Will The Pieces Fit?

THE SUMMIT: No Peace Accord: Pitfall Is The Palestinian Issue

ISMAILIA, Egypt (UPI) — Announcement of their peace aims. But Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin returned home and said his summit with President Anwar Sadat answered his nation's prayers.

The two leaders told a news conference differences remained on the matter of Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab land and the crucial question of a Palestinian state.

Begin stressed that there were positive results, however, saying he was leaving Ismailia a "happy man."

"We continued the momentum of the peace process," he said, adding, "But there are problems."

Begin repeated Israel's longstanding refusal to any participation by the PLO in current peace moves because it "is bent on the destruction of Israel."

Santa checks off homes he visited in Seminole County

LET'S SEE, COULD IT BE...?

The annual visit of that big, burly red-coated man with the long white beard didn't go exactly unnoticed — at least not at the 2706 Country Club Rd., Sanford home of 3-year-old Thomas and 7½-year-old brother, Kenny Coxon.

He came quietly in the night and seems to have made almost a clean getaway — but not before leaving a few footprints and mementoes...All of which the Coxon brothers appear to enjoy...

...SURE FTS THE DESCRIP...

...But For Others

Christmas Day wasn't all happiness and joy. Just ask the Hoffman and Collins' families in Sanford—they're looking for new homes today to replace the ones burned down on the holiday...Details, Page 3A.

...NOT A BAD NIGHT'S WORK, EH, TOMMY?

DEAR HELOISE: My brother gave me one neat idea: All those pull tabs (off cans, beer cans, etc.) that you throw away in the garbage can make a terrific, if you put them together (forming chains, you can string them all together and keep adding to make any length you desire. They make great dividers.

DEAR HELOISE: I have one of those little windows from kitchen to dining room where a hanging beam is. All off the too, and great fun to make!

DEAR HELOISE: Never again will I see one of those plastic shopping bags that you throw away in the trash. I mean, I see a lot of them, but I never see one of the clever idea!

DEAR HELOISE: I carry plastic, mesh, or other bags at a ready hand. What to do with the plastic, mesh, or other bags that you throw away in the trash means the point makes a lot in the house.

Bomb Rips Consulate,

Anti-Castrolets Take Credit

NEW YORK (UPI)—A small bomb exploded at the Venezuelan Consulate early today, breaking windows but causing no injuries, police said.

An anonymous telephone caller told United Press International the Omega 7, an anti-Castro group, planted the device in a "combined action" with Comandante and Pedro Luis Botel Comandos.

The caller said they took the action to demand freedom for Dr. Orlando Bosch, a Cuban imprisoned in Venezuela for allegedly planting a bomb aboard a Cubana Airlines plane that exploded over Trinidad, killing scores of people.

Baby Blue Tax Forms?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Eighty-three million federal income tax forms en route to American taxpayers show some changes including simplified calculations and forms in pastels—pink and baby blue.

The Internal Revenue Service, in an annual post-Christmas ritual, sends the forms Tuesday, the first group since it worked day since Christmas. Tax returns irrationally are due April 15.

"We always wait to mail the forms until after Christmas," an IRS spokesman said. "It would be heartless to have them arrive before then."

Pork Barrel Projects

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Senate committee recommends the Army Corps of Engineers be stripped of responsibility over so-called "pork barrel" water projects costing hundreds of millions of dollars annually, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., said today.

Ribicoff, chairman of the Senate Governmental Operations Committee, said the panel voted 16 to 0 to approve a report recommending the corps' water resource development program be turned over to the Department of Transportation.

Strangler Death Toll 13?

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The "Hillside Strangler's" death toll may have reached 13 by Christmas Eve and another suspect has been arrested, police said today.

Pasadena detectives said a woman found dead in a parking lot Saturday, Caroline Williams, 21, may have been a victim of the strangler. Police said she was last seen with Paula Glen Ward, 18—the woman believed to have been the mysterious rapist's 12th victim.

A Los Angeles police spokesman said today a woman had been taken into custody in connection with the slaying of Lisa Williams. He did not elaborate.

Human Rights Compromised

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Human rights remains a key issue of U.S. foreign policy, but lingering suspicions in the case of the "Wilmington 10" bridges the campaign overseas, Assistant Secretary of State Patricia Derian says.

