NUMBER 96.

House Survey Is Sponsored To Provide Rooms

C. of C. Committee Status Situation Is Critical With No Vacant Houses

A survey of the housing situation in Sanford with a view to increasing the number of apartments for rent and the establishment of a local employment agency were authorized today at a luncheon of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce at the Mayfair Hotel.

James Ott, reporting for the real estate committee, declared that a critical situation exists locally as the result of the present occupancy of every house and apartment in town with only half of the expected personnel of the Naval Air Station here yet and with many tourists also expected to come here as the winter reaches its peak.

He expressed the belief that perhaps 50 or 60 additional apartments could be provided through the remodeling or remodeling of many old houses, while J. L. Ingley suggested a campaign to acquaint the public with the facts and to encourage home owners to rent rooms.

President W. A. Laffer who presided over the meeting, declared, "We have a service to perform here in making quarters available for those people who want them."

H. P. Pope, chairman of the merchants committee, said that the merchants at present have two primary problems: 1) obtaining the merchandise for their stores, and 2) securing the clerks to help them handle the trade. At his suggestion the creation of a Chamber of Commerce was approved so that the merchants who need help now can get it as they would in the future.

Senator E. F. Heubacher said there was little which could be done by the roads committee at this time as no new construction could be authorized unless it had priority as essential to the war effort. He added, however, that some work is still being done on State Road No. 44.

Other committee chairmen reporting were: H. J. Lehman for the agricultural committee, G. D. Workman for the naval committee, Gordon Erlanson for the health committee, George D. Bishop for the transportation committee, and L. F. Boyce for the rules and charter committee.

Edward Samsberry urged the establishment of a committee to look into the situation between Sanford and Casselberry which has been a source of trouble for some time.

Sanford is a town which has been a source of trouble for some time. It is a town which has been a source of trouble for some time.

Bank Deposits Here Approach Peak In Boom

Sanford Atlantic Exceeds Any Previous Deposits In Local Banking History

Combined deposits of two banks in Sanford at the present time come within $1,044,222 of reaching the total deposits of both banks operating here during 1926 at the height of the Florida boom.

While local deposits are unusually high and more money is on deposit in Sanford than at any time since the boom years, the extremely sound condition of banks is reflected by the statement of loans and discounts which for both banks totaled on Dec. 31 last only $471,817.

These deposits of the two banks in Sanford at the close of 1932 were divided as follows: First National Bank, $2,885,539 and Seminole Bank, $2,215,047. In a single year, from 1942 to 1943, the Sanford Atlantic National Bank's deposits have increased $1,371,651, from $1,948,896 to $3,320,547.

Loans and discounts of individual banks in 1932 were as follows: First National Bank, $2,000,465 for the Seminole County Bank. In 1942, during the "depression," when the Sanford Atlantic National Bank was the only one operating here, its loans and discounts were $225,401 and its deposits were $1,248,702.

Victorious Red Armies Rip Through German Resistance

Russian victorious armies, ripping through a war of German resistance, forged ahead and captured a number of populated places.

A violent battle raged for a long period in the area where the Germans had concentrated fresh forces among the elite units. The Soviet onslaught systematically beat down the fortifications and went down the garrison.

A full battalion of German infantry was routed from strategic positions in another sector, the high command reported. In that struggle 800 Germans were captured and seven tanks and 20 trucks destroyed. The Russians captured prisoners, three tanks, two armored cars, 18 trucks and an ammunition dump.

German forces struggling desperately to check the Red army drive on the middle Don front launched counterattacks in some sectors. They were beaten off and the Soviet forces "successfully forged ahead," the communiqué reported.

A single Red army unit in two days of furious fighting destroyed up to two battalions of perhaps 2000 German troops, seven tanks, and 26 truckloads of supplies and ammunition. The German garrison trying to break out of a Soviet encirclement attacked 12 times with no success, the high command reported.

General MacArthur Announces Virtual Completion Of Bitter Papuan Campaign

American and Allied fliers battered violently at the remnants of a 10-ship Japanese convoy off the New Guinea coast today, climaxing a 24-hour running battle in which they were officially credited with sinking two big transports, damaging a third and shooting down 18 enemy fighters.

General MacArthur's headquarters announced the virtual completion of the bitter Papuan campaign in New Guinea with the annihilation of the Japanese army that once totaled 16,000 troops.

American dispatches from Allied headquarters in North Africa said bad weather had cleared again on the northern section in Tunisia and indicated a lull.

