Gospel music inventor dead at 93

CHICAGO - Thomas A. Dorsey, the creator of gospel music, had a simple explanation for the enormous appeal the genre enjoys.

"Down through the ages, the gospel was good news." he once said.

Dorsey, who composed such gospel classics as "Peace in the Valley" and "Take My Hand. Precious Lord," died of Alzheimer's disease Saturday at age 93.

"He had an amazing life in the world of music," entertainment attorney J.B. Ross said Sunday.

Dorsey was a successful bluesman at an early age and a pioneer in black music publishing. He wrote more than 2,000 blues songs, including the 1928 hit, "it's Tight Like That," which sold more than 7 million copies.

But his invention of gospel in the early 1920s "went on to have a tremendous influence, not only in black churches but in all churches." Ross said.

State compares progress of Seminole schools

By VICKI DeBORA Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Students around Seminole County will be bringing home report cards this weekend.

Not the kind of report card that marks their academic progress (that'll be coming home on Tuesday), but a special report prepared by the Florida Department of Education that compares their school to others in the district and to the state average in a variety of statistical areas. The 1991-92 Florida School Report was prepared by the Department of Education as part of the school improvement and education accountability plan that was enacted by the state legislature two years ago. The information is intended to give parents a brief overview of where their child's school stands and to help school advisory groups continue their school improvement plans.

In an open letter to parents and family members, Betty Castor, commissioner of education, said parents, citizens and educators "must have the flexibility and knowledge to make decisions about local education."

Some local principals said they are pleased to receive the information from the state, but believe it must be studied carefully to get an acurate picture of the school.

"These statistics don't give the whole picture." said Gretchen Schapker, principal of Seminole See Reports, Page 3A

No big winner

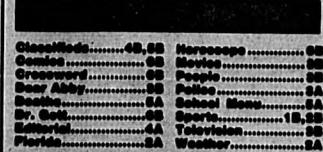

TALLAHASSEE - Florida's Lotto jackpot jumped to an estimated $12 million Sunday when computer checks showed that no one ticket had all six of the numbers needed to win the 96 million prize up for grabs last week:

The numbers drawn late Saturday -6-8-25-26-27-47 - did produce 225 tickets with five of the six, and those tickets are worth $3,799.50 cach.

There were 12.089 tickets with four of the correct numbers, and they are worth $103.50 each, while 233.356 tickets with three of the numbers can be cashed in for $5 each.

Florida Lotto jackpot estimates are based on funds from any rollovers, expected ticket sales, long-term investment rates and 20-year payouts to a single winner.

Herald Staff Writer SANFORD - A Sanford resident is hoping that his invention to bemuse cats will eventually land him in financial dog heaven. Percy C. McDaniel of 1206 Cedar Creek has just patented his "Playhouse for Cats." and a Massachusetts company hopes to market it in the future.

The cat playhouse consists of toys, carpets so that cats can scratch their claws to their hearts content, feeding places for dinner dishes and places to stretch out. It can also be easily converted into a storage box.

"It was my first invention but I have several other ideas in mind."

McDaniel said.

He contacted America Inventors, a firm that works with inventors to get their products patented and sold, and its officials liked the idea and entered into a partnership with McDaniel. American Inventors is headquartered in Westfield, Mass. but handles patents from all over the nation.

Corporate help was needed because obtaining a patent can be a complicated process.

Tell governor: No condoms in local schools

We urge the Seminole County School Board to vote Tuesday in opposition to giving condoms away at high schools. Prompt action is necessary.

The suggestion for free state-wide distribution at high schools, was proposed early this month by a Red Ribbon committee set up by Governor Lawton Chiles.

Chiles said he intended to review the committee recommendations this past weekend, and may give his comments on the proposal this week.

The School Board meets Tuesday. If it passes a resolution against the give-away, it should send a copy to the governor immediately.

Several other counties, including Orange, have already voted against the proposal, and submitted their feelings to the governor. Thanks to the efforts of School Board member Barbara Kuhn, the resolution will be brought up for a vote Tuesday.

We commend Kuhn for taking an active lead in this measure. She is exemplifying the type of person we want and need on a board that governs the safety, welfare and education of our children.

