Solution To Mideast Missile Crisis May Be At Hand

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Aides to Prime Minister Menachem Begin said today there are good chances for a peaceful solution to the Syrian missile crisis in Lebanon.

Begin briefed the cabinet for two hours on the latest talks with U.S. envoy Philip Habib and a spokesman said the ministers took "necessary decisions" that "encourage chances for a peaceful solution" and a return to the status quo that would in effect mean a restriction of Israeli air activity over the Bekaa Valley.

Begin was to meet with Habib later today and Israeli government sources said the envoy was likely to spend the night in Israel.

"There are good chances for an agreement," a Begin aide said. "There is a program with which we are satisfied."

The aide said Habib's shuttle diplomacy may be suspended while Saudi Arabia attempts to mediate directly with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

The government earlier issued a strong statement denying press reports that as part of the U.S. peace plan, Israel would restrict its flights over Lebanon.

But two different Begin aides indicated the key to the Israel's perspective lies in its definition of the "status quo ante."

Under the proposals being negotiated, they said, both Syrian and Christian Phalange forces would be withdrawn from the Sanine mountain heights and Syria would lift its siege of Zahle.

This would end the need for Syrian helicopters in the area and "if there are no Syrian helicopters, there would be nothing for us to attack," one Begin aide said.

Under the old status quo, "Israel did not have operational flights over eastern Lebanon" to attack Syrian forces and this, too, would be honored again, the source said. But Israel would continue its reconnaissance activity, as in the past, he said.

Israeli sources said the proposals were not part of a firm plan but were only guidelines to facilitate a return of the status quo. This would explain the government denial there was any "plan" to restrict Israeli air activity in Lebanon.

Syria would remove its SAM-4 missile batteries from Lebanon in apparent response to a call by Lebanese President Elias Sarkis — and not because of Israeli pressure, the source said.

With the siege of Zahle lifted, the Syrians off the Sanine peaks, and the missiles removed, "The rest is between Syria and Lebanon and doesn't interest us," the Begin aide said.

Begin had raised hopes for peace Tuesday, pledging after listening to Habib's proposals that Israel would not start a war with Syria. He scheduled another meeting with Habib after the cabinet meeting.

Despite the apparent reduction in tension, Syria reported Tuesday that its forces had shot down the second Israeli plane in a week. Israel denied the claim.

"We don't want war, orphanhood, bereavement and disability ... but if they attack us, we will rise and be mighty," Begin told a rally of disabled veterans

Tuesday "We won't start a war and we don't want war."

Begin emerged from his 75-minute meeting with Habib warmly praising the U.S. envoy's efforts to head off a war over Israel demands Syria remove anti-aircraft missiles from Lebanon.

"Let us hope those efforts will succeed," the Israeli prime minister said. "Now we shall have to convolve the proper authorities in order to adopt the appropriate decisions."

Habib arrived from Damascus, where he had held talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad Tuesday.

Lake Mary City Govt. Evicted

The city government of Lake Mary will be moving on June 18 from the building on Crystal Lake Drive it has used as a city hall for the past seven years.

The city received a notice of eviction from building owner, P. Zeuli and Sons. "It's no big deal, just a little inconvenience," said Mayor Walter Sorenson.

"His Sphorm, from whom we are buying the old Chamber of Commerce Building for a new city hall, said he has space available for a temporary city hall on Country Club Road," Sorenson said. "We'll move in there for about six weeks and then into our own city hall."

The 60-year-old Chamber of Commerce building is currently being renovated by the city for use as a city hall.

Sorenson said, in anticipation of the move to its own building, the city let its lease expire in March on the facility now used and has been continuing there on a month to month basis.

"Even if we did have a lease we would try to accommodate the owner who has a tenant that wants the place," Sorenson said.

Sorenson added that the city will most likely make an arrangement with its volunteer fire department to use its building for council and other city meetings. — DONNA ESTES

Mortgage Assumptions Threatened?

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Today if you buy a home in Florida, you may be able to assume a low-interest mortgage if you qualify. That practice, say officers at savings and loan associations, has hurt lending institutions because mortgage interest rates have climbed so high.

A bill scheduled for a final vote in the House today, however, may change things. The bill proposes to permit mortgage holders to exercise the "due on sale clause" in many low-interest contracts which would eliminate assumption of those mortgages and permit lenders to write new mortgages at existing interest rates.

State Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-

Altamonte Springs, predicted this morning the bill will pass the House of Representatives today, but may founder in the state Senate.

Hattaway said the bill is almost certain to pass the lower house of the Florida Legislature.

Hattaway and State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, both of Seminole County's state representatives, have joined forces in opposing the legislation.

Hattaway, both a banker and a realtor, said despite the fact his office received 191 letters favoring the legislation and 45 opposed, it "is a gut issue on which I had to make a decision. I have friends on both sides."

"The bill benefits few businesses at the expense of a large number of people.

Savings and Loan Associations are saying they are not making money, but looking at their buildings and expansion, they must be making money," he said.

The bill would permit a clause in most mortgage contracts issued since 1970 to be enforced. The clause provides a lender can require full payment of a mortgage whenever the owner sells his home.

Hattaway said if the bill becomes law it would take a lot of people who wish to buy older homes and assume existing mortgages out of the market-place.

Brantley has the same concern. "This bill would make it impossible in many instances for young married couples just out of college to realize the American dream of owning their own homes," he said.

While Hattaway said he made up his mind quite some time ago that he would oppose the legislation, Brantley said he made up his mind Tuesday.

The majority of public response to Brantley's office is opposed to the legislation, he said.

"The only personal contacts in favor of the legislation were persons in the Savings & Loan industry," Brantley said.

He added that the issue of the legality of "due on sale" clauses is now pending in Florida courts.

"This is an attempt to circumvent court action. I don't know that we need to do that either. Let the court rule on the issue. In other states where the courts have ruled, the decisions have been against the 'due on sale' clause," Brantley said.

Crusty 12-Year-Old

Vows 100-Year Fight

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — A group of elementary school students refuse to abandon their crusade to have legislators designate the armadillo as official state mammal.

Students from Houston's Oak Creek Elementary School left Austin disappointed Tuesday, after a Senate committee failed to take up a resolution designating the crusty creature as the official state mammal.

But Jane Allen, a persistent 12-year-old, said she is optimistic about the proposal's approval.

"If we don't get it through this time, we'll try it again. If it takes a hundred years," she said.

St. Johns River Water District Calls For Water Use Cutback

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The St. Johns River Water Management District board of commissioners told municipal and private water suppliers in the 19-county district, which includes Seminole, that water usage must be cut by 15 percent to save the natural resource for future generations.

Robert J. Moresi, the district's director of resource management, said the district is "extremely concerned" about the incidence of salt water intrusion into the Florida aquifer which supplies water to the state.

He said while the district is asking the water suppliers to "voluntarily reduce water consumption by 15 percent," it does have the power to call for mandatory conservation. The district has declared a water shortage in the 19-county district.

"The board is not now contemplating any mandatory measures because of the problem. It is attempting to collect as much data as possible to maintain the most current information on water resource conditions and trends," he said.

In line with this thinking, the district has ordered private and publicly owned water systems to provide reports on water pumpage, water levels, chloride (salt) levels and other quality information on a weekly basis.

Meanwhile, district technicians were in the Celery Avenue area of Sanford Tuesday testing wells used for irrigation at vegetable farms for chloride levels.

Phil Leary, agriculture water use specialist with the water management district, said testing of salt levels in the irrigation water at farms in Oviedo last week showed high chloride (salt) content.

"The chlorides have stabilized at a high level in the Oviedo area," Leary said. He explained that when salt levels reach 750 parts per million of water, it is not recommended that the water be used for vegetable crops. He said the levels recorded in Oviedo were as high as 1,250 parts per million.

Leary said the counties in the district have seen a 60- to 80-inch deficit of rainfall during the past decade. "We are concerned," he said.

Moresi explained that the fresh water in the Florida aquifer is usually described as a "bubble floating on salt water. The fresh water is lighter. As more and more fresh water is drawn out of the aquifer, it is going to be replaced with salt water. Salt water encroachment happens rapidly. Once it happens there is no turning it around," he said.

"Once salt is in the aquifer, the aquifer is gone. There is no saving it. We are extremely concerned," Moresi said.

He said in the Central Florida area salt water intrusion happens in two ways: vertically from beneath the fresh water; and from old "connate" — trapped salt water when the sea level was higher in past years. — DONNA ESTES

Marketing 'Slap' At Third World

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Television actress Linda Kelsey told a forum convened by Sen. Edward Kennedy today that the U.S. decision to vote against a world code on infant formula is "unbelievable" and a "slap" to the Third World.

Kennedy, D-Mass., opened the day-long public forum on Capitol Hill with an attack on the Reagan administration for ignoring the "human tragedy" that prompted the World Health Organization to propose the formula regulation.

The controversy, which pits commercial interests against concerns for infants' health, involves rules to curb hard-sell marketing of the substitute for mothers' milk.

SEA Will Fight KKK Recruiting

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole Education Association plans to go on the offensive soon to head off what it fears may be a mounting recruiting drive by the Ku Klux Klan — one aimed at drawing schoolchildren into the Klan's hooded ranks.

The drive will be part of a nationwide effort in which the National Education Association plans to distribute new curricula to its 1.7 million teachers to promote classroom discussion of the white supremacist group.

The emphasis will be on "discussion, not propagandizing," SEA executive director Bill Moore said. "As with any subject taught in school, we have to present facts as they are without making moral judgments."

Moore conceded, however, that "it would be terribly hard to defend the actions of the Klan. I don't know if you would call that propagandizing or not. But the KKK is a part of American history; maybe not one of our brighter moments, but a part of our history nonetheless."

"When students being studying the KKK, it will be pointed out that society is a fragile thing which can hold together only by its members following certain rules," Moore said. "The Klan does not follow these rules. And we have to point that out. It's important for students to think about it. There's a tendency to believe hating and killing minorities can't happen here. People in Nazi Germany thought the same thing. Obviously, it can (happen)."

"We do not believe we are over-reacting to reports of the KKK youth recruitment," NEA President Willard McGuire said. "A resurgent Klan represents a threat that can't be ignored."

The NEA's magazine said in a recent article that in "nearly every part of the country, Klansmen are burning crosses, hiding under sheets and targeting youngsters as young as age 10 for the new KKK Youth Corps."

The article claimed that the Klan has attempted to exploit racial tensions in some schools to enlist youngsters with recruiting flyers such as:

"Are you fed up with special privileges afforded blacks by school administration simply on account of their race?"

"Your students," the article warned, "could be among the next recruits." To bolster its case, the magazine cited a number of incidents during the past few years, including:

—A group of high school students in Oklahoma City, claiming membership in the Klan and wielding baseball bats, attacked a gay bar.

—Children in Decatur, Ala., wearing Klan T-shirts, set fire to a school bus during an anti-busing rally.

—Youngsters are taught hand-to-hand combat and racist ideology at a KKK camp outside of Houston.

Moore said he has heard of no such incidents or any recruiting efforts in central Florida.

"But I've been told there has been some Klan recruiting going on down in the Ft. Lauderdale area. There is a KKK chapter in Orlando, so it could happen here too."

In addition to an assault in the schools, the KKK is also being attacked in the Legislature. The Senate voted unanimously Monday to unmask the Klan, passing a proposal which would forbid the use of hoods and masks at public rallies for intimidation purposes.

Instead of prohibiting all use of masks in public places, which the Florida Supreme Court ruled was too broad, Sen. George Stuart's, D-Orlando, bill would only prohibit anyone from parading or skulking about with their faces covered if they intend to scare someone or commit a crime.

The Senate sent the bill to the House in a 38-0 vote.

Asked if he really believed the KKK is growing, Stuart said leaders of the Klan have boasted of membership gains in Miami, Orlando, and Tampa—especially since the influx of Cuban and Haitian refugees in the past year.

"I am led to believe by statements by the Klan itself that the KKK is on the resurgence all through the country, including Florida," Stuart said. "We've heard of some rallies in Orange County recently, and they've been more vocal than in the past."

County Facing Hike In Ambulance Costs

Seminole County's annual subsidy to Herndon Ambulance Service could go as high as $200,000, if an increase the firm is requesting is granted and if the service is beefed up.

County Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser said today the county is paying a subsidy of $107,000 this year. The firm is requesting a 17 percent increase in that amount for the new fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 for inflation. Kaiser said, in addition if a fourth ambulance is added to the Seminole County service, the total annual subsidy would reach $200,000.

Kaiser said he has asked the Orlando-based company to provide the county with details in writing on the 17 percent increase requested for inflation. "All the company has told us is that the additional money is needed due to increases in salaries and operations costs without detailing those costs," he said.

He said the county has several alternatives it will be looking into on ambulance service. He said information is to be sought from Volusia County on the bids it received for ambulance service. There is also the possibility of the county going into the business.

"It would be more costly to do that, but it would be a higher and better level of service," he said.

"We also have the option in the fire budget of requesting money to train the existing fire-fighters as paramedics and operate life support systems out of four county fire stations," Kaiser said.

He noted while the county has doubled its population over the last seven or eight years, Herndon continues to operate only three ambulances to serve the entire county. Two of those ambulances have advanced life support systems and one has basic life support system.

Kaiser said the public, after viewing television programs, have come to expect all ambulances and fire rescue units have paramedics and advanced life support systems. — DONNA ESTES

WORLD IN BRIEF

Maryknoll Order Rebuked Over Disappearing Priest

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Junta President Jose Napoleon Duarte said there was "nothing Christian" about the 18-day disappearance of an American priest and denounced it as a propaganda stunt to embarrass his regime.

The bodies of 17 victims of political violence were taken to the San Salvador morgue Tuesday, including those of a decapitated woman and a man who was dumped on a road north of the capital where 30 bodies have been found in the past five months.

Some 22,000 people have been killed in 18 months of fighting in El Salvador between leftist guerrillas, rightist "death squads" and government security forces, the Catholic Church's Legal Aid Society estimates.

Duarte sent an open letter published in San Salvador newspapers to the Maryknoll Catholic order in Ossining, N.Y., in which he charged that Roy Bourgeois, 61, a Maryknoll priest, staged the disappearance to embarrass the government.

"This is part of a maneuver — nothing Christian about it — to generate anxieties and expectations to be used as propaganda," Duarte said.

Election Violence In Ulster

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Polling stations for local elections were pelted with gasoline bombs today and a police reservist was wounded by attackers who blasted his home with 50 rounds of automatic gunfire.

The violence followed the killing of five British soldiers in the explosion of an IRA landmine Tuesday, the worst IRA attack in two years. Assistant Chief Constable Trevor Forbes called it "an absolute scene of horror, really sickening."

"Whether it's in 10 days or 10 years, we will get them (the killers)," Forbes said.

Moderate politicians feared voters would back extremist Protestant and Catholic candidates in today's election for 26 local councils, which were seen as an indicator of support for the Irish Republican movement that seeks to unite Northern Ireland and the Irish republic.

