Tin Shower
At Mrs. Keely's charming home on Sanford Heights, a Tin Shower was given by her friends to the popular bride to be, Miss Gelsie Butt; Wednesday afternoon. The rooms of the elegant home were tastefully decorated with southern smilax and hearts.

Five tables of hearts were played, the top score being made by Miss Linda Leffler, who won the first prize, a very pretty and dainty apron. Miss Charlotte Hand, received the booby prize, a handsome combing jacket. The guest of honor, received as a prize a pretty silver hat pin holder.

At the conclusion of the games of cards, delicious caramel ice cream and cake was served, after which the tin shower began.

As Miss Butt drew each article, by a cord attached to it, from a prettily draped and decorated wishing well; one of the guests made for her an appropriate wish, until the shower ended and each guest had expressed their wish for her future happiness. It was a most delightful occasion and each friend vied with the other in expressing their good will and appreciation of, Mrs. Keely's charming guest of honor. The contents of that magical wishing well, will amply equip the culinary department, of the future home with useful and necessary articles.

Mrs. Keely's invited guests were: Misses Gelsie Butt, Charlotte Keeler, Mell Whitner, Gene Wicker, Mabel Bowler, Peacha Leffler, Belle Smith, Alice Whitner, Linda Leffler, Florence Frank, Annie Higgins, Louise Shepherd, Mabel Hand, Martha Fox, Carrie Lovell, Charlotte Hand, Lillian Higgins, Mrs. J. C. Higgins, Mrs. R. S. Keeler, Mrs. Kate McDowell Butt, Mrs. Barnea, Mrs. J. C. Neal, Mrs. R. H. Marks, Mrs. R. J. Holly, Mrs. Ed Higgins, Mrs. Claude Howard, Mrs. C. C. Butt, Mrs. J. L. Hart and Miss Nonna Wyley.

Entertained The Visitors
The entertainment committee who looked after the pleasure of the members of the Presbytery, when it was not in session or attending to business; arranged a trip across the lake to Enterprise, in launches for Wednesday afternoon. The party left about 3 o'clock in the launches Maimo and Lette. On reaching Enterprise they were taken to the famous chicken farm, which is certainly quite a feature of interest, to anyone has never before seen so many beautiful and fine chicken at one time.

Benson Sulphur Springs, was next visited, and all who would taste it, were urged to take a drink of that wonderful water. Other points of interest in Enterprise were shown the visitors. The party then re-embarked for home, which they reached without any incident worthy of note, other than a very pleasant afternoon.

About 53 persons went on the trip Thursday afternoon, an automobile trip was tendered the Presbytery, who were afforded an opportunity to see more of our "Lucky Sanford," our world famous celery delta, and the beautiful hammocks that almost surround Sanford; and are now being opened up for cultivation. The people of Sanford are always delighted to show to strangers, the great possibilities that are being recognized as in store for this section; when it can be thoroughly developed. A trip around the line on the street cars was also planned in order to give the members of the Presbytery another view, of the many improvements and developments following the car line but lack of time made that wish impracticable, for the whole body, though a few may take advantage of that trip today.

Notice of Stockholders' Meeting
A meeting of the stockholders of the Sanford Hotel and Improvement Co. is hereby called in the directors' room of the Peoples Bank at Sanford, Florida on Wednesday, November 15th, 1911, at 10:30 a. m.

The meeting is called for the purpose of electing officers to serve for the ensuing year and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

Mrs. J. P. Beard
Prof. N. J. Perkins received the sad intelligence yesterday of the death of his mother-in-law, Mrs. John P. Beard, which occurred at Amherst, Va., on Wednesday. Mrs. Perkins was with her mother at the time. Mrs. Beard spent several winters in Sanford and her many friends will be pained to hear of her demise.

"No—Only the Idea Is Imported"

WOULDN'T you like to be able to answer your husband in this way—when he expresses his approval of your new outfit? Wouldn't you like to tell him that you had obtained that elusive something called "Distinction in Dress" and that the cost was no greater than you had previously paid for ordinary garments?

If you would—let your next garment be a PRINTZESS.

There's a delicacy of line—and grace of style to a PRINTZESS that proves that PRINTZESS designs are close to foreign inspiration and also that they know how to create.

The materials are of true wool quality—tested and retested before they are judged worthy of bearing the PRINTZESS label—there's reason in such testing—in such extreme caution—for the PRINTZESS label is a guarantee that each garment must give you two seasons of satisfactory wear.

The curving lines of PRINTZESS fit are more accurate than the "custom-made fit" of your tailor—never a wrinkle at collar, shoulder, front and hips—and it's logical that they should be so, for PRINTZESS tailoring is the result of a perfected process—38 years of knowing how—that eliminates faulty work at these four proof points, where most garments fail.

PRINTZESS garments hold their shape. After months of wear they have the same dainty freshness that they possessed the day you purchased.

PRINTZESS Plio Canvas, the new shape-retaining fabric, is responsible for this—it's a new fabric, moist-proof—wear-proof—that is owned and controlled by the makers of PRINTZESS and can only be found in PRINTZESS garments.

It molds the wool materials of the garment to your figure—and holds them there. This shape-holding insurance costs you nothing extra.

The price of PRINTZESS garments represents unusual value; better materials than a custom tailor could afford to use; workmanship that never slights; fit that satisfies at the first try-on; and shapeliness without constant pressing expense and trouble.

The Macks in Town

Johnny McCue and John J. McQuade, two Frenchmen from Cork were in town yesterday looking after the right of way for the Citrus Southern Ry. The boys are both jovial Celts and they will have no trouble in obtaining the right-of-way because no one can withstand their blarney and then everybody wants the new traction line from Sanford to Kissimmee.

People's Church

At the Congregational church next Sunday morning Mr. Waldron will speak on the question: "What are the Essentials?" He will give his views on the Sabbath question as one illustration of the subject. There will be a popular song and preaching service in the evening. A most cordial invitation is extended to the public for both services.

Are You Nervous?

What makes you nervous? It is the weakness of your womanly constitution, which cannot stand the strain of the hard work you do. As a result, you break down, and ruin your entire nervous system. Don't keep this up! Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Cardui is made from purely vegetable ingredients. It acts gently on the womanly organs, and helps them to do their proper work. It relieves pain and restores health, in a natural manner, by going to the source of the trouble and building up the bodily strength.

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Grace Fortner, of Man, W. Va., took Cardui. This is what she says about it: "I was so weak and nervous, I could not bear to have anyone near me. I had fainting spells, and I lost flesh every day. The first dose of Cardui helped me. Now, I am entirely cured of the fainting spells, and I cannot say enough for Cardui, for I know it saved my life." It is the best tonic for women. Do you suffer from any of the pains peculiar to women? Take Cardui. It will help you. Ask your druggist.

HAPPENINGS DURING THE WEEK

Here the Readers Will Find a Brief Historical Spring Flowing For Hurried Readers

Unless there is some change made necessary by circumstances unforeseen now, the second trial of Dr. B. Clark Hyde for the alleged murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope will begin in the criminal court at Kansas City this week.

In a collision at Omaha yesterday on the Missouri Pacific railroad between a passenger and a freight train at Fort Crook, in which seven persons were killed and twenty-two injured, Governor Albert W. Gilchrist of Florida, a passenger on the train was uninjured.

Harry Atwood's flight from New Bedford with a passenger in his aeroplane yesterday afternoon established a new record for aeroplane flight with an extra person. He made twenty-one miles in twenty minutes.

It is estimated that at least a month will be consumed in getting a jury to try James B. McNamara for his alleged connection with the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building. Prolonged quizzing of other witnesses, particularly about their affiliations with labor unions, and their opinions of such organizations is intended by the defense.

The outlook for a successful intervention to bring an end to the war between Italy and Turkey, seems to be becoming less favorable, according to semi-official advices made public today.

Added to China's internecine strife has come a financial panic. The civil war which broke out recently and is gaining in strength each day has caused prolonged runs to be made on several of the leading banking institutions at Peking and at Hong Kong. While none of the banks have yet been compelled to close their doors, the situation is decidedly strained. Many of the largest depositors who have allowed their funds to remain in the banks are badly worried.

The electoral college on Sunday formally cast its ballot for Gen. Francisco I. Madero, Jr. as president-elect of Mexico. His companion will be Pino Suarez, elected to the vice-presidency over Provisional President de la Barra and Dr. Gomez.

Vote of Thanks

Resolved, That we, the members of the Presbytery of St. Johns, extend to Rev. J. F. McKinnon and the members of the Presbyterian church of Sanford and to the people of the community our hearty appreciation of their kindness and hospitality extended to us in many ways during our stay in their midst, and we request that this resolution be read to the Sanford church on next Sabbath morning.

Swatting The Vagrant

In an editorial headed "The Curse of Vagrancy," The Florida Times-Union says:

"The authorities here should try to put a stop to vagrancy, not because the farmers, saw mill men and turpentine operators need hands, but because every man who not efficient means to support him in illness should be made to go to work. The idle should not be permitted to live on the earnings of the workers.

