Move Begun To Name Overpass After Chase

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The State Road 46 railroad overpass west of Sanford isn't even finished yet, but a group of Seminole County political and civic leaders already have picked out a name for it.

The county commission early this week unanimously adopted a resolution supporting an effort begun by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Road and Bridges Committee nearly a year ago to name the bridge after Sanford civic leader, Sydney O. Chase Jr.

State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-

Longwood, is preparing the required legislation to name the overpass in Chase's honor and state Sen. John Vogt, D-Cocoa Beach, said he will introduce the bill in the Florida Senate.

Chamber President Jack Horner gives much of the credit to Chase for getting approval for the nearly $2.5 million in federal funding needed to construct the overpass.

Horner pointed out that approval of federal funding for the project had nothing to do with safety.

"The railroad crossing was not unsafe. The money was granted on the basis of emergency response."

Horner said, noting when railroad cars blocked the tracks for extended periods, emergency vehicles including ambulances were also held up.

The overpass, just west of the Sanford city limits, has been under construction for more than a year. It is slated for completion in January or February, 1984.

General contractor on the project is RKG Inc. of Burlington, N.C. under the direction of the state Department of Transportation. Cost of the improvement is $2.46 million, paid for completely through a federal grant.

The chamber expects to hold dedication ceremonies in Chase's honor sometime in February.

Chase's father, Sydney O. Chase Sr., moved to Sanford in 1878 when General Harry S. Sanford was still working to establish the city as a power in the Central Florida area. Chase, an octogenarian, is the patriarch of the second generation of that family.

Describing himself as "past 80 quite a bit," Chase said he began working toward gaining an overpass in 1968-69.

Chase said he got direction and assistance from the Florida

Highway Users Conference and the National Highway Users Conference. He was a member of both organizations for 13 years.

"After we got the money for the Sanford project, everyone got stirred up and wanted funding for similar projects. While each state had the opportunity of getting the money for three projects, the Sanford one was the first in Florida and I never heard whether any other project in the state was approved for this funding," Chase said.

"The overpass will be a big relief in the way of traffic, law enforcement."

Old Fashioned Toys Still Top Christmas Wish Lists

Santa Claus swept into Sanford Plaza at 9 a.m. today aboard a Sanford Fire Department fire engine behind a police escort — to the delight of hundreds of eager youngsters and their equally excited parents, aunts and grandmothers.

The tiniest ones were wrapped in blankets while older children had on hooded jackets to protect them against the cold winds that overnight blew away the balmy weather of Thanksgiving Day.

The portly red-suited gentleman held court for his admirers in front of the Plaza Twin Theatre, where a special Charlie Brown movie was showing. He greeted each one, heard their Christmas requests and gave them a souvenir plastic ring.

The Seminole High School Jazz Band played for the occasion.

The day after Thanksgiving traditionally signals the start of serious Christmas shopping.

Despite the hoopla about electronic games and computers, the traditional joys of childhood — bicycles, choo-choo trains, skates, and cuddly dolls and teddy bears still top the kids' Christmas wish lists.

Censured Sanford Policeman Involved With Hookers Turned To Police Union

By Tom Giordano
And Charles Cobb

A Sanford police officer who complained to a police union that he was "demoted" because of his union activities was, in fact, censured early this month for associating with two known female prostitutes in Orlando — on June 22, 1982. But why it took so long for the censure is in dispute between the Sanford and Orlando police departments.

At least one high-ranking Sanford police officer says the Orlando police should have charged the man with soliciting for prostitution, but never did "probably because he's a policeman."

Meanwhile, Sanford police officials maintain the officer's reassignment was not a demotion.

The issue surfaced earlier this week when the union organizer, J. Randall Blankenship, business manager with the Orange County Benevolence Association Inc., told reporters a Sanford police officer complained to him that he was demoted from a patrol car to walking a beat because of his union activities. The union organizer said the complaining officer was one of three Sanford policemen who approached the union in an effort to start a drive to unionize the Sanford force.

The Sanford officers involved went to the union organizer just about the same time the one officer was censured for the 1982 incident involving the prostitutes.

Here's how the story developed, according to Sanford police department sources, since the beginning of the incident in 1982:

A 35-year-old, married, Sanford police officer of five years was stopped by an Orlando policeman while driving his car on Orange Blossom Trail about 2:30 a.m. on June 22, 1982, with two female prostitutes as passengers.

The Orlando policeman asked the Sanford man what he was doing with the two women. The man said he had just picked them up because they were hitchhiking.

When the Orlando policeman said, according to his own report, that he didn't believe him because the women were known prostitutes, the Sanford man identified himself as a Sanford policeman.

The Orlando policeman, according to his report, warned the Sanford policeman that he could be arrested for soliciting for prostitution. The Sanford officer, according to the same report, responded: "We're all human." The Sanford officer was not charged, but was permitted to leave after the Orlando policeman contacted a sergeant who also talked to the Sanford officer.

Shortly after the June 22, 1982 incident, Sanford Police Chief Ben Butler received a telephone call from the Orlando police chief who told him about the investigation.

It's at this point that a dispute arises over why it took so long — some 17 months — before an official Orlando police report was issued and the Sanford officer censured.

Chief Butler insists he asked Orlando police verbally on at least four separate occasions shortly after he learned about it to submit a written, official report of the incident so he could confront the officer and allow the man to defend himself before taking any official action.

"I can't take any action against anyone based on a telephone conversation," Butler said.

Butler also insists, in addition to requesting the report verbally, that on one other occasion "about seven months ago, I sent a lieutenant to Orlando to ask for it in person." But Orlando police, according to Chief Butler, said they couldn't find it.

A legal adviser for the Orlando police department, Jody Litchford, said as far as she knew, the Orlando police chief did notify Butler by phone a few days after the incident, and that a request for the written report came in the first week in November, 1983. Neither she, nor the Orlando police chief could be reached today to say why the report was not issued when Butler requested it on previous occasions.

Sanford police finally received the written report from Orlando on Nov. 4, 1983. Enter Sanford Police Sgt. Herb Shea, assistant to Butler, who says he spoke with the officer about the matter "to try to get to the bottom of it," and to give the man an opportunity to respond to the Orlando police allegations. Shea said he told the Sanford policeman he could give his side of the incident in writing, but the officer declined to do so.

"He told me he'd rather not ... that he had suffered enough hell over the incident already. I assume he was referring to his private life," Shea said.

Although the officer declined to turn in a written account of his side of the story, Shea said "he did deny verbally that the incident took place exactly the way Orlando police reported it."

On Nov. 9, 1983, Chief Butler issued a formal, written censure, a copy of which was given to the officer, saying that he (Butler) was embarrassed to have received the telephone call from the Orlando chief telling him about the incident; that the Sanford officer had violated the police code of ethics; and warning him to stay away from known prostitutes and not commit any other offenses or violations of the ethics code.

Chief Butler said he doesn't know why the Orlando police didn't charge the Sanford officer in 1982, and, when asked what would happen if an Orlando policeman were found under similar circumstances in Sanford by local police, responded, "He'd probably be arrested and charged."

Even though the Sanford officer who was censured has been reassigned from a patrol car to foot patrol along 13th Street in Sanford, Shea insists it had nothing to do with the Orlando incident, nor with his complaining to the union organizer.

"I don't even know for certain that he's one of the three men who went to the union. But it makes no difference. He was assigned to foot patrol because he's good at sniffing out drugs and he can't do that as well from a patrol car," said Sgt. Shea.

Blankenship said today he had no knowledge of the officer being stopped

Union Calls Charges Of Coercion 'Untrue'

Accusations by the Seminole County labor relations attorney that union organizers used force, lies and intimidation to convince county employees they needed a collective bargaining unit are "totally untrue," one of the organizers says.

"I'm not the type of person to try to force a union in where it's not needed or wanted. I'm offended by the accusation. It's highly improper," Eric Manuel, of the National Association of Government Employees, said today.

His comments came in response to statements made earlier this week by county labor lawyer David V. Kornreich who is representing the County Commission in the matter. Kornreich, who was out of town today and not available for comment, had accused Manuel of misrepresenting the union in seeking support among the workers.

The association, in an effort to organize more than 400 county employees, submitted papers to the Florida Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC) to request an election be held among the workers to determine if they will be represented by a bargaining unit in negotiations with the commission. Manuel said there were more than 150 signatures on the papers.

The request was rejected by PERC Monday on the grounds that the union failed to supply sufficient information on the job descriptions of workers it wishes to represent.

But Manuel contends the county, by stalling his request for lists of employees and not supplying sufficient information, is to blame for the rejection and says he will "most definitely" refile the papers with PERC.

"The county treated us as a different institution by making us go through Kornreich. It was a violation of the Sunshine Laws."

Assistant County Administrator Jim Easton said the information Manuel is requesting is usually obtained from the county's personnel office and is not handled by his department. However, Easton said he is confident there has been no violation of state law on the part of the county.

He added that PERC's rejection of the request is a blessing for all concerned.

"It will allow us to continue opportunities to improve management-employee relations and programs that benefit employees. Should we become unionized, our alternatives would be limited," he said today.

The union has sought to organize the county workers for several months and was required to obtain statements of interest from 30 percent of the employees before requesting the election be held. If the petition is eventually accepted by PERC, 50 percent of the workers must approve representation by the union before it can act as a bargaining agent. —Mary Matlack

IN BRIEF

Soviets May Reach Out, Touch Wrong Numbers

FREMONT, Calif. (UPI) — Police, acting on a request from the city council, are investigating whether Soviet agents are tapping telephones in this Silicon Valley suburb.

Fremont has a growing high-tech business community and city officials became concerned after the federal government last week issued a ban against Russian citizens visiting Silicon Valley, 50 miles south of San Francisco.

The Soviets are suspected of widespread espionage activities from their San Francisco consulate.

Councilman Bob Reeder said the Soviets may be trying to bug Fremont phones.

"By tapping phones, they could get a clue of what companies they should make a target for espionage," Reeder said.

Security Tightened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House and State Department are taking new security precautions to guard against possible attempts to ram the gates, blocking some entrances with police cars and dump trucks loaded with sand, officials said.

Seven trucks were parked Thursday in driveways to the White House and the adjoining Old Executive Office Building that are generally not used on holidays and weekends.

At the State Department, police cars were parked at both ends of a semicircular main entranceway and at one side entrance.

Officials would not say how long the trucks would remain.

On Capitol Hill, police also subjected cars to unusual searches before allowing them on the grounds Thursday night. A time bomb planted in the Capitol caused heavy damage to paintings and woodwork near the Senate chamber late Nov. 7.

by the Orlando police until an Evening Herald reporter told him about the incident.

