

DR. STAGG RESIGNS

Well Known Presbyterian Minister Fears Nervous Breakdown

Like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky, Rev. Dr. John W. Stagg, pastor of the Presbyterian church resigned his charge yesterday.

His health was the cause of the resignation.

The moment when it came was dramatic. The morning service had almost been concluded, the audience having risen to receive the benediction.

"Twice in my life I have had nervous prostration. About four years ago it was quite serious. I came here hoping I would never have a return of it.

"Therefore I have thought best to say frankly to the congregation that I think it best for me to resign and go to a little farm where I hope to be benefited.

"The necessary procedure to this end is provided for in our book of order, and can be easily attended to.

"The part that concerns me need not trouble any one very much."

The action, coming so unexpectedly, and so bluntly and briefly put, left the congregation practically speechless.

The resignation was the one leading conversation in the city throughout the remainder of the day.

Several of the members of the Presbyterian session were seen this morning and asked what action they purpose to take with regard to the pastor's resignation.

However, it is understood that several prominent members of the congregation have offered to subscribe liberally to a fund to present to Dr. Stagg to support him while he is recuperating.

Dr. Stagg proposes to retire to the farm of his son, John Stagg, in Alabama.

Wood Cording Party

James and Alfred Robinson were hosts at a very unique but enjoyable party at the handsome home of their parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Robinson on the Heights Friday afternoon.

As "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," Mrs. Robinson conceived the brilliant idea of making a real frolic out of what seemed a formal affair.

Invitations were sent to a Wood Cording Party to the neighboring friends of James and Alfred and the guests came specially dressed for the occasion.

The girls wore aprons to protect their pretty dresses and the boys were dressed in overalls. The children were entertained with merry games on the lawn after which, when the sun began to read to them until six o'clock.

The girls filled the wagons and wheel barrow with the wood, which the boys hauled to the place where the wood was to be corded and stacked it.

The guests in attendance at the unique party were May and Mildred Holly, Margaret Cowan, Mary Fields, Kate and Martha Brown, Reginald and Robert Holly, G. W. Spencer, Jr., Frank and Erskine Pope, Percy Packard, James Brown, Clarence Fields, George Cowan, W. A. Adams.

Sunday Beach Accidents

Another beach road accident, in which the occupants of a car narrowly escaped death, occurred about 8 o'clock last night when the automobile belonging to Conrad Mangels of 1356 Florida avenue, driven by his negro chauffeur, struck the soft sand on the edge of the road, near the eight mile post and turned completely over, making two complete revolutions and righting itself upon its wheels after throwing the four occupants in different directions along the road.

Jesse Kramer, a brother of Charles Kramer, manager of the "Hat Box" in the Seminole Hotel and a family connection of Max Oberdorfer, chief deputy collector of customs in Jacksonville, was drowned early this morning at Pablo Beach. Had the life guards and physicians, who attempted to resuscitate the bather, been supplied with a pulmotor, it is believed that he could have been revived, but he was too far gone when taken from the surf to respond to ordinary methods of resuscitation.—Jacksonville Metropolis.

Raise Lemons in Florida

The sale of a lot of California lemons in Rochester, N. Y., last week averaged $12 to $13.50 per box. Just as good lemons can be raised in Florida as in California or in Sicily or Italy or anywhere else.

Extending Dry Zone

Ocala, Fla., July 28.—Prohibitionists in this county have secured enough signatures to a petition for a "wet or dry" election. The petition will be presented to the board of county commissioners at the next meeting of that body and there seems no reason why the commissioners should not call the election.

The drys are confident that they can marshal a sufficient number of votes to put an end to the legalized saloon in this county. If this is done there will be no "boon" between Hillsborough county on the south to Duval county on the north, some 200 miles.

Be A Man

If there is a chance to boom business boom it. Don't be a knocker. Hope a bit. Get a smile on you. Hold up your head. Get a hold with both hands. Then pull. Bury your hatchet, drop your tomahawk, hide your little hammer.

No one ever helped himself by knocking other people down. No man ever got rich by trying to make other people believe that he was the only good man on earth.

All men are not alike. Once in awhile you may find one who is very much alike, but some are different. If you don't like their style let 'em alone. Don't knock. There is no call for hammering solists. There is no end of fun in minding your own business.

These are the days of the citrus fruit. Citrus fruits, night learn a great deal that would aid materially in being successful if they would but get in touch with the Experiment station at Gainesville, Florida.

In a letter to friends in the city Mrs. O. W. Brady wrote that they were beginning to feel settled in their home in Brooklyn, New York.

HILLSBOROUGH BONDS

Bond Issue Carries By A Vote Of Over Four To One

Other News Of Interest In The State Cuffed For Busy Herald Readers

By a vote of considerably more than four to one, according to the most complete returns procurable. Hillsborough county voted for brick roads, and by such action placed itself in the front ranks of good roads counties, taking a step which will mean a tremendous advertisement for the whole state.

The cattle industry of Ocala county is helping to add to the national reputation of Florida as an ideal place for investment. Relative to recent transactions there the Ocala Journal says: "One of the largest local deals that has been made in cattle lately was consummated Monday when Henry Martin purchased 600 head of one year old steers and heifers from Henry Bass.

Perry Sweatt, 26 years of age, son of Captain W. W. Sweatt of No. 419 Platt street, was almost instantly killed a few minutes after midnight when he dashed into a slowly moving freight train at the point where the Atlantic Coast Line Railway crosses North Boulevard.

Petitions are being signed readily which will soon be presented to the Manatee city council, asking for an election on a bond issue of thirty-five thousand dollars. Already the work of selling grade stakes has been accomplished and plans are on foot for water works sewerage and packing, also a seawall extending the entire length of the riverfront with a magnificent boulevard.

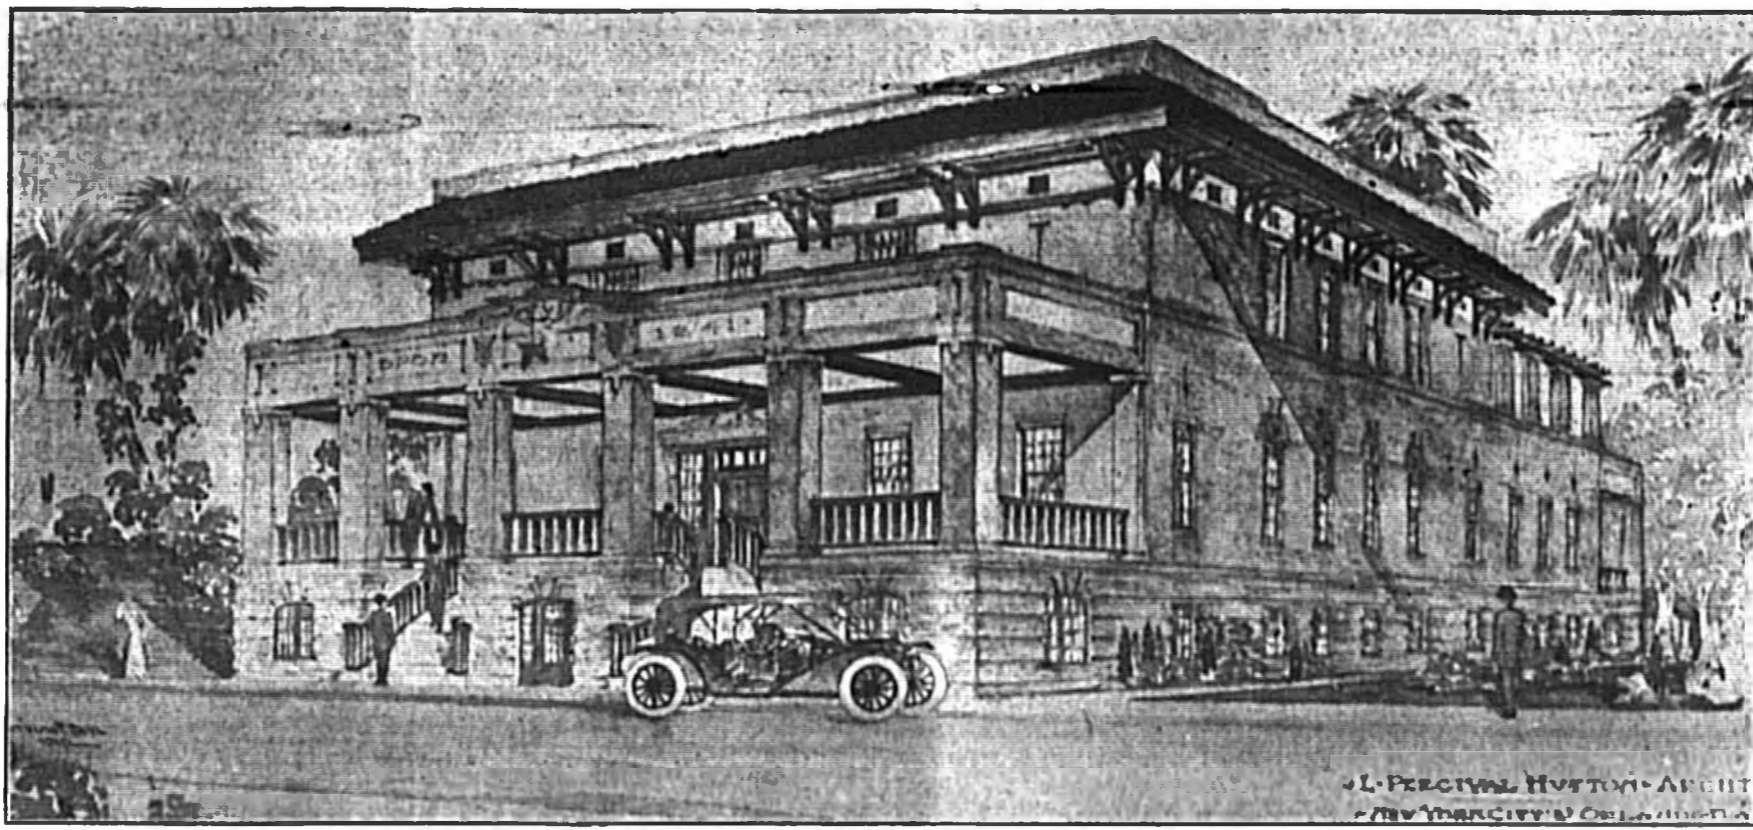

In spite of the largest year in building that St. Petersburg has ever known the coming season promises to see every house and almost every room occupied and the real estate men report an unusual demand for houses.

The Seaboard Air Line's passenger depot in Ocala is to be remodeled and enlarged, the work to commence within the next few days. The freight depot adjoining will also be rebuilt. Several thousand dollars will be expended in improvements on the two buildings.

It is stated that actual work on the proposed electric railway between Jacksonville and St. Augustine will be started by the first of October. The cost of this railway will reach the two million dollar mark, to be accomplished by Canadian and British money.

The little town of Dunnellon is certainly progressing. Contracts have been made for the expenditure of $100,000 in putting in a new sewer system and the building of two miles of brick roadways.

