LAKE MARY - The Federal Bureau of Investigation is investigating the circumstances surrounding a traffic stop that occurred last July, that has now led to the suspension with pay of the city's top DUI enforcer.

Lake Mary City Manager John Litton confirmed Saturday, Cpl. Tom Dale, a five-year department veteran, was suspended with pay Wednesday, pending the completion of a city and federal investiga-

"There are things that need to be cleared up before he can come back to work, if he'll come back to work,'

Litton said. Litton said FBI agents have questioned Lake Mary and Sanford police and Seminole County sheritl's officials over the July 26 arrest of Anton Lamar Sanders, of Sanford. The FBI investigates civil rights complaints made to the U.S. Justice Department.

Sanders said Saturday a com-plaint had been filed, but referred further details of the incident and the complaint to his mother, who was unavailable.

"A big predicament was what happened," Sanders said.

Litton said an original investigation completed last October was "inconclusive" regarding any wrongdoings by police during the traffic arrest, which followed a chase from Lake Mary into Sanford and involved law enforcement officials from Lake Mary, Sanford and the sheriff's department in the pursuit.

Subsequent to the original city investigation and following the start of the federal investigation. Litton said "some stories changed a little bit. They became clarified.'

Litton declined to discuss details of the original investigation which has been reopened.

Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriett said Sanders came to the Sanford police department after the See FBI, Page 5A

Support for war remains high

NEW YORK — President Bush maintains a high level of support for his actions the Gulf War, and he has succeeded in pinning blame on Saddam Hussein for the American bombings that killed women and children in Baghdad, polis show.

In explaining why he was rejecting Saddam's peace offer Friday, Bush could preach to a choir of about four out of five Americans who support the war, according to Washington Post-ABC News and USA Today polls taken Thursday night.

A similar 79 percent of the random sample of 772 Americans in the ABC-Post poll re-leased Saturday held Saddam or Iraq responsible for the civilian bombing deaths. Two-thirds said the United States was doing enough to avoid civilian deaths, and 81 percent believed the site was a legitimate military target.

Public opinion analysts generally agree the major threat to Bush's approval rating in the war would be the deaths of thousands of U.S. soldiers in a ground war if Americans don't see it as effective.

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia -Saddam Hussein's first mention of withdrawal from Kuwait came at a strategic moment: his troops were being pummeled from the air and allied forces were repositioning for the expected ground war.

If Saddam was waiting for the last moment to talk peace, this was probably it.

But his gambit backfired because of the numerous unacceptable strings he attached. Allied commanders pledged on Saturday to stick to their game plan and promised no letup in the air war.

A state task force is trying to catch the arsonist who set an alarming rash of 12 church fires in Florida, including Sanford, and a minister says he fears they are looking for someone "angry at God.'

"I can't think of any reason for torching churches of different denominations except for the fact that someone is angry at God," said the Rev. Orville Andersen.

Bank reform: a primer

In proposing the most sweeping overhaul of American's banking system since the Great Depression, the Bush administration is secking to clear away a thicket of antiquated laws and make banks more competitive in the financial marketplace.

Banks are now caught in a crunch between collapsing thrift institutions and the recession. While Congress has been preoc-cupied with bailing out failed savings and loans, the federal fund that insures bank deposits has dropped to dangerously low levels. Many banks, meanwhile, have been reluctant to lend money to their most reliable customers because of the sluggish economy. Combine this with cumbersome, outmoded bank regulations and it's easy to see why banks are having trouble attracting custom-

The Bush administration proposes several steps to allow banks to operate more effectively.

Under the administration's plan, most restrictions on interstate banking would be phased out over three years. This means banks no longer would be held hostage to regional economic slumps. Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady underscored the need for this reform by noting that "a California bank can open a branch in Birmingham, England, but not in Birmingham, Ala."

The administration also would reduce, from four to two, the number of federal agencies that oversee national and state banks. The Federal Reserve Board would supervise state-chartered banks and holding companies. A new federal banking agency would combine the functions of the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency and the Office of Thrift Supervision to monitor national banks

The administration pun would confine the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation to insuring the accounts of individual depositors. The FDIC would, however, still have access to confidential bank reports prepared by examiners and could be granted power to investigate financially troubled banks.

For average depositors, the most farreaching reforms would cover the federal insurance system. Under existing law, individual deposits are guaranteed up to $100,000 per account. The Bush proposal would prevent depositors from receiving coverage in more than two accounts at a single institution.

