Highway Planning Group Discusses Proposed 17-92 Extension Plan

Patrolmen Urge Folks To 'Walk To Stay Alive'

April brings night walking, more people out on the streets and highways on foot as the weather gets warmer, so here's a word of warning from the Seminole County Florida Highway Patrol officers. Trooper T. Mark Mack and Patrolman Carl Williams:

"Walk to stay alive. Don't step into an accident."

Pedestrian safety is an increasing problem for the Patrol and all law enforcement agencies in counties and cities alike, as an increasing number of news stories tell about people being run down by cars.

"In over so many instances," declared the two officers of the Florida Highway Patrol, "you can trace the fault to the pedestrian."

"They fail to heed a few basic principals like wearing light clothing, watching where they walk, walking to face the traffic and keeping off the pavement after dark. It is so easy to walk into trouble, especially if you're in traffic. So take heed and don't walk yourself to death," advised Trooper Mack and Patrolman Williams.

"If you walk like you want to stay alive, adhere to a few simple pedestrian rules, you'll beat the odds — if you fall to heed them, why then your chances of coming back on a stretcher will be greatly enhanced during the summer," concluded the two Florida Highway Patrol officers.

Candidates Keep Campaign Hot In Hunt For Votes

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Florida's gubernatorial candidates kept the campaign trail hot in central and northeast counties today in an intensified hunt for votes.

Farris Bryant and Gov. Collins used the handshake approach to the voter in concentrated efforts in Duval and Polk counties while Fuller Warren and Sumner Lowry stumped with sound trucks.

It was the first concerted campaigning of the week for Collins who has indicated he expects to spend more time away from Tallahassee than now.

Collins flew to Tampa, then motored over to Lakeland to get his handshaking tour under way. Bryant worked Jacksonville.

Bryant drove into Jacksonville for a television speech last night a short time after Lowry pulled out for St. Augustine.

Speaking in the downtown plaza of St. Augustine last night, Lowry said he will not only keep Florida's schools segregated but will strive to modernize the school system, promote the tourist industry, work for more industry and build more roads.

Warren got off another challenge yesterday to Sen. R. B. Gautier of Miami, a Collins supporter, for a debate Saturday night in Miami's Bayfront Park.

In speeches yesterday between Tallahassee and Jacksonville, Bryant pledged his efforts to help certain counties to provide more funds for increased teacher salaries and needed school buildings. Collins' headquarters announced the governor would make a filmed talk over about a dozen television stations Friday night in which he will discuss further his views on the segregation issue.

Atty. Gen. Ervin got his campaign for reelection under way officially with a statement at Tallahassee in which he said he was asking another term on the basis of his record over the past two years.

'HOT FLOAT'
WASHINGTON (AP) — West Virginia's float was the hottest entry in last night's Cherry Blossom festival parade.

The 50-foot float burst into flames at the end of the parade route. It was destroyed.

Judith Rice of Clarkburg, West Virginia's "Cherry Blossom Princess," had climbed from her throne, atop two paper-mache peacocks, just before the fire started. She was unhurt.

The Citizens Long Range Highway Planning Committee headed by J. Bralley Odham discussed the causeway extension of French Ave. and 17-92 over Lake Monroe and into Volusia County to connect with 17-92 again immediately south of Orange City at a meeting last night held at Toddy's Restaurant.

Representatives of both De Bary and Orange City attended the meeting to learn more of the proposed plan to shorten the highway by 4.1 miles and to join the already four-laned and planned four-laned sections of the highway.

J. E. Marshall, president of the Orange City Chamber of Commerce was in Sanford for the meeting.

Those from De Bary, hearing the details and plans for the proposed extension and routing of 17-92 were: Everett Swift, secretary of the De Bary Chamber of Commerce; Harry G. Hunter, chairman of the De Bary Road Committee; Dwight Baker, Road Committee member; Carl O. Lind, Road Committee member; Mrs. Kay Henninger, president of the De Bary Civic Association; and Ed Healy, Fire Chief of the De Bary Volunteer Fire Department.

John Krider, who proposed the highway route, explained that the new four-lane thoroughway would not eliminate the present route through De Bary but would continue to be a State maintained road. He said, "The new route would connect four lanes into Sanford from the north and south and provide six lanes through Sanford."

Unless this route becomes a reality, with Federal assistance in its construction, the Federal limited access highway, planned for the future, would eliminate future expansion of the highway," Krider told the citizens attending the meeting.

Plans now include a public hearing of De Bary citizens to get the details could be made public and everyone informed of its feasibility. Date of the meeting will be announced by De Bary officials.

Senator Douglas Stenstrom proposed "This is the time a 17-92 Highway Association should be formed." He said, "With tourists using US No. One and the Turnpike, 17-92 will not be used as frequently as we would like."

