Playing one game at a time

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary High School Coach Larry McCorkle constantly reminded his team, as it worked its way through the 4A-District 9 boys' soccer tournament, to play one game at a time and not look ahead to a probable championship game against Lyman.

Least efficient service

Price Waterhouse, one of America's largest accounting firms, cited Sanford as having some of the least efficient mail service in the nation. This deterioration is due in large measure to the failure of Anthony Frank to provide desperately needed leadership as the Postmaster General of the United States.

City commission to hear readings

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary City Commission will meet tonight at 7 p.m. in the city commission chambers at Lake Mary City Hall, 100 W. Lake Mary Blvd.

The commission tonight will hear first reading of an ordinance outlining purchase of property from the Lake Mary Cemetery Association. In a contract executed Jan. 30, the city agreed to pay the association $40,877 for an addition to the Lake Mary Cemetery.

The commission will also vote on a resolution declaring the cemetery a historic resource.

Man killed in traffic

SANFORD — The identity of the man killed in a traffic mishap on Celery Avenue Wednesday night had not been released this morning, pending notification of his next of kin, according to reports from the Florida Highway Patrol.

Initial reports said a 1981 International truck being driven on Celery Avenue by Barry J. Davis of Osteen, struck a pedestrian at approximately 9 p.m. Wednesday night, 100 yards east of Scott Avenue.

The Florida Highway Patrol indicated this morning that so far no charges have been filed, pending further investigation of the incident.

Accident ties up traffic

SANFORD — A two vehicle traffic accident on highway 17-92 during the start of rush hour Wednesday afternoon had traffic tied up for almost one hour.

According to an advance report, a vehicle heading south, ran a red light and collided with another vehicle which was turning off Lake Mary Boulevard onto 17-92 at approximately 4 p.m. yesterday.

While the accident was covered by the Sanford Police Department, George Prochel, of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, while driving his personal vehicle, was a witness to the incident. Prochel said that the accident itself did not cause the traffic tie up, there were delays caused by emergency vehicles reaching the scene. Most of it, he said, was due to motorists slowing down to a near stop to see what was happening.

Identity of the persons in the two vehicles were not released early this morning, but preliminary reports indicate there were no serious injuries in either vehicle.

The Sanford Police Department is investigating the incident.

I-4 closing tonight

LAKE MARY — The right, outer lane of eastbound traffic on Interstate 4 at Lake Mary Boulevard will be closed tonight from 11 p.m. until 6 a.m. Friday to allow highway construction crews to place barrier walls and lay striping.

The state is paying $6.9 million to replace the Lake Mary Boulevard overpass with a new bridge with four through lanes and three turn lanes.

Film with Dan Akroyd, Jamie Lee Curtis here

SANFORD — Although most of his neighbors were at work when Chad Hamman took a day off yesterday, he was not home alone.

Along with Macaulay Culkin, the young star of the movie "Home Alone," about 75 members of an IAW Productions film crew were bustling around Hamman's porch and buzzing in and out of his front door.

"It's been interesting," said Hamman, who moved into the old home at 605 S. Magnolia Ave. in May.

Filming of "My Girl," which stars Culkin, Dan Akroyd and Jamie Lee Curtis, began yesterday in downtown Sanford and is to continue through Feb. 14. The crew was to return to the 600 block of Magnolia Avenue today, and will be shooting at about four other locations in Sanford this week.

Old Glory unfurling Saturday

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Old Glory will once again fly over the old Sanford City Library at one of the busiest corners of this city beginning Saturday, largely due to the efforts on one man and the local people who joined his cause.

"I began to notice it last summer," said Dr. William Runge, who has had a dental practice in Sanford since 1961. "I used to look at it because it looked so sad. The rust was showing through the white paint. The chain would clank on the pole and seemed to say 'Won't someone listen to my plaintive cry?'"

Well, Runge said he did listen to that mournful message. And last December, he happened to meet Seminole County Commissioner Bob Sturm while coming out of Touchton Drugs across the street from the flagpole.

"I recognized him from pictures in the paper," Runge said. "Why doesn't somebody do something about that? It looks so lonely there, I told him."

"I said I'll look into it and I did," Sturm said.

The building at the northwest corner of First Street and North Palmetto Avenue was opened in 1917 as the city post office. It remained in service until 1962 when the "new" post office at the corner of Palmetto Avenue and Seminole Boulevard was opened, said Alecia Clarke, curator of the Henry Shelton Sanford Museum.

By 1963, it reopened as the city library and continued in that use until it was turned over to the

Baghdad pounded; Iraqi anti-aircraft guns being moved into civilian areas

By JEFFREY ULBRICH
Associated Press Writer

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia — Baghdad was hit by intense overnight air and missile attacks that pounded on into the morning, and U.S. military sources said Iraq is using civilians to shield its anti-aircraft guns by moving the weapons into residential areas.

Off the coast of Kuwait, the USS Wisconsin followed the lead of its sister battleship, the Missouri, firing its 16-inch guns in battle for the first time since the Korean War. The Wisconsin turned its big guns on an Iraqi artillery position, military sources in the Saudi capital said today.

Also today, the U.S. command in Riyadh reported two Iraqi helicopters had been shot down by American planes, and said one U.S. Army UH-1 Huey crashed from non-combat causes, killing one soldier and injuring four.

There were violent rumblings away from the gulf, as well. In Adana, Turkey, a gunman shot to death a U.S. civilian employed at a strategic air base used for bombing raids on Iraq. Dev Sol, an underground leftist organization, claimed responsibility and said Turkish bases "cannot be used for the bloody games of U.S. imperialism."

And in London, three mortars were fired at government offices this morning, damaging Prime Minister John Major's residence while he was meeting with his War Cabinet. Two police officers and one government employee were injured.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility. The British Broadcasting Corp. said Scotland Yard's

Parents unhappy with school rezoning

By VICKI DeBORNIA
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — School officials found last night that the parents in several Lake Mary areas are not happy with the proposed rezoning that may take their children from Lake Mary Elementary School, 132 Country Club Rd. in Lake Mary, when Heathrow Elementary School opens on Markham Woods Rd. in Lake Mary in November.

