Road project: Who pays? Lake Mary wants Sanford to help defray costs

By MARK FORDMAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Lake Mary's city manager says he hopes Sanford will do its part for the beautification of the new phase of Lake Mary Boulevard after his city and the county paid for the first phase.

Phase II of the Lake Mary Boulevard widening and beautification project is still underway. Work is in progress to improve the area from Country Club Road in downtown Lake Mary, easterly, to U.S. Highway 17-92.

Phase I, of the widening, which was from Markham Woods Road near Heathrow, to Country Club Road, was completed in 1993. It involved only roadway running in the city of Lake Mary and Seminole County.

Phase II however, includes not only the same two entities, but the City of Sanford as well.

During Monday night's Sanford City Commission work session meeting, Lake Mary has asked to address the concept of beautification as it pertains to Sanford.

Lake Mary City Manager John Litton has submitted a letter on the matter to Sanford City Manager Bill Simmons.

In it he writes, "As you will recall, the original vision developed by a committee composed of representatives from all three governmental entities was a beautified stretch of roadway between Markham Woods Road and 17-92, with similar ordinances addressing building, zoning, buffering, landscaping, setbacks and signage."

"For whatever reason," Litton continued, "the tri-party agreement was never executed by the City of Sanford, and as a result, Lake Mary and Seminole County went forward on their own for the Phase I portion, which stopped at C-15, more commonly referred to as Country Club Road."

Now however, the widening project is going through land within the city of Sanford. Lake Mary and Seminole County have taken a total of $93,500, which was originally earmarked for Phase I, and reallocated the money toward

One victory toward expressway link

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County's "missing link" to Interstate 4 took a small, but significant step forward yesterday when a House-Senate joint appropriations committee recommended allocating $1 million to the $85 million project.

The money is seen as a key to unlocking $67 million in additional federal backing for the project. The state will pay the remaining 20 percent share. Another $4 million in federal money for the expressway faces a similar joint House-Senate panel review. The money still needs the approval of the full House and Senate and the president.

"We're celebrating and drinking champagne," said an elated Gerald Brinton, director of the Seminole County Expressway Authority.

"We're real pleased," said Congressman John

Mica, R-Winter Park. "Once you get some money, the rest will come."

Mica anticipated both houses will take up the spending package by the middle of next week. Mica said with the conference committee approval, the money is "99 percent in the bag."

Mica credited Rep. Frank Wolf, R-W.Va., for pulling for his and other House transportation spending on the conference committee. Mica said See Expressway, Page 5A

Gatorfest celebrates history of swing bridge

By VICKI DEBORNER
Herald Staff Writer

DeBARY — What started as one man's thoughts of honoring an old bridge has turned into a festival that celebrates community history, the environment, families and education.

The first Gatorfest will take place in Lake Monroe Park in the shadow of the swing bridge connecting Sanford and DeBary on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Bill Holcomb said he first noticed the unnamed swing bridge at the Seminole-Volusia county line about two years ago. It was being moved about 150 feet in order to accommodate sewage lines and new construction on the water.

Like a passive older lady, she moved dutifully to a new home, ready to accommodate those who needed her services. Quietly she See Gatorfest, Page 6A

Toddler undergoes organ transplant

MIAMI — A toddler who was at the center of a lawsuit against the state's welfare agency has undergone a triple organ transplant and was in critical condition.

Doctors at Jackson Memorial Hospital worked to save the life of 2½-year-old Lexen Pittman, who was born with short bowel syndrome. They performed liver, bowel and bone marrow transplant Wednesday. The toddler was remained in critical condition early today.

Lexen's mother, Ramona Pope, was on a break at work on Wednesday morning when she got the call organs had been found.

"I was always saying that he would have it before the end of the year," she said. "And we got it."

His condition prevented Lexen's body from absorbing needed nutrients. He has been supplied nutrition intravenously, but the condition caused his liver to deteriorate.

Pope, 28, of Lauderdale, sued HRS last year when the agency said it would not pay for the operation. She is a single mother and had quit her job as a medical technician to care for Lexen. Pope appealed to HRS because she was on welfare and had no health insurance.

U.S. District Court Judge Norman Roettger side with the state on July 20, 1993. His decision then was overturned by a federal appeals court in Atlanta.

Husband could collect $228,000

ORLANDO — The family of a woman who was murdered wants the $228,000 life insurance to go to her children, not to her husband. But the family will have to prove that the husband was the killer.

Police are still investigating the Aug. 9, 1993, murder of Helen Williams, 35, and have not settled on a suspect or filed any charges. Her husband, David Williams, stands to collect the insurance money.

Mrs. Williams' family members can't wait for the criminal case to be resolved. So they filed a civil suit in federal court in an attempt to see that the victim's children get the money for their education.

The civil suit is an unusual strategy, but not unique, and lawyers say determining responsibility for the slaying may be easier in federal court, where the burden is not as great on the accusers.

"I'm just appalled," the husband said Wednesday.

Williams, 46, admits he became a suspect but denies any role in the death. The couple had separated two months earlier.

Mrs. Williams was shot repeatedly in the head as she sat in the living room of her rented home near Windermere. The house was ransacked to resemble a burglary, Orange County sheriff's detectives have said.

Father altered birth certificate

JACKSONVILLE — A father could get 60 days in jail and a $500 fine for changing the date of his son's birth certificate so he could start kindergarten a year early, police said.

David Kanaaska Sr. was charged with a misdemeanor crime, altering a birth certificate, and his son was kicked out of school. The boy's birthday missed the cutoff date for entering kindergarten by 18 days, so the father used whiteout, changed the date and made a photocopy, authorities said.

School officials aren't saying how they learned about the deception.

Each child entering kindergarten in Florida must be 5 by Sept. 1. Kanaaska's son was born Sept. 18, 1989.

"I know it was wrong, but I did it anyway," he said.

Air Force returns home from Haiti

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE — Planes and pilots from the 33rd Fighter Wing have returned to Eglin after what some service personnel are calling their "Haitian vacation."

All 24 F-15 Eagle fighters and their pilots flew back Wednesday to this Florida Panhandle base from Puerto Rico. They had been sent there last week to provide air cover for a threatened invasion of Haiti.

Support personnel are expected to return soon, wing spokeswoman Lynn Wallace said Thursday. She said she could not say how many wing members remain deployed.

They were ordered home after a last-minute agreement Sunday allowed U.S. forces to occupy the island nation without a fight and pave the way for the return of democratically elected President Jean-Bertrand Aristide from exile in the United States.

The 33rd's fighters are designed strictly for air-to-air combat and racked up the highest kill total of any allied unit in the Persian Gulf War by downing 16 Iraqi planes.

Although Haiti has few warplanes, U.S. military officials were worried about the possibility of Cuban fighters flying into airspace planned to hold 170 invasion aircraft, the Northwest Florida Daily News reported.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Court upholds Wuornos' sentence
Two inmates sentence, conviction overturned

By JACQUE HALLIPAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The state Supreme Court has rejected an appeal from a hitchhiking prostitute and killer with more death sentences than any other criminal on Florida's death row.

The court Thursday also overturned the sentence of one death row inmate and the conviction of a second.

Aileen Wuornos, who has six death sentences, raised eight major issues in her first appeal of her conviction and capital sentence for the fatal shooting of Clearwater businessman Richard Mallory in December 1989.

The court rejected them all.

"Moreover, we have reviewed the entire record for other errors, including cumulative error," the court said in an unsigned unanimous opinion. "Finding none, we hold that the judgment and sentence are affirmed."

Wuornos is one of six women awaiting execution in Florida, who worked highways across Central and North Florida as a prostitute. She has confessed to killing seven men in all.

She was convicted of one murder, pleaded guilty to two others and no contest to another three. The seventh body was never found, and she was never charged.

Wuornos testified at her trial that Mallory, the first man she killed, choked her with a rope, and beat, raped and sodomized her before threatening to kill her.

That encounter so enraged Wuornos that she killed six other men over the next year, her lawyers now contend.

Mallory served 10 years in a prison psychiatric unit in Maryland after being charged with attempted rape in the 1950s.

Wuornos, 36, has said she wants to be executed as quickly as possible if the court rejects her appeals.

In a concurring opinion, Justice Gerald Kogan discussed the failure of society to deal with the problem of women forced into prostitution at an early age. However, he said, the court must be absolutely blind to concerns about wider social problems.

Also Thursday, the high court said Dusty Ray Spencer deserved a new sentencing hearing for his murder conviction because the trial court made mistakes.

Spencer, 42, was condemned for the death of his estranged wife, who was beaten, stabbed and slashed in her Orlando home in January 1992.

