Boulevard closing?

Sanford tables discussion of closure

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Development of Sanford's waterfront area was an oft-discussed issue during Monday's city commission work session and commission meeting. Several items, however, were tabled for future consideration. The Commission did approve a request from the Waterfront Master Plan Steering Committee for a $3,000 contract with Anderson & Associates. Anderson has been working on development of the lakefront area, and will continue in plan designing and discussions with the committee. The $15,562 contract for the University of Florida College of Architecture studio project, however, was tabled. Although the commission

"The boulevard is really in bad shape, and we all know something has to be done to it soon. So let's look into this."

had previously voted to contract with the university, Director of Planning and Development Jay Marder explained that the university was undergoing a slight change of management in that department, and would make some modifications to the contract originally presented to the city. "I can't see voting on a contract which we haven't seen yet, no matter how minor the changes may be," observed Commissioner Whitey Eckstein. The commission tabled the contract approval until the new contract is received, which Marder predicted would be within a matter of weeks. One item which was rapidly tabled with very little discussion, was consideration of the closure of Seminole Boulevard between Sanford Avenue and San Juan Avenue, along Fort Mellon Park. Marder had submitted a number of suggestions on possible improvements which could be made if the roadway were closed, but also included a packet of responses from various city department heads, which almost unanimously suggested the street be left open. See Boulevard, Page 5A

SANFORD — The Midway Community Redevelopment Task Force reported on a seven-month-long study yesterday. The Seminole County Commissioners were told of extensive plans to revitalize the community through government support. "The Commission was very receptive to the recommendations the task force gave," commented Deputy County Manager Kevin Grace. "They agreed to go along with most of the proposals." The task force actually presented its findings in early February in written form. Yesterday's work session discussion broadened some of the concepts in their findings. SANFORD — Teachers are concerned about students who are consistently absent from class. It has an effect not only on those students' ability to keep up with the work, but also the teachers' ability to teach the other students. Gay Parker, president of the Seminole Education Association (SEA) and a business education teacher at Lake Howell High School, told the school board yesterday that student attendance is one of the biggest concerns of the teachers in the union. "The teachers are concerned," she said. "Student attendance has a great impact on teachers' ability to do their jobs." Floyd Blake said the new church sanctuary will have an expandable seating capacity up to 850. The present church seats about 350 people comfortably. FLORIDA BRIEFS

Dial Star FHP for help

TALLAHASSEE — Motorists can dial Star FHP on a cellular phone to report accidents, suspected drunken drivers, stranded motorists or suspicious incidents to the nearest Florida Highway Patrol station.

Florida's 10 cellular telephone companies are providing the Star FHP service anywhere in the state cellular service is available. Fred Dickinson, director of the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles, told Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet Tuesday.

A Star FHP call is free of charge. The program replaces two others — Star DUI and Star Alert — which were originally developed by Mothers Against Drunk Drivers.

N.Y. Yankees training site a go

TALLAHASSEE — Hillsborough County's plans for a $17.2 million New York Yankees spring training site won't be threatened by a state land swap, Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet said.

The county wants to build the facility on a 31-acre site near Tampa Stadium by spring of 1996.

The state wants the county to also take an adjacent 34 acres, home to an obsolete Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services office building, a juvenile detention facility and an 84-bed work-release program operated by the Department of Corrections.

As its end of the bargain, the county is willing to try to find other sites for those facilities, County Administrator Fred Karl told the Cabinet Tuesday.

But the county needs to commit to the Yankees deal soon, Karl said. "If we don't designate that site irrevocably by April 15, the deal with the Yankees is gone," Karl said.

With neighborhood resistance and environmental standards to deal with, finding office and prison sites will take longer, he said.

Chiles and the Cabinet approved a motion by Treasurer Tom Gallagher to draw up a state lease that still calls for the land swap, but imposes a penalty other than forfeiture of the Yankees site if the swap falls through.

Officials ride the rails

PENSACOLA — Rail and government officials boarded a special train for a whistlestop tour to promote rail-crossing safety in Florida, where 21 people died in train-motor vehicle collisions last year.

The scheduled three-day trip of the Operation Lifesaver Awareness Express from Pensacola to Miami included a stop Tuesday in Tallahassee so Gov. Lawton Chiles and Florida Transportation Secretary Ben Watts could take a short ride in the locomotive.

"In Florida we had two of the most significant accidents" last year, said Deputy Federal Railroad Administrator Donald M. Itzkoff.

Six motorists were killed in the fiery collision of an Amtrak train and gasoline tanker in Fort Lauderdale. Sixty rail passengers were injured when another Amtrak train hit a truck near Kissimmee.

The 21 deaths in Florida last year represented a 200 percent increase over 1992 when only seven died. Injuries in 1993 totaled 70, a 109 percent rise. Florida had 114 rail crossing accidents in 1993.

Dolphin bite nets $20,000 in damages

MIAMI — A man who was bitten by an Ocean World dolphin was awarded $20,000 by a jury that said he was 96 percent responsible for the incident.

Ernest Coralluzzo, 52, of New York City, testified that his arms were resting on a chain-link fence during a visit in 1990 when another visitor touched the dolphin's dorsal fin and it leaped up and bit him on the arm.

Coralluzzo attorney, Michael Kaufman, had argued that the injury was worth $375,000 for Coralluzzo and $75,000 for his wife, along with punitive damages of $1.5 million.

Defense lawyers said the bite was superficial. The jury deliberated two hours Tuesday before awarding Coralluzzo $15,000 in compensatory damages and $5,000 in punitive damages.

Suit filed to oust Limbaugh

BRADENTON — Saying the state shouldn't be sponsoring Rush Limbaugh's politics, a man has gone to court trying to get the conservative radio host squeezed out as a Florida orange juice pitchman.

Peter Mansfield, a 53-year-old Holmes Beach man, filed a circuit court lawsuit Monday asking for an injunction stopping the state Department of Citrus from spending money to advertise on Limbaugh's radio show.

"The state has no right whatsoever being involved in something politically active or racially biased," said Mansfield.

The lawsuit says Limbaugh's program advocates "political partisanship, racial bigotry, religious issues, cultural bigotry ... and is a violation of the rightful laws of the state."

Holocaust hurricane

Decision to run ad cost university $2 million, good will

By WILL LESTER
Associated Press Writer

CORAL GABLES — University of Miami Provost Luis Glazer gave an anguished look at the angry crowd of students and tried to explain why administrators allowed the school newspaper to run an ad questioning the Holocaust.

"I'm Jewish," he told them. "My grandmother died in Auschwitz. I know how you're feeling. This was not about the Holocaust. The Holocaust is not a debatable issue."

