and help retire his reputation as a political wimp.

And Mr. Rather's regrettably haughty air will reinforce the exaggerated stereotype of an arrogant news media distorting the facts with personal biases. It also may invite other politicians to echo the popular bash-the-press theme.

The Bush-Rather encounter was dramatic entertainment, providing perhaps a telling glimpse of how a potential president handles himself under pressure. But the interview shed little light on Mr. Bush's part in the Iran-Contra matter and clouded the news media's vital role in informing the electorate.

Journalists are accustomed to covering heated controversies from the sidelines; Mr. Rather has demonstrated the hazards of a reporter thrusting himself into the game.

Student Spending

University of Michigan psychologist Gerald G. Bachman, after surveying 16,000 high school seniors nationwide, has concluded that 80 percent of the teens who are working part time, spend their earnings on such personal items as clothing, stereo equipment, records and movies.

Gosh, could it be that Education Secretary Bill Bennett was onto something when he suggested that a lot of college students use their government education loans to finance stereo equipment and trips to Fort Lauderdale? Can he really mean that they aren't earning their money simply because they can't wait to pay taxes? Or do all those high school seniors instantly become models of frugality when they go off to good old State U.?

Out-Welfaring Communism Isn't The Issue

We tend to become so preoccupied with the blur of daily events—what Bush said to Rather, what's happening in Nicaragua—that we have no time to note what our political opponents are thinking about longer-range matters, even on those rare occasions when they deign to tell us.

So I was particularly grateful the other day when Flora Lewis devoted most of one of her columns to certain comments made recently at some unspecified liberal soiree she attended. Lewis is well situated to pick up this sort of chitchat, being a widely traveled New York Times columnist. Eavesdropping with me, then, as a select group of New York liberals seeks, over port (I'm sure the men have given up cigars), to make sense of the past few decades and the foreseeable future.

"Communist officials now concede that they underestimated capitalism's 'resilience,' they argue, however, that they are dealing with a different kind of capitalism because of changes provoked by the Bolshevik revolution and the rise of socialism.

"There is something to this. Democratic states, obliged to respond to the will of their electorate, did temper capitalism so as to provide for social needs, labor rights, a modicum (sic) of welfare. Not the free market alone, but that capacity for reform and adjustment, propelled them so stunningly far ahead of communism's results."

In other words, OK, we leftists were spectacularly wrong when we predicted the demise of capitalism. But, paradoxically, we actually deserve the credit for its survival. For it was the hard left—communism—that "provoked" changes in capitalism, which the soft left—liberalism—then worked to bring about. "tempering" capitalism with labor rights, a "modicum" of welfare, etc. (which capitalism naturally would never have instituted without such external pressure). Here we are being treated to a sophisticated reprise of the old canard that FDR "saved" free enterprise.

But Lewis generously does not leave the past 20 years wholly unnoticed:

"There were excesses and flaws in developing the restraints society imposed on capitalism. The rise of the right corresponded to a felt need to correct them."

Thus she accounts for such inconveniently formidable modern political phenomena as Reagan, Thatcher, Kohl, Takeshita and Chirac, and glides past such welfarist disasters as liberalism's inadvertent destruction of the black family in America.

But not to worry: There is a golden opportunity for liberalism directly ahead:

"A new, or rather revived, competition between communists and the West on social and economic terms would be good for everybody. And the West can be confident, as long as it preserves the will and ability to attend to the needs of its own people."

In short, we should let the heroic struggle between the free world and the slave deteriorate into a contest over which can out-welfare the other. Lewis is understandably confident that, under liberal leadership, America would win that contest.

How blind our liberals are to the great impulses that underlie what President Reagan, in his State of the Union speech, rightly called "the global democratic revolution!"

Economy: No One Agrees

By Hugh Vickery

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Congress is confused about the state of the U.S. economy, 10 leading economists who testified recently at two days of hearings on the national economic outlook didn't do much to clarify matters.

In fact, even if lawmakers could swallow abstract concepts such as "velocity-indexed money growth" thrown about with ease by the economists, they probably still didn't get a better idea whether the economy was ready for boom or bust.

Members of the Joint Economic Committee did get to see proof yet again that there is one irrefutable law in economics—economists do not agree with each other.

Or in simpler terms, two economists could look at the old gray mare and one would say "Secretariat" and the other "zebra."

For example, Irwin Kellner, chief economist for Manufacturer's Hanover, was the prophet of "gloom and doom," saying that the national economy already was in a recession or was about to go into one that would last the entire year.

But Michael Hadjimichalakis, an economics professor at the University of Washington, told the committee, "On the domestic front, reasonable economic growth will continue."

So it went back and forth with different economists, each with good reasons, predicting the future in different ways.

Essentially the discussion broke down into a good-news, bad-news scenario:

The good news is that inflation and interest rates are staying low.

The bad news is that low interest rates discourage foreign investment here and cause the dollar to weaken.

The good news is that a weaker dollar makes U.S. exports more competitive.

The bad news is that a weaker dollar lowers the U.S. standard of living.

The good news is that low inflation might allow the Federal Reserve a freer hand to pump money into the economy.

The bad news is that the Fed may have to raise interest rates to keep foreign money in the country.

Bush Aide Wanted An 'In' With North

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Vice President George Bush is between a rock and a hard place on the Iran/Contra scandal. He was shoe-horned there by his national security adviser and by a Central Intelligence Agency operator who reputedly was on the team that killed Che Guevara 20 years ago.

The inside story is that it wasn't George Bush who clamored for a role in the Iran/Contra deal. It was his national security adviser, Donald P. Gregg, who wanted to make himself and the vice president count on the subject. It is a story of tremendously bad judgment on the part of Gregg and of Bush, who has stuck by Gregg and seems fully prepared to have him become the country's national security adviser if Bush is elected president.

The Iran/Contra scandal continues to reverberate in the public dialogue, but the question is no longer, "What did the president know?" It is, "What did the vice president know?"

His protestations to the contrary, Bush still hasn't answered that question in a way that meshes with official memos on his involvement. We have reported the details of

ROBERT WAGMAN

Connally Bankrupt

HOUSTON (NEA) — In a display of stiff-upper-lipmanship that would have done a British lord proud, former Governor John Connally of Texas sat proudly in the first row of the packed Hart Auction Gallery while most of his possessions were auctioned off.

Connally, also a former U.S. treasury secretary, admitted in interviews he gave before the auction recently that he was mortified by the turn of events. He had plunged from the heights of financial power into bankruptcy.

Yet, he said, "We're going to get it all behind us, and we're going to be back. I'm here to try to help get the most possible for these things so that my creditors can recover what is theirs as soon as possible and I can get out of bankruptcy and back on my feet. And I will too, you know."

These are strange times in Texas. First the bottom dropped out of the energy industry. Then the real-estate market followed. This was quickly followed by the banking and savings and loan industry, which had massive loan portfolios in energy and real estate.

To many, Connally's failure has come to exemplify all that has gone wrong with the Texas economy.

Connally—who represented the pinnacle of power in this state—is hardly the only wealthy Texan who has seen his fortunes change dramatically in recent years. In fact, one of the local papers ran a list of those seen at the auction who themselves are in bankruptcy. It was not a short list.

After he failed in his attempt to win the 1980 Republican presidential nomination, Connally returned home to get "rich." The son of a tenant farmer, Connally had spent his life around big money, but he had never really acquired all that much of it. He always lived well, but in Texas terms he was never a wealthy man.

So, in 1980 he started his quest for riches by forming a real estate partnership with his longtime friend, former Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes. They started with a portfolio of about $100 million.

At the time, with oil selling for $33 a barrel, Texas' economy was booming. Banks and friends shoveled money into the Connally-Barnes partnership and soon its portfolio was well in excess of $200 million.

Then the bottom dropped out. Oil fell to $15 a barrel. Investors in the partnership found themselves sinking and had to call in their loans. The partnership could not sell off its assets for anything near what was owed. Eventually, the partnership, and Connally personally, had to file for bankruptcy, listing debts in excess of $93 million.

That debt has now been reduced to about $48 million. But Connally had to sell off his assets, including a million-dollar home outside Austin, a condo in Houston, property in New Mexico.

he never told Bush about it.

Gregg should have been questioned in public about what he knew, and what Bush knew, but Bush's friends on the Iran/Contra investigating committee prevented it. He should have resigned to take the heat off his boss, but a White House official who is a close friend of Gregg's says it was the vice president's decision that Gregg should stay—at least according to Gregg's account of it.

When news of the Gregg-Rodriguez meetings hit its peak last year, Gregg went to Bush to discuss his possible resignation. As Gregg told it, Bush said, "It's not time, I need your help."

"There was no doubt that Don was prepared to go if it was in the vice president's best interest or if the vice president had said, 'I'll leave it up to you.' But he came back to the office that day and was a whole person," the White House source said.

Other White House sources, including Bush staffers, think Gregg is dragging the vice president down and should leave.

Republican officials tell us that Bush should cut his losses and let Gregg go before poor political judgment costs him the presidency.

Super Plastics Research

By Ruth Youngblood

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Even the humble penlight battery holds electrifying potential for scientists trying to develop a breed of "super plastics" that will carry electricity cheaply and reliably.

Work by a team of experts at the National University of Singapore has ignited the interest of electronics giants and Western researchers anxious for any new developments in the race for new and better conductive materials.

"So far the preliminary results are exciting," said Dr. Hardy Chan, a senior chemistry lecturer and coordinator of the university's Polymer Group. "The potential is definitely there."

Chemical and mechanical engineers and physicists are working toward transforming plastics or polymers into a new realm of electrical conductivity with vast commercial implications.

By the 1990s, these experts envision electrically conductive plastics used in lightweight batteries, photoconductors, chemical sensors and switches, printed circuit boards and a range of polymer electronic devices.

The scientists hope not only to reduce the weight of these devices, but also to make conductive polymers that are plentiful, inexpensive and easily molded into convenient and attractive shapes.

Competitive zeal over what Chan calls "super plastics" is like the global race in the field of superconductors, where researchers are testing new ceramic materials that carry electrical current without resistance and subsequent loss of energy. But Chan said the potential applications of conductive plastics are vastly different.

Superconductors are aimed at projects that have heavy current consumption such as magnetically levitated trains. Chan said, while electrically conducting polymers hold potential for applications in electronic gadgetry from the penlight battery to the electric car.

In the era of "super plastics" he anticipates all-plastic automobile batteries delivering far more power than conventional ones while weighing less, electric cars traveling faster and covering greater distances before recharging and new types of photovoltaic cells.

Taped Hollow Promise Of Pardon Ends School Hostage Ordeal

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Fooled by a hollow promise of a gubernatorial pardon, a veteran with a history of mental illness ended a 13-hour siege at a Christian school where he took two teachers and 85 students hostage.

No one was hurt Tuesday during the takeover of the West End Christian School, which came a day after two armed American Indians seized a newspaper office in Lumberton, N.C., took 21 hostages and finally released them unharmed.

James Harvey, who a mental health worker called "a nut," barged into the church-run school with another man Tuesday morning and demanded to speak to President Reagan, Gov. Guy Hunt and Tuscaloosa Mayor Al DuPont about political and social problems in the nation.