First, the high court wrote, the trial court wrongly considered the killing of Kathy Spencer as cold, calculated and premeditated. Second, the trial court wrongly rejected claims of mitigating circumstances surrounding the crime, including Spencer's chronic alcohol and substance abuse and a paranoid personality disorder.

Only three of the six justices — Leander Shaw, Major Harding and Parbur Lee McDonald — fully agreed with the unsigned majority opinion. But Kogan, who believes Spencer's sentence should be reduced to life, agreed to join the three to send the case back to the trial court.

Chief Justice Stephen Grimes and Justice Ben Overson, said they thought the death sentence should be upheld, arguing the murder qualified as cold, calculated and premeditated.

In the third case, the court ruled unanimously that James Guzman, 30, condemned in Volusia County for the death of David Calvin in August 1991, deserved a new trial.

The justices agreed to overturn Guzman's first murder conviction and death sentence because the trial judge had refused to assign a new defense attorney after the public defender's office claimed a conflict of interest stemming from its representation of a man who testified against Guzman.

"We can think of few instances where a conflict is more prejudicial than when one client is being called to testify against another," the court wrote in its unsigned ruling.

MIAMI — Vernelle Lowder gave up her children and made plans to kill herself after being told she had the HIV virus. It was all a mistake.

A Dade Circuit Court jury has awarded $600,000 to Lowder, 40, for pain and suffering after her 1990 AIDS test was misread.

"It's horrible to go through something like this," Lowder's attorney, Steven Mitchell, said Thursday. "This is just about as bad an event as can happen to someone."

The jury decided Sept. 19 that the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services should pay $380,000. Under state law, HRS is required to pay $100,000. The maximum allowed under Florida's cap of damage payments by government agencies.

Dr. Homer L. Kirkpatrick, who gave anti-AIDS medication to Lowder, settled for $250,000 on the eve of the trial. Jurors said the clinic where the test was conducted was blameless.

Although AIDS cannot be transmitted by casual contact, Lowder worried about touching her children, now ages 17, 19 and 21, Mitchell said. Lowder behaved that way because she knew little about the disease and wasn't counseled properly about how HIV is transmitted, he said.

She gave legal custody of her children to her mother — who would wash her daughter's dirty dishes with bleach.

Finally, she returned to her hometown in Georgia, where her attorney said she planned to kill herself when the disease made her seriously ill.

Missing student declared legally dead

By The Associated Press

TAMPA — A judge has declared missing University of Florida student Tiffany Sessions legally dead, paving the way for the girl's mother to collect a $50,000 life insurance payment.

Hillsborough Circuit Judge Robert H. Bonanno made the ruling Wednesday as per the request of Tiffany Sessions' mother, Hilary.

The search for the missing finance major, who disappeared while jogging in 1989, will continue regardless, said Will Irby, executive director of the State Attorney's Office in Gainesville.

Mrs. Sessions says she'll use the money to continue the search and lobby for a national law requiring law enforcement agencies to better communicate in missing person cases.

But Mrs. Sessions said she'd be happy to return the money to New York Life Insurance Co. if her daughter is found alive.

"I'm not going to give up until I find her. I can't," Mrs. Sessions said, breaking into tears.

According to court records, neither the insurer nor Tiffany Sessions' father, Patrick, objected to the judge's decision. The Sessionses are divorced, with each vowing to continue the search independently.

Tiffany Sessions was 20 years old when she disappeared. Her parents launched a nationwide search, making appeals on television and getting help from celebrities such as Miami Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino.

Thousands of tips have poured in, but none have turned up credible evidence that Tiffany Sessions is alive.

Police

Business burglary

Sheriff's deputies arrested two men Monday, located within a fenced compound of a business in the 5100 block of N. Highway 17-92. Deputies said they found the men in the back storage area, with several motors apparently removed from boats and laying on the ground. The two were apprehended and placed under arrest in connection with the incident. Anthony Gene Bledsoe, 27, 618 Mulberry Avenue, Sanford, and William Clyde Spence, 34, with no local address, were each charged with burglary, possession of burglary tools, and resisting arrest without violence.

Attempted theft

Tuesday, a security guard at an auto dealership in the 4100 block of N. Highway 17-92, phoned deputies when he reported seeing a man drive up in a car, park next to a fenced lot, and enter the area. The guard said the man was seen removing a convertible rear window from a vehicle, and attempting to take off the top. The man was confronted by the guard, and arrested by deputies. Douglas Lee Reager, 19, of DeLand, was charged with attempted grand theft.

Shots fired

Sanford police arrested Eric Shandell Bell, 20, of 1200 Sanford Avenue, on 12th Street on Tuesday. Officers said they responded to a call regarding shots heard being fired near 12th and Palmetto. They reportedly spotted Bell in the area and stopped to investigate. Officers said at that time, Bell attempted to run from the area, and was seen throwing a handgun into some bushes. After being apprehended behind his home, he was arrested and charged with carrying a concealed firearm, resisting an officer without violence, resisting an officer with violence, possession of crack cocaine, and possession of a stolen firearm.

Grab and run

Sanford police arrested Levery William Hickman, 28, of 1107 E. Ninth Street, on Tuesday. Police received a report from two persons who said they stopped to ask directions at Third Street and Avacado Avenue, when a man and a juvenile approached them, reached in the car and grabbed two gold chains valued at $610, from one of the person's necks. They reported the incident and police were able to locate the two men on bikes. The victims reportedly were able to identify the pair. Hickman was arrested on charges of robbery and grand theft. Later, at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility, deputies found he was also wanted on an outstanding warrant, a civil writ for contempt of court.

Warrants

Robert Lee Daniels, 21, 1705 W. 14th Street, was located by Sanford police in the 2300 block of W. 18th Street early Wednesday. He was found to be wanted on a writ of bodily attachment. Later, at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility, sheriff's deputies served a second warrant for failing to appear on a charge of driving with a suspended license.

Thomas Edwin Cappa, 29, 700 Michigan Avenue, Sanford, was located in the 2900 block of Highway 17-92 by deputies Tuesday. He was wanted for violation of probation on a conviction of escape.

Hurtis Leonard Willis, 24, of Castle Brewer Court, was served a warrant at the jail Tuesday. He was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of possession of cocaine.

Tony Jerome Gaines, 28, 1502 W. 25th Street, was arrested at his residence by deputies Tuesday. He was wanted on a warrant for battery to a law enforcement officer.

Domestic cases

John Charles Allen, 44, 944 Hillwell Court, Lake Mary, was arrested by deputies at his residence Tuesday following a reported confrontation with a man at their residence. He was charged with battery, domestic violence.

Roderick Wooden, 25, 1802 W. 13th Street, was arrested by Sanford police near his home Tuesday. A victim reportedly told police Wooden had run after him with a gun and shot him once. When Wooden was located, police said he attempted to run from the area. He has been charged with aggravated assault and resisting an officer without violence.

Calvin Monroe Griner, 41, of 2951 Jewett Lane, Sanford, was located by deputies while he was reportedly walking home from the probation office Tuesday. Deputies said he had been reportedly connected with a dispute with his mother since Sept. 19th. He was charged with domestic violence, assault.

Incidents reported to the sheriff

Deputies located a 1989 Chevrolet pickup truck Tuesday, in the 4200 block of Christian Place near Sanford. Deputies said the truck had been listed as stolen from an Osteen man.

Deputies say a residence was burglarized Monday in the 2000 block of Dixie Avenue. A cordless phone, valued at $25 was said to be missing.

An electric meter, valued at $300, was reported stolen Monday from a vacant house in the 4300 block of Myrtle Avenue.

A woman told deputies her purse was stolen from the office at Goodwill Industries, Highway 17-92 in Longwood, on Tuesday. She told deputies the purse contained jewelry with a total value of $3,930.

Incidents reported to police

An unknown number of items were reportedly stolen in a residential burglary early Wednesday, in the 1200 block of Lincoln Court.

A soda machine was vandalized with drinks and coins said to have been stolen early Tuesday at a business in the 2300 block of Old Lake Mary Road.

Police say a tackle box was reported stolen from a residence Tuesday on Elliot Avenue, but was later located in the rear yard.

Two burglaries were reported Tuesday at adjacent businesses in the 500 block of Central Park Drive. Both businesses reported the air conditioning units had been stolen. The units were valued at $600 and $780.

SANFORD — A Sanford man was arrested on several charges Wednesday after a motorist reported seeing him chalking a woman driving a car.

The motorist called 9-1-1 from his car cellular telephone and reported a man was beating a woman as she drove. The caller also reported children were in the car. When a deputy caught up with the car at a 28-434 convenience store, he reported the woman told him Eric Lynn Lowther, 30, 1211 Myrtle Ave., Sanford, struck her and grabbed her neck during an argument. The woman said her four-year-old child tried to stop him and Lowther struck the child.