Haig's Japan Visit Cancelled

TOKYO (UPI) — Secretary of State Alexander Haig canceled a planned visit to Japan that would have landed him in the midst of a furor about the visit of nuclear armed American warships to Japan.

Both nations conceded the visit by Haig would be ill-timed, but neither would say specifically who took the initiative to call off that part of Haig's trip to Asia.

The trip, which was to have started with Tokyo about June 12, now includes stops in Peking, Manila and New Zealand.

In Washington, State Department officials said the cancellation was due to "a matter of timing and scheduling." U.S. officials denied Haig had been "deterred" by his Japanese hosts because of the political problems.

The Haig cancellation came one day after the Kyodo news agency said a U.S. warship had its nuclear weapons repaired in Japan and two days after former U.S. Ambassador to Tokyo Edwin Reischauer disclosed that for 21 years U.S. Navy ships with atomic weapons aboard have traveled through Japanese waters and visited ports.

Students Riot In Seoul

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — Riot police battled rock-throwing students today and 30 Roman Catholic priests conducted a hunger strike on the first anniversary of an anti-government uprising that killed nearly 300 people.

A spokesman for the hunger strikers in Kwangju, 170 miles south of Seoul, said they fasted for a second day to "share the pain of those involved in the Kwangju incident." There was no indication how long the hunger strike might last.

In Seoul, witnesses said about 300 students from Korea University, one the largest and most prestigious private institutions in South Korea, clashed with club-wielding riot police three times on campus as the protesters criticized the government and demanded the release of jailed student activists.

Pope Making Progress

ROME (UPI) — Doctors attending Pope John Paul II said today they hoped to be able to lift their "guarded" prognosis by Thursday and state definitely the pope no longer is in danger from his wounds suffered in the assassination attempt.

A spokesman for the Gemelli Hospital where the pope is having an apparently remarkable recovery said the pontiff had a sound seven-hour sleep and the doctors' reservations could be lifted "if his progress continues to be so positive and regular."

Tired Motorist Loses Pants To Over-Size Attacker

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

A weary motorist catching a few winks at an Interstate-4 rest stop lost his pants in a robbery early this morning.

Kenly Pittinger, 57, of 47 Palmolive Drive, DeBary, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that he had been in Orlando for drinks and dinner and was on his way home when he pulled into the I-4 rest area near State Road 434 in Longwood around midnight to take a nap.

About 5 a.m., Pittinger said, he was awakened by a man who told him, "Don't move or I'll cut you." Pittinger said he never saw a knife, but did what he was told when he saw his attacker was over six-feet tall and weighed nearly 200 pounds.

The man opened the driver's door and pulled off Pittinger's pants in which he had his wallet containing $218.

The bandit then fled on foot.

HARASSING CALLS REPORTED

They've been going on sporadically for a year now — harassing telephone calls threatening all sorts of things and demanding money — but the caller seems to have quickened his pace in recent days.

Nine separate harassing phone calls were reported to the Seminole County sheriff's office over the weekend, two more Monday. One man is believed to be making most of the calls, but deputies fear a second person may be getting into the act.

The calls are usually pretty much the same: a man who has been described as 25-36 years of age will call, usually at a time when the victims' husbands are at work and ask for the man of the house by name.

He may also mention other personal information such as where the victim works, or the names of their children.

"When people are confronted with a stranger who knows these kinds of things, it tends to scare them to death," said sheriff's spokesman John Spolski.

Just to make sure, the caller will frequently claim to be outside the victim's house with a key on their phone line which can block any outgoing calls.

Then comes the pitch: he will instruct the person to whom he's talking to place all their valuables in a bag and place it outside their door. Failure to comply, the caller threatens, will result in the victim being beaten, raped, or killed.

However, Spolski emphasized that of the hundreds of calls which have been attributed to the telephone extortions, none have ever ended with a threat being carried out. And only once has he called the same person twice.

Spolski said persons receiving such harassing phone calls should call the police immediately. "If they are outside the house, and I doubt it, we might be able to apprehend them," he said.

If the calls persist, victims are advised to keep a log of the calls, noting day, time, duration, content, and any background noise. If the problem becomes severe enough, the phone company will place a device on the telephone enabling the call to be traced, Spolski said.

"So far, we haven't been able to catch him that way. But we're still working on it," he said.

GROCERY STORE ROBBED

A northside Sanford grocery store was robbed early today by thieves who had to scale a stepladder to climb through a window 15 feet off the ground.

According to a police report, the burglary occurred between 4:30 a.m. and 6 a.m. After breaking a window, climbing the ladder and crawling through, bandits stole $230.87 worth of merchandise. Taken were several cartons of cigarettes, two dozen cartons of sausage, 18 packages of lunch meat, and $40 cash.

TALK ABOUT BAD LUCK

C. Lyn Haynes, a 23-year-old sailor at the Naval Training Center in Orlando, sure can pick them. On Sunday afternoon, he picked a Seminole County deputy sheriff's wife to follow home.

Deputy Jason Pauska said he was sitting in the back yard of his Winter Springs home when his wife pulled into their driveway blowing her horn. Another car pulled in right behind her. Mrs. Pauska said the man had been following her for some time, so Pauska went over to ask the guy what he was doing.

The man admitted to following Pauska's wife. The man had apparently been drinking and was arrested for drunk driving.

City Officials Get Tough On Water Crisis

By SYBIL MITCHELL GANDY
Herald Staff Writer

Altamonte Springs City Commissioners want local residents and businesses to conserve water voluntarily while Casselberry officials have tightened their ban on outside usage in the face of the worsening drought.

Altamonte Springs City Manager Jeff Eichberger submitted to the commission package of voluntary and mandatory conservation measures at a special work session Tuesday evening.

But officials voted in their regularly scheduled meeting to simply ask local residents and businesses to limit lawn sprinkling to early morning hours before 9:00.

City Commissioner Delores Vickers, who has repeatedly commended Public Works Director Don Newnam for Altamonte's "good water supply," had asked that some measures of conservation be considered.

"Altamonte Springs has always been a city that looks ahead to the future. So we've grown very concerned about what our water supply will be in the next year or so," he said.

Casselberry's city officials on the other hand have waged an all-out war on excessive outside water usage in what has turned into a crippling water situation for that city.

Mayor Owen Sheppard had previously imposed a ban on lawn sprinkling, car washing and other outside water usages between the hours of 4:00-8:00 p.m. on weekdays and 24 hours on Saturday and Sundays.

But the Mid-April moratorium has proved insufficient for the city's water supply although Casselberry officials have continually commended residents for their cooperation.

The now-critical situation forced Sheppard at Monday night's city council meeting to extend the ban between 6:00 a.m. until 10:00 noon.

Despite the numerous complaints and objections that have come from Casselberry residents, Sheppard and the city council also decided that fines of up to $300 would be charged rather than warnings which have been issued to illegal waterers.

Complaints, say city hall sources, have come mostly from residents who have been watering before going to work.

Sheppard expressed concern for the thousands of dollars residents have invested in landscaping private property, but contended that the city, at this point, has no other choice until rain comes. Casselberry fire officials said they are fearful that the water pressure in the system is dangerous low.

Adding to the problem, two mammoth storage tanks are presently under repair until June 30, handicapping the pumping capacity tremendously, said Ed Keuling, city utility director. Also several underground pumps have gone dry, compounding Casselberry's situation.

Padding Puts Miss New York Out Of The Running

BLOXI, Miss. (UPI) — New York beauty contestant Deborah Ann Fountain, who padded her swimsuit top with foam rubber to compensate for weight loss, was eliminated from the Miss USA pageant.

"The suit was too big," said Miss USA Fountain, 25. "Was I supposed to go on stage naked?"

Her stated measurements were 35-23-35, but Miss Fountain said they have diminished because of medication she took after the death of her 21-year-old brother in March.

The falsies were spotted Sunday by a fellow contestant, who informed officials. Leonard Posner, Miss Fountain's attorney, said a female pageant official "literally tore it (her swimsuit top) off" to expose the padding that is banned in the contest's rules.

Harold Glasser, president of Miss Universe Inc., which runs the Miss USA

pageant, said Miss Fountain was told she could still appear in the competition that will be nationally televised Thursday night from the Mississippi Coast Coliseum — without any chance of winning.

But Glasser said she was disqualified Tuesday because her attorney leaked the story to New York newspapers. Pageant officials then put the question to a vote and Miss Fountain's fellow contestants voted, 29-1, in a secret ballot that indicated their approval of her elimination.

"She demonstrated an attitude that was inconsistent with the spirit of the pageant," Glasser said.

"I will abide by the pageant's decision," said Miss Fountain, who moved to the Bronx from North Carolina more than a year ago.

Posner, her attorney, said from New York he is "considering legal action" against pageant officials.

Posner said the young woman had lost about 13 pounds due to medication taken after the death of her brother. He said she made repeated requests to pageant personnel to alter an ill-fitted swimsuit, but the requests were unheeded.

Judges OK Students' Abortion Article

NAPLES, Fla. (UPI) — A panel of appeals judges has given permission to the Naples High School newspaper, Neopolitan monthly, permission to print an article on abortion.

The article by student editor Karen Gray is expected to be published later in the week.

A lower court judge had found no reason to suppress the article and Appellate Judges Herboth Ryder, Steven Grimes and John Schrab issued a ruling Tuesday, saying,

"Said motion is hereby denied."

The abortion article is the last in a series of controversial articles on sex.

The three parents who brought the suit seeking an injunction said they would keep trying to suppress the article.

"This is only the start," said Edward Ruff, the father of an 18-year-old girl taking journalism and three other children. "We haven't begun to get involved with this situation."

Meet a Swinger

She's living those carefree, all-too-short days of childhood when there is no such thing as worry. Or poverty. Or the dreariness of a job. Or death.

Later in life, of course, realities must be faced. And this is where funeral service comes in. A most important purpose of the funeral is to help families face the reality of their loss ... because only by facing it can they ever fully adjust to it.

IN BRIEF

Artillery Shells Found Under Brooklyn Bridge

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two artillery shells were found at the foot of the Brooklyn Bridge today and more than 30 new bomb threats sent police running around the city in the fifth day of a bomb scare blitz. Police indicated the artillery shells may not be related to the discovery of five bombs in the city since Saturday, one of which exploded at a Kennedy Airport terminal, killing a man. More than 250 crank bomb threats have been received since Saturday, creating a war of nerves with harried police and causing the evacuation of landmark skyscrapers, offices and airport terminals. Authorities speculated the eight-inch shells might have been lying unnoticed since World War I or rolled off a barge.

Koop May Get Nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Republican congressman plans a legislative maneuver in the House that could open the way for President Reagan to nominate Dr. C. Everett Koop, a noted anti-abortion leader, as surgeon general. Sources said Rep. Edward Madigan, R-Ill., will offer a privileged motion—probably today—to direct House conferees to accept a Senate amendment that would eliminate 84 as the maximum age for the surgeon general. Such motions require immediate consideration. Koop, who turned 84 Oct. 14, has been surgeon in chief at Children's Hospital in Philadelphia. He won fame for successfully separating Siamese twins in 1974 and lecturing with Christian philosopher Francis Schaeffer against abortion.

Cubans On Hunger Strike

ATLANTA (UPI)—Thirteen Cubans held at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary have refused to eat in protest to being confined, prison officials said Tuesday. Warden Jack Hanberry said that so far, only one of the detainees is considered to be on a hunger strike, meaning he has not eaten for at least 72 hours. But Hanberry said that U.S. prison officials are under orders to force feed prisoners if necessary to keep them alive.

Four Bitten Giving Aid

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—A German shepherd bit four firefighters who tried to help his dying master—but the firemen said they couldn't blame the loyal dog. "You can hardly blame the dog," said Fire Lt. Edward Wergin. "The man had a heart attack and he was just watching over him." Despite the rescue efforts, Joseph Armeli, 69, was pronounced dead at a hospital Monday. The dog's attacks delayed the rescue but did not contribute to Armeli's death, a Fire Department spokesman said.

Medical Examiner Angered

ATLANTA (UPI)—A medical examiner who had conducted autopsies on several of the 27 young blacks found slain in the Atlanta-area since July 1979 objected Tuesday to earlier reports that none of the victims died without a struggle. DeKalb County Medical Examiner Dr. Joe Burton said some of the victims found asphyxiated in neighboring DeKalb and Cobb counties had marks on their bodies, indicating the possibility of a struggle with an assailant. Burton said even if the bodies lacked marks, it would be unfounded to conclude the absence of a fight.

Seminole County At $6,854

Florida's Per Capita Income Reported

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Palm Beach edged Sarasota as the Florida county with the highest per capita personal income in 1979, a report by the University of Florida's Bureau of Economic and Business Research said Tuesday. The average income of residents of Palm Beach County was $10,520 while the average in Sarasota County was $10,425, according to the report prepared for publication in the bureau's monthly Economic Leaflets. The report said Palm Beach, Sarasota and eight other Florida counties posted higher per capita incomes in 1979 than the state average of $8,521 and the U.S. average of $8,757. The others were: Broward ($10,002), Collier ($9,791), Hendry ($9,751), Dade ($9,714), Indian River ($9,395), Martin ($9,178), Orange ($9,067) and Pinellas ($9,007). Per capita income for Seminole County was listed as $6,854; Volusia County, $7,802. On the other end of the spectrum, the counties with the lowest per capita incomes in 1979 were: Franklin ($3,974), Union ($3,962), Lafayette ($4,218), Dixie ($4,504), Liberty ($4,538), Calhoun ($4,800) and Bradford ($4,808). Per capita personal income is total personal income of an area divided by total population, including adults and children, workers and nonworkers alike. Per capita figures do not indicate how many people or families in that area have high or low incomes or what the lowest or highest incomes are. The figures do give some indication, however, of the relative wealth and economic status of a particular area, the bureau said. The report said there were 15 Florida counties where income from government sources makes up more than 30 percent of the county's total personal income. The leader was Union County, where nearly 60 percent of the personal income comes from government sources. Others with high levels of government income were: Baker, Okaloosa, Leon, Alachua, Gadsden, Bradford, Franklin and Santa Rosa counties. The bureau also lists those counties where more than a quarter of the personal income came from transfer payments (social security, unemployment insurance, food stamps and other types of retirement pay or assistance). While 17 percent of the state's total personal income came from such transfer payments in 1979, some counties had much higher percentages, including Citrus, Franklin, Pasco, Charlotte, Walton, Hernando and Washington counties. These ranged from 32.9 percent for Citrus to 23.6 percent for Washington. The report said state data for 1980 released by the U.S. Commerce Department ranked Florida 27th among the 50 states in per capita income, with $8,987. That is 95 percent of the U.S. average for 1980 and second only to Virginia in the Southeast. In 1979, Florida's per capita income was 97 percent of the U.S. average.