Shortly after viewing a videotape in which Hunt granted him a pardon and immunity, Harvey walked out of a classroom building where he had the students and teachers hostage, laid down his rifle and pistol and was wrestled to the ground by police.

Senate Votes On Nominee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senators predicted an enthusiastic vote of approval today for Supreme Court nominee Anthony Kennedy, ending a seven-month battle to seat a new justice that saw two of President Reagan's choices go down to defeat.

Kennedy, whose nomination was handled with speed after the bitter, protracted fight over the president's first choice, Robert Bork, would need only to take the oath of office if approved by the Senate as the 104th member of the court.

Iranians Machine-Gun Tanker; Second Attack In 2 Days

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iranian gunboats sprayed machine-gun fire at a Norwegian tanker in the Persian Gulf today, setting the vessel ablaze in the second Iranian attack against neutral shipping in as many days, shipping sources said.

The gunboats attacked the 20,505-ton tanker Petrobulk Ruler at 6:03 a.m. as it steamed off the coast of Sharjah in the United Arab Emirates, the shipping sources said.

"Heavy Iranian machine gun fire started a fire aboard the tanker but this has now been placed under control," one source said. There were no injuries aboard the vessel, the sources said.

French Counterspy Ambushed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Gunmen ambushed and killed French citizen reported to be a French counterspy at an intersection in Christian east Beirut, shooting him four times at point-blank range with a silenced weapon, police said.

The slaying Tuesday of Frenchman Jacques Meurant, 27, was the latest attack against French citizens in terror-plagued Lebanon. At least six French citizens have been killed and four kidnapped during the past two years.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the slaying.

Sanford Stalls Lease With Gymnastics Group

By Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford city commissioners decided at a Monday afternoon workshop they will look into financing arrangements before completing a lease with Sanford Gymnastics Association.

They also decided to begin a slight modification on the city's occupational license policy at the regular meeting next Monday.

The Gymnastics Association wants to lease from the city property between Poinsettia and Princeton avenues, south of 25th Place. They want to build a metal-type building on the 10-lot parcel.

Bill Simmons, director of engineering and planning, said he recommends an agreement be drawn up with the city retaining the right to spray irrigate portions of the property, therefore also being responsible for the installation and maintenance of the system. The gym association should be responsible for grounds maintenance, he said.

The parcel is part of an area of a little more than 143 acres which the city owns. Simmons said the city could spray irrigate the entire acreage but that it would not be feasible to irrigate only the 10 lots.

He noted that part of the acreage could be used as a future city park. That being the case, the gym association may utilize interior and exterior entrances into its restrooms, he explained.

The gym association wants to build an 11,000 square-foot building, which Simmons estimates would cost about $90,000. Commissioner A.A. McClanahan disagreed with that estimate and said he thought $200,000 would be a more accurate estimate.

Commissioner John Y. Mercer said that at a commission meeting several weeks ago Richard Whittaker of Whittaker Construction Company told commissioners the association had $50,000 in the bank at that time. If they were given the go-ahead, Whittaker thought that with fundraising efforts the association could have all the money it needed by spring. Whittaker is the contractor for the job.

Because of the variance in the estimates and the amount of money the association claims to have in the bank at this time, Mercer said he would not want to approve the lease until he had opportunity to see the association's financing.

That was the opinion of the other commissioners, so Simmons said he would obtain the information on the association's financial arrangements and present them to the commission at a later workshop.

At this time the association is using the vacated Winn-Dixie building by Braun Towers, Simmons said.

City Manager Frank Faison asked commissioners to review the occupational licensing policy and ordinance because, until now, the police department has been responsible for checking local businesses for the license—and he says they are too busy to concentrate on that endeavor. "It's not a big priority for police officers," he said.

Mercer agreed that although the code says police check for occupational licenses in Sanford, that department is too busy for the added responsibility.

Faison wants the ordinance to be re-worded so that other city agencies may assume that responsibility. For example, he noted that the fire department does annual fire inspections of Sanford businesses. He suggested that department as being one that could comfortably handle the licensing check also.

"We think that's workable," he concluded. Commissioners agreed on the concept, as well as on the request to act on it at next week's commission meeting.

Etchberger Approved For Longwood Job

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Longwood Mayor Dave Gunter said the city's new consultant Jeff Etchberger, who met with department heads Tuesday, "will tell us what we need to know, not what we want to hear."

Without questions or discussion, the city commission voted unanimously Monday night to accept the general consulting agreement proposed by Etchberger through I&F Financial, Inc., a firm for which he occasionally does work.

Deputy Mayor Lynette Dennis, Etchberger's sister-in-law, declared a conflict of interest and refrained from voting on his hiring or the transferring $7,500 from the unhired personnel director's salary line item to help pay Etchberger's fee.

The city budgeted for the hiring of a personnel director as of Oct. 1, 1987, but has postponed hiring someone for the job and allowed the money to accumulate. The positions of city administrator and finance director are also vacant. Etchberger said it would not be fair to bring in a new city administrator and saddle him with the kind of house cleaning that he proposes to do.

A former assistant Seminole County administrator and former Altamonte Springs city manager, Etchberger has been a consultant for several area cities and more recently has been a private financial consultant to businesses. He serves as an officer on several companies.

Jeff Etchberger

The commissioners bypassed the usual bidding procedure by declaring Etchberger the sole source — the only one that can furnish the city with this particular expertise. The commissioners agreed at a recent work session that it would be a waste of time for anyone else to bid on work since that had already made up their minds that Etchberger was the only man for the job.

Etchberger will serve as general consultant and fiscal advisor for the city as well as conducting various special studies and projects as assigned.

In the first capacity he will:

- provide advice and counsel to the commission, city administrator and departments regarding routine problems and other matters.

- attend commission meetings and work sessions.

- conduct a management development seminar for department and division heads.

- conduct a financial management seminar for appropriate personnel

- redesign and direct the annual budget preparation process for the 1988-89 operating budget including preparation of departmental work programs, review and adoption by the commission

- and perform routine assignments as requested.

These services will be provided on an ongoing basis until terminated by the commission.

Etchberger will be paid a monthly $500 retainer payable monthly in advance as general consultant and a lump sum fee for each special study or project.

For $6,000 (paid in $1,500 increments), he will be doing a general organization and management study as follows:

- conduct an in-depth review and analysis of each operating department

- review and evaluate administrative and support functions.

- analyze and review of the overall organizational structure

- identify and develop specific alternatives for improvement in each of these areas.

The study can be completed in 60-90 days. For an additional $1,500, Etchberger has agreed to:

- develop an annual work program with goals and objectives for each department.

- develop basic management information system to track operating statistics and for each department.

- structure a reporting format for each department.

- prepare and present a first quarterly report to the city commission.

- develop implementation guidelines and policy and procedure for adopting the Management Information and Reporting System.

This proposed work will not take more than 60 days, he said.

Lawmaker Will Ask Court To Remove Flag

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — State Rep. Alvin Holmes said his next option is to go to court to have the Confederate battle flag removed from the Capitol after a resolution to that effect died on the House of Representatives floor.

Holmes and Rep. Thomas Reed were among 13 black lawmakers arrested Tuesday for attempting to climb the chain-link fence surrounding the Capitol, which is closed for renovations, in order to remove the Confederate flag.

"What you saw today is just the beginning," said Reed. "We bitterly resent having to pledge allegiance to a flag that wants to turn the clock back. We will not stop until that flag is removed from the Capitol dome," he said.

Holmes said this is the fourth time he has introduced the resolution and he has failed each time. He tried to suspend the rules to introduce the matter, but representatives denied him in a 67-17 vote.

The next option is a federal court, Holmes said.

"We'll challenge the constitutionality of the state of Alabama in its official capacity as a state, flying a flag of a nation that once attempted to overthrow the U.S. government," Holmes said.

If the flag is flying for historic reasons, then why is Alaska not flying the hammer and sickle of the Soviet Union since it was once under the domain of that country, Holmes asked.

The lawmakers discussed meeting Wednesday while they were in jail, Holmes said, but nothing definite was agreed upon.

Reed, who also is president of the Alabama NAACP, claimed the gathering of black leaders showed their unity and said he plans to regroup with state and national leaders to plan the next moves.

Reed said he resented people saying his actions were tarnishing the image of the state because "that image is greatly derailed by the waving of that flag."

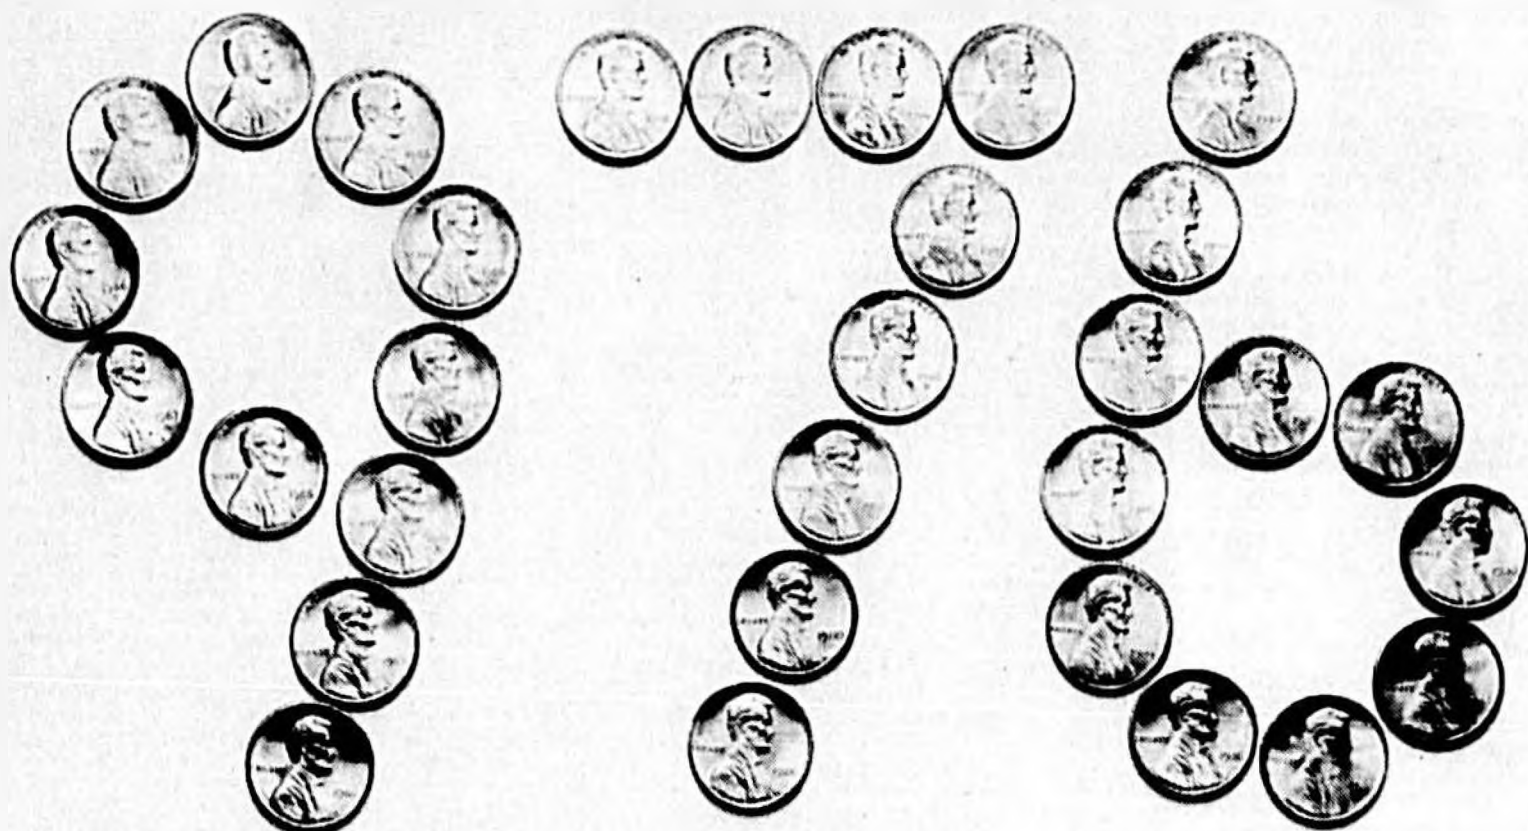

His attempt to take the flag down was part of a national NAACP effort to get the Confederate flag removed from the state Capitols of Alabama and South Carolina and to get the symbol removed from the design of the state flags of Mississippi and Georgia.