DECIDED ON COURT HOUSE

Wellborne Block Will be Occupied as Temporary Quarters for Officials

The board of county commissioners have finally decided to accept the offer of the number of rooms in the Wellborne block on a strictly rental basis. The lodge room on the third floor will be used as the court room and Mr. Robinson, the owner will put in an elevator service that will make the third floor very convenient.

The new Seminole Bank & Trust Co. will occupy the corner room, formerly occupied by M. O. Coggins & Co., and this will also stimulate business in the block and make that end of the city wake up from the long lethargy into which it has fallen since the march of progress has been made towards other parts of the city.

The court room will be located on the third floor of the block, the officials' rooms on the second floor and the monthly rental to the county for as many rooms as are needed will be $100. The lease system was first proposed to the commissioners, but on account of the objections to the county being tied up with a five year proposition they favored the rental of the rooms, it being the general opinion that Seminole county will be ready to build a good court house in three years' time.

With a clock in the tower of the Wellborne block, the temporary quarters can be made to appear better than the majority of the court houses in many counties ten times the age of Seminole, and the Wellborne block will be fitted up in an good shape as a new court house would be in the interior.

M. F. Robinson, the owner has reached the age where he was anxious to rid himself of the cares incidental to the rental of a large building and was willing to make terms to anyone who would take entire charge and the majority of the citizens of Seminole county think the commissioners have acted wisely in this matter of the selection of the temporary quarters for the transaction of county business.

The price is much less than the owner or lessee could get from individual tenants and with the elevator service and other conveniences the commissioners have undoubtedly made a good deal.

Will Publish the Laws

At the meeting of the county commissioners next Tuesday The Herald will be ordered to print the state laws for Seminole county and the same will appear about August 15th. As a copy of the new laws will be mailed to every voter in Seminole county this edition will be one of the best advertising mediums ever and the advertisers should remember the date and get their copy ready for the big edition. The Herald that day will carry about thirty pages of good matter. A later announcement will be made about this edition and meantime the live merchants should bear it in mind.

CHEAP RATES TO MIAMI

On Account of the Big Anniversary Celebration Next Week

Miami, the Magic City, where you have always wanted to go, will have a monster celebration next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the seventeenth anniversary of that city will be observed in a most fitting manner with all the pomp and pageantry of parades, music, ball games, athletic events, etc. All the people of this section who wish to attend can get the cheap rate of $5.50 for the round trip. Tickets will be sold on the 6th and 7th, good to return the 10th. This will be a good opportunity of visiting the East Coast and the city of Miami at a very cheap rate, and enjoying a good time with the people of Miami.

Remember the date, August 7th, 8th and 9th and get your tickets at Enterprise Junction.

Mrs. E. R. Tolar Hostess

Mrs. Ernest R. Tolar was the charming hostess at a delightful card party at her handsome new home on Magnolia avenue Tuesday afternoon, complimentary to her attractive house guests, her sister, Mrs. T. A. Beggs and Mrs. Wilson of Titusville and Mrs. J. W. Wingate of Jacksonville. Three tables of auction bridge were played. Mrs. Cruse Barnes made the highest score, winning the prize, a lovely hand painted plate. The consolation prize which was cut for, a pretty bridge score, was won by Mrs. J. W. Dickens. Refreshing punch was served during the afternoon, and when the pleasant games of cards were ended delicious ice cream and cake were served. Mrs. Tolar's guests were Mrs. J. A. Beggs, Mrs. Wingate, Mrs. Cruse Barnes, Mrs. J. C. Bennett, Mrs. J. W. Dickens, Mrs. F. J. Gonzales, Mrs. Geo. Fox, Jr., Mrs. R. R. Deas, Miss Mabel Bowler, Mrs. E. B. Brown. The party were joined later in the afternoon by Mrs. R. J. Holly.

Will Come to Sanford

Edgar Mobley, for fifteen years employed as clerk and manager of the drug store owned by the DeSoto Drug Company, has tendered his resignation to take effect on the first of August and will accept a position in Sanford. Mr. Mobley has a host of friends in Lake City and all will regret to see him leave. He has been both efficient and popular in the performance of his duties and a more conscientious and faithful employee than he has proven himself could not be found anywhere.

Before taking up his new duties Mr. Mobley and family will visit for awhile at Daytona Beach, going to Sanford later to fix his new position. —Lake City Index.

At his own request, General William H. Blaby, chief of engineers of the United States army, will retire August 11, in favor of Col. William T. Rossell, senior colonel of the engineer corps. General Blaby would not leave actual service on account of age until next December, two months after the date on which Colonel Rossell must retire. Hence he asked for retirement before that date that his brother officer might reach the highest rank in the engineer corps.

FINE AMUSEMENT PARK

Will be Built in City Limits by a Sanford Stock Company

That Sanford will at last have an ideal amusement park and swimming pool is beyond question, as a company of Sanford citizens has been formed to take up this matter at once. The beautiful natural spring and park grounds in the western part of the city at the concrete bridge just west of the Florida Fertilizer factory will be purchased and one of the finest resorts in the state be built up in time for the tourists to take advantage of the same in the fall and the pool will be constructed at once for the delectation of the public. The grounds are at present owned by Judge Stringfellow who years ago was struck with the beauty of the place but failing to interest any one in the project and having no time to devote to it himself will dispose of the property to the new company.

This spring in years gone by was famous all over the South for its wonderful curative properties, being at times called the fabled "Fountain of Youth" of Ponce de Leon by the tourists who annually made pilgrimages to this spring from other parts of Florida to bathe in the waters and drink the sparkling draught that was said to be a panacea for many ailments of the human family.

The swimming pool will be made first and the beautiful grounds put in shape when the park will be thrown open to the public. From time to time other attractions will be added and being only five minutes walk from the centre of Sanford this new park will be well patronized. The new company expects to have a bottling works engaged in bottling the water for export trade as several inquiries have already been received relative to this long forgotten spring whose waters were once so popular with the public.

The announcement that this wonderful spring would again be opened to the public has been hailed with joy by the people of this section who know it by reputation, many of them having drunk the waters and bathed in the pool before it fell into decay and was allowed to become filled up.

The great need of an amusement park and swimming pool in Sanford has long been felt and during the remainder of the summer season there will be something doing all the time at Seminole Springs.

An announcement of the new company will be given later, with the publication of the charter to be applied for and the actual work of opening the new park will then begin. The idea of a new tourist hotel has also been entertained by the company, as the location is one of the best in the city and the house could be made very popular both winter and summer.

Mill Creek flows through the property and a small boat can be rowed from the springs to Lake Monroe, a short distance away, and in time this creek could be used as a harbor for many small crafts, whose occupants would prefer to spend a day at the springs.

With the many advantages of Seminole Springs as a location for an amusement park it is not an idle dream to predict that in a few months this property will be worth many times the original price and the new company has good cause to think they have struck something good in the amusement line and that will return a handsome profit in time.

FLORIDA FOR FACTORIES

Paper and Rope Can be Made From Florida Plants

A representative of a manufacturing syndicate is now in Florida, we understand, looking into the prospects of obtaining a sufficient supply of the well known plant, the Spanish bayonet, Yucca alofolia, before going into the business of manufacturing rope and twine from the fiber of its leaves. Experiment has sufficiently demonstrated the feasibility of such manufacture and that the fiber may be separated from the leaf without great cost.

There is another species of the same genus from which the fiber is so easily removed that it has been for many years used for twine, hame strings and other like purposes in the south. For such uses the long leaves of the bear grass, Yucca filamentosa, have but to be passed through hot ashes, or subjected to steam, to make the stripping off the fleshy part of the leaf an easy task, leaving the fibers bare and usable without further preparation. This plant is to be found all over the south, as far north as Virginia, and possesses several advantages over the Spanish bayonet. One is that its leaves, as long as those of its shower cousin, are borne on and entirely clothe a short stem, not leaving some parts bare through the successive dropping of leaves as they mature. Another is that the point on the leaf is flexible, not rigid and keenly sharp as that of the Spanish bayonet. It is easily cultivated, producing a crop soon. As the whorl of leaves arises from a short stem, there is little waste material to add to the tonnage. It is rather more common in Florida than the Yucca alofolia.

All the species of this genus possess long, smooth, non-absorbent fibers, of great durability and unsurpassed strength, and are of great value for rope making. They will grow in light, sandy soil, no matter how poor, though, naturally, in richer soil the leaves will be longer, therefore more valuable. The only reason why this southern source of wealth has not been earlier exploited is that the proper machinery for decorticating the fibers had not been invented. It seems that now it has been no difficult task, it would seem.

We have often urged that cordage manufacturers turn their attention to the value for their purposes of the bear grass. Perhaps the day is at hand now when the possible economic importance of this point will be recognized. When rope walks, potteries, glass works and other like establishments for the utilization of Florida's natural wealth are in operation this state will have a backing of manufactures for its diversified agriculture and growing commerce. —Times-Union.

Prominent Educators here

Warren A. Ruth, professor in the Illinois Agricultural Experimental Station, and Arno H. Nehrling, instructor in Floriculture and assistant in the Experimental Station of the University of Illinois at Urbana, Illinois, were in the city for several hours on Wednesday. They were the guests of S. Runge and N. A. Colbert and were greatly impressed with the agricultural advantages of Sanford and the celery delta. Prof. Nehrling is the son of H. Nehrling, the well known horticulturist of Ocala in Orange county.

STORM AT WASHINGTON

Big Blow Strikes Capital City With Great Force

Other News Of The World At Large Dissected For The Busy Readers

Like a giant hand, a cyclonic storm of wind, rain and hail whipped back and forth across the nation's capital yesterday, leaving death and ruin in its wake. Three dead, scores injured and hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property destroyed was the toll recorded in the hurried canvass made when the city aroused itself after half an hour of helplessness in the grasp of the elements. Out of a blazing sky, under which the city was sweltering with the temperature at 100 degrees, came the storm, roaring from the north, driving a mass of clouds that cast a mantle of darkness over the city. The gale, reaching a velocity of almost seventy miles an hour, swept the streets clear, unroofed houses, tore detached small structures from their foundations, wrecked one office building, overturned wagons and carriages in the streets, and swept Washington's hundred parks, tearing huge branches from trees and even uprooting sturdy old elms, landmarks of a century. Washington's well kept streets, with their wealth of trees, were littered with broken foliage, roofs, debris and dead birds, as if a playful giant had carelessly wished his club up and down the city. The wind wrecked its havoc before the rain and in five minutes the temperature dropped from the 100 mark to between sixty and seventy. Then the rain turned to hail, and hail stones battered on roofs and crashed through skylights and windows. For half an hour the city cowered, paralyzed, under the beating of the storm, every activity suspended. Trolley cars, street traffic and telephone service were halted, government departments suspended operations. The wind wrecked a three-story brick office building occupied by H. S. Saul Company, real estate dealers, and fifteen persons were carried down in the crash. W. E. Hilton, vice president of the real estate company; Thos. H. Fealey, 65 years old, a clerk, and an unidentified man who entered the building to try to rescue those caught in the wreck, were taken from the ruins dead. Half a dozen were taken to hospitals seriously injured, and half a dozen more were treated for slight injuries. Tonight the police still were digging in the ruins, fearing other bodies might be recovered.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis has come to the conclusion that the "old man" of the family has not received proper recognition from a grateful country, although the nation has honored the other members of the American household. As a result he announced his intention to introduce a bill setting aside July 29 as "Father's Day." Already there is a "Mothers' Day" and a "Children's Day." "Why shouldn't we do something for the old man?" asked the senator. "He pays the bills and on cold winter mornings is forced to light the fires. In summer they make him do the work of a horse in mowing the lawn beneath the blazing sun. His lot, altogether, is not a happy one. He deserves the recognition." Senator Lewis intends to introduce a bill at this session, but will not press it for consideration until the regular session beginning in December. If prompt action is not taken on it then he threatens to make a speech.