Luring Business To Florida Can Be Expensive

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida taxpayers have paid for lavish luncheons and expensive dinners sponsored by the Department of Commerce in order to lure business and tourists into the state. Certain expenses were "unusual," Commerce Secretary Sid Levin admitted, but added that "these are not the average, daily, typical expenses of the Department of Commerce." Other expenses include: — At a September, 1980, Discover America Travel Organization International Convention in Los Angeles, the state paid for a $29,000 luncheon for the 2,400 delegates. — At the same luncheon, 12 "Kids of the Kingdom," a song and dance group from Walt Disney World in Orlando, performed for 45 minutes at a cost of $5,000. — Decorations for the western motif totaled $3,000, while each delegate was given a souvenir scarf, with the total price amounting to $2,400. Excluding accommodations, airfare and the $250-per-person registration fees paid by the state for six department employees and Miss Florida Rodeo, Patti Palmer, the total cost of the luncheon was $40,000. Although he could not point to any specific increase in tourism because of the luncheon, Levin said it was "the biggest thing that happens every year," and cited an overall 40 percent increase in international tourism. Levin defended the $5,000 expenses for the Disney group to perform for 45 minutes during the luncheon. "We were thinking about it in terms of promoting Disney. We were thinking about it in terms of promoting Florida," Levin said. "The 'Kids of the Kingdom' are extraordinary entertainment. We shared the cost with Disney." Gov. Bob Graham, who has accompanied Commerce officials on economic development trips, is currently trying to persuade the Legislature to almost double the department's $10 million budget. During the last eighteen months, state employees have traveled to South Korea, Japan, West Germany, Australia, New Zealand, Colombia, Peru, Chile, Argentina, Venezuela, France, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Ecuador and Trinidad-Tobago. At a Feb. 3 dinner, 18 people, including a non-drinking department employee, consumed 13 bottles of wine. The wine cost $25 per bottle, with the exception of one for $20. In addition, the group consumed two beers and 15 after-dinner drinks. The total liquor bill for the dinner was $387, which does not include a $432 food bill and a $123 tip. Levin explained the expense by saying that two department employees took 14 person from a French pate company who were considering locating a plant in Central Florida, and that the French drink large quantities of wine with their meal. The pate company has yet to locate in Florida, but "they were good prospects," Levin said. "If the state is going to be in the business of locating new industry and accelerating the number of jobs for Floridians, it's going to have to market itself in an extremely competitive field," Levin said.

Social Security Compromise Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, bombarded with criticism over his proposal for cuts in Social Security benefits, is raising a flag — notifying irate Democrats he may be willing to compromise. The White House said Tuesday Reagan still believes his proposal is sound, but is open to suggestions on other possible ways to keep the financially ailing retirement system solvent. "I'm sure there will be discussions and we're certainly willing to discuss those changes," acting press secretary Larry Speakes told reporters. Senate Democrats Tuesday stood united against Reagan's proposal to impose the first major reduction in benefits since the system began 45 years ago. In a resolution condemning Reagan's plan, they said:

"These reductions constitute a breach of faith with those aging Americans who have contributed to the Social Security system and have planned for their retirement upon the promise of a specific level of Social Security income." Reagan's proposal would delay cost-of-living increases for Social Security recipients in 1982, increase the income ceiling for older recipients and eliminate benefits to orphans in foster care.

Group Vows Fight For School Prayer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new coalition of conservative political and religious activists vowed today to fight for the return of school prayers and said a majority of the Senate Judiciary Committee supports such legislation. "The formation of this coalition marks a historic step in the struggle to restore voluntary prayer in the public schools," said Gary L. Jarmin, director of the newly formed Project Prayer. "Never before has the pro-school prayer movement been as well organized nor as influential as it is today," Jarmin said in an statement announcing formation of the group. Jarmin is a key figure in Christian Voice, one of the most influential of the new conservative Christian political groups. The new group is endorsing prayer legislation proposed by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C. and Rep. Phil Crane, R-Ill. Jarmin said his group's poll of the Senate Judiciary Committee showed 10 of its 18 members favoring or leaning toward the legislation.

Cabinet Saves Man From Electric Chair

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The Cabinet Tuesday saved from death in the electric chair Michael Salvatore, convicted of beating a Dade County man to death and dumping his body in the Gulf-stream. Gov. Bob Graham had recommended that Salvatore's death sentence be commuted to life in prison and his Cabinet colleagues voted 6-0 to accept the recommendation. Salvatore must serve at least 25 years in prison before being eligible for parole. Attorney General Jim Smith won approval of his Cabinet colleagues of a plan to speed up their consideration of death cases. The clemency process will begin once the state Supreme Court upholds the conviction and death sentence instead of after the U.S. Supreme Court hears the appeal. "This will save us a year to 18 months in each case," said Smith, who along with Graham has been pushing to eliminate administrative and judicial delays and have executions become common again. Salvatore and two other persons were convicted in the 1975 killing of Burton DeWitt, who owned a Dade tool company. DeWitt was beaten with a lead pipe as he looked at radio equipment offered by the men for a new sailboat. His body was taken out in the Atlantic Ocean and dumped into the Gulf Stream. Salvatore was sentenced to death for the crime. William Shapiro got life with a mandatory, minimum 25 years in prison. Larry Murren, who turned state's evidence, was sentenced to 10 years in prison and has since been paroled. The Cabinet, sitting as the state clemency board, automatically reviews death cases once they've been upheld by the courts. After the review, the governor either signs a death warrant, a decision solely his, or recommends commutation to life in prison, which requires the concurrence of at least three other Cabinet members.

How To Rescue Social Security

President Reagan's proposals for saving the Social Security system are getting the mixed reception he could have anticipated. For one thing, there are alternative ideas for a rescue mission circulating on Capitol Hill. All we can predict about the final shape of the Social Security legislation emerging from this session of Congress is that it will contain bad news for somebody.

President Reagan's bad news is for persons planning to retire at age 62 instead of 65. Under his plan they would get only 55 percent of the normal retirement benefit instead of the 80 percent the law now provides.

A proposal backed by Rep. J.J. Pickle of Texas, chairman of the House subcommittee on Social Security, would extend the bad news even to those who want to retire at 65. His bill would withhold full retirement benefits until age 68.

A measure passed by the Senate recently imparts its bad news to people now drawing benefits and counting on an increase equivalent to the rise in the Consumer Price Index. The bill would base 1982 increases on the rate of increases in the average wages of American workers, an index running several percentage points lower than the CPI.

The worst news of all will come if the 97th Congress fails to enact some combination of the reform proposals now before it. The Old Age and Survivors Trust fund may run out of cash as early as next year if nothing is done to close the gap between what is going out and what is coming in. All of the tax increases enacted in the 1970s to deal with the Social Security "crisis" have not helped as expected because Congress has recoiled from making significant cutbacks on the benefit side.

The current Congress faces the reality that Social Security cannot survive unless it retreats from some of the over-generous promises it has been holding out to American workers. There is no painless treatment for the problem. The task is to find a remedy that is fair both to those drawing benefits now and those still paying into the system with the expectation of drawing a benefit in the future.

Mr. Reagan's plan is unusually comprehensive, treating not only the immediate cash-flow problem but also broader issues of Social Security policy. While clearly aimed at discouraging early retirement, it also would phase out the limitation on what retirees over 65 can earn without a penalty in their Social Security benefits. It would attack the problem of "double-dipping" by retired federal employees who work for a minimum period to qualify for Social Security in addition to their federal pension. It would tighten eligibility rules for drawing disability benefits prior to retirement age.

Mr. Reagan parts company with those who would change the indexing basis for future cost of living increases in benefits, but does call for a three-month delay until Oct. 1 of payment of the 11.2 percent increase otherwise scheduled to take effect on July 1. The president is thus keeping faith with his campaign promise not to cut the level of present benefits or to take any present beneficiary off the rolls.

On the positive side, the Reagan plan would not only forestall a shortage of funds next year but would permit a reduction in the payroll tax in 1985 if certain economic assumptions hold true. Thus the administration would treat a worrisome side-effect of the rising Social Security tax — its inhibiting effect on the creation of new jobs and its drag on productive economic growth.

The aim of the administration program is to put Social Security in the black and keep it there well into the next century. If President Reagan and Congress can achieve that, it will be good news, even if some present and future beneficiaries have to swallow some disappointment in the process.

By JANE CASSELLBERRY

When delegates from the League of Women Voters of Seminole County trekked to Tallahassee for a two-day Legislative Seminar recently lobbying for the Equal Rights Amendment was their No. 1 priority. But, according to Leagueur Marion Adams, they came back convinced that, given the present legislative leadership, getting ERA passed in Florida by the 1982 deadline will be an impossibility. Another top league priority was education.

Marion said it was exciting to be in the state capital to view first hand some of the political maneuvering and power struggle in process at that time.

The St. John Missionary Baptist Church Youth Department will hold a memorial service Saturday for the slain children of Atlanta. The event will take place at 7:30 p.m. at the church at 920 Cypress Ave., Sanford. Speaker will be Steve Wright, an instructor at Seminole Community College. Renee Cauthen, youth advisor, invites the public to "come and join us in prayer for our young brothers and sisters and their families."

Longwood City Commissioners were assigned some required reading by City Attorney Marvin Rooks Monday night. He handed them each copies of "a battery of 'topless' ordinances passed by Orange County" to study as examples for a proposed Longwood ordinance. Rooks suggested they pass something that would incorporate all of them. "We'll discuss them after you've read them," he added.

The proposed ordinance is scheduled to be on the June 8 agenda.

There will be no May 25 commission meeting because of the Memorial Day holiday.

Governor Bob Graham has proclaimed May 21 as American Red Cross Day in Florida in recognition of 100 years of dedicated service to the nation and the vital role this organization continues to play in responding to the emergency situations and critical needs of this state.

"In time of war and during other periods of major disaster, the work of the American Red Cross has brought order and stability to the relief and aid of those who suffered loss," states the proclamation. (Remember folding Red Cross bandages and knitting squares for afghans during World War II? After a tornado strikes or a home burns the Red Cross disaster van is one of the first on the scene.)

"Between these times of national and local emergency, the Red Cross has daily carried on numerous sustained programs consistent with its fine humanitarian mission: (How about those lives saved by Red Cross first aid and CPR training, or swimming and life saving courses?)

"It touches the lives of our people and our community through such services as blood donations, disaster preparedness and safety classes, as well as services to the military personnel, veterans and their families, among others;" Remember the emergency leave the Red Cross helped you get because of that family emergency at home?)

An agency of the United Way of Seminole County, the American Red Cross has an active water safety program in this area. The Central Florida Chapter sponsors swimming and boating events at the Golden Age Games as well as providing first aid stations.

Better To Have Loved...

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the most recent fitness surveys, of which America is blessed with great abundance, purports to show that jogging makes people better lovers.

Studies of this sort sometimes raise questions as well as spread enlightenment. This one started me to wondering whether the reverse also might be true — that is, whether loving makes people better joggers.

I don't have the facilities to do full blown scientific investigations. I did, however, research the question as best I could and my findings indicate there is indeed a correlation between improved jogging ability and an active love life.

Last someone be tempted to bestow a prize on this project, let me make clear at the outset that all of the joggers mentioned in the study are fragments.

If you lumped together parts of the case histories of four joggers to form a single entity, you would have a composite. What I did was take one jogger and split him into four case histories.

Some cases show how stepped-up loving makes better joggers. In others, the vice is versa.

First Case — H.R., 29, swizzle stick inspector. Subject was a lackadaisical jogger. So poor was his form he never once acquired blisters, bunions or strained tendons.

One evening, subject visited neighborhood massage parlor. He was smitten by an attractive female attendant, became a steady customer and eventually began sharing an apartment with her and two other girls.

Subject now has chronically cramped thigh muscles, torn knee cartilages, spavined ankles and collapsed metatarsal arches, and runs in marathons.

Second Case — J.L., 37, consultant. Subject started jogging several nights a week at the YMCA. Two laps were enough to have him panting and wheezing louder than other joggers on the track.

One night, subject's jogging aspirations were heard by Hollywood talent scout. Now subject has new career breathing on sound tracks for X-rated movies.

Third Case — K.B., 38, punch key operator. Subject's wife left home, complaining that she and husband were athletically incompatible because of his tendency to foot-fault during tennis games.

Subject began jogging in nearby park to kill the lonely hours.

One day, subject happened to jog past tennis court where estranged wife was playing. His sensuous stride filled her with overpowering emotions. Now there is talk of reconciliation.

Fourth Case — R.P., 33, doorbell salesman. Subject strongly desired to form meaningful relationship with older woman, considering girls his own age immature and rather flighty.

Subject took up jogging and seemed to age overnight. Now has his pick of female companions old enough to be his Aunt Harriet.

Billy Jean King Affair

The Billy Jean King affair is both ridiculous and ironic, but it also raises some important questions of public attitude.

In its ironic aspects it is a case of the bitter bit. For a long time, Billy Jean King has been a feminist spear thrower, insisting on women's rights.

Well, now up jumps Marilyn Barnett, claiming to be her lover of seven years, demanding her "rights." She numbers among her "rights" a quarter-of-a-million-dollar house in Malibu, and financial support for the rest of her life.

Billy Jean, in her own financial self defense, will have to draw the line where these "rights" are concerned, and this will be for her a new and useful intellectual exercise.

The whole thing also has a ridiculous aspect, particularly in the wide-eyed we-are-shocked coverage by much of the media, and heavy hints that "more scandals may break."

Are the sports reporters walking around blindfolded? To any journalist close to high-level women's sports, it can hardly be stunning news that there are plenty of lesbians on the sports scene. This particular item is really in the what-else-is-new department.

Marvin legal decision over the line into homosexuality, may end up by clarifying some important issues. She is really asking the courts to recognize her liaison with King as a contractual arrangement equivalent in legal status to marriage.

The Lee Marvin case, of course, was the thin end of the wedge. Because Marvin had lived and traveled with a mistress for a number of years, he was forced to pay her a substantial sum despite the fact that they had broken up. The arrangement was held to be a sort of implicit contract.

But you can argue the case from a negative assumption. Marriage is an explicit contract, with well established legal entailments. Lee Marvin could have married the woman. He did not do so. Clearly he did not want to give her a legal contract. She was perfectly free to leave him at any time. She chose to stick around. For the courts to infer some sort of implicit contract seems an exercise in legal legerdemain.

Now comes Marilyn Barnett, seeking to extend the logic of the Marvin case into a homosexual relationship. This represents a kind of culmination of the whole "gay rights" movement of the last 10 years.

Homosexuality, here, is not a discreet vice, tolerated if not condoned. It comes out of the closet and into the courtroom, demanding legal confirmation and public validity.

The case of homosexual toleration in the past has been made on the grounds of privacy: keep the police out of the bedroom. But now the bedroom is coming into the public forum, coming into the courtroom. What once was private has become a public issue.

I sense that Marilyn Barnett has done us all a favor, that she has invited us to draw a line, and that we will do so.

A great many relationships between human beings are possible. But Western culture has made marriage central, and given it special legal status.

Clearly, experience has demonstrated, marriage is the institution within which children are best raised.

I doubt that we are about to give equivalent legal status to arrangements like that of Billy Jean King and Marilyn Barnett. As in the Marvin case, there was no contract. Neither party insisted upon one.

