

FEDERAL BUREAU CHIEF THRILLED TO 'BUCK FEVER'

Purvis, Who Sought Dillinger For Week, Admits Shakiness

CHICAGO, July 25.—(AP)—Melvin H. Purvis had the "buck fever" Sunday night when John Dillinger walked out of the Little North Side theater to his death a few seconds later in an alley.

Purvis, chief of the Chicago bureau of the department of investigation, admitted nervousness Monday, but associates and observers agreed he probably had good reason.

It was Purvis and not a subordinate who led the cordon of officers to the Biograph theater where Dillinger was enjoying the thrills of the gangster film. He personally placed his men and then placed himself "on the spot" as the "finger" to point out the elusive Indiana outlaw as he emerged from the lobby.

Dillinger passed him as he lunged against the wall, but the gunman did not see the signal which closed the police net around him. It was given by Purvis.

Purvis denied that a bullet from his pistol was the first to smash into Dillinger's body, but associates pointed out that he was closest and also that he has a reputation as a pistol shot.

Slight of stature, Purvis looks even younger than his 30 years and is close mouthed about his work even when it produces such satisfactory results as the removal of America's No. 1 public enemy.

Born in Timmonville, S. C., of English ancestry, Purvis studied law. He is a graduate from the University of South Carolina. He became a member of the department of investigation seven and one half years ago and came to Chicago in November, 1932.

Purvis has suffered for months from an infection of the nose and another of the throat, but has taken only time enough out at various times to make an occasional visit to hospitals.

Sleep has been something to do only when there was nothing else in the office. Each and every tip received by the bureau, regardless of how trivial, was investigated thoroughly.

Four times federal operatives swept down on Arlington race track. As many more visits were paid to the Cubs and White Sox ball parks to no avail. Heat-seekers and all the known haunts of Dillinger were shadowed constantly.

Associates and police said Purvis might well have had the "buck fever" Sunday night. Many times before he had set almost certain traps for Dillinger only to have his quarry escape.

An elaborate trap in Chicago's western suburbs went awry only a few months after Purvis took charge of the Chicago office. Another failed in St. Paul on Mar. 31 when Dillinger shot it out with federal officers in an apartment building. Another failed at the Little Bohemia resort near Mercer, Wis., a few weeks later.

Witnesses said that Dillinger gave him a piercing glance from the side of his yellow-green eyes, but walked on.

tion and harvesting during the year 1933 and for other purposes.

It is alleged that a mortgage on the crop had been given as security to a promissory note for $50.

Witt, it is charged, unlawfully and knowingly made a material false representation for the purpose of securing a loan under the Act of Congress dated Jan. 22, 1932, creating the RFC.

The information filed against Witt alleges that "One E. Carlton was interested as a share crop farmer in cultivating and raising a crop on certain lands upon which said E. V. Witt had made application for a loan for crop production during 1932."

"The act," it is stated, requires that any person having an interest in the crop should become a party to the crop mortgage and is required to sign the waiver and agreement clause of the crop mortgage.

The government charges that on Mar. 26, 1932, Witt borrowed $50 and that the crop mortgage bore the forged signature of E. Carlton.

Moreland announced that his office plans to take stringent steps to prevent violation of any clause of acts relating to the Farm Credit Administration.

The other seven men were given sentences of 10 to 20 years imprisonment by General Sessions Judge Joseph Corrigan.

Large retail grocery establishments and chain groups, as well as the small independent stores, have been found to be frequent violators of the codes, he said.

Most of the complaints against chain stores come from those located in Brooklyn and in some parts of Nassau county, the rec-

Missing Texan Found Branded With K.K.K.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 25.—(AP)—Branded with K. K. K. on his back, David Crockett, Harland painter and campaign worker who disappeared Friday night, was found yesterday, bound and gagged by the side of a road.

R. M. Berkhibe, an employe of an ice plant, discovered Crockett as he was on his way home.

Crockett told city detectives he had been kidnaped by three men and held prisoner until Monday night, when his captors told him they were going to take him home.

While riding with the trio, Crockett said, he felt something burning him. He struggled with his captors and one of them knocked him unconscious with a pistol. The painter said he recovered consciousness at the spot where he was found.