Last night, in a meeting held at Lake Mary Elementary School, about 90 parents confronted district employees with their concerns. When Heathrow Elementary opens in November, about half of the students currently attending and those beginning at Lake Mary Elementary in the fall, will remain there. The rest will go to Heathrow or to Wilson Elementary, 985 Orange Blvd. in Sanford.

According to Ken Bovio, area director of elementary education for the school district, the plans for the attendance zones have been drawn up using input from parents and the technology of a computer program called Edulog.

The Edulog system is able to take information about the residences of students and help determine which school they should attend based on state criteria, including distance from the school and racial balance.

"Of course no one wanted to be moved. That's just the way it is," Bovio said. "No one ever does. That's just the way it is."

Bovio said about 190 students would be affected by the moves. Lake Mary Elementary School, with a capacity

'Big Brother' may be watching you

Firm offers to check how your teen-ager drives

By Associated Press

DEERFIELD BEACH — "Big Brother" may soon be on the lookout for teen-agers whose parents want a closer look at their kids' extracurricular activities.

The company that sells "How's My Driving?" bumper stickers is offering a similar service to parents of teens for $59 a year.

Parents get a bumper sticker for their vehicle, and anyone spotting their child doing the wrong thing or in the wrong place can phone a toll-free number.

The information will then be passed on to the parents after being screened by Driver's Alert officials, according to Paul Milazzo, co-owner of the Deerfield Beach-based company.

But at least one mother of a teen-age driver had mixed emotions.

"I like the feedback," said Lois Harris of Hollywood. Neighbors had seen her son speeding but were reluctant to tell her — until he was caught. Reporting it to a third party may have been easier for them, she said.

On the other hand, "It's like the TV's on and Big Brother can see what you're doing," she said. "And I don't know if it could be used by one child against another."

Her son, Greg, a senior at Hollywood Hills High School, said he liked the idea.

"Knowing the way some of my friends drive — even some of the nice people drive crazy sometimes — I think it's a good idea," he said.

Other high school students were less receptive.

"That would be awful — people constantly keeping tabs on the way you drive," said Kevin O'Halloran, 17, of Coral Springs High School.

Former Seminole High principal H.E. Morris to be buried Sunday

From staff reports

Herman Elder Morris, former Seminole High School principal, died Tuesday.

Morris, 86, Route 1, Satsuma, died Tuesday at North Florida Regional Hospital, Gainesville. Born Sept. 5, 1904, in Denison, Texas, he moved to Satsuma from Sanford in 1968.

He was principal of Seminole High School from 1949 to the mid 1950s. He was also a former principal of Sanford Junior High School, principal teacher at Lake Monroe School and assistant superintendent of books and buses.

Morris is remembered by colleagues and students as an educator active in and excited about the school.

"He was a wonderful principal and very well liked," said Joan Anderson, a student under Morris at Seminole High School and co-organizer of annual Celery Feds reunions for SHS alumni from the 1950s. Morris and his wife Gladys were known for their loyal attendance of those reunions, she said.

"He was a friend to the kids... He was a fair but strict administrator," said Sonny Raborn, Sanford Middle School bookkeeper. Raborn was a member of Boy Scout Troop 5 when Morris was scoutmaster of that troop, and graduated from Seminole High School during Morris' tenure there.

Earnest Cowley, chief negotiator for the school district, remembers the day Morris hired him as Seminole High School band director in 1951.

"I always highly respected him as a high school principal," Cowley said. "He loved the students."

He organized summer camps for young boys in DeLeon Springs and later in Deltona. Raborn said. He was affectionately known as "Boss Man" among the boys, he said.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Sanford, where he served as deacon. He was a Mason of Sanford Lodge No. 62 F&AM, a member of 32nd Degree Orlando Consistory Scottish Rite Masons, Knight Templar of Sanford York Rite Masons, Bahá Shrine Temple, Sanford Lodge No. 27 IOOF, Fort Mellon Encampment 22 IOOF, Sanford Canton 5, Patriarchs Militant, Al Agatar Sanctorum 25, Ancient Mystic Order of Samaritans, Deltona Lodge No. 2739 BPOE, a former member of the Sanford Kiwanis Club, director of Salvation Army and a Civil Defense coordinator for Seminole County.

P&Z OKs county's comp plan

By J. MARK SANFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Planning and Zoning Commissioner John Tracy says the county's comprehensive growth and development plan fails to prevent the spread of urbanization to rural areas.

"We need tighter controls in the rural areas to prevent urban sprawl," said Tracy. "Especially in the Boon (Boonville/River area)." Last night, Tracy said the only

P&Z commissioner to oppose portions of the proposed county comprehensive plan. The plan will next be approved by county commissioners in hearings scheduled beginning March 5.

The plan must be sent to the state for review by April 1. It is expected to deter some new development by restricting construction in areas where roads and other county facilities and services fail to meet the demand of the public.

Tracy has voted for the majority of the sections of the plan and praised staff for them. But he opposed the major elements — land use, traffic, capital improvements and implementation — because he believed was a lack of growth limits for rural areas. He suggested higher traffic capacity standards for rural roads to discourage new housing developments dumping more cars on them.

Americans behind bars

The United States appears to have a larger share of its citizens behind bars than any other country in the world. According to a report released by the Sentencing Project, a national non-profit organization that promotes sentencing reform, over the past decade this country has surged ahead of the former leaders, South Africa and the Soviet Union.

The report, "Americans Behind Bars, A Comparison of International Rates of Incarceration," says that the United States locks up 426 people per 100,000 population, compared to 333 per 100,000 in South Africa and 288 per 100,000 in the Soviet Union. Incarceration rates in Western Europe range between 21 and 121 per 100,000. More striking yet, black males in the United States are imprisoned at a rate seven times the national average, 3,109 per 100,000.