Now Billy Jean finds herself on, so to speak, the conservative side of this argument. She has no self-interest in ratifying ever more devious interpretations of what is acceptable.

Mrs. King once publicized an abortion she had undergone. The child would have prevented her from playing at Wimbledon, and the consequence of that would have been that she would now hold 20 instead of 22 Wimbledon championships.

It may be, now, that she will begin to rethink the rights of that unborn child as well — but don't bet on it.

RUSTY BROWN

'What Do I Do For Me?'

Two young women I know are postponing marriage to get established in careers. One is doing public relations for a museum and gunning for a title. The other has recently become a fashion writer and loves her semiannual trips to New York for the fancy designers' shows.

Both like being in the mainstream and feel, as do many women today, that the early 30s is the right time to have babies.

What they may not realize is that the longer they wait, the greater may be the shock of having a baby and being suddenly confined to home.

At least that's what one observer notes. She is Susan Seligman, a 30-year-old mother who leads workshops to ease women's adjustment into motherhood's strange mix of destiny, joy and captivity.

Her workshops grew out of the book that she wrote while benched with a 3-year-old and his burping baby brother. The title: "Now that I'm a Mother ... What Do I Do for Me?" (Contemporary Books Inc. $5.95).

It is the mothers in their 30s, says the young author, who have the greatest difficulty coping with the abrupt change in lifestyle.

"After working a decade, being home with an infant all day really gets to them," she explains. "Whether or not they will someday return to full-time work, they still have to get through all those preschool years with spit-up on their blouses, making formula, waxing floors and not feeling they're getting anywhere.

"I know what it feels like to tick off your accomplishments for the day as a trek to the grocery store or, perhaps for a highlight, two hours in the pediatrician's waiting room."

Her own needs and her sensitivity to other women drove her to find ways to be a good parent, streamline the housework and be able to develop personal potentials. The key, she says, is using the time at home to dig deep and unearth who you really are, what you most like to do and what you want out of life.

She urges women to look around their communities for dance, exercise and crafts classes that provide simultaneous baby sitting, to check women's centers at universities that offer day care while mom takes a course.

Some women find ways to use their already polished skills. She tells about an ex-math teacher who hires a teen-ager to amuse her three preschoolers while she tutors students in her home, an accountant who does tax work from her kitchen office, a commercial artist who does illustrations at home for a children's book.

What really impresses Mrs. Seligman are the women who used their time at home to explore new avenues and turn their lives into totally new directions. For example:

— A mother who got out of the house one night a week to take a course in calligraphy, practiced in every spare moment and now teaches it in an adult-education course.

— A camera buff who became serious about photography when she became a mother. Baby's outings in the park and the zoo doubled as photo assignments, and now this mother is a popular freelance children's photographer.

Aid To Guatemala Despite Massacre

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration still plans to resume the sale of arms to the military government of Guatemala, despite warnings by our embassy there that right-wing terrorists supported by the regime were probably responsible for a recent massacre of 31 townspeople — one of them a young girl.

The torture and execution of the villagers occurred in the small farming community of Chuabajito on April 9, according to the U.S. Embassy's confidential cable to Washington. Anywhere from 20 to 80 masked men in civilian clothes, armed with machetes and automatic weapons, descended on the town in three trucks that had no license plates.

The invaders went from house to house demanding supposedly hidden firearms. They fired shots in the air and put up leftist revolutionary propaganda posters in the village. The masked gang rounded up 23 men and led them blindfolded to the village schoolhouse, where they were butchered within the hour.

The embassy cable describes the scene of horror the terrorists left behind: "The bodies bore machete or bullet wounds or both; and at least some showed explicit torture. Ostensibly the intruders killed the child when she ran to embrace her father. Purportedly because of fear of reprisal, most of the bodies went unclaimed."

The bodies were buried in a mass grave. Some of them, according to Guatemalan reports, had been brutalized to the point of decapitation.

When reports of the massacre began to filter out of the hinterlands, the government of Maj. Gen. Fernando Romeo Lucas Garcia promised a complete investigation. Within a week, the military regime issued a report blaming the atrocity on "criminal subversives" — meaning leftist guerrillas.

But political experts in the U.S. Embassy smelled a rat. Their analysis, based on knowledge of the intricate, dog-eat-dog of right-left violence in Guatemala, suggested that the military was covering up for a right-wing death squad. The cable to Foggy Bottom, reviewed by my associate Bob Sherman, explains the experts' reasoning this way:

"The government explanation strains credibility. Although the guerrillas claim more campesino (peasant) victims than they are usually credited with, torture is not usually part of the modus operandi; nor would guerrillas be searching for arms in campesino homes, or be traveling in plateless vehicles, which could be expected to attract the attention of authorities.

"A guerrilla motive would be hard to fathom," the cable continues, "unless it would have been to pin an atrocity on the government, in which case the intruders should have been dressed in uniform ..."

The embassy analysts concluded that the brutal attack may have been part of a pattern of government retribution against peasants in areas in which the leftists enjoy wide support. "Grim experience suggests that Chuabajito was a reprisal, with a bow to plausible denial, in the pattern of earlier incidents."

The Reagan administration appears to be unmoved by the suspicions of the embassy experts on the scene, however. My sources say the State Department still plans to recommend a resumption of weapons sales to the Guatemalan regime. The sales were halted by President Carter in 1977 when the military regime failed to give satisfactory assurances that it would try to clean up its human rights act.

Tourism UP In Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Sid Levin says a $650,000 television advertising blitz worked, ending a slump in Florida's critical tourism industry.

The 12 percent decline in tourism occurring during the first three-months of 1981 has ended, Levin reported Monday, with the industry likely to do at least as well this summer as a year ago.

A poor winter season prompted the Cabinet to release $650,000 for an emergency television campaign. The advertising, concentrated on Eastern Seaboard cities, resulted in growth and normal showings in the major tourism indicators, the secretary said.

"April indicators show a positive upward trend of recovery. ... There is guarded optimism that tourism will be equal to 1980 standards by summer."

Final figures for April aren't available yet, but preliminary estimates show that the significant first-quarter drop has ended, Levin said.

"Welcome Station" stops are starting to increase again after a drop in January, February and March. Attendance at major tourist attractions has rebounded from an early-year decline.

Automobile traffic into the state was down 11 percent for the quarter. January's figure was 14.5 percent below January of 1980. There was improvement, however, to a 7.3 percent decline in March. There has been a slight growth since Easter.

Air traffic, which was down 13 percent during the first quarter of the year from the same period of 1980, also is showing definite improvement.

"Reports from airlines serving Florida indicate an upturn in April after special packages and promotional fares were introduced," Levin said.

One of the few bright spots in the 1980 Consumer Price Index, a leading inflation indicator, is overall medical care prices have remained lower than the inflation rate. According to figures published in the Journal of the American Hospital Association, the Consumer Price Index ended the year posting a 12.4 percent gain while medical costs, an important component of the index, rose at a lower 10 percent. In fact, the JAMA notes, this trend has continued since December of 1978 with the CPI increasing at faster yearly rates than overall medical care. The efforts by many members of the medical team at effective cost containment have and are, apparently, paying dividends - to the health care consumer.

Bob Hope's For Gun Control

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Comedian Bob Hope says he's going to have a talk about gun control with President Reagan the next time he sees his old friend.

In an interview with ABC Radio in West Point, where Hope was taping an upcoming television special, he expressed support for gun control for the first time.

"I think the violence today is a concern of every citizen and I am for gun control," Hope said. "When I see President Reagan again I am going to talk with him about that because I don't see any reason why we shouldn't have gun control."

Anticipating the arguments of gun control opponents, Hope said:

"It doesn't mean the hunters are going to have their guns taken away from them — they're just registered. What's wrong with that?"

"And if they catch someone walking around with a gun — like they caught that kid who shot him (Reagan) in Memphis with three guns — he would be in the can and they'd take care of it. I just can't see anyone just walking in and buying a gun."

Actually, it was in Nashville, Tenn., that John Hinckley Jr., the man charged with shooting Reagan on March 30, was detained briefly for trying to get on an airplane carrying several guns in his luggage.

'Honeysuckle Rose' Belted In Tribute To Fats Waller

United Press International

JAZZ VESPERS: Hazel Scott, who sang at Fats Waller's funeral in 1943, belted out "Honeysuckle Rose" in a tribute to Fats Sunday night at Manhattan's Saint Peter's Church where the pastor, the Rev. John Garcia Gesel, holds jazz vespers. Hank Jones, who played with Charlie Parker, was on piano; Orvall Shaw, who was with Louis Armstrong and Benny Goodman, on bass. Mel Lewis, leader of the Jazz Orchestra, on drums. Lee Irwin performed Fats' "Jitterbug Waltz" on the church organ. The event was billed as Fats' 77th birthday party because, Miss Scott said, "he's with us in spirit." To that end, a player piano provided Fats' arrangement of "Squeeze Me." His son, Maurice Waller, accepted a tribute from New York's Mayor Ed Koch. For the finale, a chorus of the past and present companies of the Broadway hit "Ain't Misbehavin'" sang Fats' "Black and Blue."

Legendary Italian Sings

TENOR'S ENCORE: Ferruccio Tagliavini fans were out in force this weekend at Carnegie Hall to hear the legendary Italian "tenore di grazia" (graceful tenor) sing in New York for the first time since his retirement from the Metropolitan Opera in 1954. The 67-year-old singer returned from his native Italy to sing at a benefit for the American Opera Repertory Company's high school apprenticeship program. He sang the title role in a concert performance of Mascagni's "L'Amico Fritz" with remarkable musicianship and intensity and was rewarded by the audience with a standing ovation, armfuls of flowers and embraces at the edge of the stage. Tagliavini was coached in the role of Fritz by Mascagni himself and the composer died in Tagliavini's arms in 1945.

Author-Critic To Get Award

GO FOR THE GOLD: The American Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters will hand out its special awards in New York today — including one to an author-critic who wrote about William Faulkner and another to the actor who was the voice of Darth Vader. This year's gold medals go to Malcolm Cowley for belles lettres and criticism, and to Raphael Sayer for painting. James Earl Jones, who along with more serious acting was the voice of the villain in "Star Wars," gets a special award, the medal for spoken language. The medal was last presented in 1982 to Julie

Tribute On Basketball Court

MANCINI MOTIF: It was a "Tribute to Henry Mancini" on the basketball court of UCLA's Pauley Pavilion, but the man who held court was Luciano Pavarotti. Pavarotti was the star of the evening — called back by standing ovations for three encores — as 7,000 people filled the gymnasium last weekend to raise money for the university's performing arts program. And they paid up to $500 per ticket for the privilege. Andy Williams both hosted and performed, and other performers included Quincy Jones, Agle Dickson and the UCLA Marching Band. President Reagan sent a special message of tribute for the composer-conductor's "long and distinguished career, filled with Academy Awards, TV awards, Grammy Awards and gold albums."

Alda To Attend Gala

GLIMPSES: Alan Alda will attend the May 21 gala New York screening of "The Four Seasons," the film he wrote, directed and stars in. ... The San Diego Opera has commissioned Leonardo Balada to compose a new opera, "Zapata," based on the life of Mexican hero Emiliano Zapata. It will star Sherrill Milnes in the title role. ... The French fashion house of Chanel, Inc., is suing Larry Spangler, producer of the movie "Chanel Solitaire," for $1 million, charging him with trademark infringement and falsely suggesting Chanel is associated with the film about designer Coco Chanel's early years.

Antennas can be dangerous to your health.

What's on the tube might not hurt you, but what's on the roof could.

If a TV or CB antenna touches a power line, and you touch any part of the antenna or even a supporting guy wire, a serious shock may be the result.

So, play it safe. Look up. Make sure there's no chance of contact with power lines before you erect or remove an antenna.

Make sure you have clearance distance all around that's no less than the height of the mast. And twice as far, would be twice as safe.

Supreme Court To Consider Pinball Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court is going to tell millions of children whether they have a constitutional right to play Space Invaders and other coin-operated amusement games.

The seemingly frivolous controversy the high court agreed to take up Monday actually has great significance for the rights of children under the Constitution.

The justices will review a Mesquite, Texas, ordinance that bars anyone under 17 from entering an amusement arcade unless accompanied by a parent or guardian.

A federal appeals court struck down the law, concluding the age limit infringes on a child's First Amendment right to free association.

In other action Monday, the high court: —In a major decision bolstering the "right to remain silent," ruled, 9-0, that police must stop questioning a suspect when he says he doesn't want to talk until his attorney arrives.

—Cleared the way for prosecution of Hustler magazine owner Larry Flynt on charges of "pandering obscenity" in Cleveland. But a city official admitted the prosecution had "political" overtones and the case may be dropped.

—Unanimously upheld an appeals court ruling Texas violated a convicted murderer's rights when it used a psychiatrist's assessment of the man was "sociopathic" to convince the jury to give him the death sentence.

—Agreed to settle a dispute over how much authority the federal government has to coordinate regional distribution of electric power.

—Settled an important pension dispute, ruling a compensation award won by a worker for a job-related injury can be deducted from his retirement benefits.

The children's rights controversy developed in 1976, when Aladdin's Castle Inc. announced plans for an amusement center in a Mesquite shopping mall. But the city had a law prohibiting people under 17 from playing the coin-operated games, such as the popular electronic amusement called Space Invaders.

The Mesquite City Council amended the age prohibition measure and Aladdin's went ahead with its plans. But the city later reinstated the age restriction.

Atlanta Killings Suspect List 'Dwindles To None'

ATLANTA (UPI) — Police in a suburban Atlanta county where five of the city's 27 slain young blacks were found say although "trace evidence" was found on all but one of the five bodies, they now doubt the importance of the link.

DeKalb County Police spokesman Chuck Johnson said Monday the body of the fifth victim, Aaron Wyche, 10, was never searched for fibers or similar evidence because his case was not originally believed to be linked to the others.

Johnson, who also said the county police department's list of suspects "has dwindled to none," said investigators were becoming discouraged about the importance of the trace evidence.

"We at first thought it was a very good link," Johnson said. "Now the fact is that the fibers apparently were on so many victims, and that in itself could be a very good link, but we're beginning to wonder — since they're so common — if it is a good link."

The four victims found in DeKalb County and linked by the evidence were Patrick Baltazar, 11, Curtis Walker, 13, Joseph Bell, 15, and William Barrett, 17.

Bodies have been dumped in at least six jurisdictions that help make up the metropolitan Atlanta area and some investigators believe the killers were deliberately trying to confuse authorities.

The series of unsolved slayings is entering its 22nd month with no arrests. Atlanta authorities believe, however, the case will eventually be solved.

"Right now, as frustrating as it is, I still lean to the fact we are going to solve it," said Fulton County District Attorney Lewis Slaton. "I still think that with the work that's being done in the case, there will be a break."

But Slaton added he is surprised that a break has not already come because of the frequency of killings in 1981 — 11 so far this year.

"We have come up with several potential suspects but they've all been eliminated at this point," said Johnson. "We have no suspects at this time."