"I talk with a lot of officers on the Sanford and Orlando police forces and I had heard nothing about it," Blankenship said.

He said the incident might be used as "a shallow pretext" to punish the officer for his interest in joining a union. "It strikes me as strange that all of a sudden they (Sanford police) are trying to go back a year and a half and dig up some dirt," he said. "Other police forces in Central Florida and in Seminole County have used similar tactics in the past to punish officers who showed interest in joining a union," he said.

Blankenship said if the incident is being handled properly, "it's really none of my business. That's between the Orlando chief and the Sanford chief. My only interest is to ensure that the officer gets his rights. If disciplinary action has been taken against him, he has the right to file an appeal with a review board if he wants to."

Russians Retaliate

More Nuclear Missiles In Europe, Off U.S. Coast

MOSCOW (UPI) — Ailing President Yuri Andropov vowed to retaliate for the planned NATO deployment of U.S. missiles and warned the Soviet Union will not return to the negotiating table while there is a single American nuclear weapon in Europe.

Andropov, who has not been seen in public for 99 days, delivered the tough announcement through the official media Thursday.

It was a further sign the Soviet leader is still in control despite his illness, which is officially described as a cold, though Western diplomats believe it to be far more serious.

The statement came 24 hours after the Soviet Union walked out of the Geneva talks on limiting nuclear weapons in Europe, making good a weeks-old threat to end negotiations if NATO begins its scheduled deployment of 572 U.S. cruise and Pershing-2 missiles.

The walkout followed a vote in the West German parliament to begin deployment from next month as well as British and Italian decisions to accept the missiles.

Though Andropov's statement set out the Soviet position it contained little that was new.

He laid the blame squarely on the United States for breaking off the Geneva negotiations, saying the Americans never seriously wanted an accord but used two years of talks as a cover for its real intentions of gaining military superiority.

Andropov repeated that the Soviet Union would resume the talks "should the United States and the other NATO countries display readiness to return to the

Yuri Andropov

...claims the U.S. used the Geneva arms reduction talks as a cover while working to gain military superiority over the Soviets situation that existed before the commencement of the deployment."

In the only new threat, the Soviet leader said retaliatory measures would include new nuclear weapons "in oceans and seas," though he did not specify where.

Previous Soviet statements have only hinted at this possibility though Western experts have long predicted the Soviets would respond to the NATO deployment by stationing nuclear missiles off the U.S. coast.

In Santa Barbara, Calif., where he is spending the Thanksgiving holiday weekend, President Reagan said in a statement, "We can only be dismayed at this Soviet statement. It is at sharp variance with the stated wish of the Soviet Union that an agreement be negotiated."

"While we are dismayed, we are determined to renew our efforts to entirely do away with the land-based intermediate-range nuclear missile systems. We continue to seek negotiations in good faith."

Andropov said the Soviet Union would step up preparations to install new nuclear weapons in East Germany and Czechoslovakia, first announced in October as a move to offset the U.S. missiles.

The Soviet leader said the Soviet Union would also lift a one-and-a-half year moratorium on the deployment of intermediate-range nuclear weapons.

"It goes without saying that other measures, too, will be taken," he said.

Western experts say the Soviet Union now has more than 630 nuclear missiles aimed at targets throughout Western Europe, including 230 triple-warhead SS-20s.

Andropov offered at the Geneva talks to reduce the Soviet weapons to equal 162 French and British submarine-based weapons. But Britain and France said their nuclear missiles are independent deterrents for use in a last resort and refuse to put them on the bargaining table.

Smoking Causes Most Non-Fatal Heart Attacks In Women Under 50

CHICAGO (UPI) — Cigarette smoking increases the risk of stroke by decreasing blood flow to the brain as much as 7 percent and more than half the non-fatal heart attacks in a study of women under 50 were caused by heavy smoking, two studies show.

Robert L. Rogers and colleagues at the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston said in the Journal of the American Medical Association the smokers of more than one pack per day experience a 7 percent decrease in blood flow to the brain.

"Smoking seems to be a potent risk factor decreasing cerebral blood flow probably by enhancing cerebral arteriosclerosis," said Rogers' group, which studied 192 smokers and non-smokers.

"Our present study lends further support to long-suspected clinical impressions that there is increased risk for stroke among chronic cigarette smokers."

Smokers experience an even greater blood deficit to the brain if they also suffer from other risk factors such as hypertension, hyperlipidemia (the presence of a fine emulsion of fatty substance in blood) and diabetes, the researchers said.

Dr. Lynn Rosenberg of Boston University said smoking is the most dramatic of all risk factors associated with non-fatal first heart attacks in women under 50.

In a study of more than 1,000 women, Rosenberg and colleagues found 65 percent of all non-fatal first myocardial infarctions — heart attacks due to decreased blood supply — in women were attributable to cigarette smoking.

"The relative risk of MI increased with the amount smoked," they said. "The estimated risk of myocardial infarction for current smokers of 35 or more cigarettes per day was 10 times that of women who never smoked."

After smoking, the most prominent risk factors were elevated total plasma cholesterol levels and decreased levels of high-density lipoprotein cholesterol.

Other factors significantly associated with MI were hypertension, angina pectoris (pain due to inadequate blood and oxygen supply to the heart), diabetes and a history of MI or stroke before age 60 in a mother or sibling.

Women who were postmenopausal appeared to have a lower risk of MI than premenopausal women of similar ages, the researchers said.

"Since smoking habits are amenable to change, it is a reasonable conclusion that a large proportion of first non-fatal MIs in women under the age of 50 years are preventable," they said.

Homeowner, Neighbors Capture Sailor In Burglary Attempt

A U.S. Navy recruit accused of attempting to break in to an Oviedo home was subdued and captured by the homeowner and two neighbors.

John W. Zaidel, 49, of 217 Palm Valley Drive, said that he heard someone trying to force their way in through the front door of his mobile home at about 3:45 a.m. Thursday.

Zaidel confronted the man at the door and asked him what he wanted. The man said he was looking for someone, then struck Zaidel in the face with his hand, karate-style.

The men struggled and Zaidel's neighbor, Donald Dunbar, 43, heard the ruckus and came to Zaidel's aid.

The suspect broke away and ran, but the men chased him and another neighbor, Maurice C. Sadler, 51, joined in to help subdue the suspect.

When a Seminole County sheriff's deputy arrived, he reported that the suspect was jumping around, screaming and threatening his captors.

Scott David Oase, 19, of the Orlando Naval Training Station, was arrested at the scene. He was taken to the Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, where he was treated for injuries received in the fight.

He was then taken to the Seminole County jail and was released to U.S. Navy authorities.

Oase was charged with attempted burglary, disorderly intoxication and three counts of battery. The three men who captured him were not seriously injured, a deputy reported.

OFFICER ASSAULTED

Sanford police patrolman Paul Little was assaulted by a shoplifting suspect he stop to question.

The officer reported Thursday morning that while investigating a report of shoplifting at the Fairway Market on U.S. Highway 17-92, he stopped a car leaving the area and asked the driver for her driver's license. She gave it to him, but then jerked it from his hand, Little said.

When Little told the woman she was under arrest, she hit him on the head, broke his eyeglasses and ripped his uniform, a report said.

Rena Mae Beveritt, 27, of 96 Seminole Garden, Sanford, was charged with battery on a police officer, resisting arrest with violence and criminal mischief. She is being held in the Seminole County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Americans Give Thanks

United Press International

Americans across the nation gave thanks for a variety of blessings — including long-awaited jobs and new-found freedom — ate turkey and fed the less fortunate in traditional and unique Thanksgiving celebrations.

President and Mrs. Reagan, kept indoors by soggy weather at their Santa Ynez, Calif. mountain ranch, ate a traditional dinner with several family members.

In a park across from the White House, hundreds of homeless people feasted on free turkey dinners, oblivious to the brown plastic garbage bags worn by some, the plastic plates or hard wooden benches.

The Community for Creative Non-Violence, a local activist organization, served the meal as "a reminder to the president and the American people that ... large and growing numbers of Americans have very little for which to be thankful."

Most of the Thanksgiving celebrations were traditional with family and friends gathering at homes, spectators lining the streets to watch parades and churches holding special services. A few were unusual, however.

Army transports flew in hundreds of turkeys and trimmings for the 3,100 American troops in Grenada.

Residents in Plymouth, Mass. dressed in knickers and Puritan hats and marched along the waterfront to the Church of the Pilgrims in "America's Home Town."

APARTMENT FIRE

A 6-year-old boy who was playing with matches started a fire in a Sanford apartment that damaged drapes and furniture, the Sanford fire department reported. No one was hurt.

The fire started when K. C. Yates, 6, was playing with matches in the bedroom of apartment #70 at Seminole Gardens shortly after noon Thursday, the report said.

Firefighters quickly extinguished the blaze which was confined to the bedroom, the report said.

Yates is the nephew of Lealie Brown who rents the apartment, the report said. Mrs. Brown was not home at the time of the fire. Her young daughter, Lisa, was in the apartment playing with K.C., the report said.

STEREO STOLEN

A stereo valued at $100 was taken from the home of Bernice Lynch Hawkins, 22, of 25 Lake Monroe Terrace between 7:30 and 10:30 p.m. Monday.

The thief pried open a living room window to gain entry, according to a police report.

Cops File Reverse Discrimination Suit

MIAMI (UPI) — A group of white policemen have filed suit against the city of Miami, charging they have been unfairly denied promotions that were given instead to Hispanics and blacks.

The 15 officers are the second batch in the Miami area to sue this year claiming reverse discrimination. Two white Metro-Dade sergeants sued the county in August, saying three Hispanic officers were promoted improperly.

In 1979, the department changed its promotion procedure so the highest-ranking employee no longer was automatically promoted. That action came in response to a Justice Department recommendation.

In a similar case, the Miami firefighters' union challenged the city's policy of allowing minorities to "leapfrog" over higher-ranking white officers. In June, U.S. District Judge James W. Kehoe ruled against the union in a statement strongly supporting affirmative action.

Israel Vows To Bring Back More Prisoners

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israel, euphoric over the release of six Israeli prisoners of war, vowed to bring back the rest of its soldiers captured during the invasion of Lebanon.

Five or six Israelis are being held by Syria and by Palestinian rebel Ahmed Jibril's faction that besieged Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat in the port city of Tripoli in northern Lebanon.

"We are still holding some cards," Defense Minister Moshe Arens said at a news conference after the six Israelis arrived in Israel to a heroes' welcome.

To free the six Israelis held in Tripoli by the PLO, itself fighting for its life in the Lebanese city, Israel released 4,500 Palestinians and Lebanese detainees from southern Lebanon.