In view of the opinion of Judge Duffy, who ordered the vital organs of E. O. Painter, the "Jacksonville Fertilizer King," turned over to Dr. George H. Whipple, in the event they are found to be decaying, the question now arises, who will determine when the viscera is vanishing? Attorney Arthur L. Jackson, who is counsel for Mrs. Painter, took an appeal from the decision of the court. He said that the question would result in the taking of more testimony. That means that if the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company comes into court under a five-day notice to the other side and declares the organs of Mr. Painter are decaying, the defense will ask that it be proved. This will necessitate the calling of experts by both sides to make an examination.

Beautiful Hydrangias

Mrs. S. McBride holds the record for beautiful hydrangias in this section, bringing in one to Lawson's store on Saturday that was pronounced by critics to be one of the finest ever seen here. It was pink in color and very large and the plant, while only a year old had four fine blooms, which is said to be very rare among these plants.

Ed Cameron is getting about on crutches as a result of a savage mule kick, which nearly fractured a leg.

Dr. Robson was called Tuesday night to see the sick child of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hasty.

ALTAMONTE ANNOTATIONS

Mr. and Mrs. S. Maxwell McIntyre are spending a few days at their palatial cottage. They are combining business with pleasure and to attest Altamonte's delightful climate in midsummer and seem to be enjoying beautiful Altamonte as a delightful summer resort as well as winter. On their journey south they passed through a temperature of 104 degrees to find their thermometer at Altamonte Springs registering 92 degrees with comfortable nights for sleeping. They will leave on their return trip Thursday, Aug. 31st.

C. A. Dallas, Altamonte's enterprising brick and stone manufacturer, has just completed a fine walk from the front steps of a A. H. Fuller's cottage across the lawn to the front gate. Mr. Fuller has had many other improvements made and his beautiful grounds that add much to the attractiveness of his pretty home. Mr. Dallas is now building fancy cement steps to Buena Cottage on Maitland avenue.

J. M. Lewis has his handsome brick garage very nearly completed, which adds much to the progressiveness of this beautiful village.

Fogg & Osteen have purchased and harvested the crops of corn raised by Mr. Mullen in his young grapefruit grove. The heaviest July bloom ever known is setting the fruit plentifully and is an indication of a large crop of grape fruit to be harvested late next spring.

OVIDEO OCCURRENCES

Mrs. Henry Yonge has gone to New York, where she will spend the summer with her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Meade made a trip to South Florida last week. They were much pleased, as much of that country is beautiful.

Misses Martha and Nellie King, two of our most popular young ladies have gone with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Luther to North Carolina, where they will spend several months visiting the many points of interest in that state.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Lawton spent last week with friends at Daytona Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Wheeler have gone to Tennessee, where they will spend the summer.

C. S. Bragg of Ohio, who is here to take the agency at the A. C. L. depot during Mr. Wheeler's vacation has moved to Florida and he and his family are at the Cushing House for the present.

Robt. Lawton and his sister, Miss Helen have gone to Daytona Beach to join the many of our townspeople who have been attracted there this summer.

The hotels show a good number of people coming into town. Lots are selling off and indications are most favorable to growth and prosperity.

Brown Will be Marshal

The opposition to J. C. Brown of Polk county, as United States Marshal for the Northern District of Florida seems to have dwindled to nothingness with the assured fact that Senator Fletcher has at last given his unqualified endorsement with Senator Bryan, to the Polk county man.

For some time it was recognized that Brown had the inside track on the others, but all the candidates kept hope alive in their breasts by recalling that there was liable to be a disagreement between the two senators on the matter, and that each one of them stood a good chance of being the compromise candidate to be agreed on.

Telegrams just received in the city now show that both senators are agreed on the Southern District Marshal, and the nomination can be expected early this week, according to advices from Washington.

The present marshal, Captain Herr, who has been asked to resign, says the position he is in is embarrassing, for he cannot resign and keep faith with his party, which placed him in position for a definite term, expecting that, as heretofore, all commissions would be recognized as binding and in good faith until their natural expiration or until the holder had been removed for cause, neither of which exigency has arisen in his place.

Of course, he says, the appointment and qualification of a successor automatically removes him, and he is willing and ready to return the office to the appointing power, assisting the new man in every possible manner.

Miller Starts Building

Workmen have started the new Miller building this week, being engaged in putting down the foundation. The building will be south of The Herald office and will consist of two good store rooms on the first floor and apartments on the second floor, which will occupy one of the store rooms and also the rooms overhead. The other room will be fitted up for offices and have already been leased for a term of years at a good price.

Mr. Miller started this building one year ago and built the bakery part, from which building he has been serving the trade. He will now fit up a front room for the retail trade and will also put in a dairy kitchen where light lunches will be served, also cold drinks and ice cream.

The front of the new building will be the latest pattern of buff brick with iron fillings, making the appearance and the work will be completed by October first in order to be ready for the fall trade. This new building will add another value to Magnolia avenue as a business street.

S. O. Shinhober is the Contractor.

Resolutions of Respect

Whereas, it has pleased an All-Wise Providence to take from our midst, Emmett H. Herndon, the father of one of our members,

Therefore, be it resolved, that we and the whole community will miss this old and respected citizen and Christian gentleman and we greatly deplore his loss, and we hereby extend our most heartfelt sympathy in the great bereavement of his four sons and other relatives, and especially to our brother councilman.

Be it further resolved, that the city clerk be instructed to furnish a copy of these resolutions to our brother councilman and copy to the Sanford Herald for publication, and that a copy be spread upon the minutes of this body.

FLORIDA HAS A GROCERY TRUST

The Hammond Case Reveals The Fact That People Have To Pay The Price

Grocery Combine In This State Compels Dealer To Sell At Custom Prices And Consumer Pays The Freight

The celebrated Hammond case, which was settled in Jacksonville Friday of last week, deserves comment in the newspapers and law journals the country over, for it was unique in several respects.

In the first instance the case was the first brought in Florida under the anti-trust act; in the second it holds the record so far for the size of the verdict actually paid. There have been much heavier verdicts, as all will recall the monumental amount assessed by Judge Keneaw Mountain Landis against the standard Oil Company, but that amount was never paid. So has it been with most of the big verdicts that have been given against concerns that were held to be operating in violation of the provisions of the Sherman law.

In bringing this case and in winning it the complainant, John T. Hammond, formerly of Orlando but now of New Smyrna, may be regarded by many as a public benefactor, though it is certain that the Southern Wholesale Grocery Company does not look upon the matter in that light.

John T. Hammond set up business in Orlando in 1905 as a wholesale hay, grain and grocery merchant. He put in a large stock of goods and being popular and well known, he soon established a considerable trade. In the course of three months his stock became depleted and he sought to replenish it. But when he applied to the drummers and brokers he was informed he could not buy from the manufacturers unless he became a member of the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association. He applied for membership in that association and his application was rejected. When he asked for a reason for his rejection, he was informed that the association was a social organization and it wasn't customary to give reasons for rejections.

It didn't take Mr. Hammond long to realize he was up against a combine. He was interfering with the trade of the wholesale houses of Jacksonville and Tampa. He sought the advice of one firm of lawyers and was told that he had no case, but not being satisfied he consulted the firm of Jones & Jones. They took the case and instituted action against the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association. That was eight years ago. The amount of the damage asked was $200,000. Mr. Hammond had been forced to quit business, and in arriving at the amount to which he had been injured, experts were put to work on his books and it was found that he had been making net profits to the amount of $600 a month.

The first verdict was rendered in 1909, being for $25,000 damages and $7,500 attorneys' fees. The case was tried before Judge Locke, of the United States district court. The case was appealed to the circuit court at New Orleans, which reversed the finding of the district court.

The reversal was based upon what appears to the layman's mind as the flimsiest technicality. One of the letters submitted in evidence was from a prominent Jacksonville broker, stating to Mr. Hammond that he could not sell to him unless he became a member of the association. In submitting this letter, Mr. Hammond was asked the formal question as to how he received the letter, the answer to which was "in the due course of the mails." The attorney failed to ask him the question if the letter was written in reply to a letter from him, and because this did not appear in the record, the judgment was reversed.

The case then went back to Judge Locke's court for the second trial. This time the amount of the damages rendered was one dollar.

Such a verdict was so clearly an evasion of the issues involved that Judge Locke himself set aside this finding and ordered a third trial. The final trial was heard before Judge Call, who succeeded Judge Locke, and resulted in a verdict of $10,000 damages, $7,500 attorneys' fees and the cost of the trial. The law firm of Cooper & Cooper of Jacksonville represented the grocers and paid the amounts on Friday last, thus bringing to a close one of the most interesting and stubbornly contested cases ever written into the court records in Florida. The trial of the case consumed seventy days of actual court-room work, to say nothing of the great volume of testimony gathered and the compilation of the voluminous record.

The bulk of the work in the great case was done by Mr. Joe Jones of the firm of Jones & Jones of Orlando. Associated in the case with the Messrs Jones were Messrs. Binbee & Bedell, the well known Jacksonville attorneys and the fee was divided with them.

The history of the case has been of great interest, but the public time of long drawn out court trials and many of the interesting details have been unnoticed or lost sight of.

In his address to the jury, Mr. Joe Jones submits a calculation which, he claimed, represented the cause for a goodly part of the high cost of living in the southern territory where the defendant company operated. It was shown that this company comprises some seven hundred wholesale grocery firms and that the producers and manufacturers are not permitted to sell to any who do not belong to the association or else if they are permitted to sell that the manufacturers pay to the association the amount of their profits just as if they had sold. The attorney estimated that the increased prices vary from ten to thirty per cent. Prices are controlled in this manner on the food supply for thirty million people. Estimating the cost of living for each week the cost of living for each person at five dollars a month and calculating the profit on such a basis the figure runs up into the billions annually. Mr. Jones thinks he has discovered a real octopus, and takes pleasure in having had a part in twisting one of its tentacles.

The fact that Judge Locke did not assess triple damages by way of penalizing the grocery trust was assigned by Judge Call as a reason why he did not do so. The law provides that the judge shall lay triple damages after the jury has rendered its verdict, the extra amount above the actual damages being the penalty for violation. While this was not done, the conclusion of the case is regarded with satisfaction by those who were interested. Orlando Sentinel.

