Ferrell Speaks Against Proposition 1

Byening Herald

Assistant Seminole County School Superintendent Carey Ferrell, in an admittedly biased talk against Proposition 1, slated for Florida's general election ballot in November, warned Pankhurst club members that passage of the constitutional amendment would profoundly affect Florida's quality of life and quality of education.

At a meeting in Sanford of some 32 members and guests of the women's service organization Thursday. Ferrell said the issue is so complex that even supporters of the proposition don't know the full impact it will have on government.

Overshadowing Ferrell's appearance as guest speaker before the four-year-old women's group was the refusal of someone in the organization to allow a Winter Springs man to attend even though the meeting was billed as open to the public.

Tom Binford, who heads the speakers' bureau for Proposition 1 in Seminole County, complained that his reservation for the luncheon gathering was first accepted and later rejected with an explanation that Pankhurst is a women's organization. "I didn't want to speak. I just wanted to listen to what Ferrell had to say." Binford said.

Carolyn Graham, Pankhurst president, could not identify the member who cancelled Binford's reservation. She said the group's board of directors will be looking into the matter.

She said that several calls of apology were made to Binford after the incident. Binford said that he already had other plans before he received the messages.

Ferrell, who is in charge of business and finance for the school system, said Proposition 1 calls for a cap on revenues by state, county and city governments. School Boards and other taxing units in the state, except for federal money, funds from new construction and bond issues approved by the people."

He said seven states have already adopted constitutional amendments similar to the one on the November ballot in Florida while 19 other states have called for the reform by law.

The Florida proposition he said does not make repeal it.

allowances for population growth and inflation growth. inflation and population growth and one of the largest school districts in the nation, the San Jose district went bankrupt after the passage of that amendment.

Ferrell said since property taxes make up only 25 percent of the public school's budget in Seminole County, honeowners will get little or no relief from the passage of the amendment.

He predicted that the amendment will cause a cut in school and other government revenues of 26.6 percent, the first year - 1985-86 - the amendment would be in effect. This would cost the Seminole school system $33 million, he said.

The local school board would have to cut property taxes by $5 million and would lose $28 million in state money, much of it paid by tourists and much of it from the 5 cent sales tax, he said.

And Ferrell warned, since the proposition will be a constitutional amendment it would take 2 to 3 years to

Not only would tax revenues be affected. Ferrell said. Even Proposition 13 in California, he said, was tied to but also fees paid by students for lunches and football games

Binford differed with Ferrell's remarks today, saying a major difference between California's Proposition 13 and Florida's Proposition 1 is that the loopholes seen in the California amendment have been plugged in the Florida proposal.

Bluferd explained that the amendment calls for a roll back in revenues in each of the governments to 1980-81 with allowances made in each subsequent year after up to two-thirds of the consumer price index, plus new construction.

"This is not an amendment to cut back revenues, but rather to decrease the rate of increase in taxes and fees. "We want to slow down the annual rate of increase," he said.

He said if the amendment passes, a government can go to the voters and ask for approval of additional taxes.

Hart: Address Basic Needs

Donna Estes Herald Staff Writer

Greeted by a small band of enthusiastic supporters waving hand-made signs, Colorado Sen. Gary Hart at Orlando's International Airport Thursday said the nation must address basic human needs of the poor and the hungry. And hesaid the elderly should never fear their needs will go unmet.

Interrupted several times by cheers and applause. Hart said he would like to bring "thinkers back adding that no nto government single individual can represent all constructive ideas, or tap the energies, wisdom, vitality of America. He praised former Gov. Reubin Askew as "a worthy opponent" and said "you have not heard the last of Reubin Askew." "I hope he will play a key role in the Hart administration," he said. Hart was ask by reporters about the controversial U.S. Navy reserve commission he received in 1980 during the waning days of the Carter Administration. He was past the age limit for such a commission and the requirement had to be waived. Hart said in his 20's he fulfilled mental and physical requirements for a Navy commission just before a military program granting such commissions was cancelled. He said he pursued the commission in 1980 so he could enter active duty if a war that seemed imminent at the time broke out in the Persian Gulf. "My son was a teenager at the time and I could not sit in the Senate and appropriate money for a war in which my son might have been involved. I would have served myself." Hart said.

Pat Burkett, 45, who teaches fifth graders and others about the environment at the Seminole schools' Environmental Center was declared "Teacher of the Year." today.

Chosen the best of 43 teachers in the competition among all the public schools in the county. Mrs. Burkett was to be notified of the honor in her classroom at the environmental center late this morning by School Superintendent Robert Hughes and an entourage of school officials.

The choice was based on the individual teachers' nominations by their schools, students and in some cases recommendations from parents and visits to their classrooms by a school administration team.

Asked if he would still volunteer for active duty in the military if the nation went to war, Hart said he hopes he would be commander-in-chief.

With Secretary of State George Firestone, Orlando Mayor Bill Frederick and former State Rep. Dick Batchelor, an Askew delegate on Tuesday's primary ballot, at his side, Hart praised his former adversary in New England as a "worthy opponent," adding he hopes Askew will play a key role in a Hart Administration.

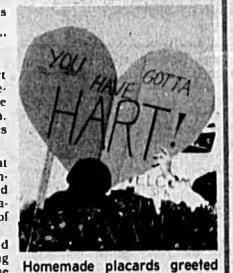

He tried to dampen the expectations of the band of enthusiasts who interrupted his talk several times and again assaume the role of underdog hy saying he's sure he could win the primaries in Georgia, Florida and Alabama next Tuesday if he had had three weeks to campaign in each. "But I feel we will do well here." he said.

Of the nation's needs, Hart pointed to a health care maintenance program under Medicare and Medicaid and a jobs program. He also said that interest rates must be reduced.

Looking abroad, he said that American military forces in Honduras should be brought home and the U.S. should end covert operations against the government of Nicaragua.

In Alabama, Georgia and Florida, most polls are showing Hart rapidly closing the gap in the lead Mondale has held there for so long.

Pollster Sees Hart Victories Super Tuesday

By Joey Ledford

UPI Southern Correspondent ATLANTA (UPI) - Gary Hart's Southern spokesman says the Colorado senator has little chance of winning either Alabama. Florida or Georgia, but an Atlanta polister believes Hart could easily win two out of three on Super Tuesday.

"I don't think we can beat him." Hart spokesman Kevin Sweeney said Thursday of Walter Mondale. "We're looking for a strong second or third. To expect us to win in these states is expecting too much."

From Staff and Wire Reports Unemployment in the United States fell to 7.8 percent in February, from January's 8 percent. reaching the lowest point since September 1981, the Labor Department reported today. Latest figures show Seminole with a lower than nationwide unemployment rate - 6.3 percent - but February figures for the County will not be available until March 29, according to state labor market analyst Sterling Tuck.

The national figure showed a sharp drop in the number of long-term jobless and the continuing increase in new jobs. The 0.2 of a percentage point drop from January Included workers in nearly every category sharing the job market improvement.

In Florida, the unemployment rate for January was 7 percent. Tuck said. In the greater Orlando metropolitian area, which includes Seminole, Orange, and Osceola counties, the January unemployment rate was 6.3 percent, the same rate in Seminole County.

The Golden Age Games will include a triathion this year, not momentous news in itself excpet that one of the three events will be contested in Lake Monroe. Not on it, above it, or near it, but in it.