Prior to the discussion of the proposed route for 17-92 the Citizens Long Range Highway Planning Committee proposed that the Seminole County Commissioners be requested that the following projects be included in the 1956-57 State Road Budget for Seminole County: the completion of State Road 46 across Sanford; the widening and resurfacing of Park Ave.; Lake Orange Road from the Station Naval Auxiliary Air Station to 17-92; the widening of State Road 415; and the request of a new bridge on State Road 415 and to continue 415 into 46 by the most feasible route.

Circus Opens Without Clown

NEW YORK (AP) — The circus opened last night without its most famous clown and with none of the stage, screen and television stars who usually take part in the premiere benefit performance.

A dispute involving the American Guild of Variety Artists kept the sad-faced tramp clown Emmet Kelly away. This time there was no Kelly to get the children chuckling right away by trying to sweep a spotlight beam under a rug.

But Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey's circus was an glittering and bespangled as ever without the glamorous frosting of outside stars who were to perform for the benefit of the Police Athletic League.

Mayor Asks Citizens To Aid Cancer Crusade

Mayor F. D. Scott urged Sanford's people today to give their generous support to the 1956 American Cancer Society Crusade. The annual fund-raising and educational campaign was launched last Monday.

In a proclamation citing April as Cancer Control Month, Mayor Scott noted that one-third of the deaths in Sanford and Seminole County last year could have been avoided by earlier diagnosis and adequate treatment.

Sanford's Mayor called for increasing recognition of the Society's leadership in the fight against cancer through its programs of research, education, and service.

The text of the proclamation follows: "Cancer is one of the most critical public health problems of our times. Some 250,000 Americans, many of them in our own state, will die of cancer in 1956, if present rates continue. Moreover, at present rates, one American in every four now living will some day be stricken by this disease."

"But in the last decade there has been marked progress in the diagnosis and treatment of cancer. Although one cancer in four is now being cured, two out of four patients could be saved if they were treated early enough. This would mean saving 20,000 additional lives a year. Approximately that many such patients were saved last year."

Gruenther Declares NATO Is Stronger; Soviet Keeping Pace

Collins Supporters Urged To Attend Public Meet Tonight

A public meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Seminole County Court House of all who are interested in supporting LeRoy Collins for Governor.

Don Wright, recently appointed by Governor LeRoy Collins as his Campaign Director in Seminole County, has stated that every person interested in the Collins for Governor Campaign is invited and urged to attend this important meeting, the first slated for Seminole County.

Presiding over the meeting will be Dan Wright and T. E. Tucker, appointed by Governor Collins as his Deputy Campaign Treasurer. Bob Folkes, state campaign manager for Governor Collins will be present at tonight's meeting to discuss and outline the campaign and how each person can play a part in helping to re-elect Collins as Governor.

Walls Attends Session

Carmage Walls, a stockholder in The Sanford Herald, is now on a tour of foreign countries conducted for newspapermen. Mrs. Walls is currently representing The Sanford Herald on the tour. However, Mr. Walls was fortunate in being able to attend a briefing session in Paris by Gen. Alfred Gruenther.

We are publishing Carmage Walls' account of the session and his comments evolving about the important event: "We were fortunate to be able to have a briefing session here in Paris by General Alfred Gruenther, head of NATO (or North Atlantic Treaty Organization). General Gruenther is a small man physically. He is one of the biggest men mentally that I have had the pleasure of meeting.

The dynamic mental drive and capacity of this man are magnificent. As head of the very important NATO he, contrary to some briefings we have had, said everything he said was on the record. Naturally, a newspaperman likes this kind of self confidence.

NATO had some rough going recently when the Greeks stayed away from their posts after the arrest of Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus by the British government. However the Greeks at NATO are again at their posts and there is hope of a settlement of the differences between the NATO allies, Britain, Greece and Turkey.

"When General Eisenhower first came to NATO in 1951 the participating member nations did not have a common concept of what needed to be done." NATO had few air bases. Effort was made to reify air bases. "Now," said General Gruenther, "the participants have a good common concept. The air bases have been built to materially improve our capacity for defense. This building program is still going on. Now this line of defense extends from Norway on the north and circles around to Turkey on a four thousand mile front. We are four times as strong in NATO as we were in 1951." He continued, "But, the Soviet, and its satellites, have kept pace with our progress."

"What are the capabilities of the U.S.S.R. and her satellites?" asked the General and then he proceeded to give the answers. The Soviets have 175 divisions. Thirty of these are in satellite countries. These are well trained divisions. They are ready to go where sent and are ready to die when ordered without question. This makes for the strongest land army in the world today.

On the air side, in 1951 the Soviets had some 20,000 planes, mostly propeller driven. Now 80 percent of their planes are modern jets and they still have a minimum force of 20,000. Their short and medium range bombers are very good. As of now they have not caught up with us on long range planes.

