She was accompanied by 10 supporters.

Laurel K. Ising, of 3202 Holiday Ave., has sued Circuit Court Judge Dominick J. Salfi, of 350 Markham Woods Road, Longwood, disagreeing with his order that her house be sold to pay a $25,000 divorce settlement to her second husband.

To that end, she has filed a civil suit demanding $100,000 in punitive damages and $12,082 in compensatory damages.

Mrs. Ising maintains the ruling to sell her home was issued by Salfi only because he has a long-term dislike for her. She said he has continued a pattern of prejudice against her in his courtroom starting with the sentencing of one of her six children to reform school several years ago, through two divorces, and during a hearing Tuesday when Mrs. Ising wanted to argue that she should not be forced to sell her house as part of a divorce settlement because her husband married her to get the home. Salfi said he would not officially comment on the suit until he had received the paperwork and contacted the attorney general's office regarding the matter. He added, however, that as a judge, the demeanor demanded of his office did not allow him to openly respond to Mrs. Ising's comments."

Mrs. Ising divorced her first husband in 1976. Salft said he awarded her the house, at that time. Records of that divorce were unavailable today and were in the possession of Salfl, according to a

Mrs. Ising, a maid, said she was going to introduce evidence that her second husband, to whom she was married three months, planned the marriage Just to take her half the house. Salft wrote: "The court finds that the transfer of the above described property by the wife on 5 Dec., 1978 out of her sole name to the husband to be that of a gift."

That ruling has been upheld by the Florida Supreme Court. The Florida high court said on Feb 25, 1983, it had no jurisdiction in the case and dismissed the review. It further stated it would not entertain any rehearing of the Issue.

Spoiled Butter Stalls Surplus Food Request

By Donna Estes Herald Staff Writer

Seminole Community Action's request for a new supply of surplus food for distribution to the poor is being held in limbo while the U.S. Department of Agriculture investigates SCA's loss of butter through spoilage last November.

Deborah Thompson of the state's Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services said today SCA reapplied for more commoditles, but the application cai.not be processed until the claim over the lost butter is settled.

"The USDA must make a determination over whether SCA will have to pay for the lost butter or make some other arrange-

"I'm concerned that those who nced the food get it. HRS should not prohibit issuance of food commodities to Seminole County. Seminole should have the food the same as elsewhere in the state. That's my concern. There should be some kind of emergency provisions, " he said.

"SCA shouldn't have a monopoly on providing this service. If there is some other agency that is better equipped and willing to distribute the food. let them do it," Jones said.

'We know very well that we have had some losses," he said. "When one considers whatever we have done in distributing food commodities was without any assistance from any agency, including HRS, we have accomplished a miracle." Jones

"We have not received one penny for transportation, storage, refrigeration. It's all been on the back of Community Action. We have struggled with a volunteer staff, receiving no salaries along with trying to make provisions for transportation, storage and distribution of food commodities," Jones said.

"We have done miracles with nothing, except our own grit and will to serve the people at whatever cost. I'm not that much concerned about who distributes the commodities. I'm concerned about those commodities getting out," he said.

Jones said the commodities distributed over the months have been on hand at the SCA offices in storage since last May. Of the spoilage, he said that he suspects it would not have happened had the guidelines on distribution not been changed so many times. Under the first guidelines. Jones said, 2,500 to 3,000 families were being served. When those guidelines changed, the numbers receiving the commodities dropped to one-third the original number. At first the guidelines called for distribution of the commodities - primarily cheese and butter here - to the poor on food stamps and other public assistance and to senior citizens.

Hoping to head that off, Seminole County Commission Chairman Sandra Glenn was to meet today with J.T. Turnipseed, president of the Friends of the St. Johns, seeking support for the appointment of Tom Stevenson, an employee of land developer and food manufacturer Jeno Paulucci.

A vacancy has existed on the water management board of directors since Jan. I when Sanford attorney Michael Gray resigned from the office due to the press of his private law practice.

"I hope to serve as mediator between Stevenson and Turnipseed so that Seminole can retain this appointment," Mrs. Glenn said.

She said since Paulucci is supporting Stevenson and it is obvious the mil-district. However, Turnipseed, prior to the luncheon meeting, said he and the Friends of the St. Johns have already forwarded their recommendation to Graham seeking the appointment for U.S. Navy Admiral (retired) Richard Fowler of Sanford.

And Jack Horner, president of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, saying he could not support either Stevenson or Fowler, says he expects a special meeting of the chamber's St. Johns River Task Force will be called to consider recommending the appointment of someone within the committee.

Dalton Worsens

Longwood bailiff Harry Dalton's condition has worsened, according to Florida Hospital-Orlando spokesman Fred Moore.

Dalton, 53, shot in the head while on duty at the Orange County Courthouse Jan. 10 was reported in serious condition last week, improved from initially being in critical condition. Moore said this morning he did not know why Dalton has been returned to the critical list. Doctors were unavailable for comment early today.

Dalton was shot in the shooting spree in which another bailiff was killed and a corrections officer wounded.

Thomas Provenzano, 34, of Winter Park, is charged with first-degree murder in the death of William Arnold Wilkerson, 60, of Pine Hills, who was killed by a shotgun blast, and two counts of attempted first-degree murder in the incident. Provenzano, who is in the Orange County Jail with bond set at $450,000, was also wounded.

Mark Parker, 19, Winter Garden, a corrections officer, who was shot in the back by a pistol, is in stable condition at Lucerne Humana Hospital, Orlando.

Mrs. Fogle was arrested Aug. 25 and her brother-inlaw Nov. 30 after he turned himself in to Houston police. Both were charged with arson and murder.

Assistant state attorney Mark O'Mara said the decision not to prosecute Mrs. Fogle and William Fogle was based upon conflicting statements made by family members

The Seminole County Sheriff's department, the state fire marshal's office, and the county department of public safety, gave this account of the incident:

Robert Fogle was allegedly attempting to burn a vacant house he and his wife owned, west of Oviedo, to gain insurance money.

Female Firefighter Case Tests Discrimination Law

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI) - Experts say the $940,000 sex discrimination suit of former firefighter Linda Eaton may have broad implications for employers about their duty to prevent harassment of employees.