The Confederate battle flag was placed atop the Alabama Capitol in 1961 by then-Gov. John Patterson to commemorate the centennial of the Confederacy.

Wearing a white hardhat, protective plastic goggles and a blue jumpsuit, Reed earlier demanded he be admitted to the Capitol grounds as a state legislator, which he said state law permits.

"You will let me in now or you will let me in later," Reed told Capitol police, state troopers and Montgomery County sheriff's deputies. "You have no right to block my admission."

SHS Girls Take Charge Of SAC

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Editor
Now that they are in the driver's seat, Seminole High's Lady Seminoles are playing like they do not want to relinquish the keys to the Seminole Athletic Conference championship.

Tuesday night, the Lady Noles turned in another outstanding performance in avenging their only SAC defeat of the season with a 50-46 triumph over DeLand's Lady Bulldogs before 301 fans at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

Seminole ran its record to 14-5 overall with its ninth consecutive victory and now stands at 8-1 in the conference. The Lady Tribe can clinch the championship by winning two of its last three league games.

"Now that we've beaten DeLand, we plan on tearing everyone else up," Seminole senior LaShon Cash said. "We really want that conference championship."

Cash played a big part in Seminole's victory Tuesday as she poured in a career-high 16 points, taking up the scoring slack when sophomore Sherri Reddicks was on the bench with foul trouble. Reddicks still managed to score 13 points, including eight in the fourth period. Adrian Hillsman added nine points and eight assists and Aretha Riggins contributed four points and six rebounds. Liz Long led the way underneath with 10 rebounds. "Everyone who played contributed tonight," Seminole coach Charles Steele said. "LaShon (Cash) had a super game running on the break and Aretha (Riggins) is really getting comfortable at the point. Sherri (Reddicks) had the foul trouble but she stayed aggressive which was nice to see and Liz (Long) did a good job on the boards."

While Seminole got contributions on the offensive end from everyone who played, it was the defense that made the difference in the game. Seminole put continuous pressure on DeLand's guards and stole the ball seemingly at will at times.

"We played much better defense than the last time we played them," Cash said. "We put more pressure on their guards and made them turn the ball over a lot. And we ran the break well."

Seminole also did a good job of containing DeLand's senior scoring sensation C.C. Hayden. Hayden had a game-high 18 points, but that is well below her

"I thought one of the keys was Adrian's (Hillsman's) defense on Hayden," Steele said. "She is sacrificing points to become a better team player. She has improved her defense tremendously."

The game was even after the first quarter, but Reddicks, the Tribe's force inside, picked up her third foul late in the period and did not return to action until

SCC Goes To Valencia With Revenge In Mind

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer
Seminole Community College's men's basketball team will look to avenge an early loss tonight as it travels to Valencia Community College in what should be a very good JUCO ballgame.

Seminole is 17-6 overall and tied for the lead with two other teams in the Mid-Florida Conference as this point. VCC is 14-6 overall and 4-4 in conference play.

"You can bet we will not play the same kind of game we did last time," Seminole head coach Bill Payne said. "I'll find five guys that will play both offense and defense and smart enough to stay out of a running game."

The Raiders did get into a running game with the Matadors in their first confrontation with the results ending in a 92-84 loss. Valencia managed to play its game early and prevented Seminole from gaining control to recover.

"They (Valencia) had us out of our game in the first six minutes of the game," Payne said. "We didn't respond and they went on to dominate the game."

VCC will be without Dennis Hill who came off the bench to score 24 points in the teams first meeting. The Matadors still have a strong starting five that will definitely be ready to play.

"Valencia has three big guns," Payne said. "Their point guard, David Murray, is also very good though you don't hear too much about him because he doesn't score that many points."

Again Seminole will slow the game down in order to gain control, then force the ball inside to get the high-percentage shots.

"We'll have to score when we get the ball in close to the basket," Payne said. "If we don't hit those shots it could be another blowout."

The Matadors' three top scoring threats are Dave Porter, Maurice Cowan and Walter Aikens. All three are averaging well above 10 points per game and all three helped Valencia greatly in the first meeting.

Seminole has lost just one game in the second half of the season and has built up a nice 5-0 record on the road in conference action. Payne hopes that streak will continue, but also feels his team must play better.

"We have not played well in our last three games," Payne said. "We'll need a good game against this team if we don't want to get blown out again."

Seminole's weak point in the first meeting was breaking the Matadors' fullcourt pressing defense. Seminole's guards have matured over the past few weeks and have handled the press by other teams brilliantly which should help them tonight.

"With the exception of the FCC-JFlorida Community College-Jacksonville our guards have done very well against the press," Payne said.

Lyman Outlasts Lady Seminoles In Double OT

Huddleston Provides Game-Winner

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer
LONGWOOD — Randi Huddleston scored the winning goal in the second overtime and Kerry Musante had a goal and two assists to lead Lyman's Lady Greyhounds girls soccer team past Seminole, 3-2, in a hard fought double overtime victory before 51 vocal fans at Lyman High School.

Lyman, 13-9-1, advances to the semi-finals and will travel to Lake Brantley to take on the state's top ranked team. Seminole finished its season at 12-14-1.

Seminole opened the score early in the first half as Cindy Bengt sent a corner kick directly in front of the goal. Jennifer Bengt was able to get to the ball first and give the Lady Seminoles an early 1-0 lead with 35:50 remaining in the opening half.

"We woke up after Seminole scored the goal," Lyman coach Laura Roundtree said. "It's a shame we had to give up a goal, but I'm glad we woke up because Seminole played a great game."

The game then shifted back and forth with Lyman putting on the most pressure but coming up empty due to Seminole's goal keeper, Kim Walsh, who came up with a brilliant performance.

Walsh prevented Lyman from scoring until a controversial penalty kick was awarded to the Lady Greyhounds. Musante took the p.k. and chipped it past Walsh to even the score with 1:54 left in the first half.

"I shouldn't have been a p.k.," Seminole coach Suzy Reno said. "He (the field official) even admitted he made the wrong call when I spoke with him."

Reno was disturbed with both the officiating and the field and felt her team had a game taken away from them.

"The field was not marked, the officials weren't the ones we elected at the meeting and we should be playing Thursday," Reno said. "It was an unprofessional set up and we would not have had to play in overtime if that call had not been made."

Lyman came out and dominated the play early in the second half as the Lady Greyhounds defensive crew prevented Seminole from forming any offensive threats.

Bonni Steeves then scored off a touch pass from Musante off an indirect kick to put Lyman ahead, 2-1, with 27:29 to play. The Lady Greyhounds kept pressing but a stingy defense, along with the play of Walsh, was able to thwart their attempts.

Walsh came up with a pair of nice saves right after the goal by Steeves. Lyman's Julia Callarman, who plays sweeper for the Lady 'Hounds, advanced up the field and took a direct

Brantley, Lake Mary, Lake Howell Advance To Semis

Eight different players joined the scoring parade with either a goal or an assist Tuesday night as Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots blanked DeLand's Lady Bulldogs, 6-0, in District 3 Tournament action at Lake Brantley High.

Lake Brantley, 22-0-2 and ranked No. 1 in the state, advances to Thursday night's semifinals at home against Lyman.

"Lyman is going to be psyched and it's going to be a tough game for us," Lake Brantley coach Wolfgang Halbig said. "Every game from now on will be tough and we have to get up mentally for each game."

Brantley, which outshot DeLand, 40-9, took a 2-0 halftime lead. Karen Kopp scored the first goal on an assist from Colleen Lievertz and Julie DeRusso then scored on Beth Schaefer's assist.

In the second half, Stacy Fox made it 3-0 as she scored off an assist from Joyce Tullis and Cindy Becker's goal off Schaefer's assist made it 4-0. Lisa Rock, called up from junior varsity for the postseason, added the fifth goal off Schaefer's third assist and Becker made the final 6-0 with a goal off an assist from Fox. Lake Brantley goalkeeper Kimi Kurz recorded the shutout with two saves.

"I got a chance to let everyone play tonight and everyone looked good," Halbig said. "We brought four kids up off JV and they got a chance to play and I was very pleased with them."

The Lady Patriots have defeated Lyman twice this season, the last time by the score of 3-1. But Brantley had to score three goals in the last seven minutes to pull out that victory.

"Lyman has been playing really well lately," Halbig said. "They played an excellent game against us the last time we played. We'll have to be at our best Thursday night."

The Lady Patriots got some good news Monday when they learned senior midfielder Cara Marlen will be able to return to the lineup Thursday. Marlen has missed the last two weeks with a knee injury.

"Having Cara (Marlen) back could be a big factor for us," Halbig said. "It will enable us to be at full strength and we always benefit from the spark she provides on the field."

The Lady Hawks, 12-7-1, advance to Thursday's semifinals at Lake Mary. Bishop Moore finished the season at 14-9-1.

Lake Howell's Nicole Compton and Bishop Moore's Stephanie Gringer both scored second-half goals but neither team could score again and the game was decided in a shootout.

Dana Boyesen, Kristie Blaney and Michelle Cook all converted their penalty kicks for Lake Howell while Bishop Moore could manage just one on Lake Howell keeper Heather Brann and the Lady Hawks came away with the victory.

RAMS EDGE W. PARK

Dana Hoover scored on an assist from Donna Rohr 22:11 into the first half and Lake Mary's Lady Rams held on for a 1-0 victory over Winter Park's Lady Wildcats in District 3 action at Lake Mary High.

The Lady Rams dominated offensively with 20 shots compared to Winter Park's two but Lake Mary could not finish its opportunities. The Lady Rams' defense, though, kept Winter Park from gaining any offensive momentum. Leading the defensive charge for the Rams were Michelle Padilla, Brooke Taylor, Lisa Fraher, Amy Alexander and goalkeeper Tammy Scott.