Deputies report Lowther became violent and abusive following his arrest on a domestic violence battery charge and kicked a deputy's shin several times. After Lowther was placed in the rear of the deputy's squad car, the deputy reported he kicked the vehicle doors so severely one door couldn't be opened and the other door was bowed. Lowther was dragged from the car, still kicking at the deputy, and placed in leg irons.

Lowther was also charged with resisting arrest with violence, battery on a law enforcement officer and criminal mischief. Damage to the deputy's car were estimated at $1,500.

Third of New York youths have toted guns

NEW YORK — A City Council survey of 800 youths found that more than one-third of them have carried a gun at some point and one-sixth continue to do so.

The random survey queried people ages 12 to 21 in 15 precincts with a high homicide rate and 15 precincts with a low rate. Councilman Stephen Peter Sabatino said Tuesday.

The results were virtually the same in both the low- and high-crime precincts.

Half of the respondents in the unscientific survey said they carried a gun for protection. Twenty percent said they did so for status or respect. Eight percent said they carried a firearm to commit a crime.

Of the 295 youths who said they had carried a gun at one time or another, 99 said they still did.

Mistrial over nude photos of daughter

The Associated Press

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. — A juror who found artistic value in nude photos of a man and his 5-year-old daughter has kept the girl's parents out of prison — for now.

The other 11 jurors in the trial of Adrian Denava, 24, and Jeanette Padilla, 25, said the couple should have been found guilty of child abuse, a 20-year felony.

Judge Lido Rucci declared a mistrial Thursday when the jury deadlocked after 10 hours of deliberations. A new trial was scheduled for Nov. 29.

Juror Mark Roberts, who has daughters aged 6 and 8, said the photographs were "clearly a case of artistic freedom ... I saw no sexual gratification."

The couple took the 52 photographs last year. Denava said he hoped to break into professional modeling along with his daughter.

One picture showed a nude Denava lying on his back with his daughter on top of him. Others showed him covering her breasts and genitalia and giving her a kiss.

The child, now 6, testified and described the photos as bad, but said she feared being hit if she didn't pose for them. She also said her mother told her not to tell about the photos.

The girl is in foster care. A judge will decide whether she will be returned to her parents.

Juror Sonja Maker questioned Denava's claim that the photos were meant for a modeling portfolio.

"What type of modeling were they getting into? It was not very wholesome modeling," she said. "What bothers me is that the mother was present and even took the photos."

Highway Patrol roadblocks set

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Troopers with the Florida Highway Patrol have announced their monthly schedule of roadblocks on area roads during the coming weeks to ensure vehicles and their drivers are safe.

Troopers will stop traffic during daylight hours to check for such vehicle safety risks as worn tires, defective brakes and inoperative headlights. They will also check to make sure motorists have valid drivers licenses and vehicle registration. Any criminal law violators, such as drunken drivers, will face arrest.

Troopers may establish the roadblocks at the following locations:

Sept. 23 to 29: Airport Boulevard, Celery Avenue, County Road 15, Orange Boulevard, Old Lake Mary Road, S.R. 426 and Persimmon Avenue.

Sept. 30 to Oct. 6: CR 15, Gen. J.C. Hutchison Parkway, Marquette Road, Orange Boulevard, Osceola Road, Upsala Road and Persimmon Avenue.

Oct. 7 to 13: Airport Boulevard, C.R. 15, Markham Road, Orange Boulevard, Osceola Road, Upsala Road and Persimmon Avenue.

EDITORIAL

We've come a long way, baby

It was exactly 304 years ago, Sept. 25, 1690, that the first newspaper was published in this nation. Called "Public Occurrences," it was published in the London Coffee House, in Boston, by Benjamin Harris.

As always has been the responsibility of newspapers, it reported on what was happening or about to happen.

Unfortunately, some people who caused "it" to happen, didn't like to have themselves identified, or let people know what was going on. They called the newspaper offensive, (some things never change).

In 1690 however, the politicians who objected to what was written, ordered the paper shut down immediately. There never was a second edition.

Admittedly, some people don't like any media, newspapers, radio, TV, or magazines. They simply don't want their actions made public.

As a result, many refuse to cooperate with the press. They don't return phone calls, are never available for interviews, when they speak, they continuously use acronyms, or, as in many instances, pass the buck to someone else.

During researching for a recent story in the Sanford Herald, a reporter called the secretary of a social organization asking how many members they presently had. "Why do you want to know?" she immediately responded. "Are you writing a story about us?" She wouldn't respond, and turned the call over to the organization's president.

Some people are not allowed by their superiors to be quoted in the press. This is understandable, as often, only the big boss knows the facts. But some people believe giving even commonly known numbers could put them in jeopardy.

There are reasons why some people fear publicity. Some may be valid reasons while others are not.

The lack of being able to obtain certain facts however, good or bad, prevents the media from giving full and proper perspectives of an event or situation.

We have come a long way from that first newspaper. Our nation has given us freedom of the press. Many people however, believe that freedom is only for the media. Wrong. The freedom is for the public to be made aware of what is transpiring, in government, business, religion, and all of the other entities which help formulate our very lives. Withholding of public information is actually hurting the people more than the media.

On this anniversary of the first newspaper, we are tempted to say happy birthday to us. But when it comes to reporting news, we believe the real benefactor is the general public. Happy birthday, readers.

LETTER

Prove it

Your "Smoking Teens" article provides the case for the prosecution of nicotine providers and users very well. Please permit a word from the defense corner.

First, I urge you, the Institute of Medicine, the FDA, or the Surgeon General to provide the public with scientific proof that nicotine is physically addictive. What clinically proven symptoms of withdrawal should be expected in a person who stops smoking, chewing or dipping a tobacco product?

Withdrawal from caffeine (coffee, cola, chocolates, etc.) produces a headache. Withdrawal from alcohol produces trembling and possibly hallucinations. When I quit smoking for three months several years ago, I had no physical withdrawal symptoms at all. My informal poll of other smokers who quit shows a similar phenomenon of no physical withdrawal symptoms.

I suggest that all of these studies which rely a great deal on federal money to finance them, are probably biased in favor of the money source opinion. The issue is not one so much of public health, but of the desire to tax and regulate a very vulnerable segment of the population. I do not think I can be proven wrong on this, but have at it!

The Battle of Haiti is just beginning

The first reaction of every American to the announcement of the agreement with the Haitian military junta must be one of relief. At least our forces will not be going ashore in the teeth of resistance inspired and led by the de facto rulers of Haiti, with the near certainty that some of our fighting men and women would lose their lives in the process. But it certainly does not follow that there will be no American deaths.

Thousands of American troops are being introduced into an impoverished Third World nation racked by internal political controversies that fall little short of civil war. An unknown number of Haitians, many of them bitter enemies of the restored president, Jean-Bertrand Aristide, have weapons, and some of them will seek to use those weapons against American invaders.

The situation, in fact, uncomfortably resembles that which developed in Somalia. There too, American soldiers were put ashore on what was described as a purely humanitarian mission of pacification. But within a matter of months thousands of Somalis had developed a bitter hatred of the U.S. forces, and American soldiers (as well as U.N. personnel) began dying in ambushes, in helicopters shot down by gunfire from the ground, and by land mines buried in the roads. Eventually President Clinton, who had recklessly escalated the mission from one of humanitarian aid to one of "nation building," despaired of achieving success and withdrew our forces.

The Battle of Haiti, then, is just beginning. What will be the domestic political fallout, both of developments to date and those that may occur in the coming months? The question is all the more appropriate because Mr. Clinton's whole obsession with Haiti grew out of a political blunder: the impetuous pledge to restore Aristide to power that he made to the Congressional Black Caucus to win its crucial support for his budget.

The situation, in fact, uncomfortably resembles that which developed in Somalia.

which passed by one vote. In his battle of wits with Raul Cedras, they will argue, it was Cedras who blinked. The public probably report a rise in public approval of Mr. Clinton's handling of foreign policy. We will not be reminded that Bill Clinton is known as "The Comeback Kid."

But the American people have noted, and are not likely to forget, that Mr. Clinton came within millimeters of risking thousands of American lives for no better reason than to preserve his own precarious credibility. Without the slightest hint of vital American interest being at stake, he talked himself into a corner from which no escape seemed possible, save war.

Even then, he was rescued from folly only by the diplomacy of his Democratic predecessor in the White House, Jimmy Carter. Bear in mind that this is the second time in four months the first was the North Korean crisis when Mr. Carter has snatched Mr. Clinton's chestnuts from the fire. We can be sure that Washington will soon be abuzz with wisecracks about "the second Carter administration" — jokes that will throw into high relief Mr. Clinton's own incoherence in the field of foreign policy.

The acid test will come in the remaining weeks of the congressional election campaign.