Arens did not detail any of his "cards" that would return the six Israeli prisoners. But Israel has a number of Syrian war prisoners in its jails.

Reagan's '84 Budget Proposal Was A Bust

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress failed to enact the major provisions in President Reagan's 1984 budget, from tuition tax credits to welfare reform, and exceeded his spending requests by an estimated $6.2 billion.

The Democratic House and Republican Senate refused to give Reagan all the money he wanted for the military, and gave him more than he requested for non-defense domestic programs that had been cut the past two years.

In short, Reagan's fiscal 1984 budget proposal went nowhere.

Many of the major provisions in Reagan's 1984 spending plan are expected to be repeated in his fiscal 1985 budget proposal to be submitted to Congress in January.

A Senate Budget Committee review of the year's congressional action showed Congress approved fiscal 1984 spending bills that exceeded Reagan's budget request by a total of $6.2 billion, a committee analyst said.

The largest increases over Reagan's requests were $5.1 billion more for labor, health and human services, $1.1 billion more for farm programs and $1.1 billion more for interior programs, the committee analyst said.

The biggest decrease was in military spending, where Congress gave Reagan $2.7 billion less than he wanted.

Hastings Called Worst Federal Judge

MIAMI (UPI) — Outspoken U.S. District Judge Alcee Hastings, voted the worst federal judge in south Florida by local lawyers, says he considers the attorney's poll a "teaching mechanism" that will help him improve his work.

Hastings, a native of Altamonte Springs and the first black to serve on Florida's federal judiciary, was termed "unqualified" by 52 percent of the lawyers surveyed by the Dade County Bar Association. Federal, state and county judges are rated in the poll.

Hastings, acquitted last year of bribery conspiracy charges, was rated lower than any other federal judge.

But he said he was not offended by the poll. "I take it as a teaching mechanism. It teaches me there is a long way from the bottom to the top," Hastings said. "There are lawyers who obviously feel I have room for improvement. I'm confident that whatever it is that generated the notion that I'm unqualified will be overcome."

Thirty-three percent of the 1,431 attorneys who rated Hastings said he was "qualified," while 14 percent said his performance was "exceptional."

Highest rated among the federal judges was U.S. District Judge William M. Hoeveler, who was called "exceptional" by 77.5 percent of the lawyers in the poll. Another 21.56 percent said Hoeveler was "qualified," while less than 1 percent considered him unqualified.

Hastings was acquitted by a Miami federal jury in February on charges he conspired to shake down two racketeers convicted in his court for $150,000. Prosecutors contended Hastings was willing to reduce the jail terms of brothers Frank and Thomas Romano in exchange for $150,000.

Acting as his own attorney during parts of the trial, Hastings convinced a jury he knew nothing about the scheme. His long-time friend, Washington, D.C. attorney William A. Borders, was convicted of acting as an intermediary in the bribery scheme.

After the trial, a three-judge panel began investigating complaints by other federal judges against

Alcee Hastings

Hastings. Judge John Godbold, chief judge of the 11th U.S. Circuit Court in Atlanta, acknowledged a judicial panel was investigating Hastings based on complaints from other judges who wanted Hastings impeached.

Hastings, defying a court order to keep the probe secret, said it involved accusations that he "degraded and demeaned the entire constitutional system."

Jails Termed Luxurious

CLEARWATER (UPI) — Grand jurors who toured Pinellas County jails to see whether officials complied with orders from a federal judge to make the facilities more humane say they found inmates living in luxury.

Twenty-one members of the grand jury toured a maximum security jail and a new minimum security facility.

"We found these facilities to be luxurious, and certainly not the jail environment anticipated by citizens," the jurors report said Thursday.

The jurors learned inmates are allowed to watch television from their cells and telephone whoever they wish. They found bright rooms with walls painted in deep blues and reds to make the inmates feel at home.

A U.S. District Court judge's order four years ago to make the jails more humane followed a 1975 suit in which two former inmates charged the jail in downtown Clearwater was crowded, unsanitary and degrading.

Tah Dah! It's Time For Annual Doo Dah Parade

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The Seventh Annual Doo Dah Parade, the out-of-step, off-beat and irreverent spoof of the Rose Parade, will amble down Colorado Boulevard this weekend before an expected 100,000 spectators.

Baton droppers, the synchronized briefcase drill team, the power mower drill team and the hand-held power drill team have been rehearsing for Sunday's parade in one of Southern California's newest holiday offerings.

There is no theme, no grand marshal, no judging, no prizes. There is not even any particular order.

The Doo Dah Parade was conceived as a one-time-only disorganized spoof of the annual Tournament of Roses procession, an elaborate multimillion dollar floral extravaganza that symbolizes the establishment.

But the counterculture's alternative has become something of a spectacular tradition itself.

Walking the 14-mile parade route will be returning favorites Gypsy Boots, Zeke the Shiek from Mozambique and Snotty Scottie and his Hankies.

Perhaps the most popular entry year after year, however, is the synchronized briefcase drill team, featuring 20 bank executives in dark, three-piece suits. They were even featured on a Jackson Browne rock music video.

A Civil Rights Watchdog Revived

The Civil Rights Commission has been saved on its death bed.

A compromise between Congress and the president will allow the commission to continue its role as an independent monitor of civil rights.

It was endangered by political infighting between the administration and Congress, which erupted into the firing of three commission members by the president and a halt to funding by Congress.

In the compromise, the commission will be expanded from six to eight members and funded for six years.

Congress and the president will each appoint two Republicans and two Democrats to the commission.

Members will not be removable unless cause is shown. The president will have authority to appoint the chairman from among the eight members and a staff director, but they must be approved by a majority of the commission.

This is a reasonable compromise. The tragedy of the fight over the commission is that the commission is not the problem. Discrimination is.

It is an insidious and pervasive reality, sometimes invisible as air, sometimes blunt as a "Do Not Apply" sign. It is self-perpetuating. Denial of equality causes inequality, which breeds resentment and repressed fury and self-defeat.

Discrimination twists lives into tortured patterns of suffering.

Discrimination points a finger and says "I told you so," when the least failure is discerned in a member of a minority. Discrimination diverts capital away from neighborhoods which are considered bad risks.

Discrimination results in appalling levels of unemployment for blacks, second-class jobs for Hispanics, quotas in hiring Jews.

What does America get for its reflex of discrimination? It gets neighborhoods blighted by poverty. It gets fresh recruits for gangs. It gets generations of welfare dependents. It gets families with fathers who have lost their self-respect and run away. It gets children abused by parents who cannot make it on the outside, so they take it out on their kids.

How can discrimination be ended?

We have no means to penetrate into the souls of men and surgically remove prejudice.

But this country can shine a light into its laws and government programs and excise those which discriminate against minorities. Rewriting the law is not enough.

Someone must enforce the law. And there can be no enforcement without scrutiny.

That is the role of the commission: to stand guard over the law and see that it is enforced by the federal government and to monitor complaints by those who feel their civil rights have been denied.

The commission must be critical, not only of the president or Congress, but of the American people's record in the treatment of people of differing color and race and sex. A complaisant commission is a blind commission. A president or Congress which feels offended because a civil rights record is criticized is missing the point.

We are all to blame.

The status quo is unacceptable. We must move forward toward providing equality of opportunity to all Americans. We have not done enough.

Rigid quotas are not the answer.

But rolling back the progress made by affirmative action is not the answer either.

America is a pragmatic nation and it is clear that we have failed pragmatically to achieve legal and economic color blindness.

The commission has much to do. Let's get on with it.

BERRY'S WORLD

"What do you suppose AT&T is up to now?"

Patlette Dando Muller of Sanford has proved that one can do almost anything if she keeps her goal firmly in mind. Ms. Muller began going to college as early as she could in 1978. Over the years that she pursued her education, she worked as a technician for the Seminole County Pollution Control Department and as a plant operator for the city of Altamonte Springs. Last April she achieved her goal, graduating from the University of Central Florida with a degree in engineering technology. She immediately put her knowledge and expertise to work as an engineering research supervisor at the university near Oviedo. She applied for the job of pollution control director of Lake County in recent weeks and was chosen over 25 other applicants. She is to assume the duties of her new job on Jan. 3 at an annual salary of $22,900. In addition to her salary, she is to be supplied with a county car with which to drive back and forth to work from Seminole County until she relocates there.

In addition to her degree, Ms. Muller has experience in hydrology, air pollution and environmental control and design.

Ms. Muller attended classes at Seminole Community College and at Rollins College, in addition to UCF.

Kathy Rice, Lake Mary's new city manager, has done exactly what she said she would when interviewed by city commissioners for the job in October. She has rented a room in a private home about a block from city hall to be available to the city. On weekends and sometimes during the week, Mrs. Rice gets to see and be with her husband, Matthew, and son, Timothy, 10, either at the family home in Orlando or in Lake Mary.

Actually, she's as close to her family as the telephone if they should need her. Mrs. Rice says that the lease on the family home in Orlando will be up in March and then she expects her husband and son to join her in Lake Mary.

"It's only fair," she said, noting that when her husband got a job in Orlando while the family was living in Jacksonville she held down the family responsibility there until they could join him in Orlando.

Mrs. Rice was formerly a planner with the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council in Orlando.

The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce will have a personality breakfast at 8 a.m. Thursday at the chamber building, 400 E. First Street. Guest speaker will be William S. Norman, vice president of marketing for Amtrak.

The Chamber will also have its yearly organizational meeting of the board of directors at 8 a.m., Dec. 13 at the chamber building. Ten newly-elected directors will be introduced at the meeting.

JEFFREY HART Looking Beyond Grenada

In Charles Dickens' novel "Great Expectations," the aging spinster Miss Havisham has been living for years amid the dust and cobwebs of the past, shuttered against reality.

President Reagan's successful move against the allies of Cuba on Grenada has done more than liberate that tiny island and provide relief to its neighbors, desirable though all of that is. Reagan has swept away the cobwebs that have gathered around our assumptions about foreign policy. He has thrown open the windows and let some reality into the room. The false assumptions are scattering like frightened bats, and that is a major service for the future of this country.

Here are few of the false assumptions:

1. The use of force settles nothing.

Of course, force must be used prudently, but under the right circumstances it settles a good deal. Ask Napoleon. It has certainly settled the Coard-Austin Castroite regime on Grenada, and dealt a blow to Cuban designs in the Western Hemisphere.

2. The government is usually lying.

This assumption pervaded coverage of Grenada by the major media, and the New York Times in particular. Thus, the medical students were "never in danger." Thus the two-mile runway was meant for civilian airliners.

Well, the medical students were kissing the ground upon their return, and celebrating the rescue at Rose Garden ceremonies. They felt that they were potential hostages. Documents have now been made public that indicate a massive Soviet military aid program for Grenada, and even the North Koreans were getting involved.

