By Kathy Tyrity Herald Staff Writer

A $125,000 federal community action grant to help low-income people get on the road to self sufficiency is available to Seminole County, and the county commission wants it. But the health department's proposal is to use two-thirds of the grant for administrative salaries.

"There appears to be a philosophical difference board," warned board Chairman Fred Streetman.

The way the grant it set up, the county commission would have final say on management and spending, but recommendations would be made from a three-part advisory board. One-third of the members would be elected from among low-income people; one-third would be elected in how the money should be spent, and we don't city or county officials or their representatives, want to preempt the (soon-to-be-named) advisory and one-third would be appointed by the county from private sector business. That way, the county would have a direct say in who makes up two-thirds of the board.

At this week's work session, commissioners directed staff to come up with a process of picking the maximum 12-member advisory board which is supposed to develop a grant proposal. Commissioner Sandra Glenn, Health and Human Services Director Dr. Jorge Deju, and County Attorney Nikki Clayton are to work up plans for initiating the grant proposal.

To get the grant, the county must match funds by 20 percent - but most of that can be by in-kind services. There was no disagreement that

Cardinal Oaks Residents Plead For Yards, Tree

By Genie Lindberg Herald Staff Writer

Before Lake Mary's Planning and Zoning Board members could get down to business at their last meeting, they listened to the pleas of Cardinal Oaks homeowners who want the city to save their environment, their backyards and a 250-year-old oak tree.

The pleas came while P&Z memters were considering a request to vacate portions of three roads in Lake Mary Woods, phase II, adjacent to Cardinal Oaks. The city commission will have a work session on the matter at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

One of the roads, Second Road (Webster St.), will eventually be extended five or six hundred feet to Sprucewood Road and that extension would run directly behind some of the Cardinal Oaks homes and "disturb the privacy of homeowners' backyards," Cardinal Oaks homeowner Bonnie Manjura told the board Tuesday evening.

The vacated portions of the roads will also be used as a storm water drainage area for the developer, Terry Hagen, who has proposed that a

By Susan Loden

Herald Staff Writer Three Tampa residents have been nabbed in the bust of suspected crack cocaine "factory" house in Sanford. Sanford police had been investigating activity at the house for 14 months and other arrests are possible, Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett said today.

Police with a warrant searched the home Wednesday afternoon and arrested the only three occupants of the home, all from Tampa. Harriett said those suspects have been seen at that home at 1014 W. Eight St., Sanford, for the past several days.

Inside the home police reported finding three loaded pistols. One was cocked and ready to shoot, Harriett said. Various items of drug parapherna-

Mrs. Manjura, who said she moved to Lake Mary because of its trees and wildlife, said she was concerned that there be proper storm water systems and run-off in that area of the development and that care be taken in maintaining environmental balance.

"We love Lake Mary and want to make sure this is developed appropriately," she said. "I really think we're interested in welcoming new neighbors, but there's a right way to build and a wrong way to build, and I hope the board will consider this '

Tom Mahoney, another Cardinal Oaks resident, questioned whether the request to vacate portions of roads in Lake Mary Woods, II, meant that the roads would be redesigned. P&Z, told citizens the plat for Lake His concern, he said, was a 250-year-old tree directly behind his house that "had 100 years of good life mission when Hagen bought the in it" and he wanted to be sure the property, which was prior to approval city was aware of it before the road (Webster St.) was extended. # School Board To Sue Parents

The Seminole County School Board decided Wednesday to sue the parents of one elementary school student and four middle school students accused of vandalizing one of the district's elementary schools.

The students are accused of damaging eight school trophies, pouring paint on a classroom floor and climbing through a skylight window causing $9,400 damage. The incidents occurred last June at Spring Lake Elementary school in Forest City, according to school board attorney Ned Julian, Jr.

Julian said Circuit Judge Robert

McGregor, who is trying the five students, told him that he was concerned the board would not hold the parents responsible for the vandalism. The judge said the destruction was the most costly in the school district's history, Julian said.

State law, Julian said, only allows school boards to sue parents for up to $5,000 for malicious acts by children.

Julian asked that the board recommend suing the parents because the parents could afford to pay.

Choir May Offer Easter Performance

King Tribute Provides $2,000 In Scholarships

By Karen Talley Herald Staff Writer

About $2,000 in scholarships is expected to result from Sanford's Martin Luther King tribute-luncheon that was originally expected to lose money, members of the tribute planning committee were told Tuesday.

Additionally, between $300 and $400 in tribute funds will be donated to the Martin Luther King Center in Atlanta and discussions have already begun for next year's tribute.

As another spinoff of the celebration, the 90-member interdenominational King celebration choir will probably be performing this spring at the city's annual Easter morning sunrise service on Lake Monroe.

Planning for the four events held the week of Jan. 11-17 was led by the city commissions' Human Relations Advisory Board. The purpose was to recognize King's concepts of racial and religious harmony. The nine-member board brought in various members of the community to assist their planning efforts, which began last August.

Discussed by committee members at Tuesday's meeting at city hall was the possibility of next year's tribute being planned as a one day affair to be held in Ft. Mellon Park. Instead of four events, with separate fees and collections, the city could charge between $5 and $10 for a day-long outdoor affair featuring four events similiar to those held this year. The program could offer a celebrity concert, a religious observance, activities for children and a performance by the interdenominational choir, according to a suggestion from committee member Shirley Schilke.

Mrs. Schilke said her proposal was actually the result of a suggestion she received from Pearl Balley, who appeared at the Jan. 14 King tribute luncheon.

Miss Bailey "said we should plan something for the 'little man' next year, something families could afford and enjoy together." Mrs. Schilke said.

She also said, after initial difficulties, it appears Miss Balley's appearance in Sanford will supply $2,000 in scholarship monies for Lake Mary and Seminole high school students. A shortfall to cover the entertainer's appearance fee and expenses had been expected just prior to the luncheon, but community support put the affair in the black, she said.

Committee members unanimously agreed once all expenses related to the luncheon have been covered, the balance, estimated at around $2,000, will be given in King's name to the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce education committee's scholarship fund. The chamber's annual awards are made in May, based on the students' accomplishments and need.

Committee members also agreed, unanimously, that the King center in Atlanta will receive the $300 to $400 that is expected to remain after expenses are covered for the Jan. 17 King tribute culminating banquet.

A full break-down of all expenses and profits will be compiled this month by tribute committee head Lurleen Sweeting. She is to present the accounting to city commissioners.

In addition to the anticipated luncheon profit scholarships, the King tribute awards for six students and another $700 year."

will be given 14 others through $50 savings bonds. These scholarship monies were donated by private residents and Seminole Community College. The savings bond funds came from a collection taken at the Jan. 11 religious observance that began the week-long King tribute.

All committee members agreed Tuesday their participation had been rewarding, and most said they'll be willing to help plan next year's effort. The same was not indicated by Ms. Sweeting and religious observance sub-committee head Rev. Richard Danielak. Both said "other talent" might possibly be culled to fill their slots next year. Ms.

Sweeting said her decision would come 'after we finish up with this year." Danielak also said he "was very disap-

"Of course this was to be expected, I think," he said. "A lot of them may preach what they believe, but when it comes down to really being a part of it, well this was very

Montana Mine Is First Step

Relatively rich deposits of platinum being discovered in Montana could make the United States less dependent on foreign suppliers of the vital metal. It would be a welcome development.

Until the Montana discovery, the world's only significant source of platinum outside of volatile South Africa was the Soviet Union. While the Montana mine, which is north of Yellowstone National Park, may not satisfy the total platinum needs of the United States, hope exists that other deposits may be found near the current mine.

Platinum traditionally has been used for making jewelry and scientific instruments. But it has taken on added importance in recent years because it is essential to catalytic converters, which are required on new automobiles to help keep the air clean.

Another rare metal, palladium, which is produced at the Montana mine, is also used in catalytic converters.

