Two More Hunger Strikers Near Death In Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The IRA said a second Red Cross visit today to the Maze Prison at British invitation was unlikely to save two more hunger strikers who had received the last rites and were slipping toward death.

The condition of Kieran Doherty, 25, and Kevin Lynch, 24, was described by Republicans and Britain's Northern Ireland Office as deteriorating. Their deaths would be the seventh and eighth by Irish Republican Army hunger strikers since May 5 in a bid for political status.

In the continuing violence, three British soldiers were reported wounded when their post near the Republic of Ireland came under fire Thursday night and the rail link between Belfast and Dublin was bombed for the second consecutive night.

Doherty has refused food for 57 days and relatives Thursday said he was "weak and in great pain. He has constant headaches, blurred vision and impaired hearing."

Lynch, 24, was in the 56th day of his fast and his family was granted increased visiting privileges.

Both men, two of eight now on hunger strikes for political prisoner status, have received the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

Voting Results Awaited

WARSAW, Poland (UPI)—A special Communist Party committee hand-counted the votes today in the Soviet bloc's first secret balloting for party leadership. But new strike threats emerged in the midst of Poland's experiment in party democracy.

In the unprecedented vote, the 1,953 delegates to Poland's emergency Party Congress went behind closed doors Thursday night to cast ballots for 200 Central Committee members from a field of 779 candidates.

Voters were instructed to scratch off the names of 79 from their ballots. Congress spokesman Wieslaw Bek said first results might be known early today, but other congress sources said counting could take 14 hours, especially if second or third ballots are needed.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Thunderstorms, packing 80 mph winds and hail, pushed through the Plains region, threatening flooding today in Nebraska and Kansas and ending the Midland four-day heat wave. Heavy rains Thursday churned up a number of tornadoes in the Southeast and the Central Plains, but no injuries were reported. Low-lying areas in central Nebraska and northeastern Kansas were threatened with flooding. About 5 inches of rain hit Nebraska's Cherry and Sheridan counties. Heavy thunderstorms were reported near Holdrege, Neb. with pea-sized hail and some minor tree damage. Thunderstorms pummeled parts of the state just north of the Kansas border.

AREA READINGS (9 a.m.): temperature: 82; overnight low: 74; Thursday's high: 97; barometric pressure: 29.97; relative humidity: 85 percent; winds: SW at 9 mph.

Thieves Zero In On FBI Agent's Home

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

The crook(s) who broke into the Caselberry home of Dennis R. Hall, 504 Georgetown Dr., Thursday sure can pick them. Hall, you see, is an FBI agent.

Hall, 39, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that someone entered his home between 7:40 a.m. and 4:45 p.m., apparently through the kitchen window. After stealing a .38-caliber pistol and $1,115 worth of jewelry, the thieves apparently left via the front door, he said.

Several handguns which were in the closet where the stolen gun was stored were not touched.

LOVERS SPAT TURNS UGLY

A 53-year-old Sanford man was in the Seminole County Jail today charged with aggravated battery in connection with a knifeing of his girlfriend.

According to a Sanford police report, Lonnie Perry, of 1203 W. 15th St. was arrested shortly before midnight Thursday and jailed under $8,000 bond.

He is accused of hitting his girlfriend Laura Young, also of 1203 W. 15th St., in the face and cutting her in the back with a knife.

THEFT REPORTED

Police reported someone broke into a storage room at the Holiday Inn, State Road 46 and Interstate 4, Wednesday or Thursday and stole 14 brass ceiling fans with wooden blades.

The stolen merchandise was valued at an estimated $3,640.

or been convicted. They are:

—Theodore Gideon, 21, Orlando, burglary, possession of burglary tools, and petty theft 10 years probation. Gideon was accused of breaking into the 7-11 store on Winter Springs Boulevard in Winter Springs on Aug. 20.

—Robert Leroy Barrow, 19, Sanford, burglary of a structure, three years probation and a $750 fine. The charge against Barrow stemmed from a Dec. 9 incident in which he broke into a house at 200 W. 27th St., Sanford, and stole two watches, a calculator, and a box of .22-caliber shells.

—Henry H. Weber III, 24, 2815-A Mohawk Ave., Sanford, burglary, five years probation. Weber was arrested Oct. 14 after he was caught trying to sell some of the $6,000 worth of aluminum stolen four days before from the Florida Extrusion Co., 2540 Jewett Lane, Sanford.

—Roberta Lynn Jones, 18, and Sarah Jones, 44, both of 1306 W. 3rd St., Sanford, conspiracy to commit grand theft, one year probation. The pair were arrested March 23 with a stolen television set in their car.

TEACHER SUSPENDED

A Seminole County middle school teacher has been suspended without pay for her alleged part in a July 4 shooting in which a 32-year-old Orange County woman was killed.

Linda Coleman, a sixth grade science and social studies teacher at Jackson Heights Middle School near Oviedo and an assistant coordinator for the school district's summer youth program, was initially suspended with pay, but board members Tuesday voted to make it a payless suspension pending resolution of the Orange County charges.

Coleman is charged with aggravated battery and carrying a concealed weapon in connection with the shooting death of Doris Thomas, 32, of 4434 Colony Cove, Orlando, on July 4 outside the Port Au Prince Lounge on Colonial Drive, Orlando. Coleman has been released on bond.

Thomas died at Florida Hospital-Orlando several hours after the shooting after undergoing surgery for a single gunshot wound to the stomach.

MAN ARRESTED FOR ARMED BURGLARY

A 37-year-old Oklawaha, Florida man was in Seminole County Jail today being held under $10,000 bond on charges of armed burglary, attempted grand theft, and three counts of battery.

Wesley Ward Mosher Sr. is accused of entering the Clifford Harris home at 1924 Hibiscus Lane, Maitland, last month and assaulting three residents and forcing one of them to write him a check for $500.

Man Freed In Rape Case Sought For Murder

MIAMI (UPI) — A Cuban refugee free on $2,000 bond on a rape charge was sought today for the murder of a prosecution witness in the rape case and the slaying of another young woman who lived in the same house.

The fugitive's brother, Arsenio Albo Lara, 22, who also arrived in the U.S. last year in the sealift from Mariel, was arrested Thursday and charged with two counts of first degree murder.

Miami police said Mario Albo

Lara, 25, who is blue eyed, has tattoos on his arms and dyes his hair blonde, is believed to be armed with a machine pistol. He has told friends he will not be taken alive.

The brothers were accused of killing Griel Fumero, 18, a witness against Mario Lara in a case in which he is charged with the rape of a 13-year-old girl last March. The rape occurred while he was free on bond while awaiting trial for a Sept. 30, 1980, robbery. His robbery trial was scheduled to begin today in Dade County Circuit court.

County Judge Fredricka Smith set his bond on the rape charge at $2,000 and he was again released.

Early Thursday, Miss Fumero's boyfriend found her shot to death in the kitchen of her Little Havana apartment. While police were at the scene, investigating her death, a resident of another apartment noticed a door to a second floor apartment was ajar and found the body of Olga Elvero, 19, who had been raped and stabbed to death.

Detective Julio Yero of Miami Beach, who the rape of the 13-year-old occurred, said Miss Fumero "had been threatened repeatedly not to testify against him. We repeatedly told the state attorney's office.

"The incredible thing is that they let this guy loose with a robbery case pending and a rape case pending. I'm furious. People are getting killed and nobody gives a damn," Yero said.

Officials Must Trim Their Budget

Seminole County School System 'In A Bind'

By SYBIL MITCHELL GANDY
Herald Staff Writer

A half-million-dollar budget cut isn't that important to a $97 million total budget — unless you're talking about Seminole County schools, said Roger Harris, assistant superintendent for business and finance.

School officials, who recently learned of a $473,000 "mistake" by the State Department of Education, said trimming funds from this year's school budget is going to be difficult.

Florida law provides that school systems be given a cost-of-living allowance to anticipate the rising cost of services during the school year, Harris explained.

State Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington calculated Seminole County's allowance in February. But that amount should have been figured at the beginning of the year, according to the law.

"Supt. Hughes and I will be looking at the budget after our books for this year are closed," said Harris. "And we hope that will be sometime next week."

"But none of the areas in the system can afford a sacrifice, really. The figures on the budget being considered by the school board right now are tentative to begin with," Harris said.

"Now," he added, "the system is really in a bind."

Although Seminole County schools officials were notified that the money must be refunded to the state, a check for the $473,000 miscalculation won't be issued.

"What they'll do is divide that amount by 24 and reduce the draws we'll get during this school year," Harris said.

State money will be sent to Seminole County in 24 payments or draws. At each draw, the county will be getting about $20,000 less than it would have gotten.

Harris said budget items dealing directly with the schools and students would be touched "as little as possible" when the budget is streamlined.

Electricity and gas for bus transportation may be the budget's two most important elements.

This year, officials, have projected that utilities will cost over $2 million. "These areas can't take a sacrifice," Harris said. "But all areas at the county level will have to be looked at, including administration."

Sheriff's Department Crackdown

Traffic Citations Help Fatten City Coffers

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Sheriff's Department not only provides law enforcement assistance to the seven city police departments in the county, it also helps to fatten city coffers.

Sheriff John Polk said today that during the four-month period of March, April, May and June, this year, his deputies issued 679 citations to motorists on city streets.

The fines levied for these infractions, an estimated $30,370, were returned by the Seminole Clerk of the Circuit Court to the various cities in which the citations were issued, Polk said.

The city with the most citations issued by sheriff's deputies was Sanford with 219, while Caselberry with 175 was second highest. The others were: Altamonte Springs, 166; Longwood, 76; Winter Springs, 5; Lake Mary, 18, and Oviedo, 20.

Polk said that while many of the road deputies spend much of their regular patrolling time in the unincorporated areas, they also travel through the cities. And as a deputy is traveling through a city or answering a call from a city resident, he issues citations for traffic infractions regardless of where they are occurring.

Polk said his officers also often work accidents within the cities and are empowered to enforce the law within the cities and in the unincorporated areas as well.

The cities of Sanford and Altamonte Springs earlier this week insisted that the additional 13 deputies Polk has asked the county commissioners to approve funding for in his department be paid for with a special tax levied in the unincorporated areas. Representatives of the two cities said the unincorporated areas will be receiving the benefit of that service.

Polk said motorists were cited for a variety of offenses ranging from driving under the influence to going through a red light. He said a good average (line to estimate the amount of revenue per citation would be $30. Thus the total fine revenue generated by sheriff deputies for the cities would be about $20,370. The average fines generated for cities annually by the sheriff's department would be about $61,000.

Cities also receive the fines from traffic offenses committed within city boundaries when citations are issued by the Florida Highway Patrol and by the individual police departments.

IN BRIEF

CIA Director May Soon Face More Probe Problems

WASHINGTON (UPI) — CIA Director William Casey, tainted by a federal judge's ruling against him and rocked by the resignation this week of one of his chief deputies, soon may face more problems.

Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., wants to reopen an investigation into the business dealings of fugitive financier Robert Vesco, which include links to Casey.

Although a spokesman for DeConcini said the senator's interest is unrelated to the court ruling against Casey, such an inquiry could put the embattled CIA boss under additional public scrutiny.

On Tuesday, the man Casey selected to oversee the CIA's clandestine operations, Max Hugel, resigned amid allegations of improper stock market dealings in the mid-1970s.