Ms. Eaton, 31, sued the city and several officials, charging the city and her co-workers harassed her while she nursed her baby at the firehouse.

Trial of her suit was to resume today at 9 a.m. in Johnson County District Court.

University of Iowa law professor Martha Chamalias said the trial may set new precedents by determining what constitutes a discriminatory environment and the employers' responsibilities for correcting that environment.

She became pregnant and came back to work after a short maternity leave, nursing her son lan while on duty. She claimed she soon became the butt of jokes and pranks.

The Iowa Civil Rights Commission in 1980 called that treatment discriminatory.

BALTIMORE (UPI) - Maryland high school students may become the first in the nation required to complete 100 hours of community service to graduate.

David Hornbeck, the state's superintendent of schools, said he will propose the community service requirement at a meeting of the state Board of Education Wednesday.

He also noted that the skills associated with community service apply in other fields and will help the students when they look for paying Jobs.

He said an experimental community serivce program in two Maryland schools showed the schools' overall attendance rates improved truancy declined and measurements of students' self-esteem improved.

Reagan Popular As Ike

NEW YORK (UPI) - The president's latest approval rating of 56 percent makes Ronald Reagan the most popular incumbent at this point in his term since Dwight Eisenhower, a Newsweek poll showed.

Reagan's rating in the poll last year was at its all-time low of 38 percent, the magazine reported.

The latest poll, conducted by the Gallup Organization, found Reagan's approval rating after three years in office has jumped 18 points to 56 percent, making him the most popular incumbent since Eisenhower.

After Reagan told him he "could stay as long as he wanted," one official said, Smith waited two days before signing a letter of resignation on Friday - the same day Reagan celebrated his third anniversary in office.

Smith, 66, becomes the sixth member of the original Reagan Cabinet to leave. The other five were: Secretary of State Alexander Haig, Transportation Sceretary Drew Lewis, Interior Secretary James Watt, Health and Human Services Secretary Richard Schweiker and Energy Secretary James Edwards.

Under his direction, the Justice Department has implemented controversial civil rights policies, tried new antitrust policies favoring business and worked toward major reforms of immigration and criminal law

Doctors Try To Save Libyan Ambassador

ROME (UPI) - Italian doctors were fighting today to save the life of Libya's ambassador to Italy, who was critically wounded in an assassination attempt claimed by a mystery Arab terrorist group.

Two dapperly-clad gunmen pumped bullets into the 43-year-old Ammar El Tagazzy in an ambush outside his home and then fled, leaving him in a pool of blood.

A bullet which lodged in his brain during the attack caused irreparable brain damage, said Dr. Benjamino Guldetti, head of the hospital's brain surgery unit.

In London, an anonymous caller telephoned the Associated Press on Sunday saying "Al Borkan" - the Volcano - was responsible for the attack. Terrorist experts on newspapers in Beirut said they never had heard the name.

Police Break Up Rally

GDANSK, Poland (UPI) - Club-wielding riot police dispersed a crowd of 3,000 singing and chanting Solidarity backers who mounted a spontaneous demonstration of support for union leader Lech Walesa.

Other supporters of the now-banned union shouted Walesa's name as bodyguards led the 40-year-old electrician away from the crush of the crowds to safety following church services

But as sections of the 3,000-strong crowd moved towards the Lenin shippard where Solidarity was born in 1980, riot police quickly blocked the street.

IN BRIEF

Police Budget Cuts Stymie Anti-Drug Fight

MIAMI (UPI) - New budget cuts in the Metro police force has drastically reduced the amount of time, aircraft and boats used to fight drug smuggling in south Florida, officials say.

The department's fiscal 1983-84 budget which became effective in October cut overtime by 25 percent for officers who operate boats and aircraft. The cuts severly reduced the amount of time police spent on drug interdiction, but were necessary because the Metro Commission granted raises to police and allowed only a slight increase in the department's budget, officials said Sunday.

regard to income. Jones said. Then the rules were changed.

First so that only those on public assistance could receive the commodities, then those on public assistance and others who could prove their income was 130 percent of the poverty level were eligible, Jones said

In 1983, Jones said, SCA was distributing food to 2,500 to 3,000 per month before the first eligibility change. He said early on a food distribution center was set up at the St. Augustine Catholic Church in Casselberry, but that center was discontinued after the eligibility change.

Food was also distributed at the SCA Pine Street office, in the Winwood Park area near Altamonte Springs and at St. John's Village.

Jones said he didn't know until today that the USDA or HRS was concerned about the butter loss.

He said appropriate documents were sent to the HRS showing the amount of food distributed and to whom it was given.

"We were told that all food commodities issuing agencies had to renew their applications under a new federal law that was passed. Spokespersons for the HRS Jacksonville office said they had to look at our facilities before they could issue more commodities, but they didn't give us a definite time." Jones said.

On SCA's continuing battle with the state Department of Community Affairs over state funding cut off to the agency last June, Jones said a telephone call was received last week that an official decision can be expected soon. He said when the official decision cutting off SCA's funds is received, an appeal will be filed for a new hearing.

Mrs. Ising said she did not give title of the house to Marsh as a gift but, "Arthur Marsh beat the plaintiff (Mrs. Ising) in order to obtain the deed to her property." according to the complaint.

Marsh, through his attorney, Robert J. Bourauro of Orlando, claims the house is worth $200,000 and was willing to settle out of court for $60,000. Marsh further testified during divorce proceedings in Decemeber, 1979 that he made upwards of $20,000 worth of improvements to the house and prior to that gave Mrs. Ising title to a Lincoln, two boats, and $5,000 to hold.

Mrs. Ising called the testimony "lies" which she said she could prove adding that she believes Marsh owes her about $8,000. Marsh could not be reached for comment. Mrs. Ising said she married Marsh in October, 1978 and divorced him in February, 1979.

upset his passage to an afterlife. Autone insists he is innocent of the 1975 gangland murder of former Tampa vice detective Richard Cloud and was convicted only because he is Italian. "I have never killed anyone," he said. "Being an Italian and Sicilian, they always put the stigma of Maffa on me. I don't know why."