Johnson identified one of the potential suspects being considered as Felton Talley, 26, who was killed May 12 in a shootout with Atlanta police. Talley and another man became involved in a confrontation with police after Talley was accused of vandalizing a school bus.

Johnson said Talley was eliminated as a suspect before the shooting because he apparently was in jail at the times when the murders of the young blacks found in DeKalb County took place.

Shell Dumps Rinker

Clem Leonard Shell dumped Rinker Materials 17-7 Tuesday, and in doing so won the first half championship in the Sanford Pee Wee League with a perfect 5-0 record.

Second place Adcock Roofing topped Ken Kern's Garage 15-7, while Seminole Sporting Goods nipped Butch's Chevron 12-11.

The second half of the season opens Thursday, and Clem Leonard Shell and Adcock Roofing tangle at 6 p.m. at Chase Park. Adcock Roofing's only first half loss was to Clem Leonard Shell, 8-2.

Rinker Materials picked up an unearned run in the top of the first, but Clem Leonard Shell scored five times in the bottom of the inning. Jeff Derr, Michael Merthie and Michael Grady had consecutive singles in the first for Clem Leonard.

After Rinker picked up two runs in the top of the second, Clem Leonard Shell bounced right back with seven runs in the bottom of the inning. Bill Shaw, Derr and Merthie rapped consecutive singles and Bruce Taylor capped the inning with a two-run homer.

Clem Leonard Shell added five more runs in the bottom of the third, scoring without a hit.

Winning pitcher Bill Shaw, who hurled the first three innings, gave way to reliever Michael Hartman in the fourth to preserve his pitching eligibility for Thursday. Hartman had control problems and walked the first three batters he faced before Elbert Williams belted a grand slam home run. Hartman then worked out of the inning without giving up another run.

Derr was two for two with two RBIs for the winners. Merthie was two for three.

Federal Wins 12 Of 13

Moore No-Hitter Sends Clem Leonard Into Shell

Kalvin Moore hurled a no-hitter and went three for three at the plate to lead First Federal to an 11-1 win over Clem Leonard Shell. It was the 12th win in 13 outings for First Federal. Ironically, the only loss was to Clem Leonard Shell.

In other games Tuesday, Suniland Corporation nipped the Railroaders 8-3 and Sanford D.A.V. topped Cardinal Industries 23-15.

In today's action in the Sanford Little National League, Seminole Petroleum battles Flagship Bank at 5 p.m. at Fort Mellon Park, while Jack Prosser Ford plays Triple I.I. Trucking at the same time at Westside Field. Krayola Kollege plays Butch's Chevron at 7 p.m. at Fort Mellon Park.

Two games will be played at Chase Park in the Sanford Junior League. Kiwanis plays Rotary at 5 p.m., while Knights of Columbus battles Masters Cove Apartments at 7 p.m. Knights of Columbus is 12-0 overall and 3-0 in the second half. Kiwanis is 2-0 in the second half.

first as the result on a walk and an error.

First Federal rebounded with three runs in the bottom of the first. Then, after both teams were scoreless in the second, First Federal scored three runs in the third and five in the fourth. There were no outs in the fourth when First Federal lead with 10 runs in the top of the fifth.

Bobby Coffield was four for four with a pair of doubles to pace D.A.V. at the plate. Shelton Slater had a triple and single for the winners and Ira Hall Jr. hit a triple.

Bibby Baffles Braves

By United Press International

Using his book on the Atlanta Braves to perfection, Jim Bibby came within "a poul-cue shot" Tuesday night of pitching the second perfect game in the major leagues in four days.

Terry Harper, who smacked a first-inning lead off single—a soft liner off the end of the bat that resembled a billiard ball—turned out to be the only base runner the Braves were able to get off the Pittsburgh Pirates' right-hander, who retired the last 27 batters in order en route to a 5-0 triumph.

"I'm excited about it, but I'm not going to jump up and click my heels together," said Bibby, 1-2, after his triumph at Pittsburgh snapped the Pirates' three-game losing streak. "It just felt good to win."

Bibby's hitting was almost as good as his control. He had two doubles in three at-bats, scoring the Pirates' second run in the fifth inning and driving in Steve Nicosia with the fifth run in the sixth off loser Phil Niekro, also 2-2.

Cardinals 15, Astros 12
Garry Templeton and Tony Scott knocked in four runs each to pace an 18-hit attack as the Cardinals won. Reliever Jim Kaat, 2-0, was credited with the victory. Bob Sprowl, 0-1, suffered the loss.

Third-Inning-On Caldwell Handcuffs Fading Twins
By United Press International
If Mike Caldwell could begin every game in the third inning, they'd probably have a niche in Cooperstown all set up for him.

The veteran lefthander—a slow starter but strong finisher—lived up to form Tuesday night, getting roughed up a bit in the first two innings before settling down to pitch the Milwaukee Brewers to a 4-3 victory over the fading Minnesota Twins.

"One of the problems I have is trying to get through the early innings," Caldwell, 4-1, said. "Once I get through... I usually get all the way."

Cecil Cooper belted a two-run homer and Ted Simmons cracked a solo shot to help the Brewers hand the Twins their sixth straight loss.

Simmons slammed his fifth home run of the season to tie the score, 1-1, in the

Three-Point Plan Proposed For Free-Agency
NEW YORK (UPI)—A three-point proposal for guidelines on free-agent selection was submitted Tuesday by major league baseball club owners in an effort to reach agreement on the compensation issue and avoid a May 29 strike of the Players Association.

The three proposed modifications are:

- First, ranking free agents could negotiate with more than 13 clubs if selected by them in the stipulated number of rounds;
- Second, the performance criteria used to rank free agents would be expanded from plate appearances to include such statistics as batting averages and RBI for batters, innings pitched and ERA for pitchers and fielding figures for catchers and infielders.
- Third, ranking free agents selected in the re-entry draft with 10 or more years of major league service could be signed for an amateur draft selection compensation only, with no professional player involved.

North Stars Light Shining

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—The young Minnesota North Stars are fired up with the feeling they still might win the Stanley Cup, despite trailing the New York Islanders three games to one.

Minnesota upset the defending champions in Game 4 of the NHL final series Tuesday night, 4-2, and 19-year-old rookie goalie Don Beaupre was an example of the team's enthusiasm, with 33 saves.

North Stars' Coach Glen Sonmor praised Beaupre for an "absolutely superb game," and Beaupre brashly suggested, "We can beat this team."

The best-of-seven cup finals move to Unionsdale, N.Y. for Game 5 Thursday night, and the Islanders are heavy favorites to wrap up the title then—but Sonmor says his rookie-studded team "doesn't concede anything."

"This team now has the feeling it can win every time it takes the ice," he said.

Steve Payne, a veteran at 22, who scored the winning goal on a tip-in with 7:33 remaining Tuesday to run his play-off total to 17, tried to be realistic. "Let's face it," he said. "New York is still in the driver's seat. We are still in a lot of trouble."

But Beaupre and Bobby Smith think they have a chance to win. "I think we proved we can beat this team," Beaupre said.

Smith added, "We'll go as hard as we can Thursday. If we win, great. If we lose, they'll have to beat us. We won't give it away."

Sonmor was full of pride over his team after his team broke a 2-1 tie late in the game, with Payne scoring the winning goal and Smith adding the clincher.

"Our North Stars gave it a superb effort and made fewer mistakes," he said.

The North Stars and Islanders scored two goals each in the first two periods. Gord Lane scored first for New York 3:47 into the game, and Minnesota's Craig Hartsburg tied it up at 11:34. In the second period, Al MacAdam put Minnesota ahead 2-1, but Mike McEwen tied it up.

Coach Al Arbour of the Islanders said it was "one heckuva hockey game—skating, hitting and shooting. Too bad we were on the wrong end of the score."

"We're not very happy," said Islanders center Bulch Goring, "but they played a heckuva game."

New York goalie Billy Smith added, "We had to expect them to play a good game in their own rink with their backs to the wall. They're a very good hockey team and I think a few of us might have played a little overconfident."

Maxwell Named Playoff MVP

NEW YORK (UPI)—Basketball buffs can talk all they want about the Boston Celtics' teamwork, but Cedric Maxwell has an MVP trophy to prove it.

Maxwell, a 6-foot-8 forward, played the entire season as one of Coach Bill Fitch's hardest-workers and Tuesday was awarded the NBA's Most Valuable Player trophy for the championship series against the Houston Rockets.

It probably could have gone to any of the Boston starters, but when the Rockets clamped down on Bird, Maxwell took control of a redirected Celtics offense to carry Boston to its 14th NBA title.

Maxwell nearly doubled his rebounding average in the six-game championship series—from 6.7 per game in the regular season to 11 against the Rockets—and went from a 15.2 season scoring average to 18.5 against Houston.

"I don't think you could get a more satisfying feeling, especially the way Houston played," Maxwell said Tuesday, after receiving the trophy at a New York hotel. "They were very competitive and showed a lot of class."

"It's a fine, fine compliment. It's a big boost to my ego, especially playing with guys like Larry Bird and Moses Malone."

Maxwell, a four-year pro out of North Carolina-Charlotte, received six of the seven votes cast by news media.

"Here's a guy who's a role player who's often overlooked, but in my opinion he's an All-Star," Fitch said. "We played a completely different game in the final series. You take what they give you. If they do certain things to Bird (Nate Archibald) and (Robert) Parish, you go to Max."

Frontiere Calls Exciting

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Oakland Raiders' attorney Joseph Alioto has accused Los Angeles Rams' owner Georgia Frontiere of placing excited telephone calls to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, pleading with him to block the Raiders' planned move to Los Angeles. Alioto made the accusation Tuesday during opening arguments in the $213 million antitrust suit filed by the Los Angeles Coliseum and the Raiders against the NFL and the Rams.

The Raiders want to move to fill the void created by the departure of the Rams to suburban Anaheim. The Coliseum, a 100,000-seat structure in the nation's third-largest city, currently has no NFL tenant.

The NFL, which blocked the move by citing a league rule requiring approval of three-fourths of the franchise owners, is accused of conspiring with the Rams to prevent the Raiders' relocation.

She told Mr. Rozelle, "Please keep the Raiders out of Los Angeles." Alioto said, "because we can't stand the competition."

Mr. Rozelle told her not to worry.

Rozelle and Raiders' owner Al Davis — bitter enemies at best — listened intently to the opening arguments, but both smiled frequently, and occasionally laughed at the humorous delivery of Coliseum attorney Maxwell Blecher.

Attorneys for the NFL and the Rams were scheduled to begin their opening arguments today in the suit, which could result in a landmark decision concerning professional sports. It was refreshing for me to hear the case recapped," Davis said, upon leaving the courtroom. "Today was like our past season."

Cook Of The Week: Sue Schwegman

'Sweets Are My Favorite'

By JANE AKERS
Herald Correspondent
"Sweets are my favorite," says Sue Schwegman. "If I had time I'd bake everyday." Sue and her husband Don live at 706 Briarcliffe Street in Sanford. They have two sons, Nicholas, 2, and Beau, 7 months-old.

Sue is administrative assistant at Avco Finance in Sanford. Her hobbies are cooking, baking, sewing and reading.

Sue says she loves to bake desserts and sweet things. "If I baked everyday I'd be as big as a barn," she smiled.

Maybe some people just have a knack for baking, but to Sue it all comes easy. "I don't have a lot of flops in the kitchen," admits Sue. "There are a few secrets that help out."

When one bakes or cooks there are little things that you can do to help perfect your finished product. Sue explained that one should take their time and not rush in the kitchen when baking. Follow the directions accurately. One thing that helps is using a cooling rack for cakes and cookies.

Sue suggests that you mix all ingredients well. Butter or margarine should be at room temperature. Eggs should be taken out of the refrigerator about one to two hours before baking.

In baking cookies, cakes or muffins, it helps to pre-heat the pans or cookie sheets.

"The thing that helps me is to take my time and enjoy what I'm doing," says Sue. "I feel that when I'm in the mood to bake or cook I get the best results." "This could have a lot to do with being relaxed and taking my time," she added.

The following are some of the Schwegmans favorites. Take your time, relax and enjoy the sweets.

Sue Schwegman serves homemade pie.

water
1/4 cup butter
4 eggs at room temperature
In saucepan, over high heat, bring 1 cup water and the butter to a boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add sifted flour mixture all at once, beating constantly with a wooden spoon, until mixture leaves sides of pan in a smooth compact ball. Heat oven to 375 degrees. To mixture in saucepan add eggs one at a time, beating well with spoon after each addition. Drop batter one heaping tablespoon at a time onto cookie sheet making 8-10 cream puffs. Bake 40 minutes without peeking. Garnish with ice cream, whipped topping and chocolate.

Sharp, Sick, Stubborn Mom Refuses To See A Doctor

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: We have a 68-year-old widowed mother who needs a doctor but refuses to go to one or let one come to her house. She told us that if we bring a doctor to the house, she will throw us and the doctor out. She is not a Christian Scientist; she has had doctors in the past but she doesn't want one now.

Abby, her feet and ankles are so swollen they look like elephant's feet! She can't wear shoes and isn't able to stand for more than five minutes. Her feet and legs are purplish, so it's obvious she has some kind of circulatory problem.

We have a brother living at home who does the laundry and cooking. He says Mother is so stubborn he can't cope with her. She's not senile; her mind is sharp as a razor. We feel so helpless. Every doctor we've spoken to says he can't treat Mother without her consent. We can't drag her to a doctor if she doesn't want to go. Or can we?

smitting cold germs.

According to one theory, the custom of handshaking was originally intended to demonstrate that the hand concealed no weapon. How much more graceful is the Oriental greeting of bowing with upturned hands joined together as in prayer, demonstrating that neither hand conceals a weapon.

Furthermore, many physicians believe that handshakes are the most common culprit in transmitting cold germs.

Could anything be more useful in today's gun-loving U.S.A.?

HENRY TEMIANKA, L.A., CALIF.
DEAR HENRY: Gun control might help.

HELPLESS
DEAR HELPLESS: No, you can't drag her to a doctor. Assuming Mother is of sound mind, the responsibility of what happens to her body must be hers. Don't fight her. When her condition becomes unbearable to her, she will be forced to do something.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think an ex-priest would make a good husband? I'm going with one who wants to marry me.

CATHY IN DETROIT
DEAR CATHY: Ex-priests should make excellent husbands. They've already taken an oath of chastity, obedience and poverty.

DEAR ABBY: You stated that people who avoid shaking hands are "mysophobic" — they have a pathological fear of germ contamination. Not necessarily.

As a violinist, my sensitive hands are sometimes crushed to a pulp by bone-crushing handshakes from overly enthusiastic well-wishers. Crippling handshakes can

'Let Patriotism Show' Ends Year For DAR

The Sallie Harrison Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) held their last meeting of the season at Frogg's Restaurant at the Crossings, Lake Mary.

After the luncheon, the business meeting was conducted by Mrs. R. E. True, Vice Regent, in the absence of the Regent, Mrs. William S. Brumley.