"The problem of the Wilmington 10 is a serious problem for this country," she said. The State Department official who has responsibility for implementing of the Carter administration human rights effort.

Nine black men and one white woman were jailed in Wilmington, N.C., for their alleged connection to a 1971 racial disturbance. They have become the focus of human rights organizations, including some groups based overseas because of alleged irregularities by the prosecution.

Hijacker Arrested

ATLANTA (UPI)—An Austrian-born hijacker who tried to use a dummy pistol and a fake bomb to force an Eastern Airlines jet to Cuba Sunday was stunned by a surprise blow from an FBI agent and arrested after 2.5 hours of negotiations.

Nikolai Wschewsky, 32, is scheduled for arraignment before a federal magistrate Tuesday on air piracy charges.

The Eastern crew said Wschewsky, the only passenger in first class on Flight 686 approaching Atlanta from Jacksonville Sunday morning, sent an "incoherent" note to the cockpit demanding that the DC-9, carrying 35 passengers and a crew of four, turn around and head to Cuba.

Hollywood Remembers...

Chaplin: 'Genius, Unique'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The Hollywood that was often uneasy with Charlie Chaplin when he was alive had nothing but praise for the legacy he left in death.

"He was a genius. There will never be another like him," said Jack Oakie, who costarred with Chaplin in "The Great Dictator."

"I used to go to the ballet with him. I learned so much about the ballet from him. There wasn't a guy who could get up off the ground with the grace he had."

"He was unique," said Jackie Coogan, now 63, who was given his first film role as a child by Chaplin in "The Kid."

"I remember him as a very kind man."

"I hope and I believe that he will now be remembered as the greatest comedian ever," said Sir Laurence Olivier, who shared with Chaplin a knight-hood for achievements in entertainment.

Bob Hope said he got his start in comedy as a boy doing Chaplin imitations, strutting past the neighborhood firehouse in a bowler and fake mustache, carrying a cane and imitating Chaplin's famous walk.

"The guys would applaud," Hope recalled. "We were lucky to live in his time."

"Charlie looked at all the daily rushes," Hope said. "He was the original perfectionist. He was a great producer, writer, director and comedian. He was a great original."

The death of Chaplin left only Mary Pickford alive of the four stars who formed United Artists. "I must have hurt him inside, but he didn't show it," Chaplin's friends said he had a driving curiosity about all aspects of human existence. He was equally at ease in the company of the world's royalty as with his victims, and all were grist for his films.

He took complete control over all aspects of film production and was regarded as somewhat of a dictator on the set, driving his actors along in his relentless search for perfection. But Chaplin expected no less of himself.

But the studio tyrant turned out to be a soft touch for the many jolted actors he kept on his payroll long after their careers were in the can and he'd gone into self-imposed exile in Switzerland.

"It was very tough on him," said Tim Duran, who once served as Chaplin's business liaison with United Artists. "I must have hurt him inside, but he didn't show it."

Grain Lift Body Hunt: Yule Dinners Get Cold

WEATWEGO, La. (UPI)—A Christmas dinner was a cold sandwich and a meal for the rescue workers searching the rubble of the nation's worst grain explosion, but the workers said there were things that were more important than a holiday.

After four days of steady digging the searchers finally turned off the giant yellow crane with the grappling hook Sunday night and went home.

Non-Candidates Must Put Up Or...

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—The time is nigh for organizing a campaign. In the name book as Smathers already officially in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination are state Sen. Robert Graham of Miami; St. Petersburg banker Raleigh Greene; Attorney General at 405 E. First St., Sanford, Rep. Bill Flynn; and Tallahassee Mayor Ben Thompson.

On the Republican side are drugstore magnate Jack Eckard of Belleaire and U.S. Rep. Lou Frey of Winter Park.

Fire Chief George Manning Harriet is investigating the cause of the fire.

The second fire occurred Christmas morning shortly before 6 a.m., according to Hoffman. The family's first move was to save the Christmas presents. "We concentrated on running presents outdoors instead of getting our clothes...it's the only thing we thought of," Hoffman said.

At the Magnolia Avenue house asleep upstairs at the time the fire broke out were Hoffman, 41, his wife, Donna, 41, mother-in-law Edna Kelly and brother-in-law James Kelly and the four Hoffman children: Dara, 18; Mark, 17; Allison, 13; and Heather, 6.