Big Money In Bulkheads

Other cities evidently have faith in the bulkheading proposition and just now Miami expects to put on one of the largest deals of this sort ever pulled off in the state by private parties. The filled in property will be used for residences and it is estimated that the work of bulkheading and filling will cost one million dollars and yet these real estate men are not afraid to risk this amount because they know they can make it out of the improved land. The Miami Metropolis tells of it as follows:

First mud on the three-million yard fill across the bay was thrown by the big dredge Davis last night after two weeks' work cutting its way across to the peninsula. Day and night and Sunday the big dredge will pump from now on for the next twelve months. The peninsula is composed of two classes of land. Along the ocean there is a strip several hundred feet wide of high sand land. Between this strip and the bay is swampy, and much of it overlies at high tide. It is to reclaim this low land that the Carl Fisher, the Miami Beach Improvement Company, the Ocean Beach Realty Company and the Frank B. Shotts interests have joined forces for one of the biggest improvements and reclamation projects ever attempted by private capital in this state.

The first budget made out by the allied firms totaled about $500,000 for the proposed improvement, including the clearing of the land, the removal of the mangrove thicket which covered it, and the building of the bulkhead and the fill. Before the work is completed, however, and the subdivisions which are planned are laid out, each with its sewer and water system, those interested in the plan contemplate the million dollar mark will be reached.

Under the direction of James Hardee, contractor, practically all of the tract which it is proposed to fill has been cleared of the palmetto and mangrove. The bulkhead has been built all along the Ocean Beach Realty Company's property, which will be the first to be filled, and workmen are extending it farther north.

Aside from the Davis, two other dredges will be used to help on the big improvement, the Florida and the Biscayne. The Florida is now winding up the work on Bull Island and the Biscayne is being assembled at the yards of the Furst-Clark Construction Company, which has the dredging contract. The Davis is a twenty-inch suction dredge, while the Florida and Biscayne are fourteen-inch dredges. The three will compose the largest fleet of dredges in point of capacity, it is said, that have ever operated south of Jacksonville.

The Tampa Times says: "R. Perry Jones, the former Tampa attorney who was sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary for shooting his sister-in-law, Maude Nichols, refusing to marry her, and marrying her sister instead was taken to Ocala to begin sentence Saturday, and indications are that he will remain imprisoned until his term expires."

HOT IN THE NORTH

All Heat Records Are Broken Even Even in State of Michigan

Washington, July 31.—No promises of relief from the heat wave in the next twenty-four hours were held out tonight by the Weather Bureau experts. They said, however, that local thunder showers probably would bring lower temperatures tomorrow night to many of the suffering sections where the mercury climbed highest today. The heat was intense today practically everywhere east of the Rocky Mountains, the highest temperature, according to official figures, 104 degrees, being reported from Yuma, Ariz. Grand Haven, Mich., reported a new high record for that section, 94 degrees. Davenport, Ia., and Concordia, Kas., with their mark of 102 held the day's record for territory outside of the always torrid southwest. In the east, Washington headed the list, with a maximum temperature of 97. In New York it was 94 and Philadelphia 95, and in Baltimore 96. These were the official records, but street thermometers were around the 100 mark.

Whispering Bill is Here

Whispering Bill Speer, the well known dispenser of nursery stock, flowers, trees and conversation is in the city on his annual tour of separating the natives from their money. He has a voice of magnificent tone and volume and upon a clear day when his pipes are in good order he can easily transmit a message from Sanford to Jacksonville by means of the hot air waves. This wonderful gift saves him much walking because he can stand on First street and converse with his customers on Sanford Heights.

Boys' Athletic Club

The boys of the section of the city near Magnolia avenue and Third street have organized an athletic club and will spend a few hours each day in exercises. Some of them have become very proficient in jumping and doing other stunts. The members are as follows: Earl Waldron, Ralph Roumillat, Frank Purdon, G. W. Spencer, Jr., Izzie Kaner, Karl Bruton and several others who are on the waiting list.

Bryan is in Town

Bryan Higgins is the biggest man in Sanford just now. The Stork Express brought him a fine son on Wednesday morning and the telephone being slow to spread the news, Bryan came down himself to tell his friends. We suppose the new arrival will be Bryan, Jr.

BETTER PARCEL POST

After August Twenty Pounds Will Go In Certain Zones

Postmaster General Harrison has issued instructions to the postmasters of the country relative to the increased weight allowed for parcels going by parcel post within the first and second zones, and the reduction in rates applying on the same.

Postmaster Harrison has received notice of the change, the order received from the department being as follows: ORDER OF THE POSTMASTER GENERAL:

Office of the Postmaster General, Washington, July 25, 1913.

Order No. 7349.

On and after August 15, 1913, the limit of weight of parcels of fourth class mail for delivery within the first and second zones shall be increased from eleven pounds to twenty pounds. NOTE—The rate for local delivery shall apply to all parcels mail at a post office from which a rural route starts, for delivery on such route or mailed at any point on such route for delivery at any other point thereon, or at the office from which the route starts, or on any rural route starting therefrom, and all matter mailed at a city carrier office, or at point within its delivery limits, for delivery by carriers from that office, or at any office for local delivery.

Fresh meats and other articles mentioned in Paragraph 2, Section 34, Parcel Post Regulations, when inclosed and wrapped in the manner prescribed by the last sentence of the paragraph, will be accepted for mailing to offices within the first and second zones.

Fancy Work Circle

Mrs. C. H. Keller was the gracious hostess of the Fancy Work Circle Wednesday afternoon. The members of the circle and their visitors were pleasantly entertained with conversation and their pretty fancy work. Delicious sherbet and cake were served by the hostess, whose guests were Mrs. J. D. Roberts, Mrs. W. L. Miltner, Mrs. N. H. Garner, Mrs. L. G. Stringfellow, Mrs. A. E. Hill and Mrs. Wilkinson.

An Elevator Service

Sanford has no sky scrapers as yet, although one is contemplated in the near future. But in the Welborne block that is being fitted up for a court house a first class elevator service will be established which will give Sanford an improved office building.

Seminole county commissioners will undoubtedly consider the proposition of owning their abstract books and this idea seems to be a good one.

We hasten to congratulate the new county officials upon their new quarters. The idea of the new county having a building with an elevator service, installed is good and the new officials start business under most auspicious circumstances.

Every Florida county and especially every South Florida county should follow Hillsborough's example. Then we will soon have that network of good roads covering the state.

On Tuesday next history will commence for Seminole county and on that day the baby county of Florida will become a county in fact as well as in name.

Orlando is after the commission form of government and not satisfied with voting on the question and winning once, the city will take another vote just for good measure and there is no doubt about the result.

Hillsborough has voted for one million dollars in bonds for the construction of brick roads. The example of the Sanford special road district last year has been contagious and other counties will soon investigate and discover that brick and brick only will suffice for permanent roads in Florida now that the traffic is getting heavier every year.

One of the biggest and best in Orange county's population has resigned his charge and will leave the state. We refer to Dr. Stagg of the Orlando Presbyterian church, beloved by every one regardless of creed or religion.

The Sanford Herald gives the management of Rollins College a "calling down" which appears to be deserved. The Herald says the current catalogue of the institution was printed in Alabama and it politely requests the college to go to the Alabama newspapers for its free notices in the future.

PROGRESSIVE DEMOCRATS Editor Harry McCreary of the Gainesville Sun has evidently grown tired of the hogishness and grunts of the so-called Progressives and he reads them a little and well deserved lecture.

When a man is polite and attentive to his wife and treats her as though he really liked her, the neighbor women always sniff and wonder if they are really married.

'Progressive Democrats' against the appointment of two or three men as postmasters in Florida whom the P. D.'s are pleased to term 'reactionaries.' Tell us, please, how President Wilson would ever have been elected, or even carried Florida, if the 'reactionary Democrats' had not voted for him in the general election?

McCLELLAN FALLS VICTIM We knew McClellan would fall a victim to the wiles of Miss Florida ere he had lived long in the state. Coming to Jacksonville from Indianapolis and buying the Metropolis the other day the change from Pogue's Run and Broad Ripple to the beautiful ocean beach was so great that he burst forth into song as follows:

Florida! The land of summer coolness, where, midst the shade of oranges and magnolia the mocking bird never ceases his song; where, while all other lands are languid and parched with torrid heat, eternal freshness reigns, and languor is unknown.

COLDEST FLORIDA People are not leaving Florida to keep cool. They are simply carrying out the American idea of changing scenes to prevent ennui.

Press dispatches report the thermometer at Grand Haven, Mich (where that is) as registering 94 degrees and no breezes to give relief.

Therefore people who live in Florida never leave the state to better climatic conditions. They cannot better them, for no more equable climate exists even in the Hawaiian Islands among the lotus eaters.

In the very near future they will not need to go north to freshen up in fashions and styles, for with the rapid strides that the Florida cities are making the largest city in the United States will eventually be in this state.

The statements made regarding the summer climate of Florida seems beyond belief to the people of the north who have never been to Florida and who look upon this state as the jumping off place, where the people wear no clothes and the sun never sets or quits working except when the freezes come (and according to some of their tales the state is frozen every winter).

But every summer sees more and more of the northern people coming to Florida to try our climate in the summer as an experiment, and by and by they will be coming to Florida in the summer to take advantage of our summer climate and our magnificent ocean beaches and the world will behold the unheard of spectacle of people leaving northern states to come south to Florida—the tropic climate—to keep cool, and they will keep cool and be more comfortable and more healthy than they have ever been in any northern city.

And if the old fashioned wash day wasn't so unfashionable the High Cost of Living wouldn't be so cheery. The High Cost of Living doesn't cost half as much as the High Cost of Bluffing.

When a man is polite and attentive to his wife and treats her as though he really liked her, the neighbor women always sniff and wonder if they are really married.

HAMNER ON INDIAN RIVER

League Organizer Is Having A Very Successful Week

After resting up over Sunday at home, B. L. Hamner, organizer of the Growers and Shippers League took the early train Monday morning for Orlando, from which point he was taken to Oviedo, where a very enthusiastic audience greeted him and listened attentively to what he had to say about the League.

Mr. Hamner is from Missouri, and wants "to be shown." He does not blame growers for not "killing each other in the crush" to get into the League. He enjoys telling them why they should join and support the work.

After explaining the objects of the League, EVERY man present put up his dollar for membership, and joined the League. Thus Oviedo has got a 100 per cent record, like Leesburg.

But that is not all. On Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Hamner went to Geneva, where every grower in that neighborhood attended the meeting. The greatest compliment was paid to Mr. Hamner by the Board of Trade. After listening to what he had to say, EVERY man present joined the League, and put Geneva in the 100 per cent class.

Mr. Hamner was at Titusville Wednesday, where it was expected a large number of growers would be at the meeting. The News reporter, the mail or possibly some female, is responsible for the non-appearance of the report of the meeting. It should have been in this office yesterday.—Florida Growers News.

Need Dr. Stagg NOON—Since writing the article which appears below, the facts for which were gathered early this morning, we learn that Dr. Stagg has been asked by the session to reconsider his resignation and remain in Orlando, and has accepted.

This action was decided upon at a meeting of the church session held last night. Nothing will be said, so we are informed, about lending him financial aid to assist him in recuperating his health, until after the doctor has accepted the invitation to remain with the church. If he sees fit to do this, we have it on reliable authority that the church will raise a substantial fund to help the pastor regain his health.