Mrs. C. E. Butler, National Defense chairman, gave a talk of Flag Day and patriotism, reminding the group that "patriotism is not a very large flag, or a tourist attraction, but a good turnout for a patriotic event, the Pledge of Allegiance at a civic or patriotic organization, or not being ashamed to let your patriotism show, and above all, to be proud you are an American."

The chapter voted to make donations to the Heart Fund and the Henry S. Sanford Museum-Library in memory of Hortense Weidman Rounhill, a 44-year member.

Fifteen members were present. Guests included Kimberly Carney Woods of Minneapolis, MN, granddaughter of Mrs. Fred J. Harris Sr.; Mrs. Agnes Fulton from West Virginia, guest of Mrs. William E. Baker; and Jeannine Snow, Washington, D.C., guest of Mrs. Raymond G. Fox.

Animal Lovers 'Bow' Out At Humane Society Fete

The benefit for the Humane Society of Seminole County Inc., Saturday at the Cavalier Motor Inn, Sanford, was a big success if filling the house with enthusiastic supporters is an indication of a job well done.

When Art Grindle made the announcement that the family of Seminole County Commissioner Barbara Christensen had donated a tract of land for the shelter's new home, thunderous applause echoed throughout the full house.

The food, frolic, fun, fashions and festivities were just fantastic — as were the happy people responsible for the gala camaraderie.

According to vivacious Phyllis Shomo, about $1,000 was raised in the interest of the animal shelter. Art Grindle conducted a small auction and the Cavalier's Bob Newman picked-up one-half the luncheon tab. It was a day when charity for animals was the name of the game.

Entertainer Phyllis Dale was the beauty-full mistress of ceremonies and was also the commentator for the fashion show. Fashions were from Ivey's and Honey Suckle Rose.

Among other entertainers donating their services to animal welfare were Clay Daniels, Al Dunaway of Radio Station WFLE-FM, and Rosie O'Grady's Red Hot Mama, Sherli Davis and Fred Stewart in his get-up as Oliver Hardy.

Several members of the society board of directors were on duty helping take care of the crowd. Phyllis Grindle was sorta in the hostess capacity. Pauline McDonald was even helping the waitresses clear tables.

Extremely pleased with the benefit, Ruth Henry, HSSC executive director said, "I thought it was fantastic. We are very pleased with the turnout and food." Ruth added that the fundraiser netted over $1,000.

This benefit was boosted through the help of various individuals in the community.

Barbara Woodall, vice president of the Humane Society of Seminole County Inc., was presented the "Volunteer of the Year" Award by the Florida Federation of Humane Societies. She has served in all areas of animal welfare for many years. Congratulations are in order.

Minnie and Rupert Strickland were honored Sunday as an "outstanding couple" at the First United Methodist Church, Sanford. Ashby Jones made the tribute. Arriving from Satellite Beach to attend the presentation were the couple's daughter, Marianne Barr and children, John and Becky.

Several Kiwanis Club members, attired in brilliant orange vests, attended the service in a group. Kiwanis president Terry Goebel is a church member.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Betty) Willis, 200 Mirror Drive, have returned from Abilene, Texas where they attended Commencement Exercises of her daughter, Beverly Jo Martindill, from Hardin Simmons University.

The couple were accompanied to Texas by Beverly Jo's sister, Mrs. Ann Welborn.

Mickey Fleming won "Best of Show" for her China painting and Peggy Deere won a first place ribbon for a wall hanging. Delegates to the convention were Jean Fowler, club president, Pat Foster and Peggy Deere. Others SWC members attending the convention were Vida Smith, District VII Director, and Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith, past president of FFWC.

The annual spring social of the Woman's Club of Sanford was held Saturday night at the Silver Lake home of Jean and Richard Fowler.

About 55 members and guests gathered for a Texas barbecue and all the fun and frolic that goes along with such an outing. Ann Brisson and her committee, responsible for the good-time fete were: Mary Drew, Olive Hunt, Virginia Mercer, Freida Tyre and Sandra Wilson.

Among the guests attending were the Fowlers' houseguest, Helen Beals, East Greenwich, R.I., Elizabeth and Frank Mebane, guests of Estelle Davis, and Florence and Bill Ross, guests of Emy Bill.

Graduates In Texas

Beverly Jo Martindill, daughter of Mrs. Charles Willis of Sanford and a 1977 graduate of Seminole High School, Sanford, was graduated May 9 from Hardin Simmons University, Abilene, Texas.

Miss Martindill received a B.E. degree with a major in elementary education and a minor in generic education.

She is a member of Tri Phi Phi social sorority and has accepted a position in special education in the Abilene school system.

Parents Of Pregnant Teens Speak Out

Editors Note: The rise in pregnancies among the unmarried American teenagers has been described in some surveys as "epidemic." Among the people most concerned, but usually overlooked, are the parents of the teenagers who produce these pregnancies. The following story is based on interviews with some about-to-be grandparents involved in a program for such cases in Ohio.

While the cases described are real, the names have been changed, except for that of the doctor in charge of the program.

By SANDRA L. LATIMER
First Of Two Parts

MARION, Ohio (UPI) — "Wake up! There's going to be a wedding, grandfather," was how David found out his teenage daughter Peg, his first-born child, was six months pregnant.

The teens, both about to become seniors in high school, had broken the "news" to Peg's mother, Eleanor, first. Eleanor says now her first reaction was disappointment her daughter hadn't told her sooner and then her biggest concern was that her daughter hadn't seen a doctor.

David said his initial feeling was disbelief, but then he and his wife supported the teens' plan to get married.

In another household, Abigail was shocked when her daughter Marilyn came downstairs the first day of her senior year in high school wearing a maternity dress.

"If you say anything, I'm not going to school," Abigail recalled her daughter told her.

Abigail admits she was hurt, shocked, angry, and disgusted. She blurted the trite phrases: "How could you do this to me?" and "You've got your whole life ahead of you."

Abigail now says those feelings soon passed but she is still hurt. Her husband's attitude at first, she said, was "I told you so," but he calmed down to wait the birth of the baby while Marilyn, who did not marry the father of the child, continued her senior year in high school.

A recent report shows 1.1 million teenagers became pregnant in 1978 and that 96 percent of the young mothers opted to keep their babies, a sharp upswing from the practice of a generation or even a decade ago.

In yet another household, Judy cried and screamed after her youngest son told her "someone's pregnant" and she figured out which of her daughters it was.

Sometimes, according to parents who were interviewed, parents don't learn about a pregnancy until it is far advanced because the teenager is reluctant to tell. Typical was one mother, Helen, who said she herself guessed daughter Vicky was pregnant and "had to worm it out of her."

Fran, mother of pregnant Rose, said when she got the word, "I drove around the block and left Rose with her father. When I left he was saying, 'You're not going to live here; it's not my grandchild.' But when I got back, they were hugging and he said, 'It's my grandchild; I'll love it.'"

Bertha, mother of pregnant Nancy, said her husband took the news a lot better than she did.

"He was a great comfort," she said. "He told me, 'At least she wasn't killed. She is alive. You can get over the fact that she's pregnant.'"

"I haven't planned for this baby and I'm not looking forward to it, but I know I'll love it," she said, crying and wiping her eyes.

Another mother, Catherine, decided to go along with her daughter Olivia who told her she was 11 weeks pregnant and had an appointment for the following week at the abortion clinic.

Catherine said she and her daughter were both frightened when they went to the clinic.

"Olivia probably would have left (the abortion clinic) if I hadn't been there with her," she said. "She just wanted to get it over with. The wait made it more painful. But it seemed to her just like a toothache — she wanted to get it pulled. She doesn't talk about it."

Since the abortion, Olivia has quit seeing the responsible boy and has begun dating another man.

"I told her never to tell him (the new boyfriend) about it (abortion)," she said.

"But I'm glad it was just a pregnancy, rather than drugs," Catherine said. "With pregnancy, nine months and its over. With drugs, you're never really free."

How many parents of teenagers are having this experience?

A recent report shows 1.1 million teenagers became pregnant in 1978 and that 96 percent of the young mothers opted to keep the baby, a sharp upswing from the practice of a generation or even a decade ago.

After the initial shock, it appears most parents today accept the decision made by teenagers and support the children — whether that decision is marriage, keeping the child without marrying, putting the child up for adoption, or even abortion.

In Marion County in north central Ohio, it's estimated there are 10,000 teenagers in the rural county and around 2,000 females and 5,000 males are sexually active. It's also estimated there are 350 to 400 teen pregnancies a year.

'I did everything except crush them birth control pills and put them in their orange juice.'

In 1978, out of 1,253 babies born at the lone hospital in the county that delivers, 378 were to teenagers. By 1979, 304 babies, out of 1,523 born at the same hospital, were born to females between the ages of 13 and 20.

Parents of the pregnant teens have found a friend in obstetrician Dr. James Bazzoli, 37, who came to Marion County in 1978. For four years he has conducted a special program to deal with this problem that affects families in every strata of society.

The program — Marion Adolescent Pregnancy Program — works mostly with the pregnant girls, trying to teach them to become responsible parents. Staff members go into the high schools and junior high schools in the county and the surrounding counties to talk about the problem.

They say they don't talk about birth control "because school officials think that is too touchy a subject." If school officials request a program on birth control, the subject is handled by Bazzoli.

Many teenage girls who become pregnant are still in school. Bazzoli says he has seen girls as young as 12 get pregnant.

"If they (12 year olds) decide to keep the baby, they usually are sent to a special home to deal with special problems that arise," he said, adding the youngest girl he delivered was 13.

Girls in maternity dresses are not uncommon in schools today.

"It's socially acceptable at school," Judy said. "Teachers save crackers for Yvonne to help her over her morning sickness. It's all open in class. It's no big secret. Even her classmates ask how she is. I guess the kids accept it better than the adults do."

For his work on the project, Bazzoli was named Man of the Year in 1980 by the city's weekly newspaper.

Dried-Up Florida May Get Relief From Rainfall

MIAMI (UPI) — Heavy rains moving toward South Florida and a "dramatic" increase in underground water may mean relief from the months-long drought in which land has collapsed into sinkholes and blackened in wildfires.

The National Weather Service said there was a 40 percent chance eight of the nine South Florida counties where the drought has brought vast wildfires and a 25-percent water-use cutback would get rain from a line of thunderstorms that has drenched northern Florida. The rain chance in the Florida Keys was set at 20 percent.

In Central Florida counties, where at least nine sinkholes have collapsed in land hollowed out by a lowered water table, the rainfall chance was set at 50 percent.

Two previous storm fronts that moved over South Florida were "extremely disappointing," forecaster Bob Case of the National Weather in Service at Miami said Tuesday, but he added he was more optimistic about this one.

"Light rains would leave the area still dry — and facing rainless northwest winds in the wake of the front," he said.

"If we miss it (this) afternoon and evening, we will miss our chance for the next two or three days," Case said. If the rain falls — especially on shrinking Lake Okechobee, reservoir for half the state's nine million people — chances will improve that the South Florida Water Management District will delay doubling the water cutback order to 50 percent today, a spokesman said.

The board meets at 2 p.m. The Southwest Florida Water Management District is also scheduled to consider imposing water cutbacks in the 16 Central Florida counties whose water supplies it manages. That board meets at 9:30 a.m. in Brooksville.

Increasing the South Florida cutback order to 80 percent would involve a total ban on use of water for any out of doors activity, said South district spokesman Larry Nunn.

"It we get a few good afternoon showers between now and Friday, we could delay it until next week," Nunn said.

Besides the rain, the South Florida board will consider a U.S. Geological Survey report indicating that groundwater levels "rose rather dramatically" since the 25 percent cutback was imposed last week, he said.

HOROSCOPE
By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Thursday May 21, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 21, 1981
Lady Luck is likely to favor you in most areas this coming year, but she could be a trifle fickle where joint ventures are concerned. Be careful of involving yourself in matters where you must depend heavily on another.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
If your judgment is wrong you could become involved in something today which might prove costly. Before plunging in, go on an in-depth fact-finding mission first. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 488, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Don't make unnecessary changes in course today regarding a matter which is moving in the right direction. Your alternations could hinder, rather than help.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You must be very careful today not to ask others to do things for you which they feel you could or should handle yourself. Be self-sufficient.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Material gains through established channels are likely today, but you're not apt to fare too well in situations where you take risks in hopes to get more.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
A domestic infraction could arise today. Your first reaction might be to treat the matter harshly. However, if you're tolerant and forgiving it can be resolved smoothly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
This should be a rewarding day for you, but there is a possibility you might put obstacles in your own path. Make things easy for yourself, not harder.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
If you find yourself in need of financial or business advice today, seek expert counsel. Forego the opinions of persons who lack real knowledge.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Once you set your mind to do something today, you're capable of achieving it. There is, though, a possibility you might use tactics which offend associates.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Making premature assessments or judgments is something you must guard against today. Hunches can't be relied upon. Facts can.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Be realistic in situations today where you hope to gain personally. Building your expectations beyond that which is reasonable will only lead to disappointment.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Your self-reliance and independence are admirable traits, but today you will be able to achieve more by working with others. Seek competent allies.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Your financial aspects look very encouraging today, but be prepared to work hard for what you hope to get. Rewards will be proportionate to your efforts.

Bad Breath Can Be All In Your Nose

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 33-year-old healthy woman plagued by chronic bad breath. Toothpaste and mouthwash don't help. I read about cleaning your tongue so I scraped and brushed my tongue like the devil and I still have bad breath. I heard that people often have bad breath because of trouble with their stomach. I do have a nervous stomach. Please send me any information you think will help me solve this problem.

DEAR READER — I'm glad you learned about cleaning the tongue. It is just as important to clean the tongue each time you brush your teeth as it is to clean the teeth. Many people do not realize this. It is a simple matter to brush your tongue and look in the mirror to be sure you have gotten it clean. Food tastes better, too, if your do this.

I have tried to make the point before that bad breath is a symptom. It can be caused from dental problems and anyone with this problem should certainly see his dentist and tell him about his breath problem. There are dental problems you cannot handle yourself even if you take great care of washing your teeth. Some people need dental treatments to get rid of infectious processes around the teeth.

Beyond dental problems are disorders of the sinuses or throat. You may need to see an ear, nose and throat specialist. Incidentally, breathing with the mouth open at night dries out the mouth and tongue, allowing bacteria to multiply and causing a foul breath on arising.

The many causes of bad breath are discussed in The Health Letter number 94, Haltosis: The Breath Problem and What to Do about It, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1581, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

These causes include chemical imbalances in your body. That is why fat diets and starvation can cause people to have bad breath. Stomach disorders do not cause bad breath unless you have food trapped in the lower esophagus. But various medical problems, including certain disorders of the lungs, can.

Mouthwash, breath deodorants and the like may provide very temporary relief, but if the problem is a chemical imbalance or infected sinuses or any number of other causes, don't expect too much help from those highly advertised products.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have heard of taking syrup of Ipecac to induce vomiting. Are there any side effect of this drug? If so what? Is the drug dangerous to take?