Far to the south, a French and American camel corps, attacking against heavy odds, was reported to have captured the Axis outpost at Tanout Maller in the territory of the oasis, killing 250 Italians.

Allied planes bombed the harbor of Palermo, Sicily, in a daylight raid yesterday, while the Navy in Washington reported United States Army Air Forces again blasted Japanese bases at Kiska off Alaska and Munda in the Solomons. The results were not disclosed.

A communiqué said American planes on Wednesday (time) returned to base after destruction of the new enemy airbase at Munda which only 24 hours earlier had been heavily bombed by both United States air and surface craft. They also bombed an airfield at Kahlil, near Buin on Bougainville Island. Results of neither raid were reported.

Earlier the same day big army flying fortresses, escorted by Lockheed Lightning and Curtiss Warhawk fighters, spotted the enemy transport in the Shortland island area, 200 miles northwest of Guadalcanal, and claimed a possible hit on the stern.

From Melbourne, Australia, an earlier report government sources asserted Thursday that air reconnaissance had disclosed a concentration of Japanese shipping at the port of Rabaul, New Guinea, which was guarded by the enemy for his first counter-attack against the American forces holding the Eastern Solomon Islands.

This concentration, those quarters added, was shown to have been augmented since last Tuesday, when its presence was first reported by an Australian government spokesman.

At that time, the spokesman anonymously issued a widely published statement that the Japanese were gathering the largest sea force ever seen in the Southwest Pacific.

In connection with such reports Secretary of the Navy Knox said on Tuesday in Washington that while there was always enemy shipping at Rabaul, only of the Australian theater, he had no knowledge of any extraordinary concentration there.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—President Roosevelt gave approval today to the pay-as-you-go tax plan, but said the real problem is whether the government will forgive part or all of the current tax debt.

At a press conference, he also repeated hope, which he said he intended to convey in a message to Congress, for a United Nations' Victory in 1944.

Tricks And Plays Used In Baseball Will Show Change

By JOE DEGEORGE
AP Features
WICHITA, Kas., Jan. 8.—Circus stunts and novel gadgets, once the ace in Ray Dumont's pack of tricks to keep the turnstile clicking, have no part in the 1943 plans of the national semi-pro baseball congress president.

It's not that the war has shaken his confidence in the lot of the turnstile—far from it. It's just that he believes a serious attitude is more in keeping with the times.

"People during war times are serious-minded," says the man who in 7 years passed has benched to a great extent on such devices as a pneumatic home plate duster, and a jack-in-the-box microphone for the home plate umpire to attract the fans.

"Take the Brooklyn Dodgers, for example. Two years ago baseball fans were amused over their daffy tactics. The Dodgers were herpes. Last season, after the war broke out, their daffiness just didn't click, even though they did lead the National league much of the season.

Dumont has laid the groundwork for what he calls a well rounded program for the coming season. Confidently, he tells you that the semi-pros should forge ahead to a more prominent place in baseball because of the war.

"The baseball clubs, the players and the fans may not be the same as they were in former years, but you can mark it down that there'll be more sandlot teams than at any time in the past decade," Dumont asserts.

Industrial teams will increase 50 percent, he predicts, because the 2,000 to 2,500 professional players, who have gone into war plants in the past two years, will be unable to return to organized baseball next year with fewer minor league clubs operating."

Dumont holds to the view that town baseball is far from through.

"Gasoline rationing will keep most of the home folks from traveling next summer," he reasons. "They'll want something in their home town to interest them. A baseball team will be the solution."

But what about equipment, Mr. Dumont?

"On my recent trip, I contacted athletic goods manufacturers and was informed that there would be no shortage of baseballs, although teams will be required to use 50 percent more, due to the fact that first grade baseballs will contain no more than 70 percent wool yarn, instead of 100 percent as in former years."

It also was told that the government recently purchased 120,000 official baseballs for the war camp.

In brief, Dumont's plans for 1943 include:

"Distribution in January of 100,000 national semi-pro guidelines to create a desire to organize baseball clubs," to army camps and industrial plants.

Nationwide registration, March 1, of all males 15 years of age or older who want to play baseball, the registration to be made at the country's 8,000 sporting goods stores.

Opening of the season on May 1, national semi-pro baseball.

District qualifying tournaments scheduled for June 30 to July 6. Forty-eight state tournaments held July 7 to Aug. 5, to qualify champions for the ninth annual national tourney in Wichita, Aug. 12 to 20.