The Miami Hurricane's publication of an ad questioning whether the Holocaust Museum really proved there was genocide in the gas chambers scraped open a wound that never quite heals.

It may have cost the school a $2 million donation, and it cost considerable good will in the Jewish community.

The ad has run in about 25 student newspapers on college campuses around the country and a comparable number have rejected it.

Those who spoke at the campus rally were so angry that some were quivering with rage as they spoke.

"I'm very proud of the students of this campus," said Rabbi Herschel Becker. "They will not tolerate racism or bigotry."

"Today I feel ashamed to be a part of the University of Miami," said Anu Singh, a student from Trinidad.

Glazer tried to explain the decision to allow the ad was not a defense of the position, merely a decision to let the newspaper editors use their own judgment.

"It was a matter of delegating to the editors certain responsibilities," he said. "We may need to reexamine the policy under which we operate. This was at the edge of what is permissible."

Earlier, University President Edward "Tod" Foote explained it was a decision the newspaper editors needed to make and that at a university, "if we err, we should err on the side of freedom of thought."

The ad that caused the uproar was placed by California writer Bradley R. Smith, 64, and ran under the headline: "A Revisionist Challenge to the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum." It doesn't say the Holocaust never happened but contends the museum in Washington, D.C., offers no proof of the genocide of the gas chambers. Smith said his ad is intended to encourage debate about the Holocaust.

Julio Fernandez, business manager of The Hurricane, said Tuesday that "a responsible newspaper lets the readers know the different points of view. Now they know there are people like Mr. Smith out there."

Woman bitten by fire ants in hospital

By Associated Press

WEST PALM BEACH — Two weeks after waking up in a hospital bed to find herself covered with biting fire ants, Marion Bernhardt is still covered in welts and wakes up some nights screaming from the memory.

An official at Wellington Regional Medical Center, where the ant infestation occurred, acknowledged Tuesday that Mrs. Bernhardt was bitten, but noted that fire ants are abundant in subtropical South Florida.

"Obviously, her care was our immediate concern, and she was treated immediately for the ants," said Cheryl Mendelsohn, director of business development and marketing at the 8-year-old hospital in the exclusive Wellington community southwest of West Palm Beach.

"When you live in South Florida, you face problems with ants at homes and businesses. We all live on anthills," Ms. Mendelsohn said.

Mrs. Bernhardt, 77, said she woke up in intensive care at Wellington the night after she'd had intestinal surgery. She said she felt something biting her.

"So they uncovered me and looked, and here I'm full of ants — I mean, full of them, over the abdomen ... up and down the legs, across the stomach, on the side," she said. "I nearly went crazy."

Mrs. Bernhardt's surgeon at the hospital, Dr. Clyde Meckstroth, said the bites weren't life-threatening.

Fire ants arrived in the southern United States after World War II and have spread to 11 states, from Florida to Texas. They "sting" — that is, bite — an estimated 3 million to 5 million Americans each year, author Richard Conniff wrote in a recent issue of Smithsonian magazine.

Fire ant bites can leave large red welts on the skin that may last for weeks.

Budget calls for raises as high as 6 percent for state workers

By ADAM YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The governor and members of Florida's Cabinet would receive six-figure salaries under raises in next year's proposed state budget, but they could turn them down if they wanted.

Gov. Lawton Chiles and most Cabinet members said Tuesday they hadn't decided whether to accept it.

"I'm sure the rank and file need it a lot more than we do," said Secretary of State Jim Smith, who is running for governor. "I'd look at it. I've never asked for one or turned one down."

Chiles and six Cabinet members would see their pay exceed $100,000 a year when they receive the same 4 percent pay raise as state workers Nov. 1.

The largest raises, 6 percent, will be going to the state's seven Supreme Court justices, and other state judges, attorneys and public defenders.

The governor's annual pay would increase $3,914 from $97,850 to $101,764 under the spending plan for fiscal 1994-95, which takes effect July 1.

Cabinet officers would see their pay rise $3,874 from $96,861 to $100,735.

They include Smith, Attorney General Bob Butterworth, Agriculture Commissioner Bob Crawford, Insurance Commissioner and Treasurer Tom Gallagher, Education Commissioner Doug Jamerson and Comptroller Gerald Lewis.

Butterworth said he didn't know how he would handle the raise.

"I think my family's decision will be different than mine," he said. "We'll keep the car for another year."

Lt. Gov. Buddy MacKay doesn't quite crack into six figures. He would see his salary increase $3,749 from $93,730 to $97,479.

Student shot at school

By Associated Press

HOMESTEAD — A 14-year-old boy involved in a school shooting when his gun went off apparently by accident, wounding a classmate, faces an attempted murder charge, police said.

The shooting occurred Tuesday at Homestead Middle School in a storage room for drums for the school band, said Assistant Principal Chris Guthrie-Lane. "The gun accidentally discharged and hit the other student in the arm," she said.

The bullet went through 12-year-old Jaime Escalante's arm and hit him in the head. Escalante was taken by helicopter to Miami Children's Hospital where he was in critical but stable condition.

"It could have been very serious. He just got lucky. The bullet did go through his skull," said hospital spokeswoman Ava Osie.

Police initially charged the 14-year-old boy with possessing and discharging a weapon on school grounds. The charge was later upgraded to attempted murder after police conferred with the state attorney's office and decided the circumstances warranted a more serious charge, said Homestead Maj. Al Rolle.

Police, though, believe the shooting was unintentional. "He was upset about it. He was remorseful," said Rolle, adding the seriousness of the crime called for the stiffer charge.

The 14-year-old, whose name was not released because he is a juvenile, said he got the gun either Monday or Tuesday while riding a Metro bus from his home in Florida City to school, but police are skeptical.

"Our main concern right now is finding out where the gun came from," Rolle said.

Guthrie-Lane said the two boys are friends. She said school officials were not certain what kind of disciplinary measures would be taken against the 14-year-old.

Classes resumed after the shooting, and there was no immediate call for counseling, she said. The school has 1,028 students in grade 6 through 8.

Boulevard bad PR to visitors

Suggestions regarding the possible closure of Seminole Boulevard along the Sanford lakefront have been tabled for the time being. The boulevard however, should not be overlooked.

There may be a number of reasons why it would be beneficial to have the lakefront drive closed from Sanford Avenue to Mellonville. There are probably more reasons to keep it open.

The commission is holding off on any additional consideration until more plans are developed by the Waterfront Master Plan Steering Committee. Both Anderson and Associates and the University of Florida Architectural studies will be making suggestions on future development of the area.

Until then however, Seminole Boulevard is still well-traveled.

