THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

From the Dood, Reed & Co. novel. Copyright © 1956 by William and Audrey Kelley Roos. © 1956 by Kelley Roos. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

SYNOPSIS
Cecile Benson's husband of almost 15 happy years has made her suspicious lately. Her husband's night absences, his alibi for going out three evenings have worn thin. Cecile concludes Steve must be having blonde trouble. She resolves to fight for him. She has her set hair dyed the blondest blonde and asks to allow him to stay home. But Steve wishes at her new hair-to and goes out again. Purpose: Cecile follows him covertly. The trail leads to the fourteenth floor of a six-story building.

CHAPTER 3
The first thing I saw when my feet hit the soft, luxurious carpeting of the fourteenth floor was an incredibly beautiful blonde talking to an incredibly auburn brunette with glamorous eyeglasses. The first thing I heard was muted, dreamy music. It was more than I could stand. I turned back toward the elevator bank and, out of the corner of my eye, I saw Steve bounding jubilantly down a corridor. He opened a door and disappeared. A down car stopped beside me and I stepped into it. Then I stepped back out again.

Gritting my teeth, I walked through the room, on into the corridor, on toward the door. I put my hand gently on its knob to ease it open just an inch, and I found myself staring through a square glassed peephole into the room beyond.

Standing in the center of the room was Steve. His back was to me and he was facing a tall, willowy, ravishing female. Her wide blue eyes were flattering Steve with a heated welcome. Her luscious bright red mouth was not only generous, it was inviting. Her figure couldn't have been real, but I was afraid it was... and she was blonde! Very blonde, very, very. But not as blonde as I! My woman's intuition had led me to victory on that point. Otherwise, I could see, I was not doing well at all.

Steve moved closer to her, put his arms around her. She shook her flamboyant head at him and he held her tighter. She freed herself and stepped back; she spoke to him with her lips and with her eyes. He held out his arms and she moved expertly into them. They stayed together and Steve stepped on her foot.

I almost cried aloud. I shut my eyes and leaned my forehead against the door. Steve Benson was taking dancing lessons. He was doing this for me. He was learning to dance for me. When he took me to the Rosewood Room for our anniversary party we wouldn't sit out the evening like a pair of bumps on a log. We would dance!

I opened my eyes and looked again. Steve and the sensational young lady were gliding around the room. His jaw was set with a fierce determination, his forehead was wrinkled in a scowl. He wasn't having fun; he wasn't even enjoying being in the arms of a female like that. He was having a lousy time, he was having a dancing lesson... because of me.

I loved me.

I watched the two figures whirl across the floor, and then my heart sank. Steve was waiting, he was learning to wait... and perhaps that was all he was learning. Perhaps he had insisted on that, not realizing that the number of waitesses a dance band played was next to nil. As a favor to him I would stick around and speak to his teacher after school. I wanted his surprise for me to be perfect.

And then, it wouldn't hurt to let this blonde know that Steve had a wife, also blonde. Just in case she was getting any ideas about him. I'd let her see what long fingernails I had.

I went back to the reception room and sat quietly in a corner. I didn't want the receptionist to notice me and make it necessary for me to explain why I was there. She had enough to do without listening to a screechy, embarrassed explanation from a suspicious wife. I lit a cigarette and watched this smoothie with the hopped-up apocryphal go about her business. She assigned studios to teachers and pupils, directed new students to the head of the school, answered the phone and made entries in his appointment book on her desk.

The girl was not only the most efficient receptionist in town, but it was a good bet she was the most charming. She was a big sister to all the women, but she wasn't that to any of the men.

I could see that she made each man feel that this business was being run solely for him. She had a touch, a very personal touch. She made me wonder if I, in spite of my 20-20 vision, shouldn't invest in a pair of those gold-rimmed, odd-shaped glasses. Looking at her, thinking of Steve's teacher and the other gorgeous faculty members I had spied upon, I realized that my husband certainly knew how to pick a dancing school.

The pupils for the eight o'clock classes were beginning to swarm in now. They were young and old, fat and lean, tall and short. Dancing, it seemed, was here to stay. Suddenly there was nothing in the world I wanted to do so much as dance. Steve was still that way about me.

It was just about eight. I put down the elaborate brochure that made it quite clear that the Crescent School of Dancing was something terrific and watched the reception room fill up with the next period's pupils. I watched a shy, awkward newcomer taken in tow by the receptionist. She led him down one of the three corridors that opened from the waiting room, led him toward the processing that would make him, too, socially acceptable. And then it was eight o'clock.

In a moment I saw Steve come out of his room and hurry up the corridor. I lost sight of him as he moved into the crowd headed for the elevators. I kept my eye on the door of his studio; I didn't want his teacher to elude me. I waited until I was sure Steve had left the reception room before I staked on my errand. I opened the door marked Studio K and went in.

The room was filled with music, a gay, jiving waltz. It was old Vienna, bright uniforms and flashing sabres, long swirling dresses and arch smiles. Steve's teacher had neglected to turn off the music. She lay still, as still as death, sprawling grotesquely on the smoochy shining floor. In her back just below her left shoulder was a small round hole. Her white blouse was now lying tucked under her.

I dropped to my knees beside her, reaching for her wrist. The fingers of her hand were curled around a small, curiously shaped piece of heavy black paper. Her arm was extended almost as if she were handing the paper to me. I took it from her.

It was a cut-out, a silhouette of a beautiful girl's profile... and her head was twice pierced by a large, big-eyed darning needle. The needle glanced wickedly against the back of the silhouette. There was no mistaking the macabre artist's subject. It was the girl who lay sprawled on the floor, her eyes glassy with the horror of sudden death.

I stumbled to my feet and started out of the room. Her murderer was somewhere near, very near. There had only been a minute's time since Steve had left this studio and I had entered it. There had been only a minute for the murderer to slip in through the door and... My legs stopped moving and I stood facing the door, afraid to open it, afraid to turn from it. I had watched that door from the reception room. I had seen Steve come through it, close it behind him. It had not been opened or closed again until I had turned the knob.

I forced myself to turn around, to find the other entrance through which the killer had come, through which he had made his escape. Four mirrored walls, shining, solid, met my eyes. There was only one means of entrance to this room... the door behind me, the door that Steve had used. I had seen Steve with this girl, and she had been alive. No one but Steve had been in this room with her... and now she was dead, murdered.

"The Waltzer" makes the headlines and Steve is on the spot. Continue "The Blonde Died Dancing" here tomorrow.

Your Walk May Reveal Your State Of Health

By HERMAN M. BUNDLIEN, M.D.

A DOCTOR can tell a lot about a person's health simply by observing the way he walks. You probably can, too.

You've seen elderly persons who are forced to take short steps. They walk with sort of a mincing gait. Often this can be attributed to hardening of the arteries or other ailments which generally come with neglect during advancing age.

The most common cause of disturbances in gait of both children and adults is faulty or abnormal bone structure in the legs or back.

Bowed-legs and knock-knee are examples of such abnormalities. Muscular disorders also affect a person's walk.

A progressive case of muscular dystrophy, for example, produces an awkward, waddling gait. The person leans back from his hips as he walks.

Good Indication

Of course, we can't make an accurate diagnosis based entirely upon a person's walk. But when his walk is considered with other symptoms, it does give a pretty good indication of what is wrong.

There must be smooth and close coordination among the nerves, muscles, bones and joints of the body for proper walking. There are six basic displacements of the body's center of gravity which determine your gait. These are the lateral pelvic movement, pelvic tilt, pelvic rotation, knee flexion and knee and foot interaction.

