Geneva Home Entered, Burglarized Wednesday

Teenage Group Activities To Be Similar Next Week

A Geneva home was broken into Wednesday morning while the family was away according to the Seminole County Sheriff's Office.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Fisher was broken into by "jimmying" the front door, it was reported.

Fingerprints have been taken and forwarded to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Chief Deputy James Singletary said this morning.

However, only meager information is available on which to investigate the breaking and entering and the burglarizing of the home.

The house was not ransacked, as is usually the custom of burglars. But, said the Chief Deputy a wrist watch, camera, fountain pen, and a trumpet were taken.

Deputy Sheriff Cotton Brown investigated the reported burglary.

According to the Deputy, the intruder, possibly in his haste to search the entire home and to take away as much loot as possible, left his own wrist watch behind in the house.

Reports of a suspicious looking automobile in the vicinity are being investigated, said Chief Deputy Singletary.

It was also reported that the theft of batteries removed from a county drug line in the south end of the county is being investigated by the Sheriff's office.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower reported making his last progress yet at the end of week's hospitalization today handled "quite a bit" of White House business including the signing of 21 documents.

This new activity was announced at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital late this morning.

At the same time, James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said that the president has given no member of his staff any hint regarding his political future—specifically whether he intends to stay in the presidential race despite his new illness.

"I know he has not discussed the (political situation) with his staff," Hagerty told a news conference.

Steelworkers Spurn Proposals Made By Big 3 Firms

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Steelworkers today rejected "an entirely inadequate" wage and contract proposals made by the Big Three steel firms.

David J. McDonald, union president, told newsmen:

"No mathematical juggling can obscure the fact that the steelworkers are being offered an increase in take-home pay this year of five cents an hour."

McDonald described the industry offer as "too little, too late and too long."

"The wage offer is too little," McDonald told a news conference. "The fringes are inadequate and become effective too late to have any significance. And the whole contract, instead of being modernized, is to be extended, with its obsolescent features, for too long a period."

This was a reference to a suggestion by the Big Three Firms—U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic—for a five-year contract.

John Benkarik Sr. believes, very deeply, and rightfully so, that his success and all of his happiness—the wonderful family of seven children, five sons and two daughters—stems from that unyielding faith and devotion to God and his church.

There's nothing but sparkle in the eyes of this 64-year-old father for anything but happiness is unheard of in the words emanating from the speech of one who is constantly singing songs of praise.

John Benkarik Sr. came to this country from Czechoslovakia when he was but 12 years old and settled in Charleroi, Pa., where he worked in the glass trade since he was about 18 years of age.

Determined to be successful, he also worked in a glass factory at Charleroi, before later being transferred back to Charleroi where he worked in the heavy plate glass department, finally becoming a foreman in his department.

In October of 1918 he married Miss Katherine Dinda at Tarentum, Pa., where the marriage ceremony was pronounced by a brother-in-law, the late Rev. Joseph Kolarik, who was pastor of the Slovak Lutheran Church in Tarentum. Musically inclined, Mr. Benkarik was organist of this church while he lived there.

John Benkarik Sr., and his wife, made their home in Charleroi until 1924 when they came to Blavia to farm.

Then, they moved to Sanford in 1930 where they have lived since. They have seven children: John Jr., of Sebring; Jerry M. of Sanford; Ward L. Berkly of Jacksonville; Mrs. Billy Southard of Sanford; and Charles Edward of Gainesville.

And, they have 16 grandchildren.

John Benkarik Sr., is a charter member of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, here in Sanford a church whose building is now under construction, and a church which was organized in May, 1923.

He is a member of the Sanford Kiwanis Club, a club whose tenets

Church To Observe 175th Anniversary

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky., (AP)—A church that was established when the Indians still roamed most of Kentucky will celebrate its 175th anniversary next week.

The Severns Valley Baptist Church was organized on June 18, 1759, in a wilderness that posed a constant threat of Indian attacks on the white settlers.

Eighteen persons were listed on the first membership roll, and for 30 years the settlers were too busy keeping their scalps to put up a building.

The first pastor, John Garrard lost his life in an Indian raid. Services continued, however, and the church says its functions have been continuous over the 175-year period.

The church now has a membership of 2,000 and recently moved into a half-million dollar building near the old site.

A special commemoration service will be held every night next week.

Dog Saves Family As Home Burns

TULSA, Okla., (AP)—Howard Peterson Jr. and his family barely escaped from their burning home early yesterday after their dog aroused them by scratching on a door.

In the confusion, Peterson, knocked his 14-year-old son unconscious in order to get him out. The boy, Howard 2nd, got head and hand burns when he tried to get out the flames in a grand piano and save his classical sheet music. His sister, Jan, 13, received similar burns.

Mrs. Peterson and a 4-year-old son escaped through a window.

Peterson said he had to knock his son out when the boy became frantic at seeing the piano burn. He tried to save his music even though his clothing already was afire.

Rainbows Set Car Wash Tomorrow

Sanford Assembly No. 28 Order of Rainbows for Girls will have a "Car Wash" at Brown's Amoco Service Station, South Park Ave., tomorrow.

The funds raised will be used for the various activities planned for the summer season.

SPRAYING STARTS TODAY

MIAMI, (AP)—A seven million dollar aerial spraying assault opens today on the crop destroying Mediterranean fruit fly.

First target of contract spray planes taking off from the Miami Marine Corps Air Station was a 60,000-acre area between Fort Lauderdale and Dania.

It was expected that all today and part of tomorrow would be required to spread the insecticide spray. When the district has been covered, the planes will move on with their destination subject to wind and weather conditions. More districts in southern Florida are slated for the spray treatment.

Father Of Year

Home, Church, wife and family—these are the essentials of a man who, on Father's Day this Sunday, will be radiant with happiness and receiving congratulations from every side as sons and daughters, wife and grandchildren gather about to honor "Dad."

But in the sincerity of this man, who among millions will be honored on this special day of his country, there is an humble glow created by deep faith in God and his church.

John Benkarik Sr. believes, very deeply, and rightfully so, that his success and all of his happiness—the wonderful family of seven children, five sons and two daughters—stems from that unyielding faith and devotion to God and his church.

Juvenile Judge Says Most Cases Seeking Advice, Assistance

2 Girls Attending 4-H Short Course In Tallahassee

A Jacksonville girl will head the state girls' 4-H council during the coming year, according to information received here from the annual short course being held in Tallahassee and attended by Seminole County's two representatives: Mary Ann Tesinaki, a senior at Oviedo High School and Betty Jean Robinson, a senior from Lyman School, who were accompanied by Mrs. George Oltz, State President of the Home Demonstration Council, of Longwood and Miss Myrtle Wilson, Seminole County Home Demonstration agent.

