No school tomorrow

SANFORD - Students in Seminole County who attend classes on the traditional calendar have an additional holiday day on Tuesday while teachers work to grade mid year exams.

The students and teachers were out of the classroom today in celebration of Martin Luther King Day.

Classes at year round schools will continue on their regular schedule.

Those students who are enjoying a few days off will be back in class on Wedenesday

Carter memorabilia sought

PLAINS, Ga. - Wanted: anything with Jimmy Carter's name or face on it.

The National Park Service is looking for photographs, letters, newspaper articles, scrapbooks, campaign paraphernalia or similar memorabilia for a museum being set up at the Jimmy Carter National Historic Site.

We are talking about anything pertaining to someone becoming president from a small, southern rural community." said park ranger Lloyd Hoffman.

The museum will be in a restored Plains High School, which the former president and his wife, Rosalynn, both attended.

Best places to find work

NEW YORK - Is the recession really over? The answer depends on where you live.

Southern and Rocky Mountain states show the best prospects for job growth, while the Northeast and California are among the worst. according to a survey by Forbes magazine.

In its Jan. 31 issue. Forbes said the states with the best job outlook were Arizona, Nevada. North Carolina, Oregon, Texas and Utah.

The worst were California, New York, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Hawaii.

Forbes said it compiled the rankings by analyzing relative costs of doing business. including state and local taxes, and energy and labor costs.

One ticket takes jackpot

TALLAHASSEE - Only one ticket was sold matching all six numbers in the latest Florida Lotto game, and that ticket's worth a guaranteed $30 million.

The ticket, sold in Naples, had the numbers 8-20-27-39-46-49, which were drawn Saturday

The rich jackpot, which will be paid out at $1.5 million a year for the next 20 year, developed with a rollover when no one had the six winning numbers for a $10 million pot from the week before.

The Saturday drawing also produced 460 five-of-six winners worth $1,344 each; 21,987 four-of-six tickets worth $68 each, and 392,668 three-of-six tickets worth $5 each.

Lotto jackpots are usually estimated, but in a special promotion that's been running since early December. Florida's Lotto jackpots have been guaranteed.

This week, it's again set at $10 million minimum.

Take-home computer program a success

BY VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Now entering its fifth year, the Chapter I/Migrant Take Home Computer program is enjoying tremendous success.

The program allows second through fifth grade students enrolled in the Chapter I/Migrant classes at schools across the district to bring home their own computer for a brief period of time.

They and their families are given instructions on how to use the computer and the machine can be used as an instructional assistant in the home.

Recently, families from Hamilton, Goldsboro, Pinecrest, Midway and Lake Mary elementary schools and All Soul's Catholic School, met to recieve basic training on the use of the computers and to take the machines home. Each family will have the computer for about six weeks. The program is designed to involve the whole family, not just the student who is enrolled in the program. Organizers hope that it will encourage families to see the educational process as a group effort that includes students,

Everett Vincent Street, 35, of Orlando, was in stable condition today at Lakeland Regional Medical Center with a gunshot wound.

Street had just bought the pistol Saturday at the Central Florida Arms Show at Lakeland Civic Center when he shot himself, Lakeland police said.

After leaving the show. Street went to his car and put a loaded magazine from another of his 9mm Glock's into the new one, according to a police report. As he tried to holster the gun, he fired a round into his right leg above the knee and lodged a builet on top of his shin bone. Street told Lakeland officers he was at fault, and no charges were filed.

Burglary suspect drowns

ORLANDO - A burglary suspect drowned when he tried to clude capture by jumping into a lake, police said.

Police fished the man's body out of Lake Beauty near Orlando Regional Medical Center at mid-morning Saturday. about eight hours after he went in, said police Lt. Frank Fink. The man had not been identified by late Sunday.

"It was burglary," Fink said. "It's a felony, but you can get a bond on this. It's not a lot. The guy could have bonded out. He died for a little thing."

Police responded to a silent alarm at the Children's Eye Clinic early Saturday. After spotting the officers, the man crashed through a window on the north side of the building Officers chased and tackled him, but he broke free and jumped into Lake Beauty. Police called fire-rescue, which responded with divers. As they launched a boat, the man swam to the middle of the lake. About 100 yards from shore, he went under. Police said when found, the man had $3.83 in his pocket - all in pennies.

Thirty-two Haitians rounded up

BOYNTON BEACH - Thirty-two Haitians, including a dozen children, arrived here aboard a small boat that one of the migrants said had left the Bahamas earlier in the day.

The Haitians scattered into a townhouse development after reaching a dock on the Boynton Inlet on Sunday. The boat, estimated to be 22-25 feet long, was powered by a 200-horsepower engine.

"I never saw that many people get off a little boat in my life," an unidentified Waters Edge townhouse resident said.