System of Nerves

When this vast system of nerves and muscles is functioning properly, you can walk with relatively little energy.

When one of these determining factors loses its effectiveness, you might be able to compensate for the loss with only a little more effort. But let something go wrong with any two of them and you'll walk only with the greatest difficulty.

Of course, there are other things which also affect the way you walk. It is, naturally, important to have good health, for it goes hand in hand with good walking.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

T. V.: The muscles in my arms constantly ache. Is there any way to relieve this condition?

Answer: Aching in the muscles of the arms may be due to over-exercising, to a pretty site exercise, to some circulatory disturbance, to arthritis, or to a muscular disorder affecting the close coordination among the nerves, muscles, bones and joints. Careful study by your physician is needed to find the cause. There are six basic displacements of the body's center of gravity which determine your gait. These are the lateral pelvic movement, pelvic tilt, pelvic rotation, knee flexion and knee and foot interaction.

Jog Appetites With Fruit

This is the time of year when meals are apt to become humdrum. It's no secret that flavoured canned fruits give a big lift to sluggish appetites. Serve them as:

FIRST COURSE:—Fruit cocktail, or chilled grapefruit and orange sections dressed up with a couple of drops of mint flavoring.

SALAD MEAL:—Tangy purple plums around a peach half filled with cream cheese and nuts on crispy greens. Serve hearty chowder type soup with this salad.

MEAT GARNISH:—Bake spiced fruits to serve with meat, poultry or fish meals.

DESSERT:—Canned fruits as they come from the can or jar, alone or in combination, in cobblers, or in pie.

Jubilee Cherry Pie

1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup juice drained from canned cherries

1/4 teaspoon red food coloring (optional)
3 cups drained water pack red tart pitted cherries
2 tablespoons butter, or margarine

Pastry

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in a saucepan. Add juice and coloring; stir until smooth. Cook until thickened and clear, stirring. Remove from heat; add cherries and butter. Pour into an unbaked 9-inch pastry lined pie pan. Cover with top crust, lattice, or cut-outs. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) about 40 minutes. One 9-inch pie.

State's 3 Pct. Sales Tax Burden One Of Lightest

TALLAHASSEE (UP)—A University of Florida professor says the state's three per cent sales tax burden is less than in 21 other states with sales taxes.

Dr. LeRoy Qualls, in a report for the Citizens Tax Council, said that numerous exemptions on the sales tax make it superior to many other taxes on the basis of ability to pay.

Qualls' report concerned possible means of revising the three per cent sales tax if new revenue should be needed. Specific recommendations are expected to be made to the Tax Council in another report shortly for study and possible submission to the 1957 Legislature.

Qualls said that although the three per cent sales tax is one of the heaviest among 33 states which have them, various exemptions of food, clothing, and other items bring it down to the point where citizens in only 11 other states have a lighter burden.

There are 32,000 women serving as Mothers in the Club Scout Program.

TALLAHASSEE—Governor LeRoy Collins joins the seven advertising clubs in the state in reminding Floridians that "Advertising Benefits You" as he gives Don Harbottle, Governor of the Fourth District Advertising Federation of America, a proclamation designating Advertising Week Feb. 10-17, 1957.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

HERE'S A LETTER that a frugal and chemically minded graduate sent to his old Alma Mater, which, as usual, was soliciting funds:

"HALOGENS:

Being an ALUMINUM of two other colleges besides yours, I cannot, with my BISMUTH in its present state, pay ANTIMONY for all three, so I hope you will not think me a CADMIUM if I CAESIUM giving to any. So far I have METAL current expenses, but what the future holds in store we know not PHOSPHOROUS.

I could shell out no more without BORON from the bank. This would NICKEL out of my savings. A MANGANESE throw his dough down the ZINC these days. It's TIN bucks here, TIN bucks there! Better to SODIUM up in savings bonds. So don't be SILICON send you nothing more this year than a very MERCURY-istmas. Regretfully, U. RANIUM."

"England and America," noted George Bernard Shaw, "are two countries effectively separated by the same language."

Don't Scratch Red Bug Bites

NASHVILLE, Feb. 9 (UP)—If you're itching to know more about the chigger, or "red bug," the advice of an expert and don't scratch around too hard.

Dr. Charles E. Farrell of Vanderbilt University has been studying the chigger, and its bite, for the past 10 years.

In the course of those years he's become quite attached to the chigger—he kept one taped on his arm under glass for two days.

Scratching a red bug bite just makes it worse, Farrell said and often leads to infection.

Just leave the little insect alone, if you can, and the itch will go away in a couple of days.

Home Remedies

If you want to use kerosene, chewing tobacco and other home remedies, that's all right.

You'll hurt more from the irritant than you'll itch from the chigger bite, Farrell says.

When you see a chigger on you, it's already too late to do anything but itch, Farrell says.

"Chiggers can see people but people can't see them until the creature has gorged themselves to five times their normal size and then it's too late."

The chigger itch actually comes from a juice and not a bite, Farrell says.

"They clamp into your skin, spit out strong juices . . . then lap up their lunch," Farrell says. "The itch comes from the juice."

If you start scratching because of a chigger, don't worry about that particular one anymore, worry about his friends.

Won't Bite Twice

He means the same chigger won't bite you twice.

Chiggers can find you in briar patches or on old decaying stumps or logs, Farrell says.

You're chigger conscious anywhere in the South, Farrell said, with the greatest danger from May through September.

But Florida has the worst luck. It's open season on them for chiggers all year round.

If you wonder how the chigger looks, here's Farrell's description: Bright red, six legs, no head, four eyes, an oblong body and one-two hundredths of an inch long.

Farrell hasn't been able to find out yet just how long a chigger lives but lots of people think it's too long, no matter what the time span.

Farrell is around chiggers all the time but he can't give you much information on cures and such.

Chiggers don't bother him much.

Thomas Edison, Man Responsible For Social, Economical Progress

Negative Results

The results of Florida's juvenile delinquency law a beginning to show results—in the negative.

Newspapers from every side are beginning to ask that the law be repealed so that the public can be advised "who - what - when and where."

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, in an editorial which he signed for the February issue of the FBI's Law Enforcement Bulletin, stated that "the present appalling youth situation" is the "crux of our crime problem."

Next thing, he advocated publicizing the names of "young thugs," adding: Recent happenings in juvenile crime shatter the illusion that soft-hearted mollycoddling is the answer to this problem.

Hoover stated "Are we to stand idly by while fierce young hoodlums — too often and too long harbored under the glossy misnomer of juvenile delinquents—roam streets and desecrate our communities? If we do, America might well witness a resurgence of the brutal criminal and mobsterism of the past era."

The FBI Director, certainly one of the most experienced in criminal investigations, further stated, "The present appalling youth situation . . . demands a vigorous new appraisal. No longer can we tolerate the 'tender years' alibi for youthful lawbreaking. This is certainly no time for police to be shackled by illogical restraints based on unreasoned sympathy for these young thugs."

"Publicizing the names as well as crimes for public scrutiny, release of past records to appropriate law enforcement officials, and fingerprinting for future identification are all necessary procedures in the war on the flagrant violator, regardless of age . . ."

These statements are not from a man who is "merely interested." There is no one, perhaps, in a better position to know what the crime situation in the United States—right here in Florida and in Seminole County, than J. Edgar Hoover.

Perhaps the best step is that which Polk County Representative Roy Surles is taking. He is preparing a bill for the 1957 session of the state legislature which will permit publication of the names of juveniles who break the law and to make court files on juveniles open for inspection and publication.

