SEMINOLE COUNTY - They broke out the gold shovels on Monday, proving it was a done thing. There will be an interchange at Interstate-4 and County Road 46A. No more delays, no more setbacks. The interchange some feared would never be, will be.

Rep. John Mica, proud of hisimmense contribution to the making of the interchange. came to the groundbreaking ceremony rather than accompanying Vice President Al Gore on a tour of Central Florida wildfire sites.

Mica and the others stood at a podium aurrounded by oak trees just off from the facetiously named Limbo Court. The interchange project had been in limbo for the good part of 12 years when frozen foods king Jeno Paulucci advised local leaders of its need.

Paulucci, like Mica, wouldn't have missed Monday's groundbreaking for all the pizza in China. "Jeno Paulucci has been with this from the beginning," said Seminole County Commissioner Randy Morris. 'Many of the other players have changed, but he's been there all along."

Morris predicted today that once all the work is done - the interchange construction on 30-plus acres will take two years - the area will have "the hest secondary road system" in the state. In addition to the interchange, 46A will be widened and work begun on Grant Line Rd. which will nin parallel to Rinchart Rd.

It was Morris who helped form interlocal agreements by the county, the cities of Lake Mary and Sanford and helped negotiate for land acquisitions. Meanwhile, moneys that were expected from Washington were removed once and put into other projects. Mica, a member of the Transportation Committee, helped get them back.

The I-4 corridor in Seminole is considered a hot corporate zone. The prospect of the interchange has persuaded more than 2 dozen companies to move or expand their headquarters there. A half dozen hotels have been built, also. There are terrible backups at the Lake Mary Blvd. Interchange that will be eased with the new interchange. Work on the interchange begins next week with the digging of drainage ponds and laying out and moving dirt for the exit ramps. The construction will cost $9.9 million and provide some necessary nuisances to travelers until complete. There will be some rolling roadblocks at night on 1-4 when working Piesse Bes Interchange, Page 3A

Main Street taps Kuhn as director By Nick Pfeifusf

HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - From victims' advocate to downtown advocate. Linda Kuhn is switching jobs from the State Attorney's Office to program director of Sanford Main Street. She assumes her new post effective July 13.

She has acrved in the criminal justice field for over 20 years, most recently as a victim witness coordinator at the office of State Attorney Norm Wolfinger. A spokeswoman at her former office indicated Kuhn had always been involved (in her spare time) with helping Sanford and the downtown area "Now she can do it and get paid for it."

Kuhn is a long-time Sanford resident. She moved to the area at the age of 12 when her father, in the U.S. Navy, was transferred to the Sanford Naval Air Station. She graduated from Seminole High School.

Regarding taking over the directorship of Sanford Main Street, "I can't any I have specific plans for improvements right away," she said.

"What I want to get started on though, is research on ways we can make the downlown community better." She said there is a sense of community already in existence, but she intends to attempt getting more inter-group participation.

"There are so many different organizations that often have similar purposes," Kuhn commented. "They all have the best interests of the city at heart. But how much better it would be if we could get everyone working toward the same end." With that, she stressed she doesn't mean merging any of the groups. They all have a specific purpose and shouldn't be denied the opportunity to pursue it, but when it comes to overall downtown development, just think of what can be done if we all work together."

in commenting on the proposed hotel and conference center at Fort Mellon Park, she said she was in favor of the project. "And Sanford Main Street, under the leadership of President Bob Parsell, has publicly declared support of it Piesso Boo Kuhn, Page 4A

Jeno has something to crow about

Under the old oak trees near the facetiously named Limbo Court, the rich and infamous gathered Monday morning for a joyful exchange about an interchange.

Sure enough after nearly a decade of delays, the interstate-4/County Road 46A Interchange is about to break from Limbo. There was a groundbreaking Monday. Work begins in two weeks.

Rep. John Mica save up an opportunity to accompany Vice President Al Gore Monday in order to attend the groundbreaking, "It's good to be home." Micasaid. "even if there is smoke our eyes. This will go away. The new interchange will stay.

No one seemed more pleased at the groundbreaking than the great American entrepreneur Jeno F. Paulucci, who envistoned and championed the construction of the interchange a decade ago. The naysayers were many including the brass at the paper that likes to believe it wakes up the city.