"The law is no respecter of race or color. We do not recommend a crusade against idle negroes but against idle men. Those who need to work and can get work should be made to go to work whether white or black.

"The idle are living whether they are working or not. If they are not paying for what they get somebody is paying for them. Of course with the increase of idleness thieving increases.

"It is probable that there are more negro men than white men idle here because of the practice that is so common among negroes of having the women support their husbands or having the employers of the negro women support them. A woman gets a position as a cook and often carries off enough from the table of her employer to feed her family. Some times the employer knows this and doesn't care. Even when this is the case the man should not be permitted to live in idleness. By working he could his family to accumulate property or be prepared in case of sickness. The negro women of Jacksonville and other cities of the South would be benefited more than any other class by the enforcement of the vagrancy laws for they would find accumulation as the result of their work instead of having it all go to support lazy men in idleness."

GOOD ROADS IN THE SOUTH

A. C. L. to Operate Good Roads Train Over Their Entire System

The Atlantic Coast Line will handle the National Good Roads train over its entire system, starting out from Richmond, Va., Nov. 23rd.

This train will consist of two coaches, one of which will contain models, operated by electricity, of road working machinery of various characters and forms of various kinds of good roads. These will be displayed in an attractive way and open to the public. The other coach will be equipped for lectures and stereopticon views. A private car will accompany the train for the accommodation of the lecturers. Two government road engineers and a representative of the American Association for Highway Improvement will accompany the train, as will also a representative of the Atlantic Coast Line. The train will make from one to two stops in each county in the states of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, through which the Atlantic Coast Line runs. Free demonstrations and stereopticon lectures will be given at each stop. The object of this train is to stimulate highway improvements and give practical instructions in the building and maintenance of improved roads, with a view to reducing the cost of farmers in the moving of their crops to the railways. The public are invited to cooperate in every way and to attend the conferences. Notice of the itinerary of this train will be published in this paper later.

Kirkwood Makes a Haul

Sheriff Kirkwood, Deputies Gordon, Lawton, Feister and one or two others, armed themselves with various kinds of guns on Saturday night, and went by automobile to Oviedo, where they raided a house occupied by colored people and in which all kinds of alleged lawbreaking was being carried on. He caught the gang going at a lively clip and when the guns were all lowered and the excitement was over, twenty dusky sports were linked together with handcuffs and the twenty-first one walked obediently by himself at the tail end of the procession. As it was too big a crowd to bring home in the car, the alleged culprits were given an opportunity to follow the example of Weston in a long walk. They reached Orlando in the forenoon of Sunday, having hoofed it all the way from Oviedo, with Deputies Frank Gordon and Ben Lawton as chauffeurs to drive them. They will have a chance to explain about it at the next term of court.

Billy Burke's Slayer

A detective of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway and three citizens of Tildenville yesterday arrested a negro who is alleged to be the slayer of Engineer Burke, who was mysteriously shot in the cab of his engine last winter. The negro's name is Richard Wright, aged 25.

The two McMillan brothers, Lee and Jeter, merchants of Tildenville, were instrumental in Wright's capture, as was Roy Roper, also of Tildenville.

As to the nature of the evidence against Wright, the details could not be learned. He was arrested while working in the cucumber patch of C. H. Tilden of Tildenville. Reporter-Star.

Truth Should Be Told

The Truth about Florida is good enough anyway; and were it not for the fact that some of the over-enthusiastic Florida boosters, in their zeal to get rich quickly out of the advancing farm land values, have perhaps overstated the truth or over drawn and exaggerated Florida's opportunities to the point where skepticism has naturally resulted, there would be no need for this series.

For three years Florida has been advertising by the promoters as no other state in the Union, great areas of Florida cut-over lands have been purchased by promotion syndicates, largely from the cities of the Central West, subdivided (on paper) into fire and ten acre farms and sold throughout the English speaking world under an intense and almost electrifying system of national advertising so sweeping, to my knowledge, only by the great publicity campaigns during the infamous Colorado gold-mine stock jobbing boom of 1905 and '06.

The prices that these lands have been sold for have been, on the whole cheap enough provided the general improvements promised by the grantors had been made, the terms have been made reasonable enough, the lands themselves, with some exceptions, have been good enough for the most exacting homeseeker; but the advertising has been in many cases of the most extreme and unreliable character—a peerless "juggling" of words and facts into well rounded sentences so misleading and yet so hypnotizing in their effect that a Mahatma would be ashamed of his competing skill and a professional showman, with his ball and dumb-bells, would not be in the same class. These misstatements about Florida, therefore, must be corrected, and the Truth—which is a thousand times stronger and more convincing when understood—should be told in the same token.—Industrial Record.

More Homesuckers

Another train load of "homesuckers" coming to Florida to settle on worthless lands last week according to following from the Ft. Myers Press:

"Boats returning to Fort Myers yesterday from LaBelle included among their passengers 12 members of the new colony in DeSoto county which was established a few days ago by the settlers from Waterloo, Ia. Those who returned are on their way home, and bring the word that others are to follow. They talk freely concerning their speedy disillusionment, and state their principal cause for dissatisfaction lies in the fact that they cannot make an immediate living from the lands they have purchased from the Florida Development company."

CULLED FROM THE STATE PRESS

An Epitome of the Week's Most Important Happenings in the State's Domain.

There is a movement on foot to move the remains of Osceola, the famous chieftain of the Seminoles, from Charleston where they are now buried, to Kissimmee, the capital of the county that bears his name.

Circus license in Tampa is $200 and Secretary Powell of the Board of Trade made the members dig up the price as an inducement for the circus to come.

The annual convention of the South Florida Epworth League and Sunday Schools of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South has just closed after a most successful and interesting meeting.

The Pensacola Journal says that the prospects are bright for the greatest fair ever held in the state to be held in that city next month.

The Glidden tourists are on the way to Florida. They made Gettysburg, yesterday and expect to cross Virginia today.

W. G. Campbell, chief food inspector of the bureau of chemistry, Washington, is in Tampa to confer with Manager W. C. Temple of the Florida Citrus Exchange, to see what can be done to prevent the shipping of green Florida citrus fruits, and just what power the department of agriculture of the national government may have in the premises.

On last Saturday morning C. M. Donaldson, a white man was shot and fatally injured near Live Oak by Sheriff Ricker, or one of his deputies, while resisting arrest from the result of which he died later.

A party of Germans who represent about fifty families who are seeking homes in Florida were in Bronson a few days ago inspecting the lands in the neighborhood. They were offered lands near Otter creek at $3 an acre, but decided to inspect lands elsewhere before buying.

Hon. A. M. C. Russell, editor of the Brooksville Argus and superintendent of public instruction for Hernando county, has been urged to enter the race against Superintendent Holloway next spring.

Bradentown Presbyterians have let the contract for a new edifice to cost $1,200.

Owners of automobiles in Miami and Dade county are in a movement which seems to be general over the State to contest in the courts the constitutionality of the new law which imposes an additional license tax upon the private owners of automobiles.

Deputy Whitten Accidentally Shot

Claude Whitten the efficient deputy sheriff suffered a serious accident last Saturday morning by his pistol dropping from his pocket being accidentally discharged and passing through his body.

Claude was sitting in front of Judge Stringfellow's office and had reached over to get a newspaper laying on the sidewalk. As he sat down again the pistol was jarred loose from his pocket and as it struck the pavement was discharged the ball entering the hip and coming out in front of his body just below the pit of the stomach. The patient was hurried to his home and Dr. Puleston rendered medical aid.

The wounded man is resting easy and the chances for his recovery are good.

Carrying a pistol seems to be dangerous to officers as a number of them are wounded or killed each year by accident.

Frese-Mauser

J. J. Mauser, the well known cigar manufacturer surprised his friends by stealing away to Tampa and getting married. The bride was Miss Marie Frese and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Terrell. Mr. and Mrs. Mauser have taken apartments in the Wilson building and will make Sanford their future home.

Suffrage in California

EVEN THE DATE POST NOT IN IT

A Child Is Among Ye Taking Notes and Faith, He'll Prent "Em" So Says Saunterer.

I see that the public schools of Tampa have installed coolers in every room and during the heated term the scholars can have cool water. Now this would be a good idea to adopt in our schools for the children are forced to crowd around the well at the primary and grammar schools and drink the tepid water awaiting their chance and no doubt causing the teacher more or less troubles by requesting a drink during study hours and probably taking part of the time to play while they are taking a drink. Perhaps the ice water is unhealthy for the children but I can't help but believe a cooler in each room would prove a convenience for pupils and teachers alike.

I am a great stickler for home merchants and while it makes no difference in my business if the people of Sanford buy everything they need from the mail order houses, I persist in saying that the idea is bad and we can never hope to build up a city here if the money goes out of town. The ladies of Sanford have formed clubs to send out of the city for everything they need and these clubs ought to be taxed here as they are in St. Augustine.

