vate individuals. Much of this land, he said, is land held by the government in the first instance and has continued in the ownership of the government because no one else wants it.
On the other hand, Herlong said, there has been land acquisition by almost every department or agency of the government. Although many of the tracts are small in size, he said, they dot the entire country and its insular possessions.
In many instances, Herlong continued, this land is located in cities where land values are high, and it is kept off the local and state tax rolls. Presently, he said much of it is in excess of the needs of the government for the particular use to which it is being put.
Herlong said it would be far better if most of this land was turned back into private ownership where it could be utilized in building the community and pay its fair share of the taxes. The same is true, he said, of much rural land purchased by the Federal government in the last 30 years.
The Florida congressman said he appreciated the need for government ownership of certain parcels of land, but when this acreage is not properly utilized or serving an effective purpose, it is unfair for the taxpayers in a town or community to carry the added burden that would be borne by these Federal holdings.
In some instances, Herlong said, requests are made of the Federal government to make grants to the cities or communities in lieu of the taxes which would be paid if West coast and the Gulf.

It is expected that hundreds of people will appear at the hearing to express their opinions, backed up with factual material on the benefits from the new project.
Representing the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and Seminole County will be Judge Ernest Housholder; Mayor David Gatchel will represent the City of Sanford; Volle A. Williams Jr. will represent the boating interests of the area; Chairman A. D. Mims will represent the Orange County Board of Commissioners; Lt. Cdr. Woods will represent the Orange County Chamber of Commerce; Commissioner Simpson will represent the Lake County Commissioners; James Banks and Raymond Green will represent Winter Park. Also to be represented will be the City of Orlando and Volusia County. It is expected that the both will send numerous representatives to the hearing.
Lester Bush will be in Sanford to represent the Putnam County Chamber of Commerce. Admiral Fortson is expected here for the hearing. Others expected include the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, Canaveral Port Authority, and boating groups from the entire area.
Earl Brown will represent the St. Johns-Indian River Improvement Association. Brown, president of the group, has spent much time in the interests of the Sanford-Titusville Canal.
A. W. Lee, chairman of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Waterways Committee will attend the hearing to be held at the Mayfair Inn. Lee has made the canal his topmost project for a number of years and has been one of its most enthusiastic supporters.
The St. Johns River, according to boating enthusiasts from many parts of the country, is considered one of the finest cruises in America. However, it is seldom visited because of the dead-end at Sanford.

It was only three and one-half months ago that Vallaki completed his training as a bombardier, although he has been in the Navy for 18 years. Born in Simpson, Penn., he is married, has one boy, Eddie, and resides at 180 Laurel Drive, Sanford.
The third crewman, Sandefur, is also a novice, having finished his training only two months ago. He hails from San Angelo, Texas, is married and has two children and also resides in Sanford.
CDR. L. B. Libbey, Commanding Officer of VAH-7, congratulated his winning crew at morning quarters. He was especially proud of Vallaki, who had served as third crewman for the previous skipper, CDR T. T. Guillory, and himself. Of the crew he had this to say, "The difficult we do immediately, but the impossible took four days in this case."

Car Crashes Into ACL Train; Three Escape Injury

A 1956 Chrysler coupe was "completely demolished" said Florida Highway Patrol Trooper T. Mark Mack, when it crashed into an Atlantic Coastline Train Saturday morning shortly before noon at the Forest City Crossing near the Vogate Packing House.
The three occupants, Albert Sidney Ketter, 21, of Route 2, Maitland, the driver; Nelladane O'Brien, 1320 Clay St., Orlando; and Larry Fisher, 34, West Parr, Orlando; miraculously escaped without injury, said Trooper Mack.
The automobile was traveling north and the train west "when the car smashed into the train practically nose to nose" said the Trooper.
The train crew consisted of F. L. Dampier, J. M. Williams, J. R. Adams, W. F. McTeer, and Shade Randolph.
Keller was trying the car out figuring that he would trade for it, according to the FHP Trooper. It skidded 27 yards, hit the train, then bounced back 24 yards off the west side of the highway, according to the officer's report. The train was moving at a speed of 19 to 15 miles per hour.
Trooper Mack said that Keller is charged with "excessive speed." Another accident, said Trooper Mack, occurred Friday night at approximately 9 p.m. when Carl Williams, of Sanford, accompanied by Mrs. Williams and two guests, attempted to turn into the driveway of Lake Catherine Court at the Dog Track Road when a 1956 Plymouth sedan, driven by Clyde LeRoy Green, 22, of Titusville, smashed into the rear of Williams' 1954 Lincoln sedan.
Damage of $75 was estimated to the Lincoln and $425 to the Chevrolet.
Green was charged with Reckless Driving, said Trooper Mack.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p.m. this afternoon at Brison Funeral Home with Rev. Dewey N. Ring officiating.
Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Dog Poisoning Reported In Area