The Russians copied one of our planes during the Korean War that was forced down in Chinese territory. They called it the TU-1. It was a good plane but is now obsolete. However, this week a new Russian plane, which they have designated the TU 104 arrived in England carrying Serov, head of the Soviet Security police, referred to by the British press as the "head hunter". This plane was a modern one. It traveled at 33,000 feet and arrived from Moscow to London with a flying time of three and three quarters hours.

"The Soviets, obviously, put this plane on world exhibition prematurely," said General Gruenther, "because the cabin was not pressurized. This necessitated the crew and passengers using oxygen on the whole trip."

The Soviet Navy is at a disadvantage because it is bottled up in the Black Sea and the Aegean Sea. The Soviet fleet is not competitive with the West. However, we estimate that the Soviets have (Continued on Page Eight)

New Shrine Club Building Will Be Dedicated Friday

The New Shrine Club Building, just off First St. across from the Mayfair Inn, will be dedicated tomorrow night beginning at 7 o'clock.

Extensive plans have been completed, said Col. E. G. Harriman, chairman of the dedication committee, and "we are expecting an overflow crowd to attend the dinner and dedication."

Col. Harriman said today that illustrious Potentate A. J. Thomas will be in Sanford for the dedication ceremony.

Principal speaker for the event will be Seminole County Judge Ernest Housholder.

The dedication will be preceded by dinner which is slated to be served at 7 o'clock, said Col. Harriman.

The Shrine Club Building is the dream of Elinora here, finally realized through the concerted effort of the entire club even though first originated by a small group.

The building will be officially opened at tomorrow night's Ladies Night dinner attended by Noble and their wives.

The Potentate of the Noble Temple and his Divan will be here for the occasion.

Mayor F. D. Scott will also take part in the dedication of the new building.

Officers of the Sanford Shrine Club are: Harold Kestner, president; A. L. Wainwright, first vice president; Milford Leonard, second vice president; R. W. Deane, treasurer; and Dick Alken, secretary.

Wreckage Of Plane Sighted On Peak

TOKYO (AP) — The U. S. Air Force reported late today wreckage of an aircraft—believed to be a missing C119 Flying Boxcar with five Americans aboard—had been sighted on a mountain peak of Shikoku Island.

There was no word that any survivors had been seen. The site is 20 miles south of Saijo on Shikoku, and more than 400 miles southwest of Tokyo.

The wreckage was reported 100 feet from the top of the 6,100-foot peak. An attempt will be made tomorrow to reach it with a rescue team dropped by parachute.

The C119 disappeared early Tuesday on a cargo flight from Takahashi, near Tokyo, to Ashiya, on the northern coast of Kyushu, Japan's southernmost island. It was made its last report as it was passing over Takamatsu on Papan's curving inland sea. The sea is bordered by the main Japanese islands of Honshu, Shikoku and Kyushu.

Names of the missing men have not been announced.

First Federal Open House Is Tomorrow

Tomorrow night between the hours of 7 and 9:30 the First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. will be hosts to all who care to share the "open house" at its office on West First St.

In addition to the opportunity to look over the attractive office, visitors will have a chance to see some of the modern methods now employed in the industry that was started in April, 1941, in Philadelphia.

Favors will be given to adults and their youngsters and refreshments will be served.

The local association was started in 1934 and in serving Seminole County and the surrounding territory for over 20 years has grown to a $6 million organization.

S. F. Dondney and Howard Paville, officers of First Federal now, were among the founders and have been associated with it since inception.

Civil Rights Laws Are Blocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both the Democratic and Republican party platforms of 1952 promised new civil rights laws. Neither party has produced. Both have had opportunity to do so.

The Republicans as a result of the 1952 elections, controlled Congress in 1953 and 1954. The Democrats, by winning the 1954 elections, have controlled Congress since the beginning of 1955. Neither passed any civil rights legislation.

The Eisenhower administration has talked since 1953 of civil rights laws but so far has sent no specific recommendations to Congress. It may do so shortly after Congress returns from its recess.

No matter what is proposed, and no matter by whom, inside or outside Congress, this Congress like those before it is not likely to pass any new civil rights laws. The reason is simple: the Southern Democrats will block them.

The House with the votes of many Republicans and Northern Democrats, may pass some civil rights bills before Congress goes home this summer, over the Southern Democratic protests.

In the House where debate is limited, the Southern, being out-numbered, can't kill a bill with talk.

But nothing approved by the House can become law unless the Senate also gives its okay. In the Senate debate is unlimited.

There are outnumbered Southern Democrats can filibuster to death any civil rights legislation passed by the House.

Both parties, at their 1956 conventions, will probably promise in their platforms civil rights laws in the next four years, and probably with about as much success as in the past.

Civil rights actions under the Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower administrations have been the result of presidential orders where government agencies, installations or contracts were concerned, or Supreme Court rulings for the nation as a whole.

A House Judiciary subcommittee has just approved two bills — one to make lynching a federal offense and another an omnibus bill containing a number of civil rights protections — and has asked the full committee to approve.