Out-of-town visitors drive along the lakefront enjoying the view. Local residents use it to by-pass the downtown area en route to work or another destination. Fishermen and boat enthusiasts travel the boulevard in pursuit of their hobbies.

What all of these people have in common is the bumping they must suffer in driving on the roadway. Take a look at the motorists. Many are driving pickups, vans, or pulling trailers. Depending on the shock absorbers and springs in their vehicles, they have to travel slowly to avoid bouncing up and down in their seats and even hurling the outboard motors off their boats.

It must be assumed officials who should be concerned about repaving or smoothing out Seminole Boulevard must either drive very small vehicles, or don't travel that route at all.

Anyone who has had much experience in navigating Seminole Boulevard knows its poor condition. Some, to avoid well-known potholes and bumps, may swerve off to the side, which could cause an accident if extreme care is not exercised.

Seminole Boulevard from French Avenue to Mellonville is in terrible condition. It's to the point where visitors should receive an apology for having to drive on it to see the lakefront area.

The repaving of Seminole Boulevard should be among the leading considerations for project financing when the city begins fiscal 1994/95 budget hearings on June 28.

LETTER

Upcoming election

Dear Lake Mary Voters:

Although we too will vote for Sheila Sawyer, our reasons are different than E.A. Carlson. Mrs. Sawyer has been very active in community problems and their solutions in Lake Mary.

We do not vote for the gender of a candidate but for one who is the most qualified.

In the many years that Mrs. Sawyer has lived here, she has faithfully attended commission meetings and sits on the board of several community organizations.

We are interested in qualified candidates and are voting for her because she is the most qualified.

Markets are short-term morons

If you own stocks, and so many of us do at least through pension plans, the last few weeks have been yucky. A "correction" has occurred. The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell by 385 points from Feb. 1 to April 4. That's a 9 percent drop. It is being said that if the slide continues it could signal an end to the long bull market.

Which, if it happens, means you will be poorer. So: Is it a good idea to sell stocks now, lest this correction turn into a massacre?

I cannot tell you what the stock market will do in the next month, or even the next year. I can't even get you a 10,000 percent annual return on cattle futures.) After careful research I have determined that, in the short term, markets are morons. After all, this market has gone floppo in large part because the economy is allegedly so robust. (Allegedly threatening inflation, allegedly driving up interest rates, allegedly sucking money from stocks to bonds, harming both.) Simple: The bad news is the good news is bad news.

But moving out to the intermediate term, I can easily tell you where I believe the stock market is headed. Up. Way up. Why? Because most everything that has to do with the creation of real economic value for existing companies is headed in the right direction.

What do companies need to earn profits? (Long term, earnings set share prices.) Companies need products and producers. They need a way of doing business in a stable environment that honors profits. And they need customers. In that cosmic context, we face a remarkably positive situation.

The basket of new products overflowing: telecommunications, pharmaceuticals, bio-technology, new alloys, better, faster, cheaper computers, and smarter bombs only begin a long list. In most of the hot fields, America is in the lead. The idea that the next century will be a Japanese or European one looks goofier than ever.

America will have plenty of domestic producers and consumers. Our birth rate is somewhat higher than that of our major competitors, and we take in about a million immigrants per year. In the decade of the '90s we will grow by 25 million people. In the first decade of the next century we will grow by another 24 million. European and Japanese populations are in a no-growth mode, on the way to demographic diminishment.

The most positive news comes from the "emerging markets." As regular readers of this column know, I am dubious about U.N. projections that say we're headed for a world with 10 billion to 12 billion people. But, at the least, we're going to 7.5 billion to 8 billion within a few decades.

That's still plenty: 2 billion additional customers.

Mere population growth wouldn't do us much good commercially if the new people were living in rural barter economies. Socialist economies aren't much better. But what's coming on line is neither. Suddenly, market economies, with real and growing buying power, are flourishing in strange places. Like India and China. Like Indonesia, Brazil and Mexico. Like Eastern Europe. And, buccaneer-style, in Russia. Even Africa is stirring. Along with more free markets we are also seeing more free politics in many places.

It is being said that if the slide continues it could signal an end to the long bull market.

ELLEN GOODMAN

Death is the human condition

BOSTON — The obituary page doesn't say how the old people died. It merely lists the causes like a coroner's report or perhaps a police blotter. Each man or woman is duly, officially, assigned a disease.

The 91-year-old man, a ski enthusiast in his youth, died of a heart ailment. The 88-year-old man, a machine-tool executive, died of pneumonia. The closest anyone comes to dying of old age on the obituary page is the 97-year-old who died "after a long illness."

But the obits don't tell us how these people died. In pain or at peace. Surrounded by loved ones or alone. With a team of hi-techicians trying to drag them back to life or with a process that we would call natural.

Even the photographs that accompany death announcements conspire to keep the reality of dying away from us. Once in a lifetime, literally, a man like essayist and biologist Dr. Lewis Thomas has his picture taken at death's door and a stark, translucent, face illustrates his end. For the most part, however, the portraits of the dead are brim full of life.

These pages show what we know, that Americans have simply removed dying from the purview of the living. Our doctors have turned it into a disease, and we have handed the problem over to their science. Eighty percent of us now die in hospitals and for perhaps the first time in human history it is possible to arrive at the end of a long life having never seen another person die.

But finally, our aversion to the subject of dying is fading. Exactly 10 years ago, then-Gov. Richard Lamm of Colorado created a furor by saying, in ill-chosen words, that the terminally ill elderly had "a duty to die" rather than hang on to machine-tethered immortality. We have to be careful, he tried to explain, that "we don't impose life on people who, in fact, are suffering beyond the ability for us to help."

That radical sentiment is almost common today. In the intervening years we've seen a political movement for "death with dignity." We've seen a textbook published on how to commit suicide. Jack Kevoorkian and his supplicants have forced us to pay attention.

Just weeks ago, Bill and Hillary Clinton made death the subject of their black humor about health care reform. Playing Harry and Louise, they gasped at the realization that under the Clinton health plan "eventually we are all going to die."

And now a book starkly entitled, "How We Die" — a wholly unlikely candidate for best sellerdom — has risen to the top tier of the lists. Those who reach for Sherwin Nuland's book are not seeking some false comfort in his descriptions of the horsemen of death — from cancer to heart disease — and the precise ways they carry away life. They are attracted rather, by his humanity and eloquence in the service of honesty.

Mining no words, he writes of our desire for a swift death during sleep or a "perfect lapse into agony-free unconscious." But, he concludes, "The great majority of people do not leave life in a way they would choose."

Americans who consult with this doctor find no promises of extending the length of years through yogurt and vitamins. They find rather an argument about the naturalness and inevitability of aging and dying.