A widespread poisoning of dogs has apparently erupted up in a west Third St. section, according to one of the residents who reported the incident.
Mrs. W. H. Kramer, of 1810 West Third St. said Saturday that she had found her dog apparently poisoned with what she termed "strychnine" at about 6:30 a.m. Friday morning.
About 90 minutes later, a dog belonging to William LeFlin, was found in the same area poisoned and again at 11 a.m. Friday night another dog belonging to Billy Frank was found. Mrs. Kramer reported that the Frank's dog had been poisoned with "arsenic."
Mrs. Franks said that on Saturday morning about 11 a.m. another dog was found poisoned.
She said "this is the third time my dog has been poisoned since last November."
"The dogs that are being poisoned," she said, "are not vicious and neither do they run too far."
"We are becoming frightened now because the dogs are getting the poison from either meat or candy and if it is the latter children may get hold of it," Mrs. Kramer reported to The Sanford Herald.
"Children might pick up the poisoned candy, if that is the way they are poisoning the dogs and they'll be terribly sick," she said.
"All of the dogs are pets and none of them are known to bark excessively," Mrs. Kramer said.

Prospects Dim For Early Okay On Docks, Terminals

Willson Remains At Post

City Fathers Take First Step Towards Vehicle Usage Tax

Top News In Brief

WASHINGTON 9P — Albert P. Morano R-Conn. asked President Eisenhower today to make "the most strenuous protest" against the "barbarism" of the Communist puppet regime in Hungary.

WASHINGTON 9P — Two top GOP members of the House Rules Committee predicted today the House would pass the administration's civil rights bill by mid-May. But prospects of Senate action on the bill this year remained uncertain.

TEHRAN, Iran 9P — Pakistan handed over bandit King Dad Shah's two brothers Tuesday to face trial and possibly the firing squad for the murder of three Americans in Iran. Indications mounted that Dad Shah, the hated and feared leader of gangsterism in Persian Baluchistan, may have cheated the executioner by killing himself.

Prospects dimmed at last night's Board of Sanford City Commissioners meeting for an early decision approving a Docks and Terminals Project for Sanford.

A motion proposed and made by Commissioner A. L. Willson was withdrawn when objections were raised to the pledging of the city's utility tax for the proposed terminal and warehouse facilities. Both Commissioner F. D. Scott and Mayor David Gatchel opposed to the pledging of the tax at the present time.

U of F Students Give Talks Monday At Club Luncheon

Rotarians, at the regularly weekly meeting, were greatly impressed, according to President Dr. Charles L. Person, with the two University of Florida students, who appeared under the auspices of the Speakers' Bureau of the Blue Key Society, honor group of the university.

Miss Martha Webb and Joe Chapman, of Lakeland and Panama City, respectively, are the members of the local business and professional club an insight into the various departments of the Gainesville establishment and made it very definite that the University of Florida is YOUR University.

Miss Webb, a graduate student in Journalism, member of the senior class and Hall of Fame emphasized the three major objectives of the school: teaching, research and extension facilities. She covered in a "well-delivered" manner, each of the items and was given an ovation at the conclusion of her remarks.

Chapman, president of the Freshman Class, majoring in industrial science, showed possibilities as a speaker and future politician according to Myron "Silko" Reck, program chairman for the day, who made the introductions.