DONNA BRITT

Never turn in your black card

WASHINGTON — I talked to two very different black women about Marion Barry's stunning capture of the Democratic mayoral primary recently.

One loved it. The other hated it. So how could it seem both were making the same point?

The first, Brenda Box, was still reeling from news of Barry's decisive win.

"Clearly," Box said, "I'm going to have to turn in my black card."

There was a sadness beneath her laughter. According to the opinions of a good number of blacks, Box continued, she was "wrong for believing Anita Hill, and wrong about Desiree Washington," whose charge that she'd been raped by Mike Tyson she also found convincing.

Even her career in the environmental movement seems out of sync, Box said. "Black people," she's been told, "don't do stuff like that."

"And I didn't vote for Marion Barry, so I was wrong about him too. Obviously," she joked, "I am not truly black."

You'd never know it to look at her, but it isn't just a matter of skin and hair.

Box, 39, and her husband are caring for three black siblings, ages 4, 5 and 10, whose troubled mother could not provide for them. They've opened their hearts, home and wallets to three African American children in need.

I'd say she's a real sister. So why does she feel alienated from a sizable number of other blacks? Why would some of them suggest that her "credentials" as an African American are suspect because her beliefs differ from theirs?

Why not? In the last few days, I've heard anecdotes suggesting that people actually believe: All "real" black men are good basketball players; black people eat only soul food, not Thai, Indian or Moroccan cuisine; and black people who buy large homes in the suburbs are "bourgeois."

Black folks aren't the only ones with such assumptions. Listening to post-election radio talk shows, I was struck by some white callers' opinions. Barry's win, one man said, "does harm to the black struggle.... It says that black people will only vote for black candidates."

The theory ignores that in the primary both of Barry's chief opponents were black. By extension, it discounts the thousands of black Washingtonians who voted for them — and the millions who regularly vote for whites. Somehow, in this man's mind, only Barry was a true black candidate — a theory some blacks would support.

What a mess. But it brings me to the other woman I spoke with the day after the primary — Cora Masters Barry.

Like her husband, Barry is very vocal about her faith in God. She speaks often about forgiving those who reflexively distrust and denigrate her husband for his past failings.

But she steers me to the suggestion that Barry's election by unprecedented numbers of poor and young black voters — and impressive numbers of middle-class ones as well — is a wedge that will further divide black and white D.C.

What it is, she says, is "the beginning of a healing." Which sounded like a stretch, but I listened.

Every reaction to her husband's victory, elated or outraged, is positive, said Cora Masters Barry. Even local magazine publisher Bill Regardie's comment that "the silver coke spoon we thought we drove through his heart turned out to be made of cream cheese" serves a higher purpose.

"Marion's election is cathartic," she insisted. "The joy, anger, faith, rage — all of it is coming out. You have to get it out to get over it."

What she said next surprised me more — it's what I'd said to Box, and others who see a good in a Barry win.

Whatever your feelings about Barry's candidacy — and mine are mixed — whether you believe he's spiritually centered and addiction-free, one thing is sure:

There's something wonderful in that Barry's triumph was brought about largely by people who previously had little connection to the election process. Suddenly people who for years had asked, "why bother to vote?" wondered, "Why not?" They participated in drives — and saw their candidate win.

"Maybe they'll see they can make a difference in other ways... attend a political meeting, join a neighborhood committee," Cora Masters Barry said. "It showed they really can effect change with the ballot."

Such freedom has nothing to do with guns or gangs — or Lexus or Armani suits. It's being confident enough to sweat what other blacks — or whites or anybody else — think.

It's recognizing that the only person who should have stewardship over your soul is you. That what "real" black people do is whatever you're doing.

That you need never turn in your black card.

You'd never know it to look at her, but it isn't just a matter of skin and hair.

Clinton has his own albatross

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter had the Shah of Iran, Ronald Reagan had Deng Xiaoping and George Bush had Saddam Hussein. Now Bill Clinton will have Jean-Bertrand Aristide.

It's been the curse of every recent president to bet on at least one bad horse. From Carter's unwavering support of the Shah, to Reagan's break with Taiwan in favor of Deng Xiaoping and Bush's support of Saddam in his war against Iran, each of Clinton's recent predecessors has risked the prestige of the United States on a leader in a Faustian bargain. Aristide could be Clinton's albatross.

Only time will tell if Aristide keeps his promise to step down after his term ends next year. And only time will decide if democracy in Haiti continues after American troops leave. Yet the past history of Haiti and questions about Aristide himself, suggest the new Haitian government will be no easier for the United States to influence than the leaders of Iran, Iraq or China proved to be.

We have detailed why Aristide may be more demagogue than democrat in a series of columns over the past three years. While the Clinton administration and Democrats in Congress insist that Aristide has reformed, or can be reformed in, there remain several disturbing questions about his character: — Information from public and private sources depicts a president who is vengeful, paranoid and not afraid to use unruly mobs to get what he wants. During his seven-month presidency, Aristide sometimes showed a tendency to incite mob violence and even rejoice in it.

Though some aspects of the Central Intelligence Agency profile on Aristide have been discredited, it remains proven that some of Aristide's rivals were killed by "necklacing" — the practice of hanging a gasoline-soaked tire around a victim's neck and lighting it.

While Republicans in Congress have gone too far in depicting Aristide as a Communist, the record of Aristide's brief presidential tenure shows someone whose commitment to democracy may be based more in theory than in practice.

Before his ouster in September 1991, Aristide demonstrated a penchant for associating with unsavory characters. He made entrees to Cuba's Fidel Castro and Libya's Muammar Qaddafi. His own minister of planning even flew to Libya in April 1991, to attend the 5th annual America-bashing ceremony in memory of the U.S. raid on Libya.

As president of Haiti, Aristide also steered $2 million in foreign aid to an orphanage run by a close friend, who was then arrested months later in a cocaine bust. Aristide's response was to order the police to release his friend. The U.S. ambassador at the time, Alvin Adams, protested, but Aristide wouldn't back down.

As an ugly parting shot, Aristide allegedly ordered the murder of a jailed political opponent moments before being unseated in the military coup. As we have reported, a polygraph test secretly administered by the FBI in Port-au-Prince on the former head of Haiti's national penitentiary corroborated accounts of the killing already given to American officials by others.

None of the disparaging facts about Aristide can take away his legitimate claim to the Haitian presidency. He is the democratically elected leader of his country and deserves to finish his term.

It's been the curse of every recent president to bet on at least one bad horse.

Bricks

 street will cost an additional $30,000 to $35,000.
 Engraved bricks are being sold for $15 each with the goal of selling 4,000 bricks. The engraved bricks, along with plain paving bricks will be used in the street project. Buyers receive a "Certificate of Authenticity" stating the number of the engraved brick and showing that it is part of Wilma Street in Longwood.
 Historic commission member Neils Pryor reported to city commissioners recently the bricks are being sold at the Longwood Farmers Market each Saturday morning in the historic district and order forms are also available at city hall. The goal of the historic commission is to sell the required number of engraved bricks by the end of December. Pryor said, so the project can move forward. Although bricks will continue to be sold, Pryor urged people interested in buying bricks to do so as soon as possible.

 "We don't want people to think they can wait because the project isn't slated until next year. We need to sell the bricks now," Pryor added. The engraved bricks are being made and stored as they are sold.
 City commissioner Iris Benson, who is also a member of the historic commission, said the sale of engraved bricks is slow but "it's picking up." She is proposing a two-sided sandwich board sign on market days with the slogan "Buy and brick to preserve our heritage" for people confused or unsure about what "Brick Clique" means in order to spur sales.

 About 100 bricks have been sold to far, Benson estimated. If enough money is not raised to brick the entire street, the engraved bricks will be used on the portion of Wilma Street abutting the Ed Meyers Community Building or in the designated crosswalks, Benson said.
 Wilma Street was scheduled to be resurfaced in the city's street program this year, but citizens asked the project be postponed to see if private funds could be raised to pay for brickwork for the 1,000-foot street.

Public Works Director and city engineer Fernand Tibler estimates it will require 98,000 red paving bricks to complete the project. A "walk of fame" or using the engraved bricks in the crosswalks has been proposed, he added.
 Church Avenue was paved with bricks by the city in a project completed in early 1993. Tibler explained Church Avenue was entirely reconstructed because the original roadbed was not in good shape.
 "For Wilma, we are looking at a different scenario where all we have to do is scrape off all the asphalt and adjust the grade, so we have a nice smooth surface to lay the bricks on. So it's quite a different animal," he commented. "It is not fair to compare (the projects). It was an expensive project and we figured Church Avenue cost us $30,000 more dollars to add bricks than it would have if we just built the road then paved it over." The city bricked about 850 feet of Church Avenue.

