Countdown For YEAR

Gries of "Happy New Year" fill the air, as I my forwell to the old year that cannot come again, I recall days of joy and mercer, frustration and success. I remember things not done that should have been, and accomplishments of which I am extremely proud. Beside the measure of the year's defeats, I total up its victories. The credit side far outweighs the debit, for over all the days I see the shadow of my church.

I end my retrospection, and rejoin festivities. With God and His Church at the center of my Rife, I am fortified for
