AMERICAN NAVAL EXPERTS BELIEVE PARLEY FAILURE

Coolidge Hope That Geneva Conference Would Result In Disarmament Blasted; More Cruisers Expected

WASHINGTON, July 2—(INS)—The Geneva naval conference, sponsored by President Coolidge in the hope that it would result in disarmament, bids fair to end in failure.

This was the opinion of American naval experts today after examining the initial proposals advanced by Great Britain with regard to cruiser strength.

The American proposal, laid on the conference table at the opening session, called for Great Britain and the United States to limit their respective cruiser strength to 300,000 tons with 80,000 tons for Japan.

Such a program, if executed, would force the United States to undertake a big building program to obtain an equal strength.

Great Britain is seeking a combined tonnage for surface and auxiliary vessels of 800,000 tons, considerably more than her present tonnage.

Tomorrow and Monday, the fourth of July, are holidays and there will be no sessions of the conference.

BOXER'S BROTHER SLAYS WIFE AND THEN KILLS SELF

John Dempsey, Brother Of Former Heavyweight Champion, Kills Mate And Self After Reconciliation Effort Fails

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., July 2—(INS)—John Dempsey, 38, brother of Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight pugilist champion of the world, today murdered his wife and himself.

The tragedy occurred at the rooming house 847 Emmett Street conducted by Mrs. Frank Prieto. The young wife's refusal to effect a reconciliation is believed to have been the cause.

According to Elsie Carlow, Dempsey made no threats just before the shooting and only a few words passed between the two.

"I came in the room just about as they did," Elsie told police. They came up together. The door was not locked, there was some little conversation, but nothing important.

"Just then Edna turned around quick as a flash, sensing danger, John raised his hand. He had a gun and a second later he fired. I screamed and ran downstairs. As I was running I heard what sounded like two more shots, but maybe only one more shot was fired.

"It was terrible. I was there and yet I couldn't do anything to help my sister.

"My sister had been afraid of John when they were living in California before they came here. He stabbed her with a knife and he threatened at other times to kill her."

Heat Wave Broken By Cool Showers

CHICAGO, July 2—(INS)—Chicago's record three-day heat wave was broken today following a series of cooling showers.

More than two score deaths have resulted in Chicago from the extreme heat of the past 72 hours. Twenty-one died yesterday, setting a new record for a 24-hour period.

Fifty passengers on a street car narrowly escaped death when the car was struck by lightning during a severe storm. Several were hurt in the panic that followed.

The heat wave has been general over the middle and far west. Numerous drownings and deaths from heat prostrations have been reported from other sections.

GUNN SMOTHERS BROWN GOLFER IN TOURNEY FINALS

Georgia Tech Representative In Intercollegiate Meet Is 10 Up On Roland MacKenzie At End Of First 18 Holes

GARDEN CITY, L. I., July 2—(INS)—Playing unbeatable golf, Watts Gunn, representing Georgia Tech, was 10 up on his former Walker cup mate, Roland MacKenzie, of Brown University, today at the end of the first 18 holes of the final round for the intercollegiate golf championship.

Gunn simply ran wild, breaking the long standing course record with a 69 and shooting that was reminiscent of Bobby Jones' amazing effort at Sunningdale in the last British open and that of Walter Hagen at Wolf Hollow last summer.

MacKenzie never had a chance, with Gunn rushing to the turn in 33 strokes, including five birdies. Watts came back in 36, still playing like a champion of champions.

ROBBERS KIDNAP GIRL AND STEAL $3,914 PAYROLL

Youthful Bandits Order Miss Colvin To Drive Them Into Outskirts Of Memphis And They Take Away Money

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 2—(INS)—Two unmasked young bandits, with this morning kidnap Miss Helen Colvin payroll messenger, and escaped with the $3,914 payroll of the B. E. Buffalo Construction Company, were being sought late today throughout Shelby county.

Miss Colvin, who was freed by the bandits after being forced to drive them from the heart of the downtown business district where they stepped on the side of her car to the outskirts of the city, gave police an accurate description of the holdup pair.

Miss Colvin and Harold Brock, 19, who had gone to the Bank of Commerce for the payroll, parked their car in the heart of the downtown business district near the bank.

Brock had gone to a near by drug store to get a prescription filled and Miss Colvin went to the bank for the money. She returned with the payroll in a paper sack and waited for Brock in the car.

Two youths stepped on the running board, pistols in hand, took the money and forced Miss Colvin to get them to the outskirts of the city, where they fled.

St. Augustine Road From Daytona Now Open To All Traffic

As a result of a special meeting of the Flagler County Commissioners, called by Chairman George Mood last Friday night, the ocean shore boulevard connecting St. Augustine and Daytona Beach is now open to traffic, according to word received by The Herald this morning from the St. Augustine Chamber of Commerce.

The road was not to be opened for some time yet in the original plans due to the flagging which will have to be added. However, in order to speed traffic toward Daytona Beach, where thousands of people are traveling in order to see the festival, it was deemed advisable to open the road. No work is being done at present but the contractor stated that later on work will be completed without closing the road.

Work has been sent to the guards along the road instructing them to allow traffic to proceed. Cars had already begun to come through at an early hour last night.

Helen Wills Is Now Premier Tennis Star

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 2—(INS)—Helen Wills of California today won the English lawn tennis championship and premier world position in women's singles amateur tennis, by defeating the Spanish star, Senorita de Alvarez in the finals play of the Wimbledon tournament.

The score was 6-2, 6-4. By her crushing defeat of the Spanish Senorita Miss Wills succeeds to the position in amateur tennis vacated by Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen when the French woman abandoned her amateur status to turn professional.

PHYSICIAN FEARS 2 FLIERS MAY BE SERIOUSLY HURT

Commander Byrd And Bert Acosta May Be Internally Injured, Says Doctor, Who Orders Them To Hospital

PARIS, July 2—(INS)—The possibility that Commander Richard E. Byrd of the America and the pilot, Bert Acosta, may have suffered serious internal injuries was indicated today when Dr. Bainbridge of the American embassy staff showed concern regarding their condition.

He gave both of them a physical examination at Caen, France, where they spent the night following their dramatic plunge into the English Channel near Ver-Sur-Mer early yesterday.

Cheering crowds swarmed about the railroad stations as the train pulled in with Byrd, Bert Acosta, the pilot, Lieut. G. O. Noville, the radio operator and Bert Balchen the relief man on board.

"Vive les Americains!" shouted the huge throng.

The cheers grow in volume as the American fliers, their faces wreathed in smiles, stepped from the train.

The crowds pressed close to the fliers, milling about them and shouting words of praise. The crush was reminiscent of the mob that surrounded Lindbergh at Le Bourget field after he landed in the "Spirit of St. Louis."

It required 10 minutes for the fliers to reach a small room in the station where they were officially welcomed by Minister of War Painleve and M. Bokanowski of the municipal council.

Balchen, the ruddy-faced blonde Norwegian who was piloting the monoplane when it plunged into the English Channel near Ver-Sur-Mer after a thrilling trip in a storm over France, told the newspapermen that the fliers planned to return to the United States soon.

"We've got to prepare for the expedition that Commander Byrd is planning to make to the South Pole," he said. "We are due to leave sometime in August in a whaling boat."

Triumphal Procession Reminds French Of Lindbergh Arrival

PARIS, July 2—(INS)—Commander Richard E. Byrd of the "America" and his three American co-fliers, Bert Acosta, George O. Noville and Bert Balchen, were received at the president's palace this afternoon and praised by President Gaston Doumergue for the heroism they showed on their epochal flight from New York to France.

Byrd presented the president with a special American flag which he carried across with him on the flight and made an appropriate speech to which the president replied:

"I appreciate your definite purpose to come to France. You have done a courageous, patriotic thing—something your country can be justly proud of. Although it was not the first flight to France it lacked none of the elements of heroism and courage."

The welcome by President Doumergue was the climax of a tumultuous welcome by Parisians to the fliers who arrived here at 12:20 this afternoon from Caen, France, where they spent the night following their dramatic plunge into the English Channel near Ver-Sur-Mer early yesterday.

Cheering crowds swarmed about the railroad stations as the train pulled in with Byrd, Bert Acosta, the pilot, Lieut. G. O. Noville, the radio operator and Bert Balchen the relief man on board.

2 Alleged Slayers Of South Carolina Sheriff Out Today

GREENVILLE, S. C., July 2—(INS)—Under a three thousand dollar bond, furnished by blood kin of the late sheriff Sam D. Willis of Greenville County, Mrs. Ethel Willis, his 23-year-old widow charged with his murder here on June 11, was back among the familiar surroundings of her home today.

Sometime today Henry S. Townsend, former deputy sheriff and war time buddy of the slain sheriff who is jointly charged with his murder, will be taken from the state penitentiary at Columbia and released here.