Lake Mary, 24-4 and ranked fifth in the state, advances to Thursday's semifinals at home against Lake Howell. The Lady Rams own two victories over Howell this season but the last one was by the score of 2-1. Howell has one of the top defensive performers around in freshman Jessica Cardarelli and a goalkeeper who may be one of the state's best in Heather Brann so Lake Mary figures to have its hands full once again.

Maryland Upsets Notre Dame, 78-75

United Press International
Beating Notre Dame is invigorating. It's like beating the Yankees in baseball or Uncle Sam at tax time.

Maryland traveled to South Bend, Ind., Tuesday night and stuck it to the Irish.

"They are all sweet, especially the ones on the road at a fine university like Notre Dame," Maryland Coach Bob Wade said after the Terrapins defeated the Irish 78-75. "We haven't been playing with consistency lately. We needed a confidence booster."

Wade's big men were consistent. Freshman Brian Williams made 8 of 12 shots for 18 points and sophomore Tony Massenberg made 7 of 8 shots for 16 points.

raising Maryland to 11-6. David Rivers scored 27 points and Gary Voce added 13 for Notre Dame, 12-6.

"They beat us inside, outside and made key shots at the line," Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps said. "I said they were quick ... they just have a good frontline to match their quickness."

Williams scored 14 in the second half. Massenberg came off the bench and got 12 in the first half.

Maryland led by as many as 13 with 14:00 left. The Irish closed to 61-58 with 6:13 left by outscoring Maryland 16-8. Derrick Lewis, Williams and Keith Gatlin led an 8-2 run that built the Terrapins' lead to 69-60 with 2:47 remaining.

A Rivers 3-pointer brought the Irish to 76-72 with nine seconds left, but Rudy Archer hit 2 free throws. Sean Connor added a 3-pointer for the Irish with four seconds left.

In games involving ranked teams, No. 2 Brigham Young pounded Tulsa 72-57 and No. 12 Syracuse bombed Providence 92-71.

At Provo, Utah, Jim Usevitch scored 21 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to help Brigham Young, 16-0, remain the only unbeaten team in major college basketball.

At Syracuse, N.Y., Derrick Coleman scored 20 points and grabbed 19 rebounds and Earl Duncan added 19 points.

Seminole Journey To DeLand

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Editor

New Mexico University's "Pit" is considered one of the toughest arenas in the nation for visiting teams to win in. No. 1 Arizona found that out as its only loss this season came in the "Pit."

The closest thing to the "Pit" in the Seminole Athletic Conference is the DeLand High School gymnasium. Rarely does a visiting team escape with a win, particularly when the Bulldogs have a team contending for a conference title.

Seminole High has the unenviable task of playing in the "Dog Dome" tonight — and the game will be for sole possession of first place in the SAC. Tipoff is 8 p.m.

"You get no gifts in DeLand," Seminole coach Greg Robinson said. "We have to be totally prepared to go over there and make our own breaks instead of expecting to get some."

Both Seminole (12-5 overall) and DeLand (12-7) stand at 6-1 in the conference with two weeks remaining in the regular season. Tonight's winner will move into the driver's seat in the league standings.

The only conference loss for the "Noles" came at home against DeLand. The Tribe has not lost since then. DeLand, meanwhile, lost its very first league game, against Lake Mary. The Bulldogs of coach John Zeoli have played some impressive basketball since their early defeat. "DeLand has a very solid ballclub," Robinson said. "They can beat you in a lot of ways. The last time we played

"And (Robbie) Wilkes also killed us with the three-point shot. We can't let him beat us with threes this time and we have to do a better job on the boards as well."

Since the loss to DeLand, Seminole has played some excellent basketball but has yet to put together a full four quarters of good play.

"We haven't put it all together for whole ballgame yet," Robinson said. "Sometimes for five or so minutes, we'll play unbeatable basketball. But we're not as consistent as I would like us to be."

Senior guard Andre Whitney and senior center Craig Walker have played well for the "Noles" in recent games. Both scored 20 points or more in SAC victories over Lake Brantley and Lake Howell last week.

Walt Hopson has also come alive on the offensive end for the Tribe while Reginald "Cheese" Bellamy and Freddie Gadson are the defensive leaders. The play of Sammie Edwards at the point has also been a key for the Tribe during its winning streak.

Elsewhere in the SAC tonight, Lyman plays at Lake Mary and Lake Brantley is at Lake Howell. Lyman (4-9) stands at 2-4 in the conference while Lake Mary (7-7) is 4-3. Brantley (8-10 and 2-1) looks to snap a four-game losing streak while Lake Howell (4-14, 0-7) looks for a victory after playing three overtime games in the past two weeks.

Gasbarro (135) also added pins for Brantley. Wyka just needed 53 seconds to stick Joshua Smith. Gasbarro went to the second round before taking John Falarski to the mat at the 3:24 mark.

Dan Chiodo picked up a win for Lyman in the 140 pound division with an 11-2 decision over Steven King. Brad Beckman added another win for Lyman as he pinned James Garrison at the 2:56 mark in the 145 pound matchup.

Lyman's Aaron Cobb then picked up a forfeit in the 152 pound weight class to cut the score to 28-18 with five matches remaining.

Brantley's Tim Randolph then decided Robert Cannaday, 13-6, in the 160 pound weight class. Craig Besaw then pinned Derek Moore at the 1:44 mark in the 171 pound bout.

Jason McElhinney then took a decision over Brantley's Jeff Bamberg, 4-2, in the 189 pound division. Mike Whittaker was then disqualified after slamming Matt Thorton in the 220 pound weight class. Whittaker had a pair of penalty points already called before the official waved the bout in Thorton's favor.

Mike Breen completed the night with a 6-3 decision over Gene Devaney in the heavyweight division.

Lake Brantley Sticks Lyman, 42-25

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Brantley came up with a nice all-around performance as it upset Lyman, 42-25, Tuesday night in prep wrestling action at Lyman High School.

Dan Martin started the Patriots off with a 14-11 decision over Masa Yamamoto in the 103 pound weight class. Lyman's David Mengel evened up the score right away though with a 4-2 decision over Tom Gill. Brian Meredith then gave Brantley a lead it would not relinquish with a pin over Greg Naes, taking him down at the 4:57 mark in the 119 pound division. Scott Meredith followed up with a pin in the 125 division as the Pats' opened a 15-3 lead.

them, we missed some free throws and turned the ball over down the stretch and they took advantage of their opportunities," Robinson added.

Veteran Ricardo Gets 100th Win Of Season

Ricardo, one of the most consistent players on the roster broke the magic circle of 100 wins for the season this week. (This is equal to a pitcher winning 20 games in a season). He won his 100th game in the 94th performance which is the earliest it had been done in the history of this fronton. Here is a little history on Ricardo, born in 1952, in Tijuana, Mexico. Ricardo Rodriguez turned professional in 1970 at Acapulco, Mexico. He has played in Mexico City, Tijuana and Las Vegas, Nevada. Ricardo joined our sister fronton in Quincy, Fla. In 1983 he won the most wins title at Quincy and most times in the money title here last season. He is leading the "Most in the Money" category at this time with 273 wins in 695 games. His twin brother Oscar plays at the Daytona Jai-Alai fronton. Ricardo thinks he plays best in the singles games and his best shot is the "Dejada", which is a soft lob shot to the front wall which falls to the floor near the front wall and the opponent is usually not able to get to the ball in time to return it.

Castro racked up 10 wins to lead the way this week. Eduardo was next with eight followed by Bolivar's seven. Ricardo now has 104 wins for the year with Andia trailing with 94. Pierre is third with 86. In the money this week was Andia at .447 (94-81-85/582 games). Olea at .423 (72-78-90/568 games) and Bob at .418 (78-70-76/536 games).

Among the newcomers to the roster, Uria still carries a .518 in the money percentage while Arrazola, Frias and Bolivar are all over .400. There is some exciting Jai-Alai being played and the fans are really enjoying it. Bolivar is still averaging winning a game out of every four and half games he is in.

In the second game singles this week, Ricardo won two giving him 15 wins in 54 games or one in every three and a half games he's played in the second game. Pita won twice in the fourth game singles and Uria, who leads the team percentage, is averaging a win every three times he plays this game. In the feature singles game, Eduardo won twice giving him 17 wins, four more than Bob who had one win for a total of 13. Next to Bolivar, Eduardo considers himself the next best singles player in Jai Alai. At this time Bolivar is winning a game in every 4.75 games and Eduardo is winning a game in every five and half games. In the feature doubles the front court leader is Charola with 16 followed by Castro who won twice last week to end with 13. Bolivar is averaging a win in every three times he plays this game. The back court is lead by Farah with 16 wins. Arca is close behind with 14. Arrieta, a new comer is winning one game in every four times he plays.

Bolton Boosts Oviedo

Garth Bolton exploded for a game-high 27 points, including four shots from three-point range, as Oviedo's Lions routed Mount Dora, 83-52, Tuesday night at Oviedo High.

Oviedo, which improved to 13-5 overall, returns to action Friday at home against Lake Mary.

The Lions stormed to a 19-7 lead after one quarter but Mount Dora hung tough in the second, outscoring Oviedo, 18-17, to stay within 36-25 at the half. Oviedo took a 54-38 lead after three quarters then put up 28 points in the fourth to pull away.

Behind Bolton for Oviedo, Dwight Everett pumped in 12 points. Steve Kendall added 10, Robbie Crager hit nine, Matt Blanton and Todd Ferro each had seven and Pete Lingard contributed six.

Blacks Often Suffer Indignities In Indiana

By Jim Slater
UPI Sports Writer

In a state where basketball is king, black high school players in Indiana suffer the indignity of racial threats and antagonism and are unwelcome in some communities.

A burning cross near Heritage Hills High School in Lincoln City greeted Evansville Bosse players last week as they arrived for a game.

At Anderson High School, more than 150 parents want Coach Norm Held fired for allegedly calling a player a "nigger."

Black players are unwelcome in parts of Indiana, said Indianapolis Pike Coach Ed Siegel, a veteran of 24 seasons. He said most coaches know which communities are likely to spark racial incidents.

"There are certain towns in certain areas of the state that you know if you take black basketball players in there, you're going to have problems. I don't think it's any different than what has gone on for a long time," Siegel said.

"I've even had people threaten my players they were going to get them on the way to the bus. The public doesn't know and some referees may not know, but coaches know. Word gets around fast in the coaching grapevine. Old pros get the word around about a place like that."

"We've come a long way, but we've got a long way to go," Siegel added.

BASKETBALL

Robert Collins, the principal at Heritage Hills, said his school's reputation has been unfairly tarnished because of the cross burning. He blames the incident on the racist beliefs of a few, saying interaction between blacks and whites and better upbringing are needed to solve a problem extending far beyond his school.

"We have a great social problem," said Collins, who coached Indiana high school basketball for 20 years. "Schools can have an impact on the problem in the future. They are part of society."

"But prejudice and discrimination comes from the home. It may be fostered in the school, but it's brought about in the home. Some people tell racial jokes. And there are a lot of good, common people that don't approve of these things. But most will never stand up and do anything."

"In this area, there are few minorities. They (area students) are not around minority children. They were born after all the problems of the '60s. Kids don't know what you're talking about. You see desegregation and things on TV and you get a false sense that everything is OK. There are still a lot of racial problems out there."