At least one major problem remains. The United States has no smelter capable of converting the sandy concentrate from the mine into pure platinum and palladium. The concentrate must be shipped to highprecision smelters in Belgium and Norway and the metal shipped back. This is an awkward process. Once a steady supply of platinum ore is assured, it should become economically feasible to build a similar smelter in the United States.

Given the vagaries of international trade and geopolitics, keeping the entire process from mining to the final stage of refining within the United States would be the most prudent approach.

CHUCK STONE An Image: America's Cup Vs. 'Amerika'

Will the real America please stand up? Both can't be authentic. Yet, contrasting images in newspaper stories and a TV miniseries have been swamping us.

Image one radiates the comfortable superiority to which Americans have grown accustomed — the Stars & Stripes drowning Australia's impertinent aspirations to the America's Cup. symbol of yachting supremacy.

This is the same America that has paraded self-confidence of such global audacity that it titles its national baseball championship the World Series.

Image two — "Amerika" — is a Russianoccupied country, conquered in a seven-part ABC television series.

Fiction isn't always as idiotic as this TV absurdity, but "Amerika" has managed to galvanize a lightheaded brigade into protest.

At the head of the pack is the United Nations, threatening legal action because the show's portrayal of the U.N. doesn't resemble its goody-two-shoes self-conception.

Close behind the U.N. is Chrysler. The auto

manufacturer withdrew its sponsorship of "Amerika" because of an advertising desire to be closer to upbeat America than downfallen "Amerika."

A company can't expect to sell "made in the U.S.A." cars when its potential customers are being bored for 14½ hours by U.S.S.R. occupation. But Chrysler should have withdrawn sponsorship simply because the series is awful.

If "Amerika" dulls your sense, reawaken them by rallying 'round the flag with the Stars & Stripes.

For 132 years, the United States has won the America's Cup so consistently that virtually nobody but the most avid — and wealthiest — fans paid attention.

Then some Australian upstarts captured the cup in 1983.

The cup's loss would not have been as insulting if one of the world's industrial giants had sailed off with the trophy.

But Australia?

How can anybody take seriously a country situated on the underbelly of the world and

Maybe it's the lull between the Super Bowl and the beginning of the NBA playoffs that left sports junkies lusting for something to cheer about.

It certainly wasn't yachting's universal popularity.

Not many Americans can afford to participate in a race that costs $15 million to run. Yachting is the polo of the seas.

But a race for any world championship always creates a passion for heroes.

Time magazine anticipated that national hunger by featuring the Stars & Stripes' skipper. Dennis Connor, on its cover — even before he had won two races.

Sun-browned Connor with his white-oiled lips, giving him a minstrel-like cast, has refueled America's lamp of patriotic good feeling.

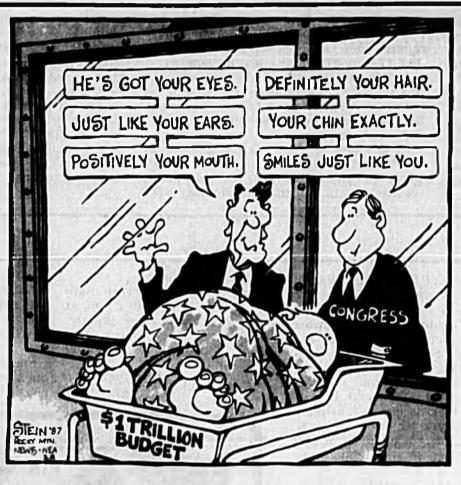

As a born-again yachting fan. I was not immune to the national applause.

Alien Law Isn't Working

Right on schedule, America's new immigration law is throwing off its friendly mask. Among the victims: businesses, which are about to be saddled with still more pointless regulations.

In New York State (and no doubt elsewhere, too), productive workers already have been fired by skittish employers who are unsure about their origins. Meanwhile, the Immigration and Naturalization Service has proposed giving companies all of 24 hours to determine the citizenship of newly hired workers.

Enjoy paperwork? The INS has just the thing. It's called I-9, a government form all job applicants will have to fill out from now on. To complete this inconvenience — and to heighten the atmosphere of suspicion of applicants who look or sound foreign — everyone will also be required to submit two IDs or a passport for inspection.

SCIENCE WORLD Computer Chips Aid Paralyzed

By Delthia Ricks UPI Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A marriage of technologies microsurgery and microelectronics — threading human nerves through a silicon chip may be the answer to an age-old puzzle: how to restore use to limbs paralyzed by nerve damage.

Scientists at Stanford University who are trying to learn more about the growth of damaged nerve cells think that a microchip in the next decade will help change the fate many condemned to a life with useless limbs.

"If we can get a genuine direct access to the peripheral nervous system, there is no end to what can be accomplished," said Dr. Morton Grosser, one of a growing number of scientists trying to join animal function to basic microelectronics. He envisions a day when people who have undergone surgery for reattachment of severed extremities will regain complete sensation with implantable chips helping restore nervous system function lost to crushed or severed nerves. But for now, the work is in the laboratory and test subjects are rats and monkeys.

The Government Accounting Office report on the Emergency Jobs Appropriation Act of 1983 is altogether disheartening. This multi-billion dollar boondoggle is enough to set taxpayers' teeth on edge.

When the nation's unemployment rate was more than 11 percent and 12.5 million persons were out of work in the country's worst recession since the Great Depression, the Jobs Act was expected to produce up to half a million jobs.

Instead of funneling the funds for programs providing immediate jobs, Congress spent about 86 percent on long-term capital projects such as highways and dams. These big projects take years to design and plan before they are constructed, and do nothing to provide short-term relief for unemployed blue-collar workers.

Predictably, the act produced bureaucratic horrors. The Department of Education, for example, was given $40 million to remove barriers at schools for handicapped students.

Two years later, not a cent had been spent because the department had not developed regulations for distributing the funds.

It gets worse. After 15 months, $3.1 billion had been spent and only 35,000 jobs created — at a cost of $88,751 per job. If the entire $9 billion had been spent, the GAO reports, only 130,000 jobs would have been produced at a cost of $68,700 per job!

Mind you, during the same 15-month period, 5.8 million jobs were being created by private businesses.

And that's the oft-taught and seldomlearned lesson from this latest fiasco of simply throwing money at a given problem. Government doesn't belong in the job-creation business. These meddlesome rules might be forgiven if they actually addressed a serious problem. In fact they don't. They flail at a myth, namely that the current wave of immigrants (by which is really meant Hispanic immigrants) threatens to become socially indigestible.

According to our neo-nativists, we've got to stop this dusky invasion, or else a second society will grow up within our midst, one permanently poor, alienated and speaking a different tongue. If this were true, it would be worth worrying about. It would also call for beefing up our southern border patrol to choke off the influx of illegal aliens, a tactic that should have been employed anyway before forcing business to function as a surrogate agent for the INS.

Happily, the evidence suggests a different outcome for Hispanic immigrants. Like every group before them, Hispanics are making progress.

To appreciate this fact, it's necessary first to put the Hispanic community in perspective. Between 1950 and 1980, while the total U.S. population expanded by about 50 percent, the Hispanic population was increasing by 265 percent. Moreover, as many as one-third of Hispanics in national surveys say they were born abroad.

Should anyone really be alarmed that a booming population reinforced by impoverished newcomers tends to lag a bit?

Filipinos Vote Again

President Corazon Aquino of the Philippines has two big wins.

A year ago, there was the "people power" revolution that reversed the election her predecessor sought to rig and swept her into power. Now, with its overwhelming approval of a new constitution, the Philippines public has again rebuffed her opponents of both right and left.

But the real test for Aquino is still ahead. Her personal popularity with the public was never in doubt. The real issue going into this last vote was her ability to deal with the Philippines' massive and ingrained problems.

It still is for two more votes coming up. They are the crucial ones, says

Richard Kessler, a Philippines watcher at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace in Washington, if the country is to reverse its long slide into economic and political disorder.