In limiting the scope of deposit insurance, the administration hopes to protect smaller accounts while lessening the government's exposure to losses. At the same time, the government would retain authority to protect deposits exceeding $100,000 in banks deemed too important to fail.

The FDIC fund has been depleted by more than 800 bank failures during the last four years. To replenish that fund banks may be required to pay a one-time assessment equal to 1 percent of their total deposits. And riskier financial institutions may be required to pay higher insurance premiums. These steps would lessen the prospect that taxpayers will have to cover bank losses as they have S&L

In addition, well-capitalized banks would be permitted to own financial affiliates that self insurance and securities but only the banks themselves would provide deposit insurance. Healthy institutions also would be subject to less stringent federal regulation, while weaker banks would be subject to greater scrutiny.

The Bush reform package would allow banks to provide a wider array of financial services and thereby attract more customers. This flexibility is the surest way to enable banks to compete with other financial institutions that are not constrained by 1930s

Destiny: Abraham, Lyndon and Joh

The destinies of three presidents combined to impact the lives of African Americans and bring dramatic changes to this country. Our sixteenth president, Abraham Lincoln was born February 12, 1809 in Hardin County, Kentucky, John Filzgerald Kennedy was born May 29, 1917 in Brookline, Massachusetts. Lyndon Baines Johnson, our thirty-sixth president, was born August 27, 1908 not far from Johnson City,

It was September 22, 1962 that President Lincoln issued a proclamation declaring: effective January 1, 1863 all persons held as slaves within any state or designated part of a state that was in open rebellion against the United States shall be "thenceforward and forever free." Lincoln promised that the executive government of the United States including the military were pledged to maintain the freedom of such person. December 1, 1862 in his message to Congress, diagrammed his plans for saving the Union. His critical concern was saving the Union and the emancipation of slaves was his vehicle for accomplishing his goal. He reasoned that freeing the slaves would shorten the war, perpetuate peace and increase the population. He was also an avid advocate for the colonization of Negroes an avid advocate for the colonization of Negroes his attitude changed to one of deep personal in Africa. He proposed that an amendment be commitment to civil rights. Exactly a century after Lincoln had been elected a dynamic young man from Massachusetts became president. He inspired millions of Americans and rekindled hope in the bosoms of those long denied access to the American dream. This endorsement of civil rights emanating from the White House and the Justice Department, under the direction of Attorney General Robert Kennedy, gave impetus to the civil rights revolution. Civil rights leaders Roy Wilkins and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. recognized that at the highest levels of government the climate was conducive to social change. At the president's request they both submitted documents to him outlining the need for a second Emancipation Proclamation.

Both Lincoln and Kennedy were assassinated. Kennedy's death thrust Lyndon Baines Johnson into the presidency.

President Johnson has often been called a politician's politician because of, his political expertise. Johnson began his political career as a congressman. He later became a senator and at age 44 became the youngest minority leader in senate history. In 1954 when the Democrats gained control of Congress, he became the majority leader.

In his 1964 inaugural address he challenged Congress to do more for civil rights than the last hundred sessions combined had and to declare an all-out war on human poverty and unemployment. On August 6, 1965, President Johnson signed the Voting Rights Act. Prior to that he signed the Medicare Social Security measure and

A people of many histories

Note: The month of February is designated as "African-American History Month," To mark the 1991 observances, here is the introduction to "The African-American Experience," a series produced by Newspaper Enterprise association.

February suffers from — or is regaled by — celebratory overload: Valentine's Day, Lincoln's birthday. Washington's birthday. Brother and Sisterhood Week (formerly Brotherhood Week) and African-American History Month.

One of the celebrations, African-American History Month, is the probably most ethnocentric. Coming one month after the commemoration of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday, the national almost feels over-ethnicized in February.

African-American History Month can do that to you. News and magazine stories, television and radio features and interminable speeches try to cram the entire African-American experience into 28 days.

Still. 85 years after historian Carter G. Woodson founded "Negro History Week." I'm not sure that he has succeeded in making visible the long ignored contributions of African-Americans on democracy's battlefield.

The average white American knows precious little and cares less abut African-American history. For them. African-American history is King's birthday in January or trail-blazing "firsts" such as Jack Johnson in boxing, Jackie Robinson in baseball or Jesse Jackson running as a major candidate for president.

Yet, African-Americana have demonstrated remarkable political, economic, educational and electronic progress since 1926, the year of the first Negro History Week. In 1991, it is not hyperbolic to suggest that for race relations, this is "the best of times and the worst of times."