As the juvenile law now stands, records of the juvenile court are secret and officials bar both the public and the press from its hearings.

Surles contends that the "Opening up of the court records and making names available for publication will be as much a deterrent to juvenile delinquency as anything."

The Polk County legislator said "I supported the secrecy law in 1951 on a trial basis and I'm satisfied secrecy hasn't done any-

If any one man can be considered responsible for marked social and economic progress, and millions of jobs, that man would be Thomas A. Edison.

And so it's appropriate for us today to mark the 110th anniversary of the birth of the great inventor, who was born on February 11, 1847. From his fertile mind came the beginnings of great industries of today, which employ millions of people — electric power and light, the phonograph industry, motion pictures, and many others.

We might also note another interesting February birth date — the birthday, on the first of February, of industrialist Max McGraw, who is almost a stranger to most of us, yet who has made a remarkable contribution of his own to economic progress.

There's a fascinating story in the parallel lives of these men, and in the parallel progress of the companies they nurtured.

Both once were newspaper boys. Edison began his newspaper career when 11, selling papers and candy on a local railroad train running in Michigan. Mr. McGraw grew up in Sioux City, Iowa, and his first job was delivering newspapers on horseback.

Later, as Edison created his great inventions, he founded companies to make them so that everyone might benefit from the inventions. As Max McGraw learned about the field of electricity, he began to build a company which would grow until today it produces the most complete line of electrical equipment used between the home and the generating plant.

To sum it up you might say that Edison made electricity a practical working tool. The McGraw divisions help take it everywhere, besides making many products such as toasters, washers and dictating machines which use electricity to make life easier.

Today, king-sized birthday celebrations are being held in scores of plants of the McGraw-Edison Company, formed recently in the consolidation of McGraw Electric Company and Thomas A. Edison, Inc. Some 15,000 employees are observing the occasion in all of the 29 divisions and subsidiaries of the company in the United States and Canada.

We join with them in paying tribute to Thomas Edison—a man who made the world a much better place for us.

thing to fight juvenile delinquency." Sanford and Seminole County has had its share of juvenile crime lately. A number of cases have come up in which names could not be revealed because of the youths under the age of 16 years involved.

Crime by juvenile delinquents has been hidden by a veil of protection with only the threat of the "Industrial School for Boys" at Marianna and the "Detention Home for Girls" at Ocala as a means of trying to control the young criminal element.

Some judges and most newspapers will certainly agree with Representative Surles. Newspapers naturally contend that the public is entitled to know how the juvenile courts operate and what happens to the young offenders once they are taken under jurisdiction of the court.

No newspaper worthy of its name wants to ridicule or abuse a person accused of crime, particularly a youthful law violator. But when a juvenile is accused of a crime, especially a major crime, the best interests of the public are not served by shielding his identity.

"Giving offenders publicity and naming them and their parents will keep others from making the same mistake," said Surles.

To be sure, the Polk County's proposed change in the existing law should be carefully studied and then adopted by legislation at its coming session.

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY
Vision and ambition when directed toward worth while achievement can accomplish unbelievable results. This is doubly true when the achievement is designed to benefit humanity and make the world a better place to live in.

Few men have given the world more food for thought or provided it with more high quality entertainment than Cecil B. DeMille. Possessed with a God given talent to direct and produce magnificent motion pictures, he has consistently striven to better what at the time seemed to be the utmost.

His crowning achievement is found in his amazing production of "The Ten Commandments". He visioned for many years the telling of this age old story on the screen, making it an understandable human drama that would reach the minds and hearts of millions regardless of race, creed or color.

Last week, as guest of the Florida State Theatres, it was my privilege to view this magnificent production. I can assure you that anyone viewing this three hour and 40 minute production will enjoy a moving spiritual experience never to be forgotten.

"The Ten Commandments" is more than a religious picture. It is the vivid story of mankind's struggle for freedom and self-respect down through the ages. It is the story of yesterday, today, and brings renewed hope for tomorrow. It is an epic of the dignity of man and his struggle to attain the rights and freedoms his God intended him to enjoy under the law. The law his God made known to Moses on Mount Sinai.

In undertaking the production of "The Ten Commandments" Cecil B. DeMille saw the picture as his masterpiece and his contribution to mankind. In his mind the task was too sacred to be influenced by the thought of personal gain. Accordingly he arranged for any profits that might accrue to him from the production to be given to charity. It is a production of faith, faith on the part of the man responsible for it, to do the job with God's help, — and faith on the part of those called upon to provide the money, in seemingly limitless quantities. DeMille refused to be limited of hamstringing with a budget. He told his backers that the production he had in mind could not be budgeted. It is doubtful if any man, other than DeMille could have induced hard-boiled financiers to put up the vast sums necessary, with no strings attached and no limitations, but they knew Cecil B. DeMille, and their faith in him made it possible.

I could give you statistics dealing with the number of people in the cast, the number and variety of costumes, the endless research to insure authenticity, but figures are not impressive. You have to actually see the picture to grasp its magnitude.

When you see the picture, you will probably do as I did, go home and read your Bible. And when you do I am sure you will agree that Cecil B. DeMille's production of "The Ten Commandments" is amazingly true to the story the Scriptures tell. The story of Moses will have a new meaning and you will better understand the age-old human struggle it portrays.

This wonderful picture will be shown at a number of theatres in Florida this month. I urge you and every member of your family to see it. You will not be disappointed and you will get a spiritual lift that will stay with you for a long time. The world owes a debt to Cecil B. DeMille and those who supported him to make this great picture possible.

Organized Labor Caution Sign Up

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — The stop-look-and-listen sign is up for organized labor in the United States. The sign blazes brightest right now for the most powerful union of them all—Dave Beck's Teamsters. Beck and other labor leaders within whose unions are fat locals with peculiar methods of keeping books would do well to take a tip from Wall Street's experience.

A special Senate committee is squaring away now for an investigation of suspect union financial practices. As good a friend of organized labor as Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) chaired a lesser investigation two years ago.

The house cleaners from the outside already are moving. Douglas Thursday introduced in the Senate a bill directed against embezzlement, kickbacks and other abuses in the union administration of employee welfare funds. Co-sponsors were Sen. James E. Murray (D-Mont), a notable New Dealer, and Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-NY) a left of center Republican, neither ever accused of labor bating.

Challenge Grounds, Similar
It may be significant that Beck's underlings have challenged the Senate's right to investigate union finances on the very grounds on which the late John W. Davis and other notable lawyers sought to protect their banking clients in the early 1930's from Pecora's questions.

Davis on occasion told the Pecora subcommittee that it lacked authority to pry into the matters under review. The subcommittee's response in all cases simply was to return to the Senate and obtain specific authority to proceed.

History could and doubtless will repeat itself if labor witnesses persist in that strategy. The new special Senate committee will have broader specific authority than the standing committee which began the inquiry with some of Beck's men as witnesses. The investigation will range for months, nationwide.

The chairman will be the same, however: Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark. Bally labor leaders will learn that McClellan is a tough man. He has put offenders on notice to clean house if they don't want him to do it for them.

Report Of Last Probe
Douglas reported that his 1955 inquiry turned up shocking abuses such as embezzlement, collusion kickback, exorbitant insurance charges . . . mismanagement, waste, extravagance, indifference, nepotism.

Old timers around town can remember when good friends of Wall Street were making equally serious charges against the big-time financial practices which flourished in what became known as the Coolidge boom. Wall Street big shots scorned the device of taking a Fifth Amendment defense against testifying to their own misdeeds.

There was perjury aplenty, however. In the record of the Senate's stock market investigation conducted by a banking and currency subcommittee with Judge Ferrell-hand Pecora of New York as chief counsel.