The bills may get stymied there. If they get out, and are passed by the full House, they still face the Senate roadblock.

President Eisenhower has urged Congress to establish a special commission on civil rights. He suggested this be a bipartisan special commission with subpoena powers. Most Southern Democrats over the weekend Eisenhower are chilly about it.

Herlong Reports

EASTER RECESS

Recess it is for everyone else, that is. The Syd Herlongs, however, are enjoying playing host to around 40 Congressmen and their families at Daytona Beach for our annual spring training trip. It's fun, but it's also work.

I know some few people have tried to make light of this annual exodus of Members of Congress from Washington to our district. They say it is childish for a bunch of grown men to so completely disperse with their dignity as to play baseball. In the first place the big objective is charity, and when it becomes childish for a person to so display himself for charitable purposes, then may Heaven hasten the day when more of us will become as little children.

In the second place, the by-products of this trip to Florida are tremendous. This year a group of the Congressmen are going to make a trip down the Halifax to New Smyrna Beach and see the lack of water in Ponce de Leon Inlets. They are going to make a boat trip around the St. Augustine Harbor where they will see the deepening and maintenance for which money has already been appropriated. On previous trips Members have been through the citrus section, the flood control area, Silver Springs, Orlando, Sanford, DeLand, Ocala, and Leesburg. I think it is well worthwhile.

What does Daytona Beach get out of it? Just reams and reams of publicity all over the country

Writing Song May Keep Boy From Jail

NEW YORK (AP) — If a Spanish speaking youth writes a song about his forefathers landing at St. Augustine, Fla., it may keep him out of jail.

Magistrate J. Randall Creel made the proposal yesterday to Raulo Alvarez, 19.

Alvarez, accused of using abusive language to a policeman who questioned him about some packages he was carrying, claimed he was arrested "only because I am Spanish."

The judge said that since he thought he had been discriminated against, he should compose a song about his colonial ancestors before the July 6 sentencing.

"Did you know that the first people to settle here and set up a community were Spaniards at St. Augustine?" Creel said.

Defense attorneys wondered what kind of song the judge had in mind.

Creel told Alvarez: "You've heard of Davy Crockett? If you do a good job, you can make the chaps who founded St. Augustine as famous as Davy Crockett."

But—the customer is going to have to pay more.

For many years the taximen have headed for home at meal time refusing to pick up fares who want to travel in any direction but the one that leads to the cabbie's dining room table.

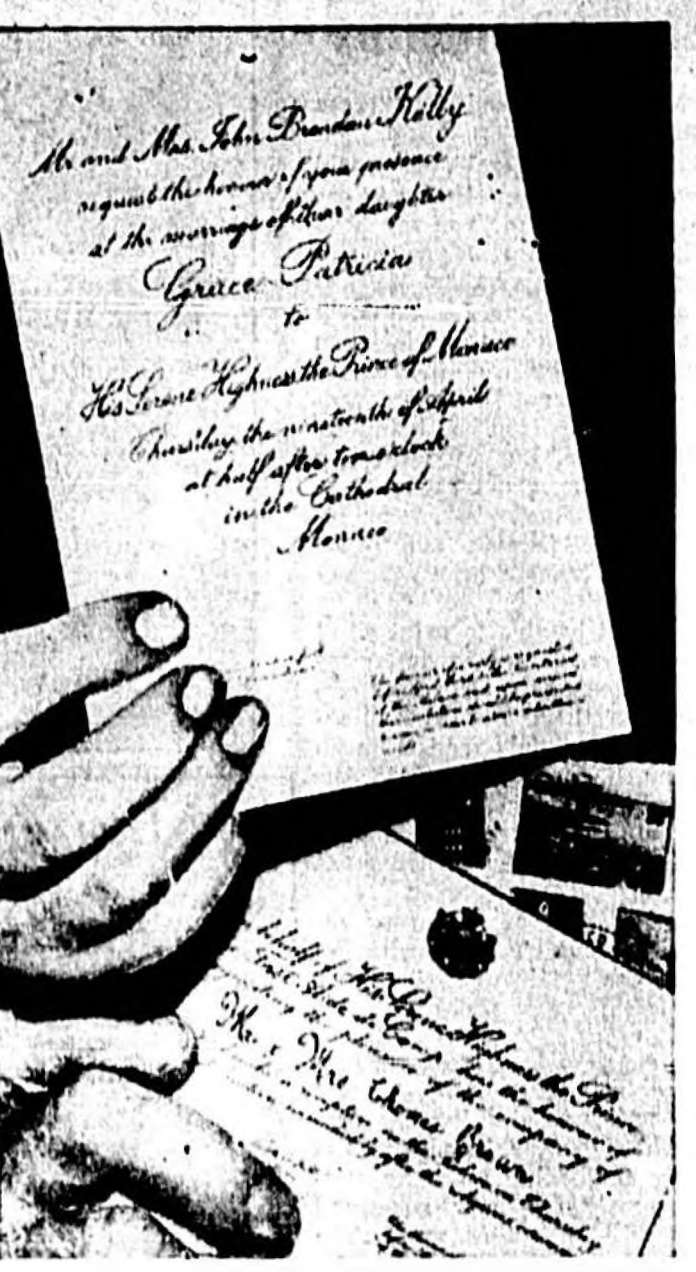

This has been an annoyance particularly to American tourists brought up on the idea that a man who passes up a buck's worth of business for a plate of food is more than slightly nuts.