We are at each other's ethnic throats over affirmative action, disparate employment and educational progress, a "separate but equal" criminal justice system, conflict over minority scholarships and the crisis of racial violence.

Sixty-five years of celebrating, successively, Negro. Black and African-American History Month hasn't changed the hearts and minds of the average white American. Nor have the celebrations transfigured self-destructive ghetto youth or cured black conservatives of historical amnesia.

I think three deficiencies plague today's celebrations of African-American history:

1. The failure to note the pivotal contributions of those few white "auxiliary brothers" who helped nurture a more interracial democracy (for example, John Brown, Thaddeus Stevens, John Hammond, Branch Rickey and John F. Kennedy).

2. The failure to synthesize African-American history as an "academic crossover." 3. The failure of all Americans to understand the many-splendored sacrifices of African-Americans in forging "a more perfect union."

There is no one African-American history. It It is the history of revolutionaries, from the first interracial rebellion of slaves and white

Indeed, get wisdom by celebrating African-American History Month. But more importantly, "with all they getting, get understanding."

Man due Malaysian execution reprieved

WASHINGTON — Polgnant testimony from an American doctor has yanked Californian Kerry Wiley off death row in Malaysia.

In an unprecedented show of tolerance, a Malaysian judge decided not to hang Wiley for possession of marijuana, a capital crime in Malaysia. The judge listened to Wiley's defense — that he used marijuana to relieve the pain of a childhood back injury suffered when he fell 60 feet off a mountain cliff.

Wiley now has to serve 26 more months in jail. He is appealing the sentence, but counting himself lucky that he saw a rare compassionate side to the tough Malaysian court system.

We first reported on Wiley's wait on death row last Octobeginning of his trip! to the Far East, to the recent courtroom They'd never climax, the case reads like high Anyone caught with more than an ounce of marijuana in Malaysia is executed no exceptions.

Enter former Attorney General Ramacy Clark, now in private practice. He took Wiley's case and flew to Malaysia for a trial that was interrupted by technicalities. Clark returned home and decided to show Malaysia an element of American justice — the medical Clark recruited Dr. Lester Grinspoon, an expert on the medicinal uses of marijuana. "I had so many misgivings about going over there." Grinspoon told our associate Jim Lynch. "They'd never even heard of a medical defense. It was bound to fail."

Grinspoon visited Wiley at the Pudu Prison before the trial resumed. Even Wiley was skeptical that the judge would understand why he had turned to marijuana to ease his chronic back pain.

The judge bristled when Grinspoon appeared in court. He wanted to know why it was necessary to bring a witness halfway around the world for the trial. The case was clear-cut. Wiley was guilty, right? On the stand, Grinspoon told the prosecutor that he had visited Wiley in prison. Did he have permission? No. Grinspoon said. He didn't know he needed permission. The judge said Grinspoon could be arrested himself for that little mistake, and that he would not be allowed to testify. But the prosecutor let the doctor stay on the stand.

The prosecutor asked Grinspoon if all of his knowledge about marijuana came from books. The courtroom quieted and the judge was drawn into Grinspoon's own compelling story. He had watched his son die of leukemia, and the boy's pain was eased by marijuana. Then Grinspoon said marijuana was the drug of choice for some who suffer from back pain, as does Kerry Wiley.

At the age of 12, Wiley fell off a cliff while climbing San Jacinto Peak in California. He spent considerable time in traction, nursing multiple fractures in his arms, shoulders and

The attack came one day after U.S. jets bombed an underground shelter in Baghdad. Iraq said hundreds of civilians were killed; the ailies said it was a military command center and expressed surprise that civilians were inside.

U.S. military officials did not comment Saturday on Iraq's claims about Fallouja, but they claimed Iraq had deliberately blown up at least one civilian building to make it look as though allied planes had bombed it.

'We saw them earlier in the process (war) inflict some damage on a specific building and then allow media access, when we are absolutely certain that damage was not inflicted by coalition forces," Rear Adm. Mike McConnell, intelligence chief for the Joint Chiefs of Staff. said in Washington.

Allied warpienes also struck Baghdad on Saturday. Associated Press correspondent Salah Nasrawi reported from the Iraqi capital. He said ear-piercing explosions of missiles and bombs shook the city while anti-aircraft gunners fired barrage after barrage at the raiding warplanes.

Front-line allied troops also have heard and been joited by heavy bombardment across the border in Kuwait in recent days.