It is not necessarily a reflection on Dave Beck that he presently is out of the country and out of the subpoena jurisdiction of Senate labor investigators, nor that he is the lone big-time labor holdout against firing union officials who hide behind the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution.

Beck might consider, however, the ancient dictum which goes like this: The bigger they are, the harder they fall. Wall Street learned the truth of that the hard way. In the process of learning, a president of the New York Stock Exchange went to jail, the pres-

Cotton Is High Style In Operating Room

By HERMAN M. BUNDESMAN, M.D.
The well-dressed surgeon and nurse wear cotton. That is, when they are in the operating room.

It is generally advisable that all outer clothing as well as slippers, stockings worn by nurses and other personnel during an operation be made of cotton. Outer garments of wool, rayon, silk, dacron, nylon, shark-skin and the like are usually banned in the operating room.

Why? To safeguard the patient — and the attendants as well. Some anesthetic agents, such as ether, are combustible. Should some anesthetic accidentally be released in an operating room, there might be a chance of an explosion.

For this reason, all concerned with the surgery wear cotton garments to prevent the possibility of static electricity setting off a blast.

They also wear plain leather shoes, sometimes with special insulating devices. Moistened cotton boots also are permissible, but shoes with rubber or gum rubber soles are banned from the operating room.

Equipment Grounded
All anesthetic equipment and operating tables must be grounded. Even the furniture should be made of metal or another material which will conduct electricity.

Hospitals also insist that surfaces on which movable objects are placed must not have paint, lacquer or other insulating finish if they are to be used in operating rooms.

C. E. Johnsons Honor Daughter On Birthday

Janet Johnson was honored at a party in celebration of her eleventh birthday, given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson, at 1408 Bel Air Blvd., Saturday afternoon.

The guests began arriving at 2 p. m. Indoor games were played with prizes going to Pat Rabun, Pat Bass, Diane Smith. Favours of Valentines were given to each guest and pictures were taken of Janet and her friends during the afternoon.

The dining table was overlaid with a lace cloth and centered with a red and white heart shaped birthday cake bearing 11 candles and surrounded with azaleas. Janet received many lovely gifts and "Happy Birthday" was sung to her after which she blew out the candles.

In keeping with the Valentine motif, the refreshments consisted of individual red and white cakes, ice cream cones, red punch and Valentine mints.

Those helping to celebrate with the honoree were Diane Smith, Duana Peters, Pat Rabun, Maria Rowland, Brenda Brown, Jay Tripp, Lynn Lowman, Betty Norris, and Cheryl Johnson.

Also Janet's grandfather and grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hiers, and Mrs. Ralph Peters, who assisted Mrs. Johnson.

Conning The News

BY VIRGINIA CONN

John Dooley is officially an After-Fiver now, since he is already hard at work in HATU. Bob Stone also joined the same organization a week ago. Not much doing over the weekend, as all the navy who saw the Folies collapsed Sunday, and all those who went Saturday were quiet on Sunday. My sister, Page Tharpe from Montclair, New Jersey popped in yesterday and spent the night. Bob left Sunday for Jacksonville, so maybe I can get some work done.

Attention all bargain hunters! (And who isn't these days?) The Seminole Chiefs Club, an organization dedicated to helping the athletic program in our local schools, is having a fishy and auction Saturday night at the Farmer's market on the highway. The fishy starts at 5:30, and is only fifty cents, which is cheaper than you can eat at home. The Sanford merchants and many other interested persons have donated articles new and old to be auctioned off during the evening. Two of these are cars, so if you need a second or even a first, plan to bid on these. There will be a number of appliances, furniture and other household items, and a bake sale too. This is a good time to clean out your closet and donate things or bake something. There are many families whose children will benefit who are not members of the Seminole Chiefs Club, and it would be much appreciated if some of them would make a cake or one of their specialties. Any items will be picked up if you call 744-3154 or 2944 at night. The purpose of the whole deal is to pay off the uniforms for the Junior High School football team, and provide more instruction and equipment for these boys. They have had a hard time competing with other schools because they have not had the football training in Junior High, as other schools have, and when the boys get into high school, they are at a disadvantage because of this lack. The Seminole Chiefs have two hundred members, all interested in overhauling the athletic program—some of you may want to join if so, go to the auction and ask about it there. During the evening there will be entertainment and music, and it sounds like fun.

For three weeks now, I have been bending your ears about the High Fever Follies, but I'd like to say a few more words before it is all but. You really turned out. Thank you for coming. We all have our own opinions of what was best in the show, which is wonderful, since it proves that there was something that pleased everyone. The Shed a Tear girls stole the show in my opinion, but with them, the dancing of Spook Hook and the caterwauling of Camp Bruce stand out—to say nothing of the precision dancing of the Rockettes, and the wiggle of the Samba dancers. The amazed comments of the audience "Why, they're having FUN, up there", expresses the whole show perfectly. It was fun, and there was talent, and the Auxiliary made the money. The Sultans pepped up their routine Saturday night, with much chin caucking, and all puffing cigars provided by George Maybury. Sanford's Sultan Buddy Rawls was the only one who ended up without a girl.
In case you didn't recognize your reporter, I was the one besting the drum in Follow the Fold, and we had more fun than anyone. The lovely convert with the blonde wig was Cyd Schirard, and the last time we tripped across the stage we won Cy Fittou, Bill Lemus, Elaine Libbey and Bill Stetson.
It is my opinion that everyone connected with the Follies had a good time, and were all rewarded for their hard work by the way the town turned out for it. At present we are in the middle of several fund raising drives—perhaps the Follies might be considered as a Community Chest project, of the Auxiliary does not want to take it on again. This way we would not always be giving. Each drive takes the effort of so many people, if all their energies were channeled fewer drives would be necessary.

Now Hear This!
by BETTY O'CONNOR and IRENE DULEK

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baumholder and daughter, Frances, returned to their home in Longwood Friday, Jan. 25, after a leave of 15 days during which time they visited their parents in Indiana and Michigan. Just between us they say it was "cold", but nevertheless they had an enjoyable vacation.

Thought I'd find out for myself how the beach was this early in February, so Sunday we took a drive over and my advice is to around DeLand to New Smyrna Beach. Highway number 415 is of course under construction and will be enjoyable to drive when finished but as of Sunday, what a washboard!

The beach was crowded but it certainly was a relaxing afternoon. Those along to enjoy the afternoon were, Mrs. Harry Almond and son Gary, Jean and June O'Connor, my favorite teen-agers and yours truly and children, Jerry and Debby.

Can't help but mention here that my associate, Mrs. Joseph O'Connor or Betty, if you prefer, is under her doctor's care since last week. As many of her friends know, they were expecting a new addition to their fine family in late summer, however, troubles were encountered.

I'd like to express my deepest regrets and pray that she'll soon be as well as ever and needless to say be back on the phone collecting those bits of information we need so badly for this little bit of reading.

Claude Walters left Sunday noon for Jacksonville along with a bus load of more Navy men to participate in carrier qualifications out of Mayport. The group is expected to be gone a week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Finnegan spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Holmes.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gold were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Williams, Friday evening for a pleasant evening of card playing.

More news from the Gold house is that Mrs. Eva Bonware is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Goff's mother, in Orlando where she will be a guest till sometime in April.
Philip Rosini took his physical for his discharge from the Navy Monday. Immediately following his discharge he will enlist in the Air Force where he expects to get orders to Denver.