Chapman Threatens Guards

NEW YORK (UPI) — Officials say Mark Chapman, who confessed to killing ex-Beatle John Lennon, is being held in Bellevue Hospital's psychiatric unit because he threatened to kill guards and physicians at the Rikers Island jail.

Correction officials said Thursday, Chapman, 26, who insisted on pleading guilty to the slaying of the ex-Beatle because God told him to, threatened to kill guards and physicians at the jail and smashed a television set in his cell.

He was transferred to Bellevue Hospital's psychiatric unit last Friday, officials said. They said Chapman also attempted to flood his cell at Rikers prior to the transfer.

Cancer Patient's Leg Broken

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Two guards at the state Veterans Home and Hospital have been charged with stuffing an elderly cancer patient into a dumbwaiter at the facility and breaking his leg.

A union representative said they never meant to hurt the patient, who returned drunk from an afternoon of drinking whiskey with friends. The representative said they found him too heavy to carry to his room.

George Fusco, 26, of Terryville, and Robert Desso, 24, of Somers, surrendered to state police at the Hartford barracks Thursday and were served with arrest warrants.

7 Sentenced In Pot Case

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — A federal judge has imposed a total of 33 years in prison and $80,000 in fines on seven men convicted of conspiring to smuggle nearly 19 tons of marijuana into Maine.

Six of the seven men convicted by a jury in May received the maximum five years in prison. The other was sentenced Thursday to three years by U.S. District Judge Edward T. Gignoux.

Lawyers for all seven men, five of them from Georgia, immediately filed notices of appeal to the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Copters OK'd For Spraying

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — The Pentagon reversed itself and decided to let the state deploy helicopters from a Navy airstrip for its nightly spray attacks on the Mediterranean fruit fly, expanded today to wealthy communities within 20 miles of San Francisco.

The Pentagon, which Tuesday turned down a request to use Moffett Field due to the threat of demonstrations, Thursday approved use of the field, saying it would provide the choppers — loaded with the pesticide malathion — improved accessibility to some of the areas in the "drop" zone.

A Defense Department spokesman said the move was an "interim response" to a request by California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. for a federal disaster relief for the Santa Clara-San Mateo-Alameda county quarantine area.

Parents Flee With Cancer-Stricken Child

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The parents of a 2-year-old leukemia victim, who was put in police custody to force her to undergo chemotherapy, abducted their daughter from the hospital and reportedly were in Mexico today at a clinic that offers treatments including Laetrile therapy.

"I'd say her chances of survival are almost nil," Dr. Kenneth Williams of Children's Hospital said Thursday of Amanda Accardi. "She will be in jeopardy daily from infection and bleeding."

Hospital officials feared Amanda may live only 48 hours without chemotherapy treatment for the disease.

The child's parents — Michael Accardi, 25, and Katherine, 22, of Glendale, Calif. — reportedly took the child to Mexico for holistic treatment.

Detective Sam Catafalmo said "a friend of a friend" told police the Accardis had taken Amanda to the Contreras Central Medical clinic, known as Centro Medico del Mar, in Tijuana. The clinic is noted for treating cancer victims with Laetrile and special diets rather than chemotherapy and radiation.

"We have contacted the doctor in Mexico and put him in touch with the doctor at Children's Hospital so they can confer on medication," Catafalmo said, adding that the matter was now out of police jurisdiction.

Senate Adds Indexing, Exemptions To Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After only two days of Senate debate, President Reagan's taxcut package has undergone two major changes — adding the adjustment of tax rates to offset inflation and altering its treatment of interest income.

Despite mild White House objections, the Senate voted, 57-40, Thursday to tie future income tax rates to inflation to avoid pushing people into steadily higher tax brackets without real increases in buying power.

The Senate also voted, 56-40, for an administration-sanctioned proposal that would significantly change the taxation of interest income.

Beginning in 1984, it would have the effect of requiring people to reduce their debts and increase their savings to take full advantage of the exemption provided for interest.

The additions were made to a bill whose centerpiece is Reagan's proposed 25 percent tax cut over 33 months.

The Senate rejected several other amendments, generally respecting Reagan's wishes for a "clean" bill. It planned to continue plowing through the tax measure today and Saturday, with final passage unlikely before next week.

As the Senate debate progressed, House Democratic tax writers spent much of the day in strategy sessions considering ways to promote and pass their 21-month, 15 percent tax cut, targeted to people in the $15,000 to $36,000 income range.

The House Ways and Means Committee is expected to complete work on its tax bill next week.

The proposal to "index" tax rates — increasing brackets, personal exemptions and the standard deduction as the cost of living rises — was sponsored by Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo.

It would take effect in 1985 and is aimed at preventing "bracket creep" — being pushed into higher tax brackets by inflation.

Israeli Warplanes Bomb Refugee Camps

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Waves of Israeli warplanes bombed Palestinian refugee camps and guerrilla enclaves in Beirut today in the latest massive retaliation for a guerrilla rocket attack on Israel, witnesses said. One Israeli jet was reported shot down.

The Israeli planes, in their second strike of the day on Lebanon, made at least three bombing runs over the camps, drawing fire from Palestinian and Syrian army positions on the ground along the Beirut coast.

Palestinian guerrilla officials said one of the attacking Israeli warplanes was shot down and was seen crashing into the sea off the Beirut coast.

The first wave of Israeli aircraft flying low from the sea, struck the Palestinian refugee camp of Chatila off the main road to the city's international airport at 11 a.m. local time, witnesses said. The Kuwaiti Embassy and Syrian gun positions are beside it.

Two successive waves of war planes hit the the nearby Palestinian camp of Babra and Beirut's main sports stadium, which had been converted into a Palestinian stronghold. The targets are in a square mile area.

A spokesman for the Palestine news agency Wafa, speaking from his office less than a mile away from the scene of the attack, said: "The area is under Israeli attack. I have to go, we are being attacked from the air."

Harry Chapin Killed In Crash

JERICHO, N.Y. (UPI) — Folk rock singer-composer Harry Chapin, known for his fund-raising work to fight world hunger, was killed in a fiery auto accident Thursday. He was 38.

Chapin, driving alone in a Volkswagen Rabbit, was struck from the rear by a tractor-trailer truck as he tried to change lanes on the Long Island Expressway, 15 miles east of New York City.

Police said his car burst into flames and the truck driver, who was unhurt, cut the seat belt that pinned Chapin inside and pulled the singer from the burning wreck.

Though Chapin was not burned, he sustained severe internal injuries and was pronounced dead at the Nassau County Medical Center in East Meadow, where he was flown by police helicopter. Authorities said the driver would not be charged with any wrongdoing in the accident.

A spokesman for Chapin's agent said the singer was en route to a business meeting in New York City.

"In the fight against world hunger, Harry gave tirelessly of himself and became a great example of what it means to be a true humanitarian," said Neil Bogart, the president of Boardwalk Records, which Chapin joined in September. "I shall miss him dearly."

Chapin, whose father was a drummer with the Tommy Dorsey and Woody Herman bands, was born Dec. 7, 1942, and reared in New York City's Greenwich Village area. He lived in Huntington with his wife, Sandy, and five children, ranging in age from 3 to 16.

The hit title track on his last album, "Sequel," was meant as a sequel to his greatest hit in 1972, "Taxi," the story of a taxicab driver who longed to be a airplane pilot.

"Spend a little now to save a lot."

"I would say that any time you can spend a little money now to save a lot of money over a long period it's a pretty good investment. And that's how I feel about insulation and those other energy-saving features in our house," says Mr. Robert McMahon of Cocoa. He and his wife, Jean, estimate they save $30 to $40 a month because of their initial investment in the Watt-Wise Living™ package at the time they built their home.

What's a Watt-Wise™ package? It's a combination of features that meet FPL's energy-saving standards and can be easily included in the construction of a new home. Over a period of years they can save you substantially more than they cost.

Watt-Wise homes have cost-saving features like extra ceiling and wall insulation, solar or heat-recovery units for water heating, a higher-efficiency air conditioner or heat pump. Power savers like fluorescent lighting and a microwave oven, and thermally efficient windows and doors, with glass areas planned to minimize heat build-up.

Today, there are many ways to save on electricity without giving up comfort. You'll find them in FPL's Watt-Wise Living Program. Today, it's one of the wisest investments you could make. Stop by your local FPL office and pick up a free brochure.

Feds Nab 12, Seek 10 More In Money-Laundering Probe

TAMPA, (UPI) — Federal agents have arrested 12 persons and have warrants for 10 others as a result of a 14-month undercover narcotics investigation code-named "Operation Greenback" and aimed at infiltrating and uncovering illegal money laundering schemes.

Federal agents made a series of arrests Thursday in Miami, Cocoa, Ocala and the Tampa Bay area.

One of those arrested was Rudolph Key, a Bahamian citizen, and president of Turks and Caicos Fidelity Trust Co. Ltd.

"This is the first case I can recall where we have indicted an offshore banker," said U.S. Attorney Gary Betz.

But Key was indicted earlier this year for conspiring to illegally take money out of the county. Indicted with him at the time was Robert Walker, owner of North Tampa Airport.

Southern Bell Request Stands

TALLAHASSEE, (UPI) — Public Service Commission Chairman Joe Cresse has refused to throw out Southern Bell Telephone's petition for a $288 million rate increase, but he says he might later.

Cresse denied Thursday a motion by Public Counsel Jack Shreve that Southern Bell's case be thrown out and the company be required to start from scratch trying to get additional revenues. But Shreve will get another shot next week.

Cresse also ruled that a group of companies opposing the rate hike, the Florida Ad Hoc Telecommunication Users' Committee, can't obtain a sworn statement from the chairman of American Telephone and Telegraph, Southern Bell's parent corporation, to determine whether Barnes Banks of Florida was offered preferential telephone rates if it would drop its opposition to the $288 million boost.

2 Saved From Electric Chair

TALLAHASSEE, (UPI) — The Florida Supreme Court has saved from the electric chair two members of the Orlando Outlaws Motorcycle Gang and leader of the "Ski Mask Bandits."

The court Thursday changed to life in prison the death sentences given Outlaws Durham Eldon Stokes and Guy Ennis Smith.

The court ordered a new trial for Daniel Morris Thomas, leader of "The Ski Mask Bandits," a gang that terrorized seven central Florida counties in 1975-76. The court said jury selection was improper.

Thomas had been sentenced to death for killing a DeLand man and trying to kill his wife by throwing her off a bridge into the St. Johns River.

Life After Divorce For The Children

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Divorce is tough enough for everyone involved, but child counselor Karen Hatfield wants to do something about the children who feel their "lives have been ripped out from under them."

It doesn't have to be that way, she says, and with a little help youngsters can successfully adjust to life after divorce.

Mrs. Hatfield, who holds divorce adjustment classes for children between 6 and 12, said it doesn't always have to be a dismal experience if both parents are willing to help.

"Society paints such a bleak picture of a divorce, but it shouldn't be this way," said Mrs. Hatfield, 32. "If the parents make a joint effort to become involved with the child's life, understand his feelings about the divorce, I think a child can escape any possible psychological scars."

A child often reacts the same way to a divorce as he would a death, and progresses through stages adjusting to it, she said.

"It is like a mourning of the absence of the way things used to be," she said. "There is the denial stage. They feel guilty and don't understand what is happening."