The two alleged slayers were granted their release on bond after numerous affidavits had been read at a habeas corpus hearing here yesterday before Justice T. P. Cochran. Justice Cochran made known his decision to allow the pair to be released on bond immediately after the affidavits were presented.

Building Permits In June Total $52,000

Ruth Traxen Gehrig In Home Run Battle

NEW YORK, July 2—(INS)—Babe Ruth the greatest home run hitter of all time is trailing Lou Gehrig his youthful team mate, in the home run marathon today. Gehrig hit his 26th circuit clout yesterday and is one homer ahead of the Bambino.

Gehrig has dented the bleachers 12 times since the middle of June. He and Ruth together already have walked more homers than a whole team ordinarily gets all season.

The entire Yankee club has made 76 homers to date this season and 134 homers for a season and possibly the National League mark of 140, made by Chicago in 1884.

"Buster" is eleven years younger than "Babe."

Fergus Holds Tampa To Three Hits And Feds Take Opener

Big Right Handers Sets Smokers Back While Mates Take Alvarez To 11 Hit Drubbing

Bailey Stars At Bat For Locals

Rip Dunbar Hits For Three Bases; Team Stays Up In Fight

Bill Fergus held the Tampa Smokers to three hits here yesterday and Sanford won the opening game of the second half of the series by the score of 4 to 1. Alvarez, Cuban submarine ball artist, was touched for 11 hits, three of which were for extra bases. It was an interesting ball game with the Celerys looking like a championship team both in the field and at bat. The motto of the team was "plenty of pepper" and they certainly showed it in every department of the game. The Smokers, runners up in the first half, and under the tutelage of the veteran Tommy Lench, simply could not come up to the standard of play set by the Crownmen.

Frank Bailey led the batman with three hits out of four tries, two of them went for two bases. Bailey also played great ball in the field, handling 13 chances without the semblance of a bobble. Rip Dunbar with a triple and a single out of four tries and Pug Allen with two singles out of three tries were runners up for hitting honors. Billy Meyer, "the grand old man," handled seven hard chances at second for the fielding honors of the game. In the first inning, after Dunbar had gone out to Wade, Frisbie was safe when Salvatz threw badly to first. Frisbie stole second and went to third as Bauley was going out, short to first. Pug Allen then found one that he liked and singled over second, scoring Frisbie. Allen stole second but died there as Crowe went out. Buckley to Rambo. In the third, with the count two and three on him, Alvarez grooved one to Dunbar and he crashed it to left for three sacks. He scored as Frisbie skied out to Wade. In the fifth, Dunbar started things off again with a single to center. Frisbie bunted safely. Bauley advanced each runner a base with a perfect bunt. Here Alvarez purposely walked Pug Allen but Crowe messed things up by hitting to right for one base, scoring Dunbar and Frisbie and leaving the big Allen on third. Crowe and Allen attempted to pull a double steal but Salvatz returned Edwards' throw in time to catch Pug at the plate. Tampa scored in the sixth when Alvarez walked and Buckley singled to right, Alvarez going to third on a Beasley furnished the ball. Wade hit a long sacrifice to Dunbar and Alvarez scored after the catch. Beasley was called out on strikes and Edwards flied out to Frisbie. It was a great ball game while it lasted and a great deal of credit must go to Fergus. It was one of the prettiest bits of hurling seen here since the leaving of Messers. Conwell and Wilson who seemed to have the habit of turning in games like that last year.

Fromby And Meyer Clash In Pitching Duel With Honors About Even; Hustlers Make Lone Marker In The Fifth

ORLANDO, Fla., July 1—Meyer had the better of a pitching duel with Minor Fromby here Thursday afternoon and the Miami Hustlers opened the second half of the Florida State League season by defeating the first half champions 1 to 0. Both twirlers were in rare form and were accorded sensational support. Orlando's defense cracked one behind Fromby and the Hustlers scored their lone tally on a walk, an error and a single. Foss Miami short stop, was chased from the game in the third after an argument with Rapphan on a called strike. Mayor L. M. Autrey and local fans presented Manager Phil Wells a handsome traveling bag as their appreciation for his leading the Celts to victory in the first half. The Score:

Tagging All Bases

Interest was at fever heat today in the greatest two ring circus baseball has ever known—the home run race between Babe Ruth and Buster Gehrig. In the first inning against the Red Sox yesterday Gehrig walked his twenty fifth homer and led Ruth until the fourth inning, when the hamblab also checked in with No. 25.

The Yanks home run twins are three homers behind Ruth's 1927 race. Gehrig, who has been denouncing the bleachers much oftener than Babe recently, already has nine more than he made all last season.

The only games played in the National League, the Giants and Braves split a twin bill. Bob Smith teamed the Giants in the opener 5 to 1. In the nightcap McGraw's men scored 10 runs in the last two innings, knocking out Hugh Mulquhann, their former ace, who was winning 11 to 6.

The Detroit Tigers, who are playing as good ball as any team in the majors, beat Cleveland 6 to 5 in a rally featured by Gehrig's homer. The Beaneys Layed George Ute for the fifth time this season.

Another Inx remained intact when Al Thomas of the White Sox walked the Browns, 6 to 1, for the sixth time this year. Shely, who has replaced the Bookie Clark as first base for the Sox, hit a homer.

Then Senators held on to second place by posting out the Athletics in the fifth 6 to 5, on Collins' single. Baker, Texas collegian, started his first game for the A's and led the Nats to a draw in five innings.

YOU'D BE SURPRISED

MADE FOURTEEN ASSISTS IN ONE GAME

When a shortstop handles 14 assists in a ball game it can be truthfully said that he has put in a very busy day. Twenty-five years ago Tommy Cororan, then the star shortstop of the Cincinnati Reds, took care of that many assists. It is a National League record, also the majors, since 12 assists made by Krl Elberfeld of Detroit, two years previous, is the high water mark of the American League.

There is in the National League today, however, a player who as a minor league performer took care of 14 assists, also two put outs, without making an error. He is Hal Rhyne of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Rhyne, who came up from the Coast League as a shortstop, but who has performed at second and third as well for the Pirates, boasts a performance equal to that of Cororan made in 1903.

Playing shortstop for Des Moines of the Western League in 1921 against St. Joseph, Rhyne was credited with 14 of the 33 assists that the former team made for a world's record.

It is a rather interesting fact that 18 years separated the two record-breaking performances on the part of Cororan and Rhyne, both being made in August 7.

Wrightstone is just shy of 6 feet, weighs about 180 pounds, bats left, and throws right handed and has a sweet average of exactly .300 covering his seven years in the majors, spent with a tailender.

Wrightstone plays first base for the Phillies and he is doing a mighty good job of it. His fielding has been a la George Sider and his batting quite praiseworthy. Which means he has arrived in a sure-enough big leaguer after seven years of sheer plugging.

It has taken that time for Wrightstone to find himself. Perhaps the appointment of Melvin as manager of the Philadelphia Nationals was just the break he needed to get somewhere in the big show.

Back in 1920 when the Phillies were floundering about the cellar with little money to spend for recruits, Wrightstone was dug up from the semi-pro ranks around Harrisburg, Pa., and cost the management car fare only, a matter of not over 10 bucks.

Wrightstone should make a star first baseman," remarked Melvin to me, as I listened to him explain why he hoped his club wouldn't finish in last place. "He can field and hit. Polish off a few rough spots in his fielding and he will make the fans sit up and take notice."

Chrysler Dealer In Colorado Town Lays Claim To New Sales Records

DETROIT, Mich., July 1—An exceptional, and what members of the firm believe to be an unparalleled record in automobile merchandising has been reported to the Chrysler Corporation by one of its distributors, the Simpson-Reid Motor Company, of Grand Junction, Colorado.

According to the members of the firm, their sales in the three years since they started have grown from 79 cars in the first year to a total of 415 for the whole period of their history. This part of the company's career is not particularly remarkable, but Simpson and Reid go on to declare that of the company's 415 buyers of Chrysler's only one has ever traded in his car for another make of automobile, and on this they claim a record.

The one exception they explain with regret, wanted a second Chrysler but his mind was set on having a certain body type and when he found he could not get it in a Chrysler as soon as he needed it he reluctantly decided to buy another make of car.

Although the books of the Chrysler Corporation do not show a rival for this particular distinction officials of the corporation say that it is not a matter for surprise to have such an incident. Evidence of preference by Chrysler owners for the car of their choice has come repeatedly in statistics of automobile registrations, the officials explain, and has proved to their satisfaction that Chrysler is in a class of its own among American motor car manufacturers in replacement ratios.