Dr. Stagg was seen by a representative of this paper today and was asked if he would remain under the conditions proposed. He replied that he would have nothing to say until he had had some official word from the session.—Reporter-Star.

A Good Job For Somebody The creation of the office of State Fish and Game Commissioner in Florida makes it of interest to know something of the place and the duties of its incumbent.

It is a man size job and carries a salary of $2,500 per year with $500 per year, for travelling expenses. The office was recently tendered to Prof. Turner of Citrus county, who declined it and we have not heard if Governor Trammell has designated any one else to fill the place.

The duty of the commissioner is to enforce all game and fish laws and to appoint wardens in various counties to see that laws are enforced properly. If there be a violation of these laws the warden is to receive three-fourths of the fine collected, if he furnishes enough evidence to convict. If he fails to get sufficient evidence for conviction he gets one-fourth of the fine and party furnishing evidence gets one-half of the fine.

The amount of the capital stock of this corporation shall be Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00), to be divided into Five Hundred shares of Ten Dollars ($10.00) each. All Capital Stock of this Corporation shall be paid for in cash before issued.

BOUGHT FAKE STOCK Smooth Swindlers Film Flam The Arcadia People Arcadia, Fla., July 31.—Yesterday Bishop, D. E. Moorefield and another party while they were boarding the southbound A. C. L. train, Sheriff Diahong had received a telegram from the authorities of Atlanta, Ga., telling him to arrest and hold these men for Green county (Ga.) authorities.

These men were, it is alleged, doing business under assumed names, G. W. Bishop, alias G. Baker; D. E. Moorefield alias M. E. Dorsey, alias D. E. E. E. E. E. Moorefield, alias E. Moore, escaped. These men claimed to be organizing a stock company to manufacture soft drinks, called creola and ginger beer, the former being practically the same as coco-cola, the plant to be erected in Tampa, Fla. The y sold stock under contract, it is alleged, taking the notes from those buying stock and giving their notes in return for double the value of the stockholders' notes, payable in six months, thereby guaranteeing that they would double their money in six months.

They had cashed in here about $2,000 worth of notes from parties of this county who had bought stock. These persons have requested that their names be kept out of print.

One thousand three hundred and twenty-five dollars was found on the men. The third party who accompanied them was released, as the sheriff had no authority to hold him, as his name was not included in the telegram. He is about sixty years old and said he thought he was working for a legalized concern. The prisoners spent last night in the DeSoto county court house, where they were guarded at their own expense. This morning they were removed to jail. Bishop and Moorefield are about forty years old and are very nice looking men.

Madison, Wis., July 29.—Senator LaFollette, in the current issue of his weekly paper, praises the men who caused an investigation of the New Haven railroad and disclosures that led to the resignation of Chas. S. Mellen, as its president. In an editorial, under the caption of "Rotten," Mr. LaFollette says:

"The passing of Mellen is of no consequence. He was morally the agent of Morgan in the execution of plans operated on all of the big systems. The history of the New Haven Merger is the history of every merger. The whole system is rotten."

Investigations by the interstate commerce commission in other railroads would cause more resignations, says LaFollette.—Florida Growers News.

NOTICE OF INCORPORATION Notice is hereby given that we, the undersigned, intend to apply to the Honorable Park Trammell, Governor of the state of Florida, at Tallahassee, Florida, on the 4th day of August, A. Smooths Out the Wrinkles Worry causes more wrinkles on young faces than is traced thereon by the fingers of Old Father Time. The old rhyme "man works from sun to sun—woman's work is never done," always will be true until women decide to banish worry from their lives by taking advantage of the many truly labor saving and trouble abolishing household devices, which they can now obtain and use at trifling cost.

As Ordinance to Provide for the Opening of the Registration Books Prior to the Holding of Any Special Election Be it ordained by the Council of Sanford, Florida: Section 1. Incidentally he will take a few outings with the Ananias Fishing Club... This said that one of our beautiful, blue eyed belles will soon be wed and the lucky man will carry her away to another city. Our girls should have the contract read, "residence in Sanford only," or else they should patronize home industries and marry Sanford boys... Chas. Clark is over for a few days from New Smyrna looking at the new court house and inspecting his Sanford property. He still thinks Sanford is the best city on the map but is forced to stay on the coast, because he wishes to find out where the mosquitoes go in the winter time... The cut of the Elks building is given in this issue of The Herald. The inside plans have not been settled upon as yet and when they have been arranged a complete description of this elegant building will be given. When finished the new home of the Sanford Elks will be one of the finest in the state... We are reminded of one of the games of our childhood, called "The Stage Coach Turned Over," by the number of people who have lost their homes and offices since the Welbourne block has been "turned over" to other parties. Heigh hol such, however, seems to be the usual stability of things around here... Among the prominent visitors to the city yesterday was Dan McKinnon of the Winter Garden section and president of the Sanford Shoe & Clothing Co., of this city. Mr. McKinnon is very optimistic about the future of Sanford and thinks the capital of Seminole county is destined to become a great city... Workmen are putting in poles and stringing wires on Sanford Heights for the arc lights that the city council recently ordered placed out there and flow when gas and water protection is installed and sidewalks and streets are made there will be some excuse for the city of Sanford levying city taxes in that thriving suburb... Hotel Breakers, just south of Keatings Pier, Daytona Beach. Open year round. Dinner hotel. Makes specialty of shore dinners Thursday evenings and Sunday noon... Miss Ruth Mettinger, after a visit of two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Mettinger and sister, Mrs. W. L. Morgan left Tuesday afternoon for St. Timothy's Hospital at Roxborough, Philadelphia, to resume her work in the hospital and enter upon her second year's training as a nurse. With her parents, Miss Ruth's many friends regretted to have her leave Sanford... Dick Calhoun has returned from a trip to Colorado where he had a party of rubbernecks showing them the scenery and incidentally several pay streaks in the mountains. Dick says the weather is warmer all through the west than it is in Florida, and he noted the change from stifling heat to cooler weather the minute he climbed on the train at Jacksonville bound for Sanford... Col. Joe Dawson, representing the Burger-Baumgard Hardware Co. of New York was in the city yesterday from Orlando where he stays when not on the road. Col. Dawson is one of the biggest men in Orange county, both in stature and in heart and his many Sanford friends are always glad to see him. He expects to sell Seminole county some of the famous Joe Dawson hats for the convicts to make good roads... Hon. Forrest Lake is one of the busiest men in the city these days and he is noticed in the streets from sunrise till late at night getting ready for his new bank and talking improvements for Sanford. He has always been a live wire in Sanford but he is now sparking at a lively rate and his many friends are glad to know that he has decided to remain in Sanford and help the city become a great center of business activity... E. A. Gilbert left on Wednesday for many points in the state in the interest of the Florida Growers News. This fine farmers paper under the successful management of James McComb is making a wonderful success and is waging constant warfare for cheaper freight rates and better service for the Florida growers. The subscription list has almost doubled during the past six months, demonstrating that the growers realize they have a friend in Editor McComb... Some of the old time fishermen are just now taking to the new fangled rod and reel and many are the stories told of the manner in which they handle their new poles. One of them hooked a big trout the other day and dropped pole and reel and started to bring in the fish hand over hand as had been his custom with an ordinary trolling line. His companions gave him the horse laugh and he finally woke up and tried to use his reel, but meantime the fish had gone back home... Dr. C. T. Douglass preached two able and interesting sermons at the First Baptist church last Sunday. Dr. Douglass was for several years pastor of the First Baptist church at Pasadena, Cal., and later was state secretary for the Baptist denomination for the state of California. He is a pastor of wide experience and a very interesting talker. An effort is being made to arrange with him to supply the Baptist pulpit for the next few months while the Baptists have no regular pastor... $10.00 Down And $5.00 Per Month NO INTEREST OR TAXES FOR TWO YEARS RIVERVIEW LOTS The magnificent location of this property on the great tributaries of the St. Johns river, where the channel runs almost direct east from Riverview to the Atlantic Ocean, where the city of Jacksonville has built its great quarter million dollar electric light plant. Where the great municipal docks are going to be built. Where there are going to be millions upon millions of dollars spent by private capital in the near future for great manufacturing plants, all are situated by or near to Riverview, lying just to the east of us. This all goes to make Riverview the most classy and desirable property to the great city of Jacksonville. Something To Consider Riverview today has over five hundred property owners all boosting for the great future of Riverview. We have 40 homes, some costing three to four thousand dollars. Three mercantile houses. Boat and launch factory of large and growing magnitude. We have now 14 miles of streets, all set out in shade trees. We have free public boat and bath houses. We have one of the most beautiful 50 acre public parks in the state. Riverview has many suburbs since its inception, and Riverview's geographical location is such that it is soon going to make its property value far exceed any property about Jacksonville, and every lot now bought will make the buyer a thousand dollars clear in the near future. We have a complete telephone service, and an efficient motor car lines at a 5c car fare to the heart of the city of Jacksonville. Riverview property will make thousands of dollars for the owners. Riverview has made good. Her titles are perfect, and as an investment it has no equal. Dr. E. H. ARMSTRONG OWNER 111-112-113 Heard National Bank Bldg. JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

Saved Girl's Life

"I want to tell you what wonderful benefit I have received from the use of Thedford's Black-Draught," writes Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky.

"It certainly has no equal for la grippe, bad colds, liver and stomach troubles. I firmly believe Black-Draught saved my little girl's life. When she had the measles, they went in on her, but one good dose of Thedford's Black-Draught made them break out, and she has had no more trouble. I shall never be without in my home." For constipation, indigestion, headache, dizziness, malaria, chills and fever, biliousness, and all similar ailments, Thedford's Black-Draught has proved itself a safe, reliable, gentle and valuable remedy.

If you suffer from any of these complaints, try Black-Draught. It is a medicine of known merit. Seventy-five years of splendid success proves its value. Good for young and old. For sale everywhere. Price 25 cents.

State Board Of Health Gives Good Advice That Should Be Read And Followed

Ignorance is the most active enemy to human welfare, moral and physical, that modern reformers have to meet. It follows that education is their most effective weapon. Medical practice, before it was raised to the rank of a science was shrouded in awe-inspiring mysteries; it deserved its name of "the black art," and the earliest practitioners seemed to have favored concealment of their methods, because probably of their own lack of confidence in them.

The strong efforts of the profession today are toward enlightenment and education, which means that modern medical science is working primarily for the prevention of disease. It is taking the public into confidence by teaching the methods through which the great devastating diseases are spread and by showing how they may be avoided or lessened.

The Western Union Telegraph Company, one of the largest employers of intelligent labor in the world, has recently begun a campaign of education among its employees by the issue of a monthly bulletin on health subjects. These subjects are prepared by Dr. Aiyah H. Doty, formerly health officer of the port of New York, one of the leading sanitarians in the United States. These bulletins are sent gratis to every employee of the company and are intended to increase the efficiency of each one through carefully prepared instruction on sanitary matters.

A recent issue of the bulletin gives much information about the transmission of infectious diseases, and it has large value for the general public outside of the thousands for whom it was originally written.