Mrs. Hatfield, who is married with a 10-year-old son, calls another step in adjusting "the good trooper" stage — when children don't want to talk about it and withdraw. Often, she said children think "that maybe if they don't say anything, things will get better."

"At this point, I think parents should encourage the child to talk about it and help the child confront his feelings of anger, hostility or rejection," said Mrs. Hatfield.

Children sometimes become hyperactive and aggressive at another stage of the "mourning," and may become easily frustrated and cry easily, she said.

Mrs. Hatfield and her husband spent several years as resident supervisors at a halfway house for juvenile delinquents. She then became an elementary school counselor where she counseled children whose parents were breaking up.

"Teachers are usually the first to know how deeply troubled a child is as a result of his parents' divorce," Mrs. Hatfield said. "When there are problems at school, there are usually problems at home."

Her classes are conducted in small groups of between five and eight, or if a parent requests, in private classes between the parent and child.

"Children need factual information to alleviate their fears, so I tell them about terms they'll be hearing — like 'custody' and how people go about getting a divorce," she said. "I also help them to understand that other children are going through this, and that it is okay to feel anger or resentment."

One of the exercises a stress management project in which children are asked to make a list of things that worry them.

"Children always seem to bring up how the style of living they were accustomed to has changed. They really don't understand when mother suddenly says, 'We just don't have the money for that.'"

In addition, children frequently have to move and change schools. That also causes stress.

"At no time is there any pressure for a child to share an experience if he doesn't want to. We don't want the children hanging their dirty laundry in public," Mrs. Hatfield said.

"Children don't necessarily have to open up and talk to learn. Just by listening to other children share their experiences enables others to learn," she said.

China

Reorganizing Industrial Production

XIAN, China (UPI) — China's fifth largest iron and steel works will shift some production from heavy industry into kitchen ware.

Factories in Shaanxi province are turning out more wrist watches, sewing machines and television sets.

A movie showing in Inner Mongolia urges parents to stop after the second child, preferably after the first. "You can buy more things for yourself and your home with fewer children to feed," is the film's message.

China, the world's most populous nation, is reorganizing its industrial production to place new emphasis on light industry and consumer goods for its 1 billion people.

Government and factory officials in two north China provinces outlined their plans to 19 touring foreign correspondents.

China's central government in Peking ordered industries to place more emphasis on household goods and improved housing.

"Until now, we have been producing almost exclusively for heavy industries," Han Guiwu, deputy general manager of the Taih Yuen Iron and Steel Works, told correspondents.

"But now we are obtaining technical help from Japan and the United States in production of stainless steel, which we will manufacture for making kitchen utensils and washing machine parts.

"We also are studying Japan's management methods and environmental protection, in which the Japanese are much better than we are."

Han's steel works, China's fifth largest, employs 50,000 people, including staffs for the hospitals and schools operated for workers and their families.

In Shaanxi province, south of the Shansi province iron mill, the government says it is putting more emphasis on home products.

Chen yong-bo, section chief on the province's planning committee, said Shaanxi manufactured 1 million watches in 1980, an increase of 25 percent over 1979.

Sewing machine production went up 20 percent, to 450,000 units last year. The province built 40,000 television sets in 1980, more than double the 1979 production, Chen said.

Bicycles, which jam every street in China, and radio sets also are rolling off production lines in record numbers, the provincial official said.

"Our investment in capital construction has been reduced by 40 percent," Chen said. "Most of the savings is being put into light industries and manufacturing for daily necessities, building more residential areas, education, medical services and other public welfare projects."

Some workers are losing their jobs with closing of inefficient factories and postponements in building new factories.

Steel and provincial officials said displaced workers continue to receive their base pay, but not their former production bonuses, and are being sent to schools and training courses.

China's Liberation Army Daily said slowdown in heavy industrial production and closing inefficient factories will force 10 million people out of work with 20 million already unemployed. The newspaper estimated China's industrial employment at less than 200 million people.

Argentina's Economy: Stagflation

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — A five-year effort by a military government to pull Argentina out of a half century of frustration has sunk into a quagmire of economic despair and political uncertainty.

"We're up against the ropes," a high-ranking member of President Roberto Viola's administration said recently.

The armed forces took power in March 1976, promising to trim runaway inflation, terminate political terrorism, and bring Argentina stability, prosperity, and eventually democratic rule.

They stamped out terrorism with much bloodshed but failed in the rest of the program.

Viola, a former army commander, has faced a staggering economic crisis that has at its roots "a crisis of confidence," Jacques Hirsch, president of the Argentine Industrial Union, said.

"Everybody is totally disconcerted, feverish," he said. "This has caused a paralysis of productive activities. At the same time many people are involved in carefree speculation."

Nervous Argentines every day crowd Buenos Aires' financial district, frantically buying and selling U.S. dollars, depositing money in banks for seven days for short terms, debating public policy and trading rumors.

Rumors of resignations in Viola's cabinet have frequently shot through the financial district, later being officially denied.

Viola, the second military commander to become president since the 1976 coup, has been unable to stop heavy speculation on future devaluations of the Argentine peso.

On a recent day in which the U.S. dollar fluctuated in value by about 15 percent, an elderly man walking past the crowded front of an exchange house shouted, "Why don't you speculators do some work for a change?"

A voice from the crowd shouted back, "And who sent you — Viola?"

Former economy minister and industrialist Alvaro Alsogaray said the economy is experiencing a "severe case of stagflation. It is the most acute and the deepest I have ever lived through."

Since the beginning of 1981 a double-digit annual inflation rate has soared into the triple-digit range. The nation's growth rate is stalled at zero percent, the lowest next to El Salvador in Latin America.

Interest rates of 150 percent have put the economy into a recession and eat away at companies with debts. With an overall debt of $10 billion, the "nation's firms will go broke if the government doesn't do something," Hirsch said.

On Dec. 31, 1980, the U.S. dollar was worth 1,996 Argentine pesos. By the end of June it sold between 4,500 and 8,500 pesos, an average 300 percent increase in dollar value in six months.

A recent government report said four million people of Argentina's 18-million-person labor force are either "unemployed or underemployed."

Humberto Volando, president of the Argentine Agrarian Federation, blamed the economic crisis on dishonest bankers, inefficient businessmen, and irresponsible labor demands.

"We are facing chaos, and from there to a socialist republic there is just a step," Volando said.

Only two constitutional presidents have successfully concluded their terms in office in Argentina since 1930.

In 1976 the armed forces took power as President Lealbe Peron, widow of the late president and populist leader Juan Domingo Peron, faced a similar situation of economic chaos, compounded by leftist guerrilla activity.

In repressing terrorism the military government tolerated rightist paramilitary police commando squads that, according to estimates by human rights agencies, caused the disappearance of up to 15,000 persons.

Baseball Owners Reject 'Binding' Arbitration

NEW YORK (UPI) — The striking major-league players, their call for binding arbitration rejected by the owners, were to take their case to Washington today for a meeting in the offices of Secretary of Labor Raymond Donovan.

Donovan, interviewed on a talk show on the Enterprise Radio network late Thursday night, said he expected to meet with Players Association executive director Marvin Miller and owners chief negotiator Ray Grebey in his offices.

"I firmly believe Mr. Miller and Mr. Grebey will be in Washington at my office tomorrow, and we'll take it from there," Donovan said. He called the 36-day-old strike by the players "a strike against the American people from one point of view. I will try to be the voice of the American people, which has been missing from the (bargaining) table."

Doug DeCinces, American League player representative, confirmed on the network federal mediator Kenneth Moffett had informed him Donovan had called the two sides to Washington to discuss "the feasibility of binding arbitration."

On Wednesday, both sides were admonished by Donovan, who flew in from Washington and told them to get down to serious negotiations. Moffett had said Thursday morning if the talks broke off, the next move could be a shift of negotiations to Washington.

The frustrated players had suggested binding arbitration Thursday in an attempt to end the strike, but were promptly rebuffed by the owners' Player Relations Committee, which called for a return to collective bargaining.

Miller addressed the media almost an hour after Grebey said talks had recessed subject to the call of Moffett, following a frustrating day of new proposals on the sticky issue of compensation for ranking free agents.

Miller said the players had offered a counter-proposal to the owners' new plan and said management had issued a flat rejection. He then explained the debilitating nature of the negotiations, which spawned the players' switch to an arbitration answer.

"You reach a point when you get a feeling nothing will happen through negotiation," said Miller. "The events of yesterday and today has convinced us this impasse would not be resolved through negotiation. Given the fundamental differences between us, we are proposing to the owners that the issue be submitted to binding arbitration."

But the PRC, terming Miller's announcement "a public relations play," turned down the idea and reiterated its position the strike must be settled at the negotiating table.

"The position of the PRC remains consistent with what they have taken throughout these negotiations: the issue of compensation must be settled in collective bargaining, not by an outside party.

"Arbitration is therefore not an acceptable alternative to negotiation on the issue of compensation."

Among the features of the latest owner proposal is a reduction on the maximum limit on the number of ranking free agents requiring professional player compensation to eight in 1981 and 10 per year thereafter, with a maximum carryover of four from the previous year beginning in 1983.

The new proposal also increased the protected list of a club signing a ranking free agent and provided two options for the re-entry draft procedure — including one which would eliminate the free-agent draft and permit all teams to negotiate with a free agent.

"We really have a strike in progress for the rights of eight players," said Grebey. "It's very difficult to explain why we have a strike. The level of compensation offered by the clubs is far from what was originally proposed. Today's proposal represented their (owners) full shot — the best we could do."

One aspect of the owners' proposal raised the ire of the Players Association was the inclusion of a clause pertaining to credited major-league service time. In the proposal, credited service time would "resume July 16 if contract agreement is reached in reasonable time."

Miller, however, was indignant when he learned of the service clause, stating "no settlement can be reached unless the players are given credited time for the duration of the strike," which began June 12.

In addition, according to the proposal, play would resume "within five to seven days after contract agreement, correlated with teams' travel and schedule plans," and the All-Star Game would be played either just before the start of resumed play or on July 30 at Cleveland.

McGeath Races Home With Altamonte Victory

By SCOTT SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

In Major League All-Star action Thursday night, Altamonte and Deland battled for six scoreless innings, in a fierce pitching duel that went down to the wire.

Altamonte finally scrapped for a run in the bottom of the seventh to capture a narrow 1-0 victory and advance in the winner's bracket.

Manager Gene Letterio plans to go with Anthony Laszic to wrap up the tournament Monday night in Deland at 7:30 p.m. Letterio's crew will meet the survivor of a Eustis, Deland and Deltona three-way battle Friday and Saturday. All three teams have one loss and will have to beat Altamonte twice to win the tournament. The winner of the tournament then plays the winner of the Ocoee division for the outright championship.

Jeff McGeath charged home on a wild pitch to score the winning run for Altamonte.

McGeath drew a walk with one out in the bottom of the seventh. He moved to second on a wild pitch. Anthony Laszic followed with a picture perfect sacrifice bunt down the first base line to put McGeath on third with two outs.

Landon Turner, Deland's hard throwing righthander, only gave up one hit and struck out batters almost as soon as they stepped into the batter's box. But... he had his control problems. This was to be the break Altamonte used to win the game.

McGeath stood on third waiting for his chance to be a star. And sure enough Turner's first pitch was too low for the catcher to handle, and the ball rolled to the back-up fence.