3. Intervention costs us the "moral high ground," and makes us no better than the Soviets in Afghanistan.

Surprisingly, this view was initially taken by Speaker Tip O'Neill, in that now famous interview with James Reston, in which the Speaker found himself committing other intellectual atrocities as well.

But the Afghans have been fighting a large Soviet Force tooth-and-nail for more than four years. There is every indication, in contrast, that the American intervention was welcomed by the inhabitants of Grenada, as it was by the independent island neighbors. Any comparison with Afghanistan is preposterous.

4. The last best hope of mankind.

In case you have forgotten, that is the United Nations, which overwhelmingly condemned Reagan's Grenada move. We got only nine votes in the General Assembly. The U.N. has yet to notice the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

Reagan struck exactly the right note when he commented that the U.N. vote had not disturbed his breakfast.

5. Treaty obligations are sacred.

There has always been a legalistic strain in American foreign policy, and while treaties are certainly to be respected, reality also has claims to assert.

Loophole Exposes Elderly To Vet X-Rays

WASHINGTON — X-ray machines intended for treating livestock and pets have been used on elderly nursing home patients under the Medicare program.

What makes this doubly outrageous is that the use of veterinary X-ray equipment on elderly invalids is allowed through a loophole in the 1974 law that set stringent federal safety standards. The loophole permits X-ray machines made before 1974 to be used on Medicare patients without federal approval, as long as they meet state standards.

Of the 262 portable X-ray machines certified for Medicare use, 65 are in California, which has safety standards less stringent than the federal guidelines. A recent Food and Drug Administration memorandum warns that other states may also have lower standards.

More Notes From Japan

TOKYO (NEA) — President Reagan's warm personality and persuasive oratorical style translated splendidly into Japanese on his recent visit to the Far East. His address to the Diet was praised by just about everyone who heard it. (That lets out the communist members, who boycotted it.) "I've been in politics 19 years," an opposition member of the House of Councillors told me, "and I've never heard a finer speech." The Japanese, well aware that Reagan comes from California and thus tends to be Pacific-oriented, were delighted when he attempted a short sentence in their native tongue. He didn't get it exactly right, but the effort was hugely appreciated.

UNDER ARTICLE IX of the postwar Japanese constitution (adopted under American pressure), armed forces are explicitly forbidden. Despite which, looking at the size of the Soviet Union's Far Eastern forces (40 divisions east of Lake Baikal, 1,300 high-performance combat aircraft, 820 naval vessels, including the aircraft carrier Minsk), Japan has yielded to later and different U.S. pressures and created a modest Defense Force. Certain members of the opposition Socialist Party argue, not altogether implausibly, that this is flagrantly unconstitutional. They sound rather like ardent anti-gun control spokesmen in the United States, pointing to our Second Amendment's flat declaration that the right of citizens "to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed." Yup, gentlemen, that's what it says. But don't count on it.

WHICH AMERICAN manufacturers will be the next to feel the pressure of Japanese competition in our domestic markets?

"Currently, the big areas are iron and steel, autos and consumer electronics. In the future, competition in these fields will grow stronger still," one of Japan's leading international businessmen told me. "Beyond that, we have a catchy expression in Japanese that translates as 'light, thin, short and small,' and that will be the direction of the competition. In other words, more brain-oriented. And that means computers, semiconductors, electronics in general and robotics." To which the managing director of the Japanese Federation of Economic Organizations, added: pharmaceuticals (especially biotechnology), aircraft frames (smaller ones now, wide bodies later), aircraft engines and machine tools.

THE JAPANESE are a proud people, and hate to be threatened or pushed around. Combined with the megaphone effect of modern international communications, this enables any average American congressman to cause a lot of trouble. He can make a bellicose speech to a hundred or so of his constituents in East Dogpatch about "unfair" Japanese competition, calling for all sorts of ill-considered retaliation, and it will show up on the front page of the next day's Tokyo newspapers as "Washington's" latest comment on the tender subject of trade.

WHEREVER I went and whomever I spoke to, I raised the subject of China. That huge country is too close to Japan, and too intricately bound up with it, to be disregarded in any intelligent conversation.

As I expected, Japanese businessmen, like their American counterparts, have been disappointed in their original hopes of fast profits from normalization of relations. China has neither the money to pay for imports nor the basic infrastructure to manufacture much for itself. Nevertheless, "though hope may be low, interest is high." Japan has, and wants to maintain, smooth and friendly relations with Peking, as a counterbalance to the Soviet Union.

ROBERT WALTERS

Demise Of A Theory

CHICAGO (NEA) — What ever happened to the theory that the inevitable growth of the Republican Party in the Sun Belt would allow the GOP to exercise long-term dominance of national politics?

When the Republican Governors Association held its annual meeting here recently, the dwindling number of GOP state executives searched in vain for an answer to that question.

The Sun Belt theory, long accepted as an item of faith by both Republicans and Democrats, was first propounded by political theoretician Kevin P. Phillips in a 1969 book appropriately titled "The Emerging Republican Majority."

The Republicans, Phillips argued, would control "a demographically ascendant Sun Belt" with a majority of the nation's population, while the Midwest and Pacific Northwest would remain political battlegrounds and the Democrats' strength would be confined to the Northeast.

That's the theory. The reality is that at the beginning of next year there will be precisely two Republican governors — George Deukmejian of California and Lamar Alexander of Tennessee — in the vast Sun Belt arc stretching from Virginia through the Southeast, across the Southwest and into California.

The Democrats, who currently enjoy a 35-15 plurality among the nation's governors, won all three of this year's gubernatorial elections — in Kentucky, Mississippi and Louisiana.

In the first two, there will be no change in the governors' party affiliation because the outgoing governors are Democrats. In Louisiana, however, control switches from Republican to Democratic, so there will be a 36-14 ratio after the new state executives are inaugurated.

When the RGA convened here in mid-November, Indiana Gov. Robert D. Orr, the organization's chairman, sought to assuage his colleagues by noting that the GOP was "down to 12 (governorships) only a few years ago."

That low point actually was reached five years ago, in 1978. Moreover, Orr discreetly avoided mentioning the fact that the nation had as many as 32 Republican governors in 1973, only 10 years ago. Equally striking is the fact that the GOP total stood at 23 when President Reagan was elected but has dropped precipitously since then.

Orr attributes that decline both to uncontrollable, idiosyncratic political developments in various states and to the Reagan administration's policy of imposing "tough measures that were sometimes difficult for people to accept."

The Republican governors, citing an economy substantially improved during the past year, now generally profess to be optimistic. "It's the difference between 8.3 percent unemployment and 4.8 percent unemployment in my state," says Iowa Gov. Terry Branstad.

sary. They may even leave radiation burns. Yet some X-ray service providers use the unsafe machines because they are cheaper to buy and operate.

FDA experts told my reporters Stephanie Holmes and Tony Capaccio that the animal X-ray machines have been used mainly for low-dose, routine procedures. They pointed out that because the nursing home patients are elderly, the possibility of genetic damage is not significant.

The inspector general noted in his memo that so far only two Medicare providers have been caught illegally using veterinary equipment on nursing home patients. But he added: "Indications are that at least eight other California suppliers are involved in this callous disregard of the consequences of unnecessary radiation exposure."

One supplier, Medical Support Systems of Woodland Hills, Calif., was named in the IG's memo, which said the company's animal X-ray machines "lacked controls for protection of patients and did, in fact, violate federal safety standards."

Though the Health Care Financing Administration, which monitors Medicare, had been told of the problem with Medical Support Systems, the agency apparently took no action. "It appears that Medical Support Systems did, in fact, violate a condition of Medicare reimbursement and at the very least should have been required to make a refund," wrote Kusserow.

I sent the company copies of the complaining documents and requested comment, but the company has made no response. I've learned, however, that company executives told federal investigators there were about 50 machines in use on the West Coast that are similar to theirs.

Gardening

Loquat Trees Excellent Addition In Landscape

Loquat or Japanese Plum, whichever name you prefer, should be considered if your homestead would benefit from a flowering fruit tree that retains an attractive appearance year-round.

Loquat trees make an excellent addition to our Florida landscape. They are well-shaped evergreens that are relatively easy to care for. During winter, when many trees are in a semi-dormant state, loquats are in full bloom, with small, fragrant white flowers. And as spring nears, loquat trees begin to bear edible fruit.

Loquat trees are relatively small, reaching a height of only 25 feet when fully grown. Their leaves grow up to a foot long, and have a fuzzy texture when young, becoming smooth and waxy as they mature.

Loquat fruit are oval in shape, about 1 or 2 inches long, and skin color is yellow to orange when ripe. The flesh is firm, juicy, white to orange in color and flavor is tart to sweet.

Most loquat bear fruit regularly with the main fruiting season being February through April.

Loquats may be grown in three

Frank J. Jasa

County Extension Director
323-2500
Ext. 182

ways: from seed, rooted cuttings, and budded trees. They are very easy to grow from seeds, but seed-grown trees produce inferior fruit and may take many years to start bearing. Superior varieties do not come true from seed, so it is necessary to plant vegetatively propagated trees. Two ways this is done in Florida are shield budding, and grafting.

Loquats can be grown on any type of soil as long as it is well drained and free of salt. Although it tolerates drought, the loquat will not bear fruit under dry conditions and irrigation is desirable during time of bloom and fruit development.

Flooding quickly kills the loquat. Loquats need some fertilizer for best fruit production. Two to four applications per year of fruit tree fertilizer is recommended.

Regular pruning of loquat trees is not necessary because they have naturally well-shaped, symmetrical crowns. Occasional pruning may be needed to remove deadwood and pruning a few branches may help increase fruit size.

With all its plusses, the loquat does have one weakness with its susceptibility to fire blight. This bacterial disease can cause death of twigs, branches, and occasionally the entire tree. There is no effective spray program but this disease can be controlled by prompt removal and burning or other disposal of discarded parts.

All extension programs are open to anyone regardless of race, color, sex or national origin.

Daughter Asks To Be Left Alone

Dear Abby: In response to a letter in your column you said, "You don't need a person's permission to pray for him." Well, that's my problem. My mother is praying for me, and I wish she wouldn't. Ever since she got herself "born again," she says she is praying that God will bring me to my knees so I will be born again, too.

Dear Abby

Abby, I have my own religion, which doesn't happen to be the same as hers, but she keeps trying to talk me into being "saved." When I ask her to please leave me alone and quit praying for me, she says it's her duty as a parent to lead me down the "right" path.

Don't get me wrong. I also believe in prayer, but I don't want to get into a contest with my mother to see which one of us prays better.

Getting Goofy in L.A.