TEXAS COUNTS 40 DEAD AFTER 80-MILE WIND

Wall of Water Sweeps Over Coastal Areas, Claiming 17 Lives; Property Loss High

HOUSTON, July 26.—(A.P.)—The Texas coast counties from Galveston to Corpus Christi, today dug out of the wreckage of a 20 mile an hour hurricane that swept the area yesterday, and counted property damage at hundreds of thousands and a death toll that probably will reach 40.

The heaviest loss of life was believed to have been around Bay City. Cary Smith, newspaper editor there, said today that about 17 persons were missing in that vicinity.

They were believed to have been swept to death when a wall of water pushed by the wind rushed over the lowlands for a distance of six miles inland. Ten are missing at Matagorda Bay.

The wall of water rushed in so rapidly that persons in its path had little chance to escape. It is variously estimated to have been between four and 20 feet high.

Meanwhile, the little community of Moravia in Jackson county was visited by a tornado which killed five yesterday.

Other crops were completely ruined in coastal counties around Corpus Christi. Drought previously had burned cotton, feed and other crops far below normal production and the heavy rains and wind yesterday were believed to have finished the destruction.

Torrents of rain swept the sparsely settled coastal region and the shrieking wind piled huge waves against the shore.

While the storm vented its full fury on a limited section of the Texas coast, the effects were felt all the way up to Sabine Pass. Some homes were destroyed, losses amounting into thousands of dollars.

The stretch for which most concern was felt was that between Corpus Christi and Freeport.

HEAT DEATHS IN NATION NUMBER 1213

98 Perish In Chicago Alone Yesterday, As Temperatures Soar; Relief Not In Sight

By The Associated Press
Heat deaths numbered 1213 today.

Moderation of temperatures brought relief to some sections. Missouri and Illinois had the greatest number of casualties, the former having 330 and the latter 316.

In Ohio, 127 were dead. Of the Illinois dead, 98 perished yesterday in Chicago alone, including 12 aged wards of the county at Oak Forest Infirmary where 81 have died since Sunday.

Relief came yesterday to most of the North Central states and to scattered sections of the central, middle, and southwestern areas where drought losses have been exceptionally heavy.

The dry, sapping heat that continued yesterday to blanket the top of the Middle West has convinced Dr. Elwood Mead, the reclamation commissioner, that tens of thousands of persons must be moved out of the western half of the Dakotas and eastern Montana and Wyoming.

"There is nothing left, no green thing; it is gone," said Dr. Mead who returned to the capital Tuesday from a tour of the drought area.

He said the land should never have been cultivated because there was insufficient rainfall. Even if the drought should be broken and farming continued in the area, he said, another drought was certain to follow within a few years.

Meanwhile, the relief program for the area was being expedited. Chief among the relief moves was an effort by an arbitration board to settle the Chicago stockyards strike.

The Reconstruction corporation arranged to help tanners handle the enormous influx of cowhides caused by the purchases and to slaughter cattle in drought areas.

Victor A. Christian, acting farm administrator, said cattle buying would be resumed as soon as markets were cleared of the present glut of cattle and new facilities were made available for processing those purchased.

Today's map by the bureau of agricultural economics showed the emergency areas covered all of North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, and Nevada; most of Montana, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, Wyoming, Nebraska, Minnesota, and Wisconsin; and large areas of southern California, Arizona, Kansas, Oklahoma and Iowa.

Wall Street Takes Out On Zeb Smith

Chicagoan Jumps Out 19th Story Window To Avoid Questioning By U. S. Police

NEW YORK CITY, July 26.—That part of Wall Street which doesn't like the New Deal loves these days to tell the story about Zeb Smith, whose play had been mortgaged to the hilt for years and years.

Zeb was always on the verge of losing the place and his bankers got tired carrying him along. They were happy when the opportunity came to shift Zeb and his property to the Home Owners Loan Corporation. The deal was consummated. Zeb signed his name to the papers and blew a brass ring.

"Whoop!" he said with relief. "This is the first time I've been out of debt in thirteen years!"