A. M. Catherine, president of the Taxi Owners Assn says this is to change: that as soon as city authorities approve a new schedule of fares, his organization will tackle the meter men about their eating habits.

Under the new regulation, taxi meters are in register 100 francs (about 20 cents) at the beginning of a journey instead of 50 francs. And each additional 10 francs will be good for about a sixth of a mile, instead of half that distance.

Caravan Plugs Good Roads Day

By Jeanne Smith
Village Safety Consultant

Forty-two years ago, 80 cars set out from Chicago on a 137 mile journey to "pull Illinois out of the mud." This month another caravan will reenact the trip in modern and early vintage cars, this time under a totally different slogan—"to reappraise modern highway aims and achievements."

As in 1914, the caravan will highlight "Good Roads Day." Its aim both then and now—to bring to the attention of both the state and the nation the importance of better highways for greater safety and driving efficiency.

The road to Sterling, Ill., the route of both expeditions, was leveled immediately preceding the first celebration to insure smooth travel for the caravan. The well dragged dirt surface was a vivid contrast to the prevailing mud and rut filled roads. Still, it required 12 hours for the dust covered cars to reach their destination over what was then a section of the famous Lincoln Highway.

Now, if an automobile averaged the same speed of 28 miles per hour, the trip should take only four hours. The reason? The road to Sterling today, known as U.S. alternate route 30, is smooth, hard surfaced and has been shortened to 118 miles.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club which sponsors "Good Roads Day," presided today. "We are seriously concerned with the highway problems of today. Through our celebration on April 16, which will visually contrast today's roads with those of yesterday, we expect to show the nation just how far the highway engineering and engineering have penetrated the life of every living American."

But further the goal is to urge citizens throughout the country to reappraise the current highway situation—to realize that better roads mean safer driving.

Poulain paraded a hatred of paying taxes into a political party. Amrosini says he is making great strides in the same direction in Italy. (International)

Pointers On Viewing TV Without Straining Eyes

By HERMAN N. DUNDISEN, M.D.

THERE'S more to viewing television than simply turning on the set and plopping comfortably on the floor to watch.

Your eyes may be tired by flickering or glaring rays of light from the floor and view that picture from a position level with the screen. Sit directly in front of the screen, too, and at least six feet from it. You or your youngsters are apt to develop headaches from glaring at your TV set from an angle, the floor or from a position too close to the screen.

Indirect Lighting
Keep a light on in the room. Moderate indirect lighting for the room as a whole probably is best. This light should not compete with the TV picture nor contrast with it too much.

By partially illuminating the background, you can eliminate a great deal of eyestrain. You can easily see that frequent shifting of the eyes from a bright screen to a dark background would cause a lot of unnecessary work.

Look Away
I also think it's advisable to look away from the set from time to time to give your eyes a little rest. Maybe you can do this during those very long commercials so you won't miss the entertaining portions of the program.

Keep your set in good condition by the sandpaper treatment.

Teenagers—What Are Your Ideas, Views On Today's Youth Problems?

We've heard a lot about teenagers. And we've come to the conclusion that there's one question left for us to ask. What about them?

From one side and from the other there come reports about an increase in juvenile delinquency and about the many ways to control it. However, if you've noticed . . . most of this talk comes from adults.

Frankly, we must admit, we don't believe in the coined phrase "juvenile delinquency". In our opinion, we have misguided children or misinformed children.

What we would like to know is—what do the teenagers themselves think about the problem? What do they think of all of these matters that concern them—their future—their welfare?

We received one answer some time ago as a result of an adult-planned Family Life Institute which included a panel discussion between adults and teenagers when Nancy Travasso, a Seminole High School student, in answer to the question "Some parents are too busy and refuse to listen when the youngster wants to confide. Is this a problem?" she said, "Some kids say they can't talk to their parents—it always ends in a lecture."

Then, there was another answer that appeared interesting to us. It was in answer to the question "Does a child know when he is trusted? Can he sense it?" Nancy said "Yes, by the restrictions placed upon him."

And then to the next question "If most young people can be trusted, how is that trust built?" Miss Travasso said "Trust is a 50-50 proposition between teenagers and parents."

To the same question, Howard Allred, also a Seminole High School student, replied "Some parents simply refuse to accept the fact that their children have grown up."

