125 Americans Annually

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission said today that aerosol products kill an estimated 125 Americans annually, most of them young people who deliberately inhale everything from spray paint to deodorant to produce a "high."

The commission's estimate, based on examination of death certificates nationwide, was prepared for a meeting with industry leaders today to determine whether federa action is needed to curb aerosol abuse.

Aerosols are also under attack because of suspicions their fluorocarbon propellants may harm the earth's ozone, which shields the planet from ultraviolet radiation The industry has denied this.

Manufacturers and inventors were asked to describe what has been accomplished since hearings 13 months ago to discourage intentional misuse, prevent accidental spraying into the eyes and determine potentially harmful effects from long-term use and exposure.

John Wayne Recuperating

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) -- Actor John Wayne is recuperating from a case of pneumonia and is battling with doctors who want him to stay in the bospital fo several more days, his son says. "Actually, it's nothing serious," said actor-producer

Michael Wayne Thursday. "Not a recurrence of anything else." Doctors say the veteran actor is completely cured of the lung cancer he suffered several years ago. Wayne, 67, underwent two days of tests at Hoas Memorial Hospital here after experiencing chest cold symptoms for several days, his son said. Doctors diagnosed his condition as "walking pneumonia" and are treating it with antibiotics. The younger Wayne said his father's physicians advised him to spend several more days in the hospital, "but he won't stay."

Save Millions

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - A bill that Atty. Gen Robert Shevin says could save Florida consumers $100 million annual ly by repealing the Fair Trade Law is on its way to Gov. Reubin Askew.

The House completed legislative action on the bill (SB166) Thursday, passing the measure, 103-0.

Askew is expected to sign the bill into law. The Fair Trade Law, enacted in the 1930s, fixes prices on a wide variety of brand nahe products such as appliances. televisions, stereos and cosmetics and makes it illegal to offer discounts. Opponents of the law have charged that it keeps prices 25 to 30 per cent higher than they would be if merchants were allowed to set their own prices

Inflation Not Licked Yet

The relatively small increase in the consumer price index for March gives the impression that the United States of America is making some headway against inflation. Consumer prices rose only threetenths of one per cent during the month, which would give us an annual inflation rate of 3.6 per cent if prices behaved in the same way for 12 months in a row.

No one believes they will, however. The rosy cheeks in the March price index resulted mainly from a drop in food prices, which have seasonal ups and downs and were on a downswing in March. Food prices are among the few that respond relatively quickly to the seasons, the weather and acts of God. Inflation is influenced much more by acts of Congress, the Federal Reserve Board, regulatory agencies, foreign oil barons, labor unions, corporate directors and even the consumer himself, who can still decide whether to pay what the seller demands for a piece of goods.

During March the price of automobiles, houses, clothing, medical care and many other items continued to rise. The recession has brought some wholesale prices down, but not to a degree that would lay inflation to rest. Economic indicators now suggest that the recession is bottoming out, while tax cuts and a huge federal deficit will be adding stimulus to the recovery anticipated later this year. The nation's preoccupation with fighting recession does not mean that the old enemy of inflation has gone away.

The "war on inflation" that President Ford declared last fall turned out to be the shortest war America has ever fought. By the end of the year, Mr. Ford had discarded the concept of a tax increase and a balanced budget, along with those "WIN" buttons expressing a determination to Whip Inflation Now. While he concluded that the peril of a deepening recession demanded that course, he then was confronted with a Congress that carried his anti-recession proposals to reckless extremes. He reluctantly signed a tax cut bill bigger than he deemed necessary, and it is clear he is so specialized in his knowledge of questionable whether Congress will sustain history he is baffled by political systems and the vetos he will have to employ to keep the federal deficit within the $60 billion limit he regards as trategies not employed in Metternich's Europe. Letter To The Editor noninflationary.

America has ridden out recessions before, but it has never faced a problem as complex and him in Yenan, North China, when that village persistent as the inflationary forces still at work in was Mao Tse-tung's headquarters. "You our economy. Federal deficits, declining Americans think of war as war and peace as productivity and developments affecting both the peace," he said. President Ford's WIN buttons went out of fashion so quickly that they have become the that the fate of the agreements signed with subject of Washington humor, but if Congress and others who make economic decisions do not get their priorities in order, inflation will have the last

Getting Head Start

With Congress dragging its feet on legislation to deal with Additional proof lies in the SALT I and the problem of illegal aliens, a Chicago firm has struck out on its Vladivostok understandings, so filled with own to discourage illicit border traffic.