Police officers quickly rounded up the group, who did not "They're willing to turn themselves in," Lt. Patrick Smith said. "They know if they get on land they get a hearing." One member of the group who spoke English told U.S. Border Patrol agents that he had lived in the Bahamas for four years. He said the group left Freeport in the Bahamas

Florida cities rate high in environmental almanac

Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Though breathing some of the cleanest air among American cities, residents of Florida's five largest metropolitan areas aren't free of pollution threats, environmentalists say.

Regulators hailed the high grades Florida cities earned when the 75 most populous areas were ranked by the 1994 Information Please Environmental Almanac.

'Florida's rankings prove that responsible environmental policies and a healthy business climate are not mutually exclusive," said state Department of Environmental Protection Secretary Virginia Wetherell.

But environmental groups want to make sure easing businesses' and developers' bureaucratic battles won't dilute environmental protection laws that make such rankings possible, said Monte Belote, director of the Florida Consumer Action

One Florida region, the West Palm Beach metropolitan area. cities, placing second behind San Antonio.

West Palm Beach "was kept out of first place only by its virtually total lack of mass transit," the almanac said.

Regions were graded using federal data on air and drinking water quality, past and present toxic emissions, energy use for heating and cooling residences and commercial buildings, and transportation patterns.

Orlando ranked fifth. Jacksonville ninth, Miami 10th, and Tampa 16th on the environmental Index.

"Our high ranking reflect years of responsible management and legislation." Wetherell said "In the past five years we've reduced the amount of toxic waste released by 50 percent, initiated the nation's largest and most active land purchasing program and the first and strongest groundwater pro-

Mother Nature Spares a concented assemble for the fire

Mother Nature spared farmers across Florida when the cropkilling temperatures which had been predicted for this weekend in the central and southern areas of the state never arrived.

"I lost a night of aleep, but that's all I lost," strawberry grower Roy Parke of Plant City said Sunday morning. "It's looking pretty good for tonight, too."

In Tampa, about 20 miles west of Plant City, temperatures remained in the 50s overnight and into this morning.

Elsewhere, the mercury dipped as low as 27 in Milton and 28 at the Jacksonville airport overnight, according to the National Weather Service. But the entire state was well above freezing later this morn-

Circus performs for first time since derailment

By Associated Press

ORLANDO - Though wrenched by their loss, performers in the world's most famous circus said they were glad to get back in the ring for the first show after a train derailment that killed two colleagues.

Trumpets blared, tigers roared and high-wire performers traipsed over tightropes, but veteran Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus ringmaster Jim Ragona said the show was like nothing he'd experienced before.

Like 300 other performers, he had lost two friends. Like many colleagues, he lost all his possessions. In the spotlight Saturday night at the Orlando arena, he represented a circus family grateful for gifts of clothes and other supplies from fans.

"We know no other way to say thank you than to say, 'And now, on with the Greatest Show on Earth!" Ragona told the crowd. The circus resumed with three performances Saturday night and Sunday in Orlando, and scheduled shows for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and 3:30 and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Daytona Beach.

A scheduled 3:30 p.m. Tuesday show in Daytona Beach was canceled because of the difficulty of transporting equipment there by truck, but circus officials said ticketholders could get refunds or tickets to other shows.

Killed in the derailment Thursday were Ceslee Conkling, 28, a circus clown from Fort Worth, Texas, and Ted Svertesky, 39, an elephant trainer from Bridgeport. Conn.

Fourteen others were injured. A funeral was scheduled today at Eagle Mountain Baptist Church in Azle, Texas, for Conkling. A private family service was scheduled for Svertesky, and Baldwin Fairchild Funeral Home in Orlando is in

The wreck didn't hurt any of the 60 animals on the train. But world-renowned animal trainer Gunther Gebel-Williams rushed to Orlando to help care for them.

Svertesky's wife, Patricia Zerbini, trains the tigers. "It's very tough." Gebel-Williams said. "I knew the man for a long time and he was always behind the scenes and it was his first chance to be in the show."

Though reeling from the loss of their colleagues, circus performers said they tragedy."

"It's a relief to perform," dance captain Janis Tardy said. "People are just tired of sitting in their hotel. Ted and Ceslee would have wanted it that way - they were true performers, and this is for them."

"This is going to be an important show for everybody," said 21-year-old Jim Halliday, one of the show's two "Human Cannonballs." "It will be a real healing show."

"Obviously we're concerned about their state of mind because some of the acts are dangerous." said Ringling spokesman Mark Riddeil. "But circus mentality is different. They sincerely believe the show must go

Young children oblivious to the week's events cheered the animals and stuffed their faces with cotton candy in wide-eyed enjoyment. But their parents knew what the show meant.