Southwest Teams May Be Topped By Arkansas Cagers

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Jan. 8.—There have been many changes made but Arkansas is ready to roll right along in the Southwest Conference.

The plans of the Ozarks, who in 10 years of conference competition have won eight championships and tied for two more are lined up with another team that must succeed at the top to best.

Arkansas doesn't do so well in football—or at least hasn't been able to in the immediate past season—yet on the basketball court, they're something else.

Whether Jay Gordon Carpenter, seven-foot center, re-enters school. He had been out for a season job. His return to school, Arkansas says, hopes that if there was any part of the season for a boost at Fayetteville, they usually don't do the best against opponents' out of conference.

Arkansas beat Arkansas State in the first round of the conference tournament. They will play Arkansas State again in the quarter-finals.

Arkansas State, coached by Coach Tommie Smith, is a team that has been very successful in the past few years. They have won the conference championship in 1941 and 1942.

Arkansas State's success is due to their strong defense and their ability to score in the paint. They have a very solid front line and a strong rebounding team.

Arkansas State's coach, Tommie Smith, is a former player and has a deep understanding of the game. He has coached Arkansas State to a record of 15-10 in conference play and 25-15 overall.

Arkansas State's success is a testament to their hard work and dedication. They have a very strong team and are looking forward to a successful season in 1943.

Auxiliary firemen are shown studying the damage caused by the fire at the Tolosa Lake, Cal., home of Bing Crosby, famous screen and radio star. At the top of this circular stairway surrounding the central portion of the house the Crosby family dog was found burned to death. The Crosby children were taken to safety by members of the household. Many of Bing's valuable trophies were destroyed. This is a phonophoto.

Field dressing stations are doing an excellent job under rather difficult conditions as the Allied forces advance against the Axis in Tunisia. This picture shows an American wounded soldier receiving treatment at a U.S. field dressing station, somewhere in Tunisia. A wound in the Yank soldier's leg is being swabbed.

Although the Red Cross sign was clearly visible on the side of the ambulance it was struck by a German Junkers BH on a road in Tunisia. Ironically, the ambulance carried wounded German prisoners to the rear lines for treatment. The driver was killed and found by the Axis he tried to open when the attack came. Major William Yarbrough of Seattle, Washington, French liaison officer with the U.S. forces in Africa, looks with pity on the German prisoners because their comrades from the ambulance.

OPA May Have To Answer To Navajo Tribe Of Indians

By A. V. GUILLETTE

GALLUP, N. M., Jan. 8.—The Big Chief of the OPA tribe may have to answer to the Navajos about this coffee business.

To the Navajo, coffee ranks in importance right behind his horse and his flock. Without his coffee—"kofay"—one of the few words for which the Indians have found no tribal language substitute—a Navajo can hardly work up a good medicine dance.

Why, there have been times when meat and such was scarce and the Navajo had to pull through on bread and coffee alone.

But the literal Navajo is taking his coffee rationing like everything else, strictly at face value. And while Big Chief OPA may not be the most popular among the 50,000 Navajos, traders say the Indians have not hoarded coffee.

The Navajo camp and coffee eat go together—the hot dogs and buns, or hamburgers and onion.

In the chill on the high plateau reservation in New Mexico and Arizona, the coffee pot simmers steadily on the campfires surrounding the medicine dances.

It looks now as if that the pot will boil weakly, if at all.

Navajo coffee, however, is only a distant cousin to the gently steeped pale-face beverage. The Navajo recipe is to dump coffee, sugar and water together into the pot and boil. The principal detail of Navajo coffee making is boiling. If anyone needs more coffee, additional water, sugar and coffee are tossed into the pot. At the discretion of the cook the old grounds are tossed out—usually at camp moving time.

The position of coffee in the Navajo diet was given official recognition by the Indian Bureau about 10 years ago when the Navajos were snowbound on the reservation, and many faced starvation. Army bombers dropped food, and in each package, provisions was always a box of coffee.

The Navajos once staged and won a sit-down strike for their favorite brand. Early Indian traders stocked their mules with the old Aroukelle brand, a byword on the southwest plateau—and packaged in bright yellow sacks trimmed in red and blue and garnished with the picture of "the lady with wings."

Squares furnished their mud and log hogan with coffee premiums. Expenses grew up on cut-outs of brightly dressed ladies of the period.

The Axis, without warning changed the brand and modernized the package. The Navajos would have none of it.

The old package finally was re-issued and remained in high favor until last August when the brand was discontinued.

