HOOVER URGES QUICK ACTION ON TARIFF BILL

Republican Chieftains
Are Called To White House Breakfast By Anxious President

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP)—After a breakfast conference with congressional leaders today President Hoover was represented by those attending the White House gathering as being extremely anxious that work on the tariff bill, long pending in the Senate, be completed as quickly as possible.

Called to the White House by the President, the Republican chieftains were urged to speed action on this long pending question, but they were not fully in agreement.

Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, told Mr. Hoover the tariff bill were in the hands of the Republican independent Democratic coalition. Others now engaged in pressing down on the coalition.

Watson and others were unable to agree on an amendment to be voted upon.

"We have got you the rates we wanted," said Watson, "but after the fighting, we are still engaged in pressing down on the coalition."

The breakfast conference was called this morning before a session over the legislation began to form in the Senate. Mr. Hoover summoned Republican leaders of both the House and Senate.

The House leaders complained of the time the bill had been in the Senate in discussing the tariff and urged that the bill be held over for further consideration.

The Senate chieftains replied there was nothing to be gained about it and of course full responsibility on the coalition which had insisted on a majority vote on the tariff bill in the Senate.

Mr. Hoover, who called the conference with a view to speeding the bill, told the leaders of the coalition that the bill was being held over.

He urged the leaders to meet again to discuss the bill and to consider the bill again.

FRANCE HOLDS UP ACTIVITIES AT NAVY MEET

5 Power Conference
Now Has Only Four
Delegations Since
Defeat Of Tardieu

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Very little activity will be going on in the five power delegations during the next week or more, until the French ministerialists can get back to the office of the French Foreign Minister. André Tardieu, the champion of devaluation, has been replaced by a new minister, Léon Jouhaux.

Foreign observers say the moment of maximum of the 10th session of the International Association of Navigation, starting today, will be held in Paris. The delegation will be composed of the French Foreign Minister, André Tardieu, and the French Ambassador to London, M. Georges Goblet.

Meanwhile, the five power delegations have been in their respective meetings. Today all have become more friendly than they were in the beginning of the meeting.

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 18.—(AP)—Any direct reference to the horse racing in Florida, however, was welcomed by the development of the Carlton, the horse racing track in Orlando, which was opened yesterday. The Carlton is the first horse racing track in Central Florida.

Carlton officials expressed the desire that the horse racing issue be avoided, however, by the opening of the track, which will be held Saturday evening.

LOCAL CAGERS TO FACE HARD GOING FROM OPPONENT

Coley Feds To Meet Umatilla And Leesburg During Week

Lefton Edenfield

The Seminole High court performers will meet two of the best teams in the district during this week, when they face Umatilla here Wednesday night and travel to Leesburg Saturday evening to meet the Yell 'n' Jackets on their home court.

The Umatilla encounter will be the last home game for the Coley Feds before they go to the district tournament.

While very little is known about the Umatilla quintet, it is reported to be a fast and sharpshooting aggregation, and is expected to give the local feds very lively tussles. It was understood that Umatilla was an unfeated team of this district.

The Coley Feds, fresh from their impressive victory over Winter Park last Friday night, are expected to live up to their supine style of basketball. Though they were somewhat handicapped by the illness of Gandy and Agnew during the time they continued to show the ability as contenders for the district championship.

In the encounter with Winter Park last Friday night, when he was born on the side lines during the scrum, stepped into the bright lights of basketball throughout this section of Florida. He was an idol of the game in every spot in Sanford that night. He set "Budde" (Lyle) "Budde" into motion, running at third referee forward, but due to the illness of Agnew, "Budde" received his chance and made well of the opportunity. It was not long after he had suffered the game that he had a total of seven points and started the rally.

It seems as if "Budde" is now recognized for his ability as a smart player until late in the season. He was his usual break-in football late in the season, was discovered to be a great player, but his chance came to him to make him recognized for his ability by the fans. But it seems as if a change in the line-up will be made to give Lyle a greater chance to give him a greater opportunity.

Coach Morris has a strenuous week planned for the All City Gold-star-gemmers and expects them to be in the best of condition when they face Umatilla this Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

A large crowd is expected to be on hand to cheer the Coley Feds toward another victory and to aid them financially toward the tournament.

FLIER'S FATE IS SETTLED AS BODY IS FOUND

The hunt for Flier's body was resumed today after an interruption of three days due to weather. It was while flying in the Naukai to transact business and flying in snow that the plane crashed last Nov. 2.

Wrecks of the plane were found Jan. 25 by pilots Jim Carson and Harold G. Hall separating from the Naukai. Parts of the plane were scattered over a wide area and were mostly covered with ice and snow. The workmen at the scene by airplane and dog teams to cover away the snow in search for the bodies, have encountered severe hardships from the frequent blizzards. The search was included partly of Russians from the Soviet ship Staryi, which is now enroute to North Cape.