McGeath hesitated for a moment, not sure if the catcher stopped the ball or not, then dashed home just beating the tag, with the winning run.

Altamonte pitcher Mike Schmit held off a tough seventh inning threat. Deland had runners on second and third with just one out, but Schmit fanned the next two batters to escape the jam. This set the scene for Altamonte's winning rally.

Schmit was the hero going the distance, giving up just one hit while striking out 15. Schmit also had Altamonte's only hit, a single.

This Mike Schmit might spell his name a little differently than the major leaguer, but the results are just as awesome. The hard-throwing right-hander blanked Deland 1-0 to advance Gene Letterio's Major League team into the championship game Monday at 7:30 in Deland.

Sanford Boxers Fight Saturday

Four Sanford boxers from the Mike Fordham stable will fight Saturday at the South-west Orlando Boys Club in Pine Castle beginning at 8 p.m.

Fordham, who handles the fighters along with former Sanford slugger Victor "Taco" Perez and Bruce Nelson, will send two youngsters into their baptism under fire.

Twenty-year-old Jerry Dickerson, a former Seminole High athlete, will debut at 165 pounds. "Dickerson should do pretty good," said Fordham. "He's a tough kid and really dedicated."

Also making his first appearance will be 85-pounder Chris Smith. Another 85 pounder, Jay Laney, goes into his third fight. Laney was bothered by a sprained ankle, but has fully recovered. He is 1-1.

The fourth local fighter on the card is 17-year-old "Lap" Ellinson. The 147 pounder is 1-1, having lost a tough split decision for his only setback.

Little, Brownlee Share Lead

JERICHO, N.Y. (UPI) — Sally Little did it by the book and Vivian Brownlee played like a character from a comic book, but they share the lead going into today's second round of a $125,000 LPGA golf tournament.

Little, seeking to become the first LPGA player to win four events this year, carded an immaculate, bogeyless, 4-under-par 68 Thursday to put herself in excellent position to defend her title in this tournament.

Brownlee, who admits she has been playing "like a dog," overcame a double bogey and a brush with poison ivy and thorns to post the same score, by far her best performance on the tour this year.

After making four birdies in a five-hole stretch, Brownlee met disaster on the heavily wooded, par-4 ninth hole. She hit her tee shot deep into brambles on the left, then hit another tee shot into the woods on the right. The seven-year tour veteran sank an 8-foot putt to avoid a triph-bogey.

Good Vibes 'Curl' Rod Into Front

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (UPI) — Rod Curl says it was "good vibes with the greens" that helped him take the lead in the first round of the $200,000 Quad Cities Open.

Curl, who 2-putted the final three holes to card a 3-underpar 65 and a one-stroke lead Thursday over three other golfers, said the "vibes" had helped him play well at the Quad Cities Open before.

He tied for sixth in 1977 and said he was tied with former Quad Cities Open champion D.A. Wehring going into the final round in 1979.

"I've got good vibes with the greens," said Curl.

He said his putting performance on the last three holes of the par-70 Oakwood Country Club course gave him the lead over three others — Sammy Rachels, Allen Miller and Jack Renner — and served as an example of a streak of strong playing this year.

"When you're playing good you'll know you'll shoot pretty good... and I feel I'm on a streak where I'm playing good."

Curl won the World Indian Open in 1977 but has not had a PGA tour victory since 1974, when he won the Colonial National Invitation.

Rachels, shooting for his first PGA victory, fired a 4-underpar 66 along with Miller and Renner.

Rachels, who eagled two par-3 holes and had two birdies and two bogeys, has not had much success on the tour until this year, when he tied for sixth place in the U.S. Open and tenth in the Tallahassee Open.

Although he said the Quad Cities Open was the first time he has ever made two eagles in one round, he was not happy with the way he played.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Saturday, July 18, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY July 18, 1981

Imaginative or artistic enterprises in which you become involved this coming year could be smashing successes. If your talents run in this direction, think up ways of marketing what you have to offer.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be both adventurous and enterprising today in matters which could offer you a second source of income. If you fail to investigate them you'll never know their true worth. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're a better decision maker under pressure today than you may give yourself credit for. Have the courage of your convictions. Trust your judgment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You could surprise even yourself today with your clever, innovative ideas for getting difficult tasks done. Put your imagination to work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're not prone to taking foolish risks today, but there's a chance where the odds favor you — and achieve success!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't leave things pending today which contribute to your material security or your position in the world. You can be quite fortunate if you tie them down now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Ideas you get today that could be profitable to another are extremely promising. Offer your suggestions. There's a chance you'll participate in the gains.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your material and ambitious prospects continue to be encouraging again today. These are the areas which should command your attention and get top priority.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If your ambitious motivations are strong enough today, you can do just about anything to which you set your mind. Your ingenuity is remarkable.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Conducting business in pleasurable surroundings could work out beneficially today. Use the soft sell and make your presentation in a leisurely, friendly fashion.

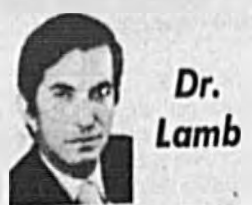

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Look for ways to be helpful today to persons you love and for whom you feel responsible. You can be instrumental in making their hopes a reality.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The proper solution can be found today regarding a problem you and your mate have been trying to work out. Collective reasoning supplies the answer.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something unique could present itself today and, if you'll examine it closely, you'll see that it might have profitable possibilities.

Tension May Cause 'Jumping' Headaches

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 24-year-old female. My problem is my head. A few weeks ago I started having headaches with a jumping at the base of my head on the right side. These jumpings were constant with only an hour or just a few minutes in between. After three days I went to see a doctor and he said I had tension headaches and the jumping was a muscle spasm. He prescribed some pills which I didn't take because I did not believe him. I had a tension headache for a week and didn't have the muscle spasms.

Dr. Lamb

The jumping has stopped but I still have the headaches almost every other day. I would like to know if the doctor could have been correct and if I should have taken the medicine? Should I check into this further?

DEAR READER—It won't help to have other studies if you end up not doing what your doctor advises. The story you tell is entirely compatible with tension headaches.

Tension is a frequent cause of headache. The pain is caused by muscle spasm. Usually the small muscles over the skull are in a chronic state of spasm and feel tight. The intermittent contracting and relaxation of a large muscle group must have given you the sensation you call jumping.

Sometimes the involved muscles are sore to touch. There may be nodules in the neck muscles. They are often related to emotional tension. Efforts to reduce psychic tension often helps relieve the frequency of such attacks.

The causes for headaches and management are discussed more completely in The Health Letter number 16-12, Headaches and What to Do about Them, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1561, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Local application of heat and gentle massage often helps relieve muscular spasm headaches. Mild medicines such as aspirin and Tylenol usually help. Many of the common headache medicines you can buy without a prescription really depend upon the action of aspirin which they contain to produce relief.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Can you tell me something about angiograms? In the past year I have had several friends and one relative who had angiograms. Each one has told a different story about how it was done. One said a tube was run through the veins into the heart. Another says it was a dye put into your veins. Still another said a wire was run through the veins.

I'm interested because I may have to have one of these things and would like to know what to look forward to.

DEAR READER—The terms people use for a variety of procedures are confusing. An angiogram is any test that injects dye into a vessel (vein or artery) so that it can be visualized by X-rays. One of the first of these procedures did involve simply injecting dye into the vein — usually in the arm — and as the dye was passed through the heart, pictures were taken to outline the chambers of the heart.

In more recent times, new techniques allow doctors to inject dye through a tube (not a wire) in the arteries, in the veins or through the heart to various locations to study different parts of the circulation. If the coronary arteries of the heart are studied, it is a coronary arteriogram. A cerebral arteriogram studies the arteries of the brain and both may be called an angiogram.

returning the 10 of trumps.

South plays his ace and West plays a low club. Now there is a sure trump loser and two possible diamond losers in addition to the spade that has already gone down the drain.

There is a simple way to play the hand. South can lead a club to dummy. Take the trump finesse and eventually lead a diamond to dummy's ace and a second diamond back to his queen. This play will hold his diamond losers to one if East has the king. It also won't work this time. West holds his majesty.

How about squeezes, pseudo-squeezes, end plays, etc.? They just aren't going to work, but there is a way to make the contract. It is to make all your small trumps on ruffs and leave East to use his trump trick to ruff his partner's good diamond.

Lead a club to the ace and ruff a club. Cash a high spade and ruff the other high spade in dummy. Ruff another club. Now lead a diamond to the ace and ruff dummy's last club with your last low trump. Lead a diamond and wait to score your final two tricks with the king-jack of trumps.

Backyard Planting For Fall

Here are some questions from home vegetable gardeners.

The answers may be helpful to you in your backyard gardening this fall. If you have other questions you would like answered, contact the Seminole County Agricultural Agent's office in Sanford.

Q. I am preparing my vegetable garden plot for my spring garden. How should I put out the fertilizer?

A. Over the years, gardeners have derived various successful techniques for applying fertilizer, some of which work just as well as others for most crops, and some of which are best for individual crops.

For beginners who have not had an opportunity to experiment as yet, here is a good method for a wide range of vegetables. While you are working your soil into seed-bed condition for planting, scatter (broadcast) some fertilizer over the surface of the entire garden area. One to two pounds per 100 square feet is usually sufficient. Mix it well into the top 4 or 5 inches of soil.

Do this just prior to planting (one or two weeks before being best). Then band some more beside the seed or plant row at planting time. Banding is accomplished by making two shallow furrows about six inches apart and 2 to 3 inches deep, spreading the fertilizer down the furrows, then refilling the furrows level with soil. Use a string to mark off a seed row between the two rows (bands) of fertilizer. Keep in mind that fertilizer applied prior to or at planting time probably will not last through the gardening season.

Additional small amounts may be needed as the vegetables grow, and can be applied as sidedressing.

Q. I am a minigardener. Please tell me what kind of soil to use in my containers for growing vegetables.

A. Many ready-prepared soil substitutes are available from nurseries and garden supply stores. Most are satisfactory. Containers may be filled with clean sand, sawdust, wood shavings, or vermiculite. Apply fertilizer solution twice a week to keep soil wet to the bottom of the container. Use highly soluble fertilizer where possible, and mix at rate of 2 to 3 teaspoonful in gallon of water (or follow label directions).

Here are two soil substitute mixes which have proven successful: 1 bushel of vermiculite, 1 bushel of peat moss, 1 1/2 cups dolomite, 1 cup of 6-8-8 fertilizer (mix thoroughly) or 1/2 garden soil with 1/2 organic (peat, cow manure, etc.), 1 1/2 cups of dolomite, 1 cup of 6-8-8 fertilizer (mix thoroughly).

Q. We are building a compost pile and are concerned about using diseased leaves. Is there any risk involved?

A. Microbes produce heat as a by-product of the decomposition of organic material during composting. They release large amounts of heat in the pile and since it is nearly self-insulating, the temperature of the pile rises. They raise the temperature inside the heap to 140 to 170 degrees, which usually persists two or three weeks.

It greatly shortens the time required for the decay of the plant material. It also kills disease-causing organisms, insects and weed seeds except in the outer parts and the bottom of the heap.

When the pile is turned, about three weeks after its preparation, those parts should be turned to the center of the pile so that they also will be subjected to the high temperatures.