"We believe this is a logical result of the Chrysler basic policy of Standardized Quality," said J. W. Frazer, Chrysler sales manager. "What that policy means to the public is readily understandable. When the owner of a Chrysler '60' wants a larger, heavier, faster and more powerful car he knows he can find exactly the same type of car one step higher in the '60'. Another step is the '70' and still another is the Imperial '80'. Each Chrysler car is built to the same standard in proportion to the tasks it is expected to perform. That is the fundamental Chrysler principle, and to our mind it is the explanation of the Chrysler owner loyalty that is so consistently revealed in repeat orders."

Popularity Of Chrysler Due Partly To Low Gas Consumption And Upkeep

DETROIT, Mich., July 2—Analysis of the causes which have made Chrysler automobiles in the three years of their manufacture among the most popular cars on the market reveals one—economy of operation—which has won favor with purchasers and has commended this make to buyers of every range of income.

Economy of operation has long been a leading requirement of automobile purchasers especially of those of average means; and statistics show that the most successful manufacturers are those who produce a good looking, roomy, dependable and durable car, which will give real performance without sacrificing the principle of economy.

"To make the cost of maintenance and operation as small an item as possible has been the constant aim of Walter P. Chrysler," said J. W. Frazer, Chrysler sales manager, in a discussion of this point, and those who have driven Chrysler cars under all sorts of conditions tell us that he and his associates have succeeded in their purpose.

"If the economy slogan of an automobile is to mean more than a mere collection of words two things are essential. Low gasoline and oil consumption on the one hand, and few replacements on the other hand. Considering the first of these points, we have always been kept advised of the remarkable records Chrysler has achieved in low gasoline and oil use. Before the advent of Chrysler in the automobile manufacturing field, a six cylinder car running as many as 20 miles on a gallon of gasoline was considered a record. Yet the Chrysler '70' runs on a gallon of gasoline which has been doing it ever since that model was put on the road. The Chrysler '60' has been delivering 22 miles and more to the gallon right along. The Chrysler '50' tests have shown it to be capable of more than 25 miles per gallon of gasoline.

"It is the general opinion of Chrysler users, as their opinions are reflected in reports to us, that the Chrysler car, because of its sturdy construction and the durability of its materials is one of the most economical of all automobiles in upkeep, and in cost of gasoline and oil its unique engine design gave it from the outset a lead which has even their strenuous efforts of three years have never been able to overcome."

Graham Trucks Prove Popular In Many Rural Communities, Survey Indicates

DETROIT, Mich., July 2—The need for Graham Brothers trucks in out-of-the-way places as well as in centers of population is strikingly illustrated by the story of Bucaramanga, Colombia.

In the midst of a large and fertile agricultural district, this city is completely walled in from the outside world by the Eastern Cordillera Range of the Andes Mountains. The only practicable means for getting persons or manufactured goods into the city or shipping farm produce out is by pack mule over narrow and perilous mountain trails. Yet in and around Bucaramanga, Graham Brothers trucks and commercial cars are being operated in large numbers on a net work of roads which abruptly end at the mountain confines of the valley.

These trucks and commercial cars are being operated in large numbers on a net work of roads which abruptly end at the mountain confines of the valley. These trucks and commercial cars—40 of which were imported during the last year, were brought into the valley like everything else—on muleback.

The trucks were disassembled and parts weighing about 140 pounds assigned to each mule. Large units like the motor were carried by two to four mules hitched together. The trip by mule-pack over the mountains requires 10 to 14 days.

Though the cost of freightage is heavy, including ocean, river and rail transportation before the last "legs" of the journey, the trucks have added greatly to the prosperity of the valley, the Dodge Brothers dealer in Bucaramanga reports. The number of Graham Brothers trucks operated in Bucaramanga far exceeds that of any other make, rough roads and heavy grades requiring transportation units of rugged construction and high power.

Oversize Tire Best For Longer Mileage Says Local Dealer

"The use of oversize tires will enable many motorists to get much greater satisfaction and longer mileage than with regular tires," says W. A. Patrick of the Seminole Tire Shop, dealers in Firestone Tires in Sanford.

"Motor cars are equipped with tires that are ample for any ordinary use, provided they are inflated to the correct pressure. However, most motorists abuse their tires by overloading them and through failure to keep them pumped up." "Oversizing allows a much greater margin of safety, and in the long run justifies the added expense. There are many advantages to using oversize tires, including more comfortable riding, better braking with less tendency to skid, and less tire trouble. The larger tire is not so easily cut or bruised and the tread wears much longer.

"Last but not least, the oversize tire will average for greater mileage, which in terms of cost per mile, means economy. In tires as in everything else, it pays to buy dependable quality. Firestone tires has long been the leader in that field," Mr. Patrick concluded.

Radio Program Of Goodrich Tire Co. Has Been Changed

"Beginning Wednesday, June 29, the Goodrich radio hour will be on a new schedule," says C. E. Myers local Goodrich Silvertown Dealer. "Their programs will be heard thereafter on Wednesday evenings instead of Thursday and the hour has been changed to 9:30—10:30 Eastern Standard Time."

"The Goodrich Silvertown Cord Orchestra and the Silver Masked Tenor have become veritable institutions in the radio home. They have been fixtures on the Thursday night radio schedules for nearly three years and this change will doubtless change the plans of many thousands of radio enthusiasts who have religiously tuned in for their Tuesday night favorites."

"The new hour setting brings the Goodrich artists a half hour later for those using Eastern Daylight Saving Time, but in the fall, when the eastern radio stations go back on standard time the program will be heard a half hour earlier since the hour formerly was between 10 and 11."

"Wednesday night was adopted on the new schedule because of the Goodrich Company's desire to have their programs earlier. This could not be done on Thursday night because of the features which occupied time on the air until 16 o'clock. By advancing the night Goodrich secured the 9:30—10:30 period.

The Silvertown Cord Orchestra and Silver Masked Tenor are now heard through 19 radio stations every week and it is estimated, from the comments received at the Goodrich offices, that they have a regular audience of six to eight million people listening in on their weekly concerts."

WASHINGTON LETTER

Grown-up stamp collectors have apparently convinced the government that theirs is a regular calling.

Or perhaps it's just good business judgment on the part of the Postoffice Department, for the department's Philatelic Agency of uncancelled United States collectors.

This agency, whose sole business is sale of stamps to such customers, was established in 1921, known among themselves as philatelists, buy a quantity of each new issue as it comes out. They are also in the market for issues no longer current including all commemorative issues. No true philatelist will allow in his album if he can get a better one, "perfect centers," as they are known to the fraternity, and to the Postoffice, are stamps spaced on all four sides. As soon as a new stamp goes on sale, an adequate supply of "perfect centers" is sent to the Philatelic Agency, which is housed in the Washington Postoffice.

Want Perfect Stamps The department found that collectors were having a terrible time before there was any organized clearing house for them. Postoffice clerks were also having a terrible time, what with requests to pull down all their stamps from the shelves and let the collectors search through them for what they wanted. There was always a scramble at the larger postoffice in other cities when a new stamp came out.

The department came to feel that every one concerned was entitled to more consideration, so, under Postmaster General Will Hays, the new division was opened. The first thing done was to order all postmasters to send back all stamps on hand not of current vintage which might be of special interest to the philatelists, as the department had promised to sell all available issues. This round-up brought in a few stamps on premium—such as the Columbian exposition set—but these were soon gobbled up.

Today the Philatelic Agency receives 10,000 to 12,000 orders a

Book Circulation At Public Library Shows Big Increase In June

The circulation of books at the Public Library in June more than doubled itself over the same record for last year, according to Mrs. Anne Van Ness Brown. This is shown by the fact that 3423 books were loaned this June, while the circulation for last June was 1651, making an increase of 1772 for the month. Of this number, 2285 were borrowed by adults and 1138 by children.

The reading room attendance also showed a decided increase for the month, this June being 585 and last June 358, a total increase of 227, of which 357 were adults and 228 juveniles. 41 new members joined, bringing the total membership up to 2265. The story hour attendance for the month was 122. 139 overdue notices were sent and 167 books mend. The cataloging record shows that 177 books were accessioned and classified, and full catalog cards were typed and made.

Acknowledgment is made for books and magazines donated by the following members: Military Engineer and American Legion Monthly by Charles T. Butler; books of various classes by Mrs. C. W. Carroll, Mrs. L. J. Griffith, Mrs. E. L. Markell, Miss Alice McGlone, Miss Mae McDougal, Jack Aycock and J. H. Hutchinson and the flowers contributed each week by Mrs. Clarence Gantt.

year by mail or wire, both from dealers and collectors in this country and in Europe. Most foreign orders come from Germany. Many American collectors come in person to look over the supply on hand.

The orders are filled in the order of their coming with "perfect centers" and all stamps are sold at face value, regardless of what dealers may charge for them afterward. The agency publishes a list of all stamps available for sale and these date back to 1895.