Dear Getting: You didn't state your age, but if you're an adult you have the right to choose your own religion. And as well-meaning as your mother may be, she needs to be reminded that one of our most cherished rights is the right to be left alone. . . .

Dear Abby: From time to time I meet people who are anti-black, anti-Jew, anti-Catholic, anti-gay, and anti-foreigner, while loudly proclaiming that they are passionately pro-American!

Since the logic behind this kind of thinking escapes me, I am at a loss as to how to deal with them. Please advise. And you may use my real name.

Charlotte Campbell

Dear Charlotte: Tell them that it's not possible to be anti-black, anti-Jew, anti-Catholic, anti-gay and anti-foreigner AND passionately pro-American at the same time because a substantial part of America is composed of blacks, Jews, Catholics, gays and foreigners.

Dear Abby: A close relative, age 77, recently went to Poland to visit his relatives. His wife was unable to accompany him because of poor health.

Two weeks after he arrived in Poland his wife received a telegram from the American Consulate in Poland informing her that her husband had suffered a fatal heart attack and it would cost her $7,500 to have his body flown back to the United States for burial. The alternative was to have him buried in Poland for $300. His wife chose to have him buried in Poland because she couldn't afford to have his body shipped back here at those prices.

We were shocked at how much was asked to have his body shipped to the United States from Poland. It seems so grossly overpriced. Am I being ridiculous to question the whole thing? Why in the world is so much charged for such a humane service?

Now the poor widow will be deprived of being buried alongside her lifelong companion in the family plot with other family members.

I would like to hear your comment on this upsetting crisis in our family.

Upset in N.Y.

Dear Upset: I am informed that the cost of shipping a body by air is determined by the weight and mileage. The average weight (including the shipping crate) is approximately 350 to 400 pounds, which costs between $120 and $140 per each 100 pounds. Add to that the mortician's fee for embalming, plus the casket, and it should not total anywhere near the figure you were quoted. I think you have good reason to be upset.

(Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

'Man Who Came To Dinner' At Rollins

The Annie Russell Theatre will open Kaufman and Hart's classic 1939 comedy hit, The Man Who Came to Dinner on Friday, Dec. 2. Performances continue Saturday, Dec. 2 and Wednesday through Saturday, Dec. 7 to 10 at 8:00 p.m. with a 2:00 p.m. matinee on Saturday, Dec. 2. The Man Who Came to Dinner is the Annie Russell Theatre's second offering of the season.

The fun of The Man Who Came to Dinner is that Kaufman and Hart imagined a situation in which a nice, middle-class American family had been flattered when the great man, stopping in their town one day for a lecture, had accepted their invitation to dinner. But Whiteside not only came to dinner, he stays.

He falls as he is about to leave, breaks a hip, and can't be moved, according to physicians.

Accordingly he takes over the Stanley family's household and proves to be a monstrously selfish and uncharming guest. With ever increasing petulance and bullying, he infests their home with secretaries, famous actors and actresses, radio engineers, cockroach colonies and performs his celebrated Christmas broadcast for Cream of Mush, surrounded by six choir boys.

In the Annie Russell Theatre production, Rollins theatre professor and long-time local favorite, Dr. Robert O. Juergens (Whiteside), will be seen as this dinner guest, a man full of what ordinarily is called temperament when applied to genius, and a dirty disposition when applied to ordinary mortals.

Anything but a one-character play (there are 37 in the cast, including those choir boys), the mischievous comedy is peopled by some of the maddest eccentrics yet.

Another local favorite, Dr. Charles Rodgers, makes his Annie Russell Theatre debut directing the large cast.

Tickets may be reserved by calling the Annie Russell Theatre box office at 646-2145 from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. daily. Tickets are also available at all Select-a-Seat outlets including the Council of Arts and Sciences at 1900 North Mills, Orlando.

Club Honors Teachers Of Handicapped

The Junior Woman's Club of Sanford held a reception at the clubhouse to honor local educators who teach the handicapped. The teachers represented 10 schools in the Sanford area. A cake featured "Kids on the Block" and each teacher was presented a "thank you" poem. Club member Rosalie Morace, left, greets Sherrill Casey, a teacher at Idyllwild, and Don Ricci, director of Special Education for Seminole County School Board.

Beta Sigma Phi Chapters Host Fete For Guests

All Sanford Beta Sigma Phi chapters combined to host "Guest Day" in festivities at Lake Mary City Hall.

According to Susan Byrd, 20 rushees attended the informal afternoon event to learn more about the cultural service organization for women.

Among the special guests introduced by Beta Sigma Phi City Council chairman Margie Beine were Dr. Maria Perez, who with her husband, Dr. Luis Perez, have both served Beta Sigma Phi's Valentine Ball as honorary host and hostess several times.

Also: Mama Katie Corley, honorary member of Sanford's oldest chapter, Gamma Lambda; and Carol Trent, a transfer member from Wisconsin who told of the advantages of moving her membership to a new city and was welcomed to the area immediately by her Sanford BSP sisters.

Members and guests were entertained with a short skit, "Tribal Gatherings," depicting the interesting activities that Beta Sigma Phi members are involved in such as service to their community, cultural programs at each meeting and social events sponsored by each chapter.

Door prizes were awarded and refreshments were served to about 70 persons.

Eggnog

The Perennial Favorite At Christmas Is Economical, Festive

Which holiday drink fits both the festive season and the pocketbook?

"The host or hostess at home as well as those in well-known restaurants may attempt to prepare something different — but the perennial favorite at Christmas is eggnog," explains Jennifer Harvey Lang, who has worked as the first woman chef at New York's famous "21" Club Restaurant and authors the "Resolute Shopper" column for the Washington Post.

Lang, a graduate of the prestigious Culinary Institute of America, finds eggnog both festive and economical. The association between eggnog and the holidays dates back to long ago. And Lang points out that the word "eggnog" probably came from an old English term "noggin" meaning a small cup a similar drink was served in centuries ago. Of the many ways to prepare eggnog, Lang prefers a special made-from-scratch recipe which calls for Southern Comfort, an authentic American spirit created around the turn of the century in New Orleans.

She finds this popular liquor with its original, unique flavor key to the special taste of her eggnog. She also suggests keeping this specialty libation on hand to enhance the flavor of other holiday recipes.

Lang opposes the common misgivings that eggnog is either expensive or complicated to make. And she explains why eggnog may be the answer for those looking for an economical, holiday refreshment.

— Eggnog eliminates the expense of stocking the bar. Eggnog and a fruit-based punch make a complete and festive party fare, and the savings are considerable when compared to the cost of stocking a bar.

— It's economical in other ways, too. During the past 27 years, the cost of a dozen eggs has risen by only 18 cents.

— The eggnog is a drink and dessert in one. The sweet creamy drink usually conquers even the serious sweet tooth and satisfies the need for dessert or additional calories.

— There are no leftovers to worry about with eggnog. Transform any unused eggnog into a sumptuous eggnog pie. The following recipe shows how. In fact, Lang advises that you may just want to make sure you'll have some extra to transform this into an elegant and easy dessert.

For those who are still hesitant about preparing eggnog from scratch, Lang shares the following tips: Remember that egg yolks and whites are easiest to separate when they are cold, so it's best to separate them right out of the refrigerator. However, egg whites should remain at room temperature for half an hour or so before whipping, and they should be whipped in a non-plastic bowl. Ultra-pasteurized heavy whipping cream is more difficult to whip so choose non-ultra-pasteurized whipping cream, as long as you don't plan on storing it for more than one week. Keep in mind that a small bowl is best for whipping cream because it allows the beaters or whisks to incorporate more air.

If a punch bowl of from-scratch eggnog is too much though, one or two can still partake in the festivities by following Lang's "Easy Comfort Banana Nog" recipe.

HOMEMADE COMFORT EGGNOG

- 6 eggs, separated
- 1/4 cup superfine granulated sugar
- 2 cups heavy whipping cream, whipped
- 1 cup heavy whipping cream
- 1 cup milk

2 cups Southern Comfort Nutmeg to taste

In a punch bowl with an electric hand mixer, beat the egg yolks until they are thick and fluffy and lighter in color; gradually add sugar and mix until it is completely dissolved. Add to the yolk mixture the whipped cream, cream and milk, stirring well.

Add, still stirring, the Southern Comfort. Chill this mixture until ready to serve.

Just before serving, beat the egg whites to the consistency of shaving cream and stir thoroughly into the eggnog in the punch bowl. Dust with nutmeg to taste, freshly-grated if possible.

Makes about 2 quarts, which is 10 servings at about 5 ounces each. Double or triple the recipe to accommodate your holiday crowd.

*NOTE: You can use ordinary granulated sugar, if you don't have the superfine.

COMFORT EGGNOG PIE
1 envelope unflavored gelatin

3 cups eggnog (from Southern Comfort Eggnog recipe)

1 prepared 9-inch graham cracker pie crust
1 cup heavy whipping cream, whipped
Chocolate shavings (made by scraping the side of a bar of cooking chocolate with a vegetable peeler)

Sprinkle the gelatin over 1/4 cup of water in a small saucepan; let gelatin soften for five minutes. Put the saucepan over the lowest heat and cook without stirring until gelatin has melted and mixture is clear. Cool for five minutes.

Stir together thoroughly the softened gelatin and eggnog. Pour into the pie crust. Cover with plastic wrap and chill for at least two hours, or overnight, if possible.

Spread whipped cream over the top of the pie and sprinkle with chocolate shavings.

EASY COMFORT BANANA NOG
1 ripe banana, peeled and cut up 6 ounces (3/4 cup) milk

1 ounce (2 tablespoons) Southern Comfort Nutmeg to taste
Put banana, milk and Southern Comfort into a blender and process until well-blended. Serve in a tall glass and garnish with a sprinkling of nutmeg.
Makes one serving

Healthy Breads For The Holidays

Vertbrod, a traditional German yeast bread, is made with a contemporary refrigerator dough method. The orange and fennel flavors make it one of the most distinctive of all breads.

Frosted Cherry Cheese Squares are quick to make and good to have on hand for unexpected visitors. Baked in a jelly-roll pan, the whole preparation takes only 90 minutes.

2 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup whole wheat flour
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup margarine
1 package active dry yeast
1/4 cup warm water (105°F. to 115°F.)
1/4 cup cold milk (about)
1/2 cup dark seedless raisins
1/2 cup mixed candied fruits
1/4 cup blanched almonds, chopped
Confectioners sugar, optional

FOOD PROCESSOR PREPARATION

With metal blade in place, in food processor bowl, combine flours, sugar, salt and margarine; process 5 to 10 seconds to combine. Dissolve active dry yeast in warm water; pour through feed tube. Begin processing, pouring enough cold milk through feed tube in a slow steady stream until ball of dough forms on top of blade. Continue processing 50 to 60 seconds to knead dough. Carefully remove dough from processor bowl. Shape into ball; place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Punch dough down. On lightly floured board, knead in raisins, candied fruits and blanched almonds. Roll dough to 10x8-inch rectangle; roll up from short end into loaf. Place in greased 8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/2-inch loaf pan. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake at 375°F. for 30 to 35 minutes or until done.