Need for law governing drug offenses

Florida had a state law. The State Supreme Court has declared it too vague, and ruled it

The law called for longer prison sentences for people convicted of drug offenses committed within 200 feet of public housing facilities, public or private colleges, and universities, and parks.

We believe the majority of citizens agree there is a need for such a law.

Of prime concern, was the determination of what constitutes public housing.

The court said the identity of what is or isn't public housing, was not clearly defined. It said the law was unclear as to whether it included related offices, construction sites and other facilities.

The public housing portion of the law was voted down by a five to two opinion.

On the bright side, the portions of the law dealing with restrictions on drug offenses near colleges, universities and parks was left

The Supreme Court is to make judgments on laws, and is not to instigate them. It therefore, had no alternative but to eliminate that portion of the law which was not clearly defined.

We suggest this law be re-visited in the very near future by persons drawing up the legislation. They perhaps thought the use of the wores "public housing" explained their intention. Now that the court has said it is unclear, we hope they will re-write the measure, and bring it back for another approval by the legislature and subsequent we would also suggest the measure be expanded to include other areas where drug use convictions would carry a stiffer penalty. Perhaps the matter could be extended to all types of areas including apartments, condominiums, and even private residential com-

Some may object. They may believe this is another attempt at the government and the court to take away another freedom.

Let's look at the fact. The use of drugs is illegal. This move is not any different than making murder a crime. If a person violates the law of the land, and is convicted, punishment must be given.

Stiffer penalties must be carried out. If a person is sentenced to 10 or 15 years, the time should be totally served.

This nation is going too far in allowing criminals to get away with what they do. Committing a crime has become something for which there is little punishment. Crime isn't going to go down until we have stronger laws and longer sentences.

We urge our lawmakers not to let this court decision allowing those convicted of drug use near public housing get off too easy. That part of the law must be re-written in such a way that will be acceptable by the court.

Reviewing healthcare

I am writing this letter to express my disdain with President William Jesserson Clinton's healthcare plan for the nation that Hillary Rodham Clinton has implemented. The nation does need a comprehensive healthcare plan, but the way the Clinton administration has gone about healthcare reform is a complete debacle. My gripe with medical plan(s) that Medicare, Medicaid, and some insurance companies will assign their payments to are, they are costly and inefficient. They duplicate procedures and are hard to disenroll from when specialized medical care is needed. Red tape is the name of the game in Clinton's healthcare plan; the administration and Hillary R. Clinton need to review some of the auggestions on healthcare reform given by the people and organizations of the nation to better serve the individual who is in need of healthcare.

P.S. I wrote and sent an essay report on healthcare reform to the White House when Mrs. Clinton was asking for suggestions. It was signed by 18 people in my personal/community health class at Seminole Communty College. If health care is not reviewed the nation will become sick.

and we do exist, though unrecognized by the American Civil Liberties Union — is the forcing of a surgical procedure on a competent woman who doesn't want it. As an ACLU lawyer for the woman in the Chicago case successfully put it in court: "How would the court enforce such an order? She would have to be dragged to the hospital, strapped to the table and put under anesthesia." (All the courts directly dealing with this case have agreed with the ACLU.)

Also, however, the ultimate violation of the integrity of one's body is to do away with it, as was the danger to this fetus if the Caesarean section did not take place. Before the baby was born, I asked a neighborhood pro-life activist in Chicago what she thought of the case. The woman, who has been organizing and leafleting against abortion for more than 20 years, said:

"I'm very, very leery about giving the government the power to order a woman to be operated on without her consent.

Checkbook journalism not new

There was a disapproving story in the Washington Post the other day about the intention of the Russian demagogue, Vladimir Zhirinovsky, to charge reporters for his time. As the Post reported, "Interviews with print reporters will cost $300 for the first five minutes.... The charge for televised interviews will be a lot more."

Tut, tut, what a naughty boy. Imagine a politician on the make trying to copy terrorists. assorted other notorious characters and uncounted victims of one kind or another who have benefited from checkbook journalism.

Perhaps Zhirinovsky's chutzpah is just another sign that Russia has moved into an advanced stage of capitalism. In a world in which baseball players ask for, and receive, payment for their autographs, an overnight sensation like Zhirinovsky is a hot item on the shelves of the mass market. It's nothing but supply and demand, he might argue.

Unfortunately, the Post reporter's selfrighteous huffing that "most Americans and European news organizations" do not pay for interviews is wide of the mark. Many - too many - do. The payment is not always in coin of the realm, but it is a quid pro quo arrangement just the same.