The Games Executive Committee met this week to finalize the schedule for the 10th annual Games to be held Nov. 5-10. And to mark the first decade of competition for senior citizens 55 and over. several innovations are planned.

One will be the triathion. Not quite as grueling as the non-stop contests you see on television, the Golden Age Games version will involve competing in three events - a six-mile mini-marathon, a 5-mile bicycle race and, here's the good part, a half-mile swim in Lake Monroe (no small challenge considering the natural hazards such as ailigators and unpredictable November weather).

The mini-marathon will be a street race which will begin at 10 a.m. on Monday at the Sanford City Hall following the parade and opening ceremonies. The swim, originally proposed for onemile, will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday under the sponsorship of the American Red Cross. Deadly Fumes Kill Two, Injure 29

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) - Deadly fumes trapped in a sewage tunnel killed two construction workers and injured 29 others, including 22 firemen who searched for victims through the foggy underground cavern for an hour.

More than 100 firefighters responded to the emergency at the Papago Freeway project, and 35 firemen wearing oxygen tanks and carrying flashlights dropped into the 5-foot-deep tunnel to search for eight workers reported inside.

Gordon Routley, a fire department spokesman, said Daniel Van Zandt, 20, of Phoenix, and Gordon Frederick Willis, 26, of Wickenburg, died from carbon monoxide poisoning. Van Zandt was found 450 feet from the tunnel entrance.

Routley said workers from Ball, Ball and Brosama, Inc., of Danville, Calif., were digging tunnels to lay sewer lines. One of the workers descended into the tunnel to add gasoline to a pump keeping water from filling the cavity.

'Megabucks Mania'

BOSTON (UPI) - "Megabucks mania" is sweeping Massachusetts and hordes of bettors. from bank executives to secretaries - even a presidential candidate -- have plunked down $1 for a chance to win a lottery jackpot that could be worth more than $18 million.

Long lines were reported across the state in bars, stores and supermarkets as tens of thousands of eager bettors this week played Megabucks, in which $1 buys the chance to pick six numbers from 1 to 36, as sales for Saturday night's drawing rose to record levels.

The state Lottery Commission said nearly 8 million tickets were sold through Thursday, with the heaviest volume - and the longest lines - expected Saturday in what has been dubbed "Megabucks Mania."

The old mark of 5.8 million tickets was set last week when the jackpot was $5 million. The weekly drawing, which accumulates if no one wins by having all six chosen numbers drawn, has gone two weeks without a winner.

Woman: Husband Tried To Run Her Down

A 22-year-old serviceman who drove his car at a high speed toward his wife and 18-month-old daughter posted $5,000 bond and was released from the Seminole County jail after being charged with aggravated assault with a motor vehicle.

Sharon Elaine Pawela. 23, of 1411 Ruth Drive, Longwood, reported to sheriff's deputies that she and her husband were sitting in their car with their daughter at about 6:30 p.m Thursday, when the couple began to argue. Mrs. Pawela said her husband ordered her out of the car and as she ran and carried her daughter to the house her husband allegedly drove the car across the yard toward them at a high speed. He stopped short of hitting them, a sheriff's report said.

When Paul Daniel Pawela, a U.S. Army serviceman, stationed at Ft. Bragg, N.C. was arrested at 9 p.m. Thur day at 330-A Forest Lake, in west Seminole County, he told investigators that he had control of the car at the time of the incident and was a "good driver." He said he just wanted to damage the yard, the sheriff's report said.

He is scheduled to appear in court March 23.

Auditor Critical Of St. Johns Board

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - A Northeast Florida water board spent $116,000 to buy land in Volusia County without any scientific justification for the purchase, according to the state's top auditor.

In addition, the board had no legal authority to give its director a car for personal use or tell him he could buy the vehicle if he is fired, and board members pay themselves for travel from home to their district office in apparent violation of state law, Auditor General Ernest Ellison said Thursday.

Ellison's 65-page report on the St. Johns River Water Management District questions several other board expenses, including more than $20,000 for special pay to employees assigned to extended duty away from home and $17,800 for charter air service without proper documentation.

Water district officials accepted Ellison's suggestion that they ask for attorney general's opinions to and his personal use, and Vergara clarify procedures used in several of reimburses the district $25 a month the questioned expenditures.

The St. Johns River district, one of five regional water management authorities in Florida, sets water policy for Northeast Florida. District offices are in Palatka.

Ellison questioned the board's decision to spend $116,747 to buy a 1,168-acre tract of Volusia County known as Turnbull Hammock. Vargara said the district bought the land in 1980 for environmental. recreational and drainage reasons, the auditor said the decision wasn't based on scientific studies that proved valid district needs.

District Executive director E.D. Vergara's contract provides him with a four-wheel-drive station wagon for both district purposes for the private use. The contract also says Vergara can buy the car at current wholesale market price if he is terminated.

Ellison, however, said the district's own policies forbid the use of district-owned vehicles for private use, and there is no law that would allow the district to sell its property to Vergara without going through competitive bidding. Vergara has released the board from that obligation, and the board will discuss the private-use matter soon, according to the district's response to the audit.

Trial Ends With Rebuttal Witnesses

MIAMI (UPI) - A gesturing, loquacious officer Luis Alvarez finally became subdued under the prosecutor's relentless cross examination about how the policeman killed a young black man in 1982 and set off a three-day riot.

The 24-year-old Alvarez, on trial for manslaughter, had testified for two days in his own defense. All but 70 minutes of that time was under the hammering questions of assistant state attorney Abraham Laeser.

Teacher Can Be Denied Job

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - A substitute teacher with a bad back could legally be denied a classroom job that involved "heavy lifting." the 1st District Court of Appeal ruled Thursday.

Judge Ralph W. Nimmons Jr., writing the unanimous order, overturned a hearing examiner's finding that Thomas A. Rateau had been improperly discriminated against by the Pinellas County School Board. Testimony before the hearing officer indicated Rateau had aggravated a back injury while employed by the Post Office, and was turned down for a two-month job as a business education instructor at Dunedin High School because the work involved lifting typewriters and computer equipment.

The Dunedin principal had chosen Rateau for a temporary teaching job during December of 1981 and January of 1982, but his medical examination resulted in a "no heavy lifting" order.

Trial Set For Youth Charged With Trying To Kill Dad

By Deane Jordan Herald Staff Writer

An 18-year-old Sanford man who thought he was poisoning his father with a substance he obtained for that purpose is scheduled to be tried for solicitation to commit murder.

Montgomery Todd Meeks, 18, of Rt. 3, Box 404, has had a trial date of May 21 set for paying a friend to purchase what he thought was an insecticide poison which he then put in his father's drinking water.

Unknown to Meeks, however, the friend he purchased the material from at Colonial High School substituted the polson with water at the urging of three other students who later contacted the sheriff's department.

Meeks was arrested Nov. 2 by Orange

County deputies because the conspiracy to commit murder allegedly occurred in that county.

If convicted, Meeks could get 30 years to life in prison.

Meeks' father, Prentice Meeks, 40, is a mobile home dealer who moved to Seminole County a year ago.

His son, who goes by the name of Todd, worked part-time at his father's business skirting mobile homes and continued to attend Colonial High School after the move.

The younger Meeks was scheduled to graduate from Colonial High School last summer, but he continued as a part-time student at the school to get additional credits.

The sequence of events leading to Meeks' arrest, according to Joyce Drazen of the Orange County Sheriff's Department is:

Meeks approached a fellow student at the high school and gave him money to travel to Louisville, Ky, on Oct. 21 to buy the poison.