Mrs. Kelly was spending Christmas Eve with the Hoffmans. She lives in Birm Towers, Sanford. Brother-in-law Kelly is visiting from California.

Family members saved the Christmas presents (except for two bicycles) by passing them through a front window. The fire started at the rear of the house.

All spent Christmas day at the home of a friend.

THE COLLINS HOME: ONLY SKELETAL TV

Two Sanford families are looking for new homes today after fires swept through their homes early Christmas morning.

One family—the Thomas Hoffmans of 812 Magnolia Ave.—was able to save all its Christmas presents except two bicycles. The other—the Cox family of 128 Third St.—was unable to recover even the Christmas presents.

The first Christmas morning fire gutted three or four rooms of the Collins home, said firefighter Herman Brown. Firemen were called to the scene at 3:30 a.m., he said.

Mrs. Collins, her nine-year-old son Broderick and her seven-year-old daughter Tina "lost everything in the house," said Pete Rodrigues, disaster chairman of Seminole County Red Cross.

"They're now at the Holiday Inn. If anybody knows of a house Mrs. Collins can rent, we urge them to contact the Red Cross at 831-0000. She was planning to buy the house, but it's still under the owner's name."

Woman Held In Shooting

A preliminary hearing has been set for Dec. 26 at 2 p.m. for a Lake Mary woman who police said wounded her husband in the lower right leg late Friday night in a shooting.

Stood for Helen Ferguson, 52, of 133 E. Crystal Lake Drive, was set at 11:30 Saturday by County Judge Alan Dickey. Mrs. Ferguson is charged with aggravated battery.

Lake Mary police said Henderson Ferguson entered the police department at 11 p.m. and reported the shooting. He was later hospitalized.

MAN ARRESTED

A fight at Rainbow Ranch in Longwood early Christmas morning resulted in $200 worth of damage and the arrest of an Apopka man for disorderly intoxication.

Arrested in the Rainbow Ranch parking lot at 1:15 a.m. by Seminole County Sheriff's deputies was Samuel Eli Davis, 23, of 106 Geneva Way Apopka. Sheriff's reports, quoting eyewitnesses, say Davis was intoxicated and started fighting with an unidentified patron in the bar. The fight caused about $200 worth of damage to tables, chairs and the floor, authorities said.

Sheriff's deputies were called to the scene and Davis was arrested. He now is in the county jail in lieu of $100 bond.

Thieves Saturday night stole $200 worth of tools and a tool box from an unlocked maintenance room of a laundromat at 405 E. First St., Sanford.

The theft took place between 4 and 6:40 p.m. Saturday, according to laundromat assistant Mike Colly of 401 1/2 Palmato Ave., who discovered the theft, according to police.

Air Shakes Jet, 153 Passengers

MIAMI (UPI)—What would have been a letter carrier plane Sunday turned into a rough ride for the 153 passengers aboard a Braniff Airways jet that smashed through an unexpected pocket of rough air Sunday.

Ambulances stood ready as flight 907 landed at Miami International Airport, where the plane was diverted for an emergency landing Sunday evening. At least 36 passengers were removed for hospital treatment, the result of being thrown about in the cabin as the jet bounced through the turbulence at 37,000 feet.

The injured were treated for cuts and bruised while Braniff operations crews handled the DC-8 for structural damage.

Given a clean bill of health, the jet resumed the remaining passengers and apparently some of those treated and resumed its flight to Panama about two hours after the emergency stop.

This is the second incident involving a Braniff jet in fire months. On Aug. 7, 15 persons were injured when a Braniff jet ran into severe turbulence as it passed over Cuba on a flight to Miami from Tegucigalpa, Honduras.

Will We Ever Learn?

It was not the most memorable Christmas season - the one in 1973.
The Arabs had used their oil weapon to chase those countries which supported Israel in the Yom Kippur war.

They used it to dim our Christmas lights, put us in waiting lines at the gas pump, rescheduled holiday trips to conform to reduced airlines schedules and otherwise force us to think twice about using energy.

The embargo would not end until March, but on Christmas Eve came an event that would turn out to be more significant, not only to this country but to the rest of the world: the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries had doubled the price of oil.