If people are dumb enough to holler 'three seconds' from the top row of the gym, they're also dumb enough to make racial slurs."

The overpowering devotion some communities have for their high school basketball teams often goes beyond the bounds of friendly rivalry.

"There are some communities where it is emphasized to the point where it is all that matters," Collins said. "If a coach is a shady character or cusses at his kids, they may overlook it because he's a winner. That's wrong. How can we expect kids to grow up any different if adults are going to act like that?"

The Anderson incident has sparked two public meetings and another is scheduled Friday following claims by a former Indiana player, Kraig Perry, a 16-year-old black junior, said Held used a racial slur in a game last month.

"He told me, 'The way you walk off the floor and show your attitude to the crowd makes you look like a nigger,'" Perry said. "He looked at me, then he looked at everybody else. I just sat there."

"I meant it as an attitude thing. There was nothing racial about it," Held said. "It was all blown way out of proportion. Locker-room conversations have nothing to do with black vs. white, but with coach to player. I don't recall calling anyone a derogatory name. After 20 years of dealing with blacks, it's hard for me to imagine why I would pick out Kraig Perry to offend."

Ray Craft, assistant commissioner of the Indiana High School Athletic Association, said no reports of racial incidents have been reported to the IHSAA and the organization has no reason to become involved with school or community problems.

"We would not get involved because these are not matters for the IHSAA," he said. "The school people are the people who decide what problems they have in the school. I have full confidence that our school principals can handle any problems and there isn't an underlying thing. Principals handle the problems under their jurisdiction. Other people have to handle things under their jurisdiction."

Siegel agrees that specific incidents must be handled by communities, but adds that racism is everyone's problem.

"You start to solve the problem with educators," he said. "You can't control isolated adults in communities. All you can do is let your feelings be known. You can't control the actions of people over cultural differences in parts of the state. But you don't have to tolerate certain things."

Lady Hawks Ride 'D' Of Burns, Lewis

By Chris Fister

Brooke Burns and Tammy Lewis led a tenacious defensive effort and Lake Howell controlled the boards as the Lady Silver Hawks thrashed Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots, 69-35, in Seminole Athletic Conference action Tuesday night at Lake Brantley High.

Lake Howell improved to 16-5 overall and 7-3 in the SAC while Brantley dropped to 7-9 overall and 4-5 in the conference.

Burns, a junior guard, and Lewis, a senior guard, teamed up to hold Lake Brantley's high-scoring tandem of Tracy Brandenburg and Jennifer Tufford to a combined total of nine points. Both average over 10 points per game.

"Brooke (Burns) is one of the top defensive players in the area," Lake Howell coach Dennis Codrey said. "She played Tufford most of the game and held her to only two points. And Tammy (Lewis) did a good job on Brandenburg (seven points)."

Lake Howell also had a team total of 40 rebounds led by Sarina Winston's 12 and nine each by Carolyn Kuhl and Lisa Nuxol. It was one of the few games this season that Lake Brantley was outrebounded.

"We controlled the boards for the first time in our lives," Codrey said. "Winston, Nuxol and Kuhl were excellent on the boards and did a good job keeping Brantley from getting second shots."

Lewis also contributed in a big way on the offensive end as she poured in a game-high 21 points, including four three-point shots. Smooth-shooting Jennifer Brown hit three from three-point range and finished with 19 points. Winston had another good game inside for Lake Howell with 10 points while Kuhl added seven and Kelley Grider tossed in six.

Lake Howell raced to a 40-19 halftime lead as Burns and Lewis limited Brandenburg and Tufford to three points. Brantley never threatened in the second half as it dropped its third SAC game in a row. Brandenburg's seven points led Lake Brantley while Julie Billmyer added six.

Lake Howell returns to action Friday night at home in a nonconference game against Orlando Colonial. Lake Brantley will look to get back on track in the SAC Thursday when it goes to DeLand.

LADY RAMS RIP LYMAN

Tara Jackson and Teri Whyte combined for 29 points as Lake Mary's Lady Rams whipped Lyman, 56-36, in girls prep basketball action Tuesday night at Lake Mary.

Lake Mary improved to 8-11 overall and 4-6 in the Seminole Athletic Conference and will return to action tonight at Oviedo. Lyman fell to 4-15 and 0-9 in the SAC and will travel to Seminole Thursday.

Whyte finished with a game-high 15 points and 12 rebounds. Jackson added 14 points and seven boards as Anita Mitchell chipped in 10 points. Gina Dawson chipped in eight as Tammy Liberato came up with 10 rebounds for the Lady Rams.

"We dominated the boards," Lake Mary coach Mac Blythe said. "We shot well and had a good defensive effort by the entire team."

Lake Mary built a 32-9 lead at the end of the first half and was never threatened by the Lady Greyhounds.

Lake Howell's Brooke Burns (right) puts up a defensive roadblock on Lake Mary's Anita Mitchell in action last week. On Tuesday night, Burns' defense was a major factor in Howell's 69-35 rout of Lake Brantley.

"We had a good effort from our players of the bench," Blythe said. "Vicky Sheppard went into the game and played real good defense for us."

Lake Mary and Oviedo are tied in the conference with identical records and tonight's game could decide the final positioning in Seminole used its defensive pressure to run off eight points in a row late in the second period for a 27-19 lead. Hillsman started the run with a pair of free throws and Lakoscia Kennon then made a steal and layup for a 23-19 lead. Hillsman followed with a layup for a 25-19 lead and the junior guard then threaded a nice no-look pass to Mechelle Toombs for a layup and a 27-19 advantage. Bellamy's layup made it 27-21 at the half.

DeLand came back behind 6 of 10 free throw shooting in the third period to pull within 36-35 going into the fourth. The Lady Bulldogs then took the lead early in the fourth on a layup by Bellamy.

Reddicks then returned to the lineup and immediately made her presence felt as she scored four consecutive points inside the paint on assists from Hillsman. Cash kept the run going as she dropped in a layup and Reddicks then got an offensive rebound and converted the followup for a 46-39 lead with 4:40 remaining.

Hayden hit one of two free throws to make it 46-40, but Cash then got a nice back door pass from Riggins for a layup and a 48-40 lead. DeLand then called timeout but, on the inbounds pass, Reddicks came up with a steal, dribbled the length kick that just went wide—Pam-Wise then sent a rocket shot of the rebound that Walsh just chased down.

After the ball had been cleared Lyman's Tammy Fulsang intercepted a pass and sent it upfield to Musante who sent a nice crossing shot on goal, but again Walsh came up with the save.

Cindy Bengé, who had several shots just miss, then sent a 25-yard direct kick into the net to even the score, 2-2, with 10:19 remaining. Bengé was able to send the ball over a clustered defense setup by the Lady Greyhounds. Lyman goalie, Becky Carr, was able to get her hands on the ball but the spin from the long kick enabled it to travel into the goal.

"We played really hard tonight," Reno said. "I'm very pleased with our performance. I just feel for the girls because they played their hearts out."

Randi Huddleston came up with the decisive goal on a nice cross pass from Musante to give Lyman a 3-2 advantage with 5:42 remaining. Lyman controlled the ball with a slow down passing game from there on to run the clock out and advance in the tourney.

"They (Seminole) were unbelievably tough tonight," Roundtree said. "They fought for the ball and disrupted our play all night."

'Hounds Upend Lake Mary, 2-1

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Editor

After a not-so-spectacular first half, Lyman's Greyhounds regrouped at halftime and came out blazing in the second half Tuesday night en route to a 2-1 victory over Lake Mary's Rams in a key Seminole Athletic Conference matchup at Lake Mary High.

"We weren't playing our style of soccer in the first half," Lyman coach Ray Sandidge said. "But the second half, the kids kept their composure and got back to their game and it made a big difference."

Both Lyman and Lake Mary now stand at 8-1-2 in the conference with one game left to play. Lyman (14-3-2 overall), ranked fifth in the state in Class 4A, is at Seminole Thursday night and fourth-ranked Lake Mary (15-4-5 overall) is at Oviedo Thursday.

"I was very disappointed that we had the lead and lost it the way we did," Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle said. "Lyman was the better team tonight."

Lake Mary was the aggressor in the first half as it outshot the 'Hounds and the Rams took a 1-0 lead 10 minutes into the game when Ernie Broenle scored on a set play off a free kick.

"We like to knock the ball around on the ground but we were not doing that the first half," Sandidge said. "Lake Mary was dominating us in the air."

Lyman evened the score eight minutes into the second half when Bernard Harden scored on an assist from Chad Weinkauf.

The 'Hounds got the winning goal with 17 minutes left to play on a penalty kick by Harden. The PK was set up when Todd Luke was taken down in the penalty area.

"Bernard (Harden) was the most dangerous player on the field," Sandidge said. "He scored the two goals, hit one shot off the post and his throw ins were extremely dangerous. He asked me to put him in at center-mid and I gave him a shot at it and he responded very well."

While Lyman's offense came alive in the second half, the defense played solidly throughout. Goalkeeper Kelly Walden had another good night while defenders Shaler Bowers, Anthony Goddino, George Kouritis and Weinkauf all turned in superb efforts.

"The defense is the glue that holds us together," Sandidge said. "Both of our teams play excellent defense and that's why the scores are always close."

After this week, the teams will turn their attention to the district tournament when Lyman is expected to be the No. 1 seed with Lake Mary No. 2.

"Our district has always been full of surprises," Sandidge said.

DELAND TOPS TRIBE

Danny Mims scored with less than 10 minutes left in the first half and DeLand's Bulldogs held on for a 1-0 victory over Seminole High Tuesday in SAC action at DeLand.

Seminole dropped to 4-13-1 overall and 0-11 in the conference. The 'Noles host Lyman Thursday night and go to Apopka Saturday. DeLand now stands at 9-9-1 overall and 4-5-2 in the league.

"That's the fifth game in a row we've lost by only one goal," Seminole coach Carlos Merlino said. "We hope to change that around in the district tournament."

Seminole took seven shots on goal Tuesday compared to DeLand's 12. Seminole goalkeeper Chris Bowlin had a good night with nine saves while DeLand keeper Chad Miller recorded the shutout with three saves.

Bayhead Singles Tourney Begins Friday

It's time once again for the Bayhead Racquet Club's Annual Club Singles Tournament. This year, under the direction of the new owner, Pro Amre Sammakia, the tournament promises to be one of the biggest and best in recent years. Play will begin Friday, Feb. 5th with the Finals scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 7th. It should be an exciting event because almost all of the top players at Bayhead have entered.

Scott Reagan should be the favorite on the men's side with stiff competition from David and Rick Holt. The Women's division seems to be wide open with no clear cut favorite. If you would like to see some good club level tennis, come on out to Bayhead the weekend of Feb. 5-7. Admission is free and the tennis will be worth watching.

On the afternoon of the 6th, a huge barbeque will be held on the grounds for all participants. If it's like some of the cook-outs held at Bayhead in the past, that alone would be worth entering for. There will also be hitting demonstrations and the drawing for a new Rival tennis racket. Also, all contestants will be given Rival T-shirts.