In Louisville, Meeks' friend bought an extract of the castor oil bean, which is used in some insecticides and is a known poison. The student apparently bought the poison over the counter as if for industrial use.

When the student returned with the poison, three other students talked him into replacing the poison with water, deputies said, and those students called the sheriff's office.

On Oct. 24, the student who bought the poison gave the vial to Meeks who did not know it contained only water, deputies said. The next day. Todd is said to have told the student who bought the poison for him that he had poured the contents of the vial into a glass of water, which his father drank, deputies said.

The senior Meeks was told by sheriff's investigators on Oct. 25 that his son had tried to kill him, deputies said, and on that same day, the senior Meeks and his wife moved to a motel where they remained until their son's arrest.

The couple told their son they were going away for a few days.

Deputies said Todd told fellow students that he planned to kill his father for his money.

The trial is scheduled before Circuit Judge Lawrence Kirkwood.

No one else is charged in the ease, according to Ms. Drazen.

Police Dog Subpoenaed

According to the state attorney's office. Harrop is charged with "obstructing or opposing William White... and his police dog Bruno in the lawful performance of legal duty...."

White attempted to arrest Harrop after he tailed a roadside sobriety test, but the man walked to his truck and drove off. The officer pursued and stopped the truck by pulling in front of it. When the officer took the man's arm, a fight began. Bruno, White's K-9, "exited" the police car and entered the tussle. Officer and dog have been subpoended for the trial.

Let Title IX Decision Stand

The Supreme Court has blown the whistle on the more unreasonable application of the civil rights legislation known as Title IX.

Title IX is the 1972 law prohibiting sex disermination in "any education program or activity receiving tederal assistance." In the past, the law has been wielded ambiguously. Many school officials thought the law applied to all their programs because their students received federal fihancial aid. One big effect of the law was to boost funding of women's athletic programs. Schools had the unenviable task of trying to balance the budget for men's football, baseball and basketball with the budget for women's field hockey, badminton and gymnastics so as not to "discriminate" on the basis of sex.

Under the new ruling, the receipt of federal funds by one education program will not obligate ah entire school to comply with Title IX. Athletic departments can budget their funds according to objective economic standards, rather than the speial engineering designs of the Department of Education. The new rules will protect the ekistence of men's colleges, women's colleges and small private schools that can't afford the federal paperwork.

The court's decision came in response to a suit filed by Grove City College, a small private school it Pennsylvania. The college argued that while some of its students received federal financial aid, the school itself received no federal funds and, therefore, should not be burdened with costly fideral regulations. The court decided that even if the college's financial aid department was subject to Title IX, the rest of the school was not.

Congress is still trying to meddle in this area. flast November, the House overwhelmingly approved a resolution opposing any restrictions on he focus of Title IX. And already, Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif, and Sen. Robert Dole, R-Hansas, have said they will try to reverse the court's decision.

Nevertheless, the federal government should not be persecuting the innoecht. An unfocused Title forces schools to violate common-sense indgetary considerations. And it is being used by an over zealous department of Education to harass rivate colleges. The Supreme Court has made a wise decision. Congress should let it stand.

District 18 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has taken the Florida Sheriffs' Youth Ranch as its big project this year. Recently a group of VFW members lead by District Commander Bill Mayo and District Auxiliary President Ada Reiley of Sanford went by bus to Live Oak to visit the ranch.

They were met by the faculty and were given a tour of the facilities, during which the were served lunch and visited with the children and houseparents.

"Everyone came away feeling good and determined to work harder for this project and support the wonderful job being done at the ranch," said Mrs. Refley.

District 18, composed of 10 posts and auxiliaries in Seminole and Orange counties, will sponsor an all-day fund raiser for the ranch on April 1 at the Pine Hills Post. There will be barbecued chicken dinners. sandwiches, soft drinks, bake sale, auction, plant sale, and live bands. Mrs. Relley said the public is welcome at the event. which will climax a year of work on the project. A check will be presented later in the month to the Sheriff's Youth Ranch.

When word got out last year that America's most famous and beloved lady was showing her age and getting a trifle dowdy, her fans around the country were asked to help restore Miss Liberty to her former self.

As part of this grassroots effort, the enthusiastic elementary school children of Winter Springs have joined the Winter Springs Civic Association in their fund raising efforts on behalf of the Statue of Liberty restoration project. Thanks to generous students such as Jamie Brewer of Casselberry, a fourth grader. Winter Springs has raised $220 in three weeks for the project. Jamie donated his entire penny collection which came to $20.50.

Keeth Elementary School students are also participating in the drive on an individual class basis and will make one big presentation at the end of their campaign, said Ruth Ann Gunter of the Winter Springs Civic Association.

The deadline for the city-wide drive is April 11 and the association's goal is to raise $2,000. A Statue of Liberty Fund has been set up at the Barnett Bank on State Road 434 in Winter Springs to receive donations.

Mrs. Gunter said letters had been sent to the various organizations in the city inviting them to participate. She said the Winter Springs Fire Department had donated $35 raised from an auction at a dinner.

The fourth graders are participating in an essay contest - "What the Statue of Liberty Means to Me." "We hope the parents will see what a good job the kids are doing and want to help support the restoration fund, too," Mrs. Gunter said.

"I feel that all small towns should help kick in something." she explained."The Statue of Liberty is very important to everyone and hopefully represents what our country stands for."

Congratulations to Sanford Boy Scout Troop 844 which recently won five awards at the 25th Silver Anniversary Scoutmasters Camporce held in Fort Lauderdale in Holiday Park. There were 77 troops and 1.760 boys attending. The troop won a first place award for the gateway to its campsite; third place in campsite inspection and a troop honor ribbon. The Fox and Bear Patrols received patrol honor ribbons and the Bear Partrol was a finalist in the patrol flag competition. Tom Fetterhoff is the scoutmaster.

South Africa Vendetta

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

The U.S. Congress has a responsibility for legislating wisely with respect to the domestic and foreign problems facing the United States. It has a constitutional duty to provide for the common defense and the general welfare.

Specifically, Congress needs to restrain its appetite for public spending which has produced the colossal deficits now facing the nation. It has much to do to untangle the maze of federal regulation which impedes the orderly growth of productive enterprises.

Instead of sticking to such necessary business, however, sizable elements in Congress are intent upon ideological vendettas. One of these is a nearpermanent crusade against the Republic of South Africa, which poses no threat whatsoever to the United States. A determined group of liberal Congressmen are working to amend the Export Administration Act in order to ban U.S. investment in South Africa.

Interestingly enough, many of the liberal congressmen who are determined to punish South Africa also want to lend a helping hand to Nicaragua and other enemies of the United States much closer to home.

One doesn't have to defend South

SCIENCE WORLD Cancer Drug Less Toxic By Patricia McCormack

UPI Health Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) - A new anticancer agent being tested against advanced breast cancer causes less nausea and hair loss than other drugs. making for greater patient acceptability, according to a Mount Sinai School of Medicine researcher.

Dr. James F. Holland, director of the school's cancer center, said studies show that 60 percent of patients who take mitoxantrone (Novantrone) do not suffer such side effects as nausea and hair loss that are common in chemotherapy.

Holland has been investigating the drug for 2 1/2 years as part of the clinical trials at several American medical centers. The drug is still experimental But recently was approved for marketing in Canada.