RAILROAD HEADS SEEK ADVANCE IN FREIGHT RATES

Boost Held As One Of Few Remedies For Low Financial State

NEW YORK, July 26.—(A.P.)—Wall Street's attention is again focused on the financial plight of the country's railroad system, as indicated by the vulnerability of their shares in recent market selling waves.

Faced with a thoroughly bleak future, many railway executives are urging a general advance in freight rates. But a good number of observers believe the moment to be most inopportune for such a step and point again to the "expedient" rather than economic policy of the roads in regard to their basic rate structure.

It is claimed in some quarters that a general freight increase would merely add to the production costs of industry as a whole, diverting traffic from the carriers to competitors and injuring the prospects of business recovery.

The railways, on the other hand, have some strong arguments in their favor. Executives designate huge increases in their expenses, many of them springing allegedly from "New Deal" policies, as the underlying reason for their demands.

Trammell Doubts Success Of 1935 Naval Conference

HARBORER OF DILLINGER KILLS SELF

Chicagoan Jumps Out 19th Story Window To Avoid Questioning By U. S. Police

CHICAGO, July 26.—(A.P.)—Brought to the office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation for questioning in connection with the Dillinger case, James Probasco, 47, West Side resident committed suicide today by jumping from a 19th floor window.

No one could be found who witnessed the leap, but the body landed in an alley near Adams Street, narrowly missing a pedestrian. The body was badly mangled. He had been left alone in a room overlooking the alley for a few minutes when he leaped.

The grave holds John Dillinger. The body of the man who couldn't be kept behind jail bars and who so frequently evaded the traps set for him, rested last night six feet beneath the sod.

His body was lowered into the grave of the Dillinger family lot in peaceful Crown Hill cemetery near Magwood, Ind., yesterday afternoon after funeral services at the home of Mrs. Audrey Hancock, the sister who reared him after the death of his mother.

The slain gangster's 70-year-old father, John Dillinger, Sr., coastless, sat through the services displaying little emotion. But the sister, as the casket was closed, fainted and it was some time before she was revived.

Prominent Atlantans Engage In Fist Fight

ATLANTA, July 26.—(A.P.)—Dr. Witherspoon Dodge, widely known Atlanta minister and Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe university, came to blows yesterday in the latter's office.

Dr. Dodge demanded immediate payment of $200 and charged the university president with discriminating against him in the matter of salary.

Although the exchange of blows was brief for a few moments neither combatant showed any severe markings of the encounter.

Dr. Dodge, reluctant to discuss the incident, said the exchange followed conversation about "a very personal matter." He had a thin scratch on his face. Dr. Jacobs was unmarked.

Anti-Nazi Chief Takes Over Austrian Control As Italy Mobilizes 320,000 Soldiers

DOLLFUSS' LAST WORDS WERE OF WIFE, CHILDREN

Murdered Leader Was Denied Physicians, Priest In Final Hour

VIENNA, July 26.—Chancellor Dollfuss' last words were "Give my love to my wife and children." It was revealed in a dramatic account of the murder of the Austrian dictator, made late this afternoon by Colonel Walter Ahlen, head of the Austrian Home Guards.

Shot down in cold blood by the leader of a small band of Nazis who had burst into ancient Congress Hall as the tiny leader was attempting to escape into the offices of President Miklas, Chancellor Dollfuss lived for several minutes after two government police attempted to administer his wants when he was denied the assistance of a physician, or the last rites of the Catholic Church at the hands of a priest.

The story, as told by Colonel Ahlen, is that when Chancellor Dollfuss learned that a large band of men were forcing their way into the chancellery, he immediately hastened across a corridor away from his office to the offices of President Miklas in another part of the building.

Just as he stepped into Congress Hall, a small door leading into the hall from another direction was broken down, and a party of 10 or 12 armed men entered the hall.

The leader of this group strode forward hurriedly, and, at a distance of probably five paces, leveled his revolver and fired twice. One bullet struck the chancellor in the neck; the other under the left shoulder.

After taking a single step forward, the chancellor collapsed, and fell to the carpet on his back. Government police who had followed the band of Nazis into the room, stepped to the aid of their fallen leader, and appealed that a physician be sent for. The leader of the band denied them this (Continued on Page Three)

Prince Starhemberg Rise As Successor To Dollfuss Aways European War Talk

With anti-Nazi Prince Ernst von Starhemberg heading the government of Austria, speedily succeeding anti-Nazi Engelbert Dollfuss, other European capitals concerned over who controls the powder box nation breathed easier today.