Here is what the Record says about it:

"In amending the occupation tax ordinance the city council very wisely and justly fixed a tax on local clubs formed for the purpose of buying from mail order houses. A number of clubs of this character exist in St. Augustine and are composed almost exclusively of ladies.

With all respect to the fair sex they lack business judgment in organizing for the purpose of sending away for supplies. They are sending from the city what the male members of their families earn here. They are narrowing the field for and making the task of their supporters much more difficult by taking out of local circulation a substantial sum of money every month.

And why do the ladies send off for groceries and other goods, usually buying much that they do not need? They are fascinated by the premiums which are offered by the mail order house.

When the ladies are engaged upon some pet entertainment or some work for the improvement of local conditions they have no hesitancy in calling upon the local merchants for assistance.

Now, ladies, in all fairness, should you not call upon the mail order house to contribute to your entertainment and to pay the taxes to give you police protection, light your streets, pay the teachers who instruct your children, cart away weekly the trash from your premises and maintain your city?

If you continue to give your trade to out-of-town firms how can you expect the local business men to pay the cost of operating the city?"

Well, the ladies have won their point in California and now have the right to vote but I am afraid they will not find it such a great pleasure as they anticipated. The ladies are already finding out that the suffrage entails a good deal more than simply dropping ballots into a box, and it is not unlikely that some of the developments as to the responsibilities and duties that go with the suffrage may dampen the enthusiasm of some budding suffragettes. In Ohio, for instance, there has been a rude awakening. Women in Ohio are privileged to vote at educational elections and when it came to registration before voting they ran up against the law which required the would-be voter to state his age. The ladies, naturally, objected to blurring their information, which in private life they so successfully conceal, and they asked that they might be allowed to register with this simple formula, properly sworn to: "I am of legal age." But the attorney general, sympathizing not at all with the little weaknesses of femininity has rendered an opinion that the women who would vote must give their age exactly to her nearest birthday, and a false statement in this regard must be held to be perjury and punishable by fine or imprisonment. Under such circumstances as these it is hardly likely that the educational elections in Ohio will poll a very heavy feminine vote. The ruling of Attorney General Hogan—that is the unfeeling man's name—robs the sex of one of its dearest privileges, and we are sure to have the veil of secrecy as to her age rest is far too heavy a burden for the average lady to pay for the privilege of an old vote. There is no help for it however. The law is there and it can

The man who is always afraid he will fail stands but little chance to win.

Upon reading that stirring editorial of the Brookville Argus one would imagine that Hernando county is free.

Sanford is becoming a convention city and should provide a large auditorium where meetings of all kinds could be held.

People are seeing a strange light in the sky at Tampa. They had better change brands before that "coming out" convention.

Advertising in a newspaper furnishes the opportunity for money to do more than its former share and greatly curtails the time required. Get the new rate on the twice-a-week Herald.

The Sanford Herald, which has been recognized as one of the best weekly papers in the State, has now blossomed out as semi-weekly and it promises to make good.—Kissimmee Journal.

The Sanford Herald is now published semi-weekly, and it is as bright and interesting as of yore. Editor Holly is one newspaper man who continues to "make good".—Palatka Times Herald.

We don't feel so bad over the bonding for county roads since Polk county turned down the same proposition last week. But both counties are needing roads and the voters who turned down the bonds ought to provide a substitute that is better.

Sanford entertained the members of St. Johns Presbytery this week—a fine body of God fearing men—and all of us feel better for their presence among us and the words of encouragement and promise given by them in their daily lectures.

A press dispatch states that the Italians will confine the war to Tripoli. That is comforting to say the least for we need have no fear now that they will come up the St. Johns and bombard Sanford before we have our sea wall fortifications in place.

Secretary Powell of the Tampa Board of Trade induces the business men of Tampa to pick up the amount of $200 for the payment of the tax on license in order to get the "big top" to come to Tampa. Powell can't forget the old days in Illinois when a circus was the biggest event of the season.

The Sanford Herald has made its appearance as a semi-weekly and Editor Holly will doubtless find that his people appreciate his enterprise. The next step will be a daily and the rapid growth and development of the Sanford section leads us to believe that it will not be many months before this step is taken.—Tampa Tribune.

The Sanford Herald adheres to the belief that a newspaper should keep pace with the community in which it has its being. As a result of this belief, the management of the Herald has made that paper a semi-weekly which transformation has been accomplished without in the least detracting from the scintillating brightness of that excellent publication.—Plant City Courier.

Editor Holloman of the Industrial Record says he will tell the truth about Florida in a plain and unvarnished, unbiased, unadorned and unwarped tale and when he has finished there will be nothing doing in the fake land selling business.

Let us go, Jim! There will be the biggest cash for these heads you ever heard of after you have finished. You just can't scare people away from the lakes.

We would be more contented with our lot in life and the present high cost of living if the other fellow would not dash in and throw dust in our face with his own unwholesome "policy" of our discontent in life to draw us to any lack in our own lot than to the seeming overabundance in that of our neighbor. If he had not so much to show for his lower debility, he would be contented. We are not so much disappointed with what we miss as with what he has.

The Sanford Herald, one of the neatest and newsmost newspapers in Florida is now published twice a week—Tuesdays and Fridays—and already subscribers are clamoring to know when the Herald will be issued as a daily. In answer to this question, Editor Holly replies that he will first try out the people on the twice-a-week proposition and see what they will do for that. If the people of Sanford want the Herald to become a daily, the business men of the town know how to make it possible.—Times-Union.

Gainesville and the University of Florida will be visited by the United States farm demonstration county agents of Florida. Their work under the state agent, Mr. A. S. Meharg, had heretofore covered only the western counties and now extends well in South Florida. It has been emphasized in these counties on account of the fact that they are cotton growing counties, and the department urges the preparation for the dreaded boll weevil that is gradually making its way into the cotton growing sections of this state.

Tampa will have a "coming out" convention in January and everybody will be there. The last "coming out" convention was at Ocala several years ago and everybody enjoyed it to the fullest. The Herald editor, Claude L'Engle, Bob McNamie and Quincy Peacock furnished the male quartette for that occasion and with sufficient oil for the steam callopie we could assist the Tampa celebration, especially since Claude is a candidate.

The Athletics turned the tables on the Giants in the second game of the world's championship yesterday winning by a score of three runs to one.

The game was even until the sixth inning, when Collins doubled and Baker drove the run over the right field fence for a home run. That it was that the fans went wild.

Plank easily had the better of Marquard. The Philadelphia man was steady. The New York's only run resulted from a misjudged fly to center. The local team backed up Plank in faultless style, while the visitors were credited with three errors.

B & O Motor Co. of this city announce the arrival of a solid car load of touring cars at $900. They have just what you want. Look for big "ad" in Herald Friday. You will save money.

GREEN CITRUS FRUIT

Not Injurious To Health Of Children Or Others

The intemperate action of the Florida Citrus Exchange in the telegram sent to more than thirty Governors, deserves the condemnation of the people of Florida, and certainly should be controverted. I do not conceive that it is my place to deal with this organization as much as they deserve to be dealt with. My object in writing this paper is to call attention to the absurdity of green oranges being injurious to health, especially to the health of children. If there was the slightest ground for such a charge Florida would have to reverse her claim, so fully established, of being the healthiest state in the Union, for children. After forty-three years' residence in Orange County, growing up in an orange grove, it is my opinion that if green oranges were injurious to health, not one child in ten would ever reach the age of maturity. The reason for this opinion is that all children reared in orange groves begin eating green oranges as soon as they have any juice in them, often before the seeds are half grown, and they continue to eat them in ever increasing quantities as they grow more palatable. This was the practice when I was a boy, and has been the same with my children. Neither I, or any that I ever knew were made sick by eating green oranges, lemons, limes or grape fruit.

For years Florida people have discouraged the shipment of green and immature oranges, not because they were injurious to health, but they were not palatable to the Northern consumers who want sweet fruit, and those who bought sour fruit would not buy again and the demand would be curtailed. Forty years ago when I ate green oranges in August and September it will be borne in mind that we had only the common seedling orange, for when there were budded groves they were indiscriminately from seedling trees. In other words, there were no established early varieties of oranges then as these are now. Consider the improvement not only in variety, but the advancement in maturity made possible by irrigation and judicious cultivation and one can see how utterly without foundation is this foolish scare about "poisonous green oranges." This infantile traffic in health and lives of children and invalids. I say how absolutely foolish this intemperate telegram on the 8th of October, when tens of thousand of children and others whose tastes and digestion have been vitiated or destroyed by the use of tobacco or alcohol, have been eating them since early in August with entire impunity. This is so well known to Floridians that it needs no argument, and others have only to remember that it is the juice of citrus fruit, with little or no pulp that is swallowed, and unless it contained actual poison there is nothing to disagree with the stomach or digestion. Of course these health censors know that all lemons and limes are picked green and are freely used by invalids. Wherein is the difference? Why this ado about green oranges while the country is flooded with green apples and pears, and I would rather a hundred limes rust a green orange than a green apple or pear. Even bananas always come to us green, and until ripe are far from digestible.