Paulucci had a gift for a certain editor at that paper - a handsome black crow.

He joked about there being a "Pizza Exit" to the Interchange in respect to Jeno's Pizza. Today, Jeno is smiling after being hailed for being a visionary. "The rest of

The cemetery is located at the corner of 46A and Rinehart Rd.

Sanford Mayor Larry Dale said the interchange is a boom to his city and to the entire county. He is hopeful that the plans to build a waterfront/conference center will

African-American freedom celebration a success

By Marva Hawkins HERALD CORRESPONDENT

SANFORD - The first Junteenth celebration observed June 20 in the Midway area of Sanford was deemed a success as related by Pastor Leonard Wilson of the St. Matthews Baptist Church.

This was the first of what is hoped to be an annual affair. Wilson and chairperson Cynthia K. Oliver said that the true African-American freedom date gives emphasis to education and achievement and states to the community the real true meaning.

Juneteenth Day was truly a celebration. It was a time for reflections and rejoicing, a day for self-improvement and planning futures.

A parade set the day in motion. Participating were community groups, church groups, Seminole County Sheriff's Office, Sanford City Commis-stoners Velma Williams and Brady Lessard, Community Development Office, Charles Rowe, Seminole County Fire Department, Orange County Representative Ella J. Gilmore, a native of Midway and Sanford, former Midway retired teachers, Seminole HOPE, Elks, NAACP, and the Central Florida Junk Anoo Goombay entertainers.

The parade culminated at the lot of the future home of the St. Matthew Church where city, county and community leaders spoke to the people. Midway Elementary Steppers already," she added. "I think it would be an extreme asset to downtown Sanford, and would help us meet many needs well into the future for making improvements and progressing."

Barnes-

Continued from Page LA said Monday. "The issues have been mitigated and he came back to work today. No matter what, his job is back. He's on his own with the 5-day suspension grievance."

City Commissioner Velma Williams said she was "clated" the Arthur Barnes case was coming to a conclusion. "This embarrassed everyone. The Board of Commissioners is embarrassed, Chief Dillard is embarrassed. Officer Barnes is embarrassed. It's been consuming too much of the city's time.

A review of the case by City Personnel Director Tim McCauley addressed a need by those at the SPD to cut down on the cussing. There were indications, too, that some officers may have conspired to get Barnes by telling others to testify against him.

McCauley said that there was not sufficient evidence to charge Barnes with negligence in the automobile accident that touched off a bizarre string of events. Barnes complained immediately about an unfair ruling and said he was not informed when the hearing was being heard. Barnes was the second officer fired by the SPD this year. Earlier, investigator Terry Mullins was dismissed for smoking a cigarette when told by a superior to put it out. Mullins, like Barnes, was an 11-year veteran of the force. He was fired for smoking and for insubordination. He, too, is lighting the dismissal and has had the aid of the FOP.

A $50,000 independent study of the SCD disclosed serious "flaws" and lack of communication in the department, leading to discussions to either reconstruct the SPD, use the Sheriff's Office for specific assignments or to turn the law enforcement service in the city to the Sheriff's Department.

Given the go-ahead to straighten out the situation internally and work with the Sheriff's Office in projects such as the Goldsboro area, Dillard and his staff initiated a number of changes. One of his plans was for a Buddies in Blue program and Community Policing. Today. Officer Arthur Barnes was once again one of the Buddies and the community seemed to approve.

"Good, let's all get back to work," Commissioner Williams said.

Overall," she added, "what we want to do as quickly as possible with Sanford Main Street is to develop a better sense of community. If we all work together for common goals, we will succeed."

The PGA needs to loosen up

SANFORD _ You know what's great about Matt Kuchar and his dad?

They're one, or two, of us. And not just because they live in Seminole County.

They are golfers who love the game.

Kuchar is Seminole High School's, and Lake Mary's latest hometown hero. He and his dad, Peter, an insurance man who owns the family's home in Heathrow, are the latest darlings of the PGA Tour even though Matt isn't even a member of it yet, at least not until he declares professional status.

