Congress-I (For Indira)

Even Indira Gandhi may have been surprised at her success in the Indian elections. At best she had been given a chance at heading a coalition government. As it turned out, her new "Congress-I" party (I for Indira) won a commanding majority in parliament, assuring her return to power.

This seals the remarkable political comeback of a woman who left office in disgrace less than three years ago, facing charges of corruption and abuse of her powers as prime minister during a 21-month "national emergency."

It also reaffirms an old truth from history. It can be easier to depose an autocratic leader than to govern in his — or her — place. The coalition led by Morarji Desai and the Janata party, which picked up the pieces in 1977, never succeeded in getting a grip on India's multifarious political, social and economic problems. With "law and order" a growing issue, even those who had been most critical of the Gandhi regime had shown a willingness to forgive and forget.

Ironically, the elections which reinstated a leader who played loose with constitutional freedoms may have represented a high point for Indian democracy. There were 4,663 candidates running for 528 seats in parliament, an extraordinary level of participation in the electoral process. What this revealed, however, was a breakdown in the strength of traditional political alignments — a development which Mrs. Gandhi could exploit as a shrewd and imaginative campaigner.

The earlier Gandhi government brought a distinct anti-American, pro-Soviet tilt to what was advertised as a "neutral" foreign policy. While Mrs. Gandhi is promising new measures to deal with inflation and other domestic problems, India's neighbors will be more concerned about how she views the crisis developing over the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. Obviously, that concern extends as well to Washington.

Head Count The haste over whether to count or not to count illegal aliens in the upcoming census can be put in the tempest-in-a-teapot category.

The Census Bureau has been in the business of headcounting since 1790 and should be able to go about the job without this sort of giggling. It already has printed its questionnaires and they don't ask if the person or family interviewed in this country legally or illegally.

Vincent P. Barabba, director of the census, said in San Francisco recently that a federal court challenge against inclusion of illegal aliens in the census could delay the start of the population count by at least a year. Barabba should be allowed to go about his task without any challenges in the courts.

Traditionally, the poor in our nation have been the hardest to tally. They are not unlike many in the more affluent areas, have a basic mistrust of anything that smacks of government.

And if a segment of legal residents are reluctant to speak to census takers, the chance of any meaningful listing of illegals in the fields and migrant worker camps, where many have a poor knowledge of the English language or the importance of the census, is next to nil.

On the other hand, urban and minority group leaders want the census to be as complete as possible, even to listing those here illegally, for an obvious reason. More than $50 billion a year in federal aid to local governments is distributed at least in part on the basis of the population count. The decennial census is to start April 1. Court challenges shouldn't be allowed to disrupt it.

AFGHANISTAN — The grand Soviet strategy in lower Asia calls for the dismemberment of Afghanistan, Pakistan and Iran into separate ethnic states. Then the Soviets will pick up the pieces and absorb them, one by one, into the U.S.S.R.

This is the sobering, secret assessment of intelligence analysts who have watched the Soviet sweep into Afghanistan with deafening alarm. The Central Intelligence Agency saw the strategy developing long before Soviet troops rolled into Afghanistan.

It would give the Russians a foothold on both the Persian Gulf and the Indian Ocean — warm water ports that the USSR sorely dreamed about in past years. But far more is at stake than mere seaports; the Russian bear would like to get its paws on Iran's fabulous oil fields.

The Persian Gulf is not only the main source of Western oil; it is also the jugular vein which carries life blood to the industrial world. The Russians have already moved its Algerian oil lines, which are less than 100 miles from Persian Gulf oil on the jet line.

This narrow exit from the Persian Gulf is the choke point where the Soviets could block the Western lifeline. Then they could have a powerful bargaining position in any future negotiations over Persian Gulf oil.

The Soviets, meanwhile, are expected to maneuver dangerously closer to the edge of world war, taking precautions all the while to avoid it. A secret CIA strategic review, assessing the prospect of a future Soviet move against Iran, says:

"It is entirely possible that the Soviets would use the Afghan and the Pakistani armies as proxy forces to form a surrogate army, thus avoiding the use of Soviet troops and a major confrontation with the United States."