The attacks against Iraqi forces reached a peak before dawn Saturday, when U.S. Marines were rocked in their foxholes as bombs and shells landed on Iraqi positions at the rate of neveral per second, pool reporters said.

Accord helps end minority rule

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - The government and the African National Congress say a new accord has helped clear the way for negotiations on ending white minority rule, although differences remain on some issues.

Researchers closer to contraceptive vaccine

By PAUL RECER AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON - A contraceptive vaccine that causes a woman to become immune to sperm may be ready for testing on humans within two years, a researcher says.

John C. Herr of the University of Virginia said his laboratory has created a vaccine based on a protein found only in sperm that causes the female immune system to develop antibodies that prevent conception.

The protein, called SP-10. has been found in the sperm of a number of mammals. including humans, but it has not been found in female mammals.

"It is a testis specific pro-tein," said Herr, "It has been detected nowhere else."

Herr, speaking at the national meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, said that in tests on rabbits, hamsters and baboons the vaccine was able to prevent eggs from being fertilized.

Unlikemany pharmaceutical contraceplives, the vaccine contains no hormones, which often produce side effects.

The vaccine works by causing the female immune system to build antibodies against SP-10. A similar response is what gives the body protection from disease.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. - Rationed water in cities, a water bank, more money to fight fires and even moving fish downstream by truck are among measures in the governor's $100 million drought plan. "We are operating in a calm, orderly crisis mode," Gov. Pete Wilson said Friday at a news conference announcing the plan.

Wilson promised to use his emergency powers to force the cities to ration if they don't reduce water consumption on their own. He said an average reduction of 50 percent "is a worst-case scenario, but a likely

"A drought of this magnitude will change the way we live. It will cause inconvenience. It will cause anxiety. And it will cause some pain. There is no getting around it, this is the time for sacrifice," Wilson said.

Legislation will be needed to execute certain aspects of the plan. Toward that end, Wilson is extending the Legislature's special session on the budget

March end of the winter rainy season approaches, with rainfall amounts 75 percent below normal. Snowpack in the Sierra Nevada range, a principal water source, also is about 75 percent below normal, and reservoirs are less than one-third normal

Wilson did not say when the erackdown on the cities might begin but a report on many local conservation efforts will be released in two weeks.

The state could be facing its worst fire season ever. Wilson said. About $50 million would bolster firefighting by the state Department of Forestry and Fire Protection.

More firefighters will be needed; on top of the Increased fire danger, the Gulf War has taken thousands of National Guard and Army troops usually available as backups to fight major wildfires.

The plan also would expand the California Conservation Corps, which provides public service jobs for youths, to help with wildlife and firefighting efforts.

As for farmers deprived of supplies from the State Water Project, Wilson said the agency would determine whether flows shows no sign of abating as the can be restored this spring.

By PINL SMITH Herald Correspondent

ORLANDO — Seminole County once again reigns supreme as the dominate power of girls' soccer as the Lyman Greyhounds defeated the Seminole Warhawks 3-2 Saturday evening at Bishop Moore High School to capture the 1991 4A state championship.

Lyman becomes the third consecutive Seminole County high school to win the Class 4A girls' soccer state title, following Lake Mary in 1989 and Lake Brantley in 1990.

'This has become a Seminole County tradition." said Lyman Coach Jim Thompson. "I'm glad we were able to hold up the tradition. This is one of the greatest moments of my life."

The Warhawke broke out of top only four minutes into the match when Michelle Demko made a long run through the Lyman defense and rocketed a shot into the net from 10 yards out to give Seminole a 1-0 lead.

"When they scored, it pumped us up," said Lyman's Adrian Kane. "We wanted it even more and we played with a lot more intensity."

Midway through the first half, Kane scored a pair of goals 2:13 apart. The first came off of a Tracy Sher corner kick. Amy Smith created the second, making a long run down the right wing and threading a pass to Kane, who leapt feet first to the ball and one-timed it into the net.

However, the Warhawks evened the match at 2-2 with only 5:12 remaining in the first half when Demko got to a loose ball in the Lyman penalty box and sent it into the net.

- Jake were playing very aloppy defensive in the first half," said Lyman goalkeeper Becky Carr.

"We weren't marking up at all and we didn't have our heads in the game."

At halftime, Thompson made a defensive switch, having Amy Meyers mark Demko. In the second half, Demko was not a factor.