All this is striking proof of how the public conversation is shifting. We've gone from whispering the word cancer to talking openly about How We Die.

We now share the widespread fear of prolonged hi-tech dying. Death now often comes with decisions to be made by us or for us. As Dr. Nuland writes, it is "better to know what dying is like and better to make choices that are most likely to avert the worst of it."

Indeed, his most passionate words are a personal statement: "I will not die later than I should simply for the senseless reason that a highly skilled technological physician does not understand who I am."

Finally, we are coming to our senses, especially the repressed sense that dying is the inevitable last chapter. When we banish dying to hospitals and to science, we forget what Dr. Nuland writes: that "relevant event taking place at the end of our life is our death, not the attempts to prevent it."

Death is the human condition. It's not medicine's failure to cure the disease of a 102-year-old.

Cigarette ingredients remain top secret

WASHINGTON — Public health officials and members of Congress have accomplished something that the CIA seems unable to handle: Keeping secret information out of enemy hands. In this case, the enemy is the American consumer, and the secret is a recipe for America's most deadly product — cigarettes.

The cloak-and-dagger secrecy surrounding the official list of ingredients in cigarettes rivals anything the CIA has in its vaults. The 700-item list is not available to the public, and has been seen by only a handful of people outside the tobacco industry. If a member of Congress wants access to the three-ring black binder containing the list, the security precautions can take months to wade through. To release it publicly would constitute a crime, and likely land the perpetrator in prison. Even more incredible, this conspiracy of silence is the direct result of a law designed to increase consumer awareness.

"This is all a big camouflage by an industry that loves to say it's for free choice, and then works its head off to try to keep the public from getting information that would allow it to make a more informed choice," says Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., a leader in the escalating congressional war against tobacco. "I think the arguments in this law about trade secrets is bogus." Wyden is introducing legislation that would make the contents of the list public information.

The origins of the list stem from a decade-old law — the Comprehensive Smoking Education Act of 1984 — that was written in part to "provide a new strategy for making Americans more aware of any adverse health effects of smoking." As part of the law, many members of Congress wanted to compel the cigarette companies to make their ingredients public — the way makers of food products have been required to do for years.

The cigarette companies balked at making this information available to the general public, however, so a deal was struck: The six largest cigarette manufacturers would submit a list of their ingredients each year to the Washington, D.C., law firm of Covington and Burling, which represents the tobacco industry. The firm would then combine the six lists into one "master list" which would be made available to the Office of Smoking and Health, a division of the Department of Health and Human Services. Copies would also be made available to other federal public health agencies, and by request to members of Congress who have jurisdiction over tobacco-related issues.

Even for members of Congress, getting access to the list can be a harrowing ordeal. One House office that has the list spent nearly three months trying to get a copy. It began with a simple letter of request to HHS. By law, the government must then inform the lawyers for the tobacco companies anytime someone requests the list.

The tobacco company lawyers then apparently contacted their friends on Capitol Hill, for the inquiring office was soon contacted by tobacco-friendly lawmakers asking about their intentions. "The linkage in this process is set up to make sure the industry has all the knowledge and the consumer has very little," a source involved in the process told our associates Andrew Conte and Jan Moller.

Eventually, this member of Congress was asked by HHS officials to sign a "non-disclosure statement" before being given the list. Although the member refused to sign, the list was eventually handed over.

In this case, the enemy is the American consumer.

additional seating when the new church is built, there will be one service. The new sanctuary will be built on the present parking lot. A new parking lot is under construction and will be completed before construction on the building begins.

"We are completing one of the parking lots now," Blake explained, "because it (sanctuary) is going to be built on one of our existing parking lots." Ground was broken for the project in February. Although the parking lot construction is about a week behind schedule, Blake said delay dates are built into the project and the completion target date for the church building is still Easter or May next year.

Fund raising continues for the project. An in-church fund-raiser has pushed the building fund to $500,000.

Plans call for the existing sanctuary to remain as it is except for some renovation. The chapel may be used for activities such as weddings. In addition, Blake said some church members have discussed organizing a Christian Theater to present dramas or plays every three months in the chapel.

General contractor for the project is Collage in Winter Park.

"We're not going to be tearing any of the existing buildings down," Blake explained. "We have the old sanctuary and a memorial building at Park (Ave.)

and Sixth (Street) and then on the corner of Park and Fifth and our new building is going in there."

"One of the things they wanted to do was to keep the history of the church," he continued, "they are fixing sort of like a walkway that will connect all three of the buildings together."

"If we can continue to raise the money like we're doing," Blake said, "we're looking to break ground for the Family Life Center right behind it." The center will feature a gymnasium, kitchen and activity center for seniors and youths. In June, the church is starting a pre-school/kindergarten which is open to the public.

were the startup of a new library outreach program, paving of certain roads and maintenance of others, and a housing demonstration project.

Grace commented, "The Commission agreed to cover the cost of the Community Center Insurance, at $1,800, the financing of one staff member for the Library Outreach Program, and an amount of badly needed road improvement."

Grace said the commission went along with the staff recommendation for $450,000 in paving and drainage improvements.

Statistics show 9.8 miles of roadways in Midway, of which only 4.5 miles are paved, with 5.3 unpaved. The long term goal of the task force is to have all of the streets paved.

The county cost for an additional pilot road project is $10,000. The work however, will also include a survey of the location of existing septic tanks and other needs which are expected to take at least three months to complete.

The committee was formed in August of last year, to develop a plan, both physical and service, for the total community. The task force has a wide range of representatives including Midway residents and local city and county officials, persons of the legal profession, and service organizations.

According to the letter of submission in the report, Seminole County Commissioner and task force Chairman Daryl McLain said, "The principle recommendation is to have the community become formally organized to carry out many of the report recommendations. Community empowerment, through a strong community organization, is paramount in maintaining and enhancing the livability of the community."

He continued, "A strong community organization is also needed to take our preliminary recommendations and develop Community Master Plan which would detail physical and service improvements to be accomplished over the next five years."

Midway is an unincorporated neighborhood of 2,200 residents east of Sanford. It was first platted in 1910, and is considered one of the county's oldest neighborhoods. The task force report also identifies it as one of the poorest.

"It lacks the basic infrastructure many of us take for granted: sanitary sewer, proper drainage, paved roads, and until recently, street lights and a park," the report says.

Some progress has been made.

Since 1987, the area has received over $2 million in grant money to build a community center and park, street lighting, and make drainage improvements as well as prepare engineering plans for street, sidewalk and water system improvements.

In addition, Seminole County has built a new elementary school building in the Midway area.