Tom McCoun, Antone's attorney, said Sunday he would seek a reprieve today from U.S. District Judge George Carr at a hearing in Tampa. He said he has also made provisions to file for a stay with the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta and the Supreme Court, if necessary.

Antone, who came within a day of being executed in 1982 before a stay was granted, once said waiting for death has been the worst part of his years at the Florida State Prison in Starke.

"Being a metaphysicist, I have no fear of death. I want to get it over with, you know, and go on to the next (existence)," he said in 1981.

Antone said his biggest concern now is that dying in the 2,300-volt electric chair will jolt his "astral counterpart" from his body suddenly, instead of gradually as he believes is necessary. While on death row he has lost 30 pounds and studied metaphysics and occult literature.

If Antone is put to death as scheduled early Tuesday morning, he will be the second Florida prisoner to be executed in the past two months. Robert Sullivan was executed at the prison Nov. 30.

Working On Detente II?

President Reagan avoided the use of the word "detente" in his foreign policy address recently, but that seems to describe what he was talking about. Brought up to date to correct the mistakes that gave it a bad name, detente may yet prove to be the most workable concept for living on the same planet with the Russians.

Our policy toward the Soviet Union, said Mr. Reagan, is one of "credible deterrence, peaceful competition, and constructive cooperation." That sounds very much like the policy of detente that was advanced during the Nixon administration but was losing one of its three elements — credible deterrence — by the end of the 1970s. It is Mr. Reagan's determination to refurbish our strategic deterrent that has displeased the Russians and given our European allies the jitters. The net result, however, may well be that it makes detente appealing once again, and with a greater chance of

Mr. Reagan was speaking as much to Western Europe as to the American people, and both may need the reassurance he was providing. For our allies, he was clearing the air for the opening of the 35-nation conference on European security and disarmament in Stockholm. The president of the United States is, after all, as interested in relaxing East-West tensions as are the Europeans. This is now on the record, as Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko have their first meeting since the Soviets broke off disarmament talks.

For Americans, Reagan was obviously trying to redress the hawkish tilt that his foreign policy began to exhibit during the last year. With the announcement of his candidacy for re-election upcoming, the president needs to reaffirm that the purpose of larger U.S. defense budgets is to assure that war remains an unthinkable option for the Soviet side.

So what we saw was a U.S. president acknowledging once more that the United States can and must develop a "working relationship" with the Soviet Union even while opposing in principle virtually everything the Soviet Union stands for. That truth is what leads the superpowers to seek the kind of tension-easing relationship Richard Nixon called detente and Soviet propagandists like to call "peaceful coexistence."

Mr. Reagan did not give it a name, but his speech made clear that he is ready and willing to get U.S.-Soviet relations back on a constructive track as soon as the Russians are willing to start talking. He warned, however, that the experience of the last decade will make the Americans more skeptical of the Soviets at the negotiating table. Soviet violations of arms control agreements and treaties are not going to be ignored, he said.

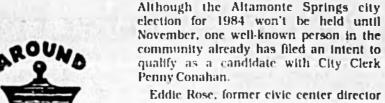

Mr. Reagan's address was among the most substantive of his presidency, and one that may have caught his domestic critics off balance with its cogent statement of goals that could become the basis of a bipartisan foreign policy. This was not the rhetoric of a cold warrior, nor was it a surrender to those who think disarmament is synonymous with peace. It was a realistic look at the profound differences that separate free peoples from the communists, and a recognition that the superpowers have no choice but to seek dialogue and conciliation even while they are locked in competition.

Cartoonists have become fond of portraying Ronald Reagan as a frontier gunslinger, trying to link a familiar movie role with the tough rhetoric he has used toward the Russians. His recent speech reminds us of something else about those old movies. The marshal only carries a six-shooter to keep the peace.

JEFFREY HART New Civil Rights Panel

By Donna Estes

You may not have paid close attention to the struggle over the composition of the Civil Rights Commission, but the Reagan administration has succeeded here in altering the terms of the civil rights discussion. In effect it declared war on the assumptions and political power of the old civil rights establishment, and it won, because the common sense of the nation is on its side.

The old civil rights establishment is in favor of racial busing, racial quotas, preferential hiring of women and minorities. Not so the new commission.

The Reagan-appointed chairman is Clarence Pendleton, a black who is a former president of the Urban League in San Diego. "There has been an active civil rights lobby favoring a special interest position." remarked Mr. Pendleton recently, "but these groups, which contend that the civil rights agenda is theirs from cradle to grave, are not the authentic spokesmen for minorities today."

There is worse news for the civil rights establishment from the new staff director of the commission. Linda Chavez, also appointed by Reagan.

Linda Chavez has announced that the commission will look into the possible adverse effects of quotas, racial busing, bilingual education and other such dogmas flowing out of the late '60s and '70s.

These policies, which have heretofore been enshrined as beyond question, are now going to be questioned.

Another Reagan appointee, California professor John H. Bunzel, a liberal Democrat, is promising a reassessment of "affirmative action." Bunzel supports compensatory education, but not quotas.

The principles that inform the majority of the re-constituted commission recommend themselves to common sense, but they are not the principles of the old civil rights establishment. They are also borne out by a mountain of research in the area of minority achievement.

The majority of the commission now holds that the goal of civil rights legislation is to provide equality of opportunity, not equality of results. It recognizes that a great many factors other than "past discrimination" may produce income disparities. It believes that federal policy should be color-blind.

I would say that this reflects the election returns of 1980, and will be confirmed by the election returns of 1984. Not at all surprisingly, the representatives of the old establishment are furious. As Phyllis McClure of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational fund has been quoted as commenting: "I expect a 180 degree switch on every major position that the old commission took on such issues as affirmative action, school desegregation and the non-discrimination obligations of federal aid recipients. I even anticipate a redefinition of what a civil rights issue is and what the legal precedents are."

And it's about time. Racial busing has destroyed urban public school systems, as in Boston, and emptied entire neighborhoods of conscientious parents.