Holland, who was co-chairman of a recent teleconference on the drug, said it is too early to tell what place mitoxantrone eventually will have in the weaponry against cancer - whether It will stand alone or whether it will be used in combination with other drugs.

One use, he said in an interview, might be to use it as a second line of chemotherapy after cancer cells have become resistant to other drugs.

Here We Go Again

The Social Security reform bill signed into law last April contained "something for everyone," said President Reagan. The elderly were assured that "America will always keep its promises" and young workers were pledged "that they will get their fair share of benefits when they retire."

In citing Congress' daring in tackling and solving Social Security's financial dilemma, Speaker of the House Tip O'Neill said, "This is a great day for America."

Well, here we are less than a year later and the cuphoria is fading fast. A gloomy report from the 200-member Committee for Economic Development warns that if drastic measures are not taken to cut costs, the Social Security system will be broke by 1990.

Among recommendations are raising the retirement age as soon as possible and stashing the full cost-of-living increases now given Social Security recipients.

Last year's reform legislation was two years in the making and largely the result of changes urged by a bipartisan study commission. The commission compromised with reality in order to achieve consensus. Then the commission's compromises were further diluted by a Congress driven by special interest groups.

Contrary to the president's statements, the Social Security legislation contained nothing for hardheaded realists. Their complaints, lost in the din of congratulatory rhetoric, are now beginning to be heard.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I thought I told you to give up break-dancing!"

Africa's internal political structure in order to oppose the current campaign against that country. There are relatively few places in the world today where American investment is welcomed wholeheartedly and where U.S. property is secure. South Africa is one of them. Even more important, South Africa is a treasure house of minerals which are essential to American national security. Platinum is one of those rare, strategic minerals. Without access to South Africa's mineral supplies, the United States would have to turn to the Soviet Union or other hostile states.

Because South Africa's political institutions aren't the democratic equal of those in the United States, liberals and radicals in Congress what to apply economic sanctions against South Africa and American companies which do business there. This approach embodies a double standard of judgment.

No African country has democratic institutions comparable to the United States. Black African regimes are a motley collection of dictatorships. Zimbabwe, the former Rhodesia, is ruled by a Marxist. Robert Mugabe, who employs torture against officers in his own army and has imprisoned his opposition. Nigeria, long hailed as the model of African democracy, recently underwent another military coup. Power is now in the hands of a new military dictator. Civil rights aren't recognized in Nigeria. Yet the congressional critics of South Africa ignore what is happening in Zimbabwe and Nigeria, as well as Tanzania, Angola, the Peoples Republic of Mozambique and other African countries.

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - One of the strangest political feuds in Washington is heating up again. The antagonists are the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Although the Democrats have never seriously tried to strip the Republicans of their image as the pro-business party - have, in fact, traditionally done their best to reinforce it - the committee chairman, Rep. Tony Coelho, D-Calif., has cried foul at the business chamber's tendency to endorse GOP congressional candidates at campaign time.

The reason is dollars and cents: An endorsement from the national Chamber of Commerce is worth an estimated $100,000 to the favored congressman's campaign chest from businessmen who follow the chamber's recommendations.

In the hope of aiming some of these contributors toward Democratic candidates, Coelho blasted the chamber's able to claim that it has blunted and even reversed the Soviet Union's southward thrust down the continent of Africa.

والمراجع المراجع والمراجع المراجع والمحاجل والمحاج والمراجع المراجع والمراجع والمراجع

That Soviet thrust has been one of the major geopolitical threats facing the free world. Under the Carter administration in particular, the Soviet Union made major strides into the region - consolidating communist regimes in both Angola and Mozambique, and poising Ovambo guerrillas, backed by Cuban troops, to occupy Namibla and complete the isolation of white-dominated South Africa.

The Reagan administration quickly showed that it had other ideas. For starters, without in any way diminishing this country's longstanding opposition to South Africa's apartheid policies, it replaced Carter's policy of 'confrontation" with South Africa - in effect. Just denouncing it loudly - with a policy of "constructive engagement": i.e. encouraging Pretoria to become part of the solution rather than part of the problem.

In practice, this meant (among other things) consenting to South African raids on guerrilla bases inside Angola and Mozambique, from which attacks were being mounted against South Africa. In addition, the United States raised no objection when South Africa gave valuable assistance to black foes of the two communist regimes who were waging guerrilla warfare against them on their own soil. Finally, a brand-new condition was imposed, by both the United States and South Africa, on any settlement of the conflicts in Namibia blased toward Republicans. After the chamber endorsed 100 Republicans and no Democrats in 1982, Coehlo decided defensive.

You can well imagine that all this went over very badly in leftist circles in the West - not only in that pro-Soviet cesspool called the United Nations (which had long ago ordered South Africa to turn Namibia over to the pro-communist guerrillas) but in those liberal circles where bug-out, retreat and collapse are traditionally the favored policies. It was charged that the Reagan policy of "constructive engagement" with South Africa was getting nowhere - was, in fact, simply a cover for letting South Africa have its way.

But, three years down the road, some unprecedented and quite astonishing things are beginning to happen in southern Africa. Over on the east coast. Mozambique (which is heavily dependent on South Africa both economically and technologically) has agreed to stop letting anti-South African guerrillas base themselves on its soil, and in return South Africa will stop alding resistance forces inside Mozambique.

Such a "security agreement" between white-run South Africa and a black African state, has never been announced before. It does not bode well for Soviet influence in Mozambique.

And in the west, a roughly similar settlement has been worked out. South Africa will withdraw its troops from what has amounted to semi-permanent stations in southern Angola, and Angola will order the Namibian guerrillas to stop raiding northern Namibia from bases inside Angola.

compound of importance in cancer chemotherapy in many years. Holland said he expects it to "significantly alter the tenor of cancer chemotherapy."

A number of studies reported in medical journals have documented the fact that many cancer patients miss appointments or fail to take home medication as recommended. Side effects of chemotherapy frequently are cited for upsetting the patient's quality of life and have been linked to the failure to, comply with therapeutic schedules.

Dr. F. Smyth, head of clinical oncology at the University of Edinburgh. Scotland, also reporting at the teleconference, told what happened when the drug was used as first line treatment in advanced breast cancer.

"Novantrone offers comparable efficacy and less acute toxicity than the most active currently available single agents used in the treatment of advanced breast cancer," he said.

Smyth's study consisted of treating 134 patients with advanced disease who received the drug every three weeks. Ninety-nine were evaluated for response and toxicity.

"Novantrone was well tolerated," he reported. "Nausea and vomiting occurred in 40 percent of patients, but these reactions were rarely severe. Total alopecia, hair loss, occurred in only six patients."

It has been undergoing clinical trials in the United States for three years. Lederle, expects to file for marketing approval with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration this year.

Demos' Boycott Of C of C Fizzles endorsement practices as unfairly year. It announced that incumbent members of Congress whose voting records agree with the chamber's posttion on key issues 70 percent of the time or more will win automatic endorsement.

The chamber recently issued its first "opportunity list" of candidates that merit support from businessmen. The endorsement list contains 128 Republicans and 16 Democrats. It includes an additional 22 Republicans and two Democrats who are regarded as vulnerable in close races and should be "protected," and sees the possibility of pro-business replacements for four incumbent Democrats and one Republican.