When a new issue comes out, there are as many as five or six clerks busy filing orders.

The new Lindbergh airmail stamp, of course, was in huge demand by regular collectors and new collectors alike. "We never had a stamp so popular as this one," said Third Assistant Postmaster General Robert S. Regar, whose Division of Stamps includes the Philatelic Agency. "Most commemorative stamps are principally of sectional interest but this one is of interest all over the country. These orders for Lindbergh stamps have come in so fast that we haven't been able to count them yet."

These stamps went on sale simultaneously in St. Louis, as it welcomed the flier home; Detroit, his birthplace; Little Falls, Minn., his home town, and the Philatelic Agency in Washington.

BY ROONEY DUTCHER WASHINGTON—When Postmaster General Harry New commissioned Commander Richard E. Byrd to carry air mail across the Atlantic a dream began to come true in a big way.

New, reminiscing the other day, recalled that as long as ten years ago he had discussed with Byrd the feasibility of an air mail service and other angles of the future of aviation. Both had confidence in the air mail idea.

Byrd was still in naval aviation and New was then a senator from Indiana, trying to sell air mail legislation to colleagues who wouldn't take it very seriously.

The postmaster general claims virtual paternity of the air mail service. He nursed it in infancy and brought it up. It may seem as if he had suddenly laid the child on somebody's doorstep by surrendering the service to private operation, but New doesn't feel that way. It's still the government's mail that's being carried and he predicts a great future for the service.

Your correspondent developed a certain respect for New when he found him in his office, on a warm day, with his vest completely unbuttoned. Other cabinet officers are not to be seen in such a state of undress. Now, if New would only shed his vest completely...

Interesting characters come to Washington from Louisiana, the home of Senator Joseph Ea-gene Randsell, whose dignity and personal rectitude are so great that he is called "Saint Joe." though not to his face.

For instance there is Congressman Whitnell Pugh Martin, who has served one term as a Progressive, one term as a Republican and four terms as a Democrat. He will continue to serve as a Democrat in the Seventieth Congress. It is explained on his behalf that although Republican candidates in Louisiana are as scarce as chicken in a veal stew, his district develops marked Republican tendencies every time there is talk of reducing the sugar tariff.

Then there's Walter Cohen, the state's Negro Republican boss and collector of the port at New Orleans. Cohen, whose father was Jewish, has solidified the vote of his material race and carries the Louisiana Republican delegation in his pocket so he is one of those southern Negro politicians who can have anything he wants. Incidentally, he is credited with considerable ability.

Walter Cohen was in Washington when the Ku Klux Klan agitation was at its height. "I'm sure hope those Kluxers never get after me, because it will be hard going," he remarked. "I'm a Negro, a Jew and a Catholic!"

All of which, somehow, was true.

Jack Gets Down To Business

Here you have Jack Dempsey arriving at White Sulphur Springs, N. Y., to finish training for his battle with Jack Sharkey at New York to decide who is to cross gloves with Tunney for the heavyweight title in the fall. With the ex-champ came his wife, Estelle Taylor (left). They were met by Thom Luther and his family, proprietor of the White Sulphur Springs hotel where the Dempsey camp was established.

Additional plants of seeds is often applied as needed, the amount depending on the nitrogen available in the complete fertilizer used and whether the soil has been previously planted with crops on which large amounts of fertilizer would allow some residual effect. Lime is also needed on these soils and either lime or wood ashes is used to a considerable extent.

The soil, of course, quickly loses its organic matter so that either the celery crop or other vegetable crops planted after it are usually followed by a green manuring crop such as a sugar beet.

As mentioned before, there is comparatively little rainfall during the celery growing season, practically all the moisture being supplied by the sub-irrigating lines. Some rain is considered of value by the growers who feel that the crops are produced best with a limited amount of natural rainfall.

The celery crop is cultivated frequently during the growing season, although since grown during the winter, there is less trouble with weeds at this time. The single row cultivator is commonly used, but only one small tractor used in the section so far, but there are probably others. This was a single wheel type like the Gravelly.

All Celery Papered Like most sections of the North all the celery here is blanched with celery paper placed on edge along the rows and held in place by wires. The time of blanching depends upon weather conditions, but ordinarily ten days or two weeks are allowed. In the latter part of the season as the celery becomes more destructive to seven or eight days or less. The celery paper is used over and over again and with ordinary care lasts four or five years.

Cutting of the crop is usually done with a wheel-hub, this method is rapid, but gets the celery quite dirty so that a number of growers are in favor of hand cutting if they could get their help.

The main work in the celery fields is done entirely by negroes. The larger growers have negroes hired during the season to carry on the main practice, such as fertilizing, cultivating, and so on. At the cutting time a crew of twenty to twenty-five negroes, men women and children, gets the crop ready for market. Such a crew includes seven to eight strippers who remove the outer stalks after the celery has been cut, three graders, who distribute the celery into heaps of the different sizes to be packed, and seven or eight packers, who place the celery in the crates.

These crews are usually hired on a negro foreman or grower or association, the association may provide the cutting crews. A crew of this size can pack about two cars of celery in a day.

The standard celery crate used in this section is 10x10x22 inches. Most of these crates are of the nailed type, although a few shippers are using wire-bound crates. The latter certainly carry the celery through to destination with greater safety and are well liked by the railroads for that reason. However, the labor here is unaccustomed to handling them, so their use is restricted chiefly to a few packing houses where the celery is washed and re-packed. The wire-bound crates are in the nailed type, consisting of the labor of putting together the crates, the wire-bound crate is slightly cheaper.

The major part of the Sanford celery is shipped in the rough, i. e. it is packed dry in the field, the outer stalks showing through the crate and brushed over with a wet white wash brush and the crates are packed directly in refrigerator cars. Five grades are commonly made: 3s, 4s, 5s, 6s and 10s. These numbers refer to the number of dozen packed per crate. Occasionally 2s and 2-1/2s are packed for special trade and shipped as "Jumbo" crates of nine stalks in a crate in the case of 4s, five layers of ten stalks each; 6s six layers of twelve stalks each and so on.

The yield of celery in Sanford, of course, are available just as in other sections of the country. A good yield should run 600 crates or better to the acre, but I have seen many fields this year where the yield has been 800 and yields of better than a thousand crates have been secured. Probably 700 is a good average for fields well cared for. It is interesting to note that the average yield of celery here over a five year period is double that of California.

The cost of production is said to run from $700 to $800 per acre. Growers generally figure that it costs $1.00 to $1.25 per crate to plant the celery in the car ready to roll to market.

Washing and Precooling There was comparatively little washing of celery done until a few years ago when an infestation of celery tyer caused the growers to spray heavily and it was necessary to wash the stalks thoroughly to remove the spray residue and have the pack pass inspection. Since that time, several celery washers have been built and others are under construction now. Many of the growers do not feel that washing pays, but in a course of a few years, I believe that much of the crop will be handled in this manner. The two largest washing plants in the section are owned by Bell Bros. and P. F. Dutton, both of whom precool the celery. The former firm gives only a short precooling before the celery stalks are packed, but the Dutton Company precools thoroughly in the car, just before packing in the car. Bell Bros. are equipped to handle eight cars a day; Dutton ten. In the Dutton precooling the majority of the crates are packed in the field and are placed without repacking in the precooler, here they are immersed in ice water for thirty minutes then carried through an air cooled tunnel to the cars. Both Bell Bros. and P. F. Dutton also packed wrapped celery. The stalks in this case are packed loosely in the field, hauled to the packing point, there washed, the stalks wrapped in the usual way in crates and put through the precooling process. In sizes 3s and 4s, the stalks wrapped singly. With 6s, two stalks are placed in a paper, and with 8s, three stalks.

Certainly one need of the Sanford celery district is more central packing plants where an absolutely uniform product may be put out under standard brands.

It is claimed that it costs at least 25 cents per crate to wash and precool celery so that a premium of more than this amount in the selling price is needed to make the operation profitable. The shipping season for Florida celery runs from January 1 to June 10, with the peak reached in March. This season the peak will probably be reached earlier than normal as shown by the fact that the first week in February 357 cars were shipped 260 more than the same period last year. The increased increase of early type, but partly to the unusually warm weather experienced during January.

The main competition experienced by Florida celery growers is with celery shipped from California, the season there, however, being slightly ahead of Florida; and with stock grown during the summer in the north and held in storage.

Several organizations are located in Sanford to handle the marketing of the celery crop. These include the American Fruit Growers, Florida Vegetable Corporation, Chase & Company and the Sanford Farmers Exchange. There are a number of growers who handle the crops of other farmers as well as their own.

London Is Worried Because Of Many Crumbling Blocks

LONDON June 30.—Why do London's buildings crumble? Every year the masonry of hundreds of buildings crumbles away and tens of thousands are spent in patching up their fronts.