The report says that the war on drugs is probably the biggest single factor behind the rise in prison populations. "While drug arrests and prosecutions have increased each year since 1980," it says, "the number of African-American arrests for drug offenses has increased at an even more rapid rate than has the arrest rate for the population as a whole."

There are immediate and obvious explanations for those numbers: The crime rate in the United States is substantially higher than in most other places in the world. We have ten times as many murders as in most of Europe. There were six times as many robberies and three times as many rapes in the United States as in West Germany. But the explanation only raises further questions: Why is our crime rate so high? Given the American experience, it's clear that something more than high incarceration rates is necessary to guarantee safe streets.

The Sentencing Project recommends that Congress establish a national commission on crime to explore ways to reduce the number of prisoners without affecting public safety. But the report also shows that being tough on crime means something beyond just more cops and more prisons. It means pursuing policies — in health, in schools, in housing, in gun control — that will reduce crime before the cops have to be called. Compared to the rest of the developed world, America's numbers — in educational achievement, infant mortality, in general health — are pretty dismal. But in filling prisons, we're the champs.

Take your licks with this

A 29-cent stamp? Can anybody guess what the next increase will be? What kind of suckers do they take us for, anyway?

The latest postal rate increase, which went into effect Feb. 3, raised first-class rates from a quarter, a nice round figure, to a quarter and four pennies.

Actually, even the postmaster general thinks the 29-cent price is foolish, and that it should have been raised to 30 cents, another nice round figure.

But the independent Postal Rate Commission, through a series of detailed calculations, decided the 4-cent increase is all it could justify.

Well, the Postal Rate Commission obviously left some important considerations out of its calculations. For example, why didn't it take into account that most people would prefer paying 30 cents rather than 29 cents because it's more convenient. Nobody likes pennies. Pennies are useless and worthless. Nickels and dimes aren't good either, but they're not as bad as pennies. We know people who carry around pennies just so retailers won't be able to hand them pennies in change. These are people who hate pennies and don't have a clue what to do with them.

But back to the stamps. Our polling indicates that most people would prefer to pay a dollar and two quarters for five stamps than a dollar, one quarter and two dimes. Or three dollars for 10 stamps rather than two dollars, three quarters, a dime and a nickel.

The 29-cent stamp is going to mean pennies everywhere, in your pockets, on the dresser top, falling down between the cushions of your sofa. Fed up, eventually people will haul them to the bank to cash them in. They will be told to go home and roll them up. Try it sometime: Rolling up pennies is not fun. You can strain your eyes, and, with enough of them, strain your back.

What does this have to do with the 29-cent stamp? Not only is it an insult to our intelligence it's a health hazard.

WILLIAM A. RUSHER

Are Americans tough enough?

People who favor continuing the air war against Iraq indefinitely are failing to take into account one major problem: the weather.

No doubt our military spokesmen will deny it, but average temperatures in the Kuwait theater of operations make it virtually impossible for American soldiers and many forms of American military equipment to function effectively in ground combat much after the beginning of April. That is the nether millstone against which time is pushing American commanders, and which makes it essential to commence ground operations before long.

According to the World Weather Guide (Times Books), maximum temperatures in Kuwait during January, February and March average 61, 65, and 72 degrees respectively. But in April the average maximum jumps to 83; in May to 94; and in June to 96. In July and August the average high is 103, and even the average low is a brutal 88.

On top of everything else (to quote the Guide), "On the coast temperatures are a little lower than inland but the heat is rendered even more uncomfortable by the high humidity."

Can you picture an American soldier, decked out in his protective gear and wearing a gas mask, lugging a rifle or driving a tank across the desert landscape of Kuwait as the thermometer crawls upward toward its daily rendezvous with the 80s, 90s or 100s?

Not even the temperatures in South Vietnam averaged that high, and there our troops didn't usually have to dress for possible chemical or biological attacks.

That is why the Pentagon's timetable for the liberation of Kuwait, though flexible up to a point, must always provide that, if air attacks can't do the job alone, major ground operations will have to begin fairly soon — probably by the first half of February. That will give our ground forces nearly two months to clear Kuwait of an Iraqi army that has been softened up by three or four weeks of air bombardment.

There's no need to be unduly dogmatic about such a deadline, or (on the other hand) too upset by it. If absolutely necessary, our troops will of course fight hard, whatever the temperature may be. But there is no ignoring the effect of unbearably high temperatures on human — and mechanical — efficiency. And you can be sure the Pentagon planners have taken them into account in drawing up their timetables.

What no one can take into account with any confidence is the impact of another major factor on America's war effort. While the extent to which television will be able to cover ground battles in "live time," or on tapes only hours old, cannot be predicted exactly, we can be sure of two things: 1) the coverage will be far more vivid (and hence painful) than anything yet seen on American television, and 2) it will have a powerful impact on public opinion.

War has always been hell, but never before has the hell been so agonizingly visible. Will the American people be able to take it? Some will, of course; others, equally predictably, won't. But what about the average person, and above all the average woman?

War has always been hell.

Sanford hurt by top postal official

Recently Sanford, Florida was cited by Price Waterhouse, one of America's largest accounting firms, as having some of the least efficient mail service in the nation. This deterioration is due in large measure to the failure of Anthony Frank to provide desperately needed leadership as the Postmaster General of the United States.

Business trends prove that the public is willing to pay more for mail service, provided they see a return which is of premium efficiency and superior quality. This is why private alternatives which charge substantially more — such as Federal Express, United Parcel Service, and Mail Boxes Etc. USA — are cutting into the Postal Service's mail volume.

Instead of gearing up to move the mail with a realistic number of dedicated, career postal employees, and getting into the competitive arena to preserve the Postal Service's market share, Postmaster General Frank is moving in the opposite direction. He tries to hold down operating costs by ignoring new business opportunities and shortchanging the needs of postal customers. Mr. Frank has done everything to dismantle mail service and destroy the integrity of a venerable American institution.