"As such events unfolded, the CIA scenario continues, 'the United States as well as other (allies) would be called on to support both Pakistan and Iran ... which would cause a further spread of the war.'"

"The United States, ... would be required to commit military resources of some nature ..."

Already, the Soviets have raised destroying claims and antagonizing the Muslim world. They are using the war as a most powerful advertisement. The United States and China, clear together, the United States and the American continent over the Persian Gulf oil issue. In the opinion of the analysts, the Soviets would have taken such enormous risks for the sake of Afghanistan — a black, arid, landlocked country shared by man and nature. It is a land of steep, jagged, snow-capped mountains, of barren, blazing desert, of primitive, mud-walled villages.

With pervasive pride, the Afghan call their country "the land of the fur and the fan" because it is bedeviled by extreme temperature variations. It is harsh country, poor in resources, and barely possible live there. Their fighting men have wandered into the caves and crevices of mountains as rugged as they are called the Hindu Kush, meaning the "killer of Hindus." One day, they may be required to "kill" the Soviets because a lot of Russians will surely die in those mountains before Afghanistan is tamed.

No, the Russian Bear did not bite off this indigestible piece of earth, with any idea that it would be a jigsaw puzzle. The plan lies beyond the loving mountains, beyond the dry deserts, beyond the dusty steps of Afghanistan. Intelligence specialists believe the Kremlin has already started to look toward the great strategy. As early as 1976, the Soviets were split off an independent Pakistan from Afghanistan and Pakistan. Presumably, Soviet troops will now expedite the process of the Soviet invasion. It also promises special attention to requests from Inner Circle backers.

While Seminole County prep football teams came out on the short end of the stick against the Metro Conference this past season, county basketball squads are more than making up for those pigskin losses to their Orlando rivals.

Not a whole lot of shakin' took place in the Florida State prep basketball poll this week. Local entry Seminole held its number five spot while fellow Five Star Conference foe Mainland firmly anchored its number three rating.

What's nice to see is that Orange Belt Conference members Bishop Moore and Oviedo, who both battled it out for the conference title, both made the also receiving votes category this week for 3A squads.

There are some people who don't have to be told anything twice, and there are others who ought to be. They are the millions of Americans who undergo non-emergency surgery every year, too many of whom may be doing so without first getting a second opinion as to the necessity of an operation.

It's not that a second professional evaluation of an individual's medical condition is difficult to obtain. It's simply that most prospective surgical patients aren't informed as to the advisability of further consultation or don't bother to seek it.

Ear Noise Can Come From Poor Arteries

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 32-year-old mother of two boys in fairly good health. I was born with a heart murmur which was discovered when I was an infant. My parents were told the hole in my heart would close on its own by the time I reached 10. Nothing was ever said about it again.

All this time I thought my murmur had corrected itself but about five years ago my heart began to beat in my left ear very loudly. I thought it was my hearing so I went to an ear specialist but he said no. I went to a general practitioner, who confirmed that I still had the murmur but he said it was not a heart specialist the first thing he'd want to do would be to want to operate.

I've tried living with the noise but it's very loud and I think it's louder than it was a few years ago. Not only do I hear the heartbeat but there's a loud rushing sound like blood rushing through my head rapidly. It interferes with my hearing, especially on the phone and I have to ask people to repeat what they're saying. If I press against the left side of my neck, which I do sometimes in order to hear well, the noise stops.

If you do not happen to have heart trouble, the noise in your ear is caused by something else and also deserves attention. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 12-10, Help For Tinnitus: Noise Or Ringing In The Ear. Other readers who have ear noises from any cause and want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1581, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10101.

Today many people with tinnitus defects of the heart can have them corrected. Often once the anatomical defect is corrected, it's the same as having a normal heart.

Dr. Lamb

Violent Endings Shotgun Killing: Local Man Held

A Sanford man is in jail this morning, charged with murdering his girlfriend's daughter at the apartment Tuesday night.