The fading legacy of Clarence Gideon

A Supreme Court case that seems to particu-larly stay in the minds of many schoolchildren is Gideon v. Wainwright. Those I have talked to are impressed that this convict — without any money, without a lawyer — wrote a handwritten petition, in pencil, to the Supreme Court, and it was actually read by those distant, mysterious fources. More than that, they said he was right. figures. More than that, they said he was right, and his name from then on became part of American constitutional law.

Charged with thievery, Gideon had asked a Florida state court judge to appoint a lawyer for him. The judge said he couldn't under previous Supreme Court rulings. In 1963, Justice Hugo Black, speaking for a unanimous Supreme Court, said that Gideon and other indigent defendants are indeed entitled to a lawyer in felony cases. (This right has since been expanded to include misdemeanor cases that involve imprisonment.) In his opinion, Hugo Black noted that "any person halled into court, who is too poor to hire a lawyer, cannot be assured a fair trial unless counsel is provided for him. This seems to us to be an obvious truth." Thirty years later, it is also obvious that Gideon isn't working for more and more defendants with no other resources than an old Supreme Court decision. I have, for instance, seen enormously overburdened public defenders minutes before a hearing. As the Jan-uary/February 1993 paid defenders compared to 48 percent in 1982."

Not only are more funds needed to share the caseload, but also more lawyers who - as meeting their clients for the first time only 15

issue of The Ameri-can Lawyer details in a series of appalling case histories, there is much worse evidence, throughout the country, that a great deal needs to be done "to finish the job that...a job that ... a ne'er-do-well drifter from the backwaters of Florida set in motion ... more than 30 years ago." The need is particularly pressing since, as The American Lawyer points out, "nationwide, approximately 80 percent of _______ Stephen Bright keeps saying when he's asked to speak at law schools - "will not commit just a few years to learn at the expense of the poor, but who will commit a lifetime to legal services, public defender and other programs." Bright has done just that. After working as a last-chance lawyer in Appalachia and Washing-ton, he became director of the Southern Center for Human Rights in Atlanta, where everyone, including support personnel, receives the same salary. Bright is familiar with death rows throughout the South and he has sometimes had death sentences reversed.

Since movies are hardly made anymore on the order of "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" or "High Noon," a television documentary on Steve Bright's journeys and campaigns could be powerfully revealing. Especially his collection of stories of the rampant incompetence of many court-appointed lawyers in states that do not consider public defenders' work important enough to pay these lawyers decently or to insist that the courts examine their qualifications.

In a talk at the University of Missouri-Columbia, Bright told of a Georgia case in which the court-appointed defense lawyer "did not put on evidence to seek to avoid the death penalty. The jury that sentenced the youth to die was not even told that he suffered from schizophrenia."

JACK ANDERSON Addressing safety in the workplace

WASHINGTON - Joseph Kinney is not what Bill Clinton would call one of the "faces of hope" who are looking forward to his administration. As founder of the National Workplace Safety Institute, Kinney fears that Clinton may not have the answer to America's workplace safety woes. The NWSI ranked Arkansas dead last among all 50 states in worker safety in 1991. "We looked at a couple dozen different

criteria and Arkansas

Judging from the results of a recent board workshop session, it appears other members are willing to go along with her suggestion. One hundred percent support however, has not been guaranteed. Buperintendent Paul Hagerty suggested the overner's "panel" recommendations oppose what is talight is opparty sebools. The resolution says in part, "programs recom-mending the postponement of merual activity while simultaneously distributing birth con-trol devices, and contrary, diametrically-opposed messages to youth."

Ve are in favor of the type of sex education presently offered in Seminoic County schools. It is unfortunate parents cannot be expected to give such instruction, but it is commend-able that our schools are willing to add this to the educational process. We unge all members of the Seminole County School Board to approve Kuhn's suggested opposition on Tuesday, and send Governor Chiles a copy immediately. Show him this county isn't willing to sit idly by and accept the free distribution of condoms proposed by a committee that certainly does not speak on behalf of our local parents.

HODDING CARTER Missteps bode ill for president

Bill Clinton's honeymoon did not last even as integ as the 78-day transition from election to insuguration, a matter of some concern to the new president's advisers. They should spare themselves the worry. What matters are not preliminary press clippings and commentary by my tribe of columnists and commentators - "the nattering nabols of negativism" as former Vice President Spiro Andrew once called us - but presidential performance from

Managing the mode really in't the problem, since for the most part we have the attention, upon of fless and the courage of the Cowardly Lion. The press goes into the tank with regular abandon. If President Clinton delivers on half of Candidate Clinton's promises, we will fall over and play dead.

