TODAY'S HIBLE VERSE

Our ludgment is only as good as our information. We are fully informed only about ourselves, and n we are extremely charitable toward ourselves! Judge not that ye be not judged Mat. 7:1.

Whether or not Philip Jessup actually aided the Chinese Communists in overthrowing the Nationalist government seems to depend on whether you believe otricials of the State Department are telling the trub. And if you do, then you have to believe that Harold Stassen is not.

John Patton, alleged Capone associate and partner of "Mr. Big" in certain Florida racetracks, in reported to have sold his interests in William H. Johnston's tracks as indicated by the Senate Crime Investigating Committee might be advisable. But he has sold his stock in them to his two some, still leaving it all in the family as it were.

Senator Langer of North Dakota doesn't like the publicity which the newspapers are giving thieves in government. The recent each of headlines, he points out, "give the impression that government officers are all a lot of crooks and grafters. Every time somebody steals a little bit of money . . . the newspapers play

Whether or not the gambling racket in worth the price we pay Gargotta, to mention only a few wiped out to make room for bigger shots and to control the compelition.

Willie Moretti, the slain New Tota racketeer, was buried the other day amid all the some and a of a Roman holiday. More than ten thousand people turned out to see his magnificent funeral procession, his $2,500 casket, and his $8,000 worth of Boral offerings. They mobbed the unaral home, stampeded the shurch and trampled on the graves at the cemetery until the estore order, Incidentally Moretti, whose brother is still in jail with Joe Adonis on a gambling charge, lived in a $450,000 home which he acquired through illegal opera lions.

When you do your target practicing, he sure you know what behind the wall you nail your triet to. Mrs. H. L. Satterwhite Murtaugh, Idaho, went out in back yard the other day to ry out a new gun. Secrets Or Not

In defending his security order which authorizes heads of all government agencies to withhold information from the jublic at their discretion, the President declared that ninety-five per cent of our supposed government secrets are publicly known. His expression was that such a proportion of secret information "has been revealed by nowspapers promises about putting through and magazines." The figure came from a survey by Yale Civil Rights legislation if they University.

There are two ways of interpreting this survey report. It may be taken to mean that the large percentage of official secrets has been disclosed as a result of sloppy security measures and irresponsibility. The Prosident apparently takes that view. Or it may be taken to mean that of all the huge body of information classified as government secrets only five per cent is information which is really secret, and the rest is stuff everybody knows any-

The latter interpretation will be favored by many persons who are familiar with government procedures of classifying information. The total volume of secret records. reports and what not is fantastic. Everyone knows that it and that they could have smash. is relatively easy to keep one secret, harder to keep two ed the filihuster if they had tried secrets still harder to keep three and so on. The Presisecrets, still harder to keep three and so on. The President's controversial security order seems likely to increase the number of secrets the government tries to keep.

Perhaps we should be better advised to concentrate on the five per cent which are real secrets, try to reduce the number of necessary secrets to the minimum, and then do a good job of keeping them. Certainly the order has improved nothing.

Kinship Of Suffering

What has been done with alcoholism has application to most of the other troubles of mankind, individually, as communities and as nations. Our paths of trouble today have been trodden by others before us. There is some solace in the simple thought, and there is real help to be had from others who have gone through similar woes, if we will only accept it. The one great essential for an alcoholic, before A. A. can help him, is that he must want to be helped.

Casey Stengel Calls McDougald Lousiest Looking Player In World Furman's Tigers

whose grand slam home run yes-terday was the key blow in the de-fending word champion's 13-1 romp over the Giants in the fifth game of the all New York World Series.

"Everything he does look "Everything he does looks wrong, but it comes out right," said Stengel "he bats funny but he hits like heck. He's got a peculiar way of throwing but his arm is strong and accurate, He runs like a pacer but he is fast and knows how to run the bases. He's only a rookle but he's done as much for me as any of my veterans."

A goodly number of persons in the huge crowd snickered when McDougald assumed his odd stance

Those who had never seen him before gaped when young Gil got in position, his left toe pointing straight toward the mound, his body leaning halfway over the plate, his rear stuck out like the back humper of a car, and his bat held at a 90 degree angle from his body.

Even manager Leo Durocher of the Giants couldn't have thought too much of the kid since he ord-too much of the kid since he ordered Larry Jansen to hand an intentional base-filling pass to Johnny Mize to get at this snubnosed, freckled-faced redhead.

McDougald calmly watched a couple of pitches sail over the plate, then lashed his bat at a high fast ball and rapped it into the upper left field stands for a thrill-of-a-lifetime grand slam home run. It was only the third of its kind in the World Series. Elmer Smith of the 1920 Clevelanders and Tony Lazzeri of the 36 Yankees were the only others to do it.

That was the ball game. The blow snapped a 1-1 tie and blew the game wide open. Southpaw Eddle Lopat was home free from then on. The rest of the battering was just icing the cake.

Oddly enough, this titanic feat did not give Gil his biggest thrill is haseball.