James Swain, 21, of 14 Cowan Moughlon Terrace, is charged with killing Mary Williams, 21, of 73 Seminole Garden Apartments, Tuesday night, said Sanford Detective William Bernosky.

Ms. Williams died just outside Swain's apartment, shot once in the abdomen at close range with a 12-gauge shotgun, Bernosky said.

Police, responding to calls about the shooting from neighbors, arrested Swain on their arrival, Bernosky said. He is being held without bail, pending first appearance in court this afternoon. The murder weapon was found near the abdomen at close range and was Swain's gun.

Police have responded to many reports of family disputes involving Swain, Ms. Williams and her mother Dorothea, said Bernosky, saying Dorothea Williams, a cook at the Goldboro School, is Swain's girlfriend. Mrs. Williams was reportedly unemployed.

Illnesses Kill Couple

A wrong turn during a rush to the hospital apparently led to the deaths of two elderly Midland residents early Tuesday morning, said Sheriff's department spokesman John Spolaki.

Paul A. and Glesca M. Peterson, of Beardall Avenue, were found dead at 8 a.m. Tuesday outside their car, which was stuck in a ditch less than a block from their home.

An investigation indicates Mrs. Peterson was being rushed to the hospital suffering from a blood clot in her heart, when her husband made a wrong turn, said Sheriff John Polk. As he tried to back up and turn around, Mr. Peterson ran his car off the road into a ditch.

As they attempted to move the car, Mrs. Peterson, 60, died from the clot in her heart, and slipped into the water-filled ditch, according to autopsy results. Her husband, 69, a retired carpenter, apparently died of a heart attack while trying to rescue her. Both deaths occurred between 2 a.m. and 3 a.m., according to Seminole Medical Examiner G. V. Garay, who performed autopsies on the couple Tuesday. They had both reportedly been in poor health.

The deaths at first were considered suspicious because both bodies were found outside the car with no sign of an accident or any other obvious cause of death. Deputies and state highway patrolmen conducted investigations, which ended when it was determined the two had died of natural causes.

Nashville Group Wins Hospital Sweepstakes

The hospital sweepstakes ended last night as the Seminole County Board of Commissioners approved the proposal of Hospital Corporation of America to build a new hospital in the Sanford area.

A Nashville-based, for-profit group, HCA is the largest proprietary hospital organization in the world, said Commission Chairman Bill Kirchoff. The corporation won out over Florida Hospital and the Seminole Memorial Hospital Roger Newsender and Assistant County Administrator Jeff Eltchberger in an attempt to work out a method for contract negotiations.

Doug Lewis, HCA's director of domestic development, said HCA will be competitive in price and services with all existing hospitals. The corporation estimates it will spend $18 million constructing the new 200-bed, acute-care facility. Lewis will meet early today with County Administrator Roger Newsender and Assistant County Administrator Jeff Eltchberger in an attempt to work out a method for contract negotiations.

"I should fall fully on HCA's shoulders to develop a new $18 million hospital in Gainesville, as well as the existing facility, HCA proposed to build a "new facility from the ground up," said Kirchoff.

Glenn said he had favored giving the hospital trustees the first crack at running the hospital.

"I felt that the hospital trustees has offered a viable alternative to the hospital organization in the world," said Kirchoff. "Each of the three groups vying for control of the hospital had its supporters at the meeting. Many Florida Hospital supporters were those who had open-heart surgery at the hospital in Orlando and testified to the excellent care they received. Supporters of the board of trustees pointed to their satisfaction with the facility and their desire for local control.

But the most effective endorsements came from influential doctors from Seminole Memorial Hospital made statements in support of HCA.

While Florida Hospital and the trustees offered proposals to renovate and expand the existing facility, HCA proposed to build a "new facility from the ground up," said Kirchoff.

Thomas, who toured an HCA facility in Fort Pierce Monday, said "HCA built a beautiful hospital." He said he was impressed with the honesty and efficiency of HCA.

"Seminole Memorial," he said, "does not have the equipment that allows me to do all the things I'm trained to do. We do some of them, and give pretty good care, but it can't provide the things modern medicine is capable of."