In May, the voters will be choosing a new National Assembly. In August, new local governments. In both elections, the great majority of candidates will not be Aquino loyalists.

"They will be the same sort of people that has contributed to the Philippines' problems over the years," Kessler predicts, "the same local elites basically interested in their own political and economic aggrandizement, and not in the nation's welfare."

In part, the problem is basic to the Philippine political system. There aren't that many good people around. Corruption is so ingrained that there is little impetus for honesty.

But the president also has herself in large part to blame. She has not moved to transform personal popularity into an organized political base. There is no mechanism in place for selecting candidates on a national scale that the president could count on for support.

Instead, the candidates will be largely self-selected traditional politicians, Philippines style, who put personalities and rhetoric before programs and issues.

"The danger," says Kessler, "is that the assembly that will come in, and the local government officials, will not really be understanding of the need for fundamental change. As a result the left will gain in strength, and finally the military will become frustrated enough to mount a real coup."

It hasn't helped that the people close to Aquino view the military with suspicion verging on hostility. They don't yet seem to be willing to accept the military as part of the government, says Kessler, or to recognize it as the only thing standing between them and the militant extreme left.

At the moment, as several attempted mini-coups have demonstrated. President Aquino's popularity is more than a match for opposition from the military or any other quarter. "This project is in its nascent stages," said Grosser. "We've been working on it for the past 2 ½ years and estimate that it will be at least five years before we'll begin testing in humans."

Grosser and co-researcher Dr. Joseph Rosen, a Stanford surgeon, have managed to coax nerve endings — tiny axons — to grow through computer chips with holes only eight micrometers in diameter. Axons are the part of a nerve cell through which electrical impulses travel away from the cell body.

The chip could be programmed to electronically reroute axons growing through the holes and make them transmit nerve impulses to the non-functioning limb.

Scientists say, once implanted, the chip would act as a "switchboard" or microelectronic "axon processor" to trigger sensation in severed nerves permitting people with reattached limbs to achieve near normal use.

"When nerves are severed." said Grosser, "there's no signal transmission of any kind and until a few years ago that was the end of the story."

Lawmakers Take $55,000 Jet To Jamaica

By Jack Anderson And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — If you've been wondering why Congress has such a hard time cutting costs, consider this: Twice within the past year, members of Congress used a $7,625-an-hour Air Force jet to fly to a privately sponsored conference, even though they had been told that the sponsoring organization would be happy to pay their commercial air fares.

Out of 22 members who attended a conference on U.S.-Soviet relations in Montego Bay, Jamaica, last month, 17 spurned the offer of a free commercial flight, choosing instead to fly Air Force at a cost to the taxpayers of about $55,000. Last April, 12 out of 20 congressional participants in a similar confabulation in Bermuda flew Air Force at a cost of about $28,000.

Both conferences were part of a program arranged by the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies, which plans more of the same for the same members of Congress. Use of the Air Force plane was arranged by House Majority Leader Tom Foley, D-Wash., and Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind. "I thought it was appropriate." Foley told our reporter Lisa Sylvester.

When asked about the inclusion of air fares in the Carnegie grant. Foley said he was "innocent of any knowledge of the budget." He contended that the conference was worthy of an official aircraft, and added this revealing observation: "I do not regard the purpose of this trip to be of less value than other trips I have taken."

Hamilton echoed his leader's deelaration of principle, declaring: "We requested (the plane) for what we thought to be a very worthy purpose. The Aspen Institute designed this program to increase our understanding of the single most important foreign policy issue."

A spokeswoman for Aspen, which set up the conference series on U.S.-Soviet relations, acknowledged

Foley's innocence of the junket's budget was not Aspen's fault, according to former Sen. "We didn't know there would be an Air Force plane when we made an Air Force plane when we made the arrangements," said Clark, who added that Aspen had no intention of reimbursing the Air Force for the cost of the flights.

Foley questioned the figure of $7,625 an hour for the Air Force C-137, a comfortable, military version of the Boeing 707. He reckoned that the only real cost would be for fuel. But an Air Force spokesman insisted that other maintenance and other items be included, and said: "The final $7,625-per-hour figure is what it costs to fly that aircraft from Point A to Point B."

Chernobyl Radiation In Austria

BOSTON (UPI) — Austrian researchers reported Wednesday they found small amounts of radiation in milk from cows and breast-feeding women following the Chernobyl nuclear accident. Although the levels of radiation detected were low, even trace amounts can cause concern for young children and infants, the scientists said.

"Although the hazards from ingesting contaminated foods such as milk are almost cer-tainly exceedingly small for adults, there may be some haz-ard for fetuses and rapidly growing infants," they said in a letter to The New England Journal of Medicine.

Frank Castronovo, professor of radiology at Harvard Medical School, said the findings raise questions about the possible long-term effects of these small amounts of radiation on children.

"You worry about an infant because you worry about the latent effects of radiation. A child has more years in the bank and a longer time period to walt for the pathology to show up," he said. "In 20 or 30 years, it might cause cancer or some metabolic problem."

The Austrian researchers analyzed 319 samples of cow's milk from three Austrian dairies, 188 samples of milk sold in supermarkets in the Vienna area and 118 samples of breast milk collected at the University of Vienna.

During the first two weeks after the April 26, 1986, accident, concentrations of radioactive iodine 131 in cow's milk delivered to the dairies were as high as 3,550 bequrels – which is equivalent to about one-tenth the level from radioactive material used in a common adult thyroid test.

Because of government regulation, the amounts found in milk sold in supermarkets never exceeded 200 bequrels, the re-

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan is trying to put his White House in order amid his worst political crisis with a shakeup of National Security Council staff and a search for new political aides.

Under the shadow of the Iran arms-Contra aid crisis, the White House reported Wednesday the appointment of eight assistants to oversee units of a revamped NSC under new national security adviser Frank Carlucci.

"A lot of fresh blood has been brought into that organization," presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said in describing Carlucci's "aggressive program" to overhaul the top-secret council tainted by the scandal.

The NSC is the White House operation that served as a base for Vice Adm. John Poindexter, the ex-national security adviser, and Lt. Col. Oliver North, a key deputy, who were ousted when it was revealed that profits from U.S. arms sales to Iran were diverted to Swiss bank accounts for use by Nicaraguan rebels.

Many of Poindexter's top staff were removed in the Carlucci juggernaut, and the eight men named Wednesday as special assistants to the president are for the most part hard-line conservatives who are already serving on the staff.

Pizza Connection Defendant Shot

NEW YORK (UPI) - While his wife screamed in terror, a defendant in the "pizza connection" Mafia heroin trial was shot three times in the back and critically wounded in an apparent gangland hit on a crowded Greenwich Village street.

Police said today they were searching for at least three suspects in the shooting of the defendant, Pietro Alfano, 46, and an apparent bystander, Robert Price, 31, who was wounded in the right buttock.

Alfano, a church-going pizzeria owner in the farming community of Oregon, Ill., accused of distributing heroin. underwent surgery at St. Vincent's Hospital, where he was in critical condition today. Police posted an "around the clock" guard at the hospital.

Chief of Detectives Robert Colangelo said Alfano appeared to be the target of a mob execution attempt, but could not offer an exact motive for the shooting, which came as defense summations were beginning in the 16-month-old trial.

New Evidence Gains Panel More Time

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan answered more questions from his special National Security Council review board and is giving it more time to complete its work as new reports emerge tying the NSC to a private Contra aid network.

Reagan "answered all of the board's questions" in his second session with the three-member panel, which lasted about 70 minutes at the White House Wednesday, a spokesman said. The board said it had made a "recent acquisition of new material" and needed an extra week to wrap up - and Reagan quickly granted it.

It was not certain if the "new material" linked the NSC to the supply network, which was referred to today in The New York Times. Sources told the newspaper the board had uncovered "striking new material" regarding a private supply network at a time when U.S. ald to the Nicaraguan rebels was illegal. The issue of secret aid to the Contras is just one aspect of the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal being pursued by congressional panels and an independent federal prosecutor.