JACK ANDERSON Politics By Assassination

WASHINGTON — I have been investigating the Latin American "death squads." which practice politics by assassination. Not only do they belong to a subterranean network of right-wing groups that cooperate across international boundaries, but they reportedly are connected to a political "front group" that retains some respectability.

This is the word of a death squad member in Honduras — a physician by day, an assassin by night — whom I've given the pseudonym El Lobo. "Our movements are all coordinated out of Mexico by our front group," the assassin told my associate Jon Lee Anderson.

El Lobo identified the group as the Latin American Anticommunist Conlederation, which is a member of the World Anticommunist League.

The league is an ultraconservative worldwide organization, founded in Taiwan in 1967. It operates in the open and holds annual conferences of its affiliated groups.

In recent years, league watchers have noted the inclusion of known neo-Nazi, white-supremacist groups in the organization. There is concern that the World Anticommunist League was taken over by fascist elements in the 1970s. El Lobo's information now gives credence to this concern.

— Its Latin affiliate, according to El Lobo, secretly bankrolls a well-known, right-wing weekly newsmagazine, Replica, based in Mexico. At the 1978 league conference in Washington, D.C., the delegation from Mexico reportedly handed out copies of Replica containing an article attacking the "Holocaust" television series as "Jewish propaganda"

— Each country's underground death squad has an unacknowledged front group to lend legitimacy to the anticommunist movement. El Lobo identified his squad's political associate as the Honduran Anticommunist Action Movement. "It takes charge of propaganda activities," he explained. "If we confirm, for example, that you are a Marxist, the movement will have posters with your photograph on them plastered on walls all over the country the next day, denouncing you as a communist traitor."

— El Lobo acknowledged that his underground death squad "receives assistance" from the Honduran armed forces. But he stressed that the aid is "unofficial, mostly training and weapons provided by sympathetic junior officers." The Honduran death squad started out as a group of right-wing graduate students at the National Autonomous University in 1979, but later expanded to include police and military men.

While his group is a mixture of civilians and military, El Lobo said that the related underground group in the industrial city of San Pedro Sula is made up entirely of police officers. "They are known simply as 'el escuadron de la muerte" (the squadron of death), and they kill common criminals." El Lobo said, "but occasionally they will do us a fayor and kill communicate we have angered."

El Lobo's revelations about international coordination and the assistance of government security forces confirms what human rights groups and investigative reporters have suspected for years. In some countries, such as Guatemala, Argentina and El Salvador, official support for the death squads has been traced to top military headquarters and even presidential palaces. In Honduras, though El Lobo's group is publicly disavowed by the military, the unofficial assistance is well known to the high command.

"We have to be careful and remain clandestine," said El Lobo, "We have enemies in this country. Our victims' relatives have formed a Committee of the Families of the Disappeared Ones."

BOONDOGGLE OF THE WEEK: Ever solicitous of defense contractors' slightest wishes, the Pentagon is allowing widespread abuse of a procedural shortcut intended to help small contractors collect their payments without long delays. And the taxpayer is being shortchanged.

"Fast pay procurements" let contractors collect for goods worth less than $25,000 by simply submitting their invoices. They don't have to prove that the goods were satisfactory — or even that they were delivered.

The predictable result was reported by the Defense Department's inspector general: "We estimated that $24 million of materiel purchased by DOD under the fast pay procedures ... was not received, and the receipt of another $103 million of materiel was uncertain."

Reality Turned Inside Out

For Americans who were politically conscious in 1949, the year George Orwell published his most famous book, the arrival of the year 1984 evokes a peculiar feeling. The book Nineteen Eighty-Four contained a grim forecast of what then seemed a distant future. The world that Orwell envisioned was a world in which there was a Ministry of Truth, the language was Newspeak, and danger was posed by the Thought Police. Most of all it was a world in which "Big Brother Is Watching You."

Much of that extraordinary book has entered into the thought and language of our time. Happily, however, the world of Nineteen Eighty-Four is not everywhere. Freedom has not disappeared to the extent that George Orwell predicted.

That's not to say his vison was flawed. The totalitarianism he described is a present danger in much of the world. And the danger of the spread of totalitarian terror and control is very real in 1984.

Consider how much of the world has been lost to communist totalitarianism since 1949: all of mainland China. South Vietnam. Afghanistan. Angola. Cuba. Nicaragua and many other nations. The Orwellian images of terror and domination are as real in Poland today as they were in 1949.

What should be of equal concern to men and women who want to remain free is the danger of a Nineteen Eighty-Four world inside the West. In this world, as in the book, reality is turned inside out. The unilateral disarmers, the spurious "peace" movement in Europe and America, and the elements hostile to all the values of the Western world represent a true Orwellian threat. Their language is Newspeak. They describe the world as a world of American warmongering whereas the United States is the principal defender of freedom. The U.S. policy of deterrence of nuclear war is depicted as aggression. The Soviet Union is given credit for a "peace" offensive while bishops condemn the deployment of the world deterrent forces. Truly, it is an Orwellian world.

Newspeak and other features of the world of Nineteen Eighty-Four have become so commonplace in the United States and other Western countries that large numbers of people are confused and vulnerable to propaganda from the Left. The statements of the "peace" groups and the friends of Nicaragua, for example, are intricate constructions of falsehood.

As William Phillips, editor of Partisan Review, said in connection with comments by two radical critics of the United States, "Every sentence contains a false assumption, a misstatement of fact, a hidden piece of ideology, or a distortion of the view of people who disagree with them." The problems for citizens who are trying to ascertain the truth are as great as there would be if there were a Ministry of Truth.

It is well to remember that totalitarian propaganda need not come solely from organs of a state.

SCIENCE WORLD

We Know Little About Digestive Diseases

By Jan Ziegler UPI Science Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans may know a lot about arthritis and cancer, but when it comes to the diseases of the digestive tract — which afflict more than 34 million people — they are ignorant and as prim as Victorians.

A Louis Harris poll found a majority of Americans do not realize digestive diseases are a major health problem. Many don't even know very much about the organs that digest their food, the survey found, and quite a few believe myths concerning digestive matters.

A majority simply won't discuss problems involving the digestive system, such as constipation, colitis and other "bathroom diseases," the study found.