Even the sturdy pine boxes in which coffee was shipped by the railroad to the reservation were played an important part in the Navajo country. The boxes were made into tables and chairs. They were used for partitions, out-buildings and fences.

Coffee rationing may change a lot of things. One thing, however, probably won't change. That's boiling. Coffee grounds now probably will be boiled as long as necessary until a fresh batch is rationed out.

HOLLYWOOD

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 8. (WW)—I've just seen a movie good enough to call for a whole basketful of superlatives, and so good I won't use a single one.

I'll just call it an exceptionally good movie. And that's taking a tip from the picture itself, for part of its power is derived from overrating nothing.

The film is "In Which We Serve." It's from England. Noel Coward wrote, produced, directed it, wrote the music for it, and starred in it—all under wartime conditions. It's a tale of the life and death of a British destroyer and the men who sail her.

He was photographed amid the merriest champagne glass bubbling before him. The blithering Londoners didn't like it. Besides, he had flopped as a propagandist, knowing nothing of the trade. And after that, he was arrested at home with tax evasion charges. He was in a bad way with his public, even after he was vindicated. England's peacetime idol had suddenly become wartime beef.

That was when Noel Coward decided he'd better stick to his last, and do a job for England that he knew how to do. That was when the man who flopped as a propagandist turned out this masterpiece of national friend-making and people-interesting.

U. S. Planes Carry Fight To Axis Both In Europe And Africa

Tunisian Land Action Slacks As British Bombers Hit District Of Ruhr

(By Associated Press)
American and British warplanes carried the fight to the Axis both in Europe and North Africa. Allied bombers struck again at possible junction points for Rommel's Libyan forces and the Axis army of Tunisia, raiding three towns, as the African aerial warfare was stepped up. Land action in Tunisia bogged down as British bombers set off fires 100 miles in a hard attack on Essen, the armament works center in German Ruhr.

Allied planes in the Pacific, pursuing remnants of a battered Japanese convoy fleeing from New Orleans, shot down or damaged 18 planes in four days, hit two more ships while in Burma. British troops continued their advance toward Akyab.

In the southwest Pacific, American forces on Guadalcanal Island made small advances into Japanese territory against weak resistance following artillery barrage and aerial bombing and strafing, Washington today announced.

As earlier reports said United States medium bombers from Tunisia struck their first blow against the Axis in Africa, the British were reported to have captured a small town in the desert. The British were reported to have captured a small town in the desert.

Ration Banking Operation Begins On January 27

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—National operation of the "ration banking" program, intended to ease bookkeeping burdens and speed the handling of millions of coupons by rationing boards and dealers, will start Jan. 27, the Office of Price Administration has announced.

The program was tried out first in the industrial and commercial area in New York State comprised of Albany, Troy, Schenectady and surrounding communities.

Under the program, stamps and coupons taken in by storekeepers, wholesalers, and other dealers in rationed goods will flow back to primary suppliers through commercial banks, much in the manner that banks act as clearing houses for checks.

Persons whose names begin with A, B, C, and D will register on the first and second days, names beginning with E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, and Z on the third and fourth days.

The system will work in this manner, an OPA statement said. Only persons who present War Ration Book One will be admitted to registration headquarters.

Mortality rate cut by sulfanilamides.

Reds Retake 13 More Towns In Caucasus

Desperation Stiffens German Stand In Two Sections But Russians Advance

(By Associated Press)
The capture of 13 more towns along the Rostov-Baku railway through the Caucasus was reported today by the Russians as they closed in tighter around Georgievsk rail junction where the Germans have been rolled back 25 miles from Mtskhi. Nazi defenses in the Caucasus are apparently crumbling fast.

Although desperation stiffened the Nazi stand in the lower Don, 60 miles from Rostov, and in the central front west of Velyi Luki, there was no sign that the Russian drive had bogged down.

Communications and front dispatches showed that Georgievsk was under imminent threat as the Russians closed in, knocking the props out from under the entire German defense triangle built around the north Caucasus rail network.

Also threatened, though less directly by the concerted Soviet offensives beating through the lower Don valley were Shakhty, 47 miles north of Rostov, and Balk, 110 miles southeast of the big Caucasian gateway city, the reports said.

Newspapers printed maps showing the Russians had captured a strong point 45 miles east of Shakhty, and 22 miles north of Balk on the Stalingrad-Tikhoretsk line below the southern arm of the Don bend.

Strong German forces were reported battling desperately to stem the Red Army drives through the lower Don Valley which were steadily narrowing the Rostov bridgehead on which the Nazis in the Caucasus depended.
