

Scientist Declares Over-Confidence Blocks Research

By DELLOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (U.P.)—A world-renowned scientist has spoken out in stern protest against "an epidemic of over-confidence" which is leading scientists and scientific organizations to believe cigarette smoking has been proved to be a cause of lung cancer beyond doubt or doubt.

The so-called "proof" is not proof at all, according to Sir Ronald Fisher, professor of genetics at Cambridge University and until recently visiting professor at Michigan State University, East Lansing. The "proof" is statistical and Sir Ronald's remark is in statistics. He is often called "the father of modern statistics."

The alarming thing about this "over-confidence," he continued, is that it blocks scientific research which could either verify or deny the "proof," and other scientific studies that could really find out why lung cancer rates have increased so much during the past 20 years.

Had Detrimental Effect
"The worst effect of that over-confidence, so far, is that it seems to have held back the various teams of workers," he said.

"I think nothing but over-confidence that they had found the solution, that they had the game in the bag, could have prevented them from following up some of the other lines of inquiry which are much needed."

He pointed to one fact of the British Hill and Doll statistical case against cigarette smoking is based. In their very first study, those statisticians asked both cancer patients and patients with other diseases, "Do you inhale?" Surprisingly, there were fewer inhaulers among the former than among the latter.

Imprecise Judgment
On the face of it, you'd think inhaulers would be more prone to lung cancer than non-inhaulers—if cigarette smoking and lung cancer truly are associated. "So," continued Sir Ronald, "our evidence is difficult. It would look as though if one could make the inquiry by comparing people who smoke the same number of cigarettes, there would be a negative inhaling. It seems to me the world ought to know the answer to that question."

Another inquiry he thought it was urgent for science to make, was the part the hereditary makeup of the individual plays in his susceptibility or lack of it to lung cancer. The statistical studies suggested that these genetic differences exist, but the suggestions haven't been followed up.

He also was impressed by "the very striking fact that at the same level of cigarette smoking, dwellers in towns have considerably more lung cancers than dwellers in the country." The Hill and Doll reports, as well as the American Hammond and Horn reports, showed these differences, yet "I don't know any extensive piece of research which has been set on foot to get in the bottom of that important difference."

Sir Ronald set forth his views in Michigan State University's "Centennial Review of Arts and Science."

FIRMS PREPARE FOR TIE-UP
LONDON (U.P.)—London business firms today reserved blocks of rooms in downtown hotels and chartered buses and rented cars in preparation for the London bus strike threatened for May 3. A United Press survey showed large corporations were expected in a day to nearly 1,000 private coaches a day during the strike, carrying employees to and from work. Some firms were reported paying triple the normal rate to reserve the buses during the expected strike by 50,000 workers.

TV Review
By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (U.P.)—After watching "Togetherness" in action this season on many of TV's family-comedy shows, I have found myself becoming a champion of sportiness.

However, the medium does contain at least one comforting exception. Within the muggy marshlands of TV's domestic collectives, there stands one half-hour tract of firm-footing and touching togetherness: CBS-TV's "Leave It to Beaver."

The beaver in this case is not an amphibious rodent, but an eight-year-old boy (Jerry Mather), whose real name is Theodore. He is called Beaver because his last name is Cleaver, which is as good a reason as any, I guess.

Beaver has a 12-year-old brother Wally (Tony Dow), and the usual parental language: a mother (Barbara Billingsley) and a father (Hugh Beaumont).

Air of Good Humor
Two things, I think, make "Leave It to Beaver" a sitcom. For one thing its together is rarely cloying. There seems to be a real rapport among its cast members and an air of good humor washes through the show.

It rarely strikes a false note and I suppose this is because its writers-producers, Joe Connelly and Bob Mosher, both tap their own real life families for material. Connelly, I understand, has six kids and Mosher, two. Most writers of TV family-comedy, in contrast, seem to be typing some weird complex of domesticities out in space.

The second big asset of the show is young Beaver himself. Jerry Mather, generally, I find child actors pretty hateful. They are subspecies of humanity, better consigned for study in museums than inflicted upon consumers of entertainment.

But young Mather is a living doll and I'm sure he'd like to await me for saying so. He is a small boy with permanently pursed lips, semi-buck teeth and the melancholy look of a small, inoffensive pup whose tail has just been stepped on.

The plots of the show are plausible and Wednesday night's dealt with something as simple as the boys breaking the window of their father's car and concealing it. It contained one line that I think was the funniest I've heard on TV this month well, after all, it's only three days old. It issued from a real estate salesman who was trying to sell a lot to Beaver's father who complained he couldn't afford it.

Salesman's Advice
"A person never knows what he can afford until he goes into debt," advised the salesman smoothly.

The show also contained a line I would classify as endearing. At the end of the episode, Beaver's father asked whether Beaver and Wally would have confessed eventually about the broken window. To which Beaver replied: "Someday... when we done was real happy about it."

Well, Beaver, you'd done real good so far this year. And you and everyone else concerned with the show should be really happy about it.

Great plains Prepare For Tornadoes

By HALE MONTGOMERY
United Press Staff Correspondent
TOPEKA, Kans. (U.P.)—The Great Plains country is getting set for another spring of the killer tornado. It is the most violent storm known to man, with winds at times exceeding 300 miles per hour.

May and June are the prime months for tornadoes, with April not far behind. Kansas is known as "tornado alley" because it ranks No. 1 among the states in number of twisters, although its death toll has been relatively low because of its widely dispersed population.

Sixty-four twisters who oozed through Kansas last year, causing 2.5 million dollars in damages and seven deaths. The big killer last year came on May 20, ripping a path through extreme eastern Kansas and then bulldozing into suburban Kansas City, Mo., leaving 40 dead.

'King' Has Tough Off Camera Scene Coming Up May 4

By MARK E. JOHNSON
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (U.P.)—Hollywood's newest dog star, "King," and his trainer have a tough, off-camera scene coming up in 10 days when the animal stakes his championship and reputation on the outcome of the far western sheep-herding competition.

In a way, Hollywood too goes on trail at the May 4 events at the California State Fair Grounds in Sacramento.

Several dog owners and trainers have told King's owner, they suspect the four-time champion may have "gone soft" during the filming of Samuel Goldwyn Jr.'s "Proud Rebel."

And they point out that King traded the hard, cold ground for a motel room of his own in Cedar City, Utah, during location filming.

Remains Unspoiled
"Now folks are trying to use this against him," Null said. "King has not gone soft or fat. He's a good intelligent dog and will take more than running around with movie stars."

Nevertheless, Null, a former-faded sheep-herder, admitted that dogs from all over the United States, Canada, England and Australia will be gunning for King.

"Just like the bullies in a bar—they want to take a swing at a movie star. Figure if they can lick him their glory will be doubled."

King's co-stars, Alan Ladd, Ladd's 11-year-old son David, and Olivia De Havilland, meanwhile, hasten to King's defense.

"King's remarkable herding in the picture draws applause from everyone who has seen the movie and it would take more than loss of his championship to hurt his movie career," Ladd said. "But I don't think any dog in the world can beat him."

King, a border collie, isn't "pretty" in the usual animal sense of the word. But the matter-of-fact, hardworking way he handles sheep is admirable—and endearing. King was nominated for a PATSY, the animal equivalent of an Oscar or Emmy, this year for his work in "Wild is the Wind."

Heard on the range, King is not housebroken. The bill for rug damage was $75 in Cedar City. But he's a working dog and "not a spoiled pet," Null said. "That's why I don't think Hollywood hurt him a bit. He's got his feet on the ground."

In the sheep-herding trials a dog must leave his master at 800 yards away, circling around behind five sheep and bring them home. At an arm signal he must drive the sheep 175 yards off to the right, through a gate and across the course at right angles to another gate and back home and into a pen—all in less than 12 minutes. King's record time is six minutes.

Tragic Day
May 20, incidentally, is a day with tragic memories. Cordell Kent was hit in three successive years—1952, 1957 and 1958—on May 20.

History's worst tornado slammed into the tri-state area of Missouri, Illinois and Indiana in 1925. It came with the sound of a million hammers and left 600 persons dead, scores of others maimed.

The springtime twisters often play ghoulish tricks. They have blown hay straws through oak planks, lost baby carriages atop church steeples. A storm at Udall, Kans., three years ago killed 82 persons. The funnel anchored on one man and hurled him to his death, leaving his shoes behind, neatly tied, where he had stood.

Too Late To Classify

By Russell Kay
Stockholders are accustomed to receiving annual reports from the companies in which they have invested. For a great many years such reports followed a more or less uniform format. They were solemn, austere, difficult to read and uninteresting. A mass of statistics that would tax the brain of a certified accountant to figure out.

Now-a-days it is hard to tell the annual report of a corporation from a modern up to the minute Chamber of Commerce booklet. When the auditors and accountants finish their work, the public relations department takes over and the final product is dressed in modern fashion with attractive colors, pictures, interesting charts and graphs that tell their story at a glance.

Last week my friend Malcolm McDonald, Vice President of the Florida Power & Light Company, in charge of public relations, sent me a press report of the company's 1957 annual report that is being mailed this week to thousands of stockholders, bankers and investment houses throughout the nation.

Without doubt it is the most impressive and interesting such report that has ever come to my attention. It is a fine, dynamic, new link in Florida's economy. The word "FLORIDA" stands out on the four color cover showing a rocket launching platform at Cape Canaveral. Under the headline "Florida" is a sub-head that reads, "Industrial Horizons are Broad and Bright"—story on page 4. The makeup is very similar to Time Magazine and it is just as colorful and appealing.

Were it not for a modest imprint at the bottom of the page that reads "1957 Annual Report,"

There is no foolproof method to predict when or where a tornado will strike and no guaranteed safety in the midst of one. They have a relatively narrow path as contrasted with hurricane winds which have scored an area as wide as 200 miles at one time.

City dwellers are the most helpless in the tornado, open country actually being the best protection insofar as avoiding being hit by flying objects or trapped in buildings.