Nearly all London's most famous buildings are suffering from decay. Westminster Abbey is never free from scaffolding, and pieces of stone fall every day from the Houses of Parliament.

The Department of Scientific and Industrial Research has appointed a committee to investigate the cause of the trouble, and if possible find a solution. So far the committee has studied the cause of the decay but has been unable to find a remedy.

The contributing causes of crumbling are the sulphurous acid in London atmosphere through the use of coal fuel, the city's rainwater (which contains carbonic acid, sulfuric acid and ammonium salts) and the presence of bacteria and small plants in the stone. Some of the bacteria and plants are in the stone before it is quarried.

The material mainly used in London buildings—especially of the older type—is limestone, which easily decays from the effects of acid. This sulfur compounds in the air mix with the lime, and this combination causes the decay.

So far no remedy for this decay has been discovered.

Sanford Celery Continues To Lead

By C. RUSSELL MASON

Editor's Note: Through the courtesy of C. Russell Mason and the Market Grower Journal, The Herald reproduces what has been described by prominent local celery growers as the most comprehensive study of the Sanford celery crop that has been published for several years. Mr. Mason, author of articles in the Florida Grower, representative of the Francis Stokes Co. of Philadelphia, and is a keen student of agricultural problems. Mr. Mason spent several months studying the local crop and his story of Sanford celery is the result of considerable efforts to gather the most accurate data.

The Sanford celery section has been spoken of so many times in various publications and the product of this district is so well known on northern markets that "Sanford" has become a by-word with those who have to do with winter celery.

No section can make the progress that has been achieved here without making use of new and modern methods of growing, without having new problems constantly arising and in process of solution. It is, therefore, without much hesitation, that an article on Sanford celery is submitted to Market Growers Journal readers, since I am confident that there are always new angles of interest.

The acreage of celery in the Sanford district this year has been somewhat increased, totaling approximately 3,500 acres. This includes three-fourths of all the celery grown in Florida and causes the state to lead all others in production of this crop. The crop, of course, varies in value according to season and competition, the high-water mark being reached in 1924 when over eight million dollars worth of celery was shipped out of Florida.

A peculiar feature of the growers in this section is the fact that comparatively few of them are native Floridians. Perhaps this is true of most sections of the state, but it only takes a short stay here to find that the growers have been attracted from almost every state in the Union. It is said that once a grower from the North or West "gets sand in his shoes" he is in Florida to stay. At any rate, that seems to be the case with the Sanford farmers. Years of low prices do not discourage the older celery men for they realize that even with this crop they must be paid years to average with the good.

All Celery Land Sub-Irrigated Probably the greatest factor in encouraging celery production in this part of the state has been the possibility of sub-irrigating the land. Most of the soil available for celery is of sandy loam type underlain with a hardpan and with artesian water available at reasonable depth, all of these with the level contour of the land providing ideal conditions for sub-irrigation. The system is too well known to describe in detail, but briefly consists of water mains laid about the higher side of fields, with lateral tile lines every twenty feet to carry water through the cropping areas. Drainage is provided for wet seasons by connecting stop pockets at the ends of the lines with open ditches or with large sewer lines laid below the level of the water mains. However, the celery-growing season is rather dry and there is little danger of flooding except during the early seed bed period.

The wind-breakers are usually left with clearing land in order to protect the celery from winds and drifting sands. The Ovido trucking district contains a considerable area of muck soil.

See "Sub-Irrigation," Univ. of Fla., Bul. 5 (Gainesville, Fla.).

Feed Big Problem Good seed strains is one of the biggest problems with which the celery grower has to deal today. Even after years of strain troubles and the efforts of both growers and seedmen to correct the same there are frequently bad lots of seed used which result in considerable annoyance and much financial loss to the growers.

At the present time there are only two varieties grown to any extent in the Sanford district. The Golden Self-Blanching, also known as the Old Golden, is still preferred by the majority of growers, especially for the main part of the season. The Golden Plume, also known as Wonderful, Special and by a dozen other names, is used to a considerable extent, especially for the early production and that portion of the crop which matures in late spring. The Golden Plume is less subject to black heart than is the Golden Self-Blanching, but seems to become hollow more quickly in mid-season. The Golden Plume is also a more quickly maturing type. Easy blanching is used by an occasional grower for the latest spring crop, maturing in May.

The growers and celery buyers are both particular as to the type of celery. A number of strains this year have shown a high percentage of "sports" tall growing green celery mixed through the Golden. In some fields this "sport" celery has run considerably above 30 per cent.

Another difficulty has been a considerable amount of "green heart." This does not show so prominently in the field, however, the hearts remain green rather than bleaching to the clear yellow of the Golden. Fields have been noted this season where "green heart" ran above 20 per cent.

Premature seeding has caused much trouble in the past. It is said to have been here due primarily to improper seed-growing methods. It has been the custom of some seedmen to grow half mature celery in Florida during the winter then ship this north to northern celery planting time to force along into seed production. The seed is thus produced in little more than a year, and celery is really encouraged to annual, rather than biennial growth. This practice is condemned by experimental men and growers here and for that reason will be largely abandoned by any seedmen who wish to sell celery seed in Florida.

A few of the progressive growers here buy sufficient quantities of seeds for their crop a year in advance, test out an acre or so of celery from this seed and if satisfactory, use the balance of the seed the following year. The seed that is held for the following season is stored in the north since the germination goes down rapidly during the summer months in this climate.

Seed Beds Used The earliest celery is seeded about the first of July with seedling continuing until September. The seed beds are made about 3 1/2 feet across and are covered until the celery is well started with cloth on a light tent frame. Growers formerly allowed a pound of seed to produce enough plants for a acre, but with the better seed of recent years now use from a quarter to a half pound per acre. The seed is usually placed in four-inch rows. The beds are pulled over two or three times as the plants reach a height of four or five inches.

In the Sanford district the celery is set three and a half inches apart in thirty-inch rows, requiring 60,000 plants per acre. Level cultivation is given all the way through. In the Brandon district the double row system is usually used with the plants six inches apart in the row.

The land for celery growing around Sanford is increased in area only a small amount each year, due to the expense of getting the land in shape for this particular crop. The clearing of the land of palmetoes and other growth costs from $175 to $200 an acre, this work usually being done on a contract basis. The first year after clearing a coarse crop such as beans, tomatoes or squash may be grown following which the tile system is installed and celery planted. The first year with celery the ground is often a little rough to get the best results.

Sandy soil of this section is comparatively low in fertility, so that it really serves as little more than a medium to support the plants while a large amount of available plant food is used to encourage growth. Northern growers are accustomed to find celery growers here using three or four tons or more of commercial fertilizer per acre. A complete fertilizer high in nitrogen and potash seems to be needed. Phosphoric acid on the soils here shows little definite influence. Preliminary experiments indicate that a fertilizer containing four to six per cent ammonia, two per cent phosphoric acid and eight to ten per cent potash produces highest yields.

The sources of nitrogen used in such a mixture include both organic and inorganic forms. About a thousand pounds of complete fertilizer may be applied under the rows ten days or so before planting. The balance is distributed by the single row-drill between the rows during the growing season.

Senator Owen On "What Is A Democrat"

Sometime ago we were discussing with a friend the merits and demerits of the two major political parties.

Several days ago we found in the Orlando Reporter-Star a discussion of the same subject, and while our contemporary offered little of its own opinion on the subject, it did quote from another what seems to be an excellent definition of a Democrat.

"One who believes in freedom of speech, in freedom of press, in freedom of religion, in equal rights of every person to life, liberty, and to the pursuit of happiness."

"He favors just laws bearing equally on all classes with special privileges to none. He favors a tariff for revenue, knowing that a tariff for revenue properly drawn is higher than the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad."

"He opposes the republican party, because he believes that that party, in spite of a large liberal membership believing in democratic principles, is really dominated by the influence of national monopolies to the disadvantage of the majority of producers and consumers."

A CASE FOR THE KLAN

The Ku Klux Klan has a peculiar streak in the Toccoa, Ga., flogging case, because the man whipped a woman under her skin was in shreds.

Fair enough. The Klan has an opportunity to do a public service to punish a crowd of beastly men and disabuse the public mind of those who in midnight flogging parties. The only trouble about flogging guilt in all such cases is the invariably appearance of a carelessly woman abbi so perfect that it is suspicious.

YOU READ OF THE Americans flying west over the Pacific to Honolulu. You read now of the magnificent flight to the east by Commander Byrd and his companions.

When this was written Byrd was flying above French farms and cities, going more than 100 miles an hour.

YOU CAN GET AN IDEA of what this flight means reading that Commander Byrd and his men ran through fog so thick they could hardly see the tips of the plane's wings.

BYRD FLEW SOUTH of Ireland, reaching France at Brest, an old fortified seaport on the west coast.