"Whether it has to do with the general area of the body or not, I'm not certain," said Brent Ruben, chairman of the department of communication at Ruigers University, who is working with the board which requested the survey.

"It seems to be related a bit to the whole question of education. The more cultured and relined we are, the more uncomfortable we become talking about digestive problems. It makes it that much more difficult to educate people about digestive diseases."

A special federal commission put the problem in different words: "The digestive tract and its functions are viewed through veils of ignorance, embarrassment, taboo and inappropriate humor."

And in The Great American Stomach Book, author Maureen Mylander wrote "many people are too embarrassed to tell even their doctors about a function that is — however much they despise, deny, and disclaim it — one of the basics of life and good health."

Digestive diseases are a diverse bunch of ailments involving any of the digestive organs, including the intestines, liver, gall bladder and stomach. The ailments include diverticulosis, in which small sacs develop along the wall of the colon; hepatitis, which affects the liver; and ulcerative colitis, an inflammation which can disintegrate the lining of the colon.

The National Digestive Diseases Advisory Board, a panel of medical and behavioral experts and lay people which advises the National Institutes of Health and congress, requested the latest study as part of a nationwide educational effort.

Digestive disease organizations, both government and private, have banded together to distribute brochures, coordinate television announcements and publish a research update on the diseases, their causes and treatment, according to Suzanne Rosenthal, head of the advisory board's education subcommittee.

The telephone poll of 1.250 people found Americans "do not perceive digestive diseases as a very serious health problem," even though they are the leading cause of hospitalization and surgery in the United States and account for 25 percent of all operations.

The report said 30 percent of all cancer deaths are attributable to cancer of digestive organs.

Ninety-one percent considered cancer a very serious health problem, but only 35 percent felt the same way about digestive diseases, the poil said.

Seventy percent said they knew at least a "fair amount" about the heart, but only 37 percent knew that much about the colon, 41 percent for the liver and 45 percent for the intestines.

One exception was the stomach — a majority, or 58 percent, said they knew what the stomach was for.

More than 63 percent said they considered themselves at least somewhat knowledgeable about arthritis, but only 10 percent made that claim for Crohn's disease, a chronic inflammatory

Forty-five percent knew something about ulcers. The respondents were evenly divided on how much they know about hemorrhoids.

While 63 percent of those regularly employed "would feel very comfortable talking to their supervisor about chest pains they were having, only 20 percent would feel very comfortable discussing constipation," the study said. A similar reserve was noted about rectal bleeding and hemorrhoids.

Rawls Makes DeLand Pay For Tobacco Stain

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

Robert Rawls doesn't take any etiquette courses at Lake Mary High School, but after the spanking he laid on DeLand's John Brown Saturday night don't be surprised if he winds up in front of the classroom reading from an Emily Post manual.

It seems Brown, a hulking 290-pounder from DeLand, was chewing tobacco in Lake Mary's gym prior to Saturday's Five Star Conference Wrestling championships. He was observed by a custodian spitting on one of the school's walls.

"Brown walked in with his little hat and shades on, trying to be cool" confirmed Rawls, a 297-pounder himself. "Mr. Hartsfield (the custodian) saw him do it and he told me about it.'

Rawls, who has lost just once this season, wasn't real fond of Brown, who was undefeated anyway. "He (Brown) kept telling people how he was going to kick my you know what," said Rawls. "That made me mad."

What followed was one of the wildest unlimited matchups in conference history. These battles of the dinosaurs usually rival commercials for length. When you put 600 pounds on the mat, the first rollover usually gets the pin.

Not so with Rawls and Brown, though. The two behemoths rolled up 20 points before Rawls finally overcame an 11-9 deficit and disposed of his DeLand nemests with a reverse half-nelson at 4:48.

The victory by Rawls crowned Lake Mary's fourth individual championship and gave coach Frank Schwart's three-year-old program a runaway victory in the Five Star Conference with 1821/2 points. Seabreeze was second with 1301/2. Lyman was third with 126 and DeLand was fourth. Seminole, led by unbeaten 141-pounder Tony Brown, finished seventh with 751/2

"We predicted nine places and those nine came through." said Schwartz who bounded three feet off the round when Rawls brought down the ecstatic Ram following with a pin. "We had a couple of guys upset. but 52 points is a pretty good margin of victory.'

It was second time a Schwartz team had won the Five Star in four years. His 1979-80 Lake Howell team also won. The Rams succeed Lyman as champions. Lake Hrantley won two years ago.

Joining Rawls on the top step of the victory stand were Ivan Carbia (108), Jack Likens (115) and Ned Kolbjornsen. All are seniors expect junior Carbia. And all recorded pins. "Carbia and Likens were just awesome." said Schwartz. "They totally dominated their opponents. Likens used a Japenese Whizzer that was out of this Carbia, just 3-5 as a freshman two years ago, improved his record to 13-2 with a pin of DeLand's Dean Criche at 2:41. "Criche was beaten by a guy I beat earlier this year," said Carbia. "I just wanted to go out and get it over with. I heard he was strong so I didn't want him to muscle me."

Carbia did so with a double-leg takedown to a dump and then to a stick.

Likens added one more trophy to an overflowing case. Since his career began at Brantley four years ago, the articulate 115-pounder has taken a fourth (freshman) and two firsts (sophomore and senior) at the Five Star. Last year, the Rams weren't a member so Likens went to the Sebring Tournament and won.

The defending 3A state champ pinned DeLand's Art Gillislee in 3:20. "I knew he was really aggressive and that he liked to 'shoot' from way out," said Likens. "I was ready for that. I knew he tires badly, too, Kolbjørnsen, a strong 223-pounder, took care of Lake Brantley's Richard Schumann at 5:17 to complete the sweep of pins. "I wasn't overconfident," said Kolbjornsen who ran his record to 17-1. "I knew Schumann had improved a lot because he got to the finals.