Hibiscus Circle Holds Meet Friday In Morrison Home

Mrs. Charles Morrison's home was the scene of the meeting Friday of the Hibiscus Garden Circle, which was held at 2:30 p. m. Co-hostesses were Mrs. R. F. Moulie, Mrs. H. James Gut and Mrs. D. H. Fawcett.

The business session was presided over by the Chairman, Mrs. W. H. Stewart. Mrs. H. A. Moreland had charge of ticket sales for the Annual Garden Club luncheon to be held at the Mayfair Inn on Thursday, Feb. 21. Delegate to the National Convention in Miami in March is Mrs. R. T. Humphrey.

A paper was given by Mrs. H. James Gut on what to do in the garden this month.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Morrison took the circle on a tour of her lovely gardens.

During the social hour, the hostesses served a salad course to the following members: Mrs. J. V. Jones, Mrs. John Ludwig, Mrs. W. H. Stewart, Mrs. J. Brodie Williams, Mrs. Joe Fayhe, Mrs. H. A. Moreland, Mrs. T. A. Burleigh, Mrs. John Fox, Mrs. Robert Humphrey, Mrs. Joe Meisch, Mrs. R. G. Brisson, Mrs. Fred Zerrenner, Mrs. Charles Grieme and Mrs. R. L. Dann.

The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. T. Humphrey.

SHS Baseball Team Needs Experience

Dave Laude, baseball mentor for the Sanford Seminoles, held his first workout yesterday afternoon with a skeleton crew of his charges. He spent most of the afternoon testing his team potential. He said he was impressed with the speed of the team, but had a crying lack of experience. Only 12 candidates for the team showed at the first practice session. Basketball season and the overlapping season of baseball would make slim attendance at first, but Laude said the membership would pick up in the next few weeks.

Sanford Seminoles will be seeking their second win against Lakeview of Winter Garden tonight in Winter Garden. They will also be seeking their second Orange Belt Conference win of the season. Presently the Seminoles are seeded last in the Orange Belt Conference tournament that will begin Thursday in Winter Garden. Just above them is Winter Garden. Should the Seminoles top the Red Devils who are to host the tournament for the OBC this year they would change places with Winter Garden in Conference standings. After a two week layoff with a bronchial infection, Claude Hittell will return to the cage scene to give the team much needed height. Hope raised in yesterday's practices in the afternoon as Hittell knocked out for the first time with newcomer to the Seminoles camp, Mike Tamy. In two games since becoming eligible for Seminoles sports, Tamy has been high man. Seminoles Basketball mentor Dud Lauer said yesterday at the tough practice that their chances of showing another improvement had gained headway. "Hittell has big hands and can catch the fired passes of Tamy," Lauer said. "We are trying to work up a play or two that will give the two a one-two combination under the basket." Silvers said his scrappy JV would be at full power tonight. "We've worked a lot on defensive fundamentals and should make a good showing," he said. Lauer said he would have to sideline Bill Tyre for tonight's action. Tyre suffered a cut about the eye that required six stitches last Friday night in Melbourne after being accidentally hit by an elbow. Tyre has been hustling hard since coming out for basketball and is one of the most improved players on the team. "He comes through for us when the chips are down," Lauer said. "We'll miss him tonight. He helped us a lot when we beat Lakeview the last time." Lauer said that the outing would be a tough one for the Seminoles. "That 38-33 win was a close one," said Lauer. "Too close for comfort." The game will be even tougher for the Seminoles since they have been experiencing a decline in performance. The Devils, on the other hand, have shown a lot of improvement. It will be a stern challenge for the Seminoles, and if they come through tonight they may well experience an upward trend in events. JV action gets underway at 7 p. m. tonight in Winter Garden; varsity action begins at 8 p. m.

Club Hopes For Big Turnout At Boat Regatta Sunday

Welu Predicts Major League Bowling By '60

By JACK CUDDY. United Press Sports Writer. NEW YORK (UP)—Billy Welu pronounced Way-Lee, the world's outstanding tall-man bowler, has predicted that the nation will have major league pin topping by 1960 "like in baseball and football."

Welu of Houston, Tex., said negotiations are progressing toward a league of major clubs that will include at least eight cities and have an eight-months season from September through April. The dark-haired Texan, standing six feet four and one-half, named the cities that probably will have representation in the circuit. They are New York and New Jersey, Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Los Angeles, Cleveland and Philadelphia.

"It is expected that the league will be divided into eastern and western divisions," he explained. How Stage Was Set Big Billy, who won the national doubles title with Don McLaren in 1954 and who has been a member of bowling's All-American team for the past two years, said several developments in the sport have set the stage for major league competition they are:

1. The remarkable boom of the sport as a television attraction during the past two years has caused big-time sponsors, particularly in the beer industry, to seek major league competition that can be televised nationally on a regular schedule.
2. The refinement and modernization of the nation's 15,000 bowling establishments that followed the general adoption of automatic pin-spotting machines to replace pin boys.
3. The tremendous enthusiasm for bowling by women and girls during the past five years have made it America's biggest participation sport, with an estimated 30,000,000 persons rolling the balls each year.
4. Because of the unprecedented kegling boom, it is now possible for professional bowlers to concentrate on the sport and earn from $3,000 to $45,000 a year in competition.

Welu, one of the few tall men who ever became ace bowlers, is a member of the St. Louis Budweisers, winners of the American Bowling Congress national high series award for 1954-55 and 1955-56. At 25, his lifetime average in team competition is 212. He has rolled eight 300 games and three 800 series. He had a high series of 822. His highest sanctioned game was 299 and his highest sanctioned series is 779. Why is it that few tall men are good bowlers, he was asked. "Because their center of gravity is so high above the alley, and they have to develop a modified

Rhonda McMillan, publicity chairman for the Sanford Boat and Ski club said this morning that the possibility of having films taken of the coming Sanford Outboard Regatta next Sunday afternoon were "very good."

McMillan said that the club would initiate the action and be backed up by the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and possibly by WDBO-TV.

McMillan said that the local club would probably purchase the film and have it available for use by local organizations, for Don McMillan's TV sports program, and for promotional material for the Chamber of Commerce.

"Big time boat racing in Sanford is certainly a big boom to the county," McMillan said. "It will attract Florida visitors to Sanford. Our club is interested in exploiting the waterways of the county—they are beautiful and are inviting to many nature and leisure lovers."

McMillan said that the club would use the film, if the plans were decided upon to have the work done, to promote the Sanford Outboard Regatta next year.

"Our one aim now is to make the Sanford Outboard Regatta an annual affair," he said. "We want to grow, and Sanford and Seminole County will grow with it."

The Sanford Outboard Regatta is the fifth event in the famous Florida Grapefruit Circuit. The events run through the winter months and attract the nation's top racing boat drivers. At the end of the Grapefruit Circuit season the Colonel Green trophy, worth a total of $7,000 in prize moneys will be awarded to the top point man in the Circuit.

The Sanford Boat and Ski club will award $50 prize money for each of the two boats in the six race event and the Sanford Herald will present the Herald Victory Trophy to the high point man in Sunday's action. Joe Nicholas, commodore for the Sanford Boat and Ski Club said that he hoped a huge turnout would be on hand Sunday afternoon. "It's a tremendous undertaking to bring the nation's top race boat drivers to Sanford at no cost whatever to the spectators," Nicholas said. "We of the club just hope that the people turn out in droves to watch the event and that they are pleased and thrilled with what they see."

Co-ordination chairman Don Smith said this morning that all plans had been completed for the event. "We'll have another meeting Thursday night to synchronize our actions, but the boat racing plans have been completed," he said.