But at Rome, 40 army divisions, each composed of about 8000 men were ordered today to strategic positions along the Austrian frontier.

A British authority in London said that Great Britain, Italy, and France believed Austrian Nazis had killed their hopes of popularity when they killed Dollfuss, and that none of the three nations would take new action to demand the independence of Austria.

From Rome, Italian troops were ordered to the Austro-Italian border, but it was explained this is merely a precautionary measure since authorities believed the Austrian government would be able to handle its internal situation without outside help.

At the same time the authoritative newspaper L'Espresso, D'Italia, in an apparently "inspired" editorial, declared that Chancellor Hitler of Germany supported the violence in Austria to deter the German people from a contemplation of their own domestic difficulties.

In Paris, French newspapers reiterated that Austria must be kept independent.

German officials at Berlin lent their condolences to Austria, and an unconfirmed rumor was spread that Hitler actually had gone there (Continued on Page Three)

And I hope that you will all continue your interest in this worthy work. Certainly, there must be some satisfaction for all of us to know that we are scattering a little sunshine for children who ordinarily have nothing to look forward to."

C. E. Adams was chairman of the local committee which arranged the benefit ball that attracted several hundred persons to the Mayfair Hotel, Mrs. F. E. mobilization of Mussolini's troops on the Austro-Italian border may not prove to be the spark which will set off another European conflagration, but the deadly parallel between the present situation and that of 1914 is strikingly apparent.

France, Finland, while on a "goodwill" mission to Berlin, was killed in the streets of Berlin on the twenty-fifth of June. One month later to a war, a series of military counterattacks and exchanges of diplomatic ultimatums, Austria declared war on Berlin.

It is inconceivable to us now that the United States could ever become embroiled in another European war. The tremendous loss of life, and awful suffering, not only among the belligerent and wounded but also among the neutral friends and relatives at home, as well as the most deplorable inconveniences for those who escape more or less through the last war to be readily forgotten.

And yet if it could be shown that it was to the immediate economic advantage of the United States to participate in it, we could be convinced that such a war would put out our million unemployed to work, would vastly aid us in disposing of our surplus wheat and cotton, would put an end to strikes and other civil strife, would greatly raise wages, and salaries and increase profits enormously.

Now far can a squirrel jump? Watching them play around in the woods, leaping from tree to tree, sometimes dropping great distances to the ground, it is not hard to bound away unharmed, we had gathered the impression that they were perhaps America's greatest long distance jumpers.

GERMAN VIEWS OF EVENTS IN AUSTRIA VARY

SOME GROUPS NOT SURPRISED, OTHERS DENY NAZI HAND IN CRIME

BERLIN, July 28.—(AP)—Last Germany received conflicting reports of yesterday's developments in Austria with mixed results, ranging from "I told you so" to denial that there is any connection between Germany and Austria in the crisis.

The Austrian Nazi leader, Alfred Frassfeld, cited in Germany, denied that his party had anything to do with the crisis, but he insisted that it was a break in the Dollfus camp.

The German newspaper "Anschluss" said a foreign office spokesman, who insisted that Germany's attitude toward Austria was "stands off."

It is pointed out that German officials watching Austrian occurrences are divided in their opinion as to whether the crisis is a result of a German move or a move of Austria.

The German official spokesman said that Germany had held off from Austria and said that President Dollfus had declared it far superior to the situation in Austria.

Other foreign office spokesmen stated that "the Austrian event" demonstrates the correctness of German contention that Dollfus could maintain his position in power.

Prince Starhemberg's Rise As Successor To Dollfus Allays European WarTalk

The German minister to Austria was recalled. Dr. Anton Hirtel, Austrian minister to Rome who was called shortly after the Austrian crisis, failed to establish him as chancellor. He died today, several hours after he was wounded in his cell.

Every capital in Europe was tense with expectancy and, in some cases apprehension, last night after the assassination of Chancellor Dollfus of Austria by Nazis.