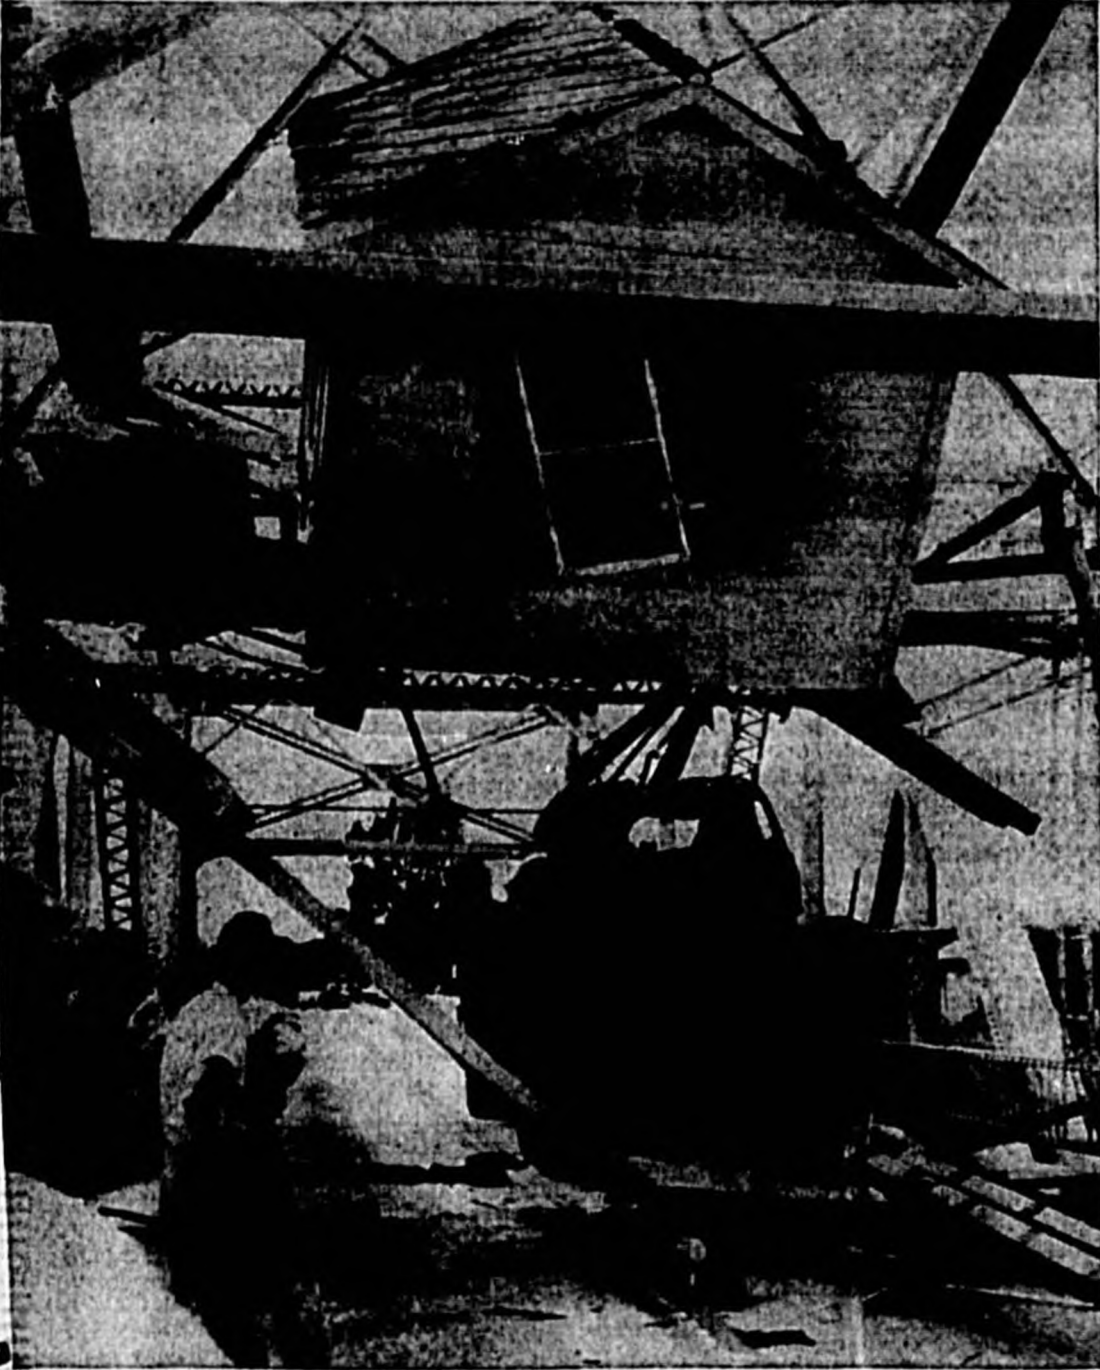

Charlie Morrison offered the invocation and with the aid of Harry Kudell led the club singing.

Monroe Bridge Is Reopened; $25,000 Damage Estimated

The Lake Monroe bridge on State Road 15-600 has been reopened to vehicle traffic following the crash yesterday, shortly before noon, of an 18-foot boom which tore into the midsection of the span.

Estimates yesterday placed the damage at near $25,000 when two steel girders were torn completely out of the bridge structure and another was badly damaged.

The boom, four feet above the 14-foot clearance, also tore out the housing in the top section of the bridge. The frame housing fell completely away from the girders which held it in place and also damaged electrical equipment used in opening the bridge for marine traffic.

Rerouting of traffic through Osteen and Enterprise for north-south travel was discontinued late yesterday afternoon when debris was cleared from the bridge.

T. Mark Mack, Florida Highway Patrol Trooper, investigating the accident, placed charges of reckless driving willful and wanton and overweight load against Charlie Johnson, Negro truck driver of Bunnell.