The cartel has pushed up its price even further since then, and it's now time for another annual OPEC meeting in Caracas. What kind of holiday greetings OPEC sends to its nervous customers may well depend on the Shah of Iran and the weight he can swing among his fellow oil exporters.

The Shah has some political ideas that make us wince, but his grasp of energy economics is admirable. It was he who announced in 1973 that our "erratic progress and even more terrific income and wealth based on cheap fuel is finished."

He was hawkish on oil prices then, but is less hawkish now, because he has seen what can happen when a world economic system based on relatively cheap fuel is subjected to the kind of jolts that OPEC has given it.

So the Shah, with an eye toward Iran's own interest in protecting the economic cohesion of the Western world from further strain, is on the side of restraint at Caracas. With him, presumably, are Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates, who together with Iran account for so much of OPEC's total production that their dissent may hold back Venezuela, Indonesia and others who want price increases ranging from five percent to 20 percent or more.

Our reliance on the Shah and the Arabs to plead the case in OPEC for our ailing Western economies is an ironic twist.

Four years ago the air rang with our resolutions to free ourselves from dependence on the whim of Middle Eastern rulers for our energy supplies.
But today our oil imports are running a million barrels a day higher than they were in 1973, paying for them has run up a frightening trade deficit and eroded confidence in the dollar, and even a Democratic president with a Democratic Congress could not get an energy policy on the books which promises relief.

We acted on one lesson from the Christmas of 1973. President Carter has established a Strategic Oil Reserve which can lessen our vulnerability to a cut-off of foreign petroleum.

But the brightening prospect for peace in the Middle East has reduced, at least for the time being, the threat of another embargo. The other lesson - that an international cartel can effectively manipulate the price and production level of petroleum, with fatal consequences for our future - is the one that still challenges our resolve.

The Shah of Iran declared four years ago that the industrial countries would have to "find new sources of energy and lighten their belts." He is saying the same thing today, even as he promises to give us "a break" by trying to get OPEC to forego another price increase.

If we had proved by now that we can get along with less OPEC oil instead of more, we would not be needing any "breaks" from foreign rulers and the issue at Caracas might be different; how much to roll back the price of oil, instead of whether to increase it.

WASHINGTON - How do you spell "relief"? Forget the answer suggested by a certain popular commercial. On Capitol Hill, they spell it "L-E-O-N-I-A-W-O-R-S-K-I."

Since assuming direction of the House Ethics Committee's interminable probe of Korean influence-peddling in Congress, the former Watergate special prosecutor has fulfilled the fondest hopes of the folks who drafted him for the job.

He has drained the acid out of the scandal, providing soothing relief for the acute political indigestion which plagued the Ethics Committee and the House as a whole during the first six months of the investigation.

Notably late much about the Korean mess these days. Republicans have stopped muttering "cover-up." Freshman Democrats no longer bawled House Speaker Tip O'Neill with demands that the Ethics Committee lynch a few skeletons quickly to the rest of the House onlookers.

WASHINGTON WINDOW
These Numbers Are New

WASHINGTON (UPI) - About once a month, Julius Shulkin becomes a television star. He and his numbers become big news.

Shulkin is the commissioner of the Labor department's Bureau of Economic Statistics, a man in charge of such vital federal measurements of national economic health as the monthly estimate of unemployment and the consumer price index. You see him on television explaining the numbers he has collected to congressional committees and reporters.

When Shulkin speaks, things happen. The wages of millions of workers and retirees are tied to the consumer price index. Billions in federal funds are allocated on the basis of unemployment statistics.

Recently, he gave reporters a preview of a new index that is going to replace the "market basket" that has measured the cost of goods and services in the United States for several decades.

The new CPI, which is supposed to be ready in February - reflecting January prices - will represent a much broader sample of items and the shopping habits of a much larger group of consumers.

In the course of explaining what the new index will tell consumers, Shulkin also went to some pains to explain what it will not reveal.

Shulkin emphasized that the CPI measures only the prices of things most Americans buy each month. It does not deal with such important outlays as taxes, and it is not to be regarded as a "cost of living" index.

While he was at it, Shulkin also warned against any real contributions. The secrecy obscuring the unvarnished dedication of the letter also covers up the dereliction of the latter.