Tornado weather is usually sticky, sultry and oppressive and winds are generally southerly. Clouds appear to bulge down instead of up. Although the rotary winds are in the neighborhood of 500 mph, the funnels themselves travel at speeds that have been measured at from five to 65 miles an hour forward.

While it tells the story of F.P. & L.'s amazing growth and development, it goes much further and tells an equally impressive story of the business and industrial progress of Florida itself.

While statistics appear here and there throughout the booklet, they are supplemented with colorful charts and illustrations that tell the story in a manner that a child can understand.

Where the money comes from and where it goes is shown with a reproduction of actual coin quarters, dimes, nickels and pennies, indicating revenue and outgo. One quarter, two dimes and one nickel are shown. You want to pick them up and put them in your pocket, represent income from residential electricity yields. On the opposite side of the page a shiny new quarter informs you that one-fourth of the company's income goes to pay taxes and so on.

But what impressed me most was the fact that the report devoted more effort to selling Florida than it did in selling the company itself. The article on page four, referred to on the front page, points out that a record industrial output in Florida's economy. Profusely illustrated in full color, it shows various operations in our busy aviation, electronics, textile, aluminum fabricating, furniture and many other industries that today are bringing millions of dollars to the state and giving employment to countless thousands of skilled technicians.

This splendid piece of literature will tell Florida's story to thousands throughout the nation. It will bolster their faith in the state and cause additional investments. While there is talk of a depression in other parts of the country this story shows that Florida, despite her bad winter, is still the brightest star in the forty-eight. Here growth and progress continue, business is good and the future is bright.

$2,000 In Merchandise Stolen In Osteen

Thieves evidently worked leisurely early this morning in Osteen, when an estimated two thousand dollars worth of merchandise was stolen from Louis Noel's General Store, corner of state road 415 and Enterprise Road.

The thieves entered the well-lighted store by jimmying the front doors. All screws were removed from the cigarette display cases. Empty cases were left behind the self-service counter in the front of the store.

Stolen merchandise included all cigarettes and cigars, $800 dollars worth of men's clothing, $100 dollars worth of razor blades, cutlery, lighters, fishing tackle, women's and men's hose, pocket knives, underclothing, $100 dollars in silver and $30 in bills.

The fussy burglars took every jar of Maxwell House coffee, leaving other brands on the shelves. No beer or wine was touched.

The robbery was reported by the owner at 6 o'clock this morning. Volusia County Sheriff's Deputy Irving Vieno investigated the crime. The Sheriff reported this morning that finger prints had been taken. The store is completely surrounded by a concrete apron, eliminating any tire marks.

An early morning time was established by coffee still warm in an automatic coffee machine outside the store. While the thieves were unable to break into the machine, they disconnected it in their efforts. The merchandise is not covered by insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Noel remarked to a reporter this morning, "It looks like a professional job, by someone who know how to dispose of the merchandise." No statements were issued by the Sheriff's Department of Volusia County.

Uncontrollable Fire Roars Through Petroleum Tanks

A raging fire roared uncontrolled through a mile-long Standard Oil Co. petroleum storage farm today, exploding or igniting nine 15,000-barrel fuel tanks and threatening 13 others.

Six of the 60-foot high tanks clustered on the tip of this city's Hampton Roads waterfront collapsed one by one between 11 p. m. Wednesday and 3 a. m. today. The others went up at about 4:30 a. m. when a shift in the wind fanned the searing heat on them.

The Newport News fire department, in an official report, said no deaths or injuries had been reported and no one was missing.

Navy and commercial fire tugs, Coast Guard cutters and other fire boats poured water from Hampton Roads onto the inferno that sent flames leaping 200 feet into the air and black smoke, visible for miles, belching into the air.

Hundreds of firemen from nearby military installations, Newport News and adjoining cities in this highly urban area combined to fight the flames that spread along a thin finger of land extending into the mouth of the James River, across Hampton Roads from Norfolk, Va.

Herlong enumerated other community services to be emphasized by the Kiwanis International: spiritual growth, conservation of resources, Circle K and Key Clubs and the promotion of world understanding and peace.

Further obligations outlined by Herlong were mobilized support for adequate education, fighting inflation, encouraging efficiency and economy in government, and backing the attack on traffic accidents.

Lutheran Synod President Main Speaker Tonight

LAKELAND (UP) — Dr. John W. Behken, president of the Lutheran Church's Missouri Synod will be the main speaker at a banquet tonight highlighting the 10th annual convention of the Georgia-Florida District.

Over 300 delegates from Florida and Georgia are attending the convention which started Tuesday and ends Friday.

Delegates Wednesday heard reports from Lutheran representatives in politically unsettled Cuba, site of recent rebel uprisings.

The Rev. Eugene F. Bruell, president of the Lutheran Church of Havana, said the political strife has not interfered with freedom of worship in Cuba.

But the Rev. H. J. Gillette, pastor of the Isle of Pines, admitted he felt his message was not getting across as it should because the Cubans "are too interested" in the rebel fight against President Fulgencio Batista.

Ward told authorities he took the guns from a National Guard armory in Grove Hill, Ala. Police there said the armory was broken into Monday night, and weapons, clothing, boots, outdoor motors, and other items were stolen.

About $28 in cash and a supply of shotgun shells were taken from a store in nearby Thomasville, Ala., the same night, the sheriff's office said.

Wilson said warrants would be made out today, and that the FBI would be called in since the case involved interstate transportation of stolen goods.

Particularly exciting was the obvious explosion when the second stage was entered, and the light grew smaller as the rocket sped into the distance. It was the first time that such a missile has been clearly observed, although many smaller ones have been seen during the Cape Canaveral launches.

Cdr. Rowell Talks On Bombing Derby At Coffee Club

Cdr. I. M. Rowell Jr., executive officer of VAH-9, spoke to the Chamber of Commerce Coffee Club this morning at Mrs. Appleby's Restaurant. Cdr. Rowell described the winning of the Heavy Attack Squadron bombing derby, held recently between east and west coast squadrons. VAH-9 is one of the squadrons based at the Sanford Naval Air Station.

Functions of the new Sanford Employment Agency were explained by Danny Hahn, manager of the local office.

Host for the Thursday morning session was Clifford McKibbin, president of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Guests introduced were William Hallbach Jr., president of the newly organized Civilian Club, D. H. McGregor, new owner of the Marinella Court, and Mrs. Ruth Gallagher, Welcome Wagon hostess in Sanford and Seminole County.

Freak Wind Blamed For Paratroopers' Deaths

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (UP) — Freak gusts of wind were blamed today for the death of five paratroopers, fatally dragged by their billowing parachutes in a mass jump of 1,300 men.

More than 100 others were hospitalized after the jump Wednesday. The injured and dead all landed at the extreme northern edge of the big drop zone where gusts dragged helpless paratroopers over rocky terrain, dotted with trees.

The accident happened during the 101st Airborne Division's war game exercise "Eagle Wing."

Some of the dragged paratroopers were traveling at such speed that spectators were unable to overtake their chutes and cut them loose.

Major L. A. Breault, information officer for the division, said five of the men were dead on arrival at the base hospital.

Victims Listed

The Defense Department at Washington identified the victims as Pfc. Michael E. Robles, son of Michael Robles of New York City; Pfc. Alfonso L. Martinez, son of Mrs. Julia V. Martinez of Santa Fe, N. M.; Pfc. Elliott F. Morley, son of Mrs. Olga Roberta Morley of Miami, Fla.; SAC Carl G. Payne, husband of Mrs. Phyllis Ann Payne of Clarksville, Tenn.; and Pfc. Danny J. Ruffin, son of Mrs. J. H. Ruffin Sr. of Hamilton, O.

Breault said 137 men were hospitalized but that none of these appeared to be in critical condition. "There were a few broken bones," he said, "but most of them just had cuts and bruises and should be released within a few days."

Major Gen. W. C. Westmoreland, division commander, made the jump with his men, his 70th. And like the men wrestled with a ballooning parachute.

Successful Jump

Before word of the accident had reached headquarters, the general reported a "very successful jump."

Westmoreland announced that a full investigation would be conducted. But he said it was apparent that the jump safety officer, who gave the paratroopers a go-ahead to jump, could not be held responsible for the accident.

Officers said another jump scheduled here Saturday will be carried out unless weather conditions force a postponement.

Witnesses said the speed of the wind on the ground was recorded at about 12 miles an hour during the jump, well within the maximum safe speed of 15 miles an hour. The much stronger gusts apparently built up in a single section of the sprawling jump area, which was without communications.

"It was just one of those quirks," one officer said.

County fire districts were set up by the organization. The Lake Mary Volunteer Fire Department has already signed the necessary 25% of the qualified voters in the area to a petition, which will be placed before the Seminole County Commissioners. The district is prepared for the coming election.

This will give them the authority to purchase needed equipment, with the aid of Seminole County.

Former Sanfordites Meet in Fasron 105

Swapping sea stories, an old Navy custom, was repeated to second place recently when four former Sanfordites met in Fasron 105 and tales of the good fishing, swimming, boating and living in the Central Florida area dominated the conversation.

Commander T. C. Deans, Commanding Officer Fasron 105 and former Administrative Officer of N.A.S. Sanford who arrived in Puerto Rico in late March, found it his duty to bring all former Sanford personnel up to date on the latest Sanford news. Leading those in that for news was former N.A.S. Sanford, Chief Disbursing Clerk A. N. Singuefield, whose conversation was "How is Sanford booming and how is the flight school in Sanford still growing and how is the fishing? Is the weather still wonderful and how is the fishing?"

Fasron 105, whose former Sanfordites are negotiating for a sub-lease of the Sanford Herald, is located at "the gateway to the Caribbean" where bananas, blue sea and trade winds abound.

more than 100 hours. The VAH-9 flight crews carried out their mission in weather "both fair and foul" and approximately one half the total hours were flown at night.

During the NATO exercise Green Cobra, occurring the latter part of the month, VAH-9 presented a graphic demonstration of Heavy Attack Capability to the many foreign observers aboard the USS Saratoga. Flying simulated combat strikes round the clock, the squadron in swept wing ASD jets successfully completed mission after mission.