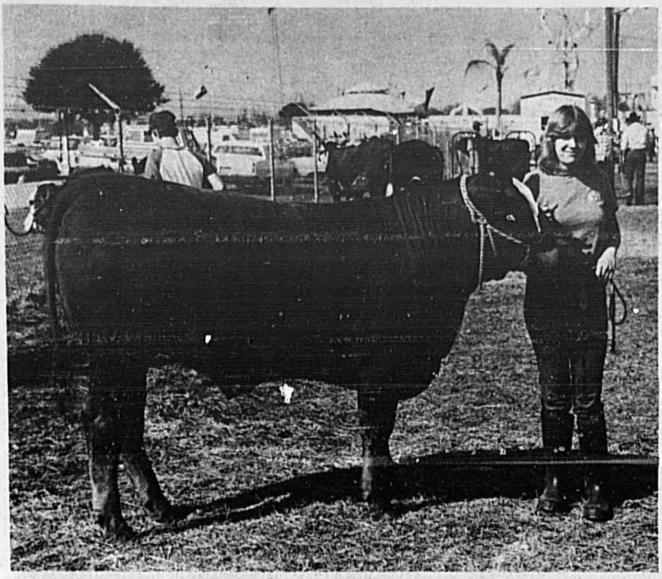

This attempt at bipartisanship didn't fool Coelho - or at least didn't satisfy him. Today, he will chastize the chamber in a letter to his Democratic colleagues: "Obviously, the national (chamber) staff is backing off its previous overt alliance with the Republican Party So this year the chamber developed a rating system that superficially appears neutral."

Coelho noted that three Republicans on the vulnerable list - Reps. Chris Smith, N.J., Bill Green, N.Y., and Lyle Williams. Ohio - fell below the chamber's 70 percent rating, while three Democrats closer to the 70 percent mark - Reps. Jim Jones, Okla., Jim Olin, Va., and Ike Andrews, N.C. - "are not mentioned at all."

"They might think they can disguise their real intent with tokenism, but who are they trying to fool?" Cochlo asks.

As for Cochlo's boycott call, a chamber spokesman told my associate Tony Capaccio It hasn't worked, claiming that since February 1983. House and Senate Democrats have made 76 appearances on it's Your Business. compared to 50 by Republicans. The Democratic campaign committee maintains, however, that fewer than 30 House Democrats appeared on the chamber's TV show last year.

MacLeod received a record $6 a pound for her prize sleer.

This was the second year in a row that a steer entered by the 15-year-old 4-Her has been judged Grand Champion at Central Florida Fair. She is the only Seminole County youth ever to have had a Grand Champion. Last year, her 1,160-pound Angus-Simmental cross steer was sold for $3.65 a pound.

The bidder for her steer was Donnie Plante, of L.D. Plante, Inc., Oviedo,

The daughter of Bob and Patsy MacLeod, Christy came away with first place in the Senior Division Showmanship, first place in the record division, and Grand Champion exhibitor, winning in every division except weight gain.

Christy won a $500 scholarship from the State Fair Association recently in Tampa and also was the State Recordbook winner. The steer which she entered at state took second in its weight class and sold for $2.10 a pound.

This was the third year which Christy has exhibited steers

Her club, the Seminole Pioneers, won second place in the Herdsman Award comptetion at the Central Florida Fair.

Christy's parents are steer club leaders, along with Marion Lee of Sanford, Mary Nunnery is overall 4-H leader for the Seminole Pioneers.

Four out of five Seminole County 4-H'ers who entered steers in the fair competition won blue ribbons. Wesley Nunnery, 16, of Chuluota won first place in his division and Publix purchased his 925-pound Brahma-Hereford steer at Monday night's auction for $1.50 a pound on the hoof. This was Wesley's second year to enter.

Mike Lee. 15, of Sanford, came in third in his division and received $1.50 a pound from the Seminole County Soil and Water Conservation District for his 980-pound Angus-Limousin steer. He was also a runner-up in Showmanship. The Seminole High School ninth grader was showing a steer for the second year.

Debbie Jacobs, 15, Chuluota, placed third in her class and received $1.50 a pound from Wheeler Fertilizer. Ovledo, for her 942-pound Angus-Hereford steer. Tommy Black. 15, of Oviedo, placed sixth in his class and received $1.25 a pound from Publix for his 1.045-pound Angus-Hereford steer. This was the first year that Tommy and Debble, both Oviedo High School students, entered steers in the Central Florida Fair Youth Steer Show.

The 4-H'ers have been personally tending to their steers since June or July, feeding them twice a day (carefully weighing and recording their feed), cleaning out their pens once a day, exercising them for 15 minutes, bathing them, grooming them and giving them any necessary shots or medicine, as well as keeping careful records.

Hersey, Cox Power Seminoles Past DeLand, 16-5

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

DELAND - Illness and injury have been the biggest enemy for coach Bobby Lundquist's Fighting Seminoles lately. Neither of the two afflictions, however, was a problem Thursday night.

With junior James Hersey contributing three singles and junior Tony Cox slamming a bases-clearing double. Seminole buried the DeLand Buildogs, 16-5, in Five Star Conference baseball at Conrad Park.

The Tribe, 5-4 and 1-1, is back in action today at Daytona Beach with a 4 p.m. game with Mainland. DeLand fell to 7-2 and 1-1.

The beneficiary of Seminole's 16-run outburst, which included an eight-run seventh inning, was senior William Wynn. The lefthanded Wynn, 2-1. gave up three uncarned runs in the first inning, but kept the Bulldogs pretty much in check after that. He also finished with a flourish, striking out the final three hitters in the seventh.

The 'Noles needed a good showing from Wynn since their most productive hurler this year, Chad Braden, has a pinched nerve in his lower back and Lundquist is uncertain when he can resume play. Plus, starting leftfielder David Rape is sidelined by the flu as is third starter Glenn Landress.

Although DeLand jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first, the Tribe bounced back with four in the top of the second. Hersey, who has nine hits in 23 at bats this spring, opened the inning with a single and then stole second. Wynn walked, but when Larry Thomas rapped a ground ball to the shortstop, Hersey was cut down at home for the first out.

Brian Sheffield then reached on an error to score Wynn and Cox walked to load the bases. Ricky Kidd then drew another free pass to force in another run and when Steve attempted, inning-ending double play. Seminole had a 4-3 edge.

The lead grew to 6-3 in the fourth when Cox walked and Kidd beat out a bunt single. Dennis, who stole two bases to run his consecutive streak to 18, fanned but Kevin Smith walked to lead the bases. Brian Rogers then walked to force in one run and Hersey slapped a single for the second run. DeLand picked up single runs in the fourth and fifth frames to pare the lead to one run, but the Tribe tallied two more in the sixth and then put the game on ice with the big seventh.

In the sixth, Kidd walked and Dennis Brantley, 8-3.

"I didn't realize he had that many points."

Kansas City's Drug Problems Open Eyes Of Naive Howser

CLEARWATER (UPI) - Who says the husband is always the last to know? How about the the manager? Nobody ever tells him, either. Why should they? He's one of the few remaining authoritarian figures left in our society, and if you tell him, that's like running to the cops. Dick Howser had no idea any of his Kansas City players were fooling around a the sparse of a second s with drugs and that four of them. Willie Wilson, Willie Alkens, Jerry Martin and Vida Blue, were sufficiently involved so that they would wind up going to jail.

"I was so naive," confessed the Royals" manager before Wednesday's 1-0 victory over the Phillies. "That was last year. I'm not so naive this year. Once you've been through it, you're a helluva lot more aware of what's going on."