A related report today said Secretary of State George Shultz sparked the inquiry that exposed the Iran-Contra connection by clashing with Reagan over misleading testimony CIA Director William Casey planned to give to Congress in the affair.

The Washington Post said Shultz objected to the testimony in a tense showdown with Reagan in the White House living quarters Nov. 20, just five days before Attorney General Edwin Meese announced his preliminary inquiry had turned up a scheme to divert profits to the Contras from covert U.S. arms sales to Iran.

Officials told the Post Casey's testimony prepared for Nov. 21 would have denied the U.S. government knew about an arms shipment made by a CIA-controlled airline from Israel to Iran in November 1985.

Casey instead planned to tell the Senate Intelligence Committee the flight was believed to involve oil drilling equipment a cover story the committee now has reported was devised by the NSC's Lt. Col. Oliver North.

But Shultz knew senior government officials were aware of the shipment of 18 HAWK anti-aircraft missiles in November 1985, and the Post said Casey's written testimony was revised before he talked to the commit-Icc.

Even so, the newspaper said, Casey asserted verbally that "to the CIA's knowledge" the November shipment contained oil drilling equipment.

Reagan's meeting Wednesday with the special board he appointed "reviewed the National Security Council process and the development and execution of

The 18-month study by the Stanford University Working Group on Compliance also asserted that U.S. withdrawal from current pacts such as the unratified SALT 2 treaty "is not justified on the basis of the Soviet compliance record."

Shultz Assures SDI Caution

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Secretary of State George Shultz is assuring Congress the administration will not jump the gun and deploy the first phase of "Star Wars" without a clear, confident idea" of how the system would work.

Shultz said Wednesday on Capitol Hill the administration would subject any deployment of the futuristic Strategic Defense Initiative to established criteria of being technically feasible, survivable and cost-effective.

His pledge came just hours after Sen. William Proximire, D-Wis., released a letter he wrote to Shultz warning lawmakers would not approve funds for early deployment of SDI unless it meets those criteria enacted by Congress in 1985.

The information was contained in the transcript of a secret March 6, 1986, hearing by a congressional subcommittee examining security at the nation's nuclear defense operations run by the Energy Department.

Department officials testified that security weaknesses uncovered by their own raids were being corrected and that the Pantex weapons plant near Amarillo was closed in late 1985 for live days to make security improvements, including the installation of metal detectors.

Rep. John Dingell, D.Mich., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on investigations, said as he opened the hearing:

"At Pantex, we had sex in the guard towers. At a facility where the guards spend lonely nights in the guard towers protecting hundreds of kilograms of special nuclear materials, high explosives and untold numbers of finished nuclear weapons, some guards lay down their said.

Dingell said in the Pantex test, an employee participating in the exercise managed to smuggle in a pistol, silencer and mock explosives to be used "several days later in a successful at-tempt to steal bomb parts containing (mock) plutonium."

Congressional sources said the employee stole the parts, tossed them over a security fence and then ran back into a building. While guards thought the mock attack was inside the plant, the stolen parts actually were outside where "accomplices" could have gotten to them.

Dingell, in a letter in January 1986 to President Reagan, also said that in a May 1985 test at the Savannah River plant in South Carolina - where weapons grade nuclear materials are produced - mock terrorists "were able to steal (mock) plutonium."

Energy Department officials said Dingell's account was "not totally factual" and security at the plant since has been improved.

Doctor Denies Liberace Cover Up

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - The attorney for Liberace's physician, who was indirectly accused by a county coroner of pulling "a fast one" by not listing AIDS as the entertainer's cause of death. denied the physician engaged in a cover-up.

"We categorically deny there was an attempt to cover up." said attorney William Ginsburg. who represents Dr. Ronald Daniels of Whittier. "Dr. Daniels had a high suspicion AIDS could be involved, but he didn't have a definite conclusion. It is even more irresponsible to list someone's death as AIDS these days if you're not sure."

Daniels, who specializes in internal medicine, said on Liberace's death certificate that the flamboyant pianist died of heart failure brought on by a degenerative brain disease complicated by emphysema. But Riverside County Coroner Ray Carrillo announced Monday that Liberace'sdeath on Feb. 4 was caused by AIDS and. without mentioning names, said there was a deliberate attempt to "pull a fast one" on authorities by covering up the true cause.

SCC Overpowers Santa Fe; Plays Daytona For Host Role

By Mark Blythe Herald Sports Writer

GAINESVILLE - Seminole Community College's Raiders went inside Wednesday night and came away with an 81-78 Mid-Florida Conference victory over Santa Fe Community College to move within one victory of the host's role in the MFC post-season tournament next week.

Claude Jackson and Vance Hall, SCC's "St. Pete Connection," combined for 45 points and 19 rebounds as the Raiders overpowered upset-minded Santa Fe before a paltry 76 fans at Santa Fe's gymnasium.

The Raiders improved to 26-4 and 10-3 in the conference. The Saints fell to 9-19 and 2-11. SCC journeys to Daytona Beach Saturday in a game which will decide the host team for the Mid-Florida Conference post-season tpurnament and second berth at the tate tournament. Daytona, 11-2. nocked off Central Florida, 89-78, Vednesday.

"I feel great," Seminole coach Bill Payne said. "I feel the kids did a real good job tonight, though Santa Fe doesn't have a great record they are a very good team.

Jackson finished the night with a team-high 24 points, which included 14 of 16 from the free throw line, and a game-high 11 rebounds. Hall scored 21 points grabbed eight boards and blocked seven shots.

"They (Hall and Jackson) played great tonight." Payne said. "The perimeter players were able to get the ball inside and the inside people came through."

Seminole battled to a 39-35 halftime lead and then built the spread to 11 points before Santa Fe made a late run.

After Hall's hoop gave Seminole a 64-53 lead with 7:14 remaining. Brian Jessie buried a jumper followed by a three-pointer by Craig Van Horn to cut the lead to 64-58 with 6:18 to play.

The Raiders had the opportunity to put the game away but failed to convert on three consecutive one-and-one attempts. The Saints' Jay Renbarger connected on a threepointer, slicing the lead to 66-63 with 4:55 left.

Hall then put down a bucket followed by a pair of free throws by Darris Gallagher to push the advantage to 70-63.

Seminole had another chance to wrap things up when Gallagher came up with an apparant steal and had Jackson all alone in front of the pack. Gallagher, though, lost control and Jessie picked up the ball and slammed it through bringing Santa Fe to within 70-65 with 3:16 remaining.

Malcolm Houston killed the Saints momentum drilling a three-point shot with 2:55 to play to push the lead to 73-65.

Rodney Rush. who scored a gamehigh 25 points, then scored the next five points of the game to close the gap to 73-70 with 2:13 to play.

Gallagher then rushed the ball down the floor and spotted Hall who was fouled and made both attempts from the line to make it a 75-70 game with 2:03 left.

After Jessie put down 1 of 2 from the line the teams traded baskets with Jessie hitting the latter with 1:02 to play and the score 77.73.

Rush cut the lead to two by hitting a pair from the line before SCC broke the press and brought the ball to midcourt where Jackson was fouled. Jackson stepped to the line and hit both attemps making it a 79-75 ballgame.

Van Horn cut the lead to one. 79-78. with a three-pointer with 33 seconds to play. The Saints managed to regain possession on a turnover and called time out. Gallagher, though, tipped the inbounds pass and outraced Van Horn for the steal. He was immediately followed.

The sophomore calmly sank both free throws giving Seminole its margin of victory with 28 seconds left.

Santa Fe came down and Van Horn put up a three-pointer from the corner that was long. Renbarger grabbed the rebound and attempted to get into three-point range but failed as the clock expired.

Smith Goes Gator

TAMPA (UPI) - The Miami Hurricanes were looking for a few good men. They found them.