Let me begin by speaking from experience. For a short while after serving as State Department spokesman in the late 1970s, I had that 15 minutes of fame Andy Warhol once predicted for everyone. While it lasted, I was paid (without requesting it) for interviews by both German and Japanese television. One American magazine suggested an "as told to" arrangement, which amounted to the same

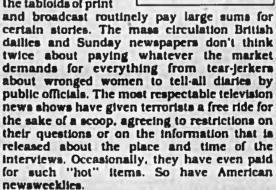

More insidiously, I was able to extract payment of a different sort from two of the most famous TV news stars of our time while I was still the spokesman. Both were anxious to have interviews with my boss. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, during critical moments. Both were willing to trade journalistic scruples for access, agreeing not to ask certain questions if they were given an interview. They stayed bought, never once straying into forbidden territory.

Later, I learned of a different form of tribute that is paid by television. The networks regularly accede to demands from headliners that their least favorite adversaries not be invited on the same program. It even happened to me once, when press lord Rupert Murdoch refused at the last minute to go on the MacNeil/Lehrer NewsHour if something I had done was also shown. He hadn't liked an earlier documentary I had helped produce on his life and times. Sadly enough, MacNeil/Lehrer agreed and I became a nonperson that evening. It can be argued that was a small price to pay for the coup of obtaining the guarded remarks of the AustralianAmerican media king, but payment it was. Murdoch was only aping in a small way what the Reagan and Bush administrations did in a large one. Time after time the Sunday morning shows excluded critics considered objectionsble by administration heavyweights in order to obtain the latest line of mush from those same heavyweights. It is not true that the news business as a whole went into the tank during those years, but the networks' frequent agreement to such conditions made it appear so.

Their capitulation can be called many things, including a free ride, but journalism is not one of them. They paid for those interviews with their integrity, which may be worth less than the $300 Zhirinovsky demands but even today must amount to something. It almost goes without saying that the tabloids of print naughty boy.

Mark these words. If Zhirinovsky remains a major player in Russia and doesn't selfdestruct, more than one Western and even American news organization will find a way to meet his financial demands. Having done so, they will, as they always do, rationalize what they have done in the name of the "public's

"We have compromised nothing of importance," they will say. "We have advanced the story, added to the general store of knowledge and provided a new perspective." Their critics' moral indignation will be dismissed as sour grapes. And, after a brief flurry of self-examination, the rest of the media will go back to pretending that such events are aberrant rather than routine.

Democrats ready for good news

WASHINGTON - As the Clinton administration wallows in Whitewater, there is some political news sure to buoy the White House: Senior Republicans are privately conceding that their dreams of slicing the Clinton presidency in half are all but doomed.

Until recently, Republicans thought they could capture control of the Senate from Democrats during this year's midterm elections. With a Republican majority in the Senate, coupled with a "philosophical majority" in the House, Clinton could have been stopped cold particularly in the area of health care reform.

The GOP's optimism may have been short-lived but it wasn't groundless: Democrate are de-fending 21 Senate scats this year to 13 for Republicans, who hold 44 seats. And since Clinton became president, six major elections across the country for the Senate, city hall and governor have gone

slicing the Clinton presidency in half are all but doomed.

the GOP's way. Yet with the start of a new election year, Republicans are resigned that the Clinton presidency will last four - not two - years. Clinton's rivals give him high marks for co-opting the crime issue - which Republicans once owned exclusive rights to and for seizing the offensive on the health care debate.

"Right now the president, relatively speaking to the first year, is riding high.... I think this is sort of a false popularity right now," one high-level Republican told us. "But in any case, I think as of this moment, if the (midterm) election were held today, we would probably gain a seat or two." This year's midterm elections are more a harbinger than a horse race. A "seat or two" loss would be a victory for Democrats. Republican pols believe that the midterm races will closely mirror Clinton's personal popularity on election day. There is no better illustration than last year's Texas race. Two days before last year's May 1 election. Republicans conducted their final tracking poll. putting Clinton's approval at 49 percent. Kay Bailey Hutchison finished within a few votes of Robert Krueger, triggering a special runoff in June. By that time, Clinton's approval rating had sunk to 28 percent and Hutchison beat Kruger by more than two-to-one to finish the term of former Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

Republicans are dubious they can pull off a repeat later this year - regardless of the outcome of Hutchison's criminal trial on charges of misusing her state office. "The Texas race is going to be determined by 12 jurors," says one Republican strategist assisting Hutchison's re-election bid. "I believe Kay is going to be airight, but when you get into court anything can happen. I don't buy into the notion that just because you are found not guilty everything is great."

Besides Texas, there are several other races the GOP is keeping a close watch on in 1994: Sen. Slade Gorton, R-Wash., is another embattled incumbent who Republicans fear may fall, despite one of the biggest war chests in the country. Gorton is one of the state's most divisive politicians, who has high negatives and a reputation for being extremely partisan his entire career. Clinton Divers recovered the bodies of Steven Gathers Sr., 35, and Steven Gathers Jr. 13, 2782 Masters Cove Boulevard, from Lake Reservoir about 7 p.m., nearly four hours after rescuers were called to the scene.