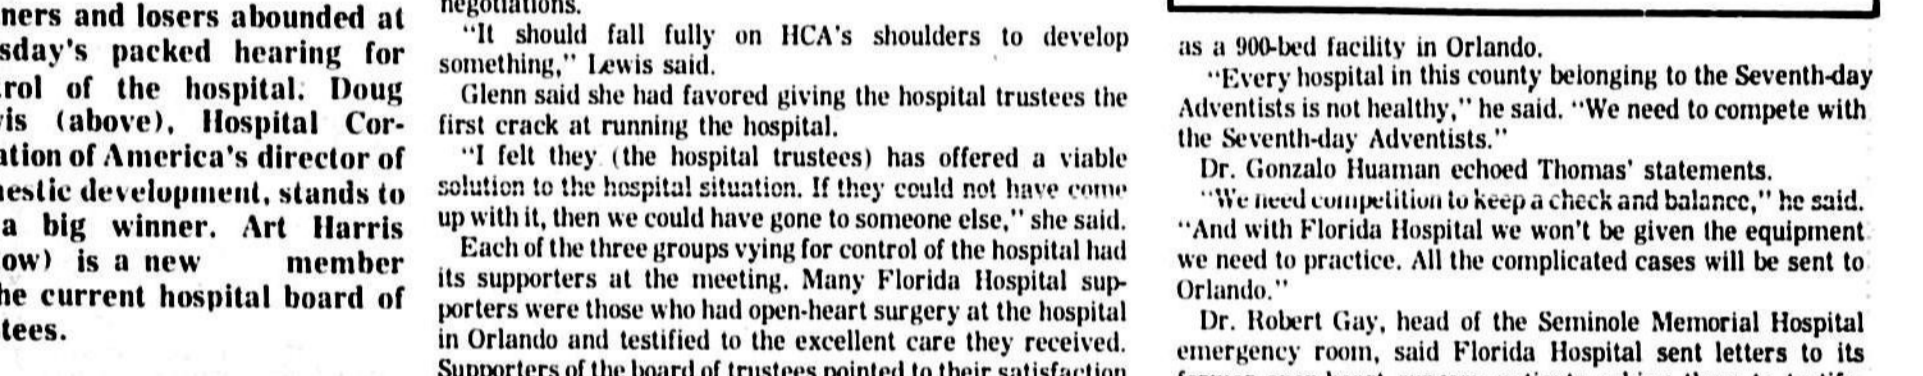

"An HCA hospital would allow us to practice a superb brand of medicine. It would be a hospital we all would be proud of."

Thomas said he did not think the current board of trustees, even under a new management plan, could provide such a hospital.

"I would take too long," he said.

Thomas was against the Florida Hospital proposal, he said, because if it obtained the facility it would have a monopoly in Seminole County.

Florida Hospital, a Seventh-day Adventist group, owns Florida Hospital-Altamonte and a hospital in Apopka, as well republic. The fourth, Baghlan, is closer to the Afghan capital of Kabul, east of the new Marxist regime.

The sources in Islamabad said Moslem army break made a grueling battle for more than a week against troops of the Soviet mountain division to liberate the four provinces. They gave no casualty figures.

The guerrillas reported they kept up their pressure on the eastern province of Kunar, bordering Pakistan. Kunar's capital is Paktia, where they reported they were slowly reeling in, reportedly under siege.

IRAN U.S. News Agencies Plan Altered Coverage Of Crisis

U.S. news agencies say they will continue to cover Iran although the position of their correspondents will have a serious effect on the quality of reporting.

"With the expansion, United Press International and all the other American news organizations who have been told to leave will be forced to rely on second-hand reports from Iran, and this could result in confusing and conflicting dispatches," said Roderick W. Beaton, UPI president.

"We'll manage to get it covered somehow but obviously we lack for first-hand staff access," said Louis D. Boccardi, vice president and executive editor of the Associated Press.