The Ford V-8 semi truck and trailer were loaded with heavy equipment and was traveling south at the time of the accident. They were owned by C. B. King, sawmill operator.

Field Consultant To Visit County TB Assn. Tomorrow

Mrs. Florence Abel, Field Consultant of the Florida Tuberculosis & Health Association, will visit the Seminole County TB & Health Association tomorrow.

Mrs. Abel arrived in Florida in January and assumed her position as field consultant for PTHA. She will serve the East Coast counties. Mrs. Abel came from Astoria, Ore., where she was executive secretary of the Olaso Tuberculosis & Health Association since 1944.

A former Wisconsin school teacher, Mrs. Abel has taken, in addition to academic work in education, special courses in group dynamics and human relations, and in community organization.

She has served on the National Conference of Tuberculosis Workers' Health Education Advisory Committee to the NTA and on the Materials Committee of NCTW.

No Action Is Taken On Proposed Tax Hike

TALLAHASSEE 9P — Three hours of arguing Monday night produced no action on a proposal to hike the tax on oranges two cents per box in order to gain more funds for advertising Florida citrus products.

A joint meeting of the House and Senate citrus committees was told by a spokesman for the Florida Canners Assn. that the state should improve the quality of its citrus before spending more money to advertise it.

"We have this year grown the poorest crop of packing oranges ever grown in Florida," said Robert Wooten of Tampa, general manager of Pasco Packing Co., and spokesman for the canners group, which is opposing the tax increase.

Representatives of the Citrus Commission and Florida Citrus Mutual, which endorsed the increase, did not defend the quality but argued that additional advertising funds are necessary to move next year's citrus crop.

Fifteen other industry measures came up during the hearing, but none was acted on. House Committee Chairman Dick Williams, Hardee County, said his group planned to vote on the measures Thursday and Senate Chairman Douglas Stenstrom, Sanford, hoped to have a vote on the bills "sometime this week."

The tax bill would also have to be passed by the House.

Water Pump Found With Stolen Goods

Sheriff Luther Hobby is holding a Fairbanks-Morse centrifugal type water pump which was recovered by a sheriff's deputy while searching for other stolen property.

The pump has not been identified but is believed to have been stolen within the past few weeks and abandoned in a weed field near Altamonte Springs.

The equipment is described as being a five inch industrial unit bearing serial 5658666, model 5532 and is estimated to be valued at $750.

Deputy Sheriff H. S. Smart discovered the unit while searching the area for other stolen merchandise.

A suspect has been placed under a $1,000 bond pending other investigation. In the meantime, Sheriff J. Luther Hobby has requested that if anyone has information concerning the equipment being held at the county jail for identification, to get in touch with the Seminole County Sheriff's Office.

Over 100 Youths Turn Out Monday For 'Little League'

More than a hundred youngsters turned out yesterday afternoon to take part in "Little League" baseball at Pinecrest School.

The idea was started by Mrs. Michael Carlo when she was approached more than two weeks ago by youngsters in the neighborhood to help out in supervising their baseball play.

"There were so many boys who wanted to play that for one person to handle them would have been impossible," said Mrs. Carlo whose husband is attached to the Navy at the Sanford Naval Air Station.

"Things began to shape up last week when we had a meeting that included a number of fathers of boys who were anxious to play. Attending the meeting, besides myself, were J. L. Markham, E. L. Vineyard, A. E. Grell, Michael Carlo and others.

Anderson To Take Complete Rest

Sandy Anderson, manager of the Sanford State Farmers Market, has been advised by his physician to take a complete rest.

The disastrous fire at the Sanford State Farmers Market last Thursday morning has apparently overtaxed Sandy Anderson and the complete rest has been advised following the strenuous four-day period in attempting to get the market reconstruction plans underway.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

CHAPTER 36

"DON'T be so proud of yourself, Steve," I said. "Tell me what it was in the recording that tipped you off that Leone murdered Anita."

"It was all in the Stubby tape," said Steve. "Do you remember what a struggle Anita had to keep Stubby from passing out?"

"Yes."

"At one point, before she'd get him to admit he had killed his partner, she said she had some 'lovely Scotch' in the kitchen. She suggested a drink; she thought that might keep Stubby awake and talking."

"I remember that, yes."

"Did she go and make the drinks?"

"No... she couldn't have. She never left the room."

"That's right. The conversation between Anita and Stubby was continuous; she didn't leave him for a second. Yet a few minutes later they each had a drink of that Scotch that was in the kitchen."

"Yes," I said. "Someone else got it for them?"