The match remained tied until Sher made a crossing pass to Danielle Garrett at the top of the 18-yard box. Garrett's shot hit the bottom of the far post and rebounded into the net, giving Lyman a 3-2 lead with only 12:31 remaining.

The Greyhound defense then took control of the match behind the superb play of defenders Meyers, Cindy kirkconnell, Ann Brewer and Jessica Martinson and midfielders Garrett, Sher, Amy Eubanks, and Deborah Larson, not allowing Seminole to set more then 10 yards

Rain, wind, cold create problems

There's nothing like a little rain, a little wind and/or a little cold to wreak havoc with athletic events.

At least five games have been cancelled or postponed over the last three days because of poor weather. The Seminole Community College baseball team has three consecutive games scrapped.

On Thursday, when the Raiders were to play at Valencia Community College, the game was called due to rain. On Friday, when SCC was to play the Florida Southern College "B" team, excessive winds caused the game to be postponed. Extreme cold was the reason for reacheduling the Raiders' Saturday game with Lake City Community College.

SCC will make up its game with Valencia on Feb. 27 while the game with Lake City will now be played on March 27. There was no decision on when or if the game with Florida Southern would be made up.

Also on the diamond, Thursday's rain forced the cancellation of the Seminole-Oviedo game in the baseball tournament t ing played at Lyman. The contest was played Priday with the championship game moved back to Saturday.

Finally, the cold and wind indi-rectly caused the cancellation of Friday night's boys' basketball game between Seminole and Wymore Career.

After the series of electrical blackule caused by downed power lines. Vymore could only get two rows of the lights over the court to come on. After attempts to find another place to play failed, the game was Seminole Coach Greg Robinson said it will be Tuesday before it's decisied whether the game will be rescheduled or not. With the district tournaments less than two weeks away, Robinson said the chances weren't good that the two achools would be able to find a night when

Dexter Vanzant (left) scored 10 points and had seven assists Saturday night to help guide the Seminole Community College Raiders to a 73-71 come-from-behind victory over Valencia Community College.

SANFORD - In his nine years as head basketball coach at Seminole Community College Bill Payne has carned the respect of his peers as being one of the best game coaches in the business. But this year may be his best job yet.

Beturday night at the Health and Physical Education
Center, the undermanned Raiders pulled off a come-from-behind 73-71 triumph over Valencia Community

Brian Nason hit two free throws with 0:02 on the clock to complete the comeback. Lyman graduate Craig Radzak created the game-winning play when he came up with a steal with 0:07 left and fed Nason, who was fouled going for a layup.

The win broke a three-game losing streak and improved SCC's record to 15-13 as they creeped closer to their 25th straight winning season. The Raiders have never had a losing season.

SCC fell behind by as many as 11 points in the first half but fought back to cut the margin to seven. 37-30.

Strong winds and rough seas chill otherwise red-hot fishing season

Late winter/early spring is a frustrating time of year for me, because windy weather is often the norm on the days I have off to go fishing. The fact that the fish are out there waiting just rubs sait in the proverbial

On the salt water scene, the cobia run will start any day. Cape Canaveral and New Smyrna offers some of Florida's best cobia fishing. This run will last a couple of months as thousands of cobia make their annual pilgrimage up the cast coast.

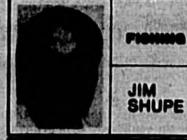

Manta rays and pode of bait offer shelter for the fish as they slowly make their way north. Cobia will often top 50 pounds. and they are powerful fighters and great on the grill. What more can you ask of a fish? more can you ask of a fish?

The year's biggest sea trout will also be caught this time of year before summer heat drives them to the sanctuary of deep holes. Mosquito Lagoon and the Indian and Banana rivers of Cocoa offer some of the top trout fishing in the entire United States. States.

Offshore, grouper and snapper will be holding on wrecks and reefs. Herring and live bait will take some real monsters before these bottom dwellers move into deeper water for the summer.

Wahoo, dolphin and a few blue martin will be roaming the blue water from 120 feet on out. so trollers will be covering vast expanses of water in search of these worthy prizes. In fresh water, bass fishing will remain hot until June, at which time this type of angling will steadily decline until it is cooler once again. Bass fishing is getting tougher and tougher as increasing numbers of anglers pursue this famous fish, but the river couth of Puzzie Lake still offers come great fishing and a little less boat traffic.