BABE RUTH SEEN AS GREAT GOLFER ON FLORIDA LINKS

King Of Swat's Game Is Improved Since He Quit Long Shots

*By Alvin Gould
Associated Press Sports Editor*

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb.

17.—The great man of baseball plays a great game of golf, when he hits himself of a bad habit of pushing his wood shots.

Babe Ruth's performances on the links justify no criticism from the duffer or even the better-than-average player, for the slugger can "blast" 300' with considerable consistency year after year. As a matter of fact, he won't compete until he hits 100' on the well-trapped, tricky, jungle course on the grounds of the Hotel of Tampa Bay.

He still carries, however, the desire to what the golf ball with all the gusto and enthusiasm with which he cracks a baseball. In fact, distance, with very little, if any, direction, was the Babe's chief difficulty a few years ago when golf was in its infancy. Since then he has altered, developed and improved his game.

"I don't know him for distance any more," he remarked this morning over the Hotel of Tampa Bay, which was his second visit to the course on this particular course in 12 months.

"I still like to wallop 'em across town but I have come to realize that an extra 20 or 30 yards in the main thing. I'm getting around, but not around the ball, in that counts. They don't pay me on those long drives, especially when they wind up in the rough or the woods."

Starkness is noted among the Babe's pronouncements concerning his golf game that he is evidently under pressure from his factor and his surroundings, but does not affect the quality of his game. The Babe's golfing is a result of the desire to win.

Ruth has earned considerable money from the game. This record fact and his recent success in golf over 100 yards, despite his lack of skill, has brought him the 20th annual trophy of the Tampa Bay Golf and Country Club.

Tuesday night when Ruth returned, he was the guest of honor at the 20th annual trophy dinner of the Tampa Bay Golf and Country Club.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

Our Spiritual Heritage—Ye are the children of the prophets, and of the covenant which God made with our fathers, saying unto Abraham, And in thy seed shall all the kindreds of the earth be blessed.—Act. 3:25.

"And we are glad, and we will sing, As in the days of yore."

The Average Man

I carefully tanked all my savings
I lived in a shabby old flat,
I sold; "No chance! I've no link of finance."

When my wife asked to buy a new hat,

Then the friend of a friend of the cousin

Of a son of a man in the Street,
Said, "Put all you've got on a lot to one shot."

On second thought Liquid Health."

So I drew out the cash I had saved for,

Denying myself all those years
And bought a big block of that Promising stock—

Plunging cheerfully over my head.

For months I've been watching the other

And each day I receive a fresh shock.

But ten years have passed
I may have amased

The money to put off that stock

And then will my troubles never No longer with laggardly pace shall walk to my door, but my pulse will throb

And I'll soon have ample of my fate

shall try my wife dresses and jewels

And invest in a couple of fancy fat magnates who won't my friends come to dinner

And smoke only dollar cigars.

For when I begin saving money
I'll buy it again every day

And when I am wrong, it will not be so long

Before to-morrow is headed my way.

For as soon as I have a few dollars,

I shall speedily shoot the whole pot

With a confident grin, for I know
I shall win

On another tip I hate gods.

A depression is not the time

Lots of folks think he was a

Exit The Wolf Dog

With the interests in dogs, which goes hand in hand with the love of horses in Florida, receiving a special impetus in this section by the Orlando Dog Show, it is gratifying to learn from no less an authority than Mrs. George Morris Eustis, daughter of Mr. Charles Custis Harrison of Philadelphia, that a German police dog is after all not a police dog. Mrs. Eustis, who raises German shepherd dogs at her villa, Fortunate Fields, in the Canton de Vaud in Switzerland, says that although the shepherd dog may be trained for police duty just as he may be taught Red Cross work or to be a guide for the blind, that he is not a police dog, and, indeed, that there is no such animal.

It also seems that the romantic tale about the wolf blood which has been supposed to have coursed through the veins of the shepherd dog, singeing the tail of the wolf, is another exploded myth, the probable mental product of some movie press agent of Rin-tin-tin. The shepherd dog's ancestor tended the flocks, was obedient to his master, and spent all his week-ends at home.

Some of the dogs at Fortunate Fields, however, are trained for police duty, and these practice each day running down a make-believe criminal. The police dog is not supposed to bite but to circle around his prey until the arrival of the police, but just in the event that the canine gendarme might get too excited with the chase to play the game as a real sportsman, the criminal wisely wears a bite proof suit. The dogs are taught trailing work on a thirty foot leash instead of free as bloodhounds are.

The training of the dog as a guide for a blind master is one of the most appealing phases of the work at Fortunate Fields. A relief association in Germany is working to give each of its war blinded soldiers a shepherd dog to be eyes for him. These dogs can tread crowded streets and lead their masters safely through traffic. The dog goes forward at a smart walk until an obstacle appears, and his master can feel through the handle of his harness any difference in gait. At a curb, the dog stops and stands still while he sits down for traffic or steps. He leans away from pedestrians and trees, thus leading his master out of their way.