Twenty years to a day after Austria's emergence of relations with Serbia, which placed Europe on the brink of the World War, events caused fear to be expressed in Paris over the possibility of consequences of Austria's loss of independence.

In Praha, Czechoslovakia, it was said that only Austrian union with Germany would cause the little nation to interfere with Austrian developments, however.

At Vienna City the utmost regret and sympathy was expressed over the death of Chancellor Dollfus, an ardent Catholic.

Dispatches from Munich said today's news from Vienna accounted for recent activities of storm troops in Bavaria, where for the past few days numbers of armed men have been seen in Munich and other cities.

In Italy, where the populace was in a high state of excitement over the issuance of orders to the military, former service men's groups were said to be at war time such as news of Dollfus' assassination permeated the kingdom.

Their deep resentment against Germany was freely expressed.

NYE PREDICTS GOP DEFEAT IN '36 POLLS

Republican Senators Pessimistic Over Outlook For Party After Survey Of U.S.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The Republican party will nominate a conservative easterner and suffer another crushing defeat at the polls in 1936, Ben. Gerald P. Nye, R. N. D., said Tuesday night upon his return from the sun-baked Northwest.

After a survey of public sentiment, Nye reported that:

"The NRA has failed as a reform agency."

"The AAA has aided farmers, but they are opposed to making it a permanent feature of American agricultural life."

"The Republicans will nominate either Ogden L. Mills, former secretary of treasury, U. S. Senator David Reed of Pennsylvania, or Prof. James Wadsworth, R. N. Y., for the presidency in 1936 and will oppose retention of any 'New Deal' legislation."

"President Roosevelt has not swung far enough to the 'left' to please the nation's liberal element."

Nye scoffed at reports that Republican party leaders had been weaned away from the hard conservatism and were prepared to meet the liberals part of the way.

in 1936. Nye said he found complaints on every hand against the NRA. Representatives campaigning for reelection in the Northwest, he declared are "soft-pedaling the NRA every chance they get."

"The NRA is a failure," he continued. "It isn't being enforced because they can't enforce it. Small business is being oppressed. Monopolies are unrestrained. The wages of some workers have been raised but this has resulted in the wages of others being lowered."

Unless the NRA is revised drastically Nye said he would lead a fight in Congress to prevent extension of the life of the act. He said he would permit industry to negotiate fair practice agreements subject to the approval of the federal trade commission.

Anti-trust laws would be restored and a new federal circuit court would be established to pass upon violations of code agreements and upon complaints of consumers, he said.

Turning to the AAA, Nye said farmers in his section had been grateful for crop reduction checks and that the agency must not be scrapped before a substitute unit has been set up.

Quite a relief machinery has been set up.

"The farmers in my country have no confidence in the theory that the road to prosperity is through destruction," Nye explained.

He felt President Roosevelt still has a "good chance" to solidify relations between the progressives and the Democrats but said that up to date the chief executive had not "reflected the spirit of liberalism which the so-called progressives have propounded all these years."

Establishment of a central banking system which would divorce completely government financing from the nation's powerful banking interests, Nye said, would go "a long way" toward bringing the progressives nearer the Administration.

"However," he added, "the mere fact that he hasn't done all we hoped for hasn't driven any of us back into the Hoover camp."

VETERAN GROWER PREDICTS RECORD CROP OF CITRUS

Skinner Believes New Growth Will Exceed 33,000,000 Boxes

TAMPA, July 23.—L. B. Skinner, veteran citrus grower and shipper, yesterday predicted a commercial citrus crop of 33,000,000 boxes this coming season. The figures included fruit canned, trucked and sold within the state for home consumption. The estimate compared with 28,500,000 commercial production the past season.

Mr. Skinner foresees a big increase in grapefruit, which will be held down some, he believes, by melonose, plant disease. In his opinion the orange production will be only slightly larger, principally due to increased sizes.

He estimated grapefruit production at 10,000,000 boxes, compared with 9,000,000 last season. Production of grapefruit this season is much larger and the sizes are running larger, he said.

He places orange production at 19,000,000 boxes, an increase of about 2,000,000 boxes.

Tangerine production is difficult to estimate this season, according to Mr. Skinner. He pointed out that a large number of tangerine trees had been budded over to other varieties of citrus during the past year. The trees, however, are producing more and the sizes are larger. He believes it will be the best quality crop of tangerines in years. Last year's crop was 1,800,000 boxes.