But if President Clinton falls into patterns hinted by President in-waiting Clinton's providers, the past will be in full may within a month. That's why the president and his men-have remains to warry about some of the transition's missions. If repeated, they could destroy his presidency before it has a chance to

Example one was less a misstep, actually, than a deliberate decision. The new president elected to take personal responsibility not merciy for all of his Cabinet appointments, which was unexceptional, but for the sub-cubinet appointments as well, which was just t appointments crasy. de of being utterly crasy.

His was an understandable impulse which, like wood impulses, should have been resisted. He woodd a government staffed with Clin-tonitas, seople in whom he had personal trust and wise in turn put his objectives ahead of their own. That way, he hoped to avoid the problems of the Jimmy Carter administration, in which too many appointees from the Cabinet on down had more interest in their own careers than in the president's program.

But is descending that his transition team's cutrantionarily wide and deep net dump its personnel estate as his front door every day, he quaranteed a bettleneck. There is and was no way for a president to micro-manage personnel decisions at the assistant secretary of state level and complete his selections in time to safe the new government. The result was the sentermasing spectacle of Bush appointees being begged to stay on so the government could function after 15:01 p.m. on Jan. 30. While Mr. Clinton's embarranement was not. Rether then "bit the ground running." the

is not a failure to be lightly diamissed. It cannot be repeated enough: Presidential micro-management is a deadly sin. And there are warning signs everywhere that the personnel logiam is indicative rather than exceptional. This is a president who loves the muck and mire of governance no less than of politics. He likes to "get his hands dirty," as the saying goes, and for the most part that is a welcome change. But almost all of the new administration's organizational decisions. beginning with the White House staff, seem to indicate a desire to concentrate rather than delegate authority. If that remains true, his will

Zos Baird's deliber-ate flouting of im migration laws was initially treated as an inconsequential issue. The incoming president did not come clean about the worsening did not come clean about the worsening budget deficit figures for three months after his compaign learned that his economic promises were built on rapidly shifting sand. Campaign pledges, on such diverse matters as Haitian refugees and gays in the military were altered, diluted or reversed, if only temporarily, while the pretense was maintained that nothing had

That way lies disaster. The press and the public are able to accept that changed conditions can require a president to change his positions, and while the opposition tempo-rarily can make a few points, they are usually of no consequence. What no one will accept for long are holdsord the and histant despition ing. Kinney fears that Clinton may not have the answer to America's workplace safety woes. But Clinton has taken office at a time when reform of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration is high on Congress' priority list, and he could ace the uphcaval as an extension of his battle against the health-care crisis. After all. some 10.000 workers die each year from accidents in the workplace and tens of thousands more die from occupational discases. A recent Rand Institute for Civil Justice study estimates the cost of workplace injuries alone to be $83 billion a year.

Kinney's brother, an electrical engineer, was killed in 1986 while working for a was killed in 1960 while working for a Colorado company plagued by safety pro-blems. OSHA responded by slapping the company with eight safety violations and issuing an $800 fine — or less than some penalties for fishing without a permit. Although OSHA has fewer than 1,200 inspectors policing more than 6 million sites, some critics believe the agency's problems are more a matter of misplaced priorities than lack of manpower. "Right now OSHA has the same requirements for inspection on a contractor whether it has a clean record or four fatalities." Rep. Robert E. Andrews. D-N.J., told our associate Ed Henry. "OSHA will tell you they don't have enough inspectors. But just hiring more inspectors will not make workplaces safer."

Andrews recently chaired a hearing for the Andrews recently chaired a hearing for the House Committee on Education and Labor, which detailed the case of an employee of the George Campbell Painting Co., who was killed in August 1991 while washing the understructure of the Walt Whitman Bridge (which connects New Jersey and Bennautrania) The matter was decay and Pennsylvania). The worker was electrocuted after his high pressure water unit came into contact with a power line that should have been grounded.

OSHA's investigation resulted in citations for three serious violations, including one for having inadequate fall protection. The com-pany paid a total fine of $7,225 for the fatality, but their contract to paint the bridge was worth $6 million.