Now we believe that a lot of questions of teenagers (and of adults about teenagers) might be answered if the young people themselves were given an opportunity to express themselves freely and to express their own ideas.

Here at The Sanford Herald, we would like to give teenagers an opportunity to express themselves. So what do you say boys and girls and young men and young women from the ages of 12 to 20?

We want to hear from you. Just sit down and write us about your views and ideas on any of the subjects that are of interest to you. Give us your ideas, not just about vandalism, rowdiness, brawls, and youth's interest in faith or religion. But we want you to express yourself, too, about such things as dating, use of the family car, your relationship with your parents and other adults—anything you want to have your say about.

Now, we may not be able to print all of the letters we receive. That depends on the number of letters teenagers write and certainly the length of them. But we will assure you this, we'll certainly read them all and print as much as we can about the ideas you young people have. It might prove a big help, not only for the teenaged citizens of Sanford, but for the adult citizens as well.

May we suggest that you keep your letters as brief as possible but along with the brevity, include the pertinent facts about your thoughts on teenage problems.

Have You Registered?

While we're writing about juvenile problems and problems of the teenagers, the adults can be accomplishing much by setting a great example for their sons and daughters who will be voting age before too many years have gone by.

The example we're speaking of is that of registering for the great American privilege of voting your own convictions.

Books will close this coming Saturday, April 7 after which time there is no possibility for one to qualify himself as a voter in the coming Democratic Primary on May 8.

Every effort is being made by civic minded organizations and groups to have as many citizens as possible registered and qualified to cast their ballot when the selection of candidates must be made in a few short weeks.

Millions of people, all over the world, would be glad to trade places with American citizens for the privilege of casting their ballot as they choose and not by direction.

Every candidate has proclaimed himself and announced his or her intentions for an important office in the great business of American government and each voter must consider himself an important factor in choosing the candidate that is favored by the majority of the people.

If you want to vote, be sure to register now.

The books close for all registrations Saturday, April 7.

Newspaperman's Tour Report

This is the 12th in a series of articles written by Mrs. Carnegie Wells who is representing The Sanford Herald on a tour of foreign countries:

This letter is going to be a resume of our Holy Land tour, in both the section held by Jordan and the one held by Israel.

Our first really significant stop was Jericho, in mountainous and rocky Jordan. Outside of the town we visited Elisha's Spring, where Elisha turned an unusable spring into sweet water. The spring is still in use and at dusk the Arab refugee women come with their jugs to get their daily supply of water. The absolute grace and ease with which they walk with these heavy earthenware vessels on their heads is magnificent.

From Jericho we drove in the Dead Sea, the phenomenal body of water in which no living thing exists, not even germs. It is 200 miles long and 10 miles wide. The River Jordan feeds into the Dead Sea and the latter body of water is extremely briny, although, of course, the Jordan is not. This is the end also of the River Jordan since there is no outlet from this sea.

We drove on into Old Jerusalem in our hotel and spent the night. The next day we occupied wholly by sightseeing at other Holy Land marks among which were: a trip to Bethlehem where we visited the Church of Nativity, the ancient church into which you enter by way of the "Needle's Eye Door". Here we saw the actual place where the manger is said to have been in the stable. This church which was built where the Holy Birth took place is owned jointly by the Greek Orthodox, Armenian and Roman Catholic churches. All three denominations have different altars for their congregations.

The Garden of Gethsemane and the Mount of Olives were also highlights of the day as well as all the other Biblical points of interest.

Our group walked "The Way of the Cross" or the Via Dolorosa—the route over which Christ went from the judgment seat of Pontius Pilate to Calvary. There are 14 stations marked where events along the way took place—for example, when He saw His Mother Mary in the street, etc. Like so many other people, it was surprising to me to visit the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, in which church are located both Calvary and the Tomb. I was, of course, expecting the scene to be as depicted in the Bible—an a very austere and simple. The true facts are, of course, that both landmarks are located not very far from each other in a church that was built around them and the actual spots where the Crucifixion and Entombment took place are very ornately decorated. One small piece of stone about 18 inches square remains of the stone that originally sealed the tomb and this piece is now encased in glass. The streets of Old Jerusalem are still narrow and crooked with small shops opening right onto them and money changing booths are seen all over. The

We told Congress in a special authority because he felt he lacked power to do it on his own. He told Congress in a special message: "Authority for some of the actions which might be required would be inherent in the authority of the commander in chief. "Until Congress can act I would not hesitate so far as my constitutional powers extend, to take whatever emergency action might be forced upon us. . ."

Ever Think Of Buying An Island?

By MAL BOTLE
NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Have you been putting off buying an island for one reason or another? Frankly, like a lot of other people, I have.

But on a vacation visit to these "Isles of June" I decided to look into the matter.

There was a kind of urgency about it. Next year comes my 50th wedding anniversary, and I have been racking my brain over what kind of present to give my wife to celebrate the event.