Dick Howser is a law-and-order man from the word go. One of the straightest arrows on God's green earth. That was one of the reasons George Steinbrenner tapped him to manage the Yankees four years ago before Ewing Kauffman got him to handle the Royals in 1981.

Looking back now over last season, Howser says he can see some things. "certain work habits and priorities," he calls them which might have offered some clue that all wasn't 100 per cent kosher, or what it should have been. with the four players arrested and convicted on drug charges. He didn't notice anything at all wrong at the time, though.

In that regard, he shouldn't feel too badly. Managers and coaches invariably are the last to know when any of their players are up to no good. Want proof? How about "The Baron," old Adolph Rupp?

When they first told him that gamblers had gotten to his Kentucky Wildoats and that his players were shaving points during the 1950-51 college basketball season, he wouldn't hear a word of it.

"They can't touch my boys with a 10-foot pole," he proclaimed for the whole world to hear, only to have to swallow his words in embarrassment very shortly afterward. It wasn't any different with Tom Davis when he was coaching Boston College's basketball team four years ago and one of his players, Rick Kuhn, went to jail for conspiring to fix games. Davis said he had no knowledge of what had been going on.

That's not that hard to understand. Neither coaches nor managers have ever set their primary focus on such things. and quite naturally, any players who do stray do not rush up to them to let them know what they're doing wrong. The infamous 1919 Chicago "Black Sox" never bothered to keep Kid Gleason, their manager, informed on all that was going on behind his back.

At first, he had difficulty believing it also.

Same thing with Howser.

"I was shocked, surprised, stunned," says Howser, who was selected as Amateur Athlete of the Year in Florida in 1958 at Florida State where he later coached the baseball team.

"It was a bad situation, an embarrassing one fer me because it was something I couldn't control."

The Royals' manager originally learned about his players' drug involvement the same way many managers find out other information - from a newspaperman.

"A guy from a small paper in Kansas knocked on my door and he said something had come across his desk that he thought I'd like to know," Howser remembers. "He told me what it was. At first. I thought it was just a strong rumor but then I saw it was a lot more than that. The reporter asked me some questions about it, and then when the players were arrested, it was the worst time of all. Answering questions, going through the whole ordeal and everything else connected with it was the toughest thing I've ever had to do in baseball."

Of the four players involved. Wilson, who was the American League's leading hitter two years ago and who once stole 92 bases in a single season for Kansas City, is the only one still with the Royals.

He's working out with them regularly. but still under suspension by Bowie Kuhn. Although his case will be reviewed on May 15 and Howser would love to use him, the Royals' manager is going on the assumption Wilson will not be back playing with the club this scason.

Insofar as the three others are concerned. Martin is trying to win a place with the Mets following his release from prison, and Aikens was picked up by the Blue Jays. Blue, who had been released by the Royals last summer before his arrest, said he would like to try to get a job with some club after he gets out of tail.

"The players involved have a long haul to overcome." Howser says. "I've talked to Willie Wilson and told him he has to forget what happened last year and start all over again."

Gardening

Bright Caladiums Add Cool Look To Summer Gardens

Caladiums are one of Florida's most popular warm season foliage plants. This colorful tropical plant grows in all areas of the state, is relatively inexpensive and requires very little maintenance. Their wide variety of bright, contrasting colors add a cool look to summer gardens.

You can choose from either fancy or lance-leaved varieties. The fancy ones, which are the most popular, have large, somewhat rounded leaves. They vary in color from pure white with contrasting green veins, to plnk, rose and red. Many varieties have showy crimson crinkled centers and drak green veins. The lance-leaved types are available in all colors, too. Their leaves are narrow and elongated rather than round. And, the entire plant is somewhat smaller than the fancyleaved varieties.

Plant your caladiums soon after the danger of frost has passed. You can grow them from tubers, or purchase established potted plants from the garden center.

If you start them from the tubers. set them about two inches deep and 18 inches apart in the garden. Potted specimens should be set at the same depth at which they are growing in the container, and at the same spacing as recommended for tubers.

Caladiums grow best in a moist, but not soggy soil. If your soil is quite sandy, mix in some compost or peat before planting, but make sure the site has good drainage. Too to decay

Find a somewhat shaded area to plant your caladiums - they won't tolerate the full summer sun. The ideal situation is about 10 to 60 percent shade. An hour or two of morning sun delights them. Longer exposure results in bleached or faded out foliage, and limits plant growth as well.

Proper feeding will produce healthy, large leaved specimens. If you have a somewhat organic soil, spread about two lbs. of 6-6-6 or 8-8-8 fertilizer per 100 square feet of bed area, four to six weeks after setting the tubers. For plants growing in sandy soil, where nutrient leaching may be a problem. feed the plants on a monthly basis.

To maintain the necessary soll moisture and grow lush plants. spread a one to two-inch layer of organic mulch around the plants but not directly against the stems. If much moisture will cause the roots the soil is allowed to dry out, the caladium plants will wilt rapidly.

Caladiums may be grown indoors. too, and they make excellent house plants. Prepare a soil mix of part sand and one part peat. fill your container just about full, then set the tubers about one-inch deep. Water thoroughly. Keep the soil mix moist, but not soggy. If the leaves turn a little pale, give it a little extra plant food.

floral arrangements, too. Plunge the freshly cut stems into hot water and leave until the water turns lukewarm, then place the stems in a bath of cold water. The leaves will last several days in an arrangement if pre-treated properly as described.

HOME GARDENING POLLUTION Are you concerned about pollution? Of course, we all are. But do you know you may be an unconscious polluter? Pollution from home gardening? It does happen! We're all interested in clean, healthy surroundings, yet few of us

Leslie Crabtree

Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole is celebrating its 16th season this year with an outdoor extravaganza. "Professor Peppercorn and His Amazing Outdoor Traveling Show" to be presented March 28 in the stadium of Lake Mary High School.

Open auditions are held annually and are open to qualifying dancers. The following are among the 21 dancers selected through auditions to form the 1983-84 Ballet Guild of Sanford Seminole:

U.N. Probes Chemical Warfare In Iran–Iraq War

By United Press International

Iran claimed to have repulsed two Iraqi drives to recapture its oil-rich Majnoon island, and the United Nations announced an on-site investigation into Iranian charges Iraq is using outlawed chemical weapons in the 31/2-year-old Persian Gulf war.

In Washington, the State Department Thursday tried to balance its criticism of Iraq for the use of lethal poison gas by condemning Iran for using "human wave" battlefield tactles and refusing to negotiate a cease-fire.

In New York, U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar announced Thursday he is sending a team of experts to Iran to look into Iranian charges that Iraq is deploying poison gas outlawed under the Geneva war conventions. Perez de Cuellar said he "categorically and strongly condemns the use of chemical weapons wherever and whetlever this may occur." Tehran Has been pressing for a U.N. investigation.

Fighting Flares In Beirut

The battles, involving a steady exchange of heavy machine gun. mortar and rocket-propelled-grenade fire, gained momentum after a morning lull, residents close to the battle zones reported.

The sound of exploding shells echoed across the capital and the suburbs. There was no immediate explanation for the sudden escalation,

Despite the fighting, the heaviest since Lebanon's abrogation Monday of its controversial troop withdrawal agreement with Israel, representatives of the nation's warring factions prepared to leave for the Swiss city of Lausanne for the Monday opening of national reconciliation talks.