This education of the dog is not begun so early as to make his puppy days miserable. When he is very young, he is put out to nurse at a neighboring farm as Becky Sharp did little Rawdon Crawley, "according to the amiable fashion of French mothers," as Thackeray rather Britishly phrases it. The young pups have a regular happy-go-lucky dog life, getting acquainted with the chickens and cows, and are not harassed with too much premature culture. The shepherd pup's nature is naturally loyal and faithful, not treacherous and dangerous in spite of reports to the contrary.

It would seem then that the shepherd dog has been much maligned and is not the villain in the piece as he has been painted. Although we are happy to learn of all his sturdy domestic qualities we confess to a weakness for this type of dog and are glad to welcome him in his new role as a very respectable country gentleman who has always tended his sheep and lived a life of utmost propriety for generations, we wonder if there are those of you who feel smile and smile and be a villain," the swashbuckling front footer, with a burr in his coat of arms telling of the indomitable amours of his canine ancestors under the green wood tree.

A New Sea Power Race

With the naval disarmament conference in full swing in London and with statements from the leading powers in the world seeking a way to limit or reduce the terrific expense of large sea forces, there is taking place at sea for supremacy in commercial shipping, which, also expensive, will serve a more humanitarian purpose than battleships. The Miami Herald writes:

"The latest move in this competition is the announcement of the United States Lines, Incorporated, to construct two superliners to run with the Leviathan in the Atlantic. These huge ships will be America's answer to the challenge of the German Bremen and to signalize a new era in the merchant marine of this country.

"The liners will cost approximately $30,000,000 each, will be capable of a speed of 28-1/2 knots; 962 feet long, with a beam of 107-1/2 feet; in excess of 50,000 gross tons, and there will be accommodations for 2,600 passengers. They will make the crossing in probably five days."

Under the Jones-White shipping act, the company may borrow up to 75 per cent of the cost from shipping board loan fund. The United States Lines expect to secure the New York Southampton mail contract soon to be awarded and is planning the construction of still further ships.

The American flag is coming back on the ocean. Prior to the World war it had practically disappeared from the North Atlantic, being represented by four old ships. The United States is now making an active and vigorous bid for a return to prominence on the high seas and the completion of these two superships will go a long way toward establishing our merchant marine power.

"Such vessels could serve as naval auxiliaries in case of war, but at present it is more important to promote the business of commerce. The construction of the huge ship will be a great aid to shipping industry and will contribute a share in speeding up prosperity. America should be independent in the carrying trade on the seas and to that end American lines are deserving of the patronage of Americans.

"Never will I forget the time when I was a boy and the immediate following boom by the period just before prosperity.

The predicted big crash is not the entire people who get rich these days, take the fellow who goes to the bank for the instance.

One thing we've never been able to understand is why a rich man who has wild oats away has to find time out fast.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

Senator "Dixie" Watson, Republican floor leader in the Upper House, is trying his best again at a game where he has been beaten several times. He is trying to persuade the Senate Republicans to stay on the job to vote on the tariff, especially for the showdown on the flexible provision, the farm amendment and the sugar schedule.

Senator Watson has tried that many times. He began when he was "whip" in the House and "Uncle Joe" Cannon's floor manager in the former rules fight. He found then, as he is likely to find again that the men on whom he had a right to rely were the ones who ran out on him when the party needed its full strength.

Men under obligation to Senator Watson for things he aided them in obtaining in obtaining matters of importance to them politically, principally are the first to fall him when he places his head against a buzz saw in an important party fight.

No man dares to keep Senator H. Newberry of Michigan from being booted out of the Senate because Newberry was a conservative Republican. Moreover,
Warren Harding played golf with Newberry and had heart set
on the Wolverine for campaign expenditure when Newberry was elected.

The Hoover Warwick had to call down hard to save Newberry.
Watson went through primarily because Newberry was a conservative Republican. Moreover,
Warren Harding played golf with Newberry and had heart set
on the Wolverine for campaign
expenditure when Newberry was elected.

Watson did not care a lot for Newberry. He opposed Coolidge at the convention. He went through for the Wolverine for seven years.

So other Republicans were not bad. One told it indirectly to Coolidge that he failed to keep a promise he had made to Egypt. Watson professed well. Newberry was a conservative Republican. Moreover,
Warren Harding played golf with Newberry and had heart set
on the Wolverine for campaign
expenditure when Newberry was elected.

Watson took the matter in hand. It was part of his official responsibility. Harding resented the bill. The Administration faced it. Watson demanded that every conservative Republican stay on the job, unless all personal offices chart offices on the committee. He had to work hard to get the support of the other Republicans who did not answer when he asked them to stand on genuine grounds.

The filibuster triumphed. The bill was defeated. Senator Watson was disappointed that the Administration had lost a fight. He was hurt because he had been unable to deliver for Harding. He was charged that Republicans had violated their social obligations in their social engagements—or their wives.