In a message to Commander W. R. Haslett, USN, Commanding Officer of VAW-9, Admiral C. R. Cooper, USN, Commander Carrier Division Six stated in part: "Congratulations on a fine performance. Your availability was higher and number of aborts less than any Heavy Attack Squadron I have observed."

Capt. A. R. Matter, USN, Commanding Officer of the USS Saratoga, in a letter to Commander Haslett, stated: "Congratulations to all personnel of VAW-9 on their superb maintenance and operational performance in Green Cobra. I am certain that your accomplishments in this exercise have never been equaled by any Heavy Attack Squadron, and that you have set new standards for all such squadrons to meet in carrier aviation."

Commander Haslett, in congratulating his command, awarded special recognition to the efforts of VAW-9 maintenance personnel but stressed that the outstanding performance of the squadron would not have been possible without the team work of all hands.

New Category Being Plugged For Emmy Award

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD — Now that 1957's Emmys have been distributed for TV excellence, a new category is being plugged for next year—best commercial of the season.

Speakeading the campaign for recognition of singles, sales pitches and advertising is Adrian Woolery of Playhouse Productions, who, "strangely" enough, just happens to specialize in turning out cartoon commercials. Woolery would combine business with art.

"The low opinion of commercials has changed," Woolery claims, "hinting that some viewers prefer commercials to entertainment."

"Sales messages have progressed and improved pace with the rest of TV. The public today wouldn't stand still for commercials that were turned out eight years ago."

Woolery's public service plug for the Navy as the best commercial of 1957.

It whittled his desire for bigger awards.

"I've already contacted members of the TV academy about an Emmy for the best live and filmed commercial. The reception was good."

"We believe commercials should have the same effect as cartoons in a movie theater. Audiences should be entertained."

"There's no reason why commercials shouldn't entertain as well as sell a product. The most effective ones are always the most entertaining."

Cartoons Dominated Ads
About 25 per cent of all sales pitches are cartoons, and they are winning increasing popularity over announcers and (word) dr. reticulation as a means of video advertising.

According to Woolery, 20-second films are most popular with eight.

Wesley "Snow" Wright is to be the bride.

A free will offering will be taken.

Veterans Corner

Here are authoritative answers from the Veterans Administration to questions of interest from former servicemen and their families:

Q. I have a non-participating Korean GI term insurance policy. May I add the total disability income provision to my policy?

A. No. The total disability income provision may not be added to non-participating Korean GI policies.

Q. I am getting a VA pension, and hold a small part-time job that doesn't interfere with my disability. In reporting my income for pension purposes, do I include my gross salary or my net salary after income tax deductions?

A. You must report your gross income, before any deductions.

Q. Must a veteran's blindness be service-connected in order for him to get VA's special aids for the blind?

A. Blindness itself need not be service-connected, so long as the veteran has some other disability which has been determined as service-connected.

Q. I have repayed my loan in full. Does this automatically entitle me to another GI loan?

A. No. Repayment in full does not restore entitlement.

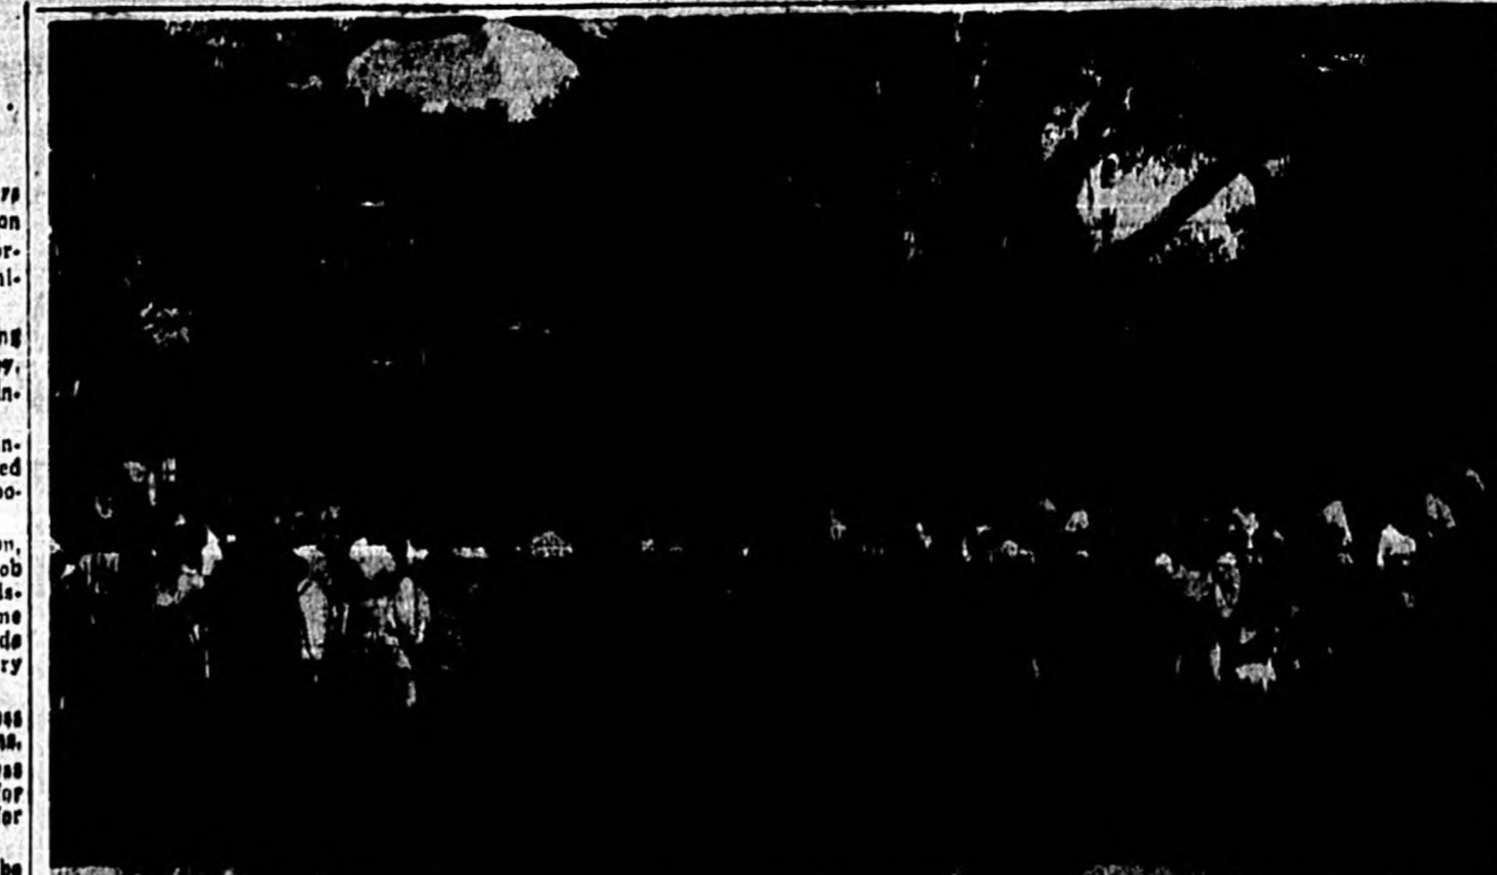

second quickies also proving effective for sponsors.

"You can't sell a product very well if viewers leave their seats to get the dog out of six months' training."

Woolery's firm produces some 250 commercials yearly for 50 different clients. His particular favorite is the many introductions to the Tennessee Ernie Ford show, Ford automobiles.

"Commercials require creative artists," Woolery concludes. "They should be recognized by the TV academy on an equal basis with other television contributions."

"And what's more important, commercials pay the freight for the entire medium."

Physical Care Not All Child Needs From You

By HERMAN H. BUNDSMAN, M.D.
Raising children, as all you do unfold harm by blaming him parents fully realize, is not a simple job. There is a lot more to it than simply planning adequate meals for them, and seeing that they get plenty of sleep when needed.

Understand His Needs
The growth of a youngster, you must understand, is a psychological process as well as a biological process. And you, as parents, must satisfy his needs for love and understanding as well as his needs for food and rest.

Understand the Entire Family
While he needs to accomplish things and to do things, he still depends upon you, his parents, to make sure he stays within safe limits for his behavior whether he is playing, visiting or at home.

Violent Feelings
Quite often a child must be protected from his own violent feelings. Usually, it's up to the parents to help him understand his feelings through sympathy and firmness.

The most important factors in a child's development are the attitudes of his parents. You can't see a physician.

Great men but yesterday once did the same, Took, as a news (paper) boy, their first steps to fame, Lads who went laughing and whistling their way, But judges and artists and merchants today.

Striving to please, but at times to annoy, That is the way of the newspaperboy. Head full of dreams but a heart that is stout Man of tomorrow that's just starting out.

Save Those High Heels For Special Occasions

IT is all right for you women to wear high heels to parties, your home each day in soft slippers, dinner dances and to just about any celebration or special occasion. But you can't wear them all the time and escape foot trouble.

I fully realize that high heels are fashionable, and I don't expect you to do without them. But I want you to try to get along with heels no higher than one and a half inches for general use.

Diagnose Body Functions
Occasionally, as I said, you can don higher heels when you go out for an evening. Wearing such footwear continually, however, will disturb the proper function not only of your feet, but of your entire body.

Queueing your feet into tight shoes—and many of you women do it—so bad as elevating the heel so high that your feet are thrown out of their proper position for bearing your body's weight.

Cause Foot Ills
Tight shoes, high heels, or a combination of both, can cause corns, calluses and bunions. Even worse, such abuse of your feet might result in poor circulation or arthritis.

Millions of Americans have foot trouble. And most of it is caused by poor-fitting shoes. I've given you exercises in the past to help strengthen foot of arthritis.

Rest your Feet

Whether you wear high heels or not, whether you perform muscle-strengthening exercises or not, your feet are bound to become tired every once in a while. Naturally, when this happens you want to rest them. But do it scientifically.

