Says Price Controls Are Useless Without Support Of Public Opinion, Congress

WASHINGTON. Oct. 9, P)—Senator Claude Pepper today said he is seriously considering abandoning his support of price controls because the program does not seem to be working out. Pepper was one of the staunchest supporters in last pummer's fight in the Senate for the agency's life. He issued this statement: "If price control is getting back like prohibition in its last days so that public tion in its last days so that public opinion is not going to support effective price control and the Congress is not going to support it, we might just as well not try to have it."

the junking of all price control was made as President Truman pressed his personal survey of the meat shortage.

New York's Democratic Senaor
James Mead—emerging from conference with White House, CPA and Agriculture Department of-ficials—said he is hopeful that an emergency decision will be ifertheoming very shortly which will help to relieve the meat short.