While the University of Florida was winning a recruiting war against Auburn and Nebraska for the No. 3 rusher in high school history, the Hurricanes bolstered an 11-1 squad Wednesday by signing some of the nation's premier senior prep football players. Florida officials are still celebrating the signing of Emmitt Smith, 5-foot-11, 195, who finished a highly publicized prep career at Pensacola Escambia with 8,804 yards in 1,144 attempts for an average of 7.6 yards per carry. He scored 106 touchdowns in four years, including 28 as a senior. The Gators, who are off NCAA probation following their 6-5 season, beat out Southeastern Conference rival Auburn. Nebraska and Clemson for Smith, who had been contacted by an estimated 200 universities in the past few months. Florida's running game averaged just 3.3 yards per attempt in 1986 without Neal Anderson and John L. Williams - both selected in the opening round of the NFL draft. "I made up my mind last night about 9:30," said Smith, who attended Wednesday's news conference in Pensacola wearing the red and white colors of Nebraska to add a final touch of drama before an anxious audience. "Last night, in the running were Auburn and Nebraska. It's all on the dotted line now." Coffeys Perk Up For BCC lege's Mark and Marty Coffey, the Titans 9-1 thumping of Seminole Community College in Mid-Florida Conference baseball Wednesday, was bittersweet.

Both Coffeys played high school ball at Lake Brantley and Wednesday afternoon's game at SCC before 66 chilly fans was a Seminole County homecoming. "It always feels good to win in front of the home folks." Marty. the elder of the two brothers, said. "We have a good team and I am very happy at Brevard."

The victory upped BCC's record to 5-0. The setback drops SCC to 1.7. The loss was SCC's fifth in a row.

"We've got no confidence out there," dejected SCC coach Jack Pantelias said after the game. "There doesn't seem to be a whole lot of desire on this team, and that's a bad sign."

Before transferring to Brevard, Marty played at UCF and Valencia. He said that he needed a change. DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) -The twin qualifying races for the Daytona 500 today provide drivers an opportunity to see if they have worked out any problems they suffered from earlier in the week.

The 125-mile twin qualifiers will determine the third through 30th starting positions for Sunday's Daytona 500. The remainder of the 40-car field will be determined by the qualifying times of cars that fall to earn a spot from today's races.

The first two starting positions were determined Monday, Bill Elliott will be the pole sitter Sunday after breaking the track record by qualifying at a speed of 210.364 mph. Davey Allison is on the outside pole. Both drive Ford Thunderbirds.

'Thursday's race will be a shakedown, it will give you an idea of what will happen Sunday." defending champion Geoff Bodine said Wednesday. "I approach the qualifying race the way we do any race - we'll find out what we've got. If we're running strong, we'll try to win. If not, we'll make adjustments to get the car better for Sunday." One driver who struggled of a slump, but I think I broke earlier this week is Darrell Waltrip, who had a qualifying speed of 204.415 mph in his new Rick Hendrick Chevrolet. He said he was hurt by Saturday's Brevard didn't waste any time- rain-out of qualifying.

Mark, who led the Seminole Athletic Conference in batting last scason with a .477 average. said that he is also happy at BCC. "This place is really great." Coffey said. "I'm having a lot of fun and that's the name of the game."

Ironically, SCC outhit Brevard eight to six. But 10 walks and six errors cost SCC dearly. SCC used four different pitchers. Southpaw Tony Ferebee worked the first three innings and gave up all nine runs on only three hits. Seven free passes gave BCC some easy runs.

The Seminole defense was sloppy at best, committing four untimely errors. "I don't know what the problem is." Pantelias Gross pitched five innings of no-hit ball last Saturday when Brevard trimmed SCC.

Mark Coffey said that adjustment from high school to college baseball was minimal at best. "I think that this is easier," Coffey said. "I was in a little bit out of it today." Coffey is hitting .250 and playing right field. Coffey went 2 for 4 and drove in a pair of runs against SCC.

Hawks Win SAC PREVIEW: Second, 8-3

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Lake Howell's Silver Hawks took advantage of three walks, two singles and an error to score five runs in the third inning Wednesday afternoon en route to an 8-3 victory over West Orange's Warriors in prep baseball at Winter Garden. The Hawks improved to 2-0 in the first week of the season and return to action Friday at Orlando Edgewater.

"We're playing pretty well for this early in the season," Lake Howell coach Birto Benjamin said. "We made a few mistakes today but scored enough to cover them. And our pitcher (Greg Hill) did a fine job."

Hill, one of five senior righthanded hurlers on the team, went the distance on the mound for the Hawks, scattering six hits, striking out three and walking just one.

Lake Howell broke up a scoreless the with five runs in the top of the third. Robert Philson singled to start the rally and Vito Scutero followed with a walk. Brent White moved the runners up with a sacrifice bunt and Cory Colleski walked to load the bases. Philson scored when Mark Lowe drew a base on balls and two more runs crossed the plate on a West Orange error. Eric Martinez then drove in the last two runs of the frame with a single.

West Orange pulled within 5-2 in the bottom of the fourth but the Hawks added two runs in the top half of the fifth. Eric Martinez and Chris Norton drilled consecutive singles and both later scored on a single off the bat of White.

Lake Howell added another run in the top of the seventh Philson and Scutero singled, moved up on an error and Philson scored on a groundout.

Mabie: Lions Can Improve On 1986 Final Four Finish

By Scott Bander Herald Sports Writer

Coach Howard Mable said last season was a turning point for the Oviedo High school baseball program. The Lions made it to the Final Four of the Class 3A State Tournament, won the Orange Belt Conference, and finished second to Lake Mary in the Seminole Athletic Conference while posting a 19-11 mark. With nine seniors on this year's team, Mable said he is confident that his team can go one step further in '87; a state championship.

"I'm real excited about this team," Mable, who is starting his 10th season at Oviedo, said. "We have a lot of good kids back and I think that we can be better than last year's squad."

Oviedo opens up its season Monday in DeLand's seven-team tournament at Conrad Park. DeLand's Bulldogs will be Oviedo's 7 p.m. first-round opponent.

Oviedo graduated some fine players, among them Frank Torres (.438 average), infielders Bobby Bradley and Jim Barrett, along with ace pitcher Craig Duncan. Torres now plays for Seminole Community College. 'We lost some talented kids," Mable, who has a 148-97 career record, said. "But we have most of them back."

The leader of the Lions is center fielder Mark Merchant. Last season, Merchant had a spectacular season and drew the eye of the professional and college scouts. The switchhitting outfielder was second in bases (29), pounded out three homers and smacked three triples.

"He has all the tools to be a great player," Mable said about his senior standout. "He has looked great in practice and I'm glad to have him back for another year."

Merchant shares Mable's optimism about '87. "I think that we should be pretty decent this season," he said. "Hopefully we'll be able do as well as we did last year."

Another player that had a fine year last season was shortstop Tony Belflower. Belflower finished sixth in batting with a .389 mark. Belflower shines in the field as the small senior is capable of making the big defensive play for the Lions. "Tony is a real worker." Mable said. "He keeps getting better and anchors the middle of our defense." Mable said that he is confident of his pitching staff. "I think our staff will be better than last hitting .(467), tops in stolen year's," Mabie said. "They are all throwing pretty well." Senior righty Scott Bowers will lead the hurlers. Bowers went 3-5 last season and had an ERA of 2.92. Bowers was fourth in the county in strikeouts with 54. Sophomore righty Jody Spelman will be another starter as will freshman lefty Chris Crockett and freshman righty Brian MacInness. Junior John Cox will also see time on the mound, according to Mabie. Mable said Hard-throwing junior righthander Alan Greene will be a big plus when basketball season ends. Mable went on to say the strength of the team is the outfield. Merchant, who plays center, will be joined by seniors Randy Ferguson or Jerrett Kinnaird in left and newcomer (West Palm Beach) Gary Pelczar in right. "Our outfield is quite adequate," Mable said. "They are all good athletes and I'm not really worried about the outfield that much."