Nevertheless. OSHA didn't bother to conduct a follow-up visit in the next 13 months duct a follow-up visit in the next 13 months to see if the company had rectified its safety problems. In September 1992 OSHA was forced to return to the same bridge after another Campbell worker plunged to his death. The owner of the paint company was unavailable for comment. Airport

Continued from Page 1A has already been approved. The airport has obtained some funds and is seking additional grants from the Federal Aviation Authority, for the proposed roadway.

It would provide for the roadway to run from the eastern end of Silver Lake Drive. castward then northerly, where it would intersect with at the junction of State Roads 46 and 415.

The roadway would thus provide a southern route to allow motorists to travel from Lake Mary Boulevard, castward. around the southern area of the airport, and then turn north and reach S.R. 415 toward Daytona Beach and New Smyrna Beach.

Sanford City Manager Bill Simmons explained, "That construction project is programmed for late in this decade."

The object of tonight's dis-cussion is to establish funding for approximately 3,000 feet of roadway that would connect the Silver Lake extension to the airport.

Airport Director of Aviation Steve Cooke said, "When completed, the new access road will efectively connect the terminal Beltway, via Silver Lake Drive, and be a major contributor to the economic development of our community."

What Cooke has requested from the City is approval of a resolution of support for the new 3,000 foot roadway and money to assist in the engineering design phase.

In his presentation for tonight's commission meeting. Simmons has suggested that money be committed, "...to providing accelerated funding in the amount of $10,000 (from Local Option Gas Tax funds received by the city) to assist in the engineering design."

Simmons is recommending that the commission endorse the concept of acceleration of the project by early funding on a loan basis.

'The concept for funding of both design and construction." he said, "is to borrow from available sources, probably local option gas tax money on hand. with repayment to occur from the one cent sales tax proceeds at the time the funding would normally occur under the existing interiocal agreements." Women Karaoke the night away

On Monday, Jan. 11, the Heathrow Women's Club held its second annual Karaoke Showtime Evening. It was such a blast last year that they wanted to do it again. Karaoke is fun, exciting and habit forming! Guests chose their song from the list of hundreds of favorite hits from yesterday and today. A request card is given to the emcee and at the call of your name, you "step into the limelight." Each song includes fully orchestrated background music, voice enhancement and easy to read color shading lyrics displayed on television monitors.

First, the members and their husbands, friends or guests finished club business post haste so they could quickly partake of the bountiful Mexican buffet dinner and desserts. The display of foods was enchanced with Mexican decorations such as pinatas and sombreros, colorful paper decorations and the aroma of the multitudes of food items.

After dinner, the emcee for the event, Sam Wright, came forward to introduce the audience to the world of Karaoke for those that had not attended last year's event and to warm everybody up to volunteer their "talent." Sam Wright is certainly the right person to do so; he was charming and has a voice that is simply beautiful. He is a graduate of The Juilliard School of Music, so he knows his business!

Florida State (13-5, 5-1) has won five straight ACC games since Charlie Ward returned to the starting lineup from the football team.

Wells, a senior who scored the Seminoles' final five points, intercepted a pass by Bobby Hurley with 20 seconds left and Duke up 88-86. When FSU's Sam Cassell was unable to shake loose for the final shot. Wells got the ball deep in the left corner for the game-winning shot, which dropped after rimming the basket once. Wells was in the game as a replacement for Douglas Edwards, who fouled out late in regulation with 21 points and 12 rebounds.

Bob Sura and Rodney Dobard each had 16 points for FSU, while Cassell added 15.

The Blue Devils (13-3, 3-3) were led by Grant Hill (25 points), Hurley (22) and Cherokee Parks (14 points and 11 rebounds).

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Now that they've gotten past their first major confrontation, they can concentrate on the next one.

This Wednesday night at Lake Mary High School, the Lake Mary and Lyman wrestling teams will bang heads for the second time in five days. This past Saturday, Lyman overcame Lake Mary to win the Seminole Athletic Conference tournament championship, 1764-165.

"If you had asked me last week which one was more important, I would have said the conference tournament was more important," said Lyman coach Rick Tribit Sunday night. "But right now. Wednesday's dual meet is more important. If they win Wednesday, they could be seeded ahead of us in districts.

"It's important to us, No. 1, because it's Lake Mary and Lyman and, No. 2, it has district implications as well."

For Coach Doug Peters and the Lake Mary

Rams, the close decision at the conference meet was a moral victory of sorts.