The Iranian government accused American reporters and photographers of sending "false and inaccurate reports." They were ordered to cease transmissions Tuesday and get out of Iran by week's end.

Afghan sources in Pakistan said today guerrillas have freed four of Afghanistan's northeastern provinces from the control of the Moscow-installed government headed by President Babrak Karmal.

Three of these provinces — Badkhash, Takhar and Kunduz — were flown recently, is reportedly under siege.

Developer Wants To Build Condo In Sanford

Plans for what could be a multi-million dollar condominium development on the 7.5 acres of city-owned land adjacent to The Evening Herald building on French Avenue may be unveiled before the Sanford City Commission at its Jan. 28 meeting.

City Manager Warren Knowles reported to city commissioners that Thomas Rucker, a development entrepreneur, who has built numerous projects in other areas of the state is "ready to proceed" with the purchase of the city-owned tract.

City Attorney Vernon Mize is reviewing the sales contract. A clause in the contract will require development to begin within a year or the property will revert to the city.

Reported sales price for the property, reclaimed years ago from a sanitary landfill, is $130,000. The condominiums may be multi-storied. Zoning in the area of the property permits buildings of 150 feet in height and provides as well for variances to that height limitation.

Rucker refused today to reveal details of his development plans, saying he prefers to submit them to the city commission.

Rucker, who lives in Altamonte Springs, first discussed the purchase of the property with city officials several months ago then indicated he would not proceed with the purchase.

Sanford Abolishes 10% Tax On Fuel Oil

The 10 percent utility tax levied on the purchase of fuel oil for the past 20 years is being abolished by the Sanford City Commission.

City Manager Warren Knowles told commissioners this week that new law passed by the Florida Legislature during its 1979 session changed authorization for the tax. While the law previously permitted Sanford to levy a tax of 10 percent on fuel oil, the new law provides for a maximum utility tax of four cents per gallon.

On recommendation of City Commissioner John Morris, the board voted unanimously to abolish the tax on fuel oil.

To abolish the tax, the city commission must adopt an amendment to its utility tax ordinance denoting "zero" tax on fuel oil. The ordinance is expected to take effect Feb. 1.

The city anticipated receiving in the 1979-1980 budget the exact same loss in revenue had the tax been eliminated today. The tax has been collected for the first four months of the fiscal year.

The commission accepted the resignation effective Jan. 31 of Rich Quigley as assistant to the city manager. Quigley is to assume the office of city manager of South Daytona on Feb. 1.

Knowles said today the city has been advertising "in house" for a replacement for Quigley. The "in house" advertising is required by law, Knowles said. Outside advertising will begin Thursday, he said.

Salary range for the position begins at $16,217.83 with a high after five years on the job of $20,710.83. Persons applying, Knowles said, must have a baccalaureate degree in public administration and experience in municipal administration.

In other action, the commission:

- Instructed City Attorney Vernon Mize to prepare annexation ordinances for property on Mattie Street; lots 78 and 79 in M.M. Smith's subdivision; lot 16 in Dixie Subdivision and blocks 26, 27, 28, 42 and 44 in M. M. Smith's subdivision. All the property owners involved have petitioned for annexation.
- Named Mayor Lee P. Moore and Commissioner David Parr to serve on the board of directors of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.
- Appointed Terry Buratti to the Citizens Advisory Committee of the Orlando Urban Area Transportation Committee.
- Authorized Moore to write a letter to the governor seeking appointment of a city employee on the St. Johns Water Management District.
- Agreed Dr. Russell Shaw will serve as interim city physician. —DONNA ESTES

McCarney Arrested On Marijuana Charge

TOKYO (UPI) — Former Beate Paul McCartney was arrested today on charges of bringing more than 200 grams of marijuana into Japan.

Police said customs officers found the marijuana as McCartney tried to clear customs at the new Tokyo International Airport in Narita, 46 miles northwest of Tokyo.

He is under custody at the Narcotics Control Office of the Health and Welfare Ministry, police said.

McCartney, now leader of the Wings rock group, arrived in Tokyo with wife Linda and their four children for a performance.