Mable said that he feels comfortable up the middle as Belflower will play short while either Cox or senior Sam Montione will play second. Senior Glenn Reichle returns at first base. Senior Steve Hofmann will play third.

Junior Shawn Lee, a transfer from Orlando Bishop Moore, will handle the catching duties. Junior Jocy Beasley will be the backup.

"We will be able to compete with anybody." Mabie said. "Our practices have not been all that great so far, but I'm sure we'll pick it up when game time rolls around."

NHL All-Stars Trim Soviets In Fastest-Paced Game Ever

QUEBEC (UPI) - Wayne Gretzky called the opener of Rendez-Vous 87 the fastest-paced game he ever played. The NHL All-Stars defeated the Soviet National Team 4-3 Wednesday night in first of the two-game series.

The winning goal, Dave Poulin's tip of Mario Lemieux's wrist shot with 75 seconds to play, was the fourth score of the third period. A total of five minor penalties were called by Soviet referee Nikolai Morosov, and the first period featured but one offside call.

Greizky said the goaltenders, his Edmonton Ollers teammate Grant Fuhr and Evgeny Belosheikin, "stood on their heads."

All of this is expected when the high-powered Soviets and Edmonton-dominated All-Stars play. But the biggest factor was the discipline of the NHL's conservative, but determined defense.

Led by Rod Langway of Washington, who was going to come watch the game out of interest before being named as a late selection, the injury-ravaged defense refused to relinguish the slot to the Soviets.

The NHL defense plugged the middle, left a man back to prevent breakouts and stayed constantly mobile. Langway and Rick Green, in particular, helped shut down the Soviets' top line and power play.

The series concludes Friday, starting at 7:35 p.m. EST.

Connors, McEnroe Win Easily

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) - Jimmy Connors and John McEnroe, former No. 1 players striving to regain the top ranking, scored straight-set victories Wednesday in the $315,000 Volvo Tennis-U.S. Indoor Championships

Connors, 34, beat Andrei Cheskonov of the Soviet Union 6-1, 6-3 in his first match in this week-long event. McEnroe, ranked No. 11 in the world, defeated Paul Annacone 6-3, 6-4. Annacone had sent McEnroe into a six-month sabbatical by beating the left-hander in the first round of last summer's U.S. Open.

McEnroe and Connors could only play if they reach the finals. That would be a repeat of the 1980 title match when McEnroe defeated Connors in a pair of 7-6 tie-breakers.

The 34-year old Connors, who has captured this tournament seven times, last won here in 1984 in a 6-3, 4-6, 7-5 match over Henri Leconte.

"I don't think McEnroe will be out of the top 10 very long." Connors said.

Connors plays Elliot Teltscher today and McEnroe meets 11th-seeded Johan Kriek.

Top-seeded Stefan Edberg will meet Ramesh Krishnan and No. 3 Mikael Hansdorf will play Amos Hansdorf. Tim Mayotte will face Jonas Svensson and Kevin Curren takes on Ulf Stenlund.

Person Ignites Pacers

United Press International Chuck Person bolstered his Rookie of the Year credentials Wednesday night with a performance few veterans could match.

Knight Completes Orioles' Plans

BALTIMORE (UPI) - Baltimore Orioles General Manager Hank Peters says the acquisition of free-agent third baseman Ray Knight completes his offseason plans to fill three positions that plagued the club in 1986.

"At the end of last season, we saw three areas that we considered to be problem areas." Peters said. "They were catcher, second base and third base. We went out and got (catcher) Terry Kennedy, (second baseman) Rick Burleson and now Ray Knight."

Knight, 34, the Most Valuable Player in the 1986 World Series as a New York Met, agreed Wednesday to a one-year contract with the Orioles. Peters said the deal contains an option for 1988.

The contract reportedly was worth $475,000, but could yield as much as $1.3 million over two seasons if incentives, such as games and at-bats, are attained in this match should be made, but final decision won't come until a later meeting.

The board talked about using the funds for such things as emergency food and shelter, rent payments, food, medicine, utility bills, assistance filling out forms for food stamps and making job applications and other means of helping the poor over hurdles and on towards self sufficiency.

Mrs. Glenn wanted to know who would be auditing the books for the new grant team, and she was told it would fall under regular county budget audits. She also wanted to make sure the final spending plan would come under the county and not the advisory board.

Commissioner Bob Sturm mentioned the difficulty of keeping people on past advisory boards for low-income grant spending. And he warned that funds may run out in a year and the county will have to fund it by itself if it wants to keep going.

Ted Kaiser, administrative assistant to Deju, laid out a possible plan of how the grant could work. When he came to delineation of what funds would be spent where, he mentioned one-third for outlays to food, medicine, rent, etc., and two-thirds for administrative salaries and benefits. He suggested a four-person staff with three social workers and a secretary.

That's when Streetman piped up about that decision belonging to the advisory board and the county commissioners. "The advisory board should make these recommendations," Streetman said. "The mix they suggest may not be the same."

The grant proposal is expected to come up again on the regular county agenda Feb. 24.

County health services volunteer Teri Buratti, at Deju's request, explained about a previous health agency.

She said for about 17 or 18 years, up until a few years ago, there was a Seminole Community Action Board which operated Head Start, the food commodities program, emergency home fix-up, some emergency food and shelter, equal employment opportunity and a few other things. But it operated independently of the county commission.

At least one commissioner, Bob Sturm, did not have fond memories of that agency.

"I would not be interested in creating another nightmare like that. The county must control how the funds are spent."

No one would say exactly what was wrong with the former agency or why it was disbanded.

"They (the applicant) seem to have worked out all the problems with the site," she said. The biggest problems were parking and access, and she said an arrangement has been worked out with Bob's Glass for joint access. She said the maxlmum number of patrons the applicant expects to have at any one time were five to 10.

But there are still a few grounds on which denial may be based, she said.

The code says such an establishment shall not be a detriment to the character of an area or inconsistent with trends of development in the area. The store must not unduly affect traffic adversely, and it must be consistent with the Seminole County Comprehensive Plan. To get a special exception, the store must not adversely affect the public interest, Ms. Markley said.

The applicant wants to stay open 24 hours and sell "nonobscene" adult videos, magazines, novelty items, lingerie, rent adult videos and have coin-operated videotape viewing booths. Ms. Markley said the staff will recommend it limit its hours.

another public hearing. After the commission's decision, the losing side will have another 15 days to appeal.

Hardin said it doesn't do any good to call your county commissioner because at the present time the decision rests with the Board of Adjustment. A later appeal would be heard by the county commission.

Hardin said letters may be submitted to the county's Land Management Office, addressed to the Board of Adjustment.

He said certain uses need approval through a public hearing, and they include a service station, bar or adult entertainment center.

The store in question has received no approvals from the county thus far.

Hardin said up until five or six years ago, the county didn't have an ordinance prohibiting uses of this type. Although there were no such stores in the unincorporated area then, the county passed an ordinance requiring a special hearing for such requests. He said one such store was requested along U.S. Highway 17-92 near Maitland but it was denied because it wastoo close to a church.

"A lot of people turned out against that proposal," he recalled.

Ms. Markely said one site that has been requested for an adult entertainment center a few times is the Sgt. Pepper's Building north of the Maltland Interchange. Two different adult store applicants have applied for that spot, one as late as last month, she said. That was the

SCC Theatre Presents Shaw's 'Arms And The Man'

The Seminole Community College Fine Arts Theatre presents George Bernard Shaw's Arms and the Man, directed by Paul M. Wegman, Wednesday through Saturday, Feb. 18-21 at 8:00 p.m. and Sunday, Feb. 22 at 2:00 p.m.

Arms and the Man, one of Shaw's earliest works, is full of the wit and charm that have made himone of the most popular playrights of all time. Shaw demolishes martial heroics and the Victorian concept of romantic love. Can anyone live as a total realist with no romance? Can the romantic exist ignoring the reality of a situation? Shaw makes us laugh and, at the same time, question our ideas and ideals.