In the meantime, I'm poised and waiting - reels have been cleaned and spooled with fresh but look in areas of running snapper and grouper will be line and my boat is in top water where they might school caught on recfs and wrecks in condition. Now, if the weather up. Shad are slow. Try for water less than 120 feet. Cobia would only cooperate on the catfish in deep holes. line and my boat is in top condition. Now, if the weather would only cooperate on the weekends. . . .

SHUPE'S SCOOP All of my tackle and equipment remains in a state of constant readiness and I am ready at an instant's notice for any type of fishing. If I get the word at the last minute that the cohia are thick. I simply grab all of my cohia gear and hit the water. Being prepared has enabled me to take advantage of many last-minute fishing opportunities.

Steve Gard at the Octoon Bridge Pich Camp reports good speck action in shallow and Sebestian Inlet has had some good action with huge winter flounder, many topping the 8-pound mark. Finger muliet is the bait for thee big boys. Redfish will close in March, but most Sebastian reds are over the 27-inch length limit anyhow. Snook season will re-open March I and many anglers will be up at midnight waiting to welcome in the new season.

High seas have kept Captain Jack at Port Cameveral hoping for calmer days. Fishing will be red hot when seas finally subside. Good catches of dolphin and wahoo will be made in 120 deeper water. Bass are spotty, feet of water on out, and big has been much too rough for any reports. To a sound subtraction

Bluefish, sheepshead and flounder are biting in the Pert while trout and reds will be roaming the deeper flats of the Beassa and Indian rivers.

Peace talet has been sloppy, but acton with sheepshead and redfish has been great back in the river. Listen carefully to the marine forecast before you plan a trip, because this inlet can really be dangerous when strong tides and heavy winds meet.

Some giant sheepshead will be caught at the tip of the north jetties when the seas diminish.

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary High School's gymnasium rocked with intensity Friday night when the Lake Brantley Patriots their highly-respected scorer Trevis Certo rolled into two for a Seminole Athletic Conference boys' basketball

In what was expected to be a close, hard-fought contest, the Lake Mary Rams escaped a masterful 27-point performance by Certo en route to a 73-71 victory before an estimated 600 fans.

The win gave Lake Mary a share of the SAC championship for the second consecutive year. The Rams' victory, coupled with Oviedo's 73-56 win over Lake Howell, created a three-way tie for first between Lake Mary, Lake Howell and Oviedo, all with 8-4 conference records.

Last year, Lake Mary and Seminole shared the SAC championship.

Lake Mary almost lost Friday night's topsytury game, which was not clinched until time had expired. With two seconds left, Craig Brock's inbounds pass sailed just past Certo and was intercepted, setting off a wild celebration among Lake Mary fans.

Lake Mary fans.

"(This rivalry) is usually a close one," said an exhausted-looking Lake Mary Coach Willie Richardson, whose team improved to 14-9 overall.

"Every once in a while, (one of us) gets a run going. They have so many three-point shooters that we couldn't make an adjustment. We need to apply a liftle more pressure on the ball.".

That became evident in the first quarter as Lake Brantley ran its way to a 28-22 lead behind Certo's 11 first-quarter points and seven from Jason Vallery.

But Certo, who entered the contest averaging 25 points per game, was held to just a three-pointer in the second quarter as Lake Mary used an effective 1-2-2 defense to close the Patriots' advantage to two points by halftime.

Limited to 10 points in the first half, Merthie exploded for eight in the third quarter and seven in the final period. His back-to-back threepointers in the fourth quarter kept the Rams in the game when it looked like the Patriots were going to put the game away.

Despite being '25 percent better,' Earnhardt still seeks first 500 win

Accorlated Proce

DAYTONA BEACH - Strip away all the prestige, money and notoriety for winning the Daytona 500 and Dale Earnhardt would still do whatever it takes to win the race.

That is why he is a heavy favorite to win NASCAR's premier stock car event Sunday at Daytona International Speedway.

"How good is Earnhardt?" said Junior Johnson, a Hall of Fame driver and successful team owner. "Compared with other drivers today, he's about 25 percent better than they are."

Still, in 12 tries at Daytona, Earnhardt never has won. He was second in 1984 to Cale Yarborough and, last year, after leading 155 of the 200 laps, he lost to Derrike Cope because he ran over a small piece of some-one else's bell housing and shredded a tire halfway through the final lap.

"You think about those things and hurt for a day or so, then you put 'em behind you and try to do what it is you're out there to do," said Earnhardt, who went on to win nine races and his fourth Winston Cup champi-

Other drivers — notably pole-winner Davey Allison and fellow front-row starter Ernic Irvan - have shown power. But Earnhardt has lived up to his reputation as "The Intimidator" during Daytona's Speedweeks.