But what can you give a woman who already has a vacuum cleaner, air-conditioning machine, a TV set and an electric dish washer? Obviously the only things left to give her are a kind word—or an island.

"If you buy me an island," said Frances when I brought up the subject, "just be sure it has a big tree on it—I can tie you to it and know where you are."

I went into the H. G. Christie real estate office here and a man named Ed Browning filled me in on the situation—but fast.

Of the nearly 3,000 islands and rocky cays in the Bahamas he had some two score on the market at the moment. Unfortunately my first choice, San Salvador—the first spot of land sighted by Christopher Columbus in 1492—wasn't for sale.

"There has been a greatly increased interest in island buying since the war, particularly among Americans," said Browning. "What do you have in mind?"

"Oh, just something adequate—nothing ostentatious," I told him. "Well, there's Darby Island," he said. "About 300 acres, good house, a coconut grove, fine harbor facilities. A really splendid buy—only $200,000."

"Thinking it over," I replied. "It sounds just a wee bit ostentatious." "How about Pigeon Cay or Vigilant Cay? They're about three acres each, and priced around $4,500."

"Wonderful!" I murmured. "I could settle on an island like that and live off the fat of the land forever."

"Of course, you'd have to build a house first," said Browning. "I would?"

"And of course you'd have to have a yacht." "I would?" "Oh, my yes. You can't just start from scratch, you know. It takes a bit of wealth."

My dreams of owning an island paradise went glimmering. A yacht! And me with barely enough in the bank to make a down payment on a rowboat.

"What is the very cheapest island you have?" I asked desperately.

"Let me see there's Cane Cay. It's a mere $1,800."

"Well, well, now we're really getting some place. How big is it?"

"It's about 300 by 300 feet." "Did you say feet?"

"Yes, sir." "Why there wouldn't be room to swing a cat around on an island that size?"

"There aren't any cats there," said Browning. "But it isn't too remote. You can have television." That gave me the out I was looking for.

"My whole purpose in wanting an island was to get away from it all," I said, with great dignity. "I'm afraid you don't have quite what I had in mind."

If I have to live on an island that can be reached by television, well, make mine Manhattan.

BVD Firm Observing 80th Year

By BELMAN MORAN
NEW YORK (AP)—In a Broadway show of recent date, there was a job that sometimes drew a laugh, and sometimes a ghastly blank, depending on the average age of the audience. It was built around a reference to B.V.D.'s.

Does that take you back, brother?

Does it carry you back to the Stutz Bearcat and the Stanley Steamer? Can you still see Wallace Reid and Mary Miles Minter and Baby Peggy and Charles Ray? Does it remind you of meatless and wheatless days, a song called "The Race of No Man's Land," a place called Chateau Thierry, "Over the Top" Woodrow Wilson's 14 points and Charles G. Dawes' upside down pipe?

It did me.

Somehow though, while we weren't looking, a whole new generation has come along and these youngsters find nothing automatically funny about B. V. D.'s. To them, this could mean any number of articles of apparel, for the firm has branched out considerably.

But in my day, sonny, it meant underwear, a one-piece suit of underwear.

You kind of backed into it, as I remember, stepping first into the legs which were knee-length and then fighting your way through the arms. Then it buttoned down the front, and there you were.

Well, the firm is celebrating its 80th anniversary this year, and the officers are having a lot of fun looking back.

The trademark came from the initials of the founders, Bradley, Voorhes and Day.

A big seller in the early days, however, was not men's underwear. It was the "apical bustle."

A fetching advertisement from an old magazine shows a lady with an hour-glass figure (and not bad, sport, not bad) examining a spiral bustle with demure approval. It resembles the skeleton of a small mountain lion. The text says it is "the coolest and most durable bustle made."

Then the famous men's underwear began to catch on. Somebody coined the slogan, "Next to myself I like B. V. D. best."

The late William Allen White, in one of his brochures on American business, credited this with making the product "familiar to the natives along the Gold Coast and to the wild man from Borneo."

The ads were illustrated with long, lean gentlemen, telephoning, reading letters, chatting or just looking pleased, all in underwear.

Middle East Is Churning

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Middle East is churning, but war between Israelis and Arabs hasn't broken out. Secretary of State Dulles says he does not foresee any crisis requiring use of American troops there.

If the need arises, he says President Eisenhower will want to get the approval of Congress before sending troops unless there is an emergency which does not permit time for congressional action. Dulles thus stated the right of a president to use troops in an emergency. The point became a sore one the last time a president did that.

President Truman ordered U.S. forces into action two days after the North Korean Communists attacked South Korea in 1950. Congress was in session at the time but Truman didn't ask advance congressional approval.

Shortly before announcing his decision he called in members of the House and Senate committees which deal with foreign affairs and got their unanimous endorsement.

Eisenhower, then a general, said the decision was "inescapable."

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said Truman should be given "overwhelming support." Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said the decision was a "damned good move."