The S.C.C. Fine Arts Theatre box office opened, Feb. 9. Hours are 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. For reservations call 323-1450 or 843-7001 extension 399.

Best Way To Fight Racism Is To Call A Bigot A Bigot

DEAR ABBY: Not long ago. an acquaintance told me that her 5-year-old son had had an accident. She told me that when she took him to the hospital for emergency care she said. "I want a white, American doctor, and don't let my son bleed to death while you're looking for one.'

Although I found such a racist remark offensive, I remained silent. It's certain that whatever I might have said would not have altered her views, but I feel that my silence condoned her sentiments. What should I have said?

COLOR-BLIND IN W.VA.

DEAR COLOR-BLIND: You should have said exactly what you thought - that she was an ignorant, narrow-minded bigot to believe that a doctor had to be white and American in order to be competent, and you were offended by her racist remark.

Apropos remaining silent when you should have spoken up, I offer this gem of a piece that I have kept for more than 30 years. It was written by the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, a German Lutheran pastor who was arrested by the Gestapo in 1938 and sent to Dachau concentration camp until he was freed by the Allied forces in 1945.

I DIDN'T SPEAK UP

"In Germany, the Nazis first came for the communists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a communist. Then they came meal we prepared, and then run for the Jews, and I didn't speak away to a movie immediately up because I wasn't a Jew. Then afterward, I call that unacceptathey came for the trade unionists, and I didn'e speak up because I was not a trade telephoned us to say they Catholics, and I didn't speak up because I was a Protestant. Then they came for me, and by that time there was no one left to speak for me."

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently had five couples to our home for dinner. It was a lot of work, as an extensive menu had been requested. We spent the entire day preparing the dinner and were busy in the kitchen up until the time we served it. We didn't even have a chance to sit down and converse with our guests. The dinner was delicious - everyone raved. But immediately after the dessert, one of the guests asked for a newspaper to check the movie listings!

Before we knew it, four couples were putting on their coats and running out the door so they wouldn't be late for the movie. I will say in their defense that they invited my husband and me to join them, but we declined.

I may be old-fashioned or too sensitive, but when people go to someone's home for the kind of ble behavior.

To add insult to injury, they unionist. Then they came for the couldn't get into the movie of their first choice, and would we check the listings for their second choice! What do you think of such people?

TOO SENSITIVE IN N.Y.

DEAR SENSITIVE: The behavior you describe is not only "unacceptable." it's downright rude! You say the menu had been "requested," which would Indicate that your dinner guests came primarily to eat. Wellmannered guests would have remained after dinner to converse. These folks obviously came only to eat, so all you missed was the company of a lot of "oink-oinks" to round out the evening.

DEAR ABBY: 1 am 13 years old and I need your help. I want a telephone in my bedroom, but my dad says no because he thinks I would spend too much time talking, and my grades to have my own phone, or is my dad right?

DEAR GIRL: If money is not a problem, your father should let you have the phone. If your grades go down, the phone goes out. Get the message?

DEAR ABBY: Apropos the woman who wanted to preserve her husband's tattoo after his demise: How gross! Assuming it could be done, think of all the morbid things it could lead to. For instance, the husband of a well-endowed wife might decide he'd like "bookends."

CBS Has Morning Sickness

This guy arrives in hell, see, and the devil puts him in this little room with a TV set and says. "For the rest of eternity. Mr. Jones, you're doomed to watch all of the CBS attempts to find a successful morning show.

That was how syndicated cartoonist Mike Peters heralded the arrival of "The Morning Program," which replaced "The CBS Morning News" last month. CBS has tried everything class, schlock and combinations of the two - to attract a morning audience. Thirty years ago. Walter Cronkite and some marionettes tried. Jack Paar, Mike Wallace and Nelson Benton tried. In the '70s, John Hart, Hughes Rudd and Charles Kuralt presided over quality news programs. That didn't work either. Phyllis George tried giddiness. Still no luck. Now Mariette Hartley and Rolland Smith are giving it a whirl

Maybe CBS should just say the heck with it and sign on at 9 а.п.

"The Morning Program" was supposed to be an entertainment program, as distinguished from the "Today" show and "Good Morning America," which, I guess, are supposed to be serious.

But only three aspects of the new show are different from the others. It has a studio audience, a resident comedian and none of those Washington politicians whose tedious observations are so eagerly sought by the other networks every morning.

Other than that, it's familiar stuff. Actors come on to plug other CBS shows. A jolly man talks about the weather. Every half-hour someone reads the news. There's a lot of self-help advice and medical information. Journalists and people who have written books stop by to talk.

The show's pace is also identical to the other morning shows. People are rushed on camera only to be told they must hurry up and get out of the way so the next person can come on.

Here's what's new in AIDS treatment, and how George Burns feels now that he's 91. and here are 14 Miss USA contestants in bathing suits (pant pant, whistle whistle), and this is what Catherine Deneuve's new movie is about, and here's how women can begin new careers after 40, and this is what William F. Buckley Jr. thinks about everything ... and come back tomorrow.

new inductees to the Rock 'n Roll Hall of Fame: Carl Perkins, the Coasters, Bo Diddley, B.B.

It took them a minute and 15 seconds to come down the stairs and sit in the kitchen (this show takes place in a big fake house). What records do they buy these days? King said mostly old and new stuff. One of the Coasters said he buys B.B. King records. Bo Diddley said today's music "ain't rock 'n' roll." Only a few seconds left. Is there a accused of sexually abusing his child. The chitchat between Hartley and Smith resembles those commercials she used to do with

James Garner: the determined good cheer, the hint of intimacy. Unwilling to wait for real rapport to build up between them. Hartley and Smith have settled on artificial rapport. By the way, "The CBS Morning News" is not dead. It now comes on before "The Morning Show" and runs the same stories over and over for 90 minutes in the manner of Ted Turner's "CNN Headline News." There's no context, no analysis, no depth.

CBS is still thrashing about for something to do in the morning. It's not a pretty sight.

Serial Murders Baffle Police

SUITLAND, Md. (UPI) - At 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 21, Pamela Malcom, 25, stepped out of the apartment she shared with her mother to buy a pack of cigarettes. She never came home.

*************

Nine days later, Juanita Walls, 26, left a gathering of family and friends at her apartment in nearby Washington, D.C. She promised to return, but never did.

"I'll be right back," Cynthia Westbury, 22, told her sister on Nov. 10 as she walked from their district apartment to visit a friend. She wasn't heard from again.

In the past two months, the bodies of Malcom, Walls and Westbury - and those of two other young black women - have been found in a wooded park in Sultland, a suburb of Washington. At the entrance to the park is a sign saying. "Welcome to Bradbury Recreation Center."

Police believe they were murdered by the same killer or killers. No motive has been found and the case points to a classic serial murderer - a sadist and psychopath who murders to obtain a ghoulish or even sexual pleasure.

There are no solid statistics on serial killers, but James Fox, a criminologist at Northeastern University in Boston and a nationally recognized expert on the subject, estimates from 100 to 200 people a year are killed by 12 to 24 such murderers.

"The average serial killer takes six victims, then is caught or moves away or is killed himself," says Fox. He says one-third of serial killings are committed by two or more murderers. Nearly all are males.

In Prince George's County, police believe they are looking for a male killer, but aren't sure if there is more than one.

They have assigned a special task force of 25 detectives to the case and have beefed up patrols in Sultland, an unincorporated blue-collar community that adjoins Southeast Washington, an area of mostly low-income housing.

Police are still trying to determine if another woman, whose body was found nude and stabbed in an alley in Washington Jan. 15, was a sixth victim.

On Jan. 30, district police charged Alton Best. 30. a lanky, unemployed groundskeeper, with the murder in Washington of Janice Morton, 20, a nurses' aide. Police believe Morton was killed in a black van owned by Best's nephew, a district policeman who has been placed on leave during an investigation.

Authorities said they have established no link between the murder of Morton and the five other women, but have not ruled out the possibility.