His qualifying speed on pole day was only sixth-best behind Allison's 195.955 mph, but he was by his own admission 'awesome' in winning the Busch Clash, a race for 1990 pole winners in which Earnhardt at one point rocketed from last to first in the 14-car field in less than two laps around the 21/2-mile oval. The black Chevrolet Lumina was equally dominating Thursday when Earnhardt equalled Allieon's wire-to-wire victory in one of the twin 125-mile qualifying races.

That put Earnhardt alongside seven-time Daytona 500 winner Richard Petty, a surprise in finishing second to Allison in the opening qualifying race, in the second raw of Sunday's 43-car

It will not be surprising if Earnhardt goes to the front shortly after the start of the $2 million race.

But the hard-driving Earnhardt takes nothing for granted.

"We may have intimidated them, but we're man and machine and man and machine machine and man and machine make mistakes." Earnhardt said. "We're going to have to work hard on every lap." Petty, seeking his first victory since July 1984, said, "If Davey and Dale ever get out by themselves and two or three people behind them get to racing, they're gone."

As for his chances, the 53-year-old king of stock car racing said, "We know we're not the class of the field. But, in the right circumstances, we run pretty good."

Another solid threat appears to pit road rules and try to make be Petty's 30-year-old son, Kyle, them work," said Richard who will be starting alongside surprising Hut Stricklin in the third row. Both finished a strong third in their qualifying races.

Geoff Bodine, one of six former Daytona 500 winners in the field, said Earnhardt should be the odds-on favorite based on what he has done here this

"It's never a fluke when a guy goes to the front that easy," said Bodine, the 1986 champion who will start 19th Sunday. "That doesn't mean we're going to give up, move over and let him win:"

Irvan and Allison agree with that sentiment.

Irvan, who ran a close second to Earnhardt — although never a real challenge - in the qualifying race, said, "We've proven that we can run with Dale in race setup, so I feel good about Sunday. We're strong enough to run with him and beat him. It isn't a one-man race, that's for

Allison, who finished second to his father, Bobby, here in 1988, said, "We feel confident that we're in the same league with Dale and the other top guys."

Barring a runaway by any driver, pit strategy is likely to play a key part in the race, especially with NASCAR's new.

SANFORD - Howard Lloyd doesn't talk much about the truck accident back in '63.

He's had almost 30 years, many of which have been spent in leg braces and a wheelchair, to wonder if circumstances had been just a little different, would he be?

Lloyd is too busy to think about what ifs."

"I'm in the best shape you can bein and still be a paraplegic," he said. Lloyd is a driver for several area car dealers.

He and his wife, Jeannine are raising their son, Matthew, 8.

And on days when Lake Monroe shimmers with the spring sun and the river's spray is just cold enough to send a little chill down his injured spine. Lloyd can be found on his boat, fishing.

MARY: I'm so angry and frustrated I can hardly write. The dean of my son's school told me today that my son is suspended until he has an son is suspended until he has an independent evaluation for possible drug use. Just who do they think they are! My son isn't some acruffy druggie: we're a solid middle-class family. I'm even thinking about just withdrawing him from public schools and putting him in a private school where they can given him more special attentions. private acnool where they can given him more special attention. SUPPORTIVE MOM

DEAR SUPPORTIVE: Your signature says it all — you may very well be supporting your son's experimentation, use, or addiction to drugs. Reread your letter and notice how you are focusing completely on the school and protecting your son from the accusation made against him. What are you afraid of? If he has an independent evaluation and the suspicion of drug use is not confirmed, you can feel vindicated. If the suspi-cion is confirmed, it really doesn't matter whether he goes to public or private school, the problem will be with him. The iggest gift you can give your son right now is to refuse to shield him or ball him out from the consequences of his behavior. Have the evaluation. then deal openly and honestly with your son and the school about his behavior. Let him know that he is both responsible and accountable for his actions.

Breaking up bad marriage is the right thing to do

DEAR ABBY: A writer signed "From the Tall Corn State" asked, "Are there any other children who want to thank their parents for splitting up?"

Count me in: When my father moved out of the house, it was the biggest favor he could have done our family. He should have done it a lot sooner. I was a teen-ager when Dad moved out. He and Mom never got along. After he and Mom divorced, believe it or not, they became good friends. They both met other people and eventually married. Their only regret was waiting so long to end a marriage that was all wrong from the beginning.