National Can Corp. has announced initiation of policies aimed at reducing the employment opportunities that lure jobseekers from foreign lands.

The company will list on all work application forms the question, "Do you have the legal right to be in this country?

Signs will be posted in each of its 62 plants nationwide, informing workers that plants will be open for regular immigration inspection. Leonard Chapman, commissioner of the U.S. Immigration Service, agreed that illogal aliens would soon be detected through regular inspections and that publicity given to the company's program would persuade them to avoid National Can.

The goal, of course, is more jobs for the force of U.S. unemployed. Chapman beleives that a concerted effort by all esses could open up more than one million jobs in a matter of months.

No 'Hello - how was your day' - or anything! Right away you've gotta launch into some women's lib thing!"

When things get tough, we have a tendency to strike out at someone else ..... it's always "their" fault: not ever our own. Right? For example, take the terrible calamity presently befalling this country with the Vietnamese refugees coming to the U.S. Tsk. tsk!

First off, there's no denying that we should take care of our own. (But then, who is and who is not our own?)Yes, we do have many people out of work. And yes, we should help them to feed their families ..... However, don't be misled into thinking that there isn't enough of the good ole US of A to go around folks. Things really aren't that bad .... honest!

I'm reminded of the article I had in this column back on the 9th of March in which I referred to an item appearing in the All Souls church bulletin. "If the world were a global village of 100 people. 70 of them would be unable to read, and only one would have a college education. More than 50 would live in what we call substandard housing.

But we shall never know, so long as Kissinger is at the State Department, what blunders he will commit out of ignorance, or what agreements he will make based on flawed analysis. For it is now

Despite what he has written, Kissinger finds this difficult to believe - incredible, considering Communists in Laos, North Korea and in North Vietnam in 1954, are known to everyone who has studied Asia in modern times.

One proof of Kissinger's inability or unwillingness to face reality lies in his pact with Hanoi on South Vietnam, a treaty which have experienced new large shopping centers duplicated the weakest and worst features of the away from downtown. As far as I'm concerned these Vietnamese refugees can't do anything but help this country. It is also appropriate to comment on the efforts of Longwood's Dr. E. Michael Gutman, psychiatrist who has been so active in bringing the refugees into Central Florida.

Notwithstanding the mounting opposition - based on the fear that these 'foreigners' would deprive our own from getting governmental assistance - Gutman took some early abuse, but was able to influence 56 others to sponsor families.

"Sure I had some people call and chew me out," said Gutman, "but after a while the tone of the calls changed and the people realized the refugees coming in had no choice in the matter .... and that they already had suffered so much."

Spurning Mothers

The apple pie market is presumably still holding strong in this country, but motherhood has definitely fallen on hard times.

Late in 1971, Congress passed what one writer described as a tax loophole big enough to drive a truck through - a provision which allowed a working couple earning a combined income as high as $18,000 to deduct as a "business expense" a whopping $4,800 from their income tax for child-care or disabled dependent expenses.

This meant that the working mother struggling along with her husband on a mere $18,000 a year, which is hardly poverty level even today, could have a government - subsidized maid or housekeeper or baby sitter service to the tune of $400 a month. In the 20 per cent bracket. this amounted to $80 a month in actual tax savings.

Working couples with combined incomes as high as $26,400 could also claim partial benefits. depending on the number of their children. No such subsidy was voted for the nonworking mother - the mother not working outside the home, that is - who still outnumbers her salaried sister (though not by much any more). For the truck mentioned above, now read wide-bodied jet. As part of the tax rebate and reform package just passed, beginning in 1976 working couples with combined adjusted gross incomes as high as $35,000 may claim the full $4,800 child-care deduction, and not until their combined incomes reach $44,600 will Uncle Sam leave them to make ends meet on their own.

Again, the "nonworking" mother and her working husband have been given the back of the it. If one tries to satisfy everyone, nothing ever is IRS' hand.

> This is no brief against working mothers. nillions of whom work from necessity, not from choice, and who in many cases are their family's chief wage earners.