Until then, he's just a sophomore at Georgia Tech who shows up every couple of majors, with his dad carrying his bag, and finds his way onto the first page of the leader board.

He did it at the Masters in April and was actually alone in second at the U.S. Open two weeks ago before fading, credibly, down the stretch.

Matt and Peter are two of the most talkedabout pieces of news on the Tour. It's the classic father and son story.

In fact. It was Father's Day and Matt's birthday last Sunday in San Francisco at the Open.

They belong to us.

Senior All-Stars give Altamonte Springs Babe Ruth program fourth championship

SANFORD Four tournaments, 12 wins, no losses. You can't do any better than that. The eldest of the Altamonte Springs All Star teams improved even on what their little brothers. did last weekend as they crushed the competition in the Babe Ruth Baseball Sentor Division District Tournament on Rinker-Stenstrom Field at Historic Sanford Memorial Stadium this past weekend. Playing in the Winner's Bracket finals Saturday morning, Smith struck out 12 and allowed only four hits over the first five innings as Altamonte Springs mashed the Sanford All-Stars, which had beaten the Oviedo All-Stars 17-9 in the opening game on Friday night. 10-1

Roberts was the big hitter for Altamonte Springs, going 3 for 4 with a triple and two doubles, scored two runs and drove in two as the South Seminole County squad used a pair of three-run innings to open the lead up.

Sanford then bounced back in the Loser's Bracket Anal as Donta Harper hurled a three-hitter and Tomas Berrios drove in four runs as the hosts ousted Oviedo 6-1.

But Sanford could not carry the momentum over to Sunday as Altamonte Springs used a three-run second inning to get the scoring going, then closed out a 20-1 victory with a 13 run fifth inning

To make matters even worse for Sanford, or so much the better for Altamonte Springs, was the fact that Lee tossed a no-hitter at the hosts, striking out seven.

Altamonte Springs got on the scoreboard immediately in Saturday's game as Roberts doubled with one out, moved over to third on a wild pitch and scored on a single by Devito.

An error, a wild pitch and an RBI single by Reynolds scored three runs for Altamonte Springs in the second inning and the rout was on.

The winners added two runs in the fourth inning, a single run in the fifth inning and three runs in the sixth inning before Sanford got its lone run in the bottom of the Please see Seniors, Page 6A and buy him a beverage in the ciubnous Unfortunately, a lot of people, especially those on the Tour, don't like it very much. Players complained when Peter got excited as Matt made putt after putt to stay in contention last week.

The veteran Justin Leonard, all of 25 years old, got surly when asked about having to play with Matt Kuchar and his dad. Refused to comment after the match even though Matt kicked his butt and captivated the gallery while doing it.

Other players are saying Peter should be seen and not heard.

Forget that.

He and his son are making golf fun again. As awesome as Tiger Woods can be when he's on his A or even B or C game, how often does he look like he's having fun without the prompting of some official from Nike?

Peter is a happy dad. Who wouldn't be when you're son is enjoying his lifelong dream and you get to walk right beside him while he does it.

Why should Peter Kuchar care what a bunch of grumpy, old 25-year-olds have to say about it?

At one time, didn't Justin Leonard and the other young guns of the tour, feel just as excited about draining a putt or hitting a perfect long iron into a tight green?

Today's pros tend to work in tunnel vision, practicing their Princess Di waves coming down the 18th with the lead. No one smiles, no one gets hurt.

Now the Kuchars are reminding people like you and me, the duffers, that golf is fun.

We all take pride in making that par or two each round, knocking one straight off the tee, clearing the water.

All of us smile, whoop it up, and remember that we're out there to have fun and maybe pick up a few bucks in the process.

But that isn't good enough for some members of the Tour who are complaining that the Kuchars are having too much fun. Too bad. Let's hope that Matt doesn't ever stop smiling and remembering how much fun he's having.

Let's hope Peter never forgets the thrill of caddying for his pride and joy on the biggest day of his son's life.

He did nothing but act like a dad, not afraid to show the whole world that he was pretty darned proud of his son.

Let's hope that the rest of the Tour remembers what it was like when they were once Matt Kuchar.

SANFORD _ A playoff is looming ever-larger in the future of the Sanford Recreation Department Spring Co-Ed Slow Pitch Softball League.