I have no personal interest in any way in the growing, handling or shipping of oranges, and have not had since February 8th, 1895, but Florida's great crop, her incomparable oranges and grape fruit, are being injured by a deplorable and unwarranted action. Early oranges are wholesome and palatable by October 1st, and often earlier, regardless of color, which only comes with cool nights. The experience of forty years can not be nullified by a few men, no matter how intemperate their utterances. Respectfully, J. N. WHITNEY.

Starving to Death: W. A. Rumber discovered a family starving to death near Markham one day last week and informed the local authorities. Meantime one of the girls becoming desperate came to town and entering the Wise restaurant fainted from weakness and want of nourishment. G. R. Calhoun and W. A. Rumber went out to the place on Friday and found the family in destitute circumstances. The man had located at St. Cloud contracted typhoid fever and decided to leave there and take up a homestead near Markham. Sickness took his three children and starvation followed. The man, woman and three children were taken to the County Home where they will be tenderly nursed back to health.

FARMERS

DO YOU WANT A SQUARE DEAL

IF SO

Please remember that The Lewis Vegetable Exchange is in a position to give you that DEAL, and in thanking its numerous customers for past favors begs to announce that The Lewis Vegetable Exchange will be in the Lime Light this Season in the handling of Fresh, Well Packed Vegetables shipping them as fast as they come to the numerous Merchants in SIX Southern States, paying the highest market prices possible. We don't expect to get rich in a year, and we are looking only for a small margin of profit on everything we buy, endeavoring to give the Farmer the first and best profit, the merchant who sells to the consumer the next best, and to be very well satisfied with a small margin for handling, remembering always that it is the Volume of business that tells the tale. Dr. Lewis has just returned from a TEN WEEKS' trip devoted to the making of Solid Contracts with Solid Merchants for

Sanford Solid Vegetables and rest assured he has the Volume to start with, and will be in a position therefore, to Stretch the Limit of price to the man who should have it, viz: The Grower.

ALSO We want every Man and Woman Farmer to remember that no matter how small their crops or their Offerings, they will receive the same courtesy and attention as the largest grower, and that the offices of the Exchange are at the command of its customers always.

Last Season most of my business was consigning to reliable and well-tried Firms of reputation and standing, such as H. E. Schwitters & Sons, of New York, G. Taylor Wade of Washington, D. C., and others of whom I am sole representative in Sanford. I trust that all my customers appreciated the manner in which I conducted their business, endeavoring always in the face of many obstacles to give them the same advice as to the markets as I would have acted on myself.

This season I shall be doing a large Local Shipping Business on my own account, and will always be able to give the Farmer a Square Deal. But it's up to you whether you wish to gamble or Play a Square Game; my experience is that You cannot do both successfully. I am at your service either way. If you wish to consign your truck Remember that the Doctor won't Swap his Conscience for a few paltry dollars. He don't care that much for them, and will advise you every time whether in his opinion the market is safe or not; and he comes pretty near hitting it right.

As I said before, I don't care much for Dollars, but we all must have them; we need them—it's just how many each Individual thinks he requires, and the secret of Happiness is to try and see your neighbor gets some of the dollars as well as yourself.

DON'T BE A HOG Be content with a fair share of the Dollars—a fair price for your products—a good living price, and something over to put in the Bank; and those who give me their business this Season will come pretty near doing it.

I WANT YOU TO REMEMBER

ALSO That I've not been afraid to go out into the different markets in Six Southern States at a very heavy expense for the last ten Weeks in your Interest as well as My Own, working up a reliable trade for Sanford vegetables and reducing the necessity of Gambling in Northern Markets, especially to the small grower who cannot afford to take chances like his big Brother—better Sell F. O. B.

AND LASTLY

I wish to say that I want the Farmers to help the reputation of Sanford by endeavoring to ship only the best of their Vegetables and to be careful about the Pack. The location of the new Offices of the Exchange will be published in a few days, if you wish to make a contract or agreement with me to handle your trucking this Season, address,

They purchased forty acres and continued their journey to St. Petersburg, where they have a son in business. It is their intention to return to Sanford and look after the development of the recently acquired property.

Notice to Horse Owners Having secured the services of Mr. E. M. Howard, an expert horse shoeer and blacksmith, I wish to announce to my customers and the public that I am better prepared than ever to take care of everything in this line. Come in and give us a trial.

Home From a Long Trip

Dr. Lewis, proprietor of the Lewis Vegetable Exchange has just returned from an extensive trip through the states of Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama, North and South Carolina and Florida, in the endeavor to lay the foundation of a permanent business in Sanford for the handling of fruits and vegetables on a large scale.

In this respect Dr. Lewis informs us he has been more than pleased with the success of the trip. The few months he was in the vegetable and fruit business last season convinced him that there was greater room for improvement in getting in touch with the retailer, than by merely sending out printed quotation cards promiscuously, and he decided to go in person, interview his prospective customers, find out what vegetables their special markets required, when they required them and also how much of each variety of vegetables they could handle during an entire season.

The great drawback and complaint he found in interesting the majority of the trade in Sanford vegetables shipped by express was the apparently poor pack and careless method of shipping in vogue. Dr. Lewis is convinced, as he always has been (and he has shipped many thousands of baskets of truck off his own farm before settling in Sanford), that the surest and best way to build up a reputation for Sanford vegetables is to pack them properly, giving good honest measure and good honest stuff, and now it will not be long before the Sanford pack will stand on its merits with any other shipping point in the United States.

Incidentally Dr. Lewis was enabled to do a lot of solid advertising for Sanford for in interviewing several hundred merchants the Doctor had to answer numerous questions about our resources, flowing wells, cost of land, etc., in the city in which he lived.

Though the trip has been an expensive one the Doctor is sure it will pay him exceedingly well, and will next year take a similar trip north. At present the Doctor's efforts are confined to the marketing of southern vegetables in the southern markets.

Mrs. Bruton has located in Bishop Block corner Palmetto and First. Opening of fall millinery Thursday and Friday.

You are invited to attend the Millinery Opening at Mrs. Bruton next Thursday and Friday. All the latest styles in fall headgear.

Surprise Party

A number of the young friends of Edgar Tipton pleasantly surprised him at his home on West First street Friday night, Oct. 13, in honor of his eleventh birthday anniversary. Games were played during the evening, after which refreshments were served in the dining room, the colors red and green being carried out in the table decorations. A good time was enjoyed by everybody, and all left wishing him many more happy birthdays.

All the latest shapes in fall millinery at Bruton's opening Thursday and Friday.

Bulletin

BACK TO THE SOIL

Only Solution of the Present System of Middlemen's Profits

YESTERDAY was Sunday. There was "company" at Happy Hollow farm. There's most always "company," for that matter. We like to have folks with us. All the doors of the big bungalow-farmhouse are always wide open to our kin and friends, just any old time, writes William R. Lighton in "Back to the Land."

But this Sunday gathering was rather a special lot—farm folks, all of them, keenly interested in the life of the farm; and all "back-to-the-landers," whose connection with the farm had come after a more or less rough-and-tumble experience with life in town. There was a round dozen of us at the table for dinner. We had plenty to talk about.

The talk dwelt for a time upon the cost of living. That was natural enough when you consider what was on the table. I'm not meaning to be offensive; I'm just telling you.

Chicken Heaped Up

There was milk-fed spring chicken, fried, heaped platters of it, replenished three times from the kitchen, with a lot left over. Those chickens were picked from a flock of 800, hatched last spring on the farm.

There was another platter of boiled ham—grown, cured and smoked on the farm; there were creamed new potatoes, Country Gentleman corn on the cob and asparagus tips, all fresh from the farm garden. There were eggs fixed up some fancy way—gathered fresh the night before from the farm henhouse.

List Unlimited!

The butter was made on the farm; there was unlimited sweet milk; there were peaches "put up" on the farm and smothered with thick cream; there was a piled dish of fresh white grapes; there was, oh, no end of truck like that, every bit of it, except the "seasoning," produced right here on the farm.

We were two hours at table, eating and talking. There was a plumb plenty of everything for everybody—not skimped helpings carefully spread out on the plates to look like enough, but the sort of plenty you read about, with every seal coming back at least once for another bit of white meat or an extra potato or a second try at the asparagus or another glass of milk.

Nobody was timid; and when the interest lagged at last hunger was far from us.

Well, as I say, we fell a-talking. We all carried in our heads memories of the times when we were mere townsmen, carrying home our food in baskets and parcels from the shop and market. We did a little sum in arithmetic, helped out by hard, cold experience. Here's the result:

If ours had been a town table, set out with that dinner for a dozen, of just the same things and in the same abundance, with the nearest approach we could make to the same quality, it would have put us back at least a good round $15 in real money. And then the family would have strung along for a couple of days on artificial messes of left-overs, down to the last item of chickenbone soup on Tuesday.