Dr. Doty insists that the possibility of the transmission of infectious diseases through the clothing, by touching objects such as car straps, the stair rails in public buildings, handling filthy currency and in scores of similar ways, is so slight as to be negligible. Numerous other popular theories that have been cherished by the public, have been shattered by modern discoveries.

"Infectious diseases," says Dr. Doty, "are transmitted directly from one person to another through the medium of various discharges from the body which contain infectious germs, or organisms. These germs may also be transmitted from one person to another indirectly through the medium of food or drink or by certain insects."

Insects transmit disease, for there is indisputable evidence that malaria and yellow fever are carried by certain varieties of mosquitoes, and so far as yet discovered there are no other methods by which these diseases are transmitted. Sanitarians are well aware of the danger of the fly as a disease carrier. The flea that infects the rat is a means of carrying the bubonic plague, and it has been demonstrated that the body louse transmits typhus fever from one person to another.

The investigations of Pasteur and Koch, made simultaneously and independent of each other, gave to the world about 1880, its first satisfactory knowledge about the germ origin of infectious diseases. Subsequent study led to the identification of the organisms that cause tuberculosis, typhoid fever, cholera, diphtheria, bubonic plague and several other infectious diseases. This identification included more or less definite knowledge of the life histories of these germs and how their harmfulness might be destroyed or at least abridged. Infectious diseases thrive best in filthy surroundings, in impure air and where living conditions bring about overcrowding. An illustration is the outbreak of typhus fever (not to be confused with typhoid) in New York City in 1893-94. Of the seven hundred cases, all but one or two occurred in the unclean overcrowded lodging house section of the lower East Side.

The germ of tuberculosis is carried in the expectorations of the patient, and it may be transmitted in a number of ways, particularly where uncleanliness and overcrowding exist, for in such surroundings usually less care is taken to guard against it.

In typhoid fever and cholera the infectious organism is transmitted through the discharge from the intestines. In diphtheria the discharge from the nose and throat is to be feared. In measles and scarlet fever the discharge from the ears, as well as from the nose and throat contain the actively infectious organisms.

These germs are transmitted from one person to another in various ways; some through the air which becomes laden with them from persons suffering from this particular disease. These include those diseases which affect the mucous membranes of the breathing, or respiratory, system.

Diseases of the stomach and intestinal tract, or the digestive system, such as typhoid fever, are induced by or through infected food or drink, and this is usually poisoned by the fly bringing the organisms from the excreta of individuals suffering from the disease.

Malaria, yellow fever and bubonic plague, diseases affecting the blood and the circulatory system, are carried by the bite of the insects, the first two by the bite of the mosquito and the last by the rat flea.

The danger of the fly and mosquito to public health is vastly better appreciated than it was ten years ago. All efforts to destroy these rapidly multiplying insects must necessarily be practically futile. The only effective campaign against them must be to prevent their increase by attacking their breeding places. Mosquitoes, as a rule, prefer small bodies of water containing large amounts of decaying vegetation or organic matter, and whose surfaces are but little disturbed by wind or other outside influences. Filth favors the propagation of the mosquitoes. A thin layer of semi-crude kerosene, spread over the surfaces of these pools, which is easily securing by pouring half a pint of oil over a surface approximately ten feet in diameter, is sufficient to destroy the mosquito larvae by cutting off his supply of air which he comes to the surface to breathe. This method persistently carried out is effective in diminishing the mosquito crop in any locality.

Flea breed where there is filth and their favorite nursery is the stable. Their extermination, therefore, is more difficult than that of the mosquito, but the most satisfactory results are gained by a strict observance of cleanliness and other sanitary measures. Sunlight and fresh air are enemies of filth, and if these can be turned upon these breeding places they will do much to bring about sanitary conditions.

"The modern method of protecting the public health," concludes Dr. Doty, "is by prevention rather than treatment. The basis of this is cleanliness, the proper care of one's own person, or his household and the aid he may extend to others in this direction. Besides if our health is preserved, we are far better able to resist disease than if we go in poor physical conditions. Preventive measures if practically applied, offer not only valuable means for improving the public health, but will go far toward eliminating infectious diseases. However, success depends upon the cooperation of the public, and for that reason it is important and necessary that the means by which infectious diseases are transmitted and the methods to be employed to prevent their spread should be properly understood."

Miss Hoyt Was Not Surprised With The Song The College Boys Sang

"Young and rich and good looking, too, I suppose," spoke Harvey Lane. His companion, Willard Price, young and rich himself unfortunately, for he was idle and without ambition, languidly drew a photograph from his pocket and extended it towards Lane.

"Pretty as a picture," voted the latter spontaneously. There was real and earnest admiration in his frank, open face. Then it clouded a trifle. He was too poor and humble in his own estimation to dare to aspire for recognition in the upper circle into which his companion had free admittance.

"I knew Miss Drusa Hoyt at Acton," explained Price. "She attended the seminary there while I was at the college. Those were great days—music, picnicking, rowing on the lake. My cousin Leona is a dear friend of Miss Hoyt. They met a few days ago, and Leona playfully told her she was going to send me around to give one of the old college serenades when I passed through the town here. Drusa is full of life and fun, and insisted she would be delighted with such a welcome reminder of the dear old school days."

"And you are going to twang the light guitar, eh?" smiled Harvey. "With your assistance on the mandolin. Oh, we can make a fine romantic occasion of it, don't you see?" and Price leaned back luxuriously and complacently on the rustic seat of the little village park. Then he added, with a keen look at Harvey, who was still studying the lovely face in the photograph. She hypnotizes you, does she? I say, not getting struck in that quarter, are you?"

If Miss Hoyt was in my own rather humble class," half satirically returned Harvey, "I wouldn't try to forget that beautiful face, as I must do for my own peace of mind."

There was a rustle in the path circling past them, and Harvey, turning slightly, observed a young girl arise and leave a near seat. All that he noted was a graceful form and a long streaming blue veil. Then he handed the photograph back to his friend with the faint suggestion of a reluctant sigh.

He scarcely listened as Price told of obtaining the picture from his cousin, also of an item he had noted in a newspaper some time previous commenting on "the rare business success of John Hoyt, Esq." That must be Drusa's father, so "he was safe in spying out the land," and "getting in touch with possible millions."

Harvey had been always helpful to Price, and the latter had treated him pretty well. Harvey considered serenades an obsolete art, and felt rather ridiculous at the thought of posing as a Spanish cavalier. However, he wished to be accommodating, and there was a real element of romanticism in Price's plan.

"You see, I'll surprise Miss Hoyt with the song the college fellows sang many a moonlight night under the seminary windows—'Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming.' We'll practice up a bit, steal into the Hoyt garden and give this dead old burg a real sensation."

It was almost nine o'clock in the evening when the twain started out, each carrying his special instrument under his arm. Earlier in the day they had strayed past the Hoyt home, and Price indicated where they would post themselves in the garden when the appointed hour arrived. As they left the hotel Price discovered that he had run out of extra guitar strings.

"I'll get a supply from the drug store in case of accidents," he explained. "You go ahead and I'll soon join you."

lights were turned on in an upper room. There appeared at its window a feminine form. It was Miss Hoyt, pale, disturbed, and she drew close to the window, her hand crossed on her breast, as if to subdue some deep emotion. Her head bent towards the interior of the house, as if some disturbing sound alarmed her.

So entranced was Harvey at the sudden beautiful apparition that he had not drawn out of the full focus of the flaming gas jet. She saw him, uttered a faint cry and then leaned from the window.

"Surprised?" she altered, "you are a stranger, but—won't you—that is—I am all alone in the house, and some one is below, and I am afraid."

"At once," replied Harvey, swiftly taking in the situation. He swung the mandolin case, ready for use as a weapon, ran around to the front of the house and dashed up the steps, to find the door open. He stood still in the hallway and listened intently.

Harvey flared a match, found a gas jet and flooded the hall with light. Just then a timid, trembling form came down the staircase. It was Miss Hoyt. She bore a heavy cane.

"It is papa's," she said. "Please don't rush into danger—I am not afraid now."

For all that, she kept close to her in-wreath champion as Harvey slowly advanced down the hall, armed with the weapon she had provided. Then, as there was a stir and then a crash, as of a chair thrown violently over, she clung to his arm. The next moment Harvey could not repress a jolly laugh.

"There is our formidable night disturber—no burglar after all, Miss Hoyt!" he exclaimed.

A large Newfoundland dog darted from the library into the hall and scurried past them through the front doorway. He had evidently wandered in just as Miss Hoyt had run up the stairs to get a wrap before resuming her swing seat on the porch.

"You—you seem to know my name," she began, and then, looking straight at the now somewhat embarrassed Harvey, she flushed all over her face.

And just then, too, Harvey noticed a hat with a great blue veil on a hall seat, and understood. This was the young lady he had noticed at the park. Had she overheard the conversation between himself and Price? He wondered, as he retreated to the porch. "I—I had better explain how I came to be here," he observed—"in the garden, I mean."

"I think I know," smiled Drusa. "I had an intimation of a serenade. I saw Mr. Price today, but did not wish to spoil what he intended as a surprise. Mercy! What is that?"

It was a shot, shouts, a crash—then the jangling strings of some musical instrument.

Both rushed out to the porch. A crash of glass made the still night echoes hideous. A man was dashing madly across the glass-covered garden beds from the next lot. He carried a guitar, madly brandished. He disappeared hatless and frantic, but not until Harvey had recognized Willard Price.

A little investigation brought out the facts of the case. Price had gone into the wrong garden—that of a jealous, crusty old bachelor, just married. He had observed the guitar-armed serenade, had gone for a gun, and Price had run for his life.

Of course Miss Hoyt had overheard Harvey's eucumbisms in the park. It turned out that it was her uncle who was so wealthy. This smoothed out Harvey's path. Price, bored at his mishap, did not linger on the scene. And of course the serenade by proxy eventually married Drusa Hoyt. (Copyright, 1912, by W. G. Chapman.)

HUMAN SYMPATHIES

Peculiar How They Are Sometimes Influenced by Mere Money.

BY GRACE EVANSON.

"Yes, Mrs. Tompkins, Uncle John's dead and gone at last, and it was his eighty-ninth birthday, wasn't it?"

"Eighty-nine last June—and when a man gets to be that old and has a temper like Uncle John's he isn't good for much more. And deceitful! Well, I don't want to speak ill of the dead, but if his whole life was like the last year of it, when we knew him, I'm not over sanguine about his future."

"This is how it all happened. Of course Silas and I had heard of Uncle John all our lives, for we were cousins before we were married, and having no children we naturally kept a warm spot in our hearts for the old man. We knew he was good for nothing and never put by a penny all the years of his life, but still, we're not uncharitable."

"Yes, we'd heard all about that topline years ago and put it out of our minds. We thought it was just a story. So when Uncle John turns up at the farm on his eighty-eighth birthday, all ragged like a tramp, and hungry as though he didn't know what food meant, we were naturally annoyed. We've always held up our heads among our neighbors, and we didn't want it said we couldn't do right by our uncle."

"Maria," he said—those were his very words as he sat in the parlor in his dirty, shabby clothes, and we mortally afraid some of the neighbors would come in and see him—Maria, I've come to lay my bones among you. Will you give me a home now that I'm good for nothing any longer?"