Two boys from nearby Country Lake Apartments saw the pair in the water. The victims were fishing from a 12-foot johnboat, sitting on plastic, stackable patio-type chairs, according to Sanford Police Commander Dennis Whitmire.

"The father was a nonswimmer while his son could swim some," he added. Neither victim was wearing a life preserver. One small life-vest was recovered from the boat. "It is my understanding."

Whitmire said, "that these two boys saw them in the water struggling and at first thought they were playing. Then realized they weren't playing."

One of the boys called to his father that two people were struggling in the lake. The man's wife called 911 at 3:11 p.m. while he went outside with binoculars. However, the victims had disappeared under the water when he focused on the boat.

Dive teams from the city and county fire departments and city police department conducted the search of the lake. In addition, Chase 1, the Orange County Sheriff's helicopter, made a pass over the lake in an effort to locate the victims. Whitmire said.

"There was a pretty strong wind blowing yesterday," Whitmire said. "After they fell out (of the boat) one of the things that hampered the rescue operation is when you are standing on land trying to tell somebody where somebody fell in the water and the boat is no longer there, it tough to judge the distance because the wind blew the boat all the way to the south side (of the lake).

Around 7 p.m. when rescuers were about to call off the search due to darkness, the bodies were recovered in about 6 to 6 1/2 feet

Severe quake rattles Southern California

Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES - A severe earthquake centered in the San Fernando Valley Joited Southern California early today and was felt from San Diego to Las Vegas. There were no immediate reports of injuries or serious damage.

The 4:31 a.m. quake's magnitude measured a preliminary 6.6 on the Richter scale, said Kate Hutton, a seismologist at the California Institute of Technology in Pasedena.

She said it was centered northwest of Los Angeles in the northern San Fernando Valley, the same area where a 6.4 quake in 1971 killed at least 58 people.

The Alaska Tsunami Warning Center in Palmer, Alaska, measured the quake's magnitude at 6.7. The U.S. Geological Survey in Menlo Park sald 6.5

The quake was felt for 30 seconds or more, and several aftershocks followed within minutes: Dishes fell off shelves, some buildings were damaged and there were widespread phone and power outages. The quake was strong enough to send a television slamming to the floor in a damage was visible in older buildings. But the full extent of damage was uncertain before dawn.

A section of the Santa Monica Freeway was closed because of buckling, ABC News reported. The sound of burglar alarms, car alarms and emergency sirens blended into a constant wall-The quake was felt in Santa Barbara and Bakersfield to the north and San Diego to the south and as far as Las Vegas.

A photographer in a Long Beach apartment building, Dennis Kinsckla, said: "This thing just swayed and creaked. I thought it was going to

"It was a pretty good rocker here," said a Long Beach resident 20 miles to the south.

"I had some glass break, some things fall off shelves. It rocked the water out of the pool," said the resident, who was cut off in phone troubles after the quake.

Today's earthquake followed a swarm of about 12 quakes near Santa Monica, the strongest of which was 3.7. But Hutton said they don't know whether those quakes were linked to today's.

An Arctic blast that swept across the eastern United States brought record lows and deadly. freezing winds, turning roads into treacherous sheets of ice for motorists who were able to start their cars. The deep freeze, with wind chills of more than 100 below zero, snapped power lines and water mains and caused at least six deaths.

This is bitter cold. It's terrible. It's pathetic," said Herb Craig of Dade City, Fla., stalled near Chicago when the brakes froze on his 18-wheeler.

The National Weather Service said ice and snow that hit the Plains this weekend would spread throughout the East today, with lieavy snows in mountainous areas and gales along the coast.

Clinton says Yeltsin will 'try to hang in there'

By TERENCE HUNT AP White House Correspondent

WASHINGTON - Claiming unqualified success on his European trip, President Clinton predicts Boris Yeltsin will "try to hang in there" with Russia's economic reforms. And he says his lengthy meeting with Syria's president produced notable progress toward a Middle East peace.

Speaking with reporters Sunday as Air Force One streaked home from Geneva, Clinton disputed the notion that the resignation of Yegor Gaidar, the architect of President Yeltsin's economic reforms, will shake international con-Adence in Russia's transformation.

"Galdar left the government once before and the reforms didn't stop," the president said. He said Yeltsin had told him privately last week in Moscow that Galdar was leaving.

On another foreign policy front, Clinton said Syrian President Hafez Assad has truly concluded that peace in the Middle East is best for his people and his own legacy.