Cost 10c a Plate

As it was, the bare cost of producing that dinner on the farm didn't exceed 10 cents a plate. No guest was scared, and neither host nor hostess kept an anxious eye on anybody's appetite.

What difference did it make to us that the town price of frying chickens was six bits a head, when there were hundreds of the plump youngsters running around the place? What did we care about the royal price of ham on the market when the smokehouse was hanging full and there were 80-odd pigs in the back pasture, waiting their turns? What was the odds to us if new potatoes were kept in safety deposit vaults in town while we could look out of the dining room window at a broad acre of them, with a second crop just planted?

The long and short of it is that here on the farm we could dish up a dinner like that every day in the week, if we wanted to take the trouble to fix it, gathering the stuff within easy arm's reach of the farmhouse.

Fine to See Plenty

I tell you it's fine, in these strenuous days of struggle for a living, to wake in the morning and look out of doors and see plenty of everything in plain sight—enough, enough not for today only, but for tomorrow and next week—and then to understand that it's all ours, with no middle man blocking the way with his tolls on enjoyment. There's plenty. There it lies. We've produced it ourselves, out of our own soil, and there's not a thing, not a fraction of a cent, to be tacked on to the bare, rock-bottom cost of production before it comes to our table. There's not a middleman on earth who can take a picayune in rake-off on the smallest shred of our abundance. Do you see?

There's the fly in the ointment—not the middleman himself, but the utterly foolish scheme of things which has bred so many middlemen that they've become a pest—worse than that, an almost intolerable burden. It began with the foolish notion that to produce one's own food from the soil is a base and menial business. It was so much easier, so much more dignified, to let George do it.

Theory Wholly False

A wholly false social theory was at the bottom of the trouble, centuries ago. He only was a true blue-blood whose hands were unstained by growing or handling the products of the soil. There was something low-caste about the soil: to escape from it was the first step of the man who wanted to be somebody.

Funny, isn't it? But true, very true. They may not be willing to own it, but 9 out of 10 of the youngsters who have quit the farm even in our own day to sell ribbons over the counter, or to pore over daybook and ledger, or to start business as some sort of servant or middleman, have been moved by that very spirit.

Look for a minute at some of the consequences and then say whether you honestly believe that these near-aristocrats of shop and office have really made much headway towards the sweet freedom they sought. I've been one of them, for years and years; my memory of that time is still fresh; and as unpleasant as it is fresh. Unless I'm most woefully mistaken, the liberty that lies in breaking away from the soil is a mighty poor excuse for the real thing. If this farm life be base slavery, then I'm certainly stuck on it.

Old Days Recalled

In the old days, when we bought everything for our table, there were lots of things we couldn't afford. We wanted them, too—little delicacies out of season; like a milk-fed broiler in January, or fresh asparagus tips forced-in late summer. In those days it would have been a very special occasion if we had a boiled ham on the table along with fried chicken. Such things cost too much to be recklessly indulged on a moderate income.

Now see the difference. Now there's nothing too good for us; for we don't have to reckon expense. It takes some trouble, of course, to provide these desirable "eats," but the real cost, in dollars and cents, is negligible. We do the work ourselves; we enjoy it—and there's absolutely nothing that adds a cent to the original cost.

Here's the principle of the matter, which nobody can deny; the farther you remove yourself from the source of your food supply, the more that food is going to cost you. That is to say, the more middlemen you have in the social scheme, the more you have to pay. There's never a folly which we don't have to pay for; and they all cost more than they're worth.

Middlemen Blamed

Every middleman who gets his hands on a bit of food stuff, from a bunch of radishes to a beef carcass, tacks something to the price before he passes it along. Being human, he adds all the traffic will bear. What he can't take single handed he takes through protective associations and gentlemen's agreements. That's business. Our quarrel oughtn't to be with that, but with our own tame indulgence.

We take a lot of credit to ourselves as a nation because we once kicked over the traces rather showily when we thought we were being put upon by a system of taxation without representation. We date national independence from the time when we made that protest stick. Yet here we are neck-deep in a condition incomparably worse in principle and worse in effect; a condition which we ourselves have deliberately built up; a condition under which two-thirds of all our hundred million people deliberately tax themselves to the point of extortion merely for the sake of maintaining the "system" which has brought this condition about.

Tax Is Being Paid

On everything he buys to eat from the city grocery or market the townsman pays a middleman's tax of from 500 to 1000 per cent or more—from five to ten times the actual cost of production. In the fixing of these prices the consumer has no voice—not a whisper. Do you call that taxation without representation? What?

What's to be done about it? As usual we're doing a lot of agitating over perfectly absurd expedients. We're talking about fixing prices by law. We're agitating the possibilities of "co-operation" between producers and consumers direct, leaving the army of middlemen to starve. We're fussing with just every solution but the right one.

What is the right one? There aren't many to choose from. There's only one, and it's perfectly plain.

Back to Soil Is Call

When we find that we're headed in exactly the wrong direction, what is there to do but turn square around and head back? In this case it's back to the land! The problem of simple living is never to be solved but in a return to the soil. We've got too far away, as it is, and every bit of foolish trifling with these artificial "remedies" serves only to take us farther and farther from the only possible solution that's so plain as to make argument seem an absurdity.

Believe me, when we had that "company" to Sunday dinner at Happy Hollow, the dinner was served with a supreme content, a peace which the harassed townsmen would find past understanding.

NOTE—The above article is reprinted from "Back to the Land" and takes the place of our usual advertisement on this page. The author, William R. Lighton, is an authority on the return to the soil movement and his remarkable contribution from his pen is well worth close attention of all readers.

THIS ANOTHER STOKES CASE

New York Shooting Involves Cousin of the Slayer of Jim Fisk.

New York.—Lillian Graham and Edna Conrad, the two young women charged with shooting of millionaire W. D. Stokes, have been held for trial.

The case in its sensational features almost equals the shooting in the early '70's of Jim Fiske by Edward B. Stokes, in the Broadway Central hotel, over the actress, Jodie Mansfield. The affair occurred in a New York apartment house one evening, when Stokes, cousin of the slayer of Fisk, was shot by two young women, whom he had called upon in their rooms. The near-tragedy—for Stokes was wounded three times—created a sensation in the metropolis and before its last echoes die away there may be some surprising and probably scandalous revelations. The stories of the murderous assault itself vary.

Stokes is fifty-seven years of age, a native of New York and is the son of James Stokes, who amassed a fortune in banking and commerce. His first wife, who was of Spanish and Cuban descent, secured a divorce from him in 1900 and subsequently married Philip M. Lydig. By the terms of the decree he was forbidden to marry again during the lifetime of Mrs. Stokes. In 1906 Stokes was made the defendant in a sensational lawsuit, Lucy Randolph, a beautiful young woman who was called "the belle of Kentucky," brought action against him for $1,000 a month for the support of herself and her son, two years old. She lost the case, however, because she could not show any written agreement by Stokes to provide for the boy.

Last February Stokes slipped over to New Jersey and married Miss Helen Elmwood of Dehrer, who had been living at the Ansonia for several years.

Stokes is the owner of a large stock farm in Kentucky and for many years raced entries from that farm.

Miss Graham is twenty-two years old and Miss Conrad nineteen. The former has been on the stage a couple of years and the latter is a fashion writer.

BOASTS A BUSINESS HERMIT

Illinois Recluse Keeps Little Store and Sells Goods Only When He Is So Disposed.

Chicago.—Here is the picture of a business hermitage. Frequently we hear of a man who has turned his back on the world and has taken up his abode in some place where no one will see him or hear his voice. But here is a hermit for business, and he handles a lot of it. In this odd-shaped building he lives alone save for the chickens and cats and other pets. In this building he eats and sleeps, occupying the little box like affair aloft for a sleeping apartment.

In another part of the house he keeps a fairly good supply of household necessities. The place is located in one of the southside suburbs. People try of this hermit when he wants to sell. When he is not disposed to see any one, he does not answer their knock, and sometimes he closes up his shop and allows his would-be customers to await his return. His name is William Good and his place is at Morgan Park, Ill., a suburb of Chicago.

High School Library and Art Collection

It is a question whether many of the parents of the school children, to say nothing of the citizens of the town, or even know all that is being done by the more than faithful and ever alert faculty of the High School and their able corps of teachers, to bring the schools of Sanford up to as high standard of efficiency and equipment as that of any school and High School in the state, or indeed in any state.

During the past week the faculty of the High School has been engaged in unpacking, cataloguing and placing in their proper order the one hundred new books that were ordered in the summer and which have just arrived, making in all three hundred volumes now owned by the High School.

It may not be mal a propos to refresh the memory of those who may have forgotten—and inform others—who are interested in our High School—to give a short resume of the history of the High School library and art acquisition. The first graduating class of four young ladies gave a measuring party under Miss Guild's direction, the proceeds of which were put aside as a nucleus for a fund they hoped to secure, with which to add to the small collection of books they already had. The second graduating class gave a garden party and added something to the fund on hand.