Instead of placing your weary feet on a chair or stool of height equal with your chair, prop them atop a table or the arm of your sofa or chair. This puts the feet higher than your heart and aids circulation.

Alternate Soaking
Another method of stimulating circulation is to place your feet in a bucket of hot water for two or three minutes and then switch them to cold water. Continue this alternate soaking for 15 minutes or so. It should make a tired feet a lot more comfortable.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Try and Stop Me

FRANK BOYDEN, Deerfield School basketball star, tells about a Southern rookie called up by the Philadelphia Nationals, who reported at the Polo Grounds. The manager said, "Sit next to me on the bench, and I'll point out the fine points of baseball as played in the majors."

In the second inning, the Phils had a fleet runner on first, when the next batter slashed a long single to right field. The Giants had the great Mel Ott patrolling that sector. Noting that the runner was trying to go from first to third, Manager Mel threw a bullet smack into the third baseman's mitt, and the runner was out sliding.

The manager told the rookie, "He was tight to try and stop me. You won't see a play like that again in years." In the eighth, the same runner was on first, the same batter singled to right, and the same Ott threw him out at third. The Southern rookie shook his head and murmured, "Time sure does fly up leah in the North!"

Who's In News?

Blonde Dinah Shore chose acting as her road to fame but found her way to success by way of her sweet singing with a southern drawl.

Her special way of singing a ballad carried her to the top and kept her there where Tuesday night she was honored in Hollywood as the television industry's top female personality of the year. The home-loving, 41-year-old singer, movie and television star was born in Winchester, Tenn., and moved to Nashville when she was seven.

She made $10 by singing at the pines, 14 miles from Nashville, when she was 14, but didn't study music at Vanderbilt. She majored in sociology.

After graduation from college in 1939, the 5-foot, 4-inch singer went to New York to make good on the stage and landed a job at radio station WNEW.

She got her break on the Eddie Cantor show and started making records. Her record of "Yes, My Darling Partner," sold a half million copies.

After moving to Hollywood with Cantor's program, she made the transition into the movies and during the next few years played in "Up in Arms," "Follow the Boys," "Belle of the Yukon," "Fun and Fancy Free" and "Aaron Slick from Pumpkin Creek."

She and actor George Montgomery, then a corporal in the Air Corps, were married in Las Vegas, Nev., Dec. 5, 1943.

Dinah frankly admits she used Las Vegas as a testing ground for new material for her television program. She said that the blasé crowd in the gambling resort had to like a number or, "Out it goes."

In Las Vegas the songstress may display her legs, but on television it's a different matter. She explains that people think of her as the girl next door, and it just wouldn't work.

New Industry Means Financial Security For Sanford Community

The past winter's disastrous weather conditions have convinced Sanford and Seminole County citizens that industry is needed to diversify the economic structure of the area.

However, news releases have tended to excite people in one sense of the word. But, on the other hand, it has brought the realization of the possibilities of new industries.

To make even a more indelible impression of the impact of industry on a community, look at the figures released by the United States Chamber of Commerce:

When 1,000 new jobs are available in a community, 2,000 more people make the community their home; 1,120 more households are established; 510 more children go to school; 40 more retail establishments are opened; 1,070 more passenger automobiles use the streets; and 740 jobs are created in addition to the 1,000 factory jobs.

In dollars and cents the community will realize $5,900,000 in personal income; $2,700,000 in bank deposits; and $3,600,000 more in retail sales per year.

These are convincing figures and they come from actual surveys when industry moves into a community to become a part of the economy.

Now we must realize that industry doesn't just move into a community. People must want it, they must plan for it, and they must be prepared to welcome the newcomers and make them "part and parcel" of the community.

That doesn't mean one person, or a small group of people—it means the entire community.

Certainly Florida is an attraction to industrialists—we have much to make industry "a good home". For instance, the tax picture here is one of the major reasons why industry can succeed and expand and produce. And here in Central Florida, especially in Sanford and Seminole County, we hope that they will find a haven of security and cooperation.

In the final analysis—new industry means financial security for a community. A financial security that will weather the ups and downs of conditions over which people have no control. Jobs that will continue throughout the year and over the years; incomes that will pick the citizens up by their bootstraps and place them in the security bracket to which they belong.

We can have industries in Sanford and Seminole County—if the people want industries. There are excellent possibilities!

The Hot Dog A Secret Weapon

It may be lost for the moment in the billion dollar logistics surrounding the dedication of the Universal and International Exposition at Brussels this month, but the prosaic American hot dog may yet turn out to be the hit of the World's Fair.

Yes, the lowly frankfurter and roll (referred to as the "hot dog" at the St. Louis Fair in 1904) may be our "secret weapon" in the all-out world warfare that will be waged on Belgian soil for the next six months.

Pure beef frankfurters and fresh hot dog rolls with just the right amount of mustard and relish make a pretty gastronomic delight without political significance. Tons of frozen rolls are being shipped from the Port Chester, N. Y. plant of one of the nation's big bakeries where quick freezing techniques were developed by the late Admiral Richard E. Byrd, famed Arctic explorer.

Can you imagine the chagrin of the Soviets, who are said to be spending fifty million for their exhibit, if they have to report to Comrade Khrushchev that (pardon the expression) "red" hot dogs from America are the real stars of the show?

Two Great Weeks For Sanford

It was a great two weeks for Sanford—the two weeks of golf that concluded last Sunday with the playing of the Florida State Golf Association's 41st Men's State Amateur Golf Tournament.

Our article in this column just a few days ago is borne out by the number of golfers, both men and women, who came to Sanford to take part in the tournaments.

Frankly, Sanford is an attraction. First because of the excellence of The Mayfair Inn's Country Club course—made so because Manager Frank Mebane Jr. realizes the importance of perfection to attract golfers and to endear them to the playing of the course. Secondly, because Sanford is so centrally located that more golfers from all over the state have easy access to the course.

Of course we want to point out too, that the committees in charge of both tournaments—the one for Florida State Women's Golf Association tournament and the one for the men's amateur tournament—were of such calibre that tournaments would be a natural attraction.

There is no doubt, since viewing the two tournaments—and knowing that the PGA tournament in December and the Women's PGA tournament in January are natural drawing cards—that Sanford is becoming so very fast, the golf capital of Florida.

Sanford and Seminole County, along with our neighbors in DeBary, all have excellent golfers. They love to play. Sunday afternoon, as soon as the last golfers taking part in the tournament were off the first green and fairway, local golfers were standing by to tee off, so anxious were they to play.

It's a great game—And Sanford is a wonderful place to play it!

Corrupt Practices Act

WASHINGTON (AP)—Just about now in an election year season of Congress some legislators may be expected to introduce a bill to defeat fraud and to impose honesty in U. S. elections.

The Corrupt Practices Act is on the books but does not work very well. It is conceded that there is too much spending in elections, and it is widely believed that some of it is illegal.

There have been in recent years charges of ballot box stuffing and at least one notable theft and disposal of suspected ballots. Before any legislator moves to correct these evils, he should examine the Representation of the People Act of 1948 and 1949 which comprise the present election laws of Great Britain.

These laws would bewilder any honest American politician and almost surely entrap a crook. Their purpose primarily was to limit or to abolish any campaign advantage a rich man might have over a poor man. The laws limit spending, and they are enforced.

Treating or entertaining by a candidate is forbidden. No campaign cigars. Don't lend a voter money if you plan to run for British office. Even a small loan made in good faith would disqualify a candidate if the election took place within six months thereafter.

A British voter may take household members to the polls in the family car but may not offer his neighbor a lift, nor any other person not at the household. A British candidate's campaign manager may register before polling day a limited number of automobiles to transport voters; one car for every 2,500 registered voters in a city constituency, one for every 1,800 in country districts.

If a car breaks down on polling day, it may not be replaced. One of the penalties for ignoring some of these rules is disqualification of the candidate if he is elected and punishment of his campaign manager or agent.

A candidate for the British House of Commons may spend none of his personal funds on personal campaign expenses. His agent or campaign manager is limited to spending between $1,600 and $1,800, depending on the constituency—and that is all. The candidate is disqualified if he or his agent over-spends.

The agent is responsible for his candidate's observance of the law. The elected candidate probably

Foreign News Commentary

Preparations for a summit conference on world tensions have bogged down again on a question of procedure.

Negotiations were supposed to start in Moscow last Thursday in talks between the United States, British and French ambassadors on one side and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on the other.

The three Allied powers had to wait until the Soviet Foreign Minister called in his assistants to get things going.

Instead, Gromyko summoned American Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., to his office on Thursday for the first talk.

He did not call in British Ambassador Sir Watkin Bell and French Ambassador Maurice Dejean until next day. Then he talked to them separately.

Interjects Bomb Charge

On Friday also, Gromyko interjected the Soviet charge that U. S. planes equipped with nuclear bombs were flying over the Arctic "in the direction of the borders of the Soviet Union."

Gromyko forced a meeting of the United Nations Security Council on his complaint that the planes were a danger to peace.

The Council met in New York on Monday. Arkady A. Sobolev, the chief Soviet U. N. Delegate, found himself alone. Eight of the 11 nations on the council, in addition to the United States, made plain their complaint for which it has been clamoring since last December.

Sobolev as the result, angrily withheld his resolution of complaint, without awaiting a vote which he knew he would lose.

Gromyko's tactics in receiving the Allied ambassadors separately, and his U. N. complaint, caused speculation in Washington that perhaps Russia did not really want the summit meeting for which it has been clamoring since last December.

Wants Talks Limited

A more logical explanation seems to be that Gromyko is simply sticking stubbornly to the Soviet insistence that the ambassadors, in the preliminary talks, and the "Big Four" foreign ministers in a later formal conference, must confine themselves to making the physical arrangements for the summit meeting—time, place and participating countries.

The Allies in turn insist that the ambassadors and the foreign ministers must discuss the actual problem involved in the present world tensions.

In any event, it appears that the summit negotiations are stalled again. What the next move will be, and who will make it, is uncertain at the moment.

Ways In Which Eyes May Signal Body Ills

By NERMAN H. HUNTERMAN, M.D.