"I looked at Silas and he looked at me. Then he took me aside. 'I guess we'll have to, Maria,' he said softly. 'We can't put him in the poorhouse—us being so respectable. Besides, maybe he can earn his keep doing chores about the farm.'

"So we took him in and let him sleep in the attic. There's an old straw mattress there, and we gave him an old crazy quilt and let him eat his meals with us, just like one of the family, and what little work he did hardly left a penny of profit after his expenses were considered. At like a hog, he did. I say it's indecent for a man of eighty-eight to eat like that."

"Will You Give Me a Home?"

"O, that wench Mary Callaghan! I was just coming to her, Mrs. Tompkins. Well, she was a poor girl Silas and he had taken pity on out of the goodness of our hearts. Daughter of an old friend of my husband's, Mrs. Tompkins, and Silas owed him a thousand dollars, and he asked him on his death-bed if he wouldn't take care of his girl and tear up the note. Of course Silas consented, seeing he was an old friend. Besides, we wanted a maid, for I'm not so strong as I used to be. And she was that lazy! Often I'd come down at eight o'clock and find the rooms wasn't swept and the pigs not fed and the chickens hungry for food, and Mary'd just stare at me in her stupid way and say nothing. I couldn't train her at all. We'd have packed her off, but for our charitable nature—besides a maid would have cost fifteen dollars a month."

"Well, would you believe it, Mary and the old man struck up the queerest kind of friendship. She used to steal pies and things for him out of the kitchen when I was away. Fancy an old man of eighty-eight eating pie! And she'd give him blankets for his bed when it was cold—my blankets, that I keep for company, all wool, and costing five dollars a pair!"

"Well, Maria," said Silas, when I told him I couldn't do anything with her, 'I guess them paupers just naturally take to one another. And that was the way it seemed to me. If I had known! But I'm a simple woman, Mrs. Tompkins, and I never entered my head what a designing hussy she was."

"Well, it was on the old man's eighty-ninth birthday, and he hadn't done a chore for two days, and Silas spoke up to him."

"Uncle John," he said, 'I guess we can't keep you for nothing. You never was worth anything to me and now you'd best apply to the poorhouse.'" looking kind of surprised. 'Why, nephew, I'm not going to any poor-house. I'm eighty-nine today, and when a man's eighty-nine he's supposed to be dead, and I've got twenty thousand dollars due me this morning. I'm expecting a letter any minute.'

"Well, you could have knocked me down with a feather. But this is what had happened. It was that 'old topline. It seems that sixty years before Uncle John and ten other young men had each put five hundred dollars into what they called a topline, which was a fund of money that was to be divided up among the ten of them all for the whole of the money with the accumulated interest on his eighty-ninth birthday. If none of them lived so long, then it went to the heirs of the one that lived longest. And Uncle John was the last of them and being supposed to be dead, by life insurance rules, at eighty-nine, there was twenty thousand coming to him."

"And sure enough it came that morning. And do you know, he acted in the queerest way. He forgot all about our kindness to him and wanted to go to the poorhouse. Well, we couldn't let an old man that age go into the hard world with all that money to squander. He gave in at last, but he wouldn't let Silas put his money in the bank for him, nor he wouldn't buy a share in the farm either."

"No, Maria," he said, chuckling. 'I'll stay since you seem so fond of me. But it's cold in the attic and my old bones are chilly.'

"Then why don't you say so?" I answered. 'We'd have put you in the best room, only Silas was waiting to have it painted.'

"He chuckled in the most malicious way, which, seeing all we had done for him, was at least cruel. But those old men don't have the same human sympathies as us younger folks."

"Well, after that Uncle John stayed on with us, and of course we couldn't let an old man like that do any work. He just moaned about the farm, smoking his pipe and eating his head off, and seeming to grow younger every day. Took a dislike to Mary, too. I'd thought of getting rid of her, but Uncle John wouldn't hear of that. 'Keep her, the good-for-nothing wench,' he said. 'I'll make her work.' And he used to give her a tongue lashing every morning and talk to her about her duties to her benefactors which almost brought tears of joy to Silas's eyes and mine. But Mary didn't seem to care."

"Once, when she'd gone over to Long Falls to do some marketing for me and wasn't back in time, Uncle John got so mad with her he wouldn't be satisfied till Silas let him take the buggy and drive in after her. They came back about eight in the evening, and if you'd heard the language he was using to her when they got out of the cart it would have warmed your heart. And the hussy was laughing! Didn't care a bit—just laughed!"

"I was just coming to her, Mrs. Tompkins. Well, she was a poor girl Silas and he had taken pity on out of the goodness of our hearts. The Commission That Went To Europe To Study Rural Credit, Etc., Is Back. Report Will Be Made To the Governors

New York, Monday. Bringing back recommendations which if accepted will mean the introduction of a new agricultural banking system in the United States, more than sixty members of the American and Federal Commissions on Rural Cooperative Credit returned to New York City yesterday on board the Cedric, of the White Star Line, after a three months' tour in Europe. Delegates appointed by the Governors of States, by the premiers of five of the provinces of Canada and by the President of the United States were in the party.

"I have not had time to discuss the matter at any length with the members of the commissions, but you can say that their reports will urge the adoption of some kind of rural banking system which will meet the needs of the farmers of this country," said Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, chairman of the commission appointed by the President, when seen at the McAlpin Hotel.

Neither Senator Fletcher nor Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, also a member of the commission, accompanied the party to Europe, because their presence was needed in Washington, and his statement was based on the reports made to him during the absence of his associates, and on what he was told after he went on board the Cedric in the bay.

Another member of the Federal Commission made a similar statement to the reporter, declaring that the recommendations would probably include some of the ideas incorporated in the Credit Foncier of France and the Landschaften and Raiffeisen systems of Germany.

During their stay in Europe the commissions were in eighteen countries, making a special study of cooperative land mortgage banks, cooperative rural credit unions and similar organizations and institutions devoting their attention to the promotion of agriculture and the betterment of rural conditions.

In addition to the members of the American Commission, which was organized under the direction of the Southern Congress and which included two men from each state in the Union and the five Canadian provinces, the following, who were appointed by the President, were in the party: Dr. C. J. Owens, managing director of the Southern Congress; Kenyon Butterfield, of Anherst; W. R. Coulter and Colonel Harvie Jordan, of Atlanta, Ga.

They were met in the bay by a reception party headed by Senators Fletcher and Gore, who went to meet the Cedric aboard a revenue cutter.

The report of the American Commission will be made to the Governors of the states and to the Southern Commercial Congress, which meets in Mobile on October 27, Senator Fletcher said. The report of the Federal Commission will be made to Congress as soon as it can be compiled. A meeting of some of the members of this commission will be held in Washington, D. C., tomorrow.—Florida Growers News.

non-plussed over his disappearance and the fact that no one had heard anything of him since he left on July 19.

Kansas Solomon.
King Solomon had nothing on a Centralia justice of the peace before whom a colored man and brother was being tried for stealing a chicken. The prosecuting witness thought it was his fowl, but was not willing to swear. It being near sundown the local Solomon let the hen loose and watched her going home to roost. Result, the negro was fined $50.—Kansas City Journal.

Practical Flower Holder.
A simple and practical flower holder is made of green rubberized silk, the shade of natural leaves, and is outlined with a green wire. When worn, it effectually prevents the penetration of any moisture to the gown. The wire edge permits of shaping the holder to the bouquet proper, and the latter is then attached to the corsage or whatever else desired.

Trespassing.
A street car and an automobile had had an altercation which ended with the latter, in a more or less battered condition, lodged on the fender of the former. A little boy and his mother happened along just as it was over, and when the youngster saw them he cried out in glee: "Oh, look, there's an auto standing on that street car's mustache!"

Laying Matting.
When laying matting, it is not always necessary to cut it in order to fit corners and alcoves. It may be better to do so in very small spaces, but often moistening the matting is found to be better than cutting. Softened thus, it can then be bent without breaking, and makes a neat, substantial edge.

Orator Slightly Mixed.
A former senator of the United States, was addressing a meeting in his home town to celebrate the appropriation by the legislature of funds for the erection of a new state capitol. "My fellow citizens," said he, "we will build here the greatest eplaph under God's green footstool."

Much Coal in Formosa.
Coal is second in value among the mineral productions of Formosa. There are fifteen seams of coal extending from the north coast to Toen and Schinchiu prefectures. There are four varieties, anthracite, black-brown, and two varieties of brown.

Treating Burns and Scalds.
Burns and scalds should be treated with glycerine and flour, the latter well heaped over the affected part. Then tie round a linen bandage to exclude the air. If cotton wool is handy it is better to use for this purpose than linen.

SWAT SPARROW AS A PEST

The Biological Survey Calls the Common Bird Useless and Harmful.

"The rat of the bird kingdom" is the label attached to the English sparrow by the United States biological survey.

Sparrows were introduced into America about 50 years ago, and have multiplied with such rapidity that they are a pest in nearly every part of the country.

According to the biological survey, they "not only serve no good purpose, but consume great quantities of useful insect life, in addition to millions of dollars worth of grain." They are pugnacious and drive away many useful and ornamental birds. They are unclean and litter up the premises. They are said to hatch young every month in the year, operating the only automatic incubator in existence, the young of the preceding hatch incubating the eggs as they grow to full-fledged sparrowhood.

Nearly every small boy has the instinct to kill. Properly directed this instinct might be allowed to run through its natural development without being harmful. Teach the boys to confine their shooting to undesirable birds. They are few, and the sparrows is the chief among them.

Teach the boy to set traps only for birds and animals which ought to be trapped and destroyed. Encourage him to catch the mice, the rats and the sparrows—if possible the minks, the weasels, the raccoons and other poultry destroyers in the country. Teach him to value the catbird, the mocking bird, the brown thrasher, the oriole, the robin, the blue bird, and many other varieties that are musical, ornamental or useful.

New Tag to an Old Fable.

Young Tony of the Italian quarter had been greatly interested by the teacher's story of the fox and the grapes. Arriving home from school, he repeated it in his excited, broken English to the family, following the teacher's version pretty closely until he reached the climax. Tony's conclusion was this:

"De olde fox he say, 'Da grape no good, anyhow; alla sour! I guess I go get a banana.'—Boston Evening Transcript

Holland's Busiest Man.
On a sign over a barber's shop at Stierum, Holland: "Barent Wonters lends donkeys on hire like his father, kills pigs, smokes hams, and occupies himself with all kinds of swinish detail work; also shaves and cuts hair, except on Sundays."

Exhibit.
Exe—"So now he has a breach of promise on his hands and the woman is showing letters of his saying he'd do all sorts of things for her." Wye—"Sort of promissory note, eh?" Exe—"Yes, with the accent on the 'sorry.'"

Blue Nose.
Blue Nose is a popular name for a native of Nova Scotia. Hallburton, in "Sam Slick," gives the following account of its origin: "Pray, sir, you tell me why the Nova Scotians are called Blue Noses?" "It is the name of a potato," said I, "which they produce in the greatest perfection, and boast to be the best in the world. The Americans have, in consequence, given them the nickname 'Blue Noses.'"