"He's very tough and very smart," Clinton said of Assad, leader of a nation branded by the U.S. government as a supporter of international terrorism. The two men met for more than five hours in Geneva on Sunday, and the Syrian president emerged to say he was willing to offer Israel "normal, peaceful relations" in exchange

Relaxing on a couch aboard the presidential jetliner in Jeans and a sweatshirt, Clinton was tired but upbeat after the arduous eight-day, six-nation journey. He sipped coffee from a foam cup and wolfed down the last bites of a cheesecake as he reflected on his travels.

"Looking back over the trip," Clinton said of his first European Journey as president, "I can say without any hesitation that it met all of our objectives - everything that we hoped would happen did."

Clinton said his meeting in Geneva with Assad was "clearly the biggest step forward" - and maybe even bigger - since the White House handshake Sept. 13 between Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasser Arafat and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

'Today was the first time he (Assad) had ever explicitly said he wanted an end to the hostilities with lorael — willing to make peace with Israel as opposed to saying something like, 'peace in the Middle East." the president said.

He said the statement was "very significant" and "sends a very clear signal" to Israel about Damascus' Intentions.

Clinton called Rabin and Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak from Air Force One to report on the talks. "Everybody seemed to be pretty positive about it," he said. He also tried to call Saudi King Fahd but didn't get through.

In addition, he dispatched senior aides to Israel to brief leaders there about the talks.

The president also said he and Assad had discussed the question of whether there might need to be peacekeeping troops sent to the Golan-Heights, land that Israel won during the 1967 war and that Assad wants returned.

On the question of U.S. troops, he said: "Obviously, if both sides made an agreement and both sides wanted us, we would have to give it serious consideration. That's something we'd have to talk to the Congress about."

Clinton's travels took him from a NATO summit in Brussels to a meeting in Prague with Eastern European leaders, where he outlined a Partnership for Peace program that would bind their countries closer to NATO without extending full membership.

There was a stop in Ukraine to scal an agreement on disarmament and then the summit in Moscow. From there, Clinton went to Belarus to thank the government for agreeing to abandon its nuclear weapons. His meeting with Assad completed the trip.

On Moscow's economic reforms, Clinton said Russia is running ahead of other former communist countries in terms of turning government Industries into private enterprises.

Acknowledging political opposition to Yelisin's reforms, Clinton said, "I think he'll hang in there.

FSU football makes changes

TALLAHASSEE - Florida State quarterbacks coach Mark Richt was named offensive coordinator while recruiting coordinator Ronnie Cottrell will fill one of two coaching vacancies.

Richt has coached the Florida State quarterbacks since 1990 and previously served as a volunteer assistant coach and a graduate assistant coach for the Seminoles. He replaces Brad Scott, the Seminoles' offensive coordinator and offensive line coach for the last three years. who became head coach at South Carolina.

Cottrell came to FSU in 1989 as a graduate assistant coach and has been the Seminoles full-time recruiting coordinator since 1990.

The other vacancy, caused by the departure of Wally Burnham, will be filled Jan. 28. Burnham, inside linebackers coach, left to join Scott as South Carolina's defensive coordinator.

TUSCALOOSA - Merlakia Jones scored 26 points to lead Florida over No. 10 Alabama. 80-75, in a Southeastern Conference contest.

Florida (10-3 overall, 1-2 SEC) held a 44-38 halftime lead. But Alabama (11-3, 1-2) tied the game 64-64 on a Niesa Johnson driving layup. Lady Gators DeLisha Milton and Takilya Davis both scored 17 points.

NC State ruins Ward's debut

RALEIGH, N.C. - Charlie Ward resumed his winter job as Florida State's point guard Sunday, but North Carolina State made it a dismal debut, taking a 78-70 victory.

Ward delivered a national football championship to the Seminoles on New Year's Day, and it seemed he had hardly missed a step when he started against the Wolfpack. He hit an NBA-range 3-pointer and handed out a pair of assists, but he got little help early in the game.

Ward finished with five points and six assists. Bob Sura had 23 for FSU [7-5, 0-4 Atlantic Coast Conference), which lost its fourth straight.

Lyman-Orange Park clash only a potential preview

From Staff Reports

LONGWOOD - How important was Saturday night's girls' soccer showdown between Orange Park (the No. 1-ranked Class 5A team in Florida) and Lyman (the No. 2ranked Class 5A team in the state?

According to Lyman coach Gary Barnett, not very

"Going into the game, girls really wanted to win the game, but they also realized that the biggest meeting will be if we both get to the sectional game in two weeks," said Barnett, noting that the Greyhounds would have to get through next week's district tournament and win the regional championship to set up a rubber game with Orange Park.

"This was not a do-or-die game. And I think that's the way both teams approached it. Basically, we wanted to get out of that game without suffering any injuries. Neither team wanted to lose anyone going into the district tournaments next week

And while Lyman did win 3-1, avenging its only loss of the season. the victory was robbed of some of its luster by the fact that Orange Park [19-2] was missing five starters for various reasons.