Sen. Stennis has always allowed the derelicts of the Senate to hide the shadow of his own formidable reputation. Now we have discovered a slight change on the Stennis image, which he characteristically has sought to cover up.

As Senate Armed Services chairman, the 78-year-old Stennis wields tremendous power inside the Pentagon. He has used this influence to bring subtle pressure on the Navy to award a fat, $21 million contract to the Beech Aircraft Co. to modify the Beechcraft model.

The direct pressure was applied in the form of two private letters to the Pentagon, so carefully worded that Beech is not mentioned by name. But the implications are quite clear: Stennis wanted the Beech firm to supply the Navy with 25 light aircraft called the CTX.

By an interesting coincidence, a former Stennis aide named Bill Spetz had never learned up as a paid consultant to Beech Aircraft. He handled the Washington end of the Navy contract for his company.

Each time Spetz told us that the senator was acting to help defense costs down, the Beech aircraft is less expensive, they explained, because it is similar to a plane already rolling off the production line for the Army and Air Force.

These contracts also would up miserably with

Through my head kept running a very similar scene. It was one I had never actually observed - only seen on television during news broadcasts.
May first, Moscow, the Russian annual display of armaments on May Day.
(Odd, isn't it, that May Day and Mayday are such similar phrases - one is a display of every kind of war materiel; the other an internationally recognizable call for help.)
May Day in Moscow... tanks, guns, and uniforms are everywhere.
Christmas in Orlando. Military vehicles, guns and uniforms were everywhere.
And all through the parade there were more shoot-to-kill units: the Air Force had its ROTC unit there, youngsters with the barest bit of furs on their faces, marching firmly to a military drumbeat.
The Navy had a group there, also, with a grim-

English, French Thaw Ties

By DON GRAFF

Anglo-French relations are in an interesting condition these days. They are improving. Again.

Prime Minister Callaghan and President Giscard d'Estaing got together in mid-December over the follow-up to the Suezway. Chequers, for a personal entente they were happy to report was very cordial.

They not only got along very well together, it appears, but were able to agree on some measures to bring their countries closer together. They are setting up an industrial cooperation committee and considering linking their national electric power grids with a cable beneath the English Channel - perhaps a symbolic substitute for the much-discussed but never built tunnel.

It is all very tentative, however, a case of present good intentions with future concrete results yet to be seen. What makes it subject to extended comment at this point is thoughts it prompts on the nature of human relations, particularly between humans in that collective sense known as nations.

The British and French have been identified as allies on the world scene for more than a century, their battlefield partnerships dating back to 1815 and the Crimean War. Except for some minor misunderstandings over the carving up of Africa during the afternoon of their empire-building day, this cooperation continued through the two world wars and the interwar years.

JACK ANDERSON-LES WHITTEN
Stennis Smudged By Contract Award

WASHINGTON - By the Senate's lights, the dignified and decorous Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., is a model of personal integrity. He has always been guided by conscience and duty in his dealings with his colleagues.

It has been one of his basic convictions, however, that the government, like the moon, should have its hidden side. Too much light on its evil side, he fervently believes, can shake public confidence in government.

Other senators looked upon him, therefore, years ago, as the ideal choice to head the first Senate Ethics Committee. He operated the committee on two assumptions, which he held to be inalienable - (1) that the inner workings of the Senate should be open to the public, and (2) that members are denied the right to keep hidden any matter which is a matter of public concern.

A matter is established an extraordinary measure of trust and confidence has been given to every member of the Senate. This, senators were required to report their own activities and assets, but the information was not to be made available to the public. It was to be used only by the Senate Ethics Committee.

Some senators are exemplary public servants devoted to the national welfare, whose contributions will never be adequately appreciated. But others are treacherous opportunists, who slide through their careers with over making

Beech. When the Navy started its negotiations, Stennis insisted that the Navy should purchase the same type of plane as the other two services, which were already flying. Without mentioning names, this could be only the Beech aircraft.

As it happened, the Senate did not authorize the purchase of the Beech aircraft. It took the strong insistence of Stennis to get the authorization in the first place. The Navy then prepared to seek competitive bids for the CTX, Pentagon sources told our associate Marc Simonovsky.