15 Speedsters Turn Out For Track Team

The call for track candidates was answered yesterday at Seminole High School by some 15 speedsters as coach Fred Ganas put the boys through their paces. Ganas profited a prosperous year for the Seminole speedsters. "We'll have some good material to field this year," Ganas said. "Boys like Jim Warner and many others should hit their peak."

Ganas said that the track program would have a twofold design this year. "We want to build all-around athletes," he said, "and the best way to do that is to build speed and coordination. Also we will emphasize track as a sport unto itself, and we'll have some boys trying hard to well represent Seminole High."

Ganas said that track was a challenge to any youngster. "It requires the very best in physical conditioning; it takes a lot of determination; and it builds a strong, healthy body," he said. Ganas said the repercussions from a strict regime, such as that required for the Mercury sport would be felt by the individual participant in his all-around living.

Questions Doctors Ask To Spot Possible Cancer

WILLIAM H. BISHOP, M.D.
A DOCTOR is no magician. He can't tell whether a person has cancer simply by looking at him. But he probably will be able to tell after asking a few simple questions and making a thorough, painless, physical examination.

Physical Checkup
 When you go in for a physical checkup—and you should have one at least once a year—your physician probably will ask you these following questions regarding possible symptoms of cancer:

Have you noticed any painless lumps or thickening, especially in the lip, tongue or breast?
 Have you at any time noticed any unusual bleeding from any natural body opening or from the nipples?

Any Sores?
 Have you any sores, particularly around the tongue, mouth or lips, that have refused to heal? Are your bowel habits regular? Have you noticed any change? Have you warts or moles? Has there been any change in any of these?

Are you bothered with persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing?
 Have you experienced any persistent hoarseness or unexplained cough?

Have you gained or lost weight recently? How is your appetite?
 With your answers as a guide, he will then examine your lips, cheeks (inside and out), tongue

Week Dental

1. Introduction
 (Dental disease is the most widespread disease in the country; Dentist assert there is little sound reason for the mounting statistics. In observance of National Children's Dental Health Week, Feb. 3 through 9, The Sanford Herald, in cooperation with the Seminole County Dent. Soc., today designs a series of articles designed to inform parents how their children can avoid the dental crippling that afflicts so much of the adult population today.)

Teeth are designed to last a lifetime. Yet nearly half the population over 40 has or needs artificial dentures. In a country with the finest dental know-how in the world, our dental health is scarcely a candidate for honors. This is the records:

Almost all persons suffer from dental disease at some time during their lives.
 Dental decay is the nation's most prevalent disease.

Twenty-five per cent of U. S. children are afflicted at some time with malocclusion—severe deforming irregularities of the teeth.

Among adults, the greatest single cause of loss of teeth is periodontal disease, so-called pyorrhea.

The weapons are at hand for a frontal attack on the major dental diseases. Dentists assert that the enormous problem of dental disease could be cut down to size if—and it is a big if—these weapons were put to use on a wide scale.

The key lies in prevention. Prevention against dental disease, beginning at an early age, dentists agree, is the most practical approach to curtailing the vast disease toll. They point out that, except for some unusual reason, the right dental health habits, begun early in life, should result in sound and healthy teeth that will last a lifetime.

In a message for Children's Dental Health Week, dentists set out this four-way program for children as the most effective means for maintaining good dental health:

1. Proper use of the toothbrush immediately after eating.
2. Emphasis on proper diet, especially the avoidance of snacks of sweet foods between meals.
3. Periodic dental examinations to detect and prevent early dental disease.
4. Water fluoridation to prevent about 60 per cent of dental decay that might otherwise occur.

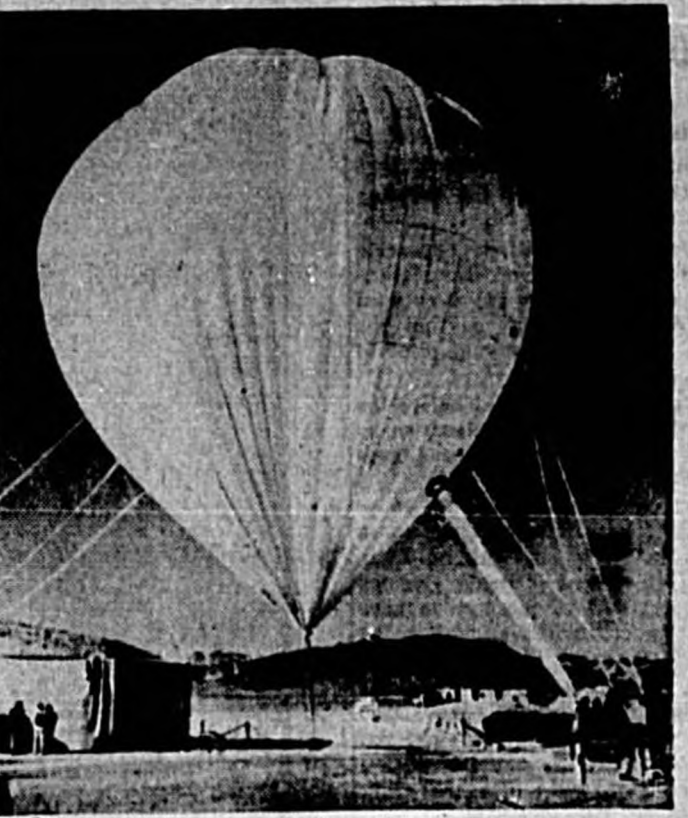

The fact is that the child's second teeth are designed to last a lifetime. Barring exceptional cases, they can and will last a lifetime if proper attention is given to the young child's dental health from the beginning.

Each year more than 14,000 Boy Scouts attain the coveted Eagle Scout rank.

STRENGTH FOR YOUR DAYS
 If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.—(1 John 1, 9.)

Confession, even to ourselves, of our sins, often comes hard because foolish pride, willfulness, stubbornness hold us back from acknowledging our weakness. But the Father's reward for His children's sincere penitence is wonderful and great.

Researcher Advises Against Extending 3 Pct. Sales Tax

TALLAHASSEE—One of the Citizens Tax Council's researchers has advised flatly against extending Florida's 3 per cent sales tax to other items such as food, low-cost clothing, medicine and gasoline.

Dr. LeRoy Qualls, of the University of Florida, told the council that the sales tax should not be broadened until it is shown clearly that the state must have additional revenues. The council will hold two days of public hearings here next week before preparing its recommendations to Gov. LeRoy Collins.

"Retention of the exemption of groceries, gasoline and medicine, although costing the state about $7 million dollars in 1958, is desirable to prevent an inequitable transfer of greater tax burdens to low-income families and low-income counties," Qualls said.

"Continued exemption of utility services is necessary because this class now is often subject to heavy municipal direct or indirect taxes."

Qualls, in fact, suggested sales tax exemptions should be extended. Office supplies, stationery and fertilizer should be exempt, he said, resulting in a revenue loss of $2,593,000 in the 1957-58 fiscal year.

And he recommended full exemption for industrial machinery and business equipment which would decrease revenue by $2,642,000 in 1958. He said a one per cent tax on total sales value of those items would raise collections by $4,877,000 and be preferable to the "present discriminatory exemption."

Should the state's financial situation demand new tax revenues, Qualls said, then he suggested bringing under the sales tax such items as personal services, repair and installation services—which would yield $11,620,000 in 1958—and the sale of motor vehicles.

But he said that if car sales are brought under the tax, the full 3 per cent rate should not be levied. He said a one per cent tax would yield $8,890,000 and 2 per cent would bring in $19,719,000.