DEAR READER — Physicians have suspicious minds so I must ask you why you want to know. If you are thinking of taking it to induce vomiting for weight control, forget it. Induced vomiting can lead to problems. If you are a young girl, your inquiry makes me wonder if you are obsessed with being thin and are well on your way to anorexia nervosa. If my hunch is right, better see your doctor and get your concept of proper body weight into proper perspective.

Syrup of Ipecac in very small doses is used to help loosen up the secretions in the respiratory tract and lungs. That is why it is used in cough medicines. It takes 15 times this amount to induce vomiting. I would consider using enough to induce vomiting something that should be done only by a physician under special circumstances, such as in poisoning.

WIN AT BRIDGE

strength is to redouble. This bid is not necessarily a game force. It should guarantee at least nine high-card points and always suggests the possibility of doubling the opponents after they bid anything.

North's non-vulnerable double is not recommended. The hand is just too weak distributionally.

East has enough for game. In fact he can make 11 tricks at no trump. West can only make 10 tricks in hearts since South can ruff the third spade. Unfortunately for North and South, East elected to redouble.

South passed. This type pass asks partner to get out of his own trouble if he can. North tried a spade, but ran to one no trump after East doubled. East doubled that also and South ran to two clubs. West passed, but East doubled and South had to struggle.

The defense was most accurate. West opened his king of clubs and the defense started with three trump tricks. Then East led the queen of spades.

South wound up with two spades, a spade ruff and a heart ruff for down four. A 700-point loss instead of a non-vulnerable game.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU!

Let Young Guests Make Party Cake

By ELLIE GROSSMAN
Special To The Herald

Wow! They all get to wear gay, blue and white aprons and white paper chef's hats! All 13 of Chelsea's friends, who've come to celebrate her sixth birthday.

And look at that! A fire in the fireplace! It's not real, but, still...

"Are you ready, girls? We're going to bake a three-layer cake with our head chef, Chelsea, for her birthday!" announces Linda Kaye, founder of "birthdaybakers." "And we're going to make chocolate frosting and frosting flowers and then what'll we do?"

"EAT THE CAKE!"

"Okay, now," says Mrs. Kaye, "let's separate into two groups: six at this table with me and the others at that table with Lis and Stacy, my assistants."

Mrs. Kaye and her assistant supervising chefs will synchronize the mixing of the batter at both tables so that all three layers of her failproof white cake enter the oven simultaneously.

Ready, set—

"Darby," says Mrs. Kaye, "you put this spoon in the yeast and level it off, and Irene, you fill this spoon with salt..."

At table one, Chelsea is granted the privilege of breaking the first of three eggs.

"Daniela, you get to say when the milk hits the red line in the measuring cup and I'll help Sara pour. Here we go!"

Veronica, the brim of her chef's hat perched on the bridge of her nose, earnestly propels butter around the cake pan with a sheet of wax paper.

"Now we're going to combine the milk and the flour—" "I want to do it!"

"No, let me!"

The supervising chefs beat the batter with electric beaters, and then spatulas and mixing blades dripping with the batter are circulated for tasting. "Remember girls, we use our fingers to taste, not our tongues," cautions Mrs. Kaye.

Amanda grabs the spatula from Katya.

Cynthia wanders over to the fireplace and thrusts her hand inside to feel the fake fire.

"Everyone gather at table two so we can make the frosting flowers while the cake is baking!" says Mrs. Kaye.

"I'm thirsty!" yells Kathryn.

Supervising chefs direct the girls' attention to wax paper spread in front of them on the table, and distribute small plastic tubs of white frosting, each containing a different splash of coloring, as yet unmixed.

"Chelsea, since your favorite color is red, you get the red frosting. Now, you three girls hold the bowl for her while she stirs three times and then we'll switch and each of you will stir three times..."

"I want to take off my apron, says Kathryn.

Valerie is playing soccer with Cynthia's hat.

"My, how nicely your purple is mixing!" remarks a supervising chef to Amanda.

Pastry bags are filled democratically—each girl gets to put in three spoonfuls of her frosting—and handed around and the making of frosting flowers begins.

"Everybody have clean hand? Good, Now, to make the flowers keep one hand on top of the pastry bag and one on the bottom..."

A supervising chef quietly removes the cake pans from the oven and whisks them downstairs to a freezer for instant cooling.

Cheyenne, Chelsea's 13-month-old sister, begins to wail in her mother's lap. Valerie, her chef's hat askew, abandons her pastry bag, seizes a chocolate chip from the pile on her wax paper, walks over to Cheyenne and pops it in her mouth. Cheyenne stops screaming and Valerie returns to her bag.

"Is the frosting good, Katya?" asks a supervising chef. For several minutes, Katya has been intently consuming all traces of green frosting from one of the tubs.

"I need to go to the bathroom," announces Sara.

Amanda sits and gazes sullenly into the fire.

"I didn't make any yellow flowers!" cries Irene.

The cake is iced, flowered and engraved ("Happy Birthday, Chelsea"), candles are inserted and lighted, songs sung, pictures taken, slices served and happily consumed. Mrs. Kaye—still unruffled—smiles and says, "I've done about 300 birthday cakes in the last four years. I got the idea when I needed to do something for my own daughter's sixth birthday. I charged $125 which includes the invitations, all the equipment and ingredients, except for three eggs when we bake in the child's home instead of here (a studio apartment in uptown Manhattan), and diplomas certifying that each child has helped to bake the cake.

"The children love it. So do the mothers, and now that my own kids are older, I'm going to franchise the idea." Chelsea's mother approaches, beaming. "I can't tell you how wonderful it was—just to be part of the audience!"

Young children don chef's hats and white aprons to make birthday cake. With a supervising chef, Mom is spared planning the party. The kids do it all.

Too Many Have Eaten Too Much For Too Long

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Special To The Herald

Traffic jams and taxes may forever be our lot. But obesity does not have to be.

Admittedly, our gross national poundage seems to deny this. Overweight afflicts one out of every five Americans of age 30 and above.

Too many of us have been eating too much for too long. Some have been doing so for their entire lives. We have been spoiled by living in a land of plenty.

Strip off your clothes. Stand in front of a full-length mirror. Take a long, hard, uncompromising look at your body.

That private moment may be the beginning of wisdom for you. You may be shocked at the rolls of evidence that have slowly crept upon your body.

We are living in an age in which diabetes, cardiovascular diseases and other medical problems associated with overweight are exacting a heavy toll. Therefore, any excess pounds reflected in that mirror may be as unhealthy as they are unsightly.

To lose unwanted pounds sensibly, base your reducing plan on the findings of accredited researchers in the obesity field. There is a growing mass of reliable material, accumulated in clinics, hospitals and university laboratories, on the physiological and psychological aspects of overweight.

The research proves the importance of intelligent meal planning rather than starvation or crash diets as the best path to normal weight. Weight loss is not the full measure of a successful diet; you must also remain emotionally and physically healthy.

That means that your diet should consist of a variety of nutritious foods served in proper proportion to one another and adapted to your lifestyle and your budget.

Go easy on fats and cholesterol. Pass up seconds. Avoid binges on any particular food. Start exercising.

And don't fall for the false promises of those get-thin-quick artists.

Of course, three other elements are essential for success: patience, determination and a realistic understanding of your need to reach and maintain your desired weight.

Have Treats That Will Travel Well

Backpackers are hitting the trails, picnickers are flocking to the woods, and bicyclists peddle furiously toward the farthest horizons.

It's fun, it's healthy and it all requires plenty of energy. So the question we're bound to ask ourselves the day before this explosion of activity is, "What shall we take to eat?"

Something delicious, something easy to carry—and something that provides enough fuel for the demands of an active day in the great outdoors.

Three treats that travel well are suggested here. Each one is based on peanut butter chips—a delicious food which, all by itself, makes a splendid addition for any picnic hamper or backpack. These chips, after all, are made from real peanuts, and supply protein, niacin and other nutrients important to our well-being. But they're also a wonderful baking ingredient, combining well with many flavors. And when they're teamed with other nutritious foods, as in these recipes, the results are a happy blend of good—and good-for-you—eating.

One of the all-time favorite flavor combinations is peanut and bananas. In Peanutty Banana Sandwiches, there's a brand new way to enjoy this flavorful duo, for peanut butter chips are included in both the cookie dough—rolled and cut into circles before baking—and the banana filling.

Just right for popping into your mouth when you need an energy boost are Peanut Butter Chip Straws. Sesame seeds and chopped peanut butter chips provide chewy, munchy texture and great flavor.

PEANUTTY BANANA SANDWICHES
(Makes 9 sandwiches)

- Sandwich Wafers:
 1/2 cup peanut butter chips
 1/4 cup margarine, softened
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 egg
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
 1/4 teaspoon salt

- Filling:
 1 1/4 cups peanut butter chips
 2 medium bananas
 4 teaspoons lemon juice

In top of double boiler over hot water, melt peanut butter chips. Meanwhile, in small mixer bowl, cream margarine and sugar until fluffy. Add egg and vanilla; beat well. Blend in melted chips. Combine flour, baking soda and salt; blend into creamed mixture. Cover bowl tightly; chill about one hour, or until dough is stiff enough to handle. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Roll dough to 1/4-inch thickness on lightly floured surface; cut into 2- to 2 1/2-inch circles (use top of water glass dipped in flour). Bake on ungreased cookie sheet for 7 to 9 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove from oven; cool on wire rack. To make filling, chop chips in blender container or food processor, place chopped chips in small bowl. Slice banana; sprinkle with lemon juice. Puree banana in blender or food processor; add to chopped chips and blend well. Spread 1/2 of cooled wafers generously with filling to a thickness of 1/4 inch; top with remaining wafers. Store lightly covered.

PEANUT BUTTER CHIP STRAWS
(Makes 4-5 dozen straws)

- 1 cup all purpose flour
 3 tablespoons sesame seeds
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 1-3rd cup margarine, softened
 2 cups (12-ounce package) peanut butter chips, coarsely chopped
 5 tablespoons chilled orange juice or water
 In medium bowl, combine flour, sesame seeds, salt and nutmeg; blend well. Cut in margarine and chips until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add juice or water; stir lightly to blend. Shape dough into two balls. Roll each ball into a rectangle 1/4-inch thick on a lightly floured surface. Cut into 3 x 1/4-inch strips; place strips close together on ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 350 degree for 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool on wire rack. NOTE: Also good spread with jelly or cheese spread.

Stand-By Bars A Time-Tested Favorite Snack

Please stand by to experience no technical difficulties with this make-it-quick and have-it-ready recipe.

Stand-by Bars is aptly named; it's actually a time-tested recipe with its beginnings in the early 1800's. Two major improvements however: less sugar and more eggs. In its present form the dish is still inexpensive; still convenient; but not even more nutritious. It's a "stand-by" as an afternoon favorite, after-school or between meal snack.

Good taste is presented here in a combination of cinnamon, nutmeg, mace, raisins and chopped nuts. The moisture holding qualities of raisin, flour and butter assure its quality today, tomorrow and the day after at least.

Because these bars are made with enriched self-rising flour, they supply lots of vitamins and minerals. Essential B-vitamins — niacin, thiamin and riboflavin — plus the important minerals, iron and calcium, are supplied by the flour. Raisins also contribute important minerals — potassium, iron and phosphorus.

Since the flour is self-rising, stirring up a batch of these is "a piece of cake." Salt and leavening are already in the flour, so you save measuring and mixing time.

STAND-BY BARS
(25 bars)

- 1 lb. seedless raisins
 2 cups water
 3 cups enriched self-rising flour
 1 tsp. ground cinnamon
 1 tsp. nutmeg
 1 tsp. mace
 1/2 cup butter or margarine
 1 cup sugar
 2 eggs, beaten
 1 cup chopped nuts, optional

Soak raisins in water 15 minutes. Cool slightly. Stir together flour, cinnamon, nutmeg and mace. Cream together butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs. Add raisin mixture with water. Thoroughly blend flour mixture into creamed mixture. Fold in nuts. Pour into greased 15 1/2 x 10 1/2 inch jelly roll pan. Bake in preheated 325 degrees oven 30 minutes. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pan. Cut into 2" x 3" bars.

PEANUT BUTTER CRUNCHIES
(Makes about 2 dozen)

- 2 cups (12-ounce package) peanut butter chips
 2 tablespoons solid vegetable shortening
 2 cups chow mein noodles, broken slightly
 1 cup peanuts
 1 cup raisins

In top of double boiler over hot water, melt peanut butter chips and shortening. Meanwhile, in large mixer bowl, combine chow mein noodles, peanuts and raisins. Immediately stir in melted peanut butter chip mixture; blend well. Quickly drop teaspoonfuls of mixture into mini (2-inch diameter) muffin papers.

These delectable treats pack a wallop in both nutrients and good eating and make the great outdoors even greater.

Say 'Cheese' To American 'Classic'

When entertaining, American food is definitely "in." After years of extolling the cuisines of other countries, food experts are beginning to realize what most of us have known all along — it's hard to beat classic American foods. One of the reasons for this sudden recognition is the fine quality of our ingredients, many of which are known around the world. American steaks, maple syrup, and Maine lobsters are good examples.

Another American "classic" is fresh cream cheese, created over a century ago. Philadelphia Brand cream cheese is available all over the free world, but it is a native American cheese, and one of a small group of packaged grocery products that has been distributed for more than 100 years.

The first commercial cream cheese was created by an upstate New York cheesemaker in 1873. The delicate fresh cream cheese soon became popular throughout the area and, in 1880, was first marketed under the trademark "Philadelphia Brand." At that time the city of Philadelphia was famous for superior foodstuffs, especially dairy products, which were known as "Philadelphia quality."

Over the years there have been steady improvements in the manufacturing and packaging of Philly cream cheese. In 1922, its shelf life was "one week on ice." By 1946, it had been extended to approximately 18 days, and today, it can be kept refrigerated for many weeks without losing its fresh, delicate quality. For today's consumer it's no longer a specialty item — it's a refrigerator staple, ready to use in a multitude of great recipes and serving ideas.

Cream cheese has been a favorite for generations, because it goes so well with almost everything and blends readily with other ingredients.

Over the years, the availability of fresh cream cheese has influenced the way Americans cook and entertain — dips, stuffed celery, and canapes become easy party food when made with Philly cream cheese. For instance, an easy Festive Appetizer Tray offers rich cream cheese with an assortment of simple, savory condiments such as chopped green onions, chopped radishes, and bacon crumbles, or anchovies, capers, chopped olives, or other favorites as desired. It's an easy hors d'oeuvre for parties, but one that has lots of eye and taste appeal.

Blend in 1/2 cup sugar and beaten egg yolks; cook 3 minutes over low heat, stirring constantly. Gradually add to softened cream cheese, mixing until well blended. Stir in creme de menthe. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually add remaining sugar, beating until stiff peaks form. Fold egg whites and whipped cream into cream cheese mixture. Variation: For tart shells, divide dough into sixteen balls. Roll out each to 8-inch circle. Place in 4-inch tart pans. Trim and flute edges; prick with fork. Bake at 450 degrees, 8 to 10 minutes or until golden brown.