Spell refused to discuss his conversations with Stennis about the CTX. But, in a lengthy interview, he told us Congress never intended that the Navy procure the CTX through competitive bidding.

Apparently, this was not the understanding of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, who called for bids. They even raised the question on the Senate floor.

"I ask the distinguished members of the Armed Services Committee," spoke up Metzenbaum, "if it was the intent of the conference report that the CTX be competitively procured?"

"Yes," said Stennis. "The senator is certainly correct."

"To me," broke in Goldwater, "it is competitive bidding. But I want to pin it down absolutely."

Stennis quickly answered his colleague: "There is no doubt that it is an open bid for my requirement."

Stennis' statement, of course, was misleading. He was fully aware that no other manufacturer could meet the requirements and that Beech would get the contract. In fact, the Navy intends to purchase from Beech, as Stennis has preserved them to do, without soliciting other bids.

Stabler, Casper Assure Raiders A Happy Holiday

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders spent the Christmas holidays week-end relaxing after starting it off with a victory in one of the most exciting games in NFL playoff history. Ken Stabler sent the world champion Raiders into the AFC title game for the fifth straight year when he threw a 10-yard touchdown pass to Dave Casper 43 seconds into the second sudden death overtime Saturday and gave Oakland a 31-13 victory over the Baltimore Colts. It was Stabler's third TD pass of the game to Casper, who scored on three of his four receptions and made the other one a 43-yard grab that set up Errol Mann's game-tying 23-yard field goal with 26 seconds to go in regulation time. The scoring pass to Casper ended the third-long game in NFL history and sent John Madden's Raiders to Denver for the AFC title game next Sunday. That game will determine the AFC representative in the Super Bowl on Jan. 13 in New Orleans. Only the Miami-Kansas City playoff game on Christmas Day 1971 and the Dallas-Houston AFI title game in 1962 lasted longer. "The final play was ... designed for me all the while," said Casper. "We wanted to do something they didn't expect."

No Joke, Folks, FSU Basketball Is For Real!

TALLAHASSEE, (UPI) — Florida State University basketball coach Hugh Durham is telling skeptics the Seminoles are for real. Durham, the flashy, tough-talking coach who initiated marked improvements in the quality of Southern collegiate basketball, says he hears occasional comments that FSU's fortunes will fall, now that the team has joined Cincinnati, Louisville, Memphis State and other Metro Conference powers. The entry into the Metro Conference means that Florida State will no longer be in many small schools such as Oglethorpe, Valdosta State and Baptist College. Asked about views that FSU might not be able to handle its rougher Metro competition, Durham replied, a sharp, "That's nonsense!" The Seminoles, who had a mediocre high school recruiting season last spring, are off to their best start in years, winning their first eight games and defeating teams like Missouri, Navy and Texas A.M. The Seminoles last season had a 16-11 record. Durham is in his 12th year as head coach and the FSU basketball program is going through some marked changes. In about a two-year time period, Florida State joined the Metro, received funding to build a new 13,500 seat civic center for its basketball game, and announced it will resume its series with arch-rival Florida. Durham, starting the year with a 30-6 career coaching record at FSU, admits there's more pressure to win on him than in the past, when he coached at other schools. He says his job has changed slightly because of the Seminoles' entry into the Metro. Major schools refused to play in Tallahassee, a cracker box arena which holds only about 4,000 people within heckling range of visiting teams. Durham, who in the late 1960s opened the door for black and white play collegiate basketball in the Deep South, says he's having more recruiting pressure than before. Traditional white-only basketball schools are now going after black prep prospects in Florida, causing more competition for Florida State. "That team," said Durham, pointing to a picture of the 1971-72 squad which won the NCAA Finals, "did more for Southern basketball than any other team in the South during the last 10 years. Those kids performed with class. Those guys opened the door. Until then, everyone was hesitant. Sure, they had pressure on them, but after people saw what we did, the Alabama and the Mississippi States started going after black players and also started playing black."

THE LOS ANGELES RAMS MUST BE THE FIRST TEAM TO WIN AN NFC DIVISION TITLE 5 TIMES IN A ROW, IN HIS FIFTH SEASON AS THEIR HEAD COACH.