Ironically, when the Greyhounds lost at Orange Park back in November, they were without offensive leaders Danielle Garrett and Danya

'As a result, neither game was a true indication of what we can expect from each other," said Barnett. "Maybe we'll have a chance to see in two weeks."

Lisa Solara, Sara Rane, and Harris each contributed a goal for Lyman. Garrett assisted on Kane's goal while Kane had the assist on Harris' goal. Nicole Rossi scored for Orange.

The junior varsity game ended in a 1-1 tic.

It also means a welcome move from the board room to the playing field, from debates to double plays, from administrators and legislators battling for headlines to athletes and coaches playing ball.

For Seminole County softball players and coaches who, like it or not, had their destiny legislated for them when a gender equity bill was signed into law last summer, that task begins today.

I have little doubt that Seminole County athletes will be equal to the challenge. Given their collective impressive record of being extraordinarily competitive on the state level in other sports, local girls should be able to make the transition to fastpitch and achieve similar levels of success.

The only thing that may slow the ascent of Seminole County high school fastpitch softball teams will be the current absence of an extensive youth program in the sport. Only the Oviedo Little League offered fastpitch softball for girls prior to last fall.

About that spring garden... Now is the time to start preparing the beds

February, making planting time closer than you think. Though we are not quite ready to start planting, now is the time to begin planning and preparing to plant your vegetable garden. Planning is your key to Bed preparation is the most crucial step in preparing to plant a vegetable garden. Most of our landscapes contain sandy soils that don't hold water or fertilizer very well. Sandy garden soils can be amended with organic materials like peat moss or compost to help them retain water and nutrients. Amending the soil should be done a few weeks before planting, so now is the best time to get started.

It's a good idea to get your soil tested. especially if this will be a new garden site. Even if you have gardened in the same location for years a soil test is still a good idea, especially if the pH has needed adjusting in the past or if you have experienced problems growing on the site.

For an adequate sample, take several samples 4-6 inches deep from the area that you plan to use as a garden. The samples should be taken from all areas of the garden - not just from one spot. Mix the samples together and bring a pint of the mixture to the Cooperative Extension Service for analyis. By mixing samples from different areas of the garden together, you can be sure that your sample represents the growing conditions of the entire plot.

TRICIA THOMAS

Extension Service can test for either pH or solsuble salts or both, pH measures how acid or alkaline a soil is while the soluble salt reading indicates the amount of fertilizer salts present in the soil. The fee is $1.50 per sample for each test.

Soil testing is done on Monday and Thursday mornings by trained Seminole County master gardeners. Soil may be brought in for testing anytime Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. A master gardener will call with the results and let you know if the pH needs to be raised or lowered and make fertilizer recommendations.

If you are preparing a large garden, you may need to rent a rototiller to make the job easier. A small plot can be prepared with a shovel, rake and a hoe. Preparing the soil properly can be a chore, but it is very important to the success of your garden. The roots of young plants will grow much easter in a well worked soil. To prepare the soil, dig down six to eight inches and turn each shovel full completely over. After the soil is turned, break up any large clumps.

A well worked soil will be loose and make planting and gardening a lot easier. This is a good time to add organic soil amendments like peat moss, leaf litter or compost. Layer organic materials over the top and mix thoroughly into garden soil. Finally, level the area with a rake.

If weeds and grass are present or if your organic amendment was only partially decomposed, you may need to wait a few weeks for these materials to decompose before you can plant.

If this is your first time gardening in an area, you may need some help choosing vegetable varieties suited for spring planting. A poster size guide can be ordered from the University of Florida ($1.25). Order forms are available at the Cooperative Ext. Service. The "Vegetable Gardening Guide" gives growing instructions as well as varieties adapted to this area, the guide is in poster form so that it can be placed in the garden shed or wherever you do your garden planning. I hope that most of you solarized your gardens over the summer to help control nematodes, if not plan to do so this summer - it's our only defense for now. If you need information about solarization or vegetable gardening call 323-2555 ext. 5550 or drop by the Cooperative Extension Service office, located across the street from Flea World, at 250 W.

Joyfully, I offered to babyait, but my offer was declined, so to occupy myself, I borrowed a bicycle for the afternoon and returned to their house at 5 o'clock. My son and daughter-in-law were just getting up from the table - their dinner was finished!

As my allotted three days would be up the next day, I left the next morning for my long drive home. I don't look forward to next year's visit, but I want to see my beautiful grandbaby again. I wonder, Dear Abby, what you - and your readers think about this kind of hospitality from a daughter-in-law?

JILL IN OREGON DEAR JILL: It was clearly insulting, but I cannot understand how a son could treat his mother so shabbily. Was there a page missing from your letter? Or are you son and his wife simply mean-spirited and hostile?