Carel Goodhue was elected yesterday to the presidency, succeeding Sandra Dennison of Orlando.

The council, consisting of two representatives from each of the 67 counties, also elected Phyllis Williamson of Wildwood vice president, Mildred Frieson of Opa recording secretary, Beverly Simmons of St. Augustine corresponding secretary and Barbara Curry of Lake Worth treasurer.

The new officers appointed Phoebe Hodges of Orlando historian and Lillian Gristner of Pensacola parliamentarian.

The council meeting was held in connection with the 41st annual 4-H short course at Florida State University. Five hundred girls, selected by their county home demonstration agents, are attending the short course with their expenses paid by local civic organizations.

A daily feature has been the 11 a. m. milk break when the girls pause for a cold glass of milk supplied free of charge by the university dairy. A milk drinking contest ended in a draw with Annie Lou White and Judith Louise Lively, both of Alachua County High School, each drinking two quarts to share the championship.

Results Said Pleasing

"A child is the recipient of consideration, of guidance, and of correction," Judge Ernest Housholder said yesterday as he related the activities of the Seminole County Juvenile Court. "As your Judge of the Juvenile Court, I do not administer criminal law or enter a judgment of forfeiture (fine) or penal servitude (jail)," he said.

"The child before the judge is not a criminal and is not a defendant," Judge Housholder commented as he explained that "There is no judgement of conviction and no lifelong stigma of a criminal record created."

In discussing the activities of the Juvenile Court for the 19 months beginning on Sept. 1, 1934 and ending on April 30, 1935, the Seminole County Juvenile Judge revealed that he had conducted a total of 340 hearings—the same as a civil or criminal trial in any other court.

In the proceedings of the court, according to Judge Housholder, the witnesses are allowed to give their statements, the child involved is heard and allowed to make a statement if he or she desires, and the parents or interested parties are heard.

In the usual conduct of the Juvenile Court, Housholder said, the parents and the child involved are heard in separate conferences or consultations, and combined with the pre-investigation report the future activities and possibilities are analyzed.

"I consider all of this information and make my decision," Judge Housholder said. "I have full responsibility as there is no jury, no prosecuting attorney, and there have been only three attorneys representing children in my Court."

Other activities of the Juvenile Court, said Judge Housholder, included 458 personal investigations which resulted in straightening out problems without official hearings; 618 office calls involving children covering every known category. However, said Judge Housholder "most are seeking advice, help and assistance in solving a problem."

"Counselor Jones has been engaged in practically all of the activities I have mentioned," said Judge Housholder, "making hundreds of trips into every section of the county."

"There is no accurate way I could list all of the times given to the Court," he said, "but in addition I have had an unnumbered total of telephone calls and out-of-office consultations."

"I have given an unestimated number of hours of time, over and above my duty as Juvenile Judge," he said.

"Believing delinquency can and should be prevented, and eliminate the child appearing before the Court for correction, I have carried on a program of speaking throughout the county and have made 43 talks to various groups using primarily as my theme, 'Love and Understanding' as applied to the child," said Judge Ernest Housholder.

"Throughout all the activities I have found it necessary, during my 19 years, so far, at Juvenile Court, to send only eight boys and four girls to the State Industrial School for training," Housholder said. "All others have been handled on a local level with the child and parents. I am greatly pleased with what we have been able to do but I sure need help," he said.

Aerial Assault On Med Fruit Fly Is Launched Today

MIAMI—The aerial assault on the Mediterranean fruit fly, foe of Florida's fruit and vegetable growers, was launched today.

Three planes, before they were grounded by high winds, sprayed 11,000 acres of Broward County between Dania and Fort Lauderdale.

The insecticide used was Malathion, mixed with yeast to attract the flies.

Officials said the planes will resume the campaign as soon as the winds die down. A 60,000 acre area of infestation in Broward County is the first target.

Eventually, the entire east coast area from Homestead to Palm Beach will be sprayed.

Officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture also reported the flies now have spread into Pinellas County on the Florida west coast. Seminole counties have been invaded by the pest.

An adult fly was trapped at Gulfport and larvae were found at Dunedin. Both these Pinellas County areas will be sprayed.

U. S. May Suffer Major Shortage Of Scientists Within Next Decade

The possibility that a major shortage of scientists and engineers may be experienced by the United States within the next decade has been brought to attention again by the Manufacturing Chemists' association. Chemical industry executives at the group's 84th annual meeting were told that by 1968 the nation may have 475,000 fewer scientists and engineers than it needs.

Diré prophecies of this sort have become so common that there is danger they will not be heeded. The fact is that the warnings must be heeded if the United States is to maintain its position of leadership in the world of technology.

The Manufacturing Chemists' association figures result from an independent study. They are based on estimates of industrial growth and of the number that will receive bachelors' degrees in science and engineering through 1968.

Estimates of this kind are tricky, as the history of economic and social forecasting shows. Even if substantial allowances are made for error, however, the prospective shortage of men trained in these fields seems great. It is great enough so that a leading chemical executive predicted that industrial expansion will "slow down to a

Tell Doctor

Pity the poor collegues! They already are asked to teach more subjects than they can possibly manage, and still the suggestions come. For example, Dr. Carlos I. Reed of Chicago thinks there should be a basic college course on physiology. This, he argues, would enable patients to describe their aches and pains specifically, instead of saying merely, "It hurts down here."

Dr. Reed also thinks sound training in physiology might prompt patients to do more than report only their most recent symptoms. Patients often neglect to mention symptoms of long standing, thus coming to the doctor to make many tests or to have a kind of shotgun treatment with antibiotics. More widespread knowledge of physiology might be a good thing. But there would have to be safeguards against leading patients to think that they can safely diagnose their own ills. Physical symptoms are certainly a field in which a little knowledge can be dangerous. The trick would be to convince students that though they can describe their symptoms, only a physician is competent to deal with them.

LAST STRAW
ST. MARTIN, W. Va. (AP)—Truck driver Nyles Miller stopped at a restaurant to call his wife, complained to the operator that he had a poor connection, and asked her to return his dime.
When the operator said it was a money-order station, Miller pushed the dime from the slot and smashed it on the floor. Later, he told police he had had a rough day and was very tired.

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—High school students who show an interest in the lumber business attended the second annual Junior Logging Congress in Pack Forest, about 40 miles southeast of Tacoma. The event is operated by the College of Forestry of the University of Washington. At the Congress were 130 high school students representing many schools in the state. The limit was seven from a school.

walk, a crawl or stop" unless more young people go into science.

One way of getting more high school students to undertake scientific or technical careers is the Soviet method of simply ordering them to do so. Happily, that method is out of the question in the United States. Our only recourse is to make young people aware of the challenge and advantages of such careers, and to give them the best training of which our system is capable. The time to begin this course of action is now.