Rams Favored By Nine, In Today's NFC Semi

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams and the Minnesota Vikings, two old rivals who have suffered their share of playoff frustration in the past, meet today with the Rams favored by nine points. "Statistically," Lee said, "we lost the greatest quarterback that ever played the game when Fran Tarkenton got hurt. It's taken three or four games for the club to adjust to me." The Rams, winners of five straight NFC West titles, are still looking to get into their first Super Bowl while the Vikings, NFC Central champions for the years in a row, have been losers in four Super Bowls.

No Hibernation For Bears Who Meet Dallas

IRVING, Texas (UPI) — For the first time since 1963 the Chicago Bears play an extra game today, and, to put things in perspective, the Dallas Cowboys have played in 19 playoff contests since the Bears last reached this level of competition. As game time neared in the opening round of the NFC playoffs, Dallas Coach Tom Landry — who earlier in the week was talking a lot about pressure — now seems to think the Bears are feeling the heat all that much. "I don't think the pressure will be as great on them as it might be in other situations," said Landry. "It has been a struggle for them just to get here. That should give them that much more momentum to go in and play as hard as they can." The Cowboys, who equaled their best record in history by a 12-4 mark, will face Chicago (9-5), the NFC wild card representative, at 2 p.m. EST today. A cold front that moved through during the Christmas weekend will have temperatures chilly by the start of the game. The winner will move into the NFC championship game Jan. 1 against the winner of the Los Angeles-Minnesota divisional contest. Arizona State came within 34-28 with 10 left but Penn State responded with a 75-yard touchdown drive. "We just did not move the ball," said Coach Jack Pardee. "The difference in the game was the line play. Penn State dominated our lines, offensively and defensively."

Sanford Electric, Federal Victors

Overcoming an early eight-point deficit, defending champion Sanford Electric defeated Federal 50-24 in last week's Sanford Junior Boys Basketball League season opener. In the other opening day contest, Atlantic Bank of Sanford beat Flagship Bank of Sanford, 33-20. Sanford Electric, trailing 14-4 at the half, outscored First Federal 10-3 in the third period to turn the game around. Howard Harrison, who finished the game with 11 points to lead the winners, scored eight points in the third period. Rounding out the scoring for Sanford Electric were Tommy Slifflin with 8, Andy Griffin with 5 and Bobby Hartman with 2. Ricky Bridges led First Federal with 12 points, Matt Johnson and Scott Kriger added 4 each and Mark Blythe scored 2. Atlantic Bank outscored Flagship Bank, 13-2 in the first period and coasted to the win behind 11 points from Kevin Human and 10 from Chris Colan. Harold Gains scored eight and Erik Freddie and Torie Hendricks added two each for the winners. Stanley Hogan of Flagship Bank was high scorer for the game with 13 points. Thomas Ford finished with 4 and Michael Galm added 3. In this Saturday's games at the Seminole High School gym, Sanford Electric meets Flagship Bank at 9 a.m. and Atlantic Bank plays First Federal at 10 a.m.

Haywood Ignites Knicks

By United Press International
 Knicks Coach Red Holman, who benched forward Spencer Haywood last Tuesday in a game against the Phoenix Suns, reinstated him Sunday night and got a nice Christmas present from him — 27 points and 9 rebounds — as New York held off a last-minute Philadelphia rally to defeat the 76ers, 118-116.

"I had sitting on the bench," Haywood said. "Starting every day is important to me. I've been working hard on my game, and I've talked with Willis about it. We have a better understanding now. As long as we win, though, everything is cool."

Cool is hardly the word to describe the Knicks' shooting in the first half. Haywood, Bob McAdoo, and Earl Monroe sparked a 16-0 tear early in the first quarter, and 56 percent shooting for the half gave New York a 27-24 lead "during the third quarter."

In other NBA games, San Antonio dumped New Orleans, 115-106. Cleveland topped Buffalo, 111-106. Milwaukee downed Kansas City, 131-122. Washington clipped Atlanta, 106-93. Portland defeated Golden State, 108-97, and Los Angeles clobbered Seattle, 111-86.