"One additional item was brought up," Grace commented. "We had been discussing lighting for the Midway basketball field, and hoped to put it into next year's budget. The commission however, said the need was now, so they decided to go ahead with the lighting this year and not wait."

Grace said other basketball courts in Bookertown and Sunland Park, and possibly some additional areas, will also be given serious consideration for light installation in this upcoming budget planning.

Attendance

dance sheets to show attendance patterns over a random five-week period. No student names were used and grades were not factored in.

"We just wanted to see if there were any trends," she explained. On the average day, she said, 15 percent of the students in an average class are absent.

"It's very difficult to give a test on any given day, for example, without having to do a make up," she said. "There are rarely days where there are no students absent."

Another problem teachers face is the definition of "absent" according to state mandates.

If a student arrives in class just before the dismissal bell moves have proved effective, but there continue to be many unexcused absences.

The Parent Teacher Association (PTA) in the district has petitioned the school board to adopt a county wide attendance policy.

The board, concerned about what such a move might mean to school-based management, which allows schools to make decisions based on what they feel is best for their student population.

The issue has not been taken up by the board yet.

Still, Parker said, the teachers are concerned.

"Well, if you're concerned," board chairman Barbara Kuhn said, "we're concerned."

Principal

Barbara Kirby, who has been principal at Crooms since it first opened its doors about a decade ago, has been reassigned to the top position at Tuskawilla Middle School in Oviedo.

Coleman, a long-time educator in Seminole County, is a graduate of Seminole High School. She taught mathematics in the schools here and has served as public information officer for the district. She was the Florida Teacher of the Year when she was in the classroom.

In recent years, she has served as an assistant principal of Geneva Elementary School and Oviedo High School.

Two weeks ago she was assigned to the task of getting a high school program off the ground at Crooms.

Kirby and the district staff had determined that the students who were being helped by the specialized and individualized instruction at Crooms were being lost in the system when they went back to their zoned high school.

It was her hope that the district would allow them to prepare the students, who are most often disinterested or unmotivated to learn, for the "real world."

Coleman will be charged with implementing that idea into reality.

The 1994-95 school year will see a ninth grade program at Crooms. In each of the succeeding three years another grade level will be added.

Boulevard

The basis of their opinions mostly concerned traffic and parking which would be eliminated from Seminole Boulevard if the artery were closed, and cause possible problems on E. First Street.

Included with information supplied to the Commission prior to Monday's meeting however, were three separate letters, each urging the commission to delay any decision on the matter.

Faye Fulton, program manager for Sanford Main Street suggested, "A postponement on this decision is requested until studies and a feasibility analysis have been conducted."

Rod Leyer, president of the Sanford Historical Downtown Waterfront Association, SHDWA, wrote, "There is no doubt that this measure is necessary in order to develop the lakefront in an effort to improve Sanford, but it is respectfully requested that you vote in favor of holding the project in abeyance until the lakefront study is completed."

Jami Meeks, president of the Sanford Historic Trust suggested the matter be tabled until the University of Florida project is completed for the Waterfront Steering Committee.

"The university will have several models completed by August or September of this year," she wrote, "that depict several approaches of developing the waterfront, including the question of whether it is beneficial to close this street or not."

She added, "It would be a shame to make a decision now if, after many months of research, it is determined that the opposite should have happened."

"This is what I consider good dialogue," observed Commissioner A.A. McClanahan. "This isn't a controversy. It's people expressing their opinions on this matter, and it's good to hear from them."

The commission did not discuss the matter further during the work session. The proposal was not scheduled for the regular meeting.

Mayor Bettye Smith however, suggested the city look into an overlay of the pavement from Sanford Avenue to French Avenue, which has been suggested to the city by the street and road committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

"The boulevard is really in bad shape," said Mayor Bettye Smith, "and we all know something has to be done to it soon. So let's look into this."

Study of vitamin's benefits finds surprising hint of harm

By DANIEL G. HANEY
AP Science Writer

BOSTON — Scientists who launched a major study to prove that a form of vitamin A prevents cancer were amazed when their findings suggested just the opposite.

After 10 years of study, it turns out that beta carotene might actually cause cancer.

Beta carotene is the vegetable source of vitamin A. Dozens of studies have suggested that people who get lots of it lower their risk of cancer. Beta carotene and other so-called antioxidants are widely touted as natural cancer fighters.

So scientists felt confident when they launched a $43 million study on smokers that they would find in the end that beta carotene pills helped them ward off lung cancer.

Instead, to their complete amazement, they found that people who got the beta carotene were 18 percent more likely to have lung cancer than those who did not take the vitamin.

The study was so large, involving 29,133 men, that there was just one chance in 100 that the finding was a statistical fluke. Still, some scientists, including the researchers themselves, said this might indeed be the explanation.

"We are not convinced there was definitely a harmful effect," said Dr. Demetrius Albanes of the National Cancer Institute, a principal researcher. "There is a suggestion of it. We definitely have to look at it more."

Some experts — including those at the Food and Drug Administration, which has required vitamin marketers to tone down their health claims — say the work shows the pitfalls of making assumptions based on skimpy evidence.

"It underscores the need to have safety data before assuming something is safe, and there just was not much data out there prior to this," said the FDA's Dr. Beth Yetley.

The evidence in favor of beta carotene came from large population surveys of people's eating habits. But until now, there had been no carefully conducted experiment in a Western country to see what really happens when people begin using it in large doses.

"The message to the public is: Eat a good balanced diet, be pleased that scientists are working on these complex cancer prevention strategies, but be forewarned that there are no simple answers and there is no guarantee of safety when you take capsules into your body," said Dr. Gilbert Omenn, dean of public health at the University of Washington.

The study was conducted in Finland in conjunction with that country's National Public Health Institute. The results are being published in Thursday's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

Smokers were chosen because they are already at high risk of lung cancer, and beta carotene seemed especially promising as a way to prevent this disease.

The volunteers were randomly assigned to take 20 milligrams of vitamin E or dummy capsules every day for five to eight years.

During the study, 876 cases of lung cancer were diagnosed. There were 474 cases among men getting beta carotene, compared with 402 in those who did not, an 18 percent difference. There were 433 cases in men getting vitamin E vs. 443 in those who did not. This small reduction was not statistically meaningful.

"It's not just a surprising result. It's completely unexpected," said Dr. Charles Hennekens, who is conducting a similar study at Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston.

Beta carotene is especially common in deep yellow, orange and dark green vegetables and fruits, such as carrots, broccoli and yams. Typically Americans consume two or three milligrams of this nutrient daily, or one-tenth of that consumed in the study.

Among other findings: —Vitamin E users had a 34 percent reduction in prostate cancer. No previous studies have hinted at such a possible benefit.