- Variation: Substitute 1 16-oz. can peach slices, drained, for apricots.

Cream cheese gives a smooth texture to the sauce in Meatball Stroganoff, a delicious variation of the party favorite, Meat Stroganoff. Lettuce cups filled with assorted goodies add a festive touch to a tray of appetizers.

COMPANY'S COMING!

The wives of growers of fruits and vegetables in this country are as proud of the crops as their menfolk. It's like watching a baby grow and prosper.

Each season brings a happy time of experimenting with recipes and eating the "cream of the crop," freshly harvested. Today's families pass along favorite recipes to their children just as their parents gave them recipes from another era.

A blueberry grower's wife shares an old-fashioned recipe which she calls "Laurese's original, old-fashioned blueberry cake." It lives up to its honest name.

OLD-FASHIONED BLUEBERRY CAKE

- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1-3 cup water
- 2 cups fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained
- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter
- 2 cups sugar
- 4 eggs, beaten
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- 1 cup apricot preserves or peach jam
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 1/4 cup buttermilk
- Powdered sugar

Combine 2 tablespoons sugar and 1-3 cup water. Pour over blueberries. Let stand 30 minutes. Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs, spices, salt, blueberry mixture, flour, raisins and preserves. Beat at medium speed of electric mixer or by hand until well blended. Dissolve baking soda in buttermilk. Add to batter and mix well, but do not beat. Pour batter into three greased and floured 8-inch round cake pans. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 25-35 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Remove from pans; cool cakes on wire racks. Sprinkle powdered sugar between layers and on top of cake. This kitchen-tested recipe makes one 8-inch 3 layer cake.

ORANGE 'N HONEY GLAZED COFFEE CAKE

- 2 cans (10 biscuits each) refrigerated biscuits
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1-3 cup chopped pecans
- 1/4 cup margarine or butter, melted

Glaze
 1/4 cup honey
 2 tablespoons orange juice concentrate
 2 tablespoons grated orange rind
 1 tablespoon flour
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 Heat oven to 375 degrees F. Grease a 9-inch square pan. Separate dough into 20 biscuits. Combine sugar and pecans. Dip biscuits in melted margarine, then in sugar mixture. Arrange biscuits in prepared pan in 4 rows, overlapping biscuits slightly. Combine Glaze ingredients in saucepan; mix well. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until bubbly. Spoon Glaze over biscuits.

Bake at 375 degrees F. for 20 minutes. Cover biscuits with aluminum foil and bake 5 to 10 minutes or until biscuits are golden brown and done in center. Let stand in pan 5 minutes before turning out on serving plate. Serve warm. 9-inch coffee cake.

Desert is easy as pie.

Freezer Pie Is Pretty, Simple And Delicious

Summertime, and the cooking is...infrequent! That's why this refreshing, light and easy pie is a "must" for your summer collection. Yogurt, frozen whipped topping and fresh strawberries are a tasty trio, especially when spooned into a pie crust. It's pretty enough for company, simple enough for everyday, and just plain delicious!

STRAWBERRY-YOGURT EASY-AS-PIE

- 2 containers (8 oz. each) vanilla yogurt
  - 1 container (8 oz.) non-dairy whipped topping, thawed
  - 2 cups sweetened diced, sliced or finely chopped strawberries
  - 1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled
- Fold yogurt into whipped topping, blending well. Spoon yogurt mixture and strawberries alternately into crust. Cut through with spatula to marble. Freeze until firm, 4 hours or overnight. Remove from freezer 30 minutes before serving and keep chilled in refrigerator. Garnish with additional whole strawberries, if desired.

A blueberry grower's wife shares an old-fashioned cake recipe from another era, right. Refrigerated biscuits form the base of golden honey glazed coffee cake that can be made in just minutes if unexpected guests drop in.

Festa Features Famous Foods

From May 22 through 25, the Palm Coast, a Northeast Florida coastal community of 4,500 residents becomes a utopia for Italian food lovers.

The Palm Coast Italian-American Club's Sixth Annual Festa, a celebration of food, entertainment, games and good times, kicks off this Friday at the Italian American Clubhouse on Old Kings Road North in Palm Coast.

During last year's Festa, an estimated 10,000 visitors pampered their palates on the grounds of The Harbour Restaurant, near the Palm Coast Marina. This year, the Festa will be held for the first time on the grounds of the new 8,800 square foot Italian-American Clubhouse, and Festa Chairman Tim Legakis says club members are putting extra effort into this year's celebration.

"We constructed a large part of our new clubhouse with our own hands, and we want to show it off," Legakis noted. "We expect this year's Festa will be the best spring celebration yet."

Starting Friday, all thoughts of dieting can be cast aside as any of 10 booths that will be serving ziti, eggplant parmigiana, pizza, pisselle, canoli, stuffed zucchini and sausage and peppers, to name a few. For those with more domestic tastes, hot dogs, hamburgers and french fries also will be served.

Also featured at the Festa will be games for children of all ages. Special entertainment will be provided by talented Palm Coast performers Friday, Saturday and Monday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 3 p.m. A special performance by Daytona's Charles Levine and his 7-piece band will be held at 8 p.m. Sunday night on the clubhouse grounds. All other entertainment will be held in the clubhouse auditorium.

Opening ceremonies featuring local government officials and Italian-American Club officers and former presidents will get the Festa rolling at 6 p.m. Friday. Then the fun begins, from noon until 11 p.m. each day.

To reach one of the largest Italian-American celebrations in North Florida, take the Palm Coast Parkway exit on I-95 midway between S. Augustine and Daytona Beach. Drive east on Palm Coast Parkway and take the first left at Old Kings Road.

The mouth-watering aroma of Italian food will lead visitors the rest of the way.

Four famous Festa recipes follow:
ZITTI AL FORNO
(Cheese Baked Ziti)

- 1 lb. Ziti or any large cut macaroni
- 1 cup Ricotta cheese
- 2 8-oz. cans tomato sauce
- 1/2 lb. Mozzarella cheese (grated or diced)
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- thin slices Mozzarella cheese

Cook macaroni, following directions on package; drain and turn into a bowl. Mix ricotta with tomato sauce, blending well. Pour over macaroni; mix. Add grated mozzarella and grated Parmesan cheese; mix and blend well. Turn into a buttered oblong baking dish or pan; top with slices of mozzarella; sprinkle generously with grated Parmesan cheese; dot generously with butter. Bake in preheated 350 degree F. oven for 25-30 minutes, or until mozzarella is melted and top nicely brown. Serves 4 to 6.

STUFFED ZUCCHINI

- 4 medium Zucchini
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- 2 eggs
- 3 tbs. grated cheese
- 1/2 lb. ground meat
- 2 tsp. parsley
- tomato sauce
- salt to taste
- garlic powder
- black pepper

Wash and cut zucchini in half lengthwise. Cook in boiling salted water until tender (do not overcook). Drain and set aside to cool. Sauté ground meat with salt, pepper, parsley and garlic. Scoop out zucchini leaving shell about 1/4 to 1/2 inch thick. Chop the pulp of the zucchini and mix with bread crumbs, cheese, eggs and ground meat. Mixture should be soft and moist. Add a little water from zucchini if needed. Fill zucchini shells and place in 13"x9" grease baking dish. Top each zucchini with tomato sauce and sprinkle with grated cheese. Cover and bake for 30 minutes in 350 degree F. oven. Uncover and bake another 20 minutes.

PIZZELLE

- 6 jumbo eggs
- 3/4 cups of flour
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1 cup margarine
- 4 tsp. baking powder
- 2 tabs. anise
- 1 drop anise oil

Beat eggs, adding sugar, until smooth. Add cool melted margarine and anise. Sift flour and baking powder and add to egg mixture. Mix well. Dough should be sticky enough to drop by spoonfuls onto Pizzelle iron (waffle iron). Cook until golden brown. Makes about 60 3 inch Pizzelles.

SAUSAGE AND PEPPERS

- 1 lb. Italian Sausage
- 4 large green peppers (cut into thin strips)
- 18-oz can tomato sauce
- 4 tabs. oil
- salt and pepper to taste

In a large skillet fry peppers, add salt and pepper. Cook until peppers are soft (but firm—do not overcook). Take peppers and set aside. In same skillet cook sausage until well done. Add tomato sauce and cook about 20 minutes. Add peppers. Serve in long roll.

Sweet Spiced Breads With Fiber

Sweet spiced breads are a tempting treat for family, club members or the morning kaffee klatch.

PRUNE-WHEAT GERM BREAD

- 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
  - 2-3rds cup sugar
  - 1/2 cup toasted wheat germ
  - 1 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
  - 2 eggs
  - 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
  - 1 cup diced pitted prunes
  - 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
- Preheat oven to 375-degrees. In a large bowl, combine flour, sugar, wheat germ, apple pie spice, soda and salt. Add butter. With a pastry blender or two knives used scissor-fashion, cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs.
- In a small bowl, lightly beat eggs; stir in sour cream. Blend into flour mixture along with prunes and nuts. Stir just until mixed. Spoon into a greased 9-inch loaf pan. Bake until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean, about 50 minutes. Cool in pan on a rack for 10 minutes. Remove cake from pan and cool.

SPICE BRAN BREAD

- 1 cup wheat bran cereal
  - 1 cup milk
  - 1 1/4 cups whole-wheat flour
  - 1 tablespoon lemon peel
  - 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
  - 1 teaspoon baking powder
  - 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
  - 1 cup sugar
  - 1 cup dark raisins
  - 1 cup chopped walnuts or pecans
  - 2 eggs, lightly beaten
  - 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
- In a large bowl, combine bran with milk. Let stand for 10 minutes. Preheat oven to 375-degrees. Meanwhile, combine flour, lemon peel, cinnamon, baking powder and nutmeg. Set aside.
- In a large bowl, combine bran with sugar, raisins, nuts, eggs and melted butter. Gradually spoon in flour mixture, stirring just until blended. Pour into a greased 8 or 9-inch loaf pan. Spread smooth. Bake until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean, about 50 to 60 minutes. Cool in pan on a rack for 10 minutes. Remove cake from pan and cool. Serve warm or cooled with butter or cream cheese, if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes one loaf.

Fill Crepes With A Rich Shrimp Sauce

The pleasure of eating light and delicious crepes need not be reserved to the restaurant. The ingredients are few and common, and preparation is quick, easy, and fun. The combinations of fillings are limited only by one's imagination.

Shrimp Crepes Veronique is the newest idea from the Florida Department of Natural Resources seafood test kitchens. Shrimp is available year 'round and is high in protein yet low in fat. A mere one-half pound of tiny shrimp will compose the rich filling for eight crepes — enough for four servings.

Whether for an elegant guest dinner simply as a pleasant change of pace for the family, make it a point to try 'Shrimp Crepes Veronique.

SHRIMP CREPES VERONIQUE

- 1/2 pound cooked, peeled, and deveined tiny shrimp, fresh or frozen
- 2 tablespoons margarine or butter
- 1/4 cup finely chopped celery
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
- 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon paprika
- 1/4 teaspoon cayenne
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 cup seedless green grapes, halved
- 3 tablespoons coarsely chopped pimiento

- 2 to 4 tablespoons half and half
- Crepes
- Paprika for garnish
- Green grape clusters for garnish
- Thaw shrimp if frozen. Melt margarine or butter in saucepan. Add celery and onion; cook until tender, but not brown. Add mushrooms; cook until tender. Stir in flour, salt, paprika, and cayenne. Add milk; cook until thickened stirring constantly. Stir in lemon juice. Add shrimp, grapes, and pimiento; stir carefully. Spoon 1-3 cup shrimp mixture down center of each crepe; roll. Place in shallow 2-quart baking dish or ovenproof platter. Add half and half to remaining sauce; spoon sauce down center of crepes. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 25 minutes or until hot. Sprinkle with paprika and garnish with grape clusters.

CREPES

- 1 cup milk
- 2 eggs
- 1/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Combine ingredients; beat until smooth. Chill at least 1 hour. Lightly grease and heat 7 or 8-inch frying pan or crepe pan. Pour about 3 tablespoons of crepe batter into pan all over once. Tilt pan quickly and rotate to spread batter evenly over bottom of pan. Cook until lightly browned; turn and bake second side. Makes 8 crepes, 7 to 8-inch diameter.

Soup Meals Important In Summer

Soups are an important part of summer menus, especially for those quick soup-and-sandwich meals on an evening before a game of ball or on a Saturday. Take advantage of fresh vegetables in season when making a pot of old-fashioned chicken vegetable soup.

A quicky meatball and bean soup takes advantage of canned and frozen vegetables.

Both soups may serve as a main course for a soup-and-salad party that costs little and requires little effort on the part of the hosts.

OLD-FASHIONED CHICKEN VEGETABLE SOUP

- 6 cups water
  - 3 pounds chicken parts
  - 1 tablespoon original Worcestershire sauce
  - 2 1/2 teaspoons salt
  - 1 cup diagonally sliced carrots
  - 1 cup sliced celery
  - 1 cup chopped onion
  - 1/2 cup alphabet noodles
  - 1 cup sliced zucchini
  - 1 cup fresh or canned corn kernels
  - 1 cup seeded and diced tomato
- In a large sauce pot, bring water to boil. Add chicken, Worcestershire sauce and salt. Simmer, covered, for 40 minutes. Remove chicken from pot; set aside to cool for 10 minutes. Pour broth through a fine strainer. Wipe out pot and return broth to pot. (If desired, chill broth and remove fat.) Remove cooled chicken meat from the bones; cut into 1/2-inch pieces.

Add chicken to broth along with carrots, celery, onion and noodles. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, for 7 minutes. Add zucchini and corn; simmer, covered for 5 minutes. Stir in tomatoes. Cook 5 minutes longer. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 portions or 8 cups.

MEATBALL AND BEAN SOUP

- 1 pound ground beef
  - 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
  - 3 tablespoons ketchup
  - 1 egg, lightly beaten
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - Original Worcestershire sauce
  - 2 tablespoons oil
  - 2 beef bouillon cubes
  - 3 cups boiling water
  - 1 cup carrots cut into 1/2-inch thick slices
  - 1 can (1 pound) baked beans in tomato sauce
  - 1 package (9 ounce) frozen cut green beans
  - 1-3 cup small noodles
- In a medium bowl, lightly combine beef, bread crumbs, ketchup, egg, salt and 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Shape into about 18 meatballs. In a large skillet, heat oil until hot. Brown meatballs on all sides. Remove meatballs and set aside. In a medium saucepan, dissolve bouillon cubes in boiling water. Add carrots; simmer, covered, for 10 minutes. Add baked beans, green beans, noodles, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and reserved meatballs. Bring to the boiling point. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, for 10 minutes. Serve with hot, crisp Italian bread and a green salad, if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 portions.

Budget Meat Takes A Party Personality

For an outdoor meal sparkling in high style, try these tempting sauces to bring out the party personalities in even budget cuts of meat.

In each, grape juice concentrate provides a flavorful base. Sauces prepared in advance store well in your refrigerator. Brush over grilling meat and reserve a portion to add a festive note to your barbecue table.
