SANFORD BOARD OF TRADE HAS SPLENDID MEETING ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Frank L. Miller Heads Board For 1920 NEW GOVERNORS IN

GREAT SPIRIT OF BOOST IS SHOWN BY NEW OFFICERS AND MEMBERS

One of the most enthusiastic and representative crowds of business men, farmers and manufacturers that have ever met at a Board of Trade meeting in Sanford met at the Court House Tuesday night when the annual election of officers was held, resulting in the following officers being chosen for the ensuing year.

President, Frank L. Miller, first vice president, Chas. L. Britt, second vice president, T. W. Lawton, treasurer, W. M. Haynes.

The following board of directors were elected:

H. L. Haight of Altamonte, W. C. Hill, S. O. Shinholser and Dr. George Hyman of Sanford, O. P. Swope of Oviedo, Endor Curlett of Geneva, E. L. Hoban of Oseola, C. Boyce Bell of East Sanford and John Meisch of West Sanford.

Several of the members made interesting talks on the benefits of the Board of Trade and the get together spirit and the many things needed in Sanford, some of which has been brought here by the Board of Trade and many to be put in force by the efforts of the board in the days to come and out of the discussion was brought forth the subject of the Oseola Cypress Co., at the new town of Oseola or Bridge End as it has been called in the eastern part of the county where a city of a thousand people has already been built and on account of a stretch of bad road between Geneva and Oseola the people are prevented from coming to Sanford. A committee was appointed to confer with the county commissioners at their next meeting about this road and in the event that the commissioners cannot at this time build the road the committee is empowered to make a loan and allow the county commissioners to repay them as soon as the county is able as the road fund is almost used up at present. The following committee was appointed by the president: A. P. Connelly, J. G. Ball, B. F. Whitner, R. J. Holly and F. W. Mahoney.

Several other matters of great importance were discussed and demonstrated what the Board of Trade can accomplish alone meeting if the members will co-operate and make the county's business their business. At the close of the meeting President Miller made an earnest address thanking the members for their confidence placed in him by the election and pledging them his time and support for the year. Mr. Miller stressed the fact that Sanford could accomplish wonders here if the people would only get together and stay together on the main idea of supporting the Board of Trade and meeting regularly once each month laying aside all factional differences and pulling for a greater Sanford. He impressed all present with his earnestness and showed that he is the right man in the right place and in President Miller the members will have an active chairman and one who will expect every member to work with him.

In Frank Miller, Chas. Britt, T. W. Lawton and W. M. Haynes the board has a working force that will work and the board of governors from every part of Seminole county will make the Board of Trade hum from this time forward.

No appointment as secretary has been made and until a campaign for memberships has been put over it is likely that some volunteer will hold this office with the assistance of a stenographer to answer the correspondence and take care of adowntown office that will be opened if possible while the tourist season is on.

The Sanford Board of Trade in the past has accomplished much for the county and made a fine record especially while D. C. Marlowe was the active secretary and if possible in the early fall a secretary will be engaged to put the Sanford Board of Trade and the county on the map in large letters. It now behooves every live citizen of the county to join the Board of Trade and become one of us in every sense of the word.

Joe Meisch Gives $100

In the list of people giving $100 each to the Baseball Association in yesterday's Herald the name of Joe Meisch was left out and hence this correction. Joe is one of the boys and not only loves baseball but like his brothers John and Frank is public spirited in every sense of the word and you can always bank on the Meisch boys being there with the good when the community needs them.

It is not known what he sold these farms for but it is understood that he received a handsome sum for them. The celery on these farms is among the best in the celery section and shows the quality of the land. Mr. Hood will not give up farming altogether as he likes the game too well but he expects to devote part of his time to other pursuits that are not quite so strenuous.

Washington, March 11 (By Associated Press) Herbert Hoover will be called to testify in the Senate investigation of the navy conduct of the war. It was Sims request that Hoover be allowed to corroborate the charges that the allies barely escaped peace without a victory. ## OUR NAVY DID FAIL SAYS SIMS

FAILURE TO GIVE PROMPT CO-OPERATION COST ALLIES LIVES AND MONEY

Washington, March 11.—Failure of the navy department to give prompt and full co-operation in the war department during the first six months after the United States entered the struggle prevented a victory over Germany by July, 1918, Rear Admiral Wm. S. Sims told the senate investigating committee today in supporting his charges of delay against the department.