The Rival Racquet Company is sponsoring this event to introduce their new racket line to players in the area. The racket is uniquely shaped and was designed and is owned and marketed out of the Rival Sports Corp., Miami, FL. The racket is distributed in the Central Florida area by "Lefty" Rennard, himself one of the outstanding players in the area. This racket was also featured in the Dec., 1987 issue of Tennis Magazine. From all indications, the Rival graphite or the Rival ceramic is the racket of the future and should catch on fast in this area.

Sammakia will also have the students at his tennis academy participating in a tournament of their own at the same time the members singles tournament is going on. This should be quite a treat for everyone who likes tennis. He has some really super young players and it should be a highly competitive weekend.

Former SCC standout, Andy Castle, had a great tournament at the Australian Open. Castle and his doubles partner, Roberto Saad, reached the semifinals in doubles. This was by far the best result that Andy has had and should move him way up in world doubles rankings.

Mike Pernfors has been training hard to get ready for the up-coming season. Mike is in Atlanta practicing hard with Tobias Svantesson.

Mike and Tobias will probably play doubles in the U.S. Indoors in Memphis in a couple of weeks. Mike of course, will be in the main draw in singles and Tobias will be trying to qualify. Mike is currently ranked 31 in the world and Tobias is in the top 300.

The heavily favored Australians, though, will have to contend with the slow play of clay courts and a fiercely partisan home crowd, both of which have rattled some previous visitors.

Two years ago, the West Germans actually fled Mexico, saying they feared for their lives, after losing to the Mexican team before a badgering, flag-waving audience at the Cash, the 1987 Wimbledon champion, Saturday arrived in Mexico, a week later than his teammates. Earlier in the month, Cash was beaten by Mats Wilander of Sweden in the Australian Open finals in a five-set match.

Cash told reporters he felt "in top shape" despite the defeat and denied speculation Mexico City's elevation would negatively affect his performance.

"I'm not worried," he said. "Two months ago, I played a tournament in Johannesburg, South Africa, which I won.

Houston General Manager Bill Wood said the club has begun negotiations on a multi-year contract for right fielder Kevin Bass, whose salary arbitration hearing is scheduled for Feb. 15. We've mapped out a new area code to meet Florida's growth.

Introducing Area Code 407. Beginning April 16, 1988.

The number of new Florida residents has grown so much that we're creating a new area code—407—for the region north of the Broward/Palm Beach line to just north of Orlando. The creation of the new 407 area code means we'll be able to continue serving customers by providing new phone lines well into the next century. Area code 407 will take effect on April 16, and there are a few things we suggest you do by then.

If you live inside the portion of area code 305 that will change to 407, you can tell friends and relatives about the upcoming conversion. (Your 7-digit telephone number won't change—only the area code.) And if you live outside this area, but call any numbers inside area code 407, you can correct your records to reflect the new numbers. If you have any questions or would like a free brochure about area code 407, please call us toll free at 1 800 331-2355.

One more helpful tip about this change. It's easy to remember when area code 407 will be in effect—it starts one day after a date that's unforgettable to all taxpayers.

Lakers Outgun Bulls

United Press International
In the fourth quarter Tuesday night at Los Angeles, Magic Johnson and Michael Jordan took the game to a level their teammates had difficulty reaching.

"We're both winners and we both like to take the game over (at the end)," Johnson said after the Los Angeles Lakers' 110-101 victory over the Chicago Bulls. "That's why you saw Johnson, Jordan, Johnson, Jordan when it counted."

Johnson scored 14 of his 25 points in the final quarter and Jordan accounted for 22 of the Bulls' 34 fourth-quarter points. Jordan finished with 39, the 31st time this season he has reached the 30-point plateau.

"That's what the people came to see," Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley said of the Johnson-Jordan duel. "That's why those two guys make a couple of million each."

Stocks Open Slightly Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened slightly lower today in quiet trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 8.29 Tuesday, was down 2.48 to 1950.44 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 394-353 among the 1,224 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 10,654,000 shares.

Despite the steady decline in interest rates, analysts believe the stock market's most formidable barrier to a sustained advance are nagging doubts over the economy's ability to avoid slipping into a recession. "The single biggest question on investors' minds is where is this economy going," said Hugh Johnson, head of the investment policy committee at First Albany Corp. "It is hard to move this market when you have so many investors, large and small, that have been alienated by the events of October and the volatility that followed."

As expected, several of the nation's largest banks Tuesday cut their prime lending rates to 8.5 percent from 8.75 percent.

The downturn followed revised declines of 1.2 percent in November, which reflected the plunge in stock prices, and 0.1 percent in October.

Dollar Drifts Lower As Gold Falls, Silver Steady

By United Press International
The dollar drifted mostly lower today in light trading on major world money markets. Gold was sharply lower.

In early New York trading, the dollar was slightly higher against key foreign currencies in thin trading.

Traders in New York said the dollar edged higher on speculation that Tuesday's downturn was only a technical correction.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar fell against the Japanese yen, closing at 127.88 yen, down 1.02 from Tuesday's close of 128.90 yen.

In earlier trading in the Far East, gold closed at $454 on the Hong Kong Bullion Exchange, off 80 cents from Tuesday's close.

Silver opened unchanged in Zurich at $6.55 an ounce and fell 7 cents in London to $6.56 an ounce.

In early trading on New York's Comex, a 100-troy-ounce gold futures contract for February delivery opened at $444.20, off $9.70 from Tuesday's close. A 5,000-troy-ounce silver futures contract opened at $6.377, off 14 cents an ounce.

Largest Banks Cut Prime Rate

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's largest banks Tuesday cut their prime lending rates to 8.5 percent from 8.75 percent but said the move reflected current conditions and held little clue to the direction of the economy.

Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. was the first to announce the cut in the rate, which serves as the basis for calculating the interest on a variety of loans to consumers and small businesses. It was quickly followed by most other big banks.

The banks said the cuts in the rate, which had stood at 8.75 percent since Nov. 5, were effective immediately.

Bank spokesmen said the reduction in the prime reflected interest rate declines that already have occurred over the past few weeks in the securities markets.

"The rate cut has no great significance for the future course of interest rates," said Jeffrey Leeds, a Chemical Bank managing director. "Rather, it reflects conditions in the open marketplace, where conditions have been easier over the last several weeks."

members of his party in what he called Reagan's "last-minute appeal for Congress' help to continue the Contra war."

"The president's offer is too little too late," Coelho said. "It misses the point and it won't save his package."

McCollum said the Democratic leadership's fight to defeat the bill "may be mainly politics—wanting to hand the president a defeat. We haven't seen the Democratic alternative, which they say will be introduced later this spring. I think we will be going down the compassionate aid trail again."

"I certainly hope it's politics to defeat this bill. If it isn't and the contras fold because of it, we're in real trouble. Without the contras to put pressure on the Sandinistas to keep their agreements I am afraid we will be left with the choice of sending in U.S. troops and I certainly don't want that."

Rep. David Bonior, D-Mich., a member of the Democratic leadership opposing the aid, said Reagan "realizes his package is unpalatable. This resolution is not binding. It could be filibustered by proponents of Contra aid in the Senate. Clearly, it is crafted to fool a few people. I don't think it will."

But Rep. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., said Reagan had made a "reasonable offer to the Congress. Half a dozen Democrats may come over because of it. It is a very close vote. For the Democrats to say they have it won is absurd."

Reagan's appeal capped a daylong administration blitz to lobby the undecided lawmakers with the argument that only military pressure from the U.S.-backed Contras will force Nicaragua's Sandinista leaders to negotiate a cease-fire.

Noting the political reforms announced in Nicaragua since the Aug. 7 signing of a Central American peace plan, a skeptical Reagan said the Sandinistas "are clearly feeling the pressure and are beginning to take limited steps."

"One may hope they are sincere this time," Reagan said, "but it hardly seems wise to stake the future of Central America and the national security of the United States on it. The freedom fighters are our insurance policy in case the Sandinistas once again go back on their word."

Insisting "there will be no second chances," he went on to warn, "If Congress votes down aid, the freedom fighters may soon be gone and, with them, all effective pressure on the Sandinistas."

The last-ditch bid to rescue the package from defeat at the hands of lawmakers opposed to the $3.6 million in military assistance suffered a severe blow when the three broadcast networks decided not to televise the speech.

Only Cable News Network carried the 8 p.m. EST address. TV Direct, a satellite news service, beamed the speech to more than 700 local TV stations, which had the option to air it or not.

Officials of ABC, CBS and NBC declined on grounds that Reagan, on countless other occasions, has had ample opportunity — including at least three previous prime-time speeches carried by the networks — to take his case to the public.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater criticized the networks for "their journalistic failure to understand the historic significance of the prelude to a vote that could shape U.S. policy at a 'historic turning point in the struggle for democratic reform in Central America'."

need a full-time city attorney," Kramer said. "There was no reason to do so or to study on cost effectiveness. This city has more legal problems than most but I enjoy the work. I ask them to watch and see how much work I do. It's a good chance for the consultant to come in and see if the position is justified. I spend more time here than I did in the largest law firm in the world" (Kramer was an attorney with Sellers, Atkinson & Jose, Atlanta, before coming to Longwood).

Kramer told the commission in his report Monday night that he did a breakdown on the number of hours in a month and that he had put in 167 billable hours and nine hours "goodwill" which at the going rate would have cost the city $17,000 at the going rate for an outside attorney. He said a full-time services, secretary and office are a tremendous savings to the city.

Kramer added, "There is a rumor going around that the city attorney should serve a probationary period, but in my opinion, according to the charter, the city attorney doesn't have to serve a probationary period, but is appointed for an indefinite term by the city commission."

Hardy said under the personnel policy "all employees have a six-month probationary period."

Hardy said he doesn't think the situation with Kramer can be resolved with his attitude. Referring to a four-page memo issued by Kramer to the commission last week, Hardy said, "He's supposed to represent us, not come down on us in the manner he did, he was talking about something one commissioner did, but he beat up on the whole commission."

Hardy said he objected to the way the memo, which warned commissioners if they continued in the way they were going in trying to oust Police Chief Greg Manning it would open the city to legal action by Manning, was delivered to the commission. He said it was in direct conflict to a memo received five days earlier regarding the personnel policy.

Hardy said he thinks Kramer "owes the entire commission an apology and the city as well."

Kramer replied, "We both have the interest of the city at heart. I wish we could work together. I will do my best to work with you and do my best for the city."

Kramer said as far as the memo is concerned, "I'm sorry if anyone took offense, it was not done to embarrass or offend anyone. It was to stop a crisis. I believe the city at the time the memo ended a serious threat of a law suit. Granted the language in the memo is strong, but the situation at the time demanded strong language."

Kramer said Hardy came in and said he was upset with the memo and that he felt it was a personal political attack Kramer said, "He asked me to change the memo and I said I couldn't. He said at that time he had lost his faith in me and was going to do all he could to get me out of my office at the earliest possible time."

Kramer sent Hardy a letter on Jan. 28 going over what had transpired and concluding, "I believe that you came into the city with the preconceived notion of eliminating the full time in-house office of city attorney. I respectfully request that you allow a reasonable time to pass before making any judgment in that area. It is also apparent that at least temporarily, our relationship has deteriorated to some extent in that your confidence in the work quality of the city attorney has decreased. I have also asked that you try and examine what has occurred from the standpoint of a city attorney in a similar situation. I will, as your city attorney, cooperate with you in every way that I can and continue to represent the city in the highest standards which I have always given the city of Longwood. It is my desire that you and I put this matter behind us."

telephone book, such as Poinsett Control or the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, are long distance calls for Sanford residents.