Monday night at Pinchurst Park, co-leaders Beer :30 and Kempke Music Service both coasted to easy victories and moved to within one win of forcing a playoff.

The night opened with MJO using a six RBI night by Ruben Garcia to move into third place with a 22-2 victory over the Seminole Scoop. Beer :30 then took little bites (scoring two runs in each of the first five innings) before coming up with a four-run sixth inning to close out a 14-2 triumph over Maronda Homes.

Lizards: Successful modern reptiles

Lizards make up one of the most diverse and successful groups of modern reptiles. They occur in an incredible variety of habi-tats, and their bodies are well adapted to climb trees, glide through the air, burrow in the soil, or race along the ground, Liz-ards feed mostly on insects and other small invertebrates, making them economically important to man as natural pest controls. They play an important role in the survival of many larger lizards, birds, mammals, and snakes since they depend on the availability of lizards as food.

People

Lisarde:

We call lizards any reptile with four legs, scaly skin and long tails including anoles, geckos, and skinks. Some types of lizards even resemble snakes. Unlike snakes, liz-ards have eyelids that blink, tongues that are not forked, and ear openings. Fortu-nately Florida lizards are not poisonous.

Anoles are the most commonly seen liz-ards in Florida. Most people call anoles "chameleons" due to the green anole's ability to change color, however, anoles are only distantly related to the chameare only distantly related to the chame-leon, and in fact are more closely related to the iguana. Anoles are small lizards that are adept at climbing trees, shrubs, fences and walls. They are frequently seen bask-ing in the sun or hunting insects around Florida homes. They do not chew their food but swallow it whole. Male anoles have a large throat fan which is often dis-played, along with "push-ups" and head-bobbing behaviors when they court or de-fend territories. Florida has only 1 native species of anole, the green anole, it is 5-8 inches long and has the ability to change its color from green to brown. It can be its color from green to brown. It can be distinguished from exotic anoles by its long pointed snout and the pinkish throat fan of the male. Anoles lay their tiny white eggs in moist places, which may include the soil around your potted plants. Anoles shed their skin, but the old skin does not come off in one place like that of a snake. Color Changes: The green anole can change color from green to brown and vice versa. These changes are stimulated by their surroundings, temperature and emotions. A hormone called "intermedin" secreted by the pituitary gland is responsible for these changes. This hormone is carried by the bloodstream to special color cells where it causes changes in the concentration of pigments. As expected, the pituitary gland is near the part of the anole's brain responsible for emotions. When anoles are on green vegetation or light background they are colored green. As they move to a darker background their skin turns brown. When temperatures are over 70 degrees F, they tend to remain green, but cold weather makes them turn brown.

Geckos are stout lizards that are well adapted for climbing. If you notice lizards around your home at night they are probably geckos. They have big catlike eyes for hunting at night, with pupils that contract to slits in the daylight and wide in the dark. Many geckos have adapted to living in, on, or around houses since these attract insects, their favorite prey. The gecko returns this favor by keeping our neigh-borhood pests under control. It is amazing to watch a gecko in action. With adhesive toe pads it can run over a windowpane and across a ceiling as if to defy gravity! If this climbing skill is not enough to keep from being caught by a predator, the gecko can escape by relying on its ability to shed its tail in an instant. This escape mechanism is used so often it is almost impossible to find an adult with its original tail. The reef gecko is Florida's smallest native lizard, reaching a maximum length of 2 inches. The head and body are brown, and the scales are keeled, giving it a rough appear-ance. It is easy to tell the female from the male by the 2 yellow stripes she has behind her head. Stinks:

Skinks are smooth, shiny, active lizards that may be seen scurrying quickly along the ground in search of insects. At first glance they may resemble small snakes due to their tiny limbs and cylindrical bodies. To escape from predators trying to catch them, skinks have tails that break off easily. The tail continues moving as an additional distraction while the skink runs away. Some species also have tails that are a brighter color than their bodies, good lures to keep predators from attacking their heads. Skinks are among the few lizards to demonstrate any parental care. The female skink will guard her eggs after laying them, sometimes remaining colled around them, until they hatch.