"Have we eliminated this guy as a possible suspect? Hell, no!" said Major James Ross of the Prince George's County police. "But there are things that must be checked out. It's premature to make a judgment."

Other clues were sought thousands of miles away.

In early February, Los Angeles detectives investigating the serial killings of 17 women in that city compared notes with Prince George's and Washington police. No connection was found, despite striking similarities.

Nearly all the victims in Los Angeles were black prostitutes. Their bodies were found in low-Income neighborhoods between September 1983 and July 1986.

In the past year, Los Angeles detectives unsuccessfully sought links between their case and serial murders in San Diego, San Francisco. Oakland, Calif., and the state of Washington.

Although the Los Angeles killer has been dubbed the "Southside Slayer," police believe there may be more than one murderer and say some of the deaths may be the result of "copycat killers.

The five bodies in Suitland were found between Dec. 13 and Jan. 13. All but Malcom, a clerk for the U.S. Patent Office, were unemployed and lived in the Southeast sector of Washington, very near Suitland.

None had criminal records. But police investigators say some were believed to have traded sex for drugs and to frequent bars and neighborhoods where there is heavy drug traffic.

On Feb. 3, about 120 Sultland residents met with police to express concerns and fears about the slayings to try to find out more about the investigation.

"I wish I could tell you we've solved the five murders. But I can't," said Major Robert Phillips. "I wish I could assure you it won't happen again. But I can't."

Medical examiners say it appears some of the women found in Suitland were sexually assaulted. But they say the bodies of others were too decomposed to make a ruling. They said at least three were stabbed to death.

At least one of the five, Walls, put up a struggle. "Juanita had long, strong fingernalis - and police say she used them to fight back," said Walls' niece, Donna Blackeney, 21. "They found skin (from the attacker) under her nails."

The first body found in the Suitland park was that of Dorothy Miller, 20. Police initially believed she died of a drug overdose - cocaine was found in her body - but reopened the investigation after additional bodies were found.

No drugs were found in the other four women. The last body found was that of Angela Wilkerson, 22. She disappeared eight days carlier, on Jan. 5.

"There is a lot of fear," said Chrystal Smith. 26. who lives near Bradbury Park. "You don't see women out alone at night anymore."

A photograph of Walls hangs over the television set in the Washington apartment of Donna Blackeney. Beside it is a program from a Jan. 20 memorial service for Walls, a former college honors student, computer processor and drug abuser.

Blackency says she tried to persuade her aunt not to smoke PCP. "but Juanita was a grown-up and she did what she wanted to do." Blackeney said Walls had recently taken a test to join the Air Force, but told the family she failed.

"We didn't believe her," Blackeney said. "When she didn't come home (the night of Oct. 30). I thought that Juanita was tricking us and had joined the Air Force."

Cynthia Westbury lived less than a mile away with her mother, brother and sisters. A few days after she disappeared, the post office called Westbury's home to hire her as a clerk.

"We had to tell the post office that she was a missing person." said her sister, Carolyn Westbury. She said Cynthia was "quiet. She drank some wine, but didn't do drugs. She wanted to get a job so she could buy nice clothes.'

A photo of Malcom is posted at the Cedar Hill Liquor Store in Sultland. Police believe Malcom intended to buy cigarettes there the night she vanished, but aren't sure if she got there. None of the clerks recall seeing her.

Above the photo is a message from police that asks "anyone with any information ... call Prince George's County Police .....'

At the February meeting between Prince George's police and Suitland residents, Lt. Terry Evans urged citizens to alert police of any suspicious activity.

"The Son of Sam murderer (David Berkowitz of New York City, who pleaded guilty to murdering six young people in 1976 and 1977) was found through a traffic ticket" he got for a parking violation.

"We don't know where our break will come." Evans said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Ten military bases in eight states are the potential sites named by the Air Force for 50 new MX missiles that would ride ratiroad cars in a plan still not paid for or even approved by Congress.

Half the bases, ranging from Louisiana to Washington state, are not missile installations and are used by the Strategic Air Command only for bombers. One is Wurtsmith Air Force Base on Lake Huron in northern Michigan, which would be the farthest cast intercontinental ballistic missiles have ever been placed.

Fifty MXs, dubbed "Peacekeepers," have been authorized by Congress and will be put in existing Minuteman missile silos at Warren Air Force Base, Wyo. The first 10 of those already are deployed.

The second 50, still not approved or paid for by Congress, are to be mobile units aboard 25 six-car railroad trains that would stay at their bases until a crisis occurred, at which time they would be scrambled onto the nationwide rall network to make them harder for Soviet targeters to detect.

Two missiles would ride each train and would be deployed by the early 1990s.

The Air Force took its step toward rail basing Wednesday in identifying the 10 potential bases. though an official said no decision is in on how many of them would be used. Warren would be the initial station for the rail missiles and would become headquarters for the 50 mobile units.

The Pentagon wants $619 million for the next fiscal year to develop the rall basing network, but some members of Congress oppose buying additional MXs, preferring to purchase the single-warhead Midgetman ICBM.

That missile also would be mobile, possibly truck-mounted. The Soviets have fielded a truck-mounted ICBM and are ready to deploy a rail-mobile version, the Pentagon has said.

There are a number of questions that need to be answered in the years ahead about both the cost-effectiveness and wisdom of the p MX basing mode," said Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., an MX opponent.

"My impression is (Air Force officials) really want those MXs," a Senate staff member noted, but there isn't "a ghost of a chance" of getting them until Congress is satisfied with the basing plan.

All the 10 candidate bases now are used by the Strategic Air Command, either for bombers or missiles or both, and that was a condition of their selection because they already handle nuclear weapons.

Other criteria fulfilled by all 10 sites are that all have the command and control facilities needed to receive an order from the president to launch nuclear weapons, all have rail spurs and all have security forces trained in guarding and handling nuclear weapons, an Air Force spokesman sald.

"From that standpoint, it's only logical that (the MXs) would go to a SAC base even if it's only a bomber base now, " the spokesman said.

Environmental impact studies for the 10 sites will draw comments by officials and the public in the affected states, the Air Force said. It plans to issue an environmental impact statement by late 1988 or early 1989.

The 10 potential sites are Barksdale AFB, La.; Blytheville AFB, Ark.; Dyess AFB, Texas; Fairchild AFB, Wash.; and Wurtsmith AFB, Mich. - all bomber only bases - and missile bases Little Rock AFB, Ark.; Malmstrom AFB, Mont.; and Whiteman AFB, Mo.

lipomas that increased during pregnancies and decreased during and after lactation. What type of doctor can determine if the lumps are caused by a hormonal imbalance?

DEAR READER - Most experts have not noticed a relation between lipomas (fatty tumors) and pregnancy. An endocrinologist is the specialist you should see to evaluate a possible hormonal imbalance. DEAR DR. GOTT - I have a tender, egg-sized lump across my pelvic bone. I'm 56, female, 165 pounds and 5 foot 7. What could it be? DEAR READER - I don't 17 Wide shoe size know. You haven't given me 18 Mysterious enough information to draw a conclusion. I think that you should be examined by a doctor to find out what is causing the lump.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I have a terrible itching under the skin of both arms. Scratching doesn't help — in fact, many times it makes blood break out under the surface. Creams and lotions don't help either. I've been taking 10 milligrams of prednisone daily for 20 years. It's the only thing that keeps my asthma under control. Is the itching curable?

DEAR READER - Itching (pruritis) has many causes. I suggest that you see a dermatologist to discover the reason for your problem. Prednisone, a form of cortisone, is not likely to cause pruritis. However, you are taking a large dose, and this may be harming you in other ways. Prednisone can cause diabetes, high blood pressure, brittle bones, behavioral changes, bruising and susceptibility to infections.

It is useful in treating asthma, but the benefits must be weighed against the risks. A type of prednisone can now be administered in an inhaler for asthmatics. Ask your doctor about this; it may control your