"Stubby was too drunk to realize it, but he and Anita weren't alone in the apartment. Leone was there, listening from a bedroom. And when Anita decided help to keep Stubby talking, she cooperated. She got the Scotch, slipped it to Anita. Then there was something else that indicated a third person... the phone call at the end of the tape. It came after Stubby had conked out. Anita answered the phone and said, 'Who is it? Oh, just a minute...' The caller wanted to speak to someone else... Leone Webb."

"But how could you be sure it was Leone?"

"That was on the Stubby tape, too. When was that recording made, Connie? What date?"

"No date was mentioned," I said.

"Not directly," Steve said. "You're being proud of yourself again."

"Barton," Bolling said, "it's all right. You can be proud of yourself again."

"Thanks, well, Leone lived with Anita for a while, so she was obvious vote for the accomplice. But, specifically, Connie, remember what Stubby kept muttering about? Tonight's the night to get drunk, everybody ought to get drunk, their duty. And he said he had reservations someplace, hardest place in town to get reservations that night... but he got them. Well, what night's that?"

"New Year's Eve, of course! What else?"

"Sure, and what else do we know happened on New Year's Eve?"

"Of course! Oliver Bell proposed to Leone!"

"Over the telephone, remember... shortly after midnight."

"And that's when that recording was made! Anita told Stubby by what time it was... not quite twelve-thirty."

"Sure. That was Oliver Bell who telephoned. He wished Anita a happy New Year and asked to speak to Leone."

"I understand. If he ever heard that recording he'd know that his lovely bride-to-be was an active accomplice in a blackmailing racket."

"That's right," Steve said. "And what was the use of that to blackmail her old partner, Leone killed her. She wasn't going to lose Oliver Bell... not only because she was fond of him. Mr. Bell owns a million dollar business."

"Barton," Bolling said, "you make a very quickly disappearing Martini."

"The kitchen is right..."

"I know," Bolling said. "Excuse me."

"Leone and Anita," I said. "A charming pair."

"They started their blackmail racket together," Steve said. "As receptionist at the school, Leone was in a position to steer all the vulnerable-looking, wealthier type students to Anita, who took it from there. When Leone had finally hooked Oliver Bell, she dissolved the partnership. It was all very amicable. In fact, Leone and Anita remained friends until just a few days ago... when Anita must have suddenly realized she had an unsuspected gold mine on those tapes. She thought she could bleed Leone dry, but she thought wrong. Leone knew too much about blackmail to let herself become a victim. She devised a quick plan for killing Anita in which she thought she'd never be suspected... shooting her from the ceiling."

"And blaming it on you, Steve."

"No, that just happened. The first time she had a legitimate excuse to leave the reception room between classes, she took it. She escorted a new student to Bell for an interview... that took only a moment... then she beat it up to the catwalk. No one questioned her absence from her desk. It was all over, the murderer was obviously Anita's last student, and Leone was safe. Nobody was ever going to blackmail her."

"But could Anita really have blackmailed her? If she'd played that Stubby recording for Mr. Bell, he'd know that she was in the racket, too," I said.

"Yeah," Bolling said. He put the pitcher down on the console table and stirred its contents. "I talked to Miss Webb about that. Anita pointed out to her that Bell would fire her, that's all. He would never have let it be known that his school had been a recruiting place for blackmail victims. That's a bad for business, and that guy Bell likes business. Another Martini, Mrs. Barton?"

"At least," I said.

"These will last longer. There's more of them."

"So that's now it was," Steve said. "Was Leone's story to me about a recording of Oliver Bell and Anita true?"

"Not a word of it," Steve said. "She had to explain to you what she was doing at Hinebeck Place, why she wanted those tapes. She wasn't particularly worried about them after the murder. She knew where they were hidden and she had a key to the apartment. The first chance she got she went down to Hinebeck Place, but I chased her out before she could get the one she really wanted... the Stubby one."

"And when you informed the lady that you had that tape," Bolling said, "you almost cooked your own goose."

"Oh," I said. "Yes. She knew I had the means to figure out she was the killer."

"Exactly, Mrs. Barton. She had to get rid of you."

"But she didn't," I said gratefully, "thanks to you two boys. Please pass the Martini. I'm going to drink a dozen of each of you."

"I doubt it," Steve said.

"I'm going to do my best. You deserve it, you two."

I did pretty well. The next time things really got back into focus, I was in the Rosewood Room. I was having a wonderful time celebrating my fifth wedding anniversary. I was even celebrating it with, of all people, my husband.

And we were dancing. That was hard for me to realize... that Steve was dancing, Steve and I, we were dancing. I snuggled closer to him and closed my eyes. We were dancing.

Then, suddenly, my blood ran cold. Steve was waiting! People would see him, they would know who he was. I listened for the cry of recognition... "The Waltzer!" I tried to disengage myself from him, but he held me tighter.