"It is no light matter that cost the cause with which we were allied half a million lives, $15,000,000,000 and 2,600,000 tons of shipping," he said.

The officer first read to the committee the statement he had made upon his arrival in London in 1917. The statement was long and full of technicalities, but sharply brought out his conclusion that victory or defeat was to be determined by the German submarine campaign, which was concentrated in the eastern Atlantic where shipping routes to England and France were most numerous and converged.

Failure of the naval department to throw the full force of the navy into the struggle he said resulted in a loss of 4,000,000 tons of shipping in 1917 and 1,000,000 tons in 1918. America he said could have had a million men in France in 1918, instead of 100,000, if such action had been taken.

He never used the return trip as he fell in love with a Florida girl at Bristol who was a niece of Judge Sheppard and did not go back to Washington. However the lure of the diamond was so strong to keep him down on the farm and in 1901 he was on the Ft. Wayne team and helped them to win three pennants. While in training at Colorado Springs he hurt his shoulder and had to quit the game. Mr. Swain will reside for a time and is looking for furnished rooms for himself and family.

Negotiations For Compromise Is Good CHANCES EQUAL

FOR BOTH SIDES OF CONTROVERSY AND SOMETHING WILL DROP SOON.

Washington, March 11.—Here is article 10, on which the fate of the peace treaty again is suspended—just two compact sentences set in the midst of an 80,000 word document: "The members of the league undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the league. In case of such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled."

The peace treaty ratification fight in the senate entered its final and most bitterly contested phase today with article 10 and the reservations thereto the unfinished business to be disposed of. Debate of the much disputed section of the league of nations covenant is in progress while negotiations looking to a compromise on the republican reservations will be continued. Both sides frankly without much hope that an agreement will be effected. Several republican officers were ready to institute a reservation yesterday to which they said they had obtained the support of 48 democrats, but that number is from 2 to 6 short of the votes necessary to pass the treaty carrying qualifications which President Wilson has declared will cut the very heart from the pact.

The reservation on voting power in the league, by which United States declines to be bound by decisions to which congress has not assented until voting power is made legal was re-adopted yesterday, 47 to 20.

Some democrats favoring reservations arranged for a conference today in the office of Sen. Owen, of Oklahoma, in an effort to expedite ratification.

P. Field for many years but of late has been in Adugua, Ga. where he was associated with his father in the auto top business. This is a new kind of endeavor in the manufacturing field and would be a good thing for Sanford and if there is a man who has a vacant store or factory space that could be rented or leased to Mr. Field it would mean another factory for Sanford.

THE PRINCESS RUNS TONIGHT WITH THEIR OWN LIGHTS

MAKING TRAVEL BY AIR SAFE

Wireless Telephone Will Do Much to Insure Speedy Mail Deliveries.

BRITISH EXPERTS AT WORK

When New System is Working Properly Pilots Will Be in Constant Touch With Ground by Means of Wireless.

London.—Will the aerial mail service, when its organization has been improved, still continue to be interrupted by such adverse weather as during the past week prevented on several days the flying of the mail machines between London and Paris? Asked this question the other day by a representative of the London Times, Holt Thomas, whose high speed bi-planes carry the London-Paris mail, replied with an emphatic "no."

enormously and we have now the services of one of the most practical experts in this country, who is concentrating his attention exclusively on the question as to how directional wireless and the wireless telephone may be made to help us in regular daily flying and to overcome such difficulties as at present cause delay.

Information for Plane Pilot.

When we have this system working properly it will mean that during our hours of flying, say from 12 o'clock to 4 p. m., every land operator will be listening for messages from the air and a pilot having set out say from Hounslow, and wishing to know exactly what the weather is like in the channel, will simply take up his receiver and call "Hello, Lympeae." All the other stations on the airway will hear, but only Lympeae will reply, and in a moment the pilot will be given the information he requires. It will also be quite easy for one pilot to speak to another while two machines are in flight.

In each machine, also, we shall place a light telescopic mast. This will be jointed and will lie in the fuselage without taking up any room. But should a pilot have to make a compulsory descent he will on sighting take out his mast, joint it together and place the "aerial" of his wireless telephone on the top of it. Then, when he has raised this mast and stuck the end of it in the ground—it will be about 20 feet high when fully extended—he will be able to call up the nearest aerodrome on his wireless telephone and tell them just what field he is, down in and what his trouble is. In such a case, if a man cannot ascend again quickly, we shall send another machine to him from the nearest relief point, which will take on his mails. We shall soon have a system, both on the English and French sections of the route, whereby a pilot who has a forced landing can get into touch immediately with the nearest land agent of the service, who will take over his mails at once and send them on their way in a fast motorcycle.