Cardinal Richelieu built a great harbor at Brest, that the British once held more than 50 years. Of Brest it was said, "He is not duke of Brittany, who is not lord of Brest."

Perhaps Byrd remembered that as he flew over, thinking how easily a few flying machines could make themselves "lord of Brest" or any other city.

MUNICIPAL LIBRARY ANNOUNCES NEW BOOKS RECENTLY ADDED

The following books have been recently added to the library.

FICTION
Beechcroft: "Christmas Garland"—A book of parodies in which the author successfully adopts the style of fifteen outstanding modern authors.

Bottoms: "Belated Reckoning"—A story of the love that came to Ellen McDermott at the age of forty-two when she breaks the monotony of her life by visiting Italy.

Byrne: "Brother Saul"—This is a novel based upon the dramatic incidents of Saint Paul's life, with a background of shifting scenes of early days of Christianity.

Chekhov: "The Grasshopper"—Twelve stories by this able Russian author, ranging from the light humorous tales to the almost plotless narrative.

Ervine: "Mrs. Martin's Man"—Remarkable character study of an admirable Irish woman who wisely directs the lives of her children and accepts with a tolerance that is never weary the philanderings of a faithless husband.

Gale: "Birth"—Skillfully pictured is this tragic story of the father and son, with the comfortable, gossipy, petty, small town as a setting.

Lewis: "Elmer Gantry"—An attempt by the author to surpass himself in this widely overrated attack on organized religion.

Nexo: "Ditte"—"Ditte", "Ditte", "Ditte"—A story in three parts translated from the Norwegian, which tells of an almost unbelievably hard life, relieved only by the loving of the heroine. Its power lies in the truth and simplicity of its realism and its poignant, emotional intensity.

Phillipotts: "Circe's Island and The Girl and the Faun"—Two delightfully written stories. The first based on the Odysseus legend; the second an idyl in which a faun falls in love with a shepherdess.

Sabatini: "Mistress Wilding"—A romance of the days of Monmouth's rebellion. Convincing plot filled with rapid action and done in Sabatini's best style.

Sodjwick: "Old Countess"—An English artist and his wife become strangely involved with an evil old countess and a beautiful, French background. Delightful French background.

Tolstoi: "Resurrection"—A strong novel, delineating the author's gospel of brotherhood, in which the aristocrat is brought face to face with a moral problem and its consequences.

Wells: "Undying Fire"—Combines Mr. Wells' two current interests, God and education. The story of a modern Job, whose spirit disintegrates after disaster fails to dampen.

NON-FICTION
Aldis: "Plays for Small Stages"—A group of popular plays suitable for the Little Theater Movement.

Cartwright: "Song Treasury"—A group of well known songs with music, suitable for school assemblies and community choruses.

Clark: "Elements of the Modern Building and Loan Association."—Based upon practical experience and treatment of every known phase of the organization of the building and loan associations.

Funk and Wagnalls New Standard Dictionary—Latest revised edition including all live words of the language in standard speech and literature. Contains 450,000 words.

Lemos: "Applied Art"—Well illustrated book of drawing, painting, design and handicraft, arranged for self instruction.

Marshall: "Story of Human Progress"—Excellent study of the development of society for secondary schools. It deals with primitive man, with the conquest of nature, development of communication and the progress of economic and social ideals.

Moore: "Roads to Childhood"—"Cross-roads to Childhood", "New Roads to Childhood"—Informal reviews of modern children's books and articles on children's literature.

O'Brien: "White Shadows in the South Seas"—This well known writer fascinatingly describes life in the Marquesas Islands, introducing history, folklore, customs and native characteristics.

Orpen: "Outline of Art"—Popular history of art by a distinguished painter, gives a brief account of life of each of the most important artists and a critical appreciation of his work. Illustrated with a large number of reproductions.

Snow: "Theory and Practice of Color"—An interesting book with color charts, expounding the theory of color from the angle of the physicist, the chemist and the artist.

Untermeyer: "Yesterday and Today"—A collection of modern verse designed for the average reader, and appealing to all ages.

Daughters Of King Enjoyable Boat Party On Friday Afternoon

An unusually enjoyable affair was the boating party given Friday evening by the members of the King's Daughters Class of the Methodist Sunday School honoring the new class members.

The class met at the pier at 8 o'clock and enjoyed a delightful cruise about the lake. Music and games were featured during the evening and at a late hour a home-tempered picnic supper with iced watermelons were served.

LAKE MARY

Mrs. A.F. Kemp, who suffered a slight nervous stroke Wednesday afternoon, is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gates, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Flinders, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Staubes and son, formed a congenial party spending Sunday at Coronado Beach.

Prof. and Mrs. R. C. Heslop, accompanied by Mrs. Heslop's parents Mr. and Mrs. Hood, left Wednesday morning in their car for a two week's visit to Athens, Ga. and nearby points.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Younger recently moved into the bungalow next to the Lake Mary Garage. Mr. Younger, who has a wide experience in automobile repair work assumed charge of the Lake Mary Garage on Monday.

Friends of Mrs. J. E. Singletary, who has recently been operated on at the A.C. hospital at Waycross, Ga. will rejoice to hear that her convalescence was so slow that she was taken to the Fernald-Laughton Hospital at Sanford for treatment.

An interesting exhibit at a recent Chamber of Commerce meeting was a guitar manufactured by O. E. Wester from Florida cedar obtained from Lake Jessup hammock. Mrs. Wester rendered several pleasing numbers on this instrument, and Mr. Wester received many congratulations on his ability.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Lake Mary Community Church held its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. E. Cole, with Mrs. W. G. Ferguson as assistant hostess. Mrs. Ferguson, president, was in charge of the meeting.

After the routine business had been voted on, the assistant member another month for the building fund, Mrs. Gleason, Mrs. J. Ring and Mrs. Walter Flinders remain a committee for the next social. The devotional services were in charge of Mrs. W. E. Cole and after the business meeting, a social hour was enjoyed. Delicious refreshments of home-made ice-cream and cake were served by the hostesses.

Mrs. Anna Swanson was agreeably surprised last Tuesday evening, when a number of friends and neighbors called to extend their congratulations upon her seventy-first birthday. Music was enjoyed throughout the evening and refreshments served by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. N. H. Bradock.

Mrs. Swanson's many friends wish her continued good health and many happy years to come.

A number of ladies of the Lake Mary Methodist Church met at the church on Tuesday afternoon and organized a Missionary Society, with the following officers: Mrs. Albert Ericson, president; Mrs. Clarence Moran, vice-president; Mrs. H. D. Durant, treasurer, and Mrs. Fred Holt, secretary.

Meetings will be held regularly the third Tuesday of each month.

Modern Woodmen of America, District No. 68, will hold a fourth of July celebration at DeLeon Springs, beginning with an announcement by Albert E. Robinson, Jr., District Deputy, to which neighbors are invited to come and bring their basket. The programme included sports, lunch and a lecture on Woodcraft by Neighbor C. E. Bullock, State Deputy Head Consul.

Mrs. Clarence Moran was pleasantly surprised on Saturday evening when a large number of friends gathered at the Community Building to extend their best wishes on the occasion being Mrs. Moran's birthday. Music and games were enjoyed throughout the evening, and a large birthday cake lighted following the games. Delicious refreshments were served, consisting of ice-cream and home made cakes. The winner of the bean contest was Mrs. Frank Evans. Mrs. Moran was the recipient of many lovely gifts, and guests departed at a late hour wishing her many more happy birthdays to come.

The day's events will begin at 10:00 A.M., and there will be swimming, races and games and contests, with valuable prizes awarded the winners of the various features. A fish dinner will be served at 1:00 P.M., and ladies are requested to bring baskets to supplement dinner. The fun will continue into the evening, when a concert and dancing will be enjoyed at the Community Hall. Residents of Lake Mary are invited to attend. J. A. Peckham of Lake Mary is a member of the Shoppers' committee arranging this picnic.

Miss Francis Thompson, small daughter of Rev. and Mrs. James Thompson, entertained a number of young friends at the home of her parents on Crystal Lake Avenue on Friday afternoon, the occasion being her third birthday. The afternoon passed merrily with children's games. At the close of the afternoon, a table was brought in bearing a beautiful birthday cake, surrounded by animal cookies mounted on frosted cakes, and a color scheme of pink and white carried out in the cake and table decorations. Miss Frances blew out the candles, and refreshments of ice-cream, cake and candies were served. Each little tot was presented with a colored paper favor, which when opened was found to contain butts and trinkets. Little Miss Frances received many lovely remembrances, and many good wishes for the years to come.