Two years ago Miss Guild, by personal interest and effort secured the sum of $50, in contributions from the business men of the city. This sum has been augmented from time to time by the entertainments given by the pupils of the High School.

Early in the spring the Sanford Wednesday Club presented the High School with eight volumes of Guizot's France. T. J. Miller gave them a complete set of Cooper's Works, and the trustees presented them a complete set of Southern Literature. The proceeds from "The Mock Trial" was another contribution to the library fund, with which the hundred volumes were bought this summer. They contain standard works such as Dickens and Scott, and others in complete sets.

The literary societies of the High School have by their entertainments secured $174, with which some of the works of art now adorning the walls of the High School were purchased, and which they are proud to show to their parents and friends who will visit the school. The Nike of Samothrace, with pedestal; Carbons' Roman Forum, Colosseum, The Arch of Constantine, Aeropolis, The Hall of Columns, The Arrangement of Catalina; Grado Rene's Aurora, Avenue of Middleharnis, Angel of the Viol, Madonna of the Chair. Four other pictures were bought with the proceeds of an art exhibit held last spring: The Temple of Phisae, St. Anthony of Padua (Watts), Sir Gallahad, and The Matherhorn.

Sanford parents and citizens are to be more than congratulated on having such a corps of teachers and High School faculty, who are not only teaching their pupils the prescribed course of study but are training their morals, and are sincerely interested in cultivating and elevating the minds of their pupils, while helping them to comprehend some of the higher beauties of the soul as they realize "It is not all of life to live."

Young Lady in New York Adopts Men's Attire.

Stenographer Who Believes in Being Comfortable When at Work in Her Office—Her Ideas of Present Fashions.

New York.—The newest slogan of reform in women's dress is: "Trouser for the business woman!" If ever men and women are to be equal a radical reconstruction in woman's dress must take place say the emancipatrices of the sex. The reform has already begun and a brave little stenographer in a downtown New York office is the first champion of the cause. She has introduced trousers and shirtwaists as costumes for her working hours. While she is enthusiastic to a degree, her courage fails her when it comes to going to and from work in man's attire. For this purpose she has a dress which she slips on.

This young woman is not of the type that has worn trousers as a matter of principle or convenience before. She is dark, dashless, buoyant and vigorous, and the picture of her herewith establishes her undeniable claim to good looks. Hitherto the women who have worn men's attire have lacked both youth and good looks. Some, like Dr. Mary Walker, had the courage of their convictions and dressed like men because they found men's clothes much more comfortable than their own. Others have put on coat and trousers in order the better to earn their living and have wept when they were discovered and had to resume the conventional apparel of their sex. But this girl stenographer is the youngest and prettiest of the women who have entertained advanced ideas of dress reform and have dared to carry them out.

She by no means wishes to attract attention or who is adopting trousers for the sake of being bizarre or unique. She is acting purely for comfort and health and is greatly opposed to the present styles for women, holding that they are basely immodest. She is a young woman who has always been full of self-respect, and in adopting trousers in place of skirts she has done so with dignity and reason. Speaking of her views on dress she says:

"There is hardly a girl who has not dressed herself in man's clothes some time or other 'just for a lark.' There is not one who ever has done so but has sighed for the freedom of movement which skirts have denied her. I am not a dress-emancipator who dreams only of her hobby. But I believe the present style of tight skirts is not only uncomfortable but immodest. Trousers are far more decent for women than their narrow skirts and low cut waists. They are more economical and hygienic. They do not gather dust and germs the way skirts do, and if you wear trousers there is no necessity for wearing corsets. I never saw a girl yet who enjoyed the corset. Every one of us wears them for the same reason as skirts—long established custom."

Doubtless the present fashions have reached such a point of absurdity that a greater reform in women's wear than has ever been known before will result. In the hobble skirt, fashion overreached itself—even its inventors laughed at the preposterousness of it. It has furnished one of the strongest anti-suffrage arguments: "A sex that deliberately cripples itself is not sufficiently intelligent to be allowed to vote," the anti's say.

Unique Entertainment
Twenty-one gold peanut shells, containing tiny invitations and tied with dainty little blue ribbon, apprised twenty-one little girls that their Sunday school teacher, Mrs. C. H. Summers would be glad to have her class of Willing Workers come at 3 o'clock to spend Saturday afternoon with her at the Methodist parsonage.

At the specified time, eighteen of the twenty-one little girls, with happy faces and in pretty dresses, filled the parsonage parlor.

Mrs. Summers stated that a little business must be attended to before the pleasure of the afternoon began; that they must elect a president for their class, a vice president, secretary and treasurer, and enroll themselves as a Junior Bible class under the auspices of the "Willing Workers" headquarters in Nashville, Tenn., from whom they would receive a charter, constitution and by-laws as soon as they were reported, as having complied with the requirements of organization.

Maud Alice Wagner was chosen president; Marian Phillips, vice president; Douglas Abernathy, secretary; and Irene Thurston, treasurer. They are to meet every Thursday on business, and at next meeting will select their committees. They will have a missionary, social, and a devotional committee, also a committee to visit the sick and strangers and a flower committee and one for new members.

After the satisfactory conclusion of the business of the afternoon, Mrs. Summers and Miss Genie Wicker brought in a plate filled with peanuts, an empty plate and a silver table knife, and invited the demure little girls to take part in a peanut race which, as explained, was to take up one peanut on the blade of the knife, without touching it with the hand, take it across the room on the knife blade and place it in the empty plate on a table across the room. The many failures to land that innocent looking peanut in the other plate elicited much amusement. Marian Phillips was declared the winner of the race, as she succeeded in putting the largest number of peanuts in the plate. A paper bag was filled with peanuts and tied to the gas jet in the centre of the room; the eyes of the first performer were covered, she was turned around several times, a stick was placed in her hand and she was asked to try to burst the paper bag. The futile efforts to comply with this request afforded a great deal of fun to the others.

Refreshments were then served, the peanut scheme being carried out in minute detail. The guests were served peanut sandwiches, salted peanuts, peanut sandwiches, peanut candy and peanut tea. Miss Genie Wicker assisted Mrs. Summers in entertaining her young guests and serving the refreshments.

The members of the class who enjoyed the afternoon were Misses Douglas Abernathy, Katherine Wilson, Anna Belle Smith, Clara Brown, Annie Anderson, Nellie Lough, Sarah Frederick, Maud Alice Wagner, Olive Lough, Maud Miot, Ruth Roberts, Marian Phillips, Esther Wilson, Ruth McDaniel, Allie Anerson, Jessie Graves, Ruth Hand, Irene Thurston, Winifred Smith, Flora Morrison and Ethel Gray.

The Cecilia Music Club met in the studio of Mrs. Fannie Stenbridge Munson Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. After attending to the business before the club incident to their first business meeting for the season, the following musical program was rendered by Mrs. Munson's pupils:

Fonfee Valsante, Poldini—Estie Purdon.
Valse Depte, Arthur Foster—Luca Chappell.

Group of Infantile Members—Caroline Spencer and Katherine Brady.

Once in the Purple Twilight, Eugene Cowles; Beauty's Eyes, Tosti—Sung by Miss Mabel Bowler.

Stocking Shower
Saturday morning at 10 o'clock Miss Annie Higgins gave a stocking shower for Miss Gelsie Butt.

Miss Adelaide Higgins, dressed as a maid received each package containing the stockings as the guests arrived and hung them on a yellow line stretched across the front porch, where the guests were entertained.

The decorations were yellow daisies and goldenrod. The color scheme was also carried out on the attractive tally cards given to each guest. The entertainment of the guests consisted of a word contest, the idea being in making the largest number of words from the combined names of Miss Butt and her fiancé, Mr. Higgins. Miss Lillian Gibson made the largest score with words and received a very pretty yellow pin as a prize, which she presented to the guest of honor.

When the word contest was over, ice cream and cake were served, after which Miss Butt was given a dainty basket decorated with yellow daisies and in which she put each pair of stockings as she took them off the line. When the basket was filled with stockings both the shower and the pleasant morning had past.

Miss Higgins' invited guests were Misses Gelsie Butt, Genie Wicker, Lillian Gibson, Peaches Leffer, Mabel Bowler, Belle Smith, Linda Leffer, Sadie Williams, Florence Frank, Martha Fox, Carrie Lovell, Moll Whitner, Vivian Yeiser, Alice Whitner, Mabel Hand, Charlotte Keaker, Mrs. T. A. Neal, Mrs. Paul Keely, Mrs. R. H. Marks, Mrs. J. L. Hurt. Misses Nellie Elder and Lillian Higgins served the refreshments.

The members of the Eastern Star enjoyed a very pleasant social hour in their Lodge room Friday evening, after the business of the meeting was concluded. They were entertained by several well rendered recitations, a short charade and music, in which some of the accomplished and willing members took part, in their efforts to make the evening pleasant for each other. Light refreshments were served.