Work For Aged

Thanks to the progress made in science and medicine, we have reason to expect to live longer lives than people in the past. Unless we make more progress in the manner in which we deal with older citizens, however, those extra years will be unhappy and lonesome ones for many people.

Recently an official of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare called for work centers where older people can be trained in new skills, or where their old skills can be put to use. At such centers elderly workers could set their own pace, work at tasks they enjoy doing.

Even more important than the fact that they would be earning money would be the sense of satisfaction and usefulness such employment would give them. Their lives would have a purpose. In the words of one older, "It's better to wear out than to rust out."

Centers for older workers are not the sole answer. But they would help. People who have lived rich, productive lives cannot be consigned to a scrap pile when they can no longer keep up the pace. To permit them to be so treated would be bad for all society.

Between Lines

If Marshal Bulganin's new letter to President Eisenhower were to be taken at face value, one might conclude that the Russians have experienced a genuine change of heart and are determined to bring about widespread disarmament and eventual accord between East and West.

That is exactly the conclusion the Soviet leaders would like to have the world reach. It is, however, a dangerously naive conclusion.

Two recent news developments shed light on this new Soviet approach. The most recent of these is a speech delivered by the Russian Communist party boss, Nikita S. Khrushchev, in which he told young Communists that the Soviet Union does not need war, that communism "will vanquish capitalism without war."

The second pertinent news item is the recent full report on another speech Khrushchev gave before the 20th Communist party congress in February. Though that speech was a savage attack on the Stalin myth, it added up, as Dana Adams Schmidt reported in the New York Times, "to an admission that terror remains an integral part of the Communist system."

That system is fundamentally unchanged. There is no reason to suppose that the Soviet leaders have sincerely renounced brutality and force. They apparently have decided that this is a time for economic warfare. For that they need manpower; hence cuts in their armed forces to release men for factory and field. But this does not mean that they have given up on trying to achieve world domination. It only means that they are trying to achieve it, for the time being, by different methods. The Bulganin letter must be considered in that light.

Dulles Says Neutrality 'Immoral'

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Like a tailor who thinks the suit's too big, Secretary of State Dulles walked briskly up to the subject of neutrality and went snip, snip. None of this neutrality stuff for him.

"Immoral," he said. "Shortsighted." But this suit had been made by President Eisenhower. And Vice President Nixon put the pockets on it. Eisenhower had defended the right of nations to be neutral. Nixon said such nations are "our moral equals."

This had caused confusion. Where did it leave those nations which had lined up with the United States? Then Dulles apparently thought he'd straighten it out. Instead of lessening the confusion, he added to it.

On June 8, a few hours before the House started debate on Eisenhower's $4,900,000,000 foreign aid bill, the President walked into his news conference and made a little

Detroiters Say Layoffs To Get Worse

By SAM DAWSON

DETROIT, (AP)—They talk here about layoffs in the auto plants the same way they do about the weather — few kind words for either. And they aren't sure yet which to blame for slow business.

The weather could improve. But Detroiters seem pretty sure today that that effect on trade, on relief rolls, evictions, repossessions, community life in many ways, and especially on other cities where cars or parts are made, will get worse before it gets better.

The city, the state and the industry, however, firmly contend that the trend will be reversed when new model production starts in the fall.

Until now the bad spring weather seemed the better whipping boy. Merchants point out there were six layoffs in May, which dampened sales quite as much as the growing total of the jobs.

Hope that the layoff pay plan will cushion the blow is still to be tested. One of the Big Three auto companies says that the reserve fund it built up — at 5 cents for each hour worked by each employe since last June — will provide jobs pay benefits for a maximum of four weeks.

The United Auto Workers figure that since May 2, the date at which layoffs count in the plan, about 20,000 workers have been furloughed in states in which the supplemental unemployment benefit program is in force. State rulings in Ohio, Indiana and Vir-

Q. Premiums on my World War II GI term insurance policy are being waived because I have been totally disabled for more than six months. While my policy is under waiver, do I have the right to convert it to a permanent plan of insurance?

A. You may convert your GI term policy to any permanent plan other than an endowment. You will not be required to take a physical examination.

Q. My three-year deadline for starting Korean GI training will come in about six months. However, I recently enlisted in the armed forces, and I will be on active duty when that date comes around. Will I be able to start my training after I get out of service?

A. No. Under the law, a veteran must begin Korean GI training within three years from the date of his first discharge. The law has not made any exceptions for veterans in service on their deadline dates.

Q. May a veteran join with a non-veteran in obtaining a GI business loan?

A. Yes, but the amount of the loan on which VA's guaranty is based will be in proportion to the loan constituting the non-veteran's contribution to the enterprise.

Q. What type of farm must a veteran have, in order to qualify for farm training under the Korean GI Bill?

A. The basic activity of the farm must be in the cultivation of the land or the feeding, breeding and management of livestock gins keep SUB from applying directly there.

Since seniority rules apply, and only those who have worked for at least a year come under it, just part of these 20,000 are eligible and they are a small fraction of the 185,000 laid off around the nation, most of them prior to May 2.

Under the labor contract SUB became effective June 1, but it is today that the majority of those eligible are applying for the first time at the auto plant pay windows for their benefits.

The official count of auto layoffs in Detroit itself comes to 60,000, and total unemployment classes it as a distress area in the eyes of the Department of Labor.

Detroiters, however, note that in addition to its proud title of auto capital, the city has enough diversification of industry to offset somewhat the auto slowdown.

Or poultry. Or it may be any other specialized farming commonly followed in the area. It may not be the processing, distribution or sale of agriculture products, such as a dairy processing plant or a grain elevator.

Veterans living in Central Florida who wish further information about their benefits should write the VA office at 48 E. Central Ave., Orlando.

Cadillac

Just Graduated... To a Cadillac!

It's graduation time! And this happy gentleman — appropriately enough — has just gone through some important graduation exercises of his own. It was just a few minutes ago, in fact, that he stood in his dealer's showroom and accepted the keys to his first Cadillac car.

But even though he now holds his final degree, so to speak, in motor car ownership, his education in all the good things of motordom is only beginning.

Take performance, for instance. The car is so smooth and powerful, and so nimble and obedient that it automatically revises a man's standards of automotive performance.

Consider comfort. Rolling along the broadest boulevard or taking the roughest bylane, the car is incredibly smooth and level in ride.

And think about pride and satisfaction. What an extraordinary feeling it is to sit in command of the "car of cars" — and find yourself the subject of admiring glances on every hand.

Have you ever considered how wonderful it would be to "graduate" to Cadillac? If you have, then this is a marvelous time to make the move.

Certainly, it has never been easier to sign your name to the title. We are, happily, in a position to offer you prompt delivery on your favorite model — and we know you will be pleased to learn how practical Cadillac ownership has now become.