Miss Mary Whitaker and Mrs. Theodora Cachere were joint hostesses at the home of Miss Whitaker on Crystal Lake Tuesday evening, when they entertained a number of friends at a Children's Party. Each of the guests arrived dressed as children, and upon the arrival of each boy was given half of a playing card, with which to find the girl having the other half which was to be his partner throughout the evening. After a short prom session, each "child" repeated a nursery rhyme, following which old-fashioned games were played. Refreshments of ice-cream, cookies and lolly-pops were served, following which dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

French President Eulogizes Atlantic Aiators In Paris

would be up to Commander Byrd after he got in touch with officials of the American Trans-Oceanic Company, sponsors of the flight.

The trip from Caen was a triumphant procession. Crowds were gathered at every stop. The fliers leaned out and shook hands with windows and at many stations those who pressed about the window panes.

Byrd and his companions were kept busy all along the route autographing cards and pictures for their admirers.

Near Evreux the train passed a boat train bound for the liner Aquitania which is enroute to Cherbourg. The passengers gave the fliers a real American cheer.

All along the route from Caen crowds that were going on week-end trips deliberately missed their trains in order to get a glimpse of the fliers.

When the train pulled in the station was jammed with people, every vantage point being occupied. Employees, who had first choice of locations, were established at strategic spots and others were perched high up on the girders in the station. Smoke from the engines threw soot all over the railroad employees but they did not mind.

One of the first to greet the fliers was Charles A. Levine another famous flier, who with Clarence Chamberlin, recently made a non-stop flight from New York to Germany.

"Congratulations," said Levine, rushing up and shaking Byrd vigorously by the hand. Levine explained that he had lost Chamberlin somewhere in the crowd.

The fliers were taken from the station through huge throngs of people, to the Continental Hotel. There they appeared on the balcony of the Continental, which was decorated with American and French flags.

Five thousands persons in the streets below cheered them wildly. The fliers acknowledged the welcome with bows and waves of their hands. The cheering was continuous.

Finally, the fliers left the balcony, went to their rooms, bathed, shaved and prepared for a luncheon in their honor at the Inter-Allied Club given by Sheldon Litehouse, American charge d'affaires.

The streets were so jammed with people that it required half an hour for the automobile containing the fliers to make the trip from the railroad station to the Continental. Every window along the route was occupied and people leaned out nervously to get a glimpse of the fliers and to cheer them. The fliers' car was preceded by four automobiles containing officials and decorated with flags.

Byrd received the French car-representatives in his hotel room.

"We are very glad to be in France," said Byrd. "We wish to thank the French people for the wonderful reception they have given us. The welcome was overwhelming and a little disconcerting."

Mrs. John Marshall of Virginia, Byrd's home, and up to the fliers in the Continental and embraced him. "Your cousin, Mary, and your uncle, William, who loves you better than anyone in the world, wanted me to embrace you for them," she said.

CAEN, FRANCE, July 2.—(INS)—Fully recovered from their adventurous flight from New York to France, during which they flew for 19 hours through storms and fog without a sight of land, sea or sky, Commander Richard E. Byrd, of the airplane America and his three companions, Bert Acosta, Lieut. G. O. Noville and Lieut. Bert Balchen departed by train for Paris at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

Only a few persons knew the time of the Americans' departure and consequently there was only a small crowd at the railway station. But they cheered with a will as the Americans boarded the train and it drew away from the depot.

Noville, who comes of French parentage and can speak some French, stuck his head from a compartment window as the train moved off and shouted: "A une autre fois."

The Americans had been the over night guests of M. Selinas prefect of the Department of Calvados at the prefecture.

They had been guests of honor at a small dinner at the prefectorial palace last night, but were in bed by 10:30 o'clock for all were tired out by the strenuous voyage they had just made, especially the latter stages of it when they cruised for hours after hour through fog, wind and rain without knowing where they were.

In spite of the strain and fatigue the fliers were up at 7:30 this morning, looking much rested. They enjoyed a hearty breakfast of ham and eggs, peaches, strawberries, cherries, good home made bread and coffee.

Before leaving the prefecture for the railway station in an automobile Commander Byrd in behalf of himself and his fellow air voyagers, thanked the good people of Caen for their kindnesses. At the same time Byrd delivered a sack of United States mail to American Consul Samuel H. Wiley, who is stationed at Cherbourg.

Although the mail sack had been immersed when the America plunged into the English Channel yesterday morning, it was waterproof and the contents were not damaged.

At the railway station Commander Byrd was kept busy during the interval of waiting for his train autographing cards for admiring residents of Caen.

Prefect Selinas outdid himself entertaining the fliers who arrived from Ver-sur-Mer at 7:15 o'clock last evening. After the dinner at the prefectorial palace the Americans appeared upon the balcony in response to shouted demands from a huge crowd which filled the street.

Commander Byrd made a few remarks in English saying: "We believe that our flight represents an advance in the science of aviation. The first trans-Atlantic plane carried only one man (Lindbergh). The second carried two men (Chamberlin and Levine). Our plane carried four. Also, proof of American and French friendship is the fact that, although we might have planned a longer flight, we always meant to come to France."

The speech was translated into French so that the people in the street could understand it.

Lieut. Balchen happened to fare badly in the distribution of clothing to the fliers at Ver-sur-Mer. The prefect noticed Balchen was shivering as he stood upon the balcony and insisted upon taking off his coat and giving it to the Norwegian-American flier. Reluctantly Balchen accepted it. Before his departure Balchen tried to return it, but the prefect waved him off, saying:

"It is an honor to me if you will continue to wear my coat. Balchen wore the coat to Paris."

While here Commander Byrd received a message of congratulation from his wife, in reply to the cablegram he sent yesterday morning announcing he was safe.

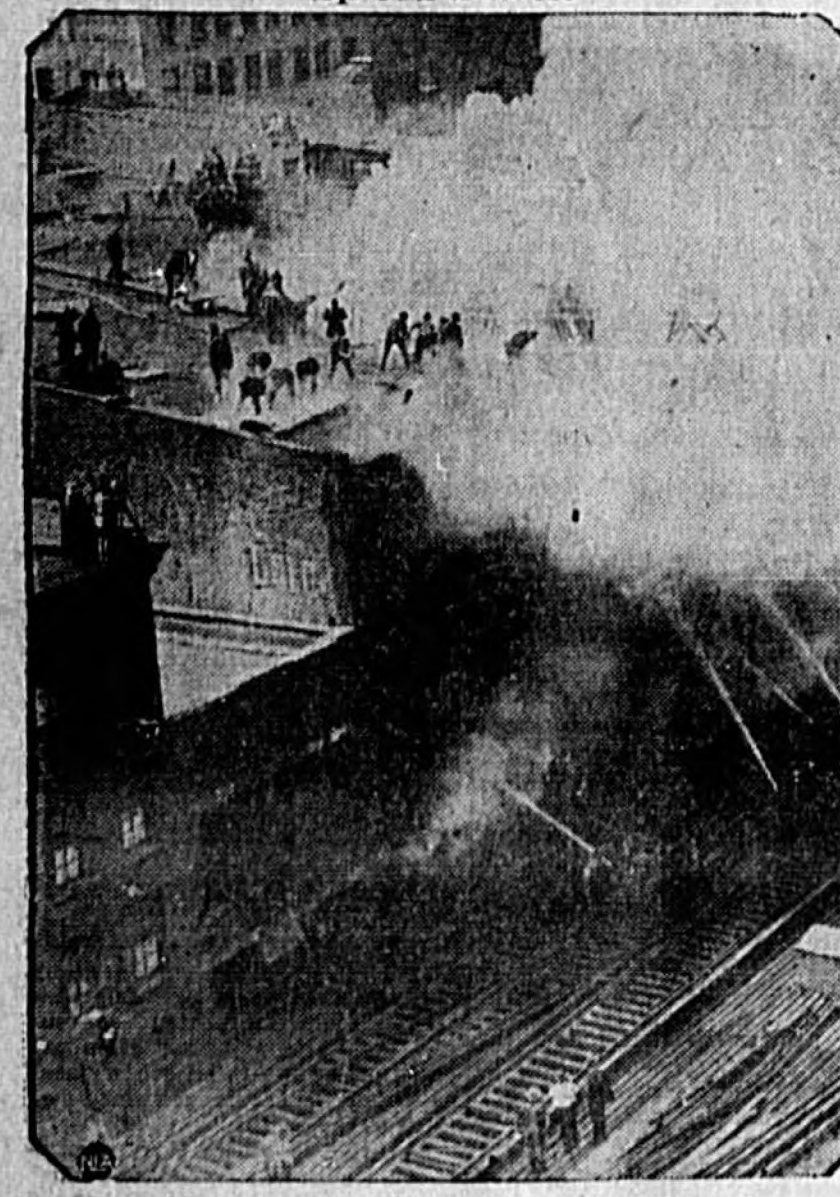

Byrd and Noville went to the luncheon at the Inter-Allied Club attended in white summer dress uniforms which had preceded them to Paris.