90-MINUTE FROSTED CHERRY CHEESE SQUARES

(Makes 1 large cake)
2 1/4 to 2 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/4 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 package active dry yeast
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup water
1 cup margarine, softened

2 eggs, separated, at room temperature
1 1/2 cups whole wheat flour
1 (21-ounce) can cherry pie filling
1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Confectioners sugar glaze

In large bowl thoroughly mix 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour, brown sugar, salt and undissolved active dry yeast. In small saucepan heat milk, water and margarine until liquids are very warm (120°F. to 130°F.). Margarine does not need to melt. Add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add egg yolks and 1/2 cup all-purpose flour; beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in whole wheat flour and enough of remaining all-purpose flour to make soft dough. Turn out onto well floured board; knead 1 minute. Divide dough in half. On floured board roll each half to 16x11-inch rectangle. Transfer one layer to greased 15 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 1-inch jelly roll pan. Coarsely chop cherries in pie filling; spread mixture over dough in pan. In small bowl, beat cream cheese until light; beat in egg whites, granulated sugar and vanilla extract. Spread mixture over cherry layer. Top with 2nd layer of dough, sealing edges. Snip surface. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, for 45 minutes. Bake at 375°F. for 25 minutes or until done. Cool slightly in pan. While warm, frost with confectioners sugar glaze. Cut into diamond shapes to serve.

HOLIDAY RYE BREAD (Vertbrod)

(Makes 4 small loaves)
3 to 3 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
2 teaspoons fennel seed
2 packages active dry yeast
2 tablespoons margarine, softened
1 1/2 cups hot tap water (120°F. to 130°F.)
1/4 cup molasses, room temperature
2 1/2 cups rye flour
1 egg white
1 tablespoon cold water
Coarse salt

In large bowl, thoroughly mix 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour, sugar, salt, orange peel, fennel seed and undissolved active dry yeast. Add softened margarine, gradually add very hot tap water and molasses to dry ingredients; beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add 1/2 cup all-purpose flour, beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in rye flour and enough remaining all-purpose flour to make soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover tightly; refrigerate 12 to 24 hours. Punch dough down; turn out onto lightly floured board. Divide into 4 equal pieces. Roll each into 10x6-inch rectangle. Roll up tightly from long side, like a jelly roll; pinch seams to seal. Place on greased baking sheets. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. With sharp knife or razor, make 3 diagonal cuts on top of each loaf. Bake at 375°F. for 25 minutes. Remove from oven; brush with egg white mixed with cold water; sprinkle with coarse salt. Return to oven. Bake 5 minutes longer or until done. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks.

Apopka, 5 Star Can Take Big Step

The Five Star Conference can gain another chunk of respect tonight when the Apopka Blue Darters host Winter Park in the regional playoff game beginning at 8 p.m.

Apopka blazed to the regular season with a spotless 10-0 record while the Wildcats, a perennial Metro Conference powerhouse, also posted a perfect 10-0 mark.

The Five Star, just nine years old, is comprised of five Seminole County teams (Seminole, Lake Mary, Lyman, Lake Howell and Lake Brantley), three Volusia County schools (DeLand, Spruce Creek and Mainland) along with Orange County's Apopka.

While four different schools have won the district title in the past five years, regional competition has been a sore spot for the Five Star. When it meets a tough team from the east coast (Merritt Island, Vero Beach, etc.), the Five Star usually gets stomped.

Just once in the past five regionals has the Five Star made a game of it. That was when coach Sam Weir's 1980 Lake

Sam Cook

Howell Silver Hawks pushed Vero Beach to the limit before falling to coach Billy Livings' squad.

Competition against the Metro Conference has usually ended in the same manner. A good Metro team and a good Five Star team are usually two TDs apart.

This year, though, the rift appears to be closing. Two days ago, coach David Tullis' Lake Brantley Patriots dominated a powerful West Orange team before Weir reached into his bag of tricks and pulled out a halfback pass to knock off the Patriots by a 20-14 count. The pass and several costly penalties doomed the Patriots — not the superiority of the Metro Conference.

Tonight, however, the Five Star has its best chance to establish itself as a conference to be reckoned with. Due to a rearranging of the districts, the District 9 winner (Five Star) now plays the District 10 winner (Metro). It's the perfect setup for Apopka to gain some more respect.

Apopka — the ultimate offense (35.7 points per game) — against Winter Park — the ultimate defense (8.3 points per game).

Can Apopka beat Winter Park? Most people think not. The Blue Darters slipped past West Orange a week ago, but needed a timely West Orange fumble in the closing minutes, a seven-yard TD run by QB Rodney Brewer and a two-point pass to tailback Sammie Smith for wild 44-43 victory.

Lake Howell coach Mike Biscaglia is sitting in a pretty good position to judge. He played Apopka and Winter Park on the last two weekends of the season. Although Winter Park handled his Hawks (35-7) more easily than Apopka (38-27), Biscaglia said he feels the Blue Darters can take Winter Park.

"Apopka can really put some points on the board," Biscaglia said. "If they get any kind of defensive effort, I think they can beat them."

Biscaglia feels the Winter Park pass defense has not faced many good passers. His own quarterback, Darin Slack, riddled the Wildcat secondary for 226 yards. Brewer, of course, is as good or better than Slack and he has a better wide receiver in James Jones (61 catches for 1,007 yards).

Smith is also a better running back than anyone Winter Park has, although the Wildcats have five quality runners headed by Willie Collier, so they spread around the ball carrying duties.

Brewer has completed 109 of 172 passes for 1,528 yards and 19 touchdowns.

The rifle-armed left-hander will be the key for the Five Star to take one more big step toward the big time.

Lions Turn Steelers Into Turkeys, 45-3 — Landry Rewards Cowboys After Win

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — A good stuffing wasn't all Pittsburgh got from the Detroit Lions on Thanksgiving Day — the Steelers felt they got picked clean, too.

Detroit scored the first four times it had the ball. Quarterback Eric Hipple threw a pair of touchdown passes to tight end Ulysses Norris and Billy Sims added two touchdowns of his own to help the Lions feast on the Steelers 45-3, in their nationally televised holiday game.

But some Steelers said there was a simple reason for all the wide-open Lions receivers — and it wasn't blown coverage.

"There were some great pick plays out there against us," Pittsburgh coach Chuck Noll said after his team lost on the road for the first time this season.

"In my opinion," Steelers cornerback Mel Blount said, "they played way above their heads. It will be a long time before they play this way again."

"We don't have any pick plays," was Hipple's response to the Steelers' charges.

"I think where it (the accusation) may have come from is that they tend to bunch guys in the middle," he said. "So when you send guys across the middle they sometimes tend to run into each other."

The victory was the Lions' sixth in eight games and gave them a 7-6 record, a half-game behind first-place Minnesota in the NFC Central Division.

Pittsburgh is 9-3 with a 1 1/2 game lead in the AFC Central but has lost two games in a row after a seven-game winning streak.

"I can't remember a game, since I've been a Pittsburgher, like this one," Noll said. "I believe this is the worst loss we've ever suffered."

"We caught them off guard," said Hipple, who missed his last six passes but wound up with 10 completions in 18 attempts for 153 yards. "Once you get going even the best defensive team will have problems. They were guessing."

"That was what I hoped for in my fondest dreams," Detroit coach Monte Clark said, "but I would have settled for a lot less than that."

"It will be a great couple of days off and puts us in good shape in the divisional race," he said.

Cliff Stoudt had a miserable day for Pittsburgh, throwing four interceptions and completing just nine of 25 passes for 33 yards. He then suffered a back injury and was replaced for the final 11 minutes by Mark Malone.

But Malone had troubles of his own, throwing an interception that linebacker Roosevelt Barnes returned 70 yards to the Steelers' four. Backup quarterback Gary Danielson turned it into a five-yard touchdown pass to receiver Jeff Chadwick.

The Lions set the tone of the game right away when they took the opening kickoff and stuffed in down the Steelers' throats in an 83-yard march. Sims capped with a two-yard run.

Pro Football

Stoudt's first pass was intercepted by middle linebacker Ken Fantetti on the Pittsburgh 33. Detroit turned that mistake into a 27-yard field goal by Eddie Murray and a 10-0 lead.

Stoudt's next pass also ended up the wrong hands, cornerback Alvin Hall's at the Steelers 23. Three plays later Hipple had Norris wide open in the end zone for a 13-yard touchdown.

Pittsburgh's only sustained march of the game resulted in a 38-yard Greg Anderson field goal. But Detroit responded with an 80-yard, penalty-aided march that ended when Hipple ran a bootleg to the left and fired a second TD toss to a wide open Norris.

In the second half, Sims went 43 yards with a Hipple screen pass to set up his second two-yard TD.

Sims was so fired up by the score that he threw a pass high into the stands — a gesture that will send $1,000 of his money to charity because of an NFL ban on such displays.

"(Lions president) William Clay Ford will pay for it," Sims said. "It doesn't matter. It was worth it — it's going to a good cause."

Robbie Martin, who was cut by the Steelers in 1981, returned a punt 81 yards for a touchdown after Sims' second score.

IRVING, Texas (UPI) — While decisions were being made across the country Thursday about whether to go for the pecan or pumpkin pie, the Dallas Cowboys were putting in an honest day's work and coach Tom Landry was so pleased with the effort he surprised his troops with a present.

"I plan to give the guys three days off," said Landry. "I had planned to bring them in tomorrow (Friday) if I thought I needed to talk to them. But I thought they played so well they deserved to have the day off."

"We were businesslike all during the game."

Dallas' businesslike approach led to a 35-17 win over the St. Louis Cardinals, the fourth consecutive Thanksgiving Day victory for the Cowboys and one that shifts the pressure over to the Washington Redskins in their fight for the NFC East crown and the home-field edge in the playoffs.

During the course of a gorgeous holiday afternoon, both Tony Dorsett and Danny White filled up another line in the record books and the Cowboys' defense played one of its best games of the season.

A maligned pass defense, which ranked last in the NFL, allowed an early bomb but then put the clamps on the Cardinals. St. Louis quarterback Neil Lomax was sacked seven times and running back Otis Anderson — who had averaged 100 yards over the last eight games — could manage just 37.