Killer Rejects Parole; Back To Prison

VACAVILLE, Calif. (UPI) - Un- 18 months more - so that he would remorseful slayer Theodore Streleski was back in prison today. apparently content to finish the few months left on his sentence and be released free to return to the Stanford University area where he killed before.

The husky, 6-foot-4 Streleski, who beat a professor to death, was let out on parole Thursday but was returned to the prison within three hours after he said he would not comply with the condition that he stay away from Stanford and refused to sign parole documents.

"I want to complete my sentence, then live where 1 want." said Streleski.

Streleski, who has said he can offer no assurances he won't kill again, has been in prison for 5 1/2 years and officials speculated he wanted to serve his full term - only be released without restrictions.

"I committed a murder to make a statement against Stanford," Streleski said just minutes after his release. "I don't wish to undercut my previous statements. I will violate my parole and be sent back to serve the full time,"

He said he beat Professor Karel deLeeuw to death with a hammer Aug. 18, 1978, because he blamed the popular professor for his failure in a 19-year effort to obtain an advanced mathematics degree. "I don't want to say, 'Gee, I'm sorry.' I don't want to do anything that says | didn't mean it (the murder). I meant it," he said. Streleski, 47, was sentenced to seven years on a 1979 second degree murder conviction. He became eligible for parole after five years and four months, less time off for good behavior.

Three months after his conviction, voters toughened the law to provide for a sentence from 15 years to life for second degree murder.

His parole had caused fear on the Stanford campus because of his earlier statement that he felt no remorse for the killing and could not rule out repeating his deadly actions.

In a prison interview last year. Streleski sald, "I can't reassure you I won't kill myself. I can't reassure you I won't kill my mother. I just don't believe in a blanket prohibition."

Phil Guthrie, spokesman for the state prison system, said Streleski's refusal to sign parole documents and his statement that he would not cooperate with parole officials was enough to put him back behind bars.

'Force' May Be Just Human Hand

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) - A television camera filmed the hand of Tina Resch pulling a lamp off a table, throwing doubt on claims the teenager was the center of psychokinetic activity.

But even the newsmen who got the shot Thursday night said 14-year-old Tina may have been trying to escape the unrelenting attention of reporters determined to stay at the Resch home until there was evidence of her story.

"We had the camera hooked up on wide angle, but she didn't know it was operating," said Drew Hadwal, with WTVN-TV in Columbus.

"We left the house thinking we had recorded a bona fide psychic phenomenon. fof a lamp falling of its own volition) but when we replayed the tape at the station it clearly showed her reaching up to grab the lamp."

"I was seated at the kitchen table with Tina and all of a sudden the chairs spread out... I don't see how she could have sent them out in three directions like that," said Hadwal.

John and Joan Resch called a press conference to deal with the onslaught of phone calls since their initial story of lights switching on and off. appliances running without being plugged and household objects flying through the air.

The strange activity at the Resch home first was witnessed a _____rted Tuesday by two journalists Parapsychologists attributed the activity to Recurrent Spontaneous Psychokinesis, objects moving without being touched, through mental activity alone.

Tina fits the profile of stressed young teens documented in other such cases.

Contacted after the telecast of Tina pulling the lamp down, Mrs. Resch said her adopted daughter may have done it to get rid of everybody, "to get it all over with."

Car Defects Probe A Secret?

Auto Safety says the government is looking into possible defects of 42 million cars, many of them potentially deadly, and the inquiry is being conducted in secret to avoid public alarm.

The center, a private organization, Thursday released a list of "informal inquiries" undertaken by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

The group obtained the list from the government under the Freedom of Information Act.

The documents indicate that NHTSA. an arm of the Transportation Department, has been conducting informal inquiries into the condition of millions of cars since July.

The center said the potential safety problems include alleged rear axle failure in more than 4 million large GM cars, such as the Chevrolet Caprice, manufactured between 1976 and 1981.

Making Your Own Beer And Wine Can Be A Real Kick

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

Michael O'Brien received a do-it-yourself gift with some kick to it for Christmas.

With a little help from wife Bonnie, the O'Briens, like more than a million other people in the U.S., turned their kitchen into a miniature brewery and made their first batch of home-brewed beer.

'This is new to me," O'Brien said as he prepared to bottle his first batch of beer at his Casselberry home. "I don't know a lot about it, but I do drink beer occasionally."

That's all that is required. You don't need to be a brew master to produce a palatable homemade beer or wine, according to Chet Probst, owner of the Casselberry supply outlet where Mrs. O'Brien invested about $25 for a basic beermaking kit and about $10 more for ingredients, which she helped her husband transform into two cases of home-brew.

"If you have some basic equipment and ingredients and if you keep things reasonably clean, you'll be off to a good start." Probst said. "You can save about 75 percent of the cost of a commercial product if you make it yourself and our customers get excellent results. We also keep a couple of batches brewing here in the store, so this is a hobby for me. 100.

The nation is awash with homemade beer and wine, a flood which Probst said began to swell in the 60s and increased dramatically after 1978 when all federal restrictions were lifted, except for quantity limits, on making beer and wine for personal use.

"Permits are no longer required and restrictions on importing hops (a key ingredient in beer) were removed," Probst said. "This seemed to take home-brewing from under a cloud and brought it out in the open. You can now make up to 200 gallons of both beer and wine a year.'

From his supply house, Probst has been shipping wine- and beer-making supplies and instructions to do-It-yourselfers throughout the country for the past six years. And thousands of Seminole County hobbyists have turned to him for advice and supplies.

"This is something you can really appreciate when you look at the end result," Probst said. "The most important thing you need for winemaking is patience. That's the one thing we don't sell, but you have to have it, because you have to wait at least three months before you can sample the product.

"Winemaking is really a hands-off proposition. The worst thing you can do is to keep messing with It. After you've let the mix of sugar, fruit, yeast and other additivies brew in a covered primary container for five or six days, you just siphon it into the secondary container, seal it with a water-filled air lock (to keep bacteria out) and let it sit. You have to check it occasionally to make sure there is water in the air lock and that sediment isn't building up. To get rid of the sediment you will have to rack the wine a few times as it ferments. That means you siphon it from one container to another, leaving the sediment behind," Probst said.

Even with the beer, which is ready to drink in about three weeks, patience pays because it develops a better flavor if you let it age five or six months. Probst said. That's because. "unlike commercial beer, homemade beer isn't pasteurized, so it doesn't deteriorate with age, it improves," he O'Brien said his beer-making venture "was very easy. The hops came in a can and I picked a lager beer. They had all kinds. We added water, corn sugar, yeast and malt and put it in a container. It took about 30 minutes to mix. The container I used has a pressure release on the top (an air lock) which keeps the pressure from building up in the container. It was so easy if the beer turns out to be reasonably good and is cost effective. I'll probably do It again. It only took about an hour to bottle it."

And Mrs. O'Brien, inspired by the ease of home-brewing, said she may try her hand at making wine.

Probst said about half of his customers end up making both.

The initial investment in equipment and supplies for a winemaker run about $10 more than that of a beer brewer, but once the basic brewing containers. air locks, siphons, and a hydrometer (to measure sugar levels in the wine) are on hand, the ingredients are the primary expense for additional brewing runs.

For about $20, a would be winemaker can choose a canned fruit concentrate from the groves or vinyards of the world as the basis for his brew, or he can use fresh fruit. Both beer and wine are usually made in five gallon quantities and equipment and supplies are geared primarily for that. A can of hops, which produces five gallons of beer, costs about $6.