For example, this past summer he announced a reduction in mail delivery standards, increasing the length of time for mail to reach its destination by 50%. (First class mail within a 600 mile radius of Sanford, Florida is supposed to be delivered "overnight." This is being delayed by a day. Two-day mail now takes three days, three-day mail takes four, etc.) Against the advice of the Postal Rate Commission, the United States Congress, and consumer groups, Mr. Frank lowered the standards to account for the time it now takes to process mail using the much hallyboosed "remote bar coding" technology. In short, Mr. Frank is spending billions of dollars on automation to slow down your mail service. That's his idea of innovation. The revised delivery standards enable Postmaster General Frank to claim that he is still "meeting the standards" when in fact, he is providing second-class service at first-class rates.

Anthony Frank does not hide his desire to eliminate the jobs of dedicated postal workers. He wants to hire a part-time, temporary work force — people who have no loyalty or long-term commitment to the Postal Service. And just as so many American industries have gone overseas, it is possible that Mr. Frank's "off-site approach" will one day allow for American mail to be processed in Bangladesh or some other third world country where cheap labor is ripe for exploitation.

Why does the Postmaster General spend his investment capital on automation to save projected manhours and delay the processing of mail, instead of using new technology to improve mail service? Statistics show that America's postal workers are the most productive, efficient postal employees in the entire world, handling more pieces of mail per year than ever before — 80% more than their Japanese counterparts (despite the high level of automation in the Far East).

From 1975 to 1980, items handled per employee per year in Japan rose 28.5%. In the United States during that same period, items per employee rose 47.8%. The United States Postal Service's labor cost (including all of the fringe benefits and overhead) of sorting a one-ounce, unprepared first-class typewritten letter on nonautomated equipment is sorted by a postal worker on an optical character reader. With a nine-digit zip code on the letter, labor costs fall further to $2.34. It is doubtful that letters can be sorted more cheaply anywhere in the world than they are on USPS equipment, which my union's members have operated efficiently over the years.

Recently, the USPS national labor agreements expired, leaving postal workers in the Sanford, Florida area without a contract. Because he has boxed himself into an enormous technology investment which forces the Postal Service to seek a rate increase while reducing delivery standards, Postmaster General Frank tried to cover up his disastrous management decisions by spreading the canard that union wage demands would cost $80 billion and require a 45¢ stamp. So much for bargaining in good faith. This was the same ruse the USPS used in 1981, when management claimed the unions' demand would lead to a 80¢ stamp. But here we are three contracts later, and postage is just now increasing to 29¢ — still the best postal bargain in the world.

It was clear that Postmaster General Frank was never sincere or serious about achieving a contract and labor harmony. This marks the first time in the history of the Postal Service that a tentative agreement was not reached with at least one of the four principal postal unions.

The American Postal Workers Union has called for the resignation of Postmaster General Frank. His continued embrace of privatization and his efforts to dismantle postal operations will mean that reduced delivery standards are just the first step. These policies must be reversed. Write to your representatives in Congress and demand the first-class level of mail service which Sanford, Florida deserves.

Some foreign ships refuse to enter Gulf

WASHINGTON — George Bush has crafted a fragile alliance in the war against Iraq — governments around the world who have pledged money, arms and moral support. But that doesn't mean their citizens have to go along with it, including the crews of commercial foreign ships hired to carry supplies to the Persian Gulf.

In a recent incident, one crew of a German ship refused to sail into the Gulf and the shipping company had to send in a U.S.-flagged ship to finish the job.

The U.S. Military Sealift Command, which oversees the naval supply operation, has downplayed the incident. But some on Capitol Hill aren't convinced and fear that the war could be hampered by more skittish delivery crews who refuse to sail into a combat zone.

The U.S. government uses commercial ships to carry everything from tanks to toilet paper for troops stationed overseas. The sailors belong to the private Merchant Marine.

Since the American commercial fleet has dwindled substantially in recent years, the heavy shipping demands of a war force the Pentagon to sometimes rely on foreign ships.

And it was a foreign ship that balked about going into the Gulf. That ship, the Eagle Nova, reportedly is owned by a German company, American President Lines of Oakland, Calif., hired the Eagle Nova to carry cargo from the United Arab Emirates to India, but at the last minute diverted the cargo to supply American forces in the Gulf.

When the crew refused to go, American President Lines sent a replacement ship under U.S. flag.

The House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, chaired by Rep. Walter Jones, D-N.C., had been keeping track of the Gulf crisis. Our associate Scott Steck has learned that the committee is now scrutinizing the Eagle Nova incident. A sizable percentage of the Gulf-bound cargo, including weapons and ammunition, is being shipped on foreign vessels. Iraq has a negligible navy, but can make life dangerous in the Gulf with mines and missiles. Foreign crews may not feel enough loyalty to the anti-Iraq alliance to risk their own necks supplying the troops.

The Eagle Nova incident is a microcosm of what President Bush faces with his alliance. A prolonged conflict could show that while Bush has the support of heads of state, private citizens could balk. Germans are already demonstrating against the war while the government in Bonn waffles about how involved it should get. The Turkish government has provided an air base for U.S. war planes, but the Turkish people are increasingly uncomfortable with that idea.

Sealift capacity has been a worry from the onset of the Gulf crisis. When President Bush first sent troops to Saudi Arabia in August, the deployment was hampered by mechanical problems with the merchant vessels. Even if all the ships were in perfect working order, which they aren't, the United States still would not have enough American commercial ships to meet the demands of half a million troops sent half a world away.

In the late 1980s a special commission issued a series of reports warning about the decline in war readiness of the Merchant Marine fleet. "The deteriorated condition of America's maritime industries continues to present a growing danger to the national security," one of the reports concluded.

That leaves the Pentagon dependent on foreign ships and crews that may have no allegiance to the allied cause.

The U.S. Military Sealift Command has downplayed the incident.

Haitian Inauguration sparks festivities

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — Dancing Haitians filled streets with flowers and banners in a carnival-like atmosphere before the inauguration of a leftist priest as the nation's first democratically elected president.

But soldiers and police also stepped up security for today's scheduled swearing-in of the Rev. Jean Bertrand Aristide, aiming to head off any new violence by holdovers of the Duvalier family dictatorship.