"We wrestled real well, we just came up one man short," said Peters, adding that the Rams lost one of their mainstays to grades on Friday. "Lyman has some great kids. They have six kids that are going to be awfully tough to knock out at districts or regionals.

"The SAC tournament is always important for us. To get the program back to where we want it to be, winning the SAC was an important stepping stone. We came up short, but the future looks real bright. The dual meet could be interesting."

Trailing by 19 points entering the championship round Saturday night at Lake Brantley High School, the Greyhounds won seven of their nine matches, including all four against Lake Mary opponents.

Adam Portnoy started things for Lyman by scoring a 19-6 major decision over Rich Bradley. At 119 pounds, John Altizer bested Lake Mary's Mike Laurent in a 12-2 major decision. Vinnie Samero pinned Kyle Bergman in 1:33 at 140 pounds and 160-pounder Jason Nutt decisioned Greg Menello 10-4.

Also winning conference championships for Lyman were Nick Samero (112 pounds), Charlie Defazio (145), and Nelson Diaz (189). Secondplace finishers were Dan Melvin (152) and Nick Popek (220). Alex Hannah finished third at Heavyweight while issac Hunter (125) and Josh Portnoy (135) placed fourth.

While the the wins of Adam Portnoy, Altizer, Vinnie Samero, and Nutt over their Lake Mary opponents were the obviously crucial matches for the Greyhounds, Tribit said that the contributions of Popeck, Hunter and Hannah shouldn't be overlooked.

"Nick Popek is a freshman that's been wrestling at 189 on the junior varsity," said Tribit. "With Dallas Simpson (Lyman's varsity Bee Wrestling, Page 2B

OCALA - This is Florida, right?

If you're one of those people who moved here from the basketball hotbeds of the Midwest and Eastern United States and miss the roar and excitement of a gymnasium full of rabid fans, you should have been at Central Florida Community College in Ocala Saturday night.

Did Lake Mary do what's best or what's easiest?

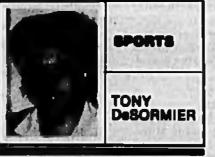

Handed a golden opportunity to do something excitingly 'constructive for the youth of its city, the Lake Mary City Commission did nothing.

In its meeting Thursday night, the commission opted to give first choice use of its soon-to-be compieted baseball fields at its new ports complex to the Seminole PONY Baseball Inc., passing over the requests of the newly-formed Lake Mary Little League and the Longwood Babe Ruth League. By going in this non-direction, the commission has turned its complex, for the next year, at least, into a repository for the overflow of Seminole PONY instead of seizing the chance to create a league the city can call its own.

This is not a debate over the philosphical differences that the three leagues have - to anyone but those immediately involved, those differences are largely inconsequential. Rather, it's a question of access and accessibility. Seminole PONY (which stands for Protect Our Nation's Youth) Baseball already has its Five Points complex, one of the two finest facilities in the county - the City of Altamonte Springs-maintained Eastmonte Park, home of the Altamonte Springs Little League, being the other.

What does Seminole PONY want with the Lake Mary fields - actually, the point of contention is the one field that is to be equipped with lights - when it has a complex of its own?

According to Rod Fergerson, who addressed the commission on behalf of Seminole Baseball Inc., which manages the Seminole PONY leagues, "We don't want exclusive rights ... but we do want first choice over the use of the fields."

Supposedly, Seminole PONY will choose which nights it wants to schedule games at the Lake Mary divy up the remaining nights.

Rick Shiaria, president of Lake Mary Little League, said he understood that Seminole PONY originally wanted the fields on Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday. Shiaria's group would like to have the facility on Friday night and

Unless the leagues cooperate in an unprecedented fashion, this knot may require the wisdom of Solomon to unravel. The frustrating part is, it's a knot that the Lake Mary City Commission created.

You'd think that the city commission would prefer to have a league that bears the city's name to be the primary resident of its new recreation complex rather than be a subsidiary of Seminole PONY. Admittedly, that's a terribly flimsy reason on which to base such a decision, but it's a start.

Perhaps the most uncomfortable part of the decision is the financial arrangements. According to Lake Mary City Manager John Litton, the organizations will not be charged a complex, leaving Lake Mary Little League and Longwood Babe Ruth to divy up the remaining nights. fee for league play, a magnamous gesture considering that the use of the one lighted field is the primary. point of contention.