Improvement aside, Kolbjornsen built 6-1 and 14-1 leads before nailing Schumann with just 43 seconds to go in the period. Along with four county champs from the Lake Mary and one from Seminole, Lyman came through with four champions while Lake Howell added two. Seniors Jay Hunziker and Derek Smith (see related article) contined to wrestle impressively. Hunziker, who lost his first match of the season when he wrestled up against Brown, turned in three straight pins in the two-day event. The stylish redhead used some fancy legwork to tie Steve Loyden of Seabreeze in knots in the 135-pound final.

After building a 5-0 lead and having one pin disallowed, Hunziker put the clincher on Loyden with a figure-four headlock at 3:34. "I hadn't used the figure four for two years," he said after the match. "Then I tried in two consecutive matches earlier this year and it

"You just get an armbar, then run around at about a 50-degree angle and step over and scoot the head. Then I arch my back and look at the lights. He has to arch with his shoulders and then it's over."

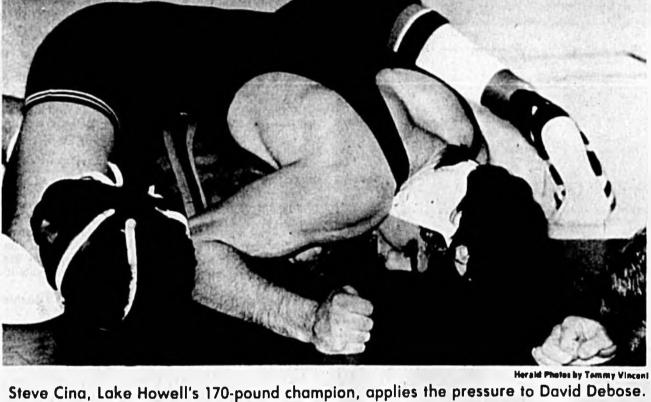

Lyman's 101-pound champ Chad Dubin, too, had an easy one. He awarmed all over Spruce Creek's Craig Stemmler for a 10-2 decision.

Don Lockwood, didn't have it as easy. The 148-pound champ upset Lake Mary's Mark Lindquist in the semifinals, then nipped Phil Garnett of Scabreeze, 6-5, Lake Howell's Steve Cina and David Collyer had relatively easy times en route to thier crowns. Cina, a defending district and region champ, squashed De-Land's Jedd Allebach in 1:34.

Collyer built an early lead and coasted to a 12-5 victory over Tommy Torrence of Seabreeze.

Seminole, meanwhile, had two seconds along with Brown's championship. Senior James Morgan stunned Lake Mary's Willie Green with a pin in the semifinals, but lost to Apopka's Keith Murray, 8-3, in the finals.

Smith Slides By Turner By Sam Cook

Brown Subdues Olson;

Seminole's Tony Brown and Lyman's Derek Smith have felt more pressure most county wrestlers this year. They've felt - and continue to feel - the pressure of being the "King."

Pretenders and contenders have tried to wrest that crown from their heads all year. But when the last battle was fought in Saturday's Five Star Conference Wrestling Tournament at Lake Mary - there they stood - still unbeaten and ranked among the top grapplers in Brown, a lightning-quick 141-pound junior, had a mere a skirmish with Lake Mary's Bob Olson, winning a convincing 9-1 decision. The victory was Brown's 17th straight without a loss.

The 158-pound Smith, meanwhile, again went to war withSeminole's Troy Turner. But in what has become the norm this winter, the cagey Greyhound senior has continued to win close contest after close contest. His experience proved too much for the Tribe's fabulous freshman as he posted a 2-1 victory. Smith is unbeaten

Brown, feels he is heading for his peak. "I had a bad cold earlier this year," he said. "Now it's starting to go away. I have more endurance. I knew that Olson was very strong, but I figured I'm wear him down and I did."

Brown, third in the Five Star last year, matched wits with Olson during a 0-0 first-period standoff before escaping 20 seconds into the second period, adding a takedown midway through and then backpoints and another takedown for a 7-0 lead. He picked up two more points with a reversal in the last period.

The Smith-Turner was a much-ballyhooed rematch of their classic showdown at the Lyman Christmas Tournament, which Smith won, 4-3, on an apparent mistake by the referee which Seminole coach Roger Beathard said cost Turner one point.

Prolific Payton, Grace Lift Raiders Over Matadors, 81-73

Like Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid were to the Old West and Laurel and Hardy were to old comedy, Jimmy Payton and Linny Grace have become a prolific pair for Seminole Community College's Payton, a sophomore guard, and Grace, a freshman swingman, have provided coach Bill Payne with stability and consistency throughout the season. It was no different Saturday night as Payton funnelled in 24 points and Grace added 12 to spark SCC to a 81-73 victory over Valencia CC's Matadors at the SCC Health Center.

"Jimmy (Payton) had another great game," SCC coach Bill Payne said of his point guard. "And Grace was really tough." SCC now stands at 14-8 overall and 3-1 in the conference. The Raiders will be back in action tonight at Florida Junior College before returning home Wednesday for a key conference clash against powerful Lake City. Valencia fell to

Payton and Grace combined Saturday night to offset the impressive performance of Valencia's Cleve Williams who tossed in a game-high 30 points, including 16 of 19 from the free throw line and hauled down a game-high 17 rebounds. Allen, Raiders Pulverize Redskins

TAMPA (UPI) - Behind a recordsetting rushing performance by Marcus Allen and a star-studded defense that shut down the most prolific offense in league history, the Los Angeles Raiders humiliated the Washington Redskins 38-9 Sunday in the most lopsided Super Bowl in the 18-game series.

Allen, who followed a disappointing regular season by rushing for 121 and 154 yards in the Raiders' two decisive playoff victories, shredded the league's most grudging run defense for a Super Bowl record 191 yards on 20 carries. Including a record 74-yard touchdown run on the final play of the third period. He was a unanimous choice as the game's Most Valuable Player.

The Redskins, hoping for a second straight NFL title, entered the game with an 11-game winning streak and 31 victories in their last 34 games. The Washington offense set a league record with 541 points in the regular season and the plus 43 mark in turnover six tackles, a sack and a fumble differential dwarfed the rest of the NFL.

So much for numbers.