Yet the actual effect of the law is to help those amilies who need help least. The mother who drudges over someone else's laundry for a couple of bucks an hour pays so little income tax in any event that the ridiculously ballooned child-care allowance means nothing to her.

Not only that, but thanks to the new law, if she omes off the welfare rolls and goes to work ooking after some other working mother's children, THAT mother can claim an additional 20 per cent tax credit for her wages on top of the $4,800 child-care deduction.

The question is, why should those mothers enjoying combined husband-wife incomes of $20,000 or 30,000 or $40,000 be given such munificently preferential tax treatment, not only as opposed to the poor working mother, but as opposed to those mothers who have decided We reserve, of course, the right to reject any that their real job is in the home? against state sensations, Lake Brantley can hardly compare. Schools from the Miami area have had girls' track teams for years. Lake Brantley and Lyman were the only Seminole County schools with teams last year.

The Patriots already reaped the harvest of that firstyear crop with outstanding performances this year. But Lake Brantley, in general, and county girl track athletes, in particular, are not yet state contenders. "It's only a matter of time," Gibson said. "we'll catch Troy Ann Gaines, Lisa Eberle and Becky Hagel qualified for the state and paced Lake Brantley to the district championship.

Gaines won the 440-yard dash with a time of 61.6. The fastest time run at a state girls' district was 57.5. Eberle was second in the 110-yard high hurdles with a 15.9 clocking. The best run at district was 14.8.

Hagel finished second in the high jump with a leap of 5feet, 1-inch. Three girls jumped five-feet, 4-inches at district

Laverne Boykin of Seminole High School qualified for the state in two events. She won the shot put at district with an effort of 35-feet, 91/2-inches and took second in the discus with a toss of 99-feet, 11-inches. The best at district in the shot put was 40-feet, 11/2-inch,

Merrick, U.S. China Tour Set To Begin

Don Merrick, Seminole Junior College's sensational sprinter, will fly to San Francisco Saturday in the first leg of his two-week track tour of the People's Republic of China. Merrick was selected to be one of three sprinters on the United States track and field team that will make the historic China tour.

He will depart from the Orlando Jetport at McCoy at 8 a.m. Saturday.

Merrick will spend two days in San Francisco with the other team members being indoctrinated for the China trip. The athletes will leave San Francisco May 12 and arrive in Hong Kong May 13.

The first of three track meets will be at Canton on May 18 and 19. The second meet is at Shanghai on May 22 and 23, and the third meet is at Peking on May 27 and 28. The team will return to the United States on May 30.

Terry Long, Merrick's track coach at SJC, said Merrick will run the 100-meter dash and compete on the 400-meter relay team. He will not run the 220-meter dash. Merrick recently was made an honorary Rotarian by the South Seminole Rotary Club and he was invited and attended a Sanford Rotary Club meeting earlier in the week. The DeLand City Council honored Merrick on Monday, reading a proclamation detailing Merrick's track feats and giving him three keys to the City of Orlando to present to each of the three Chinese citites where track meets will be held. An Orlando man, who requested to remain anonymous, and the Sanford Kiwanis Club gave Merrick $100 for the trip. The SJC faculty bought Merrick a camera and film, and also gave im spending money.

While Merrick is running at Shanghai, several SJC athletes will be competing at the national junior college outdoor championships at Houston. Merrick ran his last track meet for SJC last weekend at the state junior college championships at Tallahassee. He set a state record, winning the 220-yard dash (20.9), won the 100-yard dash (9.6) and anchored the winning mile relay team to a state

The record, however, was beaten later in the meet. Merrick is the only athlete to be named most outstanding at the national indoor and outdoor junior college track championships the same year. More State

The state event splashes off at 9 a.m. Saturday with four races and five teams entered, one of which will row as an exhibition event.

Naval Academy Coach Ken Feaster said Winter Park, Edgewater, Howey-in-the-Hills Academy and Sanford Navy would compete for the state title and the right to row in the American Schoolboy Regatta at Princeton, N.J., this month as well as the national tournament at Stotesbury near Philadelphia, Pa., on May 17.

Sanford won the state Varsity-4 championship last year and finished second in the Varsity-8 championship, losing to Winter Park. The Varsity-4 boat went to the Stotesbury and American rowing events, finishing third in the nationals, losing only to two Canadian boats.