I opened my eyes. The floor was crowded with couples. The music was a waltz, everyone was waiting.

Rescuers pleaded with him for two hours, but the young father, an elevator operator at the hotel, said he could not face "family troubles." What Does The Doctor's Little Black Bag Hold?

By MERRAN N. BUNDSEN, M.D.

EVER wonder what your doctor carries in that little bag of his? It's a pretty much up to the individual doctor to decide what he may need on any specific call or for his general daily visits. But I think you'll find that most doctors carry at least some, if not all, of the following instruments and diagnostic equipment.

Body Sounds
They carry a stethoscope, of course, for listening to a patient's heart, breathing and other body sounds. A thermometer to check temperatures is an essential piece of equipment. There will be tongue depressors, too, and probably an ophthalmoscope to inspect the eyes—and an otoscope to check the outer ear. A sphygmomanometer, while it may be difficult to pronounce, is also an important piece of equipment. It measures blood pressure.

Sterile Instruments
Sterile syringes and needles for administering injections of penicillin and other drugs and sterile surgical instruments for emergencies are usually found in the doctor's bag. Of course, there also will be sterile bandages, cotton balls and applicators, adhesive tape, a tourniquet and maybe a reflex hammer and rubber gloves.

Variety of Medicines
As for medicines, there is a wide range. But usually, the general practitioner will carry some of the following:
Codeine and demoral for coughing and pain, epinephrine for allergic shock and asthma, hypnotics and sedatives, nitroglycerin and aminophylline for angina and coronary trouble, digitalis and derivatives for other heart ailments, antihistamines for hayfever and certain allergies, procaine as a local anesthetic, various antiseptics, and aspirin. These, then, comprise the myriads of serious contents of your doctor's little black bag.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Mrs. L. D. C.: Can the inhalation of ammonia by a 3-month pregnant woman cause any harm to the fetus?
Answer: Whether or not the harmful would depend upon the amount of ammonia inhaled. If you do not have any noticeable effects at present it is unlikely that any permanent damage has been produced.

Registered Cows Get Recognition From Cattle Club

Nine registered Jersey cows owned by Fairglade Jerseys, Geneva, recently received special recognition from The American Jersey Cattle Club for their production records.

The highest producing animal in the group was B. D. Nona Pepper with an official Herd Improvement Registry record of 10,635 lbs. milk containing 515 lbs. fat in 305 days. This cow started her record at the age of 3 years and 1 month.

The actual records of the other cows attained or exceeded a level of 6,984 lbs. milk and 336 lbs. fat. Their ages varied from 1 year and 7 months to 11 years.

The University of Florida supervised the official HIR tests in cooperation with The American Jersey Cattle Club which has headquarters in Columbus, Ohio.

Christmas Comes Early For Young Leukemia Victim

CALHOUN, Ga. (AP)—Christmas has come in the spring for all 8-year-old leukemia victim here, not expected to live until next December.

Tony Williams, a freckled youngster with red hair, already is watching television through the efforts of friends. And other gifts are to come.

The child lives with his mother, Mrs. Mandell Williams, who supports Tony and two other children on an $80 weekly welfare check. Her husband abandoned the family eight years ago.

Tony is bedridden and requires two transfusions weekly. Doctors say he has only a few short months to live.

Neighbors say Tony's greatest pleasure is watching television, but he also likes to get cards and letters.

Try and Stop Me

RECEIVED IN THE MAIL: this unsigned poem. Does anyone know who wrote it? I—and some readers—would like to know:

Grandmother, on a winter's day, milked the cows, slopped the hogs, saddled the mule, and got the children off to school; did a washing, mopped the floors, washed the windows, and did some chores; cooked a dish of home dried fruit, pressed her husband's Sunday suit, swept the parlor, made the bed, baked a dozen loaves of bread; split some firewood and lugged it in, enough to fill the kitchen bin; cleaned the lamps and put in oil, stewed some apples she thought would spoil; churned the butter, baked a cake, then exclaimed, "For goodness sake, the calves have got out of the pen!" and went out and chased them in again; gathered the eggs and locked the stable, back to the house and set the table; cooked a supper that was delicious, and afterwards washed up all the dishes; fed the cat and sprinkled the clothes, mended a basketful of hose; then opened the organ and began to play, "When You Come to the End of a Perfect Day."