Super Bowl

After each team made a first down on the opening possessions, the Raiders grabbed a 7.0 advantage on the first of two standout plays by unheralded performers that led to 14 points. Thirdstring tight end Derrick Jensen, the special teams captain for three years. blocked a punt by Washington's Jeff Hayes at the Redskins' 30 and recovered in the end zone for a touchdown.

After Cliff Branch's TD catch. off a slant pattern that froze right cornerback Anthony Washington, the Redskins got untracked for a 73-yard drive to the 7-yard line. But on 3rd-and-3, Joe Theismann's pass intended for Joe Washington was broken up by linebacker Rod Martin, the AFC Defensive Player of the Year who also had recovery. Washington settled for Mark Moscley's 24-yard field goal and it appeared the Raiders would take a 14-3 advantage into intermission.

"We were all in a zone except for Jack Squirek - he had Joe Washington man-to-man," said Martin of a crushing blow administed by the Raiders' reserve linebacker in the final seconds of the first half. "Theismann didn't anticipate a guy being out there on that play."

Theismann's intended screen pass to Washington in the left flat was picked off by Squirek, who went in for the score from five yards out to put the Raiders ahead 21-3 with seven seconds remaining in the half.

"I didn't see the linebacker covering Joe," said Theismann, who completed just 16-of-35 passes and suffered two interceptions and six sacks. "This is probably the first time since Joe Gibbs has been here that anyone has contained this offense the way the Raiders did today. But the thing you have to consider also was our inability to run the football ... we're basically a running

The Redskins' formula for success calls for fullback John Riggins to wear down a defense running behind the "Hogs" of the offensive line, featuring Pro Bowlers in center Jeff Bostic, guard Russ Grimm and tackle Joe Jacoby. But Riggins, who had a post-season record of six straight 100-yard rushing games. averaged just 2.5 yards on his 26 carries as the Raiders' front seven dominated the line of scrimmage.

"The pressure was on us and we weren't gonna let anyone push us around," said 15 year NFL veteran Ted Hendricks, another Raiders' All-Pro Jinebacker.

After Theismann found Charlie Brown for 23 yards to trigger a 70-yard march with the second-half kickoff, Riggins carried four straight times from the 13 and plunged over from a yard out to pull the Redskins within 21-9. Reserve tight end Don Hasselbeck then blocked Moseley's extra point attempt and Los Angeles responded immediately with a scoring drive of its own.

Davis Claims Champion Raiders Are Best Team Ever

TAMPA (UPI) - Every man is entitled to his opinion regardless of whether he's right or wrong, and that being the case, you are cordially invited to go argue with Al Davis as long as you like over his claim that his world champion Los Angeles Raiders may be the greatest football team

That's covering a whole lot of territory. but if anyone can possibly do it, the Raiders' owner can, and did, shortly after they decimated the Washington Redskins 38-9 Sunday in Super Bowl XVIII before 72,920, many of whom huddled together for warmth in the stiff wind gusts. Virtually all of them stuck it out out until the very end to watch what deteriorated into the most one-sided contest in Super Bowl history.

Say what you like about Al Davis, he knows a little bit about football and about football teams. He isn't ordinarily given over to superlatives, either, so he certainly surprised some people, including me, by how far he went in his evaluation of his present Raiders, the third team of his to win a Super Bowl title.

"I think this is one of the greatest teams of all time." said Davis, as newsmen tried to pin him in a corner of the Raiders' dressing room which was jammed-packed with wall-to-wall humanity after they had annihilated the favored Redskins. "I'm not sure it's not the best of all time. It has speed and size. It has quickness. It has power and drive. It has everything. This team dominates. This could be the greatest team ever. I don't know who to compare it to."

You have to understand this was only a few minutes after Marcus Allen had won himself a fancy new automobile for winding up MVP by scoring two touchdowns, one of which came on an electrifying 74-yard sprint, the longest in Super Bowl history, and Jim Plunkett. the Ralders quarterback, had exploited the Redskins defenses more than sufficiently to puncture any notions of Washington's invincibility. Could it be Davis was getting a little carried away. maybe even a little emotional?

"Who me?" he snapped, indignantly. "Me? Are you kidding? I just think this is a great team. Quite frankly, I respect the Redskins, but we knew we were good going in. I think we played the third and fourth quarter under wraps. This team has gone through more harassment than any other team in history."

"By whom?" one newsman asked.
"By the NFL," Davis answered right back. "Don't think all the litigation and everything else we went through didn't have an affect on the team. Who knows. maybe & even helped us." Beyond the shadow of any question, the Raiders were far superior to the Redskins in Tampa Stadium Sunday. Vobody who saw the game possibly could argue that. The Raiders did everything they had to do, their defense bottling up John Riggins. limiting him to 64 yards.

and making life miserable for quarterback Joe Theismann all day long. To be sure, the Raiders have an outstanding team. No one can possibly argue with Davis about that. When he asks whom he can compare them to. I have a couple of suggestions for him. How about to those 1940 Chicago Bears who beat the Redskins 73-0? And what about some of those Green Bay Packer learns Vince Lombardi had? I saw all those teams and think I'd have to vote for them over the present Raiders, By no means is that taking anything away from them. Between them, Davis and Tom Flores have molded a splendid team. But the 6est ever? Now wall a minute. Al.

I asked Sonny Jurgensen how he felt about it. Jurgensen was one of the best quarterbacks ever to play the game with the Redskins for II years and the Philadelphia Eagles for seven more and now does play-by-play for radio station WMAL in Washington. He seemed to feel the same way I do.

"I can't put 'em there yet." he said, regarding the Raiders possibly being the best team ever. "They're a helluva a team, a great team, but I doubt if they're the greatest. They've won the Super Bowl three times. Didn't Pittsburgh win it four times? I still think they have to prove it over a period of time."

George Starke, the Redskins' veteran offensive tackle, is no Johnny-comelately, either. He's an 11-year man in the league and he merely laughed at what Davis had to say about the Raiders.

"That's nonsense," he said. "Who knows who's the best? Who keeps records of that type? Look, they're a good bunch of boys. Tomorrow, we might beat them. Today they were the best."