—Those using vitamin E were also somewhat less likely to have strokes resulting from clot clots in the brain but more likely to have strokes involving bleeding in the head.

—Overall, the death rate among those getting vitamin E was the same as in those who did not. However, it was 8 percent higher in the beta carotene users.

Teamsters strike cuts off food supplies

By Associated Press

ANCHORAGE — Supermarkets in Alaska scrambled to keep the shelves stocked after the Teamsters' nationwide trucking strike cut off the flow of merchandise by ship from the West Coast.

Because of the week-old strike, Safeway Stores Inc. is paying almost twice as much to move merchandise by truck and by air as it would for ocean shipping. Richard Near, Alaska district manager, said Tuesday.

Safeway filled 37 trucks with goods in Seattle on Thursday and put them on the rugged, two-lane Alaska Highway to Anchorage.

Teamsters in Alaska are not part of the strike by about 70,000 drivers, dock workers and mechanics. But longshoremen have been honoring Teamster picket lines at three West Coast ports used by Alaska shippers, including Tacoma, Wash., the main port, and the goods are stuck in port.

Near said Safeway customers haven't seen any food shortages, but "it's been something of a headache and scramble backstage."

Gov. Walter J. Hickel and Sen. Frank Murkowski, R-Alaska, asked the Teamsters to let Sea-Land Freight Service Inc., the major ocean freight link between Alaska and the Lower 48 states, load ships.

"We're stressing how dependent the state economy is on ocean transport," said Jim McKenna, Alaska general manager for Sea-Land. "There really is no other realistic way to ship goods up here."

But Teamsters President Ron Carey suggested the politicians contact the trucking companies involved in the dispute.

"We take no pleasure in a strike that causes economic disruption for other businesses and the average citizen," Carey said. "But this is a fight for the long-term interests of all working Americans."

The Teamsters went on strike against 22 trucking companies April 6 over a push to use more part-time workers and more trains. Since then, two trucking companies have reached interim agreements, and a third went out of business.

It is the Teamsters' first nationwide strike against the trucking industry since 1979.

SANFORD — Experienced scorekeepers are needed by the Sanford Officiating Service for the upcoming spring softball seasons. Scorekeepers are paid $5 per game. Interested parties should call (407) 322-9026.

'Hounds shoot by Seabreeze

ORMOND BEACH — Robin Rhein shot a 2-over-par 38 Tuesday afternoon to lead the Lyman Greyhounds to a 190-208 girls' golf dual meet win over Daytona Beach-Seabreeze at the Halifax Golf Club.

Megan Green carded a 41 for the Greyhounds (8-1) Michelle Keefe came in with a 47 while Christine Keller shot a 64.

Lyman's next match will be Thursday afternoon, when the Greyhounds will entertain Lake Brantley at Rolling Hills Country Club.

Memphis rips O-Cubs

ORLANDO — Hugh Walker hit a three-run homer in a six-run third inning to lead the Memphis Chickasaws to a 6-1 victory over the Orlando Cubs on Tuesday.

Memphis held the 6-0 lead until the seventh when the Cubs' Brent Brown singled and later scored on a single by Pedro Valdes.

Memphis starter Brian Harrison (1-1) earned the win. Derek Wallace (0-1) took the loss for the Cubs.

AROUND THE STATE

Astros pound Marlins

MIAMI — Andujar Cedeno homered for the third consecutive game and Luis Gonzalez hit a three-run homer to help the Houston Astros spoil Florida's home opener with a 7-2 victory Tuesday.

Cedeno, the No. 8 hitter in the Astros' lineup, also singled and doubled in four at-bats. He leads the National League with a .538 average. The 24-year-old shortstop, who began the season with a career average of .246, also homered in three consecutive games last September.

Scott Servais and Cedeno hit back-to-back homers in the second inning against Ryan Bowen (0-2).

Quebec trips Panthers

MIAMI — Quebec's Scott Young scored two goals as the Nordiques dealt a serious blow to Florida's playoff hopes with a 5-2 victory Tuesday night.

The loss put the first-year Panthers at the mercy of in-state rival Tampa Bay, which must beat the New York Islanders Wednesday night for Florida to stay in the playoff race.

The Islanders (35-35-12) hold a one-point advantage for the eighth and final Eastern conference postseason spot. Florida (32-34-17) and New York meet Thursday night, but the game could be meaningless if the Islanders beat or tie Tampa Bay.

Kosar to join Dolphins?

MIAMI — Bernie Kosar, who has strong South Florida ties, may be close to a deal to join the Miami Dolphins as a backup quarterback.

Kosar joined Miami quarterback Dan Marino on Tuesday for the Florida Marlins' home opener against the Houston Astros.

Last week, Kosar visited the Dolphins "to pay a social call." Dolphins spokesman Harvey Greene confirmed late Tuesday. He could not say whether any contract talks were held at the time.

"We have talked to Kosar, but we haven't reached any agreement at this point," Greene said. "That doesn't mean that we're not interested in Bernie and vice versa, but we haven't solidified anything yet. That's something that's ongoing."

Swain, Bradley headline SAC Frosh-Soph meet

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — Seminole's Derrick Swain did what he does best while Lake Mary's Amie Bradley did a little of everything Tuesday night at the Seminole Athletic Conference Freshman-Sophomore Track Meet at Seminole High School.

Swain was the meet's only triple winner, sweeping the 100-meter (10.9 seconds), 200-meter (22.8) and 400-meter (52.0) dashes to lead Seminole to the boys' team title.

Bradley earned high-point honors among the girls by placing in the top three of five events. She won the high jump (4 feet, 8 inches); placed second in the long jump (16-4), 100-meter dash (12.8), and 200-meter dash (27.7); and was third in the triple jump (32.0) to pace the team-champion Rams.

Lashia Williams was the only double winner for the Lake Mary girls as she finished first in the discus (91-4 3/4) and shot put (32-9).

The second-place Seminole girls were led by event winners Shawna Montgomery (long jump, 16-6), Tonnelle Hersey (100-meter high hurdles, 15.9), Melissa Holden (300-meter low hurdles, 40.4), and the 4 x 100-meter relay of Chastity James, Holden, LaShonna Lowery, and Wymieka Davis (52.5).

Winsome Clark, who led Lake Howell to the championship in the Deltona Invitational last Saturday, powered the Silver Hawks to a third-place finish Tuesday by winning both the triple jump (33-2 1/2) and 400-meter dash (1:02.4) and finishing third in the 100-meter dash (12.8).

She also joined with Stacey Poe, Rachel Raffler, and Missy Bedio to win the 4 x 400-meter relay in 4:24.5.