The point is now demonstrated very clearly that with a skillful pilot and a fast machine the only sort of atmospheric conditions which seriously interrupts flying is such as we encounter sometimes on a bad November day, when an opaque mist, beginning almost at ground level, may extend upward, in an unbroken mass, to an altitude of something like 10,000 feet.

Hurting Through the Fog.

A pilot in an airplane, flying on through a thick mist, is as unhappy as a pedestrian in a dense fog—only more so. Not only is there the question of finding his way, but he is faced also by the embarrassing fact that, through not being able to turn his eye upon any horizon line, he cannot judge the altitude or inclination of his machine in relation to the ground below, with the result that he may get into a side slip or spin and find suddenly that his machine has passed out of his control—a condition of affairs which may spell extreme peril.

Then we expect very soon to have improved considerably the instruments in a machine which tell its pilot its altitude and inclination when he is deprived by fog or cloud of a horizon line. Then, as yet another point, we are working on the question of lighting aerodromes and landing grounds so that a pilot can make a safe contact with the ground even when the air is heavily obscured. This is, of course, a point of capital importance. It is not enough to guide a man accurately while he is flying in misty weather. You must be able to insure him also a safe alighting.

HELD FAST TO THOSE FISH

Indianapolis Man Was Taking No Chances of Losing the Prizes He Had Secured.

Tom Genolin, of the railway mail service, tells a thrilling story of how once upon a time he was tempted and fell; how in the early hours of morning he slipped away to a "posted" stream and drew from thence five of the most beautiful bass ever seen. The climax of his story reads thus:

"The glorious day was peeping and creeping through the silent trees when I gathered up my bunch of beauties and started homeward. I had not gone far when I laid them in a clump of grass while I filled my pipe. When I started to pick them up again I beheld they were gone. A slight stir under a nearby bush brought visions of some prowling thief and I threw myself prone upon the bush and clutched for the place where the fish might be. That is when I awoke and gathered myself up from the bedroom floor where I lay clutching a jangling alarm clock."

Mr. Genolin thus ends the story: "The tragic and unbelievable part of my story is yet to be told. The day after the incident related I went to the pool concerning which I had dreamed and there I fished precisely as I fished in my dream and I caught five beautiful bass precisely as I had caught them in my dream and, lastly, I returned home with them, but not once did I lay them down in a clump of grass."—Indianapolis News.

CALL FOR A NATIONAL CRY

Great Need in This Country, 'Tis Said, for an Explosive, Expressive Yell.

American audiences are charged with being unresponsive and apathetic, particularly in patriotic outdoor demonstrations. Americans are not incapable of making loud, loyal noises, and not averse thereto. But rarely is a parade staged in this city that does not move throughout a large part of its course between silent lines of spectators. The result is sometimes so depressing as largely to neutralize the desired effect of the parade.

The will to cheer doubtless arises all along the line, but there is no short and easily exploded yell known to us. "Hurrah," is the traditional American word for cheer, but no man will venture its use in public, unless in the wake of a cheer leader who prefaces it with a "hip, hip, hip!" Even then the usual response testifies that this method of cheering is getting rusty.

There is no lack of cheering on an American football field, nor at any kind of a demonstration on a college campus. The reason for this is that good, expressive, explosive yells have been devised for outdoor use. And because they do explode, and because they stand for something, the American public likes to use them. They also like to follow a good yell leader.

America needs a national yell. The man who can coin one will do the country a great service.—Minneapolis Journal.

Improved Stereopticon. A recent development of the stereopticon operates automatically, throwing upon a screen a certain number of lantern-slide views, usually 16, but 100 or 200 or more by special adaptation. The apparatus includes a 1,000 candle power nitrogen-tungsten lamp, condensing and objective lenses, and a small motor to be connected to a lamp socket on either a direct or alternating current circuit. The machine shifts the slides automatically, allowing each picture to remain on the screen 12 seconds before being replaced by the next. The outfit with screen, slides, etc., packs into a suitcase, and is especially fitted to enable the traveling salesman to show goods by picture, though also adapted for educational displays, home entertainment and a great variety of other purposes.

Valuable Tree.