What makes it uncomfortable is that Seminole PONY has a $65 registration fee for its Bronco League (ages 11 and 12) and a $75 fee for Pony (13 and 14) and Colt (15 and 16) leagues. There is also an additional fundraiser committment of $24 required at the time of registration.

Lake Mary Little League's registration fee is $20, which is waivable. according to Shiarla. George Knai, district administrator of Little League Fiorida District 14 (which includes Seminole County) said that the $20 registration fee is standard but added that most leagues have some type of yearly fund raiser.

As a result, the city commission has given the right of first choice of its new fields to a league not primarily situated in Lake Mary, a league that has its own facility, a league with a finanicial requirement of $89 or $99 per player, a league that will not have to pay to use the facility.

At least the city kept the conceasion stand rights.

A rose is a rose...is a rose... The queen of flowers needs major pruning, grooming

Lada Notices . Ladal Notices ... Logar Available

Growing roses successfully depends on correct planting procedures, site selection, fertilisation, pruning and a regular spray program to produce the beautiful flowers that grace our gardens and vases. Roses require "major" pruning and grooming during the winter months to ensure they get off to a good start for spring growth. Most people do not prune roses enough because 'major" or rejuvenation pruning seems too severe.

However, the rejuvenation process is a necessary part of yearly maintenance. For expert advice I talked with a member of the Greater Orlando Rose Society, Rusty Nickels, a consulting rosarian. Rusty Nickels provided a set of general guidelines for pruning and grooming roses.

Sanitary pruning should start now: re-move all dead or damaged wood and shorten excessively long branches to 5 ft. or 6 ft. to prepare for rejuvenating pruning later in February. Our long growing season allows roses to get far too large and roses develop long branches that are similar to fishing poles. Each flush of new growth is smaller and maker than the one below it smaller and weaker than the one below it. Unless you cut back the bush to sturdy growth, you will end up with filmsy flowering stems.

Normal pruning for a well established Normal pruning for a well established hybrid-T rose (long stem cutting types) means removal of approximately ½ to ½ the top growth and floribundas (bush types) should be pruned back to 4-5 ft, and shaped. Pruning should be done during the second week in February or after the danger of frost has past. All diseased or injured canes that were not removed earlier, in addition to minor twigs or branches, need to be removed at this time. Any canes that rub across each other also need to be removed. Prune plants back to canes the size of your index finger, leaving 3-5 major canes for newly planted roses and 5-7 canes for well-established ones. Canes should be cut to open the center of the plant to air and light.

This is the most important principal in rejuvenation pruning — to strive to develop a bush that is open in the center. This helps to prevent disease and promotes strong growth. Whenever possible, Rusty advises, cut back to a leaf that has five leaflets otherwise terminal growth (without flower buds) will be produced. Remember roses have compound leaves that are composed of leaflets and the number of leaflets per leaf varies.

After the rejuvenation pruning is completed and signs of new growth are visible. Orlando Rose Society at 339-1173 or apply a cup of fertilizer formulated for roses 671-0814.

or a similar tertilizer, such as 6-6-6 with minor elements plus iron. Higher analysis fertilisers (12-6-8) can be applied twice a month at 1/2 cup per application. Rusty says that the area abould be moist prior to the fertilizer application. The fertilizer should also be watered in following application. Note that the fertilizer will not dissolve after watering, but will be activated and dissolve slowly over a period of weeks. Watering after application also helps to wash off any fertilizer that may have landed on the leaves. Be sure to keep the fertilizer at least 6 inches from the base of the bush and broadcast it out slightly beyond the drip line of the plant. Expect flowers in 6 or 9 weeks.

Grooming involves less major pruning. but is still a necessary step in proper rose maintenance. After each flush of blooms, remove the faded flowers. Leave at least 2 to 3 sets of five leaflet leaves on the stem. Remember, it takes leaves to make flowers. When cutting flower stems, always look fo the eye or bud that faces outward from the center of the bush. Cut the stem 14 inch above a bud on a strong cane — index finger size, this helps prevent dieback disease. Continue to fertilize every month according to the procedure mentioned above. Rusty ended her comments by saying that "proper pruning, monthly fertilisation, timely watering during drought situtions and regular monitoring for pests are all equally important to properly caring for roses." For more information or specific questions about rose culture, call the Agricultural