Residues of diseased plants should be composted only if they can be completely subjected to the high temperatures in the interior of the heap. That is seldom possible with small piles.

Q. What could be causing my radishes to split and crack?

A. Some splitting and cracking of radish roots can be expected under most all growing conditions. Normally, this amounts to less than five percent of the roots.

Amounts in excess of this are usually due to over-maturity or over-watering. Most radish varieties mature in 25 to 35 days. Roots left in the soil beyond this length of time tend to get pungent and pithy (cottony) and start to crack open.

Soil moisture studies showed more cracking occurred where the soil was kept very moist than where it was maintained at a dryer level.

All Seminole County Cooperative Extension Service programs are open to all, regardless of race, color, sex or national origin.

VFW Auxiliary Names Officers

The Sanford V.F.W. Auxiliary announces the following officers for the coming year: Ada Reiley, president; Marguerite Daub, senior vice president; Anne Campbell, junior vice president; Nina Crouse, secretary; and June Sierputowski, treasurer.

Also: Eva Wynn, conductress; Rose Woods, guard; Willa Mae Prokosh, chaplain; and Wilma Bennett, Ann Tauty and Edith McWilliams, trustees.

At the recent district meeting the auxiliary received the second place trophy for hospital work.

The local auxiliary received the following citations at the state convention in Orlando: cancer aid and research, 100 percent; membership, 100 percent; and Voice of Democracy. A poppy pin was presented to poppy chairman Ada Reiley.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID WAYNE PENICK
Miss Williams,
David W. Penick
Repeat Vows

Laurie Kay Williams and David Wayne Penick were married July 11, at 1 p.m., in the chapel at Hill Air Force Base, Ogden, Utah. Chaplain Michael O'Jaida performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Williams, 122 Lake Minnie Drive, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Dorothy J. Penick, 301 Carolyn Circle, Bristol, Tenn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown of sheer polyester organza fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline, bishop sleeves and a fitted bodice enhanced with Alencon lace and simulated pearls. The graceful A-line skirt cascaded into a gently flowing chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of illusion was edged in matching Alencon lace. She carried a cascade of white roses, peach-tipped miniature carnations and baby's breath showered with peach colored streamers.

Wendy Trammel, of Caselberry, attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore an apricot colored Qiana gown designed with a draped bodice. Her flowers were white roses and peach-tipped carnations with baby's breath and matching streamers.

Bridesmaids were Christi Williams, sister of the bride, Miami; Doni Ryan, Portland, Ore.; Sandy Lewis, Sanford; and Barbara Penick and Tommy Penick, sisters of the bridegroom from Bristol. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Chip Steinberg served the bridegroom as best man. Usher-groomsman were Paul Borek, Barry Reynolds, Alan Flowers, Joe Trammel and Dwayne Brown.

The reception was held at Hill AFB NCO Club. Following a wedding trip to the Grand Canyon, the newlyweds are making their home at Sunset, Utah. Both are in the U.S. Air Force, stationed at Hill AFB.

Daughter-In-Law Objects To Grandma's Lifestyle

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a wonderful man, but when I married him I acquired a gay mother-in-law. She has a live-in girlfriend who not only shares her home but her bedroom. (Double bed.)

The problem is that we have moved out of state, and when we come back to visit her, we are expected to stay at her home. We have small children, and I don't want to expose them to this unnatural lifestyle.

My husband says the children will be oblivious to his mother's living arrangements, but I am not so sure. He is also afraid that his mother's feelings would be hurt if we stopped staying with her. How should this delicate matter be handled?

WITHHOLD MY NAME

DEAR WITHHOLD: If you don't make an issue of your mother-in-law's living arrangements, your children will probably think nothing of it. But if they question it, a non-judgmental explanation is in order: "It's a fact of life that some men sleep with men, and some women sleep with women."

DEAR ABBY: Not long ago you published a letter from a man whose wife had left him. He commented on your defense of divorce. You said, "It's more important to save people than marriages."

Abby, I totally agree. I am 16 years old and lived nine years of my life listening to my mother and father fight every night. I used to lie trembling in my bed, praying they wouldn't kill each other. Now, three years after the divorce, our family is much better off, although it took a lot of courage on my mother's part to finally go through with it. She had to figure out how to support herself and two children on one income, and debated if maybe it wouldn't be better for us kids if she stayed with my father and put up with his abuse.

I personally feel that she made the right decision. It hasn't been easy for her. She has to work two jobs to make ends meet, but our household is so much happier.

HAPPY IN IDAHO

DEAR HAPPY: Thanks for the reassurance. Many of my younger readers wrote to say they feel the same way about their divided families.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you'd please keep reminding people that their friends and relatives are in a hospital to get well — not to entertain visitors.

I just got home from a 10-day stay in a hospital and I'm glad I had the good sense to tell my friends and relatives I would appreciate it if they didn't come to visit me. Nobody got mad. In fact, they thanked me for my frankness.

My hospital roommate acted so pleased when people came to see her by the dozens, but after they left, the poor thing was exhausted because she really wasn't up to having company. She later told me she really didn't want company but didn't want to hurt their feelings. I'll bet she had 50 visitors every day.

Abby, tell your readers to ask their hospitalized friends and relatives if they honestly want visitors before popping in for a surprise call. A card or telephone call would be so much more appreciated by most folks.

ON THE MEND IN BEND, ORE.

DEAR ON: Well said. And while we're on the subject, I wonder why everyone thinks a "No Visitors" sign on the door means everyone except him?

DEAR ABBY: Is my husband crazy, or am I? He has worn glasses for years, and says when he takes his glasses off, he can't hear. Do you think he should have his head examined?

MOLLYINGREELEY DEAR MOLLY: Not necessarily. But it wouldn't hurt to have his ears examined.

Lake Monroe Radio Operators Active

Shortwave Equipment Links Them To Each Other — And The World

By SYBILLE MITCHELL GANDY
Herald Staff Writer

From Paris to Russia and just about every point on the globe, shortwave radio operators in the United States have conquered the distance problem in interpersonal communication.

Thousands of these amateur operators from coast to coast converse daily with operators in other American cities and foreign countries.

But anyone can build their own shortwave system and set up an amateur radio station right in their home or automobile, said Walter F. Johnston, a member of the Lake Monroe Amateur Radio Society (LMARS).

"All anybody has to do is be just a little bit interested in repairing or building electronic systems," Johnston said. "With a little study and a lot of practice, a novice can make contacts around the country in just a few months."

By operating your own radio station, you can make "radio pals," much like those found in citizen band communication. However, shortwave radio operators must pass a Federal Communications Commission test before a license is granted, since they use more power.

Boasting regular contacts with operators in Germany and England, members of the LMARS literally "had a field day" in June at the annual American Radio Relay League Field Day emergency drill.

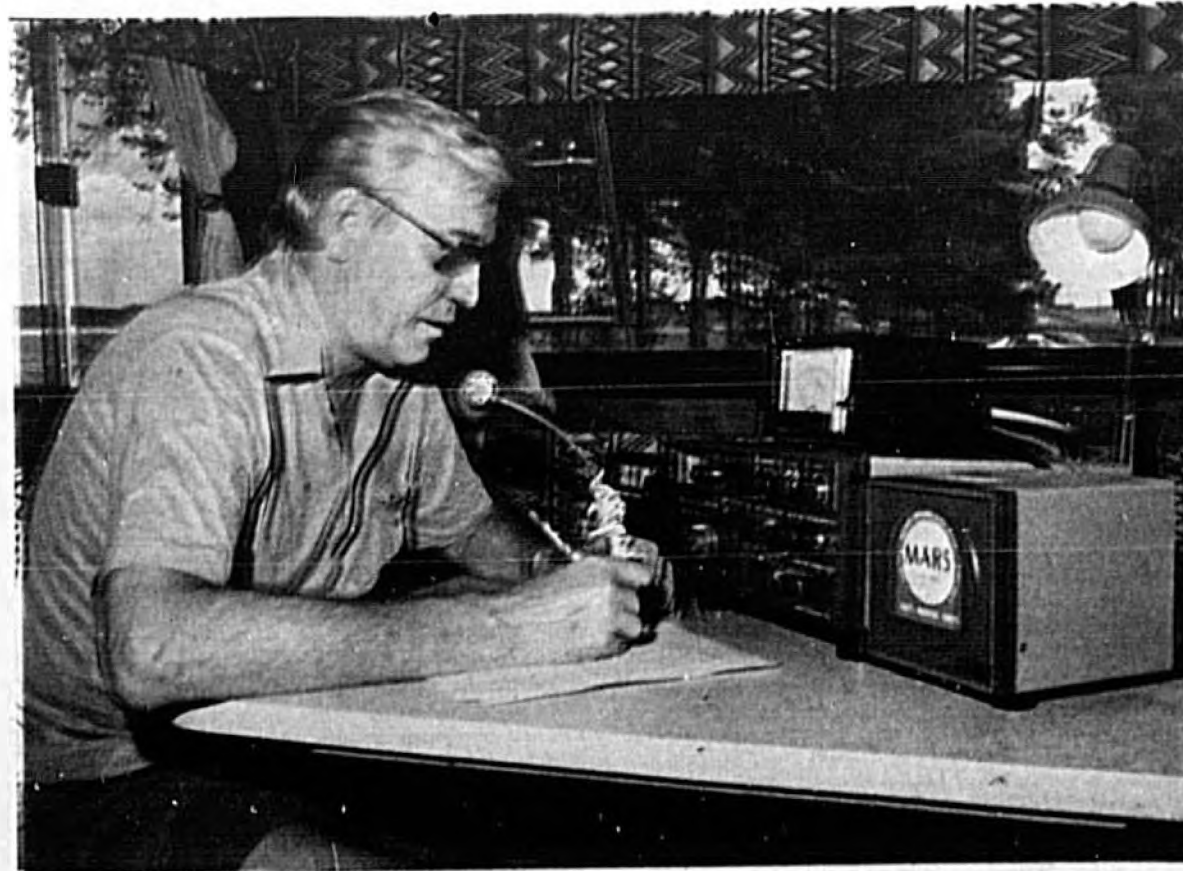

In this 45th annual event, Lake Monroe operators joined thousands of other operators as they attempted to make as many contacts as possible with emergency power.

During the 24-hour period from 2 p.m. on June 27 to 2 p.m. June 28, about 50 local amateur radio operators, or "hams" as they are called, turned the Sanford Airport into an emergency communications headquarters.

Shortwave radio groups throughout the nation and Canada assume that all commercial power is gone. Only antennas, generators, and power from vehicles are used to operate the sets.

This drill prepares "hams" for local emergencies such as

Film Makeup Expert Has Horse Sense

Movie makeup artist David Forrest has worked on some pretty strange clients before, but the most recent ones attracted flies and swished their tails.

Forrest worked with a stableful of whinnying horses for the TV movie, "My Old Man," airing Tuesday on CBS. "I treated them just as I would any actor or actress," says Forrest, "although I've never been known to tell a person, 'Easy, boy!' while applying makeup.

"I'd just look them in the eye and talk to them to make them relax, and except for those flies, I really had no problems. Best of all, horses can't talk back."

LOTS OF DANCING FEET

There'll be lots of dancing feet on PBS next week. On Monday, "Great Performances, Dance in America" will present Pilobolus Dance Theater in Performance at the American Dance Festival, a production that was taped at the 1980 Dance Festival in Durham, N.C. The work of choreographers Moses Pendleton and Jonathan Wolken will be featured.