SO closely are our eyes related to the rest of our bodies that they are affected by ailments of the arteries of the body.

They are, in effect, the barometers of the human system. Often, the eyes will signal trouble in some other portion of the body even before it can be detected in a general physical examination.

I've told you previously about some of the body illnesses which can be detected in the eyes. Now I'd like to discuss some others.

Drooping Eyelid

If your upper eyelid droops, for example, it may point to a nervous disorder. If not checked, this disorder might weaken other muscles as well.

If the white of an eye is yellow, it might indicate the gall-bladder is diseased.

The first symptom of goiter often is protruding eyeballs. And if the pupils are unusually small, it may be an indication of morphine addiction, although I don't want you accusing your friends of being dope addicts simply because their pupils may seem smaller than yours.

Detects Serious Ailments

By studying the interior of the eye with an instrument called an ophthalmoscope, a physician or eye specialist may detect:

- High blood pressure or hardening of the arteries of the body
- Diabetes
- Narrowed blood vessels
- If the eye's blood vessels harden or hemorrhage, or if there is a swelling of the retina and eye nerve, it may mean kidney disease.
- Inflamed Optic Nerve
- Sometimes a swollen or inflamed optic nerve indicates a brain tumor. And if there is a tumor in the eye, it may mean there is cancer in some other part of the body.

All of which gives added support to a point which I have been trying to put across for years: Whether or not you wear glasses, you should have your eyes checked frequently, at least once every two years.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Q. I am 41. My nose is gradually becoming larger. It is forming lumps and looks somewhat purplish.

What can I do for it?

A. Answer: From your description you may be suffering from rhinophyma of the nose, which is due to a disorder of the oil glands of the nose. Usually a plastic surgeon can clear up this or eye specialist may detect disease.

A WEDDING RECEPTION in Prague, Czechoslovakia, broke up in a riot with the bridegroom and guests wailing, knives, bats and spears. Probably started when someone made a cutting remark.

Apparently, when these people decide to stage a fight—they do it in spades!

We feel sorry for the bride—whose dreams of a tropical marriage were so rudely foisted.

Costa Rica, we read, may disband its army, sell all its armaments to buy farm implements.

If some of that little nation's neighbors followed suit—what a beautiful crop of good-will would result!

Now we have the two-tone spring hat for men. Just the ticket for those who can't decide whether they look best in brown or gray.

If your feet hurt, put mustard in your shoe, advises a noted European physician. Not dog!

Washington See-Saw

GOOD OLD APRIL 15

We saw a friend of ours the other day who was grinning from ear to ear. We asked him what was making him so happy. "I ought to be," he said. "I'm getting a $500 income tax refund." We asked him how he had managed it. "Medical deductions," he said. "We've been sick at our house. Luckiest year we've ever had. Wife had flu, little girl had her tonsils out, little boy broke his arm and the baby had his adenoids removed. And I was just thinking the other day, if I had been lucky enough to have had appendicitis, I could have gotten another $100 back from Uncle Sam."

HOLLAND HONORED

Senator Spencer Holland has long been a great booster for closer Latin American relations. Last week he was honored for his work in this field by the Hispanic Institute. At a banquet convention at Rollins College, he was awarded the Cervantes Medal for his outstanding "services to Latin America." Holland was cited for his leadership in promoting the famous Inter-American highway now under construction between the United States and Panama.

HOW ABOUT ALGERIA?

People ask their Congressmen for all sorts of things. A favorite trick of school children is to write to their Congressman and ask his opinion on various questions of government or history or politics or foreign affairs. The Congressman, of course, answers every man's reply to his questions and turns it in at school as a theme or term paper. The Congressman all know what is going on, but they don't dare do anything about it. They might hurt somebody's feelings. It's just one of the many things they must "put up with."

The first complaint we ever heard about it came the other day. Two Congressmen were talking in the cafeteria. One said, "I wouldn't mind it so much except on the last term paper I did, the teacher only gave the boy a 'D' for it."

TO S THEY DON'T

The big fight to unify the Armed Services is on again. The Pentagon is in a sweat. President Eisenhower has made up his mind to combine the Army, Navy, and Air Force under one high command. Question is: "Can he do it?" Remember the last time it was tried? After World War II they decided to combine the Army and Navy. Result: instead of combining the two services, they came up with a new addition—the Air Force. What will happen this time? Maybe they will come up with some-

Salute TO FLORIDA

ESCAMBIA COUNTY

County Seat, PENSACOLA

Formed in 1821, Escambia County's name was derived from a Spanish term meaning "shorter" or "exchange." The County Seat, Pensacola, was named for an Indian tribe, the Panzacolas, who were inhabiting this northwest corner of Florida, when the Spaniards discovered Pensacola Bay in the middle 1600's. The famous Festival of Five Flags in Pensacola, honors the five countries which have ruled this area. Today, Escambia County is the site of the U. S. Naval Air Training Base, commonly known as the "Antipole of the Air," which is located just south of the County Seat.

In progressive Escambia County, and throughout Florida, the United States Brewers Foundation works constantly to assure the sale of beer and ale under pleasant, orderly conditions. Believing that strict law enforcement serves the best interest of the people of Florida, the Foundation stresses close cooperation with the Armed Forces, law enforcement and governing officials in its continuing "self-regulation" program.

What's On Your Mind?

It isn't often that we get an opportunity to answer the question, "What's on your mind?" Perhaps this is because, basically, people are not too concerned with what is on your mind, if it does not involve them personally.

We hear often in cryptic and cynical tones, "What is all this fuss about Mental Health and Mental Illness?" Isn't it strange that we are not equally cynical about the dangers of the Hydrogen and Atom Bombs?

Yes, there is a reason—we know the harm that can be dealt our individual person as a result of the bombs. We should be equally informed about the various problems in Mental Health and Mental Illness. It is certainly not a program that concerns a few of us, or even a great majority. It is a problem that concerns every last one of us. You might certainly be nodding "True" in half-hearted agreement, so let us bring the situation closer to home.

Think about the people in your acquaintance, the members of your family. Can the words, nervous breakdown, retarded child, family problems as our own "family skeleton". The time has come to disregard this medieval attitude and do something about it. The door is being opened, wider and wider and in the light of day we often find an answer and the burden lightens.

The headlines in your local paper often dramatize the story far better than a group of interested citizens. "Another pitiful retarded child in chains"—"Depressed Tycoon Commits Suicide"—"These headlines are not 10 years old, they are current."

Here are YOUR problems—what will you do about them? It would be a good beginning for every citizen to attend a Forum and Film program April 28 at Pinecrest Auditorium, presented by Seminole County Mental Health Association. The educational endeavor of their program for Better Mental Health.

A panel of six prominent persons in Sanford will attempt to answer questions asked by the audience.

Senator Douglas Stenstrom will represent the state and federal governments. He can give us an idea of what we need for our community, and what is already available to us. Mrs. Margaret Reynolds, Pinecrest school principal, can enlighten us on the schools, facilities and problems encountered. Reverend A. G. McInnis will give us an insight into the clergy and Mental Health. Mrs. Virginia Conn will enlighten us on the stand that the press can take and how the Navy is involved in our program. Mr. George Touhy, past president of the Mental Health Association, can tell us what that group has done and will do in the future. Mrs. Vernon Hardin will represent our parent situation and what they can do or have done to promote Better Mental Health in the home.

It is hoped there will be questions that cannot be answered by the group, and that our citizens will come forth and ask whatever they might find of interest in our Mental Health program.

The public is invited to question—to listen—in express what they feel the community needs.

The Mental Health Association has tried to contact every civic, social, church and school group.

will be a delegate to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next Fall, with all expenses paid.

One of the most gratifying experiences for state champions in taking part in the spectacular dress revue presentation during the Congress when 4-H girls from 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico model their winning ensembles. All will be guests of simplicity at a gala banquet given in their honor.

Distinguished American Red Cross representatives from Washington, D. C., Mobile, Ala., Memphis, Tenn. and North Carolina spoke on services and their relation to the United Fund Drive. Rod Petrie, Bradenton student, described the Junior Red Cross program in the community and schools.

Mrs. Mary Knox, Seminole County Director, has been refused a resignation. Mrs. Knox has agreed to continue with her work under shorter hours, since more relief responsibility has been recently assumed by the Sanford Naval Air Station.

Bruce G. Padlock is chairman of the Seminole County Chapter.

Complete plans will be made at the next meeting.

After the business, the guests played "Pokebo". Prizes were awarded to Mrs. R. W. Turner, and Mrs. R. L. Griffin.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. B. C. Moore and Mrs. C. L. Hewson.

Chemise Or Sack? 4-H Girls To Decide

CHICAGO (Special) — Dame Fashion's latest caprice—the chemise and sack—has undoubtedly caught the fancy of many 4-H girls. And if the new dress finds a place in the teen wardrobe, it is likely that the young lady has made it herself. If she is enrolled in the 4-H Dress Revue program, it is also likely that she will wear it with poise and grace.

Arranged by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, Chicago, the program is under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service. Girls between 10 and 21 years of age are eligible to participate.

Climax of the year's work is an opportunity to model in the annual dress revue. Those who qualify will have an opportunity to enter county and state competition, according to the Extension Service.

The 4-H Dress Revue program carries with it merit awards provided by Simplicity Pattern Co. of New York. Members of the county high award group will receive distinctive medals of honor. The girl selected as state winner

Fellowship Day Stated May 2

Sanford United Church Women will hold the last of three special services May 2 at McKinley Hall in the First Methodist Church.

May Fellowship Day is dedicated to developing a closer fellowship between women who work in all churches for better communities.

Emphasis on all programs is local. While the general theme of Church Women and Housing will be followed by most communities, here in Sanford a more pressing problem will be discussed.

Care of court juvenile wards, or those awaiting trial, is one of the prime concerns of the Sanford church women.

Speaker will be Mrs. R. C. Brantley, social worker with the state welfare board in Sanford. A question and answer period will follow. It is hoped that a profitable discussion will suggest a solution.

During the informal meeting, doughnuts and coffee will be served. Methodist women will act as hostesses. This is an open meeting and anyone is welcome.

