THE RECOVERY ADMINISTRATION, with President Roosevelt at the helm, still smiling and carefree, ushered a year of turmoil in which the San Francisco and other widespread strikes, the westward drought, and the 13-year Democratic landslide played an important part in the news. The cast of General Hugh Johnson from the scene in the rearming of the NRA and the rising air of Donald Ribberg also captured the headlines. (Associated Press Photos)

TWO SOCIAL EVENTS, both weddings, found their way into the big news of 1934. The wedding of the Duke of Kent to Princess Marina of Greece assumed the proportions of a world-headed romance. The marriage of John Jacob Astor to Miss Lisa French was the highlight of the Newport season. (Associated Press Photos)

PRIMARILY NO OTHER single story claimed the place in the public eye that was given to the arrest of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, sterner German carpenter, on charges of the murder of Charles Lindbergh, Jr., a tragedy that involved the sympathies of the entire world. THE KILLING OF PUBLIC ENEMIES occupied the spotlight throughout 1934 as the federal law enforcement agents, with J. Edgar Hoover (right), head of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, and Melvin Purvis (left), his Chicago chief, playing the leading roles, staged the greatest crime in modern American history. The year saw John Dillinger, "Bad Man No. 1," stretched out on a morgue slab (as shown above) with "Pretty Boy" Floyd, George "Baby Face" Nelson and a host of other notorious outlaws brought down by government gun. The federal government says it is going to stop federal relief payments to "unemployables"—those who are unable to work even if they could find a job—that caring for this class of people is the duty of the individual states. Some may find this an impossible undertaking. Florida fortunately can provide for its unemployables, if it wants to. But a sales tax will be necessary.

A New Year Begins

The year of 1934 which passes into history tonight at 12:00 o'clock has been a year marked by steady improvement in business conditions, a gradual betterment in the living conditions of all classes of people; yet, withal, a steadily mounting spirit of unrest and dissatisfaction throughout the whole world.

The same spirit which frequently prompted strikes and rioting in this country during the past year is at the bottom of the terrorism in Europe which has resulted in the slaying of Dollfus, Alexander, Barthou and Koriv, and such retaliatory measures as marked the "blood purge" in Germany last June, the wholesale slayings in Russia this month, and the civil wars in Austria, Cuba and Spain.

In spite of these unsettling influences which have so disrupted confidence throughout the world, there has been a gradual improvement of business almost everywhere, and a marked improvement in those countries and particularly those sections where there has been the greatest stability.

1935, is born, it may be said, under a cloud, but with a silver lining. All other things being equal, 1935 offers every indication of being a banner year in business and social betterment. Not in six years has a New Year begun with such auspicious evidences of improving times.

That is the silver lining. The cloud is the spectre of war and revolution which can be seen throughout the world. A war in Europe, a war in the Far East, would certainly upset any plans which might be laid in this country.

Here in Sanford we look forward to continued improvement. We have seen many events in this locality during the past year which revealed a definite trend for the better. We believe these improvements will continue, and that the completion of the boulevard, the opening of the Mayfair Hotel, the general use of our new marketing facilities will prove to be only the beginning of a long list of developments which will ultimately lead Sanford into the big city class.

A Narrow Escape

Not more than once in a life-time does a person ordinarily get the thrill which Mrs. A. M. Smith of Long Island enjoyed, or suffered, the other day. For if they do, the second time is more than likely to be fatal.

Mrs. Smith was driving her car in a heavy line of traffic with cars in front and cars behind, when she reached the main crossing of the Long Island Railroad in the very heart of the little village of Floral Park. Suddenly, just as her car arrived directly upon the tracks the car in front stopped, its motor stalled.

Mrs. Smith looked up the track to see to her horror the west bound train thundering down upon her. Mrs. Smith retained her composure though the stalled car prevented her from going forward, and other cars in the rear prevented her from backing off the tracks.

But alas, Mrs. Smith, in a desperate hurry to avoid being hit by the speeding express, choked her carburetor and stalled her own engine. The crossing guard, fully aware of all that was going on, had nevertheless clanged shut the gates behind Mrs. Smith so as to prevent other cars from coming on to the track.

With the engine so close that she could have touched it, Mrs. Smith pumped, jumped, fortunately in the right direction, and was unharmed, but tears came to her eyes, as she saw her bright, shiny, new car, wrapped around the cow catcher. The train was going so fast that despite its grinding brakes, it could not stop in three lengths, and the shattered bits of the automobile were picked up more than 400 feet down the track.

Today Mrs. Smith, while bemoaning the loss of her car, is thanking her lucky stars she jumped. And at the same time, she has resolved never to drive on to railroad tracks again until she knows how and where she gets off.