Also on Monday, "A Dance of Two Countries: China and America," will air. In March of last year, Ben Stevenson, artistic director of the Houston Ballet, brought Western dance techniques to the People's Republic of China to instruct students at the Peking Dance Academy. This film chronicles a month of friendship, sharing and learning between Stevenson and his students.

SEARCH FOR A MANIAC

There's marital tension and dramatic suspense on CBS when Shelley Hack tries to search for a maniac who's threatening women on the L.A. freeway in "Death Car on the Freeway," to air Saturday, July 25.

Hack plays an ambitious but inexperienced television reporter. Her estranged husband, played by George Hamilton, is the anchorman for a rival television news network, and he's convinced his wife cannot succeed without him.

With the police discounting her theory, and no support from her husband, Hack goes out alone to find the deranged driver. Frank Gorshin, Peter Graves, Harriet Nelson, Barbara Rush, Dinah Shore and Abe Vigoda all have cameo roles in the drama.

Stamp Of Approval?

Stamp collectors, get ready. What could well become the two most popular stamps ever produced by the British Post Office will be issued Wednesday in honor of the wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer. A 14-pence stamp for regular mail and a 25-pence airmail stamp have been designed to commemorate the marriage, set for July 29. The issue is of particular philatelic significance because these are the first royal wedding stamps for a potential future King and queen of England.

In the United States and Canada, royal wedding stamps will be available from StanGib Limited of Garden City, N.Y. The stamps, which are expected to become scarce collectors' items, have also created a bit of a stir in England, since Lady Spencer, who is actually about the same height as Prince Charles, appears much shorter on the stamps. The stamp makers have said the illusion was necessary in order to leave space for the silhouette of the British monarch.

'Quiz Kids' Returning To The Tube Next Fall

F HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The same kids, of course, "The Quiz Kids," a giant hit will not be appearing — at least, in front of the television, will return to the tube next fall via cable. Behind the scenes the production team includes

Harve Bennett and Ruel Fischmann (brothers with different surnames), both of whom were Quiz Kids back in the 1940s. Executive producer Harve, executive producer of the revived show, was a regular. Brother Ruel, associate director, was one of the youngest. Executive producer of the half-hour series for CBS

Cable is Geoffrey Cowan, years and then died. In its radio days, the show made celebrities of Ruth Chicago in 1940. The show Deakin, Joel Kupperman, ran on radio until 1949, Richard Williams and moved to television for seven Bennett.

...Lake Monroe Radio Operators Are Active

as hurricanes and tornadoes, or national emergencies such as military attack.

LMARS President Jack Pierce and his 50 members made several thousand contacts they said, possibly capturing first place nationally.

Last year, the club took second place and in 1979, LMARS took third in the drill.

Johnston explained that the organization will be notified in the fall about its national standing by the American Radio League, after contact logs from groups throughout the nation are tallied.

According to Johnston, shut-ins and handicapped people are encouraged to take up radio operation as a hobby. Many times, he said, this is the only communication available to them.

But just plain, old electronic buffs, for the most part, have built the shortwave craze. Many were shortwave radio operators while serving in the armed forces.

Because of new developments in shortwave communication in recent years, operators can reach almost any country and talk about almost everything under the sun.

Some operators, Johnston said, have regular contacts with Cuba and Russia, but language barriers and the strict controls prevent any significant conversation.

When a contact is made, operators exchange postcards to confirm the contact as well as to share ideas about their city or country.

Since communication is carried on seven or eight radio frequencies around the world, "hams" are able to converse with each other at any time, said Johnston.

Hundreds of new codes and guidelines for international communication and radio equipment maintenance are logged in manuals and published each year.

Although a basic shortwave system starts at about $700, costs can run into thousands of dollars depending on the type and range of a set.

For local residents interested in becoming a "ham," the Amateur Electronic Supply in Orlando is a good place to get started.

To instruct novice operators in radio codes, the LMARS sponsors an ongoing course at Seminole Community College on basic as well as advanced levels.

Many operators go back to school, Johnston explained, to upgrade their FCC operator's license. Innovations taking place in the area rival developments in aerospace.

Quite removed from the Morse code communication used in the basic licensing, advanced technology has launched three short wave radio satellites in space. Two belong to America and one belongs to Russia.

Operators are additionally purchasing more advanced systems. In the last five years, a television shortwave set has been developed for those who wish to see their "radio pals." Computers have even gotten into the act. They can be programmed to "talk" to each other across great distances.

But even with "do-it-yourself" electronics, a television or computer system runs into many hundreds of dollars, Johnston said.

Very few "hams" operate with that kind of equipment. Most still use the voice code two-way communication, he said.

Say Good-Bye To 'Charlie's Angels'

By DAVID HANDLER
NEW YORK — Let's not lose our perspective: This summer is notable on the popular culture front for another reason besides the baseball void. Something very important is happening every Wednesday night on your TV set. "Charlie's Angels" is waving bye-bye, never to return to prime time again. Such a passing must not be ignored.

"Charlie's Angels" premiered on ABC in September 1976. Almost immediately it crowded near the top of the ratings, achieving stature as the most celebrated tasteless TV series of its time. Here, in the face of the women's movement, was an unabashed girly show. Here, at a time when Jane Fonda was battling to give substance to the image of the female celebrity, was Farrah — an airhead with cascading blonde hair and very white teeth, a poster girl who was merely required to jiggle on cue.

The idea behind "Charlie's Angels" was simple. Spelling-Goldberg, which had produced "The Mod Squad" and "The Rookies" — each about a trio of attractive young cops who worked for a tough but caring middle-aged boss — followed the same formula. This trio wore halter tops and designer jeans.

There was Jill Munroe (Farrah Fawcett-Majors), who was athletic and outdoorsy, the ultimate cheerleader; Sabrina Duncan (Kate Jackson), a tall, cool intelligent leader of men and women; Kelly Garrett (Jaclyn Smith), a sleek, elegant beauty redolent of furs, diamonds and penthouse suites.

This proud trio, you will recall, chafed at the sexist restrictions of police work and left the force to work for a private agency, headed by a recluse they knew only by telephone: Charlie. The go-between was Bosley (David Doyle), who was no stranger to trouble but who also looked like the Pillsbury Doughboy. No threat to the men in the audience.

The plots of "Charlie's Angels" were designed so that our three leads would have every opportunity to peel. The Angels went undercover as fashion models, cheerleaders, showgirls, health spa employees. One camera never strayed from their bosoms. Another, zoomed in on the buttocks and stayed put. Never before was a show so preoccupied with watching its stars walk in or out of a room.

Farrah, of course, was the first of the three to get noticed. She was soon on the cover of every magazine except Scientific American. Millions of young American women wanted to look like her. Mostly it was the teased, freeze-dried locks. I still get cold sweats at the memory of being trapped on a crowded rush-hour subway train, surrounded by Farrahs of every size, shape and color.

She left the series after only one season, armed with enough beauty product endorsements and feature film offers to keep her busy until 1997. But on her own she was a colossal bust, a joke. She just didn't know how to act.

Meanwhile, Cheryl Ladd, a petite, curvy blonde, signed on to replace Farrah. Amazingly, the ratings for "Charlie's Angels" stayed right up where they were.

So it was only natural for Kate Jackson to decide it was she all along who drew the audiences. She split the series and signed with ABC to produce and star in projects with her actor husband, Andrew Stevens. Hopes were high for Kate. With four previous seasons of pouring coffee on "The Rookies" under her belt, she was supposed to be the Angel who already knew how to act.

Her first project with Stevens, a disastrous TV remake of "Topper," cooled ABC's interest in her. Kate is now a seventh-or 11th-ranked contender for leading-lady roles in feature films, depending on which trade magazine you read. Shelley Hack, a trim fashion model, was brought in to replace Kate as the newest Angel. This time, the ratings began to slip. Fast. Shelley was made the scapegoat for the decline and rather rudely dumped.

Grabbing at straws, Spelling-Goldberg cast a full-figured, distinctly less clean-cut Tanya Roberts in her place. Her presence couldn't stop the show's slide. Nor did it help when ABC moved it around in the sked. It finished the season in 61st place in the ratings.

Critically speaking, there are obvious reasons why "Charlie's Angels" died. The plots were stale and uninteresting. You could turn an episode off in the middle and never, ever wonder who-did-it. (Besides, if you'd ever watched "The Mod Squad" or "The Rookies" you already knew.)

In addition, a series can't keep running multiple seasons without any kind of ongoing warmth or rapport between its lead players. You didn't have to read the gossip columns to know that the three Angels of the moment saw each other as rivals rather than teammates. They never did a thing to help each other out on screen; they were too busy jostling for position, not messing up their hair, not smearing their makeup, not wrinkling their clothes and trying to hold their tummies in.

Yes, there are critical observations aplenty to account for the passing of the "Angels," but critical standards have never had anything to do with its success or, now, its failure. No, ultimately "Charlie's Angels" died because it was driven out of the business by "Dallas." As the ratings of the "Angels" went down, those of "Dallas" rose.

"Dallas" took jiggle a step farther. Not only did it offer an assortment of glossy, scantily clad women, but it showed them tumbling in the hay with men who were not their husbands. Audiences found this even more appealing than watching their curvy heroines chase forgers. Plain and simple.

So we bid farewell to the "Angels." Of the original trio, only quiet Jackie Smith stuck with it all the way. ABC has rewarded her by handing her the starring role in a much-publicized film in making on the life of Jacqueline Onassis. It would be ironic indeed if after all these years she turns out to be the only one of the original Angels to amount to anything.

Cindy Says:

Liz Taylor's Biography Already A Money-Maker

By CINDY ADAMS
NEW YORK — Way before that Elizabeth Taylor bio hits the bookstores it already has earned over $1 million. Author Kitty Kelley's next may be on Sinatra. ... Andy Gibb, who is divorced and has a kid and is deep in the heart of his early '20s, wants it known he's sick of being a love object. He also has Victoria Principal as his girlfriend. ... Andy Kaufman stuck on an apron and waited tables at a New York deli. ... Lou Ferrigno, "The Hulk," who's already built like the World Trade Center, finally gave up exercising. I mean, what was left to develop, right? Everybody's off someplace: Phyllis Diller is doing her snappy songs'n'fancy patter for a month in Australia. The itinerary she sent me includes Sydney, Melbourne, Gold Coast, Goulburn, Orange, Dubbo, Rockhampton. ... Dionne Warwick will knock off nine days at the Boardwalk Regency in Atlantic City come August.

Miss Universe Pageant To Be Broadcast Monday

What is the producer of one of the biggest and most lavish television variety productions of the year doing while the show is on the air?

"Biting my nails," says Sid Smith, producer of "The 1981 Miss Universe Pageant."

Considering that Smith's production is broadcast to an estimated 600 million people around the world and features some of the most beautiful women on earth, it's easy to understand his feelings.

When "The 1981 Miss Universe Pageant" is broadcast live from New York's Minskoff Theater Monday, on CBS, it will be Smith's 15th year with the show and his fourth as the producer.

It sounds like an enviable task. But coordinating a two-hour prime time extravaganza, which includes 80 women from all over the world, has its drawbacks.

"The language barrier is always a problem," says the veteran producer.