Members from Presbyterian, Congregational, Christian and Missionary Alliance, Baptist, Episcopal and Christian churches will take part in the worship service preceding the speaker. The observance will begin at 10:00 a. m.

Serving on the planning committee for May Fellowship Day will be Mrs. William Heinrich, Mrs. Myrtle Bowery, Mrs. Roy Tillis and Mrs. Perry Stone. Mrs. L. G. Hunter is president of the Sanford United Church Women.

The Sanford Herald SPORTS

Dual Meet Saturday

GAINESVILLE—Florida's steadily improving track and field contingent moves into Auburn this Saturday for a dual meet.

Coach encouraged by the showing of bumper Watson in the sprint and the return to full health of distance runner Bobby O'Dare, Coach Perry Beard has high hopes of a victory over his Alma Mater and former Coach Wilbur Stearns.

While the Gators were overwhelming Miami by an 80 to 20 score last Saturday to record their second victory in three dual meets this season, Auburn was outwitting the host school, 76 to 56, at the home of Strong Alabama. Auburn defeated Georgia in its only dual meet this season.

Senior bumper Watson is rapidly shedding all the effects of nearly two seasons of track inactivity, and last Saturday ran the 100 yard dash in 10.7 seconds. Beard expects him to move steadily toward a 10-second mark.

O'Dare has shown off most of the spring of his mile run early in 1957. High jumper George Pennington, who started the season by jumping six feet four inches and then leaped into jumps of less than six feet, cleared six feet one inch at Miami and figures to continue upward.

Signer none of the Miami meet was the pole vaulting and high jumping of freshman Henry Wade. He cleared 16' 3/4" in the vault and cleared 6' 4 1/2" in the high jump, both marks representing new Florida freshman records.

For that matter, Wade's record in the pole vault is one foot, 3/4 inch over the existing Southeastern Conference freshman record set in 1956 by Kentucky's Dave Fanta. His high jump is better than the SEC fresh mark of 6' 3 1/2" set by Sonny Poss of Georgia in 1956.

Freshman John Hale also broke a Florida freshman record in the javelin. He threw 100' 1/2" against Miami, bettering his own earlier school record of 100' 1/4".

Against Auburn, other varsity Gators who figure to finish well are hurdler Tommy Nichols, Dave Jones in several running and field events, Mike Morgan in the distance runs, Art Foster in the broad jump, Don Lacey in the sprints, and Larry White in the quarter mile.

Winfield Willie, who is now putting the shot over 50 feet with regularity, also is a favorite in the event. Willie's best effort was 51 feet his year.

Two Seniors Head Seminole Statistics

TALLAHASSEE (Special)—If Florida State's baseball team returns to the NCAA District III playoffs for the third straight year this season, a lion's share of the credit will go to pitcher Frank Shuster and centerfielder Owen McCarron.

The two seniors head the latest Seminole statistics.

Shuster, a 5-10 righthander from Nescopolis, Pa., sparks the pitching staff with a 2-0 mark and a 0.90 earned-run-average. Last Friday night, he made State baseball history by pitching the school's first no-hitter, in an 18-0 victory over Miami.

Shuster has permitted opponents just three earned runs and 16 hits in 20 innings, walking only six and striking out 25. He has gone the route in all three of his starts.

McCarron leads Seminole hitters in runs, tops there.

Southpaw Jack Bristol, a senior from Sharon, Conn., leads in strikeouts with 33. Despite a 2-3 mark, Bristol has a fine ERA of 1.94.

Rookie To Replace Deceased Driver In Rebel 300

DARLINGTON, S. C.—Ken Rush, 25-year-old NASCAR convertible driver from High Point, N. C., will pilot the 1958 Chevrolet entered by the late Gwen Staley in the May 10 Rebel 300 at Darlington, S. C. Raceway.

The crew-cut Tar Heel was named NASCAR Rookie of the Year in 1957 when he graduated from the Hobby division of stock car racing into convertibles and finished the season as the eighth nationally ranked convertible driver.

Driving a 1956 Mercury the Freshman made his first start in the Rebel 300 last year and lasted until the 13 car crash on the 57th lap. His car was demolished.

Staley, who died in a racing accident at Richmond three weeks ago, had entered a new Chevrolet in the $21,000 event. The popular veteran had been pointing for the Confederate Memorial Day race, finishing twelfth in a Plymouth a year ago. Rush's sensational graduation earned him the replacement spot.

Starting in the big time on March 21, last year, Rush drove in 28 events, bringing his car into the first ten thirteen times and twice held pole position as fastest qualifier. A plumber by trade, the rookie now devotes full time to racing.

POWER BOY By Alan Maves

Sports Parade

By OSCAR TRALEY

NEW YORK—Singing has been taken over by television. Truman Gibson admitted today on becoming president of the International Boxing Club, and like many other phases of twelve entertainment it lays its share of eggs.

"We basically are in the television business," said the 42-year-old Chicago attorney who succeeded the ailing Jim Norris as IBC head. "We have had repercussions from the sponsor from time to time but have had a free hand so far in arranging our shows."

What kind of repercussions? "Well," he said quietly, "some times, like after the Eddie Macsco—Lora Fuller bout, the sponsors say they were disappointed because they expected a better fight. We tell 'em—we did too."

Gibson asserts that he hopes the time will never arrive when there will be no live audience at boxing bouts. But he has no doubt it had to come to a choice between the magic camera and the in-the-flesh fight fan, the fight fan would have to give.

Gibson is a man who speaks with quiet firmness and makes it evident that he isn't going to sit still like his predecessor and let anybody libel him—in print or out.

Norris was one of those people who are inclined to let such things slide by," he said. "But if people make such direct charges as we as they did at him, I'll give 'em a chance to prove it in court."

One of the first "When are you going to stop beating your wife" questions aimed at him was his "I never did associate with Carbo, so I don't have to stop," he said in a 1957 fight.

Nor, he allowed, would the IBC dignity the attacks of Cus D'Amato, a former champion of the IBC, who has said he will not bargain for a title until the promotional outfit gives up one of its two weekly fight telecasts.

"Our Friday night television contracts run through September, 1958, and our Wednesday night fights through May of 1959," he said. "We have no cancellation provisions—so we have no prospect of staging a heavyweight championship."

The IBC organization will remain just as it was under Norris. Joe Louis will be retained as a $20,000 a year "director of boxing." Billy Brown will stay on as matchmaker, and the only difference is that Gibson, a University of Chicago law graduate who served on several presidential commissions, will pull the strings.

accurate throw to first base but he regained his form when the Cubs shipped him to Detroit. In 16 years, Rowdy Dick hit .285, topping .300 three times and once as late as 1941.

Whatever happened to Dick Bartell? Now 49, he is out of baseball after coaching for several seasons and is living in Alameda, Calif., where he is a wholesale representative for the Berkeley Farms Creamery, a large independent.

Whatever Happened To DICK BARTELL

By UNITED PRESS

Temperamental and talkative, Dick Bartell soon became known as "Rowdy Dick" after he broke in at shortstop for the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1922. All told he put in 16 seasons with the Pirates, Phillies, Giants, Cubs, Detroit and back with the Giants. He never stopped his chatter, was a timely hitter, fiery competitor and for all except his one season with the Cubs 1939 he was sure-handed in the field. In '39, for reasons that baffled him, he couldn't make an

FSU Tennis Team Closes Out Season In 3-Match Swing

TALLAHASSEE (Special)—Assured of his ninth winning season in 11 years, Florida State's tennis team closes out its 1958 campaign in a three-match swing in Georgia starting today.

Coach Keith Pritchard's Seminoles, victors in eight of 18 dual meets this spring, face Georgia at Athens today, Georgia Tech in Atlanta Friday, and Mercer in Macon Saturday.

State trimmed Dan Magill's Georgia Bulldogs, 5-4, in Tallahassee last month to clinch their nine-year tennis series at six matches apiece. Georgia Tech blashed the Seminoles, 9-0, earlier this season to take a 6-3 edge in the FSU-Tech series.

In 17 previous matches dating back to 1941, Mercer's Bears have never beaten Florida State in tennis.

Pritchard will take eight varsity performers on the three-day trip—juniors Len Hester, Jim Berry, Frank Bryan, Jackie Crew, Jim Maddox, and Russ Kellinger, and sophomores Howard Levy and Alan Sutor. Freshman Rebel Belmont also will participate in fresh GAINESVILLE—A pair of crucial baseball games in the Southeastern Conference division face the front-running Florida Gators this Friday and Saturday when they play Georgia's Bulldogs in Athens.

Florida Coach Dave Fuller said he plans to start left handed pitcher Tim Tomney (1-1) who has been used primarily in relief this season, against Georgia in the Friday ball game, and will come on with right hander Bubba Williams (1-0) on Saturday.

The Gators split with Georgia last weekend in a two-game series. The 2-1 loss on Friday was the first setback in conference play for the Gators this season.

This left Florida with a 7-1 record in SEC play and 11-3 overall, still good enough for first place over second-place Auburn with a 9-5 record. Auburn's only conference losses this year were at the hands of the Gators.

About the loss to Georgia, Coach Fuller says, "We're not excited. You are bound to lose one now and then. Wayne Minschew pitched a fine game against us. Johnny and Eddie, for the second time in their big league careers, the club sent Eddie, an infielder who also has been served as a pitcher, to the Salt Lake City club of the Pacific Coast League on 24-hour recall.

dogs score two runs without a hit."

Second baseman Bernie Farris moved into first place in the team batting race, and is now hitting .400 compared to .417 for left fielder Charlie Smith. In Florida's 6-4 victory over Georgia in the second game, it was Farris's home run hitting that proved a big factor. He has hit three homers in Florida's four games, collecting two decisive four-baggers against Florida State the previous weekend.

Coach Fuller said he anticipates no changes in the regular starting lineup and will go again with catcher Bobby Barnes (.388), first baseman Perry McGriff (.182), second baseman Mickey Ellenburg (.308), shortstop Russ Maxcy (.231), left fielder Smith, center fielder Bob Glesinger (.321), and right fielder Don Fleming (.385).