Quality generally will be better, Mr. Skinner said. Ruse mite appears to have affected grapefruit more than oranges this year, which should make the orange quality one of the best. The grapefruit if graded out carefully also should be of fine quality.

Much depends upon the care of the grove, he said. He has given more attention to his large groves this season and one of the finest crops is resulting, he explained.

Mr. Skinner pointed out that it is still early to judge with close accuracy. Also, he said, his observation has been limited this year, but that the indications point to the predictions he made.

Railroad Heads Seek Advance In Freight Rates

(Continued From Page 7) will cost the roads about $165,000,000 a year, officials say, while the new railway remains in will mean another $60,000,000. The recent rise in commodity prices, furthermore, is causing the carriers some $137,000,000 annually. It is claimed.

While the roads as a group have made a notable recovery this year over the early part of 1933, many of them are not yet covering fixed charges and others are just on the borderline between profit and loss. Consequently, executives assert that this added burden of more than $200,000,000 a year will be the last straw unless new income is produced from somewhere.

If the Interstate Commerce Commission should grant the contemplated increase, it would be the eighth major adjustment in the general rate structure in the past 20 years.

There was a 5 percent rise in 1915 and a 15 percent advance two years later. Just before the end of the war came another 25 percent increase.

When the carriers were returned to private operation, rates were lifted between 33 1/3 percent and 40 percent, varying according to districts. In July, 1922, 10 percent was shaved off.

Despite the drastic fall in commodity prices after 1929, freight charges were not cut down. Instead, in January, 1932, the roads were successful in obtaining an "emergency" increase which remained in effect until September of that year, when it was abandoned.

Cleveland Gambler Plans To 'Modernize' Rumania With Supply Of Slot Machines

CLEVELAND, July 23.—Hilly Fergus, king-pin of Cleveland gamblers, not satisfied with the take from his operations here, is reported to have obtained a concession from the Rumanian government to operate slot machines there.

Armed with a quarter million dollars and two automobiles, Fergus and two companions in his Take-a-Chance syndicate sailed from New York recently on the liner Rex.

They took along two automobiles, probably for use in moving about among the Rumanians and finding out how they're going to like putting their nickels and dimes in slot machines—and how.

Under the contract with Rumania, it was understood, the syndicate will get a "certain" percentage of the take from the slot machines, 30 percent will go to charity and the rest, if any, to those who risk their coins.

Syndicate members said 250 machines are ready to be shipped from Chicago and that orders have been placed for another 1,000.

Fergus' 43-year career has been colorful. He was a prize-fight manager and promoter until prohibition came along, when he became known as the beer baron of the west side.

When prohibition began to wane he turned to gambling. He was associated with Frank Joiner, slot machine operator, who disappeared seven months ago. One report was that Joiner was not dead, as had been reported, but would be in Rumania to greet Fergus and associates, having already arranged for the concession.

X-Ray Pictures Reveal Record Number Of Unusual Growths

KANSAS CITY, July 23.—When a toothache recently beset Miss Martha Louise Larson, it was probably the world's worst ache, for although she didn't know it, Miss Larson had 200 odd teeth in her mouth to hurt.

Even when a downtown dentist peered into the girl's mouth her strange trouble was not apparent. "You have a full sized tooth growing midway in the roof of your mouth," the dentist told her. He pounded it gently and asked: "Does it hurt?"

"You!" Miss Larson cried. Further exploration showed every part of her mouth was sore. The dentist ordered X-ray photographs taken of her mouth and provided temporary relief until the pictures could show the cause of trouble.

When the pictures were developed, Miss Larson and the dentist were amazed to see scores of tiny teeth imbedded in the gums and roof of her mouth. All those teeth were in addition to a normal set. The big tooth in the middle of the mouth was especially noticeable. Then began a long series of examinations. It was not until more than 200 teeth, ranging in size from a pin head to a grain of rice, were removed that the job was over. Even the big mid-mouth tooth went.

Miss Larson was left with a normal number of teeth. She learned that the excess teeth remained from an embryological formation which did not disappear normally with birth.