"Sometimes they'll pretend not to understand so they can get their way or get out of doing something."

Translators, however, are furnished for all the contestants as are chaperones, Smith says. Two girls from nearby countries, and their translators, room together.

The show, in New York this year, has been done in such far away places as Manila; El Salvador; Hong Kong; Santo Domingo; Acapulco; Perth, Western Australia; and Seoul Korea.

Despite the language barrier, the countries have always tried to make things as comfortable as possible.

And Smith makes several trips to the host country beforehand to learn about the people and their culture.

"Last year in Seoul, Korea we wrote a song about how to speak the Korean language," he says.

New York may not pose a language problem for Smith, but there is another problem: Because productions of this nature are common in New York, producing the show there is not as exciting as in other places.

"When the pageant comes to Seoul or Perth the whole town just welcomes it with parades and social functions," says the producer-director. "New Yorkers are just blasé about it. Their reaction is: 'Miss Who?'"

When he started, the pageant was "just a job," to Smith, but since he came in as the director, the show has become an important part of his career.

The master of ceremonies for this year's pageant will be the man who is best known for his work with the Miss America Pageant, Bob Barker. His co-host will be Elke Sommer. Entertainer Peter Allen will appear with the contestants as a special guest. Also on hand will be the reigning Miss Universe, Shawn Weatherly, who was the first Miss USA to win the crown since 1967.

Representing the United States will be 20-year-old Kim Seelbrede, Miss USA 1981.

Where Will The Next Assignment Be?

Traveling Is A Way Of Life For Today's TV Entertainers

The question for today is: "Why is an actor's job like being in the Navy?"

Jose Ferrer gave the answer when he said, you don't know very far in advance where in the world your next assignment will be, but at least all your expenses are paid.

Ferrer's three recent on-location television roles — one big, two small — took him to places he wanted to visit anyhow, with luxurious hotel accommodations everywhere. He went to Hawaii for a "Magnum, P.I." episode, to Greece for "Peter and Paul" and to Germany for "Berlin Tunnel." He says, "I was lucky."

Trevor Howard enjoyed his stay in India filming the recent PBS movie special, "Staying On." But he shudders at the mere mention of Bora Bora where he spent months in a hotel still under construction and where nobody had yet gotten around to installing the plumbing. Not what you could call a vacation.

Getting booked onto the right "Love Boat" show, however, sometimes is. That's because, while the bulk of scenes are shot on Hollywood sound stages, every now and then the permanent cast, plus guests, goes to sea on one of the regular Caribbean runs of the Princess cruise ships.

Peter Graves, Debbie Reynolds, Ted Knight and Donny Most are some of the guest stars who, along with regulars Gavin (Capt. Stubin) MacLeod, Bernie (Doc) Kopell, Fred (Gopher) Grandy, Ted (Isaac) Lange, and Lauren (Julie) Tewes, mingled with the paying customers in off-hours.

That's right. Some of those

chic folks in evening clothes are not extras. They're shelling out somewhere between $2,500 and $5,000 and did not know in advance that there would be at least a baker's dozen of celebrities (plus film crew) aboard.

Any paying passenger who wants to stay off-camera, of course, has his or her privacy protected. But most find it fun to stay in range. Chances are that many were motivated to take a cruise in the first place because they love the "Love Boat" series. By the way, "Love Boat" isn't the only show afloat this season. Stars from CBS's daily serial, "Search for Tomorrow" went to sea for scenes airing in mid-July. They went in great style aboard the huge Queen Elizabeth II. The ship-board segments focus on Sherry Mathis who plays Liza Sentell, and the key word is glamour: High-fashion clothes in the sequences are designed by Mary McFadden, who went along for the trip to make sure that her duds were worn right.

But getting back to dry land — very dry. Does three months on location in the desert in Tunisia sound glamorous? The cast and crew of "The Day Christ Died," starring Chris Sarandon, found it anything but exhilarating.

Says producer Martin Manulis, "It was a very rough three-hour drive to the nearest city so we all pretty much stayed in camp." Some read, some played cards. One actor turned playwright and finished a script for what he hopes will become — at least — an off-Broadway play.

FRIDAY

Linda Gray, as Sue Ellen Ewing, and Monte Markham, as Clint Ogden, share a happy moment in "Dallas," to be rebroadcast tonight on CBS.

World Premier Stirs Excitement

'Man Of Steel' Flies In A Super Sequel

NIAGARA FALLS, Ontario (NEA)—There hasn't been as much excitement here since the last nut tried to cruise down the falls in a barrel.

They were having the world premiere of "Superman II" here. Why Niagara Falls? A fair question.

The answer is when you see the movie, you'll understand.

Most of the folks involved in the movie were here. Margot Kidder was absent—some said she was angry over the deal for her participation in the upcoming "Superman III" and some said she was otherwise occupied. Nobody knew for sure.

But Christopher Reeve—old Superman himself—was here, and so was Gene Hackman and the three heavies (Terence Stamp, Sarah Douglas and Jack O'Halloran and the director (Richard Lester) and the producers and the writers.

But hold! The credits say the writers were Mario Puzo, David Newman and Leslie Newman, and only the Newmans were around. No Puzo. Many critics have singled him out for praise, saying that the reason "Superman II" is better than "Superman I"—which it is—because Puzo, who wrote "The Godfather," was involved.

The Newmans—husband and wife—say that is simply untrue. In fact, they claim that nothing of Puzo's first draft remains in the finished film.

"In Puzo's script," David Newman says, "he had Lois Lane working in a TV studio, not a newspaper. Not a word of his script survives in this one."

At the end of "Superman II" a note appears on the screen informing the audience that "Superman III" is coming soon. "Soon" is subject to different interpretations. Executive producer Ilya Salkind and producer Pierre Spengler shrug (collectively) when asked when "soon" will be. They have no idea.

And they aren't sure who will be in it, except that Christopher Reeve is definite and Margot Kidder is a probable.

Some of the others won't talk, or don't know. Gene Hackman, a marvelously funny villain, changes his mind every time he's asked about "Superman III."

"Nobody's asked me yet," he says, first. "I have no offers."

"I won't be in 'Superman III,'" he says, the next time. "I have other things to do. I have a candy store to run."

Christopher Reeve and Margot Kidder in their roles as Superman and Lois Lane in the sequel "Superman II." Reeve hopes that, in the sequel, Superman is harnessed for evil somehow. "I think that would be a good twist," he says, "to see Superman on the other side for a while."

New Hairstylist Making Waves In Hollywood

What do Farrah Fawcett, Cher, Kristy McNichol, Valerie Perrine, Barbara Walters, Goldie Hawn, Victoria Principal, Linda Gray, Ali MacGraw and Bianca Jagger have in common?

They all go to Jose ... and here is nothing common about him.

Jose Eber of the Maurice-Jose salon in Beverly Hills is the new hairstylist making waves in Hollywood.

Barbara Walters will not do a TV show without Jose by her side. Celebrities have threatened to cancel on talk shows unless they are assured that Jose will be on hand. Farrah flew him to Cannes just to keep her follicles in fine form at the film festival.

"No one ever taught me how to do hair," says Jose. "I just did it. I watched when I was an apprentice, and I learned for myself. I don't have a technique, but I do have a few secrets. I don't believe in technique. A painter couldn't do two paintings exactly the same. Every client is different to me, and I could never do two haircuts exactly alike."

Born in Nice, France, Jose was "playing with my mother's, my sister's and my relatives hair by the age of 12. I loved it." At 15, he was apprenticing in a local beauty shop. At 18, he had acquired his stylist's license and, for experience, started working at a French beauty salon in Berlin.

After achieving success in Germany, Jose returned home and became one of the six top stylists out of 100 employees at Paris' Jacques Dessange salon, where Brigitte Bardot was a regular.

"America was a dream to me always," says Jose, who vacationed here in 1974 and upon returning to Paris, sold everything he owned and made the move to Los Angeles.

"When I came to this country, I didn't know anybody but I found a place to work in Beverly Hills. Slowly but surely my clients built, mostly by word-of-mouth, until one day I styled

JOSE EBER

Susie Coelho's hair. She was a famous model, Sonny Bono's girlfriend and also a very good friend of Farrah's. Soon Farrah called me and came to the shop. She was at the peak of her career. She became a regular customer and the press wrote about it and my reputation continued to build. I started getting phone calls from other stars. Kate Jackson, Ali MacGraw, Barbara Walters all became regular clients.

Client Valerie Perrine says: "Besides being a talented hairstylist, you have to have more. Namely, personality and a relationship with clients, and Jose certainly has both. People usually like him from the beginning. He makes them feel comfortable. His clients feel very close to him, and I think this is part of his success. Celebrities are usually very frightened of people using them, and they know Jose would never do that. They trust him."

Treat Your Children To Summer Reading Pleasure

Are the summer doldrums hitting your house? If hot, humid weather has turned your children into fidgety fussybuds, corral their wayward energies with some light, captivating reading.

Three titles guaranteed to divert those between 10 and 14-years-old are:

"Westmark" (Dutton, $9.95) by Lloyd Alexander. Theo, a lover of justice, flees the city when his master is killed by the power-hungry Cabbarus, the king's chief minister. The young apprentice falls in with a charlatan, Ias Bombas, his dwarf attendant, and Mickle, a country urchin with ventriloquist powers. The four travel the countryside, paying their way through Las Bombas' magic fakery, which stars Mickle in an oracle show. Hearing about their act, Cabbarus attempts to use it to force the king, who is distraught over his daughter's death six years before, to abdicate in his favor. Before Cabbarus' plan backfires, Theo learns that Justice and people are full of complexities.

"Fours Crossing" (Farrar, $9.95) by Nancy Garden. Still grieving over her mother's death, Melissa arrives at the village of Fours Crossing, New Hampshire, in the midst of a spring blizzard. As the snowstorm continues, Melissa and her new friend Jed come to believe that there is a connection between the unrelenting winter, a missing antique plate and a strange hermit's incantations in the nearby woods. Some intelligent decoding and a discovery in the local archives give credence to their suspicions, but the deeper implications become clear when they are held prisoner by the demented old man.

"Jeremy Visick" (Houghton, $7.95) by David Wiseman. Sent by his teacher to explore some local gravestones, Matthew is drawn to the message on the 1852 Visick family marker, with its tragic line, "And to Jeremy Visick ... age 12 years, whose body still lies in Wheal Maid mine." One night Matthew goes to the mine, where he learns how the boy died and, though barely escaping death himself, finally brings peace to Jeremy's restless ghost. Exciting tales await younger readers too, in the following titles:

"The Devil's Donkey" (Harper, $8.95) by Bill Brittain. Dan'l, who scoffs at magic and thumbs his nose at superstition, doesn't believe his cousin Stew Meat's tales about the coven tree, which the witches claim as their own. Defying Stew Meat's warnings, Dan'l chops three branches off the tree and finds, to his horror, that the scratch on his ankle gives Old Magda, the witch, power over him. Hoping to please Old Beelzebub, with whom she has fallen out of favor, Old Magda conjures a spell on Dan'l with the words "Dang-blast" and turns him into a donkey. From here on, Dan'l's fate becomes a tug of wits between Magda and Stew Meat. Narrated in a folksy, down-home style, the fastpaced events conclude suspensefully in a rope-pulling contest that has Dan'l struggling for his very soul.