City Council Meets

Council met in regular session Oct. 15th at 7:30 p. m. Present, D. L. Thrasher, president; W. D. Holden, H. Ward, B. A. Howard and S. Runge. Absent, J. D. Davidson and H. R. Stevens.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

An ordinance entitled "An ordinance imposing certain license taxes" was introduced in an amended form. Moved and seconded that the ordinance as read be substituted for original. Carried. Moved and seconded that it be placed on its second reading by title only. Carried. Moved and seconded that the rules be waived and that it be placed on its third reading and final passage. Carried. It was then placed on its final passage with the following vote: Ayes—Thrasher, Holden, Ward, Howard and Runge. Nays—none. Carried.

An incandescent light was ordered placed at Sanford avenue and Fifth street.

On motion the fire committee was instructed to purchase four jacks for the fire auto and to investigate the necessity of purchasing suits and helmets for use of the crew. Carried.

An ordinance providing for the registration of voters was placed on its second reading by title only. Carried. Moved and seconded that the rules be waived and that it be placed on its third reading and final passage. It was then placed on its final passage. Ayes—Thrasher, Holden, Ward, Howard and Runge. Nays—none. Carried.

Communication in regard to purchase of old fire hose referred to the fire committee. On motion council then adjourned.
M. W. Lovell, Clerk.

Resolutions

The Seventh Day-Adventist state camp meeting, which has been in session here for the past two weeks, closed Sunday night, Oct. 7th. The meeting was pronounced a grand success by those attending. At the last meeting those in attendance passed the following resolutions by a rising vote:

Recognizing the courtesy extended to us by the Mayor, Hon. Forrest Lake, in granting us the use of these beautiful grounds for our annual gathering; the kindness of Mr. Forster, in permitting us to use his lots on Seventh street and Park avenue for our nightly services; the favor shown by our Baptist brethren in the use of their church and baptistry for our baptismal service, and the courtesies shown us by the Carter Lumber Co., and the business men and citizens of Sanford; therefore be it

Resolved, That we hereby express our hearty thanks for these favors, and that we furnish a copy of these resolutions for publication in the Sanford Herald.

Young Men, Stay Here

"What do you want to go West for or anything else?" said a man at the station to a young chap who was about to be off on a trip. "You are now in the best section of this country and in the best Southern state. When you get out there you will hear more about the 'back home' movement than anything else. The people of the entire west and north-west have their eyes on the South because the opportunities are greater than in any other part of the Union. All sections except the South are crystallized in a business way and there is no pioneer opportunity. You would be better off to give your ticket away and stay right here and go to work. It would save you time because you will be back with the rest of them some day."—High Point Enterprise.

Progressive

Webster's definition of the above word is advancement a forward movement. It does not give hot air and extravagance as any definition for progress. Yet some would try and make you believe that Mr. G. W. Spencer is against progress and is opposed to any advancement in the affairs of our city.

I wish you to follow me for a short time through a life of a man who has been as I claim one of the most progressive citizens of this city. I have known the gentlemen in question for sixteen years, and when I say I have known him I mean in every sense of the word. I first find him working as clerk in the Express office in this city on a small salary. I found that in addition to the clerkship he was forced to take on a side line because he was progressive and had married and was raising a family. His first step was of a progressive movement. This side line I speak of was taking measures for clothing, and I will say that his measurements were always correct and because of this he was known as "perfect fit" I had him order a pair of pants for me, and I must say they fit with the same correctness that Mr. Spencer will fit the Mayor's office of the Celery City. I follow him further. His services were appreciated by the Company, and his advancement for progress was steady. I lost track of him for a short time but keeping his advancement he was appointed agent at this point. He held the agency here for five years, and during this time bought a home on the East Side and by work and good judgment made a success of his undertaking. Why let me tell you Mr. Spencer planted the land at the home and made sufficient money to pay for the place. He worked as long as the sun would shine, and when the moon came up he would continue to work, and when the moon was late in coming, up he would get up at the early hours of the morning, and take advantage of the moon. Call this anti-progress? While working as agent he spoke to me about a business venture, I advised and helped make it so as he might make another step of progress. He did it, and to day you who have been here for a few years know of his success. He has been steady, and at no time has ever been accused of any extravagance. He has been progressive. He has not invested his profits in any other place but where he made it. He has invested it in property, and that property is taxed by the city, and yet there are those who do not have any property assessed to them who call a gentlemen of this stripe anti-improvement. Stop, think and when you have finished you will find that Mr. Spencer is one of the most progressive citizens of Sanford. He is for good honest improvements such as one who has made a success of his business would favor. Remember that one who has been successful in his own affairs will administer those of others with the same careful consideration. Consider the situation with much thought, and care and then go and on the 21st day of November cast your ballot for Mr. G. W. Spencer the man who has been progressive in his own affairs and fear not the future of the best town in Florida.

The Billion-Dollar Hen

Hurrah for the American-hen! Let the white-headed eagle proudly spread his wings as the unchallenged bird of freedom; let the pompous turkey strut and gobble with tail outspread as Thanksgiving approaches; but let the humble barnyard fowl ascend the throne as the rightful queen of the feathered tribes. She is who has raised the poultry products of the United States to an annual value of a billion dollars. This is perhaps the most astounding item in eth account of our national prosperity at the present time.

STARTLING INFORMATION

Department of Agriculture Startles the World in Year Book

The following sensation was called by Thomas K. Bates for the information of the public:

Editor Sanford Herald:
By turning to page 214 of the Year Book of the Department of Agriculture for 1910 you will read the following startling information:

"Everyone is now more or less familiar with the ability of clovers, vetches, peas and other members of the Leguminosae that bear symbiotic bacterial nodules upon their roots to fix and utilize as food the nitrogen of the air."

"Microscopic plants of economic importance which excel in nitrogen fixing ability are the species of Clostridium and Azotobacter. A few other species of fungi and algae are also able to assimilate certain quantities of atmospheric or gaseous nitrogen."

"Nodules are in reality roots or rootlets, which because of the presence of the nitrogen fixing bacteria within their cells have developed abnormally to form the characteristic swollen root tubercles or nitrogen gathering nodules."

Fully realizing the value of the above information as related to the purchase of a farm, the development of the vegetable growing industry of the celery delta and the marketing of our products I earnestly truly attract your attention to that in order that you may give it that publicity which is its due.

Yours with much love,
THOMAS K. BATES.

CULLED FROM THE STATE PRESS

An Epitome of the Week's Most Important Happenings in the State's Domain.

The School of Commerce of Sutherland College has the largest enrollment this year of any year since its foundation.

Twenty-five thousand dollars will be spent on making an up-to-date pleasure resort of Ballast Point, one of Tampa's most popular amusement places. It is to be converted into a small Coney Island.

State Senator George W. Dayton of Dade City, who represents Pasco, Citrus and Hernando counties will be a candidate for Attorney General of Florida to succeed Hon. Park M. Trammell, candidate for the Governorship to succeed Gov. Albert W. Gilchrist.

All arrangements have been made for the second annual convention of the State Laundrymen's Association, which will be held in Tampa Monday, October 23rd, and which will be attended by delegates from all parts of the state. The meeting is expected to prove of great interest and benefit.

The Glidden tourists have reached Winston-Salem on their journey, having a rough time of it in the rain and mud and climbing the mountains of North Carolina.

Walter Fresca of Parrish was killed Monday night at the power house at Camp's dam, near Dunellon, by coming in contact with an electric wire of high voltage. The body was badly burned.

The largest catch of mullet ever brought into Miami was received a few nights ago by the Consolidated Fish Company. The catch weighed 27,000 pounds. A few Spanish mackerel have been caught but it will be several weeks before this fish will be found in large quantities.

Young birds are being killed in a wholesale manner by some few men and boys here in Gainesville and the authorities, or men that claim to be sportsmen, should protect these birds and see that the law is enforced. One example will be sufficient.

In a few days the sponge season will open at Tarpon Springs and over 3,000 Greeks will be at work.

It is said that Tampa and Jacksonville both will have a Bible conference this year.

The grand jury at the November term of circuit court of Hillsborough county, opening Nov. 7th; will be urged and probably instructed by Judge E. M. Robles to make a thorough investigation of the alleged "white slave" traffic in and around Tampa, similar to the investigation made in New York county at the January, 1910, term of the court of general sessions by the John D. Rockefeller, Jr., grand jury.

BURKE'S SLAYER

Preliminary Hearing Brings Out More Evidence

Richard Wright, the negro charged with murdering engineer Burke, of the Atlantic Coast Line, last Christmas eve night, was given a preliminary hearing before Judge Martin this morning, and held for the Grand Jury.

The evidence against the negro was strong. Rich, colored, of Tildenville, a neighbor to Wright, testified that he saw Wright come out of his house just after dark on the night of the shooting, with a gun on his shoulder. "I heard him say to his wife, as he was coming down the path to the gate that he would kill some damn white man before midnight," said Rich.