Why not stop in while the springtime is still with us — and spend an hour at the wheel? It's a wonderful season and a wonderful car — and a wonderful opportunity to enjoy them both!

Victoria Shaw Traveling Fast

HOLLYWOOD—Less than a year ago, Victoria Shaw met Bob Hope in Australia. Since then she has:

• Come to Hollywood.
• Starred in a movie.
• Acquired a future husband.

Hope, who is sometimes called Rapid Robert, has nothing on Victoria when it comes to traveling fast. She is still reeling from the events of the past year.

"I hope things will simmer down soon," said the lovely Australian, who was preparing to leave for a publicity whirl in New York.

It all started during one of Hope's globe-trotting hours. He called to Sydney for some models to appear in a fashion show he planned to use in his appearance tour Down Under.

Victoria, one of Australia's leading models, was one of those who appeared. She told Hope of her desire to go to America. He remarked casually to look up his agent if she ever did.

She was in Hollywood before he returned.

"My idea was to come here and learn about television, then return to Australia and have my own show," she said. "There is no TV there now, but they plan to start this fall."

She remarked that Australia is no place for a young actress. "There is absolutely no opportunity," she said.

If you are an old hand at baking with yeast, this delicious coconut-and-plum sweet bread will intrigue you. If you have never baked with yeast, don't let it scare you! The basis of the sweet bread is a hot roll mix; follow directions carefully and you are bound to get a lot of satisfaction from having made this risen coffee ring.

If you are having company at a brunch, have a big pitcher of cold tomato or orange juice ready on a tray with glasses, so guests can help themselves as they arrive. Then you might serve shirred eggs with chicken livers, mushrooms and bacon. Have crisp buttered toast to go with the eggs. The coffee ring can be brought on after this main course and eaten with those second—and third—cups of good strong hot coffee.

This is one of our favorite ways to prepare shirred eggs. Grease shirred-egg dishes with butter; or use shallow six-inch individual heat-resistant glass pie plates. Pour a tablespoon of heavy cream into each buttered dish. Now put two eggs in each, without breaking the yolks. Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven 12 to 15 minutes or until as firm as desired. Sprinkle with salt and paprika.

To prepare the chicken-liver accompaniment, cut each liver into quarters. Cook in butter in a skillet with sliced mushrooms, salt and pepper. Top with strips of crisply-cooked bacon and garnish with parsley.

Mrs. M. Raborn Is Hostess For Pilot Club Picnic Meet

Mrs. M. L. Raborn Sr. was hostess for the picnic meeting of the Pilot Club which was held at the Sea Vista Apartments at New Smyrna Beach Wednesday afternoon.

Swimming and fishing were enjoyed during the afternoon after which a picnic supper was served with Mrs. Sue Stevenson presiding.

Mrs. Jessie Winegar was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. D. K. McNab, special funds chairman for the club, told of plans for a "mythical journey around the world" in which each Pilot member in Pilot International was asked to contribute a dollar to be used toward the "Ruby Newhall Scholarship Fund." This fund, set up at the death of Miss Ruby Newhall of Gainesville, Fla., Pilot International president, is used to bring foreign students to the United States to study. At the present time P. I. is sponsoring two students in American colleges.

An invitation was read from the Orlando club to an Inter-City meeting to be held at the Chamber of Commerce Building in Orlando on June 25 at 7 p. m.

Mrs. Walter L. Carter, Milk Bank chairman, reported that one case of dried milk had been given to an indigent family during the past month representing an expenditure of $11.94.

Mrs. Nancy Brock, education chairman, reported that the Pilot Club had participated in the "Herman Moris Appreciation Day" held recently.

Those enjoying the party were: Mrs. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Joel S. Field, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Stone, Mrs. V. C. Messenger, Mrs. Nancy Brock, Mrs. Al Hunt, Mrs. Carter, Mrs. Esther Ridge, Mrs. McNab, Mrs. R. M. Ball, Mrs. Vola Lamberton, Mrs. Earl Faust, Mrs. Ernie Witt, Mrs. Thomas Gallagher, Mrs. Harvey Swanson, Mrs. Winegar, Mrs. Raborn and Miss Elsie Farley.

Hope's agent took her to Columbia, where she was treated, signed and cast opposite Tyrone Power in "The Eddy Duchin Story," playing the pianist's second wife. Previewers are touting her as a real find.

In the course of her drama studies, she met up with another screen hopeful, handsome young Roger Smith. It's love, and they plan to be married soon.

A Doctor in the Family

By ELIZABETH BERRY

CHAPTER THIRTY

A CAR already stood at Margaret's door, an Army car, when Alan pulled up on the drive. He went on into the house. Everything all of them could do would be too little to help Margaret now.

The cozy little sitting room lit Alan like a glow. Margaret had read her telegram. It lay at her feet. Fred Blake sat beside her on the couch, his arm around her shoulders, his voice steady. He glanced up at Alan, then rose.

"Margaret lifted her head and looked at Alan. Her hand outstretched to him.

"I tell her not to lose hope," Fred Blake said. "These armies—they often fail out. And they are trained to survive."

"The Captain," Alan said gruffly, "knows about these things, Margaret."

She drew a deep, shuddering breath. "I know but, oh, Alan—"

"The enemy has him!"

"Shh!" said Fred, his arm around Alan's shoulder.

Fred seemed well able to comfort Margaret. If he could dull the edge of her pain one bit, the family would be glad.

"I'll go to the rest of the family," Alan said.

"The twins..." said Margaret.

"Oh, Alan—how will we tell them?"

"It won't be easy. I—I'll send Linda down, if you like."

"I'll stay with her for a time," said Alan.

"Good. I'll send Linda, and drop in myself again this evening."

Deeply troubled, he went on up the hill. Linda, he found, was not alone. Seretha took the news gladly. "I'll go to Margaret," she said at once.

Alan told that Captain Blake was with her, and being a great help.

"I still think that I should go!"

"Later, perhaps. Oh, Alan—now, let her have her comfort where she can find it. Let her know! She's going to need us all—and all that we can do for her. Right now, Blake can be of the most help."

"Will," said Seretha. "I know I'll want my mother at a time like this!"

"She will want you, dear. Now, I'm going out and tell Dad—"

Seretha's old eyes dimmed with tears. "He'll take it hard."

Alan found him out on the sun-washed porch, schooling a nervous horse. A glance at his son's face was enough for Jasper.

"What's happened?"

Alan told him, quickly, quietly. Jasper crumpled his gloved hands together. "Nowhere in the Bible," he cried in anguish, "does it tell us why the fit are taken, and the weak left—"

"I know, I know. He may still be alive. Just now, that uncertainty but adds to our anguish. What about Margaret?"