Streetman said the county will have a representative at the PSC hearing and urged Sanford and Lake Mary public officials and businessmen to attend the hearing too.

He also expressed surprise that Southern Bell has not surveyed local telephone customers to find out what kind of service they want.

Kirchhoff and Streetman said the PSC would be asked what other telephone service might offer the service requested. Kirchhoff said United Telephone might be interested in connecting its Winter Park and Orange City service areas by serving the Sanford-Lake Mary area in between.

ness in Altamonte Springs, said, "I never use the Southern Bell phone books. You have to have a whole bookshelf of them. I just use them for paper weights or doorstops. The phone book that has everyone in it that I want to call is the United Telephone directory."

Besides not being able to make local Orlando calls without extra charges, local officials and businessmen were upset that the entire Orlando area is not included in either package, only the city of Orlando.

J.R. Hattaway of Longwood, said "What we need is local service to the area in the Orlando Yellow Pages. That's what businessmen want because that's where their customers are. Hattaway said the present telephone service is considered a disadvantage to businesses who consider relocating in northern Seminole County, because they are cut off from the rest of the metropolitan area by long distance charges.

Mayor Dick Fess of Lake Mary said, "What we want is the same service as Orlando with the same charges Orlando residents pay."

However, Larry Strickler, Southern Bell area manager, said "For those people who want local service to Orlando with no rate increase, it is just not going to happen."

He said eliminating long distance charges between Sanford-Lake Mary and Orlando would mean about a $3 million annual reduction in revenue for the company, and the PSC would not approve it because long distance charges subsidize basic service rates and keep them below the cost to the company of offering them.

unconstitutional. The committees adopted instead a proposal by the Trial Lawyers Section of the Florida Bar. Lobbyists for the state's doctors said that plan would, if anything, only increase medical malpractice insurance rates.

Under the new plan, people involved in a medical malpractice suit would have to submit to arbitration before going to court. If both parties accepted the arbitrators' recommendation, the matter would end there.

If the plaintiff instead insisted on a trial and the eventual settlement was at least 25 percent less than the arbitrator's proposal, the defendant would be able to recover his legal fees.

In the same fashion, if the defendant insisted on a trial and the plaintiff received at least 25 percent more than the arbitrator's offer, the plaintiff would recover his legal fees.

The Senate committee adopted a non-binding cap of $250,000 on non-economic damages in lieu of binding caps of up to $350,000 that had been proposed by the task force, chaired by University of Florida president Marshall Criser.

The jury would be able to return an unlimited award, but the judge would have to reduce it to $250,000 unless there was "clear and convincing evidence" that the higher amount was justified.

The Senate plan does include new authority for the Department of Professional Regulation over doctors with repeated malpractice complaints, which was proposed by the task force. The other major provision was rejected by the panel — expanded protection from malpractice lawsuits for emergency room physicians.

The Senate panel voted out its package around 8 p.m. after meeting off and on the entire day. The bill goes to the Senate Appropriations Committee Wednesday morning, then to the full Senate a couple of hours later.

The House's version worked its way through two committees on the opening day of a scheduled three-day special session. The Insurance committee passed it basically as it had been developed by chief author Sam Bell, D-Ormond Beach. Bell, chairman of the appropriations committee, has followed most of the task force recommendations.

'Earl Rose Was A Delight' At SCCA's Winter Concert

The Seminole Community Concert Association presented the Earl Rose Trio on Jan. 28 in the Lake Mary High School auditorium. In addition, the Sanford-Seminole Art Association shared the works of 15 of their artists with concert patrons.

Shirley Milis, president of SCCA, said "Earl Rose was a delight. He played with his entire body—tapping his feet and bobbing around on the full range of the keyboard with never a note of music in front of him. He played with a very talented drummer, Don Sweeney, and Steven Roame, adding the bass notes on his unusual electric bass instrument."

"The audience responded enthusiastically and Earl Rose put everyone at ease with humorous explanations of music he had written for the daytime dramatic series called Ryan's Hope. He has done extensive writing and played a number of his own compositions—beautiful sounds."

Helping the art association members arrange their colorful exhibit was Monroe Pierce, custodian at the school, who set up the easels from the school's art department.

Milis continued: "The Lake Mary High School staff has been most helpful to us."

Pauline Stevens arranged for the art show with Edgar Barnett, Teresa Markle, and Claire O'Connor helping her. They selected their paintings as well as Marjorie Shaw, Vickie, Genie, Sider, Shirley, Yon, Marjorie, Sara, Fran, Lingle, Joyce, Mikko, Marie, Richter, Love, Sider and He Woodcraft.

The Concert Association will end its season on March 6 with the New Christian Ministries. Members are encouraged to join the association for next year on that night. Milis said, "We would like those who have not joined this year to know that they can come to the last concert this season on the grounds of the association at the beginning of the next year to join the New Christian Ministries."

The president also said that the price of membership in the association will increase during the 1988-89 season. During the March concert, new membership games will be announced.

Indians Face Life Sentences

LUMBERTON, N.C. (UPI) — Two American Indians who took 20 hostages at a newspaper face life in prison under a federal anti-terrorism law, but the governor made good on a pledge to appoint a task force to hear their allegations of racial injustice in Robeson County.

"We've heard the allegations. What I'm interested in now are some specifics," said Phil Kirk, Gov. Jim Martin's chief of staff who is a member of the task force.

Eddie Hatcher and Timothy Jacobs, who seized the Robesonian newspaper and held it for 10 hours Monday before surrendering, were charged with taking hostages under a 1984 federal law designed to curb terrorism. Assistant U.S. Attorney Kiernan Shanahan said.

Shanahan, after Hatcher and Jacobs appeared Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Raleigh, said Congress "clearly tried to address the problem of terrorism" when it passed the tough law against taking hostages.

Besides life in prison under the anti-terrorism law, Hatcher and Jacobs face weapons charges that could mean 20-year sentences, plus fines of $250,000 each. They are held without bond. State charges also are expected.

During the standoff, Hatcher and Jacobs, who were armed with hand grenades and sawed-off shotguns, demanded an investigation into their charges of sheriff department corruption and racial injustices in Robeson County.

Tuesday, The Robesonian printed the transcript of a rambling, tape-recorded statement made during the siege in which Hatcher said a jail inmate told him that Sheriff Hubert Stone is involved with drugs.

Stone denied the allegation and said he would welcome an outside investigation.

He said Lumberton's isolated location on Interstate 95 midway between Miami and New York has made it a new center for cocaine trafficking and that his department made 400 drug-related arrests last year. But he said he has no reason to believe that any of his 60 deputies are dealing in drugs.

"If they did, they'd be indicted," he said. After the hearing Hatcher and Jacobs were taken to federal prison in Butner. As they were led by U.S. Marshals to a prison van, Jacobs said, "We just want everybody to support us."

"I wanted to make a statement, but the FBI wouldn't let me," Hatcher said.

Hatcher's mother, Thelma Clark, said after her son's court appearance. "He's seen a lot of things he doesn't believe is right. I raised him to believe in justice and law."

Kirk negotiated an agreement that ended the siege, and the governor made good on one point in the pact by appointing a three-member task force to hear the men's allegations.

Kirk said the task force will meet with Hatcher and Jacobs Friday or Monday. The panel also includes Joe Dean, state secretary of crime control and public safety, and Jim Trotter, the governor's legal counsel.

Jacobs and Hatcher also had hoped to get fellow Indian John Hunt moved out of the Robeson County Jail as part of the agreement. But Hunt, jailed for nine months under a $30,000 bond on armed robbery and assault charges, refused to go, saying he feared for his life if moved.

Hunt said he believes his life is in danger because he has been an informer for the State Bureau of Investigation.

"I feel safer in here," he told United Press International Tuesday. "Eddie was feared (sic) there was a death threat. There had been some death threats, but it was from outside on the streets."

Both Hunt and the SBI declined to say what kind of information he gave to the agency, but an SBI spokesman did say Robeson County has been the focus of a drug investigation for the past two years.

At a news conference Tuesday, a coalition of community groups denounced Monday's violence but expressed sympathy for the abuses they said led to the newspaper siege, including the 1986 shooting death of Lumbee Indian Jimmy Earl Cummings by Stone's son, deputy sheriff Kevin Stone.

Cummings was stopped for a traffic violation Nov. 1, 1986, and was shot when he fled after a bucket of marijuana was found in his car, authorities said. Civil rights leaders said the shooting was racially motivated, but a coroner's jury cleared the deputy of wrongdoing.

A march last year to protest that shooting and the unrelated, unsolved death of a black woman drew 1,500 people.

"If you look at those being arrested on drug charges in Robeson County, you'll see it's almost always Indians," said the Rev. Jimmy Hunt, no relation to John Hunt. "I don't think the Indians are the only ones pushing drugs in Robeson County."

Robeson County is 41 percent white, 33 percent Indian and 26 percent black. The county is North Carolina's poorest, its 103,000 citizens have an illiteracy rate of 33 percent and its power

Senate Confirms Kennedy To Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate overwhelmingly voted to confirm Anthony Kennedy as the nation's 104th member of the Supreme Court today ending a seven-month battle to seat a new justice that saw two of President Reagan's choices go down to defeat.

Earlier Story, 5A

Kennedy, whose nomination was handled with speed after the bitter, protracted fight over the president's first choice, Robert Bork, need only take the oath of office to join the high court in time for its February session.

During a hourlong debate preceding the vote, Kennedy received almost universal praise, although some Democrats expressed concerns about his sensitivity to women's and minority rights.

"The Supreme Court rejected restrictive positions taken by Judge Kennedy in three civil rights cases," said Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. "And his past membership in three structure is almost exclusively white. Sheriff Stone said he is offended at characterizations of the county as racially divided. "Racism exists in any county where you have more than one race," he said.

discriminatory clubs raises questions about his sensitivity to the subtle forms that discrimination can take in contemporary America.

Nevertheless, Kennedy said the appellate judge was well qualified to be a justice. "After two false starts, the president heeded the advice of the Senate and nominated a distinguished judge with mainstream views," he said.

Senator Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., called Kennedy "a man of intellect, openness and fairness." His remarks were echoed by Sen. Howell Heflin, D-Ala., who said, "In Judge Kennedy, I believe the president has found a true conservative."

Kennedy, 51, a conservative judge who has served since 1975 on the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Sacramento, Calif., won unanimous endorsement from the Senate Judiciary Committee last week after an easy, three-day confirmation hearing before Congress's December holiday break.

Pros And Cons Of Home Birth

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT: Would you comment on home births?
DEAR READER: This deceptively simple question is actually quite complex.

To begin with, home births are appropriate for most normal women. Mothers have given birth for eons in a variety of circumstances, with little or no help. In many societies, home birth is still the rule; in ours, for a number of reasons, hospital birthing is the norm. However, more modern women seem to be interested in home birthing.

Under the usual circumstances, with proper training and medical supervision, they can deliver perfectly normal infants. In fact, some obstetricians are providing home-birth services.