Nugent To Head Delegation To FEA Contab In Miami

TALLAHASSEE (Special)—Head football coach Tom Nugent will head a seven-man Florida State delegation to the annual Florida Education Association meeting in Miami Beach Thursday through Saturday.

Other Florida State representatives will be Dr. Ken Miller, Director of Physical Education for Miami; Dr. W. J. Falk, Director of Recreation Curriculum; Dr. Don Viller, professor of physical education, and assistant football coaches Hugh Adams, Charlie La Pradd, and Paul Odum.

Nugent will assume his new position as athletic director and head football coach and Viller as assistant athletic director May 1.

UCLA, MICHIGAN TO MEET LOS ANGELES—UCLA and Michigan will meet in football at Ann Arbor, Mich., on Sept. 30, 1961, giving the Bruins seven inter-sectional games on that season's schedule. The two schools last met in football in 1956 with the Wolverines gaining an easy 45-13 victory.

Awards Presented At DCT Banquet

The Second Annual Employer-Employee Banquet of the Seminole High School Diversified Cooperative Training Club was held April 13, at 7:30 p. m., at Mrs. Appleby's Valdes Restaurant.

Chaplain Herby Knight opened the program with the invocation of the D.C.T. Collect and President Jimmy Blythe then introduced the guests. Mack N. Cleveland Jr., one of the employers, gave the response of the address of welcome. After the students formally introduced their employers, the dinner was served.

Entertainment was provided by Miss Doty Bollinger and Mickey Durak, who played several numbers in duet form on the accordion and the saxophone.

R. T. Milwee, Fred Murray, Mrs. Kent Bateman, and many others commented on the success of the D.C.T. program and the banquet. Recognition was given to Louis J. Girard for his leadership in the program as the coordinator.

Scott Burns of the Florida Power and Light Co. was the main speaker of the evening. Mr. Burns' talk consisted of the past history of Florida and coming industry to the state.

The coordinator then took over the program to present the merit awards for outstanding performance in D.C.T. were: Eugene Elliott, Deloris Jones, Pat Lightfoot, Wendell Brooks and Joan Grant. The two students, Joan Grant and Wendell Brooks, who will represent the club at their state convention at Daytona Beach, May 2-3 also received gifts in recognition of their superior leadership in the club.

The program then came to a close with a prayer by the chaplain.

Congratulations To Mike, Berry

By Angelo Convala
The good news around the High School these days is that Berry St. John and Mike Tammy both won an NROTC (Naval Reserve Officers' Training) scholarship.

These scholarships pay the boys' tuition, fees, books, transportation, and $400 a year for room and board.

The seniors should surely take pride in this fine achievement for this year's senior class. It is very seldom that a high school has two members winning such honors.

Both Tammy and St. John were made principal candidates and will be commissioned as midshipmen in September of 1958. They will be "enjoying" eight years in the Navy, four of which will be spent in studies at the university of their choice. Mike plans to go to Princeton whereas Berry intends to make Rensselaer his alma mater. Included in their programs is an eight-week cruise each year, including as their destinations the Pacific and the North Atlantic.

Berry has intentions of majoring in nuclear physics—as might be expected. Mike is not altogether sure, but is thinking of majoring in electrical engineering.

Our hearty congratulations and hopes of their achieving success in the future we extend to Mike Tammy and Berry St. John.

May Day Court Is Told; Ball May 9

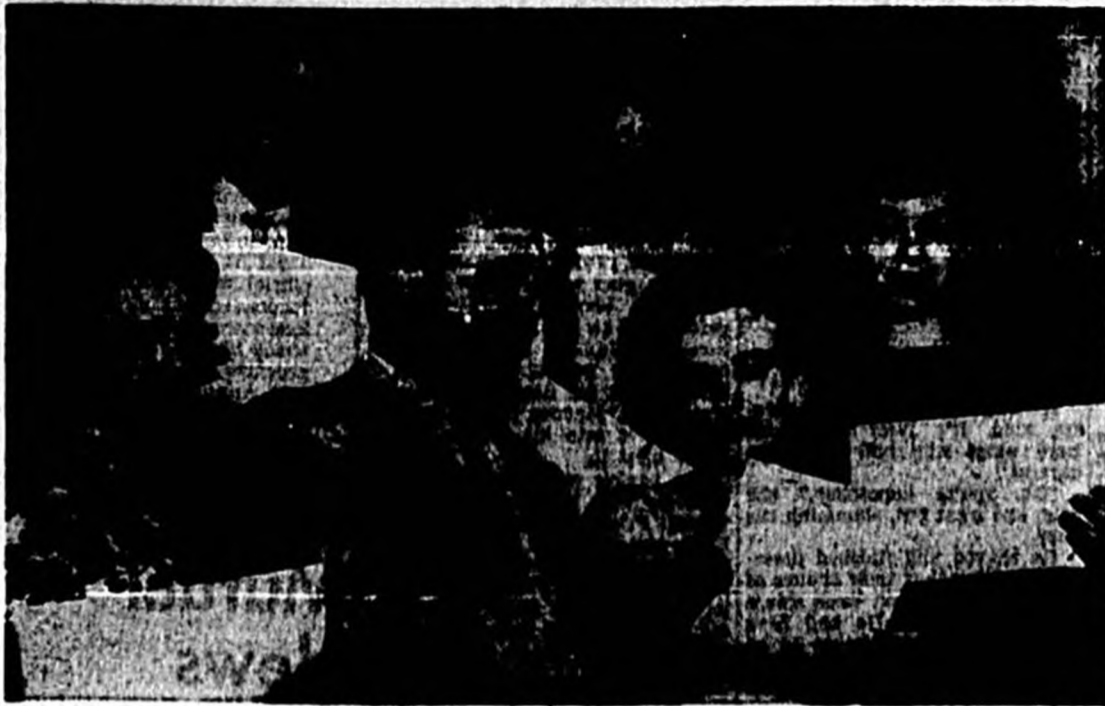

By Delores Bailey
The queen and king of the May Day Ball were announced last week to be Peggy Jane Lundquist and Billy Tyre. Peggy was "thrilled to death" and Billy was "surprised, then happy" when they heard the glad tidings over the loudspeaker.

Peggy is captain of the cheerleaders, vice-president of the Glee Club, vice-president of the Tri-Hi-Y, and secretary of the Student Council. Billy, who just happens to be going steady with Peggy, is president of the Glee Club, president of the "S" club, and member of the Double Quartet. Billy was captain of the football team and is now on the basketball and baseball teams. Congratulations on being elected, you two!

The attendants for the Ball have also been chosen:
Seniors: Nancy Richards, Teddy Walker, Delores Jones and Pat Donahoe.
Juniors: Helen Price, Dave Stanley, Sue Waters, and Wally Phillips.
Sophomores: Marilyn McDaniel and Ray Lundquist
Freshmen: Judy Ludwig and Mike Roberts.

The May Day Ball will be held on May ninth at the new Civic Center. Since this formal dance is sponsored by the Student Council there will be no admission. Make it a date to come.

Tom Tom Talk Kiddie Korner

Here I go again! This is Angelo Campin coming in to your living-room loud and clear (I hope) with the latest news of Seminole High School. I had promised myself not to do this again, but somebody has to.

FRESH—The school about the big Majorette Show that's coming Saturday. It's at the SHS Auditorium (I think), and the entertainment will be majorettes from six junior high schools around the state. Price is only 50c, so please be sure to come. I'm told those junior high girls are almost as good as our own crop of majorettes.

Two junior girls don't feel so good after what we published about them last week. All we can do is draw out those two old reliable words and say, "We're sorry!" Actually, we didn't know we had said so much.

All afternoon I've been looking for news (in preparation for this task that the rest of the Journalism Club shuns) and I've been hearing from all directions about Sam Ureig and his new steady. Well, some boys have all the luck.

Talking about steadies, I might add that Berry and Amoret have been denying all my questions about not going steady—even when I didn't ask them. I suppose that the day those two go their separate ways Cupid will have a heart attack or something.

Jim Blythe and Claudia Warrack are planning a surprise—not they are not getting married yet! This surprise is for the Journalism Club strictly, but we'll tell everyone about it as soon as it goes off.

There's another apology we wish to make—for ourselves as usual. It's about the skimpy 29th edition of Smoke Signals. I sure hope we didn't lose any readers! We'll try to make it up to you by having good material in the succeeding issues.

Band will be "camping"—not the whole pack of them—on May 3 when several of the Band members are having their little field trip on that day. I haven't been given any details yet, but we'll tell you as soon as we find out.

Here's a hot bit of honest gossip: Wally Pope is on a diet! Allegedly, he lost three whole pounds in only two days!

Of all the clubs, the earliest to get their new president installed was Key Club. Henry Schumacher now officiates as president. Inidentally, we hope you went to get your cars washed at the Key Club Car Wash last Saturday. I didn't mention it in the paper because nobody asked me to.

BLUSH—The subject of posture was brought up in a recent issue. I don't know if you know of anybody who disagrees on that count. She sure is "lookable!" (Blush)

Pen-packing Pat, whom you know as Pat Heron, doesn't want ANYBODY to know about what she did at the April Showers ball. Aw, Pat, it wasn't that bad! It sounds so much like a typically-freshman prank, won't you PLEASE let us say what you did? I'd like to chime in with Pat St. John and urge all of you to be at the inauguration of the patio on May 2. Box lunches will be sold, you know—with food—that's such a rare thing these days!

There's a new name for Linda Cannon—that darling thing—nowadays. She is now known as "Buttons and Bows". I'm wondering why.

I just thought of some food for thought: Mike Tammy doesn't wear glasses! With grades like his, one would expect three-inch-thick lenses. (Personally, I think he has contact lenses under those dripping lids.) Incidentally, he's trying to change his name to Mike—sounds more intelligent!

In all seriousness, I, and I take the liberty of speaking for the whole Journalism Club, would like to thank The Sanford Herald for being so considerate with us. Supposedly we're to hand in all our material on the Friday before it is published. Lately we've been handing it in on the following Monday or Tuesday. We're very glad that they've published at the last minute.