"She's your daughter. She'll take what she has to take."

They talked a long while, then Jasper walked with Alan back to the house. "Later we'll walk down the hill," he decided.

Alan had told him that Fred was with Margaret, and that he hoped to find Linda to cushion the blow for the twins when they should get out of school.

"She was going some place," Jasper told him. "Come past in her car and said something easy to me—but I've no idea where she was heading."

Alan glanced at his wrist watch. It was after three, and he no longer seemed able to locate Linda. His dark eyes drew together. "I'll try to locate her by phone, thought Alan, driving toward the hospital. Preoccupied with his thinking, and deeply disturbed about Alan, Alan went into the hospital, to his office, still wearing the ill-fitting coat, with the dark rubber apron still hugging the knees of his duck pants.

Linda, meanwhile, had been having what she called a free afternoon. She had no fixed call upon her time.

About noon, a boy had delivered a dozen pale-pink roses in a long box. As she stood trying to decide what to do with them, Seretha came into the hall.

"Did Colonel Chaney send them?"

Linda shook her head. "No, Dr. Ernst. It's his way of saying thank-you for the dinner he had with us a day or so ago."

Seretha froze, and Linda flushed. So much had intervened, that she'd forgotten about Rupert's kissing her on that same evening, had forgotten that her mother-in-law, in some way, knew that he had. She gathered up the box. "I'm going to take them to Aunt Flora and Uncle Arthur," she decided.

"They're really beautiful."

She went upstairs, knowing that Seretha watched her. Linda would have to talk things out with Rupert, explain that European manners could be very much misunderstood in rural America.

The small incident made her decide that at about eight o'clock of the afternoon, she had kept up her interest in Manning Fowler, and she would go to see the family in the new home they'd found. Ah, yesterday, had told Linda that Manning was out of school with the chicken pox—and that they'd moved.

So after lunch she packed a basket with fruit and vegetables, and a slab of fresh spare ribs, and her car brought to the back steps. She drove past the paddock where Jasper was training a new jumper. She watched them for a minute, then drove on contentedly. She stopped at the Welfare Office to ask where the Powers were.

Miss Owens directed her, and Linda went on to Woolworth's, where she bought a couple of toys, and some bright picture books. She must drive back a way, turn into a side street, out along it to the edge of town, to a gravel road. The little left and frame house sat back within a shade and rider fence. There were some fruit trees; a pig snuffled in a pen, chickens scratched about in the dooryard; a dog barked at Linda as she came through the gate. Mrs. Fowler came inquiringly to the door and sent a couple of the bigger children to help Miss Thornton carry things.

"They made me keep all the kids out of school," said the mother, leading her into the main room of the little house. A big bed stood on one corner, with a "truckle bed" pushed under it. A fire burned upon the hearth. Mrs. Fowler's room stood at right angles to it. Manning was in the lead-to bedroom, and Linda went in to talk to him. He wasn't rightly sick, explained his mother, just feeling puny.

"Has the doctor seen him?"

"Yes, the Welfare sent him. But, in, till we got in with the Welfare, we didn't know a doctor's step in my house."

The children scattered about the place, Manning happy with his books, and Linda went to sit in the rocker before the fire for a visit with Mrs. Fowler, who sat at her loom; she was threading it, and expanding on the matter of home remedies.

"You're very nicely located here," said Linda politely.

"Yes, ma'am, I am. Dr. Thornton said I could use the house, rent free—we got us two acres, and we'll put in a big garden. I got me my loom, and he say, when the kids are big enough to leave, I can work by the hour in the hospital laundry. We're sure fixed nice."

Linda clasped her hands together, and fought down the little chill of despair which had swept over her. She'd been interested in the Powers all winter, and Alan had done all this without telling her! What was the matter with Alan?

Suddenly her cheeks burned like fire. Nothing was the matter with Alan! It was all Linda. For weeks she'd been distant and preoccupied, until the poor man probably didn't know what he dared talk about to her.

She got up and walked over to the big loom. "I'm glad this was saved from the fire," she said to her hostess.

"Yes, I make a little money right along with my rugs and coverlets. I know all the old patterns—in my head, I know 'em. Come, I'll kin dye some wool the right clear blue. I aim to make one for you and the doctor. Ain't nothin' purtier!" She laughed slyly. "I told the doctor come he slept under one of my coverlets, I'd bet he'd make you a passel of kids!" She lifted her eyes to Linda.

"What—" Linda asked faintly, "what did the doctor say to that?"

Mrs. Fowler's laughter rang out heartily. "He said he'd like it fine."

U. S. Open Has Hectic 1st Day

By RUGH FULLERTON JR.

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Golf must be played according to the rules—but rules may be interpreted.

That stand by the U. S. Golf Assn., taken on no fewer than four occasions, resulted in probably the most hectic opening day in the history of the U. S. Open golf championship—a tournament that started out this year with the tag of the "sweetness and light" Open.

Going into today's second 18-hole round at the picturesque Oak Hill Country Club, the question was not so much who is leading the tournament but who is in it?

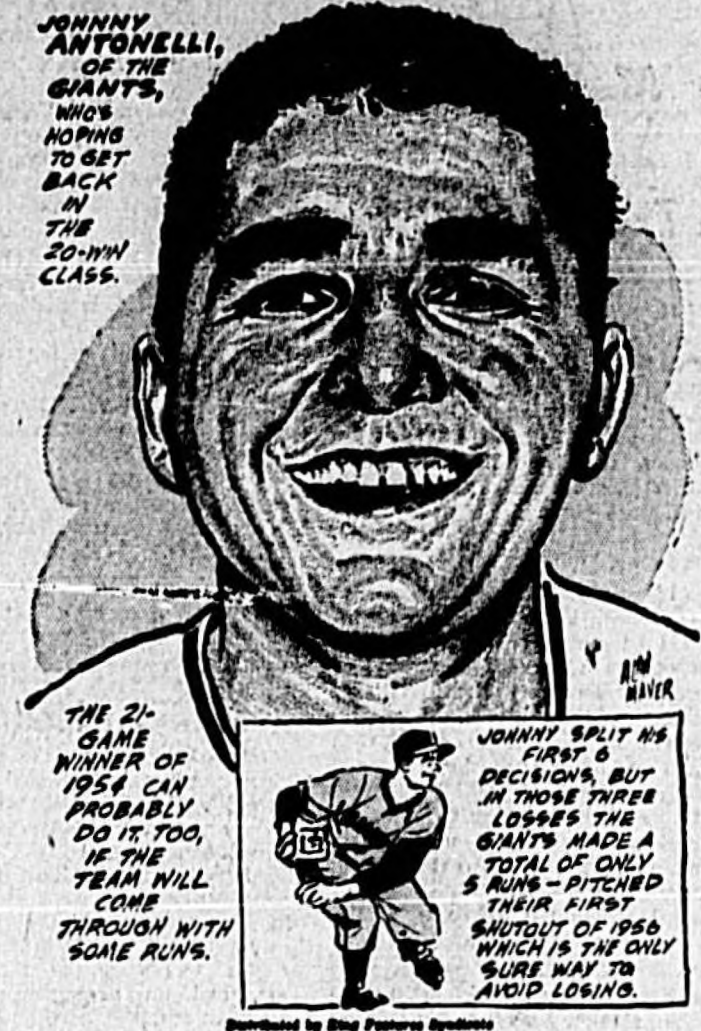

The leader was Bob Rosburg, a round, bespectacled Stanford University graduate who looks about as much like a pro golfer as your maiden aunt. Rosburg, a terrific putter when he's hot, fired an early round of 34-34-66, two under par, and saw it stand up all day as the Rules Committee meetings overshadowed what was happening on the golf course.