A giant kauri tree has been logged by the Queensland forest service and the timber sold for $1,000. It was known as Bell's tree and yielded 17,000 superficial feet of timber in five huge logs, and the logging costs amounted to $500. The net stumpage came to twelve feet 6 inches per 100 super feet. Had the tree been smaller a higher prize would have been realized, as few saw-millers cared to handle it. This giant of the forest was offered to a timber-getter for $30 on the stump, being at the rate of less than 20 cents per super feet, twelve years ago.

On Blaker's Day.

Charles had been going to kindergarten about two weeks. During this time the children had been taught the song "When the Sun Wakes Up at Break of Day." The little fellow liked it very much and tried to sing it at home. The children had been told about Mrs. Blaker living above the kindergarten and that she could hear them singing.

This fact, with the words of the song made a deep impression on Charles. When he reproduced the song at home, this is what he insisted was correct: "When the Sun Wakes Up on Blaker's Day."

Filming Holy Writ.

The Bible is to be filmed, and the men in America who pre about to begin this stupendous work claim that their Bible pictures will help to quiet the unrest of the world, and that, as an aid to religion, education and social welfare, their value will be almost incalculable.

Christmas Eve Calamity.

He had been spending Christmas eve with his brother in London, and when, late that same night, he returned to his wife—Mrs. Brown—his face was strangely pale and haggard. "What is it, dear?" exclaimed the wife.

"I will tell you. It happened while we were at dinner. We were all eating in quite ordinary fashion when suddenly little Dorothy uttered a cry of distress and closed her eyes. At most of the same instant my sister-in-law pressed her hand to her forehead and tears streamed down her face. As I gazed at her in alarm, my brother John threw up his arms with an exclamation of intense pain and then buried his face, over which a sharp spasm appeared to be passing, in his napkin. "Poisoned!" gasped Mrs. Brown with hysterical symptoms. "No, my dear," replied Mr. Brown, with ghastly calmness. "Horse-radish."—London Tit-Bits.

An Epoch-making event in the annals of American amusements is the presentation by Richard Walton Tully of the virile-compelling-accomplished American actor, Guy Bates Post, in the iridescent bubble of modern humanity, "The Masquerader." This dramatic masterpiece by John Hunter Booth, taken from the widely read novel of Katherine Cecil Thurston, intimately illustrates the lives of two men who met in the fog and traded identities and living quarters.

The dual characterization offers Mr. Post a wonderful opportunity and the constricted characters are impersonated by him with all the art of a genius mind. His drug fiend is a pitiful wretch; his Loder, the "man," the mental and moral antithesis of the other.

More intensely and artistically interesting than Jeckyl and Hyde—more massive in presentation than any modern play, and yet, so deftly done, its ponderous scenes move with the smooth rapidity of an uninterrupted panorama, and that is what this wonderful play is—A LIVING MOVING, TALKING PANORAMIC REFLEX OF THE WARP AND WOOF OF HUMANITY.

The most Ponderous of all Modern Plays pulsating with the element that comprises "Life" presented in Another lay-off yesterday.

Fuel oil is scarce in this part of the country.

Only a few more days in which to do your Income Tax shopping. The Time is up on March 15th.

We would like to ask the City Commissioners again, "What are you going to do about it?" and when.

A good way to begin the week's work is to begin by working, and never admit the possibility of a bad ending.

Head line in Orlando Reporter Star says "prohibition would have a wonderful effect on London." We'll say it would, buddy.

Watch the Sanford Board of Trade. It is going to do things this summer. If you have not joined you had better get in the game.

It may be true that money is the root of all evil. But if so, there's consolation in knowing that we are all tarred with the same brush.

No man can make a success in life unless he begins by believing in himself. The world's estimate of your ability is never higher than your own.

Soon now the census figures will be made public. For the sake of our reputation as a growing community here's hoping each one of us was counted twice.

Fortunes are not made by loafing on street corners and making suggestive remarks about women who pass by. But reputations are of a kind.

We need another celebration here to get some life into the city after the many lightless nights and powerless days and waterless mornings and gasless afternoons.

The scent of the orange blossoms is in the air and all the signs of spring are here with the advent of the warmer days and the brightest sunshine that ever spread its rufescence on the earth anywhere.

This city has lost a bunch of business through the neglect of the Southern Utilities Co., and much of this business will never come back and yet the bunch deliberately takes money for service that has never been rendered. O, you municipal ownership.