JUDGE AKERMAN'S DECISION

TAMPA TIMES

Federal Judge Akerman's decision just announced in the Long-burg fruit crate case is highly important. It touches the NRA codes in a vital spot, and, if followed by the higher courts on an appeal, will overthrow attempts to enforce code compliance against any business not signing codes and not engaged in interstate business.

The crate concern was accused of violating price provisions in that industry's code by consistently underselling competitors in this state. The federal administration took the matter into the federal court and asked for an injunction to restrain the company from this practice.

After hearing argument, Judge Akerman threw the Administration's case out of court on the ground that, so far as the National Recovery Act attempted to regulate intrastate business it was unconstitutional and therefore of no binding effect. In announcing his decision, the Judge said:

"Congress has certain powers delegated to it by the Constitution and beyond those powers it has no more right to legislate for the people of Florida than has the British Parliament. It is not my intention to declare the entire act unconstitutional but I must rule against any attempt to construe the act so as to go beyond the power of Congress to legislate.

"I cannot see that the defendants are engaged in interstate commerce and therefore they can not be regulated by Congressional action. It has been argued that their activities in Florida effect the shipments of similar products from other states and while this is rather ingenious reasoning, I cannot follow it.

"The product of the company does not immediately enter into interstate commerce and even though the crate companies in Georgia and Alabama are effected, this court is powerless to help them."

Unless upset by a higher court this ruling becomes the federal law for this federal judicial district because it is certain the Judge Akerman would follow it in any other cases that might be brought here. Since the federal administration has been considering the abandonment of price-fixing, it may not be disappointing in that respect but it must not be regarded as hitting only at price-fixing clauses in the codes. It is far broader than that. It says flatly that codes generally cannot be enforced against concerns doing business wholly within the confines of a state without their consent and that is a sweeping decision. The attitude of the Administration will be interesting to watch.

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1935

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 is the biggest and roomiest Ford car ever built. It is a strikingly handsome car, with modern lines and new, luxurious appointments.

But most important of all it is designed to give you smooth, easy riding over all kinds of roads—"a front-seat ride for back-seat riders."

This ease of riding is achieved by the use of three basic principles never before combined in a low-price car.

- 1. Correct distribution of car weight by moving engine and body forward eight and a half inches.
2. New location of seats, with rear seat moved forward, toward the center of the car—away from the rear axle and away from the bumps.
3. New spring suspension which permits the use of longer, more flexible springs and increases the spring-base to 123 inches.

The result is Center-Poise—which not only gives you a new riding comfort but adds to the stability of the car and its ease of handling. You can take curves with greater safety.

There are many new features in the Ford V-8 for 1935 which make the car still easier to drive.

INTRODUCED TODAY A New Ford V-8 That Brings New Beauty, New Safety, and a New Kind of Riding Comfort Within Reach of Millions of People

New brakes give more power for stopping quickly with far less foot pressure on the pedal. A new easy-pressure clutch employs centrifugal force to increase efficiency at higher speeds. New steering mechanism makes the car still easier to handle.

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 retains the V-8 engine which has demonstrated its dependability and economy in the service of more than a million owners. There are refinements—including crankcase ventilation, cast alloy steel crankshaft and copper-lead floating connecting-rod bearings—but no change in basic design. You buy premium performance when you buy this Ford V-8—full 85 horsepower and capable of 80 miles an hour.

Other 1935 Ford features are Safety Glass throughout in all body types at no extra cost. New welded all-steel bodies. New wider rear doors. (Front doors hinged forward.) New lower double-channel X-type frame. (Makes it easier to get in and out of the car.)

Rich, modern body colors, including a new gun-metal finish of striking beauty on De Luxe body types. Luxurious new upholstery and appointments.

New, wider padded seats and softer seat cushions. (Front seats are 4 to 5 1/2 inches wider.) Clear-Vision Ventilation, with adjustable convertible and a windshield that opens. Combination gas and oil gauge and heat indicator on new.

modern instrument board of the De Luxe body types.

The spring leaves are tapered for quiet as well as flexibility. Larger tires have a new, wider tread, especially designed for safety and comfort. Bodies are insulated for quiet and temperature.

The main purpose of the meeting was to draft a schedule of games for the winter season. Mr. Carraway stated this morning when he said that the first games will be played in Sebrooz on Jan. 6 and that Sanford will be host to the league on the first Sunday in March.

The following are members of the golf league: Sanford Country Club, Daytona Beach Country Club, Ormond Country Club, Orlando Country Club, Dubsand Country Club, Mt. Plymouth Country Club, San Lando Country Club, Sebrooz Country Club, DeLand Country Club and Eustis Country Club.

Allan Stewart, manager of the Sanford bowling alley, announced this morning that a local bowling team will be selected this week to meet a group of Jacksonville bowlers who are scheduled to arrive within the next few days for a series of games.