Next at seven par 70 came Australia's two-time British Open champion, Peter Thomson. Then there was a whole flock of players with 71's—including three former Open champions, Ed Furgul, Julius Boros and Cary Middlecott.

And everybody who started still was on deck for the second round although three of golf's most prominent players—Henry Cotton, Jackie Burke and Doug Ford—were threatened with disqualification at one time or another. Only the unusually lenient attitude of the USGA officials let them off easily. Burke and Ford drew two-stroke penalties and Cotton none.

ing spectators who thronged the tree-lined Oak Hill course, didn't know about it, but here's what happened:

Cotton, three times British Open champion, was charged with scoring a five for himself on the 17th hole when he actually took a six. After hitting one out of a trap, he was left with a short putt. He reached out to knock it in with the back of his putter and some observers thought he had hit the ball twice. Cotton said it was only once.

He got up and walked over to the big loom. "I'm glad this was saved from the fire," she said to her hostess.

USGA officials, who refused to say who had reported the incident, decided after a lengthy meeting to accept the word of Cotton and his score and there was no penalty. Later it was learned Cotton's playing partners, Middlecott and Jimmy Demaret, had called the stroke.

A few minutes later Burke came in and almost tearfully admitted he had signed an incorrect card, which normally calls for disqualification. He had taken a bogey five on the 18th hole and his marker put down a four. Jackie, tired and uncomfortable in the 90-degree heat, didn't check it.

Later, when he learned a 75 instead of a 76 had been posted for him, Burke made the correction himself. Since he freely admitted the mistake was his, the committee decided to invoke a rule which permits modification of the disqualification penalty—something that never before had been done in the case of a scorecard error.

Master golfer champion Jack Burke has averaged 71.15 strokes per 18 holes for his first 39 rounds in 1956.

Orlando Breaks Losing Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Orlando finally broke out of an eight game losing streak last night but too late to revive the hopes of the defending champs' erstwhile leaders of taking the first half title in the Florida State League.

With only one week before the fall ends, Orlando is 4½ games behind Cocoa and 2½ behind Daytona Beach. The way the Daytona Beach and 2 teams are going, they will decide first place between them.

Cocoa last night whipped St. Petersburg 10-3 and Daytona Beach rode over West Palm Beach 4-0 while Orlando was spanking Palatka 5-1. Gainesville beat Leesburg 6-2 in the other game.

Bill Pleis pitched Orlando back into the victory column, giving Palatka only six hits. He drove in a pair of runs with two singles to help the attack along.

The wildness of St. Petersburg's

Marshall Renfro gave Cocoa an early lead and made it easy for Mike Tagliaferra to pitch his seventh victory. Felipe Alou, the league's leading hitter, got three of Cocoa's 11 hits.

Howie Becraft pitched a five hit shutout for Daytona Beach while Gene Bennett provided the islander's batting punch with a bases loaded double in the fifth. Becraft struck out 10 and walked only three.

For four innings, Gainesville's Dan O'Connell was the best pitcher of the night. After two walks and an error loaded the bases for Leesburg in the first, O'Connell retired 12 batters in a row. He eventually gave up seven hits, three of them in the eighth when Leesburg made both its runs.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Orlando 5, Palatka 1.
Cocoa 10, St. Petersburg 5.
Daytona 4, W. Palm B'ch 0.
Gainesville 6, Leesburg 2.

Darone Waits Week For Revenge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Last night Darone's triple in the 10th inning drove in the deciding runs and made Gebhard a loser for the first time this season as the Pelicans won 6-4.

Biggest winning odds at any Maryland track in 1955 were 107 to 1 when Gallant Tontie scored at Pimlico on May 29, 1954.

In 234 innings in 1955, Brooklyn's Don Newcomb issued only one intentional base on balls.

FHP, Road Dept. Launch Crackdown

A statewide "crackdown" by the Florida Highway Patrol and the Road Department has been launched to eliminate illegal highway advertising and remove produce "hucksters" from state owned right of way, it was announced by Wilbur E. Jones, Road Board chairman.

Jones said that service station operators and other highway business concerns have "encroached on State Road Department right of way with removable advertising signs to a point where they are not only in violation of state laws but are proving a serious menace to traffic."

The same problem, he said, is being created by the produce salesmen who place their products, in some cases, on the highway to attract the attention of motorists.

"In view of the mounting death toll over Florida Highways the Road Department feels it is vital that every step be taken to clear up all traffic hazards," the Road official stated.

He said that Colonel H. N. Kirkman, Highway Patrol director, has agreed to assist in the drive by ordering his men to first warn violators and then, if the warning is ignored, accompany a State Road Department maintenance crew in confiscating the signs.

If the first warning is not heeded, Jones said, the Road Department will send in 15 days a written demand for removal of the sign. If this is ignored, the sign will then be confiscated, he warned.

In the case of produce merchants who encroach on the right of way, arrest will follow the second warning, rather than confiscation of merchandise.

The Road Board chairman said that determination to "clean up our highways and rigidly enforce the law" came from a report by E. V. Fisher, Outdoor Advertising Director for the Road Department, who revealed violations are growing to dangerous proportions.

"Without the help of a law enforcement agency, such as the Highway Patrol, the Road Department can not adequately inspect the thousands of miles of state highway with crews that are vitally needed for building and maintenance work," Jones added.

Be Careful To Preserve Vegetables' Food Value

By NORMAN H. SUNDIN, R. D.

YOU MAY be wasting much of the benefit you could get from your daily quota of green and yellow vegetables. Improper storing and cooking can rob them of a great deal of their food value.

Significant Quantity
Both yellow and green vegetables have a high vitamin A content. If eaten uncooked, they also contribute a significant quantity of vitamin C and small amounts of other vitamins and minerals.

To take advantage of these food values, you've got to know how to handle vegetables in the home. And I'll bet many of you don't.