The ceremony comes after a tumultuous month marked by a Duvalierist coup attempt and other violence that left more than 130 people dead. Most were killed by enraged Haitians who accused them of being linked to the Tonton Macoutes — the outlawed militia that kept the Duvaliers in power.

Nuclear facilities to be reduced

WASHINGTON — The Energy Department is looking toward a smaller, more efficient and less expensive nuclear weapons program and will gradually phase out some production facilities, a department report says.

The review assumes that by the year 2015, the United States likely will need only about 15 percent as many nuclear warheads in stockpile as it has in storage today, said sources familiar with the document.

As a result, the report envisions no need by then to produce new plutonium, relying instead on plutonium recovered from retired warheads.

Details about the proposed restructuring of the nuclear weapons program were to be sent to Congress today, although the blueprint is expected to be refined further over the next several years.

President criticizes economic pessimism, asks for optimism

By RITA BRANNON
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — President Bush is urging Americans to be optimistic about the recession, promising that even the U.S. effort in the Persian Gulf War ultimately will help the world economy.

"The recession, which economists say began in late 1980, will be 'mild and brief,' and Americans should have 'a healthy sense of confidence' about the economy, Bush told a dinner of the Economic Club of New York on Wednesday night.

"I predict that in a couple of quarters we'll come out of this and we'll have a robust economy," he said.

But the president didn't seem to generate much enthusiasm in the audience of some 2,000 business executives when he vowed that this year's $318 billion federal budget deficit will be reduced to zero by 1985.

A smattering of applause was overtaken by snickers as Bush declared:

"True, the deficit is high — unacceptably high. The S&I (savings and loan bailout) costs, the war and the economic decline haven't helped a bit. But thanks to the budgetary reforms begun last fall, the deficit will be virtually eliminated by 1985."

Bush's evening trip to New York came a day after his administration unveiled a proposal to revamp the nation's banking system and two days after he released his deficit-heavy, $145 trillion budget for fiscal 1982.

Answering a question from the audience about his prediction for the future of the economy, the president said there has been "too much pessimism."

"I can understand why. If I were an autoworker laid off, I guess I'd have every reason in the world to have doubts," he said. But he added "I think the fundamentals are still there. I do not think this war is going to add an unacceptable burden" to the nation's economic downturn.

Further, Bush said, the U.S. activity in the Gulf War will eventually provide for a brighter future.

"I believe that by standing up to aggression in the Gulf we are guaranteeing the future security and stability of that area that is so vital to global economic prosperity," he said.

Bush ticked off several reasons why he is optimistic about the economy, including declining interest rates and falling trade deficits.

He said Iraq is partly to blame for the recession because after it invaded Kuwait on Aug. 2, "business and consumer confidence fell. Oil prices rose. Inflation worries rose. And interest rates reflected an extra risk premium."

The result was "a very real blow to an economy that had already slowed," the president said.

But since then, oil prices have come back down, another indication the recession will be short, he said.

"The bottom line is this: while our economy may be beset by difficulty, it should not be beset by doubt," he said. "The current recession does not signal any decline in the fundamental, long-term health or basic vitality of our economy."

He said "what is needed is a boost in confidence," and people should not allow the war to make them fearful of traveling or spending money.

Reagan marks 80th birthday

Associated Press

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.

Former President Reagan celebrated his 80th birthday surrounded by the rich, the famous and the powerful, leading them in a prayer for the safety of U.S. troops at war with Iraq.

"My wish is that God will watch over each and every one of our men and women who are bravely serving in the Persian Gulf, and their families wherever they may be," Reagan said at a birthday gala Wednesday night. "And may they know that we as a nation stand firmly behind them."

The crowd roared its approval as the beaming ex-president blew out eight birthday candles atop a four-tiered cake, then looked down to discover he had smeared his tuxedo with frosting.

More than 800 people paid $2,500 apiece to join Reagan, his wife, Nancy, and dignitaries including Vice President Dan Quayle, Gov. Pete Wilson, Elizabeth Taylor, Jimmy Stewart, Lisa Minnelli and Lee Greenwood at the black-tie event.

Doctor-caused injuries said underestimated

By PAUL RABURN
AP Science Editor

NEW YORK — A study's finding that one in 25 hospital patients is injured by a physician — sometimes fatally — underestimates the frequency of doctors' negligence and mistakes, an authority says.

Lowell S. Levin, a professor of public health at the Yale University School of Medicine, said the finding was "on the mark," but "very, very conservative."

"If anything, it underestimates the reality," he said, because it includes only those doctors' errors that prolong patients' hospital stays or lead to disability.

"That leaves out all the gray stuff," he said. "For example, substantial rates of hospital-acquired infections that don't disable necessarily, or even extend length of stay, but are certainly serious."

The study, published today in the New England Journal of Medicine, found that 3.7 percent of hospital patients acquire disease or injuries as a result of their treatment, and more than a quarter of those injuries result from negligence and sub-standard care.

About 14 percent of the injuries are fatal, and slightly less than 3 percent cause permanent disability, the study found.

"If you had rates like that for anything else, you'd go crazy," Levin said. "We wouldn't tolerate any infectious disease that harmed at that rate."

While some of the mistakes are unavoidable, more than half could be prevented with better medical care, the study's authors found.

"There is a lot of sub-standard care in hospitals in the United States," said Dr. Troyen A. Brennan, one of the principal authors of the report, called the Harvard Medical Practice Study.

Baker wants to postpone arms agreement

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Declaring that Soviet credibility is at issue, Secretary of State James A. Baker III is proposing a delay in ratifying a sweeping treaty to cut tanks and other non-nuclear weapons in Europe.

As U.S.-Soviet relations took another acid, Baker also criticized the Kremlin on Wednesday for expanding the authority of the army and the KGB secret police and its tough response to rebellion in the Baltic republics.

"Perestroika (restructuring) cannot succeed at gunpoint," Baker told the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The White House, meanwhile, said a package of medical aid will be sent to the breakaway Baltics "in response to their request for assistance to alleviate medical shortages there and demonstrate U.S. concern for the situation."