"It was not our best game this year," Landry said. "But it was a solid game and a good effort. That is what we are after. You want consistency now that you are in the stretch drive for the playoffs."

Dallas, which already has a playoff spot clinched, improved its record to 11-2, a half game ahead of the Redskins. Washington must down the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday in RFK Stadium to keep pace with the Cowboys.

St. Louis, meanwhile, fell to 5-7-1 and what had been only a slight hope for the playoffs was all but totally extinguished.

"The Cowboys are always good," said Lomax. "They keep you off balance all day."

Dallas started this game like it has most of them this season, falling behind for the 12th time in 13 outings.

But by the time the day was over Dorsett had become the eighth leading rusher in NFL history (gaining 102 yards to run his career total to 8,153 and pass Larry Coonka on the all-time list) and White had beaten Roger Staubach's single season completion record.

White completed 24 of 31 passes for 237 yards, threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to Butch Johnson and even ran four yards for another one.

St. Louis opened things with a 71-yard touchdown pass from Lomax to Roy Green, but by the end of the first half Dallas was in front, 21-7.

The Cowboys tied the score on a 1-yard run by Ron Springs and then took control with total domination of the second period.

St. Louis' offensive output during the second quarter was a minus eight yards.

Seminoles Sweep Pair In Jamboree

Seminole High's varsity basketball team swept both quarters of the Rotary Bowl Basketball Jamboree Wednesday night at Lake Brantley High School. In Thursday's Evening Herald, it was reported the Fighting Seminoles won one and tied one.

Against the host Patriots, guards Steve Grey and Bruce Franklin each scored four points as the 'Noles came away with a 17-12 victory, Greg Courtney, a 6-7 junior transfer for the Pats, led all scorers with six points.

"Courtney is really improved," said Seminole coach Chris Marlette about the 218-pound Oregon move in who was born in Gainesville. "But we really have to improve our defense and foul shooting if we're going to reach our potential."

The Tribe, which opens the regular season on Dec. 6 with a blockbuster game against Lake Mary, hit just 1 of 4 charity tosses in quarter one and a horrendous 1 of 8 in quarter two.

"We practice them all the time," continued Marlette. "Two weeks ago, we hit 26 and 27 out of 30. But last week, it was 18 and 19, so I should have expected it."

Despite the foul line troubles, Seminole pulled out a hard-fought 17-13 victory over New Smyrna Beach. Sanford was nursing a 15-13 lead in the closing seconds when James Rouse picked off a loose ball and found 6-3 senior Willie Mitchell streaking for the other end. Mitchell grabbed the ball and slam-dunked it home one-handed to preserve the win.

"It was a great dunk," said Marlette. "He brought down the house."

Mitchell, an honorable mention all-state selection last year, tossed in eight points to lead all scorers.

Lake Mary was the only other school to claim to two victories as forward Billy Dunn and guard Daryl Merthie paced the Rams past New Smyrna Beach and Lake Howell.

"I was really impressed with Lake Mary's quickness," said Marlette about his season-opening opponent. "Merthie shot the ball well and so did Dunn."

Lake Howell, whose coach Greg Robinson won the Crying Towel Award at last Friday's Rotary Bowl breakfast, sprinted to an 11-0 lead against Lyman to gain a split of the two quarters.

LSU Drops Rival Tulane, 20-7

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Sophomore tailbacks Dalton Hilliard and Garry James ran for third-quarter touchdowns Thursday to pace Louisiana State to a 20-7 victory over intrastate rival Tulane.

Both teams finished the season with 4-7 records.

However, the LSU win is not expected to affect the rumored demise of Coach Jerry Stovall's position as Tiger mentor.

"Tell me what the difference is between 3-8 and 4-7," said Stovall, who said he would go duck hunting this weekend and would not lobby LSU athletic officials to prolong his tenure.

College Football

LSU officials have refused to refute rumors that Stovall would be replaced early next month.

If Stovall loses his job, it would mark the second straight year the winning coach in the LSU-Tulane rivalry did not last another game.

Rookie coach Wally English, who completed his first season at Tulane with the loss, has said he was approached about a coaching position by the U.S. Football League.

Frazier Can't Win For Winning Tonight

Pro Boxing

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — If World Boxing Council heavyweight champion Larry Holmes beats Marvis Frazier tonight as expected, he'll still be the champion. If Frazier wins, Holmes won't be the champion. But neither will Frazier.

And people say boxing is crazy. The WBC has refused to sanction the fight because the challenger, the son of former heavyweight champ Joe Frazier, isn't ranked in its top 10, a requirement for a championship fight. But if Holmes loses, the WBC says it will strip him of his title and declare it vacant.

Holmes is 44-0 and has made 15 title defenses during his five years as WBC champion. But he's 33 and insists this is his last year in boxing.

Frazier, 23, was 51-1 as an amateur but he's had only 10 pro fights, winning all 10 against such no-names as Dennis Rivers, Steve Zouski, Guy Casale, Tony Pulu, Amos Haynes and Mike Cohen. He got a shot at Holmes with 10-round decisions over James Broad and Joe Bugner, who Frazier's father had beaten 10 years earlier, and primarily because his last name is Frazier.

Amid the controversy over the sanctioning by the WBC, the bout has created little interest locally. Officials at Caesars Palace announced during the week that the bout would be moved from the outdoor, 24,000-seat arena which was used for the Marvin Hagler-Roberto Duran world middleweight title fight earlier this month to the 4,500-seat indoor sports pavilion.

Holmes, who will be a heavy favorite, says the fight will be a mismatch. He feels Joe Frazier should have had more patience with his son's career.

"There's no doubt about it, Joe is rushing Marvis," the champion said. "He's trying to do through Marvis what he can't do himself. He'll get hit three minutes of every round, and I don't think he can take it. He'll get hit with punches he's never seen before. I have no fear of this young man. He's fighting a champion. He has potential, but he has to learn. Right now, he's overstepping his bounds."

"If he underestimates my stamina, he'll get KO'd quicker. But he will get knocked out."

Joe Frazier claims his son is prepared. "He's ready to graduate now," Frazier said. "He's done his homework. If he couldn't do the job, I would never send him out there."

Marvis knows the odds are heavily stacked against him but he also knows Holmes is 33 and all champions eventually must move on. He knows that because his father told him.

"It's time for a younger man to step in say for the next eight or nine years," Marvis said. "I respect Mr. Holmes as a great champion, but my father says it's time for a change, and he's the captain of the ship. As far as boxing goes, he's in charge."

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (UPI) — Michael Spinks had other things on his mind besides defending his undisputed light heavyweight title tonight against Oscar Rivadeneyra.

"I like to think of more pleasant things than a fight," Spinks said. "Coming down to the wire like this, a lot of suffering goes on. I'm suffering a lot."

"I like it though," he smiled, perhaps thinking of his $500,000 guaranteed purse.

Rivadeneyra, the No. 1 ranked WBA challenger from Lima, Peru, will try to wrest Spinks' crown tonight at Vancouver's Pacific Coliseum. The six-bout card gets underway at 8 p.m. PST.

The challenger takes home $100,000 — three times the size of any of his previous purses.

The 6-foot-1, 174-pound Rivadeneyra boasts a record of 19-0 with 15 knockouts. Spinks, 6-2 1/2 and 175 pounds, is 23-0 with 16 knockouts. Neither has ever been knocked down.

But while Spinks has defended his title six times, Rivadeneyra's biggest victory was a knockout over former contender Jerry Celestine.

And Spinks showed little respect for his opponent. "I don't care about Oscar," the St. Louis native said. "I'm not even thinking about Oscar."

In fact, Spinks could barely pronounce the Peruvian's name (it's Os-KAR' REE-vuh-day-NAY-ruh).

Spinks has not fought since he claimed both the WBA and WBC titles last March, when he beat Dwight Muhammad Qawi (Braxton) in Atlantic City.

Rivadeneyra, regarded as a heavy puncher but slower than the champion, spent most of this week in a dingy Chinatown gym, ducking promotional appearances, the media and Spinks.

Spinks has trained before large and enthusiastic audiences at a downtown armory, where banners reading "We love you, Michael" adorned the walls, and disco music blared constantly.

Larry Ramos, Rivadeneyra's self-described "trainer, translator, priest, promoter and psychiatrist," accused Spinks of overconfidence.

"They're really worried about Oscar," he said. "They don't see him training. They don't see no films of him. They're just worried to death."

Spinks has been seen at Grey Cup parties and other festivities leading up to Sunday's Canadian Football League championship game at B.C. Place Stadium. Ramos said the champion is out of shape.

Federal Aid To States Fell Slightly In 1982

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal aid to states fell slightly in fiscal 1982, with $1 billion-plus drops in aid for both highways and education and a slowdown in the expansion of federal welfare, the Census Bureau reports.

Wages went up slightly faster than prices in October, a triumph for spending power over inflation that is no longer a rare occurrence, the government reports.

Spending power is 3.7 percent ahead of where it was a year earlier, a stretch of exceptionally moderate inflation at a 2.9 percent rate.

Thanksgiving

Holiday Meals Are Much More Than Just Exercises In Gluttony

They're A Time For The Family To Renew Itself

Of Turkey, Dressing And Old Family Stories

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

When Seminole County families gathered at the Thanksgiving table yesterday, they shared far more than the traditional dinner with all the trimmings. After everyone was seated, the napkins in place, it was only a moment before the familiar stories began to unfold.

"Do you remember the time," one relative asks — and of course everyone does because the story is told at every holiday gathering — "when the plum pudding wouldn't flame and mother drenched with a bottle of brandy trying to get it lit...?"

As it turns out, there is more going on at these family gatherings than meets the palate, or the ear. Often-told tales are more than just enjoyable, time-passing remembrances, family folklore experts tell us. Rather, such stories are the sound of a family celebrating, renewing and re-establishing itself.

"For some families, these tales may be their most important way of expressing kinship," note the authors of A Celebration of American Family Folklore, a collection of stories and photographs gathered during the Smithsonian Institution's annual Festival of American Folklife in Washington, D.C.

Mealtime, in fact, turns out to be the time when family members are most at home with each other physically and psychologically, Celebration authors observe. "Perhaps it is not a coincidence that we satisfy our emotions along with our appetites."

In the Connie and Terry Major household in Altamonte Springs, along with the turkey and dressing, chow chow, baked corn, pumpkin pie and fruit salad, Mrs. Major told her children Thursday of her childhood days in Minnesota where it was too cold in winter to drive the family car.

The middle child in a family of seven, "we were raised in the ice and snow and on Thanksgiving everyone celebrated at home," Mrs. Major said.

"We would talk about Thanksgivings of long ago and go to town in the horse and wagon. We lived in the boondocks and we just didn't drive the car in the winter time.