The fourth-place Lyman Greyhounds collected four victories as Javonte Green won both 100-meter (12.6) and 200-meter (27.0) dashes. Joy Kaminski was first in Clark notched her individual victories in the long jump (14 feet, 7 1/2 inches), triple jump (30-9 1/2) and 400-meter dash (1 minute, 2.2 seconds). She later joined with Missy Bedio, Erin Gerber, and Rachel Raffler to win the 4 x 400 in 4:24.9.

Al-Di Nguyn placed in three events, coming in third in the 300-meter low hurdles (51.8) fourth in the 100-meter high hurdles (17.9), and sixth in the triple jump (29-7).

The 4 x 100-meter relay of Castello, Fernandez, Simanton, and Stacey Poe was fifth in 53.7.

Defense lifts Rams

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

LAKE MARY — Even in a game that featured 28 runs, 17 hits, 29 walks and 10 errors, it was six excellent defensive plays that saved the Lake Mary Rams, who rallied from a 10-2 deficit to defeat the Mainland Buccaneers, 15-13, Tuesday in a 5A-District 4 girls' softball game at the Lake Mary Sports Complex.

The biggest play came in the top of the seventh inning when, with two runs in and the bases loaded with two out, Mainland's Lester hit a grounder that seemed destined for right field and a tie game.

But Lake Mary's Lindy Longstaff tagged down the ball and fired to Angie Snow at second base to nip the runner and end the game.

The Rams appeared to be out of the game when the Buccaneers sent 13 batters to the plate in the third inning and scored seven runs to take a 10-2 lead. But Lake Mary came back with four runs in the third, two in the fourth, six in the fifth and one in the sixth.

The schedule maker nearly doomed the Rams. "With three games on the schedule this week we were trying to save (Monteal) Carmadese," said Lake Mary coach Jeanie Fisher, who stayed with starting pitcher Snow even though she walked 11 in just over two innings. "But we really needed to win this game because we're trying to get a good seed for

Bishop Moore gets best of Greyhounds

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

ORLANDO — You could make a case that the Lyman Greyhounds outpitched and outhit the Bishop Moore Hornets in their baseball game Tuesday afternoon. The problem is, the Hornets outscored the Greyhounds 3-1.

Lyman's Mark Thiems and Kyle Hayde combined on a three-hitter while the Greyhounds collected six hits and five walks against Bishop Moore's Jeremy Moore.

But all three of the Hornets' hits — including a leadoff home run by Jason Cunningham — came in the first inning, when they took a 2-0 lead. Moore scattered

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Chris Downer doubled in the winning run as the Rinker Materials Dodgers rallied in sixth inning to edge the Freddie Howard Pirates 12-11 in Sanford Recreation Little Major Baseball League play Tuesday night.

Hot to control your triglyceride levels

DEAR DR. GOTT: My triglyceride level was 917. I'm taking Lopid to bring my fat level down, and recently read in a book that certain vitamins would help. I took beta carotene, vitamins C and E, niacin, Lecithin, Selenium and oat bran tablets. In 3-1/2 weeks my triglycerides dropped to 448. Is it really the impact of the Lopid or did the vitamins contribute to the drop? Are there other vitamins that might help further reduce my level?

To give you more information of vitamins, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Fats 1: Vitamins." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10166. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR READER: Fats in the blood are composed of two major components: cholesterol and triglycerides. The former, which should be below 200 milligrams per deciliter, is clearly associated with heart and vascular disorders. The latter, which should not exceed 150 mg/dl, is less clearly a cause of cardiovascular disease -- but probably is a factor.

Your triglyceride level is very high. Therefore, your doctor is correct in prescribing the fat-lowering drug Lopid. The medicine lowers both cholesterol and triglyceride levels. I suspect that the prescription medication is the main reason for the reduction in your triglycerides. Nonetheless, the additional non-prescription vitamins and minerals could certainly be helping.

However, you should remember that no over-the-counter compound will be as effective as a drug such as Lopid. Therefore, I suggest that you work with your physician to develop a program of diet, vitamins and medicine which will achieve your goal of bringing your fats down to normal. The doctor can advise you about vitamin therapy, but I am not optimistic that an emphasis on vitamins will appreciably resolve your problem, because no studies have shown that vitamins effectively lower blood

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

The robot believes that this is the best of all possible worlds. The scientist fears that it is. A variation on the old joke about the optimist and the pessimist.

When you are playing bridge, your analysis should, as a rule, be like the robot's: cold and logical, relentlessly working toward finding the right bid or play. But occasionally you must be flexible in your thinking. You must be as imaginative as the scientist, refusing to follow the textbook's rigid rules.

On lead against three no-trump, you have K-Q-J-10-9 in a suit. You lead the king, right? Well, most of the time you will, and usually you will be right. But not always.

When South opened with a strong no-trump, West decided not to overcall. Perhaps you agree; perhaps you don't. When North raised straight to game, West was delighted he had passed. The spade king appeared on the table with almost indecent haste. However, equally quickly South won with the ace, tested both minors and claimed 11 tricks: one spade, five diamonds and five clubs.

"You've got the ace and king of hearts, partner?" asked East rhetorically. "We can take the first five heart tricks."

"But look at my spade suit," replied West.

"It's true," conceded East. "that it looks tempting. However, once you've dislodged declarer's ace, you need only one entry, not two. How can it cost to start with a top heart? If the suit looks unpromising, you can switch at trick two to the spade king. Here, though, I drop the jack under your lead and you know we can run the suit."

Case closed.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol

YOUR BIRTHDAY
April 14, 1994

In the year ahead you might be required to carry a heavier load than that to which you've become accustomed. On the plus side the rewards for work well done will also be greater than you previously received.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Restrictive conditions could be the byproducts of your own negative thinking today. Your mode of operation will be determined by your attitude for either good or ill. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Being short of funds today shouldn't diminish your array of activities from which to choose. In fact, that which could provide you with the greatest pleasure might be free.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If an associate who seldom gives you proper recognition pulls you into the limelight today, be on guard. The move might try to mask a mistake he/she made.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be mindful of situations that could cause you problems today, but don't let your keen imagination overwhelm you by negative things that may never happen.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try to make it a point today not to buy things you may never use. If your need isn't urgent and immediate, resist the inclination to spend now. Stores won't run out of the merchandise.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A friend who usually takes it upon him/herself to think for others might try to make a critical decision for you today. It's best you make your own decisions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Every once in awhile you have a tendency to view problems as mountains when, in reality, they're merely molehills. There's a chance you might use your magnifying glass again today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today in social involvements with friends, don't take yourself or the activity too seriously. If you do, it could spoil the fun for you, as well as for the other participants.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Success could be denied you today if you and your mate are both striving for different objectives. Neither is likely to achieve his/her intentions and each might blame the other.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The time you waste procrastinating will be reduced from your productive hours tomorrow and you may not be able to accomplish what you could have easily done today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's best not to volunteer to manage the resources of others today, since you might have a very difficult time taking care of your own.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't be too insistent upon having your own way today, because you might discover the ideas of companions work out better for you than those you conceive yourself.