Cancer Institute Plans Expansion

Plans to greatly expand its service to all Florida in the fight against the world's dread disease were announced today along with a building fund campaign to virtually quadruple the size of the cancer institute at Miami. Charles L. Sykes, Miami insurance man and president of the institute, said the goal of the campaign is $602,000, with pledges payable over a three-year period. It is anticipated that this goal will enable the institute to take care of its expansion needs over the next five years. "This is one of those rare campaigns where every penny raised in Florida stays right here in Florida," said Sykes. "We can be proud that we have one of the world's leading cancer cytology centers right here in Florida, and we must realize that when we contribute to its expansion, we are very possibly contributing to an extension of our own life expectancy." Dr. J. Ernest Ayes, director of the cancer institute at Miami, is a pioneer in the field of cancer cytology center of its own. The Zenith center mails all its tests to the Miami institute for diagnosis. Sykes said a chairman and campaign committee for the building fund will be announced "in the near future."

Rapid Progress Being Made In Ballistic Missile Development

A United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Such rapid progress is being made in developing 1,500-mile ballistic missiles that the first ones may be assigned to military forces by the end of this year or early in 1958.

Some of the missiles might be made available to Britain at the same time in line with the "agreement in principle" reached at Bermuda by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

This assessment was obtained from high-ranking military sources in a position to know about American progress in development of the IRBM intermediate range ballistic missile and other weapons of the future.

The Bermuda developments and the elevation of Air Force Secretary Donald A. Quarles, a scientist and mathematician, to deputy defense secretary appeared to mark a second "new look" at military forces, bringing up to date a major modernization started in 1953.

Ten Minutes to Moscow
 Military sources said the IRBM will be as vital to Britain's needs as the ICBM intercontinental ballistic missile to America's. The intermediate range weapon would greatly reinforce Britain's ability to deter war.

The IRBM, these sources say, could reach Moscow from British launching sites in about 10 minutes.

The United States will not, and cannot under the law, supply Britain with atomic warheads. But it was made clear at Bermuda that such warheads will be stored at U.S. bases in Britain and could quickly be fitted to the guided missiles if hostilities broke out.

The rapid progress reported with the IRBM high lights advances in the whole guided missile field in this country.

For the first time, as expenditures for missiles continue to reach new records, military services are beginning to install missile units and eliminate conventional forces in their stead.