 "I think it's definitely a great project for the whole city," Tibler added, "because it adds that much more character and charm to the historic district. And this way, no one can complain it's too costly because the folks who are paying for it are the ones who contribute to the brick sales."

 Three lines of engraving, each containing 12 characters (counting spaces too), are available on each brick. Historic commission members are touting the bricks as a nice way to commemorate important dates or occasions, such as birthdays, weddings, anniversaries, graduations or the life span of a loved one.
 The same style and color of bricks will be used on Wilma Street that were used on Church Avenue to provide uniform look to the downtown.

 beautification for Phase II.
 Lake Mary has also committed an additional $61,000 for the project to include irrigation, landscaping and the upgrade of Bahia sod to St. Augustine.
 In Phase II, only 3,300 feet of the widening project is actually within Lake Mary's city limits.
 "While I know from our discussions that you are on an extremely tight budget," Litton wrote, "I would respectfully request that the City of Sanford provide reclaimed water at no charge for irrigation purposes."
 Litton has stressed that the intent is to make Lake Mary Boulevard, running through land under the jurisdiction of three separate governments, "the example for what can be accomplished through inter-governmental cooperation."

In a memo to the mayor and city commissioners, regarding Litton's request, Simmons explained that Sanford presently charges all customers except Site-10 (near Geneva) and the Mayfair Golf Course, a standard rate of 10 cents per thousand gallons.
 "Based upon the estimated consumption of 320,000 gallons per week," Simmons wrote, "the Lake Mary Boulevard consumption charge (at 10 cents per gallon), would come to approximately $1,600 per year. While the revenue which would be foregone in providing water at no charge is not tremendous, it would represent a departure from standard procedure."

 The matter is scheduled for discussion during Monday night's work session of the Sanford City Commission, scheduled to begin at 5 p.m., in the city manager's conference room at Sanford City Hall.

Ad Title: Coming-Tampa, 30 seconds
Cost: not released
Where Running: Tampa, Orlando, Miami-Fort Lauderdale, West Palm Beach

Text:
Announcer: Gambling cruise ships to nowhere, taking away tourists. Seminole Indians with casinos, untaxed, unregulated, costing jobs. Proposition 8, Limited Casinos, fixes this mess. It allows businesses in Florida to create a strictly limited number of resort-entertainment-casinos, regulated, taxed, jobs for us.

Unidentified man: There would be a lot of dollars that would come to Florida and a lot of dollars that would stay in Florida that are leaving Florida for other areas.

Announcer: Proposition 8, Limited Casinos, the right way for Florida.

Goal: Proposition for Limited Casinos tries to make its point that gambling is already a fact of life in Florida and to portray its proposal to allow up to 47 casinos as an economic boost for Florida, which might be left out in the cold when it comes to cash flow if more casinos aren't allowed.

Analysis: Limited Casinos reiterates its belief that casinos would be an economic plus for Florida. It contrasts the "resort-entertainment-casinos" it says would be established under its measure with "gambling" cruise ships and unadorned "casinos" on Indian reservations.

 he also received support for the project from Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa., ranking House Public Works and Transportation Committee member. On the Senate side, Sen. Connie Mack, R-Fla., assisted Mica to swing votes to the funding. Sen. Alfonse M. D'Amato, R-N.Y., a conference committee member, also pushed for support.

Federal funding for the final six miles of the expressway has faced a rocky path. A total of $6 million was sought this year to begin land purchases next year. The House approved $5 million. The Senate approved nothing.

Conference committees were formed to iron out differences between the two spending plans. The remaining $4 million has yet to be considered by a joint transportation committee.

Though small compared to the overall cost of the project, Brinton said he doesn't anticipate spending federal money for right of way acquisition before mid-1995. The design for the I-4 interchange is still awaiting federal approvals.

The state has allocated $10.5 million toward design and environmental impact studies, Brinton said. Another $3 million was allocated for advance land purchases.

stands in her new home doing what is expected of her.

Holcomb doesn't want to let another of her birthdays pass quietly.

"The bridge is about 60 years old," he said. "And it's never been named. It's the second oldest swing bridge in the state. It's one of only two built in this style by an iron worker in Birmingham, Ala. And it is the last manually operated electric bridge in the state. It is a piece of our history."

Open with great fanfare on April 16, 1934, the bridge was feted by the governor and a host of Sanford officials. Today, however, Holcomb said, Sanford isn't particularly interested in the bridge.

"I contacted the Sanford Chamber of Commerce and the Seminole County Tourism people and they all met with me, but no one was interested in the festival," he mused.

So, with the support of the DeBary Chamber of Commerce, the Volusia County businesses and a smattering of Seminole County businesses (most notably, the Central Florida Zoo), he has put together a festival that he hopes will become an annual event.

Because the organizers wanted to celebrate more than the bridge, they broadened their range to include the pristine environment surrounding the bridge: an alligator protection refuge.

"Gatorfest! That's it," shouted Holcomb, recreating the excitement that followed the naming of the event.

He said the organizers tried to involve families, most importantly the children.

Students from Volusia and Seminole Counties were encouraged to enter an art contest to commemorate the bridge. Three renditions will appear on commemorative envelopes that will be sold at the event.

A fourth design, created by Lake Mary High School student Greg Minetto, will be engraved into a rubber stamp that will be used by U.S. Postal workers to cancel stamps at a festival booth.

Some of the money raised at the event will be used to finance $1,000 in student scholarships.

Gatorfest will get underway at 9 a.m. Entertainment is scheduled throughout the day, including Alan Marshall's Atlanta Dancers, Jerry Vaughn, the Gator Puppeteers, the Have Gator Will Travel Show, Don Ferron and the Deltonans, Hank Parker and the Drifters, the Gator Country Cloggers and various student groups from around Volusia County.

Holcomb said the event will put an emphasis on the environment with information about endangered species and their habitats being distributed at Gatorfest.

To the surprise of some, one of the prominent entries on the menu for the day will be Gatorbits, which are small nuggets of alligator meat.

"Actually, it is environmentally sound," he said of alligator harvesting. "They (gators) are thriving in the environment to the point where their numbers are getting to the dangerously high level."

Gatorfest is an alcohol free event, Holcomb said, because it the organizers "were very conscious of making sure the event is one that can be enjoyed by the whole family."

The Gatorfest is free, though there will be plenty of opportunities for revelers to purchase souvenirs, food and drinks.

A sock hop will follow the festival at 8 p.m. in the DeBary Fire Hall.

IN BRIEF

WSBL registration, camp

WINTER SPRINGS — The Winter Springs Basketball League is set to tip off its 1994-95 season and is now registering boys and girls in grades 1 through 9.

Associated again with the Orlando Magic youth program, the WSBL season will go from Dec. 3 through Feb. 12. The season-ending tournament is scheduled for Feb. 13-18. Games will be played on Saturdays and Sundays at Oviedo High School and Indian Trails, Tuskawilla, and Jackson Heights middle schools.

Registration forms are available at the offices of most county elementary and middle schools. League registration also will be conducted at Indian Trails Middle School between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Oct. 8, 15, 22, and 29.

The registration fee is $45 for the first child and $35 for each additional child. Add $10 for an official WSBL basketball complete with league logo and colors.

League tryouts will be Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 5 and 6, at Jackson Heights Middle School.

Also, for those elementary and middle school students on the Green Track, the WSBL is offering its second annual October Interscholastic Basketball School the weeks of Oct. 10-14 and 17-21. Sessions will be 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. daily at both Jackson Heights and Greenwood Lakes middle schools.

The cost is $70 per week or $120 for both weeks. The classes are limited to 80 players. For more information, call 321-8282.

Shaw signs with Magic

ORLANDO — The Orlando Magic made its second free-agent acquisition of the week Thursday, signing former Miami Heat guard Brian Shaw to a one-year contract.

Former Chicago Bulls All-Star power forward Horace Grant signed with Orlando on Monday.

Islanders blank Panthers

JACKSONVILLE — Zigmund Palffy scored twice and Frank Pietrangolo was outstanding in goal Thursday night as the New York Islanders posted a 4-0 exhibition victory over Florida.

The Panthers (1-4) dropped their fourth straight decision after opening with a victory. The Islanders improved to 3-3.

Ivan 'feeling pretty good'

CHARLOTTE — Ernie Ivan's stride was a bit off and the black eye patch was definitely new. But his smile and humor gave him away when Ivan made his first public appearance since suffering massive head injuries in a crash last month.

"I'm feeling pretty good. I'm just tired," Ivan said during his brief appearance. "They have me doing a lot of exercises and it's consuming. But I feel pretty good."

The 35-year-old Winston Cup driver made a vow to return to the NASCAR circuit.

"God saved me so maybe I can race again," he said. "It might take a little while. It could take three months or it could take a year. I really believe I will be at Daytona."