Stir in whipped topping with wire whisk until smooth. Refrigerate 10 minutes or until mixture will mound. Stir in pineapple, oranges, marshmallows and coconut. Spoon into 6-cup mold.

Refrigerate 3 hours or until firm. Unmold. Garnish with additional mandarin orange segments and fresh mint leaves, if desired.

Husband's bear hugs with female employee irks wife

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago, I began working with my husband at our place of business, and it became obvious to me that a female employee was upset about my being there.

A few days later, she walked over to my husband and said, "I haven't had my hug from you today." My husband then gave her a bear hug, complete with grunts and growls.

The daily hug scene went on for a few weeks, then I finally told my husband I didn't care for this daily hug business, and he replied, "Oh, I was just doing it to tease you." Abby, he's always been a hugger, but not to that extent.

Well, the next thing I noticed this woman kept putting her hands on him — rubbing his shoulders, etc. Then she touched his thigh in a way that I felt was just too intimate. After she left the room, I told my husband that I couldn't understand why he didn't realize she was coming on to him. He laughed it off and accused me of imagining things, and insisted they are just "close friends."

I feel very threatened by this and can't get him to take it seriously. What should I do? I feel like I'm...

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

PLAYING SECOND FIDDLE

DEAR PLAYING SECOND FIDDLE:

Tell him that displays of physical affection are inappropriate at a place of business and so are bear hugs accompanied by sound effects. Tell him that you feel threatened by this and want to schedule some sessions with a marriage counselor. If he agrees, you will know that he respects your feelings. If he refuses to go, go without him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband started working for his father recently, which has taken a lot of his time away from me and our three kids. He usually works six days (sometimes seven) a week, eight to 10 hours a day.

He also thinks he shouldn't have to call me when he decides to stay at his mom's for the night, and if I call him, he thinks I'm checking up on him. (Not true, I trust him.)

He has canceled plans with me and taken his mother in my place. Once, he asked his mom to go to a concert with him. He said he didn't ask me because he knew I wouldn't like it.

I would like your opinion about a husband who treats his wife this way.

SECOND CHOICE

DEAR SECOND CHOICE: It is thoughtful and generous for a man to be so considerate of his mother, but she should not replace his wife. (Where's Papa?)

Family counseling (here we go again!) is essential in your marriage. Your husband needs to realize that he is being unfair to you.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Perry warns Serbs against shelling; peace talks can resume

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary William Perry said today he expects warring Bosnian Serbs and Muslims to return to the bargaining table soon, but warned that NATO forces "very likely" will strike again if the Serbs renew shelling of the besieged town of Gorazde.

Perry's warning to the Serbs comes as congressional leaders are giving President Clinton backing for air attacks such as those conducted by U.S. fighter planes operating under NATO control last Sunday and Monday. Since Monday's attack, U.N. officials have reported relative calm in Gorazde.

"We have to wait a few days to see what the Serb's next action will be," Perry said today on ABC. "If they start the shelling again, it is very likely the United Nations will call for more air strikes and NATO will deliver those air strikes."

However, Perry said, "my hope, my expectation is that after a pause for a few days — which seems to be going on right now — the Serbs and the Bosnians will come back to the negotiating table. ... That is our objective."

President Clinton also expressed optimism that the attacks will get the Serbs back to the negotiations.

"Every time we have been firm ... In the end it's been a winner for the peace process," Clinton said Tuesday. "And I think it will be here."

Democratic and Republican leaders met with Clinton in the Cabinet Room on to review his legislative agenda and discuss the Serb attacks against Gorazde. Afterward, the lawmakers said no voice was raised against the bombing by U.S. planes as part of a NATO operation.

"We've now drawn a line in the sand, and for a lot of reasons we have an obligation to stick together and to make that work," House Minority Whip Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., said.

House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash., said Congress probably would pass a resolution expressing strong support for Clinton.

Study finds early years a time of peril for many children

By JENNIFER DIXON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The first three years of life are a dangerous time for millions of American children, their chances for healthy development jeopardized by a lack of medical care, poverty, violence and disintegrating families.

According to a three-year study released Tuesday by the Carnegie Corp., a New York philanthropy, as many as half the nation's 12 million infants and toddlers confront at least one risk factor that could harm their future.

"So this is a high-stakes game we are playing with our children, and hence with the future of our nation," said David A. Hamburg, Carnegie president.

The report is the work of a task force of experts from business, education, public health and government. Until his nomination as secretary of education, Richard W. Riley was the organization's chairman.

First lady Hillary Rodham

Clinton, a long-time children's advocate, called the report an "appalling statistical portrait of so many of our children."

Speaking late Tuesday to a Carnegie conference, Mrs. Clinton said she hoped the study would "serve as a blueprint for our institutions in adult society about what our obligations are, and what our challenges are, and how best we can meet them, when it comes to securing the futures of our very youngest children."

At an earlier news conference, Hamburg said: "What could be more important than a decent start in life? All the rest depends on this foundation."

"If a poor start leaves an enduring legacy of impairment, then high costs follow," he said. "They may show up in various systems: health, education, justice. We call them by many names: disease, disability, ignorance, incompetence, hatred, violence. By whatever name, these outcomes involve severe economic and social penalties for the entire society."

The first three years of life, the report said, lay the foundation for all that follows. Ideally, this learning time is spent with adults who offer nurturing love, protection, guidance, stimulation and support.

Instead, infants and toddlers are society's most neglected age group. One in four lives in poverty.

"The risks are clearer than ever before: An adverse environment can compromise a young child's brain function and overall development, placing him or her at greater risk of developing a variety of cognitive, behavioral and physical difficulties," the report said. "In some cases these effects may be irreversible."

According to the report, changes in the American economy and family, combined with the lack of affordable health and child care and the crumbling of other family supports, make it difficult for parents to provide the essential requirements for their children's healthy development.

Washington comes to Sanford

Reginald McGill (left), an area director in Rep. Corrine Brown's office, was in town earlier this week to talk to voters in Brown's district about their concerns. Sanford City Commissioner Bob Thomas, who is also a voter in her district, had some concerns of his own that he took to McGill. A representative from Brown's office is in Sanford the first Tuesday of each month from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Sanford City Hall to speak with the public.