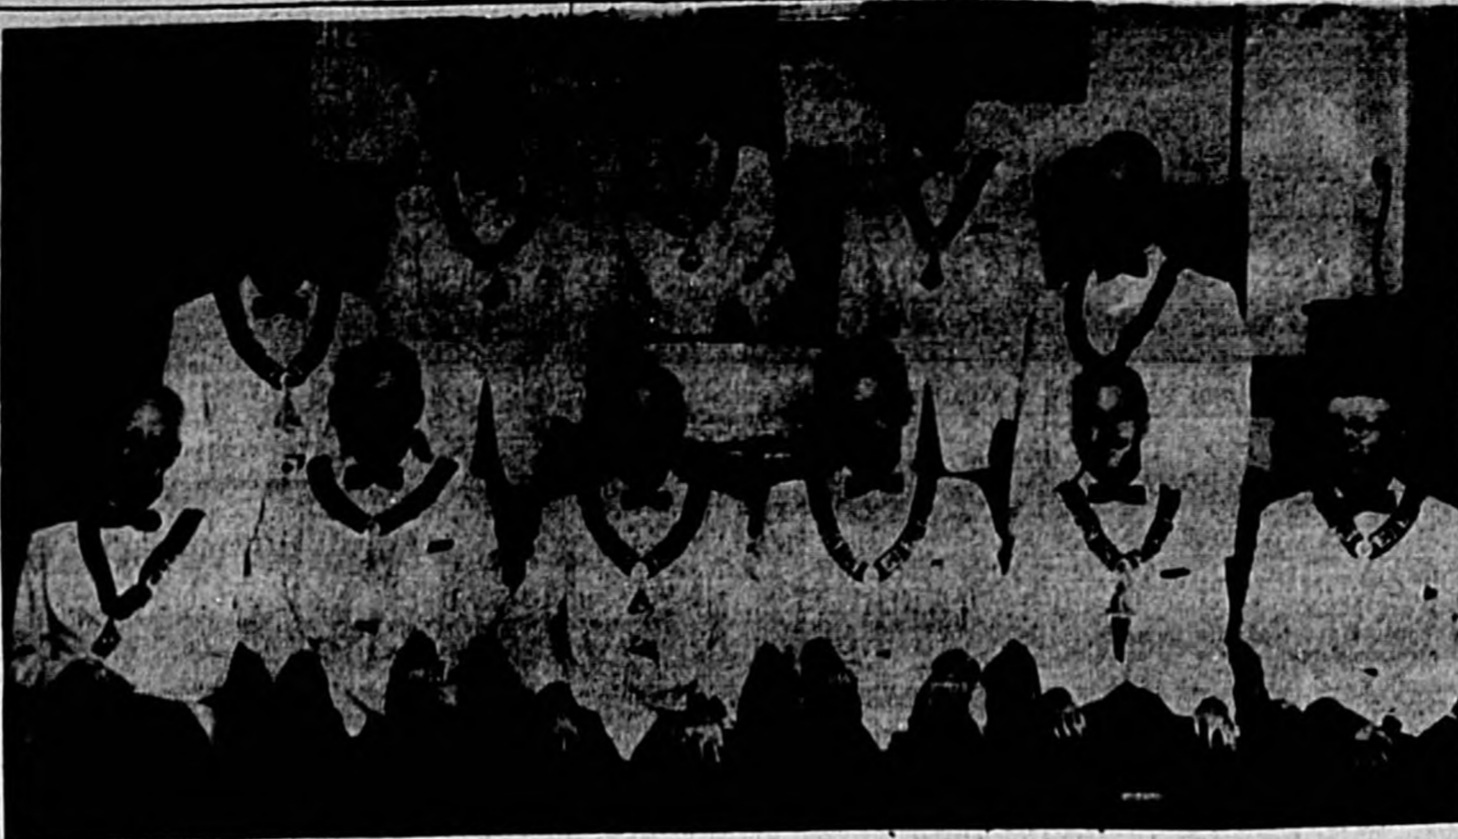

Changes in Services
 The Air Force, for example, in the year starting July 1 will drop six wings of piloted fighters and light bombers from its Tactical Air Command because the Army now has missiles to take over much of its own ground support.

The Army has all but eliminated anti-aircraft guns as the number of anti-aircraft missile launching sites increases across the land. In about a year Nike missiles will have atomic warheads.

The Navy, in some instances well ahead of the other services, is replacing guns with missiles and atomic explosives, and conventional propulsion with nuclear power which enables ships to remain at sea indefinitely.

The revolution in weapons has already caused the Eisenhower administration to cut U.S. armed forces by 800,000 men. It is now considered sound speculation that the current force of 2,800,000 men may be cut to 2,500,000 by 1961.

A "REEL" DEMOTION
HOLLYWOOD — Film maker Mervyn LeRoy finally persuaded Air Force Master Sgt. Albert Williams to accept a part in "No Time for Sergeants," a film on which Williams is a technical adviser. Williams reluctantly accepted a role of a corporal.

NECESSARY BUT ATTRACTIVE STORAGE UNITS

Train your children to be neat by providing them with the facilities of storing away their toys, picture and story books, and phonograph records. Empty, up-turned orange crates are ideal for this purpose, as they can be grouped together in a row or in a corner arrangement, to save space. They're low enough for the children to reach easily, and can be attractive additions to a room if painted in bright colors or covered with wall-paper to match or contrast with the decor of the room.

Knowland Thinks Time For Another 'Great Debate'

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland thinks it's about time for another "great debate" on foreign policy.

So far, the issue which is bothering him has not aroused any fervor for debate on either side of the political aisle by men of comparable stature. But it could come when Congress considers the administration's foreign aid program and perhaps when the Senate reviews the treaty to put the United States in an international atoms-for-peace agency.

Knowland is troubled because he believes the administration is moving toward a "Communist Marshall Plan," a program of aid for the Russian satellites of Eastern Europe.

Against Polish Aid
 Since early winter he has been sounding alarms on this subject. More recently and more specifically, he has protested against offers of aid to Poland in negotiations last month.

He also dissented from the administration on one provision of a bill passed by the Senate this week. The provisions would permit the administration to barter surplus farm products to Iron Curtain countries for strategic materials.

Knowland said the Communist countries could buy agricultural products from the United States with dollars, if they wished, thereby reducing the dollars available to international Communism for subversive action against this nation.

Senate Votes Favorably
 The Senate voted against Knowland on this issue, 54-23. GOP Senators split almost down the middle with 21 supporting his amendment and 19 opposing it.

The California senator, who often has foreign policy disputes with the administration, argues that any help to the satellites gives at least indirect help to Russia. He also has suggested that any such help would mean either enlarging the overall foreign aid program or subtracting from the aid given to U. S. allies and neutrals.

The other side of the argument is that any moves to provide aid for the Soviet satellites would be intended to encourage their independence from Russia—an argument Knowland will not buy.

INVOLUNTARY TOW
SALT LAKE CITY — After locking bumpers with the car ahead of him at a red light, Peyton Omokundra got out to investigate, then watched in dismay as the front car drove off, pulling his auto behind it. Omokundra flagged down a passing motorist and caught up with driver Chris Wetzel who admitted, "I thought I felt something dragging."