Having said this, I must warn prospective parents of the risks. Despite routine and capable prenatal care, things can go terribly wrong during the birthing process. The woman may hemorrhage. The baby may develop circulatory difficulty during labor. Complications may occur during labor, necessitating Caesarian section. The infant may need breathing assistance after birth. In short, unexpected complications may occur, and occur suddenly. At home, under these circumstances, the lives of both the baby and the mother may be at risk.

The advantage of giving birth in hospital is that complications can be detected early, treated and monitored. Therefore, hospital birthing is safer for mother and baby. For the most part, women deliver babies without mishap in hospital. However, it is reassuring to know that if an unexpected situation arises, trained personnel and modern equipment are available for emergency care. This care can mean the difference between a healthy newborn and a tragic loss.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Now that I've had 10 months of tests and excruciating pain, the doctors say I have a pinched nerve due to a slipped disc. I've been told, "Don't worry, the nerve will grow back in three years and everything will be fine." I'm taking Elavil and developing side effects. This pain is unbearable.

and so is the idea of having to live with it for three years.

DEAR READER: In my experience, pinched nerves due to ruptured discs do not "grow back." Occasionally, "slipped" discs can, with time, return to their normal configuration; this simply removes painful pressure from the nerve. However, if the pain you are experiencing is unbearable, you may develop further injury, including numbness and weakness. With continuing pressure on a spinal nerve, disability can result.

I hope your doctor wasn't the person who told you not to worry. This is irresponsible advice. Furthermore, Elavil (an anti-depressant) will have no effect whatsoever on nerves that are being mechanically pinched.

I urge you to see a neurosurgeon. You need further testing, and although medical treatment may help you, surgery to remove or repair the diseased disc may be your most promising therapy.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
"Avoidance" is the term used to describe a play made to prevent the wrong opponent from gaining the lead when he can wreak damage upon declarer. At last November's North American Championships, those declarers with the foresight to find the aggressive avoidance play were rewarded beyond expectation. Place yourself in the South seat and cover the defenders' hands with your thumbs. You have reached three no-trump and received a low spade lead. East has played the eight and you have won the trick with the queen. What now? As always, when the contract seems good, you ask yourself what can go wrong, and there is a quick answer. If you attack clubs by playing the ace right away, it may turn out that East began with K-J-x in that suit. If so, you would go set. This time, the unsafe approach of leading the ace won't be too costly. Because the jack is singleton in the West hand, you will make 10 tricks for your contract. But going to dummy's king of hearts and leading the club queen won all the marbles. That play netted the unusual dividend of pinning West's club jack and brought in the whole suit without losing a trick. Declarer now had time to give up a heart and make 12 tricks for a great score on the deal.

Cook Of The Week

Nurse Dishes Up What The Doc Orders

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

An apple a day won't keep the doctor away from her door, especially when she's cooking his favorite dishes. Doris Fraser, our Cook of the Week, is a young homemaker whose days are filled with mothering her three youngsters, decorating a brand new home, and planning her menus around her family's needs with good nutrition and good taste always in mind. In fact, she also enjoys sharing one of her specialties, oatmeal raisin cookies, with the staff at her husband's busy office, much to their delight.

The wife of Dr. E. Kenneth Fraser of Sanford, our cook admits that when she was a new bride, "our first dinner was a burnt frozen pizza! I didn't even know how to boil a hot dog," she laughs. "I had to call my mother to ask her how to boil the water for a hot dog. I just didn't know how to cook! But now I love to cook. When I worked I really didn't have time, so I just kind of made easy things, but when Jason came along and I didn't work anymore, that's when I went to the cook books and started making things. Now I'll try anything. If I don't like it the first time I'll try to change it to the way I like it." Our cook has come a long way since her early days of trial and error and confides that some day she would love to operate a small restaurant or catering service.

A native of Sharon Hill Pa., Mrs. Fraser has a brother and two sisters. She recalls getting together with her sisters in her mother's kitchen to bake cookies. "That's probably the extent of my cooking experience," she says. "We were all about two years apart in age, so we got along real well. Both of my sisters are very good cooks. The thing I remember most was spending our summers in Ocean City, New Jersey. We always had a good time there, going to the beach and the boardwalk."

After high school Mrs. Fraser attended nursing school where she received her L.P.N. degree. Her husband, whom she started dating in the 11th grade, was in college studying pre-med. "While he was in medical school," she says, "I went back to school to get my R.N. degree." Before the children came along, our cook says, she and her husband had the opportunity to do some traveling. "We went to England, the Virgin Islands and Bermuda," she says, "and did fun things." Remembering the delicious foods they tasted while traveling, Mrs. Fraser gives special mention to the fantastic meals served in Bermuda. "It was great," she says. "We had seven-course dinners and the desserts, I noticed, were especially good. One thing my husband still talks about is a dessert called Edna Mae. It was vanilla ice cream with dark Bing cherries on it and served with a Mellba sauce." She adds that she hasn't tried to duplicate the recipe yet, but is working on it.

The Frasers have been a part of the community since 1984 and after working for three years with the Public Health Service at the Central Florida Community Clinic at Park Avenue and 29th Street, Dr. Fraser became an associate of Dr. James E. Quinn in the practice of family medicine. He liked everything in the field of medicine, says Mrs. Fraser, so he chose family practice. That way he gets to care for people of all ages.

Taking some time off from her own profession while her children are young, Mrs. Fraser focuses her energy on sharpening her cooking talents and creating a comfortable home for her family. While Jason, 5, and Laurita, 3, are in pre-school classes, she and 8-month-old Ryan browse the shops for decorating ideas for their two-story Colonial home in Lake Mary. She enjoys adding home-made touches to her home and her beautifully designed wreaths are tastefully added to the decor. She is also handy with a paint brush and her pretty artwork is another plus in tasteful decorating. "I like any kind of woodcraft," she says, "and I also like to quilt. I like to read non-fiction, too, but I don't have too much time for that anymore."

At the present time, Mrs. Fraser is enjoying a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bird, who decided to trade the cold Pennsylvania winter for some precious time with their beautiful grand children in the more tolerable Florida climate. It also gives our cook a chance to make some family favorites that she says her dad enjoys.

The Frasers like inviting friends over to visit and play Pictionary and Trivial Pursuit, two very timely brain teasers. For those gatherings, she often serves her Mexican Pizza, which is a big hit with guests, according to our cook. "Everybody likes that," she says. "I like to serve little hors d'oeuvres, things like crab dip and crackers and guacamole."

Occasionally, when Mrs. Fraser invites one or two couples for a small dinner party, she will go all out to prepare a special menu. "I've written to Hour Magazine, the television show," she says, "for their recipes, and I have a whole collection of recipes from appetizers to desserts. They had a contest and everybody sent in their favorite recipes, and I wrote in for all the winners. I figured they must be

Grazing

Lively Hot Sauces Perfect Complements For Chicken Nibbles, Dipsters, Veggies

Grazing, one of the "smart" eating trends, permits the diner to eat several appetizers instead of one heavy entrée. This form of dinner service is popular at restaurants and quickly adapts to home entertaining.

Convenience foods such as frozen chicken nibbles and dipsters make it easy for the busy hostess to prepare food for grazers. These plump, juicy chicken sections and a variety of fresh vegetables need only the addition of hot or cold dipping sauces to make a delicious grazing assortment.

These lively hot sauces are perfect complements for the chicken nibbles and dipsters and an assortment of broccoli or cauliflower florettes. Simple ingredients in unusual combinations are the secret of these special dipping sauces. If some guests like a milder flavor cut back on the "hot" ingredients such as horseradish and mustards.

Double Mustard Dip combines dry mustard with a Dijon style mustard in a buttermilk base. The sliced green onions provide a little crunch. This sauce with just a few ingredients is so easy and flavorful you will find yourself serving it again and again.

For Horseradish Dipping Sauce spike a cup of sour cream with a full tablespoon of horseradish. Add a little lemon juice and crisp-chopped radishes and sliced green onions. This will give you a creamy dip with a fiery flavor.

Hot Cran Raspberry Dip has a sweet tart red berry base that becomes sharper as orange peel and mustard are slowly stirred in and heated. This dark red tangy dip should be served hot.

All three sauces take very little time to make, so keep them in mind for occasions when you need an almost instant entertainment plan.

DOUBLE MUSTARD DIP

1 cup buttermilk
1 cup Dijon style mustard
2 teaspoons ground mustard
Diagonally sliced green onions

In small bowl combine buttermilk and mustards. Stir until well blended. Garnish with green onions. Makes about 1 1/2 cups. Serve with frozen fried chicken nibbles or chicken dipsters.

I like to make different things when I have company. I like to make things that they don't usually have. Sometimes I try the recipes first. If the ingredients look like things that everybody will like, then I don't. But, if I'm not sure, I'll try it first. Then sometimes I'll adapt it. I'll add things or delete things."

One of her husband's favorites is her zucchini muffins, says Mrs. Fraser. "I make four dozen of them and freeze them," she says. "Then I just thaw them for dinner. He loves zucchini muffins. And sometimes, for lunch, he'll have a big glass of milk and some oatmeal cookies. I'm a chocoholic, but he doesn't care for my chocolate things. He really does like my spaghetti and meatballs, though. When we first got married, I just opened a jar of Ragu, but gradually over the years I made my own sauce and it gets better and better."

Mrs. Fraser is quick to admit that her husband "hates" her bread. "I finally made it one time and it was good, but it was like lead," she said, laughing, "and he said, 'Don't make any more bread,' but I keep experimenting." She adds that she has had good results with her recipe for 60-Minute Cheese Fondue Boat, and THAT her husband liked!

Our cook also puts her microwave oven to work in an innovative way. "When I get a recipe that I really like," she says, "I try to adapt it to the microwave. And I look in my microwave cookbooks a lot and if anything looks interesting, I try it. I don't care for meats in the microwave, though. There's a sour cream coffee cake that I make that comes out real good. In fact, I substituted yogurt for the sour cream and it came out just as good."

Creative cooks seem to run in Mrs. Fraser's family. "My older sister, Mary Wilson of New Jersey, won a Campbell's contest," she said. "She submitted an original recipe using their soup, and she won third prize, a $1,000 shopping spree! She likes to experiment like I do."

"I like to have friends over for lunch a lot," she continues. "While Ken was serving his residency in Allentown, Pennsylvania, four other friends and I would get together once a week and take turns having a luncheon. We made a lot of new things just to try them out. Recently, I made an ice cream cake for one friend and she told me I should submit the recipe somewhere, she thought it was so good. I used all her favorites for the ingredients. She likes peanut butter and Oreo cookies, so I put crushed Oreo cookies on the bottom, then I put a layer of peanut butter on top of that, then Hershey's syrup. Then I topped it with homemade chocolate ice cream, covered it all with Cool Whip and crushed nuts all around the outside. She liked that!"

It's never too early to start teaching the youngsters about the culinary arts, according to Mrs. Fraser, so she likes to make cooking a pleasant family affair. "They help me a lot," she says. "They get out the measuring cups, they get the brown sugar, and they put all the muffin cups in the muffin tin for me, and they mix things for me when I put the mixer on. They love to help."

No help is needed to decide that Mrs. Fraser's recipes, listed below, are all adventures in good taste:
