Hubert H. Humphrey Happy In His Job

By William Theis

pushing 54, pinched his waist-

"I like my job -- and I'm learning. That means really getting to know about our great power and all the problems involved in the world's trouble spots. It means indepth knowledge of what I as "assistant president." He perhaps knew somewhat superficially before."

The former Senate Democratic whip will have been in office as President Johnson's understudy four months on

To date as vice president he has traveled more that 30,-000 miles, delivered 60 formal and dozens of informal speeches and visited 18 states

But by sticking largely to dark suits and ties, he has and Puerto Rico.

The pace is not too much faster than that which he knew during his 16 years in the Senate. The difference is in the scope and intensity of his assignments.

Biggest Challenge What has been his biggest challenge?

"Civil rights - carrying out the provisions of the Civil Rights Act of 1964," he said. President Johnson made Humphrey the co-ordinator of both the federal civil rights and anti-poverty programs even before the Minnesotan took office.

Officially, he presides as chairman of the President's Committee on Equal Opportunity in Employment and of the Space Council. He sits in fice. There were presents for with the National Security Council and cabinet.

Humphrey, who captained the 1964 civil rights legislative drive, has had less to do this year with preparation of the pending voting rights bill. More of his attention has been devoted to pushing jobs quit." for Negroes and working on the anti-poverty and education bills which carry automatic benefits for such people. Meets With Chiefs

The day I interviewed him, the vice president got to lunch in an otherwise deserted Senate dining room at 2:15 p.m. He already had spent almost two hours with the Joint Chiefs of Staff, been briefed by a Central Intelligence Agency officer who daily Exploratory rides to work with him for that purpose, attended aWhite House Rose Garden ceremony, cy official and the family of Bartlow Martin has held "exan Indiana Army officer killed ploratory" talks with rebel in South Viet Nam. Considers Self "Helper" He earlier had made it clear that he regards himself as a "helper to the president" not says there is and should only be one President. Humphrey's legislative work so far has concentrated on the aid to education bill the recent $700 million emergency defense appropriation, the Appalachia measure, extension of the Arms Control Act and foreign aid.

He still has his old bounce. taken on a more formal appearance. His attire on this day was a dark blue suit, white shirt and dark bluestriped tie.

Meeting new people, delights Humphrey. "I like people," he said with emphasis. Personal Tribute His stop-and-chat habit imperils his schedule at times. But the high point of this day clearly had been his personal tribute to Mrs. Eugene R. Fowler, of Terre Haute, Ind., and her two small children. Her husband, an Army captain, died April 27 after stepping on a Viet Cong land mine at Phoue Binh Thanah. Humphrey greeted the family in his historic formal of-

Stephen, 5, and Genie, 9, and the vice president's sympathetic attention. "That man gave his life," he said. "If the vice president doesn't have time for people like that, he just ought to

Despite all this, Humphrey believes he is able to spend more time with his wife, Muriel, than he did as senator.

Mrs. Humphrey has a secretary now to help her, and their four children are grown. The Humphrey staff that previously had to devote most of its attention to serving constituents now can give more direct help to its boss.

Dade county's two senators, Robert Haverfield and George Hollahan, of Miami, sponsors of the special Jai-Alai bill, said if their measure was to be vetoed, summer racing should go down the drain,

The contend that jai-alai op-eration for Broward or Dade, to operate only in the summer, would not be an extension of racing or parimutuel betting because it would make use of an existing but unused racing permit, which would be transferred either from Seminole or St. Johns County.

Haverfield presided at the meeting of the miscellaneous committee in the absence of Chairman Elmer Friday, Fort Myers, who is ill.

He put on the subcommittee to study the jai-alai and summer horse racing bills himself and Sens. Dewey Johnson, Quincy; Robert Wil-liams, Graceville; L. P. Gibson, Perry, and A. J. Ryan,

If they survive the subcommittee and win approval of the full committee, they also must be studied by the finance and taxation committee before reaching the floor for

Nobody spoke against either bill in committee. Several spoke for the summer horse racing bill, and before shipcommittee adopted several amendments offered by sponsor Harry Stratton, of Callahan, to make it more palatable to the dog tracks' interests which had feared loss of business through competition with early evening dog races.

The changes limit the special 90-day summer season to 30 days for each of the South Florida tracks between June 1 and Nov. 1 and limit the operation daily to the hours of noon to 6 p.m.

Biggest argument for the bill as far as legislators are concerned is that it would

The Senate reacted immediately, putting the bulky bill on Fri. May 14, '65—Page 7

The May 14, '65—Page 7

To the calls "Flor" day to include it any the calls "Flor" day the balance will still be available for regular primary roads not in the bond program.

He also noted that the interstate highway program expires in 1972 and the state will have the funds now going to match federal money for these highways to use for state primary construction and maintenance. If the interstate program is continued by Congress beyond 1972, he said, it will not require as much money as it does now.

"We have tried to write into the bill complete and aboulute protection for the legislature and the people," Burns added, including listing the projects to be constructed so that a new governor or a future legislature cannot change it. requiring additional legislative authority to issue bonds beyoud the $300 million top and a requirement for open, competitive sale of the bonds.

He stressed the safety benefits to be realized from fourlaning so many highways, explaining that more than 65 per cent of the highway deaths and injuries occur on two-lane roads.

It also will be a blessing to the state economy, he said, by building four-lane highways into cities and towns bypassed by the big interstate highways and which might wither away if not brought back into the main stream of tourist traffic. Senator Tapper said his bill to the down for primary roads all revenue collected from motor vehicle users, with the exception of auto licenses earmarked for school house bonds, would make another estimated $47.8 million (M) available for roads in the next bleenium. It would include all sales tax now received from sale, repair, transfer and rental as well as parts, accessories and products used in operation of vehicles.

Tapper made his bill effec tive July 1, 1967, saying it would be too much of a shock to state financing to deflect this much money from general revenue right away. "I am soufident that in 1967

there will se a complete overhaul of the present state tax structure and taxes will be increased, he said. Only opposition to the road bond program in the house roads committee came from Rep. Wilbur Boyd of Manates who termed it "deficit financing." Reps. J. P. Spratt of Headry and

Raiph Poston of Dade, speaking for the bill, said borrowing for capital construction with a guaranteed source for repayment was not deficit fin-

Sonny Banks Funeral Set For Sunday

The body of heavyweight boxer Lucian (Sonny) Banks will be flown today to Detroit, the city where he was lured by chance 5% to a career in the ring and death at the age of 24.

"We talked by telephone with his father in Mississippi League Bowlers and we decided to hold the funeral in Detroit because he knew more people and had more friends there." his manager, Ted Ewald, said.

"They told me there would Monday." he added.

The main components of the plot are football and international intrigue. Old King Fawz loves his oldest son, who in turn loves football. When Goldfarb crashes in Fawzia. the wheels begin to spin in Faws' head when he learns that Goldfarh is a famous football player. The shrewd old king uses all his powers of guile and deception in the arena of world politics to coerce the U.S. to send an situations to showense the American college football team to Fawzia to play the who is among the top ten com-Fawz U. team.

DEAR GOT: Ask the girl. If she accepts, give her an opportunity to select the ring with you. But be absolutely sure she is the girl with whom you want to spend the rest of your life. More men have been stuck with girls than with rings.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very stubborn daughter-inlaw. She has a 13-monthold baby who still walks around sucking a bottle. The child could certainly .drink from a glass, but it's easier for this lazy mother just to hand the child a bottle. I think it's a disgrace. Gas-Powered Boom In Europe

A new economic and industrial boom may be in the offing for Europe, fueled-literally and figuratively-by natural gas.

In 1959, one of the world's largest gas fields was discovered off the coast of Holland. With good reason to hope that this is only a part of the riches that may lie beneath the North Sea, some 50 companies, under license from six nations bordering the sea, are searching for oil, as well as more gas.

Their efforts have now been given a new impetus under international law. A "Convention on the Continental Shelf," drawn up in 1958, has gone into effect with the ratification of the required number of signatory countries.

It gives to each coastal state exclusive rights to the seabed off its shore out to a depth of 200 meters (about 573) feet). No other nation can prospect within that limit. Beyond the sea floor is open to anyone with ability to stake a claim and exploit it.

The convention applies only to the land under the sea, not to fishing rights within the water, navigation rights on the water or in the air above the water. The undersea limit is not to be confused with the territorial limit, which is still a subject of confusion and controversy. Some countries claim their jurisdiction extends out to sea four miles, some six, others as far as nine or 12.

The United States observes a three-mile limit which, when it was adopted in 1793, was the range of shore-based cannon.

Gas and oil from the North Sea could have an impact on European politics almost as great as on its economy. A "Big Inch" from the coast of Holland to, say, the boot-top of Italy would cross many boundaries and hasten the political unification of the continent.

There could be other changes. With cheap and abundant gas, sweater-wrapped Britishers could come to know the blessings of American central heating. That in itself would be a revolution.

Two subsequent developnents unset their schedule. The government of South Viet Nam refused to go along with a provision of the Geneva armistice agreement which called for all-Viet Nam elections to be held on July 20, 1956, to reunite the country. Grounds for the refusal were that elections in North Viet Nam would not be free and that falsified returns could offset the vote from South Viet Nam.

Upsetting Communist plans further was the fact that United States economic aid totalling well over $1 billion between 1955 and 1950 had

The other day Grandad read an account in our newspaper about the miraculous speed of a B-58 bomber. He contrasted this accomplishment with the experience in his youth when he spotted his first airplane five miles outside of town and then rode a bleycle into town in time to see the plane circling the cap-

It seems incredible the technological advances mankind has made in the past fifty years. Men who rode to Sunday School by horse and buggy as boys, today follow the flight of astronauts on TV. Their wives do the family laundry with the books.

One unchanging fact remains. Man still needs God as the center and circumference of his life. And the Church, as God's expression, remains constant in the teaching of His Truths.

Joromiah 9:21-24

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ...

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship, it is a store-house of spiritual values. Without a strong Charch, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services requ-larly and support to the Church. They are (1) For his same sales (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