Sanford Takes Two In A Row Through A Victory Friday, 8-2

Sluggers Fall Upon Sproul In Sixth To Count Six Runs In Second Of Series

Frisbie's Home Run Is Feature

Heavy Hitting Brings Victory To Cusack; Dunbar Also Stars

After Lefty Sproul had held the Celery-men hitless for the first five innings while the Smokers were scoring twice off the offerings of George Cusack, with the aid of two Sanford errors, Manager Lee Crowe came in to hit in the sixth and notified his boys that hits were badly needed if they expected to score runs, and that runs were absolutely necessary if one expected to win ball games.

It was then that Sproul began to crumble. Mutt Riddle led off with a scratch hit through short, Cusack followed with a Texas leaguer over third. Dunbar waited on four wide ones and the bases were densely populated. Frisbie delivered with a scratch hit through second and Riddle scored. Beasley singled to right and Cusack and Dunbar singled. Pug Allen turned around to the right side of the plate and crashed a long triple to left center scoring Frisbie and Beasley. Crowe smashed a hot one to Buckley who fumbled the ball while Allen scored. Crowe went out stealing. Meyer went out Buckley to Hambo but Frank Bailey singled to left. Riddle, batting for the second time in the inning, flied to left. During the latter part of the inning Craig was rapidly warming up to come to Sproul's relief but he didn't get right in time to prevent the damage.

In the eighth, Cusack singled to start things off. Manager Leach sent Craig in to relieve Sproul. Dunbar forced Cusack. Buckley to Innan. Cecil Gray's Frisbie stepped in the plate and met Craig's first pitch, crashing it to right field and going all the way around the bases to score standing up. It was one of the longest hits ever delivered in this field.

Tampa counted in the second when Seehorn led off with a long triple over Beasley's head and Doran singled over second. Tampa scored again in the sixth. After Buckley had walked he went to second on a passed ball and then stole third. Beasley grounded to short and Frisbie threw widely to catch Buckley at the plate and he was safe. Beasley went to second on the play but die there as Edwards and Seehorn were easy outs.

Rid Dunbar made two of the sweetest catches ever seen here. In the third inning he came in behind short to reach down and take Wade's bid for a Texas leaguer off his shoestrings with one hand. In the fourth he repeated by making a long run and catching Beasley's pure triple by a one hand stab just as the ball seemed about to pass him.

TARPONS STAGE 9TH INNING RALLY TO BEAT SAINTS

Hawkins Weakens After Allowing Only Three Hits During First Five Innings; Horneck Banished For His Wrangling

SARASOTA, Fla., July 2.—Sarasota staged a big ninth inning rally at the expense of Hawkins, Saint Hurler, to score four runs and give the Tarpons a 6 to 5 victory over St. Petersburg here today. Until the ninth Hawkins had permitted but three hits, one a scratch. In the final inning the locals collected four safeties including Holder's double. A sacrifice with one out accounted for Sarasota's winning run. Shortstop Horneck of the Tarpons was banished in the sixth run for arguing.

While the Cardinals and Cubs are cutting each other's throats, the Pirates are gradually increasing their lead in the National League pennant race. The Bucs trimmed the Reds yesterday, 5 to 1, and stretched their lead to a game and a half when the World's Champions lost to the Cubs, 6 to 2.

Meanwhile in the American League a hot four-cornered battle for second place is being waged, the latest developments being the rise of the Detroit Tigers to the first division and the flop of the Athletics to fifth place.

The record of the Senators and Yankees reads like the chart of a race. Washington has won eight straight, the Yanks six straight and the Tigers have capped ten of their last eleven starts.

Hill of the Pirates won his eleventh victory in beating Luque of the Reds.

Pitcher Hal Carlson, acquired from the Phillies, is keeping the Cubs in the race single-handed.

Carlson has won every start far his new club. He held to Cards to five hits yesterday while his mates knocked Flint them silly.

Playing in the second of five consecutive double-headers, a greatest endurance test in the history of baseball, the Giants broke even with the Braves again. The opener, a comedy of eight errors, went to Boston, 7 to 6. With Collins on the mound the Giants took the nightcap, 4 to 1, shelling Kent Greenfield off the mound.

Greeny couldn't win for the Giants when he was with them, but since joining the Braves he has won two games for McGraw's men.

Thompson scored from second with the winning run on an infield out as the Phillies beat the Robins in the ninth, 7 to 6, and snapped Dazzy Vance's winning streak. Babe Herman, Brooklyn first baseman, was benched in favor of Ging Hendrick.

Handley, Washington's lanky rookie hurler, held the Athletics to three hits and won, 2 to 1. Ruel made four hits.

Gehrig's 26th homer featured the Yankees', 7 to 4, victory over Boston. The Sox have lost thirteen straight, only seven behind the league record.

The tigers slaughtered Cleveland, 10 to 5. George Grant, rookie pitcher who won his first start recently for the Indians, was kayoed. Thirty-four hits were made as the Browns took a 14 to 12 slugfest from the White Sox. Pinch hit.

Rickard Must Stage World Title Bout In Gotham Or Be Suspended By Commission

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 1.—Tex Rickard either will hold the fight for the heavyweight championship of the world in New York, dropping all idea of a Chicago site, or he will suffer the probable penalty of an indefinite suspension as a promoter in this state.

That prediction was made to the writer today by a man whose right to speak his mind cannot be questioned. He said that Rickard's stenographic conversation with commissioners Farley and Muldoon promising New York the championship in exchange for a $27,500 rate on ringside seats at the Dempsey-Sharkey fight, was on the commission's records in black and white.

Rickard denied that he made such a promise after the meeting in question and the writer knows he is merely stating a fact in saying the promoter already has more or less active plans under way to take the big fight to Chicago. If he does, the tip is that Rickard's holdings will suffer heavily in New York, either through his personal suspension or that of the Madison Square Garden Corporation or both.

Muldoon, according to the present story, was most insistent upon getting a downright declaration from Rickard before listening to the latter's $27,500 ideas about Dempsey and Sharkey. As a matter of fact I am told that the board considered a $22 "top" sufficient and enough for this fight but decided to play ball as long as

Dempsey Will Work Hard For Few Days Before He Takes Rest At His Camp

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, N. Y., July 2.—(INS)—Jack Dempsey plans to work steadily for the next four or five days before taking another day of rest. He will cling to his program of boxing little men and continue to work out his ring problems in his own way regardless of criticism.

Dempsey feels that he hasn't been sized up right by the experts who have seen him in action only once or twice because he wasn't knocking his sparring partners down and was encouraging them to land while he attempted a weaving defense. He naturally did not look like a man who is ready to win an important heavyweight bout.

"I feel a hundred per cent better when I left here for Atlantic City last summer and I feel just as good as I did in Philadelphia," Dempsey said.

"I just bluffed my way through those last two weeks of training for Tunney, sick or well. I wish all my opponents were as soft as I was that night in Philadelphia. I know that if Tunney had been that way and I had been anywhere near right I would have knocked him out easily."

Dempsey agrees with Leo Flynn his manager, that he needs to tune up on fast men. There are no fast heavyweights available so he must take smaller men and of course he cannot punch them as vigorously as he would like to. Punishment slows them up and he probably would have to import a fresh crew every few days if he cut loose with them.

There is talk that Flynn will bring Jack Dempsey up here for the last week. Renault is boxing in Kansas City on July 4. He was the only sparring partner to attack with Dempsey when Jack was training for Carpenter in 1921 and his style is something like Sharkey's. However, Renault has ambitions to come back as a heavyweight contender himself and probably won't like the idea of merely providing background for Dempsey.

Flynn may bring Bud Gorman up later. Certainly Dempsey must have some work against heavy fellows who are hard to get to. He will find Sharkey big and strong and not easy to hit.

Government Surplus Put At $635,809,921

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(INS)—The government surplus for the year ending June 30, was $305,809,921, acting Secretary of the Treasury O. L. Mills announced today.

Ordinary receipts amounted to $1,120,000,000, while expenditures were $3,493,000,000.

The public debt at the close of the fiscal year was $17,511,000,000 a reduction of $1,131,800,000 for STUART—Seminole Bank reopened here recently.

ATLANTA, July 2.—(INS)—After losing two straight to the Crackers, Birmingham knocked Atlanta pitchers out of the box and won easily, 9 to 1.

Tatt's homer in the 11th gave a 11 to 10 victory over Memphis, the game being featured by hard hitting. Five other homers were made, two by Black and one each by Kern, Taylor and McKeen.

Icy Caldwell held Chattanooga in check and Little Rock won, 10 to 4. Morgan, New Orleans right fielder, dropped an easy fly and gave Mobile the break that won a close one from the Pels, 2 to 11.