So tell "From the Tall Corn State" she is not alone — there are many children who are glad their parents had the courage to split. Sign this... FOUR KIDS FROM

THE LONE STAR STATE DEAR KIDS: I received a surprising number of letters from grown (and some not yet grown) children voicing the same sentiments. Read on:

They were just kids themselves when they cloped, and when they finally grew up, they grew in different directions. I don't believe people should be condemned to a lifetime of unhappiness because of one mistake made when they were too young to know any better. By that time, they wasted a lot of good years. As I look back, I realize that their staying together while we were growing up was not a favor to us. We were affected more by their unhappiness together than we were by their divorce.

I wish parents would be more honest with their children instead of trying to pretend that everything is OK, when in reality it's a mess. I can still remember my sister and I pulling the covers over our heads at night to drown out the yelling and cursing of those late-night family

ALSO FROM THE TALL CORN STATE

DEAR ABBY: Speaking of staying together for the sake of the kids, I think our parents probably hold the record. They split up at least a dozen times in my recollection. They were actually divorced twice during their first 15 years of marriage, but got married again. My mother said she'd rather live with the devil she knew than the devil she didn't know. Theirs was a very poor example of what a marriage should be.

They had all kinds of excuses for getting back together after they split. There were four daughters and two sons in our landly, and my mother kept reconciling because she thought every father owed it to his daughter to walk her down the aisle. After each wedding, there was a big fight and Father moved out of the house for a

Deep down, we kids always had the feeling our folks tried to stay together for our sakes, which laid a terrible guilt trip on us. If I could give young couples one piece of advice, I would tell them not to have any children until they were absolutely certain they could get along with each other. Staying together for the sake of the kids is a big mistake. A lot of couples should split for the many arriver for the second of the second

By DR. H. GARRETT DOTSON

A tidal wave of fresh and exciting change is sweeping through the surgical profession. The use of video controlled equipment has already spawned an amazing array of diagnostic and therapeutic innovations.

The first laproscopic cholecystectomy (gallbladder removal) was performed in this country about two years ago. The astounding decrease in post-operative pain and disability experienced by those undergoing a laproscopic pro-cedure (as opposed to those undergoing traditional open cholecystectomy) has stimulated such enthusiasm that most general surgeons are performing the

Because this is a minimally invasive procedure, other advantages to the patient include a hospital stay of usually no longer than 24 hours and a return to work in 4 to 5 days, which has obvious economic implications. The cost of the operation and hospital stay is about 50% of customary

Most patients who need gallbladder removal can have their surgery done by this technique.

-Dr. H. Garrett Dotson

The operation is done in the operating room with the patient asleep under a general anesthet-ic. A video camera is inserted into the abdomen by a small opening made at the umbilicus (belly button) so that the surgeon can view the anatomy on a television screen. Three additional small openings are made into the abdomen through which instruments are passed to de-tach the galibladder from the liver bed.

Part of this is done by using a laser device or an electrical current to seal and coagulate small bleeding sites in the liver bed. The gallbladder and galistones are eventually removed through the opening of the umbilicus.

After surgery, patients may experience some nausea and mild abdominal discomfort for the first 24 hours.

Following hospital discharge, no restrictions are placed on the patient. Activity depends entirely on the abdominal tenderness which is usually minimal by the second day after surgery.

when their abdominal discomfort disappears.

Most patients who need gallbladder removal can have their surgery done by this technique. Those patients who have had several previous abdominal operations may not be can-didates because of the probabiltty of internal adhesions, making it difficult to freely move the instruments inside. Others who may not be candidates are those who have a severely inflammed gallbladder, making it difficult for the surgeon to see the proper

Disability education is a Hop-n-ing thing in child care centers all over central Florida centers and preschools throughout Orange, Seminole, Osceola, and Lake counties will be getting an early start learning about, and helping people with disabilities, according to a press release from the Florida Easter Seal Society, Inc.

During the week, children will be participating in a disability awareness program called "The Hop-n-ing."

special event to raise funds for the citizens of Orange, Seminole, Osceola, and Lake counties who have disabilities and are served by Easter Seals. The children will hop for a three minute period and collect pledges as donations to Easter Seals.

The Hop-n-ing Bunny and Fantastic Sam's Fuzzy will make a special appearance at every center and hop with the children.

Seminole county centers participating in the event are as follows: First Steps of Learning. 191 Normandy Road. Cassleberry: Good Shepherd Child Care, 2917 Orlando Dr.,