"Poppy and the Outdoors Cat" (Whitman, $5.95) by Dorothy Haas. A pet in a small apartment shared by a family of seven is definitely out. Mrs. Flower tells her daughter Poppy. When a stray kitten adopts her and her parents' answer is still no, Poppy decides to make Rosebud into her outside cat, hoping for the day when they have a bigger home. When Mrs. Flower wins a new house in a contest, Rosebud refuses to adapt to being an inside pet, and Poppy learns to accept the cat's wanderlust. She is rewarded for her understanding when Rosebud brings her baby kittens to Poppy's doorstep for care.

"Pajama Walking" (Houghton, $8.95) by Vicki Kimnel Artis. Four funny tales, each complete but linked through situation and character, are perfect for 7-to 9-year-olds. When Bessie sleeps over at Clara's house, the two girls have an indoor picnic at which they discuss the "philosophy" of growing up, experiment with adding chocolate chips to toothpaste and parade about the house in a pair of Dad's giant-sized pajamas.

Estes Is Singing His Way To The Top

American bass-baritone Simon Estes, 43, became the first black man to sing at the Paris Opera in its 310-year history. He debuted recently in the title role of Wagner's "The Flying Dutchman."

Son of a coal miner and grandson of a slave who was sold for $500 just before Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation, Estes earned his way through a pre-med course by working the 3 a.m. shift on a house wrecking crew. He subsidized his music studies by holding a job as a cafeteria dishwasher.

A native of Centerville, Iowa, he first made world headlines when he won the 1966 Tchaikovsky International Competition in Moscow.

Estes is appearing as the legendary Hollander in six Paris performances of the opera through Saturday. He was originally chosen for the role by the composer's grandson, Wolfgang, who engaged him to sing it for the first time at the 1978 Wagner Festival in Bayreuth, Germany.

Estes will return this year for his fourth successive season at Bayreuth to sing five performances of "The Flying Dutchman" between July 27 and Aug. 22. In the three years since his Bayreuth debut, Estes has also been heard as "The Flying Dutchman" in the opera houses of Munich, Hamburg, Frankfurt, Zurich and Mannheim, as well as for the San Francisco Opera and the Opera Company of Boston. He will make his debut at the Metropolitan Opera next January.

Harold Robbins Talks About His Best-Seller

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—All of us on the outside looking in think the reason it's great to have a best-selling novel is because you can make a lot of money when somebody buys the movie rights.

Well, Harold Robbins pooh-poohs that notion. He says it's great to have a best-selling novel because you sell a lot of copies of the book. Forget the movie sales.

"I'm more interested in book sales than in a movie sale," Robbins says. "Book sales mean more, and I am very selfish when it comes to this question, because it is the money that matters the most."

So he is happy the way his newest novel, "Goodbye, Janette," has gotten started. He is also proud of the fact that this is his 16th novel and all 16 are still in print, and each one is in print in more than 50 different languages. The sales of his books keep rolling along, everywhere, day in and day out.

He says he is in no hurry to make a movie deal on

Some of his older books are being filmed now. His earliest hit, "A Stone for Danny Fischer," is now being turned into a six-hour mini-series.

If and when "Goodbye, Janette" becomes a film, Robbins wants the filming done in Europe. The book like all of Robbins' works, is full of explicit sex scenes. He says those scenes are very important to the plot, and American movie makers don't or can't—shoot that sort of material properly. Only in Europe, he says, do they do them right.

He puts a lot of sex into the books, he says, not to satisfy the demands of his publishers, or his readers, but himself.

"I want sex in my books. I feel those scenes are vital to the integrity of my work. In this one, the characters are motivated by sexual experiences near the beginning of the book. Without those scenes, the rest of the book wouldn't hang together."

"Goodbye, Janette" is set largely in the Parisian fashion world. Robbins says that is the only glamorous setting left in the world.

"Hollywood is no longer glamorous. Look at the movies and television today—it's all the people next door. 'Ordinary People' was a well-made movie, but I know a lot of people like that, and so do you. Ditto 'Kramer vs. Kramer'. I know people like that, in fact, I lived experiences like that myself.

"I don't want to see that kind of thing in the movies I go to see."

As he sees it, a novel must serve three functions:

First, it should entertain. Second, it should give the readers a vicarious experience.

And third, as a sum of the first and second functions, a novel should give the readers a learning experience.

He bases his own novels, he says, more on character than on plot. He draws those characters from people he knows, and things he has done.

At one point in his life he lived for a few years in South America. "The Adventurer" came out of that period. His current novel resulted from an experience some years ago when some people tried to sell him a fancy Parisian couturier establishment.

"That got me interested in the fashion world," he says. "And that interest has been translated into this book."

Bluejeans were so named after the original cloth, first woven in Genoa, Italy.

TV Star Barbara Walters Isn't From Muncy

DEAR DICK: My mother says she went to school with a girl who looked and talked like Barbara Walters. The name was even the same. She only attended Muncy High School a year or so, as her father's job took their family from place to place. Could this be the same Barbara Walters? J.Y., Muncy, Pa.

No, not likely. Barbara Walters is a fairly common name. The TV Barbara Walters, daughter of nightclub owner Lou Walters, was born in Boston. She was raised in Boston, Miami and New York — without even a brief stop in Muncy.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me what, if any, movies Vivien Leigh made after "Gone With the Wind"? Also, what year did she die and how old was she? B.E., Pembroke Pines, Fla.

Vivien Leigh made many movies after "GWTW," including such greats as "Waterloo Bridge," "Caesar and Cleopatra," "A Streetcar Named Desire" (she won an Oscar for that in '51) and all the way down to "Ships of Fools." She died in 1967, when she was 54.

Ask Dick Kleiner

By DICK KLEINER

DEAR DICK: I hope you can settle this bet, as $100 is riding on it. I maintain there were only about 32 episodes of the original "Honeymooners," the shows with Jackie Gleason and Art Carney. My friend insists there were many more, and that the show ran for years and years without reruns. Can you answer this for us? L. ANTLES, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Thirty-nine episodes were made for Gleason show, which ran in '55 and '56. At the time, "Honeymooners" alternated with Gleason's "Stage Show" program. But in the package of "Honeymooners" sold to TV stations today there are also some episodes culled from earlier and later Gleason variety shows. So the rerun package is bigger. But, of course, your friend is totally wrong when he says "Honeymooners" ran for many years without reruns.

DEAR DICK: While watching public television recently, I saw a 1913 Civil War classic film directed by D.W. Griffith. The lead actor was Tom Chatterton or Chadderdon. Could you tell me more about him and about actress Ruth Chatterton. MARY CHADDERDON ORWIG, Williamsport, Pa.

Ruth, the famous Chatterton, died in 1961 at the age of 68 after a long and illustrious career. Thomas Chatterton, less well known, died in 1952, when he was 71. I cannot determine if they were related to each other — or to you.

DEAR DICK: My father was wondering whether Timothy Hutton, who starred in "Ordinary People," is in any way related to Jim Hutton, who starred in various movies in the '50s. PAUL WAGNER, Trenton, N.J.
Yes — Timothy is the son of the late Jim Hutton.

When It Comes To Waitressing, She's A Real Pro

She's handy with an order pad and pencil, can serve a hot cup of coffee without spilling a drop, and won't hesitate to hurl a sharp retort at a cranky customer. When it comes to waitressing, Eileen Brennan is a pro.

The versatile actress was serving up hamburgers in Saratoga Springs, N.Y., during the filming of "My Old Man," a drama special starring Kristy McNichol and Warren Oates, to be rebroadcast Tuesday, July 21 on CBS.

Miss Brennan stars as Marie, a sympathetic and warmhearted waitress who provides a down-and-out horse trainer (Oates) and his spirited teen-age daughter (Miss McNichol) with a hot meal and a warm home, in this adaptation of a short story by Ernest Hemingway.

The teen-ager and her father have been reunited after a 14-year separation and they've set out to explore a new life together.

The two travel to a quaint racing town where they encounter Marie, who becomes intent on providing them with some semblance of a normal home life.

"I've portrayed waitresses before," Miss Brennan says. "As a matter of fact, I once worked as a singing waitress while studying drama in New York City.

"Marie, however, is special. She's a loving, strong and sentimental woman whose fantasy is to have a home and family. She waits a long time for that dream to come true, and she's not about to let it go easily."

Miss Brennan's stint as a singing waitress — her big number was "You Made Me Love You" — was a short-lived one. She removed her apron and landed her first starring role in the off-Broadway hit "Little Mary Sunshine," went on to star in the national touring company of "The Miracle Worker" and co-starred (as Mrs. Malloy) in the original Broadway company of

"Hello, Dolly!"

She was offered several film and television assignments and it wasn't long before she found herself waiting on tables again — this time in her acclaimed performance as the waitress in "The Last Picture Show."

EILEEN BRENNAN

The accomplished stage, film and television actress lives in Venice, Calif., with "four dogs, two cats and two kids, Sam and Pat," and considers herself "very fortunate to be able to do everything."

"I enjoy working in television," she says, "and with a series, I can be with my kids. With the ages they are now, it's difficult to move from coast to coast."

"But I do find myself constantly going back to the stage — workshops, local productions, that kind of thing. And I'd really like to do another Broadway show, preferably a musical."

"I guess that's because I'm always so glad to sing. Would you like to hear a snappy rendition of 'You Made Me Love You'?"

KAZARIAN BEATS THE PRICE!

By STACI BIENVENU
 "IF YOU'RE UNDER 25, if you own a van or a pick-up, or if you just need immediate minimum Auto or Truck Insurance coverage—you need to call me." Yes, according to Ralph Kazarian, "You may be paying too much for your Auto Insurance."
 Mr. Kazarian is fully aware that we, as drivers, are tired of reading deceptive ads about how we can beat the high cost of our auto insurance, but there is something definite that sets him apart—specialization. He's an unusual man in his line of business, for he is willing to give hard-luck YOUNG DRIVERS a more-than-fair chance on their auto or truck insurance.
 "I feel that young people, in many cases, are unjustifiably charged high rates, and I know that many may be short on cash. That's why monthly payments are our specialty. Furthermore, there are a large number of drivers under 25 that are paying high rates due simply to their age; others are penalized because of their personal astes in automobiles. Finally, customers who need minimum insurance coverage are turned away repeatedly. To overcome these situations is my whole reason for being in business."

 Yes, this all sounds quite promising, but just how can Ralph Kazarian afford to offer a truly better price to you and me?
 "I've shopped for years to find companies who offer the best possible rates for my particular customers. As a result, I broker business with 36-38 Auto, Truck, Motorcycle, Motor Club, Mobile Home & Motor Home Insurance companies that target their effort to my particular customers. This allows me to give my customers the insurance they need at the price they want to pay."
 And Mr. Kazarian has proved himself to be quite successful in his approach. After 15 years in the business, he's established himself as an institution within the auto and truck insurance business in Florida.
 To prove his ambition and determination he's opened eleven offices in the last two years in the Central Florida area: in addition to his Orlando office which is located in the Bright BLUE Building at the corner of Mills and Colonial (883-2454).
 There are two additional Ralph Kazarian offices located in the Orlando-Sanford area: Altamonte Springs (834-2454) and Sanford (322-2454).
 So, if you're really interested in finding out how to get the insurance you need . . . at the price you want to pay—stop by one of Ralph Kazarian's offices.