For one thing, use them as quickly as possible after picking them from your garden or buying them at the store. Make sure they are always stored under moist, cool conditions.

You can keep salad greens fresh and crisp by washing them and wrapping them in a clean cloth and placing them in the refrigerator.

Wash Vegetables
Incidentally, you should wash all vegetables thoroughly before using them, but don't let them soak.

As for cooking, a few simple rules will help preserve the food's vitamins.

As soon as the vegetable begins to boil, turn down the heat. Soups or Stews
Save any juice that may be left. It will come in handy for making soups or sauces.

Here's another tip for adding taste to green vegetables such as cabbage, green beans or squash. Add meat flavor, especially from smoked, salted or corned meats. Just cover the meat with water and simmer until it is almost tender. Then use some of this water—dilute it if it's too salty—for cooking the vegetables. Simmer them gently until tender, but not broken.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
A. J. S.: For the past few months, I have been bothered by spots and snake-like flimsy things floating through my eyes. Can you tell me if this condition can be cured and what causes it?
Answer: Speak before the eyes in a symptom that appears in several diseases. It may be due to conjunctivitis, a defect in the vision, to high blood pressure or glaucoma.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE LATE FRED ALLEN'S Relaxation Society is an ingenious device designed for overworked tycoons who desperately need a rest but can't spare the time for it. The members had only to press a buzzer and the Society sends a substitute to take the rest for him.

"My first experiment," noted Fred, "was to appoint a stand-in for a tycoon who was too busy to go home and see his family. The stand-in buried his head in the newspaper at breakfast and ignored the children so successfully the family never noticed the substitution. When the stand-in left to open his own Relaxation Society in Hollywood (and what a fortune he's making!) the wife collected her husband's insurance and erected a bird bath in his memory. If that husband ever comes out of conference, I bet he's going to be mighty angry!"

Have you heard about the over-enthusiastic band leader? He hired more men than he could shake a stick at.

Spotlight On Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, U.S.—The buying man in Hollywood is a blond, 40-year-old Texan named Jack Wrather.

His specialties are oil wells and gold mines—the latter of the entertainment variety. Among his golden discoveries was that hidden horseman, the Lone Ranger.

Wrather bought the famed westerner and all his assets for three million dollars a year and a half ago. The Lone Ranger's worth is now estimated at six million—and he's still on the right side of the law.

First came oil. Lots and lots of it. Wrather went into his family's oil business after graduating from the University of Texas in 1909, has run it since his father's death during the war.

But Wrather's interest turned to other matters, too. An old school buddy, Don Castle, became a film actor and lured Jack to Hollywood. He produced five modestly budgeted films. Some were successful, some not so.

"I came to Hollywood just at the time the bottom was dropping out of the movie market," he recalled. "Two or three of the pictures made good money, a couple didn't. But they all have turned a profit now, thanks to showings on television."

He produced a TV series, "Boss Lady" with Lynn Bari, but it had only moderate success. He decided that production wasn't for him. (He is thankful for one result, as a film producer, he met Bonita Granville, now his wife.)

He decided to use his capita for "developmental financing." That is, buying up enterprises which have not achieved their money potentialities.

Among his purchases: KOTV, Tulsa, Okla. (later sold at a handsome profit); the thriving radio station WNEH in New York; ditto KFMB radio and TV in San Diego. The Lone Ranger caught his eye because he felt the commercial tie-ups hadn't been properly exploited. They have been increased 100 per cent under his ownership.

Wrather said that he expects to keep on buying, adding a couple of new enterprises to his empire each year.

The world has about a billion working people, says the International Labor Office.

Fire Destroys Home While Family Away

The home of a vacationing Sanford insurance man was completely destroyed by fire Saturday night as firemen and neighbors stood by unable to combat the raging blaze.

Fire in the home of Guy C. Warmack, located on the Old Orlando Highway at Clay Road, was discovered by fire officers attached to the Sanford Naval Air Station and Squadron VII-8.

The officers said that they noticed the flames, jumped out of their car, and brought all of the furniture in the home out on the lawn.

They stated "The fire appeared to have started around the water heater." The officers, who asked that their names be withheld, said that they tried to douse water on the fire with a garden hose, but the water finally stopped.

It was learned, at the scene of the fire, that nearly all of the walls in the area on the Old Orlando Highway, were dry or going dry and that water was being carried from a well still flowing to homes in the area.

Warmack, a representative of the Interstate Insurance Company was in Chattahoochee, Tenn., attending to company business and his family was in Dalton, Ga., for a week's vacation. They were expected to return home yesterday.

The Sanford Fire Department answered the alarm but on their arrival the frame house was fully involved and were helpless to save any part of the home. The truck at the scene of the fire, carried only 250 gallons of water. The two firemen stood by to protect other homes in the area that might have been ignited from flying sparks.

No estimate was placed on the loss of the frame house by fire. However, it is understood that many valuable pieces of furniture and storage were in the attic. All of the furnishings were destroyed with the exception of those brought from the burning building by the Naval Air Station officers.

The fire was reported shortly after 8 o'clock and continued to burn until after 10 Saturday evening.

A neighbor, alerted by the Navy officers, sounded the alarm and notified Sanford Police Department and Fire Department.

The spectacular blaze drew hundreds of people from the Sanford area.

Lions To Install Officers

New officers will be installed tomorrow night at the annual installation and Ladies Night of the Sanford Lions Club to be held at Jim Spencer's Restaurant beginning at 7:30 p. m.

Following dinner, officers for the coming year will be installed by Henry White Jr., of Fort Myers, formerly of Sanford, and formerly District Governor of Lions International, District 33-0.

Guests at the affair will be Governor Earl Ziebarth of Pleasanton and David Lundquist, District Governor-Elect of Orlando.

The new officers for the local Lions include: Dallas Loop, president; Edwin C. Keith, first vice president; C. E. Wild, second vice president; W. O. Livingston, third vice president; W. Hugh Duncan, secretary; Jack K. Morrison, treasurer; H. W. Rawls, tall twister; and Carl E. Williams lion tamer.

Local Garden Club Members To Attend 3-Day Short Course

Five Sanford Garden Club members and one from Goldenrod are expected to attend the General Extension Division of Florida's annual short course for garden clubs to be held on the University of Florida campus starting tomorrow.

Dean B. C. Riley announced today. More than 400 amateur gardeners from every corner of the state are expected to be in Gainesville for the three-day event.

Those already registered from Sanford are: Mrs. G. R. McCall, Mrs. R. W. Kirtley, Mrs. E. F. Housholder, Mrs. F. R. Gans, and Mrs. Irvin Fleischer. Registered from Goldenrod is Mrs. H. C. C. Jala.