If more money is really needed, he said, the present $10 exemption on clothing could be removed or a very low rate could be placed on real estate transfers.

The extension of the sales tax to alcoholic beverages and cigarettes, already under heavy state and federal excise taxes, "would be justified only if revenue needs become urgent," Qualls said.

He said removing exemptions on clothing, alcoholic beverages and cigarettes would yield $21,127,000 in 1958.

LAMB SHOULDER CHOPS, PIZZA STYLE
Yield: 1 chop per serving
 Choose 3/4-inch thick lamb shoulder chops, arm or blade bone, allowing 1 chop for each serving. Using a heavy frying pan or electric skillet, brown each chop carefully on both sides in a small amount of butter or drippings over moderate heat. Sprinkle each with salt, coarse-ground black pepper, garlic salt.
 Spread 1 tablespoon tomato paste over each chop, then sprinkle with 1/4 teaspoon of oregano. (Marjoram or thyme may be used.) Top each chop with a slice of Mozzarella cheese, without which Pizza is not Pizza. Spread the cheese with an additional teaspoon of tomato paste. Sprinkle liberally with chopped parsley, and, if you like, add strips of flat-packed anchovies.
 Cover the skillet tightly and simmer very slowly until chops are fork-tender, about 45 minutes. If molasses is needed, a bit of tomato juice, stock or water may be added. If desired, a thin slice of cheese may top each chop five minutes before serving. Serve piping hot.

Vocational School Announces New Shorthand Class

The Seminole County Vocational School announces the organization of a new Shorthand Class for beginners starting the latter part of this month. This class will be offered in the day program with Mrs. Gladys Hall as instructor. Registration for this class will begin Tuesday.

The evening program of the vocational school is accepting registrations now in Shorthand. This class is being offered only to students who have previously had Shorthand. This class is taught on Tuesday and Thursday nights with Miss Martha Simpson as instructor.

These classes in Shorthand are being offered to meet the increased demand from employers, for more capable general office workers. Since this area has many small business offices, there is a greater demand for office workers well trained in the combined areas of typing, shorthand and bookkeeping rather than in the individual specialist areas.

Students desiring to register for the Shorthand classes should contact the school either by phone or by personal visit. There is a $1.00 registration fee and no tuition charges.

THE OLD HOME TOWN By STANLEY

Citrus Exposition Opens Saturday

WINTER HAVEN—With what they describe as "outstanding and full cooperation from the industry," the officials of the Florida Citrus Exposition, which opens Saturday, said today they will present "the biggest and best citrus show in the history of the state."

"Although we have completely revised our format to present the citrus industry of Florida in all its segments and phases and have adopted some brand new policies, growers, such as those represented by Florida Citrus National, the Florida Citrus Commission, Florida Citrus Association and agencies have taken our word that we would present something entirely different from the past and have gone with us all the way," Winston Lawless, citrus grower and shipper, president of the Exposition, said today.

The opening day parade Saturday, starting at 9:30 a.m., will get the Exposition off to a good start, Lawless said, "and from then on—with the exception of Sunday—there will be something doing all the time and we hope to exceed, or the first time the $20,000 mark in its advance."

The opening day will be observed as "All Florida" and "Children's Day," Monday, Feb. 11, is to be "Imperial Polk County Day;" Tuesday, "Citrus and By-Products Day;" Wednesday, marking the close of the annual Florida Citrus Queen contest as "Coronation Day;" Thursday will be observed as "Fresh Fruit Day," with a 2 p.m. program in Nora Mayo Auditorium of the Florida citrus building featured by the awarding of prize in the annual fresh fruit competition. Friday is booked as "Agriculture Day" with a noon luncheon featuring Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, Governor LeRoy Collins, Senator Spessard Holland, and honoring Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo for 33 years of service. The closing day, Saturday, will be observed as "4-H and Future Farmers of America Day," featuring the best cattle exhibited by youngsters of the two groups.

Citrus men over the state have been invited to attend the revamped "Fruitmen's Dinner," designed to bring together hundreds of industry people—this to be staged Thursday at 4 p.m. in the National Guard Armory here. "We believe people will find this a refreshing feature and we will have more requests for tickets than we can handle," Lawless said.

Machines Squeeze Oranges Harder

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (U.P.)—Science has found there is a practical limit to how hard a machine can squeeze an orange in order to get out the very last drop of juice for concentration and freezing.

In our nation of orange juice drinkers, it has to be a matter of public concern that increasingly efficient machines have been squeezing oranges harder and harder.

Some 16 years ago a 90-pound box of Florida oranges yielded 494 ounces of juice for concentrating and then freezing into cans. Now the yield of a 90-pound box is around 717 ounces.

Mothers never bore down on an orange like that, and the investigations of two chemists now indicate that machines can't bear down on them much harder without squeezing so much juice from the peels as to make the over-all orange juice flavor disagreeable.

Lyle James Swift and M. K. Veldhuis of the U. S. Citrus Product Station at Winter Haven, Fla., gave a tasting panel of men and women pure orange peel juice to drink. All agreed that it was bitter.

When peel juice was added to whole orange juice to the amount of three per cent, a significant majority of the tasters detected it.

The scientists made very detailed chemical comparisons among orange peel, juice, commercial orange juice concentrates, and the juice which they themselves ex-

Quotes From News

By UNITED PRESS
UNITED NATIONS — Ambassador Abdel Monem Rifai of Jordan, announcing the Asian-African bloc will demand economic or military measures against Israel and perhaps its expulsion from the United Nations.

"The group has decided to start drafting immediately a resolution calling for sanctions against Israel because of her failure to comply with U.N. resolutions on withdrawal for Egypt."

WASHINGTON — Assistant Defense Secretary Chf reporting

tracted from segments of oranges with sufficient but not undue hand pressure. They also compared early season oranges with mid-season and late-season ones.

In solids dissolvable in water, the peel juice was somewhat and irregularly higher, but in total sugars and sucrose there wasn't much to choose from between peel and pulp. In all categories the hand-pressed segment juice and the machine-pressed whole orange juice were comparable.

Interestingly there were marked breakdowns of early, mid, and late season oranges. Sucrose content increased as the season progressed and so late oranges were higher in total sugars. But the juice of early season oranges was higher in vitamin C than late season oranges. The difference was almost eight to one, the chemists said in a report to a technical journal of the American Chemical Society.

WASHINGTON—Commerce Secretary Socialis Weeks apparently taking issue with President Eisenhower by announcing the administration is not disposed to impose inflation breaking government controls on prices and wages: "I just instinctively recoil from controls in a free economy."

MIAMI — Michael Godula, Jr., 26, a one-time Pittsburgh Pirates batboy, telling police he stole thousands of dollars to play the stock market, repay his victims with profit and make enough to buy the Pirates: "The Pirates did me wrong. They promised me I could be a baseball scout or baseball player."

ROSCILARE, ILL.—John Reed, a 28-year-old miner whose life was saved by fellow miner Grant Ralph when an estimated 100 tons of semi-liquid mud threatened to bury him, praising Ralph: "If it hadn't been for him, the mud would have covered me up."

WASHINGTON—Dezso Fonyagy, a 36-year-old Hungarian machinist, telling the Senate Internal Security subcommittee Hungarian freedom fighters will again revolt if they do not receive help from the West: "Even if they have to be exterminated, they are not going to live under Soviet rule. It is going to be a finish fight."

Osceola Site Top Priority For Base

A SCALE MODEL of the proposed Docks and Terminals project which was included in the survey revealed last night by W. M. Bostwick at a meeting of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors. The model was prepared by John Burton IV, local architect. ### Docks, Terminals Proposed For Sanford In Bostwick Survey

Sanford and Seminole County Central Florida area. "Sanford and Seminole County at right in the middle of it," he said.