Lackluster Rams manage to take care of Panthers

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — Sometimes it takes a poor effort against a tough opponent to see just how good a team really is.

Despite a generally lackluster effort, the Lake Mary High School boys volleyball team remained undefeated with a 15-12, 11-15, 15-9 win Thursday night over the visiting Dr. Phillips Panthers.

Lake Mary now stands at 9-0 heading into Monday's Seminole Athletic Conference showdown with the Lake Howell Silver Hawks. Dr. Phillips drops to 7-2, both losses coming against the Rams.

The Rams' junior varsity squad also won, improving its record to 6-2.

Lake Mary coach Bill Whalen was relieved that the varsity Rams were able to get out of the match with their perfect record still intact.

"They (Dr. Phillips) are a good team," said Whalen. "We played a very lackluster match. I hope it was because we were looking past Dr. Phillips to Lake Howell on Monday."

"We played well in spots, but it was not one of our better matches. We looked like we needed a dose of No-Doz. But I guess that's the mark of a good team, when you can't play your best and still win. In the third game, we really sucked it up and played a real good game."

Darrell Dilmore led the Ram attack with 15 kills and 12 blocks. Dan Parsons contributed 13 kills and five blocks while Erik Larson had 13 kills and two blocks. Jeff Phillips added nine kills and eight blocks. Will Lipscomb collected all 42 of Lake Mary's assists.

LIONS NOTCH FIRST WIN

DELTONA — Raul Carrasquillo registered a school-record 21 kills to help rally the Oviedo Lions to a 5-15, 15-13, 16-14 win over the host Deltona Wolves in varsity boys volleyball play Thursday night.

It was the first win of the season for Oviedo (1-3).

Carrasquillo, who also had two blocks, served the final three points of the match for the Lions, who were in a 14-13 hole with Deltona serving at the end of the third game.

The Wolves' fill attempt for the possible match point was long, returning the serve to Carrasquillo and the Lions.

"Deltona is a very tall team," said Oviedo coach Terry Rappavolli. "They have a couple of 6-foot, 8-inch hitters and blockers in the middle of their lineup and they were hitting quick on us in the first game."

"Once we figured out the coverage and got together on our blocks, we were able to come back in the second and third games. It was a very close and intense match."

Travis Wechs and John Meert combined to make 10 blocks for the Lions while Carlos Martinez collected 30 assists.

Oviedo hosts Seminole in a Seminole Athletic Conference match Monday.

Sears Series to resume to Dragway

By AARON GREEN
Special to the Herald

BITHLO — Orlando Speed World Dragway will present its next Sears Craftsman Racing Series event tomorrow night, Saturday, Sept. 24.

The Sears Craftsman Racing Series features action in Super Pro, Pro, Sportman and Pro Cycle Eliminator. Current Orlando Speed World Dragway track points leaders are: Victor Fera from Merritt Island in Super Pro; Jeremy Hrabal of Orlando in Pro; Wayne Bunker from Oviedo in Sportman; and Winter Haven's David Gibson in Pro Cycle.

In Wednesday night's test runs for Saturday's race, Greg Samuel from DeLand topped the Top Eliminator runners with a run of 8.00 seconds at 160.12 miles per hour. Leading the Motorcycle riders was Rockledge's Tony Flagg with an E.T. of 8.29 at 150.08 mph.

Other Top Eliminator times were: Mike Gardner from Orlando, 9.06 at 149.33 mph; Ray Richards from Edgewater, 9.13 at 137.61 mph; Mike Lanier from Mims, 9.36 at 140.49 mph; and Charles Ingram from Cocon, 9.39 at 138.52 mph.

Following Flagg were: Ken Strickland from Oakland Park, 9.28 at 140.64 mph; Chris Williams from Orlando, 9.44 at 151.69 mph; Dean Bullington from Orlando, 9.85 at 131.25 mph; and Dick Pimenta from Winter Springs, 9.91 at 142.26 mph.

Gates open at 4 p.m. for the Sears Craftsman Racing Series event.

Time trials are set for 4:30 p.m. with final eliminations at 8 p.m.

Last Saturday night, Andrea Babiak from Orlando won the special "Queen of the Road" event in her 1984 Dodge. The runner up was Diana Fidler from Winter Springs in a 1986 Ford pick-up and Billie Bowers from Cocon was the semifinalist in her 1992 Ford Van.

Orlando's Tom Dixon in his 1979 Camaro topped the Sportsman Class over Stan Williams from Cape Canaveral in his 1973 Duster. The semifinalists were Wayne Brown from Winter Springs in a 1983 Corvette and Mark Bordeaux from Apopka in a 1985 Mustang.

Alan Lowry from Titusville on a Suzuki 1100 won the Pro Cycle Class over Bear Baker from Palm Bay on his Kawasaki 900. The semifinalists were Jim McGrath from Winter Park on a Suzuki 750 and Dave English from Winter Springs on a Kawasaki 1170.

The Dragway is located 10 miles east of Orlando on Highway 50, near the State Road 520 interchange.

Sophomore Aubrey Nelson contributed nine digs, five kills, and three blocks for Seminole in the Tribe's 15-12, 15-12 loss to the Lyman Greyhounds Thursday night.

Responses differ from results for Tribe, 'Hounds

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — It is possible to win and lose — and, conversely, lose and win — at the same time.

On Thursday night, for example, the Lyman Greyhounds swept the Seminole Fighting Seminoles 15-12, 15-12 in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls' volleyball match played at Seminole's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

Afterwards, Lyman coach Christy Tibbitts was upset and Seminole coach Beth Corso was elated.

"My team did a great job digging the ball tonight," said Corso. "We also had very good blocking. The team as a whole played real well. We changed some coverages and played very aggressively tonight."

"We also had 18 kills, but I really like getting those blocks (12 1/2 as a team). They're real important, so important, to staying in a match. We lost to Lyman tonight but we won a lot out there on that floor."

Jill Jaewic led the Seminoles with 10 digs, 11 kills, 10 other good spikes, and 4 1/2 blocks. Aubrey Nelson contributed nine digs, five kills, seven other good spikes, and three blocks.

Seminole setter Christina Campbell collected 18 assists to go with 31 other good sets, three kills off dinks, and seven other good dinks. Vilaphone Ratanavong added a kill, five good spikes, and two digs. Marissa Alford chipped in with 10 digs. Alternate setter Tina White had 3 1/2 blocks.

By comparison, Tibbitts was pleased with little of the Greyhounds' play.

"It's a good thing we served well tonight because we didn't do much else," said Tibbitts. "I know we're better than the way we're playing. We just have to keep working until we turn it around."

Lyman won both the freshmen and junior varsity matches in two games.

Seminole is scheduled to play in the West Orange Invitational this weekend while Lyman travels to Volusia County to play the Deltona Wolves (ranked No. 4 in the Florida Sports Writers Association's Class 6A state poll last week) on Saturday.

Defending' champs lead at Chase

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Defending Spring Thursday night champion AD Roaster/Florida Sport Wear moved to the head of the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Fall Thursday Night Slowpitch Softball League at Chase Park with a sweep of a doubleheader.

After MA Erectors (1-1) got its initial win of the season with a 7-2 triumph over Wayne Denach (0-2), AD Roaster/Florida Sport Wear scored all of its runs in the fifth inning to defeat Beer:30 (0-2), 5-2, in the second game of the evening.

In the nightcap, AD Roaster/Florida Sport Wear (3-0) scored four runs in the third inning to erase a 2-1 deficit and went on to hand Sportmart (2-1) its first loss of the season, 6-4, despite being outhit 19-11.

MA Erectors were led by Eric Bullock (three singles, run, two RBI), John Hagan (three singles), Rick Poore (two singles, two runs), Lonnie Tucker (two singles, run), Paul Rodriguez (two singles, RBI), Chris Bullock

Pinehurst home teams fall victim to mercy rule

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — It was not a pretty night for the home teams at Pinehurst Park.

The Flames, Ken Rummel Chevrolet, and Hopkins Meat Packing all collected their second victories of the season with blowout wins in the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Fall Thursday Night Slowpitch Softball League.

The Flames and Ken Rummel Chevrolet both improved to 2-0 with two-hit shutout triumphs, the Flames scoring 12 runs in the top of the first inning and cruising to a 20-0, 3 1/2-inning slaughter over Stiffey's Affordable Furniture (0-2) and Ken Rummel scoring in all five innings on the way to an 18-0, five-inning mercy rule blowout over Briar Corporation.

Hopkins Meat Packing (2-1) then topped the first two winners, scoring 14 runs in the top of the first inning and finishing the night with 31 hits in a 24-10, five-inning victory over Briar Corporation (0-3).