The three-day program will be conducted by the Division in cooperation with the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs (FFGC) and the W. P. College of Agriculture Experiment Station. Coordinator is Mrs. Edith McBride Cameron, head of the Extension Division's department of women's activities.

Featured on the 1934 course staff will be Mrs. Heatherly Dutton, nationally known lecturer, horticulturist and authority on flower arrangement. Mrs. Dutton is recognized for the work she has done in blending the oriental and occidental artistic heritage into flower arrangements. She has visited Japan several times, and studied various arrangement techniques including those used in ancient imperial gardens dating back to the sixth century. Mrs. Dutton will conduct two sessions on flower arrangements.

Other features will include lecture demonstrations by leading horticulturists from the University of Florida and Florida State University, Tallahassee, a special evening forum on gardening; and hobby sectional meetings in the African violets, day lilies, roses, geraniums, and hibiscus. General theme for the 1934 program is "Joy in gardening."

James Lebeau, 18-year-old youth was charged with the taking of the flag and flagpole and released under $100 bond.

A 16-year-old juvenile was turned over to Juvenile Court authorities.

A similar incident occurred just prior to the last year's PGA tournament and at least one youth was apprehended.

The greens are being put into shape now for the forthcoming tournament in December.

It was estimated, said Constable Galloway, that the cost of rebuilding one of the greens is in the neighborhood of $2,000.

The automobile was driven over the green last Thursday night and the arrests made Friday.

Herlong: Immediate Change In NAS Operations Not Seen

Speculation Warning Issued

"I regret that some people were disturbed by the recent story suggesting the possibility that the Sanford Naval Air Station might be moved," Congressman A. E. "Syd" Herlong said in a telegram to The Sanford Herald today.

Congressman Herlong noted "The information in the story was correct in that the Navy is giving consideration to utilizing Ocoola Field runways because they are going to use more jets which would require runways and increase the noise and danger."

Explaining the consideration of the Seminole County area at Ocoola, Congressman Herlong said, "There is ample room for expanding runways at Ocoola and the section is relatively undeveloped."

Adding a note of optimism in his telegram to The Sanford Herald today, Congressman Herlong said, "The Navy does not anticipate any change in operations at the Sanford Naval Air Station in the immediate future, by which I mean the next three or four years."

"Of course, no one can guarantee what will happen in the distant future," he said.

Speaking of the additional money that will be spent on the local Navy Base he said, "Appropriations this year for the Sanford Naval Air Station amount to nearly seven million dollars."

In a more detailed explanation Congressman Herlong said, "This indicates a step-up in activity rather than any decrease."

"If Ocoola runways are utilized," commented Congressman Herlong, "it will mean that both fields will be used for at least a few years. What happens after that must be determined by conditions as they develop."

"As I stated," he said, "one of the reasons for moving is to get away from the populated area because of the noise and public danger in connection with any jet field."

As a word of warning, Congressman Herlong said in his telegram, "The people of Seminole County should be on guard against land speculation in the Ocoola area based on the Navy moving out there."

He said, "They want sparsely settled areas for their operations, and any buildup or speculation around Ocoola Field might possibly prevent the Navy from utilizing it."

Frank Thomas, 18, To Enter US Naval Academy June 25

Bobby Lundquist 3rd Place Pee Wee Tournery Winner

Bobby Lundquist, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lundquist of Sanford, came home yesterday with a beautiful trophy following his third place play in the National Pee-Wee Golf Tournament in Orlando.

Bobby was the only entry in the tournament from Sanford and it was his first year to play. He entered in the 8-9 year class in the tournament.

Judy Torrens, 11, yesterday won her fourth consecutive national pee-wee golf tournament title.

Playing in the girls' 13 to 15 age division—because her game is too sharp for her own age group—the St. Louis lass finished with a 93-89-182, thirteen strokes better than runner-up Donna Koser of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. Judy Chase of Sarasota, was third with 207.

Miss Toruenska's previous victories have been in the 10-12 division. The 13-15 division was added to the tournament for the first time this year.

David Boyd, 14, of Jacksonville, took the boys' 13-15 title with 78-78-158 on the par 72 Pine Hills course. Jimmy Allen of Athens, Ga., was next with 155 and Milan Vogt of Columbus, Ga., was third two strokes further back.

Winners in other age groups: 10-12, 18 holes—Bruce Haskell, St. Petersburg, 78; boys: Martha Koser, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, 106, girls.

8-9, nine holes—Johnny Richard, Gainesville, 46; boys: Robert Albers, Tampa, 68, girls.

Series Of Homes Is Chain Reaction Result

DE BARY — Out on Plumosa Drive in De Bary is a series of five homes which may be designated as results of chain reaction. Last fall Mrs. Laura Arrington was on a tour of Florida with three other ladies when they came, saw and were conquered by the easy living and friendliness of beautiful De Bary.

Mrs. Arrington is a woman of action and so she immediately bought a lot on Plumosa and gave instructions for a house to be built, against retirement years for her mother and herself. She was so enthusiastic about this town when she returned to Washington that she kindled the curiosity of her sister, the wife of General H. P. Newton. The Newtons soon took a trip to Florida and were entertained by Col. and Mrs. Gregory Kessenich. Shortly afterward, the Newtons bought a home on Plumosa between the homes of the Kessenich and Mrs. Arrington.

This last week Laura Arrington came on a Southern trip with long time friends, Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Haas of Grayton, Md. Arriving in De Bary the ladies found they were to be feted by Mrs. Newton and Mrs. Kessenich at a coffee and buffet. At the party Mrs. Kessenich announced that this was also in honor of an important book just published, the author being Laura Arrington and the book "A World Survey of Pest Control Production" already acknowledged by Sinclair Weeks, U. S. Secretary of Commerce as "A fine contribution to the knowledge of this subject."

The buffet for 60 ladies was a success; Mrs. Haas was welcomed so enthusiastically by the De Bary group that she assured Laura that she will use her most persuasive powers of inducing her husband to consider De Bary as a retirement site in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Haas are leaving for a trip through Southern Florida and the Keys after which Mrs. Arrington will join them in returning to Washington, where she will buy herself autographing books, closing their home and bringing her mother to De Bary to live permanently with her.

Mr. Johnston has lived in Sanford for six years, coming here from Owensboro, Ky., where he was engaged as a druggist for 40 years until his retirement. O. B. He was a member of the Baptist Church of Fordville, Ky., and a member of the Masonic Lodge of Fordville.

Mr. Johnston graduated from Northwestern University, Chicago. He was born Nov. 2, 1882 in Ohio County, Ky.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna Belle Johnston, Sanford; one daughter, Mrs. Howard McGough, Sanford; and two sisters, Mrs. J. F. Magan and Mrs. Thomas Hulls of Hartford, Ky.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. with the Rev. O. B. Cole, St. Petersburg, officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen cemetery.