HOROSCOPE by BEATRICE BEDE BOOL

FOR TUESDAY, DEC. 27, 1977

YOUR BIRTHDAY
 Dec. 27, 1977. This coming year you will enter into an interesting association with an older and reputable business person. This could be a very profitable arrangement, mainly through his efforts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 19) It may be best if both you and your mate keep your hands off the family checkbook today. Either of you could do it severe damage. Find out who you're romantically suited to by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph Letter, Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph Letter, P.O. Box 68, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10101. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Be practical today if you're negotiating an important matter. You have a tendency to make larger concessions than necessary.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Persons who perform work for you today should not be over-paid. You are being used as a precedent that'll be hard to break.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Avoid the lines of least resistance today. What will appear simple is fraught with complications, while that which appears difficult will be slower but sure.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Tell it like it is today and you'll win the respect of your contemporaries. Gild the lily and they'll have cause to doubt your future statements.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You are better at managing the resources of others today than you are your own. With yours, you tend to be careless.

CANCER (June 21-July 20) Be satisfied today with a small, but fair, return from a situation you don't control. Pressing for more could shut off the spigot.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 23) It's possible that you might present today that you got nothing for another, while in actuality you received some compensation.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It will be very discernible to observers today if you are only nice to a person you feel could do you some good. Slightest resentment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You will attract admirers today by emphasizing your conspicuous virtues. Flamboyance has the exact opposite effect.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In the year with some humorous fortune before your lack all holds today. Areas where you've established no track record are dubious.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your prospects for personal gain are quite good today, but you may not fully develop them. You'll know better the next time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll know better the next time.

Lower Pressure Is Better

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to comment that I am 66 years old with a blood pressure of 130 over 90, and I have heard all my life that 130 over 90 is normal. You say 140 over 90 is normal. Is this a change from what I have been told?

Dr. Lamb

DEAR READER — Most body functions have a range of normal. Blood pressure is usually considered normal if the top reading (systolic) is between 90 and 140, particularly in younger people.

Are there any exercises to make you lose your big arms and slim down through the shoulders? I would appreciate your help.

DEAR READER — A muscle that is worked under load, as in weight lifting or with any exercise that puts a load on the muscle when it is contracting will grow. By contrast, if you do not work a muscle, it will atrophy. If you want firm, small muscles, just do frequent exercise that does not involve loading the muscle.

The second problem you need to keep in mind is that you can firm up slack abdominal muscles but you cannot get rid of abdominal fat unless you lose fat all over. You can't compress abdominal fat with strong abdominal muscles.

My suggestion to you would be to do calisthenics that involve moving the arms but requiring them to move against resistance or to lift my weight.

Avoid any exercise that requires strength in the arms and shoulders. Concentrate on flexibility exercises by moving the arms rapidly using movements that use the full range of motion of all your joints, and concentrate on exercises that use your legs, such as walking.

If there is any chance that you still have some excess body fat, attention to calorie control will also help.

WIN AT BRIDGE by OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

get a chance to double an eleven-trick vulnerable bid with five trumps. Every trick and two side aces and a bidding partner!

Jim: "Actually, no West player managed to collect five trump tricks. Every declarer did manage to shoot at least one out. A couple were actually able to hold West to three of his five trumps. One of the hands the defense always managed to get two spade tricks and a penalty was either 1400 or 1700."

Oswald: "Not too bad considering that at tables where South stayed out of the bidding East made five hearts for plus 650 or minus 50 depending on whether or not a slam was bid."

Vulnerable: North-South. Dealer: East. Opening lead: Ace of hearts.

West: North East South West

Oswald: "Let's finish the hand, if there are any such things."
 Jim: "Here's one from the Tulsa regional. It is noteworthy in that the players who fell into the bid five diamonds over East's four-heart opening, practically everyone was in the top expert class. Apparently ordinary citizens just passed."
 Oswald: "Look at the West hand. How often do you

Seminole Hospital To Comply With Accreditation

By MARYLEN SHELDON Herald Staff Writer... Eleven changes will have to be made at Seminole Memorial Hospital before it can meet the standards of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

"These are audits of the clinical review being done at our department... The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, Bentley said, is headquartered in Chicago and supplies accreditation teams such as the one which visited Seminole Memorial Hospital and included a physician, a hospital administrator and a registered nurse.

Five further recommendations included "lack of documentation" in various areas of the hospital... Bentley said, "All the information is here, in patient files in our records, but it is not being kept in a systematic way."