Best Qualities of Wood.
Unlike most other timber, the straighter, and better formed trees do not yield the most highly prized quality of lumber. It is the crooked, irregular logs that possess the best figured wood. The best qualities of wood are obtained from trees over one hundred years old, which rarely have a clear length of more than 12 feet. The most beautiful grained wood is in the roots and burls.

Clearing the Throat.
Hoarseness caused by irritation of the throat may be cured by gargling with cold salt and water. For severe hoarseness inhale the steam of hot milk in which eggs have been boiled. Singers and public speakers should eat baked apples for clearing the throat; it is also said that swallowing the yolk of an uncooked egg is good.

Gave Him Away.
Master (who is trying to make a good impression on his strait-faced aunt from whom he has expectations) —"Mary, have you seen a letter anywhere about marked 'Private'?" Mary —"You mean the one from the man what can't get 'is money out of you, sir? I put it be'nd the mirror, sir."—Punch.

For a Heavy Heart.
Set about doing good to somebody; put on your hat, and go visit the sick and poor; inquire into their wants and minister to them. Seek out the desolate and oppressed. I have often tried this medicine and always find it the best antidote for a heavy heart.—John Howard.

Complimenting Dad.
"I hear that you undertook to chastise that precocious youngster of yours." "Yes, and I got a little respect out of him, too." "How do you know?" "He told me that if I would go to the gym and train a little he thought he could make a hard hitter out of me."

It Was a Holler Day.
"Come, come," said a distracted father, who had endured the children's noise till patience ceased to be a virtue; "there's no reason why you should scream and holler so." "Why, father," said one of the little fellows, "don't you know this is a holler-day?"

Shameless.
"Some of these actors must be shameless as well as shiftless," asserted the woman with the angular jaw. "Why?" asked her husband. "Here is one who advertises even on the billboard that he is supported by his wife."

Purifying the Air.
The air of a room may be purified in two hours by setting inside of it a dish of water with a few drops of ammonia. The water will have absorbed all the gases in the room.

Colored Epigram.
A colored philosopher is reported to have said: "Life, my brethren, am mostly made up of prayin' for rain, and then wishin' it would clear off."—Presbyterian.

Wisdom.
"Every man ought to save up enough to buy himself a good big farm," said the thrifty citizen. "Yes," replied Farmer Cornstossel; "and then do something else with the money."

Knockers.
A haberdasher complains that canes do not find a ready sale in this town. This may be because it is difficult to carry a cane and a hammer at the same time.—Topeka Journal.

Where the Rhine is Busy.
The traffic on the Rhine between Strasburg and the Holland frontier amounts to the enormous total of forty million tons annually.

Pompous Coal Horse.
"A coal horse," said the magistrate, "has a pompous stride. There is more dignity about a coal horse than there is about a provincial mayor."

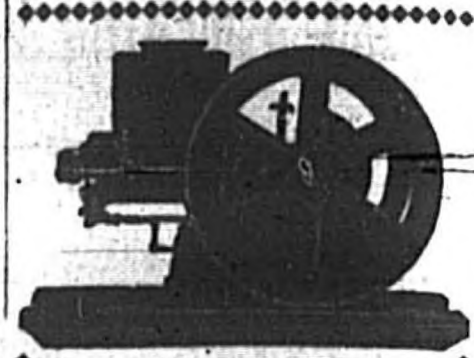

Never Satisfied.
When a man gets something for nothing he is pretty sure to think it might have been something better.

Electric Current and Nerves.
Along human nerves the electric current travels at from 33 to 60 yards a second.

Crop Paradox.
Seems strange that those who sow the wind are the very ones who have a hard time raising it.

Everlasting.
Things gained are gone, but great things done endure.—Algernon Swinburne.

Irrigation in Australia.
Australia is irrigating more than two million acres of grazing lands with artesian wells.

REDHEAD DISAPPEARS
Well Known Coast Line Ticket Agent Cannot be Found

The following from the Tampa Times will interest the many friends of J. O. Redhead, a well known ticket agent of the A. C. L., who for some time was agent at Orlando and was known to many in Sanford:

J. O. Redhead, city ticket agent of the Atlantic Coast Line for several years, and one of the most popular railroad men in Florida has disappeared.

Mr. Redhead boarded with Mrs. Hanson at 904 Marion street and left there Saturday evening, July 19, and up to this time no word has been received from him, and from the latest reports he has not visited his old home in Maryland. For several days the Coast Line accountants have been working on his accounts, and finished their work yesterday afternoon, leaving the city without giving any report as to the condition of same. J. G. Kirkland, division passenger agent of the Coast Line, and who has charge of the local office, would not make any statement for publication other than Redhead had asked for a couple of days off a few days before he left the city, and that he had not been heard from since by his comrades here.

Mr. Redhead, stated Mr. Kirkland had been one of the Coast Line's trusted employes for many years. Asked whether or not his accounts were short, Mr. Kirkland stated that the agents who had been at work made no report to him. A railroad man stated to a Times man that Redhead was alleged to be short in his accounts about $2,100. It is said that Redhead for some time past had been none too regular in his habits, absenting himself from his boarding place frequently until very late at night. The people at his boarding place have been

SEMINOLE COUNTY STARTS BUSINESS TODAY

Baby County Of Florida Sets Up House Keeping Under Most Favorable Circumstances And In Most Comfortable Quarters

Board Of County Commissioners Are Meeting In First Official Session And History Of The New County Begins With Today's Proceedings

Today is an epoch in the annals of Seminole county, being the very beginning of the new county. There have been meetings of the county commissioners and other officials but none of them have been strictly official being only preliminary skirmishes getting prepared for the real battle that begins today with the first official meeting.

county will start with a silver spoon in her mouth and good clothes in plenty. The commissioners will meet today in the clerk's office, which for the time being will be located in the bank room on the first floor. This office will be changed to the second floor as soon as the present occupants can move.

state. Certainly few baby counties have started so auspiciously, being out of debt and with a few millions in the treasury to pay current bills. The county commissioners are on the job and will make public servants of the proper sort. All the officials are men who feel their great responsibilities and will fill the offices to the best of their knowledge and power.

SHERIFF HAND IS BUSY

Rounding up the Criminals Fills Jails of Other Counties. Unless the new county of Seminole makes haste in the matter of building a new jail Sheriff Hand will have all the jails of adjoining counties filled with our prisoners and the feed bill will amount to something.

Thomas annexed all the office furniture that he could handle. He made way with the electric fan, the typewriter and several other articles that could be easily moved, and if he had a horse and wagon he would have moved the entire block in time.

Douglass is Happy

Clerk Douglass is one of the happiest men in the city today, for at last he is enabled to get a place to lay his books. For the past month Mr. Douglass has been going round with the expression a married man always wears when his wife is away, only Doug's wife was not away this time.

BEAUTIFUL ELKS HEAD

Presented to the Sanford Lodge by Dick Calhoun. One of the finest specimens of an elk's head that has ever been seen in the south is now in the lodge room of Sanford lodge, B. P. O. E. It was brought from the west by Dick Calhoun and must have cost a goodly sum to have it mounted in such a fashion.

Big Citrus Crop

General Manager L. D. Jones of the Florida Citrus Exchange has completed compilation of the shipments of the citrus fruits from Florida during the past season, which shows that it was the biggest crop year in the history of the state—some 8,152,000 boxes, of which 1,780,301 boxes were shipped through the Exchange, or about 23 per cent. This is the largest amount the Citrus Exchange has handled in any year of its history.

WILL HAVE NO PANIC

Secretary McAdoo Lets Out Millions To Country Banks. Twenty-five to fifty million dollars of government funds will be deposited in National Banks of the South and West at once, by Secretary McAdoo, to facilitate the movement of crops. Federal, state and municipal bonds and prime commercial paper will be accepted as security for the money, upon which the banks will pay two per cent interest.

PIGEONS TURNED LOOSE

To Make One Thousand Mile Journey for a Record. Last Saturday the Southern Express Co. of this city received two homing pigeons from O. F. Connelly of Carlisle, Pa., with instructions to turn them loose and let them fly home. They were given their freedom on Sunday morning and after circling a few times as if to test their wings were soon lost to sight in the empyrean blue of the Florida sky on their long flight to Carlisle.

John Bull on Guard

Washington, Aug. 4.—Keen interest has been aroused in official circles here by a report reaching the State Department that Great Britain is contemplating a great naval base in the Bermuda Islands. It is stated authoritatively that the British government has made inquiry concerning the plans of the United States for protection of the Panama Canal routes, and it has been suggested that this indicates an intention to safeguard British shipping through the isthmus as in the Mediterranean.

Franklin Case Reopened

The Franklin murder case that has been dormant for some time assumed a new phase Saturday when another negro named Edwards was brought into it, with the supposition that he might have been either an important witness or a principal. States Attorney Cary Landis was present at the preliminary trial held in the court of Justice Stringfellow and Attorney DeCottes represented Edwards. The case was continued until next Friday and the Edwards feature will then be settled. It seems to be the idea of the defense to bring in new features to offset the deathbed confession of Franklin and when the case finally comes to circuit court it will be watched with much interest on account of the prominence in negro circles of the slain and the ones who have become entangled in the meshes.

Camping Trips

Some of our young people report a very enjoyable camping trip at Palm Springs during the last ten days. Those present were Mrs. H. Iserman, Mrs. Clifford Iserman, Misses Frances Pearson, Flora Pearson, Helen Iserman, Grace Iserman, Helen Reasoner, Ruth Smith, also Helen Bergert and Elvina Lowry of Loughman; Messrs Clark Pearson, George Smith, Oscar Pearson, Jack Booth, Jesse Kersey and Bert Long. Some weeks ago a negro of West Palm Beach was bitten by a horse that had the glanders and now the negro has a fully developed case of glanders. The medical profession has no cure for the disease.

Book Lovers' Club

Mrs. Ernest R. Tolar was the charming hostess of the Book Lovers' Club, which she entertained most delightfully Friday afternoon. The pretty rooms of the handsome new home were most pleasingly decorated with lovely ferns and white oleanders, which featured the effective color scheme, green and white. With a magic wand Mrs. Tolar lifted the curtain so recently lowered over the past and entertained her guests with a delightful glimpse and review of their four years of High School life. Pretty green cards with white bows represented the Freshman Sophomore and Junior years in the High School, while the Senior year was represented by white cards with green bows. The school was presided over by Mrs. Tolar, who conducted examinations in "Manual Training and Mathematics," "English

Delightful Outing

The Brotherhood of St. Andrews, composed of the Junior boys of the Episcopal church have been having the time of their lives during the past week. In the care and companionship of Rev. Arthur S. Peck, rector of the Episcopal church they left for Ormond last Tuesday, where they have doubtless enjoyed every known pleasure and recreation that the Beach affords. An outfit for camping and all the other necessary paraphernalia for living in the open was carried along and it is needless to say that those boys have extracted every ounce of fun and varied experience to be found in many lies of seashore. The party are expected home today. Several of the cities and counties of Florida are now levying a "publicity tax," which is used as a fund to advertise their respective localities. The tax is levied under special acts of the last legislature granting such power.