"My brother still lives in the old house where I grew up and he still has to cope with that cold and snowy weather. The house was originally a log cabin and the deed to it was signed by Abraham Lincoln," she remembers.

In the Ray and Susan Lipton home on Markham Woods Road near Longwood, the Lipton's, their daughter Abby and Abby's husband of six weeks, Frank Crasnow, a family friend, Tim Young and Susan's mother, Roslyn Amelkin, celebrated the holiday together.

They talked about the Thanksgiving long ago when Mrs. Amelkin prepared a Thanksgiving dinner for 15 members of her husband's family plus her own family, and none of the 15 showed up, despite the 30-pound turkey waiting for them.

"My mom had announced at a family gathering that she would cook the Thanksgiving dinner, but didn't follow the informal invitation up to make sure that all remembered," Mrs. Lipton said. "She had not only cooked the traditional turkey dinner, but also other things to be sure that everyone would have something he liked. We laugh about it now.

"Then there was the year when we lived in New York and my parents took Abby to Miami to celebrate Thanksgiving with Ray's parents, leaving Ray, our son, Franklin, then 4, and me at home. Ray decided we were going out to a fancy place for dinner and that a 4-year old child couldn't possibly eat a whole dinner himself. So we ordered two dinners. I was to share mine with Franklin.

We found that a 4-year-old certainly can eat a whole dinner, which he did, leaving me nothing. And when I got home I headed for the refrigerator looking for left-overs. It taught me the importance of turkey leftovers," Mrs. Lipton said.

"On the day after Thanksgiving that year, I cooked turkey," she said.

"Looking forward to Thanksgiving, the planning and the preparation are a big part of the holiday," Mrs. Lipton said.

A particularly fond memory for Mrs. Lipton is the year that she missed Thanksgiving with her family because she was in the hospital. When she arrived home after an early December release, she found Thanksgiving dinner waiting for her.

Abby baked the pumpkin pie for the holiday this year. And she cooked another Thanksgiving turkey dinner for her husband today. Remember, the Liptons believe that turkey leftovers are important.

Their Thanksgiving tradition is to have turkey and salami sandwiches and other leftovers for the evening meal.

Customs are very much a part of family lore. For more than 45 years, the Cameron and Colbert families in Sanford have been celebrating Thanksgiving at their hunting camp in Volusia County and this year was no different. There are usually 20-30 family members on hand for the big day.

"My brother, Edward Cameron and I have made the day sort of a family reunion," said Lillian Cameron Colbert. And, of course, there's also a little hunting done.

"His children and my children and our closest friends go to the hunting camp and each of the families and friends bring what they would have had to eat for a Thanksgiving at home.

"We put all the food together and eat out of doors," Mrs. Colbert said. At the event this year, the youngest participant was 3 while the oldest was 65.

The traditional Thanksgiving menu for the Cameron-Colbert clan this year was turkey, roast beef, pork ham, fried chicken, candied sweet potatoes as usual, baked apples, baked beans, and corn, a variety of salads and vegetables.

"There are too many of us to eat in the house," she said.

And as usual everyone held hands for prayer before dinner.

"It was really a Thanksgiving for us, spiritually and otherwise. It's a wonderful time for the children and for the others to see how much the children have grown," Mrs. Colbert said.

Cartoon Art Exhibit At Stetson

For years, original animation cel paintings of famous characters like Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck, and Mickey Mouse have been avidly collected and lovingly displayed by cartoon fans. Today, those fans are more willing than ever to put their money where their mouse is.

If you are interested in what their excitement is all about, you can find out at a new exhibit-sale of animation art to be held at Stetson University, Dec. 1 and 2, from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m., in the student lounge, Carlton Union Building. Part of the proceeds will go to the Stetson Union Board.

The public is invited.

Animation cel paintings, called "cels," are the paintings actually filmed in making animated cartoons.

Each character is painted by hand on a clear sheet of acetate, usually 11-by-14 inches or larger. The cels are then placed against a background painting and photographed, one frame at a time, to create the illusion of the cartoon character in motion. Cels are the culmination of the artistic process — the final image that is photographed by the motion picture camera.

The exhibit will feature an exceptionally broad spectrum of animation art. Included will be such popular characters as Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck, Wile E. Coyote and the Roadrunner, Yosemite Sam, Tweety and Sylvester, to name a few. Some of these paintings have been signed by Academy Award-winning animators, Chuck Jones and Friz Freleng.

The exhibit gathers together art work from many Disney animated films including The Fox and the Hound, Jungle Book, and the recently-released Winnie the Pooh film featuring Winnie, Tigger, Piglet and Rabbit.

Of special interest to collectors will be original pencil animation drawings from Max Fleischer Studios films of the 1930's and 1940's. In addition, there are a number of vintage Disney animation drawings from that era, including Donald Duck and Mickey Mouse.

Linda Evans Not Affected By Hollywood Glitter

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Is Linda Evans as delightfully charming as she appears to be?

Yep.
Does Linda share the womanly virtues of Krystle Carrington, who she plays in the Dynasty series?

Rest assured.
At 40 is Linda as beautiful and sexy as she looks on screen?

You bet.
Would most men and women find her good company?

Fear not.
At lunch the other day Linda was all smiles, pleased at having played a rough and ready Western gal — in stark contrast to her sleek role in Dynasty — as Kenny Rogers' co-star in The Gambler II, CBS-TV's two-part miniseries broadcasting Monday and Tuesday.

Linda first pinked viewer consciousness almost 20 years ago in The Big Valley series playing a gorgeous young rancher. So it's back to horses and sagebrush this time around.

It is a tribute to Linda that in The Big Valley, at the height of her nubile beauty, she was not as acclaimed or admired as she is today on the threshold of middle age. If anything, she is more appealing than ever.

There are crowfeet at the corners of her eyes, a few lines here and there and perhaps a touch of gray. But Linda remains incandescently vital. Her poise and self-assurance are without pretention. She wears her beauty well.

Indeed, after two failed marriages — to John Derek and Beverly Hills businessman Stan Herman — Linda remains an incurable romantic.

She takes great pride in the knowledge that she is an example for tens of millions of women who watch her every week.

As Linda put it, "It's wonderful being my age and playing a heroine in a top series. It gives women hope that their lives are not over when they reach 40."

"Krystle and I are a lot alike, which may be one of the reasons I got the part four years ago. I was separated from Stan at the time and I was frightened about adjusting to a new life."

"Krystle had to go from being a secretary to the wife of a powerful billionaire and was terrified about that adjustment."

"We shared the experience of growing up at the same time. Most women, God knows, grow up a lot earlier. But emotionally I hadn't. I'd always put marriage ahead of career, even quitting for long periods to devote myself to my husband. Lately it's been mostly career. I don't even have a steady fella."

"I discovered there's more to do in life at 40 than 20, and so has Krystle. She stronger now and stands up for herself."

"There's a balance all women should try to reach, someplace between subservience and aggressiveness, to achieve their goals and be proud of themselves. Krystle and I are both doing that."

Linda has become so identifiable that her face on magazine covers assures circulation boosts. Rarely has a mature actress elicited more genuine affection and admiration among women than the straightforward, practical Linda.

She sets forth her philosophy about aging in her book, Linda Evans' Beauty and Exercise Book, subtitled Inner and Outer Beauty.

Ben's 'Run' Lasted Only Three Years

DEAR DICK: Please settle an argument I am having with my stubborn boyfriend. I say Ben Gazzara's series Run For Your Life ran four years or more. He says only two seasons. The winner gets a free Chinese dinner. Hurry! — B&B, Montoursville, Pa.

it will take a Solomon to settle this one. The show didn't run two years, nor did it run four or more. It ran three years (1965-1968). How about a little sushi, Dutch treat?

DEAR DICK: Are Alan Oppenheimer and Gavin MacLeod related in any way? L.B., Williamsport, Pa.

Only by baldness.

DEAR DICK: Recently I saw Phyllis Diller with a man named Howard. Is he the man she refers to as "Fang"? — B.M.D., Dumas, Texas.

No. Phyllis has been using Fang for years.

Ask Dick Kleiner

Supposedly, it was her pet name for her first husband. But even after that marriage ended she still made jokes about Fang.

DEAR DICK: I like to watch Three's Company, especially because of Chrissy. But now she's not on there much, except for reruns. What happened to Suzanne Somers? — D.H., Westville, Ind.

She's not on at all, except for reruns. Miss Somers and the producers had a dispute over money. Either she walked off the series or they didn't renew her contract, depending on who you talk to. She is doing OK, however, playing Las Vegas and doing guest appearances on TV shows.

DEAR DICK: I never miss an episode of Days Of Our Lives. I was wondering who plays Bo Brady on that show and how old he is. Also, is he married? — A., Sidney, Neb.

Peter Reckell plays Bo Brady. The last time I talked to him he was 28 and single.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me the city in Connecticut in which Ricky Schroder lives? Could you give me his parents' names? — C., Saginaw, Mich.

Dick and Diane Schroder and their son, Ricky, live in Greenwich, Conn.

Restaurant Guide

Aggie's: Take Their Food Preparation Seriously

Come to one of the liveliest places in town . . . Aggie's, that restaurant at 2520 S. French Avenue in Sanford.

If you're interested in enjoying fine food at reasonable prices, prices that haven't changed in more than a year, try this delightful restaurant. It's away from the bustle of crowds and the management aims to please.

A prime rib for the hearty appetite, the Diamond Jim Brady, is offered for a mere $11.95. A more modest version, dubbed the Lillian Russell, carries at $9.50 tab. And these dinners are among the highest priced on the menu.

The people at Aggie's take pride in their dry-aged prime rib preparing it in special ovens where low temperatures turn out an elegant dish.

From the sea come 10 fish dishes, shrimp scampi, scallops, lobster tails and flounder stuffed with crabmeat, among them. Prices start in this tempting category at $7.95.

Also for beef lovers, there are five steaks and a slush kebob from which to choose, or steak oregano, strips of beef prepared with garlic and seasonings, a Hellenic touch. Along this line of fare are roast leg of lamb for $6.95, chicken Athenian, broiled and basted with lemon and butter, and the combination plate of Greek delicacies with mousaka and dolmades, all from family recipes.

If you dare, consummate the feast with a luscious homemade dessert, perhaps an Aggie's Surprise, a mystery concoction.

Early bird specials are offered from 4:30 until 7 seven nights a week with prices starting at $5.95. Luncheon specials are offered each noon and reduced drink prices and free hors d'oeuvres are provided during the attitude adjustment hours from 5 until 7.

Reservations are now being accepted for holiday parties with private banquet facilities for the affairs.

Mike Evans is currently entertaining Friday and Saturday nights.