In any case, some kind of explanation is owed you for such discourteous treatment.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from a waltress regarding how to control unruly children in a restaurant. She made up a story about how one child had been badly burned by steaming coffee while running unsupervised.

I remember when I was also a waitress putting myself through college. It was my first wedding reception job, in the only restaurant that catered weddings in our small community.

The ring bearer and the flower girl were chasing each other around, and sure enough, they ran into one of the waltresses.

Inhaled form of drug may help emphysema emphysema along with other pulmonary diseases. My daily regimen consists of prednisone. Ventolin, Atrovent and Proventil. Is there any new medication or treatment available that will keep me dilated? I am also concerned about the constant long-term use of predntsone. I use Theo-Dur at times as a replacement, yet it ruins my appetite and I return to the prednisone.

DEAR READER: You appear to have asthma, an important cause of emphysema. The medicines you have been prescribed, some of which are pills and others sprays, relax the muscles lining the bronchial passages, to prevent constriction and wheezing, the hallmarks of asthma.

1, too, am concerned about your chronic use of prednisone. a cortisone steroid. As you know, this drug - although extremely useful in treating many conditions (including asthma) . is associated with a number of serious side effects, including cataracts, diabetes, bone softenting, and susceptibility to infection. Nonetheless, many patients' lives would be miserable without this therapy. Theo-Dur is, as you suggested, a reasonable substitute for prednisone in asthma patients, but the drug often causes stomach upset and loss of appetite, as it did in your

I have a suggestion for you to run by your doctor. Ask him to consider prescribing an inhaled form of prednisone, such as Azmacort. When inhaled three or four times a day, this drug will benefit the bronchial passages without causing the side effects I mentioned. For many patients with "steroiddependent asthma." the inhaled medicine is an appropriate substitute for the prednisone pills.

To give you more information on your condition. I am sending

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Edward Gibbon said that he wouldn't exchange his love of reading for all the treasures of India. Fair enough - but in high risk of an overruff, for a bridge, strange as it sounds. when declarer exchanges one trick for another. It usually costs the defenders a trick - as in today's deal.

South's sequence, a take-out for a simple one-heart overcall: some 17-19 points. North, who had revealed no values but held three trumps and an ace, judged well to raise to three hearts. West started the defense with his

At trick three, if South had optimistically called for diamonds himself. dummy's heart nine, East would have happtly overruffed with the 10. Then, whichever way South turned, he couldn't avoid the loss of a spade trick; one down. Instead, though, South traded the diamond ruff, which had a spade ruff, which was likely to pass off without incident. At trick three. South discarded one of dummy's spades.

West, who had no winning double followed by a two-heart Declarer won with dummy's acc. rebid, showed a hand too strong drew two rounds of trumps. cashed the A-K of spades and ruffed his spade two with dummy's heart nine. South returned to hand by ruffing a club and drew East's last trump.

Note that if West switches at trick two or three, South must make the loser-on-loser play in

Don't make a play you know is doomed to failure. Look for a more profitable alternative.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY Jan. 18, 1994

In the year ahead if you get a brainstorm regarding a new product or procedure, follow It through before dismissing it from your mind. There's a possibility it could fit a need in a real market.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're apt to reap greater rewards today from things you personally originate than you will from trying to build upon the ideas or concepts usaigned you. Be an inaugurator. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail 82 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 Feb. 19) It's important today you know how to keep a secret, especially If it pertains to your commercial intentions. Be very careful not to tip your hand to the wrong set of develop for you today through a friend who has provided you with good tips previously. It'll be of a fleeting nature, so you'll have to make some quick decisions

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Even though you're likely to be highly mollvated today, the objectives you select could be evasive. It may be due in part to the shenanigans of a competitor.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There's a chance you might be manipulated today by a very adrolt puppeteer who knows how to pull all of the right strings. You may not realize you've been had until later in the week

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be very careful today if you're doing business with a friend, especially If there is a substantial amount of montes involved. Probabilities for a misunderstanding are strong.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone with whom you're closely involved might not be as sincere about matters as you are. If today's events cause you to concur, straighten this situations out pronto.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Where your work is concerned, you'll be industrious and productive today, but you might lack true staying power. Don't start things you do not intend to finish.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A situation where bold measures are required might intimidate you today. However, no one need know of your fears and inner doubts if you pretend to be brave. Don't let them see you sweat.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Where Important, domestic issues are concerned today nelther you nor your mate should act without first consulting the other. If you're in tune, you'll succeed. If you aren't, you may SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Matters which are of great significance to you today might not be of equal interest to your cohorts. It may take some strong selling to get them on broad.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Material trends are moving rather strongly in your favor today, but they must not be taken for granted. If you don't do what's required, it could just be another day. Copyright 1994 NEWSPAPER