You can store your home-brew in either new or used bottles. But once bottled, it probably won't stay that way long. According to Probst, most home brewers can't wait to share the fruits of their labor with friends.

There's Nothing New About 'The New Show'

By David Handler

I'll admit it, I was fooled by the terrific opening minutes of NBC's The New Show.

First came Steve Martin's hilarious takeoff on a Michael Jackson rock video. Then came the really neat credits, a celebration of '50s variety shows such as Your Show of Shows.

Then came total disaster. As you probably know by now, The New Show is an unqualified flop. It's bad and nobody, but nobody, is watching it. Considering- everyone's expectations, this prime-time foray by Lorne Michaels, who created Saturday Night Live, has to be labeled the season's most monstrous failure.

Here is a show that is genuinely not ready for prime time. It has no format. no host, no point of view, no glue. It has nothing to say and no idea how to say it. Worst of all, it's not funny.

Martin laid out the show's nonsensical "goals" in an opening monologue. "We will never refer to any president. living or dead, as Sam the Chowderhead." he said. "We will never stretch any pig or other farm animal beyond its natural length."

There are a couple of regular features. You can count on a musical guest. There's also "Weekend To-night," yet another tiresome show biz news send-up featuring Buck Henry and Dave Thomas.

The rest of the hour is made up of long, loose and pointless sketches. Most of them feel improvised rather than written. All of them are tedious, as well as an incredible waste of good talent.

Martin, Thomas and Henry have all fallen flat on The New Show. So have John Candy, Jeff Goldblum, Kevin Kline, Paul Simon, Catherine O'Hara and Gilda Radner.

The opening episode featured an incredibly boring black-and-white take off of 1984 and unwieldy sketches about a faculty talent show and two security officers who've been drugged and are on the verge of collapse.

It felt as if the writers hadn't been given any time to prepare. Wrong. They had plenty of time. This was the first show and it was so achingly awful that the cast apologized for it the following week.

"A new television show is like an infant," said Candy, "Last Friday night. The New Show crawled into your living room. With your help we hope it will be given a chance to walk."

It doesn't walk. Subsequent weeks have given us more of the same dull. unfunny thing.

Whose fault is The New Show? Lorne Michaels has to be held accountable. The show is a victim of his arrogance. He seems to believe all he needs to do is assemble some old SNL writers and a few popular young performers and he will turn it into magic with a snap of his fingers.

No way. Let us not forget that SNL made a splash because it was fresh and because it had a talented cast. Let us not forget that a lot of people. stopped watching as soon as the cast and freshness were gone.

Lily Tomlin Doesn't Have An Uncle Pinky

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me if Lily Tomlin is a daughter of the famous Pinky Tomlin, the well-known songwriter of the '30s and '40s? He wrote hits such as The Object of My Affection and The Love Bug Will Bite You. I do believe that he is Lily's father. - J.F.S., Port St. Lucie, Fla.

Sorry to burst your belief, but he isn't. Lily comes from a non-show business family in Detroit. He wasn't even her Uncle Pinky.

DEAR DICK: I recently saw a Preston Sturges film festival in San Diego and was delighted with his films. Why was his career so short? His films were great, especially Hall, the Conquering Hero and Sullivan's Travels. And I enjoyed Eddie Bracken's work, too. His film career was short, too. What happened? Where is he now? What does he do? - S.N., Fortuna, Calif.

In Hollywood, a director is only as good as his last film and Sturges had a couple of flops and had troubles raising money for future projects. He moved to France and died in 1959, when he was only 61. Bracken still acts, but almost entirely on stage these days.

DEAR DICK: On The Little Rescals, what was Alfalfa's real name? What year did he die?

Alfalfa was really a person named Carl Switzer, who had a short and not particularly joyous life. He died in 1959 when he was only 33.

DEAR DICK: Did Jameson Parker of Simon & Simon ever play Richle Brockelman on The Rockford Files - J.M.N., Bay City, Mich.

No. The character of Brockelman appeared several times on that show. In 1978 Richle Brockelman, Private Eye became a series, but it didn't work. The character was always played by Dennis Dugan, who is now on the new CBS comedy Empire.

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me why they took Bay City Blues off the air and are now putting the stupid Buffalo Bill show on sgain? It's such a stupid show that I don't know how any one in his right mind would watch it. - E.A.L., Gainesville, Mo.

It's all a matter of ratings, which reflect popularity and bring in dollars. The last time Bay City Blues aired it ranked 64th on the ratings list. There are only 64 shows listed. So NBC figured they might do better with Buffalo Bill, which showed promise during its initial 11-week run last summer.

DEAR DICK: This is in reference to the question a reader asked about who played the hotel clerk in High Noon. I believe the part was played by Howland Chamberlin. Hope this helps clear up the mystery. - J.S., Cumberland, Md.

Thanks. I am printing your letter for whatever it is worth, because I cannot find any confirmation of your Information.

DEAR DICK: I believe the year was 1942. Gene Kelly was here in our town making a movie. It was only a block from where I went to school, so on our lunch hour we went to watch. He was wearing a sailor uniform. It was a windy day and his collar kept blowing up and somebody asked if anybody had a pin. I had a pin holding my snow pants up and I took it off and gave it to him. I got his autograph, which I still have. What a thrilling day! Whatever happened to that movie? I've been wondering about it for a long time. - D.J.P., Williamrport, Pa.

Kelly's first movie was For Me and My Gal, which came out in 1942, but I think it was made entirely in Hollywood. The only one that seems to fit was Anchors Aweigh, in which he played a sailor. That was released, however, in 1945, but was probably shot in 1944. It seem that's the only film that could have co-starred Gene Kelly and your snow pants pin.

A Birthday Celebration: Carlo's Dinners At Reduced Prices This Week Only

If you're a connelsscur of pizza and you've tried the rest, then maybe it's time to try the best ... Carlo's at 1008 S. French Ave., Sanford.

Carlo's lays claim to this title by virtue of sheer hard work. As Paul Baio, owner and chef, explains: "We do everything except grind our own flour," for the pizza.

The slight exaggeration is forgiveable as one sinks pearly teeth into tender crust layered with special sauce and seasonings, topped with whole milk mozzarella. Maybe you've never given much thought as to what goes into pizza, but your tastebuds will tell. And, according to Paul, so will your pocketbook since Carlo's offers pizza at "a price that no other place can beat - lowest priced pizza anywhere."

And, it's not a commercial pizza since its made from scratch by Paul.

Now this same thoughtfulness as to quality and ingredients goes into the preparation of all dinners prepared, Paul assures, and prices have not changed here in more than two years.

For a restaurant of its size, 52 scats, Carlo's boasts an extensive menu. At least 34 meals, not counting pizza and luncheon choices.

Balo claims that by combining sauces, pastas and other ingredients, he can offer up to 700 differnt dishes. And, all dishes are prepared as they are ordered. The basic tomato sauce is prepared fresh each morning in the kitchen of the restaurant to ensure quality and consistency.

Paul, who has cooked in fine New York restaurants, stepped into his father's, Carlo's, shoes last year continuing a family business of eight years in Sanford. Carmella (Mamma) and Debbie (Paul's wife) have also been active in the family business.

Carlo's Restaurant, open for lunch and dinner, serves generous portions with lunches beginning at $1.99. The establishment is now open seven days a week.

For one week only, Paul is offering one dollar off on all baked dishes, steaks, yeal and scafood as his gift to customers in observance of his birthday. Diners must use the coupon on this page.