"In 1948 Seminole County was basically an agricultural economy and you believe in it," Bostwick stated.

He then commented that "for a long time the Central Florida Area" has "been competitive with Jacksonville and Tampa and now you want a bigger population so that you can do more business."

From graphs, prepared for last night's meeting, Bostwick demonstrated the "normal" growth of Sanford and Seminole County with an accelerated economy. The graphs illustrated industrial growth, population growth, and individual income.

"Agricultural resource is something in the past," he explained as he further added that "is a good resource but does not have the value of the 1930's or the 1940's."

Bostwick recommended a municipal owned warehouse for a service to the people as he explained that "an individual could not stand the five-year loss."

"It's bound to click," he said and added that the warehouse would be self-supporting in five years. "113 businesses in the Sanford-Orlando area are using warehouse facilities of some kind," Bostwick said as he pointed out that a warehouse is the only way you can turn toward building a bigger population and attracting new industry and new business—for it is the only way that you can combine the resources you have at your disposal.

"The building of a warehouse is one that offers the greatest benefit to all," Bostwick pointed out to the Chamber of Commerce leaders, and added, "this is a challenge to the center of the

Mrs. D. K. McNab Named New Pilot Club President

Mrs. D. K. McNab was elected president of the Pilot Club at a meeting of the group held in the Yacht Club last night with Mrs. Sue S. Stevenson presiding.

Mrs. McNab, assistant manager of the Credit Bureau of Sanford, has been a Sanford resident for approximately 30 years. She has been a member of the Pilot Club for a number of years and in addition to serving as first vice president, has been chairman of numerous committees and is pianist for the club.

A member of the First Baptist Church, Mrs. McNab is pianist for the Primary Department. She attended the University of Florida and was a teacher in the Lake Monroe and Sanford schools for a number of years.

Other officers elected to serve with Mrs. McNab include Mrs. Walter L. Carter, first vice president; Mrs. J. P. Hall, second vice president; Mrs. R. M. Hall, recording secretary; Mrs. M. L. Rabin Sr., corresponding secretary; Mrs. B. E. Chapman, two year director.

The club voted to finish paying its obligation of $500 to the Seminole Memorial Hospital toward the Pilot Club room. The obligation which was to have been paid in a three year period, will be paid in full within the first year.

Egypt Will Allow Shipping If Israeli Troops Withdraw

WASHINGTON — Egypt has informed United Nations Secretary Dag Hammarskjold that it will allow Israeli shipping to pass through the Gulf of Aqaba if Israeli troops withdraw from Egyptian territory, informed sources said today.

This assurance was relayed by Hammarskjold to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who, in turn, passed it on to Abba Eban, Israeli ambassador to the United States.

This was the key development which enabled Dulles to come up with his new plan aimed at getting remaining Israeli forces to withdraw from Egyptian territory and at providing Israel some assurances of protection from future Egyptian attacks.

Israel today was giving Dulles' plan urgent study, but there was no indication whether it would be accepted.

U. S. officials warned, however, that if the plan is not accepted, the United States would go along with an almost-certain move in the United Nations to apply sanctions against Israel for refusing a U. N. order to withdraw its troops.

Navy Official Outlines Facts On Proposal

Senator Forwards Statement

No decision has been reached on the location of a Naval Air Station, Sixth District, according to a letter to Senator George Smathers from Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas.

Because of congestion and the use of the Navy's latest and most modern jet aircraft it has been proposed that a new area be used for the operation of the Navy's local air group.

Secretary of the Navy Thomas, in his letter to Senator Smathers, stated that a certain amount of confusion has arisen from the Navy's proposal to establish two new jet air bases in the Sixth Naval District.

"I am therefore taking this opportunity to advise you of the facts concerning the purpose and status of these two proposed activities in order to clear up any misunderstanding which may still exist," he said.

The Secretary of the Navy referred to them as "Base Yoke" and the "Naval Air Station, Sixth District." The Base Yoke referred to is an addition to the Naval Air Base Training Command and is proposed for location in the Panamaola Area of Florida or nearby Alabama.

Thomas stated that the Naval Air Station, Sixth Naval District, is a proposed replacement for the Naval Air Station, Sanford and is proposed for location within convenient operating distance of existing facilities in the Jacksonville airfield complex. This does not mean that the local Naval Air Station has been found inadequate or will be moved to any other area of the south, either Georgia or Florida. It is merely the replacement of facilities expanded to make room for existing jet aircraft which may be located at the proposed Osceola strip in Seminole County.

The Osceola area continues to be a top priority location with four runways, according to high Navy officials and civilian engineers and officials.

One high Navy official stated that "the economy of the area has been established and we do not want to disturb that economy in any way."

Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Manager John Krider, this morning, said "We don't appreciate statements which are misleading—it seems unnecessary to keep our people confused." After he had read reports of "not feasible" circulated earlier in the day.

"The Navy already owns 1,500 acres in the Osceola area," a Navy official said and added "If a new base is built the present Sanford Naval Air Station will un-

Concert Assn.'s Last Attraction Set Friday Night

The Festival Symphonette, a unique musical organization, will be the next and last attraction scheduled to appear this year in Seminole Mutual Concert Association. The concert, which will take place in the Pinecrest School Auditorium on Friday night at 8 p. m. is expected to be one of the finest events of the local music season.

Composed of some of the finest instrumentalists from America's greatest symphony orchestras, The Festival Symphonette will also feature four top soloists—soprano, baritone, harp and violin. Robert Rode, conductor and violin soloist is recognized as one of this country's most illustrious musicians. He has won acclaim both in the U. S. and in Europe, both as conductor and violinist. In addition, he has a fine stage personality which will be utilized in introducing each artist to the audience.

Elizabeth Winslow, gifted young lyric soprano, has been soloist with the Collegiate Chorale under Robert Shaw, and was soloist with the Robert Shaw Chorale on their national tour in 1954-55. She has

Allamonte To Have Property Appraised By Professional

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS—Altamonte Springs Town Council voted unanimously at its Monday night meeting to hire Dowling Appraiser C. A. Bradenton, to appraise all real property within the town limits of Altamonte Springs at a contract price of $1,200 initial fee and for each subsequent year at $300 plus cost, at the option of the Council.

The only complaints heard were from Mr. and Mrs. Fred Faulhaber, who voiced their strenuous objection to procuring a professional appraiser, because of a referendum held here in 1954 defeating the action of hiring a professional appraiser at that time. However Town Attorney Wilson Alexander ruled that the referendum was only to sound the people out and is not binding at this time.

The council also read qualifications of former Orange County law enforcement officer who is making application for the job as police chief in Altamonte Springs. A special meeting was set for Saturday at 3 p. m. to take action on this and to approve the amendment to the town charter to provide that the Clerk be hired by the Council, whereas it now provides that the clerk-assessor-treasurer be an elective office. Upon its approval here it will be sent to State Legislature for its passage during the 1957 session.

Other motions were: To discontinue garbage collections now being made by the town, outside the city limits, effective April 1; to seal insulate and complete other necessary work in the recreation room and kitchen of the fire house at an estimated figure of from four to five hundred dollars; to move the town's administrative offices to that location as soon as work has been finished; to purchase 25 new metal folding chairs for the town's use; to install a new motor on the park water pump at a cost of $37.50 from F. F. French well drilling firm; Mayor W. L. Swoford was authorized to spend $100 for laying streets in town.