Declaring that "our hearts go out to the courageous people of the Baltic states," Baker urged the Soviets to fulfill a pledge to hold peaceful dialogue with independence leaders in Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia.

"There is simply no justification for the use of force against peaceful and democratically elected governments," he said.

Now you can make heat out of thin air.

A few years back, scientists developed something that could keep you warm in winter without burning a single drop of oil or molecule of gas in your home. And keep you cool in summer without using one kilowatt of electricity more than necessary.

They called it a "heat pump," that innocent-looking thing you see at the right.

But it wasn't until today that anyone developed something to help the average homeowner afford such sophisticated technology.

We call that the "FPL Heat Pump Discount."

You don't have to understand all the technical details of how a heat pump works (and they can get pretty technical) to take advantage of its efficiency. All you have to know is that there are scores of reliable, hard-working contractors ready to knock up to $584 off the price of qualifying equipment if you just tell them FPL sent you.

You'll save money on the cost of a heat pump system. And the system will save you every month on your energy costs.

Officials to modify panther plans

The Associated Press

In what an animal activist group called a major victory for the Florida panther, federal officials agreed to conduct an independent study before proceeding with a captive-breeding program for the endangered species.

The Fund for Animals Inc. and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service reached a settlement Wednesday in a suit the Fund brought to block the program set to begin this spring.

This settlement puts the brakes on a one-way captive breeding plan and accelerates the development of a multi-faceted survival plan for the panther, said Wayne Canale, director of the New York-based Fund.

The panther population is estimated at 30-50, mostly in Everglades and Big Cypress Swamp in Florida.

The group filed suit in December in Washington seeking a temporary restraining order to block the government's program to capture wild panthers and breed them in zoos.

The suit maintained the wildlife service violated federal law by failing to complete an environmental study and failing to hold public hearings on permits it planned to issue to zoos.

In the settlement, federal wildlife officers agreed to prepare a Supplemental Environmental Assessment by Nov. 30 before

Global heat reduction will be expensive

By H. JOSEF HEBERT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Current technologies can sharply reduce greenhouse gases and stem global warming, but not without significant expense and dramatic changes in how Americans use energy, a congressional study said today.

The report estimated that substantially cutting carbon dioxide emissions that cause global warming eventually could cost the U.S. economy as much as $150 billion a year, about what Americans now pay for compliance with all existing environmental laws.

The study by Congress' Office of Technology Assessment comes as delegates from 130 nations are meeting near Washington to work toward a worldwide treaty on global warming.

It also follows pressure from some members of Congress to commit the United States to specific goals to reduce greenhouse gases, something the Bush administration says should await more study.

There is division within the scientific community over the extent, and indeed the existence, of global warming.

The phenomenon has been attributed to a number of pollutants, including carbon dioxide, chlorofluorocarbons, and aerosols. But carbon dioxide, primarily from the burning of fossil fuels, accounts for more than half of the greenhouse effect.

And significant cuts in carbon emissions will require sharp reductions in the burning of fossil fuels, scientists agree.

The OEA study concluded that carbon dioxide reductions of 35 percent are feasible over the next 25 years in the United States with adoption of aggressive energy-saving policies, which, however, reductions will be difficult to achieve and could be costly but required to meet the carbon dioxide goal.

Lake Mary makes way by DeLand

From staff reports
 LAKE MARY — As his team has worked its way through the 4A-District 9 boys' soccer tournament, Lake Mary High School Coach Larry McCorkle constantly reminded his team to play one game at a time and not look ahead to a probable championship game against Lyman.
 "I told them to play one game at a time and not to look ahead because at night not by Lyman on Friday," said McCorkle.
 The approach seems to have worked. On Wednesday night, Lake Mary, seeded second in the nine-team tournament field, took care of the business at hand, eliminating No. 6-seed DeLand 2-0.
 Now the Rams, 11-6-7, can turn their attention to Friday night's title game and their opponent — the fourth-seeded Lake Brantley Patriots, who upset top-seed Lyman 2-1 on Wednesday (see related story this page).
 The game will be played at 7 p.m. Friday at Lake Mary's Don T. Reynolds Stadium.
 "They seem to have momentum," said McCorkle of Lake Brantley. "They're the hot team right now. They're scoring goals in bunches. And the number of seniors they have is an intangible. That can be a factor."
 On Wednesday night, Lake Mary had to deal with the factor of DeLand's athleticism. While not as technically skilled as the Rams, the Bulldogs create a unique problem because of their size, speed and physical play.
 It didn't take Lake Mary long to go on top. Just four minutes into the game, Mario Travlos played a perfect ball from 35 yards out on the right side. Justin Walker came in from the far side and headed the shot home.
 But after that, the two teams settled into a give-and-take cycle as Travis Groover scored a hat trick against KISSIMMEE-GATEWAY Wednesday to lead Seminole in the title game of the 3A-District 7 boys' soccer tournament.

Groover, Davison lead Tribe in rout

From staff reports
 SANFORD — Travis Groover netted three goals and Geordie Davison handed out three assists to lead Seminole to a 4-0 win over KISSIMMEE-GATEWAY in the semifinals of the 3A-District 7 boys' soccer tournament Wednesday night at Seminole's Thomas E. Whigham Stadium.
 Seminole, 6-10-1, is now in position to defend its 1990 district championship when it hosts Leesburg (a 3-2 winner over Edgewater Wednesday night) on Friday night. Game time will either be 7 or 7:30 p.m.
 For the first 20 minutes of Wednesday night's game, the Seminoles dominated play but had nothing to show for it. Conversely, Gateway, 14-5-1, only crossed midfield a couple of times but seemed to have a solid scoring chance each time.
 "We had all kinds of scoring opportunities and all kinds of shots," said Seminole Coach Carlos Merlino. "Their goalkeeper (Scott Turner) made some real nice saves. They crossed the 50-yard line maybe three times and each time they got a good shot off."
 "We were dominating game and they come across and nearly scored. But we showed a lot of composure. I said to the guys, 'Relax. Once we get one goal, the others would come.' I knew once we got the first goal, we'd be able to relax a little bit."
 That's exactly what happened as Seminole scored its first three goals during a five-minute span midway through the first half, all three created by Davison.
 For starters, Davison took the ball deep into the right corner, cut back and beat two Gateway defenders. He then fired a low cross that ricocheted off David Wood into the goal for a 1-0 Tribe lead.
 Davison then set up Groover for his first two goals, each time getting Groover the ball within point blank range.