Our new policy is not to print any weddings, divorces, or births. It's terribly embarrassing when we find out that they never did occur.

Thanks for your indulgence, and after you've finished the ENTIRE page, you may then go on and finish reading the ENTIRE Herald, and then after that, you may go to watch TV or whatever you were doing when the newspaper boy missed the front porch.

One more item: Those very interested gentlemen who were roaming around the school last week finally evaluated the school's worth. From Mr. Bracken's beaming smile the morning after they did, it seems apparent that the evaluation was favorable. One thing they commended us highly on was our good behavior. As Miss Chittenden summed it all up, "There is no problem that money and space couldn't solve."

Goodnight, dear friends. It's late, John Miller; shouldn't you be getting into bed now? And Mr. Hickson, don't have any nightmares because of me—PLEASE!

You're always prepared for a Party from your Pantry!

with COKE and these quick-fix foods on hand!

YOUR GROCER IS FEATURING THEM NOW!
Unexpected guests? A busy day? A midnight snack to make? You can turn out these delicious dishes in a jiffy if yours is a well-provisioned pantry. So why not stock up on the makings at your grocer's, today. And—remember plenty of Coca-Cola. So good in taste and in such good taste... Coke really puts the finishing touches on an impromptu meal.

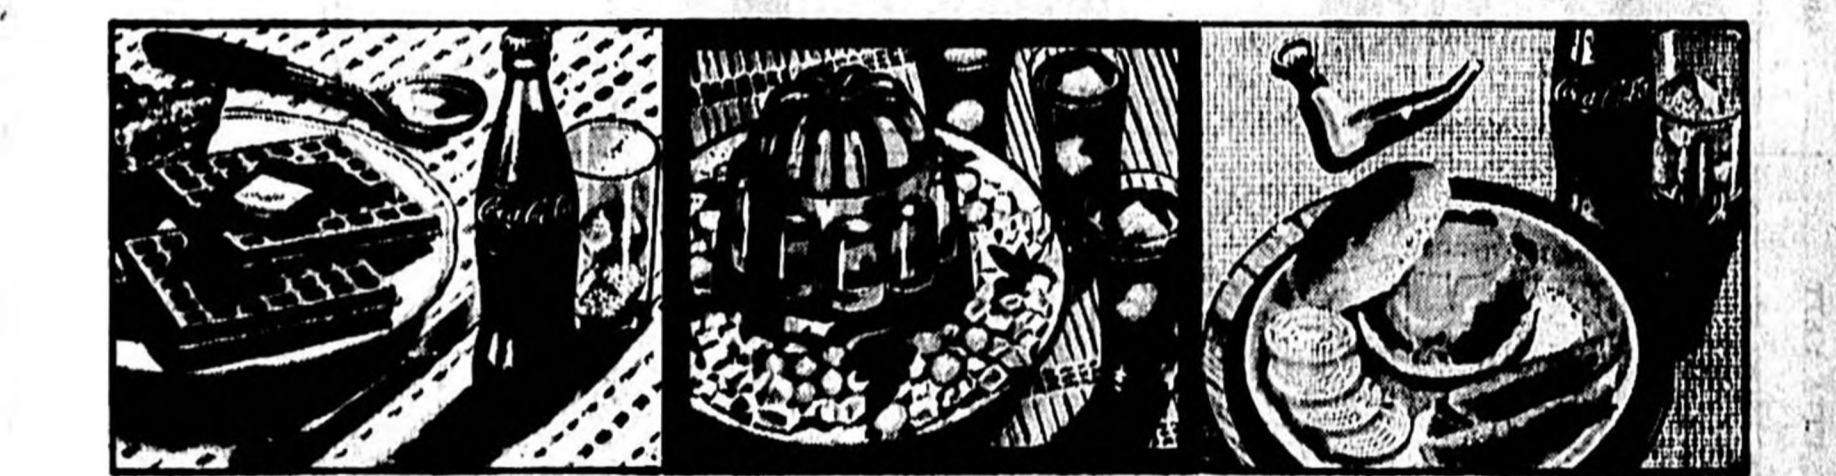

SNACK TRAY. Served with Coke, it's ideal for evening entertaining. Try combining cubed luncheon meat and pickled onions; cocktail sausages, sweet pickle slices; shrimp, stuffed olives; cream cheese, dried beef. Add assorted crackers.

CHICKEN AND WAFFLES. Fry frozen chicken parts until golden brown, serve with waffles—they're so easy to make from a prepared mix. Grand late supper dish with ice-cold Coca-Cola. Coke is your guests' favorite—the best-loved sparkling drink in all the world, enjoyed over 58 million times each day.

GELATIN FRUIT DESSERT. Mold tangy lime or lemon gelatin, surround on platter with chilled, canned fruit cocktail flavored with grated lime or lemon zind. Serve with your favorite assortment of sweet cookies and Coca-Cola. Extra-good because... Coke actually freshens up your taste between bites.

CHEESEBURGER. Season quick-frozen ground beef with basil. Sauté until almost done, top with square of American cheese, cook in covered skillet until cheese melts. Only one sparkling drink goes so well with 'burgers—Coke! So good in taste, in such good taste—serving Coca-Cola makes 'burgers a meal in themselves.

Remember—COKE and Good Taste go together!

CHAPTER 1

PRICE REGAN didn't hear the tap on his door; then turned over, smiling broadly, and looked into the deep pit of sleep. The tap came again, and he looked up. The third time it was sharp and angry, and he sat up, saying, "All right, all right."

He pulled on his pants, pulling the moment he opened the door. Laura Madden stepped into the room. She looked at him and pushed her hair into the hair, but she whirled away from him.

"You can't come in here," she said angrily. "Get out and let me dress."

"What the heck, Grumpy," she said. "Of course I can come in here. We're getting married next week, aren't we?"

She opened the door and looked at him, looking at her. She was a slender, high-spirited girl not quite sixteen. As far as he was concerned, she was the prettiest girl he had ever seen. She had blue eyes and blonde hair that held a rebellious curl, and he knew he was a lucky man to have won her love. Still, he had to admit she was a bit of a woman. When she was in one of her gay and reckless moods she was now, he simply didn't know how to cope with her.

"Just stand the room," he said, "but seems like I ought to be told the date of the wedding."

She laughed, wrinkling her nose at him. "I just told you."

She crossed the room and looked at him. "That's not fair," she cried. "Daddy's used to having people come . . ."

Price said, "He knows where to find me."

She looked at him seriously. "You say we can't get married because you won't let me live in your hotel room, and you won't let Daddy's money go to the night we heard the Bryes house was for sale."

So that was it. Barry Madden would buy a house and give it to them in Daddy's name, but it wouldn't be free to Price Regan. There was bound to be a joker in the deal. Nothing that Madden gave away was free.

Price pushed past him into the room and went on to the private office in the back. Here Barry Madden smoked and dreamed and

When Price went downstairs to the hotel dining room for breakfast, he looked around for Weston, expecting to see him, but the cattleman wasn't in sight. The more Price thought about it, the more he was convinced that there was a connection between Weston's presence in town and Madden's request to come to the bank.

After Price finished breakfast he crossed the street to the bank. It was several minutes before nine, the bank's opening time, so Price had to knock on the door. Cranky old John Ramsey unlocked it.

Price pushed past him into the room and went on to the private office in the back. Here Barry Madden smoked and dreamed and

Citrus Mutual News

LAKELAND—Top prices for concentrate quality oranges today pushed up an all-time high, Robert W. Hulledege, Florida Citrus Mutual General Manager, said here.

He said Frank Trivillion, of Mutual's Marketing Information Division, has received reports of prices up to 30 cents per pounds/solids being paid by processors. Figuring at the rate of 3.3 pounds per box, the standard example, this would be the equivalent of $4.40 per box delivered to the processor.

Hulledege said the 30 cents figure was reported to Mutual, but that the general spot price for concentrate oranges is about 75 cents per pounds/solids, or $4.12 per 90-pound box of fresh fruit.

On April 18 last year the going price of oranges per pounds/solids was only 28 cents, although Mutual insisted at the time the price was too low.

Wholesale prices for the finished concentrate product now reflect the greatly increased price to the grower. In its current quotations, Fasco, one of the largest processors, is quoting a figure of $3.20 per dozen six-ounce cans. Last year at this time the price was $2.38 per dozen six-ounce cans.

Around May 1 last year several processors dropped the per-dozen price to $1.00, a figure that was maintained for some eight weeks before it started moving up again.

On the so-called advertised brands of concentrate there is a price differential upwards of from 24 cents to 30 cents per dozen six-ounce cans.

THE CARD OF THANKS
Very often a Card of Thanks in The Sanford Herald meets a need which is difficult to fill in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have been most helpful but also a personal note of appreciation and acknowledgment of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed.
Developer Cards of Thanks are accepted as partial payment. Emily Post, the noted authority on etiquette, feels they serve many good uses.
There is no prescribed form for a Card of Thanks. It can be as brief or as detailed as you desire. When the average comes you will find a sympathetically understanding member of our staff to assist you.

THE "IN MEMORIUM" NOTICE
It is the custom of many families in this country to commemorate a bereavement by the "In Memoriam" notice in newspapers. They find a real sense of relief in the publication of a suitable verse brings back to them loved ones, pleasant recollections. As Eliza Cook, the English poet has so beautifully expressed it:
"How cruelly sweet are the echoes
That start
When memory plays an old tune
Most frequently an In Memoriam is inserted on the anniversary of death. However, other dates, which it is felt are appropriate or meaningful are also selected. The birthday of the deceased is especially appropriate. Memorial Day, even Christmas are among other significant occasions chosen.
If you are hesitant to express your tender thoughts in some form, you may avail yourself of the Herald's collection of original verses. These express in poetic beauty the emotions of the bereaved. Among them are verses appropriate to any circumstance.
THE RATE
Cards of Thanks and In Memoriam notices, due to the fact they may run to considerable length, are billed at $1.00 per column inch.