The late Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) backed the decision but criticized Truman's action as a "complete usurpation of congressional" authority.

By 1952 the Republicans had made Truman's action campaign issue. They said in their party platform:

"We charge that they (the Democrats) plunged us into war in Korea without the consent of our citizens through their authorized representatives in the Congress. . . Congress. . ."

Last year when it seemed possible the Chinese Communists might attack the Nationalist Chinese on Formosa, or their outlying islands of Matsu and Quemoy, Eisenhower went to Congress.

He asked approval to use armed forces for the defense of Formosa if and when he thought necessary

AL CAPONE, notes Irv Kupcinet, had a favorite florist who had a standing order to send an elaborate floral wreath to the family of every hoodlum the Capone mob rubbed out. It was a lucrative business, and the florist showed his appreciation by getting the wreath ever while the body was still warm. One day, in fact, he overreached himself. The wreath, with the victim's name tastefully worked out in white carnations, arrived before the police had even identified the body!

A Mr. Fleagle in South Bend had a brand-new washing machine that went on the frits. Mr. Fleagle had bent over to probe deep into the mechanism of the machine when Mrs. Fleagle entered and turned on the switch. There was a whirr, and Mr. Fleagle's legs shot up into the air. Mrs. Fleagle watched him thrashing wildly about and observed happily, "Tee, hee! You've got it working again!"

the Snapshot Guild
A picture like this offers a nice change of pose from the more usual sunny day snapshots of children.
Snapshots Can Bloom in April Showers
Though poets have hailed April equally for its "golden sun" and its "silver rain," many photographers get their spirits dampened by a sudden spring shower. They wrongly feel that they have to put their cameras away until the sun comes out again.
We suggest that you capitalize on the next rainy day and let your camera catch some unusual shots—maybe the youngsters hopping from puddle to puddle, a neighbor walking an unwilling pup, or passerby and their ballet of umbrellas reflected in the glistening pavement.
To be sure that you keep your camera dry, select a sheltered doorway or a window from which to do your shooting. That way there'll be no raindrops splashing on the lens to blur its vision and spoil your snapshot.
Remember, too, to choose a fairly bright rainy day for your picture taking. This will assure good results even with ordinary snapshot film in a simple camera. If you want to, however, you can have special "rain insurance" by loading your camera with extra fast film—it's practically foolproof for shooting on a rainy day!
The next time it rains don't let a little thing like an April shower dampen your picture-taking plans. Weather or not—your camera is always ready to help you get interesting shots for your album. So don't be a fairweather friend trying shooting in the rain, too!

On The BOOKSHELF

BY S. DRIGGERS
Some good new non-fiction for those who prefer it: "Unleashing of Evolutionary Thought" by Oscar Riddle; "Atoms For Peace," by David Woodbury; "Men, Rockets and Space Rats," by Lloyd Mallan; "Memory Bay" by John Frederic "Exploring Mars" by Robert Richardson; "Kamongo Or The Lungsish And The Padra" by Homer Smith; (this book is a treatise on science versus religion but a beautiful book part fiction and part philosophy, done in a style worth the intelligent reader's time).
"How to Run A Club; a complete hand book for club members" by Harry Simmons, which covers every phase of successful club operation; "Family Scrapbook" by Ernest Osborne answers every thing you want to know in the way of care and management of children.
The Literary Guild choice for April is "Imperial Woman" by Pearl Buck. It is a ready novel about the last Empress of China, Tzu Hsi, who held the empire and the dynasty at its height from the 1860s until her death in 1908. This gay, lovely woman has been called the most wicked and the most virtuous of monarchs, the most cruel and the most benevolent. Really good reading.
The new career book for the teenagers is "Kate Brennan, Model" by Maurine Daly.
I've just finished reading "Sea Wolf" by J. M. Scott. A suspense novel right in the end! I thoroughly enjoyed it and the ending was such a surprise. This is no love story and the whole thing takes place on the Indian ocean on a rubber raft on which the four sole survivors of a shipwreck live for 14 days. (By the way, that's pronounced "Sea Wife").
This item from Durham, N. C. is the best I've heard: Duke University has reorganized a library book that was checked out 36 years ago.
Duke gives a nickel a day on overdue books, and this one could have cost the borrower $650. The professor who brought it back got a "thank you" instead of a fine. He found it among his father's books. The book, a biography of Napoleon, was checked out Oct. 8, 1918. Duke officials say about 600 of their 1,200,000 volumes are lost, strayed or stolen each year.
The longest I can remember that a book was kept out for 18 months. I won't mention any names, but the book was found in the garage. We have some good books out now either lost, strayed or stolen. Wish we could get them back, but writing doesn't seem to bring results.
May brings another Eric Stanley Gardner "Case Of The Demure Defendant." It also brings books by A. J. Cronin, Elizabeth Goudge, Edna Lee and Patrick Dennis.