There are some big things in store for Sanford this summer and they are things which the Herald knows about but cannot divulge at this time. Among them are another hotel, two apartment houses and a project that is new and will be the making of Sanford as a tourist resort.

Feel like making a gallon or two of booze for your own use? Don't do it. Under the provisions of the prohibition law the government, if you are detected, can seize the real estate on which it was made and throw you into the street. The antis appear to have put sharp teeth into the law, after all.

Are the morals of this nation in a state of rapid decline? One is inclined to think so, from the mass of disgusting details served up daily by the city newspapers. The city circulation of today depends to a considerable extent upon the amount of sensationalism the editor can crowd into his pages. Legitimate news articles are the last to be read.

We are compiling facts and figures on the question of municipal ownership that will open the eyes of the people to the amount of money we have been losing through the Southern Utilities Co. And when these facts and figures are published there will be no question about the people of Sanford having their own plants whether it will be by bonding or private subscriptions.

Placing one's ear carefully to the ground faint rumblings can be heard of an early drive of the anti-tobacco forces. And, to meet force with superior force, we suggest an onslaught of the army of anti-corsets, anti-rouge, anti-face creams, anti-leg displaying shirts, anti-bare backs and breasts, anti-chewing gum, anti-ice creams, anti-confections, and anti-posses. Mere man is only mere man, but when backed up against the wall and in desperation he will let out a few whoops of wholesome truths. On with the scrap!

Wives of Instructors at Northwestern University Are Forced to Do Their Own Work.

Chicago.—A questionnaire among the faculty members of the college of liberal arts at Northwestern university was responded to by fifty-two and showed, among many interesting things, that among professors and instructors whose salaries are less than $1,500 the modern "hired girl" is unknown.

"If the instructor marries, his wife must do all the housework for some time," the faculty report, recently submitted to the trustees of the university, says.

But worst of all, even when the instructor has worked his way up the ladder to the position of associate or assistant professor "we find him," the report continues, "still unable to spend much of anything for domestic service. Not even in the group of men receiving the salaries of full professors do we find an average expenditure sufficient to pay a maid's wages for one year."

At Northwestern the full professor, so called, receives from $3,000 to $4,000 yearly.

The questionnaire also elicited other information which the Northwestern "U" teacher claims entitles him to something more than the 25 per cent increase of salary recently announced by Campaign Chairman Dyche.

ARCH FOR 100-YEAR PEACE

Memorial Urged for Friendly Relations Between Canada and United States.

Blaine, Wash.—Erection of a huge memorial arch on the international boundary here to commemorate the century of peace between Canada and the United States is being urged by good roads men of Washington and British Columbia.

Tentative plans call for the erection of the arch in a big park to be established on the Pacific highway on both sides of the boundary. The city of Blaine is willing to purchase the American share of the park if the British Columbia parliament will buy the Canadian side.

Samuel Hill of Seattle, president of the Pacific Highway association, is leading the movement. Premier John Oliver of British Columbia has promised to consider the matter.

The editor of the Herald wishes to thank Capt Stafford for a fine shad that he sent in the other day. It was a beauty and when baked with all the trimmings was some swell dish. The genial captain guards the bridge across the Harden ferry and also has time to net many of the finny tribe for the trade and we hope he realizes his dream of a new ice plant that will take care of his fishing trade and not force him to send to DeLand for ice as he does now when the Southern Utilities Co. is taking a rest.

An Epoch-making event in the annals of American amusements is the presentation by Richard Walton Tully of the virile-compelling-accomplished American actor, Guy Bates Post, in the iridescent bubble of modern humanity, "The Masquerader." This dramatic masterpiece by John Hunter Booth, taken from the widely read novel of Katherine Cecil Thurston, intimately illustrates the lives of two men who met in the fog and traded identities and living quarters.

The dual characterization offers Mr. Post a wonderful opportunity and the constricted characters are impersonated by him with all the art of a genius mind. His drug fiend is a pitiful wretch; his Loder, the "man," the mental and moral antithesis of the other.

More intensely and artistically interesting than Jeckyl and Hyde—more massive in presentation than any modern play, and yet, so deftly done, its ponderous scenes move with the smooth rapidity of an uninterrupted panorama, and that is what this wonderful play is—A LIVING MOVING, TALKING PANORAMIC REFLEX OF THE WARP AND WOOF OF HUMANITY.

The most Ponderous of all Modern Plays pulsating with the element that comprises "Life" presented in