Next week, Hopkins Meat Packing plays Briar

Society revived in Sanford

Nancy Terwilliger (seated) was honored at an elegant bridal tea Saturday afternoon when society of a bygone era was revived at the idyllic home of Mary Beth Donaldson, hostess and aunt of the bride. Surrounding the honoree are (standing, from left) Nancy Terwilliger, paternal grandmother; Selma Williams, maternal grandmother and hostess; Linda Terwilliger, the bride's mother, and Sam Chit Rivers, mother of the bridegroom-to-be. The photo was captured in the Bride's Room at the tea. The three gowns hanging belong to the Selma's three daughters, Mary Beth, Linda and Jane Morgan, also a tea hostess. See story in Sunday's Herald.

Divorce appears solution to dad

DEAR MARY: My wife and I have just split up again, and this time it's for good. We've tried to hold the marriage together till the kids who are now teenagers, left home. But it's getting to the point where somebody's going to get hurt if we stay under the same roof, so I left.

The kids have heard way too much fighting and seen both of us act like out of control kids, but I want all of that to stop so we can get on with our lives. I'm not sure what my wife wants. I think the only thing that would make her happy is for me to die; but please tell me what I can do now to help all of us start recovering.

DEVORCING DAD

DEAR DIVORCING: Most experts agree that it's not divorce that makes kids get out of control, but how the divorce is handled. Losing a parent, whether to death or divorce, is certainly traumatic, but it need not be devastating. One important influence on how affected teenagers are by divorce hinges on the amount of supervision the custodial parent is able to give.

If that parent is and can maintain control, the kids are much less likely to get into trouble. Therefore, if your wife gets primary custody, be sure you maintain your financial responsibilities at a constant level.

Resolve to stop acting out in front of your kids regardless of the provocation. It takes more strength and courage to walk away from accusations and threats than to respond to them. Never speak badly of your kids' mother in front of them; do not pump them for information about what she's doing or who she's seeing, and if at all possible, be supportive and cooperative in discipline.

Maintain a strong relationship with the kids, and attempt to develop a polite, if not warm relationship with their mother. If both you and she can follow these guidelines, the chances of your kids being permanently harmed by the trauma of divorce is greatly reduced.

Move over, Big Bird Top 10 in children's software

A new world of educational entertainment has emerged that kids tap into simply by flipping the switch on a family computer. Sales are booming and prices are falling. Last year, consumers spent $146 million on educational computer programs, 47 percent more than in 1991. Partly, that's because PC sales rose as their prices across the board fell nearly 20 percent to an average of $1,800. At the same time, programs are becoming increasingly sophisticated, with compelling graphics, enhanced sound, and fancy video effects. Moreover, parents are eager to find ways to give their kids an edge in school. What these programs offer that books or TV programs cannot is interaction. Children set their own pace and receive instant feedback. Here's how to get started, plus a look at 10 great educational programs for kids ages two and up.

To choose the right software:
 • Focus on your child's field of interest. A kid who spends hours a day with his drum set may want to romp through "Rock and Back Studio," not a writing program.
 • Pick instant-access software, such as programs with spoken or graphic instructions or menus easily navigated with a mouse.
 • Find programs that have escalating levels of difficulty to boost longevity.
 • To identify quality programs, Money magazine talked to software reviewers and educators, including Warren

Preschool — Kid Pix (ages three and up) IBM, Mac; Broderbund Software, 800-521-6263. This classic painting program lets kids create colorful art with 20 Wacky Brushes, the Electric Mixer, or the Firecracker eraser. The new "Kid Pix Companion" adds motion-picture options.
Millie's Math House (two to six) IBM, Mac; Edmark, 800-426-0656. Millie the cow's house has six rooms where kids build bugs from zany parts, count wiggling critters, or match shoe sizes to feet.
The Playroom (three to six) IBM, Apple II series, Mac; Broderbund, 800-521-6263. Games such as ABC Book, Mixed-Up Toy, and the Cuckoo Clock teach kids about letters, numbers, and telling time.
Kindergarten through second grade — "Storybook Weaver" (six to 12), IBM, Mac; MECC, 800-685-6322. This award-winning program lets kids write and illustrate stories using 650 choices, including 36 people, 72 animals and 54 vehicles.

Treasure Mountain (five to nine) IBM only; The Learning Co., 800-652-2255. Climbing the Mountain requires uncovering clues that lead to hidden bounty. This program calls on a child's reading, math, science, and deductive reasoning skills.

The Treehouse (six to ten) IBM, Apple II series, Mac; Broderbund, 800-521-6263. This sequel to the successful The Playroom features seven games that teach kids about music, reading, animals, math, and science structure.

Third Grade and Up — DinoPark Tycoon (eight and up) IBM, Mac; MECC, 800-685-6322. Your budding entrepreneur develops problem-solving and money-management skills by creating a dinosaur theme park.

The Even More Incredible Machine (eight and up) IBM, Mac; Dynamix/Sierra On-Line, 800-326-6654. Kids invent machines from animated parts including cannons and treadmills.

Mental Math Games 2.0 (six to 14) IBM only; Waterford Institute, 801-572-1172. An outstanding math drill that helps students: speed and accuracy, using seven arcade games and addressing 355 skill levels.

Rock and Back Studio (seven to 14) IBM only; Binary Zoo, 514-846-4059. Learn music history, explore the Drum Clinic, or create music videos with special effects.

Man wants to warm up his cold wife

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my wife. She is a very good person in every way, but she has lost all interest in sex. We have been married for 11 years and have two wonderful children, but about five years ago, my wife made up her mind that she has had all the sex she will ever need.

Well, maybe she has, but I haven't. Don't suggest going to a counselor. She would never go. Never! She has told me that she would rather have a divorce than start having sex again.

Abby, is there something I can slip into her food that would turn her on? It would have to be tasteless; otherwise she would detect it in a minute.

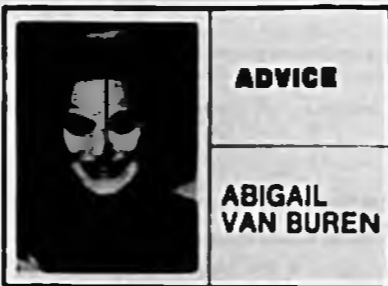

When I was a boy, I heard older boys talk about putting Spanish fly on gum and giving it to a girl. Where can a person buy it? I will be eternally grateful if you can help me.

BENNY (NOT REAL NAME) DEAR "BENNY": I know of nothing you could "slip" into your wife's food to "turn her on."

This is a problem for a marriage counselor. If she refuses to go with you, go alone. Ask your family doctor if he (or she) can recommend one, and don't be bashful about telling the doctor exactly what the problem is.

Today, people are much more enlightened about sexual relations than they were when you were a boy.

emaking. Think about it. It could open up a whole new world for both of you.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend, "Buddy," will be coming home soon, following a tour of duty overseas in the military. He's been gone for more than a year, and he's asked me to meet him at the airport.

Now the problem: He asked me not to tell his mom exactly when he's arriving, because he wants to spend his first evening alone with me. (He plans to call her the next day and "surprise" her.)

Abby, I'm happy Buddy wants to spend his first evening alone with me, but his mom has been calling me every day for the last two weeks asking if I know when Buddy will be arriving. So what should I do?

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend, "Buddy," will be coming home soon, following a tour of duty overseas in the military. He's been gone for more than a year, and he's asked me to meet him at the airport.

However, he may be doing her a disservice to assume she wouldn't understand his wanting to spend his first evening home with his girlfriend.

And by the way, if you plan to marry Buddy, remember that a man usually treats his wife the way he treats his mother.

DEAR ABBY: Do you want to hear a good one? I am an 82-year-old widow.

I borrowed a dollar from my son, who has a very good job and makes a lot of money.

I could not believe my eyes when I offered him the dollar — and he took it! What do you think of a son like that?

BAD MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I can't fault your son; he probably took the dollar because he assumed you sincerely wanted to repay your debt. If there's a lesson to be learned here, it's never make an insincere offer.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to the woman who asked if her family is unusual because she's a Democrat and her husband is a Republican, so they never talked politics any more — well, I suspect many people are "unusual" in the same way.

When my husband and I married, 22 years ago, we were both middle-of-the-road Democrats. Now we rarely talk politics.

I am a left-of-center feminist, my husband is a Rush conservative, and we absolutely are not able to discuss political issues. Yet, I would say we are happily married. After all, what counts in a marriage is love, respect, trust and integrity — not a voting record.

Guest speaker returns to Sanford

Special to the Herald

SANFORD - Dr. Oswald P. Bronson Sr., a Sanford native, will be the guest minister at the First United Methodist Church in Sanford on October 2, for the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services. His topic will be The Other Side of God based on a scripture in Job 11:7-10.