Redskins coach doe Gibbs avoided answering the question directly but had this to say of the Raiders:

"They played great in every department. They beat us soundly. I don't know how they could"ve played much better."

Pete Cronan, captain of the Redskins' special teams, merely smiled at Davis' appraisal of the Raiders.

"They win a game and say they're the best of all time?" he asked. "For those who called us a dynasty. I guess you'd have to assume they are the best of all time. But look, you have to give 'em credit. For now, they've got bragging rights, and they're entitled to say whatever they like."

Raiders Shut Down Skins' Passing Game

TAMPA (UPI) - Washington quarterback Joe Theismann summed up the Redskins' 38-9 drubbing by the Los Angeles Raiders in Super Bowl XVIII in two

"We just did not play good football and the Raiders played great football," a dejected Theismann said Sunday. "They beat us in every facet of the game.

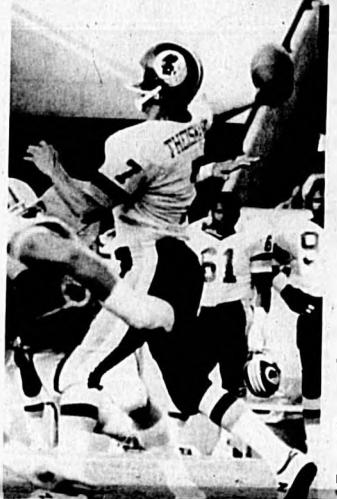

He added, "I think they proved themselves worthy of being world champions. Their cornerback shut down our wide passing game very well and I didn't feel we couldn't get by them. They're great athletes".

Super Bowl

One of the keys to the Raiders win was Jack Squirek's interception and 5-yard return for a touchdown just seven seconds before halftime. Theismann, whose pass was intended for Joe Washington, said he never saw Squirek until the Raider was in the endzone.

"It's called 'Rocket Screen' and if I have my way, it won't be in the book next year," said Theismann, who completed 16-of-35 passes for 193 yards Sunday, "It's not a bad play. It was terrible execution. I take full responsibility. I didn't see the linebacker.

We expected zone coverage because we had three wide receivers to the other side. It's sort of a fake of a 'Hail Mary' play. But they played Joe man-to-man and Skins' QB Joe Theismann unloads a pass before had a guy right there that I didn't see."

the Raider rush gets to him.

The return bout, though, wasn't as dramatic as the WRESTLING MISC. first. Both wrestled defensively and when Smith gets the lead, he's almost impossible to beat.

"Both seemed a little shy," said Beathard. "Both seemed timid about 'shooting.' Troy came close to two takedowns in the first period, but they fell out of bounds."

On one of the near takedowns, Turner used a duck under to throw Smith and the Lyman senior was shaken up for about a minute. He came back like a champ, however, breaking the 0-0 stalemate with a reversal midway through the third period. Christmas Treasures 'Poison' To Others

DEAR ABBY: Bless your heart for repeating that column on what to give and what not to give older people for Christmas. This year instead of getting perfumes. dusting powder and a lot of uscless jewelry and trinkets for the house, I received tins of tuna, chicken, ham, packets of instant soup mixes, herbal tea, assorted cheeses and fancy cookles for guests. What practical gifts!

Please run that column every year,

LOVE YOU IN BENTONVILLE. ARK. DEAR LOVE: Thanks, but not everybody in Arkansas "loves" me. Witness this letter from Fayetteville:

DEAR ABBY: I wish to high heaven you would stop putting out that list of gift suggestions in which you recommend food for elderly people.

Ever since you put that out, we have gotten great heaps of food for Christmas. and we simply loathe it! Not only do we not need it, we can't eat half of it.

Last year we got enough cheese to keep all the mice in Christendom happy. I don't like cheese, and my husband can't tolerate dairy products of any kind. We were given a whole smoked ham, which we gave away because neither of us can eat smoked meat, and what is more, we don't care for it. We also got candy and fruitcakes - unwelcome gifts because they make us bulge in the

What do you think? GUILTY CONSCIENCE DEAR GUILTY: Scare up $300, give it to your boss and tell him the truth.

Panel To Review Treatment Of White Males

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Civil Rights Commission Mary Frances Berry on Face the Nation, said the Chairman Clarence Pendleton says his panel will commission will consider possible discrimination investigate the possibility that white men are being against white males resulting from quotas and other discriminated against in the workplace.

But Pendleton said Sunday the commission will not consider the effects of federal budget cuts on minorities. saying: "This is not a commission to deal with the problems of the poor. ... It's not a commission dealing with minorities.

"Nowhere in the statutes does it say this is a commission for minorities. It says it is a commission to study the civil rights problems of people irrespective of pigmentation, gender, fiscal condition or religious persuasion." he said.

Pendleton was interviewed on the CBS News show Face the Nation and on Cable News Network's Newsmaker - Sunday.

He told interviewers on Newsmaker-Sunday that the Civil Rights Commision has for too long strayed into the area of social policy.

"What we intend to do is to appraise the civil rights laws and leave the social policy to other organizations and to Congress," he said.

He said the commission will not study administration budget cuts and their impact on the poor - "as long as those (cost-cutting) programs are handled in a nondiscriminatory manner. We want to look at that."

Pendleton, appearing with rival commission member said. "What we're trying to do is bring it together."

efforts to hire and promote women and minorities.

What we believe on the commission is that quotas impermissibly infringe upon the 14th Amendment equal-protection rights of all Americans," he said.

He said massive recruiting and training programs to increase the pool of qualified applicants are the answer to providing equality of opportunity.

But Ms. Berry said even the Supreme Court has upheld quotas as a means of correcting inequities resulting from a pattern of discrimination. She decried conservative claims that affirmative action hiring programs cause divisiveness. 'This country has been divided over the issue of race for over 370 years, from the history of slavery, Jim Crow segregation, ascribing people to positions because they are women, for example," she said.

The Civil Rights Act, she said, was not passed until 1964 and there was much to do to atone for past racism

'We've had 20 years to work on this. It's painful. But now what we see is an effort to say, 'Well, things were fine in the good old days. What you're doing is dividing the country.' Well, the country was divided before," she