Jim Rich, another witness, testified that a man was seen in his yard that night, some time after the shooting, with a gun on his shoulder, and that the tracks of the man, which he followed the next day, led to Wright's house. And in the other direction, he said, the tracks led into a thicket along the railroad, where Burke was shot.

So many people were present at the hearing that it was adjourned from Judge Martin's chambers to the court room. John M. Cheney represented Wright, and Joe Jones, in the absence of John C. Jones, acted for the state.—Reporter Star.

Official Frost Data

The United States Department of Agriculture, through its Weather Bureau, in Bulletin No. 5, gives this data which covers fully the questions asked many times each week of the Board of Trade. The averages are computed from a period of twenty-six years:

Average date of the last killing frost in spring, February 15

Average date of the first killing frost in autumn, January 3

The latest date on which a killing frost has occurred in spring, April 1

The earliest date on which a killing frost has occurred in autumn, November 20

During the period covering these averages there were many years when no frosts occurred.

The average length of the crop season is 348 days.

The average length of crop-growing season in other parts of the United States are: Southern California, 238 to 328; Central States, 150; New England States, 120; North Central States 110 and South Central States 250.—St. Cloud Tribune.

PROSPECTS BRIGHTER

Warm Weather Period Seems To Be Broken

GROWING STUFF LOOKS BETTER

Many Inquiries Are Being Made About The General Farming Prospects at Sanford

The continued warm spell was not conducive to the public good either in the fields or in the stores. The early lettuce plants showed a tendency to go to seed and the fall business showed a tendency to go to the demerol bowwows. With a change in the weather and a cooler atmosphere everything was changed. The crops are taking a fresh start and the growers are looking forward to a good growing season and a good market for their crops.

The reputation of Sanford as a general farming community, as well for garden truck is becoming greater every day, several letters being received this week regarding the growing of corn and hay. These crops have been failures in some of the northern states and if our farmers could bale the hay grown here the chances are good for hay to be sold to some of our northern neighbors, thus giving the world the spectacle of a reversal of conditions and Dixie coming into her own.

H. H. Chappell raised over 2,000 bushels of fine corn this summer, as did many of his neighbors, and this corn can be made into meal and grits, reducing materially the high cost of living. When all of these good points can be embodied into a booklet and sent out broadcast to our less fortunate neighbors north of the Mason and Dixon line the lands around Sanford will be unable to hold the people who will want to buy the land that can be farmed, the year round and will raise anything at any time regardless of drought or deluge.

Bridal Couple Lost

Despite the close watch kept upon them by their loving friends Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Higgins escaped just after the wedding and left for parts unknown. The supposition is that they are either at Longwood or Enterprise and will venture forth in a few days.

They can be easily identified because both of them are trying to act like old married folks but the self-conscious air of the newly weds will be the best clue to their identity.

If any one finds them please wire the Herald office and we will endeavor to arrange a warm welcome for them upon arrival.

Marion County Fair

Marion county will hold the annual fair on November 21, 22, 23 and 24th and have hung up some elegant prizes in the stud class. Sanford horsemen expect to participate and the fair as usual promises to be a success.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Butler of Jacksonville are in a hospital at Cornwall, Ont., seriously injured as the result of an automobile accident at Brandon. Their machine went over a ten-foot embankment and turned turtle, pinning its passengers underneath. The spot where the accident occurred is located in a large Adirondack preserve owned by the Rockefellers.

A massacre of all Europeans is planned by the radical element among the Turkish resident of Salonki, European Turkey, according to refugees from that place.

Florida's law prohibiting the shipment of immature fruit is to be carried into United States court on the ground that the law as applied to interstate shipments is in violation of the commerce clause of the constitution of the United States.

WILL RESTORE MORNING TRAIN

Sanford to Tampa Accommodation Will Resume Next Month

It is understood that the officials of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad are making arrangements to increase their already good service between Tampa and Jacksonville, the announcement and details of which will be given out in a few days. Notwithstanding the fact that some disappointment was expressed by the announcement in the Times yesterday that the Dixie Flyer would not be run into Tampa this year, everything possible will be done to give this section of the state that excellent service to which it is entitled. The railroad people express themselves as being always willing to extend such courtesies and improvements as will be beneficial to each community.

At present there are three trains daily from Jacksonville to Tampa, and on Nov. 15, or as soon thereafter as practicable, another train will be inaugurated from Sanford to Lakeland, which will greatly increase the service. It will be remembered that last year, when this service was discontinued, there was quite an objection raised on the part of the travelling public, in which Tampa's board of trade took a prominent part to have the service maintained.—Tampa Times.

At the Sign of the Tea Cup

Cooler days are coming and you will be looking for a place to rest and enjoy a cup of tea, or maybe you would prefer Bouillon, of course this is the very place for you to come. Everything new, up to date and dainty.

If the weather is too warm for hot drinks, you may have cool refreshments, at all odds the sign of the teacup bids you welcome if you but wish to rest, there are magazines or books that you may while away the "hours waiting" in town, it is not required or expected that you always and eternally want to buy something, and you will find the welcome a pleasant one no matter what your mission may be. Just try Room No. 9, Welborne Block, just at the head of the stair-case.

Very Cordially,
CHARLOTTE KEELOR.

To The Citizens of Sanford

I don't believe much in blowing your own horn, but if no one will do it for you it is sometimes necessary.

Forty years the 23rd, of Dec. 1912 I have been in Sanford. Only one man W. J. Hill, I think has been as long in Sanford. I have seen it grow from one building (not a dwelling house) to its present size. I have lived a straight, moral, religious, social and financial life all this time before, therefore I ask your support for city Treasurer and Collector in the coming city election.

F. W. MUNSON.

HAPPENINGS DURING THE WEEK

Here the Readers Will Find a Brief Historical Spring Flowing For Hurried Readers

By agreement a sweeping decree which leaves the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association the right to meet only for "social purposes" was signed and entered in the United States court at Birmingham. The trust is hereafter prevented from circulating its green book boycotting jobbers who sell to non-members of the association and from rebating. The decree renders the association powerless as a body.

The body of the late Associate Justice John Marshall Harlan of the supreme court of the United States was laid to rest Wednesday in Rock Creek cemetery at Washington. Burial was preceded by a brief funeral ceremony at the Harlan residence on Columbia Heights and by a public service in the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, of which Justice Harlan was a member for many years.

The elimination of chicken from the menu, the limitation of turkey to Thanksgiving day and Christmas, the substitution of so-called "field bread" for hard tack and abolition of the field ration, sum up the important changes in army ration for the next year, according to the report of Commissary General Henry G. Sharpe. The elimination of chicken has resulted in a yearly saving to the government of $52,000.

The big cypress swamp about midway between the coast and the St. Johns has been on fire for nearly two weeks, owing to the unprecedented dry spell, and in the mornings, up to the time the rain came a few days ago, the smoke was so dense in Daytona one could hardly see across the river.

The department estimates that 2,231,325 soldiers served in the Union armies and navy during the civil war; of these, 25 per cent are still living. The last revolutionary pensioner died last year.

Rev. A. J. Burns, president of the Omaha Baptist college at Onelda, Ky., was shot from ambush near there Thursday and died almost instantly. Perry Burns, a cousin of the minister, has been arrested as a suspect.

As soon as the news was received that President Burns had been assassinated, the sheriff secured a couple of blood hounds and went to the scene of the crime. The dogs took the trail and went unflinchingly to Perry Burns' home and rushed upon him. The officers feel confident that he is the guilty party, though Burns denies all knowledge of the crime. There is much high feeling here, as Rev. Burns was regarded as a good man and an able educator.

Distinct gains in the matter of water way improvements were made in every state along the Atlantic coast from Maine to Florida during the past year by reason of the activities of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association. President J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia announced to the delegates the association at the opening of its fourth annual convention at Richmond yesterday.

The Federal court of appeals, Judge Pardee presiding, has rendered a decision declaring the Southern Wholesale Grocers' association to be a fair organization and not in a restraint of trade. This brings to an end a suit instituted by the Federal government at Birmingham more than a year ago in which the association was accused of violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

Lexington, Ky., was the mecca this week of Confederate veterans, their sons and daughters from all over the West and South. The occasion for the gathering was the unveiling of an eighteen-foot bronze equestrian monument to General John H. Morgan, the Confederate leader.

Votes for women in Virginia within ten years, a prediction of Governor William Hodges Mann, of the Old Dominion commonwealth, was one of the most applauded sentiments expressed at the fourth annual convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association's sessions at Richmond today. Gov. Mann declared that he was by no means committed to the belief that such a condition was to be expedient.

Progress

I am for Progress—all we can get. I favor bulkheading. I favor a better water supply. I favor paving First street from bridge to old county line. I favor a good paved street to Sanford Heights. I favor a better sewerage system and enough water supply to keep it moving.

I favor more good sidewalks. I am the Candidate of the people—not of the politicians.