Dr. Bronson is in his 19th year as President of Bethune-Cookman College, where he graduated in 1960. He leads a highly skilled and talented faculty and staff of nearly 400, who are committed to providing excellent educational, social and cultural programs in a Christian environment for a student body of over 2,100. He has been labeled a "Key Power broker for the nation's black colleges" by Black Issues in Higher Education.

He served as a pastor in the Florida, Georgia and Rock River (Chicago) Conferences of the United Methodist Church for 16 years. He is the first African-American ever to have been elected to the Volusia County School Board. His civic and religious affiliations are numerous and his lists of honors and awards are a litany of him and his many outstanding accomplishments as an educational and religious leader. He has also served as National Spokesman for higher education while holding office as chairman of the President's Council and Chairman of the Board for NAPEO (National Association for Equal Opportunity in Higher Education). Bronson is the former president of the Interdenominational Theological Seminary. He received his master's degree from Gammon Theological Seminary in Atlanta and his doctorate from Northwestern University. He has received the honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from St. Paul's College, Lawrenceville, Virginia and honorary Doctor of Law degree from Seton University in Deland and Albion College, Albion, Michigan.

Dr. Oswald P. Bronson, Sr.

He and his wife, Helen, recently celebrated 41 years of marriage and are the proud parents of three children and three grandchildren.

Celibacy not an issue for Catholic priest

SANFORD - According to an Associated Press report from Atlanta the Rev. David Dye has an advantage over other Catholic priests who counsel engaged couples. He can fall back on his own experience as a husband for the past 23 years. "As a married priest, I can give couples a different perspective than a celibate priest. Not necessarily a better perspective, but different," Dye said.

Dye, 50, was an Episcopal priest until 1968, when he converted to Catholicism. He was ordained in the Catholic Church in 1962 under an exemption allowing priests from Anglican churches to be ordained as Catholics and remain married. He and his wife, Chantal, have three children, ages 13 through 20.

There are about 80 married Catholic priests in the United States, all of them former Episcopalians.

Father Trout, a priest from All Souls Catholic Church in Sanford commented on the controversy of those priests taking a vow of celibacy and the 80 new converted priests that remain married. "There are 52,000 priests in America," he said. "I venture to say that the number of priests that are married are a low percentage. I welcome them." Trout continued by saying, "I knew what I was getting into before I became a priest. You know you are taking a vow of celibacy. I don't think the vow of celibacy causes a problem. The attitude of the person is the issue. I think it's a positive move to have these priests. The fact is if you're going to make a poor priest, you'd also make a poor husband and father and the reverse is true."

The issue of celibacy in itself was discussed as a point that not just priests should be concerned about. "The problem is that people don't seem to realize that celibacy is something that God calls those that are single to practice until marriage," he said. "Even a situation where a man may experience his wife going into a coma. He has made a commitment to her to remain true to her for life. Celibacy would be another factor in this situation."

Many feel that married priests can bring a whole new dimension to matters such as marriage counseling. Richard Lamanna, a sociology professor at the University of Notre Dame said, "You don't have to be sick to treat an illness and you don't have to be married to be a marriage counselor."

Allen Chapel celebrates centennial

By SARVA WAHREN Herald Columnist

SANFORD - The Allen Chapel African Methodist Episcopal Church, West Olive Ave. and 12th St., will celebrate 100 years of Christian service to Sanford and Seminole county. Allen Chapel A.M.E. Church was organized in 1893 when 18 members of the St. James A.M.E. Church, (East Sanford), launched out on faith and met to discuss the formation of the A.M.E. church in the Goldboro area. The first Pastor was the Rev. W.H. Hall and the charter members were Frank Hall, William Walden, Sr., Dock Love, Herbert Jewett, William Walden, Jr., Clara Walden, W.B. Boykins, Cora Jackson, Ida Walden, Clara Walden II, Clorie Siplin, Rosa Boykina, R. Siplin, Annie Hall, Sharlet Love, Martha Jewett and the Rev. E.T. Davis.

Their central aim was to win souls for Christ and build a better church to worship, praise and give God glory. It was through fervent prayers and a steadfast belief that God was directing their steps that Brother A.D. Chappell was guided to donate the land at 13th St. and Williams Ave. to build the first Allen Chapel. Brother Herbert Jewett gave the first $60 to help build the church in 1893. The church grew and Allen Chapel's membership rose from 18 to 137 in attendance.

The present site of Allen Chapel was purchased after the first Allen Chapel burned. The church has witnessed the pastoring of 39 ministers who were appointed over the years to serve the church, now located on Olive Ave. and W 12th St. The Rev. John Henry Woodard has served the Allen Chapel family for 15 years.

The Allen Chapel and Rev. O.Cobb invite the city of Sanford and the community to join in the Christian celebration of their

Aneurysm linked to hypertension

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please provide information on abdominal aneurysms.

DEAR READER: As we age, the linings of our arteries lose their elasticity and strength, sometimes leading to a ballooning out of a weak portion of an artery (aneurysm). Often associated with hypertension (which accentuates stretching of the arterial wall), these aneurysms are not a hazard to health — unless the arterial wall stretches to the point where leakage of blood or actual rupture take place.

The severity of the arterial bulge (and its progression) can be monitored by X-rays or ultrasound examinations. When, and if, the aneurysm reaches a critical size, which depends on the diameter of the artery itself, the weakened portion must be surgically removed and a nylon prosthesis put in its place.

In general, an abdominal aneurysm is a bulge somewhere in the aorta as it passes from the chest to the legs. This usually produces no symptoms, can be felt by a physician during an examination, and is confirmed by an ultrasound test. Ordinarily, this situation can, as I mentioned, be periodically monitored; an operation is required only if the aneurysm enlarges.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach to Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have only one kidney and love green olives. I eat them by the jar-full. Am I overworking my kidney?

DEAR READER: Depending on your age and general state of health, you can lead a normal, active and productive life with only one kidney. As is her way, Mother Nature provides us with ample tissue, so that loss of a paired organ is not a catastrophe. To my knowledge, green olives in moderation should not adversely affect your kidney. I would, however, caution you about consuming excess salt, a practice that is common in the United States. An overabundance of dietary salt may strain the kidney(s), because these organs are designed to excrete salt that is unused during metabolism.

No doubt, having looked at the full deal, you started with the spade ace. But what would you have done next if West had discarded?

South saw immediately that if the trumps were breaking 2-1, he couldn't go down. But if they were 3-0, he would be in jeopardy only if West was void.

So, South played a spade to dummy's king. When East showed out, declarer led a spade to his ace, cashed the club king and heart ace, ruffed a heart in the dummy and called for the club queen, on which he discarded the diamond five.

West opted not to ruff, so declarer exited with a trump to West's queen. What could West lead now? Either red suit would give South an extra trick in the suit, and his 12th in all.

HORO

By Bernice Bode Deal
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Sept. 24, 1994

Some conditions that have impeded your progress over the past year will be diminished in the year ahead. This could open new vistas for you where success beckons.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today, don't put yourself in a position where you might be held responsible for a friend's obligation. This could happen rather easily if you're oblivious to what's going on around you. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your ideas could be superior to your mate's today, but he/she may not be convinced of this if your presentation lacks clarity. Present a logical case, not an emotional one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a possibility today that the person from whom you're hoping to extract a favor might also be looking for a favor from you. It could result in a showdown.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Social events may hold a strong appeal for you today, yet large groups of people could unnerve you. Share your time with intimate friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you want to do something constructive today, that's great. However, don't get down on your family just because the project doesn't arouse their enthusiasm.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Someone might have some information for you today that could serve your best interests. Don't reject it just because of the source.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today you might be so concerned that others do what's expected of them that you fall to do what's expected of you. Set an example instead of standards.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Establish objectives today and slant your efforts towards serving your personal interests; this might be a day where you won't be able to please others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even though you may wish to spend time on activities of your choosing today, this might not be possible, because of duties you've neglected previously.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today you might be inclined to champion unpopular causes. Others won't object to the position you take, provided you don't attempt to impose it on them.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You might set rather lofty objectives for yourself today, and this is admirable. However, you may lack the fortitude necessary to gratify them. Don't toss in the towel prematurely.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In matters that pertain to your work or career, it's best not to express your intentions prematurely. A cunning co-worker might take your good ideas and run with them.

WIN AT E

No doubt, having looked at the full deal, you started with the spade ace. But what would you have done next if West had discarded?

South saw immediately that if the trumps were breaking 2-1, he couldn't go down. But if they were 3-0, he would be in jeopardy only if West was void.

So, South played a spade to dummy's king. When East showed out, declarer led a spade to his ace, cashed the club king and heart ace, ruffed a heart in the dummy and called for the club queen, on which he discarded the diamond five.

West opted not to ruff, so declarer exited with a trump to West's queen. What could West lead now? Either red suit would give South an extra trick in the suit, and his 12th in all.