Fourth-seed Patriots top No. 1 Lyman

 LONGWOOD — Another upset was recorded in the 4A-District 9 boys' soccer tournament Wednesday evening as the No. 4-seed Lake Brantley Patriots held on to beat the No. 1-seed Lyman Greyhounds 2-1, breaking their 13-game unbeaten streak.
 "After going through 26 minutes of overtime last night, I was concerned about how our legs were going to be," said Lake Brantley Coach Jim Brody. "But instead, it pumped us up. It showed us we can play."
 The Greyhounds, now 10-6-3, dominated most of the match at the midfield due to superb play from Toby Leibin, Alan Newsome, Dan McAvoy and Mike Blerly, outshooting the Patriots 25-5.

 But Lake Brantley goalkeeper Josh Kaye made 10 saves while defenders Andy Stanko, Jeff Dongilli, Brad Sampson and Geoff Burkhardt blanketed the Lyman attackers. They allowed few uncontested shots in the penalty box, instead forcing them to shot from long range most of the evening.
 The Patriots, now 11-8-4, took a 1-0 lead midway into the first half when Mike Johnston stole the ball just outside the Lyman penalty box, beat three defenders, pulled the goalkeeper out, then passed to Jose Marrone, who booted the ball into the vacated goal.
 The Greyhounds evened the score late in the first half when Brian Fooks sent a free kick into the Lake

 SANFORD — The Seminole Community College women's basketball team gave assistant coach Val Rocca and its sophomores a present Wednesday night at the Health and Physical Education Center.
 With Rocca celebrating a birthday and the sophomores playing their last home game of the season, Tereasa Martin scored 18 points, Debbie Olsson 16 and Tina Lester 15 as the Raiders nipped South Florida Community College 65-63.
 Olsson, Lester and Lake Mary's Heather Gleason (four points) were the sophomores playing their final game before the home fans as SCC improved to 9-10 on the season.
 The Raiders jumped out to an early advantage behind the outside shooting of Olsson and the inside work of Lester. But the Panthers came back behind Trouille and James to take a 37-34

FSU-bound Smith leads Class of '91

From staff reports
 Highlighted by Florida State's signing of Lake Howell's All-American running back Marquette Smith, college programs from around the country tapped into the gold mine of Seminole County high school football.
 In all, a dozen Seminole County athletes committed to Division I schools Wednesday while another formally narrowed his choice to one of the three service academies.
 Lake Howell, the Seminole Athletic Conference and 5A-District 4 champion for the second year in a row, had six other players sign.
 Colby Brown is headed to The Citadel. Thomas Demps committed to the University of Arizona. Chris Hennie-Roed signed with North Carolina State. Frank Salca is going to Austin Peay. Joe Smith committed to Eastern Kentucky and Ryan Thomas signed with Tulane.
 Lake Howell's Frank Spearman is expected to sign with either the Army, Navy or Air Force Academy sometime next week.
 Seminole linebacker Bernard Brown was one of three local players to stay local, signing with the University of Central Florida. Also going to UCF are Oviedo's Kris Keene and Chris Tabacott.
 Lake Mary offensive center Sean Adams announced he will attend the Naval Academy while Lyman running back Cedric Bouey signed with Northeast Louisiana.

Raider men let Lake City escape

From staff reports
 SANFORD — The Seminole Community College men's basketball team showed Wednesday night just how little difference there is between being the 15th-ranked team in the nation and being in the middle of the pack in the Mid-Florida Conference.
 With 2:12 left in the game the Raiders led 81-72. But they would only score one point for almost eight minutes as Lake City came back to post a 92-90 win in overtime at the Health and Physical Education Center.
 With four different players scoring at least seven points, SCC took a 50-46 lead into the intermission.
 The Raiders maintained at least a five-point lead throughout the second half and took the 81-72 lead on an 'Alley-oop basket' by Brian Nason on a pass from Craig Radzak.

Lake Mary

Continued from 1B. DeLand started to slowly take control of the game. "We had some other pretty good chances early," said McCormick. "We almost got some breakaway. But overall, there weren't too many good chances." As the first half wore on, DeLand started to dictate the style and pace of play more and more. The final 15 minutes of the first half, which consisted mostly of Lake Mary getting called for fouls near midfield and DeLand playing long free kicks on goal, were dominated by the Bulldogs. "The mere fact that we're playing in the district tournament has had a little effect on our play," said McCormick. "We're a little bit more cautious and careful."

Women

Continued from 1B. It was a nip-and-tuck the rest of the way with neither team able to get more than a three-point lead during the second half. Martin scored the last six points for the Raiders, including the game-winner on a rebound and layup with 4:1 left. Steele by Olsson and Brandi Groves allowed SCC to run out the clock and secure the win. Lester, Olsson and Martin also led a 38-23 domination of the backboards with eight, seven and seven rebounds, respectively. Also having good games for the Raiders were freshmen Carla Letbetter (six points, five rebounds) and Michelle Kumpf (five assists, four rebounds). James (14) and Trouille (12) led South Florida in scoring.