The race schedule calls for the Varsity4 championship to begin at 9 a.m. just below the Naval Academy dock off Seminole Blvd., followed at 9:15 a.m. with the Girls Varsity-8 race; the Junior Varsity-8 championship at 9:30 and the Varsity-8 Championship at 10 a.m.

SNA is undefeated in regular competition in the four-man event this year, but lost to Jacksonville Espicopal by one-tenth of a second in a special sprint race last month before winning the Disney World regatta. Winter Park has defeated the Navy's eight-man crew team several times this year and has split with the Junior Varsity eight crew squad over the season.

Feaster indicated that because of adjustments in the personnel of the Varsity four boat and the rig itself, he feit SNA had to be considered a favorite to retain the state four-boat championship.

NEW YORK (AP) - Sports has lost a great champion in the death of Avery Brundage. Critics reviled him. They called him a tyrant. They said he was stiff necked and old fashioned. They accused him of being unrealistic in his unflagging battle to keep high the ideals of pure amateurism. In a way, he was all of these things. He was an anacronism in an age of rampant commercialism, the huckster and the fast-buck. Bundage died Thursday night of a heart attack. He was 87.

But if it hadn't been for Avery Brundage, the Olympic Games might have been reduced to rubble decades ago. Whatever the Olympics are- whatever dignity they have maintained under the intense pressures of super-nationalism, slick wheelers and dealers, athletes seeking to turn gold medals into personal fortunes-they owe to the tough old codger from Chicago. He was an imposing figure of a man-tall, straight as a poker, wearing the muscle physique of an athlete who competed in the same Olympics with the great Jim Thorpe.

Even in his 80s, he walked with a strong, crisp step, his chin usually thrust forward as if daring his enemies to take a swing at it, his shoulders always back. He talked with a booming, authoritative voice. When he spoke, people listened. Many feared him. Most were in awe of him. As president of the International Olympic Committee, he hob-nobbed with princes and potentates, presidents and kings.

To him, the Olympics were something that came down from the gods-down from Mt. Olympus.

Avery Brundage Dead At 87

The Games were not legislated. They were ordained. They were beholden to nobody. In Brundage's mind, they were above politics, personal greed and national pride.

He was criticised for not taking a strong stand against the Soviet Union's policy of sub-idizing athletes. There are no professionals in Russia, but every athlete in effect, is a pro-pampered and paid by the state.

"In the Soviet Union," Brundage said, "everybody is subservient to the state. It is the system. But I see no greater fault in that than the American practice of subsidizing athletes through college scholarships."

When the Arab terrorists moved into the Israeli guarters at the 1972 Munich Olympics, triggering a bloodbath that sickened the world, there were universal cries, "Call off the Games."

When most officials waivered, Brundage stood firm. "The Olympics represent the gathering of the youth of the world," he insisted. "We can not afford to bow to terrorism and hate.

Brundage drew the wrath of the Alpine skiing community because he objected to their flagrant commercialism. He refused to let money changers cheapen the Games. He banned Karl Schranz, the Austrian skier who openly acknowledged that he made $40,000 a year from his skiing interests.

Schranz took his medicine with a stiff upper lip and complained: "Brundage is a rich man. He wants to make the Olympics a sport just for the rich." "What does he know?" Brundage growled.

"He didn't know I was cace a hod carrier."

Tom Rafferty, special assistant to Walker, said

Seminole County's situation is the first one to come up for consideration, regarding the policy. The internal policy states that no staff member of one grantee may serve as chairman of the board another grantee.

'Our experience has been that there is no need the policy," Rafferty said. The aims of both agencies may be well serviced by having a person serving in dual capacity roles. Rafferty said.

Orr said when the 1971 memo was sent to Jones that it would be to the advantage of SEEDCO if Jones remained as the because the two programs were similar. In March Jones received a copy of the regional office memo.

But, when a field supervisor for CSA visited Jones last fall, he discovered Jones in violation of both positions. But Jones and Orr both said that since the two organizations are closely related. Jones is not spread too thin between the positions.

The board of directors of SCA passed i resolution immediately after Jones received the 1971 memo requesting a policy waiver. The resolution was mailed to the CSA office it