Baseball

Continued from 1B. MDCCS, the defending state runners-up, were slow getting started, scoring single runs in the first, fourth and sixth innings. SCC had its chances but the Jaguar defense was able to come up with the big play when it needed it to keep the Raiders off the scoreboard until the eighth inning. Dade South wrapped up the split of the two game series by scoring three runs in each of the seventh and ninth innings. Adrian Pullen and Stan Evans scored the runs for the Raiders. Pullen coming in on a wild pitch in the eighth and Evans scoring during a run-down in the ninth. Chad Epperson had the only extra base hit for SCC, a double. Evans had a single and stole two bases. Damon Brush and Scott Cursi had singles and Pullen stole three bases. Santiago led the Jaguar attack by going 2-for-5 with a double, one run scored and three RBI. Stumberger also had two hits while Bookie Nunnally and Jorge Rodriguez Greene had one hit each.

Men

Continued from 1B. After the Timberwolves hit a three-pointer, SCC's Leslie Cephus hit one of two free throws to make the score 52-75 with 1:45 left. But that would be the last Raiders' score until Naason hit a trey with 0:26 left in overtime. During the drought, Lake City outscored SCC 17-0. After Lake City's Tony Florence hit a layup to cut the lead to 82-77, Keith Neely hit a three-pointer and a layup, both after Raiders turnovers, to tie the game at 82-82. SCC had a chance to win it in regulation but Cephus' 12-foot jumper rolled off the rim with 0:26 left. The Timberwolves scored the first eight points of overtime, before the three by Naason and a layup by John Mackey cut the lead to 90-87 with 0:14 left. But Ronnie Bennett hit two free throws to seal the win. Dexter Vanzant hit a three for the Raiders at the buzzer. Seminole

Continued from 1B. "Geordie played the best game I've ever seen him play," said Merlino. "He played a tremendous game." Meanwhile, Gateway's Ipey Housain, one of Central Florida's leading goal scorers, was trying to get the Panthers back into the game. But one shot hit the cross bar while Seminole goalie Jon Williams made a big save on another Housain shot from close range. Seminole kept up the offensive pressure through the rest of the first half, creating several more excellent scoring opportunities. But the score was still 3-0 at halftime.

Lake Brantley

Continued from 1B. Brantley goal box from 25 yards out where Newsome headed the ball into the net. "When they tied the game, it didn't worry the boys at all," said Brody. "We had been in the same situation before and we knew we could get the job done." The Patriots regained the lead early in the second half when Johnston again stole a ball, this time at midfield. He raced all alone to the goal before again pulling the goalkeeper out. His shot hit the post but the rebound came right to Eric Ryan, who knocked the ball into the empty net. Late in the game, Lyman had two great chances to tie the game. First, Frank Cippola threaded a crossing pass to Jeff Onderko but his shot went just wide. Then, with time running

Seniors cruise tropical ports

By HERMAN SCHROEDER

SANFORD — Some Sanford seniors just don't sit around. They go cruising. Ninety-nine seniors from the Over 50 Club, Bram Towers and Chapter 6 of the New York City Transit Authority Retirees of Florida recently got on three buses and headed for Miami to embark on the Carnival Cruise Ship Fantasy.

After rising early to leave Sanford by 7:30 a.m., the seniors packed three buses. B.J. of Cruise World Travel Agency, Irving Fried and Ethel Fried were in charge of the buses. The bus trip was uneventful except for seeing a big tank truck flip over near West Palm Beach. Seniors arrived in Miami, boarded the ship and began the excursion with a wonderful lunch. Wonderful everything is the best way to describe the service, food and the ship, which is as large as Bram Towers in Sanford.

In Freeport, seniors toured the town and the beaches. In Nassau, more tours were arranged. One trip found a group of seniors enjoying "Jubilant", a nightclub review at the Crystal Palace. Every evening there were three floor shows on the boat.

One afternoon, B.J. gave a private party for the Sanford group in one of the lounges, which everyone enjoyed. On Thursday, the ship sailed the open sea while seniors enjoyed themselves in the health club, under the sun, in the dining room and in the casinos.

Friday morning, seniors got an early start, passing through customs, collecting luggage and boarding the bus for home. The trip home began at 10 a.m., with a stop on the turnpike for food. The groups arrived back in Sanford at 3:30 p.m. A wonderful time was had by all but it was difficult to be back and face reality at first.

Critical performance get bad review

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the lady whose older sister had criticized her all her life inspired me to write. I know how she feels. I am 74 and my sister is 88. She's the oldest in the family and I'm the youngest, and she never criticized any of our other siblings the way she criticized me.

After being a widow for eight years, I recently remarried, and when I chose my 4-year-old great-granddaughter for my flower girl, she criticized me by saying, "Older couples do not have flower girls at their second wedding."

She also criticized the write-up of my recent wedding in the local newspaper. She said I should not have named all the

ADVICE

out-of-town guests, told where they came from and how they were related to the bride or groom — the list was too long and boring.

Abby, I never criticized any of her weddings, and she has been married six times. Three times before she was 45, and three times after.)

I am enclosing the write-up of my wedding that she criticized. Please give me your honest opinion of it.

SIBS OF SISTER'S CRITICISM
DEAR SIBS: I think the write-up is lovely. Perhaps your sister isn't aware that it is customary to list all the out-of-town guests, where they came from and their relationship to the bride or groom.

Don't be too hard on your sister, dear. Some older siblings tend to criticize their younger siblings out of habit.

DEAR ABBY: If you can spare the space in your column, I would like to offer some advice to anyone contemplating marriage or living with someone.

Before you move into the house or apartment, divide all of the storage space equitably; that drawer is yours, this drawer is mine; that shelf is yours, this shelf is mine; that closet is yours, this closet is mine, etc. If you don't, you might wake up one day and discover you have been living with a pack rat.

By then it will be too late. Every drawer, every shelf, every closet, space beneath the bed, every nook and cranny will be filled with her or his valued possessions, memorabilia, souvenirs, etc. Mopping, vacuuming and dusting will become a memory.

I learned too late. I've tried pleading, compromising and even threatening to leave. All to no avail. The accumulating goes on and on.

Establish the ground rules at the beginning. It prevents problems later on. Remember, pack rats are not easy to identify. They come in all shapes, sizes, colors and sexes.

Please don't indicate where this came from. Let the pack rats of the world wonder if this letter was written by their spouses or live-in companions. Sign me...
